The electric light is quietly effecting a revolution in this as well as in many other respects.

It has been predicted that a thousand years hence the business of the world will be conducted in one or other of three current languages-to wit, English, Spanish and Russian. All the others, they say, will die away like the Tuscan and the Cornish. Already Russian is the official tongue from the Baltic sea to the Oxus and it is most interesting to note that the negotiations concerning the Corea that have lately been conducted between China and Japan have been so entirely in English.

thing, which even British visitors envy, saying it looks more like an English June than July. Extreme heat has been rare, and most of the weather has not only been followed a possibility of clearing away the evil effects. Most assuredly all that we women can spare from "outward adornment" ought now to go to that Isind, to help the poor starving families of the rebel half-breeds, for are they not our country-women, and to assist in the support of missionaries. Men are needed such as the Rev. A. Jamieson, just in the support of missionaries. Men are needed such as the Rev. A. Jamieson, just will permit us such a paradoxical proposition, we believe that even in their case it is because they do not know how to dress.

If we may be allowed another paradox we would say cotton and linen for winter but wool exclusively for summer. All the flauncle in the world will not keep to the complaints are not for the people on the desolate shores of Hudson's bay.

Do women think another that the volt door less the respontance of the people of the very not our country-women, and to assist in the support of missionaries. Men are the better in health and beauty. It removes the blood taint of scrotula, that terrible disease so common in this country work among the Indians of Walpole island, and the bishop of Moosones, who has been a lifelong exile from home and all the people on the desolate shores of Hudson's bay.

Do women think another responsation to go to fine Court house, Adelaide the people on the desolate shores of Hudson's bay.

Do women think another paradox where the visit and the visit and the people on the desolate shores of Hudson's bay. we would say cotton and linen for winter but wool exclusively for summer. All the flannels in the world will not keep out the winter blast without the aid of the close texture of cotton, but in right direction? We, poor, weak pleasure-summer the close texture of cotton is simply intolerable to any one who knows the luxury of doing without it. For women's dress we are glad to believe the starchy, creasy cotton is decomed to give way to the light woollen drapery which made the Greek women of old every one appear a statue. Imagine a statue modelled on a cotton dress! The very idea is enough to make any one bid farewell to starch. A mistake of a precisely opposite nature is, we learn from a physician, common among our working classes, that of wearing very thick and often double woollen underclothing all summer. This is, we are assured, worn incessantly, night and day, and there is a very prevalent superstition connected with the usage, namely, that a man who removes for the night the sweaty garments in which he has soaked all day sacrifices some of his strength in so doing. This abominable, dirty notion, we are told, is so prevalent that it is found even among comparatively educated men. We are told that one of the hardest things to do with patients of the ignorant class coming into hospitals is, to force them to forego the supposed safety of a woollen night shirt and to sacrifice the precious life which they conceive to be stored up in their mucky flannels. The bare idea of sleeping in July in a thick flannel, even if clean, is so preposterous to any one who is not in the habit that it is hard to conceive how such wretchedness could be endured. The nearer one can decently ceme in midsummer to the Adamic condition the better for him, so long as proper precaution is at hand against chills. These are certainly not avoided by habitual warm dressing.

dashing stroke of policy to another, so that the breath lost at one shall not be regained before the other appears. Already there are indications that the lord of Hatfield will find his hardest task in keeping his own following in line.

The Preper Time to Brive.

Our citizens who have horses and carriages are beginning to know that in the city during summer the most delightful hour for driving is from seven to nine in the evening. The heat has abated, what with the protracted day and the electric light the way is clear, and the houses and light the way is clear, and the houses and light the way is clear, and the houses and light the way is clear, and the houses and light the way is clear, and the houses and light the way is clear, and the houses and light the way is clear, and the houses and light the way is clear, and the houses and light the way is clear, and the houses and light the way is clear, and the houses and light the way is clear, and wall as the dashed with the lord of Hatfield in the personel of the commission and the appointment of one of the inferior court judges, in the person of Judge Sinclair of Hamilton, public opinion has become greatly demoralized as to the inquiry. It is a universal remark that Canada has not seen so beautiful a summer as the present within the memory even of old observers. "Plantagenet,

FLOUR!

She was a tall, slight woman, scarcely more than a girl in years, with shining brown-hair, large dark eyes, and cheeke that had been as pink as sea-shells in the flays of her happy maiden-life. They were white and wasted now—a circumstance that might perhaps be easily accounted for by the little babe on her lap and the two-year-old elf who was tottering about the room in aimless pursuit of kittens, sunbeams and other baby delights.

"Things are all at sixes and sevens," went on Mr. Smith, tying his cravat before the mirror, and viciously twitching it into a knot. "Coal wasted, butter thrown into the soap grease jar, dish-piteously pleaded Mrs. Smith. "I feel almost worn out, and I think the change would do me good."

"And what is to become of me?" sonorously demanded the husband.

Mrs. John Smith thought of the day's masonic excursion last week, the trout fishing expedition into the Catskills a fortnight since, the races at Jerome park, and the drives to High Bridge with Parker, Betts and Frisbee, in an open barouche, all within the month. But she said nothing except:

barouche, all within the month. But she said nothing except:

"if don't cost much to go, John. And I'll only stay away a week. Do let me go! The doctor says the fresh air might help baby along with his feeth, and little Johnnie is drooping this hot weather."

"Well," said Mr. Smith, as ungraciously as possible, "I suppose you'll have to go. Five dollars at least it will cost me, and altogether our expenses are ruinous this year. See how Georgiana Trotter manages for her husband. I don't suppose it costs them half to live that it does us. might have married Georgiana Trotter once. I almost wish I had."

It was on Mrs. Smith's lips to utter:

without her dinner contentedly, eating a crust of bread in the stead, but her heart yearned hungsily for the omitted caress, the ignered word of tenderness. Poor Mrs. John Smith! How the strong-minded of her sex would have pitied and her sex would have pitied and minded of her sex would have pixed and despised her.

No light! no fire! It was dreary enough, on that chill August evening, as Mr. Smith screwed his night-key into the latch and groped his way in the hall. He sat down in the bay-window and stared about the vacant room. There was his wife's workbasket on the table, her little rocking chair standing vacant beside it, while Johnny's forgotten rattle lay on the foor close by.

"It's deuced lonely!" muttered Mr.
Smith, with semething of a shiver. "I hope Jenny won't stay long."

And as he lighted his cigar and whiffed away, a guilty sense of his own short-comings came upon him.

"It must have been rather a stupid life for here, poor little thing!" thought

"It must have been rather a stupid life for her here, poor little thing!" thought he. "I might have come home early to keep her company a great many times, when I didn't. She had to sew a great deal for the children. I wish I had bought her a sewing machine when she saked for one Allison used to bring upfruit and flowers for his wife every evening. I wonder I never thought of it for Jenny. And, now I come to reflect upon the matter, Jenny has grown thin and pale of late."

He moved his chair uneasily, and

and pale of late."

He moved his chair uneasily, and emitted a thread of blue, spicy smoke from his lips very much as if he were not enjoying it particularly.

"I suppose they are at Biberry farm by this time," said he to himself. "I suppose the younkers are in bed and Jenny is sitting out on the piazza, listening to the whippo-wills. I've almost a mind to go out there to morrow evening, and take some peaches and bansansas and things. It would be a pleasant surprise for Jenny, and—hallo! what's that! A ring at the bell?"

Flinging his cigar into the unused grate,

bell?'
Flinging his cigar into the unused grate,
John Smith shuffled along to the door in his slippers.

"O—a telegram! Now, I wonder who should telegraph to me!"

"Well," said the shivering and raindrenched messenger, "p'raps you'd better open it and see. Anyway, I've no call to have ground here no longer!" hang round here no longer!"

And off he went, while Mr. Smith carried his buff envelope back to the parlor light and somewhat nervously tore

To John Smith: Reliroad accident. Your wife is killed and your child dangerously hurt. Come by flext train.

JAKED MEREDITH, M. D.

Again and again Mr. Smith's bewildered Again and again Mr. Smith's bewildered eyes roved over the contents of this appalling missive before he could fully comprehend its deadly meaning.

"Dead! killed!" he muttered to himself. "My Jenny killed by a railroad accident?"

And then, catching a railway guide from the book-shelf, he whirled over its leaves with a trembling hand. The next train did not leave the terminus under an hour and a half. An hour and a half! To him the same seemed almost like eternity. How could he endure this awful agony of soul for an hour and a halo?

"Perhaps they are incorrect," he mut-

Boul for an hour and a halo?

"Perhaps they are incorrect," he muttered to himself, wiping the beeads of cold aweat from his brow. "People can't always judge exactly in such a moment of dismay. Perhaps she is only badly hurt, and I can nurse her through it after all. My Jenny! my loving, patient, sweeteyed wife!" A strong sob rose up in his throat as if it would strangle him. "No, no, she is killeds" he gasped, as his eye 'ell once more on the telegram. "Dead! and I never can speak to her again or tell over The World at breakfast or on the way down town in the cars.

BY HARRY COOPER.

SM HARRY COOPER.

Mow this was not by any means an assertion sui generis. In fact, according to his own statement, John Smith was "astonished" at his wife at least once a day on an average. Mrs, Smith was used to it.

Me What a cruel, exacting brute I have been! God knews I didn't mean it, and new it is too late to make any amends. Why didn't the children go toof How can I bring them up without Jenny!"

His head drooped low in his quivering hands; a low, spasmodic groan burst from his pale lips. An hour and a half before he could go to Jenny; half an hour, then, before he could look upon her dead face; for Cowdrey was an insignificant way-station some eight or nine miles up the road.

before the mirror, and viciously twitching it into a knot. "Coal wasted, butter thrown into the soap grease jar, dishtowels taken for stove-cloths and my third best pants sold to a dealer in tin-ware for a funnel and two pie-platters. A funnel, Mrs. Smith, and two pie-platters? I never heard of anything so outrageous in my life."

"But, my dear," meekly interposed the much- enduring wife, "we needed the tin ware, and you had not worn the garments for a year. They were full of moths."

"There it is again," said Mr. Smithtoware, and you had taken proper precautions. I never heard of a moth in my mother's time. And now you are actually asking permission to visit your brother up the Hudson."

"I have not been away from home before since we were married, John," it seems by placed Mrs. Smith. "I feel allowed the into a knot. "Coal wasted, butter accident!" said Jenny, her voice faltering, acident!" said Jenny, her voice

And from that hour John Smith was a

And from that hour John Smith was a changed man. To Jenny it seemed almost like millenium; but Mrs. Georgiana Trotter turned up her nose and said:

"John Smith must be in his dotage, spending all his time and money in carriages to the park, extra help and fine clothes for that pale-faced wife of his. John Smith always was a fool!"

Notwithstanding the great number who yearly succumb to this terrible and fatal disease, which is daily winding its fatal doils around thousands who are unconscious of its deadly presence, Dr. Plerce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will cleanse and purify the blood of scrofulous impurities, and cure tubercular consumption (which is only scrofulous disease of the lungs). —During the summer and fall people are liable to sudden attacks of bowel complaints, and with no prompt remedy or medical aid at fand, life may be in danger. Those whose experience has given them wisdom, always keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry at hand for prompt relief, and a physician is seldom required.

Orion Catlin, 49 Pearl street, Buffalo, N.Y., says: "I tried various remedies for the piles, but found no relief until I used Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil, which entirely cured me after a few applications." Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, unprincipled persons are imitating it. Get the genuine.

I tried a bottle of it after suffering for some ten years, and the results are certainly beyond my expectations, It assists digestion wonderfully. I digest my food with no apparent effort, and am now entirely free from that sensation, which sensation, which svery dyspeptic well knows, of unpleasant fulness after each meal."

-Mrs. George Simpson, Toronto, says:

"I have suffered severely with corns, and was unable to get relief from treatment of any kind until I was recommended to try Hollowsy's Corn Cure. After applying it for a few days I was enabled to remove the corn, root and branch—no pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it. I can heartily recommend it to all suffering from corns."

Rules of the Competition.

1. The words as printed above must be used as they stand: "Co." is intended to go for but TWO letters, and may not be expanded into "Company."

2. No letter may be used in one word more frequently than it occurs in the phrase Li-Guer Tea Ce." O and E, for instance, may be employed twice, but L only once.

3. Proper names are excluded, but any word found in Webster's Dictionary (not a proper name) will be allowed, the actual words of the phrase excepted.

4. Words must be neatly written in columns and numbered thus—

1 Acc 2 Ache 5 Other 3 Lie - Total. 6

The total must invariably be set down.

5. Envelopes containing lists (which should reach the office of the Li-Quor Tea Co., 235 Yonge street, not later than noon Sept. 1st), should be endorsed "Li-Quor Tea Co. Prize Competition," and directly beneath must be written the number of words on the enclosed list. The list itself must bear at the top the name and full address of the sender. An accompanying letter is unnecessary. The names and addresses of the successful competitors will be published in the Evening Telegram on Thursday, Sept. 3rd.

6. To every list must be pinned six half-pound vouchers for our tea, for which the usual bonuses may be selected.

Failure to comply with one of the three first rules will result only in the cancellation of words gained by offending against them, but we cannot promise attention to lists not made out and sent in in accordance with rules 4, 5 and 6. The total must invariably be set down.

When the Londoners learned that the match between the Primroses and the Torontos had been postponed until after the reception to the troops they were only too glad to remain in the Ambitious city to-day and play the Prims, because they fancied that the whipping they would give the club with the flowery name would more than eclipse their disastrous defeat by the Clippers yesterday. Their calculations in this respect were far-fetched, and as they drove away from Dundurn after the game their appearance was anything but pleasing.

impossible for him to throw to second.

The game was very /closely contested throughout, and would have been a most interesting one to spectators had they turned out in any great numbers. The match was too quickly arranged to be properly advertised, and besides, a good many expected it would be a repetition of the old story and preferred to save their quarters for Saturday's match between the Clippers and the Torentos. Their eyes were opened wide with astonishment when they saw that the Prims had succeeded in scoring a victory, and that, too, in a quarter where it was least expected.

Dundas Summer Meeting. DUNDAS, July 22.—The midsumme meeting at the Dundas driving park may safely be pronounced a success. The number of entries (forty-six) has exceeded the expectations of the prometers of the port. The weather to-day was favorable and the attendance good.

The first race called was the named trot, for which five horses put in an appearance. Hamlet struck into the lead, closely followed by Dolly Baker, the others strung out in the rear. The race was a sort of procession. The Benton mare was flagged and Dagmar barely saved his distance. In the next heat the relative positions of the leading horses were the same as the first, and Dagmar was flagged. The third heat ended with Hamlet leading by a head, Viola second and Dolly Baker third.

Time—2.52, 2.48, 2.63.
For the open run four horses faced the starter: Edmonton, Gen. Spike, Williams and Lucy Lightfoot. Only two heats were run, these being sufficient to decide the event. Williams had matters pretty much his own way for first place. He made beautiful running, and had no difficulty in winning. Lucy did some capital work and won second place.

ary piece of ruling was given to Grey Frank, who really came in third, while Dafoe, who had won first place by capital trotting, was set back to seventh place. Of course it will be necessary to have several more heats to decide the race.

John Teemer, whom his friends delight to call the boy-sculler, has, a despatch informs us, claimed the championship of America, in default of Hanlan covering his stake of $1250 to row the five matches his stake of $1250 to row the five matches recently agreed upon. Hanlan has undoubtedly been remiss. He first of all challenges Teemer to the races, then travels to Buffalo and estentational signs an agreement which, within less than a 'week, he finds a reason for breaking, and subsequently goes in for what irreverent people call hippodroming or circus business and others exhibiting. It cannot be denied that the ex champion carsman figures somewhat discreditably in the premises. But that does not strengthen the claim of foot has no conceivable right to the field, the Clipper manager claiming the field, the Clipper manager claiming agreed upon. Hanlan has the horse, won about $1000 with him at Goshen, and in three months after his special attention to his advertisement in the deal of the preston Brothers of Albany for $3000.

The Cincinnati Sporting and Dramatic Journal probably knows as much about baseball as the London Free Press, London Advertiser, Toronto Globe, Toronto World, and Hamilton Times put together. The call hippodroming or circus business and others exhibiting. It cannot be denied that the ex champion carsman figures from President McKnight of the associ from President McKnight his several defeats by Jake Gaudaur formerly of Atherley, Ont., make hi pretensions appear rather ridioulous and presumptive. It is true that in their match on Creve Cœur lake last October Teemer gave Gaudaur five seconds start, but the latter gave the former after the dead heat of the first day more than a five seconds' beating. Teemer made the claim that his boat was damaged and it certainly did have much water in it, but isn't it possible that the alleged damage was purposely done and was the subterfuge of a beaten man? However that may be, the fact remains that at the regatta on the Schuylkill Monday last Gaudaur beat Teemer in what is reported as the fastest time on record. It is said the course was short, but that only affects the course was short, but that only affects the time and not the fact that the man who wishes to be known as the heir-presump tive to Hanlan's laurels was besten on his own waters. After a defeat under such circumstances Teemer must at least meet and conquer Jake Gaudaur before he can this respect were far-fetched, and as they drove away from Dundurn after the game their appearance was anything but pleasing. To be beaten so badly by the Clippers was disgrace enough, but then to allow the unlucky Prims to vanquish them was too unlucky Prims to vanquish them was too forcible for their massive frames to carry.

As in yesterday's game, so to-day the great weakness lay in the pitcher's box. The phenomenon Seward did the work, Knight taking centre field. Two men quietly took their bases on balls in the first innings. This enraged "the Kid," but he only threw his balls wider, and Captain Dunn, in order to check the evil in the bud, put himself in the pitcher's box, and sent Seward to second base.

Dunn managed to get his balls in over the plate. This wasn't a very difficult performance, seeing that he delivered straight to the plate without the slightest curve. This just suited the Prims, and as the balls were thrown very swift, even the weakest batters made long hits. This thing was kept up until the first half of the ninth innings, when Seward and Dunn changed to their original positions.

Fred Wood caught for the Prims. His work behind the bat was not near up to his usual standard; during the game he had five passed balls, and it was almest impossible for him to throw to second.

The game was very /closely contested throughout, and would have been a most the fore heigh men the first work being when severed the long woods of Boston and the Eastern association was commenced here to-day. The Montrealers went the tose and went to bat, retiring with 49 runs. Longwood then went in and made 202. The match will be fore heigh paint on the first half of the plate without the slightest contred to the plate with race, b ruriongs — Osceola won, Elk-wood 2d, Linda 3d; time 1.18. Third race, 1 mile and 500 yards — Farewell won, April Fool 2d; time 2.184. Fourth race, 2 mile—Whizgig won, Col. Clark 2d, Charley Marks 3d; time 1.16. Fifth race, 1 mile and 1 furlong—Compensation won, Bell Patti 2d, Goldban 3d; time 1.584.

Eastern association was commenced here to-day. The Montrealers won the toss and went to bat, retiring with 49 runs. Longwood then went in and made 202 before being put out. The match will be continued to-morrow. The Longwoods out-played the home team altogether.

OTTAWA, July 22.—A cricket match was played to-day on the Rideau hall grounds etween the Peterboro' and Ottawa elevens Ottawa won the toss and sent their opponents to the bat. The Ottawa team obtained a victory, their score being 110 for five wickets, while Peterboro's first innings only produced 81. W. H. Steele for Ottawa made 46:

General Notes. An amateur athletic association is being formed at Belleville. The craze is spreading. Belleville has a paseball club with fifty members.

Arrangements have been made for a scull ace for professionals at Geneva on August It will surprise nobody to hear that it is openly charged that Teemer sold out Monday's race, which was won by Jake Gaudaur.

Efforts are now being made to arrange a five-mile race with turn between Hanlan and Teemer, to take place at Oak Point, N. Y., some time during August, for a purse of $2500.

It's asserted among sporting men at Pittsburg that the course over which Jake Gaudaur made his fast time on Tuesday is 430 feet short. It's probable the course will be again surveyed Dr. Dwight, president of the United States Tennis association, now in England, is covering himself with glory, having already won three big tournaments. His latest achievement was winning the north of England championship.

There have been great yearling sales in England lately, the most prominent having been that of the Blankney stud, at which the famous Hermit is the head. Six colts and four fillies by that horse were sold for an average of 1646 guineas. Among them were a sister of Queen Adelaide, for 3900 guineas; a sister to Shotover, the Derby winner of 1833, for 3050 guineas. During the week the trainer, Robert Peck, invested 14,630 guineas in eleven yearlings.

Papa's Baby Bey. -He was the darlingest blue-eyed/4ar-old you ever saw. He was his papa's only pride, and his mamma's dearest darling. But oh, how mischievous he was. Up to his very chin (and a chubby one it was, too) in real, right down cast-iron mischief. But you had to love him. You couldn't help it. He had a sister, too, a charming little blonde of sweet sixteen, and didn't she just dote on ice cream! She had patronized every store in town, but found none as good and pure as that obtained none so good and pure as that obtained from the Oaklands Jersey dairy, 131 Yonge street. The decorations which adorn Jamieson' palace clothing house at Yonge and Queen streets arrest the attention of every passer-by. The building is liberally fes-tooned with bunting, and the corners and pillars are intertwined with evergreens, Over the main entrance is mottoe "Welcome hame tae your ain fireside. But by far the most striking feature of the decorations is the large painting which fills the north window. It represents Gen. Middleton and the commanding officers of Toronto's different corps, all mounted, with the Grenadiers and Queen's Own in the rear. Across the top runs the inscription, "Canada forever and Jamieson the clothier." The display is much admired; as a spectator remarked, "You can bet Jamieson never gets left."
