CARACAS ALARMED OVER PRESENCE OF THE PLAGUE

Employe of Fashionable Restaurant Died from This Dread Disease—Numerous Cases Reported from La Guaira.

CARACAS, June 17.—The dreaded plague has at last come to Caracas, which for a few months past has been hoping against hope that it might be spared from the scourge which had stricken the neighboring port of Laredo. The city has awakened to the full knowledge that the disease is here and the fact that the case is that of an employe of the famous La India cafe, one of the finest in Caracas, did not tend to decrease the general alarm. It was realized that the presence of the bubonic in such quarters meant that no section of the city was safe from its ravages. Recently an employe of the La India cafe died suddenly and it was announced that the cause of death was typhus or lockjaw, although it became known that the body was buried immediately and a watch set on the house by the police. It was only today that the people became convinced that the plague had got real hold on the city. Officially no epidemic exists in Venezuela. President Castro's decree of May 23 announced the stamping out of the nameless disease and the opening of La Guaira to commerce. This decree has not been revoked, although the port has remained closed and there are numerous cases there at the present time. The most reliable figures obtainable from private sources give about 100 cases in Laredo since the epidemic began two months and a half ago. This is only a little more than one case a day, but the city has little over 5,000 inhabitants.

EXPECTS RENEWED ACTIVITY IN MINING

WHEELING, W. Va., June 17.—President T. L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, left here today for Indianapolis to attend a meeting of the National Board. Concerning the business outlook, President Lewis said that the beginning of the mining season is a spirited revival in the mining and steel business. He said: "All lake boats would be in commission here by July 1st and they would have orders for shipments back from the Northwest, whereas they have so far this year only carried coal to the Northwest and returned light."

ST. LOUIS THREATENED BY MISSISSIPPI FLOOD

ST. LOUIS, June 17.—The Mississippi River which has been steadily rising for the past three weeks, has reached a stage of 37 feet, almost four feet above the flood danger line and the levees are completely submerged. The cellars of buildings along the levee are flooded and it is predicted before the day is over that first floors will be covered by water. Five thousand sacks were purchased and hurried to east St. Louis to be used today in strengthening temporary levees and repairing weak places in old levees.

HEARING ARGUMENT IN COAL CARRYING CASE

PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—Attorney General Bonaparte, for the government and John C. Johnson, of Philadelphia, respective sides today in the proceedings, closed the arguments for their respective sides today in the proceedings instituted by the government to restrain the coal carrying railroads from transporting coal from mines in which they are financially interested in Pennsylvania to points outside the state.

FINED FOR TROTTERING OVER SUSPENSION BRIDGE

Wm. Coleman was before the police magistrate this morning to answer the charge of driving his horse over the Suspension Bridge faster than a walk. Coleman claimed that he could not help it as the horse was frightened. Just what frightened the animal was not fully inquired into this morning and Coleman was fined $4 for the offense. One of the court officials however stated that Coleman was probably not through with the case as when the horse was run across the bridge it was after Coleman had drawn a revolver at a man who tried to stop the horse.

UNABLE TO HANDLE STEERAGE TRAFFIC

A Thousand Intending Passengers Left in New York Steamers Cannot Carry Away all the People Who Want to Leave America—Low Rates Prevail.

NEW YORK, June 17.—More than a thousand persons holding steerage tickets for European ports were left behind by the steamer when she sailed today with her steerage accommodation filled to their capacity of 2,000. A thousand more who were unable to find accommodations on the ship, were told that they would be taken on the outgoing, but many of them made determined efforts to get on board the Potsdam. They were held in check by a large force of policemen which had been summoned to the pier, however, and the best they got was a sight of the ship as with swarming decks she dropped out into the stream and started on her voyage. As early as last evening the steamer's steerage quarters were filled, but very few of the passengers were allowed to get on board. Many of the prospective passengers have little money beyond that required to get them to their homes and it is likely that they will remain in one of Hoboken's parks, where they are now camped until the next steamer sails. The great homeward rush of foreigners is believed to be largely due to the extremely low rates now offered for eastward bound steerage passengers.

COMPLETE BACKDOWN OF THE HODGINS BROTHERS

Charges all Withdrawn Today—Committee of Enquiry Adjourns to Prepare Report.

OTTAWA, June 17.—There was another step in the closing of Hodgins today this morning. Last night Engineer Hodgins said he had no proof for his charges and this morning Lawyer Hodgins told the committee that he had no further interest in the case. This removes the two Hodgins from the scene. The conservative members want to go on and investigate the charges against the Transcontinental Commission which Mayor Hodgins has dissolved and withdrawn. Mr. Carvell wanted the case closed at 4:15 p. m. yesterday. The measurements of the record on the selamograph at McGill have not yet been made. The check will be sent over the Ottawa Valley district and in the Laurentian Mountains.

ANOTHER EARTHQUAKE FELT AT MONTREAL

MONTREAL, June 17.—A considerable earthquake shock was felt here at 4:18 p. m. yesterday. The measurements of the record on the selamograph at McGill have not yet been made. The check will be sent over the Ottawa Valley district and in the Laurentian Mountains.

HARD TO KEEP PEOPLE OFF THE SUSPENSION BRIDGE

Contractor Samuel Drury will close the Suspension bridge to all traffic from six o'clock this evening until six o'clock tomorrow morning, while his men are engaged repairing the bridge. The contractor will probably find it necessary to have a policeman to assist in keeping pedestrians from climbing over the fence and attempting to cross, as he has found that trying to do this duty himself is not at all pleasant. On Monday night when the bridge was closed for traffic, the flooring was opened and had persons been crossing they would have been in great danger of falling through into the water. One man by being turned back showed his feelings by striking the contractor on the face.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK A TRAIN AT SPRINGHILL. Stones Found Wedged Between the Rails - Wedding at Moncton Today - Thieves Sentenced.

MONCTON, June 16.—A session of the justice of the peace court was held at 10 o'clock yesterday. His Honor, Judge Wells presiding. Fred and Courtenay Goodwin, charged with breaking and entering the store of Robert Freecott, at Bale Verte, were arraigned and pleaded guilty. His Honor after representing the prisoners, severely sentenced them to thirty days in jail. W. H. Chapman appeared for the Crown and A. J. Chapman for the defendants. An interesting wedding took place today, at noon, in St. George's Episcopal church, when Miss Emma McLeod, formerly of the Moncton schools teaching staff, was married to Mr. Frank Stebbins, representative of the Ontario Windmill and Pump Co.

A number of rocks tightly wedged between the rails and plankings sufficient in size to have derailed a train were found yesterday at Church street crossing, a few minutes before the incoming Springhill accommodation was due to pass. A citizen who discovered the stones, evidently placed there by a maliciously inclined person, succeeded in extricating them with a good deal of difficulty just before the train arrived.

BERLIN, June 16.—Frauulin Peppi Weiss, Berlin's favorite music-hall star, who holds some such place in German music-hall as our own Miss Marie Lloyd of London, was fined $50 today for assaulting a rival actress, Frauulin Madaline Wilden.

Frauulin Weiss, who testified that she was accustomed to pay a song writer as much as $200 to compose her exclusive songs, heard that Frauulin Wilden was intending to mimic some of her most popular numbers. Meeting her at the time when Miss Emma McLeod was married to Mr. Frank Stebbins, she was infuriated and assailed at Haringdorf—the Brighton of Germany—Frauulin Weiss vented her wrath by scratching her rival's face with her fingernails. She was then escorted by her fiancé, Frauulin Wilden's cavalier, like herself, emerged from the fray disgraced.

ANARCHIST DETAILED TO KILL THE KAISER

Rome Newspaper Gives Prominence to Remarkable Story of Regicide Plot.

ROME, June 16.—The Tribuna publishes the following telegram from Bari: On May 12 two municipal guards conducted to the police station a young foreigner having no visible means of subsistence. He was identified as an Italian subject, said to be named Paul Nikolaus, of Charlottenburg, 25 years of age, engineer and sportsman. He was taken to the police station because the consular authorities could not ascertain the reason of his visit to Bari. Nikolaus declared that he was an anarchist, and was in Apulia on a certain mission. Owing to the suspicions of the authorities, he was put in prison, and inquiries were made. Yesterday in the presence of the examining magistrate and another police official, the prisoner made the following statement: "I am an anarchist, and left Bari to carry out an undertaking to kill a high person at the Imperial court who travelled in the emperor's suite when his majesty went for his Mediterranean cruise. "Another anarchist, a friend of mine, accompanied me to Ravenna. Here I was left. Having ascertained that the emperor was going to Apulia, I proceeded to Bari with every precaution in order to carry out my plans. "In the meantime, time was passing, and the money at my disposal began to diminish. Not understanding the Italian newspapers, the intelligence of the postponement of the visit only reached me after some delay, when I was no longer even able to provide myself with my daily necessities. "Nikolaus was obliged to surrender to the police, he said, through starvation, hoping to be repatriated. He refused to give further details or to say by whom he was instructed to carry out the crime, or the identity of his proposed victim. "The Tribuna declares that there is reason to believe that Nikolaus intended to make an attempt on the emperor's life, but did not give full details, in order not to render his position more grave. He appears to be intelligent, and is very well educated.

THE FLM INCIDENT.

Washington was taking formal command of the Continental army at Cambridge. He crooked his arm, placed his elbow against the historic elm and read his head on the side. Then he addressed the 11 assorted gathering of patriots. In the midst of his remarks his elbow suddenly slipped from the tree and Washington completely lost his equilibrium.

A TALE OF HORROR FROM WILDS OF NORTHERN QUE.

Three Men Dead—Two of Them Were Driven to Cannibalism.

QUEBEC, June 15.—That three lives have been lost in the far Quebec north and that two of the men were driven to cannibalism, is the awful tale that, judging by facts received by the authorities, is believed to be true. The partial remains of two of the men have been found and the Provincial Detective Department has officially announced that it has given up further efforts to find the third man, believing that he perished months ago.

IN the month of September last, Mr. Joseph Gussert and his companion, a Mr. Bernard, of Paris, France, arrived in Montreal, and after spending some days there came to Quebec and announced their intention of going on a hunting trip northwest of Lake St. John. Their outfit was purchased with a great deal of care and they engaged the services of Auguste Lemieux, a well-known hunting guide of Montreal, Lake St. John. The three started from Quebec in the best of health and being sturdy, well-built men, with lots of provisions for a six or seven weeks' trip, looked forward to an enjoyable outing, the two Parisians being due in Paris late in December.

On April 2 the McKenize Trading Company sent a party of fifteen men to take provisions up to Lake Umbagog, in the Chatham and Asbestos Mining Company, and a few days later Mr. Joseph Kurtzness started on the same trail on a fur trading expedition, but had to stop at Chamoucheau on account of ill-health. Three of the McKenize men met Mr. Kurtzness and the story of the former meeting with the Indians was repeated.

On the 25th of the McKenize men, Alfred Perron, of St. Felecion, Que., found under one of the shanties of the McKenize Company a No. 12 automatic gun of Belgian make and also a canvas bag with some 20 to 30 empty shells (brass), No. 12. The gun was stuck in the snow half under the shanty. There was no sign of any letter and Mr. Perron, with those who accompanied him, returned to the conclusion that Mr. Bernard and Mr. Gussert had been there. This seemed all the more reasonable because they had not been seen below St. Felecion.

On the 5th of May, Mr. Kurtzness and one of the McKenize men went to the lake to see if the ice was moving, and saw in the water what looked, at first, like a dead fox. After much trouble the object was secured and brought to shore. It was found to be a portion of the body of a man. A rude coffin was made and the remains placed in it, but it presented such a strange sight that it was thought best by Mr. Kurtzness and others to examine the entrails, which were found wrapped in the trousers of the victim and fastened to the body. This examination showed beyond any doubt that the man did not die of starvation and that he was in a healthy condition when he died.

Such a strange appearance did the remains present that it was thought best for future reference, to take a minute description of them. The description, which was afterwards sent to the Attorney General, reads as follows: "The head bruised on the right temple, the nose broken, the right arm cut through three undergarments in the muscles about four inches long clean cut, the left arm about one and one half inches longer than the right, the hand was cut off at the wrist, the mit was still on the hand. Leg left cut off at the knee, upper part gone. Right leg missing, one foot cut off at the ankle. Entrails were found wrapped in the victim's trousers. Two knife wounds were found about one inch wide each near the heart. The body was cut open from the abdomen to the neck, the flesh being cut off from the ribs on the right side of the heart. The liver and one kidney were missing."

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

From stamp collector to King is a long step and one that requires careful preparation. Prince George of Wales is commencing to realize that as a ruler of a great nation he should have impressed himself on his inner consciousness a long time ago...

The developments at Ottawa yesterday can scarcely be regarded as gratifying to the Conservative party. Along with the collapse of the Hodgins bubble comes the victory of Premier Laurier in the Manitoba lists dispute...

The Congressional Union in session at Montreal, has reversed its former decision, noted in yesterday's Star, and by an almost unanimous vote, has decided in favor of church union...

PRINCE GEORGE is a different type of man. He has lived in retirement, has given himself up to private pursuits, taken part in little beyond the duties of his own family...

THE COMPULSORY SCHOOL LAW now in operation in St. John is to be enforced so that school children may be kept in jail for a week because they follow their natural instincts in seeking out door life rather than the confinement of the classroom...

OUR KING has written a braud letter and sent it to Sir Patrick Spens, who was walking on the strand.

TO NORWAY, to Norway, To Norway, the king's daughter of Norway, 'Tis thou must bring her home.

OUR SHIP must sail the foam; The king's daughter of Norway, 'Tis we must fetch her home.

under the Compulsory Education Act. Indeed, the sort of compulsory education which they boys obtained in the jail cells is just the kind that the jail is intended to prevent.

ANOTHER SCANDAL EXPLODED. One after another in almost monotonous sequence, the sensations exploited by the federal opposition have collapsed.

THE IDEA of stopping your machine to flirt with me! said the pretty little widow at the cross roads.

"We must have purity in politics!" exclaimed the speaker, earnestly. "But then, we wouldn't have any politics," remarked an old campaigner, shaking his head disapprovingly.

"Confound it!" cried the angry husband, "I've old thing appeals to you if it's cheap!"

"Did you enjoy the social season?" "Not personally," replied Mr. Currow. "But on looking through my check book I am convinced that it enabled my wife and daughter to forget all my business troubles."

"When I started in business," said Mr. Dustin Stax, reflectively, "I resolved never to tell an untruth."

"And you kept your word?" "Yes, whenever I had any delicate business of that sort on hand I hired an expert."

"What's the matter now?" inquired the owner. "He claims they haven't room enough as it is."

"Not personally," replied Mr. Currow. "But on looking through my check book I am convinced that it enabled my wife and daughter to forget all my business troubles."

THE STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B. WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17, 1938

THE WIDOW IN WHITE

By LOUISE MERRIFIELD.

(Copyrighted, 1937, by C. H. Sutcliffe.)

"There she goes!"

Little Compton gave the alarm, and everybody in the Pasquale studio leaped for the windows as the white automobile whizzed by. Four masks crashed on the floor. The model, a slender, dried figure, with a spray of spring bouquets over the bare shoulder and a trail of grass-green velvet from bust to ankle, broke her pose and turned her head.

"She is celestial!" murmured Led Breton, huddled as he lifted his fallen easel. But he did not place crayons to paper again that afternoon. He sat and smoked a short Amiens pipe and stared at the spray of spring bouquets on the model's bare shoulder, and the blood bounded through his veins joyously, bubbly, like the little mountain brooks breaking through thin April ice.

Le Breton had spring fever. Also, in a minor degree, Le Breton was soon in love again.

Pasquale crossed the room as newly as the model had resumed the pose, and he bent affectionately forward over Le Breton's chair and tapped on the plump bowl of the Amiens pipe to recall Le Breton's soul from the asphodel meadow of day dreams.

"Men! I have discovered a small thing," he said in an undertone, so that Compton from Delaware would not hear. Compton from Delaware was a cynic, a person utterly beyond the gates of spring enchantment. He had the artistic temperament, but it showed itself in his work, not his hair, nor his love, nor his words, and therein Compton from Delaware was absolute.

It was the way he had with women. "I have discovered her habitation," whispered Pasquale. "She is a widow." "A widow in white?" asked Compton, half closed eyes flashed open. "Ah, but it is her whim. It is her divinity revealing itself. It is her symbol of steady. She did not love him if she can mourn in white. But the art of style, enchanting, mysterious to start herself from top to toe in white, she sues, to soothe her face in creamy chiton like a hour, to challenge one's daring, to pique the curiosity, do not all prove the woman behind the veil, the woman celestial yet with the dash, the mere touch, so like the high light of the diaphanous, her bareness. Nature. Where does she live, Pasquale?"

Pasquale glanced sideways at Little Compton. He was extremely busy giving a touch to the clasp of gold on the model's left arm, a touch to make it gleam.

"At the Hotel Lombard," said Pasquale. "I have engaged the interest of the small boy at the garage. She is a widow, Madame Germaine, La Belle Germaine. And she lives at the Lombard. So, my Jules, I give you the cue for the romance, 'l'adieu-va'."

Le Breton rose and stretched his arms widely until they touched the gas jet above his head.

"I shall fling violets at her, vast dozens of them, dew wet, Parma violets, straight into her arms as she passes each day until she recognizes me," he said. "I shall place the white chiffon veil with opera glasses and see her eyes divine are melting blue, or gloriously, ravishingly dark, like La Zingara. I shall..."

"You will make the customary bowing of yourself, Jules," called Compton from Delaware over his shoulder with cheerful unctuousity. "How many children did the last divinity have after you had followed the trail of romance of two weeks and finally landed her in a bakery over the Seine?"

Le Breton raised a glass of ice water to deposit it below the adjacent coat collar, but he stayed his hand, and drank the water diplomatically. Once, once long ago, he had not stayed his hand, and the memory of the resultant episode lingered yet. Little Compton had sipped swiftly, and deftly, promptly flooded him. And even the model had laughed it was not a pleasant memory. Therefore, Le Breton stayed his hand and drank of the ice water.

PARIS, June 16.—The submarine Sirene, while exercising outside Cherbourg took a vertical dive and plunged her nose into the mud at the bottom of the bay, standing on end.

The crew were thrown pell-moll into the box, but the quartermaster was able to hold on to his post, and he turned on the tap letting the water ballast into the after part of the vessel. The vessel gradually righted and was brought safely to the surface.

PRISONER SUSPECT ARRESTED. Tries to Kill Woman Who Made Will in His Favor.

ANTWERP, June 16.—A young man who gives his name as Beck and describes himself as a French aviator, has been arrested here on suspicion of administering poison to a woman, aged about 25, who arrived in Antwerp with him a few days ago.

The woman who made his acquaintance at a watering place, is stated to be very wealthy and to have made a will leaving her property to Beck.

She became ill soon after arrival here and was finally removed to a hospital where a doctor diagnosed the case as arsenical poisoning and had Beck arrested.

SEVERAL BILLS THROUGH SENATE

Interim Supply Bill Quickly Disposed of

Members Discuss Work Done by That Body During Session

OTTAWA, Ont., June 16.—In the senate today Hon. R. W. Scott moved to suspend the rules to enable the interim supply bill to be put through several stages preliminary to assent.

Senator Loughheed criticized the government for having the supply bill railroaded through the senate without opportunity being afforded the senators to the left of the Speaker to discuss its provisions. In this case a discussion of the proposals in the supply bill was impossible because the governor general was at the door waiting to give the bill.

He also protested against the government practice of putting supply bills through the upper chamber without time for an investigation of their contents being allowed.

Hon. R. W. Scott declared that he had been assiduously studying the supply bill through the upper chamber without time for an investigation of their contents being allowed.

THE OLD CLOTHES OF ROYALTY

Costumes Worn But Once and Then Put Away for Good

King Edward Does Not Wear a Pair of Gloves More Than Once—Gowns Alexandra is Never Seen in Twice

An enterprising English journalist wrote an interesting but not instructive article recently in King Edward's clothes and what became of them after they had finished service.

Out of this arose the discussion as to the necessity of considering gloves damaged by one day's service, etc., which went on until Lord Knollys, who is the King's inseparable companion, friend, and servant, deigned in a moment of candor the story as ridiculous.

The list of King Edward's quickly discarded garments would include also certain state robes which have appeared in public only once, such as those of the coronation and the costumes of the Grand Master of the Knights of Malta.

Then, of course, there are certain regimental uniforms which have been worn just once in honor of some occasion. All these are put away in presses and are overhauled regularly and kept in good condition.

In his ordinary dress the King is very particular as to cut and quality, but he wears his various suits as many times as any rich man of the world would.

The beautiful dresses which the Queen wears at the evening courts are seen but once, and are put away in a wardrobe, again in another fashion. This applies particularly to the priceless collection of old lace of which she is so proud, and which is used over and over again in trimming her gowns.

If Queen Alexandra does not wish to use any of the trimmings of a dress the garments is taken to pieces and the materials distributed. There is an inviolable rule in the palace that the recipient of any royal raiment is never in any circumstances to wear a gown in the form in which it was worn by the queen.

The Princess of Wales has a large and varied collection of uniforms, university gowns and oriental robes of great value and beauty. During her visits to the British colonies and to the Empire she has received many honorary degrees. These garments are all guarded for posterity after the royal fashion.

Her ordinary wearing apparel the princess does not hesitate to be seen in the same gown many times, especially if it happens particularly to suit her somewhat severe style of good looks. After she has finished with them they are given to the various ladies of her household to dispose of.

The Empress of Germany has the same rule regarding gowns and state occasions as Queen Alexandra. These are never seen again in the same form.

MARINE OFFICIALS KNOW OF NO DISHONESTY ON PART OF ANYONE

OTTAWA, Ont., June 16—The investigation before Judge Cassels of the alleged dishonesty in the civil service commission's report against the staff of the marine department was continued this morning.

Mr. Northey, on what was sold the government were about 25 per cent. He said he might have received $10,000 in profit from the company within the last five years.

Col. Anderson, chief engineer of the department, had asked the company to sell the signals to the department on no official or any employee of the department, said the witness, had ever received a single cent from himself or from the company.

The witness said that the government was now advertising for tenders for diaphanous and plants. He could not say why diaphanous should be advertised for in view of the fact that his firm held the patent. Any firm could supply the plant.

COMMANDER SPAIN TESTIFIES. Commander Spain, wreck commissioner, was the next witness called. He said he had been an official of the department since 1892 and knew of no friction between the heads of the various branches.

There will be a meeting of the harbor bridge committee this afternoon to discuss Ald. Scully's proposal to try to hasten the erection of a bridge to Navy Island. At present the general sentiment seems to be that the time is not opportune for such a move and that the committee is not likely to get very far ahead.

The meeting of prominent citizens which was to have met in the mayor's office yesterday afternoon to discuss plans for raising funds for the Quebec Battered fund, did not materialize, owing to the fact that none of the citizens turned up. ODDFELLOWS HELD A MEMORIAL SERVICE

Impressive Ceremony Last Evening in Simonds St. Hall—The Names of Deceased Brethren.

An impressive service was held last evening in Oddfellows Hall, Simonds St., by members of Peaceful Lodge in memory of deceased brethren. There was a very large attendance. Noble Grand Washburn presided, and the music was under the direction of John Salmon.

The memorial service began with the opening ode by the choir, followed by the prayer laid down in the ritual. The Noble Grand made the usual proclamation as to the intent of the meeting and following this the secretary read the names of those members of the lodge who have passed away.

Eulogistic references were made to the deceased brethren by C. A. Hannah, M. D. Brown and H. E. Colner, and the meeting was brought to a close with the hymn, "It is not death to die," and prayer by the chaplain.

IT COST HENDERSON $20 TO HAVE A HUG

Man Who Squeezed a Young Woman Pains Deeply for His Fun—Other Police Court Matters.

In the police court this morning two drunks were fined the usual amount. John Henderson, a young man, pleaded guilty to being drunk on Charlotte street, but said he did not remember placing his arm around the waist of a young lady who was looking in the London House window. Policeman McCollum saw the hug, however, and Henderson was fined $4 or 10 days for being drunk, and $20 or two months' jail for taking a hug that didn't belong to him.

Wm. Waugh, a young man, was charged with assaulting Police Sergeant Rose, but was allowed to go with a warning, as the Sergeant did not wish to press the charge against him.

Carl Peters and George Swanton had a little brush on the Marsh Road with their horses a few evenings ago. An imbibitor of (Lionman, alias Perry, took notice, and this morning the two young men had to pay four dollars each to the court.

The case of trespassing on the I. C. R. crossing preferred against M. M. Redosh, was postponed for a future hearing.

CABINET WILL CONSIDER HARBOR COMMISSION

Meeting to be Held Today at Which St. John's Claims Will be Presented—Council Meets Tomorrow.

The harbor facilities committee met yesterday afternoon and adopted certain recommendations based on the report of the Ottawa delegation, which will be submitted to the common council at a special meeting tomorrow afternoon.

The matter of greatest importance is the proposal to have a commission appointed to take over the west side facilities. It is expected that the report will be approved by the council without much opposition.

It is understood that the Dominion cabinet at a meeting to be held today will consider the commission scheme, and will decide whether or not they are willing to take over the present facilities at west St. John.

Speaking in Montreal, Gen. Manager McNicol of the C. P. R. expressed his opinion that the formation of a commission was the only satisfactory way to make any progress on the west side.

Mayor Bullock will interview Premier Hazen this afternoon regarding the stand the provincial government will take regarding payment of part of the cost of the Courtenay Bay wharves. It is understood that Mr. Morse of the G. T. P. has given his assurance that the road will come to St. John provided that room can be found on the east side for their terminal facilities.

He renewed his assurance that the G. T. P. would never go to Portland. Their line is quite separate from the Grand Trunk, and the fact that the latter goes to Portland does not mean at all that the G. T. P. will go.

He spoke of the future development of the trade that must come and of the time when the G. T. P. would want to connect at the ocean with their own steamers. Provided the soundings are satisfactory it looks as if there is a good chance of St. John being the eastern terminus of the transcontinental.

MacRae, for a creditor whose account is disputed.

TREASURY BOARD.

A meeting of the treasury board will be held this afternoon in the city hall. It is understood that the city will be able to get the same rate that banks as they got last year, that is, three and a half per cent.

It is possible that the extent of overdraft allowed may be restricted, but the limit will probably be put at a rate that the city is not likely to reach.
