Halifax, July 13—Strong pleas for federal government aid in the campaign against tuberculosis and the unanimous expression of opinion that the well-being of the children was the most important phase of the anti-tuberculosis warfare, were the features of today's sessions of the fourteenth annual convention of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, which opened this morning at the Technical College.

LOCAL CONDITIONS

Siri—The fact that so much thieving and plundering prevails in this city and province has given rise to many thoughts as to the actual cause of and many suggestions as to a remedy for the evil. As the old proverb says: "You cannot get blood from a stone," even so you cannot expect good results from a system that is sadly lacking in the finest points of brotherhood and sociability.

Rid Your Feet of Sore Corns

Quite easy now to extract any kind of a corn—just apply Putnam's Corn Extractor—it works wonders, stops the pain quickly, the thick tissue is softened, and healing goes right to the heart of the corn. In a few hours the hard corn is loosened and separated from the toe. Out comes the corn. Toe is left smooth—not a mark left. Use only Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, recommended by druggists and sold in 25c bottles.

An Unfailing Way to Banish Hairs

(Beauty Notes.) Ugly hairy growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 9 minutes, then removed, and the skin washed and every trace of hair will be vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real delatone.

Coroner's Jury Names Braman In O'Leary Case

At Inquest Held Last Night Laxity of Court Sentences Given as a Cause of Crime Wave—Witness Tells of Policeman O'Leary's Struggle With The Prisoner After Fatal Shot Was Fired

"We, the jury, empaneled upon the inquest to inquire into the death of Frank O'Leary, find that the said Frank O'Leary came to his death as the result of loss of blood and peritonitis, caused originally by a bullet penetrating his body, which was discharged from a revolver in the hand of John Braman on Monday, July 6, 1914, at about 11 o'clock, a. m., he having survived until 11 o'clock on Monday, July 13, at which time he died, being at the General Public Hospital, St. John (N. B.)

"We, your jury, at this inquest feel very strongly that the outcome of this tragedy and the crimes that have been committed of late are due to a large extent to the laxity of the sentences given in our courts."

This was the verdict which was returned about midnight last night after eight witnesses had given evidence, before Coroner Roberts, in the inquest into the death of Frank E. O'Leary, special police officer, and the jury, consisting of the following had been retired only about fifteen minutes: A. M. Rowan (foreman), S. W. MacLachlan, E. Quinn, Wilson Hatfield, John Bond, Bayard Silwell and George W. Currie. Many of the witnesses in the evidence and intense interest was shown, a great many staying until after midnight when the verdict was brought in.

The court opened at 8.10 o'clock. Thomas Gillespie was the first witness, he being a resident at 120 St. Patrick street, rear, in the same house as that in which the Braman family resides. His story of the case was as follows: "I had been home that day ill, and was lying in bed when 11 o'clock came. I heard a scuffle in the toilet. I heard no words—nothing except the tussle. Soon I heard a sharp report, but that time I did not imagine it was a revolver. The scuffle continued and I came into the room of the toilet which enters from my home. I heard another sharp report, which I felt sure was the report of a revolver. I opened the closet door and saw O'Leary, whom I only knew by sight, and Braman in a scuffle. I went in and helped me take this man." He had Braman by the neck. His head was down near the floor but not altogether on it. I rushed in and took hold of Braman's right arm and stretched it out on the floor. Then I said to the officer: "He is a hothead for I saw the revolver in the right hand. The officer answered: 'Yes, he has shot me. We both had hold of the prisoner at that time.'"

Put Handcuffs On. "We got him down on the floor while the officer took the revolver from him. I saw him blow on the ground, and I stood O'Leary up on the floor. 'Pass me the handcuffs,' he said, pointing to where they were hanging. I passed them to him and between us we managed to put them on the prisoner's wrists. O'Leary was very obstinate, and I had to use force to get them on. 'There's some money in my vest pocket. You may as well take that,' Braman called out to me. I took the money away from him. 'The officer appeared to be very nervous and weak and could hardly speak for want of breath. We took the prisoner out of the alley to St. Patrick street. O'Leary held his head between his hands and clasped about the handcuffs. The officer collapsed and fell to his knees. He still clung to the prisoner, however, until he was taken away. When others had arrived, O'Leary appeared to be growing weaker. He fell to the sidewalk and stretched out on his back. Persons whom I didn't know caught hold of the prisoner and held him. O'Leary called out a revolver and pointing it at Braman who was a few feet away, he said: 'If he gets away from you I will shoot.' I knew he would shoot Braman. 'Somebody helped to put him in the ambulance and I leaped to put him in. After this Jenkins came and took charge of the prisoner. He took him back to the house. I heard Jenkins say to him: 'Where did you get the goods?' The prisoner didn't speak. I never heard him speak at all after that and Jenkins took him away."

Dr. W. W. White told of taking the case after O'Leary had been brought to the hospital. In conclusion he might say that the bullet had been ascertained by X-ray photographs, with the assistance of Dr. Frank Hogan and Dr. C. C. Malcolm. The witness operated on O'Leary to stop the internal hemorrhages, which they succeeded in doing. On account of the serious condition of the patient, no effort was made to locate the bullet. Witness said that today's sessions of the juryman Bayard Silwell asked the witness if the operation, together with the bullet wound, would cause peritonitis, or whether the bullet wound in itself would cause the complication.

Germis With Bullet. Dr. White—"Peritonitis is caused by convergence into the abdominal cavity of germs, so-called. A bullet, not having been sterilized, would very likely indeed carry germs and so cause peritonitis. In the operation wound, on the other hand, the instruments used and everything employed on it, are sterilized. The skin is disinfected too and every possible precaution is taken to prevent the entrance of germs. In spite of this, however, it occasionally happens that germs still enter. It would be impossible to state absolutely that no germs would possibly enter through an operation, while on the other hand they would almost certainly enter through a bullet wound."

"The bullet wound is quite sufficient to infect the abdominal cavity without looking to an operation to hasten it. I believe in this case that the bullet wound caused peritonitis. In addition, this man was bleeding to death and if an operation had not been made to check the hemorrhage he would have been dead long before sunset on Monday night."

Dr. D. C. Malcolm told of O'Leary being brought to the hospital and told that one of the orderlies, George Stewart, handed witness a revolver which he said O'Leary gave him. Witness broke the revolver and found that two of the five shells had been exploded. He took a watch and a sum of money from the prisoner's clothes and placed them in the safe. He told of the treatment of the patient in the hospital and of his deposition taken the first day that the patient was in the hospital.

Sergeant Aaron Hastings was the next witness. He told of accompanying the prisoner, Braman, together with Magistrate Ritchie, and Police Clerk Henderson to the hospital, where O'Leary's

RUSSIA HAS AN APOSTLE OF PITY

Plan For Betterment of The Hungry Peasants

SUCCESSOR OF TOLSTOY

Korolenko is Editor and Author—Practically the Creator of the Provincial Press in the Czar's Realm

(Times Special Correspondence.) St. Petersburg, June 29—Vladimir Korolenko, has a scheme for settling hungry peasants on waste but reclaimable land. Korolenko is Russia's greatest literary artist, her most influential editor, her keenest social reformer, her most widely traveled pilgrim, the closest in touch with the customs and the spirit of her scattered races. Above all he is her "Apostle of Pity," the man who first taught the indifferent, culture-proud "intelligentsia" what a fund of virtues and genius lies latent in the peasant. Hence Tolstoy's death Russia looks to Korolenko as her spiritual guide reports on which is based the present of Russian progress depended upon the growth of healthy and honest local newspapers. He preached that it was the duty of the successful newspaper men in the great cities to write for and help the poor newspapers in remote provinces. Now that he is Russia's greatest editor Korolenko practices what he preached. His articles and social sermons shortly after O'Leary had been taken to hospital and took charge of the prisoner. He said the prisoner asked him to go to a closet and get a shirt which he had stashed away in J. G. Carleton's store, but witness refused.

Bayard Silwell asked the witness how much territory was included in the beat on which the shooting occurred. He replied that it included from the Golden Hall corner to the Marsh Bridges, Waterloo, Brussels, St. Patrick, St. David, Alton, and all the intersecting streets to County Road. He added that No. 11 beat was also very large and included practically all of King's ward.

DEPOSITION. The deposition of conducting a post mortem and also attributed death to peritonitis.

Harry Mason told of seeing O'Leary lying on his back on the sidewalk and supporting the wounded man's head on his knees. He later telephoned for the ambulance and to central station. Mason's son, Frank, was the last witness. He told of holding the prisoner until Jenkins arrived and said that Braman had told why he shot O'Leary, saying also that "if the rest of the gang had been around, there would have been others shot." The jury retired at 11.45 and returned a verdict shortly after midnight.

RUSSIA'S "Apostle of Pity." Vladimir Korolenko, novelist, journalist and social reformer, to whom since the death of Tolstoy, the poor and persecuted of the Czar's realm look for help.

Korolenko is the successor to Tolstoy in a second sense. He is the one Russian apart from Tolstoy and a few sectarian mystics and prophets, of whom the simple people have ever made a cult. To the simple home in Poltava where Korolenko passes the summer, come hundreds of ragged and footsore peasants to ask for intercession and redress. The peasant pioneers which family intending to emigrate to Siberia sends in advance, crowd to Korolenko's door for counsel, in the sure knowledge that the great man who himself, as a Siberian, struggled carpentered, soled shoes, and painted knots for a living, will give them sound advice. And Korolenko shelters them in his house in the way of Samuel Johnson, and sends them forth with his blessing.

Korolenko's first story was published in the journal, "Slovo." It was "Episodes from the Life of a Searcher," the history of a young man—Korolenko himself—who wanted to serve the people. Korolenko became famous with his story "Makar's Dream," in which he first appears as the "Apostle of Pity."

Korolenko's close knowledge of peasant conditions makes him an authority on the question of organizing aid during famine, and of curing the "land hunger" which is the cause of famine. He went as organizer to the great famine of 1892, and managed brilliantly the relief centres. At present he is conducting a scheme for settling landless peasants from the overcrowded Black Earth district of South Russia on new lands which will be reclaimed in the provinces of Saratof and Samara.

This is a hard task, but Korolenko knows what he is about. He proposes to transplant some of the Tolstoyan peasants and has got the assistance of Count Ilya Tolstoy, the second son of Leo Tolstoy. Also working in the plan are several progressive Duma members, of whom A. P. Sidoroff is the chief. In August, Korolenko, Sidoroff, and other persons interested in the peasant problem went on a tour of the famine-stricken lands, carrying their belongings on their backs, through the congested territory. They will draw up a report on the real conditions of peasant life, which will be a foil to the bureaucratic statistical

HEARD OVER THE PHONE
"Hallo! is that Grondines? I just called up to say how pleased I am with that piece of work you did for me; why, it looks better than it did when new." These are the kind of testimonials we receive at Grondines, 24 Waterloo street. Rest.

Bodily rest can only be got by having the muscles completely relaxed. The ordinary sitting position in a chair is not sufficient as the lower extremities are still more or less rigid, says Dr. Musgrove in "Nervous Breakdowns." The chair should be an easy one, with an extension or a footstool to support the lower limbs just a trifle below the level of the body. A better rest can be had, however, by lying full length on a couch or bed with the arms and legs sprawling in the manner adopted by the tramp when taking a sleep by the wayside. This attitude assures ease, if not elegance. And it does more than relax the limbs, for it gives repose to the heart as well. When the body is in this position the heart beats more slowly than when we are standing, walking or even sitting.

THE CIRCUS

At both performances yesterday large crowds gathered in the big show tents of the Mighty Haag Circus on the Maritime grounds and thoroughly enjoyed the snappy, pleasing programme. Some clever acts travel with the show, and many of the feats or daring in the air, of skill upon horse-back, or ability in other directions were amongst the best shown in St. John in recent years. The acrobatic work is worthy of special mention.

The performance at a circus is much the same no matter whether it be a big show or a small one. Yesterday's circus might be described somewhere between these two extremes, but the programme was conducted in much the same manner, but with special precision and promptness.

The ground was hard to work after the recent heavy rain and the soft mud made it difficult for the best in the riding feats to be brought out, but very capable equestrian acts were displayed. The double performance of Hollis and Greer won more than passing praise. In the aerial features on the programme the Marshall Sisters showed themselves most skillful on the slender ropes and trapeze, while the Munich family of three men and a woman, gave a daring and remarkably sensational series of human-swinging exhibitions. G. J. Johnson in a slack wire act won deserved applause. Some rare juggling feats were shown. One of the best elephant acts seen in St. John with any circus was that of three big animals under the direction of Trainer Gonales.

These are but a few of the outstanding features in the main tent, but it would never do to forget the fun-makers with the show, the clowns who make the mirth about the rings, and those of the Haag staff are no way backward in this respect. They were comically varied, even including one with a wooden leg, who was laughable, indeed, and who did a really admirable slack wire act. Another one of them with fiery red hair won generous applause in a horizontal bar act. They were all funny, every one.

As is the case with every circus several sideshows travel with the Haag people, and these were also visited by quite large crowds. The weather all day was delightful and fine and added to the enjoyment which always accompanies a visit by old or young to the circus, particularly when it was such a bright, clean and altogether pleasing circus as the Haag shows.

A Stove You Can Always Depend On

GURNEY OXFORD

The Gurney-Oxford has a nation-wide reputation for reliability. It's a thoroughly well made stove. During its long life it never fails to do its work. It can be depended to cook each meal with little trouble and no worry. The Gurney-Oxford Economy (with which every Gurney-Oxford is equipped), enables you to keep the fire in perfect control always. The grates are designed for perfect combustion. The divided fires convey the heat from the fire to all sides and corners of the oven. The owner of a Gurney-Oxford does not know what it means to take a roast or a batch of biscuits from the oven with uncertainty. We want to demonstrate the features of the Gurney-Oxford that have gained for it first honors in everything that makes a stove valuable.

PINDER A SCAPEGOAT?

While the Standard has not yet favored its readers with a clear expression of its views regarding the revelations made in the Southampton Railway inquiry, the Frederick Gleason has been quite outspoken.

"That Mr. Brown's estimate was deliberately 'padded' at Mr. Pinder's request in order to make sure of qualifying the road for the double subsidy, was admitted by the former, and the statement that the road actually cost anything like the figures he 'said it did,' $305,000, may also be accepted as an absolute fabrication, intentionally designed to deceive."

For three days now the Gleason has been vigorously assailing Mr. Pinder. It makes no reference to those politicians who were associated with Mr. Pinder, and is evidently determined to make him the scapegoat.

Mr. Pinder as chairman of the public accounts committee in the legislature was quite satisfactory to the Gleason, and who, if we rightly remember, made or seconded the nomination of Mr. H. F. McLeod when the latter was nominated for a seat in the federal parliament.

The Standard Mail makes some observations which are worthy of note in connection with this affair of the Southampton Railway. It points out that it was generally known in the fall of 1913 that Mr. O. S. Crockett, M. P. for York, would go to the bench, and a by-election would be necessary.

THE HIGH SCHOOL

It is to be regretted that the members of the High School Alumnae should appear to set themselves in opposition to the work of the Community Council.

whom the Community Council make their appeal? And if the Community Council should hold its meetings in churches why should not the Alumnae Society pursue the same course? As a matter of fact those who suggest the use of churches know very well that it would be quite impossible to get people of all religious denominations to congregate in one church, and failure to bring them together would utterly defeat the very purpose for which the Community Council stands.

There is perhaps a simple way out of this difficulty. Let all the members of the Alumnae Society and the members of the Community Council join the Community Council, and find out what that organization's aims are and how it proposes to carry them out.

There will be a "ruction" in New York when Boss Croker comes back to our Boss Murphy from the leadership of Tammany Hall.

Tomorrow the inquiry into the Dugal charges will be resumed and everybody is wondering whether the much-glamorized witnesses who are across the border will return.

Now that the Royal Commission has given its verdict on the Emperors of Ireland disaster the C. P. R. will take action against the owners of the Storstad, and the captain of the Storstad says his company will take action against the C. P. R. and have the matter reviewed before the British Admiralty.

The coroner's jury has expressed the opinion that the murder of Policeman Frank O'Leary and other crimes committed in this city are to a large extent due to the laxity of the sentences given in the courts.

The Standard may go on declaring the Times to be a liar, a deliberate liar, and a self-convicted liar, until the snow flies; but that will not convey to the public the views of the Standard concerning the Southampton Railway inquiry, the inquiry into the Dugal charges and the authorship of the Forclosures Bill.

There has been a good deal of criticism of a sermon by a St. John clergyman in which the Catholic people of Ireland seemed to have been represented as "hewers of wood and drawers of water."

A London cable says that while Sir Edward Carson and other leaders "are using unrestrained language, both Ulstermen and Nationalists are showing admirable self-control."

ALMOST FAINTED IN THE STREET

In Daily Fear Of Death - Until "Fruit-a-tives" Brought Relief

Chatham, Ont., April 26, 1913. "Some two years ago I was a great sufferer from indigestion. One day my eye caught a billboard of 'Fruit-a-tives' and I said to myself, 'if Fruit-a-tives will build me up like that, it is good enough for me.' I bought some. After taking these wonderful tablets for only three weeks, I found myself wonderfully improved. In a short time longer, I cured myself entirely. My case was no light one, either, Gas would often form in my stomach and I was in daily fear that it would erode around my heart and kill me. 'Fruit-a-tives' is the only remedy for indigestion."

LIGHTER VEIN.

Too Noisy. Wullie Dalsiel, an old shepherd, had retired at last from active service, after spending the whole of his life in a little cottage away at the back of the hills, a full three miles, as the crow flies, from the nearest road.

Too Much Praline. In order to induce a certain devil-may-care young man to emigrate, his friends promised him plenty of testimonials, and got up a farewell dinner for him. They sang his praises in unstrained terms, spoke of his geniality, of his good address and exceptional capability, and all the other desirable virtues.

A Secret.

A man who had purchased a fine-toncing horse soon discovered that the animal was blind, and after several weeks he succeeded in disposing of her, as the effect did not seem to lessen her speed or detract from her general appearance.

"Say, you know that man you sold me," he began. "She's stone blind."

"I know it," replied her past owner, with an easy air.

"You didn't say anything to me about it," said the purchaser, his face red with anger.

"Well, you see," replied the other, "that fellow who sold her to me didn't tell me one thing, and I just concluded that he didn't want it known."

GUN PLAY BY EASTPORT SHERIFF DID NOT SCARE RESOURCEFUL CAPTAIN

Rather an Exciting Time in Attempted Capture of Motor Boat Load of Liquors

A motor boat loaded with a large assortment of liquor, taken on board at Campbellville. His request was granted and a line fastened to the boat. It was immediately cut by the now enraged deputy sheriff.

The resourceful captain at once procured a chain which he fastened to the land of Johnny Bull, at the same time informing the sheriff that it was getting near his bed time and unless he wanted to stay out all night, he better get into his small boat and return to Eastport. This the sheriff decided was a wise course and the motor boat with its liquid freight, continued its peaceful journey across to Welshpool, where it

By a Stomach Specialist. As a specialist who has spent many years on the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is acid in the stomach, usually due to, or aggravated by, food fermentation. Acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise over 80 per cent of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teacup-fuls of bisulphated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisulphated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. G.

Europe Amazed by Story That It Was Napoleon's Double Who Died at Saint Helena

Bonaparte Himself Said to Have Been Shot by a Sentry in Austria While Secretly Scaling a Wall to See His Son

Private in Great Leader's Army, Image of His Commander, Now Said to Have Sacrificed His Life on Bleak Rock in Atlantic Because of Devotion to Master While Latter Posed as Shopkeeper in Italy

NAPOLEON'S PREDICTION.

The prediction of the exile at St. Helena nearly a hundred years ago: War will become an anachronism. There are two systems—the past and the future; the present is only a painful transition, the battlefield of the old and the young. Which will win? The future, of course. Well then, the future is intelligence, industry, peace; the past, brutal force, privilege and ignorance. In the future victories will be accomplished without cannons and without bayonets.

DOES NAPOLEON OR HIS DOUBLE REST HERE?

The massive sarcophagus in Paris, where the remains of the man who died at St. Helena have reposed since 1840. Below is a reproduction of a portrait of the dejected emperor, his ambitions blasted, awaiting transportation to that lonely isle. This portrait is now said to be that of his double.

(Times Special Correspondence)

Paris, France, June 30.—The capitals of Europe are interested in an astounding story being told among the diplomats that the great Napoleon did not die at St. Helena!

Every student of Napoleon is ready to declare on oath that the emperor died on May 5, 1821, in his narrow chamber at Longwood, St. Helena. A storm, and on its wings, muttering "France—Army—Head of the Army—Josephine" the most dazzling genius of the modern world passed out of life. To this history posterity has adhered.

But, according to this amazing story he was the victim of a snafu while attempting secretly to scale a wall at Schoenbrunn, in Austria, in the hope of seeing his son and it was his double who died on that lonely island in the Southern Atlantic—the emperor's devoted double who gave up his life in exile that his master might live.

Here is the way the story runs: This double, his very image, had more than once been employed by the emperor to pose for him in one situation or another; sometimes to test the truth of some new story of plot against the great man's life—plots more numerous than history in the main is aware of. To the imperial police the double was known both by sight and by name, though they were not always in the secret of his comings and goings.

The day comes when, after Waterloo—and the drums of the Old Guard had rolled the dirge of the last march of the last army of Napoleon—the fallen emperor, the cup finally at his lips, must sail, an exile, to the rock in the Atlantic. But he does not sail; it is the devoted double who gives himself in charge to Captain Maitland of the Belvedere; the double who settles down with Bertrand, Montblanc, Las Cases, to the appalling dreariness of St. Helena.

And Napoleon? What becomes of him? Napoleon more or less transformed in style and appearance, withdraws secretly to Florence. In Florence he purchases the shop and little business of an optician, and forthwith enters on the most extraordinary phase of the most extraordinary career in Europe. He gains the esteem of his neighbors.

The disguise of the Man of Destiny must have lacked something for they perceived in him a notable likeness to Napoleon, and familiarly greeted him as Napoleon, and familiarly greeted him as Napoleon, and familiarly greeted him as Napoleon.

Then, one day, on a sudden, Signor "Napoleone," optician, disappeared. The little shop was closed and shuttered; the little man so curiously resembling the victor of Austerlitz, the victim of Waterloo, no longer stood behind his counter or gossiped in his doorway. Florence in brief beheld him no more.

To the new King of France, however, Signor "Napoleone," before departure had addressed a letter, the contents of which filtered somehow from the throne and to buy the silence of those persons who had become aware of this massive sum of money. Almost in the same year a small and rather corpulent individual fifty years of age or thereabouts was fired at and killed by a soldier of the Emperor of Austria while attempting to scale a wall of the park at Schoenbrunn.

For nineteen years, history tells, the body of Napoleon lay buried at Longwood, St. Helena, his prison. The great emperor was the victim of cancer of the stomach with several other ills.

When the Duke of Wellington, conqueror of Napoleon, assumed his seat in the House of Lords after the downfall of the French, he prevented England from interfering with that nation and exacting revenge for the operations of the exiled ruler. Louis XVI was given the throne and in the revolution that followed in some years Louis Philippe won control. Under him friendly relations with the English were re-established.

It was then suggested that the English restore the body of Napoleon to France. So in 1840, nineteen years after his death, with much naval pomp, the bones of Napoleon were transferred from one nation to the other and now lie in the gigantic mausoleum in Paris.

Does France thus honor Napoleon's Double?

It was at Schoenbrunn, it will be remembered by readers that Napoleon's son and hope, the gentle young Duke of Reichstadt, languished—neglected by his careless mother, Marie Louise—in the most wretched of gilded captivity. Napoleon, always pining for sight and sound of the boy, had stolen to Schoenbrunn to see him.

Not unnaturally, the affair of the sentry's bullet made some stir at the French embassy. Not unnaturally, the embassy decided to say nothing whatever on the subject. There is yet a little to relate. The civic registers of the village in Lorraine where the emperor's double was born carry the following legend—"Died at St. Helena," and the date is precisely that of the death of Napoleon.

Let it be added that an English lady of the aristocratic world, received in the imperial days, she had been presented at the Tuileries, protested formally that she failed to recognize him in the prisoner of Sir Hudson Lor.

THE YOUTH OF NAPOLEON

(By Himself)

Heaven know what privations! Do you know how I managed? It was by never setting foot inside a cafe or appearing in the social world; it was by eating dry bread and brushing my clothes myself so that they would remain the longer looking presentable. In order not to be conspicuous among my comrades, I lived like a bear, always alone in my little room with my books.

When my only friends, and those books! By what strict economy, practiced on actual necessities, did I purchase the enjoyment of possessing them! When, by dint of abstinence, I amassed the sum of twelve livres, I turned my steps with the joy of a child toward the shop of a bookseller who lived near the bishop's palace. I often went to visit his shelves with the sin of envy within me; I coveted long the purple covers of the books. Such were the joys and disquisitions of my youth.

PINDER INQUIRY IS COMPLETED

Charge Proven By The Defendant Himself

NOT ENTITLED TO SUBSIDY

Bank Manager's Testimony Opposes That of Railway Promoter — Com. Pringle Compliments F. B. Carvell, M. P. — One More Session in August

Frederick, July 13.—A story of graft so bare-faced and so poorly concealed as to be almost incredible was brought to a conclusion this afternoon when the inquiry into the affairs of the Southampton Railway was adjourned. The outstanding fact of the whole miserable affair is that a double subsidy was claimed and paid on a railway the cost of which cannot be brought within thousands of dollars of the limit required, even by placing the most generous interpretation upon the claims of those who benefited by the transaction.

David J. Brown, the engineer in charge of the construction work, has already admitted his share in the preparation of the padded estimates. Today J. K. Pringle, M. P., the chief owner of the road, also admitted, as reluctantly as a defendant, that he was a party to the transaction. As he was the man who profited most substantially by the receipt of the double subsidy his admission hardly came as a surprise.

The fact that Mr. Pinder received public funds to establish the railway has been established by his own evidence. The supposition that he received from the federal and provincial governments thousands of dollars over and above the amount expended in the construction of the road is yet to be established by the official announcement of the commissioner's findings. But Mr. Pringle's announcement that he is prepared to accept the reports of his board of engineers in preference to the evidence produced by the defence does not leave much room for doubt as to what his finding will be.

Each witness called only served to make the case worse for the defence. This morning the own witness, J. J. Taylor, C. E., helped to establish the figures submitted by the independent engineers and in several cases he was not prepared to make a generous allowance as they had given.

The evidence of the local manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia was even more disastrous to the defence. Mr. Pinder had sworn that the public aid received was $20,000 less than the amount the railway cost him. The bank manager swore that the funds advanced by the bank were fully met by the subsidies and guaranteed bonds, which went into the railway and he could not say that even this amount had been expended for railway purposes.

Mr. Pinder's method of taking the cash from the bank in large amounts and making his payments in cash made this impossible. Mr. Pinder's evidence in the afternoon. He admitted that when he started he had no money and that his credit was limited to $1,000. The commissioner pointed out that the statement submitted by Mr. Pinder's counsel would not say to whom this amount had been used for the purpose.

The effect of this statement was somewhat lessened by the commissioner's lack of interest in Mr. Pinder's offer to give him the information privately and also by the statement of counsel for Mr. Pinder that the excess included not only cash expended but allowances for the services of Mr. Pinder and his son and also allowances for the amounts they might reasonably have spent.

In a statement, characteristic of Mr. Pringle both in the clear exposition of the leading features of the case and in its fairness and impartiality, Mr. Pringle indicated where the blame lies and also took occasion to compliment in highest terms F. B. Carvell, M. P., for his public-spirited action in bringing the matter to the attention of parliament.

One of the most prominent features of the inquiry has been the exceedingly able manner in which it has been conducted by Mr. Pringle. Although giving the fullest latitude to counsel for both sides in the presentation of evidence he managed to keep the proceedings within proper limits and throughout the inquiry to a close in a much shorter period of time than might have been expected. It was due to his practical methods that much of the evidence was secured, and it was his ability in cross-examination that brought from the lips of unwilling witnesses much of the most vital information that was placed upon the records.

When the inquiry adjourned this evening it was with the understanding that another session should be held either in St. John or Fredericton, probably some time in August for the purpose of receiving additional evidence in the form of a statement from the C. P. R. showing the actual cost of materials supplied to the Southampton road.

Before the court adjourned Mr. Teed addressed the commissioner respectfully urging that, on his finding, he should report not only the sum he considered as a reasonable cost for the road, but also what sum he found Mr. Pinder actually expended on the work, whether wisely or not, arguing that would be within the scope of his authority under the royal commission.

The proceedings were brought to a close by Commissioner Pringle with an address in which he said: "In closing this inquiry I wish to express my gratitude to the expert engineers who have been of such great assistance in enabling me to arrive at an estimate of the value of the road.

Not Entitled to Double Subsidy.
"It is evident, even according to Mr. Pinder, that the Southampton railway was not entitled to the double subsidy. That is not anticipating my finding, as I am not yet ready to make a final statement.

"The accounts presented by counsel for Mr. Pinder will receive the fullest consideration and Mr. Pinder will be treated fairly.

Entitled to Credit.
"This is a most unfortunate case and the gentlemen who directed the attention of parliament to it are deserving of every commendation.

"If Mr. Pinder has suffered from harsh comment owing to this affair he himself is entirely to blame. It was he who conceived this railway, who planned and carried out its construction, who appointed the subsidies and who received the most generous treatment from both federal and provincial governments.

"It is unfortunate in many respects. Here is Mr. Johnson, a man who has been in the department forty odd years, a man with a good record, and fully conversant with the details of the case. He is not to be blamed for anything. He is going to get better! Then we sold him what we had given him. He said, 'keep right on, he is doing well.' I often think, as I look at my boy, growing to be a man, what great thanks I owe to Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

should have recommended an audit of the books but he did not do it. He satisfied the chief engineer of the department that the cost was above the requirements for a double subsidy and that an audit was not required. Mr. Bowden, the chief engineer, was put in a false position and certified that it was all right.

"The real facts came as a revelation to the minister of railways and canals and the government could not do other than appoint some one to hold an inquiry. I am sorry that some one more fully versed in railway matters than myself was not appointed but, as I have had this duty placed upon me, I will do my best to fulfill it. I will say to Mr. Teed that I will give his request every consideration and will decide later about the matter.

"If it were not for the want of the C. P. R. figures I would have been able to have disposed of the whole matter very shortly after receiving the transcript of the evidence.

"Before closing I wish to thank the counsel on both sides for the help that they have so courteously given me and also the newspaper men for their fair and accurate reports.

"The court now stands adjourned to resume when the C. P. R. statements are available."

Fairville League.
In the Fairville League the Royals easily defeated the Cubs last evening, 14-5. The batteries were: For the Royals, O'Keefe and O'Toole; for the Cubs, Ferris and Murphy. In the fifth inning Ferris left the field saying he had insufficient support from his team mates. Mullin took his place in the box. Soon after, Reed, playing centre, retired because of a decision given by the umpire. His position was taken by Downing, and the game continued.

The circus attracted several of the best players from the line-up and last night's performance is not likely to be repeated.

For the first four innings the Cubs had the better of the argument, playing good tight ball and holding down the Royals in a surprising manner, but in the fifth costly errors allowed their opponents an easy chance to gallop in and from that on the game was tame.

Tonight the Royals will clash with the Athletics.

The baseball league is endeavoring to secure the services of a band for Thursday evening's game. Closing nights should be taken advantage of in the best manner and it may be that the Community Council could lend a hand occasionally.

A Sweeping Challenge.
Here is a chance for any of the junior baseball teams of the city to measure their strength and winning ability. The Young Cubs, whose home grounds are in the vicinity of the foot of Orange street, asked the Times to say that they would challenge any junior team in the city to a game of baseball any place and at any time. The first man up against the local boxer was Jack Goss, reputed light-weight champion of Derbyshire, England, who weighed in at 150 pounds, while Gallet tipped the scales at 132. Five rounds of aggressive boxing on the part of Gallet put Goss out of business, a right overhand to the jaw followed by a left uppercut being too much for the Englishman.

REAL ESTATE BRISKER IN SASKATOON, SAYS REPORT

Saskatoon, Sask., July 14.—Quite a lot of good inside property has recently changed hands at full prices, and the whole tone of the market is better, although little or no speculative buying is reported. Fifty feet on the east side of third avenue, between 20th and 21st streets have just been bought by R. R. Morgan, Saskatoon, at $900 a foot. The recent splendid weather has wrought a considerable improvement on most lines. Stores are well filled with busy buyers, and merchants report conditions as quite satisfactory.

DENTISTS NOW WITH US
Begin Two Day Provincial Session Here
WELCOMED BY MAYOR
Names of Some Who Are Here For The Meetings—Tomorrow Afternoon Set Apart For Social Event

The medicals had a busy time last week in convention in the city; this week it is the turn of the dentists. The members of the New Brunswick Dental Society assembled this morning at their twenty-fifth annual convention in the rooms of the R. K. Y. C. in Germain street, with Dr. A. R. Currie of Woodstock, the president, occupying the chair, and Dr. F. A. Goddard of St. John, officiating as secretary.

His Worship Mayor Frink extended a hearty civic welcome to the visiting dentists, being well received in a pleasing address. He was followed by Dr. W. P. Bonnell, vice-president, in behalf of the local dentists, speaking of the pleasure afforded them in being privileged at having the convention again assembled in St. John.

An interesting programme has been arranged for the two days session of the convention. It will be brought to a close tomorrow afternoon. The list of papers shows varied subjects, and there will be practical demonstrations and clinics. Adjournment was made at noon for lunch and the convention resumed at 2.30 o'clock.

At this morning's meeting there was the usual round of greetings, and then the general business of the society was taken up. The president's report for the year was submitted, as well as those of committees, and there was much of interest and encouragement in all. While many more dentists are expected in the city for the convention, those who registered this morning were: Doctors F. E. Burden, C. A. Murray, R. S. Wilby, and W. B. Steves, of Moncton; A. R. Currie, Woodstock; W. R. Wilkes, and J. W. Moore, St. Stephen; F. W. Harbour, Fredericton; H. W. Murray, Shediac; J. M. Maguire, W. P. Broderick, H. C. Wetmore, D. J. Mullin, W. P. Bonnell, Otto Nase, H. L. Moran, H. P. Travers, J. G. Leonard, H. B. Nase, Ernest Sewell, G. O. Hains, and F. Gordon Sanction, all of St. John.

The committees having the arrangements for the convention in hand are composed of—Papers, Doctor W. P. Broderick, convener; F. W. Harbour, J. W. Moore, and H. S. Thomson; clinics, Doctors F. S. Sawaya, convener; H. C. Wetmore, B. F. Ready, F. E. Burden, and A. T. McMurray; exhibits, Doctors J. H. Barton, convener; H. B. Nase and F. A. Goddard; entertainment, Doctors Otto Nase, convener; W. P. Bonnell, F. G. Sanction, J. G. Leonard and F. C. Bonnell.

This afternoon several papers were read, and there are others to be given tonight. Tomorrow morning the closing business session will be held, and at 1.30 o'clock the members, accompanied by ladies and guests, will have a motor sail around the harbor front, through the reversing falls to the R. K. Y. C. quarters at Millville. There water sports will be held, with prizes given by dental supply houses. This afternoon the ladies accompanying the visitors will enjoy a motor drive about the city.

TRINITY BOYS' GREAT OUTING
The boys of Trinity church enjoyed a very pleasant outing at New River beach last week and the memory of the happy days spent there will live with them until the next time—for this is an annual affair and one to which the boys are either referring to after it is over, or for which they are counting the days.

The party consisted of the boys of the choir and their guests, numbering in all twenty-two. They left early on last Monday and on their arrival at the beach set to work to assist those in charge in unpacking supplies and making ready for their week of fun. The whole party occupied the large house of Mrs. Joshua Knight and a jolly house it was. During the daytime—and there was only one wet day during the week—the boys enjoyed themselves in the open, on the beach, bathing, boating, fishing, etc., or at other times exploring through the woods, picking wild flowers or in other ways enjoying themselves. Three of the older boys went fishing on the Pocologan stream on three occasions and there is no doubt that they knew a total catch of no less than nineteen dozen—and this is "no fish story."

Nearly every evening the boys gathered together driftwood on the beach and lit huge bonfires, gathering round them and telling stories of adventure. Clam bakes were also in order. Although the boys enjoyed most of their time in the open, they were always on hand when there was any water wanted from the spring or any fuel for the cooking stove. They arrived home on Saturday and not one of them had experienced a dull moment. As one of the smaller boys expressed it, "It just gives a feller a taste for more." On their arrival at the Sunday school, the boys were already planning on what they should do next year.

The party was in charge of Miss Louise Knight and Miss Elizabeth Dougherty, two of the young ladies from the choir.

VOLUNTEERS ARE NEEDED FOR THE PLAYGROUNDS
Especially Alexandria and Centennial—Six Offered From Germain Street Baptist Church—Allison Ground Opened—Syrian Young Men At Aberdeen

The Allison playgrounds were open last night and about fifty children turned up to amuse themselves. They were exceptionally well behaved, and a very enjoyable evening was spent. Arrangements for supervision were satisfactorily made, and parents can rest assured that their children will be well looked after. The playground is open every evening (except Saturday), at 7 o'clock and closes at 8.30. All children are welcome.

It is expected the Alexandria playground will be reopened under competent supervision this evening. It is explained that this ground was closed because trouble developed one evening over a week ago, when the larger boys paid little or no attention to those in charge. George E. Day, who represents both the school and the playground executive, will be at the Alexandria ground this evening, and it is hoped enough volunteers will be there to assure him there will be no repetition of the previous disturbance.

Six representatives of the Germain street Baptist church volunteered yesterday for service in the evening on the Allison and Centennial grounds. The Allison ground is rapped on the windows and in other ways disturbed the meeting, and that some persons gained entrance to a portion of ground it owns to the playground association, the members naturally object to any misconduct. Doubtless they will join in providing such supervision as will render that conduct impossible hereafter, since it is obvious that if children act badly in the playground they will be likely to act worse in the back-yards and alleys.

It is hoped that hereafter there will be enough volunteers to ensure complete supervision of the Centennial playground.

ANOTHER BIG STRIKE OF GAS NEAR MONCTON
Found at Greater Depth in Old Well—Two Million Cubic Feet a Day

(Moncton Transcript.)
The Transcript has gladly received the following letter, which will be read with interest by all citizens interested in the future prosperity of the community.

Editor Transcript—In pursuance of a programme outlined by Dr. Henderson for the deepening of several of the present wells in our gas field, I am very pleased to report that in deepening Well No. 86 and after passing through a bed of shale and sandstone, we last night struck a gas and giving a flow of 2,000,000 cu. ft. per day. The deepening of other wells will at once be proceeded with.

Yours very truly,
A. CRIGHTON,
Office Manager, Maritime Oil Fields, Limited,
Moncton, N. B., July 11, 1914.

This well is located on McLachlan's farm on the right hand side going to Hillsboro, well back in "the field." It was first commenced to be bored in August of last year, and was brought in during September. It came in with a very strong gas pressure which quickly subsided but now it seems that the true source of supply had not then been struck, but only an upper pocket. This summer the well has been bored much deeper. Last week it reached to 1670 feet, when the tremendous pressure of two million cubic feet a day came in, and continues with a most encouraging rock pressure.

There is a growing feeling that the discoveries, which have been made, are only those of the lesser yielding sands, and that the great source of supply is as yet untapped.

This confirms the view expressed by the late Professor Schaler, interviewed several years ago by The Transcript's editor. The professor said then that he believed Moncton city was the centre of an exceedingly large oil and gas field, but that it was at a very considerable depth. The experience with the gas and oil field at McLachlan's seems to justify that view.

THE BANK CLEARINGS ARE MORE CHEERFUL
A table published by the Montreal Journal of Commerce shows that there was a marked improvement in the bank clearings throughout Canada during June and St. John has helped in the good showing. Ten cities made gains over June 1913—Montreal, Toronto, Calgary, Ottawa, Hamilton, Halifax, London, St. John, Bramford and Lethbridge. The St. John gain was $38,622.

ON THE RIVER CAUSES TALK
Public Landing Summer Folk Enjoy a Dance
Matter of Fairville Sidewalk Tender

LUMBER FROM PACIFIC
W. H. Berry, The Spruce Bud Worm and Pacific Competition—Money in Rain—A Visitor's Opinion

"On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined."
To have the years fall away as a garment is a somewhat unusual experience, but it befell a Times' man at a public landing on the river. It was at the dancing pavilion. More than fifty young people were enjoying themselves in the masses of the dance, when the on-looker observed a pair of ancient wretches in one of the sets of a public-quad. He had attended here-dances and other dances with these two so many years ago that he had almost lost count, but here they were tripping the light fantastic with the air of heedless youth. Nothing prevented the on-looker from dragging Postmaster Sears into another set but the well known diffidence of the postmaster.

They do things well at the Landing. The dances are well conducted. Those in the houses, and all the wretchedness of the alleys where crime broods, and little children suffer for the sins of the fathers. But here in the river valley the air was pure, dull care had fled, and the breezes were out in the meadows as in the summer nights of happy years long gone.

Goals to Newcastle
On the wharf at Public Landing yesterday morning lay a consignment of Douglas fir from British Columbia, in narrow strips, planed, and tongued and grooved, ready for use for sheathing purposes. It seemed rather odd that the St. John River, so famous for its lumber, one should find this product of the forest from the Pacific provinces. James C. Mason, who knows British Columbia and the whole west of Canada, because he has been traveling over it since the days when Pat Burns, the millionaire packer of Calgary, was delivering mail by pony team from the railroad builders, told the Times that the British Columbia firm of which a son of Senator King is a leading member is figuring on shipping lumber from British Columbia by the Panama Canal to Montreal, and probably St. John.

The New York Journal of Commerce recently gave currency to a report that arrangements had already been made for carrying 14,000,000 feet of lumber from British Columbia to Toronto by water in a sailing in freight of two dollars in three dollars per thousand feet, and that shipments would also be made to the eastern markets of the United States between the ravages of the spruce bud worm and Mr. W. H. Berry, and the competition from British Columbia, the outlook for New Brunswick lumber export does not appear to be as bright as it might be.

Incidentally it may be observed that the owner of a saw mill, not many miles from Public Landing, has been ordered by St. John contractor the other day to furnish him with 30,000 feet of lumber, which at his price could be bought by St. John for use at less cost than it could be procured in the city. He was unable, however, to fill the order, because of an active local demand for his limited product.

Money in Rain
"I wish we could have about twelve hours of warm rain," said Charles Parker on Saturday evening. "It would be worth hundreds upon hundreds of dollars to the farmer."

The wish was pretty nearly gratified, for in the night rain began to fall and continued through the greater part of Sunday—not a heavy downpour, but a steady, fine drizzle that went in and out instead of being washed off the surface. It was greatly needed, and will be of immense benefit to the grass, as well as to grain and vegetables.

A gentleman from New Jersey who went up river on the Champlain on Saturday evening surprised that there were not more pictures of the St. John River on postcards and in tourist literature. It seemed to him that we were not taking advantage of a great asset in not having hotels on the river, a fast boat service, and an effective advertising campaign.

CHILD'S WELFARE EXHIBIT ASSURED
H. A. Porter, manager of the St. John Exhibition Association, has received a letter today assuring him that the "Child's Welfare Exhibit" at present being shown at the Imperial Health Exhibition, London, will be shipped direct to the St. John exhibition. In this connection it has been planned to have talks and demonstrations on the following subjects—Kindergarten, manual training, domestic science, etc. The public playgrounds committee will show photographs of work carried on at the grounds, such as basket making by the children. Among other subjects of interest to be taken up will be "hygiene and tuberculosis" and a display of hygiene goods will be shown. All of the societies in the city, who are interested in good citizenship will co-operate in this work and W. F. Burditt will give illustrated talks on "town planning."

VISITING OLD LAND
Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Nordin of Norridun, N. B., Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanfield of Truro, Mr. and Mrs. and Misses Starr and Mrs. Mrs. Campbell of Hallifax, A. R. Hawkes, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Carr and C. H. Edgecombe of Fredericton were registered recently at the Canadian High Commissioner's office in London.

Rev. Walter Peterson, a Presbyterian minister, was drowned in the Leigh River yesterday, while fishing in a canoe.

EARLY CLOSING
Movement Progresses and Barbers Fall Into Line and No Late Shaves on Thursdays—Personal Notes

The general satisfaction expressed by ratepayers here when plans were announced for a public concrete sidewalk, has somewhat abated and instead there is a growing feeling that more consideration might have been given by the Highways Board to the lowest tender, no matter who made it.

Previous experience has shown that on all works of a public nature an independent inspector is a necessity, and with a good reliable official on the job, no firm could slight their duty either in specifications or material.

However, the contract has yesterday both in surveying and digging, in fairness to the ratepayers, no doubt, the board will see to it that a capable man representing the people's interests, not that this, more than any other work, should be especially watched, but in order to assure the townspeople a good job will be required.

Fairville would seem to be on the verge of expansion, and their unrest and dissatisfaction regarding the present system of parish government, attested by the committee now investigating the methods of incorporation. It is time to detach small community affairs from political influence, and one of the healthy signs is the interest being taken in public affairs and the demand as to the why and wherefore of these things.

The early closing movement so well begun last evening was another and important stage, as the three barbers have fallen into line and will close shop commencing on Thursday evening next, at 7 o'clock in common with the merchants. Any requiring hair cut or shave had better take note, for this is a radical departure from the usual custom.

The friends of Wm. Cheesman, Prospector Street, will be glad to hear that he is improving steadily after an operation performed in the General Public Hospital recently.

Harold Hood will leave today for Rexton, Kent county, where he will spend a fortnight's holidays visiting relatives.

MR. KNOWLTON AWAY TO MASONIC GATHERING
F. J. Knowlton, grand master of the F. and A. M. in New Brunswick, left last evening for Niagara Falls, Ont., to attend the annual meeting and celebration of one hundred years of peace which is being held by the Grand Lodge of Canada in Ontario. This organization, whose history dates back to long before confederation, was allowed after that event to retain its former name with the addition of the province in which it is located, although there is no supreme body for the entire dominion.

The celebration of one hundred years of peace between the English-speaking races gave an opportunity for an interesting Masonic gathering, and by its observance of the occasion were sent to the grand lodges of the various provinces, to those of the United States and also to the grand lodges of Great Britain.

The meetings will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, and it was expected that there would be a large and representative gathering.

THINKS CITY SHOULD ACT IN MATTER OF POLICEMAN O'LEARY AND HIS PARENTS
To the Editor of the Times:
Dear Sir—The extent of the sympathy which has gone out from the people of St. John to the bereaved parents of the late Policeman O'Leary, is only commensurate with the sadness of his passing. His death has left his parents in a state of grief which is only too apparent in their faces, and it is to be hoped that some of the many good people of this city, who are so ready to sympathize with the bereaved, will be able to do something to help them in their grief.

Yours respectfully,
GEORGE McARTHUR,
East Riverside, Kings Co. N. B.
