EFFORTS TO AVERT STRIKE AT REMINGTON FACTORY FAILS

Men in New Plant Will Walk Out at Noon Today—Those in Other Sections Following Within the Next Few Days.

FEARED STRIKE WILL SPREAD TO OTHER MANUFACTURING CENTRES.

Entire Plant Idle Within a Week—Gompers to Try Hand at Paving Way for Settlement—Says Foreign Interests Have Been Stirring Up Industrial Unrest.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 19.—Negotiations to bring about an amicable settlement of the difficulties between the machinists of Bridgeport and the Remington Ammunition Company, engaged on a gigantic scale in the manufacture of war munitions for the allied armies, have failed. Labor leaders announced tonight that the first of the machinists would throw down their tools and walk out at noon tomorrow. They added that within a week all work in the Remington shops and in the shops of sub-contractors would be at a standstill. Just how far the strike might spread in other manufacturing communities of New England the labor leaders were unable to estimate.

The announcement was made by J. J. Keppeler, international president of the Machinists Union, and John A. Johnston, vice-president of the Structural Iron Workers, following a lengthy meeting in the machinists' hall, which was attended by members of the Machinists Union, and by more than a dozen officers of international labor organizations. Mr. Keppeler and Mr. Johnston were the committee appointed Friday by the machinists to present their demands to Major W. C. Penfield, works manager of the Remington Company. Mr. Johnston, surrounded by a half dozen labor leaders, including Mr. Keppeler, made the announcement.

"The strike will start at noon tomorrow," said Johnston. "We first will pull all of the men out of the new Remington plant. That includes all machinists, die sinkers, drop forgers and tool makers."

It was said that it was planned to have in the neighborhood of 500 men walk out first. Then, according to the plans made by the labor leaders to night, one after another of the various shops would be emptied of machinists. The head carriers, working on the new building being erected by the Stewart Construction Company for the Remington Company, have already taken a strike vote to follow the machinists out. There are six hundred head carriers employed at the plant.

Mr. Keppeler puts the entire blame for the strike on Major Penfield, and denies that German influence had anything to do with it.

J. J. Keppeler, international vice-president of the Machinists' Union, when advised of the call for a conference issued tonight in Washington by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, said that he and other labor leaders here would pay no attention to any such call.

"Neither Samuel Gompers, nor the President of the United States can stop this strike now," said Gompers. "The German influence behind the strike is a fact. It is realized in England that Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies, has the most severe task imposed on him since the outbreak of the European war, and the military writers of some of the London papers seem to think that the task is well nigh impossible."

There was sustained confidence that Germany's previous violent attacks along the Baura-Rawka front would never pierce the Russian line, but the present gigantic co-ordinate movement was developed with such suddenness and carried so far without meeting serious Russian resistance that more and more the British press is discounting the fall of the Polish capital, and, while not giving up all hope of its retention, is pointing out the enormous difficulty the Russian armies have labored under from the start by the existence of such a salient.

Having been unable to straighten out their line by an advance through East Prussia, in the north, and Galicia in the south, the Russians have persistently faced the pincers of the Austro-Germans, and if these can now be sufficiently tightened Warsaw must go, and with it the entire line.

As was the case on Saturday, when the Austro-Germans recorded the success of their offensive in the east, no official communication from either Berlin or Vienna reached the London newspapers today. Saturday's communication was released Sunday for publication, and up to nearly midnight tonight no new communication has come to hand.

In calling the conference Mr. Gompers said it was his purpose to use every resource at his command to prevent a general strike.

Mr. Gompers reiterated the charge that foreign interests had sought to bring about labor troubles in the United States to check the exportation of war supplies to Europe.

He declined to give details, remarking: "I do not want to shut off my line of information by making it public at this time."

AUSTRO-GERMAN ARMIES CLOSING IN ON WARSAW

London Morning Post Correspondent in Bucharest Says Evacuation Ordered—An Almost Impossible Task for Grand Duke to Hold Town, Military Writers Believe—No News of Operations Given Out by Petrograd or Berlin.

Bulletin—London, July 20, 3.36 a. m.—The Morning Post's Budapest correspondent reports that the gradual evacuation of Warsaw has been ordered by the Russians.

London, July 19. (11.26 p. m.)—Can Warsaw be held, with the German Field Marshal Von Hindenburg on the north, and the Russian Field Marshal Mackensen on the south, whipping forward the two ends of a great arc around the city. It is realized in England that Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies, has the most severe task imposed on him since the outbreak of the European war, and the military writers of some of the London papers seem to think that the task is well nigh impossible.

There was sustained confidence that Germany's previous violent attacks along the Baura-Rawka front would never pierce the Russian line, but the present gigantic co-ordinate movement was developed with such suddenness and carried so far without meeting serious Russian resistance that more and more the British press is discounting the fall of the Polish capital, and, while not giving up all hope of its retention, is pointing out the enormous difficulty the Russian armies have labored under from the start by the existence of such a salient.

He declined to give details, remarking: "I do not want to shut off my line of information by making it public at this time."

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, announced tonight that he had called a conference of officers of the International Association of Machinists to meet with him in Washington to consider the strike ordered at the Remington Arms and Ammunition Company's plant at Bridgeport.

LLOYD GEORGE TAKES HAND IN COAL STRIKE

Addresses Delegation of Miners at Cardiff and Announces Afterwards that He is Hopeful of Settlement.

Cardiff, July 19.—The centre of negotiations in connection with the great strike of the miners shifted suddenly to Cardiff tonight with the arrival here of Lloyd George, the President of the Board of Trade, Walter Runciman, and the President of the Board of Education, Arthur Henderson, for a conference with the miners' leaders. Mr. Henderson is leader of the labor party in the House of Commons.

The members of the cabinet were met at the train by James Winston, President of the South Wales Miners' Federation and other officers of that organization. They held a preliminary talk with the representatives of the miners, and arrangements were made for the delivery of an address by Mr. Lloyd George tomorrow before the whole body of representatives of the miners in the South Wales field. It is thought that some agreement may be reached there, although the men are still obdurate in the matter of accepting the terms previously offered them or in conceding that they are subject to the government's compulsory arbitration act.

Despite a heavy downpour of rain a great crowd gathered at the station to greet Mr. Lloyd George, who is very popular throughout Wales.

Mr. Lloyd George told the executive officers of the Federation that it was impossible to wage a successful war abroad with a strike at home, and that no government responsible for a colossal war could possibly allow the continuance of a conflict between labor and capital to imperil the chances of victory.

In addition to a conference with the miners a meeting has been arranged between the Minister of Munitions and the coal owners.

Mr. Lloyd George, on being asked regarding the situation, said he was hopeful of a settlement of the strike, but could make no predictions.

Mr. Lloyd George is very popular with the miners and it is thought a direct appeal from him will have a greater effect than any other influence.

A conference between the executive committee of the miners and Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, had been arranged for tonight, but was unnecessary by the action of Mr. Lloyd George. The meeting has been cancelled, although some members of the executive committee already have started from Cardiff for London when Mr. Lloyd George's intervention was announced.

SENTENCED TO FIFTEEN YEARS' IMPRISONMENT BY THE GERMANS

Leeds, England, July 20.—A letter received here from Private Wm. Lonsdale, who is a prisoner of war in Germany, says that he is in good health and that he is undergoing a sentence of fifteen years in prison. The last previous news received concerning Lonsdale was that a sentence of twenty years imprisonment which had been imposed on him had been revised and the death penalty substituted.

FREEDOM OF LONDON FOR PREMIER BORDEN

London, July 19.—The proposal to confer the freedom of the city of London upon Sir Robert Borden was enthusiastically agreed to at a meeting of the Common Council today.

The Premier had a particularly busy day, receiving and making calls. He concluded the day by attending a dinner given by the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Bonar Law, at which Mr. Asquith was another noted guest.

ITALY LOSES ANOTHER OF HER CRUISERS

Sunk by Submarine While Retiring After Attack on Cattaro—Crew all Saved.

Rome, July 19, via London, July 20.—An Italian cruiser squadron comprising the Varese, Francesco Ferruccio, Giuseppe Garibaldi and the Vettor Pisani, proceeded at an early hour Sunday morning to Cattaro, an Austrian seaport in Dalmatia and opened fire. During the course of the operations the Italian commander discovered that a number of Austrian battleships had taken refuge in the harbor. These, although not of modern type, would have been able effectively to face the somewhat slow Italian squadrons. Hence, the Italian cruisers retired.

As the cruisers were withdrawing, Austrian submarines were sent out to attack them. According to the official report the Giuseppe Garibaldi was able to avoid the first attack, but a few minutes later was struck by a torpedo and sank. The crew jumped into the sea and the majority of them were saved. The official statement on the incident is as follows:

"At dawn July 18, a division of our old armored cruisers approached Cattaro and bombarded and seriously damaged the railway nearby."

"While our vessels were retiring, they were attacked by enemy submarines and the cruiser Giuseppe Garibaldi, after having avoided the first attack, was struck by a torpedo and sunk. The crew maintained calm and nearly all were saved."

TORONTO REGIMENT TRIES NEW METHOD OF RECRUITING

Toronto, July 19.—The 109th Regiment has evolved a new wrinkle in recruiting. They have obtained from the street railway company a car bearing in front the sign "To Berlin, via the 109th Regiment," and on the fender, "Your King Calls You, How Will You Answer Him?" On the side in conspicuous lettering are the words "If You Want to Enlist, Jump on this Car."

Inside at a table sit the recruiting officers. The car today made a tour of a number of streets and the response was more than was expected, "To Berlin" catching the popular fancy.

CANADIAN OFFICERS TELL OF NEED OF MACHINE GUNS

"Germans Have Ten to Our One", Says Princess Pat. Officer to the Standard Representative in France—Gripping Letter From Colin McKay.

[Special Staff Correspondence of The Standard.]
France, June 29.—Officers and men right from the firing line have many different opinions about the duration of the war. Each man's opinion is probably interesting mainly as a reflection of his experience and temperament. One tells you the Germans are on the defensive and will not stand for another winter campaign. "We can throw them back whenever we want to," said an officer of the Territorials. "When we get more munitions and men we won't take long to finish the job. The Germans are great cowards when you go at them with the bayonet."

"Yes, we can take a few of their trenches one day, and the next they drive us out again," said an officer of the Princess Pats, a Westerner, who threw up a good professional practice to join the now famous and sorely depleted regiment. "This war is like a football game. We shell a trench, and drive the Germans out; then the Germans shell us out, or try to gas us. We are no farther forward than when we started, and I don't think we can do very much till we get better artillery and plenty of shells. Now we are trying to break the German lines by sheer weight of men, and it is a costly business. We have to rely on rifle fire, while the Germans are able to use machine guns. They must have 10 machine guns to every man. We have to place 25 men in our first line of trenches to every man the Germans have in their first line. Unless they are preparing for a charge the Germans keep only enough men in their first line of trenches to handle the machine guns, and act as observers or snipers. Their men are kept in reserve trenches."

HOW THE GERMANS FIGHT.
"When our gunners shell the first line of German trenches there are very few men there to get hurt or buried alive. But when we attack we generally find that there are enough to handle the machine guns and give us a warm reception. When we get up close the beggars cut and run for the communication trenches. We jump over the parapet and into the abandoned trench, sometimes to the accompaniment of a storm of steel from the reserve trenches. Then the German artillery shells us out, or the men in the reserve trenches swarm up in overwhelming numbers and hurl us back to our lines again."

WORKMEN IN KRUPP FACTORY IN ANGRY MOOD WANTS COTTON IN THE LIST OF CONTRABAND

Not Satisfied With Granting of Portion of Demands and Many Have Already Quit Work.

Geneva, Switzerland, July 19, via Paris.—An important meeting was held at Essen yesterday, according to advices received at Basel, between the administration of the Krupp gun works and the representatives of the workmen in order to settle the dispute which has arisen over the demands of the men for an increase in wages.

Directly and indirectly about 100,000 men are involved. Minor cases in which machinery has been destroyed have been reported.

The military authorities before the meeting, the Basel advices say, warned both sides that unless an immediate arrangement was reached drastic measures would be employed.

The Krupp officials are understood to have granted a portion of the demand of the employees which has brought about a temporary peace but the workmen still appear to be unsatisfied and many have left the works. A strike would greatly affect the supply of munitions and for this reason the military has adopted rigorous precautions.

Turkey in passing through Bucharest on his way to Constantinople, made a great effort to induce Rumania to permit the passage of war material for Turkey, promising in case of Rumania consenting that Germany would immediately deliver the munitions ordered by Rumania before the outbreak of the war."

London Times Makes Another Strong Plea—No Justification for American Objection to British Blockade.

London, July 20.—In an editorial today the Times makes another strong plea for the making of cotton contraband. The newspaper refers to its Washington correspondent's reports that the American government refuses to admit the legality of the British blockade and that the British government's explanations had not had the slightest effect in changing American opinion regarding the right of exports to neutral countries.

Arguing at considerable length Great Britain acquiesced in the American government's extension of the blockade during the Civil War, the Times says:

"Surely the Americans will not dispute that we have the right of extension which they have so widely asserted and exercised themselves. If cotton could be regarded as contraband in the 'sixties' merely because it enabled the belligerents to buy munition, how much more certainly can it be so regarded now that it has become a necessary ingredient in the manufacture of explosives?"

"It cannot be doubted that cotton is finding its way into Germany in large quantities. The plain fact stares Britishers in the face that their nearest and dearest are being daily shattered by German shells which cannot be produced without cotton, which might have been made contraband. We are confident that this consideration will not be without its weight in the minds of the American people."

REID BROTHERS OF NEWFOUNDLAND WILL GIVE THREE AEROPLANES

Money for One of Machines to be Provided by Patriotic Association Subscribed in Less Than Week.

St. John's, Nfld., July 19.—Gov. Davidson at a meeting tonight of the Patriotic Association announced that the campaign launched on last Tuesday for the presentation of two aeroplanes to the British army from Newfoundland at a cost of eleven thousand dollars each have resulted in subscription for the week of over thirteen thousand dollars. The balance will be subscribed by August 4th. He also stated that Messrs. William, Harry and Robert Reid, three brothers, comprising the Reid Newfoundland Company, owners of the railway system, were contributing three aeroplanes on their own account.

PRES. WILSON WILL MEET REPRESENTATIVE OF THE WOMEN'S PEACE MOVEMENT

Will Discuss With Miss Jane Adams Outlook for Peace in Europe.

Washington, July 19.—President Wilson will discuss with Miss Jane Adams, of Chicago, next Wednesday, the outlook for peace in Europe. Miss Adams recently returned home after visiting the principal officials of many of the belligerent and neutral nations abroad as the representative of a Women's Peace Movement. She made an effort to see the president while he was at Cornish, N. H., but he postponed the conference until his return here. The President has been informed from other sources that there is little prospect of an early peace in Europe.

FIND JUSTIFICATION FOR GERMAN VIEWPOINT IN LORD MERSEY'S DECISIONS

London, July 20.—The German newspapers in commenting on Lord Mersey's judgment in the Lusitania case declare that it justifies the German point of view. The Lokal Anzeiger, a copy of which has been received here, says:

"For us the main point is that the Lusitania had great quantities of ammunition aboard, which if they had reached the British and French troops, would have cost the lives of thousands of German soldiers. The destruction of the ammunition ship therefore was justified for military reasons."

It is another reminder to them of the sort of foes with which we are striving. Arrangements ought to be practicable under which cotton growers would suffer no loss. We cannot for any consideration refrain from keeping back indispensable material for the deadliest of all weapons with which the Germans are slaughtering our sons."

WILSON AND CABINET TO DISCUSS NOTE

NOTE READY FOR CABINET TODAY

Pres. Wilson and Secretary of State prepare draft of German Note.

LIKELY TO BE BRIEF BUT FIRM IN TONE.

Officials reticent about contents but Washington will adhere to demands made in previous notes.

Washington, July 19.—President Wilson and Secretary Lansing prepared today the draft of a note on submarine warfare to be submitted to the cabinet tomorrow and to be sent to Germany probably before the end of the present week.

Beyond the fact that the position already taken by the United States in its previous notes will be reiterated, no information was forthcoming at either the White House or State Department concerning the probable contents of the new note.

The President cautioned those with whom he conferred to refrain from discussing the note in advance of its despatch to Germany and White House officials particularly requested the correspondents to avoid speculations in detail at this time because the character of the document had not been finally determined.

The note, it is understood, will be comparatively brief, expressing the conclusions of this government as a result of Germany's failure to give the assurance asked for in previous notes, namely that the lives of Americans travelling on the high sea bound on lawful errands aboard unresisting and unarmed merchantmen, be not endangered.

As yet, the case of the British liner Lusitania, attacked by a German submarine, has not been brought official to the attention of the State Department, Secretary Lansing today said he had expected word from some of the American passengers aboard, but if this failed to arrive in another day or two, he would request one of the department's representatives to institute an investigation to obtain accurate information concerning the incident.

"SCANDAL" POINTS MORAL TO DEALERS IN SLANDER

Private View of New Powerful Film Feature at the Imperial Last Evening.

A private view of a five reel feature picture "Scandal," the first of a series of master pictures to be released by the Canadian branch of the Universal Film Company, was held last night in the Imperial Theatre, when a number of invited guests saw a really remarkable production. The picture is splendidly staged and filmed with a wonderful attention to detail, features Lois Weber, daughter of Joseph Weber, of Weber and Fields fame, and Philip Smalley. Both have made reputations for themselves in the spoken drama and are thoroughly at home in the picture film. The acting throughout is distinctly high class and compares favorably with the best productions shown here.

As its name implies, "Scandal" depicts the terrible results liable to accrue from careless gossip. The author has selected a story in which the innocent adventures of a man and woman, through a combination of circumstances, cause tongues to wag. To tell the story in advance of the public release of the production itself would spoil a very interesting film. Suffice it to say that the inevitable result of the scandal-mongering is to wreck the lives of those principally concerned who, though innocent, are made to pay the penalty for the malicious gossip of ill-natured busy-bodies.

In addition to providing an hour of excellent amusement "Scandal" teaches a lesson that might well be taken to heart. It is one of the most powerful and suggestive film productions ever presented on a local screen.

WHEN NAVY'S HEAD CONFERRED WITH FAMOUS INVENTOR

THOMAS A. EDISON AND JOSEPHUS DANIELS, SECRETARY OF THE NAVY, DISCUSSING NATIONAL ADVISORY BOARD MEMBERS AT WEST ORANGE.

When the Secretary of the Navy conferred with Thomas A. Edison at the inventor's home in Llewellyn Park, West Orange, N. J., they discussed the new naval advisory board, to be composed of distinguished inventors and scientists. Mr. Edison was in rare good humor. He wore a cool linen suit and a pink rose peeped from the lapel of his coat. The famous inventor also had a pleasant word for each of the many newspaper men who swarmed in his hallway. But he laughingly waved them aside when they sought to interview him. "This is Secretary Daniels' scheme," said he. "Let him do the talking. I'm deeply interested in it, but I have nothing to say."

TAKES EXCEPTION TO STATEMENT OF VISCOUNT HALDANE

London, July 19, (9.50 p. m.)—The Berlin Nord Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung publishes what purports to be the details of the negotiations in 1912 looking to an Anglo-German approach, then British secretary of state for war, took a prominent part. The substance of the article is contained in a despatch from Berlin received by Reuters' Telegram Company, by way of Amsterdam, and the article is published "in order to disprove Viscount Haldane's statement that his efforts for peace were frustrated by Germany."

According to an official statement the Nord Deutsche Zeitung points out Germany offered different forms of neutrality. The first draft of the treaty ran: "Should one of the contracting parties become engaged in war with one or more powers, then the other contracting party shall adopt at least an attitude of benevolent neutrality and exert every effort to localize the conflict."

England declined to accept this, and made the following counter-proposal: "England shall make no unprovoked attack on Germany, and shall refrain from aggressive policy with regard to Germany. An attack on Germany forms the basis of no treaty, nor is such object aimed at in any combination to which England belongs, and England will not be a party to any arrangement which aims at such an attack."

This proposal was not acceptable to Germany. The words "unprovoked attack," says the statement as quoted by the paper, were held to be too elastic to form the basis of a special treaty of friendship, in that the assurances contained in the English proposal were deemed by Germany as constituting ordinary international relations. Germany then proposed: "Should one of the contracting parties become involved in a war with one or more powers, and it cannot be said that the contracting party is the aggressor, then the other contracting party will observe toward him at least benevolent neutrality and strive towards the localization of the conflict. The contracting parties reciprocally bind themselves to come to an agreement regarding their attitude in the event of one of them being forced to declare war through the open provocation of a third."

Sir Edward Grey (British Secretary for Foreign Affairs), rejected this, but made the following proposal: "Since both powers mutually desire to ensure peace and friendship among themselves, England declares that she will make no unprovoked attack on Germany and will not participate in an aggressive policy toward Germany."

This sentence was to replace the first sentence in the previous proposal. Germany assented to discuss the proposal, but made further negotiations dependent on assent to the following condition: "England will naturally preserve a benevolent neutrality in the event of war being forced on Germany."

Sir Edward Grey, however, because of the decision of the British cabinet, declined to go further than the proposed formula, basing his refusal "on fear of otherwise endangering existing friendly relations between England and other powers."

Whereupon Germany declined to continue the negotiations.

A MILE GAIN IN VALLEY OF DEATH

Result of British Advance of June 28 in Gully Ravine.

GROUND DOTTED WITH LONELY GRAVES

Turks Know Every Inch of the Ground and Pour Murderous Fire on Advancing Allied Troops.

London, July 20.—The British press representative in the Dardanelles, reporting under date of July 4th, says: "The successful advance of the British left wing on June 28 placed in our hands another mile of the 'Gully Ravine,' which is the Gallipoli peninsula's valley of death. The Turks know every inch of the ground and pour a tremendous number of shells into the ravine, which is dotted for miles up from the shore with lonely graves, marking the last resting place of some soldier who was buried where he fell."

"Despite the tragedies staged here, the spectator must admit that the ravine presents a scene of rugged grandeur, resembling the Scotch Highlands. The mile of gully most recently added to the British positions is still littered with the debris of the Turkish positions, which are invariably ill-kept and filthy from a sanitary point of view. If the enemy goes through the campaign without some great epidemic he will have undue luck."

"As the correspondent travelled up the ravine twenty-four hours after the battle there were visible plenty of evidences of the strenuous character of the fighting—scattered bodies half protruding from the ground, hastily dug graves, hundreds of broken rifles and scattered equipment, and everywhere great fires burning and giving forth a sickly stench, for on the first Turkish dead in hundreds were being buried."

Plenty of Water.

"In front of the trenches British soldiers were working like bees preparing barriers and trenches under a continuous fire of enemy sharpshooters, while others, for whom there was no room in the trenches, were sleeping calmly close behind and awaiting the summons to resist an expected counter-attack."

"One of the finest things about the ravine is that despite the heat and lack of breezes, there is plenty of water for man and beast—springs which come from the interior hills and enter the valley in a tiny trickling stream as clear as crystal and icy cool. No wine ever has or will taste as good as a glass of this water to a warrior who has spent hours in the trenches stooping to avoid enemy snipers, cramped by the weight of his kit and the narrowness of his quarters, while the sun scorched his neck and back and while stench and millions of flies made existence well nigh unbearable."

GERMANS CHARGE O'ER FIELDS OF BLOOD

Colin McKay Writes of the Sudden Stages in France and Flanders Where Most Awful Drama of All Time is Being Staged by Millions—Officer of the Princess Patricia Regiment Tells How His Regiment Has Suffered—Munitions and Machine Guns Sorely Needed by the British Forces.

The officer of the Princess Pats who was just five days out of the trenches made some very uncomplimentary remarks about the British field artillery. In fact he said: "Compared with the German or French our artillery has been something of a joke. Our trench mortars are better than the Germans, but our field batteries with their shrapnel shells have increased our casualty lists. One day a field battery in our rear was throwing shrapnel shells at the German trench in front of us. Out of 20 shells fired, 12 burst over our lines, wounding fifty of our own regiment. The gunners said it was bad ammunition. I don't know. A nurse who has been six months in a base hospital told me an awful percentage of shrapnel bullets picked out of British wounded was British shrapnel. It is possible the Germans laid in a supply of British shrapnel; but—see that chap in kilts across the hall with his arm in a sling. He's an officer of the Liverpool Scottish. They were badly cut up by British shrapnel, after they'd taken a German trench.

MUNITIONS NEEDED.

"Rotten business somewhere," said the irreverent westerner. "Officers are not supposed to talk, but if they had made a row before this British casualty list might not have been so heavy. If we had had plenty of high explosive shells we could have taken trenches with less loss.

"Of course when the First Canadian Contingent came over nobody took much stock in us. In Canada it was said: 'Oh, they'll never see the firing line.' Well, the Canadians are not soldiers; they're merely fighters. They'll never make Tommies of them. When the Tommies lose their officers they're generally helpless; even if they know what to do they're afraid to do it without orders. Every Canadian considers himself competent to look out for himself. When his officers are wiped out he forms his opinion about what ought to be done and does it.

"Of course Kitchener's new army is all right, and the Territorials have already done splendid work. I am not saying the Tommies are not fighters, but they are first of all soldiers, and must have leadership.

"Well, they can't say the Canadians are not fighters today. If we hadn't stood up to it at Hill 60, when the French were driven back by German gas, the Hun would have been in Calais today, knocking Dover to bits with their 23 calibre guns. Our casualties were frightful. If it had been announced in Canada how many men we lost in that battle it would have wakened up some people, and helped recruiting.

HOW THE "PAT'S" HAVE SUFFERED.

"My regiment today musters 286 men for active service. We've been cut up all right, but we have won more medals in this campaign than any other regiment in the British army. Some of our wounded will be back with us. Quite a number are posted as missing. That allows the relatives the consolation of hope, but I'm afraid most of the missing were buried alive by Jack Johnsons.

"When will this war end? Not in a hurry I'm afraid. The Prussians will fight to the finish. The Saxons don't want to fight, and the Bavarians are a pretty decent lot. When you have them opposite your lines there's little fighting. The Saxons used to walk over to the British lines and fraternize with our men until orders came from headquarters to make prisoners of all these visitors. If we can kill off the most of the Prussians we may see peace some time."

An old British officer who went to the front last August was rather pessimistic. "Possibly we may be able to finish the war in four years," he said. "But I don't see much hope of a decisive victory even in that time. Politicians may talk of going to Berlin to dictate terms of peace. As an old soldier I don't expect to live long enough to reach Berlin. My impression is that it would take 100,000,000 men to drive the Germans back to the Rhine. To drive them out of France and Belgium will be a terrible job. The Germans are well organized, and in spite of their enormous losses, they are not at all daunted. It does not do to belittle an enemy who throws down the gauntlet to a world in arms; that's a child's game. If you'd seen the Germans charging in enormous masses day after day, week after week, coming on to be mowed down by machine guns as a squall of hail beats down a wheat field, and still coming on, leaping over their dead and wounded, you would marvel what kind of an extraordinary thing you were dealing with.

CLAMBERING OVER GERMAN DEAD.

"These dark grey masses would charge repeatedly over fields littered with dead and dying, and slippery with blood; coming on in the face of the withering fire of machine guns, rifles and batteries, piling up in writhing, shrieking heaps; attempting the impossible, charging to certain death or agony. Some of the things I've seen seem incredible. Certainly the Germans are brave, and they can shoot. Their snipers are extraordinary shots. If you construct a loophole in the parapet and fire one shot, they'll have a rifle trained on that loophole in no time at all, and fixed in position by an apparatus they have. Then, with an automatic arrangement or something of that sort, keeping under cover themselves, they'll fire now and then at the loophole on the off chance of getting somebody peeping through and, by Jove, their shots usually improve that loophole for you. Quite extraordinary, you know, the way the beggars can shoot.

"It is going to be a terrible job to drive them back. Lately they must have sent a lot of troops to the eastern front, but still they have enough in the west to make things interesting on our front. We take a few trenches from them one day, and the next they take them back. And when we drive them from their present lines, we won't accomplish a great deal. There'll never be a cavalry charge in this war; no breaking through their lines and driving them pell-mell. Too many trenches and shell craters. And back of the lines they now hold the Germans have already constructed line after line of concrete trenches in carefully selected positions. They're preparing for another winter's campaign. They'll be fairly comfortable in concrete trenches on hill tops, while we, if we are to push the fighting, will in many places have to dig ourselves in in swamps, and go through the same horrible business we did last winter. Give the devil his due—we are fighting a wonderful nation.

CRISIS MAY COME SOON.

"Of course the crisis may come before winter. Our people seem to be waking up a bit; new troops are pouring into France every day now. There will be tremendous fighting in the next few months. Germany will be bringing armies from the Russian frontier, and new levies from the training camps for another drive at Calais. It will be a terrible struggle, but with trench warfare it is hard to get a decision.

"In the end we can win, if it takes years and years. Once England wakes up, and starts producing guns and high explosive shells, our superior industrial resources and command of the sea will tell. But we have got to convert a large part of France and Belgium into a wilderness of shell craters and trenches before we can drive the Germans back. It's a miserable business."

Of course, as I said, one meets officers and men from the front who are very optimistic, and firmly believe the war will be over in a short time. But I have not heard many convincing reasons for this belief.

COLIN MCKAY.

ONLY MAN WHO CAN END WAR, HE BELIEVED

Wealthy Resident of Iowa Who is Being Held by U. S. Authorities, Glorified Holt for Shooting Morgan

Washington, July 19.—F. X. Weinschenk, of Belleville, Iowa, arrested here last week by Secret Service men, after he had written several letters to the White House, was transferred today from the observation ward of a hospital to the Government Hospital for the Insane on the report of two alienists that his mind was affected. He may be released later in a favorable report of the alienists, or may be held for a trial as to his sanity. Weinschenk conducted the International Information Bureau, here and mailed a list of thousands of names propaganda for the German cause, and against the export of war munitions to the Allies. The investigators are looking into his statement that he was spending as much as $10,000 a month himself and had no associates.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—Whether Francis X. Weinschenk took from his own pocket every cent of the $1,000 a week he spent in spreading pro-German arguments throughout the country or whether he got aid from outside sources is a question which engrossed officials today.

While detectives dug into Weinschenk's record the physicians at the Washington Asylum Hospital, where Weinschenk is confined, watched him closely to determine his sanity. Weinschenk intended to put up a vigorous fight to prove his sanity so he may get back to his office and continue sending broadcast his weekly pro-German bulletins, under the name of the International Information Bureau.

Information reached the authorities that Weinschenk is wealthy and that he has obtained recently about $200,000 from a brother with whom he was engaged in colonization projects in the West. The brother is said to live in Kansas and is believed to have agreed with the officials that proceedings should be undertaken to prove Weinschenk's sanity.

Of course the real reason for the arrest was the fact that he had written letters to the President which presented radical pro-German views and while not threatening, the Secret Service operatives decided to have Weinschenk investigated. The Washington officials took him into custody at the request of the Secret Service.

These letters have been arriving at the White House at intervals during the last two years, but they have been more frequent in the last few months. In view of the Holt case and the fact that Weinschenk glorified Holt for shooting Mr. Morgan, the officials decided to take no chances. The most recent letters have been arguments for an embargo on the shipment from the United States of arms and ammunition to the Allies.

Weinschenk told the officials today that when he was arrested he was about to issue a bulletin "which would have started the entire world." He indicated that it was a scheme for the establishment of peace.

"I am the only man in the world who can end the war, and I am going to do it," he is quoted as saying. "The only comment he made about his arrest was: 'The truth hurts and they could not stand it.'"

Weinschenk, Wealthy, Has an Iowa Home.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 17.—Francis X. Weinschenk, who was arrested yesterday at Washington, makes his home in Bellevue, Iowa. He has lived there in a beautiful home for the last five years and his wife is there at the present time. Mr. Weinschenk lived in Bellevue as a boy. When about eight years of age he moved to Kansas, where he amassed a fortune in the real estate business. He retired from active business some five years ago and he and his wife returned to Bellevue.

Recently Mr. Weinschenk has taken great activity in religious affairs. He has not been here for some months. He has been in Washington, where he conducted the International Information Bureau. He is fifty years old.

AMERICAN HELD PRISONER IN GERMANY

Showed passport and birth certificate, but kept nine months in Concentration Camps.

London, July 19.—Charles B. Pray, of Flint, Mich., who reached London after escaping from a German concentration camp in which he had been held since October, submitted today to U. S. Consul General Skinner an affidavit describing his experiences. Mr. Skinner forwarded the affidavit to the State Department at Washington.

Mr. Pray was in Germany installing self-starters on automobiles when the war began. German officers visited his rooms and declared him to be an Englishman, notwithstanding the fact, he said, that he exhibited a passport and a birth certificate. He was sent to the concentration camp at Mauenfeld and while there made unsuccessful efforts to communicate with the American consul. Thence he was transferred to Wuerttemberg. Mr. Pray asserts that while in Wuerttemberg he was compelled to perform hard manual labor after having refused to work on military automobiles. He made his escape from the concentration camp on May 11 and walked across France. He took ship to Avonmouth, whence he walked to London, earning enough money on the way to obtain food by doing odd jobs. He was destitute and emaciated when he reached here.

BOY PUSHED INTO PAUL OF BOILING WATER AND FATALLY BURNED

Charge of manslaughter against employe at restaurant where victim was scalded.

Toronto, July 19.—Shoved into a pail of boiling water when he was asking for a piece of ice outside a restaurant at 102 Dundas street, Saturday afternoon, three-year-old Garnet Earl Shelton was fatally scalded. As a result William Smith, employe in the restaurant, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter and remanded in the police court this morning.

On Friday the man shoved the screen door open to drive the child away and this caused the boy to fall into the pail. None of the men in the place bothered to get the child out and he was so terribly scalded that he died in the hospital.

CHANGED COURSE TO AVOID SUBMARINES

Anchor Liner Tuscania warned by Admiralty of German undersea craft.

New York, July 19.—The Anchor Line Steamship Tuscania arrived here today from Glasgow via Liverpool, bringing 339 passengers and a large consignment of mail.

Officers of the ship said that the usual precautions were taken coming through the war zone, the ship being darkened and all lifeboats swung out ready for use. The ship is also reported by passengers as having altered her course several times while near the British coast, acting on the advice of the Admiralty that German submarines had been reported in or near her path. Nothing was sighted, nor were there any unusual alarms reported by those on board.

CONVENTION OF ROTARY CLUBS OPENS AT SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, July 19.—The sixth annual convention of the International Association of Rotary Clubs opened here today. C. S. Victor, of San Francisco, president, delivered an address of welcome to the 3,000 delegates in attendance from the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Australia and Hawaii. The convention will be in session all week.

ATTACK ON THE ORDUNA WILL HAVE GREAT EFFECT ON SUBMARINE ISSUE

Torpedoing of Passenger Steamship bound from England could not possibly have been designed to keep Munitions from Allies, Washington indicates; and American Note to Germany will have Tone of Finality.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—The torpedo attack upon the Orduna overshadowed all other developments in the German situation today. The news of this overt attack upon a steamship with 370 Americans on board proved a great shock to officials here who at least had come to believe that the Germans would exercise some degree of caution in their submarine attacks while the issue with the United States was in so delicate a state. The effect of this attack upon the submarine issue may prove very great. The comparatively lenient attitude lately manifested by officials of the United States toward the submarine issue has been due almost altogether to their belief that while the Germans were not conceding anything in their notes, they were actually doing so in the manner of conducting the submarine warfare.

But the attack upon the Orduna has done and this he has done repeatedly. The United States is weighing the words in which it will reply to Germany a German submarine attacks a passenger steamship bound from England for the United States, and when the attack could not possibly have been designed to keep munitions from the Allies.

Mr. Robert Lansing, Secretary of State, announced after hearing of the Orduna case that he would have nothing whatever to say until a full report had been received, and all subordinate officials followed his example of keeping silent.

That the United States will not initiate any mediation looking toward an alteration of the methods of maritime warfare as conducted now by the European belligerents seems to be established here today in the minds of officials. The opinion is general and firmly established that the United States will restrict its activities to the mere transmission of suggestions or communications from one belligerent to another, and this service it will perform upon any subject, as it has been doing right along.

The conversation of Count von Bernstorff with Secretary Lansing yesterday does not appear to have changed the situation. The United States is expected to follow the course of stating its position in a note to Germany which will have a tone of finality that will emphasize the impossibility of the acceptance of the measures of settlement as the Germans have suggested.

It is only the German propaganda, which is endeavoring to give the situa-

BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAS PAID £700,000 FOR SEIZED COTTON CARGOES

Sixty cargoes containing Cotton have been diverted to British ports in past four months.

London, July 19. (3.20 p. m.)—The British government since March 11, has paid £700,000 on cotton cargoes, twenty-five shipments of which have been purchased in pursuance of the arrangement with American cotton shippers.

In giving this information in the House of Commons today Lord Roberts Cecil, parliamentary under-secretary for foreign affairs, stated that the total number of vessels with cargoes made up solely, or partly of cotton, which had been diverted to ports of the United Kingdom since March 11, was forty-nine and to other British ports eleven.

Paris, July 19.—The Greek government has received confirmation of the report that the inhabitants of Availi (in Asia Minor on the Gulf of Adramytti), have been ordered to evacuate the city and go into the interior of Asia Minor, according to an Athens despatch to the Havas Agency today.

The government has sent an energetic protest to the Porte, the despatch adds.

DEVICE TO SAVE WARSHIPS FROM SUBMARINES

Believed Invention Now Being Tried Out in Dar-danelles by British Navy Will Render Battleships Immune from Torpedoing

London, July 19.—The appointment of an invention board of scientific men with Lord Fisher, recently First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, as its head to assist the British navy was largely the result of a suggestion made by Lord Bryce, former Ambassador to the United States, to the House of Lords, and followed upon a discussion in which similar proposals were made by Sir William Ramsay and the other eminent scientists.

Lord Bryce pointed out that the country need not only fighting men but should mobilize its inventive ingenuity in chemistry, mechanics, engineering, physics—the whole range of science. While the American navy was a few days ahead of the British in launching this plan, according to the cables, its inception in both cases was due to the lessons of the war.

The Admiralty received 16,000 offers of new scientific devices during the first five months of the war. Many were from Americans. Another 16,000 doubtless, came under the stimulus of the last five months. Of the first 16,000 a board undertook to sort the wheat from the chaff, to eliminate the "crank" proposals, and reduced to twenty-five, the number which in the board's judgment were worthy of any attention. Another board has scrutinized these twenty-five more rigidly and reduced them to just two. These two are being worked out with every precaution of secrecy and every prospect, it is declared, of giving a surprise in mechanical warfare exceeding anything produced by German ingenuity.

Elaborate trials have been made. One of these devices in English water, and in actual service at the Dardanelles. Rigid secrecy has been observed as to the details. But it can be said that the trials give promise of rendering a battleship immune from the submarine torpedo.

"I have talked with many scientific men and they are ready to give their best efforts in devising all the manifold requirements which this extraordinary war—a war of science—has developed in the air, the water beneath, the earth, and every other conceivable way, as well as on the fighting line," said Lord Bryce referring to his suggestions.

SWISS GOV'T COMPLAINS OF INTERFERENCE WITH MAILS BY BELLIGERENTS

Berne, Switzerland, July 19, via Paris.—Switzerland has complained repeatedly to the belligerent nations that the postal traffic between this country and other neutrals, and especially with the United States, has been greatly hindered by the censors of the belligerents. Numerous letters, even those that have been registered, mailed from or to neutral countries, are daily retained or delayed, according to the Swiss authorities. Public and official complaints heretofore have been without result.

"We are fighting for a worthy purpose, and we shall not lay down our arms until that purpose has been fully achieved"—H. M. The King.
TO THE PEOPLE OF THE EMPIRE—Every fighting unit we can send to the front means one step nearer peace.

A WORD TO THE YOUNG MEN.

Do the young, unmarried, physically fit men of the province of New Brunswick intend to answer the call of their country and don the King's uniform, or do they expect to remain at home in security while others do their fighting for them? Do they realize the need for men in the battle lines of France and Flanders, Canadian men, willing and able to live up to the splendid reputation made by those who have preceded them? It is up to the young men of the baseball fields, the tennis courts and the summer resorts, the men who glory in athletics and manly sport, who are justly proud of their muscles and their powers of endurance, to exchange their tennis shoes and their yachting togs for the more becoming service boots and garb of khaki and to go out to do their part with their fellows.

But many of these men will say they cannot afford it, that they hold good positions where prospects of advancement are bright, and that to go to the front will mean loss of valuable time. It is not physical cowardice that is keeping most of them at home, but an unwillingness to exchange business connections, social ties, and pleasures of the day for the hard work of the trenches, and the rigid uncompromising discipline of army life. They are well satisfied with their work and enjoy their play; their lot has been cast in pleasant places; conditions of employment are congenial, and the summer vacation and weekends are periods of unalloyed amusement. But will it continue to be so? There is a possibility of a change. Ready employers of young men are beginning to look on the unmarried strikers as undesirable. In Hamilton, Ontario, it is proposed to discharge all the young, unmarried, physically fit men in the city's service and give them the choice between enlistment and idleness, replacing them by married men.

A Montreal man, Mr. C. C. Ballantyne, a harbor commissioner of the Canadian metropolis, and a director in many industrial organizations employing hundreds of young men made a statement at a recruiting meeting a few nights ago which should carry weight. It may be illustrated by the views of other men who fill a big place in the industrial world of Canada. The Montreal Gazette tells the story as follows:

A very clear warning was given to young men of fighting age by Mr. C. C. Ballantyne at the recruiting meeting of the 50th at Moran boulevard, Maisonneuve, on Thursday night. "Don't you young men think that because you have jobs you can stay home, and that you are all right," said Mr. Ballantyne. "As a director of several large companies not far from here, I can tell you that the policy of the manufacturers is going to be that unmarried men of fighting age will not be kept on. You may think that you are all right, that you can hold your jobs while other men go out and fight. But you are mistaken. You will not be kept on here working at your ease while other men with better pluck are fighting for you at the front. The time is not far distant when a distinction of this kind will be made, and the men who ought to be at the front and will not go will find themselves out of work. You might as well enlist now while you can do so with honor, and not wait to be driven to it."

This warning was strongly seconded by Mr. A. D. Dawson, of the Canadian Cotton Co. Mr. Ballantyne's words may well be taken to heart by the young men of this province. There is no disposition to scold. Beyond a doubt many of the young men who have failed to answer the call have excellent reasons for hanging back. But they do not constitute the majority. Hundreds there are who have nothing to keep them at home, who can present no good reason for not donning the uniform. Such men are neglecting not only a duty but an opportunity. If Canada ever needed men of spirit and courage to uphold Canadian traditions, that time is now. Why do they lag? Shall it be said of this great country that all its brave men are already wearing the King's khaki? Surely not.

A few days ago Standard reporters asked young men in St. John why they did not enlist. In some cases good reasons were given. Others said they would not go while Englishmen remained behind. That sort of talk is nonsensical. A glance at the casualty lists in the First Canadian contingent will show that the Englishmen, Scotchmen and Irishmen in Canada are answering the call.

The muster rolls of any of the New Brunswick battalions not yet at the front will make a similar showing; also it will be seen that a very large proportion of the Canadian soldiers now at the front, or preparing to go there, are married men. The men who should enlist, the unmarried, young men, are not coming forward as rapidly as expected. The 55th battalion, now at Valcartier, wants 200 or more men to make up its complement. Soon recruiting will start for the 64th. There is abundant opportunity for all who want to go, and they should embrace it.

IN THE EASTERN WAR ZONE.

If the Russian Grand Duke can escape from the tightening grip of the Austro-German forces now almost within striking distance of Warsaw, and can save the Polish city, he will have scored the greatest tactical success of the war. If he is overpowered by the weight of his foes, the reverse, while serious, need not be disastrous. It will have a dispiriting effect upon the Russian campaign, that, of course, is to be expected, just as a notable German triumph on the western line, such as the capture of Calais, would cause gloom and disappointment throughout the Empire.

But even if the Germans should capture Warsaw and then turn their might to the west and manage to break through to Calais, such successes could be but temporary and while they would cause disappointment and prolong the war, they would not lessen the stubborn resistance the Allies would continue to put up to the last man and last gun.

The Russians have shown wonderful resource and rallying power and their commander in chief has more than once succeeded in averting disastrous defeat when the stage seemed set for it. History might repeat itself but even if it should not, and the Austro-German movement should result in the capture of Warsaw and the defeat of the Russian main army it is certain that there will be other armies equal in large, and equally determined, to take the place of the forces that have striven so valiantly and so well to hold back the Hun invasion. No matter what fate may come to Warsaw the Germans will not speedily win their campaign in the east, and in the meantime the pressure on their other fronts will steadily increase.

THE NEED OF MACHINE GUNS.

"We have to rely on rifle fire, while the Germans use machine guns. They must have ten machine guns to our one." The foregoing extract from a statement made to Colin McKay by an officer of the famous but sorely depleted Princess Patricia regiment illustrates very plainly the need for a movement such as that to which a number of St. John citizens are now devoting their energies. The Canadian forces in France are not adequately protected by machine guns and consequently are at an enormous disadvantage when opposed to the modern equipped hordes of the enemy.

The need is great. As already pointed out a lavish supply of machine guns might have saved scores of lives in the battles already fought. If the needed number is forthcoming now, many lives may be spared in the battles to come, battles in which Canadians, including New Brunswickers, must play an important part. The cost of a machine gun is approximately $750, a very low estimate of value to put on a human life. Consequently if the guns that may be secured through the generosity of New Brunswickers help in the saving of one life they will have more than paid for themselves.

The provision of such guns affords an excellent opportunity for men unable to go to the front to aid in the protection of those who do go. As a city pastor, on Sunday night, advised his hearers, "If you can't go yourself, send a machine gun."

The Summons

Britons, along the mighty world's highway,
Waken and throng, from mart and field and glen—
Now looms the day of wrath, the world's dread day,
Propheesied of old by ancient men:—
Arise! Arise!
From every corner of the teeming earth,
Answer and gather;—to her banners come:
Throw down the duty or the dice of mirth,
Responsive to the ominous battle drum—
Prepare! Prepare!

This is no hour for hesitating doubt,
Self-interest's greed, or base ambition's dream:—
The grim red wolves of earth's worst wars are out:
The iron menace and the baleful's gleam.
Enlist! Enlist!
The arrogant Hun against our ancient coasts
Would hurl his serried panoply of steel;
Across the world are heard the despot's boasts,
O'er Europe's lands his awful coil
Arise! Arise!

Waken! For'er you woke to any cause:
Now strikes your hour, to conquer or go down;
To win for freedom, justice and God's laws,
Or sink before the cruel despot's crown.
Arise! Arise!
Go forth and battle as your fathers went,
Who never let a great cause thunder down;
Those wardens, wide, one each far continent,
Of Britain's ancient honor and renown.
Go forth! Go forth!

Go forth and fight; nor will you strive alone,
Earth's valiant ones will battle by your side:—
And strength of all that strength your cause shall own.
The Lord of Hosts will in your van guard ride,
Toward earth's high doom.

Machine Guns

(Ottawa Journal.)
The men who are returning from the front all tell of the same need—machine guns. In the name of common sense let's get them. It looks as though we depended too much on our own strength to win this war while all the time the Germans keep pounding us by forgetting about their souls and using their brains.

Humble Heroes

(Boston Transcript.)
One of the minor but vastly important chapters in the British war story is being written in deeds by her fishermen who numbered when the war broke out about 100,000. The patrol work wherein they were immediately employed was in itself hazardous, but the mine sweeping, which they began to undertake in August and have since daily continued, was as perilous as any work in war. It is due to the hardy English fishermen that the murderous menace of the mine has been kept well in hand. Perhaps the most striking tribute to their work has been given in the Dardanelles, where they cleared the mine areas, a work absolutely indispensable to fleet operations. No more stern test of any man's mettle could be imagined than that he should have to carry out his purpose with death doubly present in mines below the water and in the shells bursting above. Thousands of cases of heroism of these men are already on record.

Where's That New Army?

(Ottawa Journal.)
Lord Lansdowne's statement that Great Britain has only from 440,000 to 460,000 men "in the European theatre of war" is a startling one. British casualties as recently officially stated, and for the Canadian contingent, the fact appears that so far the United Kingdom has sent less than 700,000 men to the war.
Yet at the beginning of the war a year ago, Britain had 700,000 men armed and equipped in the British Isles—namely, 250,000 regulars, 100,000 ex-regular reservists and 350,000 Territorials. And she had 250,000 more British and Indian regulars in India.
Apparently then, Britain after a year has not been using in Europe a man more than she had ready or almost ready in Europe at the outset; and a great deal less than her then full available force.

What in the name of heaven is the matter with the eternally-advertised Kitchener's new army? Why is Russia being pounded and France being slaughtered, and the British periodically overwhelmed by numbers while Britain does not produce at the front as many soldiers as she had ready and armed a year ago?

DELIGHTFUL SUMMER DRINKS.
Many Tempting Beverages from the Same Bottle.
One of the very pleasant features of a bottle of Montserrat Lime Fruit Juice is its versatility.
The ordinary Montserrat beverage is made with a winegustful of Montserrat, some sugar, broken ice, and a glassful of water. This delightful and quenches the thirst.
Another Montserrat beverage can be made by using Soda Water instead of plain water. It gives a little more snap—Golfers like it.
Montserrat can also be used instead of lemons for flavoring frozen punches and ice creams.
Montserrat is not common Lime Juice. It is pressed from fresh cultivated limes from the beautiful island of Montserrat.

Apohaqui, July 19.—The deluge of water along the Millstream valley caused by a cloudburst in the early morning hours of the 18th, has done considerable damage. The water has been comparatively ruined. The highway roads also suffered much damage in the washing out of small bridges and cross-ways.

James Bros. logs, which are being sawed at the mouth of the Millstream here, were retained, though with much difficulty. A singular coincidence was that on the same date, one year ago a similar cloudburst visited the Millstream valley and at that time James Bros. boom at the same place gave way and the logs went adrift.

The numerous friends of Mrs. Leslie Urquhart, who has been so critically ill, are much gratified to hear that she is slightly improved, and shows prospects of ultimate recovery.

The ladies of the local Red Cross Branch are very grateful for the knitting of 12 pairs of socks, received by Mrs. Geo. B. Jones from the ladies of Belleisle Creek per Mrs. Jesse Northrup.

New York, July 19.—Attorney for Lawrence Webber received word from Philadelphia today that the United States Circuit Court of Appeals had handed down a decision in the case which was being brought against the Deputy Customs Collector of Newark, for an injunction restraining him from preventing Webber bringing into the United States the Willard-Johnson fight films. One of the attorneys announced that an immediate appeal will be taken to the United States Supreme Court.

BROWN AND SIMMONS PLEASED LYRIC PATRONS

Excellent Programme at Popular Theatre.

A programme of vaudeville and film features, a pleasing entertainment for the summer season was offered at the Lyric Theatre yesterday and despite the fact that the weather suggested anything but indoor amusement the popular theatre was well crowded at every performance.

Brown and Simmons in character studies, comedy singing and talking present an act that is built along lines that are new and therefore very pleasing. Miss Simmons is a gifted actress whose dramatic ability especially is well shown in her rendering of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poem of life, "The Price He Paid." Mr. Brown has a beautifully toned tenor voice which he uses to advantage in the Irish number, "Mother Machree" and also in the duet of "When It's Tulp Time in Holland."

Miss Winifred Greenwood is the star in the picture programme and is featured in a beautiful play by the American Co., "When a Woman Waits" in which she portrays several life characters. The Mutual Weekly has an excellent supply of war views as well as numerous scenes of popular interest.

For the latter part of the week two sterling vaudeville attractions have been booked in The Mexican Herman and Billy Newton.

When You Wash Your Hair Don't Use Soap

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is just plain purified coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

MORE COMEDY, SINGING AND DANCING AT OPERA

Good Crowd Witnessed Empire Musical Comedy Company Production.

The Empire Musical Comedy Company, which ends its summer engagement this week at the Opera House, provided a good entertainment last night in a programme of fun, music and dancing. A feature of the offering, as on previous occasions, was the excellent costuming of the ladies and careful attention to stage settings. The company has been, somewhat handicapped during the last few days by the unavoidable absence of the Murray brothers, who were called home because of sickness in the family. They are expected here today, and many will be glad to see them back. With Mike Sachs, Dick Stead, Eugene Sweet, Dave Harris, Miss Ethel Geary, Miss Beatrice Miller, Miss Olive Perkins, Miss Marie Girard, the dainty danseuse, and other capable artists, there was no lack of material, however, for a good period of enjoyment last night.

A large audience was present, and although nothing was attempted in the way of a deep plot, there was enough in the presentation to suit the theatre-goer, who likes a little plotting, for the girl finally marries the young man of her choice, and the older man, who holds a mortgage on the property of the girl's father and threatens to foreclose unless the girl consents to marry him, receives his money, and incidentally his status, at the hands of the more juvenile aspirant.

A graveyard scene was a strong feature of the offering and afforded the opportunity for many a laugh which was taken advantage of by the audience in a genuine way. Izzy (Mike Sachs) had a commission there, but didn't seem to like his job, and it meant the earning of a real ten dollar bill. His antics, and those of some of the corpses about him, formed the occasion for much merriment. Dick Stead did well with songs and seems to have established himself as a favorite for his special kind of work. His singing has been much appreciated here. Good words must be said of the ladies of the company, who had plenty to do last night. Their dancing and singing were much above the average, and with gorgeous costumes they certainly did much to make the show the success it was. The same offering will be made tonight.

WANT GOVERNMENT TO REGULATE COMPETITION IN LUMBER BUSINESS

Chicago, July 19.—Governmental regulation of competition as opposed to the government's activity against trusts and monopolies is a necessity, according to representatives of the lumber industry who presented formal statements describing present conditions in their trade at a conference held here today between the Federal Trade Commission and a committee representing the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association. Uncontrolled price cutting and other ruinous competitive practices were blamed by R. H. Dowman of New Orleans, president of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, for the present situation in the lumber industry. He described the situation as being one of demoralization for the last eight years, in which at this time a condition of actual loss and a shameful waste of forest resources in the face of the necessity of providing employment for 695,000 men upon whom are dependent 3,475,000 persons. These figures, he added, showed the lumber industry to be the third largest in the United States in the number of employed engaged.

He was assigned to this duty today by Attorney-General Woodbury.

AT THE WHEEL WITH CHARLIE CHAPLIN

A Scream Comedy for Unique Audiences.

A good lively up to the minute farce, the principal players being Chas. Chaplin, Mabel Normand, Chester Conklin and Mack Sennet places the Keystone two part comedy production, "The Wheel," now being shown at the Unique Theatre, at the head of the list of Chaplin comedies. With the above noted cast of comedians this brilliant farce waxes warm and fast in good clean fun and there is not a dull moment in the two thousand feet of film it takes to exploit.

The thread of the story centers around a big auto show in San Francisco and deals largely with the escapades of Chaplin and Miss Normand on the automobile race track. Chaplin appears as the villain of the piece and it is doubtful if he ever has been seen to better advantage. His efforts to take the title of victor from Miss Normand results in a series of laughable situations that prove most enjoyable. The comedy element is decidedly strong and is played with a vim that compels the most sedate to sit back and allow the laughter to escape.

HARTLAND SENDS ANOTHER IN ANSWER TO CALL FOR MEN

Curtis Simms, Normal School Graduate, Joins Unit Going to Fill Gap in Capt. Magee's Company.

Special to The Standard. Hartland, N. B., July 19.—Hartland has contributed another young man to the defence of the Empire. Curtis Simms, aged 18 years, who has just completed a course in the Normal School at Fredericton, and instead of devoting his energies to teaching is going to the front.

Mr. Simms had proposed going to Kingston to prepare for the duties as a commissioned officer, but learning of a vacancy in the ranks of the artillery unit which is going direct to fill up the gaps in the company of Capt. Magee of St. John, now at the front, he got in touch with the proper officers and on Saturday received a wire stating that if he got in St. John later than Monday night he would be taken on.

He is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. G. Simms. Although the notice was short, the news soon spread and there was a grand demonstration awaiting him at the station when the train pulled out. The band was present and played several patriotic airs. After the service in the Baptist church, on Sunday evening the pastor, Rev. George Kincaid called Mr. Simms to the front and on behalf of the congregation presented him with a handsome wrist watch, at the same time speaking a few words of advice and expressing the hope of the congregation that he would come home safely with honor to his country and proud over his achievements on the field of battle. Mr. Simms in reply made a short speech in which was the true ring of patriotism.

MAN WHO HOLDS KEY TO CARLETON COUNTY MYSTERY MISSING

Man who claims he saw Easton, Me. farmer murdered last October, has disappeared.

Hartland, N. B., July 17.—Active measures are just now being taken to unravel the mystery connected with a murder which took place at Easton, Me., last October. Sheriff Frost of Maine and several assistants are now scouring Carleton county in search of the only person, besides the one who committed the crime, who can throw any light on the subject.

The story, as told by the officers, is that last summer a farmer at Easton had a man working for him who came from Andover, Mass., and that early in October, his work having been finished, the employer was driving him to the station on his return home. At a lonely spot on the road the team was stopped, the driver got out and going behind the wagon struck his companion with a heavy club, killing him. The body was then dragged into the bushes by the roadside and the team drove on.

This is the story that was told to several people this spring by a young man who claimed he saw the whole affair from another road where he was unseen by the parties in the team. He had kept the matter to himself for some time through fear of being arrested or otherwise implicated, but later told a police officer, at Fort Fairfield of the affair and described the spot where the body was hidden. The officer post-pooled the whole affair and said no more about it. The witness told others of the matter later, and, in order to satisfy themselves that the man was only spinning a yarn, search was made and the body discovered as described. In the meantime the sole witness to the crime had come into Carleton county, where he belongs, and it is to find him that the officers are now combing the country hereabouts.

They have with them a man named Wasson, to whom the story was told and who claims to be able to identify the witness. At Windsor on Thursday they thought they had found their man at the place he held there, but, when confronted with Wasson, he proved to be the wrong party. Several scents have been followed but none of them have been successful. The assistance of Officer A. R. Foster, who has a better knowledge of the county and the people in it than almost any other, has been sought and the search may shortly result in the location of the party who can do more than anyone else to place the guilt where it belongs.

The driver of the team, accused of the crime, has languished in jail since last fall pending the finding of the elusive witness.

CONTENTS OF STRONG BOX PRODUCED

Commission Investigating Manitoba Parliament Building case sees contents of Dr. Simpson's Strong Box.

Winnipeg, Man., July 19.—Dr. R. M. Simpson's famous strong box in the Royal Trust's vaults has been opened and the contents were produced in court today. It was a memorandum written on an Imperial Bank deposit slip and showing apparently that twenty thousand dollars in one thousand twenty dollar bills had been received in a package from the Imperial Bank by Dr. Simpson. The memorandum was affixed to the Imperial Bank seal and the strings used in fastening the original package were attached. No money was found in the box. The memorandum was updated.

The commission investigating the parliamentary buildings today heard further evidence regarding the transaction through the home bank by former cabinet ministers J. H. Howden and Hugh Armstrong.

C. C. Campbell, of the Home Bank staff, testified that a check drawn by Howden was cashed in April by Armstrong, five thousand dollars being paid in five hundred and one thousand dollar bills. Howden swore last Friday this was a private business transaction.

A. J. Andrews, Conservative counsel, wanted to call Mr. Armstrong to corroborate Howden's evidence as to this transaction, but he was not present and may be called later.

C. B. Wilson, chief Liberal counsel, reported to the commission he attended at the opening of Dr. R. M. Simpson's strong box in the Royal Trust Company, with Harvey Simpson. Chairman Mathers handed to the court the contents of the box as exhibit "A."

DENIES HE IS TOO HEAVY FOR LIGHTWEIGHT CLASS

Willie Ritchie, the American lightweight champion, still is very much in the running. Incensed by the reports sent out by the promoters that he had outgrown the class and for that reason was forced to decline the offer to meet Freddie Welsh at Brighton Beach last Saturday, Ritchie sends the following letter expelling his attitude.

San Francisco, Cal., July 3, 1915. I take this opportunity of writing regarding my future plans and the reason why I requested to meet Welsh at 138 pounds instead of 135, on July 3. When I received word from Harry Pollock the manager to get into the ring for the match on the continent and train for the match.

Now you know that a boxer who has any regard for the public or himself requires at least two weeks on the ground to get himself into the proper condition to permit him giving the public a run for their money, and any promoter who allows a boxer to go into the ring without having trained properly is guilty of bringing the public, and perhaps that is one reason why the public, especially in New York, do not attend the shows as much as they did years back, for they are disgusted with seeing poorly trained men, also badly matched boxers, trying to put up high class bouts.

For the next two months I will remain in the west, where I will spend most of the time hunting and fishing in the mountains. I will be ready to resume training and boxing early in September and will accept the best match offered any time after September 20, as I will take at least three weeks of September to get into shape before I agree to meet any one, and I hope my first opponent will be Freddie Welsh; and you can rest assured I will be in shape to go the fastest I know how, as I always endeavor to give the best I have in every I close a match.

I think I have proved my sincerity in this respect in my two only appearances in New York city against Gross and Welsh. That kind of condition is across the board in eight days' time, and how foolish it is to try and reach the goal in any other way! I know I never could satisfy myself that I could win over any one without getting in good shape, and for me to have attempted to make 135 in eight days would have left me in poor shape, especially after five days' ride on a train. If you look back to my past matches as champion of the world, also my match with Welsh last March, you will find that I made 134 and 135 pounds on the day of the contest and always gave a satisfactory account while in the ring.

I do not blame Harry Pollock for allowing me thirteen days' time to cross the continent and only eight days' time to train and make weight. If I were fool enough to fall for it, it would serve me right to get trimmed. But does Harry Pollock ever think of the fans that pay their money to see us in action and to whom we boxers owe all we earn? If he does, then he has no right to let a boxer who is out of condition enter a ring with only eight days' time to train. But Pollock has a champion who figures only on staying in ten rounds, and he does not want opponents of his champion to train at all, for fear they might make it tough for his champion. It sure is tough to try to serve two ends at one time and you will find that Pollock has his hands full.

DENIES HE IS TOO HEAVY FOR LIGHTWEIGHT CLASS

Also I will guarantee there will be no sore headed fans leaving the arena complaining of my rotten condition of standing. But this goes for late in September and not thirteen days from today. Trusting this will find you well and my best wishes until you see me in September, I am, yours truly,

WILLIE RITCHIE. Evidently Ritchie takes it for granted that Welsh will refuse to meet him in a real battle with a decision at stake, as he makes no mention of anything of the kind. Welsh is very shrewdly erected an impossible barrier by demanding the impossible sum of $25,000 for his end. His attempt to justify his stand by pointing out that Ritchie himself held out for that sum when he was champion and Welsh the contender. At first glance this seems to be reasonable enough, but it hardly bears close examination, for the fact remains that it was possible for Welsh to locate a promoter willing to grant Ritchie his terms, but it is impossible for Ritchie to find a promoter foolish enough to offer the same inducements to Welsh. Present conditions do not permit the promoters at Denver and New Orleans—the only cities open for the bout—to duplicate the reckless bid of the English promoter who staged the Welsh-Ritchie affair in London.

Features of the game was a three base hit by Sharkey with the bases full in the sixth inning. The holding of Gibbon as short stop for the Thistles, he having eight assists and two put outs, accepting all chances in the third inning Joe Harrington made a pretty throw from deep centre catching a runner at the plate. Tonight's game—Maples vs. Shamrocks.

AVELOCKS, 8; MILKMAN, 6. Last evening the Havelocks defeated the Milkmen in a six inning game of ball on the Marathon Grounds by a score of 8 to 6. Cook and McCaw was the battery for the winners; Thompson, A. Cook and Parker for the losers. The fielding of Marshall, and sensational catches by Shannon were features of the game.

ALEXANDER BEST PITCHER IN THE GAME. The batteries for today's game will be Alexander and Killifer for the Phillies.

For today Alexander stands out as the greatest pitcher in the country. He stands out, on this season's record, as even greater than the mighty Walter Johnson of the Washington Senators. Foxy Clark Griffith, leader of the Washington Senators, will tell you this is all wrong and that Johnson is still greater than Alexander.

But ask any player or manager in the National League to tell you the greatest pitcher in the game and he will immediately answer you by declaring that Alexander is greater than Johnson. Mer McGraw has declared for several years that Alexander is the best of them all and the great pitcher of the Phillies has certainly lived up to McGraw's statement this year.

Alexander to date has won 19 games, lost three, tied one and figured in another that the Phillies lost. Three times he came within an inch of pitching his name in the Hall of Fame. Against the Cardinals on June 5 Alexander did not allow a hit until after two were out in the ninth inning. Later on, on June 26, he faced the Robins and held them riddle until two were out in the eighth inning. Then Zach Wheat bounced a hit into short left. Like the game against the Cards, it was the only hit made off him.

Following this game, he pitched against the Braves, and although he won, he allowed five runs and nine hits. However, he pitched another one-hit game against the Giants, not allowing a hit until the seventh inning. On Friday he held the Pirates hitless for seven innings, then in the eighth Hans Wagner, the once great Flying Dutchman, bounced a hit over the right field wall. Alexander allowed another hit in the ninth, but this was all and the Phillies won by 2 runs to 1. So far Alexander has won eight straight games and it looks as if it will be some time before he is beaten again. Alexander started out the season in a healthy manner, shutting out the Braves. He then beat the Giants, allowing them only one run. After this he scored twice over the Braves and then beat the Giants again.

In the last game of the series, on May 5, Mr. Pat Moran sent him out to repeat over the Giants. His rival on the mound was Ralph Stroud, the young Giant pitcher. Stroud out pitched the great star of the Phillies and he suffered his first defeat of the season by 4 runs to 2. Alexander pitched eight innings against the Giants and allowed three runs.

Alexander, however, came right back in his next start and beat the Cardinals. He then scored over the Cardinals, but struck a snag when he faced the Reds. The Reds, with Gene Dale pitching, scored a 6 to 2 victory over him. This was the worst game Alexander has pitched this season as he allowed 11 hits.

He shut out the Cubs next, but ran up against the Braves afterward and was beaten by the world's champions on the day that the Braves raised the pennant. Since then he has not lost a game. In Alexander's great record he has scored five shut outs, the victims being the Braves, Cubs, Robins, Giants and Cardinals.

Alexander has pitched in 100 innings. He has allowed 44 runs which is a little more than an average of two runs per game. The opposing team has made only 112 hits off him and he has struck out 135 players so far.

Harold A. Lynam STILL UNCONSCIOUS LATE LAST NIGHT Run Down by Automobile Yesterday Morning at Renforth.

Harold A. Lynam was seriously injured yesterday morning by being struck by an automobile while hurrying from the house of his brother-in-law, I. H. Northrup at Renforth to catch the suburban train. Crossing the road, he passed behind a milk wagon standing there and, in stepping beyond the wagon, Mr. Lynam was struck and knocked down by an automobile owned and driven by Herbert Emery.

The injured man was carried into Mr. Northrup's residence and when examined by Dr. Walker, who had been summoned from the city, it was found that Mr. Lynam was severely cut about the head and face. Several stitches were required for the wounds in his head.

At a late hour last night he was still unconscious.

Whether the unfortunate man is injured internally or not is as yet not known and his condition is causing great anxiety among his friends and relatives.

In the car at the time of the accident were W. C. Brown, Harry Barnes, Mr. Byles and Mrs. Emery. The car was going at a moderate speed and the cause was merely due to Mr. Lynam's stepping from behind the milk team at the moment the car was passing. The occupants did not see him until it was too late, although Mr. Emery did everything possible to avoid the collision.

TORNADO STRUCK NORTH HEAD GRAND MANAN ON SUNDAY

Vessels Driven Ashore, Schooner Dismasted and Other Damage Done to Property—Worst Storm Ever Experienced on the Island.

A tornado which struck North Head, Grand Manan, about 2.15 o'clock Sunday morning drove several vessels ashore, dismasted a schooner and did great damage to property in that part of the island. The storm suddenly broke from a clear sky and had passed within fifteen minutes. The high wind was accompanied by thunder and lightning as well as a heavy downpour of rain mixed with hail.

The steamer Grand Manan was lying at her dock at North Head at the time and Captain N. S. MacKinnon says the storm was the worst he ever experienced. A black cloud suddenly came into view and the wind burst with great fury from the southwest. The wind continued in that direction for about fifteen minutes and then shifted and broke suddenly.

The storm struck the steamer Grand Manan broadside and while it jammed her against the wharf, it caused her to list over on one side until her stowage was under water. Driving along with the wind was a wall of water about four feet high and this washed through the freight deck.

Captain MacKinnon said that at the time the storm struck the steamer he was lying in his berth and the rain came so hard that before he could close the window there was nearly an inch of water on the cabin floor. A large gang plank on the upper deck of the steamer, which takes four men to handle, was picked up by the wind and blown from the deck into the warehouse.

The tornado traveled in a path only a half mile wide and the storm did not strike on the southern part of the island at all.

The roads were turned into rivers, and cellars were flooded. Fences were blown down, chimneys knocked over, staunch old trees that had withered many a hard gale were uprooted.

The building in which Peter Dixon conducts a general store was considerably damaged. Part of the roof was blown off and a corner of the ell of the building was torn away. Windows in J. Dixon's house and in other houses were broken either by the wind or the heavy hail stones. Many of the citizens became so alarmed by the storm that they left their homes and sought safety in the open.

Four barns were blown down. Telephone wires were torn from the poles and for the eighteen minutes that the storm lasted there was great disorder.

It is fortunate that the storm happened when it did as all the fishermen were in port for Sunday. Had they been at sea fishing there would have been some loss of life if the storm broke without any warning, and would not have given the fishermen time to prepare for it.

Bridge Down. The bridgework on the breakwater running to the fog bell was destroyed and thrown over the sea wall in a twisted lot of wreckage.

Schooner Dismasted. The United States schooner James L. Maloy, 147 tons, Captain Ervin White, had put into the harbor at North Head Saturday night and came to anchor until a favorable chance would be given when she could continue her voyage which was from Sand River, Nova Scotia, to Boston. The vessel is loaded with lumber and as she rode at anchor she had her mainmast set. Captain White and his crew were asleep in their berths when the storm struck. The tornado threw the Maloy over on her beam end, so far that the water reached over the deck to the hatches. In an instant the two masts were broken off at the deck and as the mass of spars and rigging toppled over the side it broke the jibboom off. Captain White and the officers of the crew were thrown out of their bunks and rushed to the deck.

Fortunately the schooner's anchor held and this prevented the craft from being driven ashore.

The James L. Maloy is a schooner about fifty years old. The cargo is insured in Boston, but it is said that there is no insurance on the vessel. Capt. Mucabee of St. John, representing the underwriters, will go to Grand Manan on the steamer tomorrow to look after the cargo. It is not stated what will be done, but it is believed that the schooner will probably be towed to Boston with her cargo.

Driven Ashore. Four auxiliary fishing schooners hailing from Eastport were in the harbor to spend Sunday and intended going to the fishing grounds again on Monday morning. Two were driven ashore of the tornado and the high wall of water. The fishermen on board could do nothing to save their vessels, but each man was obliged to hang on for dear life. With a rush the two vessels were carried away and were dashed high and dry on the beach, so far in fact that the crews were able to jump ashore on dry land.

When the storm subsided these vessels were left upon the beach above the high water mark. They were both launched into deep water on Sunday afternoon. Another fishing vessel had no person on board when the storm broke. She picked up her anchor and was driven out to sea. The captain of the schooner was notified that his craft had gone to sea and after the storm subsided he started out in another craft in pursuit and came up with her just in time to save her from drifting onto a ledge. She was brought back to port under her own power.

The oldest residents on the island state that it was the worst blow they have ever experienced and the captains who experienced the storm say that they have never seen in similar storms in the south, but that which struck North Head, Grand Manan, on Sunday morning was the worst they have ever seen in.
