The Trip to Lord's Cove

An excursion was run by the St. George B. B. A. on Wednesday the 10th to Lords Cove. It was successful in every respect, the day proving an ideal one. The Viking left about 11.30 with about 140 on board. The sail down the river and bay was enjoyed by all. The boat arrived at Lords Cove about 1.30 and the excursionists were given a couple of hours to get lunch and look around before the ball game, during which time more people arrived from Eastport. Immediately after the game the boat left Lords Cove for home where it arrived about 6.30.

The ball game was fast throughout. St. George went to bat first and with H. Lambert in the box for Lord's Cove succeeded in getting four hits and by the aid of a few errors made six runs; this however was all they could make during the game. After the first inning Mitchell went on the slab for Lords Cove and St. George could not squeeze in a score off his fine twirling. Lords Cove scored one run in the first inning; one in the third; one in the fifth; in the seventh inning St. George took an airship flight for a few minutes and when they came down Lords Cove had made three runs; in the last part of the ninth inning, with two men down, Rutherford tried to steal home, but Griffin was wide awake and he was nipped easily, however the umpire failed to see it that way and he was called safe, which ran won the game for Lords Cove.

Griffin pitched a fine game considering that he had pitched ten innings the day before. He received fairly good support but at times the fielding was a little loose.

Mitchell, the Indian pitcher, twirled splendidly for the winners and received errorless support.

The following is the line up:
Lords Cove
Dena catcher
Mitchell pitcher
L. Stuart first base
Leeman second base
Allen third base
Rutherford short stop
Trecarten right field
A. Stuart center field
H. Lambert left field
Umpire-Crosby.

Score by innings:
Lords Cove 123456789 Total
St. George 10104081-7

Tribute to Gaynor

There are few men in public life in this country who could so well be spared as the Mayor. During the brief period of his administration he has proved himself to be extraordinarily qualified, both in his knowledge of the problems involved and in the difficult office to which was elected. These first few months of his service promise that his term, if he is able to complete it, will make an important contribution to the advancement of better municipal administration in this country. Good government in New York City is a high set in a high place, where all men may say it.

World's Greatest Nurse Dies

On Saturday the heroine of the Crimea, and the founder of a nursing home—Florence Nightingale passed away in London at the age of 90 years.

She was born May 12, 1820. She was the first woman to follow a modern army into battle as a nurse, and in the Crimean War, she gained the title of 'The Angel of the Crimea.' She studied nursing under the protestant Sisters of Mercy at Kaiserwerth, Germany, and returned to England when the Crimean war broke out. She organized a corps of volunteer nurses, whom she led into the field, and was especially celebrated for her noble services at Scutari. At the close of the war she enabled by a testimonial fund amounting to $25,000, to found an institution for the training of nurses, the Nightingale Home at St. Thomas hospital. She was also the means of calling attention to the unsanitary conditions in camp hospitals. In 1908 she received the freedom of the city of London. King Edward bestowed upon her the Order of Merit, the most exclusive distinction within the gift of British sovereignty. The membership of the Order is limited to 24.

Mayor Gaynor Much Better

New York, Aug. 14.—Steadily gaining in strength and free so far from any signs of blood poisoning, Mayor Gaynor has put another day behind him and is one step nearer recovery from the illness which he contracted on Tuesday by James J. Gallagher.

He rested well last night, spent a satisfactory morning, took nourishment at intervals with satisfaction, had his wound dressed early and had it pronounced as "looking fine" by physicians, and was resting easily tonight.

Regiment Will Visit England.

Montreal, Aug 14.—The Queens Own Rifles, 600 strong, under command of Sir Henry M. Pellett, arrived in Montreal this morning enroute to England where the regiment will take part in the British army manoeuvres. The regiment was the guests of the 65th during the stay in Montreal. Thousands of people saw them march through the streets to the 65th armory and the regiment in its new khaki uniforms presented a very fine appearance.

They were given a rousing reception by the 65th. Col. Labelle, commanding officer of the 65th entertained Col. Pellett and the officers at luncheon and the men were also entertained. The regiment left for Quebec this afternoon. It will go into camp at Levis for a week and will sail from Quebec by the Lake Megantic next Saturday.

Baseball.

Last Saturday the Bonny River base ball team played the St. George high school a return game on our diamond. The game was not very fast and too one-sided to be interesting. The St. George side led at first and held it, adding a few scores each inning, Johnson twirled for the home team and leaved up some good curves, which the Bonny River boys found difficulty to connect with; his fielders gave him good support.

Campbell pitched a fair game for Bonny River but received poor support. The final score stood 17-5 in St. George's favor.

The line-up was as follows:
Bonny River St. George
Campbell pitcher Johnson
Kehoe catcher Young
Sullivan 1st base Dowe
Stuart 2nd base Hibbard
O. Williamson 3rd base H. Stuart
J. Williamson c. s. A. Stewart
H. Sullivan right field Crouse
G. McCabe c. field E. Johns

Distance Shrinks

The distance between Canada and the Motherland shrinks steadily. The London Times of Saturday, July 30, reached Winnipeg on Sunday, August 6, just a week later, and found its way yesterday to the Free Press exchange table. Ten years ago it would have taken twice as long to bridge this distance with a communication.

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her ability to assist in the work of her household, her position of honor and prestige as a woman. Dr. R.V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for women's ailments, known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Peppermint Cure. It is a positive medicine, and is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Peppermint Cure. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Joker's Column

"Then you want to leave footprints upon the sands of time?"

"No," answered the politician, guardedly. "All I want is to cover up my tracks."

She: Don't you know, George kissed me at the door last night twice before I could stop him!

Next Orators! What cheek!

Next Orators!

Little Tommy: Mamma, why don't you help me before Ethel?

Mamma: Ladies must always come first.

Tommy: Then why was I born before Ethel?

"Say," sneered the bulldog, "you don't know about scientific fighting, do you?"

"Perhaps not," replied the porcupine; "however, if you want to try a little bout with me, I think I can give you a few points."

"Why is your grandpa's face so bantered?" asked the young lady next door.

"He was sleeping in his chair," explained the little girl, "and Willie turned the nozzle of the vacuum cleaner against his whiskers."

John, did you take the note to Mr. Jones?

"Yes, but I don't think he can read it."

"Why so, papa?"

"Because I'm blind, sir. While I in the room he axed me twice where my ear was, and it was on my head all the time."

"Repeat the words the defendant used," commanded counsel for the woman plaintiff, in a case of slander being tried in the first Criminal court of New York recently.

"I rather not," brightly replied the plaintiff.

"Why not?"

"Whisper them to the judge; she's magnanimously suggested counsel and the court was obliged to pay for order."

Two women were talking over the back-yard fence, when one of them remarked: "My husband always wears a clean shirt every Sunday morning."

"Well, now," said the other, "I never cares about Sundays; but I allude to see that he has a clean shirt every Saturday afternoon, 'cause that's the time he's generally drinkin', and when he does take his coat off to fight, I do like to see him looking nice and clean."

"How many children have you?"

"I dunno, exactly," answered the tired looking woman.

"You don't know?"

"Not for certain. Willie's gone fishing, Tommy's broken a colt, George's borrowed his father's shotgun to go huntin', and Emerald Ann is thinkin' of elopin'. I never know how many I've got till supper time comes, so's I can count 'em."—Chicago Record Herald.

LONG STANDING SCIATICA

Completely Cured by One Box of Father Morrisey's No. 7 Tablets.

Sciatica is hard enough to endure, and harder still to cure, in many cases, with ordinary remedies. Caused, like rheumatism, by impurities in the blood, which in this case set up an irritation of the sciatic nerve, it is so difficult to get at with external applications that many sufferers try in vain to get relief.

Mr. Charles MacLachlan, of Sumnerville, P.E.I., was in just that position until he started to take Father Morrisey's No. 7 Tablets.

"After trying several doctors and spending large sums of money without avail, I was completely cured of Sciatica by using one box of Father Morrisey's No. 7 Tablets. No matter how long you have suffered from Sciatica or Rheumatism of joints or limbs, you have used without result—try Father Morrisey's No. 7 before you give up. It has restored health to many who were almost hopeless. 50c. a box at your dealer's or from Father Morrisey Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.S.

Great Orators Clashed.

Randolph and Webster had clashed in the United States Senate, and were ponderously thundering on the men and means of Virginia and New England assailing gnats with siege-guns.

"Some wretches," roared the immortal Daniel, "have had the temerity to question the character and antiquity of New England's kitchen and classic apple sauce, perhaps the most ancient and delectable dish of the ages. Iconoclastic and impious ignorant and ignoble, are such. There apples in Eden. The first chief in history, the master of the brilliant Ebe the culinary possibilities of the apple; and when that distinguished lady cooked Adam's goose the first apple sauce of history was served. Primacy belongs to Eden, but supremacy remains in New England."

Randolph rose to retort. "The sulphurous flavor of the table and theology, the creed and the cuisine of New England has long been expected; but it did not smell to heaven. We of Virginia do not go back to a mythical garden for our greatness in men and means. Virginia and Eden are synonyms, like Rome, Virginia is self-sufficient, her products are her own, to quote the bard of Hickory Crossroads:

"Rome raised Caesars, Ciceros, and Cato,

Virginia Presidents and sweet-potatoes!"

A Kitchener Joke.

Kitchener stories are very popular in London just now, and one which has just recently comes out is causing great amusement.

During a portion of the South African war Lord Kitchener had an orderly a young son of a noble house who had joined the Imperial Yeomanry as a trooper.

He could not quite understand that he was not on terms of equality with the members of the staff, and having been summoned one morning to carry some despatches for the commander-in-chief, he entered the room with a jaunty air.

"Did you want me Kitchener?" he asked calmly, while the rest of the staff gasped for fear of what would happen next.

"Kitchener, however, merely looked at him with a quiet smile. "Oh, don't call me Kitchener," he remarked, "it's too beastly formal. Call me Herbert."

The picture of the doctor who ran the dog and cat hospital hung on the wall as large as life. So did his diploma.

"Does a dog and cat doctor have to have a diploma?" the woman asked who had taken her out to have his tooth pulled.

"Why, certainly," said the clerk indignantly. "It's as much a science to be studied, the ailments of the dog and cat, as the ailments of a human being and requires as much learning—more sometimes. I've known dog and cat doctors who had a lot more sense than many people I have met."

"Oh!" said the woman, trying hard not to look as if she thought the clerk had meant her.—New York Press.

A gentleman who had purchased a new bicycle gave his old one to an Irishman.

"You'll find the wheel useful when you are in a hurry," said the gentleman to "Pat."

"Oh, trust it will be a long time till I can ride," said the Irishman.

"Why, have you ever tried?" asked the gentleman.

"Oh, how," was the gloomy reply. "A friend lent me his. Oh, had it three or four weeks practisin' day an' night, an' niver go so I could balance meself shtandin' still, let alone ride it!"

Miss Fitz—Queer thing about the French people.

Miss Carr—What's queer about them?

Miss Fitz—Why, when I was in Paris last summer I couldn't even make them understand their own language.

At the dedication of a new fire engine in a little town on the Massachusetts coast the following toast was proposed:

"May she be like the dear old manks of our village, always ready, but never called for."

Distress in the Stomach.

Hundreds of Thousands of Bottles of Nervine Used Every Year for Curing Stomach Disorders.

Deadly cramps—the symptoms are not to be mistaken. Suddenly and without warning the patient experiences such agony in the stomach as to conort, the countenance and cause him to cry aloud for help.

Then it is that the wonderful power of Nervine can make itself felt—it cures so quickly, you would think it was made to cure cramps and cramps only.

Last summer I was stricken with a fearful attack of cramps. I feared the pain in my stomach would kill me.

"My eyes bulged out" and the veins in my forehead stood out like whipcords.

"My cries attracted a neighbor, who came to my assistance, and handed me half a teaspoonful of Nervine in some sweetened water.

"It seemed as if an angel had charmed away the pain. In ten seconds I was well. Nervine has a wonderful name in this locality, and is considered best for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, stomach and bowel disorders. I urge all my friends to use Nervine.

No home is safe or can afford to miss the manifold advantages of having Nervine on hand in case of accident or emergency sickness. It's two sizes, 50c and 25c. At all dealers or the Catarrh and Colic Company, King's Cross, London.

A Cautious Trick

There is no end to the anecdotes told in Germany about the new head of the Foreign Office. Here von Kiderlen-Waechter. One of the most popular is that which explains his long 'sojourn' at Bucharest three years ago. Kiderlen accompanied William II. on a journey as representative of the Foreign Office. The Emperor had been made very angry by somebody, and sent off a most ungracious telegram, asking Kiderlen to dispatch it.

A few hours later His Majesty repented of the impetuous message and asking Kiderlen to compose and dispatch a more soothing one, whereupon the latter replied he would see that the matter was smoothed over, within an additional message. Some time afterwards, when the Emperor queried how the matter had been arranged, Kiderlen said quietly: "Well, Your Majesty, I never sent the first message." The attempt at playing Providence to William II. though immediately successful, was responsible for Kiderlen's ten years at Bucharest.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, county and state of Ohio, and that firm will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.

Campbellton Relief Fund

Now 65,000

Campbellton, N. B. Aug. 10—(Special) Two additional cases of diphtheria developed yesterday and were immediately isolated. Both cases are of a very mild type and the patients are comfortably settled. Col. Mulby of Newcastle arrived here last night and is looking into health matters in the interest of the provincial board of trade.

Excitement was created yesterday in the tented city when one of the large square tents caught fire from a stove pipe. The fire department speedily put the fire out and saved the contents of the tent.

Notices have been posted forbidding the erection of temporary or permanent buildings without a permit from the building inspector and that official has been busy issuing permits. The total amount of subscriptions received up to this morning is about $65,900. Many applications have been received for assistance to build, but as yet no definite action has been taken in this matter.

Jas. E. Adenson, architect, of Montreal, has been commissioned to prepare plans and specifications for the new Methodist church. Beside this he is to build several other buildings.

London, Ont., Aug. 10—Bishop Fallon has ordered a collection be taken up throughout the diocese of London in aid of the stricken residents of Campbellton. Already a large sum has been received and fully $2,000 is expected.

Toronto, Aug. 9—The first money collected by the Presbyterian church of Canada for the relief of the people of Campbellton was forwarded yesterday by Dr. Somerville. It amounted to $584. The money is to be used for general relief work and church building.

Hiram Pullman to Carry Pet Dog Across Continent

New York, Aug. 9—F. S. Drew, a lawyer and president of the L. R. White Lumber Company of San Francisco, who arrived here today from Paris, chartered the special Plymouth Rock for the trip across the continent to San Francisco at a cost of $2,000, especially for the accommodation of Mrs. Drew's prize French bulldog, Radium.

Mr. Drew had engaged a statement on the Chicago special for himself and his wife over the New York Central lines, and expected to leave the dog aboard the Pullman. The Pullman officials told him it was against the rules, and said the dog would have to be quartered in the baggage car if sent by express.

"How about chartering a private drawing room car?" asked Mr. Drew. "I can take the dog in that, can't I?"

"Yes," the Pullman man replied, "but that will cost you $2,000."

"What do I care?" for $2,000 when the comfort of this little beauty is concerned?" demanded Mr. Drew. "Get the car and hook it onto the Chicago special leaving at 12.50."

When the train pulled out Radium was sitting on a velvet cushioned chair.

Well, if he does, the case is nothing like so hopeless difficult as if it was another who was putting barriers in the path of true love.

Years and time quickly vanquish him. Mamma is an infinitely kinder problem. The lovers are certainly entitled to be told exactly why proposals are objected to, and being told, his first duty is, undoubtedly, to charge anything in his person or position to which reasons are given.

If you still remains obdurate in spite of that that can be done; then and only then, are the lovers justified in doing without his consent.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 17, 1910.

Japan's Progress.

Japan's progress as a maritime nation, particularly in the direction of gaining control of the overseas carrying trade on the Pacific, is evidenced by the arrival at Tacoma the other day of the Japanese liner Panama, Maru, of the Osaka Maritime Steamship Company. The Panama Maru is the fourth of the six ships operated by the Osaka Line to carry the Japanese flag on the long Pacific voyages. Her sister ships now in commission are the Tacoma Maru, the Seattle Maru and the Chicago Maru. Three weeks ago the fifth ship, the Mexico Maru, was launched and it is expected that she will be in commission within two months. The last of these six ships, the Canada Maru, will be ready for launching in November and next month will begin the work for which she is designed, the freight and passenger service to Tacoma.

These ships of the Osaka Line are built, primarily, for freighters and are equipped to carry a large cargo and handle it quickly and economically. The boats are large and accessible, the supporting pillars being so arranged that little delay is experienced in stowing the cargo. The Panama Maru is equipped with powerful derricks, each being capable of handling a load of sixty tons. These freight apartments are fireproof and waterproof and are kept at a regular temperature so that the hales of costly goods can be conveyed across the seas without danger of damage. On this initial voyage over a thousand packages of raw silk, valued at $700,000, were brought to the United States. They were unloaded, transferred to special cars and in less than twelve hours after the ship arrived were speeding on their way to New York. The cargo included also 2,320 tons of tea, besides curries, hemp and matting. The measurements of the ship are: length, 400 feet; beam, 51 feet; depth, 32 feet 6 inches; gross tonnage, 6,059.22; net tonnage, 3,756, and she is licensed to carry twelve first-class passengers and one hundred and eighty-six third-class passengers.

While the development of the steamship line has gone on apace, the United States has lost the carrying trade of the Pacific Ocean. So long ago as 1886, the United States Commissioner of Navigation called attention to this commercial menace. In his report he said: "Our maritime rank on the Pacific is now threatened by a new rival, Japan, which, under liberal and progressive laws has just established a trans-Pacific Steamship Line to the United States. We have already seen the American flag almost wholly disappear from the mid Atlantic, and figures just presented show that the carrying trade of the Pacific is rapidly slipping from us. For the control of this trade, the United States enjoys obvious natural advantages. The entry of Japan into competition for its control is a warning that a present nation appreciates the opportunities for trade and maritime rank, of which we have been neglectful. This neglect we can only progressive legislation hope to overcome."

Attracting New Industries.

A writer has said that the four essentials to attracting new industries consist of

First:—Power, fuel, water or electric at a reasonably low cost.

Secondly:—A supply of labor.
Third:—Transportation facilities.
Fourth:—Attractive living conditions.

Would it not be well for some of our public spirited citizens to consider a few of these points. We know not where the seed may bear fruit; but we know if we have no seed there will be no fruit, unless chance brings something our way. Today communities like individuals, cannot live by chance; they must be actively employed in the work of developing the town and making known its resources and possibilities. St. George has facilities for many kinds of industries and with the advent of new and better railroad conditions, our transportation facilities by rail will be improved.

Upon our desk lies a little pamphlet issued by the Board of Trade of Regina, calling attention to Regina's present position and possibilities of growth. These are sent out and are carried out by residents going east and west and no doubt attract both capital and labor. Hence the city grows.

We fully believe that if St. George would enter upon a campaign of municipal publicity, if it had an official or a committee whose duties it would be to endeavor to interest capitalists in the town and act as a go-between for investor and property owners, much good could be done and a substantial return given for all expenditure.

To Entertain in Small Houses.

Entertaining when houses are small is a problem that confronts many a hostess nor does she always solve it with the happiest results.

Some girls, because they cannot entertain all their friends, never entertain at all. They take all the hospitalities they can get, making excuses of cramped quarters for doing nothing in return.

Others pay off their debts, but care nothing for the manner of payment. They crowd their house until the walls fairly bulge and the tempers and clothes of their friends are alike ruined. Nobody has a good time, but the hostess does not bother herself about that.

Still others make the fatal mistake of dividing their receiving hours. They invite all their guests for one day, but at different times. This is sure to breed trouble. Not only does it seem to push one set of guests out that the rest may be accommodated, but it is sure to create heartburning, especially if the line be drawn on ages or sets.

The one wise course is to give several small affairs and thus get around your friends by degrees. Never invite more than your house will hold comfortably if you wish to be thought a successful hostess. It is usually safe however, to include in your list for everything save a dinner or luncheon about a third more than you expect to come, as that is the accepted proportion of regrets in the gay season.

A High Old Time.

His wife's gone to the country,
He sings in accents light
Of pastimes gay throughout the day,
And social games by night,
But 'spite of all his joking,
Inspect him close enough,
And you will see, 'twixt you and me,
His gayety's a bluff.

He simply goes on working
Like any other man,
When day is gone he sits out on
The front step with a fan,
His hosiery needs mending;
His buttons, too are lost,
The morning meal is an ordeal,
And dinner is a frost.

Maud Muller

The judge was out in his new machine
A nifty, imported limousine.
He honked his honker in the shade
Of the apple tree to call the maid
And asked for water from the spring
To cool his motor sputtering.
She stopped where the cool spring bubbled up
And filled twelve times a big tin cup
And blushed as she gave it, looking down
At her shoes, all mud, and her spattered gown.

"Bliged," said the judge and all that roared,
"Jove, but the beastly thing was hot!"
He spoke of the clutch and power and gear,
Of motor and shaft, while Maud gave ear.

Then he talked of tires and wondered whether
That patched hind tube would hold together.
And Maud forgot her spattered gown
And spring drenched ankles, muddily brown,
And listened while a dazed surprise
Looked from her—don't know color eyes.

At last like one who tor delay
Seeks vain excuse, he chugged away.
Maud Muller dodged and sighed: "Oh gee,
That I the judge's bride might be—

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

For all, for One

By Emma E. Manning, 58
Meacham Road, West
Somerville

"The project is absurd," declared Mr. Clinton in disgust. "To give $75,000 for the founding of a hospital in Mayville is like burning money, for no hospital is needed here."

"We are 40 miles from the city of Kingwood," argued Berenice, smiling, "a long journey for victims of accident, Mayville has nearly 10,000 inhabitants, and other good-sized places are near. A hospital here would be open to 30,000 people. Mr. Clinton, my good mother always cared for the needy, and it is my greatest ambition to establish a hospital of my own name."

"Her estate is now settled, and we know she left you just about $150,000. And you would put half of it into a hospital?"

"Yes."

"Miss Osborne, if I may, be so impolite, I will remind you that you are 28 years old. You may live 40 years longer. Yet, you cast away half your fortune like an old shoe."

"I trust that the remaining half will be enough for me, Mr. Clinton. Be that as it may, I want a memorial to my mother, and how can I have it in a better way than by establishing a hospital? And, oh! Mr. Clinton, I want to furnish a home for the ill, the suffering, the needy. As hospitals are conducted now, they are far ahead of the ordinary home in ability to care for the afflicted."

"Humph!"

"I have been to Kingwood and seen Mr. Russell, the celebrated physician, and Dr. Poland, who is said to be the greatest surgeon in the past of the State. They heartily approve."

"Very rich men who still hunger for dollars. Of course, they approve, for they would be called here on your cases."

"Dr. Poland seems to be especially disinterested."

"Miss Clinton, nobody is disinterested but me. I'm your lawyer, and your interests are mine. I am paid for my services, but I never was hard on your mothers pocketbook and I won't be on yours. Take the advice of a friend. Better drop that hospital project!"

"She did not drop it, though she gave the good old lawyer credit for his opinion. The idea of an institution that would at once bear her name and relieve the suffering of mankind had full possession of her. Land was purchased for the building and work begun. The news went around and kindred and neighbors descended upon her in force."

"Better establish a poorhouse, too," said an envious cousin tartly. "Then, away, you will have a home--unless the trustees refuse to take you in."

Not all comments were so ill-tempered as this one, but Berenice clearly saw that, in pleasing herself, she was not going to please anybody else. Sarcastic remarks, mild remonstrances, careful arguments--she had to meet them all, but she was firm and the work went on steadily. The rising walls of the building were a great delight to her eyes and mind.

Mr. Clinton, having abandoned unavailing opposition, stood by her zealously, and she occasionally went to Kingwood to consult the learned doctors there.

"For, she had said to Dr. Poland, the noted surgeon. "I must have more than a building, I want everything in the way of equipment that modern science can afford, the hospital must furnish its force with all possible things to benefit mankind."

And so she had her shrewd lawyer, with financial help, and architects and physicians in their proper places, and the hospital grew, was completed, and was ready for occupancy.

made, and envious people grew freshly envious as they saw famous men pay their tributes to Berenice, disinterested compliments that she received with a happy heart, though with her usual modesty.

"Anyhow," she said, smiling, "it is done and we only await the first patient."

"That patient," replied Dr. Poland earnestly, may well call you blessed.

You have given humanity a weapon with which to fight against suffering and against death."

The crowd began to drift away. Berenice entered her carriage. At that moment an automobile filled with shrieking heedless young persons rounded an adjacent corner. The driver, gathering his wits when too late, tugged at the wheel without avail. There was a swoop and crash, and the carriage went to pieces.

Only one person was injured. Berenice, unconscious, was born into the hospital. The first patient was there.

Within 20 minutes the crowd waiting outside heard the dreadful tidings that she must submit to the surgeon's knife, and then the ill will of her critics ran apace. They were robbed of their animosity by her suffering and danger. Mr. Clinton, placing the corridor, was beset by painful emotions, but the one hope lay in the fact that the great Dr. Poland was there. His skill was the star of promise. To the faithful lawyer it seemed ages before Poland himself came from the pavilion.

"I trust the worst is over," said the surgeon gravely. "She has stood the operation well, but if she lives it will be due to her own hospital. Instant attention was imperative. Had it been necessary to take her to Kingwood it would have been too late."

She builded better than she knew, murmured Clinton, a catch in his voice.

A year later the hospital had several patients, but Berenice had long before been discharged, cured. One evening the sufferers who were there sent her an address of good wishes. It was the evening she was married to Dr. Poland.

The announcement that crude rubber has fallen some fifty cents a lb. in price, which comes from London, follows swiftly the news that several Chinese Banks, with total liabilities of $5,000,000, have been bankrupted by the collapse of the great rubber boom which has made a good many speculators in England and India rich during the past year. Rubber is not likely to be as high in price again for many years as it has been recently, a fact which is particularly favorable to the automobile industry.

Value of the Mosquito.

The strangest import, as customs officials describe it, that ever arrived in New York, is thirty-eight bags of dried flies from Zante Creek, consigned in Germany, where the insects are meant to serve as chicken feed. Coincidentally the Times notes that 125 bushels of grass hoppers have just been gathered for the same purpose. The grasshopper has always figured as a menace, and the fly is an ever-present pest, but, since they have now been turned to account, there is some hope that we may yet discover an economic value for the mosquito.
