Maiden Declares Man Lured Her Into Auto by Fictitious Tale.

After having been missing from her home in Aylmer since Sunday last, Pearl Hopper, 17 years old, was found late yesterday afternoon by County Constable D. J. Dawson at the home of a Mrs. Bancroft, Byron. According to Constable Dawson he was notified by Chief Birrell that a girl who had disappeared, was at this home in Byron. He immediately went there, and found the girl, who was brought to the city in the evening, and kept there to await the arrival of her parents from Aylmer, they having been notified that she was found. Mrse. Hopper took her daughter back by motor about 10 o'clock last night.

Reticent on Case.

Local police will say nothing about the case, the reporter having been old when making inquiries that nothing was known, and that the girl was juvenile. Chief Birrell would not state how he knew the girl was at Byron, although it undoubtedly was as the result of investigations car-ried out by the local police following a visit of Mr. Hopper to this city last Wednesday, whhen he enlisted the aid of the London department.

Miss Hopper told the police a story being present. Lady Mary was one of the bridesmaids at the weddings of both Princess Mary and the Duke of York.

June doesn't lavish all her sweetness on the wild things by any means. It is perfume time in the gardens, too. Roses, roses everywhere and their sisters the peonies fill the air with magic. Our soil is a little too sandy to grow them to per-fection, but their place is ably filled by irises of many varieties and col-ors. These are all of the Germanica division and, with the Prussian pro-lificness, they have spread till the garden is full of them and we could gather a clothes-basketful of the rainbow blossoms were it not for the fact that they look much prettier fact that they look much pretter where they are than they would in the clothes-basket. Some of them are very fragrant and remind one strong-ly of sweet peas. The swamps and low lying meadows are gorgeous with the wild blue iris, much to the decrows are busy sampling the

The crows are busy sampling the corn these days, and are disgusted with the flavor of ours. It was a mean trick for us to sprinkle it with coal oil before planting, when we know perfectly well that they don't care for oil dressing. The poor crow is a much-reviled bird, but is not nearly as black as he is painted. To be sure, he does some damage to corn when it is not treated before corn when it is not treated before planting, and isn't averse to picking up young chicks, but he has many virtues to balance these vices. Crows devour an immense number of in-

This season hasn't been very favorable to the growth of morels—too cold and dry; during a warm, wet spring we have been able to pick them by the basketful in our orchard. Anyone who doesn't know the morel misses a rare treat. These coneshaped, spongy-looking mushrooms grow in old orchards, pastures and pine woods, especially if a fire has been through. It is said that the ancients were so fond of this delicacy that they burned whole forests just on the chance of morels springing up afterwards. And the best of it is that you can eat of them without a haunting fear that you may be poisoning yourself and the family, as there is no other growth that resembles them as the deadly Amanita toadstool resembles the common mushroom.

Our woodshed seems to be a bird sanctuary, as a pair of Phoebes are the latest to choose a building site there. Phoebes were among my earliest bird-friends in my first childhood, when I used to visit at my grandfather's farm. There was a most alluring creek wandering happily through the fields and under a series of small bridges. These doubtless had been built for some utilitarian purpose, but to us they seemed to be purpose, but to us they seemed to be merely roofs for the Phoebes' nests which abounded in their cool shadows. So Phoebes have always awak-ened memories of running water with ferns and violets trailing delicate fingers on its cool surface, while barefoot children waded under rickbarefoot children waded under rick-ety bridges, looking eagerly for the pretty mud-built nests, each covered with moss and containing five or six white eggs. Consequently these birds seem a little out of place in a hot, dry woodshed, though they are very welcome, as are all members of the fly-catcher family.

By-W.9 Trank Thompson NOTED CANADIAN GOLFERS

By W. J. & FRANK THOMPSON. Noted Capadian Golfers, EASE vs. EFFORT.

Noted Canadian Golfers,

EASE vs. EFFORT,

Very few players can associate ease of effort with a long ball. They feel that only a most violent effort will produce a long drive. This is all wrong. Occasionally the beginner is told to hit the ball easily and sometimes he is surprised to find the ball has gone much farther than he intended it to go. If he were wise this experiment would cause him to pause and ponder the cause of such distance. Invariably he would find it was because he allowed his myscles to remain flexible on the back swing. Doing things comfortably is the keynote of the whole swing. It is what gives results, because the power is being applied properly.

The difference between good and poor players is largely one of flexibility. Usually the beginner stands in front of the ball with every muscle set. This only invites disaster. The moment one has to brace his muscles he is certainly drifting away from the proper method. Comfort should be the check on every style of play.

Must Be Bold.

Must Be Bold.

I hope I shall not be understood as advocating a "dolling" game. Far from it. One must be bold and courageous if he would win matches, Hard hitting is to be encouraged. A spared shot is one of the hardest in the game to play accurately. But the added effort should come at the right time. Most players when they wish to drive a long ball grip the club tighter and put the effort in too soon, usually somewhere in the bank swing. As soon as the muscles become tense they do not work smoothly, and the reason why so many swings appear jerky is because the player has put on the force too soon, which is oftentimes before the back swing is completed.

A good example of this is seen in playing into the wind. More foozled shots take place into the wind than with it and the reason is that the player feels he must make a greater effort. It would be wise counsel to try to hit more accurately. When we put in more effort we usually hit too soon, and "hitting too soon" is one of the inherent dangers of the game.

The beginner uses up as much energy and more, than the expert, but most of it is dissipated maintaining balance, whereas the latter gets most of it on the ball.

We have been taught from time immemorial that the left arm and the club shaft are to be conceived as one continuous part. This is quite right, Where the error comes is in consciously straightening the left arm from the start, whereas it is a consequence of the swing. This straightening occurs after the swing has begun, and not before. One does not straighten out the arm deliberately; it is straightened out by the club's resistance as the body turns in the swing. In the golf swing the club is the very last thing to start moving. The first movements start at the left ankle, up through the leg and hip muscles, which causes the shoulders and body to turn; the hands move last. The inertia of the club must be overcome and the turn of the shoulders and left arm cause a strain at the wrist joint. The hands are dragged, so to speak, for a few inches and then the club head follows. The left arm and club do not get in a straight line until the club has gone some distance. When the club gets going its own momentum causes it quickly to become the leading member.

But, as pointed out before, the left arm hecoming straight is only a significant or a significant of the club has pointed out before, the left arm hecoming straight is only a significant or a signi causes it quickly to become the leading member.

But, as pointed out before, the left arm, becoming straight, is only an incidental of the swing. When one consciously makes the left arm straight, there is the greatest danger of causing the swing to lose its flexibility, and whenever this happens it means a loss of distance.

Rigidity is the negation of power. In playing approach shots or spoon shots, where accuracy and not distance is the great factor, the swing certainly becomes more compact. But where distance is desired the more flexibility one can get into the swing the better. This is why one who is anxious for length should be very careful about adopting blindly the straight left arm.

The golf swing when effective is performed naturally. When one attempts to consciously build it up or develop it, an element of effort is introduced, which invariably destroys the whole thing.

GRAHAM BROTHERS TRUCK

Truck owners can stop an enormous waste by eliminating dead weight-by reducing loads as nearly as possible to actual pay loads.

Graham Brothers Truck is built to meet this urgent necessity for greater efficiency in hauling.

It is light-considerably lighter than the average truck of equal rating. It is sturdy because it is built of materials selected for quality rather than bulk.

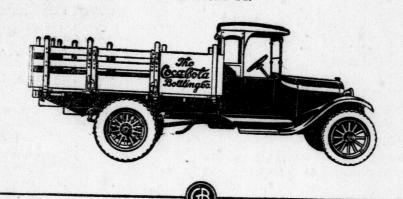

It is scientifically designed to save the owner money, both in his initial investment and in his operating costs—and the records prove emphatically that it does.

SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1923.

The Globe of 1919 and 1923. The Toronto Telegram carries a special story on election conditions in London. The Telegram is the chief Beck supporter in Toronto.

When its staff correspondent came to London he described conditions as he found them, as follows: "The Grand Opera House is Sir Adam's headquarters and also the center of the Western Ontarlo Conservative Association. . . . The hydro is the outstanding issue as a whole, aside from the local angles in various ridings. The headquarters is humming with energy. Old-timers assert that in London, as in the rest of the peninsula, the Conservative forces were never so well organized, and in contrast to Sir Adam's position in the last election his followers are united."

The report carried by the Telegram tells the story fairly well about the location of the headquarters of Sir Adam Beck. The man who has stated in season and out of season that hydro must be kept out of politics has taken his hydro prestige with him, and is today conducting a straight political campaign from the office which is in touch with 21 other Conservative campaigns in the Western Ontario Conservative Asso- ford.

It would be interesting to have the Toronto Globe's explanation of how it would handle this situation. conduct. The Globe has been generous, to the point of prodigality, with its advice to the Liberals of London to step how it could be done or how it can be done?

Sir Adam Beck never asked the Liberals of London to participate in his campaign; he appeared at a Conservative nomination, was indorsed and heralded as a Conservative candidate; he was welcomed as coming and it is well that there is not. to the support of Hon. Howard Ferguson, a man whom the Globe would not dare indorse.

Today what do we find? A Toronto reporter visits the Beck rooms; he describes them as a place where 21 Conservative campaigns are centered, and hastens to add that in that atmosphere surcharged with politics "the hydro is the outstanding issue."

Why was the Toronto Globe so anxious to keep hydro out of politics in 1919 and yet so anxious to allow hydro to be pulled all the way into politics in

Let us get the view of the Globe in 1919. We quote from its editorial page of October 2, 1919:

"Against that or anything that savors of making the Hydro a party football, the people of the cities, towns and townships whose money is invested in the system will be justified in protesting most vehemently. The Hydro was launched as a non-political business enterprise by men of all parties working in cordial co-operation. It must be kept free from party politics bleachers will be filled and ready for the slaughter. if it is to prosper and expand as it should. Sir Adam Beck does well in demanding that both province."

The Globe of 1919 is certainly not the Globe of 1923. In 1919 it said to the politicians "Hands off!" Today it says to the Liberals of London "Hands up!"

Able to Meet the Situation.

London had an opportunity to see three of its candidates at a garden party on Thursday evening. They all came prepared to discuss questions of the day as they saw them through their political field glasses.

Arriving on the scene, they were disarmed by a request from the hostess that they should not discuss political issues. It was short notice, and served to show the ability of the three to meet a situation that might arise suddenly. Dr. Stevenson delivered a political address, at least three parts politics and one part something else; Sir Adam Beck had first to voice a complaint that he had spent a whole long day getting his political power plant in shape for the occasion; it was quite evident that he proposed to give a demon stration of how to use hydro to heat the Conservative wires. At best he was very much out of his element. Miss Armstrong was able to get along without a suggestion of politics. The garden party was for an organ fund, so she touched on music and a few kindred topics. mixed in a little story or so, cut the whole thing short and made by far the best impression.

There were three starters, equally handicapped by a short notice not to talk politics, and the woman of the trio met the situation gracefully and went ahead. while her two much-schooled-in-public-speaking opponents finished second and third.

Let Them All Speak Up Now.

It may be, as some of our politicians say, that Ontario is in need of men in its legislature who are used to handling business in a big way.

It is also true that it would not be a bad idea to have a few people down there who still regard a thousand dollars as a lot of money.

No End of Large Issues.

Talk of the issues in this campaign not being large compelling is all nonsense. For proof:

The average politician needs no tonic to sharpen up his appetite for space.

WHY SINGLE OUT LONDON?

(From the Mail and Empire)

To the Liberal party the Globe's example in this campaign is better than its precept. It gives its good vord to the Conservative candidate in London and asks Liberal electors there to vote for him. Yet it finds fault speaker a shocked look, and with Mr. Ferguson and this newspaper for welcoming Musk said: "Hush, my dear! Liberal support of Conservative candidates in this elecdate whom it can and does commend to the support of Liberals, the Globe ought to admit the possibility of people in its party becoming equally enlightened as to the merits of Conservative candidates in other ridings.

Clarry immediately walked outside to play with the other children, but his mother called him back saying:

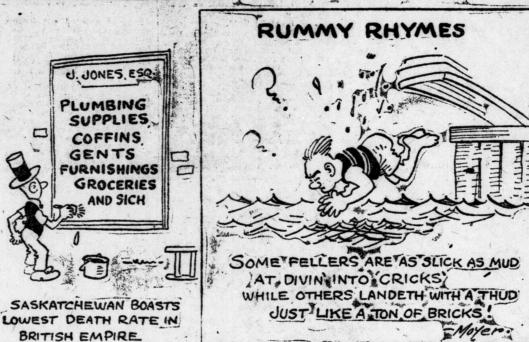

"Don't go, dear. The ladies want to the merits of Conservative candidates in other ridings.

Take, for instance, Hon. George Henry, the Conservative the back." Take, for instance, Hon. George Henry, the Conservative candidate running in East York. We are sure he will get votes from Liberals of that riding who know him and respect him as a man of ability and solid worth. Why should their judgment in his favor not be as freely pronounced as is the Globe's judgment in favor of the Conservative candidate in London? Why should that newspaper forbid Liberals to exercise the right to think for themselves as completely as it has exercised the right to think for itself in regard to the deserts of the Ferguson candidate in London? In every constituency in this province Liberal votes are likely to be polled for the Conservative candidate because he is esteemed and rusted by his neighbors who know him well. The Globe annot hope to impose upon the Liberal party its authority as a boss, and when it bids the rank and file of the party, "Don't do as I do, do as I say," it only makes less its influence over the party, which is made up of free-men. Liberal voters believe that they are as competent to single out a good candidate in their respective ridings as the Globe is to single out the right candidate London. If the Globe sees good in one Conservative candidate, groups of Liberals in the other 110 constituer cles will not close their eyes to the good of the Conservative candidates there. The Globe's example in the case of London will have far more weight with the Liberals of the province than its cracking of the party during its waking hours is never cross, but always happy and laugh-Your hair will have a prettier wave and curl than probably it has ever had if, just before doing it up, you will apply a little liquid silmerine with a brush. The waviness will look perfectly natural, and the hair will be sleek and glossy like plush. It will remain in curl the longest time, regardless of heat, wind or moisture, and you won't have to be continually fussing with loose strands or fiying ends.

Liquid silmerine is, of course, entirely harmless. It leaves no sticky, greasy, or streaky trace. It is also an excellent dressing, keeping the hair delightfully soft and silky. A few ounces from your druggist will last for weeks. It is fine for bobbed as well as long hair.—

WAR OFFICE REFUSES SPORANS FOR KILTIES

Scottish Regiments Must Wear Khaki Apron Substituted During the War.

London, June 16 .- The war office seems to be having a series of unhappy experiences in its relations with Scotland. Mention has been made already of the resentment aroused in Edinburgh because the war office declines to maintain a regular garrison at Edinburgh Castle. Now comes the announcement that the war office refuses to provide sporrans for the kilted regiments. During the war the khaki apron was substituted for the sporran and now, unless the regiment has an old stock of sporrans to draw from, it must do

Thos. Hasket and family are again ordered confiscated and destroyed.

In the Land of Doo, during the early summer, for days and days, no clouds will appear in the sky, and the leaves wilt in the hot sunshine. Little Doo Dads sit behind desks in stuffy offices, and sweat and swelter. At such times, when Saturday afternoon comes, Doc. Sawbones calls all the little Doo Dads together. Just like a little army, they march to the Depot, and all get aboard the 4:15 Express, far, far from Dooville. Doc. Sawbones owns a summer resort. The summer resort is by the side of the sea. The 4:15 Express "ting-a-lings" and "toottoots" and "chug-chugs," until the conductor calls out in a loud voice: "Doo Beach!-All out for Doo Beach!" Then the little Doo Dads scramble out of the stuffy coach, onto the platform, and rush to the beach.

At Doo Beach there is a fine stretch of sandy shore. There is a pier and a lamppost, with a life-preserver hanging from a hook. The little Mother Doo Dad sits on the sand and knits away as happy as a lark. Already, she has forgotten how hot and sultry it was in Dooville: At Doo Beach there is an air ship that takes passengers for long flights for only 50 cents a trip, and Nicholas Nutt gives little Boy and Girlie Doo Dads a swift ride on the back of Tiny for only a penny. The ride on the back of Tiny is best, for as Tiny races along by the side of the sea, he keeps his passengers cool by waving a palm leaf fan with his trunk. There is old Sleepy Sam with his cart filled with fine fruit. What is Sleepy Sam doing? An enterprising little Doo Dad caught a fine, big lobster. Now he is fishing. He has no pole, and he is using the lobster instead of a hook, but he seems to be having very good luck. This little Doo Dad will be embarrassed when he finds that Flannelfeet, the cop, is standing close behind and counting the "fish" (?) as he catches them. It would be just like Flannelfeet to scare the little fellow so badly that he runs away, and then proceed to devour the fine, ripe, juicy fruit.

stocks was once more the unsettling feature. Evidently the market found it hard to accept reports that a remedial program is being worked out for the old trade situation. The logical thing would be for the refiners and pipeline owners to shut down on the flow of crude oil, but whether so many rival and opposing interests will get together and support a plan of this sort is questionable. The old-time method in dealing with overproduction, like the present, was to keep on cutting prices until the weaker producing units were frozen out. ### BOND PRICES STEADIER AT NEW YORK EXCHANGE

Associated Press Despatch. New York, June 15.—After an early period of reaction bond prices on the New York Stock Exchange today be-New York Stock Exchange today became steady, and net changes at the close were very small. Meantime new offerings aggregating more than $100,000,000 found ready market. New offerings for the week totaled nearly $200,000,000, a high record for the year. 000.000, a high record for the year.

United States government bonds held fairly steady in dull trading. The market apparently was not affected by the British interest payment of $69.000,000 in Liberty bonds. Foreign bonds were in slightly better demand, the new Austraian 7's establishing a new top at 93%, but later reacting a little.

Railroad mortgages displayed little activity, and price changes were small. Industrial liens were heavy in the early trading, but developed greater strength later, and net changes at the close were unimportant for the most part.

Total sales, par value, were $11,929,-000. Liverpool, June 15.—Cotton. spot, dull; prices steady. American middling, fair, 17.41d; good middling, 16.86d; fully middling, 16.76d; middling, 16.61d; low middling, 16.86d; good ordinary, 15.86d;

Howard Smith 69 1/2 70 3/4 78 TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE. Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 16.—Trading during the closing session for the week on the local stock exchange was very light in the listed section, but some of the unlisted stocks showed activity, particularly Hattie Gold, in which nearly 30.000 shares changed hands. There were few changes in quotations among the listed shares, the market being very narrow, while in the unlisted section the trend was generally lower, with Hattie Gold, which gained 1½ cc, the exception. Goldale was off 1½ points at 60, and Lorrain lost 1½ at 16. Howard Smith ..... 122% 1224 Ogilvie Flour Mills ...... Ottawa L., H. & P. ..... Snamingan

TREND IS REACTIONARY IN STOCKS AND BONDS

Small Traders Have Deserted Market Owing to Recent Failures.

Canadian Press Despatch. New York, June 16 .- Stock and bond prices displayed a reactionary trend during most of the week with the trading of a desultory nature. Marked advance of public interest in the stock market and the lessened activity of operators on the long side induced considerable bear selling and some liquidation by tired holders of long stock. Special to The Advertiser.

Buffalo, June 15.—Action is expected to follow a presentation of the affairs of the L. R. Steel Company to a grand jury here on Monday, according to an announcement made today by District Attorney Guy Moore. The announcement that the grand jury will probe into the Steel affairs was offered as a reason why the officers of the Steel enterprises have not been summoned for public examination in bankruptcy court. The referee in bankruptcy, having been made aware of the contemplated action of the district attorney, decided to forestall any examination of Steel officers because of the fear of embarrassing the county prosecutor.

Heretafore it has been standfastly statefable bear selling and some liquidation by thred holders of long stock. The recent failure of a number of consolidated exchange and curb houses, and the campaign of the authorities against alleged bucket shops, were largely responsible for the almost complete desertion of the market by small traders. The little fellows have become exceedingly unpopular in New York. The result has been a dearth of business.

To offset the general air of depression which pervades Wall street, however, there were several constructive developments during the week, one of the most important of which was the raising of the annual New York Central Railroad dividend rate from $5 to 100 for the failure of a number of consolidated exchange and curb houses, and the campaign of the authorities against alleged bucket shops, were largely responsible for the almost complete desertion of the market by small traders. Heretofore it has been steadfastly denied that the criminal authorities of Erie County were delving into the Steel affairs seriously, so the announcement of District Attorney Moore came as a surprise to the several thousand stockholders in this city, and a distinct shock to the former officers and executives of the Steel companies. District Attorney Moore is in possession of a great mass of evidence gathered for him by a corps of trained investigators who have worked secretly on the case for many weeks, it is said.

Subpoenas have already been issued for former officers of the company, requiring them to appear before the grand jury, and similar documents are in course of preparation for scores of mindcations of a "price war" ard of directors. jury, and similar documents are in course of preparation for scores of executives, stock salesmen, confidential clerks to the late Leonard Steel and other officers and many stockholders. The investigation conducted by the district attorney is said to have covered the operations of the Steel enterprises since the day of their orgnization by Steel and Joseph M. Smoot, three years ago. District Attorney Moore declined today to reveal the exact character of Toronto, June 16.—In their comment on the unlisted market, A. J. Pattison, Jr., & Co, say that tradira; in the early part of the week showed a decided increase over the preceding few weeks. Good buying of some of the issues, which have recently sold off was noted, with a consequent recovery in price. The general demand for the dividend paying stocks continued in normal plums, at slowly increasing prices. It would appear that for a time at least the industrial bond market has found its level and that further advances cannot be looked for in this field. The declaration of the dividend on Sterling Coal common was reflected in the market by a 4-point rise to 41-42½. Robert Simpson preferred was again prominent, moving up half a point to 91-92½, with but little stock offered at the latter figure. Durant Motors was slightly firmer, improving to 6½-7½, between which figures large volumes of stock changed hands. Alberta Facific Grain preferred was under steady inquiry at 93½, with no offerings obtainable at any price near the bid figure.

Grain Markets

Winnipeg, June 15. - The wheat futures market today was nervous and erratic, but moved in very narrow limits during the session. Bad weather reports from United States wheat areas and steady cables sent prices on the advance during most of the day, July fouching a high of $1.18½ and October $1.10. There was some profit-taking, which forced values down to $1.17½, but this was later overcome, July closing at a gain of 11-16c and October 1c higher. The coarse grains were not active, and were influenced chiefly by the action of wheat. There is a fair seaboard and demestic trade being worked daily. Prices were fractionally higher at the close. The cash wheat market was exceptionally strong within a fairly large trade transacted. Shippers with tonnage and sales to fill were buyers. During the session No. 1 northern sold at 1c over the July and closed ½c over, an advance of ½c from yesterday.

CHICAGO

Chicago, June 15.—Higher prices for wheat resulted today from reports of damaging rains in the winter crop belt and from drought in some of the spring crop states. The market closed firm, at %c to 1%c net advance, with July $1.11% to $1.12 and September $1.09% to $1.09%. Corn finished %c to 1c up, and oats scored gains of a shadel to &c. and oats scored gains of a shade to 4c and oats scored gains of a snade to 4c.

SATURDAY'S OPENING PRICES SATURDAY'S OPENING PRICES. Chicago, June 16.—Although wheat underwent a moderate down-turn in price today at the outset, a rally soon took place. The initial weakness was ascribed largely to selling on account of views expressed by Secretary Wallace that low prices were due to overproduction. However, crop damage reports from Missouri and other places that have heretofore been sending good reports led quickly to an upturn in eports led quickly to an upturn is alues. The opening, which varied from inchanged figures to %c lower, we ollowed by further declines and the by an advance to above yesterday's finish.

SUGAR

New York, June 15.—The break in the raw sugar futures market unsettled the early market for spot raw sugars, and prices were nominal. No sales were reported, and refiners appeared to be out of the market entirely. There was another sharp decline in raw sugar futures, with prices at midday showing net declines of 38 to 46 points. The failure of yesterday's upturn to inspire and fresh demand evidently discouraged buyers for a reaction, and there was renewed heavy general selling. Offerings came chiefly from houses with Cuban and Wall Street connections, with some of the latter said to be for Japanese account.

The market for refined was unsettled, and prices were unchanged to 50 register. and prices were unchanged to 50 points lower, with two refiners now listing at $9.25 and three at $9.90. Business, however, was practically at a standstill, owing to the weakness in the raw futures market.

Several other veins, averaging from 2½ to 4 inches in width, and running parallel to this vein for a distance of approximately 100 feet, have been opened up, all showing native silver and cobalt. The prospects are for very interesting developments in the near future. On one of the veins a heavy silver and cobalt shoot is being opened up with hand steel and the ore is being mined and bagged ready for shipment. The ore averages from 500 to 1,500 ounces to them.

Dan Hughes, the contractor, has the work well in hand, and the shaft is now down about 100 feet. It is expected that the shaft will reach the 300-foot level within two months. The vein left the shaft at a depth of 60 feet. Fairly good values were encountered to that depth, and as high as $32 was secured on surface.

Ecologying a staking rush in the dis. vailing.

Following a staking rush in the district along the lower reaches of the Montreal River and Matacbichoun district, adjacent to South Lorrain, the rumor spread today among mining men in Cobalt and Haileybury that a large vein, some three feet in width has been found in which considerable native silver is visible. All efforts up to the time of writing have failed to disclose confirmation of the report, not even indicating the location of the claim on which the discovery is supposed to have been made.

The announcement that West Dome Lake Consolidated has received hydroelectric power with which to pump out the underground workings came as a surprise on the heels of announcement that Vipond Consolidated had been obliged to revert to steam power, but has met with widespread approval on account of it being the volution of the care in the discovery with widespread approval on account of it being the volution of many.

that Vipond Consolidated had been obliged to revert to steam power, but has met with widespread approval on account of it being the opinion of many businessmen throughout the district that it is not in the best interests of the gold mining industry as a whole for the leading producers to be given all the available energy and with numerous small enterprises being closed down.

The Yukon Gold Company is shipping from its Keno Hill property in the Canadian Yukon this season 4,000 tons of lead-silver ore assaying about 200 ounces of silver and 40 per cent lead a ton. Bradley interests will ship during the season 3,000 tons of ore of about the same or slightly higher assay from the Keno Hill mine proper. Developments on the Bradley claims are most encouraging and would seem to indicate large possibilities in the Sadie and Friendship claims, which are on the same vein.

Skeptics who doubted the Continental mines flotation last fall are revising their views because of developments at the Colonial property. What may have been a "long shot" at the time appears to be a "sure shot." Continental engineers strongly urged the sinking of a shaft to the lower keewatin-diabase contact, on which the O'Brien mine had been getting ore from at least two veins. The O'Brien had mined up to the Colonial boundary, so Colonial engineers advised their principals to take the chance—just as Dr. J. Mackintosh Bell did at the Keeley. They thought the cancat will be reached at about and the chance—just as Dr. J. Mackintosh Bell did at the Keeley. They thought the contact would be reached at about reached until 935 feet. Experts regarded this as a favorable feature. The situation, at any rate, was most interesting to the best authorities on cobalt structures, and they alone have taken it as a matter of course that Colonial Silver mines have disclosed a spectacular vein; so wide and carrying such high and milling values that the Continental while shaft sinking on the Manley-O'Reilly, in Skead Township, a new vein was struck at a depth of 42 feet. This vein is well mineralized with molybdenite and fine-grained iron pyrite. It shows a width of six feet, though its full width is not yet disclosed. At the 100-foot level it is intended to cross-cut to the rich free gold showing, which outcrops on the surface. At the Barry-Webster, half a mile south of the Manley-O'Brien, a new vein has also been found, and on the Skead gold property A. D. Miles, for English interests, is trenching and stripping, preparatory to further diamond drilling. So far the work on the properties has been very encouraging, and as a consequence there is unusual activity throughout the whole township.

Paris, June 15. - Unless Tutankh amen's sway over styles extends into next winter models will show the tremendous influence of the numerous costume balls which mark the so called Paris season, commencing with June, with special favor shown to the styles of the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. Already there is a note of medievalism in the shape of sleeves and an abundance of lounces. There was hardly a dressmaking

The fitness of any candidate to represent London in the next Legislature can be measured only by his or her record of service to the public, and by his or her ability to render service in the future.

Two of the candidates have records, and each points to his record as the reason for his election.

Supporters of Adam Beck eager= ly accept this gage of fitness because they know if London's next representative is chosen on his record Adam Beck will be elected by the greatest majority London could roll up.

Sir Adam Beck's record of service is so well known to residents of London, extending as it does over 35 years, that it cannot possibly be adequately stated here. If it were told in full every line of every page in every issue of this paper for a week would not be enough space in which to tell the story,

But let us glance at the claims of Hughie Stevenson, medical doctor, who invites the people to contemplate the sum of his services to London. Irresistibly one is reminded of a bantam rooster crow= ing over the duck egg, when Hughie talks about his "record."

Hughie is a medical doctor of parts. As a medical man he would naturally, in the capacity of a public man, be interested in the health and welfare of the city. You would expect that, wouldn't you? But can he point to one single public act or public service of his to London which would tend to improve conditions for the people. Not one.

Compare his record in this respect with Adam Beck's work for the hospital, the sanatorium, the preventorium for the alleviation of pain and the cure of diseases.

Think of the untold health benefits he conferred upon London when, in co-operation with his friend the late Col. Little, they provided London with a pure water supply. Recall the epidemic of typhoid by which London was scourged before we got pure water, and contemplate the value of the service that gave London an unfailing supply of pure water.

Think of the burden of household labor lightened for thousands of hard-worked mothers by the blessings of cheap electricity in the the home.

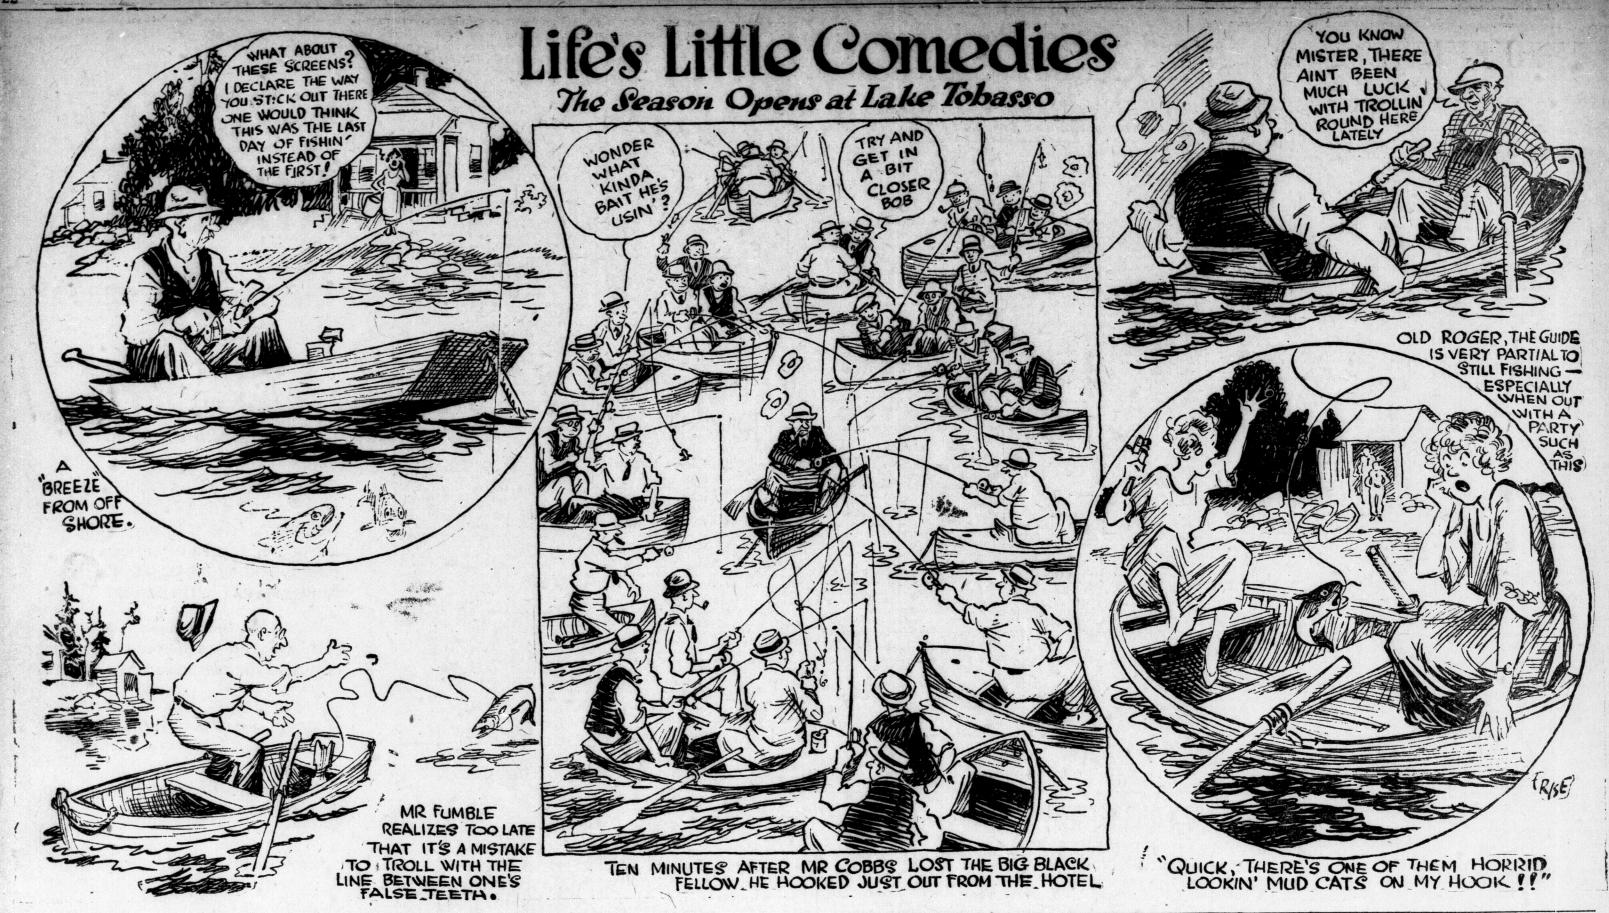

All these, the work of Adam Beck, the boxmaker, who has become the champion and the provider of cheap light, cheap power, cheap transportation for all the people.

He studies law, reads, trains himself to be a magazine writer, and gets passed a 15-year parole law for life prisoners. Parole is refused him, but the warden lets him leave prison informally to visit his parents in Missouri. On the journey he sees a woman fellow-nassenger met by her husband. Kane recognizes the man as a former prison companion who also made good. He returns at the promised time, though gravely ill with influenza.

CHAPTER XLVII. There was one teacher in the city high schools who said to me, after I had conducted his party through the prison: "In what particular manner were you tempted not to return here while on that visit home?"

"The truth is I was never at any time tempted in the least to violate my pledged word."

"I'm glad to hear that," said he shaking hands again His high schools added to some of my unusual experiences. The schools were planning a series of debates between picked teams, and the question for discussion was an old one: "Resolved, that capital punishment should be abolished." Out to the Dear Sir:state prison came one of the teams looking for data. The warden turned them over to me. I took care in giving them all the facts concerning various cases, and I told them a great many things in addition. The following day a team for the other side arrived, and on the third day thereafter two debating teams on different sides of the question were there at the same time, sitting with me around the long pardon-room table. That situation-and because of my desire to be fair alike to allcalled for special effort upon my part against showing where I stood in the kiss-kiss ceremony, poison, murder can get along quite neatly with 32 matter.

The result of all that was that John W. Kane came to be talked of quite a bit among the high school pupils, and a still further result was high schools came up there and requested that I address them on the Program with publick library expressubject, "How to Prevent Crime."

Board Meets on Lucky Date. The September meeting came on Saturday, the 20th. That was the birth date of one of the most precious friends I had ever made in that state, and I had still just enough belief in signs and tokens to think of that as being a good omen.

I met the chief clerk of the prison who was also clerk of the pardor board, as he was passing along the corridor to the room where the meeting was to be held.

"Well, Jack," and he reached out a hand, "have you packed up yet?"

"Packed up?" I repeated the words as if in doubt as to his meaning. "Yes-to leave here. We're all getting tired of seeing you around this place."

"And I'm just as tired of being seen here, Mr. M.," I told him. "But you know how it is; at the last mo ment something might come up-another delay, maybe denial. There's nothing sure in this world but death and taxes."

WANT AD TIPS

Summer Want Ad Opportunities Faithful Jim, the model employee; watches office clock, backsliding-it's summertime! The Ninth Street backyard pennant race is in full blast. Who'll have the prize pumpkin, the tallest hill of beans? Yes, it's summer! Summer brings more than heat and baseball games-it mothers many Want Ad opportunities. One of the early Colonial "millionaires" made his initial fortune by shipping ice to the West Indies, and even to the East Indies. His is the brand of enterprise required now. There is no time like summer to turn several kinds of quick Want Ad profits. The automobile season is at its height. Folks crave the outdoor air, the open country. The hunger was born way back in the spring. It's grown stronger and stronger. A very favorable time now to sell used cars. One enterprising automobile dealer actually finds the outdoor market so good now that he runs regular Want Ads on what he calls "Fishing Cars," cheap, used cars for fishing trips. All sorts of fishing and camping equipment are in demand. No better time than now to advertise camp and resort property for sale or rent. And the vacations people take have an abundance of significance. A wide-awake painter and paperhanger goes energetically after contracts to decorate while owners are in the country. He is responsible, and families naturally like the idea-they escape all the fuss and trouble usually incidental to such home improvements.

There are a lot of lawns to be cut, gardens to be hoed. The youngster after pocket money uses Want Ads, written by Dad, and gets a bunch of customers who'll employ him right through the summer.

How are you going to use Want Ads?

A GOLDEN opportunity for the sick, the invalid and the cripples who want to be well to get better or to walk again. If you are one of these, come to this office or phone for me to come to your house for a free examination. If I can help you, all right; if I can't I will tell you so. Chiropractic is the only natural way to get well. By adjusting the spinal column we remove the cause of your aliment, no matter what it is. It may take one adjustment or a good many, all according to your aliment. But I will get you well. Here are a few of the prominent citizens who take daily adjustments to get well and to keep well: Henry Ford, President W. G. Harding. L. E. Waterman, Chas. Schwab, Billy Sunday, Earl S. Sloan, John D. Rockefeller, Mary Pickford, Bebe Daniels, Lillian Walker, Charlie Chaplin, Jack Dempsey, Ty Cobb, James J. Gorbett and hundreds of others that you have heard of just as much as these. This is your opportunity. Don't miss it. Free consultation and examination Saturday and Monday at your home or this office. Dr. R. R. # PROHIBITION WILL BE ENFORCED IN TURKE

But Special Arrangements Are To Be Made For Allied Troops.

Associated Press Despatch. Constantinople, June 16. - Theh overnor of Constantinople has informed the Allied high commissioners that the Turkish prohibition law will be enforced beginning tomorrow This will mean the closing of 2,478 stablishments.
Special arrangements have been made for the allied troops, and it is understood that foreign subjects will be allowed provisionally to enjoy exceptional treatment until peace is oncluded at Lausanne, but otherwise the law will be rigorously enforced against the native Christians.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, June 16 .- Following their official nomination Thursday nearly three hundred candidates for the 111 seats which comprise the Ontario legislature were actively engaged on Friday preparing for the final week of the campaign. Election day is set for June 25, and it is expected that names of the majority of these nominated will be found on the ballots on that day.

The week will be a strenuous one for all concerned. Premier Drury, Hon. G. Canadian Press Despatch.
Haileybury. June 16.—Bush fires are sweeping along at a terrific rate in Northwestern Quebec, and it is estimated by lumbermen that about 1.600 square miles of forest are threatened by flames.

Prospectors returning Friday from the Rouyn gold area report a heavy pall of smoke hanging over the country, with the sun completely obscured at times, and with tell-tale ashes falling thickly over many miles of terrifory to the windward of the fires.

Forest rangers declare the first great fire got its start at Long Lake to the southeast of Larder Lake, where lumbering operations left the country in a dangerous condition, while other heavy fires came down from the north from points along the Transcontinental Railway.

It is a feature of particular importance that none of the fires is attributed to prospectors in the fight around New York this summer at least.

The whispering has been that if Leonard and Tendler did meet it would be under a gentlemen's agreement to weigh in at any old weight, which may account for Leonard's apparent lack of disposition to tackle White. When Rickard, who is close mouthed, and always plays his games close to the thumb, waived that Leonard contract, he did an unusual thing. It means the time had come when he had to draw for a full house or else quit the game.

It meant, too—or at least seems to mean—that Gibson is interested in business affairs of his own relating to the fight game, and that Rickard finds in him not so much a skilful manager as a rival promoter.

Rickard's announcement that he may build a big steel stadium in New York is the first real line we have hed on Montreal, June 15.—Playing steadily strough two days. Miss Sybil Kennedy. Royal Montreal, today won the Quebec ladies' golf championship, dethroning Mrs. H. C. Foy of Quebec, last year's champion. Miss Kennedy was tied with Miss Dora Virtue of Whitlock when she, began this morning's round of 18 holes. She gave by far the most impressive demonstration of the meeting when she turned in a card for 92, which, in addition to wilming her first honors, was also the best gross score for 18 holes. Her total for 36 holes was 189. The runner-up was Miss Helen Paget, of Royal Ottawa. Miss Paget entered the second round with 99. For a while it looked as if she was going to get around in 99. However, towards the end her putting went to pieces, and the heat she could do was 41. end her putting went to pieces, and the best she could do was 34.

Soccer Notes | ST. LOUIS CARDINALS

Only National League Team Without Home of Its Own.

By JOHN B. FOSTER. Copyright. New York, June 15. - There is rowing belief today that the St. Louis Nationals, not altogether satisfied with sharing the grounds and club house of the Browns, may buy back the playing field, which it sold some time ago, and erect thereon a stadium of its own. It has been several years since the Cardinals gave up their old field and gave the baseball pacifists their chance to sing hymns of peace by sharing the Browns' park. The two clubs, however, have not gotten along so well tog gether as folks thought they might. So when it was reported that the St. Louis Nationals might be given a chance to buy back the land they got rid of, the most natural sequence in the discussions of the matter was the subject of a real stadium.

The ground in question is one of the best playing fields in the National circuit in the matter of area at least. It is far superior in other ways to some of the filled-in pastures and swamps on which some of the big league parks have been built. It is some distance from the center of the city, it is true, but at that it is only a block or so from the center of the converte months. field, which it sold some time ago, and but at that it is only a block or so from the other ground and won't suffer much the other ground and won't suffer much through transportation facilities.

The Cardinals have not found that mutual occupation of playing grounds is particularly pleasant, especially since erection of the Yankee stadium, which incidentally has changed all baseball policies and all baseball situations. The American League is nicely cognizant of its own strength and of its own strength and of its nizant of its own strength and of its own importance in the world, and it is not so complacent as when one of its members was a tenant of the National League club in New York City.

St. Louis probably would respond to some extent to a fine new modern ball park. It is the only city in the National circuit without a ground of its own, and the only city that does not have a thoroughly modern steel. not have a thoroughly modern steel and concrete structure, which is both fireproof and comfortable. The St. Louis Browns have a stand in which concrete and steel were used, but it is not on recent structural design. The loss of Sisler to the Browns and with optimism and fight, the Sarnians fully expect to show the huge crowd that will in all probability witness the great game that association football as played in the Imperial City compares favorably with that played in any part of the province. The Sarnia team and supporters will leave for St. Thomas Saturday morning and will return to Sarnia in the evening. St. Johns Rovers' team to do duty on this ausnicious to the race in the American League is no longer poohed and belittled by impolite and inexperienced baseball players. Some insisted that no one player could make such a difference to a team unless he were an exceptionally brilliant pitcher. Now they realize that it is as bad to lose a star ers' team to do duty on this auspicious realize that it is as bad to lose a star of Sisler's magnitude although he not a pitcher. As a matter of fact, it is worse; the Sisler type of star helps in every way and every day, while a star pitcher is a help only when it is his turn to pitch.

The absence of Sisler has cost the St. Louis club at least 195 percentage.

Louis club at least 125 percentage points. This is the equivalent of la-ing in the first division or out of it. points. This is the equivalent of ing in the first division or out of it, and St. Louis is out of it. It are stored in the first division or out of it, and St. Louis is out of it. It are second in the race, with all that that means, and being a worm digging for air. If Detroit could only have what St. Louis has lost this year the Tigers would be riding high.

American League men—who are not of St. Louis—say that what beats them is why the Browns did not move faster when they knew that Sisler would be out of the game, and before the season out of the game, and before the season started. They profess not to under-stand why somebody did not get a substand why somebody did not get a substitute first baseman. It is true that Bobby Quinn went to Hot Springs and talked first base with Chance. The latter thought that Quinn wanted George Burns, and if Quinn had been able to get Burns it would have been the best little thing that he has done in a long time, because Burns is near the top of the league in batting, and is playing first like a right-handed Tenney.

Whether Sisler gets back this season or not, the St. Louis Browns will be or not, the St. Louis Browns will be capering around under about as diffi-cult a handicap as any team ever got.

Haines didn't really get a peek inside the Hall door, as a Flinter got to first the first frame, Wotell's slow-bounding bunt which Barbelon fumbled fractionally—and fortunately for Hinky—went as an error and not a hit. However, the customers, mostly ladies, as it was their day, got a real peek at some baseball that should be reserved for hand-picked students of the game, and hubby fans who have not seen much of the ball lot this year probably got earfuls of information last night that should tune up the cash register over at the box office today and henceforth.

An error paved the way for London to dint the icing in the same innings as Flint made their mark—the 4th. Tice made a great run on his injured ankle after Mackey's pop out near the foul line, only to drop it. Barbelon sacrificed, and Schaefer kicked in with a smart single to center, scoring the London—Barbelen flies out to left. Schaefer lined to the box. McNamar struck out.

Eddleman Good. Eddleman Good.

Eddleman's performance almost equaled Haines.' He allowed but five hits up to the 11th, and made a couple of great stops of burning drives, and moreover displayed all sorts of courage when the few hits the Tecs achieved, two of which were scratch, put an edge on things. In the 7th he was really in his worst hole, Schaefer having driven a safety to second base and McNamara drawing a walk, all with nobody down. A bunt here might have been good baseball or a good hunch, but Buck Boyle's attempt was a little pop which Stricker grabbed off. Haines grounded out and Stimpson's motion after a bad one was too expressive and it went as a strike and a third one at that.

Golf is surely the queerest game in the world. It might be expected that such players as Sarazen and Barnes would qualify in any golf contest just as surely as Tilden and Johnston would at tennis or Hoppe and Schaefer at billiards. But, as a matter of fact, there is no man who is sure to qualify in a golf tournament. Opposition is too keen, and a man's game depends too much upon the breaks and the state of his nerves. ## Local Seniors Are Prepped To Beat Woodstock Nine Had Fast Work-Out Last Night-Win Means Chance To Tilt With St. Thomas For First Series Title.

On today's game at Woodstock hinges the chance of the local fans seeing the locals grab off the first series in the Southern Ontario League next Saturday, when the two meet. Woodstock open their new park, have a new coach, who has injected new spirit into the team, and anything is likely to happen.

Last night the Londoners held a fast batting and fielding workout, and although the lineup wasn't announced, it's a safe bet that Down will start on the mound today. Pring, who is better off the home lot, may be started, but as there is a week left before the deciding game, Hank will probably draw the assignment.

The team has been the victim of a change in management during the week, but has put in some good workouts, and the whole squad is pepped up for today's mix, which may mean anything on the season's campaign.

Amateur fans are building upon seeing London and St. Thomas in a deciding game for the first series, and the locals say they will not be disappointed.

EASTERN CANADA BASEBALL. Three Rivers 3, Royals 5. Canadians 8, Quebec 1,

By NORMAN E. BROWN.
A battle within a battle is going on n the National League these days. Four usky first basemen are waging warare with bat and glove for the honor fleading the league in their position. of leading the league in their position. The quartet are:
Long George Kelly of the Giants,
Jim Bottomley of the Cardinals.
Stuffty McInnis of the Braves.
Charley Grimm of the Pirates.
Last year the veteran Jake Daubert, after living through the annual retirement stage, stepped out and led the whole durned league. But right behind his heels, snapping at them constantly, were Kelly and Grimm, who ran a dead heat as far as fielding was concerned.
Both hit well, too.
Late in the scason Mr. James Bottomley treked into St. Louis from Syra-tomley treked into St. Louis from Syracuse in the International League. Jim bad knocked 'em stiff in the International clercuit with his first basing. He finished just two little points behind old Ed Onslow, on first for Toronto. And what's two points?

Bottomley got a chance in 34 games with the Cards last fall—enough contests to sound a warriing that he wanted the first basing job regularly. He got it. This year he is running nip and tuck with Kelly and Grimm for honors. Bottomley stands out as the most Bottomley stands out as the most spectacular player, both because of his dathing play and his meteoric rise.
Rickey picked him up two years ago on the sandlots of Nokomis, Ill., and seeing in him a diamond in the rough, sent him to Syracuse. Jim liked that sent him to Syracuse. Jim liked that town, but couldn't see why he should stay there long.

Bottomiey reminds one of Ty Cobb in his stance at the plate. He is alert and daring. When Rickey let Jack Fournier go to the Dodgers for Hi Myers some of the conservative brothers shook a sorrowful head. There isn't a Dodger fan who can recall Jack's last Fails In Iron-Man Stunt.

Special to The Advertiser. Hamilton, June 15.—Brown, the Kalamazoo southpaw, undertook to do the iron-man stunt here this afternoon, but failed to accomplish it. He pitched the visitors to victory in the first game, which went ten innings, and ended in a score of 6 to 5, but was pounded rather hard In the abbreviated affair and lost by a score of 6 to 1. The visitors tied the score in the ninth in the first game by a walk to Becker and Wire's home run, and won out in the tenth by Viverous' single, Carrigan's sacrifice, a wild pitch and Becker's single to Kuhn. The Hams got men on in every inning in the second game, touching Brown up for 12 hits, including a home run by Briger, and four doubles. Noonan, Hamilton pitcher, was notified by President Halligan today that his suspension would be raised to-Hamilton, June 15 .- Brown, the Kalathat his suspension would be raised to-morrow. CHAPTER VI. Regarding Roland Warren.

For a long time after Evelyn departed, Carroll remained seated, puff- going. ing amusedly on the cigar which followed his matutinal cigarette. Time had been long since the detective had come in contact with so much youthful spontaneity, and he found the ex-perience refreshing. Then he rose, and would have left the spartment for headquarters, but again Freda announced a caller. "Another young lady?" questioned

"No, sir. It bane young feller."
"Show him in."

The visitor entered, and Carroll found himself gazing into the level eyes of a slightly disheveled and obviously excited young man of about 28 years of age. The man was slight of stature, but every nervous gesture bespoke wiriness."

"You've seen this morning's pa-pers?" "I have."

"Well, they're rotten-absolutely rotten. They don't say it in so many words, but the impression they create is that my sister Hazel was the woman in the taxi who killed Roland Warren. It's a damned lie!" The young man was growing more the driver's knowledge.

Carroll put out a restraining hand.

There were a good many features about it which puzzled him consid erably. While he had not expected that the trail of the mysterious midnight woman would lead to the fiancee of the dead man, the sudden dissipation of that as a clue rather threw him off his balance. He had reached the end of the trail almost before setting foot upon it.

Thus far he had refused to allow himself to be worried by the strangest feature of the case—the appearance of the dead body in a taxicab which according to the driver's story could not have been other than empty was always easy to explain the disappearance of a person from an automobile; but he figured it was pat-ently impossible to enter one without women are not taking the interest that we expected after they secured prunes at Jim's ger cookies in the franchise. If they would show the proper interest at this time they would soon learn that the "wet" interests have been led to believe that they have something to expect from Howard Ferguson and the Censervatives if they win at this election— that there might be something for them on the Christmas tree.

I have no doubt that she will reply through the Mail-Box, particularly since she will have read by this time that in spite of the withdrawal of the women at the first nominations, the Liberals of London have nominated Miss Isabel Armstrong as their candidate And Tess what do you think of this further development?

Superstition and Brides.

Dear Miss Grey,-Some time ago there was a reference made to super-stition in the Mail-Box, and I have been thinking ever since then that I would send in a letter about wedding superstitions which I read in an old ook. They are interesting, although don't think nowadays people pay very much attention to things like that. Green used to be considered very unlucky, and I remember read ing in the English papers a while ago or two. Then without a word Mother that there was a great hubbub over a prominent society wedding in which not only the bridesmaids, but the bride were dressed in Nile green. So far I haven't read of any disaster following them. I was married in gray, and they say "married in gray, you'll go far away." I am living in the house I was married in, and I didn't even go away for a honeymoon, and have only been on one trip since then, and that only as far as Niagara

It is said that if a bride marks her inen with the initials of her fiance the will never use it as his wife. It s also supposed to be unlucky if her fiance sees her wearing any part of her trousseau before her wedding day. Of course, you know that the girl who bride's bouquet will be maried within a year, but to put on a oride's veil, even in fun, is supposed to be very unlucky. To carry a piece of wedding cake in the pocket of your ess is a sign that you will be a ride before the dress is worn out. And, of course, if you place wedding cake under your pillow you will fream of your future husband. I did nis from an early age till I was maried (at 27) and it didn't work once MRS. ALWAYS-INN.
