The Far East

In a recent article the well known war correspondent, Mr. William Maxwell, throws considerable light on the differences that have arisen between Russia and China regarding the treaty of 1881, and points out that, although open conflict has been temporarily averted, there is every indication of a renewal of the trouble in August next when the disputed treaty expires.

China can no longer fill the role of playing off one power against another. The anxiety recently displayed to come to terms with her powerful and covetous neighbor was entirely dictated by the reflection that for the first time in her relations with the "outer barbarians" China stood alone. Russia has concluded an agreement with Germany that gives the Muscovite a practically free hand in China, and the latter must now face her troubles alone without hope of intervention from Berlin. This is why China so recently sued for peace when the glint of Russian bayonets appeared on the frontier. Can China withstand the pressure that may be applied in August next to compel her to renew a treaty that is repugnant to her national instincts? Will the rattle of Russian sabres be heard on the streets of the Forbidden City?

The circumstances that led up to threats of Russian invasion are significant. The treaty of 1881 expires in August. Russia insists on the renewal of the treaty. China has given notice that she does not desire to renew it. The treaty had its origin in the Mohammedan revolt of 1850, which at that period threatened to disrupt the Chinese Empire. Following this outbreak Russia took up a strong strategic position on her western boundary by the military occupation of the fertile Province of Kuldja, the racial ties between the two Turkestan colonies at the time for precautionary measures. But, true to the traditions of the great powers, Rus remained in occupation for ten years after the causes that justified her presence on Chinese territory had disappeared.

A treaty was finally arranged whereby Russia, in exchange for commercial and Consular concessions in Illi, Mongolia, and Manchuria, together with navigation rights on the Rivers Amur, Sungari, and Ussuri, withdrew her troops. These concessions, wrung from a weak and unwilling nation, and which secured Russia against the yellow peril in eastern Siberia have never been acquiesced in by the Chinese people, who grow more and more restive under foreign aggressions. To neutralize the effects of a treaty to which she was an unwilling partner China moved whole towns from the interior of Turkestan and Mongolia to the boundaries, and forced the tribesmen from their inland pastures right up to the Russian frontier. Concessions of land and cattle were freely made to encourage Chinese colonization in those regions exploited by Russian merchants, and which, the latter declared, have been the cause of their ruin and void.

It is to restore the balance of power in Kuldja, and to secure the Russian subjects the extra territorial rights of which they have been deprived, that Russia insists on the renewal of the treaty not only in the letter but in the spirit. China on the other hand, charges Russia with unwarranted abuses of her treaty rights, and points to aggressions that afford strong presumptive evidence of sinister designs against the integrity of the Chinese Empire.—Tor. Globe.

The Dominion Government will appoint no successor to Radcliffe, the public executioner. This means that sheriffs throughout the Dominion will be called on to mete out the death penalty themselves, or else pay out of their pockets for a substitute. Radcliffe was paid an annual salary of $800 for the work, this continuing until his death. During the past seven months a man named Irliss has been officiating, but always at the expense of the sheriff.

A few Bunches of Words

(Philippines Monthly.)

The other day a little girl was looking at a picture of a number of war vessels when she suddenly looked up at me and exclaimed: "See what a flock of ships!" I corrected her by saying that a flock of ships was called a fleet and a fleet of sheep is called a flock.

And here the American teacher might take this subject up for the benefit of his little brown pupils who are trying to master the intricacies of the English language, and explain to them that a flock of wolves is called a pack, and a pack of thieves is called a gang, and a gang of angels is called a host, and a host of porpoises is called a shoal and a shoal of carabao is called a herd, and a herd of quail is called a covey, and a covey of beauties is called a galaxy and a galaxy of ruffians is called a horde, and a horde of rubbish is called a heap, and a heap of cattle is called a drove, and a drove of blackguards is called a mob, and a mob of worshippers is called a congregation, and a congregation of soldiers is called a corps, and a corps of ladrones is called a band, and a band of locusts is called a swarm, and a swarm of people is called a crowd, and a miscellaneous crowd of city gente is called the public, and the public must pay the tax.

Fitzwilliam Heir

With the pomp and ceremony of feudal days, Viscount Milton, the infant heir of Earl and Countess Fitzwilliam, was, on Saturday, February 11, christened at Wentworth Woodhouse, Yorkshire, perhaps the most magnificent mansion in the whole of England, and the ceremony acquired an added interest from the fact that it was the first time for nearly three quarters of a century that a direct heir had been born to the reigning head of the family.

Outside in the great park hospitality was dispensed on a lavish scale to the seven thousand guests who had been hidden to the christening. There were fireworks, football matches, and entertainments galore for the multitude of guests, including all the old English sports. Thousands of people gathered round the giant site where an ox was roasted, and countess glasses were raised to the health of the baby heir.

Only the immediate relatives and friends of the family were present in the little private chapel, and the baby who was the occasion of all the festivities without was carried into the chapel wearing the historic scarf of the Fitzwilliams. According to tradition, this

Slashing Attack on the Governor General

John S. Ewart, K. C., one of the Canadian counsel in the fisheries case at The Hague, is out with a strong letter attacking Earl Grey for interfering in Canadian political affairs. The point of objection is what Mr. Ewart calls Earl Grey's imperialism, as evidenced in his activity in behalf of the Overseas Club, branches of which are being organized throughout Canada. After referring to the fact that Earl Grey's dearest wish is to bin Canada politically and above all for war purposes to the United Kingdom, Mr. Ewart says: "I do not intend to discuss whether Lord Grey's ideas are good or bad. I don't argue the merits of those questions. All that I say is with profound respect; that they are points to be decided by the Canadian people; that it is inconsistent with Lord Grey's position as representative of our King that he should take part in the discussion of them, and that he ought not to be the centre of a propagandism which runs counter to our historic development and which is fundamentally opposed to the wishes of a large majority of our people."

Mr. Ewart winds up by stating his belief that Earl Grey should hold himself aloof from affairs which are purely the political business of Canadians, and says: "The only argument in favor of appointing an Englishman rather than a Canadian to the head of our government is that he is supposed to be able on that account to act a more impartial part and to keep more aloof from political strife."

From the St. Andrews Beacon

It covers an area of 115,000 square feet, exclusive of the included court on the Fortieth street side, with a contents of 10,000,350,000 cubic feet; it costs a little over $8,000,000, exclusive of the site. Quick and Permanent Relief from Rheumatism

It is not exposure to cold or wet that is the real cause of rheumatism—it is bad kidneys. So long as the kidneys are doing their work properly, filtering from the blood all the Uric Acid formed there from the waste products of the body, rheumatism cannot exist. It is only when the kidneys fail, and the blood becomes loaded with this Uric Acid, that the slightest exposure stiffens up the joints or muscles and causes agony.

Rev. Father Morrissey

Father Morrissey's No. 7 Tablets

promptly relieve and permanently cure rheumatism by putting the kidneys into perfect shape for their work. Once the strengthened, invigorated kidneys get the Uric Acid cleared out of the blood the rheumatic pains disappear. If they ever show symptoms of returning a few No. 7 Tablets will tone the kidneys up again and keep you free from the dreaded rheumatism.

Father Morrissey's No. 7 Tablets have proved their value in hundreds of cases where other remedies have failed entirely.

Touching Gift From Canada

(London Daily News.)

In the Liberal Christian Monthly, the Rev. R. J. Campbell, M. A., writes: "The other day I happened to be having a few moments private conversation with a member of the cabinet. I do not suppose it will do any harm to say who it was—it was Mr. Winston Churchill. I found him greatly touched by a letter he had just been reading, and which he allowed me to see.

"It was from a workman in Canada, stating that the writer was sending to the Home Secretary and to the Chancellor of the Exchequer some small gifts of the work of his own hands, in token of gratitude to those two statesmen for what they were doing for the poor of this country. He gave at some length the story of his own early sufferings in an English manufacturing town, where as a child he often had not enough to eat in his poverty-stricken home, notwithstanding the utmost efforts of his respectable parents to do their best for the children.

"The account was more than pathetic—it was very moving. I do not suppose Mr. Churchill ever dreamed he was giving me a sermon, but so it was. Here were two statesmen, who with others are the stewards of immense national revenues, and here was a man so unselfishly grateful for the use they were making of them that both he and they were lifted to a higher level of common feeling in consequence.

"So cabinet ministers have hearts, you see!"

IS CANADA IN DANGER?
If so, From Whom?
 Opponents of lower taxes and larger trade for Canada held a mass meeting in Massey Hall, Toronto, on Thurs. evening, March 9th, to condemn the proposed trade arrangement between Canada and the United States. It was presided over by an ex-Lieutenant Governor of Ont., and was addressed by a number of prominent cities of Toronto.

A resolution was passed expressing the sentiments of those present. As the meeting had been arranged for the purpose of passing the resolution it must be presumed that it had been carefully prepared, and that it expressed in the most forceful terms possible the matured opinion of the men who organized the meeting. The resolution therefore has the merit of putting in convenient form the best reasons that can be given against the agreement, and so enables a reply to be made.

Following is the text of the resolution, and the obvious answer to each assertion:

THE RESOLUTION

Moved by Z. A. Lash, seconded by W. T. White. That this meeting protest against the adoption of the reciprocity agreement with the U. S. of America because:

- (1) It would substantially reverse the policy which has brought Canada to her present prosperous and enviable position and cause widespread disturbance in her trade and injury to many interests; jeopardize the commercial and political status of the Dominion.
- (2) It would hamper Canada's freedom in developing her own resources in her own way and by her own people.
- (3) It would check the growth and development of trade between the various provinces and parts of Canada with each other and between Canada and the Empire, and diminish Canada's position and influence as a unit within the British Empire.
- (4) It would lead to commercial union and ultimately tend to political union with the U. S.
- (5) Because the agreement was negotiated in secret and without consultation with the commercial interests involved and without any mandate from the people.
- (6) This meeting claims before the agreement is made executive by legislation the question should be passed upon by the people at a general election; and that to prevent a continuation of the commercial disturbance which the agreement has already caused the election should be held without delay.

THE REPLY:

- (1) There are only two features of the agreement. One is reduction of taxation, the other expansion of trade. These have been the leading features of the policy of the Liberal party ever since it succeeded to power 12 years ago. As witness the tariff reductions of 1897 and 1907, the British preference, the French treaty, and the standing offer of the intermediate tariff. Canada's present material prosperity and strength of national sentiment have been attained under and because of that policy, and her commercial and political future demands its continuance and expansion, as provided in the proposed arrangement.
- (2) By reducing the burdens on the Canadian taxpayer and opening wider and more profitable markets for three out of the four creative industries of Canada: farming, lumbering and fishing, it would aid in the development of Canada's resources by her own people and to their greater profit.
- (3) Canada's foreign trade is greater than ever before.
 Her interprovincial trade is greater than ever before.
 When her foreign trade was least her interprovincial trade was least.
 Prosperity resulting from increase of foreign trade inevitably increases inter-provincial trade.

(4) By giving Canadian producers all the advantages of the United States market without political association of any kind, even to the limited extent of a trade treaty, it would take away any possible reason for a tendency towards political union with the United States.

(5) The agreement was made in secret as all trade arrangements between countries have always been made and must always be made. Great Britain has trade treaties with every important country in the world—all negotiated in secret without consultation with the commercial interests involved and without any special mandate from the people. A special mandate is not necessary, because under the British system of responsible government, every government has a standing mandate to protect and advance the best interests of the people whenever opportunity offers.

(6) There is no warrant for commercial disturbance in the terms of the arrangement.

The arrangement can be terminated without notice at any time the Canadian people desire.

The only way in which the people can have a fair opportunity to pass upon it is by giving it final and definite form and effect by legislative enactment, so that they can know exactly what they are voting on—so that they will be voting on a concrete proposition and not on an abstract theory. They then have the double opportunity of rejecting the agreement and of punishing for their error the men who made it, in accordance with the well established British system of responsible government.

Is Canada's danger from the government that would reduce taxation and increase trade or from the so-called "Commercial interests" (but actually "combine interests") as represented at the Toronto meeting, which would increase taxation and restrict trade?

The agreement is evidence to the combines that they do not control the Government, therefore they fight the agreement and the government that made it.

The question is, shall Canada be governed by the combines under the pet name of "Commercial interests" or shall it be governed for the workers, whether of the farm, the forest, the sea, the mine, or the factory.

Canadian nationality and Imperial loyalty have been strengthened by the Government's progressive policy of the past 15 years. They will be still further strengthened by the extension of that policy as expressed in the proposed trade arrangement.

Important Deal in the Lumber World

An important deal in the lumber world will come into effect on Monday when the recently organized Maritime Lumber Company Ltd., will take over the business of the Thomas Nagle Lumber Company. The new company which has been organized under a federal charter, and with a capital of $300,000, is composed of some of the leading lumbermen in Quebec and New Brunswick and proposes to become an important factor in the lumber business. Mr. Thomas Nagle will be the general manager of the new organization, which will take over the management of the Nagle Lumber Company offices in St. John and Montreal, and will in the near future open new offices, Toronto and New York being points in which it is intended to have branches. The company will engage extensively in the lumber shipping business and will also act as a holding company for various lumber operators, holding their outputs. The Nagle Lumber Company under the management of Mr. Thomas Nagle, has been very successful and the new company will probably meet with even greater success for the interests are widespread and those connected with the concern are all lumbermen who have been most successful.—Globe.

Ice-Making

It is interesting to the ordinary mind, and probably even to the mind of a centric towards mechanical studies, to read descriptions of the great ice-making machines installed at Christobel, as a portion of the plant of the Panama Railroad Company. It is cheaper to make ice at points along the line of the railway than to import it. But a difficulty was that it was not easy to make sufficient for all the demands upon it. The equipment taken out to Christobel last December, and now in effective operation, consists of a cross-compound condensing Corliss engine, with a 24-inch high pressure cylinder, 42-inch stroke; two horizontal double-acting compressors, to high-pressure ammonia oil separators, steam receiver and a gageboard fitted with the necessary steam and ammonia gauges. The flywheel of the engine is 15 feet in diameter and weighs 30,000 pounds. The machinery is capable of producing three hundred tons of ice every twenty-four hours. The old machinery enabled the production of about seventy tons daily, but this was not sufficient for all the demands, consequently ice was expensive and its use very much restricted. Now not only the cold storage plant of the government but ordinary people can get all the ice they want.—Exchange.

Ottawa papers of Wednesday say that the nine hundred mark has been reached in the typhoid fever epidemic. Up to the end of last week nine hundred and two cases had been reported. It is thought that there are a great many unreported ones. In the meantime there is a most thorough overhauling of everything connected with the water supply, sewerage, and made by which disease of this kind may be propagated. One result will be a great accumulation of knowledge, which will be of use in the future. Ottawa apparently allowed evil things to go on too long, satisfied with a comforting surface view of the beauty of the city. It is all an illustration of the old story.—Globe.

First Woman in Danish Parliament

CHRISTIANIA, March 18.—Miss Rogstad, the first woman to represent a constituency in the Storting, made her maiden speech before that body yesterday. She is a school teacher and represents one of the Christiania seats made vacant by the resignation of General Brattlie, President of the Storting, who was compelled to retire temporarily in order to assist in the work of re-organizing the army. The entire assembly rose when Miss Rogstad began her speech. She said that the day would be a memorable one, as it was the first time a woman had ever participated in the discussion of the nation's Parliament and predicted that the movement for political enfranchisement for women was bound to succeed and to result in many reforms.—Exchange.

Distribution of Wealth

(Engineering Magazine.) There is the old theory that, corporations being composed of a number of individual shareholders and representing an approach toward the socialization of private enterprise, the corporate wealth of the country is distributed over a fairly large percentage of the population. Yet of the Union, it is found that in railroads not more than 288,000 and in industrial companies not more than 338,000 shareholders are interested. And taking the wealth statistics of the tenth census, it is found that 0.3 per cent. of the American people owned 20 per cent. of the wealth, 897 per cent. of the people 51 per cent. of the wealth, and 91 per cent. of the people only 29 per cent. of the wealth. For comparison I give the corresponding figures from Germany, compiled from the official statistics by prof. Gustav Schmoller of Berlin. It is instructive to see that in that country, which does not partake the blessings of a democratic regime, but enjoys the privilege of a paternal government, of the total wealth amounting to about $45,000,000,000, only 2 per cent. is invested by the upper classes, 54 per cent. by the middle classes, and 44 per cent. by the lower classes.

WARROR'S LINIMENT

THE ORIGINAL and ONLY GENUINE Beware of Imitations Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

The Russian had with great care copied character for character, the legend on the gate post, supposing that it indicated the house and street.

His First Lesson in English.

A Russian gentleman tells a funny story of his first encounter with the English language. The day after his arrival in London he made a call on a friend in Park Lane, and on leaving inscribed in his note-book what he supposed to be the correct address. The next day, desiring to go to the same place again, he called a cabman and he pointed to the address that he had written down. The cabman looked him over, cracked his whip, and drove away from him. This experience being repeated with two or three cabmen, the Russian turned indignantly to the police, with no better results. One officer would laugh, another would tap his head and make a motion imitating the revolution of a wheel, and so on. Finally the poor foreigner gave it up, and with a great deal of difficulty, recalling the landmarks which he had observed the day before, found his way to his friend's house. Arrived there, and in company with one who could understand him, he delivered himself of a severe condemnation of the cabmen and the police of London for their impertinence and discourtesy. His friend asked to look at the mirth-provoking address, and the mystery was solved. This was the entry: "King the Bell."

Lent in New York Society.

Lent, which in olden times called for sackcloth and ashes, now invites the donning of fancy dress, at any rate in New York. In Catholic Vienna, in Lutheran Berlin and in most of the important cities of Continental Europe entertainments of the order known as "costumes" are, as a rule, restricted to the carnival, that is to say, the week's intervening between the New Year and Ash Wednesday. But here it is different, and since the beginning of the penitential season the programme of society had been filled with amateur theatricals, and minstrel shows, tableaux, folk dances, etc., all of them calling for the appearance of the participants in fancy dress. The latter is not always appropriate to the wearer, and is often lacking in originality and in historic as well as artistic sense. Moreover, unaccustomed garb tends to a self-consciousness detracting from the charm of manner. Still this sort of entertainments are the features of the present season, and as many of them are given for the benefit of philanthropic institutions it is well to remember that charity covers a multitude of sins—of taste.—N. Y. Tribune.

Cause of Womens Unrest

The colleges are responsible for the unrest of modern women. Mrs. William Perry Northrup told the League of Political Education in New York. They are also at the root of most of the divorces and most of the suicides in married life, she said.

"They prepare girls to do men's work, and so the girls insist on doing it," Mrs. Northrup said. "Housework is looked down upon as trivial. Women waste their husband's money because they don't know their job. A woman's true work is to be mistress of her home, hostess to her husband's friends and the dispenser of sweet charity. As to politics, she only needs to know enough to be an intelligent companion for her husband."

"Of course, some women must earn their livings, but because some must it is right for the colleges to deprive all of the training that makes a woman's life a success? Almost every man whose wife is a worthy partner recognizes her value, but there are few who are thus worthy. Let girls be properly trained, and divorces will lessen."

Mrs. Northrup said if a girl must earn her living let her take up something unmanly. Mrs. Gilbert Jones said she had been greatly pained to note that girl pre-

Hero Decorated

(From Canada, London)

The King has been graciously pleased to award the Edward Medal of the Second Class to Mr. Albert H. Adcock, of St. John, N. B., for risking his life to save a little girl from being run over by a train.

Mr. Adcock's brave action is described as follows in the Gazette: "At St. John New Brunswick, on the morning of August 25, 1909, train from Montreal was entering the trainshed, when a girl of about five years old ran across the track in front of the engine. The engine driver applied his brakes, but could not stop the train in time, and the child would have been killed had not Adcock, with great quickness and presence of mind, jumped at once to the centre of the track, seized the child, and swung her clear of the track. The engine brushed Adcock's coat as he saved the child, showing how narrow was his own escape."

Adcock is an Englishman who was employed on the C. P. R. when they had some trouble with their train hauls at the date mentioned. Stationmaster Ross saw Adcock's rescue of the little girl, at the risk of his own life, and says it was the bravest act he ever witnessed.

K. and wireless officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Cincinnati, Ohio, or Philadelphia.

LOCALS

Considerable of our space is given up to the financial report of the town which should make interesting reading for the rate-payers, and which shows the finances of the town in a good healthy condition, which should also be a very pleasing matter to said rate payers.

T. R. Kent left on Monday for Richibucto where he has a contract to bore a large well for the O'Leary Electric Light plant of that town. All will be sorry to know that he was unfortunate in having one of his machines destroyed by fire at the Albert Manufacturing Co.'s place last week where he was boring a well for the Company.

The Rev. Canon Smithers, Missionary Canon of the Fredericton Cathedral, held services in St. Marks church, morning and evening last Sunday to large congregations, that of the evening almost filling the spacious edifice. He also preached in the afternoon at Penfield church. The Rev. Canon is a clear and forceful speaker and his discourses were very pleasing to those who attended.

Penfield parish has joined with St. Marks in giving the Rev. Mr. Spencer of Grand Manan a call to the parishes and the Rev. gentleman has written his acceptance of the call, stating that if our river was opened up so that he can bring his furniture, etc. here direct, he and family will leave the Island on April 1st, so that he can be here to conduct services on Good Friday and Easter.

The skating rink, as usually dismantled this week, after a very successful season during the latter part. Unfortunately for the promoters the first few weeks of the season the weather was so mild and broken it made it late starting. Since effected a great reduction in the financial end, losing all the holiday season. The work done this season however, will be a great assistance in starting it again next season when, with good weather, some profit should be made.

For the last 2 weeks the weather was such that we were in hopes that the snow was to clear right off and spring open up immediately, but alas for human hopes, this week's weather looks more like the beginning or middle of winter. Commencing with the 7th of Ireland it has been a succession of storms ending up Wednesday night and today (Tuesday) with the heaviest and wildest storm of the season, some 8 or 9 inches of the beautiful hoarfrost fell, but as we go to press it is showing strong signs of clearing.

The St. George Cornet Band which disbanded some time ago, has re-organized and, last week, received 5 new instruments; E and B Flat Bass, 1 Alto, and 2 Trombones, also Sham and Bass Drums, and with Prof. Mooney as leader and instructor will shortly be in a position to give a good account of themselves. The new Band which has been doing business since the dismantling of the old one are also putting in good constant practice and with two active bands in the town, St. George should have some good music during the coming summer evenings.

On Wednesday of last week, H. R. Lawrence sent away in charge of Sun, Tatton and son Wm., 2 cars containing machinery, household effects, 2 horses and 4 or 5 cows, to his property at Indianhead. Mr. Tatton and family are to take charge of the farm, and his wife and the rest of the family are to follow in about 6 or 8 days. Mr. Lawrence also intends going out the same time and will likely remain for a few months to see to the starting of the season's work. Among the machinery he sent was a motor plow gotten up by workmen under his own supervision during the winter at his home here. The ground work of the plow was a second hand Auto, which he purchased last fall, taking the engine and other parts suitable, also putting the engine out of his motor boat on it. His friends here are much interested in this piece of machinery and would like to be present at its first trial.

The baseball club have more consideration the applications of 5 professional players for next season 3 from New Bedford and 2 from Boston. This lining of professional players make baseball so small towns a matter of considerable work and anxiety for those running the teams. It is also very doubtful if it is any improvement in the interest of spectators as most people while liking to see good sharp ball would (for their local teams) rather see a more rugged play and the runs pile up if they knew it was their own boys they were looking at and applauding at rattling as the case might be rather than better ball played by paid young men brought from other places and in whom they have no personal interest. It does seem unfortunate that all the clubs are forced into the hands of men because the other clubs do so and they have to follow a bad example, which always goes to extremes.

Faithful Love

O, say not woman's heart is bought With vain and empty treasures; O, say not woman's heart is caught By every idle pleasure. When first her gentle bosom knows Love's flame, it wanders never; Deep in her heart the passion glows— She loves and loves forever. O, say not woman's false as fair, That like the bee she ranges; Still seeking flowers more sweet and rare, As fickle fancy changes. O, no, the love that first can warm Will leave her bosom never. No second passion ever can charm— She loves and loves to ever. —Exchange.

Country Boarders—Don't you see pretty maid, how we are all following you? P. M.—Oh, yes, when I come home from the pasture the goats follow the same. —Magdalenor Bissetter.

"Geet!" says the first little boy, "I hate to go home. My mamma always wants to give me a bath every evening." "So does mine," says the second little boy, "but I don't mind it. My papa is a doctor, and she always gets him to clean him up, so I never know a thing about it until it is all over." —Canada Monthly.

Habit. Habit is the deepest law of human nature. It is our supreme strength, if also, in certain circumstances, our miserable weakness. Let me go once, scanning my way with any seriousness of outlook and successfully arriving, my footsteps are an invitation to me a second time to go by the same way. It is easier than any other way. Habit is our primal fundamental law—habit and imitation. There is nothing more potential in us than these two. They are the source of all working and all apprenticeship, of all practice and all learning in the world.—Caryle.

Annie, the duchess in wooden shoes who brought Brittany in the pocket of her wedding gown to her husband, the King of France, kept the Government for herself, and when the Bishop of St. Male protested against the stronghold which she built to sow the too independent Malouins she carried on her tower the ancient inscription, which may still be read there: "Grunt who will, so shall it be: my pleasure," and the tower "Grunt Who Will" (Quequen Gruger) it is called to this day.

A Man who saw Napoleon

There has just died at the pretty suburb of Le Raincy a celebrity in the person of M. Claude Hemery, who had reached the great age of 105. During his long life he had practically never had a day's illness, and his end was peaceful. When he was nine years of age, says the Paris correspondent of the Morning Advertiser, M. Hemery mingled in the crowd at Sanliu (Cote d'Or) that welcomed Napoleon on his return from Elba. He saw the great Emperor enter the postchaise that conveyed him to Paris. On the death of Louis XVIII, he passed through the room in which the King's body was lying in state. M. Hemery had eleven children. Only two are still living. His grandchildren are numerous.

A Greater Loss

Here is a laughable experience of Lord Sheffield. He was once walking down Piccadilly with a friend, to whom he explained that it would be impossible for anyone to pick his pocket without his knowledge. Lord Sheffield's pocket-handkerchief was hanging out, and his friend, having diverted his attention, quietly abstracted it. Instantly Lord Sheffield collared a seedy-looking man who was passing and charged him with the theft, but the friend producing the handkerchief and explaining the joke, the unfortunate individual whom his Lordship had so unceremoniously seized was released with many apologies. The man beat a hasty retreat, and shortly afterwards Lord Sheffield discovered that he had lost his pocket book.

Halifax School for the Blind

Many blind persons in Great Britain and the United States are trained to take positions as church organists and choir masters. An effort is now being made to procure a pipe organ for the school for the blind at Halifax so that the pupils in that institution may have the advantage of being trained as church organists. A number of public-spirited ladies in the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland have formed committees in their respective cities, towns and villages and are interesting themselves in securing funds to further the above object.

Mr. J. Hollis Lindsay, a graduate of the school, is successfully filling the position of organist and choir master in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Truro, N.S.

Qualities That Make For Success

There are five qualities, the possession of which augur well for a man's progress—Self-reliance, Judgement, Courage, Prudence, and pliability. It is better to make a mistake and learn why it is made than to be right on another man's judgement, i. e.: It is better to be self-reliant. Judgement is the nice adjustment of the faculties, one to the other. Courage is confidence to act on the decision of mind. Prudence is the power to measure danger and should delicately balance courage—prudence in contemplation, courage in execution. Pliability is the ability to change an opinion, the power of decision. Possess these attributes and success will be yours.

The King to be Crowned As Emperor of India

London, March 12.—King George is now seen daily in Rotten Row cantering with equestrians. He needs the bracing effect of exercise in the ripping air; for he is overwhelmed with the details of various ceremonial of what must be the busiest year of his reign. The precedents of the last Coronation are followed closely except the minor point of bows as the Queen's train-bearers, but a new question has been raised as to the Delhi ceremonial and the investiture of the Prince of Wales at Carnarvon, since since tradition and recent practice do not cover them. Lord Carzon and other Viceroy's, have been consulted respecting the function, and the decision has been reached that it must not be treated as a recrowning of the King, already consecrated at Westminster Abbey, but as a separate crowning as Emperor of India.

A thousand novel details connected with regalia and costumes and Oriental pageantry need to be determined. The Prince's investiture is almost equally as difficult, owing to Welsh sensitiveness.

The Duke of Connaught, who is the King's closest adviser has decided not to accept another military command. He may become Viceroy of India after serving a short term at Ottawa.
