Exhibition Features in Full Swing—Some More Prize-Winners—The Aeroplane Man and The Parachute Drop

Another day of perfect weather adds to the attractiveness of the Greater St. John Exhibition and will help to swell the attendance records.

The records for the first five days for this and the three previous exhibitions show the following comparison:

Saturday ... 4,000 3,882 3,988 4,072 Monday ... 19,922 16,898 6,214 10,698 Tuesday ... 12,920 8,715 11,280 11,284 Wednesday ... 17,875 7,812 16,472 16,172 Thursday ... 15,576 22,318 13,620 14,531

53,172 57,513 51,904 50,767

This morning was a quiet one at the exhibition, but towards noon the visitor began to arrive in large numbers and the commercial travellers and their friends will help to make the evening lively.

The mornings are devoted by many of the visitors to more careful study of the exhibits than is possible when larger crowds are present.

The special set which is to be given this afternoon by Bonnette is arousing considerable curiosity. The daring airplane height when over the exhibition buildings, on Monday night, was allowed to remain on the ground.

The medical show which was opened by the directors after the opening on Monday night, was allowed to remain on the ground.

Cecil Peeli made his ninth regular flight this morning. The flight lasted about fourteen minutes. Battling against the stiff breeze, the aviator was carried high when over the exhibition buildings, and from there was carried well towards the flats with his machine side to the breeze.

The second flight was taken at 2.10 and lasted for nine minutes. The wind at this time was much stronger, but it was only to display Peeli's control over his machine.

This Evening's Programme.

7.30—Commercial Travellers march to the grounds to celebrate Travellers' day. 7.45 to 8.45, and 9.15 to 10.15, ladies' concert in main building.

THREE ARMENIAN FALL TO DEATH

Two British Officers and a German Lieutenant Are Killed Today

(Canadian Press) Stonehouse, Eng., Sept. 6.—Two more British army officers lost their lives while fighting today. Captain Patrick Hamilton had taken Lieutenant Stewart with him as a passenger in his biplane. They had flown for a considerable time, when a strong wind suddenly sprang up and in endeavoring to make headway against it, one of the wings of the aeroplane collapsed, and the machine fell to the ground from an altitude of 200 feet and was completely destroyed.

The bodies of the two officers were found in the wreck. Captain Hamilton had obtained his pilot's certificate only on March 12 this year. He was an infantry officer belonging to the Worcestershire regiment, but was attached for duty to the army flying corps. Lieut. Stewart was not an aviator.

Munich, Bavaria, Sept. 6.—A German military aviator was killed near here this morning during a flight. Lieut. Stenger of the Bavarian army had succeeded in coming to a landing in the local manoeuvres. The weather was very stormy and when his machine had reached a height of 300 feet, it suddenly tumbled and crashed to the earth.

London, Sept. 6.—Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, never wrote any reply regarding the financial side of the Panama Canal question in his recent letter to the proprietors of the canal. He simply stated that the British government was making representations to Washington on the subject of the Panama canal.

An official correction is published in the newspaper today, which it is stated that Sir Edward Grey in regard to the burdening of British shipping with the undue proportion of the maintenance charges of the canal were merely comments made by Her Majesty's secretary of the Gatedale chamber.

LLOYD GEORGE CAN NOT GO TO PITTSBURG FOR THE DATE ARRANGED

London, Sept. 6.—A deputation of Welsh Americans, who are promoting an international festival at Pittsburgh next year, called on Lord Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, yesterday and invited him to attend. They assured him of the warmest welcome.

The chancellor replied that it was impossible, owing to his parliamentary duties, to accept an invitation for July 4, but if there were any possibility of fixing a more convenient date, he would take the matter under consideration. He said that nothing would give greater pleasure than to visit the Welsh tonight to his fellow countrymen in America.

The Daily Express prints an attack upon the chancellor's tax collecting methods, giving a list of fifty millionaires of the party who, it declares, are now in the hands of the prominent names in the list are those of Lord Pirrie, Lord Cordery, formerly Sir Weetman Pearson, Lord Abercromby, Lord Ashby St. Legers, Lord Brassey and Baron de Forest.

Archibald, advocate, of Paris, was empowered to vote as proxy for the majority of the shareholders, are valid or not.

WORDS WERE NOT THOSE OF SIR EDWARD BUT OF ANOTHER

Statements Re Panama Canal Were Not Made by British Foreign Secretary

(Canadian Press) Washington, Sept. 6.—A letter of Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, to the United States government regarding the Panama Canal question, is regarded here as an endorsement of the negotiations between the two countries are on a final basis, the foreign secretary's argument being that British shipping is to be burdened with an undue proportion of the charges for maintenance of the canal, through the complete exemption of American-owned shipping from tolls.

According to the city school census the population of Chicago is 2,281,700. This is an increase of 200,000 over the figures shown in the government census of 1910.

The cornerstone of the first Young Men's Christian Association building for the colored race, to be built in Chicago on the north-west, was laid recently in Chicago.

The American golfer has a reputation for truthfulness of speech which easily surmounts that of the English links, and for an excellent subject for mirth in comic papers. Here is one example: "Diddle is playing golf for his health."

"Any improvement?" "His health is better but his language is worse."

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Co.)

Prince Andrew Gagarin, who is now in New York attending the International Congress of Engineers, members of which are to visit the principal cities of the United States before returning home.

Another Gagarin, Alexander by name, was one of the principal Russian commanders in the Crimean war, and died as Governor of Transcaucasia. A cousin of the present visitor, namely, Prince Gregory Gagarin, is vice-president of the Imperial Academy of Arts at St. Petersburg.

The Gagarins are a very numerous family, and are to be found in all ranks and conditions of life, this being due to the fact that all the children of every Gagarin have a right to the princely title.

There was a Princess Gagarin who rode "haute école" in a circus, while one Prince Gagarin was earning his living as a hachman in Moscow. Another was employed as a longshoreman on the docks at Odessa.

Another Prince Gagarin, formerly played a peculiar role in Egypt. Her first husband, a Russian diplomat, kineman of the present Russian ambassador in London, met with his death while shooting in the vicinity of Cairo.

In those days Russia was the reverse of England, and through the Khedivial princess, the clever Russian woman was able not only to get the information for the authorities at St. Petersburg, but likewise to stir up a great deal of trouble for the British.

The new Lord Grey de Ruthyn, like his brother before him, takes as his motto, precedence of his own father, and it is because his ancient barony, created by King Edward II. in 1284, is hereditary in the female line, and comes to him, as to his elder brother, through his mother, Lady Bertha, the youngest daughter of the second Marquis of Hastings, and sister of the third and last marquis, who was also Lord Grey de Ruthyn.

The sixteenth Lord Grey de Ruthyn was earl marshal at the coronation of George II., and the late lord carried the golden spear at Edward VII's coronation, though without having first to overcome the rival claim of his kinsman, Earl of London.

The use of these spears, which are known as the spears of St. George, at coronations, dates from the reign of King Edward the Confessor. After being duly consecrated together with the other coronation insignia, they are taken from the altar by the Dean of Westminster and handed to the lord great chamberlain, who, down to the reign of William IV. fitted them to the sovereign's feet, but since then merely touches the royal feet with their points, as a sign to the people that the king is the foremost knight of his realm.

The Lords Grey de Ruthyn have the right to a quaint adjunct to the liveries of their servants, which is a "maunch" or lower black velvet sleeve worn always by the indoor footmen, and by the coachmen and carriage footmen when the state equipage is used.

The Tie That Binds

By RUTH GAMBERON

If your only hold on some thing you loved very, very much were a slender chain, and if you were afraid the chain was getting too weak to hold, and you knew that you would lose this precious thing altogether if the chain broke, would you give the chain a tremendously hard yank to see if that would break it?

Or would you try to find some way of strengthening the chain? That sounds as if the answer were obvious, doesn't it? And, yet, listen to this question from a letter friend:

"My husband does not care for me as much as he used to," she writes, "and that he is growing altogether too fond of a young woman whom we both know. My heart is breaking, and I do not know what to do. Do you think I should tax him with paying too much attention to this woman and threaten to leave him if he doesn't promise not to have anything more to do with her?"

In other words, do I think she should give the tie that binds this man to her a tremendously hard yank to see if it would break? No, Madame, I don't. For this reason—if you did that and the tie did break—as it probably would—it would be weaker. For even the strongest tie is weakened by such treatment, and whether your husband cares for the girl or not, that is likely to irritate and estrange her.

There are two or three things which you can do, according to your strength. The best and hardest is to try to strengthen that tie in every way you know how, and then, if you still must, make some sacrifice of its strength.

But if the torture you are suffering is too keen for you to take such a course, the second best thing to do is to have a friendly talk with your husband. In all probability the virtuous chamber which you have built up for yourself has its foundation merely on a few thoughtless words or acts of your husband, and is constructed out of your own imaginations. Doubtless it is so unsubstantial that a few words from him will blow it all to smithereens. And if you approach him in the right way and appeal to his tenderness, he will probably say those few words which you are so sure will break the tie.

Sometimes, you know, an atmosphere of constant jealousy and "suspicion" will produce the very effect which you want in convincing yourself of the groundlessness of your suspicions, suppose you read the greatest thing that was ever written on this subject.

In other words, glance over your Othello. It may really help you to realize how foolish you probably are.

preparative to the third Lord Grey, as a noble of favor and for service rendered. The present lord is a bachelor, in spite of the assertion of some of the English papers that he is married to an American, and the heir to his honors is his sister Elizabeth, who is the wife of Laurence Dalziel Boydell of Chesterfield.

The other "Cowboy Peers" include the Earl of Caithness, who for many years has made his home on a ranch in North Dakota, and the Earl of Harcourt, an Irish nobleman, who lived for several years as a ranchman in the west, and then for a number of years as a miner for several years in Montana, where he was known as "Charley," and "No. 128" to the management.

He did not suggest the idea of being married to an Irish nobleman, but he did suggest the idea of being married to an Irish nobleman.

Daily Hints For the Cook

BROWN SAUCE Two tablespoons butter, 1/2 slice onion, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup brown stock, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Cook onion in butter until slightly browned, remove onion and stir butter constantly until well browned. Add flour mixed with seasonings and brown butter and flour; then add stock gradually.

TEA ROLLS One and one-half cups of bread flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon of butter and 2 teaspoons of baking powder. Mix it together with the hands (as you would for pie crust) and add cold milk enough to make a soft dough. Roll out about half an inch thick, cut out with a round cookie cutter, brush over with melted butter and fold over like Parker House rolls. Let stand about 15 minutes and bake in a hot oven.

THEIR HONEYMOON IN AIRSHIP Trip from New York to Portland, Me., in New York's Plan

New York, Sept. 6.—Captain Francis C. Murphy, of Company A, Ninth Regiment, on Monday next, if all goes well, will fly away with his bride for Portland, Me. The bride-to-be is Miss Agnes O'Donnell. The wedding is to take place on Sunday evening here.

A farmer at Bricklet Wood, Eng., has provided a large gramophone for the use of the haymakers, so that they may work to music. The results are said to be highly satisfactory.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea" from the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-made preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty, and makes it grow.

Save Your Hair! Danderine Destroys Dandruff and Stops Falling Hair at Once—Grows Hair, We Prove It

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; if you have an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous you must use Danderine, because nothing else accomplishes so much for the hair.

Just one application of Knowlton's Danderine will double the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scrub robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots fall out, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, don't hesitate. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually why not now? A 25 cent bottle will truly amaze you.

Save Your Hair! Danderine Destroys Dandruff and Stops Falling Hair at Once—Grows Hair, We Prove It

SEE IF YOUR CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's insides, the stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are clogged up with putridifying waste. It is a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When your child is restless, drooping, pale, does not sleep soundly or eat heartily or is cross, feverish, stomping, breath bad, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is constipated, give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the foul, congested waste, undigested food and sour milk will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you surely will have a happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not druging your children, but composed entirely of licorice figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator necessary. A little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

TORONTO SEES HYDROPLANES

(Toronto World) With the speed of torpedoes hurled from the battleship's side, two flying hydroplanes roared out of the mist, flinging walls of water from them as they hurtled into sight of the crowds on the exhibition set wall. It was the first time hydroplanes had engaged in combat in Toronto, and the throngs shouted their welcome as the two meteoric spots grew larger in the gray mist and then suddenly broke into eight long streams of fog and vapor tearing behind them and aft a seething boiling mass of water.

Over the oncoming course with a flying start the two boats made 32 miles an hour. H. Gooderham's Helios won. Rehanon on the mile. The local boat had not half a length on it; another 100 feet more of going and Gooderham's boat would have lost.

Upton, near Peterborough, one of the smallest parishes in England, numbering only fourteen houses, possesses a tombstone of black marble, which becomes damp in patches whenever rain is about to fall. It is regarded in the village as an infallible barometer. This tombstone is, presumably, the English equivalent to the weathering chert at Amiens Cathedral.

TELEGRAPH REPORTER IN AEROPLANE

J. J. Marshall Goes up in the Baldwin Airship and Tells What the Trip is Like

A member of the Daily Telegraph staff, J. J. Marshall, had an exciting experience yesterday afternoon, when he was taken by the youthful aviator, Cecil Peeli, on a flight in Captain Baldwin's aeroplane. He was taken up by Peeli, after the latter had a made test trip to try the air currents, as a strong breeze was blowing. Mr. Marshall tells of the trip as follows:

A little distance from the shore the machine left the sands, perhaps 100 yards, and in two seconds it was in the air rising steadily in the direction of the gravelly (a hazy immensity) and curving slightly, flew in the direction of Paradise Island. Although the biplane was flying at this time at about 500 feet above the sea, there was no sensation of speed or propulsion but rather a sensation of being pulled as if some gigantic compelling force were dragging one towards the clouds. In a moment we were over the Marsh creek and rising steadily towards the heavens. Hundreds of feet below shone the creek like a silver ribbon winding its way to the sea. The Marsh bridge stood out against the sheen of the stream while a boat was plainly visible at the mouth.

As the aviator manipulated his planes the machine responded quickly and with the adjustment of the "flaps" being distinctly felt, as if some part of a person's anatomy had been left behind accidentally (to be called up) and the balance had gone forward. As we neared the town the breeze grew stronger and stronger, blowing hard against our faces and giving a sensation as of battling against some transparent but very solid matter and making one's eyes smart and sore.

Above the Marsh creek the biplane turned his machine, which in turning canted at about an angle of 30 degrees and the peculiar sidelong forward motion that was noticed on Wednesday. He then made for the open sea and in a few minutes was flying in a straight line towards Paradise Island we went well upward until we arrived at an altitude of more than 1,000 feet.

Far Below.

Far below lay a panoramic view of St. John. A thick cloud of smoke overhung the city and the western side of the peninsula was completely obscured from view. A few of the high houses stood up conspicuously in the tumbled mass of structures. The court house, St. Andrew's church, the I. C. building, the cathedral and some of the office buildings in King street towered above the rest.

To the south Main street, the street and Lorneville lay clear to the view. In the distance a long irregular stretch of land proclaimed Nova Scotia. The view to the west the St. John river above Indian town and part of the Narrows came into view with a background of the mountains. The biplane flew steadily forward, dipping and rising as the aviator found necessary until we were about opposite Grosvenor, when he swung her round in a quick turn and caught the way of the wind, heading for Grosvenor across the bay. At this time, flying with the wind, the motor gained speed and the aeroplane was probably making about 80 miles an hour, but the speed is not felt to any extent as there is no means of comparison and it can only be gauged by the sound of the motor and the extra air pressure.

As we neared Grosvenor the atmosphere became clearer and the details of the panorama more clear. The roads could be seen plainly, interesting the country in long white streaks and stretching for miles inland. The blue mass of the Loch Leonard hills above up clearly while far beyond to the east and north were masses of hills piled on one another in never-ending series. The view from the aeroplane geography map in color and contour and the way lines of a make-believe ocean, only it was the real thing.

The houses, fences and works showed up distinctly in miniature. The figures of men, horses and cattle were distinctly visible. Over the construction works at St. John, where the men could be seen working busily, the aviator made a curve inland for perhaps three or four hundred yards, flying over the heads of the people and turning justly canted his planes, the machine diving forward at an ominous angle, the framework at the back of the passenger seeming to press forward on his head and back with a tremendous pressure.

The Quick Rush Down.

In the quick rush down it was impossible to notice much. Peeli had his machine at an angle of perhaps 30 degrees and shooting off its power, in the most sensational part of the flight (to the passenger at least), slid rapidly through the air towards the ground, appearing to make for a particularly hard looking fence in the Red Head road. The sands, solid and impregnable, rushed up with the speed of light to meet us. As we were diving in their solidness Peeli turned his wheel adjusting his planes and we rushed along a few feet above the sands, past the people, past the starting point and in a moment the whole of the biplane had caught the sands and we were running quickly once more on mother earth.

For the passenger who does none of the work, but sits like a log in the aeroplane, the sensation of flying is little different from that of any other quick even motion. The most novel of the sensations felt are those in the dips and rises where one becomes aware of the buoyancy of the machine. As the aviator lifts his machine upward the quicker rises are readily felt and a gasp is in order for the throats which the same sensation is felt on about the same level as a little rocky is astonishingly even and, and is more like fast sailing than perhaps any other motion.

With Peeli at the wheel one felt no uneasiness. His slim tense figure seemed to be ever on the alert as he fought his way against the breeze, sometimes giving way a little in his seat to the motion of the biplane when a harrier gust than usual struck it, and adjusting his planes to fit the wind or change his altitude.

PAY THIRTY ONE MILLIONS IN DIVIDENDS

Railway, Industrial and Public Service Shareholders Receive Profits LARGER THAN IN 1911

American Tobacco, Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio and Harvest Head the List of Concerns—The "Melon" is More Than $8,000,000

(New York American, Wednesday.)

Thousands of shareholders will harvest the fruits of their savings today, as a railway, industrial and public service corporation yesterday paid a total of $31,914,637 in dividends.

The profits distributed are considerably larger than those for the same day last year, and with the exception of those paid on the first of January, April and July are the greatest for any one day this year.

The better treatment afforded shareholders is manifested by the number of extra payments and larger number of companies on the list. There are three companies paying wages on capital now that did not do so a year ago. They are the American Sumatra Tobacco Company, the Cripple Creek Railway Company and the Detroit United Railway.

An $8,048,480 "Melon"

Owners of American Tobacco Company certificates are particularly gratified with the distribution by the company, for they are receiving an $8,048,480 "melon" in addition to the regular payment of 2 1/2 per cent. Partners in the Pure Oil Company and common stockholders of the Cities Service Company are also receiving larger payments than they did twelve months ago.

St. Paul common shareholders are not so well pleased today as a year ago, as the checks they are cashing are for smaller amounts.

The largest payments are those by the Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, American Tobacco Company and International Harvester.

Yesterday's disbursements were so heavy that, in order to meet them, the banks called loans on a scale that sent day-to-day rates to a new maximum for the year, 4 3/8 per cent.

CALLS ON GOVERNMENT TO BE WARY IN THE C.P.R. MATTER

(Montreal Witness)

The Illinois Central was the first great product of the happy thought of paying with land the cost of opening up wild lands by railways. The arrangement was however, that the road when it reached a certain stage of prosperity should pay back to the State the value of the lands on whose value it had been financed. This might be expected by some to be an obligation that would be forgotten in time and if ever called up, smothered in a tangle of new legislation, obtained through interest. We are assured, however, that the Illinois Central has paid up to the state every cent of this obligation. Canada has been very much more prodigal with her railways. She not only gave the Canadian Pacific Company a free grant of twenty-five million acres, but also of twenty-five million acres to be selected by the company, also freedom from taxation on all those lands, nominally for a term of years, but really in perpetuity, as far as the company was concerned, as it has been decided by the courts that the company did not need to take up land until it chose, and that the exemption lasted for twenty years from the date at which it might appropriate them. Those lands, though given thus unconditionally, were assuredly given as a gift to the company to be sold to help the company to build up and finance its railway. No one ever dreamed of them as a gift to the company to be sold that its stockholders might pocket the money. Yet what is the fact? Today the company is selling these lands at their greatly increased value to the tune of six million dollars worth a year, and distributing the money straight to their stockholders on their one hundred and nine-eight million dollar capitalization. The lands given by the people to build railways with, the Canadian Pacific has handed over to a money-making department distinct from its railway.

The only string to these lavish gifts and privileges was that the company was never to make more than ten per cent on its stock, after which the government should have the regulation of its passenger and freight rates. The chief study of Canadian Pacific accounting for many years has been how to hide its profits in betterments, expansions and excursions into other fields of enterprise, steamships, hotels, coal mines, laundries and what not; and in such diversions as the above, so as not to reveal on its books that it has been making enormously more than ten per cent on its investments. All these methods put together have not concealed an excess profit of seventeen million dollars for last year. One method of concealing profits is the issue of new stock, over which the company's big profits shall be distributed. The last two of these transactions were the issue of eighteen million dollars of stock on January second of this year to the stockholders at a value of $100 per share when stock was selling at $25. This was equivalent to a gift to the owners of the company, of $14,000,000 over and above the declared ten per cent dividends, all which buyers expect that the country must pay interest in high

Preparing for New Season's Productions at all The Theatres

A SPECTACULAR ONE

Louis Parker's Pageant Play, Drake, to be Put on at Tree's Theatre—Things Shape Well at Drury Lane—Swop of Players

(Times' Special Correspondent)

London, Aug. 24.—As usual at this time of the year rehearsals are the order of the day at most of the West End theatres. The result will be a rich crop of novelties next month. If quality should prove equal to quantity, we may expect a really good time of it.

Tree is back from Marienbad minus a few pounds of flesh, but he assures me, all the better for the loss. He is hard at work upon Louis N. Parker's pageant play, "Drake," due at His Majesty's next Tuesday. From what I have seen of the piece it looks like being a substantial success. The one obvious drawback is that Tree does not appear in it himself, and the public has grown accustomed to look for him at His Majesty's and may possibly resent his absence.

His leading player, the title role, has not been only four weeks, however, and is to be followed at His Majesty's by Frederick Rose, an actor with an unusually resonant voice, who, however, has not yet won for himself a West End reputation.

A young man to be seen also has Phyllis Nelson Terry will be accepted in a part so very much too old for her as that of Queen Elizabeth, a girl twenty playing a woman of fifty-seven.

On the spectacular side there is no doubt that the new production of "The Merry Wives of Windsor" is a past-master in the art of producing pageants, and Tree has probably built up the new play on the basis of the success of the old one. As a matter of fact, the stage seemed to me inconceivably splendid, although he has kept the rhythm and metre of the lyrics, the lines have now some claim to literary quality. Arthur Collins believes that he has a bargain in spirit; typify, as it were, England's supremacy on the sea. And we shall all, I believe, shout ourselves hoarse on the next night when we see him standing outside St. Paul's Cathedral giving thanks for the power above for the defeat of the renowned Armada and the consequent humiliation of Philip of Spain.

Among the big productions this season is that of "Everywoman" at Drury Lane. I hear that everything here is shaping splendidly, while even Collins, at an earlier moment, were distinctly sceptical of the success of the play. Stephen Phillips has done the rewriting. Walter Brooke's work admirably, although he has kept the rhythm and metre of the lyrics, the lines have now some claim to literary quality. And we shall all, I believe, shout ourselves hoarse on the next night when we see him standing outside St. Paul's Cathedral giving thanks for the power above for the defeat of the renowned Armada and the consequent humiliation of Philip of Spain.

BONNETTE WAS HURT

The triumphal progress of the Greater St. John exhibition of 1912 continues without interruption. Never before have such large crowds attended the fair, and never before have those who attended been so well satisfied with the whole show.

The last month has been an exceptionally good one at the plant of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, and the figures are not available, an official says that the output in all departments will be well up to the average.

The output at the Steel Company's new mill is gradually increasing, and a record was made one day last week when 715 tons of steel were manufactured.

Another sensation was caused by an unfortunate accident which came near ending the life of Bonnette, the darling ball and acrobat. Bonnette risks his safety a dozen times a day, and last night he nearly paid the penalty of his calling.

The grandstand features were somewhat marred upon yesterday when in addition to the tumbling and slack wire feats, contests were held in the various saddle horse classes.

Several new buildings are under construction in the town at present that will add much to the appearance of the town. Frank Upham is erecting a handsome dwelling in Broadway, which will cost about $3,000.

The building is now enclosed with roof completed. It has a concrete foundation and is built of wood. The interior finish is pine 2 1/2 stories high, size 30x40 feet and will be lighted by electricity.

The Woodworking Co. has just completed its splendid new factory, at a cost of $100,000. All kinds of house fine building is turned out by this factory with dispatch. All the machinery for a high-class woodworking factory are installed.

The building is of wood, 140x200 feet, one and one-half stories high, concrete foundation, and is lighted throughout by electricity.

Mayor T. C. L. Ketchum is getting his new dwelling home pretty well advanced. This building is situated on Connell street and will cost about $1,000. It is constructed of wood with concrete foundation and galvanized iron roof.

It is 32x45 feet and two stories high, and will be finely finished throughout. J. D. Dickinson Co. have just started the building of a large livery on Main street, at an estimated cost of $100,000. This will be in addition to the large livery already operated by that enterprising firm, and will give employment to a large number of hands, which is of much benefit to the town.

J. Clark & Son, of Fredericton, N. B., have just closed the tenders and the work has started on a large building on Connell street, Woodstock, at an estimated cost of $15,000. The dimensions of the building are 70x100, and it will be three stories high. S. Steeves of Woodstock is the general contractor and the architect is F. Brodie, of St. John. It will be constructed of Canada brick, concrete foundation, tar, gravel roof, and will be lighted by electricity.

At the inquest into the death of Elol Lorette, of Middle Sackville (N. B.), who was killed at Gilbert's Lane on Saturday, conducted by Coroner Berryman last evening, it was contended by the coroner, during the crossing in the C. R. yards is not well guarded. A good plan to secure better safety was suggested by the coroner, and that was to place headlights in the rear as well as in the front of engines, in order that anything on the track might be seen when the engines are backing into the roundhouse.

Among the witnesses who gave evidence last night were three I. C. R. men, the evidence of two of which will be continued tomorrow evening when the inquest will be resumed. Engineer W. N. Ingram, who drove the engine which ran over the man, told how the accident occurred, saying that he did not know the man was on the track until after the engine had passed him, and that he was hurrying to get back to the engine house as the engine was backing into the roundhouse.

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—Thomas W. Wilby, formerly of Quebec, and his chauffeur, V. Henry, of St. Catherine, who are crossing the continent by auto from Halifax to Vancouver, in the interests of the Canadian Highway Association, through Ottawa en route from Montreal to Toronto today. They left Halifax on Tuesday, Aug. 27, and have to complete the journey of 4,000 odd miles in thirty-five days. There have been no mishaps so far, but they look for strenuous traveling when the Lake Superior country is reached.

SETTLEMENT BY HALIFAX STREET RAILWAY AND MEN

All Matters in Dispute Between Them Are Arranged

TERMS OF AGREEMENT

Report of Conciliation Board Drawn up and Forwarded to Department of Labor, Ottawa—One Time Looked Like Fight to Finish

(Halifax Chronicle) Judge Wallace, G. S. Campbell and John Joy, the members of the Conciliation Board which settled the difference between the Halifax Tram Co. and its employees, met Tuesday and drew up and signed their report to the Department of Labor, Ottawa, copies of which have been sent to the board and to the employees.

The report details the situation and developments at the different sessions held, and it would appear that at one stage of the game it looked like a fight to a finish.

The Third Session. At the third session of the board, held on August 9, a compromise proposition emanating from the employees was discussed. At the afternoon session, the same day, the company's position in relation to the dispute was explained by officials, the employees' case having been presented in the morning.

Thursday morning's session was devoted to an attempt to devise, by modification of earlier propositions, some method of amicable settlement of all matters in dispute. This was followed by earnest efforts to reach a settlement, and at Friday afternoon's session, Messrs. Campbell and Joy reported they had reached a tentative agreement in relation to several questions in dispute, but no arrangement mutually acceptable had been devised in relation to the rest of the matters in dispute.

After a long discussion, in which the representatives of the employees, officials and the board, participated, it appeared impossible to reach any satisfactory solution of the questions in dispute, and the board resolved to adjourn until the following afternoon (Saturday) and then to meet on Sunday.

At the Saturday meeting the report says: "At the beginning of the meeting it appeared that further efforts had been made by Mr. Joy and Mr. Campbell in the direction of a satisfactory settlement of the question of wages, and certain propositions were discussed very fully by the board and by the representatives of the employees and of the company. The discussion finally resulted in both sides arriving at a tentative agreement, whereby it was understood that these propositions would be submitted to the Tram Company and to a meeting of the employees of the company for approval. In the meantime, the board decided not to take any formal action in relation to the various items in dispute, as it now appeared there was at least a possibility of settlement of the dispute without the necessity of taking evidence."

When the board met again on Tuesday morning, August 13, Mr. Campbell, on behalf of the company, stated that the directors of the company approved of the certain propositions which had been submitted at the previous meeting of the board. Mr. Joy, on behalf of the employees, stated that the men would consider these propositions at a general meeting to be held Wednesday, at midnight, at the company's headquarters, and that the decision as to the precise meaning and scope of these propositions would be made by the board and the officials representing the company, and subsequently, a similar discussion of each proposition took place between the board and the representatives of the employees, the other parties to the dispute. The board then adjourned until Friday morning, August 17th, when the board was informed that the men had agreed to accept the propositions, and that at a mass meeting of the employees, held after a free discussion of the proposals, a resolution was adopted ratifying the said propositions, on behalf of the employees, and that all matters in dispute between the company and its employees was thereby settled.

The Agreement. The following is the memorandum of agreement as approved by the company and as submitted to the men and ratified by them: "1.—All matters in dispute between the company and the men are hereby settled, and to be in full force and effect on and from August 1, 1912, and shall be as follows: "2.—Motor men and conductors, per hour: For first year's service, 20 1/2c; for second year's service, 21 1/2c; for third year and thereafter, 23 1/2c. "3.—Sunday work, motor men and conductors: For first year's service, 24 1/2c; for second year's service, 25 1/2c; for third year and after, 27 1/2c. "4.—Overtime.—All time worked in excess of the regular scheduled run (not including time when cars are also used) shall be paid at the rate of 4 cents per hour over regular scale of wages. "5.—Instructor's work.—All motor men and conductors instructing new men shall be paid 4 cents per hour over regular scale of wages. "6.—Motor and track repair men.—Men heretofore receiving 17c. per hour shall be paid 18c. per hour; men heretofore receiving 20c. per hour shall be paid 22c. per hour; men heretofore receiving 22c. per hour, hereafter shall be paid 25c. per hour; men heretofore receiving 25c. per hour, hereafter shall be paid 28c. per hour; men heretofore receiving 28c. per hour, hereafter shall be paid 31c. per hour. "7.—Sweeper work, where sweeper or lever is in service clearing snow off the tracks, men operating shall be paid at the rate of 27c. per hour. "8.—Uniforms.—Effective on and after July 1, 1912, men under three years' service to pay one-half price of uniform; over three years' service shall receive free uniform. "9.—Grievances.—That all charges laid against employees will be fully investigated by an official selected by the company, and, after investigating, should the accused be found not guilty of the charge, he will be reinstated and paid for all time lost. "10.—That the proper officials of the company will be willing to treat at all reasonable times with any employee or any committee of its employees on any subject in the interest of the said employees. That all reasonable complaints or grievances in the interest of the company and any employee or committee of the employees failing to get satisfaction shall have the right to appeal to the board of directors of the company. "11.—That the board approached the consideration of the questions in dispute," says the report, "was one of considerable difficulty, and for a time it seemed as if a strike of the employees of the company was imminent, as each side in the dispute had seemingly determined to adhere to the contents made at the early stages of the inquiry as there seemed to be no hope of an adjustment of the dispute that would be regarded as mutually acceptable. The members of the board felt that if the taking of evidence had once begun the inquiry would not only have been a most protracted one, but would also have been liable to create and develop an antagonism between the disputing parties, which would be of a most serious nature. It is the essence of the beneficent legislation under which the board was acting, that the members of the board, therefore, labored to secure an amicable adjustment of the differences before any formal evidence was offered by either side, and the board have now the pleasure of reporting that their labors eventually met with success. "The board wishes to express its appreciation of the aid received from the representatives of the men and company during the proceedings before the board. It was particularly gratifying to observe the cordial feeling which prevailed between the company and its employees throughout the whole of the inquiry now concluded."

NEW SENSATION IN NEW YORK'S POLICE SCANDAL

Deposed Inspector Threatens to Make Disclosures About Department—Waldo Incensed at New Turn.

New York, Sept. 5.—Rhineland Waldo, New York's commissioner of police, incensed at a statement attributed to Cornelius G. Hayes, deposed inspector, that he would air a department scandal, and cause Waldo to resign, issued a drastic order today commanding Hayes to report to his quarters at the police station, and writing whether he did or did not threaten the commissioner.

This presentation of the evidence until after his police trial was completed, Hayes said that he expected to be made a member of the police department, but did not propose to be a complainant victim.

Hayes, who is to go on trial Friday for making an alleged false statement concerning his police duties in connection with the raiding of disorderly houses, will be a witness at the John Doe hearings to investigate police corruption.

Hayes sought the conference with District Attorney Whitman last night, chiefly to find out whether the prosecutor intended to seek his indictment in connection with the present scandal.

Whitman frankly told Hayes that he had evidence against him which he proposed to present to the grand jury.

Hayes, it was learned, protested his innocence, but begged the prosecutor to withhold the presentation of the evidence until after his police trial was completed. Hayes said that he expected to be made a member of the police department, but did not propose to be a complainant victim.

A prominent business man who is known as a keen observer, was commenting on the success attending the present St. John Exhibition. It rather surprised him to see the attendance figures mounting higher than those of the dominion fair of 1910, and he believed it must be ascribed to the new spirit that has become part of the life of the people—another evidence of the awakening that has come in St. John.

SAYS HE SAW
INTO HANLON'S

LUCAS WAS ON WATCH

Had Eye on Place Nearly All Sunday From Morning Until Night — Court Upholds Him When He Declines to Say Where He Was Hidden

According to a testimony given by Policeman Lucas in the police court this morning, no less than fifty-eight people visited the premises of Daniel Hanlon in Water street on Sunday last. Hanlon was called upon to answer to the charge of selling liquor on Sunday last without a license. He pleaded not guilty, and was represented by Dr. Silas Alward, K. C. Three witnesses swore that they visited Hanlon's on Sunday, but went there for the purpose of transacting private business. Two swore that they had been in the place only once during the day, and the other twice. After they had finished their evidence Lucas swore that he saw one of the men in there no less than six times on Sunday, and another twice. According to the evidence given by the policeman among the visitors were Indians, colored men and interdicts.

Policeman Lucas testified that, in consequence of what he had learned, he went to Water street on Sunday and from a point of vantage saw everything that went on in and around Hanlon's. He watched the house from 6.40 o'clock in the morning until 8.30 o'clock at night, and was away from the place only from 8 to 5.30 o'clock in the afternoon.

In his cross-examination, Mr. Alward asked the witness just where he was stationed, but the witness declined to answer. After some legal argument the witness was upheld by the court.

The first witness called this morning was Edward Doherty. He said he had gone into Hanlon's place at 8.30 o'clock on the day in question to transact some business with Hanlon. He had not got any liquor there, nor had he seen any in the place. He saw no one in there at the time except Hanlon and John Miller. He had not got on at any other time during the day.

John Miller said that he had gone in with Doherty to transact some business with Hanlon, but had got no liquor. He refused to tell the court what was the exact nature of the business.

Policeman Lucas said that he went into Hanlon's on Sunday last at 7.15 o'clock. He had seen some coming from the chimney, so he knew that Hanlon was up. The witness had gone in to see about a milk can that had left there. He saw no one in there, nor had he seen any liquor. He had also gone in a little later in the morning to see about a pair of slippers that had left there. On neither time did he get any liquor. He did not go back later in the day.

Policeman Lucas said that O'Leary had gone into Hanlon's house six times between 6.40 o'clock and 8.30 o'clock in the morning. Doherty, Miller and two other men had gone in together at 9.30 o'clock. A little girl in the house at the time. All the time he was on watch he saw fifty-eight people going in, and forty-eight coming out. He knew most of those who had gone in and had issued subpoenas for them to appear in court.

He could see men stationed at different parts of the street, evidently acting as spies. Once when a policeman came in sight he saw a man give a signal from a wharf. Hanlon immediately came out of the house and started to talk to the policeman. The witness had seen Doherty go into Hanlon's early in the afternoon, and come out between five and seven o'clock partly under the influence of liquor. He had seen Hanlon beckoning men into the house at different times during the day.

On cross-examination by Doctor Alward, the witness refused to tell where he was stationed, stating that as he had been down in that locality working on a theft case the same day, he did not feel like divulging the place that he had been secreted. His Honor upheld the witness in the matter.

The case was adjourned until Monday morning at ten o'clock, when other witnesses will be heard. His Honor told Hanlon that he was liable to a fine of $500, as it was a second offence case, but that if he would put up a deposit of $100 he would be allowed to go until Monday. Failing this he would have to supply bail for $200.

FORMER ST. JOHN
PASTOR CALLED TO CHURCH IN CHICAGO

Offer of $6,000 Salary Received by Rev. J. L. Gordon, Once Congregational Minister Here

Rev. J. L. Gordon, at present occupying the pulpit of the Central Congregational church, Winnipeg, has received a call to the pastorate of New England Congregational church, Chicago, at a salary of $6,000. The news was contained in a letter from Mr. Gordon to a friend of his in Toronto. It is not known whether or not he will accept.

New England church is one of the oldest churches of Chicago, and would seem a desirable field, but it is well known that Mr. Gordon is satisfied that he is doing a good work in Winnipeg, and the salary increase is not likely to have much effect on his decision. Central church is considered the most popular church in Winnipeg today. It seats more than 2,000, and in order to obtain a seat at any evening service when Mr. Gordon is to preach it is necessary to be on hand half an hour before the service commences.

Mr. Gordon has been in Winnipeg for about eight years. He was formerly pastor of the St. John Congregational church.

This Boys' Clothing Store Meets
Every Demand of Both
Parents and Boys

Most youths and mothers when they buy Boys' Clothing judge it from three standpoints—how well it will wear, how well the boy will look in it, and the price. The boy is concerned chiefly in whether it fits and looks well and allows perfect freedom of motion.

We believe the Boys' Clothing here will meet every one of these demands, fairly and squarely. We do not claim that it never wears out. We do not maintain that it is the lowest priced Boys' Clothing you can buy. What we do say, and say it emphatically, is that Boys' Clothing so good as this cannot be purchased at lower prices.
