MULHALL DEFENSE SCORES IN THE GRAFT INVESTIGATION

City Laborers Deny Working On a Private Job.

MULHALL PAID FOR THE GRAVEL

Receipts From Contractors Are Produced Before Judge Macbeth.

Witnesses for the defence in the investigation of the charges made by Ald. Tancock against Ward Foreman Patrick Mulhall at this morning's session apparently succeeded in battering down some of the testimony of the prosecution.

It had been stated that about 20 loads of gravel were delivered by different teamsters to Mulhall's yard, and that about the same time Mulhall constructed a new foundation beneath his house, employing city laborers, who were drawing corporation wages, although on private works.

It was also claimed that Mulhall built a sidewalk for Mr. Frank Lawson at his residence on Cheapside street, and that the ward 4 street gang was used on the job.

The Defence.

According to today's evidence, not more than eight or nine loads of gravel were utilized in the construction work on Mulhall's place, and this was all purchased from the Boss Bros. and paid for by Mulhall. The Boss Bros. do not work for the city, but have from 15 to 25 teams engaged on private contracts.

The two Simpsons, corporation laborers, who, it was claimed, worked on the Lawson sidewalk, swore that they never saw the job, while others who did admit that they were employed there, stated that they were paid by J. A. Beecroft, a contractor, during a slack time on the corporation.

The statement that Beecroft himself was a city laborer, and that he completed a job on Richmond street, near Dundas, after leaving Lawson's, was also explained. Under oath, he stated that he took the contract as a private venture, and that he secured a number of city men, who like himself, were out of employment, owing to snow and frost in the early part of April.

Not on Pay Sheets.

The names of these men do not appear on the city pay sheets for the time in question, they having been laid off. However, when he was finishing the work, Mulhall approached him, and asked him to do the smooth finishing work on a sidewalk on Richmond street, in the business section, which should be rushed. He stated that he would not be through that day, but that on the following day he would have a couple of hours in which he could get away.

However, as his usual rate was $3 a day for finishing, which is said to require a large amount of skill, he agreed with Mulhall to be paid a full day at the laborer's scale, which was $1 98 a day. It was also agreed that his mixing board should be brought down by city teamsters. This was done, as agreed to, and he finished between 2 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

But one witness remains to be heard, although Mr. Mulhall may be called if the judge desires it, at the adjourned session on Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Today's Evidence.

The evidence today was rather lengthy.

Philip Edwards, a teamster for the city, swore that he had taken gravel from the city's storage in Mulhall's

APPEAL WILL COME UP ON JULY 28

Proprietors of Local Theatres Object to P. M. Judd's Ruling.

The hearing of the appeal against the decision of Magistrate Judd in the case of the Unique Theatre, whose doorkeeper was fined $50 for allowing a lad under 15 years of age to enter the theatre unattended, has been set for July 28, and will probably be heard before Judge Elliott.

Local theatre men are keenly interested in the outcome, as the defence will endeavor to show that the lad did not see the show at all, but had merely got as far as the door when the policeman stopped him.

Mr. John O. Dromgole is representing the theatre.

ELECTIONS ONLY SIX WEEKS OFF

Indications Are Polling Will Take Place Within Six Weeks.

HOUSE OPENS WEDNESDAY

Opposition Will Seek Delay by Repeatedly Moving Adjournment.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Ont., July 17.—From three to six weeks more and then a general election, with reciprocity as the issue, seems to be the accepted programme for the Canadian law makers who are today returning to the capital for the resumption of business, where it was dropped on May 19, when the adjournment took place.

There has been no great rush of parliamentarians yet, and it is expected that there will not be full houses before next week. However, men are in from the east, west and centre, representing both political parties and they all seem to feel that dissolution may take place in three weeks, and must take place within six weeks.

Election Wanted.

The Government wants an election and the Opposition have gone too far toward forcing one to back down now.

The Conservatives have no expectation of winning, and very little hope of improving their position.

The journey of Mr. Borden through the west dispelled some of the illusions which influenced the conduct of the party in opposition to reciprocity. There has been a change of sentiment reported among the fruit growers of Ontario, and some of manufacturing, financial and railroad opponents of reciprocity are said to be getting cold feet and receding from their position.

There will be meetings of both sides tomorrow or Wednesday, and at each the programme for the session will be discussed. The Government will doubtless put forward their reciprocity measure at once, and the Opposition will seek delay by moving adjournments to enable them to discuss the proceedings at the recent imperial conference, and a number of other general questions.

ANGLO-JAP TREATY HELPS AUSTRALIA

Lengthens the Time in Which To Prepare For Trouble.

[Canadian Press.]

Melbourne, Australia, July 17.—The acting premier, William Morris Hughes, in an interview today, said that Australians might congratulate themselves upon the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty. This would give Australia ten years instead of four to prepare for the defence of the country against imminent danger.

PORCUPINE SURVIVOR TELLS OF AN AWFUL FIGHT FOR LIFE

Mr. Joseph A. McDonald Took Shelter Under an Old Dock Where He Almost Met Death From Flames and Water.

Mr. Joseph A. McDonald, formerly of this city, and one of the survivors of the South Porcupine fire, arrived in London on Sunday. In an interview with The Advertiser he told graphically of his narrow escape from the flames which devastated the town of South Porcupine and the neighboring mines.

Mr. McDonald is interested in a number of mining properties and mines in the Porcupine district. With a number of others he took refuge in the edge of the lake, under the shelter of an old dock, to which they clung with difficulty, to save themselves from drowning. With their hands they splashed and threw water on the sides of the dock to keep it from burning. Others, huddled directly under the dock, were nearly drowned with the waves which every now and then rolled over the planking. Had it not been for these waves, which were caused by the fierce storm on the lake, the dock would have burned, despite their efforts, and they would have perished, along with the many others who, in taking refuge from the flames, sank in the waters of the lake.

An Awful Experience.

With the storm the water in the lake rose and fell like a tide, and those under the dock were cooped up like so many rats in a trap. Notwithstanding the muddy water, which nearly choked them time and again, they held out until the flames had retreated from the shore. It was impossible to remain near the edge of the lake, so intense was the heat.

"It was a veritable inferno," said Mr. McDonald to The Advertiser. "It was as nearly like hell as one could imagine. Wild animals from the forests, rabbits, squirrels, other small game, and even a terrified bear followed the fleeing people to the water's edge. Domestic animals, dogs particularly, seemed to act the most foolishly of anything. They seemed to lack the instinct of the wild things, and, maddened by the burning heat, ran through the flames and writhed in inconceivable torture in the seething mass of fire and blinding smoke."

Mr. McDonald told also how the foreman of the Foley-O'Brien mines had stood with a loaded revolver and forced the miners to battle with the flames, the while he cursed and shouted with terrifying language and intensity. In this way a great deal of the mine property was saved.

Mr. McDonald intends to return to Porcupine very soon. He is leaving this afternoon for Montreal, where he will spend a short time before going north again.

AMERICANS HELP THE FIRE SUFFERERS

One Thousand Dollars Sent to Aid in Relieving Distress at Porcupine.

Ottawa, July 17.—Huntingdon Wilson, chairman of the international relief fund of the American Red Cross Society at Washington, wired Sir Wilfrid Laurier today expressing the sympathy with the Porcupine sufferers, and authorizing the Premier to draw on the society for $1,000 for relief. Sir Wilfrid wired a message of gratitude on behalf of the sufferers in reply.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will this afternoon receive a deputation from the local fire relief fund committee, which will urge immediate Government relief for the Porcupine fire sufferers.

A MEETING TONIGHT IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

It Is Likely That All Differences Will Be Smoothed Over.

A meeting will be held tonight at which it is hoped to terminate the various problems which have been disturbing the even way of the Church of St. John the Evangelist for some time past.

Yesterday Rev. W. T. Hill announced that he had been commanded by His Lordship the Bishop to call a meeting of the registered voters of the parish to sanction the change of position of Canon Craig and himself. This will be followed by a meeting of the vestry to restore the church to its proper constitutional state and ecclesiastical standing.

If the appointment of Canon Craig to the rectorship of St. John's Church is acceptable to the meeting, Rev. Mr. Hill will go to Petrolea.

The meeting tonight will be held in the church.

INDIANS ON WAY TO THE FLAX FIELDS

Plenty of Work for Redmen—Farmers Glad to Get Them.

Dozens of Indians, men, women and little children, were to be seen about the city, and at the Grand Trunk depot today. All are bound for the northern counties, where for the next few weeks there will be any quantity of work for them, pulling flax. Probably 200 from Oneida and Muncey reserves went up north this morning, and many others are going up on the train this evening.

"Indians can get plenty of work these times," said one of the braves to The Advertiser, "farmers want us to do all sorts of things. Flax pulling is better pay while it lasts, and many of us are going up. More Indians have been working in the city from the reserves this year than ever before, and they all like it and say they get good pay and are well treated."

NEWSPAPERMAN IN HEROIC ACT

Sporting Editor Fitzgerald, of Toronto, Saves Two From Drowning.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, July 17.—The courage and presence of mind of J. P. Fitzgerald, sporting editor of the Telegram, resulted in saving two women from drowning yesterday at the Island. Mrs. Hemming and a lady friend were in bathing, when they slipped into a deep hole. Mrs. Hemming could swim a little, and she made a brave effort to save her companion, but one of them had gone down for the last time and Mrs. Hemming was almost unconscious when Mr. Fitzgerald noticed their plight. He rushed in without waiting to remove any of his clothing, dived and recovered the woman who had disappeared, and after dragging her to shore plunged in again and rescued Mrs. Hemming. After half an hour's work both women were resuscitated.

POLICE BELIEVE THEY'VE CAUGHT A YOUTHFUL BICYCLE THIEF

Fred Fuller, Aged 17, Arraigned in Court On Two Charges, and Officers Declare Him To Be Guilty of Many More Cases of Theft.

The police believe that they have succeeded in running to earth the youth who is responsible for a number of the numerous bicycle thefts which have been occurring in the city in the last few weeks.

At today's session of the police court, Fred Fuller, alias Henry Doyle, whose place of abode the police have been unable to learn, was arraigned on charges of having stolen wheels from George F. Hardy and Russell Shaw.

Mr. Hardy's wheel was taken from in front of a Richmond street store, and Mr. Shaw's from the C. P. R. depot. Fuller in court today gave his age as 17, and says he came out to this country from Ballymeny, Ireland, with his parents several years ago.

Since coming out, he says, both his father and mother died, and he told the court that he has not a friend or relative in the world. In pleading not guilty, he said that another lad named Fred Fuller, whom he met while out fishing, stole both wheels.

But when Detective Down arrested the prisoner, he gave the name of Fred Fuller, and when asked today where the other Fuller was, said that he had left the city.

The lad said he didn't know where the other Fuller had gone. Closely examined by the detectives, young Fuller told a variety of stories and confessed that Fuller is his right name. Witnesses in the case told of his having brought bicycles to various stores and offered them for sale for $5 each.

Magistrate Judd decided to remand him until Friday.

EXPRESS JAMMED WITH TOURISTS WRECKED AT GERMAN TOWN

Seventeen Are Dead and Scores Injured—Canadians and Americans May Have Been Amongst the Victims.

[Canadian Press.]

Mullheim, Germany, July 17.—A through express from Basel, Switzerland for Berlin, crowded with a heavy tourist traffic, was wrecked here today. Seventeen persons are known to have been killed, while scores of others were injured, many of them seriously.

Great confusion followed the accident, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that the extent of the disaster could be determined. Up to this evening the dead had not been identified and it was impossible to learn whether there were Canadians or Americans among the victims.

The accident occurred as the train coming from the south was entering the station. The locomotive was derailed and was followed from the tracks by four cars, a first-class, a second-class, and two tourists

Cars Telescoped.

These cars telescoped each other. At the same time the remaining cars were thrown to the opposite side of the track and piled against the trains standing on the south-bound rails. No passengers in the first three coaches escaped injury. Those in the other cars suffered less from the accident.

It is possible that more bodies will be found in the wreck. The people of the little resort appear to have been stunned by the magnitude of the disaster.

FIRE ACCOMPANIED BY BIG WINDSTORM

Edward Saddy Receives Letter From His Brother in the Porcupine.

Edward Saddy, of 74½ Dundas street, received a letter on Saturday from his brother, Solomon Saddy, of Porcupine, stating that he had escaped harm during the forest fire. In his letter he said that the fire had been accompanied in the vicinity of Porcupine City with great windstorms, which had torn large trees out by the roots and carried them considerable distances. Had it not been for the hurricane, the fire would not have spread so rapidly. Mr. Saddy was a Syrian merchant in Golden City, where there was quite a colony of Syrians, some of them formerly of London. All escaped harm, although their stores and dwellings were almost entirely wiped out by the fire.

PARTING OF WAYS SAYS WHITNEY

Springs the Stock Objections to Reciprocity at New York.

SEES COUNTRY DIVIDED

Declares Agreement Will Split the Dominion Into Two Sections.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, July 17.—"I am and always have been opposed to reciprocity, and I am sanguine that when the people of Canada look carefully into the matter they will oppose it."

So declared Sir James Pliny Whitney, prime minister of the Province of Ontario, who arrived here yesterday on the steamer Cedric, homeward bound from the coronation. The opposition, he expected, would be for three prime reasons, all of which have been furnished by President Taft, he added.

Sir James expressed strong admiration for President Taft, but declared that Canada's best interests lay in strengthening the ties with the mother country. The three reasons which Sir James says Mr. Taft had furnished for rejecting the agreement are:

"That Canada has now come to the parting of the ways; she must either seek to bind herself more closely to the mother country, or ——" Here Sir James stopped and smiled, declining to finish the sentence. "Second," he said, "the United States would never get another opportunity to break the attempt to knit more closely the relations of Canada and England; and, thirdly, the American farmer would sell more produce with reciprocity than without it."

"This is enough to convince anyone that reciprocity would not be for Canada's benefit," he added. "Canada has now grown to be a nation. Her lines of transportation are settled and secure. The effect of reciprocity would be to disrupt these lines and to divide the country into two sections, east and west, diverting to the United States trade which should belong to Canada."

GOOD SHOOTING.

Halifax, N. S., July 17. — In the final match of the Canadian Rifle League competition on Saturday at the Bedford range, Staff Sergeant Longeuil made 104 out of a possible of 105; Lieut. R. A. Johnson, 102, and Pte. E. W. Nickerson, 101. The first-named score so far as known constitutes a record for the league. All the marksmen named are from the Sixty-third Regiment. The highest score made by the Sixty-sixth Regiment team was 98, by Staff Sergeant Armstrong.

MASONIC GRAND LODGE.

St. Catharines, July 17.—Delegates to the Masonic Grand Lodge of Ontario are arriving on every train today, and despite the heavy downpour of rain, the city is putting on a gay appearance with flags and bunting. The various delegates commenced work at noon, and will conclude at noon tomorrow, the grand lodge proper opening Wednesday morning. About twelve hundred delegates are expected, and private houses are being thrown open to accommodate all the comers.

LAMBETH HAD A CLOSE CALL IN BAD FIRE SUNDAY MORNING

Lightning Struck Barn Owned by Dr. G. A. Routledge on a Farm Rented by Lambert Tunks—Loss Is About $2,500—Fire Protection Badly Needed.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Lambeth, July 17. — Only the hardest kind of work on the part of a bucket brigade, formed of men, women and children, saved this village from being wiped out by fire about 1 o'clock yesterday morning, when, during the heavy storm that passed over here, lightning struck the big barn, owned by Dr. G. A. Routledge, on the farm he rents to Lambert Tunks, and completely destroyed it, with the season's crops, and all Mr. Tunks' horses, implements, pigs and chickens.

A terrific wind was blowing, but fortunately it was away from the adjoining buildings. Had these caught, it is doubtful if anything could have prevented the flames from making a clean sweep of the whole village. As it was, the heat from the big barn was so intense that more than once the fire-fighters began to despair of stopping the fire.

Very Hard Luck.

Mr. Tunks had worked until late on Saturday evening getting the last of his wheat stored safely in the barn. He had retired some time when the storm came up, and was awakened by a terrific clap of thunder and hurried out to find the barn in flames.

The blaze spread very rapidly, and by the time the neighbors gathered it was useless to try and save anything. As soon as it was seen that there was the gravest danger of the fire spreading to adjoining premises, men and women ran for pails, and every pump in the village was kept going for over an hour. The heavy downpour of rain helped the fire-fighters a great deal.

The fire licked up everything so cleanly that all that remains of the big barn is a few pieces of twisted steel and other parts of farm implements.

Loss is $2,500.

The loss, which is partly covered by insurance, will amount to $2,500.

A meeting will likely be held shortly to discuss proper fire protection. Several times of late the matter has been talked of, but the need of having some adequate apparatus was never brought home so strongly to residents as on Sunday morning during the fire.

NEW YORK FIGHTING HARD TO BAR CHOLERA SCOURGE

Fifteen Cases at Immigration Department and Six Deaths—Hundreds From Southern Europe in Rigid Quarantine.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, July 17.—The fight to bar cholera from the port of New York continued today with a federal expert helping the local health department. The 238 persons who arrived today and two weeks ago, on the steamer Moltke, and are still under observation, will undergo bacteriological examinations, and a more rigid quarantine will be enforced at Swinburne Island, where fifteen cases of the scourge are confined with four other cases under suspicion.

These cases, with the deaths that have occurred since the Moltke brought the germ here from Naples, show the danger the city faces from the epidemic now raging in southern Europe.

Another death occurred at the Swinburne Hospital during the night, making the total six.

The Scourge at Palermo.

Chiasso, Switzerland, July 17.—The London reports of the number of cholera victims at Palermo, Italy, since May 2 are exaggerated, according to information received here.

Although it cannot be known with official exactness, the dead at Palermo may reach 230, but not 2,300, as has been stated.

The cholera situation both at Palermo and Naples is now said to be improving. In Palermo the daily death average is twenty and at Naples 12. At Leghorn there have been a total of thirteen deaths since the epidemic first appeared, while at Spezia the fatalities have numbered seven, at Brescia three, and at Pisa one.

ENGLISH ROYALTY FOR GERMAN REVIEW

Queen Mary and Prince of Wales Going to Swinemonde.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, July 17. — According to dispatches received here, Queen Mary of England, the Prince of Wales and the Princess Mary will witness the great German naval review at Swinemonde on Aug. 30, at which the Austrian and Turkish heirs and the Prince of Monaco will also be guests.

The British party will first visit their elderly relative, the Dowager Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, and following the naval review will proceed to Potsdom to be presented at the review of the autumn parade of the guard on Sept. 1.

MERCURY DUE TO DROP THIS WEEK

Unusually Low Temperatures Predicted by Washington Bureau.

Washington, July 17.—Following the hot wave that recently brought death and suffering to the whole country, this week's weather promises to furnish surprises in the other direction with the result that unusually low summer temperatures probably will prevail. The weather bureau sees in an abnormally high barometric pressure on the Atlantic ocean the conditions that will usher in a cool wave.

"This pressure distribution is strongly indicative of temperatures below the seasonal average the coming week," says the weather bureau report, "in practically all parts of the country from the Rocky mountains to the Atlantic coast. The week will open with generally fair weather east of the Rocky mountains except that showers are probable Monday in the middle Atlantic and New England states. An area of unsettled weather and showers will develop over the middle west about Thursday and thence spread eastward of the Atlantic states by the latter part of the week."

WOMEN OF ENGLAND SUPPORT ARBITRATION

Great Anglo-American Meeting To Be Held at Old London.

[Canadian Press.]

London, July 17. — The women of England are arranging to make their voices heard on the side of arbitration proposals. They hold that ties of kinship and questions of peace and war affect them as they do men, and purpose to hold a great Anglo-American meeting in October as a complement to the historic Guildhall demonstration.

This woman's movement is receiving support from all sections of the community, and the lord mayor has granted the use of the Mansion House for the meeting.

REV. SAMUEL WILSON DIES AT PORT STANLEY

Aged Clergyman Passed Away, Having Been Ill Since the Hot Spell.

Rev. Samuel Wilson, one of the oldest clergymen of Ontario, died on Saturday at Port Stanley. He was 84 years of age and was for 25 years an active minister in the Methodist Church. For the past 16 years he had been living retired at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Franklin T. Harrison, of Elmwood avenue, South London.

He was a native of Ireland, but at an early age came to Canada and spent his youth in Montreal. He derived his theological training at Montreal and Concord, N. H., colleges.

He had until recently enjoyed good health, but had suffered considerably from the recent hot weather.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Harrison, and three sons, W. A., a barrister in Montreal; F. A., a business man, of the same city; and Dr. F. E. Wilson of Niagara Falls, Ont. The funeral will be held privately this afternoon from the residence of his daughter, Elmwood avenue and Ridout street, to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

RAINFALL WAS GENERAL.

Toronto, July 17.—Since Saturday rain has fallen almost generally in Ontario and Quebec, attended by numerous thunderstorms. A few local showers have at the same time occurred in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

TIR OVER REPORT ON CONSUMPTION

Royal Commission's Finding Causing a Lot of Discussion.

A MILK BILL LIKELY NOW

Burns Endangers Continuance of Research Work on Baron Blyth's Farm.

London, July 16.—Seldom has a report of a royal commission raised such public interest as did the report on tuberculosis. The whole press of the country has been discussing it daily since its publication on Wednesday. The report has already had an effect in the demand for immediate legislation in accordance with the finding of the commission and also for the continuance of research work under a Government department, with Government support.

Burns Against Movement.

The matter comes under John Burns' local government board and he throughout has been discouraging to the committee if not actively hostile. In the opinion of John Burns, milk is not an important element in the working people's diet and that efforts should be directed to the reduction of poverty and the improvement of feeding in the way of meat. But public opinion has been expressed so immediately and insistently that he has been forced to bring in without delay his purer milk bill which has been kept hung up for several years.

That many children's lives are sacrificed annually to tuberculosis from milk has made a deep impression on the public who demand that the bill contain provisions eliminating the dangers pointed out in the report. Burns' lack of sympathy is also endangering the continuance of the research work of the commissioners and their assistants.

Willing to Lend Farms.

This work has been carried on on two farms lent by Baron Blyth who is treasurer of the Tuberculosis Congress, and president of the British Dairy Farmers' Association. Baron Blyth is willing to continue to lend the farms if the work be carried on under the Government department. It could be done as heretofore at the small cost of $25,000 annually and the feeling runs so strong that there is a possibility of the work being placed under another department unless the opposition be withdrawn.

CANADA CAPTURES THE MACKINNON CUP

For the Third Time Carries Off Much-Coveted Trophy.

Bisley Camp, July 15. — For the third successive year Canadian marksmen have won the Mackinnon cup, which is open for competition in shooting at the long ranges to teams of twelve men, representing the territorial forces and local militia of the different units of the Empire. Canada's team led that of England by twelve points, making an aggregate score of 1,581 out of a possible 1,800. The teams representing England, Ireland, Scotland, New Zealand, Guernsey, South Africa, and India, followed Canada in the order named.

For the last two years and also in 1902, this much-coveted challenge cup has gone to Canada. Since 1897, when the cup was presented by the late Col. Mackinnon for competition, it has been out of England and Scotland only these three times. It is worthy of note that the cup has been won by Canada each year since the Ross rifle has been allowed at the Bisley meet by the Council of the National Rifle Association. The Canadian rifle is used by all the members of the Canadian team, and also by several of the English marksmen. Canada's score of 1,581 compares with a winning score of 1,567 last year, and 1,609 the year before.

IMPORTANT ORDERS BY RAILWAY COMMISSION

Designed to Protect Both the Public and Employees.

Ottawa, July 16.—The railway commission has issued two orders—one designed for the protection of employees of the roads and the other for the protection of the public.

The first requires all railways to file with the board, within 60 days, a statement showing the number, class and weight of each locomotive on the line, and whether or not equipped with dump ashpans to avoid the necessity of men going beneath the locomotive. In the past there have been a number of accidents from this cause, which the order aims at obviating.

The second circular follows another issued some time ago in regard to level crossings. It is ordered that where an accident has happened subsequent to Jan. 1, 1905, or hereafter happens at a highway crossing, by a moving train, causing bodily injury or death to a person using the crossing, such crossing should immediately be protected by the company by a watchman until the board has had the accident investigated and the crossing examined. This stated order will be considered seriously by the board.

TAFT WATCHING MEXICAN SITUATION

May Line Up U. S. Army on Border Unless Disorders Cease.

Washington, July 16.—The eyes of President Taft and his advisers are turned again toward turbulent Mexico, and if the conditions that have recently developed between the federal army and the forces of Madero should continue to grow worse, it is not unlikely the United States army may be drawn up again along the Mexican border. As a result of fighting that has already occurred in Puebla it has been decided that no further orders shall be issued for the withdrawal of troops from San Antonio or the Mexican border.

With several regiments already withdrawn from Galveston, San Diego and San Antonio, it is realized that only the nucleus of an army division now remains in the southwest and should the conditions in Mexico grow alarming it would most likely be necessary to return those already withdrawn. It was said today, however, that there has been no decision to return the troops thus far, but that such a step may soon seem to be necessary unless the forces of Madero and the federal troops cease hostilities in Puebla and other sections of Mexico.

As the result of the situation in Puebla, representatives of the state department have been instructed to keep their chief in Washington posted on every movement. Little surprise over the turn of affairs is manifested in some circles, where it was feared that with the retirement of Diaz the worst was yet to come. By some it was thought peace might be maintained up to the time of the national elections in the fall or even until after the elections, but it was not believed it could last much longer.

Shortly after Madero made his triumphantly entry into Mexico City it began to appear in some of the students of the situation that Madero needs actually in power and that Provisional President De La Barra was acceding to his demands on almost every point. Whether this was true and whether a rupture between them has now occurred, or whether President De La Barra acted with entire independence, the fact remains that the federal troops under orders from De La Barra are now engaged in efforts to compel the belligerent Maderists to put down their arms. This, it appears, may not be accomplished without a considerable amount of fighting.

GLORIOUS GOODWOOD TO CLOSE THE SEASON

Then London's Fashionable Folk Will Take Much-Needed Rest.

London, July 16.—That social barometer, the engagement book, kept by every society woman, begins to show signs of the waning season.

Never have the rank and file enjoyed such a record time, for the spirit of liberal hospitality that has been abroad extinguished some of the fine shades of social difference dividing set from set, and broke down many an exclusive barrier. The month of June was a long, happy romp. Dowagers renewed their youth, hats vied with one another in seeing who could crowd the largest number of dances into a week, and grand dames like the Countess of Derby went out of their way to extend social recognition to a person usually beyond the pale of their record.

The magic of the coronation season still lingers, though more as an inspiring memory now than as an active force, for all are faded and sighing for the cool breezes of the Solent and the invigoration of the Scottish moors.

But the engagement book of the smart woman still contains one big star event — Goodwood Races, a three days' fixture, beginning July 26.

one ever dreams of leaving London before "Glorious Goodwood" is over, but when the last race is run, society people begin to disperse, for it is an unwritten rule that Goodwood winds up the London season.

Survivor of 18th Century.

Goodwood is the only survivor of the real old English race meetings of the eighteenth century, when it was the custom of almost every great landowner to hold at least one great race meeting on his estate. The famous racing fixture, always anticipated with such lively interest, was established in 1802 by the then Duke of Richmond on his estate, some six miles from the sleepy town of Chichester, and there the Sussex carnival is still held, the present Duke of Richmond being still closely identified with the race meeting.

It is of course one of the traditions of the English aristocracy that women should patronize all the great turf fixtures, a tradition that not even Queen Mary can escape. In spite of her indifference to this sport, for she must needs be there with her royal husband on Wednesday next, tired though she may be with the state visit to Edinburgh.

More stakes have been won by the Baroness de Bebenen than any other. She is owner of Admiral Togo III., which netted a good round sum as the winner of two big races. Lady de Bathe's name is well-known as an owner, but it was the late Lady Meux, who raced under the name of "Mr. Theobilde," who came nearer than any other woman to winning the Derby. She owned the famous horse Velodyeski, the victor of the 1901 Derby, but she leased it to the late W. C. Whitney, who naturally enjoyed the credit of the triumph.

JUMP IN WELL SAVES FROM FIRE

Thrilling Experience of Survivors of Porcupine Blaze.

SHIPPING OUT THE BODIES

Men Who Were Thought to Have Perished Turn Up Alive.

Porcupine, Ont., July 16.—The preliminary work of clearing away the debris in Porcupine has been inaugurated, and while affairs are beginning to assume a normal condition, the realization of the terrible disaster by no means diminishes. Every step brings up some new feature as a reminder of what is now several days old.

Contributions from all over Ontario are coming in, including both money, food and supplies, so that the survivors who have remained in Porcupine are well provided for, and the Government is sending in militia with tents and supplies to take charge of the situation. Of the Government's part in the affair too much cannot be said. The T. and N. O. Railroad, a Government line, has daily transported those without money free of charge and has run special trains in and out with provisions. Every effort has also been made in the face of the most adverse conditions to give a good telegraph service over the Government lines.

Bodies of many of the victims are being shipped out to friends and relatives. Among those that went out yesterday were those of "Billy" Moore, superintendent for the Armstrong-Mcclibbon, and Assayer and Mrs. Angus Burt, of the West Dome. No new names can be added to the list, because of the difficulty to identify the remains that are found, some of them being but charred bits of flesh and bone.

Saved By Well.

Six bodies besides that of "Billy" Moore have been added to the list taken from Porcupine Lake with the assistance of discharging dynamite. On the other hand, it has been learned that Fred Constable, Isaac Sim and George Wakefield, supposed to have perished at the Gold Crown, are alive and uninjured with the exception of slight burns. These men fought the flames for a while, and finally jumped into a seven-foot well, containing three feet of water, and by splashing water over themselves survived the fire.

Fear is expressed for the safety of two mineralogists and their three assistants who left Porcupine for the bush early Tuesday morning, and have not been heard from since. Tom Brownlee, a well-known bushman and prospector, is among those who escaped from the Dome. Tom travelled for seven miles through the thick bush without trail or road, and only the flames at his back kept him going.

The mines are beginning to recover and commence rebuilding and preparation for the installing of new machinery. According to Morgan R. Cartwright, treasurer of the Pearl Lake Mines, whose property was not touched by the fire, the conflagration will have practically no effect on the camp in general. The Dome will be retarded several months, but others can quickly replace their machinery and buildings. He also believes that no serious effect will be noticed in the stock market.

Matheson Safe.

Toronto, July 15. Fred Dane, land commissioner of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission, who has been in the north for the past several days making an official investigation into the damage done by the forest fires, will return to Toronto this morning, and will present his report to the Government through the Hon. Frank Cochrane.

No additional news was received from the north yesterday, except that $5,000 had been sent to the Porcupine relief committee from the Toronto committee. This will be used judiciously to help the burned-out miners. All fires have burned themselves out, and Matheson is safe. Everything in the burned-over district was reported as being quiet yesterday, and the work of relief will proceed without delay.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane received numerous telegraphic messages from the north on Saturday.

J. J. MacDonald, crown lands agent at Cochrane, wired: "So far can account for seven settlers burnt out in Glackmeyer Township, and three in Taylor Township. Two lives lost in Glackmeyer. Bodies buried."

A GIRL DROWNED IN DETROIT RIVER

Leaps From Canoe Thinking the Water Was Shallow.

Windsor, Ont., July 16.—Another drowning accident took place in the river here yesterday afternoon, the victim being Miss Lineto Brownlee, aged 18, daughter of a prominent lumberman, who was spending the summer with her uncle, W. G. Brownlee, at his summer home on the river front a short distance above Walkerville.

In company with her cousin, Miss Jean Brownlee, the young lady was paddling about in the river in a canoe, both clad only in bathing suits. Believing the water where they were to be shallow, the girls jumped overboard and immediately went down. Neither could swim and their cries for help soon brought a launch to the rescue. Miss Lineta Brownlee, however, had disappeared and her cousin was picked up as she was going down for the last time. She was brought ashore much exhausted and told the story of the affair. The body has not yet been recovered.

NEARLY OVER CATARACT

Niagara Falls Boating Party Have a Narrow Escape.

Welland, July 16.—Two young men and two ladies of Niagara Falls, N. Y., were out in a gasoline launch last night, when their engine became disabled. They paddled around in a helpless condition without any knowledge of their location. Finally they got ashore at the Forebay of the Ontario Power Company, and even after landing they had no idea of where they were. That they did not go over the Falls is a miracle.

AVIATORS TO FLY AROUND ENGLAND

One Thousand Mile Flight for Prize of $50,000.

DANGER IN HIGHLANDS

The Difficult and Daring Contest Is to Start on July 22.

London, July 16. — England is to witness this month one of the most ambitious attempts at long distance aeroplaning yet seen, a circuit of the island over a course of 1,010 miles for a prize of $50,000 offered by the Daily Mail.

The chief point of interest to Americans will be the appearance of Charles T. Weymann, who, as the representative of the United States, won the international aviation cup at Eastchurch, July 1. He is the only American entrant, but is expected to make a notable showing against the best flying men of Europe who will compete. The latter include Beaumont, winner of the recent European circuit competition; Vedrines, who finished first in the Paris to Madrid race, and Valentine, the Englishman, who completed the course in the European circuit.

The course is divided into sections ranging from 20 to 182 miles in length. The race starts Saturday, July 22, at Brooklands, but the day's task is only a sort of tuning-up flight of 20 miles to Hendon, where the competitors will rest over Sunday. Early Monday morning they will begin the second stage of 343 miles, from Hendon to Edinburgh. En route they will halt, after 182 miles, at Harrowgate, and another 68 miles, at Newcastle, and thence over a flight of 93 miles to the Scottish capital.

Conditions Are Hard.

The third stage is from Edinburgh to Glasgow, and thence to Bristol, altogether 385 miles, with stops at Stirling (21 miles), Glasgow (22 miles), Carlisle (86 miles), Manchester (103 miles), Bristol (141 miles).

The fourth stage from Bristol to Brighton is 224 miles. Stops are to be made at Exeter, 65 miles, and Salisbury Plain, 83 miles, the final stage to Brighton being 76 miles. And, lastly, a short flight of 40 miles will be made from Brighton to the starting point at the Brooklands motor racing field.

Whether any of the competitors will complete the race is doubtful as the conditions, in the opinion of experts, are almost impossible of fulfilment. More depends on the stability of the machines than has been required in any previous race. The flying men must do the circuit of over one thousand miles practically with their machines intact. The most important parts of each machine are to be marked and these parts must be kept together throughout the course.

Danger Is in Scotland.

The few men who finished in the recent European circuit changed their aeroplanes at some stage of the journey, or made substitutes of the most important parts, so that they returned to France with almost entirely new machines.

The crucial stage of the journey, in the opinion of airmen, will be between Harrowgate and Edinburgh. The country is so uneven that the air currents so troublesome there that it will be no surprise if the race gets its quietus along this stretch.

LONDONER'S LOSS WAS VERY HEAVY

News of the Childs Brothers, Who Were in Business in the North.

Hardware and Metal, published in Toronto, contains an account of an interview with Frank A. Childs, whose mother lives at 788 Wellington street, this city, and who lost two hardware stores at Cochrane and Kelso Mines, in the recent forest fire. Mr. Childs was at Parry Sound, when his brother Charles telegraphed him news of the disaster.

Although Cochrane was destroyed from one end to the other, not a single building being left standing, Mr. Childs declared to the representative of the Toronto paper that it would be rebuilt in a short time.

When interviewed he was in Toronto ordering in new stock, which he has shipped to Cochrane, and with which he will open a new store immediately, under canvas. He has already made his plans for a new cement building.

Cochrane was badly in need of a water works system, and it is likely that the fire will serve to impress upon the people of the town the need of more adequate fire protection. Mr. Childs stated that he was carrying a 10 per cent fire insurance rate before the fire. He had intended to open a branch at Porcupine, but fortunately had not done so, or his loss would have been greater.

NO SNOBBERY WITH THE CONNAUGHTS

The Duke Is Democratic and the Duchess Is "Motherly."

London, July 16.—Before leaving England for Ottawa, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught are to be the guests of the Kaiser at Berlin for a few days. The Emperor finds the duke the most congenial royalty in England today, so he gave him a cordial invitation when he was over in London recently.

Some Canadians over for the coronation having expressed some fear of the Connaughts proving too fond of ceremonial for Dominion tastes when the duke becomes governor-general, those who know them well are busy easing the forebodings by anecdotes illustrating the simple habits of the family.

It is recalled that when the duke was commander-in-chief in Ireland, between 1899 and 1904, he made his way into quarters none of his predecessors had ever touched so intimately. Once a newspaper printed some inaccuracy relative to his plans. A reporter was summoned to the castle, where the duke asked, "Why did you not ask me, instead of jumping at the facts?" "I did not believe you would give information," said the newspaper man. "You were entirely wrong," replied the duke. "In future, when you want the true facts, come to me." It is well known that he looks forward to life at Ottawa with keen pleasure.

As to the duchess, she is everywhere described as "motherly," and quite an adept at making people feel at home. Her daughter, Princess "Pat," was a great favorite with the late King Edward, and it is to the credit of her parents that she has not been made the victim of a political marriage against which her own good sense rebels. She goes with them on the Berlin visit.

MARINE NEWS.

Sault Ste. Marie, July 16.—A notice posted at the canal office today announces an increase of the loading depth for the Poe lock to 18 feet 2 inches, and for the Canadian canal to 18 feet 3 inches.

MILDRED BRIDGES SPURNS FATHER

Rejects Offers of Trip To Europe and Home in California.

Chicago, July 17.—Neither a trip to Europe nor a bungalow in California will induce Mildred Bridges, high priestess of the cult of the Absolute Life, to return to the father who was responsible for the conviction of her "god man," Evelyn Arthur See.

The girl was arraigned in juvenile court today before Judge Pinckney to determine into whose custody she is to be remanded. Judge Pinckney told Mrs. Lucille Bridges, the girl's mother, that he did not consider her a fit person to care for the young woman and that her application would not even be considered.

Bridges offered to take the girl to Europe for six months, but she refused. He offered to purchase a home in California, but she declared she would go nowhere with her father. Bridges then offered to send her to her sister in Northern Michigan, but Mildred declared she would not go unless accompanied by the juvenile court officer in whose custody she has been.

Judge Pinckney took the case under advisement.

CURED OF CONSTIPATON

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S. writes:

"For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills.

That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial.

They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine."

For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box. 2

M'CLARYS HELD OUTING AT PORT

About 2,500 People Had an Enjoyable Time at the Lakeside.

A WARM GAME OF BALL

Southenders Beat the Northenders by a Score of 4 to 1—Winners of the Races.

It took two big special trains to carry the employees of the McClary Manufacturing Company and their friends down to Port Stanley on Saturday, and it is estimated that fully 2,500 people enjoyed the annual outing. It was a great success right through, and when the picnickers returned late on Saturday night all were unanimous in the opinion that the day had been one of the best they had ever spent. This was largely due to the splendid arrangements that had been made, to the ideal weather and to the fine programme of sports. On the way down a box of candy was given to everyone. One of the events of the day was the baseball match between the north and south, in which the southenders won by a score of 4 to 1.

The Races.

The winners in the races were:

Baby show—1 William Tanner, 2 Jean Clarke, 3 Florence Doyle.

Boys' race, 5 and under—1 J. Tacker, 2 A. Newman, 3 Cliff Enith.

Girls, 5 years and under—1 Madeline Hill, 2 Edith Mount, 3 V. May Parkinson.

Boys, 10 and under—1 John Gillett, 2 H. Chamberlain, 3 S. Sandforth.

Girls, 10 and under—1 G. Murray, 2 O. Walker, 3 O. Harris.

Boys, 14 and under—1 H. Rourke, 2 D. Irwin, 3 N. Money.

Girls, 14 and under—1 L. Clarice, 2 N. Harris, 3 L. Webster.

Boys, 17 and under—1 R. Pepper, 2 E. Mapletoft, 3 O. Rourke.

Girls, 17 and under—1 C. Gough, 2 K. Burke, 3 L. Arnott.

Single men's race, 17 and over—1 T. Wilson, 2 L. Fiehurer, 2 H. Millie.

Single ladies' race, 17 or over—1 E. McPhaill, 2 E. Stoneman, 3 C. Patten.

Sack race—1 C. Taylor, 2 E. Mapletoft, 3 D. Irwin.

Human wheelbarrow—1 Stewart brothers, 2 Doyle and Roughley, 3 Fuller and Phillips.

Married men's race—1 L. Fiehurer, 2 H. Phillips, 3 A. Cossey.

Married women—1 Mrs. Fuller, 2 Mrs. Brash, 3 Mrs. Mount.

Men's race, 40 years or over—1 J. Roughley, 2 A. Parkinson, 3 J. Webster.

Ladies' nail-driving contest—1 Mrs. Parkinson, 2 Mrs. Suhr, 3 Mrs. Arnott.

Standing broad jump—1 C. Pirie, 2 Dr. George, 3 Wilson.

Boxing in barrels—1 T. Stewart, 2 T. Laird.

Fat men's race—1 D. George, 2 F. Irwin, 3 G. Moll.

Walking race, half-mile — 1 Gordon Marsh, 2 E. L. Allen, 3 E. Walker.

The Committees.

The committee responsible for the success of the picnic was composed of J. Wright chairman; L. Hill, secretary; F. Westbury, J. C. Slyford, W. Ballard, A. Ralph, H. L. Milligan, C. Pirie, C. W. Manning, E. Snelling, W. Hogg, F. Turner, assisted by the following:

Executive—Jas. Pirie, J. Wyse, W. H. Hayden.

Railway—G. Moll, J. M. Pirie, A. E. Robinson.

Printing—H. Findlater, C. Burns, A. E. Denney.

Candy—W. H. Hayden, Miss Dobinson, Mrs. Mascaro.

MEXICAN DIVORCE FOR THE ASKING

Women Want Mere Request Sufficient to Terminate Marriage.

Mexico City, July 17.—Reno's divorce mills will be regarded as second rate and their output insignificant, when compared with the system a group of women would establish in Mexico for the purpose of untying marital knots. Since the last week in June women's clubs, editorial writers, the clergy, and others of an argumentative turn, have been discussing the daring and radical petition of five hundred women, members of the Club Amigas del Pueblo, in which Frederick de la Barra was asked to initiate a reform in the laws granting the right of divorce. This is the same club whose members have been unusually active in their efforts to secure for women the right of suffrage.

Under the laws of Mexico absolute divorce is prohibited. The law provides for a legal separation, but in no case may either remarry. In their petition the women characterize the law as unjust, and go so far as to suggest that absolute divorce should be granted upon the mere request of either husband or wife.

That Mexico will provide a divorce law for her unhappily wed is improbable, but that a considerable proportion of her population, men as well as women, should demand such a measure is not surprising. It is indicative of the spirit of radicalism which prevails, and may be regarded as a protest against the laxity with which the marital laws are kept by a large percentage of the people. Since a great majority of the Mexican people are Catholics, and since the institution of divorce is repugnant to the church, it is a fair presumption that the request of the 500 women will not find popular approval.

Cases of separation are not common in Mexico, and it is probable that divorce suits would be uncommon, even if a divorce law were enacted because of the religious belief held by most of the people, especially the women.

FIRE IN A PARK STARTS A PANIC

One Thousand in Mad Rush at Columbus Resort.

[Canadian Press.]

Columbus, O., July 17.—Seven buildings which house places of amusement, were destroyed and probably 1,000 persons thrown into a panic last night by a fire in Olentangy Park, a summer resort. The fire swept over an area of about a city block. The park is at the extreme end of the city. Several persons were injured in the panic, but it is not believed any fatalities resulted. Defective wiring in one of the buildings is believed to have been the cause. No estimate of the loss could be obtained, but it was said all of the property was uninsured.

Talk About Clothing—We Sell the Right Kind on Credit

Doing as we do an extensive credit business, we cannot, for our own interests, afford to sell poor clothing. We know all our customers by name, and are meeting them every week, so you see we must be in a position to "face" them every time, and some of our customers we have faced continually for the last ten years. This all goes to show you that you are perfectly safe in dealing here. We make good every time.

FAMOUS "LORNA DOONE" ONCE HAWKED IN VAIN

Author's Trouble in Selling Book Recalled.

London, July 17.—That popular old romance of Devonshire, Blackmore's "Lorna Doone," which has run through some forty editions, has just fallen out of copyright, thus recalling the romance of its first publication.

For weary months "Lorna Doone" was hawked for sale, and could not find a purchaser. The Cornhill Magazine refused it.

"Tinsley," wrote the author, "would not let me take it out of my bag; Smith Elder would not give $500 to purchase it out-and-out, and 'once upon a time' declined to touch it."

As a forlorn hope, Blackmore then applied to Marston, and on March 30, 1869, a bargain was struck by which the publisher agreed to pay $500 for the right to print and sell 500 copies. The book was issued in the old three-volume form, and booksellers were slow to nibble at the bait.

Mr. Mudie, the founder of the great library, took seven copies, but after a year only one hundred copies had been sold.

Then it got known that down in Devonshire men were selling their boots to buy a copy of "Lorna Doone," and in the end London critics began to rub their eyes and confess that a pearl of great price had all but slipped through their fingers.

Then "Lorna Doone" was read in every house in the country. Blackmore's name, though not his fortune, was made.

MEMORIAL PLANNED FOR CARRIE NATION

Money Collected by W. C. T. U. to Aid Prohibition Considered Fitting Tribute.

Kansas City, Kan., July 17.—After weeks of discussion in which some favored an oil painting of Mrs. Nation, while others thought that her statue should be placed under the dome of the Kansas capitol and the Woman's Christian Temperance Association decided that a memorial fund to carry on the fight Mrs. Nation had waged during her lifetime would be the most appropriate memorial.

The plan is to raise a fund in each state and county to be in charge of the national board of the W. C. T. U., the fund to be known as the Carrie Nation memorial fund.

The fund is mostly to be used in states where prohibitory laws have been enacted and the liquor interests are trying to keep the law from being enforced.

One of the first applications of the fund will be in Cherokee and Crawford counties of this state.

The only police in these places are the city marshals, and the sheriff of the county. On these men has fallen not only the burden of keeping down crime, a hard task in a mining camp, but also of enforcing the prohibitory law.

Governor Stubbs employed special men to secure evidence of the liquor traffic in these mining camps and they reported that they not only found open saloons, but also wholesale liquor houses.

During the heat of the fight the special prosecutors began to make inquiry about pay for their work. The fund placed at the disposal of the governor had been almost exhausted and there appeared to be no way to pay them.

To solve this perplexing problem will be the first duty of those in charge of the Carrie Nation memorial fund. They will try to collect enough money from the W. C. T. U. members in Kansas alone to pay these special agents of the governor.

GERMANS ANGER MOORS

Kaiser's Tars in Large Numbers Are Prowling Around Agadir.

[Canadian Press.]

Mogador, Morocco, July 17. — The country surrounding Agadir, the point of German intervention, is reported quiet. The commander of the German cruiser Berlin daily lands men who are exploring the country in the immediate vicinity of the port. It is feared here that the Moorish tribes in the neighborhood will resent the presence of armed Germans prowling around the country, and that violent collisions may result.

RECIPROCITY DEBATE.

Washington, July 17.—The Senate today entered upon another week of debate on the Canadian reciprocity bill, with a vote on the measure fixed for next Saturday. The bill was all that was on today's calendar, and no time had been reserved for any set speech. The house, marking time, will not be in session until Wednesday.

AN UNWORTHY "APPEAL."

An organization calling itself "The Canadian National League" is flooding the country with literature against reciprocity. This junta consists chiefly of Toronto and Montreal capitalists and cannot be supposed to lack funds, yet it sends out its literature under Hon. Clifford Sifton's frank as M. P. In the past, party literature has been sometimes mailed under members' franking privilege, but never before has there been such an abuse of this privilege that an organization masquerading as non-political should take advantage of it. A unique distinction is thus conferred on Mr. Sifton. At the public expense he helps this soi-disant National League to mislead the public.

The literature that Mr. Sifton so generously helps out into the world consists of special appeals to special classes, the appeals of course not always consistent with one another. But one leaflet is to be placed here, another there, to do what work it may. One raises the annexation cry which ought by this time to nauseate any one with a spark of common sense. A dead set is made upon the farmers, who are assured that "an era of lower prices would be inevitable," under the reciprocity pact; this is the very opposite of what the "National League" will say to another section of the electorate.

But the most interesting feature of this campaign is the attempt to catch the votes of recent British immigrants. Not long ago the Toronto News was berating them as a lot of Radicals largely responsible for the reciprocity agitation; the National League thinks it better to stop scolding them, and try to convert them to a better life here in Canada. "An appeal to the British-Born" is an eight-page circular printed on better paper than the rest and evidently intended as the tramp-card to carry constituencies. Of this a letter sent out to employers of labor under the same Siftonian frank with the literature, and signed by Arthur Hawkes, the secretary of the league, speaks as follows:

"We would draw your attention specially to the 'Appeal to the British-born.' There are at least three-quarters of a million people in Canada who came from the Old Country—and they are numerous enough in many constituencies to decide any electoral issue that strongly appeals to them.

"Already there is a considerable demand for the 'Appeal,' which we hope to follow with other literature of a similar character. It is an advantage to send this direct; and we shall, therefore, be glad to do so if you will send us the names and addresses of British-born men in your employ, and of any others among your acquaintance who might furnish us with additional names."

In the "Appeal," the new Canadians are given a sort of history of Canada, too vague to pass a high school entrance examination, and quite ridiculous in its sentimental slobber. These dangerous "Radicals," who used to have cheap bread in Britain, are asked to oppose free trade in natural products as tending to annexation. That is all the Appeal amounts to; its eight pages say no more. Sir John Macdonald's election buncombe "A British subject I was born, a British subject I will die," is quoted once more, while it is considered highly inessential to inform the new voters that Sir John always stood for reciprocity.

KITCHENER'S NEW POST.

The appointment of Lord Kitchener as British agent in Egypt is significant. For some time the liberalizing policy of the late Sir Eldon Gorst, succeeding the iron rule of Cromer, has been the subject of hot discussion. The extreme Egyptian Nationalists have become more unruly, the murder of the pro-British prime minister being one incident. Gorst was exposed to the cross-fire of those dissatisfied and turbulent Egyptians on the one hand, and the coercionists in Great Britain on the other, and in his last report he expressed some doubts as to the wisdom of his own conciliatory course in admitting the natives to a larger share in the government. It is therefore a grave question whether Cromer's unsympathetic and arbitrary regime has been improved on, or whether conciliation has not gone far enough.

Mr. Roosevelt made things more unpleasant for Gorst a year ago by his notorious speech in England on Egyptian administration. It was an impolitic interference, and came ill from the ex-ruler of a democratic country which has certainly not altogether repressed the national ambitions of the Filipinos; at the same time it was so much ammunition for the British enemies of a liberal treatment of Egypt. The tide of coercionist hostility rose higher with every disturbance by the Nationalist party. Gorst seems to have died worn out by a task beyond his strength.

Nobody will think any task beyond Kitchener's strength. He is 61 years old, but age makes no conquest of this conqueror. He is more redoubtable than ever, whether as general or as administrator, by reason of his prestige established in South Africa and India. The Egyptian Nationalists will doubtless take his appointment as a challenge and as a menace of ruthless repression, and it is quite possible that mere fear will keep them docile, as the oriental mind ordinarily appreciates the mailed first and military triumphs. On the other hand it does not seem probable that the victor of Omdurman appointed by a Liberal Government will antagonize too sharply the forces of native advance by a complete reaction from the methods of Gorst. What is needed is to carry them on, perhaps in modified form, with the firmness and impressiveness of which Kitchener is considered capable. He has had a long acquaintance with the affairs of his new province, in South Africa he distinguished himself by the good sense with which he made terms of peace and won the goodwill of the Boers, and in India he has shown more conspicuously than ever the unbending will which carries all before it.

There has been no such British soldier since the Iron Duke. The difficulty has been of late to find a "job" big enough for the man. Now he has it.

THE IMPERIAL EDUCATION CONFERENCE.

The letter of Dr. MacKay, superintendent of education in Nova Scotia, published in another column, is interesting not only in showing the weight of expert educational opinion in favor of the reform of English spelling, but also because it reflects the great diversity of view point and experience with which any subject is likely to be handled and judged in an Imperial British Conference.

Spelling reform, manual training, trade schools, bilingual teaching—some of the subjects discussed at the conference are of great importance to Ontario at the present time, but unfortunately its invited representatives were absent. Indeed almost the only ones who were absent. We can try to imagine Dr. Eyre's reflections had he been present to hear all these Imperial educational experts advocating the simplification of spelling, knowing that he and his officers have been doing what they can to move Ontario in the opposite direction.

Bilingualism was considered so important that a supplementary conference on that subject was held after the close of the general conference. In South Africa, where the four provinces were affected, the problems connected with bilingualism in the schools have been very grave and were made an acute issue even at recent elections. Hindu and English in India, Welsh and English in Wales, Italian or Maltese and English in Malta, and French and English in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec, have each and all presented problems, marked by their respective geographical and racial peculiarities. These were discussed at the special conference as well as the means employed to overcome the difficulties. The general aim to which all the means resorted converge is that English must be taught in the schools of the Empire, but in a manner that will duly regard the racial and linguistic sentiments of the parents. Why were Ontario's representatives not there to profit by the discussion?

The Temiskaming Railway reached Porcupine in the nick of time.

The peers fear their stock will go down if it is watered by the Radicals.

The town of Cochrane is already rising out of its ashes. The spirit that made New Ontario will remake it.

The United States opponents of reciprocity have lost their fight, and are now signalling desperately to the anti-reciprocity forces in this country.

An aviator named Coffyn is giving exhibitions at the Winnipeg Fair. An ominous name for an airman, or a Conservative candidate in West Middlesex.

The movement in Germany to substitute knickerbockers for trousers will be opposed by an army of men who prefer the present garment less for its utility and beauty than for purposes of concealment.

Exports of British goods in the first six months of 1911 broke all records with a total of £223,700,000, compared with £135,400,000 ten years ago, an increase of over 65 per cent. This is the more remarkable as about ten years ago Mr. Chamberlain started his blue-ruin crusade.

Baron de Forest, the successful Government candidate in West Ham, a London borough, says that he could have had a peerage if he had contributed largely enough to the purse of the Tariff Reform League. This may explain a knighthood which is puzzling many Canadians.

A party of survivors of the American civil war celebrated the Fourth of July by a street parade in Bermondsey, London, England. They carried the American flag, and, of course, were unmolested by the most tolerant people in the world. There is a juster appreciation of the significance of the Fourth of July in England than in the United States, but the Americans are learning.

"Dad, can I take a post-graduate course in biology?"

"That depends, daughter," replied the old man, cautiously. "What do you want to buy first?"

CLIMATE AND CRIME.

The theory of criminologists that crime is affected by climate is supported by facts. You never hear of a snow shovel being stolen in summer or a lawn mower in winter.

AS THE STARS ABOVE.
[S. E. Kiser.]

She promised him that she'd be true,
True as the stars above;
And he was fat and fifty-two,
And offered her his love.

Oh, she was young and she was fair,
That night they stood alone;
He was a multi-millionaire,
And claimed her as his own.

Rich and fat and old was he,
And she was young and slim;
True as the stars above was she,
But how she henpecked him!

EASY FOR THEM.

STILL TO ASPIRE.
(S. E. Kiser.)

Perhaps upon some distant sphere
Our present dreams shall all come true;
There all the hopes that urge us here
May have fulfillment; all that you
And I have labored for in vain
May there be won, when from the pain
Of death we wake to pleasures new.

It may be that we there shall see
The faults to which we here are blind;
Upon some distant planet we
May walk from grop, some day, to find
Our dearest earthly hopes come true,
But doubtless, if we ever do,
We'll have hopes of a loftier kind.

MORE SORDID.

Parent—Bosh! The point nowadays is, are you worth enough for her.

GREAT!
[Cleveland Plaindealer.]

"How do you hold on to your cook while you are away on your vacation—by paying her a bonus to come back?"

"No; by not paying her what I owe her."

HIS GRIEF.

"I 'ear your missus is dead, Bill."

"Yes; pegged out on Derby Day, unfortunately. Fust Derby I've missed for thirteen years!"

THOUGHTS OF HOME.
[New York American.]

Are they lonely, do you think?
Are their hearts aweary for me
As I wander to the brink
Of the ever-throbbing sea?
Does my absence make them sigh?
Does my conduct seem unkind?
Does it dim the tender eye
Of a little one behind?

Poor mosquitoes, pale and lean,
Do you think of me at home?
Watching sadly through the screen,
Do you wonder why I roam?
All my summer exile through,
I could well contented be
If I knew that you were blue,
If I knew you mourned for me.

ANOTHER REFORMER.
[Chicago Tribune.]

"Maw, I've formed a Don't Sweat club."

"Where do you meet, dear?"

"In a refrigeratin' warehouse."

"What do you do?"

"Nothin'."

THE NIGHT.
[William Watson.]

In the cold starlight of the barren beach,
Where to the stones the rent sea tresses cleave,
I heard the long hiss of the backward wave
Down the steep shingle, and hollow speech
Of murmurous cavern lips, nor other breach
Of ancient silence. None was with me save
Thoughts that were neither glad, nor sweet, nor brave,
But restless comrades, each the foe of each.

And I beheld the waters in their might
Writhe as a dragon by some great spell curbed
And foiled; and one lone sail, and over me
The everlasting taciturnity;
The august inhospitable inhuman night,
Glittering magnificently unperturbed.

SIR JOHN'S PAT ILLUSTRATION.
[Sir John A. Macdonald.]

I put the case in the Eastern Townships of a man upon the imaginary line which lies between this country and the United States. Suppose a man has 100 acres on the Canadian side and 100 acres on the American side. Suppose he grows one thousand bushels of barley on each of his farms. He takes his one thousand American bushels to the American market and gets a dollar a bushel for it. He takes his one thousand bushels of Canadian barley to the American market and gets but 85 cents per bushel, because he has to pay 15 per cent duty for carrying it across that imaginary line. How can it, in this case, be said that the consumer pays the duty? It comes out of the pocket of the Canadian farmer.

EMPTY HOUSES RENTED FOR BALLS

London Hostesses Hit Upon Plan Which Saves Money.

London, July 16.— One of the novelties for which this season is responsible is the practice of hiring empty houses in the west end for dances. The advantages accruing to hostesses using this new venue for entertaining are such as to make one wonder that it has not been tried before.

In the first place, the hostess is not put to the inconvenience of having her own house turned upside down, and guests who have once attended an empty house ball, especially the buds and romantic bachelors, are better pleased by the arrangement, for it affords greater "sitting out" accomodation.

Lady Massereene, who has given a ball at a great empty mansion in Grosvenor Square, found that her invitations were snapped up with alacrity, especially by men not over-fond of dancing.

The hire of an empty house suitable for such entertainments for one night is about five hundred and fifty dollars, and at least twice that sum is spent on catering and decorations. The novelty of such entertaining is likely to survive this season with hostesses who don't like the idea of turning their own houses into hotels.

FAMOUS LAWN TENNIS COURTS

Those at Wimbledon Lead All the Others In the World.

London, July 16.—To lawn tennis players the world over, there are no courts better known than those of the famous All-England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club at Wimbledon, just outside London, where the English championships have just been held. The Casino Courts at Newport are their only rival in fame, but the annual entry list at the premier American courts is almost exclusively native while Wimbledon, especially of late years, sees tennis experts representing practically every country in Europe, besides the frequent visits of Americans. In the international character of its visitors Wimbledon is rivaled only by the courts in the south of France, but in the latter places the contests are of minor importance.

For 35 years, ever since their inception, the national championships of England have been contested at Wimbledon. The first singles championship was contested in 1877, but the doubles were not instituted until two years later. There, too, have been held the Davis cup matches that have been played in England and on its centre court have been contested the most famous battles of lawn tennis history. It was the scene of the triumphs of the great Renshaw brothers, of Lawford, who gave his name to a popular storke, of the Doherty brothers, and, in more recent years, of Brooks and Wilding, the Australian pair. There are ten courts at Wimbledon, but it is upon this centre court that lawn tennis history chiefly has been made. It is as near perfect as human skill and care can make it. It is surrounded on all sides by grandstands for spectators, capable of seating about 3,000 people.

The courts are the property of the All-England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club, of which King George is patron. Practically all the first class players of England are members and many of them are on its committee of management. The latter include H. L. Doherty, A. W. Gore, W. V. Eaves and W. C. Crawley. The secretary, upon whom rests the responsibility for the management of the big tournaments is G. W. Hillyard, now a veteran, but once famous as a first-class player, and he is assisted by that most genial of lawn tennis enthusiasts, W. H. Collins, who will be remembered by the older generation of players in the United States for his identification with the early visits of English players to that country.

INGERSOLL.

Ingersoll, July 15.—Thursday night Chief Chilton, in company with Constable Cook, arrested Richard Barrow, who was charged with assault and doing actual bodily harm to Dr. Frank Huff, a local veterinary surgeon. Dr. Huff was badly broken up, having several teeth knocked out. Yesterday afternoon, in a trial in which many witnesses were called, and much evidence taken, Magistrate Paterson found Barrow guilty and sentenced him to one year in Central Prison.

Yesterday afternoon and evening Ingersoll was treated to another shower, the effect of which is very visible on the foliage.

The markets today are about the same as usual. Eggs are selling at 20 cents per dozen, butter at 28 cents per pound, raspberries at 12½ cents per box, carrots, onions and beets, 2 bunches for 10 cents.

Mr. C. L. Cooke, of the Chippewa branch of the Royal Bank, has been transferred to Ingersoll.

Mr. Marshall Morrish, of Detroit, is visiting friends in town.

Miss Pearl Sharp, of Brussels, is the guest of Miss Edith Dundas.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hugill left yesterday for their summer home at Port Kenoaghin, Muskoka.

Ingersoll, July 17.—The successor to Chief Chilton will in all probability be chosen at the meeting of the police committee tonight. There is no lack of applications, as over thirty have been received, the majority being local parties. Until the committee make a permanent appointment the duties of chief of police will be discharged by Mr. Henry Bearss. Chief Chilton left on the 12:35 G. T. R. train for Lindsay, where he will take over his duties today. Several of his friends were at the depot to bid him farewell, and wish him the same success in his new field that has attended him in Ingersoll.

Mr. Alexander Haney, of Woodstock, spent Sunday with Mr. William Ryan.

Mr. A. Beattie and daughter, Margaret, of Dixon's Corners, who have been visiting in St. Marys for the past week, have returned home.

Miss Estelle Wally has passed her first-year examination of the kindergarten course at the Toronto Normal School, obtaining a certificate as a kindergarten assistant.

FIREMEN IN PERIL.

New York, July 17.—Fifteen persons, ten of them firemen, were thrown down and injured in an explosion in the silver warehouse of R. G. Wassler in Brooklyn today. The first explosion of gas in the cellar brought out the fire department, and while a search was being made for the leak a match was lighted. The building was shaken by the explosion and the injured were hurried to the hospital.

LOCAL BANK CLEARINGS ARE STILL GOING UP

Figures Are 5.7 Per Cent Greater Than For the Same Week a Year Ago.

The report of the banks' clearings for the last week shows that the figures for London were 5.7 per cent greater than in the same week in 1910. Canadian cities show much greater increases than the American cities. The returns are as follows:

New York	$1,737,335,000	*3.5
Chicago	273,577,000	*1.7
Boston	172,710,000	*5.7

A SERMON ON SPORTS

Rev. W. R. McIntosh Declares Church Has Been Too Exclusive.

In a sermon on "Athletic Sports," in King Street Presbyterian Church, last evening, Rev. W. R. McIntosh declared that while the church has been devoting her attention too exclusively to philosophy and theology, the devil has been appropriating amusements, innocent in themselves, but which have become through their associations undesirable for Christian people to participate in.

Rev. Mr. McIntosh said in part: "Cards and pool are games which are good in themselves. Apart from their associations, we cannot find a better game, but because the devil has appropriated these games and through them dragged many a man down to ruin and death, we dare not play them even in our own homes.

"The horserace in itself is harmless, but it, too, has suffered from its associations. Baseball we have to a large extent redeemed, and the church ought to do more to redeem athletic sports from their evil associations.

"Within the precincts of the home there is no harm in the dance, but as a public amusement it appears in an entirely different light. Jesus approved of the dance, and one might far better be light-hearted and gay in the enjoyments of dancing than sulking around home with a grouch.

"Present-day amusements, however, are becoming a mania. I am opposed to Sunday ball games and Sunday cars to Port Stanley. These things are simply for gain. Nature's demand for recreation has been lost sight of in the greed of man."

CHATHAM MAN SOMEWHAT ABUSIVE

Edward O'Brien Fined by P. M. Judd Today.

Edward O'Brien, a Chatham resident, who became abusive on Saturday when C. P. R. Detective Leitch attempted to put him out of the station because he had a lunch of raw tomatoes and a louf of bread, which he insisted on spreading out on a bench and eating with great gusto before others in the waiting room. O'Brien was arrested, and today magistrate Judd fined him $3 and 50 cents costs.

Michael Flannigan, Leo Flannigan, Fred Self, and Harold McLellan, for bathing in the river, were each fined $1; and a young man who went in in a public place to wash a horse and was charged with indecent exposure, also paid $1.

James Plank, for driving across the sidewalk instead of at the proper crossing, was taxed a dollar.

ROSEN NOT COMING BACK

Will No Longer Represent the Czar at United States Capital.

[Canadian Press.]

St. Petersburg, July 17. — The foreign office today confirmed the report that Baron Rosen would not return to his post as Russian ambassador at Washington. George Bakhmetieffs is the nominee now in view for the mission, but this appointment, like other diplomatic changes, will await the return in the fall of Foreign Minister Sazanoff, who is now in the Vosges region in search of renewed health.

Bakhmetieffs was formerly ambassador to Japan, and still earlier minister at The Hague and Russian diplomatic agent in Bulgaria.

Baron Rosen probably will be given a seat in the council of the empire.

ALLEGED VICIOUS DOG

Hill Street Man Is Compelled To Do Away With It.

At the police court today Alonzo Blackwell, of Hill street, pleaded guilty to a charge of keeping a vicious dog, laid by W. Beren. Mr. Beren asked for 75 cents for a doctor's bill, and $3 75 for a pair of trousers which he alleged the dog had damaged. The court decided that Mr. Blackwell must pay $1 85 court costs, kill the dog, and he gave him a week to come to some satisfactory settlement with Mr. Beren.

Wilson Brown, of Thames street, appeared on a charge of having been disorderly in a Springbank car on Saturday evening. As the affair occurred outside the city limits, they appeared before Squire Chittick in Magistrate Judd's office. Both were found guilty. Brown was fined in all $13, including costs.

George Hart, charged with a breach of the building bylaws, was given a week to make his building satisfactory to Mr. Nutter.

"If you don't do it, I'll fine you the limit," said the court. "You were up before, and I want you to look after this."

PANTS AND POCKETS

Working Women Must Don Trousers, Says One of That Sex.

New York, July 16.—"Evolution in the the workaday clothes of the business woman means trousers."

A delicate little woman, feminine in every respect, is Dr. Maude Glasgow, of 110 East Eighty-first street, but she is serious in her belief that not many years from now the business woman will go to work in clothes hardly to be distinguished from those of her brother workers.

"Yes," said Dr. Glasgow, "I certainly do believe that women will wear to work trousers and coats similar to those worn by men. It must come as women progress in the field of business and find that skirts are in the way.

"Imagine how much more free a woman would be if she worked in trousers! Just let a man try skirts and see what he would do. The reform cannot be worked by a few. It would result as the attempt of Mrs. Bloomer did, and bring ridicule on the wearers. Such a movement must be en masse, or the result of gradual evolution in woman's dress.

Divided Skirts a Starter.

"See the mothers who are dressing their girls in bloomers! See the women who are wearing divided skirts in sports! This is a beginning only. The end will be the wearing of trousers, a blouse, and a three-quarter coat by sensible women.

"Nothing can be said against such a dress for woman on the ground of immodesty, for there can be nothing more immodest than the present style of clothes. Women seem to have lost all sense of the dignity of dress. Trousers would show much less of the contour of the figure, less of the ankles, and would be much more decent for women than their narrow skirts and low cut waists.

"But this is not the only thing that would be accomplished for the business woman. She would not need to wear corsets, or if she did the corsets would not have to be laced as tightly as they are now, causing all sorts of trouble. The young girl would not be put into corsets at the early age she is now. She would be given a chance to develop strong muscles and a normal figure.

Means Saving in Money.

"Aside from this there is the point of hygiene. Skirts gather dust and accumulate germs from which much disease results. The trousers would obviate all this. They could be cleaned cheaper and easier. A woman who dressed in this way for her business could save much in the expenditure for clothes. It would do away with the foolish trinkets and furbelows that annoy a girl to death when she works, though she won't admit it.

"Men have the easiest possible time of it in their dress. They know it, and if they are not comfortable it is because they are slaves to convention."

ISLANDS IN PAWN

Some Doubt as to Whom Orkneys and Shetlands Belong.

London, July 15. — To whom do the Orkney and Shetland Islands really belong? They return a representative to the British House of Commons, and are certainly regarded as an integral portion of the British Isles. But doubts are cast upon the British possession.

The islands may, in fact, only belong to Great Britain in the sense that a pawned watch belongs to the pawnbroker. At the opening of the Norse Gallery in the Scottish Exhibition in Glasgow, Lord Salvesen half jestingly said that, speaking as a lawyer, he was not quite sure whether the islands do not belong to Norway still.

He is fortified by very high authority in the opinion that the crown of Norway, if prepared to pay the money for which they were pledged, with interest, would be entitled to redeem them. Plenipotentiaries assembled at Buda in 1668 decided not only that the right of redemption had not then been barred by the lapse of the time, but that it was imprescribable. The Islands were pledged to the Scottish crown in 1468 so that interest is now due for nearly four and a half centuries.

THE SEVENTH NOON

BY FREDERICK ORIN BARTLETT,
Author of "The Web of the Golden Spider."

Donaldson gingerly passed his fingers over the dog's hair. He was curiously unconvinced. There was no responsive lift of the head, no contented wagging of the tail, but that was the only difference. A moment ago the dog had been asleep for an hour; now he was asleep for an eternity. That was the only difference.

"Well," reflected Barstow, "Sandy had his week; beefsteak, bread and milk, all he could eat."

"Isn't that better than being still alive hungry in the gutters?"

"God knows," answered Barstow solemnly, as he picked up the body and carried it into the next room. "You see what is left."

As Barstow went out Donaldson crossed to the chemist's desk. He fumbled nervously among the bottles until he found the little vial Barstow had pointed out. He had just time to thrust this into his pocket and reseat himself before Barstow returned. At the same moment there was a firm but decidedly feminine knock upon the outer door. The chemist seemed to recognize it, for instead of his usual impatient shout he went to the door and opened it. And yet, when the feeble light revealed his visitor, he evinced surprise.

"What, you, Miss Arsdal?"

"Yes, professor," she answered, slightly out of breath. "I thought that if I hurried I might possibly find you here. I am all out of my brother's medicine, and I did not dare wait until tomorrow."

"I'm glad you didn't," he responded heartily. "If you will sit down I will prepare it."

Donaldson glanced up, irritated to think he had not left earlier and so escaped the inevitable introduction. He saw a young woman of perhaps twenty-two or three, and then—the young woman's eyes. They were dark, but not black, a sort of silver black, like gunmetal. They were, he noted instantly, apparently more mature than the rest of her features, as is sometimes true when the soul grows out of proportion to the years. Her hair was of a reddish brown; brown in the shadows, a golden red as she stood beneath the gas jet. She was a little below medium height, rather slight, and was dressed in a dark blue pongee suit, the coat of which reached to her ankles. One might expect almost anything of her, thought Donaldson, child or woman. It would no more surprise one to see her in tears over a trifle than standing firm in a crisis; bending over a wisp of embroidery or driving a sixty-horsepower automobile. Of one thing Donaldson thought he could be sure; that whatever she did she would do with all her heart.

These and many other fugitive thoughts passed through Donaldson's brain during the few minutes he was left there alone with her. What was said he could not remember a minute afterwards; something of the night, something of the brilliant reflections of the gas light in the vari-colored bottles, something of the approaching summer. Her thoughts seemed to be as far removed from this small room as his own.

"Your patient is better?" Barstow inquired, when he returned with the package.

Her face lightened instantly.

"Yes," she answered, "much better."

"Good." He added: "I shouldn't think it safe for you to be out alone at night. Haven't there been a good many highway robberies recently in your neighborhood?"

"You have heard?"

"It would be difficult to listen to the newsboys and not hear that. The last one, a week ago, made the fourth, didn't it?"

"I don't know. I seldom read the papers. They are too horrible."

"I will gladly escort you, if——"

"I couldn't think of troubling you," she protested, starting at once for the door. "I'm in the machine, so I'm quite safe. Good-night."

With a nod and smile to both men she went out.

Donaldson himself prepared to go at once.

"Well, old man," he apologized nervously to the chemist, "pardon me for boring you so long. It is bad taste, I know, for a man to air such views as mine, but it has done me good."

"Take my advice and forget them yourself. Go into the country. Loaf a little in the sunshine. Stay a week. I'm going off for a while myself."

"You leave——"

"Within a few days, possibly. I can't tell."

"Well, s'long, and a pleasant trip to you."

Donaldson gripped the older man's hand. The latter gazed at him affectionately, apprehensively.

"See here, Peter," he broke out earnestly. "There is one thing even better for you than the country, a thing that includes the sunshine and everything else worth while in life. I have hesitated about mentioning it, but this girl who was here made me think of it again. You know I'm not a sentimental man, Peter?"

"Unless you have changed. But your panacea?"

"Love."

"That's a generic term."

"Just plain human love, love for a woman like the one who was here. I wish you knew her. She'd be good for you; she'd give your present self-centred life a broader meaning."

Donaldson turned away.

"Barstow," he replied, uneasily, "you're good—good clear through, but we move in different worlds. It isn't in me to love as you mean. I'm too critical, which is to say, too selfish."

"I think you are selfish, Peter," Barstow agreed frankly; "but I don't think it's your nature. You've got into the Slough of Despond, and the only thing that will drag you out of that is love, love of something outside yourself. Try it."

Donaldson shook his head.

"You're as good as gold," he declared, "but the things which content you and me are not the same. Good night."

"Good night. Be sure to drop in again when I get back."

Donaldson went out. He groped his way down the stairs into the street. Once he swung abruptly on his heel and stared at the pavement behind him. He thought he heard at his heels the scratching, padded tread of the pup.

CHAPTER II.

Donaldson pressed his way along the lighted streets, clutching the vial in his pocket with the thrill of a man holding the key of fretting shackles. One week of life with the future eliminated; one week with no reckoning to be made at the end; one week with every human fetter struck off; one week in which to ignore every curbing law of futurity and abandon himself to the joy of the present! The future—even the narrow bounds of an earthly future—holds men prisoners. A few careless dogs, to be sure, live their day, blind to the years to come, but that is brute stupidity. A few brave souls stagger through their prime with some bravado, knowing the final cost, but willing to pay it by installments through the dribbling years which follow; but the usury of time makes that folly. The wise choke such gypsy impulses—admit the mortgage of the Present to the Future—and surrender the brisk liberty of youth to the limping freedom of old age. But Donaldson was too thoughtful a man to belong to either the first or second class, and yet of too lusty stuff to join the third.

There were now just two doubtful points which checked him in his first impulse to swallow the deadly elixir at once—two questions needing further thought before he could have a clear conscience about it; he must convince himself a trifle more clearly that he shifted nothing to the load of those he left behind, and he must make sure that no element of fear entered into his act. That phrase of Barstow's, "It's quitting not to stay," smarted a bit.

In spite of these vital problems, Donaldson was keenly conscious, even with his wild freedom still nothing but a conception, of sharpened senses which responded keenly to the lights and sounds about him. This bottle which he held made him feel like some old time king's messenger, who carried a warrant making him exempt from local laws. He mixed among people whose perplexed thoughts wandered restlessly down the everlasting vista of the days ahead, and he alone of them all knew the secret of being untroubled beyond the week. The world had not for ten years appeared so gay to him. He felt the exhilarating sting of life as he had when it first surged in upon him at twenty. The very fact that he held even a temporary solution to his barren days was enough. In the joy of his almost august scorn of circumstances he forgot the minor difficulties which still lay before him.

He turned aside from the direct course to his room into Broadway. It was the last day of May, and early evening. The month revealed itself in the warm night sky and the buoyant spirits of those below its velvet richness. Spring was in the air—a stimulation as of etherialized champagne. The spirit of adventure, the spirit of renaissance, the spirit of creation was abroad once more. Not a cranny in even this sprawling section of denaturalized earth but thrilled for the time being with budding hopes, sap-swollen courage and bright, colorful dreams. Walking beneath the splitting glare of the arc lights, through the golden mist flooding from the store windows, Donaldson hazily saw again the careless unburdened world of his early youth. He caught the spirit of Broadway, and all Broadway means in the spring. It was a marionette world where marionettes dance their gayest. Yesterday this would have been to him nothing but a dead bioscope picture; now, though he still sat an onlooker in the pit, it was a living human drama at which he gazed.

Scrambled Eggs With Peppers.

Break the desired number of eggs into a bowl; a proportion of three for every two persons being the best. Allow a tablespoonful of cream or water (not milk) to each egg and season to taste. Put butter in the frying pan and when it is hot turn in the eggs, stirring gently as they being to set. Pour in two sweet green peppers; chop fine, first removing the seeds, and stir as the eggs are setting. Serve on toast.

Veal Salad.

Take a cup and a half of finely-minced cold veal, add some finely chopped celery and cut lettuce. Season highly and mix well with a heavy mayonnaise. Cold lamb may be used in the same way in an emergency rush.

GOSSIP ABOUT THE FASHIONS

The steamer coats that are now being worn show the trend of fashions for the fall and winter seasons. These coats are almost without exception made up of double-faced materials.

Sometimes it is in two different colors, then again the one side is plain and the other checked. These coats require no lining and collar; revers and cuffs are simply turnovers displaying the contrasting material.

Some favorite combinations are gray and purple, navy blue and deep orange, navy and emerald green, violet and rose, and then the black with the various black and white combinations. These coats will be very popular next season.

White satin waists are again coming into favor. A new model shown in these is a blouse made up in the semi-tailored style. When worn with a white serge suit, as they will be, the effect is decidedly smart, and by fall the white satin blouse will be the correct thing to wear with any colored suit.

The newest raincoats have large, round or preferably the pointed, collars. High-class garments in this line have the graceful shoulder capes, and this graceful coat will no doubt prove very popular.

New advance models in shoes show the long vamp which is now a strong vogue in Paris. In tops the seven-inch height find preference, and these have from 14 to 16 buttons. One smart boot with a seven and one-half inch top has 18 buttons.

There is a noticeable increase in the use of bright blues in combination, both in costumes and dress accessories, but especially in millinery. In fact, it is quite safe to say that it is the leading color just now, but probably the other brilliant coronation shades will soon prove strong rivals for first place.

IN FASHION'S REALM

Next in importance to the present rage for shot taffeta for the dressy tailor-made costumes, is the preference for stripes, and for summer wear white is used either in the stripe or the body of the material. All-white silk serge costumes, with white crochet or Venise lace over-collars on black chiffon, are exquisite. Next in choice are those of indigo blue and white, garnished with large white revers of mousseline, crepe, satin, or moire—and even of white suede. Sometimes the revers form a part of a deep sailor collar of plain satin inlaid with white Venise lace, and having an overlapping hem of the plain satin.

Such tempting and picturesque productions in the way of tea gowns and negligees are now being offered in the shops that one must be a feminine stoic to resist their beauty and chic. A positive novelty this season is the three-quarter length dressing sack, which is a distinct change from the short ones customarily fashioned. These are made of messaline, crepe de chine, flowered taffeta, crepe cloth, or plain habutai, and are elaborately trimmed with lace and pretty ribbons. Worn with a silk petticoat of matching tone, they are cool and pleasant for negligee purposes, being wide as to sleeves, and usually unseamed below the arms' eyes.

Plain tailor-made linen costumes are always with us, and the conventional two-piece costume of former years has apparently returned with new life and vigor, but the smartest linen frocks are now very dressy affairs, being covered with embroidery, reticella drawn work, insets of heavy lace, and most bewildering decorations of all sorts. Color on white linen gowns is not encouraged, although one sees a lot of it on the blouses worn with them. Black velvet, however, is featured in collar and buttons.

Correspondence

Edited by Cynthia Grey.

Dear Miss Grey: 1 How does one clean black Panama hats? 2. What do you think of a girl who goes out driving after 10 p. m. with a young man? 3. Give recipe for face lotion. 4. What will keep the hair from falling out?
A READER.

A.—1. Use alcohol. Brush hat with old toothbrush dipped in the alcohol, and go over it thoroughly. 2. She is indiscreet, to say the least. 3. Lactic acid, 2 drachms, glycerine, ½ ounce, 1½ drachms essence of white rose, 1 drachm tincture of benzoin, and enough water to fill a 6-ounce bottle. Mix the acid and glycerine with the water, and add the rose and benzoin which have been previously mixed. Apply daily. 4. Pure vaseline rubbed into the scalp once a day stimulates the growth of the hair. Shampoo frequently to keep hair from becoming too oily.

Dear Miss Grey: I am a girl of 18. My ears always have been prominent and they are a great humiliation to me as I am called "donkey," "flop-ears" and such names. I've read that this deformity can be cured. Do you think this is true?
MISS N.

A.—It's too bad you are so sensitive about this. If people are so heartless as to comment on your appearance—why, drop them from your list of acquaintances. They are not worth the friendship of any self-respecting person. Is there any fault of appearance that would be half as bad as a nature so cruel as to criticise one who is (in her own mind) unfortunate? Don't worry. Try dressing your hair so that your ears are not so noticeable. That's easy to do in this day of fluffy hair.

PATTERN BAG.

To the woman who does her own sewing a pattern bag is a necessary article. A simple and commodious one is made of green denim or other firm material. There are two rows of pockets of the same material and deep enough to conceal the pattern well. The edges may be bound with tape of a deeper shade and tape hangers or rings stitched at each corner allow it to be hung on the door or wall space. The contents of each pocket are made known by the name being embroidered thereon—coat, kimono, lingerie, shirtwaist, skirt or fancy articles.

WOMAN TO WOMAN.

The woman who for any reason cannot get on with women is preparing for herself a lonely old age. She may be beautiful, witty, a favorite with the men, yet there are times when she realizes that in one sense she is a failure. She asks herself whether one of the most tangible forms of success is not to get on with people. And the greater success—as she also begins to observe—is to get on with women. To get on with men is much less distinguished, for the odds are all in her favor. Men are not critical in their attitude toward her, and respond quickly to attention or kindness, seldom questioning the motives underlying either, as members of her own sex are prone to do, says "Woman's Life." It seems impossible for a certain class of women to be fair to women; ergo, it is equally impossible for them to get on with other women.

BLACK CHIFFON COLLARS.

The idea of wearing shapely collars of black hemstitched chiffon cloth is attractive. The collars are put on white blouses, on light-colored marquisette gowns, on black frocks when they are overlaid with a shallow collar of white Irish lace or white chiffon cloth; also hemstitched.

These collars are not always in strict sailor shape. They vary considerably. The points may run out to the sleeves and the back and front, cut off in straight lines. Again, the collar may be as deep as a bib in the back and sharpened off to points in front. One can buy them in the shops, but it is better to buy the hemstitched materials by the yard and cut them according to the desire of the wearer.

Bresnahan Is Sensation of Big League Managers

ROGER BRESNAHAN.

Roger Bresnahan leader of the St. Louis National League club, is the sensation of the National League this year. With a team picked to finish about seventh, he has forced the pace and has his Cardinals camped at the head of the second division with a lead of more than 100 points. Bresnahan is a graduate of the McGraw school; he is an aggressive, resourceful leader, and with but mediocre material is making every team step to win. His men admire his fighting spirit and seem imbued with it. Even if the Cardinals get no higher than they are at present, Bresnahan will have earned his salary, and his performance in landing them as high as fifth will be met with acclamations by the Mound City fans and baseball sharks everywhere.

SCOUTS SEE O'TOOLE IN $20,000 CONTEST

St. Paul Prize Twirler Humbles Brewers as Major Agents Watch.

VICTORY IN LATE ROUNDS

Much-Sought Flinger Pulled Out of Hole By Swatting Teammates.

Milwaukee, July 15.—A king's ransom was at stake in the game today between Milwaukee and St. Paul, with O'Toole and Kelly, the Saints' battery, the prize. Pitching and catching before an assembly of major league scouts the star battery were trying to impress upon the multitude that they were worth $20,000, which the industrious press agents have claimed to have been the bid for the pair.

The latest offer in the field was from Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pittsburg Club, who sent an appealing telegram to the management of the St. Paul Club, asking that no deal be closed until it hears from him. President Comiskey, of the White Sox; President Murphy, of the Cubs, and Manager Bresnahan, of the St. Louis Cardinals, are all credited with having made fabulous offers for the two.

Scouts on Hand.

Among the wise men on hand today to watch them at work were Manager Duffy, of the Chicago American League Club and President Murphy of the Chicago National League Club and scouts for the Detroit and Cleveland teams.

As luck would have it O'Toole pitched the Saints to victory even after the Brewers had tied up the score in the fourth inning. His teammates pulled him out of the hole in the eighth inning by batting in two more runs and an extra tally in the ninth made it 6 to 3 in favor of St. Paul.

BOSTON PLAYERS REFUSE TO PLAY

Herzog and Miller Declare They Will Quit Baseball Unless Demands Are Heeded.

THE FORMER FINED $300

For Alleged Indifferent Playing—Latter Wants More Salary.

Boston, July 16.—Charley Herzog, shortstop, and "Doc" Miller, right fielder of the Boston National League baseball team, went on strike last night, and declare they will quit baseball unless the management yields to their demands. Herzog is disgruntled because of a fine of $300 inflicted upon him for alleged indifferent playing and Miller refuses to continue on the job unless he gets additional pay. Both men have been putting up a great game here since the team returned from its last trip, and are among the leading batsmen of the league. Manager Tenney refuses to talk and President Russell, in a statement tonight, says he will not trade Herzog, remit his fine or raise his pay. In regard to Miller, Russell says he will trade him, but that he will not yield to his demand for more money and that discipline must be enforced.

Miller Demands It.

From St. Louis Miller wrote to Russell asking for more money, saying he would quit when the team reached Boston unless his demand was granted. Miller says Russell agreed verbally to give [illegible]m $300 bonus at the end of the season. W[illegible]n the team was paid off in New [illegible]y 1, Herzog found in his cash [illegible]elope a note from Tenney sayin[illegible] of $300 had been imposed upon [illegible] for indifferent playing and when the shortstop made inquiries Tenney said that if he played good ball he might remit the fine. Yesterday when the pay envelopes were passed around Herzog found he was still $300 out, and, believing that he had been playing good baseball during the past two weeks, he decided to quit the game and retire to his farm in Maryland.

PROGRESS OF WIRELESS.

By the law of the land no vessel carrying 50 or more persons, including passengers and crew, may leave any port in the United States on a voyage of more than 200 miles after July 1 unless it is equipped with wireless telegraph apparatus capable of transmitting and receiving messages over a distance of at least 100 miles, day or night, in charge of a competent operator.

Even without the strong encouragement, of the law, without any influence whatever beyond the cold logic of achievement, the world's installation of wireless telegraph apparatus had grown to a grand total of 1,520 stations on ship and shore, exclusive of foreign warships' amateur outfits up to Oct. 1, 1910, according to a directory compiled by the United States navy department. Of this total 821 stations were on steamships, yachts and tugs throughout the world. Of the shore stations the United States had 206, of which 88 were on the Atlantic and gulf coasts, 48 were on the great lakes, 51 on the Pacific coast, 16 in Alaska and three in the interior. The United States navy had 344 ship and 47 shore stations, the army 30 shore and 16 ship stations.

In 1909 the Marconi Company transmitted between ship and shore messages aggregating 519,000 words. The transatlantic business ranges from 50,000 to 75,000 words a week. The British postoffice department reported that in the three months ending Oct. 1, 1910, twice as many wireless messages were sent and received as in any other corresponding period. As the first step toward establishing a rang of wireless stations completely encircling the United Kingdom, the Government has bought the stations already in operation. The New Zealand Government recently asked for bids for erecting five wireless stations, while 15 new wireless stations now being constructed along the Amazon and Paraguay Rivers in Brazil will be in operation before the end of the year.

THE BEST POLICED MILE IN THE WORLD

Criminals Steer Clear of the Old City of London.

DUTIES OF LORD MAYOR

Pay Equals That of U. S. President, and He Passes Judgment on Drunks, Etc.

London, July 16.—No more violent contrast is to be found the world over than that existing between the various duties of the Lord Mayor of London. Theoretically at least, the King of Great Britain and Ireland and Emperor of India cannot enter the City of London without his consent, yet he spends the best part of his mornings dispensing Solomon-like justice upon drunks who have broken the peace of the square mile of territory over which he rules.

Of course, the mayor of an American city is the chief magistrate, but he seldom if ever is called upon for such humble duties. In London, the greatest city in the world, the lord mayor, unless called away on other duties, is to be found every morning after 11 o'clock in the little justice room of the great Mansion House, his official residence, dealing with the astonishingly small batch of law breakers, taken in the net of the great police system that makes the old City of London proper the safest and most law abiding stretch of territory to be found in any large city in the world.

The city is only a square mile in extent, the better part of it being occupied by the great business houses that control the finances of the world. There is located the famous Bank of England, for instance, behind whose eight-foot walls reposes at all times a reserve fund of $100,000,000 in gold. Twenty-eight soldiers guard the treasure from within, but from without it is even better looked after. Scattered about the square mile of London, as thick as flies about a honey pot, are 1,800 blue coated policemen. After 8 or 9 o'clock at night the silence of the streets in that part of Greater London is seldom broken except by the slow tread of the guardians of the law. Foolhardy indeed would be the burglar who tried to ply his trade in this well-guarded area.

Criminals Stay Away.

It is not strange, then, that criminals give the city a wide berth and the majority of those who find themselves in the dock facing the Lord Mayor of London are men and women who have drunk not wisely but too well. The present lord mayor is himself a strict teetotaller, but he is possessed of a delightful broadmindedness that views with sorrow rather than anger and severity, the weaknesses of other. The City of London drunks never had a more lenient magistrate to pass judgment upon them, and dismissals with a kindly word of reproof and encouragement to better deeds far outnumber the fines.

The Lord Mayor of London receives as much as the President of the United States. His yearly pay envelope is twice as bulky and valuable as that of the Prime Minister of Great Britain. Those who have a leaning towards mathematics can figure out that he is the highest paid magistrate in the world, when one takes into consideration the proportion of his working day that is spent on the bench. It must not be thought, however, that he has nothing else to do, although it is perfectly true that his duties, taken as a whole, are largely ornamental. A recent lord mayor amused himself by keeping a record of his activities during the year he spent in the high office. He attended 130 public and semi-public dinners, 85 balls and receptions, 365 meetings and committees; he made 1,100 speeches, and he paid twenty state visits to churches. On occasions when this class of duties interfere with his more serious magisterial ones, a brother alderman takes his place on the bench.

JAPAN MAY COME NEXT

Likely To Negotiate an Arbitration Treaty With United States.

Washington, July 17. — Japan, it is now generally believed here, will surely be the next nation to undertake the negotiation of a general arbitration treaty with the United States. The revised Anglo-Japanese alliance, it is declared, removes the only obstacle to the conclusion of such a treaty with Japan, as it did with Britain.

The rapidity with which Britain and Japan moved to solve a problem that at one time threatened the arbitration proposals, has brought much satisfaction to President Taft and Secretary Knox. Japan has kept this Government advised of the progress of the negotiations to revise the alliance with Britain, and this is accepted as an indication of Japan's deep interest in the success of the arbitration campaign.

Secretary Knox will return Tuesday to Washington from a short vacation. It is believed the treaty with Great Britain will be signed, and that negotiations will begin with Japan shortly after his arrival.

The state department has been officially advised of the signature of the amended alliance. Japan has furnished the American Government with the full text of the new convention.

HELPING HOUSE THE WORKINGMEN

An American Princess Builds a Model Paris Appartment.

ARE SMALL, BUT GOOD

Yearly Rents for the Flats Range From $42 to $84.

Paris, July 16.—Two years ago a big corporation in Paris erected a little workingman's city for the benefit of its employees. Now an individual, a society woman and an American, the Princess de Polignac, nee Singer, has been instrumental in building a double apartment house, the first of a series for the families of the laborers who have hitherto been housed in the crowded, squalid quarters of Paris which are hot-beds of disease and moral corruption.

Princess de Polignac has an absorbing love for music and devotes a great deal of attention to art. In her hotel on the Avenue Henri-Martin she is surrounded by every luxury, yet this condition has not sapped her energy in bettering the ills of the less fortunate. When the idea came to her that she would like to remedy the tenement evil she approached Comte d'Haussonville, of the French academy, who is so competent to give advice on the question of the working man, and the famous architect Vandoyer. The present building is the outcome of the consultation. Ground was bought near the fortifications, far from the centre of the city. The building is a marvel as far as hygienic principles are concerned. It is constructed of white brick with borders of colored brick and stone trimmings.

Napoleon's Projects.

Little attention has been paid in Paris to the housing of the laborers. Napoleon III. had projects of a model workingman's city with comfortable homes with a cheap rental which under his reign never matured. The republic has taken 30 years to think about it, but the Princess de Polignac has set the example by building a desirable home for the poor. An innovation is the arrangement, whereby each family, for $44 a year, can have one of the 65 little gardens that are spaced off and divided by fences. An ornamental fountain in the centre serves for drinking purposes and also supplies water for the plants. Here they can raise vegetables and flowers, and the children have a safe playground away from the dangerous public thoroughfares.

The building has four staircases which have double handrails, one at a height for the young children. There are 65 apartments under its roof. Everything is of brick and iron as a precaution against fire. The rents vary from $44 to $82 a year. The flats at $44 a year have one bedroom, a kitchen which is large enough for a living room, and a large clothes closet. Those at $72 have two bedrooms and a large kitchen, and for $82 one can have two bedrooms, a dining room and a large kitchen with ample closet room. The rooms are bright and airy and each contains a pretty mantelpiece. On the left side of the court are a shed for the tenants' bicycles, a place for the baby carriages and a room expressly for the washing of clothes which are afterward dried in the open air. On the right side of the court is a room containing the baths and shower baths, adjoining which is a doctor's office for consultations. Two shops are on the basement floor, one of which is to be occupied by a baker and the other by a grocer.

MANUEL MAY VISIT GREAT WHITE WAY

Gaby Deslys, His Charmer, Will Play in New York.

London, July 16.—Gaby Deslys, the Parisienne beauty, who was responsible in a degree for the downfall and banishment of King Manuel of Portugal, has signed to play at the New York Winter Garden, at a reputed salary of $4,000 a week, and coincident with her appearance there, New York probably will have its first sight of the dethroned king, who will doubtless embrace the opportunity to see America. Interviewed today, Mlle. Deslys denied the story that she was married to King Manuel, but admitted coyly that Manuel is still very attentive to her. Asked about the pearls which the dethroned monarch gave her, Gaby replied:

"I have a million francs' worth of pearls, but my favorite necklace is the gift of Manuel and cost $25,000. I do not care for diamonds at all, but I have a passion for pearls. They are nicer than diamonds and much quieter."

Asked where she kept her jewels, Mlle. Deslys summoned her maid, unfastened the girl's blouse, and disclosed a small sack of pearls.

"They are safe there," she said, smiling and patting the maid on her shoulder. "No one ever thinks of looking at my maid's shoulders for my pearls."

Gaby is now playing at the Alhambra in London. Manuel attends the music hall every evening. In her stage act Gaby uses a wonderful bed, and appears in it in a delicate night attire.

HUMAN BLOOD INDICATOR

Scientist's Discovery of Great Importance to Police.

London, July 17.—For the first time in the history of the criminal courts of England a skilled analyst has been able to say positively that the stains found on the clothes of a prisoner were made by human blood, and not only that, but that the blood was from an anaemic person.

In many murder trials the guilt or innocence of a prisoner has turned on the evidence of the analyst, who heretofore was unable to swear positively whether the stains were made by mammalian or human blood. The point came up in the Crippen case, and it was then said that science was at work on the subject and a successful outcome of the nvestigation was anticipated.

In the case in question a man was charged with killing a woman, and when arrested stains were found on his clothes. Dr. Wilcox, the Government analyst, who was a witness in the Crippen case, stated in evidence that modern methods now enabled him to say that the blood was human, and that it came from an anaemic person, which the victim was. The prisoner was found guilty, and sentenced to death.

WATCHES PASSING OF SPARK OF LIFE

Chicago Physician Takes a Picture of the Departing Aura of a Dying Man.

Chicago, July 16. — The "flight of the vital spark" has been witnessed, according to a statement made today by Dr. Patrick S. O'Donnell, an X-ray expert, who has been following up experiments made by Dr. W. J. Kilner, of London, England.

Some time ago, using a chemicalized film sealed between two thin strips of glass, Dr. O'Donnell gave a demonstration to twenty physicians of the aura or "electrical radiation" of living bodies, four young women being used as subjects. The aura developed as a strong ray of light, surrounding the entire form of the subject.

"Last night," said Dr. O'Donnell, "in the presence of several physicians in Mercy Hospital, I tried the experiment on a dying man. He was rapidly sinking. Suddenly the attending physician announced that the man was dead. The aura began to spread from the body and presently disappeared. Further observation of the corpse revealed no sign of the aura.

"We do not claim that the light is the soul or spirit. In fact, no one seems to know what it is. In my opinion, however, it is some sort of radioactivity made visible by the use of the chemical screen. My experiments, however, seem to prove that it is of the animating power, or current of life of human beings."

FRENCH ARMY MORTALITY

Growing Less, But Is Still Higher Than in Other Countries.

London, July 15.—The Paris correspondent of the Lancet discusses the subject of mortality and illness in the French army. He says it is true that in the last ten years mortality in the French army has been regularly diminishing. But its sum (4.26 in 1,000) is still higher than that of Prussia (1.31), Hungary (2.82) and Italy (3.28). With regard to the morbidity returns, calculating from the number of soldiers entering the military hospital, it was in 1902 6,000 a 1,000. At the present time it has reached 7.40 a 1,000.

As to the causes he writes:

"A serious reason is one to which attention has been directed by several Senators; the diminution in the birth rate in France by limiting the choice of possible recruits for the army while the same numerical strength is to be maintained renders it necessary to accept men of inferior physique, who in former days would have been rejected and who eventually constitute a large percentage of the hospital admissions. For an almost identical total of men 'les conseils de revision' in France have 350,000 men to examine, while in Germany there are 1,200,000 to choose from, so that France has to enlist 70 per cent. of its contingent, Germany only 30 per cent., which gives that power the chance of accepting the robust. Lastly, must be added the law, which fixes the period of military service at two years instead of three years; a soldier's instruction compressed into two years instead of three becomes much more fatiguing and is more likely to produce exhaustion and illness."

QUEUE-CUT PARTIES POPULAR IN CHINA

Ten Years Will See Last of the Long-Haired Men.

Pekin, July 13.—So anxious are the Chinese to divest themselves of the queue, those who have followed the trend of events in China are prophesying that within ten years China will no longer be a land of long-haired men and small-footed women, so rapidly has sentiment in its favor developed. Mr. Eugene E. Barnett, of the International Young Men's Christian Association in China, describes a visit to a large tea house in a public garden, where a large company of Chinese were gathered, some to discard the queue, other to witness the shearing.

"Between fifteen hundred and two thousand spectators were packed and jammed on the floor and in the galleries," he writes. "Every pair of eyes was focussed on a platform which occupied one end of the building. About this platform were gathered the 'elect,' those who had already been separated from their queues. One glance sufficed to show that most of them were young men, and young men from the better classes; the chief seat of the short hair revival has been the colleges, both missionary and government, of the land. It reminded me of the popular revival at home to see these men exhorting with all earnestness those in the audience to 'come forward.' One by one the men would screw up their courage and make their way to the platform, where one specially appointed man was ready to hold the queue while a second man with a huge pair of scissors stood ready to perform the amputation. As one would go forward, a wave of applause would sweep over the tense crowd, and then be followed by an interval of silence, as every head bent forward so that nothing might be missed.

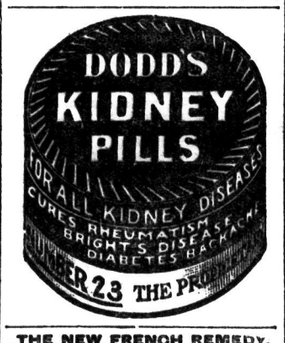

A Dramatic Scene.

"In each case a dramatic scene ensued. The queue would be strung out at full length with a vicious jerk by its possessor, or lifted gingerly up by him with a comical grimace of contempt, and then handed over to the waiting committee mentioned above. A few snips, and off would come the long, heavy braid, the possession of which in a somewhat modified form would have filled many an American woman's heart with unholy pride. The applause would break forth again and a hubbub of voices fill the room, as that which is 'the glory of woman,' but the shame of a man, was handed to its late wearer. Usually a speech followed, sometimes cool and measured, more often impassioned, and almost savage, as the new convert waved the despised object before the face of the audience, but always dramatic in the extreme, as the Chinese down to the humblest coolie is a born actor. While this was going on in the main hall of the tea house, 30 barbers were busy in other parts of the building giving their services free of charge. Altogether several hundred men, according to the native newspapers, went from Chang Su Ho's garden to their homes that night with their queues in their hands instead of down their backs, where they had hung and rubbed and flapped from their earliest days.

"Nearly three hundred years ago the queue was imposed on the Chinese by the powerful Manchus, who came down from the north and ousted the reigning Ming dynasty from the throne. As with the passing generations the wearing of the queue became a custom, it became, as all customs in China, a thing to be cherished. But with the modern awakening, the dirtiness, the uncomfortableness, the inconvenience, the shame of the queue has been recognized once more, and its abolition has been clamored for. And this movement, of which the Chang Su Ho garden incident was a striking expression, is significant, not merely because it most probably marks the passing of the picturesque appendage, but because it is only one of the many evidences of the new spirit which is thrilling this long time corpse of a nation with the assurance of an early resurrection. It is a great privilege to be in China at this time, and my realization of this fact increases with the days. It is a greater privilege to have a small part in as well as become a spectator of the mighty changes through which China is now passing."

LONDON IS OUTHIT BUT BEATS BERLIN

Tecumsehs Allowed But Two Hits by Teed, of Green Sox.

TORONTO WANTS KYLE

Andy Does Not Belong to Leafs, But McCaffery Asks For Option on Him.

Although held to a lonesome pair of hits, both of which came in the third period, London scored sufficient runs in that session to annex the second match of the series from Berlin before a great crowd Saturday afternoon.

Four counts were sent across the pan in the third session, and as the Dutchmen had up to that time failed to make a showing, the fans revelled in the prospect of a thorough trouncing for Deneau's men. The joy was short-lived, however, for before the match had passed the fourth period, the visitors forced three men across, reducing London's lead to one lone run, which by a succession of brilliant plays and brainy work was held till the finish.

Teed showed beautiful form and really deserved something better for his effort, for despite the handicap of 8 to 2 in the hitting, the Tecumsehs cantered away with the winning end.

Sammy Smith Twirls.

Sammy Smith, although touched for two-thirds of a dozen swats, nipped aggressive Berlin base runners frequently, for men reached the first sack with persistent regularity.

Andy Kyle showed more of his flashy stuff, and as a result the local club is beginning to hear from scouts of teams in higher company.

Although it was generally understood that Kyle came to London from Toronto, this is not strictly the case.

Andy reported to London from Troy, N. Y., his whereabouts and class being merely made known to the local management through Toronto men. McCaffery, of the Maple Leafs, has now come through with a business talk, and asks Business Manager Minhinnick to name a price on the left-fielder. This may be done shortly, but even if the Eastern Leaguers are given the option they ask for Kyle will not go until the end of the season.

Toronto After Kyle.

Toronto is willing to put up some real money for him, and has even made an offer to turn over a couple of strong players in a trade.

Pavey, the Lebanon, Ind., man, who reported at the end of the week, worked the right garden in the absence of Jo Keenan, who is on the sick list. Joseph has been indisposed for a few days and will take a short rest. Andrews was acting leader in Saturday's fray.

A shift has been made in the programme for the coming week. London works in St. Thomas today, and will probably play a double-header there tomorrow. The Tecumsehs return to this city after that for the remainer of the week, meeting Hamilton Wednesday and Thursday, and Chaucer Elliott's men on Friday and Saturday.

ERROR IN FINAL SAVES LEAFS FROM SHUTOUT

Kolts Defeated Guelph Saturday by 5 to 1—Hamilton Braces Up.

Hamilton, July 16. — The Kolts defeated Guelph here yesterday five to one, making it two straight in the series. The game was full of good baseball, the Kolts especially playing excellent ball. Quinn, who pitched, deserved a shut-out, the one lone error coming in the last inning and handing the Leafs their one run. As has been the case all week the Hamilton team clouted the ball hard, and a continuation of their good work with the stick should land them in first place next week even though they have four games away from home. Brandow was placed at shortstop, Duffy making his appearance at second base, while Phelan, a new player secured from Pittsburg, was in right field. Brandow played a grand game, and the verdict is that Grieve will not be missed so much as was at first thought. Duffy was also a big help, putting pepper into the infield work, and there is no doubt but that the present infield is the best that the Kolts have had this year. The game was again featured by the heavy hitting of Barton, the Hamilton catcher, who is playing wonderful ball at the present time, being rated the best backstop in the league. The score: R. H. E.

Lee Has Sixteen Men.

Barrett, an outfielder, who has been with the Providence Eastern League club, joined the Hamilton team today, while Anderson, one of the pitchers, was released last evening. The Kolts are still carrying several extra players, and with Carey back in uniform this week, some others will have to go. Carey was injured in an automobile accident some time ago, and is just recovering from his injuries. With the local man in uniform, Manager Lee will have sixteen players, including himself, with which to gather in the pennant. At least two of these will be let go or loaned to some other club this week. The Kolts are leading the league in hitting according to the official averages, which have been compiled, while George Barberich, brother of the Eastern League twirler, is leading the Hamilton pitchers with a record of six victories and no defeats.

RED SOX DIVIDE PAIR WITH ELLIOTT'S SAINTS

St. Thomas Won First at Brantford, 6 to 4, But Lost Second, 13 to 4.

Brantford, July 16.—Brantford and St. Thomas split even in a double-header before a record crowd here on Saturday. The first game went eleven innings, the Saints winning by 6 to 4. Howick, for the visitors, pitched fine ball, and received great support. Courtney's two errors in the eleventh, followed by Dougherty's hit, scored the winning runs. Gurney, in Brantford's half, speared a hard liner to right with two men on and retired the side on a fine double play unassisted. The score:

ST. MARYS SPLIT EVEN ON SATURDAY'S BILL

Played Twice in Order to Permit the McClary Team to Go to Port Stanley.

St. Marys played a pair in the East End League on Saturday afternoon to permit McClarys to attend their annual picnic at Port Stanley, and split even. They trimmed St. Johns, 3 to 2, in an exciting squabble in the opener, but were trounced, 11 to 5, by the Jubilees in the second. Gillies allowed but two hits in the first battle, while Heathfield was touched up for five. The latter was given good support.

JACK CLARKE GETS NEARER TO THE NATIONAL TITLE.

Newark, N. J., July 16.—Jackie Clarke, the Australian cyclist, gained again today in his effort for the title held by Frank Kramer, the national champion. He won the five-mile event at the Velodrome. Alfred Coullet was second, and Kramer, who delayed his final spurt too long, came in third. By winning the event Clarke shortens Kramer's lead for the season to seven points. The champion has 38 and Clarke has 31 tallies, including the five points to the winner of today's races.

FIVE TWIRLERS AGAINST LEAFS

Montreal Used Whole Staff in Endeavor to Win Sunday Game.

TORONTO LOST SATURDAY

Kelley's Crew Walloped, 6 to 1, Bachman and Mueller Being Hit Freely.

Montreal, July 16.—Montreal used five pitchers today in an effort to stop Toronto, but the Leafs won 12 to 8. It was a hard-hitting contest throughout. French cleaned up with a homer in one stanza, while Shaw and Miller also figured with four-base clouts. Each team got eleven hits, but the Montreal twirlers were wild, handing out passes, hitting batters and unloosing wild pitches. Miller, with two big league scouts watching him, featured the game with his batting, making three singles in addition to his homer. Vaughn's fielding featured the work on the diamond. The score:

Confidence Brings Hilton Championship

CHAMPION H. H. HILTON.

Harold H. Hilton, champion English golfer, is often referred to as a veteran and again as another's "younger opponent." As Hilton has been playing first-class golf for 24 years, admits 42 years and has a son who is a six-footer, he can scarcely be a juvenile. Hilton says his success in golf is due to confidence in his ability to place a ball where he desires, arising from constant practice.

BULLET THAT SMOTHERS

Explodes, Causing a Vapor, Which Overcomes Victim.

Berlin, July 16.—An inventive German has recently taken out a patent for a pistol for producing apparent death for a brief time. It is loaded with a bullet made of chemical composition, to which is added enough powder to propel it. The bullet explodes and causes a thick cloud of vapor, which envelopes the victim, made of a chemical composition, to which ders his breathing difficult, and he finally falls into a swoon that lasts from ten minutes to a half hour. It is believed that the new pistol will be of importance for policemen, as they may be able to overcome rowdies or even unmanageable crowds effectively without killing anybody.

THIS IS JOHNSON'S NEXT OPPONENT

PAT CURRAN

Jack Johnson is to fight Pat Curran, so the cablegraphers tell us, in a short time. Curran is a British heavyweight and is considered a good man, but scarcely anyone will admit he is in the champion's class. Tom Flanagan, the Toronto promotor, is credited with making the match.

TRAGEDY OF THE LINKS

Golf Player Near Washington Killed by Lightning Bolt.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, July 17. — A Washington dispatch says: Tam Johnson, solicitor of the navy department, was killed by lightning Sunday afternoon whole playing golf on the Chevy Chase links, six miles outside Washington. This is the course used by President Taft. He had gone about half-way over the course with Francis Poole, of Washington, and two caddies, when a terrific bolt stunned the entire party and prevented the others from rendering immediate aid to Mr. Johnson, which might have saved his life. As it was, his clothing caught fire as he lay unconscious and he was burned terribly before the flames were smothered. The tragedy happened while there were a number of players on the links.

England's Greatest Batsman in Record-Breaking Performance

C. J. B. WOOD.

Cricket has its Lajoies, Wagners and Cobbs, who are feared by the bowlers as much as the famed trio of ball tossers are feared by pitchers. C. J. B. Wood, of Leicester, starred in a record-breaking performance, carrying his bat through two innings, scoring 214 without losing the wicket. No English batsman has scored two separate not-out hundreds in a match before, and it has been done but once in Australia, by Gehrs in the season of 1905-6.

AMUNDSEN TELLS OF MIGHTY BARRIER

Famous Explorer in Quest of the South Pole.

London, July 17—The first account from Capt. Amundsen of his progress in his present expedition to the south pole has been received here.

Capt. Scott's ship, the Terra Nova, was surveying the great ice barrier in the Antarctic when it met the Fram, Capt. Amundsen's vessel, on the way to go into winter quarters in the Bay of Whales.

After describing the splendid qualities of the Fram during its 16,000-mile voyage, and the care taken of the 100 Eskimo dogs which had become 155 at the time of landing, Capt. Amundsen says:

Walls of Ice.

"We sighted the mighty barrier at 2:30 p.m. on Jan. 11. One would be less than human if one could behold such a sight unmoved. As far as the eye can see, from western to eastern horizon, this wall of ice rises perpendicularly to a height of 100 feet. And yet it is only a small part of it that one sees. What must the man have thought who first came on this wall and for whom all further advance seemed an impossibility?

"The great bay running southwest into the barrier, which I have chosen as the base of an expedition toward the south pole, has been observed not only by Ross and Borchgrevink, but also by Scott and Shackleton, and thus appears to be a constant formation something that can be counted on. Shackleton also thought he saw a ridge of hills at the head of the bay which would indicate land.

Finish Little House.

"After reading these various accounts and thinking the matter over I came to the conclusion that this bay, which has been proved to have had nla. The same situation for a period of 60 years, could not be a chance formation in the barrier caused by the breaking of icebergs, but must have been produced by underlying land or rising ground. If not, the barrier would have continued its course, unchecked, and no bay would have been formed.

"It is three weeks since we began building the station, and now all is ready.

"Our solidly built little house stands safe and secure, sunk four feet down in snow as hard as rock, and supported by backstays on all sides."

IRELAND TO GROW HOPS

German Baron Will Use American Roots for Crop.

London, July 17. — Hop-growing on an extensive scale is to be started in Ireland in the fall by a German, who will use American roots and German labor. Baron von Hurst, who, with his brother, is one of the largest hop-growers in the world, has purchased 2,000 acres of land in Ireland for the purpose.

Baron von Hurst's hop fields in Lower California are extensive, and for ten years he has been supplying the English market with hops that the unsuspecting Briton supposed were grown in Kent. Then came the tax and American hops became almost prohibitive in Great Britain.

As England is the greatest consumer of hops of any country in the whole of Europe, the German hop king began to look around a bit. He knew that the Kent hop fields had been worked so long that they were almost barren. So he went to Ireland.

"I have found," he says, "a spot in Ireland where the rainfall and sunshine the year round are almost the same as in the best hop-growing section of Kent. Still better, the soil is practically virgin, because, as you know, Irish farming lands have lain dormant for years on account of the land troubles. The chemical ingredients in the soil are almost the same as those in the hop fields of California. The subsoil is much better than that in Kent."

KING AND QUEEN EAGER FOR SCOTTISH VISIT

Look Forward to Free and Informal Life at Balmoral.

London, July 17.—King George and Queen Mary are looking forward with the keenest anticipation to their holiday in Scotland. They love the free and informal life at their Scottish seat, and the days on the moors around Balmoral are a real relaxation to the King.

The visit probably will extend into the early part of October to give their majesties a complete rest before returning to London and making preparations for their journey to India.

From what one hears, Princess Mary may accompany her parents to India, but all the royal children are looking forward to their holiday at Balmoral, more especially young Prince Albert, who for the first time will be allowed to accompany the King and his guests deer-stalking.

The King and Queen will be present this year at the Braemar gathering, which has not been patronized by the sovereigns for a long time, as King Edward always arrived at Balmoral too late to attend it. The gathering will be held at Braemar early in September. Queen Victoria always attended the gathering and took a keen interest in the games and in the muster of Highlanders.

Prince John wants to be a real English boy. He has seen the Boy Scouts at work, and the active little prince, who is a robust youngster with a liking for rough exercise, has demanded to be made a Scout at once, and to have bare knees and carry a pole. The working dress of khaki with the loose knee breeches has appealed to him far more than the immaculate white clothes he is constrained to wear in public.

RECORD EXECUTION WITH THE "CHAIR"

One Contact of Current Sufficient to Kill Slayer of Two.

[Canadian Press.]

Ossining, July 17.—Guiseppe Zimarco, who killed two men during his twenty years of life, paid the penalty for one of his deeds today at Sing Sing prison. One minute's contact of the electric current left him a corpse. It was the quickest execution since the electric chair was introduced at the state prison.

Zimarco murdered Antony Sido at Mamaroneck a year ago, after a quarrel in a dance hall. Five years ago at Peekskill he killed a man, but escaped punishment on a plea of self-defence.

AGROUND IN A FOG

Plant Liner From Halifax In Trouble at Boston.

Boston, July 17 — The Plant line steamer Halifax from Halifax, N. S., ran aground on the southern end of George's Island in the lower harbor early today while entering port in a thick fog. It is understood that the steamer is not in a dangerous position.

Proceeding up the main ship channel and shrouded in a big bank of fog, the Plant line steamer Halifax, inbound from the Nova Scotian capital, ran aground on the easterly side of George's Island today and became so firmly attached to the sandy beach that tugs had to bring her passengers to the city, leaving the steamer to be floated at high water this afternoon.

Several fishermen who passed close to the steamer Halifax reported that the steamer was well out of water, she did not seem in any immediate danger, and that tugs would undoubtedly float her when the tide served again. The tide was about three hours' ebb when the Halifax struck at 6:30 a.m.

ROOSEVELT HIT BY COUNT WITTE

The Latter Says T. R. Tried to Force Acceptance of Jap Terms.

OPENLY FAVORED MIKADO

Ex-President Told the Czar Japan Had Millions to Prolong War.

St. Petersburg, July 16.—Count Witte is about to publish a pamphlet giving his version of the negotiations for the treaty of Portsmouth, which will arouse profound interest both in Europe and America.

Count Witte says that at the first meeting of the conference the Japanese submitted their peace conditions, twelve in number, and with a cursory glance Count Witte declared them absolutely unacceptable.

In particular he rejected the four final conditions—namely, the Japanese demand for indemnity, the limitation of Russian maritime power in the Pacific, the surrender of Saghalien and the surrender of the Russian warships stationed in neutral ports.

Thus the negotiations seemed in a very bad way when President Roosevelt prevailed on the Japanese to submit their first eight points for discussion, which ended in an agreement being reached upon them.

Insisted on Getting Island.

As for the four remaining points, the Japanese representative, Count Komura, offered to give up the demand for indemnity, the limitation of the Russian maritime power in the Pacific and the delivery of Russian warships, but insisted on the cession of the southern port of Saghalien to Japan, being willing to allow Russia to retain the northern part on condition that she paid Japan twelve hundred million yen.

Count Witte refused this latter condition, considering it merely a veiled insistence on indemnity. At the last moment, when Witte was preparing to leave Portsmouth, President Roosevelt sent a dispatch to the Czar in which he openly espoused the Japanese cause, says the count. He declared he considered the Japanese demand perfectly justified and right, adding that refusal by Russia might bring about a loss of her possessions in eastern Siberia.

Czar Refused.

The president sent a similar dispatch to the foreign office at St. Petersburg. The Czar replied through Ambassador Meyer to the effect that peace could only be concluded on the basis of the first eight points already concurred in by both parties.

Thereupon President Roosevelt made another attempt to force the Japanese demand on Russia through Mr. Meyer. He informed the Czar that fifty million sterling was deposited by Japan with a number of American banks which would be available to continue the war. He also enlarged upon the dangerous, almost fatal consequences for Russia of its continuation.

The Czar laconically replied that his former position was unchanged and at the same time telegraphed the Russian representatives to leave Portsmouth forthwith.

At this extremely critical juncture Count Witte received notice that Japan unconditionally waived its demands.

WOULDN'T ADMIT HIM TO PRISON

Had To Produce Proof That He Was Entitled to a Cell.

[Canadian Press.]

Newark, N. J., July 17.—After a walt of several hours at the gate of the state prison here, Horace Codington, a lawyer, conducted of misappropriating public funds, finally obtained admission to the institution early today. Codington learned yesterday that his conviction had been affirmed by the court of appeals, and at once set out for he prison to surrender himself. He reached the prison late last night and told the officials that he had been sentenced to serve eighteen months in the prison. They declined to admit him, however, until he could produce the usual commitment papers. Codington telephoned to the county officials, explaining the situation and finally the sheriff arrived with the necessary papers and Codington was placed in a cell.

KAISER KEEPS NO GIFTS

German Emperor Makes Passing On of Valuable Presents Firm Rule.

Berlin, July 17.—One of Emperor William's established rules is not to keep for his personal use or gratification any valuable gift.

For instance, when Count Schack give his famous picture gallery to the Emperor in 1884, his majesty accepted it but immediately presented it to the city of Munich, and even had a new museum constructed to hold the pictures, instead of giving way to the temptation to remove the pictures to Berlin, as Prussians wished him to do.

When Villa Falconieri, near Rome, was left to the Emperor in the will of Ernest von Mendelssohn, the Emperor accepted it, but immediately turned the villa into a home of rest and study for artists.

The Martin Luther letter for which J. P. Morgan, of New York, paid $25,000, and which he afterward gave to the Emperor, probably will eventually, if not immediately, go into one of the national depositories of historical treasures.

Sue for Gift Estate.

Emperor William has been sued for possession of the royal estate of Cadinen, on the ground that he accepted it as a gift from a certain Arthur Birknar, while the latter was mentlly irresponsible. If he did take it as a gift, it would be perhaps the only instance during his reign of his keeping any valuable property presented to him.

While he was passing through Genoa on his return from Corfu to Berlin, some of Birknar's Italian heirs threw into his carriage a package of letters bearing on their suit. Straightway the Berlin newspapers received a semi-official intimation that the claim was absurd, that the Emperor took over the estate at a time when it was heavily mortgaged and ruined by bad husbandry, and that he accepted responsibility for all the debts and allowed Birknar a yearly income of $8,000 as payment.

Heirs Quote Emperor.

Members of an Italian family named Grangrandi, heirs of Birknar, declare, however, that the Emperor received the estate (which hrs since become very valuable, owing to the discovery of china clay and the establishing of a royal porcelain factory) as a gift, not as a purchase, at a time when Birknar was a "morphine fiend."

They now publish a letter in which the Emperor is represented as saying:

"I desire to express to you my royal gratitude for your great-hearted determination to present to me your property at Cadinen, and for your true patriotic feeling displayed in the gift."

It is singular that the claim of Birknar's heirs was not made until thirteen years after the transfer, and just when the Emperor had publicly described the vast improvements made on the estate by careful husbandry and a large expenditure of money.

NEW YORK TO HAVE NAVAL ONSLAUGHT

Seventeen Battleships to Make a Test Attack On American Metropolis.

New York, July 17.—With the embarkation of approximately 3,000 men, the naval militia of nine states and the departure of a fleet of seventeen battleships and auxiliaries to a point 200 miles off Sandy Hook, preparations for the great naval attack on the city of New York, by way of Long Island sound, were completed today.

The defending force, consisting of a flotilla of the navy's fleetest torpedo-boats and most modern sumbarines, is in readiness to repulse the invaders. The battle will be fought in the vicinity of Gardiner's bay, at the eastern extremity of Long Island, and while the exact hour of the initial attack is a closely guarded secret, it will be in the period from midnight on July 18 to midnight on July 20.

It has been the contention of many naval experts of this and other countries that it is possible for a powerful fleet to reach New York by way of the eastern end of Long Island, and the battle of Gardiner's bay will be watched with great interest on this account. There will be day and night attacks and conditions of actual naval warfare will be closely simulated.

The enemy, officially designated as the Blue Fleet, in command of Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, the new commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, will attack the rear entrance of New York city. Against this formidable armada, in defence of the city, will stand the Red Fleet consisting of the flotilla of twenty torpedo boats, the squadron of naval militia craft and the eleven submarines, under command of Commander E. E. Eberle.

The fate of the metropolis hangs upon this slender thread, for the land defences will not participate. Hostilities will last two days and two nights, giving ample opportunity for attack and defence from every viewpoint. After the manoeuvres the naval reserve will participate in the usual drills. There is keen competition among the men of the different states as to efficiency in these drills, and new records may be made.

The naval militia participating in the manoeuvres is from New York, Massachusetts, Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland, South Carolina Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia.

GENERAL BOOTH TO GIVES EYES A REST

Salvation Army Chief Won't Make Trip to U. S. in Fall.

London, July 17.—General Booth is just back in London again, after one of his lightning tours through Scandinavia.

Contrary to earlier announcements, he will not make protracted tours through the United States and Canada in the fall, as the condition of his sight is such that it is thought advisable for him to rest, before the eye that is giving all the trouble is operated upon. But a high official at the London headquarters of the Salvation Army informs me that in all probability the abandoned tour will take place next year.

The history of this wonderful old man, now in his eighty-third year, is one of the most remarkable in the annals of religious leaders. Brought up in the Methodist Church, he began his career as an outdoor preacher in London in times that now seem to be quite a back number.

Years of preaching, pushing and ridicule had to be lived through before the British public accepted the Salvation Army movement seriously. It was the late King Edward who gave it a front rank place and made the movement a pet of the charitable section of society, by asking the Salvation Army chief to visit him at Buckingham Palace. Since then it has been smooth sailing for everyone in Britain who wears the red jersey.

All General Booth's foreign tours are worked beforehand with a detailed minuteness that reminds one of the plans laid for a monarch's progress. The copy of the schedule of his Scandinavian tour read like a railroad time table. Almost every hour of the days he spent in Christiania and Stockholme were accounted for, even to a short cruise up the flords from Stockholme, which formed part of the great convention held in that city.

Plans of a similar minuteness are also made when General Booth hustles about old England, attended by several private secretaries, to whom he constantly dictates as he travels. Civic dignitaries now vie with one another for the honor of entertaining the great man for a night or two, though many a hostess has been severely embarrassed by his autocratic habits.

SIX MEN KILLED BY EXPOSION

The Nitroglycerine House of Powder Company Blown Up.

Denver July 17.—Six men were killed and several injured in an explosion in the nitro glycerine house of the Dupont Powder Company about 15 miles south of this city today, according to a telephone report. The explosion was heard in South Denver.

WINGHAM.

Wingham, July 17.—Wingham was visited with a steady rain for about five hours yesterday. It was very welcome, as it has been nearly six weeks since this place had any rain worth speaking about.

The death is announced of T. A. Mills, an old resident of Wingham for years. Deceased had been in Buffalo for treatment for general debility, but his age was against him. The remains were buried in Wingham alongside those of his wife, who died some years ago. He leaves one son, who is in the west on a large ranch. Deceased was a member of the Church of England, and in politics a staunch Conservative. Rev. C. H. Croly officiated at the funeral services.

The G. T. R. agent at Wingham says that there were over 900 tickets sold for the Twelfth of July last week, and special trains went through with large crowds from other points. The Wingham lodge turned out in full force.

Mr. S. Coulter, who was hurt last week at a barn raising, is at present doing nicely, and will soon be able to go to work again.

The farmers in the vicinity of Mr. Jas. Porter's, who was hurt in a runaway some time ago, had a bee and drew in quite a lot of hay and grain. He is still in the hospital.

Last week Conductor J. Rich and family moved to London. Mr. Rich will run from London to Windsor. His friends regret his removal very much. His successor is Mr. Weames, formerly of Wingham, but who had been running out of London.

Last week Ina Rich, youngest daughter of Conductor Rich, was bitten by a dog belonging to Mrs. Shortts. It tore the shoe nearly from the foot and also bit her in the leg. The little girl is also laid up with poison ivy, but doing nicely. Mrs. Shortts was notified and the dog will be done away with.

The Rev. W. Hamilton, of London, filled the pulpit in both services at the Baptist Church here, the Rev. G. V. Collins being absent on his vacation.

The Salvation Army band held a garden party here last week. The proceeds were $70, which is for repairs to the barracks and also a new furnace.

Quite a few farmers have their wheat cut, and say that it will not average fifteen bushels to the acre as in some places it was quite thin, but where it has been seeded the grass seed took a good hold and is doing fine.

Quite a number of Huron Old Boys visited the town last week. A large majority came in on automobiles, and others on the G. T. R. and C. P. R. Some had been away for many years and were surprised to see how the town had grown.

Dr. Chisholm, M.P., is home from the west visiting his old friends, who are pleased to see him looking so well.

Mr. George Mason, who has been out camping at Bayfield, returned home last week.

Miss Bessie Stapleton returned home to Toronto, after visiting friends here last week.

Miss Annie Dinsmore, a Wingham Hospital nurse, has returned home from Kincardine.

Miss Phoebe Dinsmore left Wingham for Brucefield, where she will stay with friends for the next month.

Mr. Thomas Smale and family are preparing to remove to Brantford, where he has secured a position. The people here regret to see them leave Wingham, as they were active members and workers in the Baptist Church.

DIAZ GOES TO PARIS.

Bad-Nauheim, Germany, July 17.—General Porfirio Diaz, the former president of Mexico, is preparing to leave for Paris, being advised by a consulting physician not to take the waters here on account of his age. His health, however, appears excellent. From Paris Diaz will go to Switzerland, where he will remain throughout the summer.

SEISMIC SHOCKS.

Budapest, Hungary, July 17.—There was a recurrence of severe earth shocks in the Kecskemet district, fifty miles southeast of here, from 5 until 7 o'clock this morning. At Kecskemet the towers of the synagogue and the Greek Church were wrecked, and the walls of a number of buildings were cracked.

THROWN ON TOP OF BINDER KNIVES

Young Farmer Near Wingham Was Badly Injured.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Wingham, July 17.—The sixteen-year-old son of Mr. Andrew McKegue a Turnbury farmer, was badly injured in a reaping accident. While cutting wheat with a binder the horses bolted throwing young McKegue into the knives. He was rushed to Wingham hospital where nearly 100 stitches were required to fix up his wounds He will recover.

BETRAYED BY A GIRL

Young Man Accused of Robbing Chicago Bank.

Chicago, July 17.—Betrayed to a sheriff by an 18-year-old girl with whom he had fallen in love, Albert McGooken, 20 years old, 657 West Sixty-third street, who it is charged, absconded with $3,500 belonging to the First National Bank of Englewood, was arrested in Marengo, Ill., Friday night, and was brought back to Chicago yesterday.

McGooken said he spent all of the $3,500 except $7, and the amounts with which he purchased two diamonds, in travelling in first-class style and having a good time with girls. When arrested he was wearing a diamond ring and a diamond shirt stud, and had just bought a broncho.

McGooken was employed by the bank as a messenger. On June 3 he collected the money from depositors living in Grand Crossing and fled. After travelling around the South he went to Marengo. He had a gay time with girls in Marengo, taking them to places af amusement, buying them refreshments, and otherwise lavishing money on them.

He did not care for any of the young women until he met Louise Norman, 18 years old, daughter of a farmer. He fell in love with the girl and, after buying her a diamond ring, confided in her that his real name was McGooken. When he first met the girl he told her his name was Walsh.

"I loved Louise dearly, but she got suspicious after I had told her my right name was McGooken and told the sheriff of Marengo," said McGooken. "The sheriff got in communication with the Chicago police and then I was arrested.

I don't think I would have been caught if it hadn't been for the Norman girl."

Sheriff St. John, of Marengo, after hearing the Norman girl's story, communicated with the Chicago police and asked if a young man of the name of McGooken was wanted here.

When told that McGooken was wanted on a charge of committing a $3,500 theft the sheriff kept the young man under surveillance until Lieutenant Coughlin and Detective McGuire, of the Chicago police, reached the town Friday.

McGooken was living in a hotel in Marengo and was in front of the place with his broncho when the sheriff pointed him out to the policemen, who arrested him.

MRS. McMANIGAL'S CASE.

Los Angeles, July 17.—Judge Boydwell will decide today whether Mrs. Ortie McManigal's refusal to answer questions before the grand jury two weeks ago was justified or whether her action rendered her liable to imprisonment for contempt of court.

Mrs. McManigal asserted she had been advised by counsel that as the wife of a fellow defendant of the McNamara brothers, charged with complicity in The Times dynamiting case, she was exempt from responding to the prosecution's inquiries.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OATS NOW SELLING AT $1.32 PER CWT.

Live Hogs Sold a Little Higher Today Than Was Expected on Saturday.

Oats are now worth $1 32 per cwt on the local market. They passed the $1 30 mark on Saturday, and are still soaring upwards. Buyers were quite ready to pay any price asked on this morning's market. The supply is almost entirely exhausted, and the one or two loads that appear on odd days on the market are merely a drop in the bucket in comparison with the market demand.

Hay sold today at from $13 to $14 per ton, with $13 50 as the ruling price.

Despite the fact that live hogs on Saturday were announced at $6 75, the price today jumped up to $7 per cwt. The price for dressed hogs is unusually firm at $10 per cwt. Dressed pork appears to be climbing upward.

There was only a small supply of fruit on the market today. Raspberries sold at 15c per box.

Eggs, dairy produce and dressed poultry are likely to continue at high prices, as the supply is below the demand.

WINNIPEG, July 15.—Following yesterday's fall in prices, a reaction set in today aggravated by a very bullish report from Inglis, stating that he estimated there had been a big reduction in the estimated yield since the United States Government report was published. October opened at yesterday's closing figure, but after a period of fluctuation it commenced to rise, till 92⅜c was reached, and finally closed at 91⅞c split, or ⅝c split higher. December behaved in a similar manner, and closed at 91¼c, or FINANCIAL.

[Reported by Charles Head & Co., by private wire to J. J. Tearney.]

NEW YORK, July 17.—Noon Letter.—The market was comparatively active during the first hour, and the tone developed a fair degree of strength. Both Canadian Pacific and Soo were strong on buying from Berlin. Expectation that both roads would benefit by the reciprocity has been a basis for accumulation for a long period. Southern Railway issues were active and strong and the Fertilizers also showed continued strength. Changes in other stocks than those mentioned were generally in the shape of small fractional gains.

TWENTY-ONE MONTHS IN CENTRAL PRISON

William Jackson Sentenced by Judge Macbeth on Two Charges.

Wm. Jackson, the methodical person who was arrested here charged with stealing a watch, clothing and other articles from a London Township farmer, who employed him, and who carried a diary in which were recorded various other exploits, was sentenced to a term of 21 months in the Central Prison by Judge Macbeth at the courthouse this morning, having pleaded guilty to two charges some days ago.

Jackson, from appearances, does not possess more than a usual amount of common sense, and for this reason he believed that he could steal at will in Canada and get away with it. He came over from Detroit, where he lived for a time with his brother, and in a few weeks succeeded in appropriating different articles and money from several persons.

LOCAL CONTRACTORS HAVE WESTEON JOBS

One Man Doing $175.000 Worth of Work in Regina.

The enterprise of local contractors is shown by the fact that many of them, in addition to carrying on contracts in this city, have taken important works in the West. One man at the present time, besides doing a great deal of work in London, has $175,000 worth of new buildings under construction in Regina and Saskatoon. A great deal of the supplies necessary for the work are sent from this city and many local men are engaged in the work. Other contractors are also going after western work very successfully.

EAST LONDON NEWS

CRAPSHOOTERS CAUGHT

Rounded Up by Sergt. Birrell in East London.

While on his round in plain clothes in the East End last night, Sergeant Birrell came upon a gang of young men engaged in "crap shooting" in a shed. The sergeant secured the names of all present, and it is stated that they will appear in court in a day or two charged with a breach of the law in regard to gambling.

BAILED UNTIL OCTOBER

John Finney Appeared Before Judge Macbeth.

John Finney, the Ealing lad who pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a silver watch from Wilfrid G. Carmichael, of the 9th concession of London Township, who had employed him, and who had given him his dismissal shortly before the offence was committed, was bailed until Oct. 16 by Judge Macbeth at noon today, his father supplying the necessary bond.

The judge decided to allow the boy a chance to make good his promise, and providing that he has conducted himself properly he will be dismissed when he appears again on Monday, Oct. 16, at 11 a.m.

Catching Shadows.

Rev. Mr. Pilkey, of Tecumseh avenue, South London, preached yesterday morning in Egerton Street Baptist Church. Mr. W. L. Steeves occupied the pulpit of Gladstone Baptist Church in the morning, and in the evening preached in his own church, on "The Man Who Was Sleepy and Could Not Sleep." Taking as his subject the story of Nebuchadnezzar, the king of ancient Babylon, who could not find refreshing sleep even amid all the comforts of his palace, Mr. Steeves expressed the opinion that people are trying to do too much today. "It is no wonder that the world is growing weak and insipid," he said; "people spend their time trying to catch the fleeting shadows of life, and when they have captured them at length, they avail them nothing."

At the evening service, Miss Marian Wright, a sister of Mrs. Steeves, rendered a violin solo, which was very much appreciated.

STICKING TO HIS POST

Hudson Bay Factor Sends Word About Fire.

North Bay, July 17.—Fears are entertained for the safety of the Hudson Bay post at Fort Matachewan. The last word coming out by Indian runners from the factor, "Steve" Lafricander, was that the fire was coming across both sides of the river, and was all about the post, and that the Indians were leaving, but that he would stay until the last stick was burned or the fire had passed over. Lafricander is a man well up in years, who has been with the Hudson Bay Company many years, and is well known and has many friends throughout the north country. He is one of the most interesting personages in the north, having been in many climes, and is a veteran of the United States civil war.

GUELPH'S SHAKE-UP

Several New Faces Will Be Seen On Royal City Lineup.

[Canadian Press.]

Guelph, Ont., July 17.—Numerous new faces were seen in the lineup of Guelph's baseball team today. Lane, the former manager, was released at his own request, as his arm is crippled. Schuman, pitcher, of Buffalo, from Augusta, Ga., Southern League, is engaged. He was drafted by the Philadelphia Americans from Portland, Oregon. Eddie Maguire, shortstop, from Buffalo, is here, and if he makes good, will probably replace Isaacs, of Toronto. Lane is replaced by Sam Richardson, of Flint, Michigan State League. He has a record of .423 in 25 games as a hitter, and he will be on first sack today for the first time.

Personal Mention

Dr. I. L. Brundage and mother, Mrs. J. W. Brundage, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., are visiting their relatives, Rev. E. Olivant and family, of this city.

Mrs. Franc Harris, of Niles, Ohio, has returned home after visiting a week with Mrs. Fay Phillips, 229 Richmond street.

Mr. C. F. Complin leaves today for England, sailing from Montreal on the 20th inst. by the Lake Manitoba. He expects to be away two months.

LOCAL ITEMS

—A pleasant affair took place Saturday evening, when the employees of C. J. Leach presented Miss H. Cannom with a handsome club bag. Miss Cannom has been bookkeeper for the firm for the past eight years, but is leaving on Wednesday for Winnipeg.

A Special Meeting.

A special meeting of No. 3 Committee of the city council was held on Saturday at noon, when Engineer Wright was empowered to call for tenders for oil for oiling certain streets in this city.

A Lucan Vagrant.

Frank Shackleton, no relation to the person of the same name who has earned distinction in his polar explorations, was arrested this morning at Lucan in company with S. H. Shore, and sent to London by Magistrate Hawkshawe, of the same place, to serve a ten days' term for vagrancy. The "gentlemen" did not have the necessary funds, $9 43, to secure their freedom.

Two Days in Ice.

Mr. James Stevenson, of this city, who has been associated with Inspector Sanders in local charitable works, writes from England, whither he left on a visit some time ago, that his ship was held up two days in the ice in the Straits of Belle Isle, and that all on board was almost famished by the cold. The weather in England is now splendid, he says.

Travellers Are Joyful.

There is joy today among the grocery travellers of the whole district, for when they arrived home on Saturday night their work for the rest of the month was over until Aug. 1. Every wholesale in the district has agreed to allow its men to take the next two weeks to do what they like in, and as a result no traveller need have any fear that a representative of a rival house is out hustling for business. No trade will be visited before Aug. 1, and in the meantime the drummers are enjoying their vacation as only men who are constantly on the road can.

OBITUARY

The death occurred at Winnipeg on Friday last of Mrs. Mary Byrne, relict of the late Patrick Byrne. The funeral will be held on Wednesday morning from the residence of her son, Mr. James Byrne, 254 Cheapside street, to St. Peter's Cathedral. Interment will be made at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Many friends will regret to learn of the death on Sunday morning at the family residence, 108 Briscoe street, of Mrs. M. M. Hartford, wife of Charles J. Hartford, after a prolonged illness. Deceased, after leaving Edinburgh, settled in Detroit, but came to South London many years ago, where the family have since resided. Besides the husband, there remain to mourn her loss one daughter, Margaret C., of the department of public works, city; one sister, Mrs. Mary Gilmour, of Edinburgh, and one son, Edward, of Chicago. The funeral will take place on Tuesday to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Francis Bricklin, son of Mrs. Eliza Bricklin, of Regent street, died at his home this morning after an illness extending over some time. Deceased was in his thirty-seventh year. Besides his mother and wife, deceased is survived by one son, Frank, and one daughter, Mary, of this city, one sister, Miss Mary, at home, and seven brothers—James in California, Charles, Andrew, Augustine, Fred, Harry and Louis, all of this city. The funeral will be held on Wednesday morning to St. Peter's Cathedral, and interment will be made at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Mrs. Isabella Johnson, relict of the late Henry Johnson, and one of London's oldest residents, died last night at her home, 230 Piccadilly street, after an illness extending over some time. Mrs. Johnson was 80 years old, and leaves a grown-up family. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery.

James M. McGuire, the 4-year-old son of Mrs. Helen McGuire, died at the home of Mr. James Milne, lot 13, concession 6, of Westminster Township, yesterday after a brief illness. The funeral will be held on Wednesday morning to St. Peter's Cemetery.

LIVED IN LONDON HALF A CENTURY

Death of Mr. Michael J. Curry, of 143 Mill Street.

Mr. Michael J. Curry, one of London's oldest hack drivers, and a resident of the city for over half a century, died at his home, 143 Mill street, yesterday, after an illness extending over six years. In 1905 Mr. Curry sustained a paralytic stroke, and had been incalided ever since. He came to London from Ireland, and is survived by his widow. He was 80 years of age. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning to St. Peter's Cathedral, and interment will be made at St. Peter's Cemetery.

MULHALL DEFENSE

yard. The last had been removed two months ago. No gravel had been put in Mulhall's yard to be used in filling up holes in the street. He said that he had been ordered to take a mixing board from Frank Lawson's residence, where a walk had been built, to a city job on Richmond street. This was on April 13. He had seen screened gravel in Mulhall's yard in May and June.

Mr. W. G. Pepper, who had been employed by the city under Mr. Mulhall, saw no gravel in Mulhall's yard, and took none out of it, although he had carted some from the lane and storage yard adjoining.

City Rented the Yard.

City Clerk Baker exhibited the resolution of Aug. 12, 1910, in which the account of rent for Mulhall's yard was ordered paid. Mr. Baker swore that the yard had been rented for the past five years that he knew of, and that the same arrangement had existed, he believed, for four or five years before.

George Hammet, a contractor, had measured up the concrete work, including the foundation and walk at Mulhall's place. The whole would require between eight and nine loads of gravel.

Larston Boss, also a contractor, was the next witness. He swore that he sold and delivered to Mulhall six loads of gravel in May, 1910. Mr. Boss teams for contractors, but does no work for the city. He was paid for the gravel by Mulhall.

William Boss, a brother of the previous witness, sold a load of gravel to Mulhall on May 29, and was paid for it.

A Flat Denial.

James Simpson, a corporation laborer, who it was claimed by witnesses for the prosecution, had worked on a private walk at the residence of Mr. Frank Lawson, swore that he absolutely was not employed there and that he had never seen the place. He had worked at Mulhall's place for eight days, but was not paid for any of the work by the city. He and his son John constructed a sidewalk at Mulhall's on a holiday. Johnnie Moyer and others were also on the job. He was paid $2 a day by Mulhall, whereas his remuneration on civic works was $11 80 a week. The paysheets produced by Mr. McEvoy showed that the witness had been off eight days, for which he was not paid by the city.

Paid by Mulhall.

John Simpson was next called. He was not employed on Lawson's walk. He and his father are the only Simpsons in the city's employ that he knows of. Witness was paid for work on Mulhall's house by the owner and not by the city for any of the time. He was on the Mulhall job for three or four weeks, beginning about May 20. According to the paysheets he was not working for the city during the last three weeks of May. He put in two cellar floors, a foundation beneath the back kitchen and a cross wall. He left the work for one day to go back to city work, and was paid for this by the city. In July he put in a walk from the sidewalk to the front door.

William Sherlock swore that he worked a day and a half on Lawson's walk and was paid by Beecroft, not the city of London. He had worked for the city before going to Lawson's, and is a corporation laborer now. Beecroft had the Lawson contract, and went to witness' house and hired him for the job.

Had Worked for City.

J. A. Beecroft, a contractor, was then called. At times he had five men who were occasionally city laborers, in his employ. They were John Moyer, Wesley Scott, Christie Sherlock and George Roberts.

While on the Lawson job he was asked by Mulhall to finish some city work on Richmond street. It was not a full day's work, but Mulhall agreed to allow him a day at street laborer's scale, as his usual rate is $3 per day. Mulhall also agreed to move his board down for him, and this was done.

Adjournment was then made until Friday.

Photos of Coronation.

Considerable interest is being taken in a number of large photographs that J. H. Back & Co. have on view in their window, 210 Dundas street. The pictures show excellent views of coronation scenes, and are well worth seeing.

RAINFALL PUTS OUT ALL FIRES

Porcupine and Cochrane Districts Visited by Downpour.

THE TOWNS TO REBUILD

Death Roll Will Not Exceed Seventy-Five — Sixty-Five Bodies Recovered.

North Bay, Ont., July 16.—Superintendent J. H. Black, of the T. and N. O. Railway, and General Passenger Agent Parr returned from Porcupine and Cochrane today, and report relief committees doing good work. There is a splendid organization at Cochrane, where everybody is being fed and sheltered. A lunch counter has been opened at Cochrane station. Building operations have already started at Cochrane, and forty small structures are under way with what lumber could be secured nearby. Several carloads of tents and blankets from the militia department reached Porcupine today. Matheson is safe, but twelve settlers' families, who lost everything, are being cared for in the town. The crops, farm houses and school house are gone.

There is no real hardship in the fire zone now, as everybody is being cared for.

Rain Arrives.

Rain fell at Cochrane and Porcupine last night, which helped the situation.

Nearly all of the missing miners and prospectors have been accounted for. The death list now reaches 65, and it is not believed the total will exceed 70 or 75.

Two hundred expert bushmen have been over the burned area, and their search showed that as was expected the prospectors in a great many instances escaped. In many cases the supposed dead men that refugees saw lying on the trails were men who took this means of escaping the heat, and after the flames passed over made their way to places of safety. Fourteen bodies in all were found of men who had perished in attempting to reach Porcupine.

As quickly as bodies were found in Porcupine they were either shipped out or buried there. On Saturday afternoon all the men who were burned to death in the West Dome Mine were buried. A cemetery was laid out at Dead Man's Point, where most of the dead were buried. Fourteen of the bodies which were interred were of men who had died while attempting to get into Porcupine.

KITCHENER FOR EGYPT

Succeeds Late Sir Eldon Gorst as British Agent.

London, July 16.—Official announcement was made yesterday that Field Marshal Lord Kitchener has been appointed British agent to Egypt. He succeeds Sir Eldon Gorst, who died July 12.

BRITAIN'S MONSTER NAVAL AIRSHIP

England Turns Out a Mammoth Dirgible Balloon.

IS 500 FEET IN LENGTH

It Required an Acre and a Half of Fabric To Make It.

London, July 16.—At last the British leviathan of the air has emerged from the interior of its hiding place into the full light of day. And it is an immense dirigible, too, indeed the largest in existence. Over 170 yards long, no less than sixteen yards in diameter. According to Flight, it has a gas capacity of 700,000 cubic feet, a lift of 21 tons, its engine power is no less than 400 horsepower in two equal units formed by Wolseley engines. It can carry 22 persons and has cost up to date the sum of $205,000. More than 1½ acres of Continental fabric was employed in the construction of the envelope, and the hydrogen, compressed in cylinders, was brought over from Wolverhampton by the trainload at a time.

During two years the airship has been in course of design and construction, and the lines on which it is built are broadly similar to those of the famous Zeppelin airships that have created so many sensations in Germany. We will at least hope that the English vessel will be more fortunate. Its constructors are the great firm of Vickers, Limited.

The characteristic feature of the type to which it belongs is the rigidity of its envelope, which has an interior skeleton framework made of duralumin, the new light aluminum alloy. The framework maintains the shape of an envelope, which is thus not dependent on the gas pressure as it is with airships of the non-rigid type that are intended to be capable of being folded for transport by land.

Inside the framework of the envelope are seventeen balloons filled with hydrogen, each balloon forming a separate gas-light chamber of its own, and if deflated by accident would not affect the others. Outside the framework is a covering of fabric, the appearance of which is somewhat distinctive owing to the upper part being silver-gray and the lower part yellow in color. The upper part is as far as possible a non-conductor of heat, and thus minimizes the effects of the sun's rays on the expansion of the gas. The lower part, on the other hand, is a conductor of heat and thus facilitates the proper equalization of temperature to be carried on in a normal manner.

Cylindrical in Shape.

In accord with the most modern theories of streamline form, the envelope is cylindrical in the middle, with tapering extremities. The nose is blunter than the tail. On the tail of the envelope or hull, as it may be termed because of its rigidity, are the directive organs, consisting of four stabilizing fins (two vertical and two horizontal), two sets of quadruplane rudders, and two sets of triplane elevators. There is also an elevator under the bows, and another rudder right under the stern, these latter being both situated near the cars. Beneath the hull are two twenty-foot cars or boats joined by a gangway. In front, the engine drives two four-bladed propellers, carried on outriggers beneath the hull; at the stern there is a single two-bladed propeller.

Water ballast is employed, and the estimated speed of the airship is 40 miles per hour. For mooring purposes the bows of the airship are anchored to a mask rising from a kind of raft, which also carries a great net screen like a sail. The mesh of this screen is sufficiently close to break down the force of the wind without being itself torn away in the process, and the anchorage is such that the airship and its screen can veer round so as to keep head-on to the wind. The airship is in charge of Captain Sueuter, who has under him Lieutenants Osborne and Talbot. The parent ship to which she is attached is the cruiser Hermione.

It took 300 bluejackets less than an hour to haul the airship out of her shed and get her safely moored in Cavendish Dock in the early hours of Monday morning, May 22. To be precise, the performance commenced at ten minutes past four, and was all over long before most people had waked from sleep. One of the most striking sights in connection with the launch was the sudden appearance of sailors on the very top of the envelope, where there is a prepared gangway, and access to which is obtained by means of a rope ladder through the centre of the envelope itself.

CAR ACROSS TRACK TIED UP TRAFFIC

Broken Axle Causes a Derailment Near Guelph.

[Canadian Press.]

Guelph, July 17. — The axle broke on a freight car on the C. P. R. train coming into this city early this morning at Prison Farm, and a car loaded with steel rails was thrown across the track, derailing three empties. Traffic was tied up until after 12 o'clock, when the auxiliary from Toronto cleared the wreckage away.

DOCK FOR MONTREAL.

Montreal, July 17.—It was announced here this afternoon that the great floating dry dock now being built by the Vickers-Maxim firm for this port, will be complete and will leave next spring in time to reach the St. Lawrence by the opening of navigation. Within two weeks of the time of its arrival, it will be ready to receive any vessels, it is affirmed.

Band Concert Tonight.

The London City band, under the leadership of Mr. Roselle Pocock, will give a concert in Queen's Park tonight. The programme will be that which was announced for Friday night last.

A Settlement Reached.

Thomas Beswarick, of Brydges street, who some time ago was injured by being thrown forward over the seat ahead while riding in a local street car, has reached a settlement with the company. The amount involved is said to be considerable.

A Leamington Preacher.

Rev. John Moore, of Leamington, preached twice yesterday in Cronyn Memorial Church. In his evening sermon, he said, "Friendship is the rarest and truest of God's gifts. Friendship should consist in spiritual sympathy and not in mere outward contact. No death can sever friendship. It must go on through the ages. Live deeply and you will live nobly, my friends."

The Greatest Ever.

LONDONERS IN SYRACUSE

Mr. Samuel Stevely and Party in New York City.

The Syracuse Post-Standard says: Samuel Stevely, former mayor of London, Ont., and elected to the Mystique Krewe in Syracuse in the same class with Supreme Court Justice Hughes, then governor came to Syracuse yesterday, bound homeward from the Shriners' convention.

Silk American flags and the Union Jack of Canada flutter side by side on the hood of Mr. Stevely's machine, while the crest of the secret order adorns the windshield. Pennants from Niagara Falls, insignia of Mecha, banners from Rochester and any number of souvenir flags add to the symphony of color.

"It was the most marvelous spectacle I ever witnessed," said Mr. Stevely in commenting on the review of the patrols the day before on the meadows of one of Rochester's parks. "More than seventy patrols participated, producing a gorgeous rainbow effect. Such a scene has probably never been equaled."

Mr. Stevely is accompanied by his wife and H. E. Buttrey, also a Shriner. He expects to return to Syracuse in the fall for the carnival of the Mystic Krewe.

HERMIT MURDERED.

Vinegrove, Ky., July 17.—Murder, arson and robbery are believed to have been committed at the home of David Patterson, a wealthy hermit, whose body was found yesterday in his burned home. He is supposed to have kept large sums of money in his isolated home.

Rushing to the burning building, neighbors found the body of the hermit charred in his bed. The man's skull had been crushed in.

THE GRAND CIRCUIT

Big Five-Day Meet of Trotters Opens at Kalamazoo.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 17. — All the best-known stables in the country are at Recreation Park for the opening this afternoon of the five-day Grand Circuit race meeting. Two stake events are on today's card the American Hotel, $2,000 for 2:07 class pacers, and the Columbia Hotel, with a like amount, for 2:15 pacers. In addition there aer two $1,000 purse affairs, the 2:15 trot and the 2:07 trot. The last-named event brings together a remarkable field, among those eligible to star being Dudie Archdale, Willy, Spanish Queen, Nancy Royce, Fair Margaret and other stars of the light harness world.

The feature of the week, the $10,000 paper mills stake, for 2:14 class trotters, will be raced on Wednesday, and at least fifteen horses are expected to face the starter to contest for the rich prize.

The weather today is cool and clear, and the track is in excellent condition.

THROUGH WITH BASEBALL.

Boston, July 17.—Charles Herzog and "Doc" Miller, shortstop and right-fielder respectively, of the Boston National baseball club, have notified the officers of the club that they are through with baseball. Dissatisfaction with the team management is the reason given by each.

Miller says he is going west to practice medicine, while Herzog says he will go back to Ridgeley, Md., where he has a farm.

MORAL EFFECT OF MORPHINE.

Morphine stands unequalled as a perverter of the moral sense. Whiskey may disturb the imagination and judgment, causing many foolish and unwise actions to follow its use, but morphine strikes deeper and creates a person whom the father of lies must recognize as kindred to himself.

Stories that are the creation of a disturbed brain told in a manner to appear so intrinsically true that the stories become works of art, are what you will obtain from the habitual user of morphine or cocaine. I know of nothing that will appeal to one of these sufficiently to enable you to get an honest reply to any question of moment you may address to him. If you should receive a truthful reply it will be by accident.

ENGLISH PICNIC A BIG SUCCESS

3000 People Spent a Most Enjoyable Day at Springbank Park.

OLDEST MAN ON GROUNDS

Prize Went to Mr. John Moore, of 177 Wellington Street, Who Is 92 Years of Age.

Three thousand Englishmen from all parts of the city and district gathered at Springbank on Saturday and held one of the most enjoyable outings of the season. Ideal weather favored the picnickers, and the splendid work of the various committees, who kept everything going all the time, did much to make the picnic the huge success it was. Everything was run with a system that is well worthy of the emulation of other picnickers.

When it came time to run off the sports, the crowd was kept back by means of ropes, and thus the usual crowding in of onlookers and interference with those taking part was prevented, while the judges had every chance of catching the winners properly, and all had a good chance to see. Mr. W. J. Bugler was director of the sports, and he was assisted by a number of others. For the manner in which they kept the events going, without any hitches, they deserve the warmest praise.

The prize-winners were equally well looked after. Immediately after the events were concluded the judges gave them tickets, and they went to a big tent, where Mr. J. G. Martyn and Mrs. E. Hooper were in charge, and in less than two minutes the prizes were given out.

The Oldest Englishman.

One of the most interesting features of the day was the search for the oldest English man and lady on the grounds. After some time, Mr. John Moore, 177 Wellington street, was declared the oldest man. He is 92 years of age, and none of the picnickers was merrier than he. Mr. Moore is a remarkably active man, and enjoyed himself thoroughly all the time he was at Springbank.

Mrs. Tunks, of 76 Bruce street, aged 76 years, was the oldest lady on the grounds. When Mr. Moore and Mrs. Tunks were led before the judges the whole crowd gave them three hearty cheers and a tiger and crowded around to congratulate them.

Dr. F. F. Drake, City Clerk Baker, and R. P. Pearce, who were selected to judge the babies, had anything but a sinecure, as full 50 fine, rosy-cheeked infants were brought forward by their mothers. After much comparison the first prize was awarded to Wilfred Sullivan, of 444 Horton street; second to Catherine G. Little, of 1311½ Duchess avenue; third to Lilian M. Lang, 724 Princess avenue; fourth to Clifford Tales, of 11 Renwick avenue. A special prize, a silver goblet donated by Dr. Drake for the best baby girl, was awarded to Bertha M. Cotterill, and a special prize for twins to Eva Ruby Bowen and Adeline Pearl Bowen.

Cricket Match.

An event in which everybody was interested was the cricket match between teams representing the Sons of England and St. George's Society. The Sons of England won by a score of 36 to 16. Knight was awarded the prize for the best batter, with a score of 17, and the prize for the best bowler went to W. Thompson. The score was as follows:

Sons of England.

E. Thompson	2
W. H. Towle	0
H. Brooks	1
G. Roberts	0
A. Knight	17
C. Hollins	8
F. Henshaw	1

Holbrook took 4 and Brew 5 wickets. S. O. E.—Thompson 5, Henshaw 4.

Dancing Competition.

In the evening a dancing competition was held in the pavilion, and prizes were awarded as follows: Best waltzers, Mr. and Mrs. Patton, 429 Ontario street; best two-stepper, gentleman, Mr. H. Phillips, Wolseley Barracks; lady, Miss Johnston, 657 Princess avenue.

Throughout the day a fine programme of music was rendered by the London City Band.

The officers in charge of the picnic and responsible for its success were as follows:

Executive Committee — President, ex-Ald. J. Nutkins; vice-president, Thos. Coleridge; secretary, R. Cadwallader; assistant, Fred Henshaw; treasurer, J. G. Martyn; director of sports, W. J. Bugler.

Members of Committees—Mrs. E. Hooper, Mrs. T. Owen, Mrs. A. E. Wood, Mrs. A. Vinen, Mrs. R. Freeman, Miss N. Freeman, Mrs. E. Howie, J. L. Gale, J. Janson, Frank Tilbury, R. P. Pearce, J. E. Bone, Fred James, W. J. Garfitt, E. W. Harrison, H. Gardiner, John Walters, A. E. Woods, Walter Smith, E. Chapman, I. T. Holmes, W. L. Green, J. Lutman.

REV. R. G. WATT PREACHES IN LONDON

New Pastor Heard in the First Congregational Church.

"Human Epistles" was the morning subject of Rev. R. G. Watt, of Guelph, who preached yesterday in the First Congregational Church, of this city, to which pastorate he has recently been called. "The Apostle Paul wrote many epistles," said the speaker, "but he himself was the greatest epistle of all. Christ reveals himself to the world through his epistles, which are his followers. The world judges Christ by his followers. Jesus Christ, the living personality is the personal auditor of all we do and say. The Apostle Paul, David Livingstone and other men of this type, have been great living epistles of Christ. It is our personal life that counts. The love of God has been revealed to men through a Christian mother.

"The world decides its opinions concerning Christ from what it reads in our lives, his lily ingepistles, and is frequently misled by the false testimony of so-called Christians.

"If our life is spent in doubtful morality and selfish pursuits, when Jesus comes to read his epistles, fear he will not be able to recognize some of them, so overwritten will they be with selfishness and sin.

"It is our lives that count. The world may not know the names of the apostles, but it does take notice of the kind of lives we live, and the world with which each of us must concern ourselves is our own circle of associates in everyday life."

CORRESPONDENEC

Rowdyism Complained Of.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

There are a few rowdies that meet on the vacant ground between the Westminster rink and the G. T. R. tracks and put citizens in a very serious position while passing the place in question. They throw large stones and pieces of brick at the hydro-electric light. For instance, while walking up the Wortley road hill with some friends the other evening between 9:30 and 10 p.m. several heavy showers of stones and bricks were thrown at the Tungsten light, but missed it, and came very close to our heads. If these practices are not stopped, some person will receive serious injuries, and city property will be destroyed. If the right parties are captured we are willing to give evidence against them. Yours truly,

F. A. S. S.

The Imperial Educational Conference.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In your editorial notice of the recent imperial educational conference in London, England, you pay me more than my share of the credit for the unanimously adopted resolution in favor of the simplification of English spelling. Dr. E. M. Edwards, one of his majesty's inspector of schools, opened the discussion as an expert, specially invited by the English board of education, Dr. Viljoen, of Orange Free State, South Africa, the simplifier of African Dutch, was also specially called upon, and a summary of his speech is printed in the report.

But the following members of the conference also spoke on the subject, some making very valuable contributions of local and special information: Thomas Muir, C. M. G., LL.D., F. R. S., superintendent-general of education, Cape Colony, South Africa; C. P. Andrews, inspector-general of Western Australia; Principal Covernton, professor of English literature, Elphinstone College, Bombay, India; Hon. Prof. Enrico Magro, director of public instruction and rector of the University of Malta; Principal Heaton, of the Sibpur Civil Engineering College, Bengal, India; Sir Herbert Risley, K. C., I. E., C. S. I., secretary judicial and public department, India office; Prof. Magill, Dalhousie University, Nova Scotia; Dr. Scougel, senior chief inspector of training colleges, Scotland; Owen Edwards, chief inspector of schools in Wales; P. Board, under secretary and director of education, department of public instruction, New South Wales, Australia; Sir John Struthers, K. C. B., secretary Scotch education department, and A. T. Davies, secretary Welsh department of education.

The resolution to the effect that the simplification of spelling is of urgent importance in all parts of the empire, presented on the first day of the discussion, was unanimously passed on the following day. I am, yours truly,

A. H. MACKAY.

Halifax, July 11.

QUERIES ANSWERED

ALIMONY—In a suit for alimony can the wife lock her husband out of the house when he gives her all his wages and tell him she never wants to see his face again, and if he will let her alone, will never ask him for money or alimony, and does the wife have to pay his board if she puts him in jail? ANS.—The wife upon the facts stated has no case for a successful alimony suit. She has no right to lock the husband out of the home. If she had any grounds to put him in jail she would not have to pay his board there.

A JOLLY PICNIC AT THE LAKESIDE

"Advertiser" Employees Went to Port Stanley on Saturday.

A RIDE ON THE LAKE

Party Left This City in Two Special Cars Via the Traction Line—A Gay Time for All.

The employees of The London Advertiser Company, to the number of one hundred and fifty, held their annual picnic and excursion to Port Stanley on Saturday afternoon. Promptly at 3 o'clock two special cars left the Traction station for the lakeside, carrying the majority of The Advertiser party, and making a record trip. Despite the fact that the new Wright aeroplanes, which had been ordered especially for the occasion, were not delivered until Sunday, everybody made connections in time, and nobody missed the 3 o'clock cars, with the exception of the mailing room quartette, who were to have provided a special concert on the way to the lakeshore.

The procession from The Advertiser lookout station to the Horton street subway was very imposing to say the least. No mishaps occurred on the route to the station, which was very fortunate, as the city ambulance, which was to have come along, was called out elsewhere at the last moment.

The Springbank power was all that could be expected, and everybody enjoyed the fast Traction ride, except Charlie Slaught, who was moody because the aeroplanes had not turned up. With the motorcycle eyeglasses, which were dispensed to everybody on the special cars, the excursionists enjoyed the fine vistas of meadow land and wildwood, which stretched out in panoramic beauty as the car sped on.

At the Lakeside.

Arriving at the lakeside those of the Advertiserites who belonged to the Alpine Club climbed up the steep ascent of Hillcrest, and proceeded to show the Port Stanley natives how the London Tecumsehs play baseball. Owing to the noisy rooters' misbehavior, everybody was presently shooed off the grounds.

"Castle Carter, near the Casino," being found overcrowded, lunch was served instead on the Forest City. The sandwiches were brought on, preceded by the toothpicks. The pickles were of the popular Heinz brand (by courtesy of the advertising department) and the olives were regular Irish plums. It was also discovered that the girls in the bindery know how to make good cake. Capt. Welch saw to it that nobody fell overboard, and the rest of the crew danced to the music of the Rah-Rah Band from the newsroom, or munched peanut sandwiches, made digestible by liberal allowances of Peruna.

The Sports.

An excellent programme of sports had been arranged, but was called off owing to a judges' dispute in deciding the winners in the hobble and harem skirt races.

The reporters, having been previously threatened with Black Hand atrocities, kept well in the background during the festivities of the afternoon.

Altogether the day passed off pleasantly, and the evening excursion was quite as delightful. At midnight the last of the Advertiserites arrived home after painting Port Stanley in the color that Eugene Field loved best, and tagging everybody between the State of Ohio and Carfrae Crescent.

The committee in charge were Messrs. George M. Millar, F. Wanless, J. Reardon, H. B. Archer, J. Holliday, Mrs. Richards and Miss Corrin.

FOR TENNIS HONORS

A Galaxy of American Stars Assembled at Longwood.

[Canadian Press.]

Boston, July 17. — A galaxy of lawn tennis stars assembled at the Longwood Cricket Club today for the twenty-first annual tournament for the Longwood cup, and the annual contest for the eastern championship in doubles.

Wm. H. Larned, the national champion, is the present holder of the Longwood cup, and will defend that trophy against the winner of the tournament in the challenge match, which is not likely to be reached until next week. The play in the eastern doubles will not begin until tomorrow.

The first round in the singles started at 10 a.m. today, and brought together men who have won national and district titles that have placed them well up in the tennis world.

McBAIN—SKUSE.

Ingersoll, July 17.—The wedding of two popular young people occurred this morning, when Mr. H. H. McBain and Miss Coza Skuse were married at the Anglican Church, the Rev. R. J. Perkins officiating. Mr. McBain was attended by Mr. Fred Tennent. The bride was given away by her mother, Mrs. J. Skuse. Mrs. George Mercer acted as matron of honor. Mr. and Mrs. McBain left for a trip to the Thousand Islands and Montreal.

THEODORE FREELAND DEAD.

East Orange, N. J., July 17.—Theodore H. Freeland, president of the American Banknote Company, is dead at his home here of arteric-solerocis, after a long illness.

SON OF ANNA GOULD SAVES DUKE'S ESTATE

Succeeds to Title Father Renounces, Thereby Keeping Duchy From Creditors.

Paris, July 17.—If his father's plans work out Anna Gould's youngest child will be immensely rich in his own right when he becomes of age. He will be two years old tomorrow.

Already the young man—Jason Howard De Sagan Talleyrand is his name—is master of the Duchy of Sagan, in Silesia, and if Emperor William does not postpone matters, he will be proclaimed Prince de Sagan and a vassal of the empire before a week has passed. It had been hoped that this ceremony could be observed on the baby's birthday.

Cable dispatches this week told about the Duke de Talleyrand formally renouncing his title and rights in Sagan in favor of his son. Today came a letter from the German chancellor, who wrote at command of the Emperor, formally accepting this abdication, and with it notice that Jason Howard would be recognized as his successor. He informed the duke that formal papers would be issued in a few days.

Fortune Saved to Child.

By this masterstroke the duke saved to his child a large fortune that probably would have gone to creditors who loaned him money in his spendthrift days.

"I am most happy," said he, "for my son's future is assured. The debts which resulted in the sequestration of the revenues of the Duchy of Sagan have now been paid with the exception of about $100,000, which sum will soon be wiped out. The duchy possesses valuable coal mines of large extent and experts have estimated the deposits alone at $6,000,000.

"It is my wish that my son enjoy the revenue from the duchy, but I am having prepared regulations, which is possible under the German laws, that will prevent my son from spending even the income on this amount. He must reinvest in approved securities all that he takes out of the earth, but the income on this income will be his to dispose of as he wishes. In that way the estate will continue to grow richer yearly.

Approved by Emperor.

"I was glad to eliminate myself in favor of my son so that there might be what amounts to a new beginning of our family fortunes in the Duchy of Sagan. Emperor William has most cordially welcomed my idea."

In this way the Gould name and fortune will take a new place in European affairs. Likewise those of De Sagan. At present these latter are pretty well submerged. The income from the duchy was long ago sequestered because of debts contracted by Duke Helle's ancestors, notably his father, Prince Boson de Sagan, who from all accounts was a charming spendthrift. For many years he was the arbiter of fashion in Paris and known for his luxurious living and high gambling, which, combined, ruined him financially.

UNEARTHS PORTRAITS MADE IN ROMAN ERA

Recent Egyptian Finds Include Work of Artists From 100 to 250 A. D.

London, July 17.—Professor Flinders Petrie is back in England after a successful winter's work at Memphis, Gerzha, Hawara and Mazghuneh in Egypt.

"I have brought home some striking painted portraits of the Roman period discovered at Hawara," he said. "The first series was discovered as far back as 1888, and some of the finest are in the national gallery. The recent finds include portraits of men and women, and judging from the style of dressing the hair, one cannot be far out in believing that they date from 100 to 250 A.D.

Colored Wax Used.

"A few are painted on canvas. This appears to have been employed before the adoption of cedar panels. Some are painted in thin color, apparently water color, perhaps with colored wax laid on in a melted state with a brush. They are evidently portraits painted after death, in order to be placed with the mummy.

"In this period, the mummies, with the portraits, were kept in the house for many years. Probably for one or two generations they stood in the colonnade around the atrium and seemed to preserve the continuity of the family that went on around them.

Scribbled On by Boys.

"Then when the footcases had been knicked in, when rain and dust had damaged the upper part, and when little boys at their lessons had scribbled carricatures on their toes, and when the personalities were forgotten, a clearance would be made of some of them and they would be carted off to the cemetery, where they have been discovered.

"Here is a bit of mischievous Egyptian boy's fun," said the professor, unrolling a sheet of canvas about a foot square and showing some comical sketches of a human figure. "That is how the little Egyptian lad made fun of his dead grandfather. As many of the portraits have been spoiled by the excess of oil in the mummy, it is evident that the defects of the system of embalming were not yet known by experience.

One Wears Curls.

"In addition to the revelation of the fashion of that period, as seen by the style of dressing the hair of the women, another fashion is brought to light. Observe the style of the ear-rings worn. There are three distinct types, the pendant, the hoop and the ball."

"Ornaments for women's hair were also worn, as can be seen from the gold wreaths and front hair combs that some of them are wearing, and here is one lady who has adopted or clung to the fashion of wearing curls."

Detroit and return, $1 85, Saturday, July 22. Good for three days. Chosen Friends excursion. Special train will leave Grand Trunk depot, 7:30 a.m. sharp. Everybody welcome. Baseball —Detroit and New York. 45ktzxv
