THE BIBLE IN THE NEW YORK SCHOOLS. That Romanists have the Bible and endeavor to hinder its circulation by all the means in their power, we have always believed.

FRANCE EDWARD LORD.

LORD STANLEY, in reply to Mr. Chichester Fortescue, said it was not his intention to introduce a bill during the present session giving the imperial guarantee to a loan to be raised by the Government of Prussia...

The Roman Catholic Church, if consistent, must, we believe, deny their people the privilege of reading the Bible. That it should be read only under the guidance and interpretation of the authorized interpreter and teacher, is in itself a denial of the Bible's authority.

This encroachment of a corrupt and despotic power, and this attempt to bring the control of public education, must be met by Protestants with firm determination.

This neglect lies at the very root of our danger, of all that should fill us with alarm. The Roman Church well understands this. She well understands that she can gain the ascendancy only by the refusal of the radical principle of the Reformation—the right to read the Bible.

The resolution of the School Commissioners given above, not only embodies the spirit of the decree of the Council of Trent. The motive and reason at the bottom of it—heretofore a mere pretext—has been the consciousness that free reading of the Bible is fatal to the interests of the State.

We trust our readers will take the warning this incident is so well calculated to convey.

THE SPIRIT OF THE POPISH PRESS.

We propose in our present issue to give our readers some correct idea of the Popish press.

1. We maintain it to be essentially unchristian. It is a spirit of hate and enmity, and its object is to excite the passions of the people, and to bring about a general insurrection against the Government.

2. The Popish press is a tool of the Pope, and its object is to bring about a general insurrection against the Government, and to bring about a general insurrection against the Government.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PROTECTOR.

Sir,—In the last issue of the Examiner, there is notice taken of a meeting held at Georgetown by the Government party, the proceedings of which I wish to observe through your columns.

I feel somewhat reluctant to notice anything that may emanate from a paper conducted by an individual of such doubtful character as Mr. Whelan; but being a public speaker, and reports having been made in the article referred to, I cannot but be obliged to you to give me an opportunity of saying what I have to say on the subject.

Well, the Meeting was a political one, and it is not strange to me that it should be so. I have attended such a meeting before, and I have seen what has been explained by the editor of the Examiner, as I will show presently.

I wish, as an admirer of Mr. Hamilton, to bear public testimony to his noble and bold defence of the Bible, and its cause in the House of Assembly. I know that this is a delicate ground, for people here are not accustomed to see Protestant ministers come out on any political question, however important; but I may as well remind the public that such proceedings are nothing new in the mother country, from whence we profess to take our inspiration on a great many important points.

But, Sir, although the Meeting was a political one, I need not inform you that there was a great religious question lying at the bottom of the proceedings, as you will see by the following extract from the Examiner:—"Mr. Whelan lets out the secret by mentioning the Bible, although I most carefully abstained at the meeting, during the remarks which I made, from introducing religion, or the mention of that blessed Book here referred to."

This, then, was the main spring of the whole matter. I hope my brethren will see that the present moment calls for such bold and decided measures,—that I was justified in proposing Mr. Hamilton. However, as it is a matter of opinion, I will not take it upon me to say more on this point.

It is there stated, that my position was sustained by a "zeal without understanding;"—"that, of course, I should be judged by impartial witnesses; I leave that to them."

Mr. Whelan says, "that not only did I, but Mr. McDonald, Mr. Hamilton, and Mr. McDonald, as a proper person to represent Georgetown in the next Assembly, and that he is a member of the House of Representatives."

1. The loss of that self-esteem which every one possesses, in a less or greater degree;

MAY 26.

As to the first, it cannot be by which to exclude you; that Academy, if he has it, is now wrongfully interpreted the Bible for a task, for the sake of the Central Academy, for the sake of the Bible, a task, for the sake of the Bible, a task, for the sake of the Bible...

The second objection, however, because it is an antipathy to the Bible can be entered with the training army to say more about that as it seems not to concern them.

Let not electors be diverted about the Legislature, the lot, &c.—these may, or may not, be what you should be content,—yes, at your peril,—to desire for the sake of the Bible, a task, for the sake of the Bible, a task, for the sake of the Bible...

As to the first, it cannot be denied that the Bible is a test by which to exclude your child, fellow Protestant, from that Academy, if he is in its hands. Yes, as the law is now wrongfully interpreted and enforced, the use of the Bible is a test, for the exclusion of Protestant children from the Central Academy; and no Bible—no reading of the Bible, a test for their admission. In no other way are the Holy Scriptures a test. Protestants do not consider King James's version a test, because they use it daily, and, wonderful to tell, are none the worse of it. If Roman Catholics consider that version a "test," they can use the Douay (or the Weymouth) B. Version in the House of Assembly last Session; and if they have no desire for that, they are at perfect liberty to use neither. How then a "test"? And if a test, with what grace could the majority of the last House of Assembly test that, under the present system, it is used in all the Common Schools?

The second objection, he confessed, is not so easily answered, because it is rather hard to understand how antipathy to the Bible can be a qualification in any man entrusted with the training of the young. It is unnecessary to say more about that gentleman's "resignation," as it seems not to concern the public as much as it does himself.

Let not electors be diverted from the question by noise about Elective Legislative Councils, Votes by Ballot, &c.—these may, or may not be good enough in their places. What you should bear well in mind, fellow Protestants,—ye, at your peril—and so to you and your unfortunate children, if you are forgetful of it,—is this: In that Academy, for the support of which you are taxed, neither you, nor your child, nor any of your religion, dare read your Bible, because it is pronounced a "test." Indeed, the first link in our religious shroud is already riveted on our supine limbs. Talk of "tests," indeed,—it is a mere insult to common sense. Popery "always the same," as remarked by no less than Macaulay, strikes its lead hand in hand with selfishness, lust of place, power, and (what is more inducing) pay. "Lay the Bible under a bush!" says popery to lust of place, power and pay, and the offices, with the emoluments, shall be ours unitedly. "—and done it is. And all before you and my eyes, fellow Protestants! and we are to be diverted with twaddle about tests, and stigmatized as "bigots" and the Bible is to be taken from the Academy by popish influences, helped by Protestant men. Yes, (with a blush he confessed) popery has been aided in all these things by Protestant fathers. Shame! shame! May God not visit the sins of these fathers on their children.

Yours, &c., M. C. D.

Death of the Rev. Murdoch Sutherland, and Mr. John McDonald, Student, of the Free Church.

The Free Church of Nova Scotia and P. E. Island have lost within the last month two talented and devoted young men. The one, the Rev. M. Sutherland, late of Pictou, died in Roxburgh, Scotland, on the 21st inst. Mr. McDonald, a student of the Free Church in Halifax, died at Pictou, on the 14th of the same month. As these men have laboured for some time in this city, and were much esteemed by those acquainted with them, they desire to express some notice of their lives. Mr. Sutherland was native of the North of Scotland, and came out to Nova Scotia in the summer of 1849 to labour as a Catechist, having completed his classical and philosophical studies in Edinburgh. After several months of devoted labour he began his theological studies in Halifax, in the session of 1849—50. Loss of health by excessive labour, the following summer, caused him to go back to Scotland, in the month of August, 1850. He returned in 1852. After ordination, he accepted a call from the congregation in the town of Pictou, where he laboured with indefatigable perseverance for upwards of four years, until last summer, when he was compelled by disease to resign his charge, and return the second time to his native land, where his duty now reposes awaiting a glorious resurrection. He spent two months of the summer of 1854 in this city, endeavouring to establish a Free Church congregation. His sermons and visits, on that occasion, created a very favourable impression, and will not soon be forgotten. In public centers he took an active part, and especially the instruction of the youth in the Sabbath-school, and his labours were attended with success. He was a man of a noble and generous spirit, and his labours were not without their fruit. He was a man of a noble and generous spirit, and his labours were not without their fruit. HOFMANN'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Prepared by Dr. C. M. JACKSON, No. 418 Arch St., Phil., Pa. READ WHAT IS SAID OF THEM.

Scott, Cortland Co., N. Y., March 21st, 1857.

Dr. C. M. JACKSON. Dear Sir:—In behalf of the afflicted, I pen a few lines to you. I have suffered and doctored myself, and know how to pity those in a like condition. Until I commenced taking your Bitters last summer, I was not able to do anything, or even to sit up any considerable length of time. Before I had taken the first bottle I felt like a new man, and now, after having continued the use of them a short time, in the worst season of the year, I am able to labour hard every day. To say the least, I think I have received more benefit from the Bitters, than all other medicines I have taken. I have not used your Bitters myself, but have given bottles and parts of bottles to those complaining of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and in every case, they tell me they have taken no medicine so beneficial as the Bitters.

Respectfully yours, JAMES VON BENSCHOTER.

They are sold by druggists and storekeepers, in every town and village in the United States, Canada, West Indies and South America, at 75 cents per bottle.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Provided with these remedies, a person of the most delicate physique may brave any climate. They comprehended within their article of their curative influence all internal diseases not organic, and all the varieties of outward inflammation. Be careful not to be imposed upon by a spurious article palmed upon you for genuine. The latter are known by a Water-mark in every leaf of the book of directions accompanying each pot and box. THE RAILWAYS OF GREAT BRITAIN.—These railways have cost £318,000,000, nearly one-half of the national debt. This enormous sum has been expended in the construction of railways, which have required not less than 70 miles of tunnel, 25,000 bridges, and the removal of a quantity of earth, which, according to the estimate of Mr. Robert Stephenson, would make a mountain half a mile in diameter at its base, and a mile and a half in height. Over the roads thus formed, railway trains run a distance of not less than 80,000,000 of miles per annum, or more than 3000 times the circumference of the globe; and every second of time there are 21 miles of railway covered with trains in motion. The engines required to work this amount of railway would extend, in a continuous line, from London to Chatham; and all the carriages, if placed in one monster train, would extend from London to Aberdeen, a distance of 500 miles.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF COMMISSIONER YEH.

The Monteur de la Flotte publishes the following report of an examination of Commissioner Yeh, on board the Inflexible, by an English officer, before the Mandarin in question sailed from Hong Kong for Calcutta. It is interesting. In answer to questions, the ex-Viceroy said—I was born in the village of Kaoh-Tih, in the province of Ho-Nan. My father was a basket-maker, and spent his income by trading in rice. We were fourteen children. At an early age I acquired a taste for reading, and whenever I had any money I expended it in the purchase of books. After a few years I was considered as a man of learning among the boys of my age, and when the Inspector-General of Public Instruction, who visited our province every five years, came, I asked to be allowed to undergo an examination. My request was granted; I came into the schools with an elaborate commentary on the Ta Ho, the great book of science of Confucius, and after three days' successive examinations I was appointed a "literate" of the third class, and attached as tutor to the College of Khai-Fang, the chief town in the province. The Mandarin governor of Ho-Nan's attention was directed to me, and he chose me as Secretary. Two years later he was summoned to the capital, and took me with him. During my sojourn at Peking I acquired the degree of literate of the second and of the first class. My patron died, but I had been noticed by the head of the Nayko, in whose hands rested also the direction of the Emperor's "Cabinet," and attained the office of Vice-President of the King-Pu, or Tribunal of Punishments. I was so small distinction in the discharge of the duties of this office, as in two missions which I was subsequently entrusted with, I had the honour of being noticed by the sublime sovereign who rules over us. Finally, in 1847, I was associated with the very worthy and much-regretted Houang-Nyang-Toung, who was invested with the government of Canton. The country was in a prey to a terrible insurrection, which it was necessary to suppress. The insurgents burnt towns and villages, and slaughtered the inhabitants by thousands. It was necessary to stop them. The Viceroy, Sin, with whom we were, gave a quarter to the rebels, and was thus enabled to keep the insurrection within due bounds. He died in 1853, and I succeeded to him. I followed his example, and the rebellion gradually gave way.

The crucifix which he practised having been alluded to, he said—Here me. One of the rebel chiefs was in the habit of having all the prisoners he took from us slain between two planks. I informed him that I would use reprisals—his put to death in the same way—but he had previously had not less than six thousand men, many of them officers, slain between two planks.

English Officer.—How many prisoners do you think you have executed? Yeh.—About sixty thousand; but the rebels have slain more than three hundred thousand.

English Officer.—You had many people put to death who had nothing to do with the insurrection? Yeh.—Why, fancy. The province of Canton is a kind of refuge for all thieves and murderers in the empire who escape from justice. I saw that crimes were frequent, and, therefore, ordered frequent executions; but the people thus put to death were always thieves and murderers, who almost invariably confessed their crimes.

English Officer.—You don't seem to have been popular in the city. Yeh.—I never discovered that I was unpopular. I know the people feared me, and kept quiet. The public peace in the city, however, was disturbed, trade prospered, and people grew rich. The Emperor, my immortal master, to reward me, had conferred upon me the title Wan-tzu, the highest of all, and had authorized me to take the surname of Ming-Chin.

English Officer.—You had a temple built at your own expense, and have several dwellings erected for the poor families. My services are chiefly in the upper classes. They wish for my dowfall in order to take my place.

The Monteur de la Flotte adds, that the arrival of the Inflexible in Singapore Roads, with Yeh on board, had caused a certain sensation among the Chinese population. The inflexible having struck on her arrival, a rumour was got up that it was intended to drown the Viceroy, but it fell naturally when the tide floated off the ship.

The following is an extract of a private letter in Saunders' dated Canton River, February 26:—"In catching Yeh we have not caught a Tartar; he is of pure Chinese blood, and rose to his high position by great mental capacity. He first attracted the notice of the Emperor by an historical book he wrote, and since that period his rise became rapid. He took the highest Chinese degree when twenty-nine years old, and may now be called the second wrangler in the empire. He is very courteous and regular in his tastes and habits; highly virtuous and polite in his manners; does not drink at a general rule; never smokes opium; never appears to evince the slightest concern about his fate; is a Buddhist; prays regularly twice a day with his head eastward; sleeps a good deal; smokes a good deal; talks little; appears much esteemed by his attendants and the higher class of Chinese; of course he is obstinate as a pig, and hates us cordially. His food is chiefly rice, ducks, pork, salted eggs, and some other curious Chinese delicacies—of course he won't eat beef. His drink is chiefly hot weak tea. He has never tasted water in his life, and swears a drink of it would kill him. I have twice had long chats with him, through the interpreter of course, and am much pleased at the chance of studying Chinese eccentricities. So far as hot tea serves cold water goes, the Chinese are highly sensible. The water here is very bad, and in, I believe, one great cause of sickness among foreigners."

SUCKING UP WATER FROM SAND. Livingstone, the African traveller, describes an ingenious method by which the Africans obtain water in the desert: "The women tie a bunch of grass to one end of a reed about two feet long, and insert it in a hole dug as deep as the arm will reach, then ram down the wet sand firmly around it. Applying the mouth to the free end of the reed, they form a vacuum in the grass beneath, in which the water collects, and in a short time rises to the mouth. It will be perceived that the simple, but truly philosophical and effectual method, might have been applied in many cases, in different countries, where water was greatly needed, to the saving of life. It seems wonderful that it should have been first known to the world, and that it should have been habitually practised in Africa, probably for centuries. It seems worthy of being particularly noticed, that it may no longer be neglected from ignorance. It may be highly important to travellers on our Western deserts and prairies, in some parts of which water is known to exist below the surface.

THE EXCAVATIONS AT BADRUM.

Papers respecting the excavations at Badrum (fifty pages in length) have been presented to the English Parliament and printed. They contain reports of some most interesting archaeological discoveries (with plans) by Mr. Newton, the Vice-Consul at Badrum, especially in the Mausoleum of that place. Among other things a colossal statue was discovered (from the waist to the ankle) being a male figure attired in a chiton reaching to the knees; one leg is crossed over the other. The drapery is very "subtle," and of the surface excellent. A large equestrian figure wearing the trousers (anagrides) peculiar to the Amazon and Oriental in ancient art was also found, but in a very fragmentary state.

Notwithstanding its mutilation, however, this figure is one of surpassing beauty; it is the most remarkable specimen of colossal Greek sculpture ever seen, and in masterly execution it rivals the pedimental sculpture of the Parthenon, while inferior in design. A colossal lion and various fragments were also discovered by Mr. Newton. The estimation and trenching of the field of Chisoux also led to various interesting discoveries, too numerous to specify. The order of the Mausoleum is the Ionic, and the style and ornaments strikingly resemble those of the temple at Priene, built at the same period, if not by the same architect. The list of objects of various shape in Her Majesty's ship Gorgon, last year, includes two hundred and ten articles, mosaic stones, medallions, fragments of animals, and human figures, marbles, relievo, friezes, cornices, &c. This Parliamentary paper, in short, is most interesting report on the antiquities of Badrum.

THE BURNING MOUNTAIN.

As is generally known, there is a vein of coal located above water level in the Broad Mountain, about seven miles from this borough, and near Heckler's, which for twenty-one years has been on fire. The vein, which contains excellent white ash coal, is some forty feet in thickness. The origin of the fire is attributed to a couple of miners, who having some work to perform in the drift in the depth of winter, built a fire—being cold—in the gateway, the flames destroying the prop timbers, were carried by a strong current rapidly along the passage, and the first communicating to the coal, all subsequent efforts to extinguish it were ineffectual. The men were cut off from escape, and were undoubtedly suffocated to death. Their remains were never found. A few days since we ascended the mountain at the spot of the fire, and were much interested in examining the effect of the fire upon the surface.

The course of it is from west to east, and where the vein is exposed the surface, the ground is for several hundred feet sunken into deep pits, while the stones exhibit evidence of having been exposed to the action of intense heat, every vestige of vegetation has been blasted. It is a desert tract in the midst of smiling fertility. The ground in some places was almost too warm for the hand to rest upon, while steam from water heated by the internal fire, rose from every pore. The fire has evidently extended for several hundred yards from the place it originated, and finds vent and air to continue its progress, at the pits to which we have alluded. A score of years has passed—still it burns, and will burn till further fire is denied the devouring element. Thousands of tons of coal have undoubtedly been consumed, and thousands of tons may yet feed the fire before it is checked.—Miners' Journal, Pa.

GREAT P. E. I. REMEDIES!

W. M. WATSON WOULD DIRECT PUBLIC attention to the annexed original Preparations, which he guarantees to be all that he claims for them, viz the best Medicines of the kind ever offered to the public, and the most certain of the highest authority, might readily be addressed as to the efficacy of each, but the universal celebrity they have attained throughout the Island, where they are manufactured, and consequently best known, renders it unnecessary.
