Miramichi- Advance. OHATHAM, N. B., - SEPTEMBER 22, 1898, - Espiny Forest.

Mr. P. Anderson Graham, in Longman's Magazine, mentions the regretta-ble fact that all but the commonest wild flowers are disappearing from Epping forest. Not only do the urchins pluck them, but the venders who go about the suburbs offering roots and flowers for sale carry them off wholesale. The primrose has in this way been practically cleared out of the forest, so has the once common Solomon's seal, and the foxglove and others are very nearly extinct. If the anemones, blue-bells and violets still survive, it is only owing to the fact that they grow in such astonishing numbers that the arm-fuls carried away make no difference.

The most obviously thriving and multiplying quadrupeds in the forest, Mr. Graham mentions, are the rabbit and the squirrel. Hares occasionally make their form in the heather or fern. The small carnivora are as plentiful as might be expected where vermin are protected as much as game. Stoats and weasels are the most common. So far the rarer marten and polecat have not been tempted back to their old haunts. Foxes are occasionally to be seen. Mr. Buxton introduced a few pairs of hadgers 10 or 12 years ago, and they have bred and prospered. Rats, mice, moles and "such small deer" have a happy time of it in the woods.

Sabbath Worship of the Shakers. "Sabbath worship is usually conducted at the public church, where visitors from the world are free to attend," writes Madeline S. Bridges of the Shakers of Mount Lebanon, N. Y., in The Ladies' Home Journal. "Four sisters and four brethren stand in the center of the room and form a double quartet. The Shaker dance, so miscalled, is in reality a more or less stately march, in which all the members join—the brethren in a procession, two by two, followed by the sisterhood in like order. They move in step to the hymns they are singing, either slowly or quickly, as the measure of the time demands. The ritual is of the simplest—testimony of faith fervently uttered by those who feel impelled to speak, a few earnest words of exhortation from the elders, the march and the singing of hymns. "Something curious in regard to these Shaker hymns is the fact that they are claimed to be largely inspirational—the music and words come together 'as gifts,' and frequently to those who are not musical. For instance, very often a tap will sound on the door of a musical sister and an unmusical sister will enter with the announcement, 'Sister, a song has just come to me. Can you take the words and note it for me?" Irish Relations A curious peculiarity of the Irish naure is the wide limits to which relationship is extended. "Do you know Pat Meehan?" a peasant was asked.

"Of course I do," was the answer. cr'ase his followin" by extending the number of his relatives by every possi-ble device. How Spain Paid Columbus. A curious discovery has been made in the archives of the Spanish navy— the bills of payment of the crews who composed the caravels of Christopher Columbus. The sailors, according to their class, received from 10 to 12 francs a nonth, including their food. The captains of the three large caravels had each 80 francs a month. As for Columbus himself, who had the title of admiral, he was paid 1,600 francs a year.

The mountain rises 12,182 feet above the sea, the peak having the form life in Tahiti. Now, did it or did it of a sugar loaf. Considering the fact that the island is itself a mountain, springing almost perpendicularly from the ocean, the bottom of which is six the ocean, the bottom of which is six miles below, Tenerife is the loftiest peak in the world. While all the islands are volcanic and all contain evidences of very recent action, Tenerife is the only one which still continues in eruption.

The action of the most astonishing facts of the time is the ingenuity of boys in constructing electrical apparatus, with one which still continues in eruption.

The summit of the mountain is a circular wall, inclosing a crater a mile in diameter and over 100 feet in depth. mense size of the mountain is in proportion to this crater, although it seems incredible to the looker on that at the mountain top there should be one of the largest craters in the world. The great crater of Tenerife has been quiescent ever since the island was rediscovered by Europeans early in the fifteenth century, but in scores of places on the mountain side there are smaller craters which continually emit sulphurous steams and gases and occasionally throw out small quantities of lava.

Russia.

The lack of machinelike discipline in the Russian soldiery is truly Asiatic, and so are the stagnation, patience, suffering and squalor of the people. In Russia they are drunken, instead of being gamblers and opium smokers as in China. The absence of a middle class and the gulf that takes its place are Asiatic conditions. In Russia no man except a member of the cabinet or a dipomat dares to discuss politics. In other Asiatic countries the people are not forbidden to discuss them, because they have never shown any inclination to do so. No more do the 119,000,000 muzhiks of Russia. Their intellectual activity never goes beyond the affairs of village, family, farm or employment. Their most active interest is in religion, but they make of that such a mere tissue of forms and mechanical or automatic practices that it is carried on without any more mental effort than the activity of a victim of St. Vitus' such accumulations of silver is very It must be remembered that the earth's crust is full of water, which percolates everywhere through the rocks, making solutions of elements obtained from them. These chemical solutions take up small particles of the pre-cious metal which they find scattered here and there. Sometimes the solutions in question are hot, the water having got so far down as to be set boiling by the internal heat of the globe. Then they rush upward, picking up the bits of metal as they go. Naturally heat assists the performance of this operation. Now and then the streams thus formed, per-petually flowing hither and thither be-low ground, pass through the cracks or cavities in the rocks, where they deposit their loads of silver. This is kept up for a great length of time, perhaps thousands of years, until the fissures of the pocket are filled up. Crannies permeating the stony mass in "Why, he's a near relative of mine.

The Milk In the Cocoanut, Every boy knows the three eyes to be found in one end of a cocoanut, and many a boy has bored these eyes out, or one or two of them, with the small blade of a pocketknife so as to get at the blade of a pocketknile so as to get at the milk in the cocoanut, which he has then drained out into a cup or drunk direct from the cocoanut itself. But there is a more fascinating way still of getting at the milk in the cocoanut.

By this other method the cocoanut is opened at the other end from the eyes. The cocoanut is struck all around gently and repeatedly with a hammer, or a stone will do, at a distance of about one-third of the way down from the top, about where the arctic circle would be on a globe. A continual gentle tapping will finally crack the shell of the nut all around not in a line exactly on the circle per-haps, but pretty near to it. Morals and the Stage. Mr Albert Chevalier, the famous 'coster'' impersonator, was once the who had heard him sing his famous song, "My Old Dutch." The corre-spondent wrote that when he entered the theater that night he had intended o become divorced from his wife, owing to constant disagreements and trou-bles with her, but the song so affected him that he resolved to do nothing of the sort, but to make an effort toward a lewer and better life. Mr. Chevalier stated that the note evidently came from an educated man, and he had every be-

I did not much relish this kind of carriage, especially as the mountain was very steep and covered with such a thick fog that we could hardly see two or three yards before us. Nevertheless our guides were so confident and my companion, who had passed the same way on other occasions, so secure that I ventured to place myself on this machine, one of the coulants standing behind me and the other sit-ting before me as the conductor, with ting before me as the conductor, with his feet paddling in the snow, in order to moderate the velocity of its descent. Young Gridley, shortly after graduation at the Naval academy, was ordered to the Michigan for duty. A few days after he had reported the commander ordered the usual boat drill, and the crew went through the process of abandoning the ship. When the cutter of which Gridley was in command had gone a nile or two away from the vessel, the young officer, who had never before sailed on fresh water, inquired sharply for the water cask, which he discovered had not been placed in the Battleship and Cruiser. The difference between a battleship and an armored cruiser is technical, and experts have stumbled over the matter. A battleship is supposed to have heavier guns and armor and to be better fitted to withstand hard knocks from an opposing force. But this does not always hold good, as may be seen in the case of the Mains as compared with the Brooklyng. The dame was a battleship, but was not so large nor so heavily armored as the armored cruiser Brooklyn. On one point there seems to be no dispute, and that is the fact that the

If when traveling in Portugal or Spain you so to the theater and wish to Spain you go to the theater and wish to appland any performer, be very careful how yen do it. Do not hit the ground with your stell, or kick against the woodwork of your box, or stamp with your feet. A few years ago I was in Lisbon and went one night to one of the theaters to see a zarzuela, as the comic operas imported from Spain are called. I was with a party of friends in a stage box. Now, in Portugal such a box is, as the name implies, on the box is, as the name implies, on the stage itself, and you could not be near-er the performers. profes to the officer of the deck than bids the messenger of the watch strike the bell. There is somewhat more formality at eight bells than at other times, for then the hour is reported to the captain and the bell not struck until he has said, "Make it so." Here is the routine en board a man-ofwar at 8 o'clock in the morning: The orderly says to the officer of the deck, "Eight bells, sir." The officer of the deck replies, "Report to the captain eight bells and chronometers wound." The orderly then goes to the captain and says, "Eight bells and the chronometers wound, sir." The captain replies, "Very well; make it so." The orderly goes to the officer of the deck and says, "Make it so, sir." The officer of the deck says to the messenger of the watch, "Strike eight bells," and if everybody has been prompt the messenger strikes eight bells at exactly 8 a. m.—Boston Post.

Part of the crew swam ashore: others huddled into an old leaky ship's boat. A native rowed out toward them, and being promised bagful of ducats and jewels helped land those in the leaky boat, while another Irishman, bent on richer spoil and heed-less of the cries for help, rowed straight for the wreck, which went down while he was looting in the hold. Village Cousin (showing his city relative around the hamlet) — That quiet, harmless looking man on the op-posite side of the street is a member of the church and one of the most public men in the whole community, and yet he is the hardest hated and most indus triously despised person in the village.

City Cousin—How does that come

Village Cousin-Why, you see, he has kept a diary continuously since 1871, conscientiously and methodically jotting down from time to time all the important and unimportant happenings, episodes and incidents in our village life, marriages, births, the state of the weather, condition of the crops, what So-and-so paid for such and such a house, and so on and so forth, including th gist of everybody's political utterances. And whenever the revered oldest inhabitant says that this is the coldest, hottest, wettest or driest season in ten years, or a lady makes an assertion regarding her age, or some one declares he paid a certain sum for his property, or a local politician cries out that he has always worked for the success of some particular party and never scratched his ticket, the man with the diary pulls out his little book and calmly calls them down, as if it was his bound en duty to do so.
