

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., DEC. 25, 1896.

Editorial Chat.

The ACADIAN makes its appearance a few hours earlier than usual this week in order to afford us an opportunity of wishing our many friends a very Merry Christmas.

The bye-elections in Cornwall and Stormont, Ontario, on Saturday last, caused by the death of Dr. Burgin, the late Conservative member, resulted in a victory for the Liberals, the seat being carried by their candidate by over five hundred majority.

Once more the Merry Christmas time has come around, and again the ACADIAN has the pleasure of greeting its readers with the season's best wishes.

We are in receipt of a letter from a prominent citizen of Kentville, touching on matters with reference to the internal workings of the affairs of that town.

In a quiet way, among its institutions, Wolfville has a College Club which meets alternate Monday afternoons in the College Library to discuss the literary, theological and philosophical questions of the day.

Some unknown friend has sent us a late copy of The Watchman, the well-known Baptist Journal of Boston.

Word has reached Toronto that the Rev. Thomas Trotter has been offered the presidency of Acadia University, in succession to Dr. A. W. Sawyer, who resigned last summer.

The Western Chronicle's poor little editor in the last issue of that journal, evinces a very perturbed state of mind.

"The ACADIAN is pleased to deal severely with the poor Kentville contemporaries. If this criticism has come from the Toronto Globe or even from the Halifax or St. John papers we would have endeavored to have bourn this blow to our hearts with becoming meekness, considering the authorities from which it emanated, but from the Wolfville ACADIAN—Oh, ye Gods!"

Now what would lead our little friend to believe that it occasions us merriment to deal "severely with the poor Kentville contemporaries?" While cheerfully admitting their poorness, yet we must deny that it gives us delight to call attention to it.

A Wolfville Girl Abroad.

Miss Alberta Parker, B. A., on her recent return to Boston, has obtained a permanent position of secretary in a Bond and Trust Co. In addition to her work as stenographer and typist she is specially engaged to translate recent German articles on the relics and religion of the Aztec of Central America into idiomatic English for publication, and also to verify genealogical lists which will pass through her hands for the fortnight before going to press.

Halifax Notes.

DEAR ACADIAN,—Perhaps a line or two from me will not be without interest, seeing that I have been "mum" so long.

Having only lately returned to the city I am hardly up to date as yet on current topics. However, improvements are visible in the old town. The widening of Lockman street gives a good thoroughfare to and from the railway station.

Twenty-one Armenian refugees arrived here last week from Constantinople via Marseilles and London and are being cared for by the Salvation Army, who will forward them to the Industrial Farm, Toronto, until employment can be found for them.

Another, a cook from Smyrna, told how he witnessed the killing of 1899 of his fellow countrymen in two days, the looting of houses, and the despoiling of property. Their Christianity is deep and devotional, and all are loud in their praises of the kindness shown them since their arrival in Halifax.

Pen Sketches

FROM PERSONAL RECOLLECTION OF SOME OF THE MEN WHOSE PORTRAITS ARE LOOKING DOWN FROM THE WALLS OF ACADIA UNIVERSITY.

In halls of Acadia, encircled by prayer, Where gospel and science are cherished with care, Look down from the walls the fathers of yore:—

The sages the past and the present adore; Whose names shall be fragrant in ages unborn; In view of their triumphs s'er envy and score:

In view of their zeal, and their heart aching care, While giving Acadia their labors and prayer.

The first is a pleader of eloquent speech, Majestic in mien, who a nation could teach; In meekness a child, and in goodness a saint; In planning and pleading he never grew faint.

He fought for the right, and the battle he won; That gave to Acadia the right to be born; The glory of monarchs shall all fade away, But Johnston shall live when their names are grey.

The next is the Chipman who heard from above, The mandate to build as a tribute of love; The youngest and greatest in labor and zeal, Whose vision for building gave place to the real.

With faith in the Master, like Peter of old, The College he built without silver or gold;— The mansion will perish that honors his name, But ages will tell of his triumph and fame.

Then Manning the mighty, the seer of Canaan, 'Mong preachers a light, and a bright shining star; Unlettered in schools, but peerless in speech, The doctors he taught how to pray and to preach;

The school on the Hill for religion and art, He ardently loved and it lived in his heart; He toiled for its glory when burdened with years, And gave to his pleading the logic of tears.

With age furrowed brow, leonine and quaint, The learned, unlearned, the preacher and saint, The Patriarch Harding, the faithful old man, Who gave to the College a name to be proud;

And said to its patrons, go sound the air abroad; The school on the Hill is the offspring of God; Look down as he whispers with joy in his ear, "This Child of Jehovah was born in the year."

The Veteran in years with his heart all aflame, Inspired by duty and not for a name; When trembling Acadia was brought to a stand;

Then melted his heart and he opened his hand; Wise counsel he tendered, and his money he gave, The college to rescue, its honor to save; Yet living in Wolfville, preserved of the Lord, His name and his honors, I need not record.

Most honored of thousands, majestic and grand, Cramp looks from his throne on the plain; As author and teacher, and preacher and saint, Abounding in labor, he never grew faint; He gave to Acadia the weight of his name, And brought to her honor much glory and fame;

A prince among scholars, yet gentle and mild, The humble he met with the grace of a child, A teacher unrivalled in learning profound, Presides o'er the Hill and the regions around; Has given Acadia the best of his days, And thousands now living are singing his praise.

The weather has been decidedly of this week—real Christmas weather.

We noticed one of our bicyclists out for a spin several times this week. The steers are hard, and fairly smooth, so that a "bike" slips along very well.

It is finely printed, and is written in a clear, smooth style. It has already a good advertising patronage, and will no doubt prove a boon to Westville, and we hope a profitable investment for the publisher.

Mr. J. E. Duncanson, of this town, met with a mishap on Tuesday evening last. He was driving down Maple avenue, and when at a short distance from the residence of Mr. W. H. Evans, his horse became frightened at the electric light on his corner, and falling collided with a team driven by Mr. O. S. Eagles, of Gaspereau, who was coming in the opposite direction, smashing a wheel of the latter's carriage. Mr. Duncanson was thrown out and received quite a shaking up, his horse being badly bruised about the legs. The carriage was also considerably demoralized.

For Christmas—we have Furs in great variety; Rides-down Quills and Pillows, at all prices; Sateens and other like materials used for general fancy work; Handkerchiefs in linen, lawn, silk, etc., in great profusion; Side-board cloths, Gait's Tea and Coffee, Ladies' Austrian Gloves and Mitts, and many other useful and pretty things, and at prices as low as the lowest at

EDD B. NEWCOMBE'S,
Kentville, Dec. 25.

Mr. C. H. Borden, of this town, has in his store two of the most handsomely dressed windows that we have ever seen. They are really works of art. In the east window a magnificently varnished Santa Claus, with his feet on a "green money bank," presides over an artistically arranged assortment of boots and shoes, fancy slippers, gloves, etc., and he never fails to catch the eye of the passer-by. At his left is a handsome Christmas tree, laden with various articles suitable for Christmas presents. Passing along to the next window, you see a dazzling display of shirts, collars, ties and cuffs, tastefully arranged in the form of a ball with a wheel on top. A colored electric light in the window gives additional brilliancy to the effect. Mr. H. B. Gillmore, Mr. Borden's popular assistant, was the artist, and much credit is due him for the skill and taste with which the work has been done.

What's the matter with a pair of Slates $3.00, $4.00 or $5.00 Shoes for a Christmas present. C. H. Borden.

The Christmas Tree held in the Methodist vestry on Wednesday evening was a complete success. There were a good number present. The tree looked very pretty, and its load of presents found a ready sale. Quite a creditable amount was realized.

While coming into Port Williams station on Thursday of last week, the east-bound freight train from Kentville encountered a rail which had tipped over. This threw the engine and tender off the track, which crashing into the station platform, tore up about twenty-five feet of it. A wrecking train was sent from Kentville, and arrived about an hour and a half after the accident. About five o'clock the work of clearing away the debris had been completed, and the freight was able to proceed on her journey.

The Star of Bethlehem. This old sobbing world of ours is one year older than it was when the last Christmas carol was chanted.

Christmas and Sentiment. In an era like the present, when the commercial spirit prevails and people are devoted to material interests almost to the exclusion of everything else, they are very liable to relegate sentiment into the background.

Injury and Neglect. He Failed in Health and Strength—His Kidneys Ached and He Took Dodd's Kidney Pills.

New Tea Cloths. One of the prettiest novelties of the season is the new embroidered network which is being used for tea cloths, bureau covers, and many other fancy articles.

Carving the Christmas Goose. One must learn, first of all, to carve neatly, without scattering crumbs or splashing gravy over the cloth or platter; also to cut straight, uniform slices.

THE WHITE RIBBON. "For God and Home and Native Land." Conducted by the Ladies of the W. C. T. U.

Oh, those criminal-makers, those pauper-makers, whose every footfall on our streets would mean pain, anguish, sorrow, crime, poverty; we will keep you out of our city with all your accursed business just as long as we can!

YOUNG AGAIN. Do You Wish to Avoid the Infirmities of Old Age? Pain's Celery Compound An Invigorator and Life-Giver for the Old.

Novel Sofa Cushions. Large silk handkerchiefs make pretty sofa pillows, when worked with a variety of stitches.

Pleased With Her First Experience. A wife and mother living in St. John, N. B., says: "I shall ever pleasantly remember my first experience with Diamond Dyes."

A Pointed Suggestion. A doctor, known for his odd way of putting things, inquired one day of the farmer who supplied him with milk.

Where do the defaulters come from? They come from the idea that men can overtake their accounts and not be stealing. It is stealing for a man to take the money of others and speculate with it, with the intention of paying it back.
