BELGIAN TROOPS SAID TO BE RETIRING FROM BRUSSELS

ENTIRE CHANGE IN PLAN OF CAMPAIGN MAY BE MADE NOW

Movement of Allies in Falling Back, Believed to Be Strategy on Their Part and Real Resistance Likely to Come Later—Today's News From European Centres

An entire change in the plan of campaign may be brought about by the finding of an opening to the north by the German armies in Belgium. This was admitted in an official communication from Brussels today, which said the Germans "had gained ground on both banks of the Meuse and are in contact with the allies."

The last good-byes are being said today by many local soldiers. The direct and twenty volunteers for the overseas service will entrain at the Union Depot for Valenciennes, Que., where they will be taken across the ocean to the Motherland in sustaining the glory of the empire and upholding the laudis of old England.

Parade orders have been issued for a muster about 6 p. m. for the volunteers from the Canadian Signalling Corps, No. 9 Field Ambulance, and No. 7 Army Service Corps, at the Lower Cove armory.

While no announcement was available this morning concerning the line of march for the soldier volunteers, it is very likely that they will parade from the armory down Broad street to Charlotte, down King, across Market Square to Dock, to Mill and then to the Union Depot.

London, Aug. 20.—An official communication issued at Paris last night states that very large German forces are crossing the Meuse between Liege and Namur.

A despatch to the Times from Paris, says that the first point at which the Germans crossed the French frontier was at Crey-Sur-Vesouse. Since then there has been continued fighting in that region until a day or two ago, when it ended in the victorious advance of the French forces, who inflicted a decisive defeat on the enemy and drove them back across the frontier east of Luneville.

The correspondent says that the laconic reports of the French minister of war, give little idea of the desperate struggle that occurred around the handful of villages scattered along the French border.

Point after point was taken and retaken by one side or the other.

Artillery Fight Terrible Paris, Aug. 20.—(8 a. m.)—An officer of a French rifle regiment gives the Petit Troyen, the following account of the capture of the first German flag.

The engagement of the French troops with the 99th brigade of Germans lasted from 6.40 a. m. to 9 a. m.

The artillery combat was terrible. The French 75 millimetre guns made havoc among the German horses and then reduced the heavy German guns to silence.

At nightfall the French charged the enemy's defence works, with irresistible energy, and took it at the point of the bayonet.

They established themselves there for the night. "In this action the Fifth Company of the first battalion captured a German flag with eight guns, ninety horses and 587 prisoners, including ten officers."

Paris, Aug. 20.—(7.15 a. m.)—There is a persistent rumor here that the Germans have occupied Brussels, but it cannot be confirmed.

Not Much Given Out Paris, Aug. 20.—(2.30 a. m.)—The communication given out by the French war department this morning, was one of the briefest for some days. It announced only the bare facts of important developments now in progress in Belgium, and added that there was nothing new along the front in Alsace-Lorraine.

Moving on Antwerp Paris, Aug. 20.—A portion of the Belgian army has begun to retire in the direction of Antwerp, according to an official announcement this morning, concerning the situation in Belgium.

East of Namur, the Germans have attained the line between Dinant and Neufchateau. Large German forces (Continued on page 2, fifth column)

NOT ABLE-BODIED MAN IN BERLIN

City in Hands of Old Men and Boys, is Statement LATTER GUARD BRIDGES

London, Aug. 20, 6.40 a. m.—The Times correspondent at Rotterdam telegraphs a statement, which he says was made to him by a party of Chinese medical men, who have arrived in Rotterdam from Berlin.

"When we left Berlin Saturday night," says the statement, "the city was in the hands of old men and boys. Not an able bodied man was to be seen. All the bridges were guarded by boys of about fourteen years, who stood with fixed bayonets on a fortnight ago the Friedrichstrasse bridge was badly damaged by a Russian bomb. We, ourselves, saw the damage done."

"A corps of amazons is being raised in Berlin, leaflets having been distributed chamberlains of the church, on the Pope's 'other lives'."

These words—which he adopted as his motto, in an encyclical issued on August 10, 1903, six days after he had been elevated to the Pontificate, were on the lips of Pope Pius X., as he entered the valley of death.

The end, which came at 1.30 o'clock this morning, was peaceful. A few moments before he had been roused from a state of semi-consciousness and attempted to bestow a blessing upon those gathered in the chamber, but his strength failed him—After a pause, he murmured the scriptural text and did not speak again.

The change came suddenly during the forenoon yesterday, and early in the afternoon when in attendance announced that the death was imminent.

As is the practice at the Vatican, the news of the death of the Pope was withheld from the public until it had been officially announced to the various governments. Then it was made known here.

The matter of a conclave was discussed today. It is said that a majority of the cardinals are in favor of holding it in Rome, as is usual, and further because of the neutrality of Italy in the present war. Others, however, suggested that it would be better to meet in Holland, a country which they regarded as even more neutral than Italy.

The arrival of Cardinal Della Volpe, chamberlain of the church, from Innsbruck today, was anxiously awaited. As chamberlain, he will direct the holy see temporarily, and will conduct the traditional ceremony in which the Pontif is officially pronounced dead. The arrangements for this ceremony were being perfected by Cardinal Merry Del Val, who refused to take any rest although it is said that he has not been in bed since last Saturday.

Conclave For Election of Pope May Be Held In Holland

Majority of the Cardinals in Favor of Holding it in Rome, However—End of Pope Pius Came With Startling Suddenness—His Great Grief Over The War

Chinese Medical Men Arrive in Rotterdam and Declare That German Women Are Being Called to Arms But That Kaiser's Soldiers Are in Fine Shape

AMERICANS PLEDGE THEMSELVES TO STAND BY CANADA TO THE LAST DITCH

Canadian will find an inspiration in the action of the American citizens of Toronto who held a great meeting on Monday night to declare their sympathy with Canada in this war and to form an organization to lend assistance. The Toronto World says:—

"Already the consideration of the moving spirits has crystallized about two, viz: the financing of a flying motorcycle corps with rapid-fire guns and the supplying of X-Ray outfits to Canadian hospital camps. It is confidently expected that these measures will pass with a rush."

Here are some of the statements made by speakers as reported in the World:—

"I fought and died in the Spanish-American war, and having lived in Canada for the last ten years may yet lose a limb or two for King George," said one.

"There is nothing we will not do to support the people who are holding up the flag and keeping a roof over our heads today," declared Chas. R. McColm from the platform.

"Let us show our sympathy as we individually feel it and if we are to do anything let it be at once," urged John Callinan.

"We have but one purpose in mind, and that is to do the utmost we can. This is no spread-eagle meeting. It is a serious time and hardships are to be met. Let us strive to bear a proper part representative of citizens of the United States living in Canada. A country worth living in is a country worth fighting for," said another.

"We can be of some help to those who are fighting for the democracy of the world. We can do good in many ways. We can do much for the wives and mothers of the brave boys who go to the front. We can at least show our sympathies to the world and demonstrate that we are determined to stand by Canada to the last ditch."

$4,440 FOR THE VOLUNTEERS AND THEIR FAMILIES

With $2,000 Additional For Insurance Fund—Citizens' Committee Decided to Devote Themselves to Care of Families—Local Government to Consider Insuring Men

Organization was completed and the methods of work were partially decided upon at a meeting of the executive of the citizens committee this morning.

The committee decided that the funds raised should be used chiefly for the purpose of caring for the families of the volunteers, but the sum of $2 for each man was voted to provide extra comforts on their journey.

Consideration of the suggestion to insure the lives of the men was deferred until later, as the provincial government is meeting tomorrow to discuss this matter.

A systematic campaign for funds will be begun immediately, but meanwhile, without solicitation, the fund has reached the total of $4,440, not including $2,000 offered for the insurance fund.

The committee met at eleven o'clock in the Board of Trade rooms, Judge Forbes presiding. A. P. Barnhill, K. C., was elected deputy chairman, R. E. Armstrong, secretary, and C. B. Allan, treasurer.

Mr. Barnhill, on behalf of the committee on insurance, reported that the provincial government will meet in St. John tomorrow with the wardens of the various municipalities to discuss the proposal by the government and to the aid which the dominion will send to Great Britain. There was not a jarring note in any of the six speeches delivered and all the members spoke brilliantly.

The address in reply to the speech from the throne was made at three o'clock and carried unanimously just an hour and a quarter later.

WRECKED STEAMER

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 19.—Bringing in twenty-six survivors from the wreck of the steamer Prince Albert, the Prince John docked at noon today at Prince Rupert. One life, that of a child, was lost. The opinion is that the foundered vessel is a total wreck, and is slowly ponding to pieces on the rocks. The Prince Albert was formerly the Bruno, 900 tons, plying between Hull and Antwerp and was built at Hull, England, in 1898.

FATHER WERNZ REPORTED DEAD

London, Aug. 20.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegram Company from Rome says that Father Francis Xavier Wernz, head of the Jesuit order, died in Rome this morning, almost simultaneously with Pope Pius.

A requiem mass for Pope Pius was held in Westminster Cathedral at half past eleven o'clock this morning. Cardinal Bourne officiated.

AGAINST THE AUTOMOBILE

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Aug. 20.—Yesterday forenoon from all parts of the Island met and organized a provincial anti-automobile association. Strong and fiery speeches were delivered against the running of these machines, and candidates at the next provincial election are to be asked to pledge themselves to prohibit them from the province.

Senate Heartily Endorses Defense Measures of The Government

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—The Canadian senate yesterday declared its loyal adherence to the measures of defense proposed by the government and to the aid which the dominion will send to Great Britain. There was not a jarring note in any of the six speeches delivered and all the members spoke brilliantly.

The address in reply to the speech from the throne was made at three o'clock and carried unanimously just an hour and a quarter later.

Sir Joseph Bolduc opened the debate. He said he was sure there would not be a dissenting voice heard. Hon. Mr. Laurier's government leader said Canada's manifest course was to contribute men and arms and food supplies. The extent to which this aid should be given has been clearly defined through the correspondence which has taken place between the imperial authorities and our own government.

The address was then unanimously adopted.

WEATHER BULLETIN

Issued by authority of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, R. F. Stupart, director of meteorological service.

Synopsis—The weather continues showery in the Peninsula of Ontario. Elsewhere in the dominion it is fine.

Fine and Warm Maritime—Light to moderate winds, cool and warm today and on Friday.

Canada In The War Newsy Notes of Activities in Many Parts of Dominion

Over $5000 has been collected in Ottawa for the hospital ship. Many Ontario Indians, members of the Six Nations, are volunteering at the recruiting stations. The French-Canadian women of Ottawa have formed a special organization to collect funds for the hospital ship. Lady Mackenzie, wife of Sir William Mackenzie, will present each of the one thousand members of the Princess Patricia's Light Infantry who smokes with a briar pipe. The Assembly of Ontario endorses the action of Great Britain in this war and the action of John Redmond in pledging the support of the Irish volunteers. Ottawa will probably insure each of its soldier boys for $1,000 following the example of Toronto. There are already more than a thousand men at Valcartier. Ontario horse dealers tried to hold up the militia department for enormous prices for horses for artillery purposes. The war will have a very serious effect upon the regular staff of the Montreal Technical School. There are five gone from the staff already to the war, and three more are awaiting for instructions. Colonel Morrison, director of artillery in Canada, has renewed his protest against the practice of recruiting using the privilege granted them by the militia department to prevent their husbands going to war. They should be willing, he says, to make sacrifices. A Milan despatch says the main body of the Montenegrin troops, has been incorporated as an army corps in the Serbian army. The Albanian insurgents are moving forward rapidly, they occupy Piana and are now marching south on Avlona, on the Gulf of Arona, in the Adriatic.

GUARD AT BITTISH COLUMBIA BRIDGE IS FIRED UPON

Revelstoke, B. C., Aug. 20.—News has just reached the city, that a guard of Rocky Mountain Rangers stationed at Columbia Creek bridge, fifty miles east of Revelstoke, were fired on from an ambush in what is believed to have been an attempt to wreck the bridge just previous to the passage of the troop train on Monday, carrying sailors from the Shearwater and Algerine, to man the Niobe. Wounded men dressing wounds were seen later and it is believed that some of the attackers were hit by bullets from the guard, who replied to the fire. None of the soldiers were wounded although bullets whistled close to their heads in the darkness.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES

The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Colwyn Bay, says the cousin of Lord Kitchener was arrested near Colwyn Bay, yesterday as an alleged spy, while she was peacefully painting a spot along Dallas street. She was later released. London, Aug. 19.—English, French and Belgian papers contain general reports of alleged barbarities to German women. The Hamburg Freientblatt says in Antwerp German women were subjected to the most cruel cruelties. Joseph Caillaux, the former premier and minister of finance, who had the rank of sergeant in the reserves, has been promoted to subaltern lieutenant. He is serving in the financial inspection department of the army.

WANTS TO FIGHT

Thomas A. Vinal who has served in the British Army for twelve years came to the city yesterday from the country, where he has been living for the last year, and admitted to several persons whom he met in the streets that he had deserted from the regulars at Fredericton about a year ago but was anxious to give himself up as he wanted to enlist for active service. He was directed to Sergeant Baxter who sent him to the police station. Deputy Chief Joseph directed him to the local military headquarters. Needless to say the man was enlisted and the fact that he had deserted in time of peace forgotten. He hopes to be sent to the front.

ENTIRE CHANGE IN PLAN OF CAMPAIGN MAY BE MADE NOW

WATSON'S POEM ON LIEGE

London, Aug. 18.—The Chronicle today publishes the following poem entitled "Liege," by William Watson: Betwixt the foe and France was she, France the immortal, France the Free, The foe like one vast living sea. Draw nigh. He dreamed that none his tide would stay, But when he bade her to make way She through her cannon answered "Nay, Not I." No tremor and no fear she showed; She held the pass, she barred the road, While Death's unsleeping feet beatrose The ground. So long as deeds of nobler worth Are sung mid joy and tears and mirth Her glory shall to the ends of earth Resound. Watched by a world that yearned to aid, Lonely she stood, but undimmed, Resplendent was the part she played. And pure. Praised be her heroes, proud her sons; She threw her soul into the guns, Her name shall with the bravest ones Endure. Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one remedy, Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous membrane of the Eustachian tube, which is inflamed by a running, stopped, or dried-up ear, which is usually closed, deafness is the result, and this tube can be opened, and the ear restored to its normal condition, and this is done by the use of the "Eustachian Tube" which is a small, delicate, and painless instrument, which is used to open the Eustachian tube, and to remove the mucus which is causing the inflammation. It will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness, if you will send for a circular, free, to Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

HE REMEMBERS ONE VAST GRAVE
A trip over the battlefield of Diest, Belgium, is described by the Brussels correspondent of the Daily News, He says:
"I remember best a brown stretch of harvested ground, half a furlong in length, which is the grave of 1200 Germans who fell in the fighting of Wednesday. All over the field are other graves, some of Germans, some of Belgians, and some of horses.
When I reached the place, peasants with long spades were still engaged in the work of burial. The battleground is about three miles long, with the village of Haelen at one end. The village is hardly scarred. Its houses are pierced with bullets. Hardly a pane of glass remains. The church spire is tumbled over and the town clock wrenched from its place.
"As I passed across the battlefield a German biplane swept by like a cartoon crow, seeking other victims. Later in the day I visited the Bruges prison, where 400 Germans are held. I never before saw men sleep as these men did. They lay like logs after seven days and nights of almost constant duty on the field of battle. These prisoners are no cowards. They surrendered only when no other course was possible. They were victims of the German military system which drills men out of all independence of the week."
TO ASK REPEAL OF PULP LAW
Ottawa, Aug 19—Pulpwood producers will ask the provincial governments of Quebec, Ontario and New Brunswick to repeal the laws whereby export of pulpwood is prohibited. The action will be taken in order to meet the unusual situation which has arisen out of the war. It is argued that the repeal of these laws will permit of much industrial activity taking place in Canada during the coming winter in connection with logging operations in the woods.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS
PLEASES AUDIENCE
Clever Acting Seen at Opera House
Last Evening—Comedy Vain
Though Fascinating Drama
When dainty Miss Polly, the world's champion equestrienne in the Famous Blank United Circus, made a slip in her act one night in a small town in the middle west, she sustained injuries which necessitated her confinement to bed for some weeks. But "the circus must go on," so Polly had to be left behind. She had been carried into the house nearest the circus grounds, which happened to be that of Rev. John Douglas, pastor of the local church, and there under his guidance, and the watchful care of his old colored servant, Mandy Jones, she was restored to health. She grew to like her surroundings, and to love the young pastor. But the town-folk went to talking, and gossip was deliberately addressed to her, making her realize that the alleged Christian people in the minister's congregation, deemed it "scandalous" and "shocking" that she should be under his roof. So one night about a year after she had been injured, the circus came back to the town. And her old friend, Big Jim, the only "mother" to her that she could recall from her circus life, came to her, and she went off to her old life, her friends, to the glare of the circus lights, the tent and the sawdust ring.
This is in brief the story of the fascinating drama "Polly of the Circus," produced last night at the Opera House by a capable company, headed by Miss Elsie St. Leon, who, with her graceful manner, won the hearts of the audience as she did, in her stage role, capture the heart of Rev. John Douglas. Of course the story ends happily—it would be a shame if it didn't—with two such pleasing personalities as Douglas and Polly, and, as the curtain falls upon the last act, it shows the circus wending its way, and other fixtures of the big caravansary moving up the hills from the town, and drawing away in the darkening distance, while Polly and her young pastor lover stand in the vacant show lot, as she waves her last farewell to her old "home" as it "disappears" on wheels over the hills.
The play as given at the Opera House last night, was original in theme, finely sympathetic, and produced in such a way as to hold the interest of the audience to the close. Of course the best opportunities are given to Polly—that is to be expected of the play. Miss St. Leon fulfilled every requirement of her trying role with skill, being equally at ease in a galloping bareback about the circus ring shown on the stage, turning hand-springs, and in the many charming scenes of love and tenderness which the play abounds. Miss St. Leon showed herself well fitted for the role which brought fame to the name of Talaferno. Mr. DeLord was convincing as Rev. John Douglas, and gave an exacting portrayal with cleverness. Edward Boring, as Big Jim, the boss canvas man, won favor, as did Rena Saunders as "Mandy Jones," the pastor's colored housekeeper. Others who aided in giving strong support were Messrs. Saunders, Mowry, Davidson and Lee, and Misses Alvaras, Dunn, and Eberhard. The scenic effects throughout the play were pleasing. An attractive vein of comedy permeates the story and the drama was well produced. It will continue for the remainder of the week.

The British Government were expected to take off the embargo on tea at the end of this week, a cable received by the "SALADA" Tea Co. today states that the government have decided to keep it on definitely. This means that no tea can be shipped out of England. Cables have been received this week from Ceylon and India by the "SALADA" Tea Co. which state that all business in tea has ceased. This is no doubt due to the impossibility of getting steamers to carry it to England and elsewhere, as in the past German ships did a great deal of this. It will likely be many months before they can be replaced by British bottoms. This will have a serious effect on the tea trade as Canada has today the smallest stock she has had for years.
FRANCE AND WAR
The sleek sea, gorged and sated, basking lies;
The cruel creature fawns and blinks and purrs;
And almost we forget what fangs are hers.
And must for once her emerald-golden eyes;
Though haply on the morrow she shall rise;
And summon her infernal ministers,
And charge her everlasting barriers,
With wild white fingers matching at the skies.
So betwixt Peace and War, man's life is cast,
Yet hath he dreamed of perfect Peace
Shepherding all the nations ev'n as a sheep.
The instant, moody ocean shall as soon,
At the cold dictates of the bloodless moon,
Swear an eternity of halcyon sleep.
—William Watson.

THE RECRUITS
(By Britton B. Cooke in the Toronto Globe)
They enter the great echoing hall one by one, awkwardly, almost shyly. Outside they cast away the butts of cigarettes. The swagger of the street falls from them like a cloak. They approach the recruiting office. Their faces are lighted for one flickering moment with victory over the last tug of fear at the heart. They give their names. They take the oath. They stand enlisted—committed.
It is a great sight, this. You, the civilian, shrewd, strong and brave in your own calling, which is not the calling of arms, but of pens, pencils and books, may observe from the gallery of the Army the strange process going on on the pavement below. There is a squad of tonight's recruits—an uneven assortment, loose-standing, irregular of movement, awkward with the freedom of the street. A patient drill sergeant is hammering them into some semblance of order. They obey him—brave fellows—confused and troubled by the new commands and the unaccustomed tone of voice. Nearer at hand is a crowd of last night's recruits, and nearer still are those who first responded. Each night's drilling has left its effect. In the senior recruits, in heterogeneous civilian garb, the traces of military bearing, precision and alertness of movement are obvious. Tomorrow even this sagging rank will be better "dressed". In a week they will obey the commands of officers automatically. In two weeks they will have forgotten their civilian habits.
This is impressive, for a curious reason. Looking from group to group, you can see with your very eyes the individuality drilled out of these men, and their metal run, as it were, into the stern mould of the fighting machine. Tonight Number 25 has a loose-jointed gait, a red necktie, a brown suit, a soft felt hat and an easy-good-natured face. He is a young clerk—or a coal-heaver? But when the drill sergeant is through with him his gait will be the gait of the regiment, the necktie, the brown suit, the soft felt hat—all the things which he once took such pains to choose for himself—will be replaced with the brilliant livery of war. At the same time, the loose-jointed gait will be replaced with the brilliant livery of war. At the same time, the loose-jointed gait will be replaced with the brilliant livery of war. At the same time, the loose-jointed gait will be replaced with the brilliant livery of war.

(From the New York World.)
"Ye're men of peace," the Kaiser said, "Ye wot not how to fight!
Give passage to my soldier men, nor prate to me of right,
Or I'll blot out in red the oath ye swore in black and white!"
The Burgomeister from the wall: "All peaceful men are we,
But we have sworn that through our land we'll give no passage free.
They strike the men who dare to keep the oath they swore in black and white!"
"Push on, my men," the Kaiser cried. "Turn loose the cannon!"
Hale out that Burgomeister churl to hang upon a tree!
Rush on, my Uhlan, cuirassiers, dragoons and infantry!"
Across the meadows, 'neath the walls, the regiments advance,
The horsemen rush, the footmen push, with cannon, sabre, lance
They strike the men who dare to keep the oath they swore in France."
Eftsoons the peaceful meadows groan beneath red mingled leaps,
In row on row, head to the foe, the fearless German sleeps.
Alas! full well his pledged word the peaceful burgher keeps!
"God rest their souls, the gallant men!" the Burgomeister said,
As from the wall with saddened eye, he looked out over the dead,
"But what is sworn in black and white must e'en be kept in red!"

The Evening Times and Star

The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Cornhill Street every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co. Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

OUR SOLDIER SONS

The citizens of St. John will witness this evening the departure of a portion of the contingent which is going from this city to Valcartier, and thence to the mother country and to the seat of war in Europe. The stern realities of war are home in upon us, for though we see these men go forth in the pride of their young manhood we do not know how they will fare amid the hardships and dangers that await them, nor when or under what circumstances they may return to us.

European nations have been plunged. As the supreme head on earth of the Roman Catholic Church, and representative of the Prince of Peace, he could not but recall with horror from the prospect of so many of his own church of different nationalities rushing at each other's throats to maim and kill. He was ever a lover of peace, and it is recalled that his allocution delivered last May was so highly appreciated by the Carnegie Peace Union that special publication and distribution of its plea for disarmament and arbitration was decided on, and copies sent to each of the twenty-three thousand priests of the United States and Canada.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

"Don't be stampeded. Pay your bills and go on doing business." This is the substance of the advice given by an American citizen connected with the Canadian branch of a large American factory. He contends that companies controlling industries which have been making large profits in the past should not take advantage of the first sign of a possible depression in business to shut down their plant and throw thousands of men on the labor market.

NEWS OF THE WAR

It is evident that the Germans are pressing into Belgium in great force, and that a great battle near Brussels must soon be fought. It is not already begun. The Belgians have been falling back before the advancing masses of German troops, but it must be assumed that the allied armies are in position at a point which they regard as favorable for the tremendous struggle which is to break through Belgium into France or be hurled back in defeat.

As a matter of fact the news from London with regard to business generally grows daily more reassuring. The Bank of England has resumed discounting, and the confirmation of previous announcements of the safety of the sea routes has eased the market for many important articles which are imported a time for pessimism. It is the duty of every citizen of Canada to face the situation with cheerful confidence, and do all possible to prevent stagnation in business.

All eyes are now centred on Belgium, and the news from that quarter is awaited with the deepest anxiety, since it appears to be there the Germans are massed in greatest force, with a determination at any cost to enter France that route. We are still without information as to the position of the French and British allies of the Belgians, and are likely to remain in ignorance until the great battle has been fought.

BRITAIN'S RIGHTEOUS WAR

If there are any peace advocates in this country who take the extraordinary position that neither Canada nor the mother country had any business to engage in the present war, they will not see any comfort from the leaders of the peace movement in England, all of whom so far as heard from declare that it is a war which must be fought out in the interests of a higher civilization. Kindness to animals is a virtue which ought to be encouraged, but we do not encourage it when there is a mad dog in the street. Similarly the love of peace is a virtue among the nations, but when human liberty and all the principles of right and justice are threatened by a half-mad autocrat there can be no peace until the rest of the world has attended to his case, however great the sacrifice may be.

POPE PIUS X

At the very beginning of a dreadful war which will recast the map of Europe the world has lost a great peace advocate in the person of Pius X, whose death occurred at an early hour this morning, hastened it is believed by grief over the awful conflict into which the

Give the soldier boys a parting cheer. Sir Robert Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave eloquent and fitting expression yesterday to the feeling of the Canadian people in this great crisis.

Let us not forget the children. Tomorrow's formal closing of the playgrounds should see a record crowd of people at the Shamrock grounds.

After today St. John will have a new interest in the fortunes of the war. Some of her own sons will have started on the first stage of their journey to the front, and more will quickly follow.

The very dust of the heroes who fell at Waterloo and many another ground on Belgian soil may well be thrilled by the gigantic struggle of the world now hourly awaits the dreadful news.

The spirit which prompted the St. John Power Boat Club to place at the disposal of the government for any necessary purposes in the harbor the craft of their fleet and the services of one hundred of their members is both patriotic and praiseworthy.

The Canadian House of Commons and Senate yesterday proclaimed in no uncertain voice the complete unity and devotion of the people of this country to the flag and the Empire. As the war progresses and more Canadians go to the front the people of all parties, all creeds and all races will be drawn still closer together by the bond of hopes and fears that will be common to us all.

The fact that those of great engagements has been slow in coming must not blind us to the fact of the awful nature of the conflict which has been begun, nor should it give rise to a belief that the struggle will be of brief duration. Germany and Austria have immense resources, and will not be beaten by their knees without a tremendous sacrifice on the part of the allied arm.

This is a very serious business on which we have entered, and we are warned both by the British and French war offices that we must be prepared to hear of reverses as well as victories. While millions of men, armed with death in terrific combat.

USE THE WANT AT WAY

STEP TOGETHER

Step together—boldly tread, Firm each foot, erect each head, Fixed in front be every glance— Forward, at the word "advance"— Serried files that foes may dread; Like the deer on mountain heather, Tread light, Left, right— Steady, boys, and step together!

Step together—be each rank Dressed in line from flank to flank, Marching so that you may halt 'Mid the onset's fierce assault, Firm as in the rampart's bank, Raised the iron rain to weather— Proud sight! Left, right— Steady, boys, and step together!

THE ANGLO-SAXON BLOOD

Deep round her hair the dim sea grows, Gaunt through her night the old Lion prouls; Alert and alone, she scans afar, The Hunters and the Hunters, her! They abide their time, discreet they wait About the tangled paths of hate; While toothless now, and old, his said, She whines and slumbers on her dead!

LIGHTER VEIN

"Eddie, what's the matter? Had a fall off your bike?" "No, I tried to hang some pictures and stood some dictionaries up on a table and they slipped from under me. 'Words failed you, I suppose.'"

"Class 14 Lawyer (having passed his exam)—Well, I've filed 'em over! I've been worked to death the last two years trying to complete my legal education. Old Lawyer—Cheer up, my boy, I'll be a long time before you will have any more work to do."

"The Way It Looks. "I've been sining up conditions in criminal circles," began the young man on the notebook, "and I've reached one conclusion. "That it's a pretty bad world."

Utter Foolishness

"Yes, he's a big duffer. None of the summer girls want anything to do with him. "Rocks the boat, does he?" "He's more foolish than that. He rocks the hammock."

ENGLAND'S JUSTIFICATION (New York Evening Post) Whatever may be the real and deeply underlying reasons for England's going to war with Germany, it cannot be denied that she had a sound reason, under international law. By invading Belgium Germany was violating a treaty to which all the European powers had set their hand and seal, and in the observance of which England had a peculiar and even vital interest. She was thus well within her legal rights in asking both France and Germany whether they would respect the guaranteed neutrality of Belgium. But the military plans of Germany could not then be changed. She admitted through her chancellor, that she was going counter to the law of nations, and made anxious profession of her purpose to "rectify the injustice" as the German chancellor, phrased it, after the war was over, and in her natural desire to keep England neutral, undertook to give the most formal promise never to annex any portion of Belgium. This promise, coming from an avowed treaty-breaker, was received for what it was worth by the House of Commons—that is, received through Belgian territory, brought upon herself the immense military disadvantage of adding England to the countries with which she is at

WESTERN CROPS ARE INJURED BY DROUGHT

Standard of Crops Especially in the Northwest Reported as Disappointing

The monthly Bulletin of the Census and Statistics Office on field crops in Canada has been issued.

The reports made by correspondents in July 31 show that conditions of grain crops has undergone a marked change since the last reports for June 30, due to excessive heat and continued drought during the month of July.

Measured by a standard of 100, representing the promise of a full crop, the average condition for the whole of Canada is returned for fall wheat as 77.5, compared with 78 on June 30, and 77.7 on July 31, 1913; for spring wheat as 77.4, against 86.3 last month, and 87.6 a year ago; for oats as 77.9, against 87.2 last month, and 87.4 in 1913; for barley as 77.4, against 86.2 last month, and 87.5 last year, and for rye as 76.5, against 84.7 and 85.

In the maritime provinces conditions are excellent, and in Quebec and Ontario, though drought is reported as having shortened the straw, the grain was said to be filling well and the figures of condition, which for most of the grain crops exceed or approach 90, are not really different from those of a month ago.

Potatoes in the maritime provinces give an excellent promise, with figures of condition, ranging from 85 to 86.

A preliminary estimate of the yield of acre of fall wheat gives 20,335 bushels, as compared with 23,229 bushels in '13. For the harvested area of Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia amounting to 978,300 acres, the estimated total yield is 20,940,000 bushels, as compared with 22,920,000 bushels, the final estimate of '13.

The drought has naturally affected the yield of hay and clover, the yield per acre of which for all Canada is, according to the preliminary estimate, 1,115 tons, as against 1,383 tons, the final estimate of 1913. The estimated total yield is 9,200,000 tons, as compared with 10,499,000 tons, the final estimate of 1913. The yield of alfalfa is placed at 129,780 tons, as against 237,770 tons last year.

Hints for the Cook

Quick Cake

One-third cup soft butter, 1 1/3 cups brown sugar, 3 eggs, 1/2 cup milk, 1 1/4 cups flour, 8 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon each of cinnamon and nutmeg, 1/2 pound of dates cut into pieces. Put ingredients into a bowl and beat altogether for three minutes. Bake in a buttered and floured cake tin for 30 or 40 minutes.

Flourish

One peck green tomatoes chopped with a cup of salt. Allow this to stand overnight, then drain in colander. Chop 2 quarts of onions, 4 whole green peppers, add 3 cups sugar, 1 large tablespoonful ground cloves, vinegar enough to cover. Cook slowly until tender. When done add 1 large tablespoonful celery seed. More sugar can be used if one desires.

BRITAIN'S GREAT WHEAT CROP

The yield of wheat in Great Britain is placed at 84,560,000 bushels, this shows an increase of 10 per cent. over last year. The yield of oats shows a decrease of 3 per cent. Last year the oat crop was placed at 208,000,000 bushels.

broadcloth, duvetyn or velveteen are suggested for its development. For general use, however, it is effective in tweed, rough serge, wide wale suiting, etc. Four and one-eighth yards of 54-inch or 4 1/4 yards of 44-inch material will make the design.

The cape is cut on a crosswise fold of the material and the rest of the pattern on a lengthwise fold.

The first step in the making is to take up a dart in front, as indicated. Adjust the underfacing to position underneath front, seeing that the corresponding edges are even. If a double-face cloth is used no underfacing will be necessary. Close under-arm and shoulder seams as notched.

Take up dart at upper edge of cape; then turn under back edge on double

Smart coat model to be developed in busy street, St. John. As a rule it takes about one week to deliver the pattern to the buyer. Those sending money must be careful (1) to write the number of the pattern plainly (2) to write their name and post office address clearly, and (3) to enclose the price.

Distinctively individual is this sleeveless coat, designed for the use of ladies and misses. It is loose fitting and single-breasted, having one or two piece circular cape of the same material. If intended for dressy wear.

POPE PIUS DIED THIS MORNING

Grief Over War Hastened The End

WHOLE WORLD MOURNS

Rose From Simple Parish Priest to Head of Roman Church—His Career

Rome, Aug. 20—Pope Pius died at 1.20 this morning. He had been ill for several days, but alarming symptoms did not develop until Wednesday morning.

Throughout the day Doctors Marchisafa and Amaldi devoted the utmost energies to stimulating the patient and keeping him alive. The cardinals were notified of the pope's grave condition, and some of them, who entered the sick room, describe the impressive and heart-rending scenes, especially when the pontiff, rousing himself from time to time, spoke. Once he said: "In ancient times, the pope by a word might have stayed the slaughter but now he is impotent."

Prayers were said by thousands and the bells of the churches sounded when the sacrament was exposed upon all the altars.

When the court learned of the pope's condition there was the deepest concern. King Victor Emmanuel personally informed Queen Helena, and the news was communicated to the Queen Mother. Extreme-unction was administered by Mgr. Saapini sacristan to his holiness, amid a most touching scene.

The pope's last illness began almost coincidentally with the great war in Europe. Those close to him believe that grief over the situation brought on the final crisis, and so overwhelmed him that he was unable, in his 80th year, to withstand still another attack of his old enemy, gouty catarrh.

His health had been the pontiff's lot for many years, and intermittently the attacks have been so serious that the world was prepared several times to hear of his passing. During the summer there had been numerous denials from the Vatican that his indisposition was serious.

As late as Aug. 10 last upon the occasion of the eleventh anniversary of his coronation, Pope Pius granted numerous audiences. Two days later it became known that he was unable to practically all engagements, although some reported that he was unable to work, and that he sat listless and silent, for hours, evidently brooding over the great clash of arms in Europe.

Brooded Over the War.

His physician, Dr. Marchisafa, ordered his holiness to bed on Aug. 16, when was a soldier in the papal army under Pope Gregory XVI. His mother was noted for her charitable works and great faith. When Giuseppe Sarto was seven years old, his mother took him to the city of Treviso on a pilgrimage, and there made a vow that the trading that every soldier of the Pope's army gives to holy orders at least one child should be fulfilled in her boy.

On the death of Pope Leo, the Patriarch of Venice was not considered among the possibilities of election to the throne of St. Peter. But the four days' election in which he had not the slightest ambition ended in his almost unanimous choice. The election occurred on August 4, 1903. In the first proceedings of the Sacred College his name did not appear. The second morning two votes were cast for him and in the evening ballot these were increased to seven. The next morning twenty cardinals named him for the pontificate, and in the afternoon thirty-seven votes were cast for him. The following morning he was elected by what was practically an unanimous vote.

When the votes were read out Cardinal Sarto was overwhelmed. With a face full of sadness, almost of anguish, he turned toward his colleagues as he arose from his knees before the conclave altar and addressed his first words as Pope to the members of the Sacred College. His words were: "It is a cross that I receive from you."

was announced that the war and the intense heat in Rome had combined to depress him, he had continued to dream of the conflict by night, and to discuss it by day.

"I shall not cease to implore God to put a stop to this inhuman butchery," he declared.

His physicians had to deal with his mental condition as well as physical suffering. Arrangements were made by which Cardinal Merry Del Val, the papal secretary of state, would render his holiness a daily report on the war situation.

The pope desired to see some way in which he might exert his influence to check the bloodshed, and he was the more affected because any action seemed useless.

At the commencement of the European crisis he had addressed an exhortation to all the Catholics of the world asking them to lift their souls toward Christ, who alone was able to aid, and he called

The Pope fully realized the dignity of his great office. His brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews, when calling on him never overstepped the mark of decorum. He is survived by ten sisters and two brothers. One brother, Angelo Sarto, is a farmer in Gracie. Four of his sisters are married; two live in Riese, where they were all born, one of them as the wife of the keeper of the inn "Duo Spade," and two in Salzano. Three maiden sisters, Anna, Maria and Rosa, who lived with their brother in Venice, remained to Rome after his election as Pope, and have continued to occupy a little apartment in the Corso Vittorio Emanuele.

LEATHER TRADE IS HARD HIT BY WAR
 Skins From Which High-Grade Calf Leather is Made All Come From Continent
 The Davis Leather Company, Limited, of Newmarket, Ont., has issued the following circular to the trade, under the heading of "An International Crisis": "Almost without warning the civilized nations are facing a crisis deemed by most men impossible. The strongest and best armed of the world's nations are at war. Commercially, there is an unprecedented breakdown.
 The skins from which high-grade calf leather is made all come from France, Austria, Germany and Russia. For the time being, these countries are all severed commercially from the American continent. Dependence must be placed on stock on hand which, in most cases, owing to the slow trade for many months, is much less than normal. All foreign skins are imported under letter of credit, but owing to the tremendous upheaval in financial conditions, bills, maturing in London, England, yesterday, were quoted at unheard-of rates of exchange. Domestic skins in quantities at this season of the year are not to be had, nor before April next.
 We were compelled August 1st to withdraw all prices. Your immediate requirements we will endeavor to fill so far as you entrust them to us at lowest prices possible, in view of existing conditions."

DRY GOODS SITUATION.
 Trade Conditions Subject to Change Daily Owing to War.
 The Dry Goods Economist says: "The merchandise situation, in its details, is subject to change almost daily, as manufacturers and distributors outline new linkings as to what the European conflict means in connection with the supply of the goods they produce or handle. With a keener realization of the extent and probable duration of the abnormal conditions with which the trade is confronted, owners of merchandise in certain branches are advancing their prices. As a rule, marked restraint has been shown in the matter of taking advantage of the scarcity, even where it bids fair to be most acute. It is true that in some lines prices have been advanced very steeply, but even in these cases a sincere effort appears to have been made to take care of customers as far as lies in the seller's power. In spite of this broad-minded attitude, it is only too evident that even in the few lines in which advances have not yet been made can the old prices be adhered to for more than sixty days."

NEW AND TERRIBLE INSTRUMENT OF WAR

It is held that France is the best equipped nation in the world for a battle in the air. Here is shown a French aeroplane bomb or aerial torpedo. It can be carried over a city or a battleship fleet and if dropped with any degree of accuracy—and the French have been fairly accurate in their mimic warfare practice—can work incalculable damage.

The Song of The Sea Children

Prologue.
Where the world's highway is narrow and the sea gulls wheel and cry,
You shall see the children flocking in a long procession by.
Battered by the good salt billows? thrashing the cold grey seas.
They are flocking, flocking homeward to their Mother England's knees.

The liner from Australia, and the trader from Cathay,
The grimy, blunt-nosed collier, and the mailboat from the Bay,
And the trooper, from the Indies, rolling through the Channel seas,
They are flocking, flocking homeward to their Mother England's knees.
To and fro in ceaseless vigil prowling the watchers grim and grey.
That guard their mother's ranges and patrol the world's highway,
In the name of Drake and Jervis, Hawke, and Nelson, hold the sway,
And they keep their watch for England and who shall they then say?

You far flung wand'ring children you are speeding home once more,
You have rounded the world and back again to Mother England's shore,
The winds have beat you sorely and you know of angry seas,
But you're flocking, flocking homeward to your Mother England's knees.

See, the ocean highway narrows, you are thronging England's gates,
You are weary, you are homesick, Mother England's welcome waits.
The long, long wished home coming, and the way was rough and long
Sing you, then, you wandering children, sing you then the homing song!

THE OCEAN TRAMPS
We have plowed the hidden highways from the Horn to Singapore,
We have borne the dear old Ensign from Bahia to the Norc,
From China to Jamaica, from the Cape to Sydney town,
We have tramped and tramped the highways of the ocean up and down.

Wherever we have wandered Mother England's sign we saw,
From the rocky cliffs of Greenland to New Zealand's South-western shore,
And no man has bade us tarry and no foe has said us nay,
For our Mother, Mother England, she has cleared for us the way!

And some of us are broken now and some of us are old,
We're battered and we're rusty and the worm has got its hold,
We are weary, aye, and head-achin', hear our song upon the breeze,
We're limping, limping homeward, to our Mother England's knees.

THE LINERS
We have done your bidding, Mother. We have sought the long sea trail
We have braved the hidden iceberg, we have ridden out the gale
To the ends of all the earth, aye, and back once more,
We have trafficked, as you told us, every coast and every shore.

No man has dared molest us and no foe has bared the way
For your flag has cleared a pathway thro' the sunset to the day,
And o'er all the ocean ranges, sternly silent, broad awake,
The strong war guards of England their defiant vigils make.

THE WARSHIPS
Oh Mother we have served you full and well from day to day,
There are none who dared dispute us, there are none to say us nay;
We are wardens of the ranges, we patrol the living seas,
That you're tired wand'ring children may creep home to England's knees.

Watch and watch, with tireless vision, for your honor we have kept,
Where'er the winds have howled and where'er the waves have swept,
Ours the duty, ours the honor we have watched with tireless eyes,
And o'er the world's wide oceans the peace of England lies!

'Tis well, 'tis well, my children, come you home again once more,
Let the brood of Mother England flock home to England's shore,
Come you home you tired children, weary wits of seven seas,
Come you home at last dear children to your Mother England's knees.

Great Enthusiasm in the European Capitals When the Struggle Began — Aquitania Convoys the Laconia and Passengers Talk About the Trip

On board the Cunard liner Laconia, which arrived at New York on Monday, were a large number of prominent New Englanders who described with great vividness the scenes in London, Paris and other European capitals when the war broke out.
Judge John F. Crosby of the Massachusetts Superior Court in speaking of the trip across the ocean said:
"Most Trying Voyage."
"We have had a most trying voyage. We were conveyed by the Aquitania, now an armored cruiser, until we reached the 40th parallel of latitude, a considerable distance off the Banks of Newfoundland. At times we have been very near the German cruisers, and so far as we are able to learn English and French warships have been within easy call.
"At night most of the lights were out; those that were left burning were hidden by curtains at all windows and doors, and all port holes were closed. No lights were on the masts and no others were shown except the starboard and port lights. The passengers have been under great nervous strain and have had an experience that none of them will care ever to repeat.
Personally I have felt that my greatest danger was in the possibility of being fired upon by the German ships, who have used desperate means by wireless to reach us and who would no doubt be glad to cripple ocean traffic upon the Atlantic and thereby cut off England's food supply, unless the lines of travel can be kept open and unobstructed.
"The Laconia is now the largest of the ships now crossing and as she flies the British flag will be regarded as a great prize and it is generally believed that the German cruisers are much in need of coal and provisions.
"I hope that our government has already taken steps to provide funds and ships to bring our people back to their homes and will see that adequate naval escorts accompany them."
Berlin in War Times
Charles A. Hanley of Brookline, had an interesting journey across Europe from Constantinople. He traveled by way of the Black Sea and Roumania to Vienna. Railroad travel was so much interrupted that in getting from Budapest he had to change trains four times in a five-hour trip. He got to Berlin the day war was declared between England and Germany.
"It was an experience of a life-time," he said. "I saw the great Unter den Linden, a street wider than Common-wealth avenue in Boston, so jammed with people from 2 to 4 o'clock in the morning that you couldn't see an inch of the street. The crowd, men, women, and children, marched and sang and waved flags and seemed half crazy. In front of the Austrian Embassy they cheered. Papers with war news were being given away. You should have seen the people rush for them. But the police had a wonderful control over the crowds, who melted away when ordered to go to their homes.
"I got out of Germany by way of the Belgian frontier. Travel was very slow. There were soldiers everywhere, marching, moving guns, getting ready to fight. I got to Liverpool the day before the boat sailed and was lucky enough to get a ticket through a friend—with the aid of a little bribe."
Had a Temporary Stateroom
J. Fred Harvey, proprietor of the Hotel Bellevue, Boston, was at The Hague with his wife when war began.

When The Amphion Went Down

London, Aug. 19—4:08 p. m.—The official information bureau has issued an interesting account of the sinking of the British cruiser Amphion by a mine in the North Sea, which was first reported last week.
After describing how the Amphion and the third destroyer flotilla had proceeded to carry out a prearranged plan of search the report continues as follows:
"A trawler informed them that she had seen a suspicious ship throwing things overboard. Shortly afterwards the German mine layer Koeningen Luise was sighted steering east. Four destroyers gave chase, and in about an hour's time she was rounded up and sunk.
STRUCK EARLY IN MORNING.
"After picking up the survivors of the German ship the plan of search was carried out without incident until 3:30 in the morning. At this hour, as the Amphion on her return course was near the scene of the operations of the Koeningen Luise, her course was altered to avoid the danger zone. This was successful until 4:30 a. m., at which hour the Amphion struck a mine.
"A sheet of flame instantly engulfed the bridge. The captain was rendered insensible and fell to the fore and aft bridge. As soon as the captain recovered consciousness he rang to the engine room to stop the engines, which were still going at revolutions for twenty knots.
"As all the forward part of the Amphion was on fire, it was found impossible to reach the bridge or flood the fore magazine. The ship's back appeared to be broken, and she was already settling down by the bows. All efforts, therefore, were directed to placing the wounded in places of safety in case of an explosion, and in getting the cruiser in tow by the stern.
"By the time the destroyers had closed in, it was clearly time to abandon the ship. The men fell in for this purpose with the same composure that had marked their behavior throughout.
"All was done without hurry or confusion, and twenty minutes after the cruiser struck the mine, the men, the officers and lastly the captain, had left the ship.
SECOND EXPLOSION.
"Three minutes after the captain had left another explosion occurred. This enveloped and blew up the entire forepart of the vessel. The effect of this showed the Amphion must have struck a second mine, which exploded the fore magazine. Debris falling from a great height struck the rescue boats and the destroyers, and one of the Amphion's shells burst on the deck of one of the destroyers, killing two Englishmen and one German prisoner.
"The after part of the Amphion then began to settle quickly until its foremost section was on the bottom, and the whole after part was inclined to an angle of forty-five degrees. In another quarter of an hour this also had disappeared.
"Captain Fox, of the Amphion, speaks in highest terms of the behavior of his officers and men throughout. Every order was promptly obeyed, without confusion or perturbation."

MAY BENEFIT CANADA

A London cable says:—It is worth remembering that even should the war fire seize upon every national spirit in Europe, that will not make property in Canada any less secure than it is today. And it may very well prove that a European storm would blow much money westwards for investment in peaceful Canada. Already newspapers are suggesting that a great European war would be America's day of opportunity, and history contains precedent to justify such suggestions.

INVESTORS' OPPORTUNITY

The City Land and Investment Company, Limited, are offering for subscription a very limited amount of Preference Stock. The sale of this Stock was withdrawn from the market in anticipation of the sale of sufficient lots to pay all the outstanding liabilities, and an option has been given for the sale of One Hundred Lots in Moncton (out of nearly 600 owned in that City) for $70,000. The Company has deemed it advisable, pending the option, to offer for sale 400 shares of Preference Stock at the par value of $50.00 each.
This stock has preference both as to principal and dividends at 6% over all the Common Stock of the Company, and no Stock on the market can compare with this in absolute safety and certainty of profits.

Politics Forgotten In Hour of Empire's Peril

Both Parties Stand Shoulder to Shoulder and Parliament Speaks With One Voice

Ottawa, Aug. 19—Canada speaks with one voice. The voice of a united parliament is the voice of a united people.
Both leaders, rising above all considerations of party politics, struck a high and inspiring note in memorable and historic utterances before crowded galleries, a full attendance of members, and with a consciousness of the gravity and import of their utterances.
The Liberal leader, on rising to speak for his party, after the brief and appropriate speeches of Donald Sutherland and D. O. Lesperance, the mover and seconder of the address in reply, was received with a sincere and enthusiastic outburst of cheering from both sides of the house. His eloquent and telling summing up of the issues of the war, freedom against oppression, democracy against autocracy, civilization against the barbarism whose only law is that right is might, was interrupted time and again by torrents of applause, led by cabinet ministers opposite.
Sir Robert Borden, in a correspondingly brief and statesmanlike presentation of the salient issues of the conflict and of the steps which had been taken by the government for Canadian and imperial defence, was similarly cheered by his political opponents.
Sir Robert Borden gave a succinct summary of the situation leading to the war and of the emergent measures taken by the government for which parliamentary sanction was asked. He announced that the government has offered to France, on behalf of the Canadian people to equip and to maintain a hospital of fifty beds in Paris or elsewhere for the care of the French wounded.
A further new announcement made by the premier was that in January last, on the suggestion of the imperial government, a conference of the chief deputy heads of departments in Ottawa had been held with a view of preparing plans for prompt government action to meet just such emergent conditions as had arisen. As a result of this conference the government had been in a position to act promptly along prescribed lines.

The Outlook in Canada

TRULY, it is an ill-wind that blows nobody good. One Continent's "down" is another Continent's "up." The industries of Europe are, generally speaking, at a standstill, and matters will be worse before they can be better.

The whole world is looking to the North American Continent — to Canada and the United States—for much of its provisions, machinery, textiles, boots and shoes, beverages, vehicles, cement, brick, earthenware, fancy goods, furs, glass, garments, paper, soap, tobacco, wood products, and much else. Canada must get ready to meet the demand made upon her. We have continued prosperity ahead of us if our manufacturers and merchants rise quickly to take advantage of their opportunity.

It is a time for business hopefulness, not for business gloom

GERMAN UHLANS, ARTILLERY AND INFANTRY

German Spies in England Were Promptly Arrested

Many of Them Badly Frightened When Captured Just Before War Started—Unfounded Rumors of an Absurd Character—England's Credit Business

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, Aug. 12.—Of course the outbreak of war suspends all ordinary law, but for at least a fortnight before the declaration the habeas corpus act had been suspended in England and no one but a few officials knew anything about it.

Official England knew that war was inevitable and was determined not to be caught napping. London and every other important centre was swarming with German spies and it was essential that their operations should be stopped and that at the same time nothing should be done to alarm public opinion.

I am informed that at the War Office the Admiralty also nearly thirty spies were caught during the fortnight before the war, and that more than a hundred were caught throughout Great Britain.

Under the ordinary operation of the civil law these men would have been entitled to a police court hearing and a trial in one of the higher courts. Instead of this, however, they were taken directly before a high court judge in chambers—which means that the judge sat in secret in his private room—and were committed to prison out of hand on the mere statement of the policeman or other official who arrested them. They will remain in prison until the end of the war.

There were some Englishmen among them and I am informed that a few of the missing men advertised for in the papers may be accounted for in this way.

The raids on the houses of suspected spies which have taken place since the declaration of war have had some amusing features. A police officer who was in charge of the raids in one of the northern districts of London tells me that three of the Germans whom he arrested fainted when they were informed that they were under suspicion as spies.

"The poor devils thought we were going to shoot them at once," he said, "and one of them actually explained to me that if he had been an Englishman in Germany he would have been shot within half an hour."

One of the men arrested was an Englishman with a German name, who was the victim of a silly practical joke by a friend. He was able to satisfy the authorities that he was a perfectly loyal subject of King George, and the joke was on his friend a little later when the police marched him off to the station where an inspector reminded him a severe reprimand on the danger of his perverted sense of humor in times of serious crisis.

Another incident on the lighter side of the war is the unanimity with which German traders in London have removed their signs from their shop fronts.

They seem to have come to the wise conclusion that Germans are not popular in London just at present.

Unfounded Rumors. London has been a city of rumors for the last week. It is perfectly amazing how they originate and how they spread, although they are without the slightest foundation. Two days before the declaration I was returning home from Fleet street in the early morning, and in Holborn a little group of late revelers had heard that there had been a naval battle in the North Sea, and that two British and five German ships had been sunk. They even had the names of the ships, and the fact that one at least of the German ships was known to be in the Mediterranean did not shake their belief in the slightest degree. Five miles away on the outskirts of London I found the same rumor half an hour later, and I am told that it was current in every corner of the metropolis. When it came from or on what it was based is still a mystery.

Work in a newspaper office in these war days is a long nightmare. Every minute the telephone bell rings with a new rumor and the astonishing thing is that the same rumor comes almost simultaneously from widely separated sources. A night or two ago, for instance, "news" was telephoned from Guilford, on the main London and South Western Railway line to Portsmouth, and therefore of course an important military road—that German spies had blown up the railway bridge there, and that British guards were chasing them across country. Within five minutes a noted English novelist who has a country house near Guilford telephoned particulars of the outrage which he had received by telegraph from his home. Within half an hour the same news came from a dozen different quarters. Nothing of the sort had happened, and the thing was not printed, but all London heard it in some mysterious way and for years to come thousands of people will tell how the spies blew up the Guilford bridge.

Another rumor that took some killing occurred on the night of the declaration. Although England was not at war until 11 p. m. the wires began to hum at 7 p. m. with circumstantial reports of a great battle off the North Coast of Scotland. Cannonading had been going on all day and had died away, but a load of wounded were being landed at Cromarty. This he took some killing as Cromarty is rather isolated and being a naval base the wires were in the hands of the Admiralty. The government, however, finally gave the newspapers facilities for learning the truth, which was of course that the rumor was a lie. Against the rumors of things that do not happen, however, must be set the admirable arrangements for concealing from the public—and therefore from the enemy—the things that do happen. Every newspaper has been deluged with wires from its correspondents about mobilization and military movements and about the appearance of warships at various parts of the coast. Not a line has appeared. A splendid system of co-operation has been worked out between the newspapers and the military and naval authorities. Certain classes of news of course are barred automatically, but when anything comes in which appears to be on the borderline between what may and what may not be published, the newspapers are expert at the War Office for the Admiralty and definite instructions are obtained. There is no censorship as the editors are trusted by the authorities to print nothing which can in any way hinder the aims of their country.

There was an amusing incident about the publication of the news that the declaration of war had been declared. It was given out about midnight on August 4 and the first statement issued by the War Office was that Germany had declared war on England. Most of the papers went to press on this, but a few minutes later came an official announcement from the Foreign Office that England had declared war on Germany. There was a frantic scramble to find out who was right, and for nearly an hour both War Office and Foreign Office stuck to their guns. Then they agreed that what had happened was that Germany had given the British ambassador at Berlin his passports and that in consequence England had declared that a state of war existed with Germany. In spite of this a good

TORONTO MAN'S HARD TIME IN LEAVING THE HOSTILE COUNTRY

Dr. Cook and His Family Held up Many Times by German Soldiers and Their Car is Taken From Them

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, Aug. 11.—Dr. George E. Cook of Toronto, who has just arrived in London from Holland, with his wife, four young children and his mother, they had been motorizing in Germany for the past year, and when hostilities broke out, at one of the villages they were stopped by a patrol of troops, and peremptorily ordered to leave their car, which they were informed, was required for service. Doctor Cook was searched and all his papers taken over for examination, and he was called upon to give a minute account of his business; how long he had been in the country; where he had come from; and the routes by which he had traveled. The motor car was emptied and searched, and the party detained. Shortly after, his papers, which had been translated and found to contain nothing incriminatory, were handed back to him. He then appealed to the officer to permit him to get over the frontier to the coast, but on this point the officer was obdurate, and said he must deliver his car at once. The surprise of the car would have meant that they would have been stranded with no means of locomotion to get them away.

An authorization was given to them which declared that they would be permitted to proceed to the Holland frontier, but before crossing the frontier they would have to deliver up their motor-car. Dr. Cook has the letter of authorization as well as a receipt for the motor-car. At almost every mile along the route they were stopped by German soldiers, and had to produce the letter each time. Finally they got to the frontier only to find that it was almost impossible to get away. The platforms were packed with panic-stricken people, who had been waiting all day in the hope of getting away. Finally, after many hours of weary waiting, a train was brought up to carry some of the refugees.

Remarkable scenes were witnessed. Women thoroughly panic-stricken offered hundreds of pounds to be taken on the train, and some of them were pulled through the windows after the train had started. After they had got safely across the frontier Dr. Cook's chauffeur informed him that he had made it impossible for the Germans to use the motor car. He had filled the machinery up with iron nuts and taken away the magnets. The parts of the car, which is of British make, cannot be procured in Germany.

THE RUSSIANS ALSO OBSERVE SECRECY

The London Morning Post correspondent at St. Petersburg says:—The ignorance in which the public is kept of warlike operations is such as was never experienced in any former wars. We have seen troops going off; the regular reservists and national levy called the Opolchik, which includes all the able-bodied population of fighting men, but whether they have gone is impossible to even surmise. Railways running to St. Petersburg and Moscow are all interconnected with far outside cities and a detachment started from St. Petersburg by a route normally leading to Warsaw, may equally well mean it is bound for Finland or Odessa.

Even the commanding officer is in perfect darkness as to the destination of his regiment when it leaves. Just before the train moves off he is handed four sealed packets to be opened consecutively at fixed hours. Absolute secrecy is thus preserved by employing a system long practiced in the navy, but the first time it has been applied ashore.

We are even ignorant of how many armies Russia is putting in the field, let alone their objectives. All alike know they are going to fight Germany, and all alike are eager to get to close quarters. Even letters which soldiers are now sending home leave the recipients quite in darkness.

RECRUIT'S MORAL FIGHT

Torn By Duty to Aged Parents and Love of Country.

(Montreal Gazette.) Those who are shouting "Rale Britannia," and killing the enemy with their mouths, but have not the courage to come forward and give the enemy the spear, should have been at the recruiting office of the Grenadier Guards yesterday morning, as witnessed by some of the young men who were there.

The young fellow was noticed by the recruiting officer as a good judge of men, lingering uncertainly about the office door. The officer saw that he was the type of man that makes the best soldier, so he called him inside. The youth listened respectfully to the explanation of the offer given the sergeant, but seemed unable to determine whether or not he should accept. That he is no coward, however, was certain, so he decided to let the boy take his time, and settle the matter himself.

Several minutes after the morning the young man presented himself at the desk and asked numerous questions, then he would go away and return again. Finally he hung his head and very modestly said: "I've supported my old mother for years, and I can't see how I ought to go and fight, but it doesn't seem right to leave them without provision. If I could just fix it up some way so they'd be all right while I'm gone, I'd go right now."

There were several other young fellows going in a machine to the Guards barracks to be examined by the doctor. The sight of this was too much for the patriotic youth. "I'll go and be examined, and if I pass, I'll go home and tell the mother and see if we can't fix it some way," he said.

CHEESE AND THE WAR

On the Cornwall, Ont., cheese board cheese sales are at a fraction under thirteen cents. The European war conditions were again under discussion, and the seller's desire to secure a better price for his cheese. The war was likely to increase the consumption of cheese, as the ration to soldiers only called for two ounces of that commodity as compared with a pound of potatoes, meat or bread. Matters had improved in the money market, the war rates had been cleared of all the Canadian ports, and the conditions in trade. These facts seemed to assure the sellers that exorbitant prices would not prevail, and the board was cleared of all but 440 boxes.

HOW TO STOP STOMACH TORMENT

Sound Advice From a Well Known Physician.

Men and women who suffer from what they call Dyspepsia, indigestion or just plain "stomach-trouble" usually seek regular relief in the form of some peppermint pill or tablet, or other artificial digestant. This, experience teaches me, is a serious error. In nine cases out of ten, the distress is caused by the development of acids in the stomach—formed by the fermenting of the food. Instead of a digestant being required, something should be taken to dissolve or neutralize this acidity, when normal digestion will follow as a matter of course. This acid matter is distinctly poisonous and unless it is dissolved, digestion merely carries the mass of fermenting food from the stomach to the intestines, where its poison is absorbed by the blood and carried all over the body.

If all the great army of people who suffer from indigestion every meal would make it a point to take a teaspoonful of "Malted Magnesia" in a quarter glass of water after each meal, there would be no formation of acidity and consequently no distress or discomfort. Sour acid, gassy stomach, heartburn, belching, bloating, etc., would then be a thing of the past. "Malted Magnesia" is a physician's prescription. It is inexpensive and can be obtained at any drug store. It is prepared for use in such a palatable and the best proof of its efficiency is that it will stop the sharpest, biting stomach distress in five minutes after the time it enters the stomach, simply by dissolving the acids that have been formed there. Its action is absolutely harmless.

No More Cutting For Sore Corns

The real corn remedy, the one that always gives results, is Putnam's Corn Extractor, which makes corns and callouses go quickly, and without pain. Goes to the root of the formation, absorbs its roots, gives lasting relief, and surely removes corns or callouses, whether just starting or of many years' growth. The name tells the story. Putnam's is now sending home leave the recipients quite in darkness.

Putnam's Corn Extractor, price 25c.

All My Corns Are Gone

Every day, legions of people get rid of their corns with Blue-jay. This easy method now removes a million corns a month.

You who suffer with corns do yourselves an injustice. Blue-jay will instantly stop the pain. And in 48 hours, without any soreness, the corn comes out completely.

About half the people know this now. When a corn appears they put Blue-jay on it. Then they forget it. In a couple of days they lift out the corn and bid it good-bye forever.

You can't do that by paring corns. And you can't with old-time treatments. You may get relief for a little while, but the corns simply stay and grow.

Try this modern, scientific way—the way now employed by physicians and hospitals. Get rid of the corn. It is just as easy, just as painless as the ineffective way.

To Keep Your Skin Free From Itches

(Beauty Topics.) If you are willing to spend a few minutes' time in your room using a delicate paste, you can easily banish any ugly, hairy growth without discomfort or injury. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is then spread over the hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rubbed off and the skin washed. You will not be disappointed with this treatment, providing you get real delatone.

PICKED RIGHT TIME TO SUBDUCE COLT

Bert Rogers, who lives on a farm near Miles, Mich., had an exciting experience recently. "Talk of tough luck," he says. "I had three-year-old colt that was scared to death of automobiles. I decided to break him of his fear, and hitching him to a light cart, I went out on the road looking for an auto, being determined to make him stand up to it. Pretty soon I heard a foot, and saw a car coming down the road. I tightened my grip on the reins and started past it. The colt bolted, and I managed to hold him, and was just getting him calmed down when long came another, and he bolted again."

TORONTO TO PROCEED WITH PUBLIC WORKS

The City of Toronto will, as far as possible, carry out its programme of expenditures upon public works, in spite of the situation created by the war in Europe. The Board of Control at a private meeting decided to go on with the construction of the new registry office, and to expend upon it this year $100,000, or as much as would be spent under ordinary circumstances.

A large crowd saw them off amid a patriotic demonstration and cheers. Last week a detachment of signalers for the overseas contingent left the island. The artillerymen will follow later.

FAIRVILLE VOLUNTEERS TO THE FRONT; 15 TO LEAVE FOR VALCARTIER

Large Attendance Expected In Schools Next Term—Willis L. O. L. Elects Officers

When the Boer war broke out, Fairville was considered doing its duty well to flag and country when one volunteer offered for service in the ranks. Today in keeping with the forward march of progress, Lancaster offers 15 men as her contribution, of whom 9 will leave this evening for Valcartier.

The first Fairville contingent consists of Percy Stymest, William Mullin, Arthur Wright, Frank Kelly, Frank Kane, George Charles, Ernest Humphreys, Leo Quigg and Ernest McFarlane. Others ready for orders are Charles Tippet, Rudolph McKel, Carl Estrom, Lowell Lawson, James Duplisa and Harold Duplisa.

Fairville schools will re-open for the fall term Wednesday morning Aug. 26th as none of the teachers are known to wish to attend the Institute convening at Halifax.

In the Superior School ceilings have all been whitened and water calcimined while the whole building has been given a thorough cleaning. While no new permits have been requested yet from the secretary, James E. Bryant, it is expected quite a number of new scholars will seek enrollment.

The new principal will be Wilfrid Falk recently graduated from the Normal School with honors. Miss Wilfrid room last year Grades 4 and 5 will be in charge of a new teacher this term. Miss Jessie Douglas of St. Stephen. Except for these two changes the staff will remain unchanged.

Mr. James Wood, Manawagonish road entertained a number of little friends of her grandchildren, Misses Margaret and Florence Wood of Winalpeg yesterday afternoon and all report a delightful time. Games were played and refreshments being served. Among those present were: Burton Scott, Carrie Burton, Harriett Pyke, Margaret Pyke, Mary Seely, Florence and Floyd Band, Ruth McIntyre and Jack Springer.

The Fairville Tennis Club is serving tea this afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock on its grounds, Manawagonish Road. Arrangements have been made to conduct very successful affairs and the beautiful grounds are ideal for such a gathering. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Dr. Dalton, Mrs. Clifford Sutton, Mrs. Dillfield, Miss Sadie Cougle, Miss Beattie Compton, Miss Mary McLeod. Proceeds will go to equip the club.

The regular annual meeting of Willis L. O. N. W. was held last evening in Orange Hall and a large attendance was reported. In his address the W. M., H. P. Allingham, referred to the various matters in connection with the order and then touched on the European war in progress, expressing much satisfaction that so many of Fairville's boys were answering the call to the front and further adding that he merely voiced the sentiment of all present in stating that if necessary arms, the lodge would not doubt respond to a man in defence of the flag. His remarks were heartily applauded.

HOLIDAY AT CAPITAL

IN HONOR OF TROOPS

Fredericton Contingent to be Given a Hearty Send-Off Tonight

Fredericton, Aug. 20.—Fredericton's contingent for foreign service numbering ten officers and 180 men will leave for Valcartier this evening in special cars attached to the Intercolonial express.

Mayor Mitchell has proclaimed a holiday and has invited citizens and school children to turn out and give the boys a hearty send-off. There is great bustle and activity at the barracks today and great enthusiasm prevails among the troops. They will parade at six o'clock and each man will be presented with $5 for pocket money. The gift will be made on behalf of the city and county councils.

The Daughters of the Empire will make presentations to each member and there will be gifts of cigarettes and chocolates by Lord and Lady Ashburnham. Flags are flying all over the city and many stores are decorated in honor of the departing troops.

MISS FLORENCE DICK WRITES PARENTS OF HER ARRIVAL IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Mr. and Mrs. George Dick of Queen street, were greatly relieved this morning by the receipt of a letter from their daughter, Miss Florence, announcing her safe arrival in Newfoundland on her way home from Europe. Miss Dick was in England at the time of the outbreak of war and like others, had plans disarranged by the events which followed. She was expected to return on the Royal Edward but the steamer arrived in Montreal without her, and her parents had no information regarding her whereabouts. The letter this morning announced that she had reached Newfoundland by the steamer Mongolian on Sunday. She planned to spend two days in St. John's and then leave for St. John by way of Halifax, and is expected to arrive here by Sunday.
