

FIFTY POLICE BARRACKS WERE DESTROYED IN RAIDS WEDNESDAY NIGHT

According to an Official Statement from Dublin Castle.

STRONGER POLICY MAY BE ONE OF CONCILIATION

Recent Events Would Indicate That Such Was in the British Mind.

Dublin, May 13.—Fifty police barracks were destroyed in the raids Wednesday night, according to an official statement issued from Dublin Castle this evening.

The destruction of police barracks, as shown by the Castle communication, was almost on a scale as great and organized as a similar attack last Easter, when more than sixty barracks were attacked.

Several attacks occurred in the counties of Antrim, Cork, Leitrim and Westford where one or two barracks were burned including those of Cavan, Londonderry, Galway, Limerick, Sligo, Donegal and Tyrone.

Among the court houses attacked were those at Cahel and Ballinacorney. These were completely destroyed, with all documents. Armed guards were posted while the raids were proceeding, but all private property was respected.

Nothing is yet disclosed as to the outcome of the conference between Viscount French, Viceroy of Ireland, and Andrew Bonar Law, the British prime minister, today, and the cabinet council yesterday on the new policy for Ireland. It had been hastily assumed that Mr. Bonar Law's very non-committal statement in the House of Commons Wednesday meant the adoption of a stronger policy, but there are many indications that it would be equally safe to assume that the proposed change is in the direction of conciliation.

The Government's concession of an Independent Tribunal of Judges whose names Mr. Bonar Law promised should soon be published, to investigate the cases of Irish prisoners detained without trial seems to point in this direction. Moreover, the Irish secretary, Sir Hamar Greenwood, declared yesterday, since his appointment, he had signed no deportation documents and released many prisoners on suspicion among them Alderman O'Brien, secretary of the Trade Union Congress.

It is also worthy of note that there has been a series of nocturnal raids and less military display in Dublin.

Lord Birkenhead, Lord High Chancellor, speaking here tonight, referred to conditions in Ireland and expressed his admiration for the courageous services of the Irish constabulary who never knew when the bullet of a cowardly assassin was waiting for them. He could not pretend to say that the government had reached any solution of the difficulties in Ireland, but he could say that it was the government's intention to reinforce those brave men by every measure in its power.

ZENITH COMPANY TO ST. JOHN PORT

New Transportation Line Already Has Cargo Booked from Here to Boston.

Special to The Standard. Boston, May 13.—Providence has been selected by the Zenith Transportation Corporation, a freight handling and stevedoring company with headquarters in New York and world connections, as a terminal port for cargo steamers to and from Atlantic coast and European ports.

A lease of the Northern side of the State Pier on Allen Avenue was granted by the State Harbor Commission to the concern which has taken possession of the premises and is already doing business. The company is a subsidiary of M. F. Donovan and Sons Inc. of New York which is a long established well equipped concern having many years of experience in the moving of freight along the Atlantic Coast.

The Zenith Transportation Corporation, the President of which is M. F. Donovan, will have offices at the State Pier, and is installing booms and other appliances at the pier to afford efficient handling and quick dispatch of freight.

It is proposed to accept charter cargoes for St. John, Halifax and New York or other ports along the Atlantic coast, and Mr. Donovan will soon leave for Europe to develop transatlantic connections. It is said that a cargo has already been secured for shipment from St. John, N. B., to this port. The lease executed by the State Harbor Commission yesterday calls for a rental of 7,000 dollars for the first year.

CONGRESS READY TO HELP RAILROADS

Willing to Assist in Overcoming the Freight Congestion so as to Keep Production Going.

Washington, May 13.—Congress was asked today to help the railroads overcome the freight congestion so as to keep production going full tilt.

As a means of enabling the roads to get their equipment, shortage of which is said to be largely responsible for failure to move oceans of freight piled high at the principal stations in the East and Middle West, the Senate Inter-State Commerce Commission approved an amendment to the Transportation Act under which they would be given 15 years instead of 10 to pay back advances under the $200,000,000 revolving fund.

Railroad officials said this would solve the problem, but they pointed out that the immediate trouble called for heroic measures to relieve congestion and that the carriers, for instance, required 250,000 cars to reach normal.

AUTHORITIES HAVE EVIDENCE OF EXISTENCE

CERTAIN POLITICIANS ON PAY ROLL

New York, May 13.—Evidence of the existence of a band of international bond thieves who traded in stolen motor cars as a side line and had political connections in certain cities on their payroll, is in possession of the District Attorney's office, it was learned here tonight. Assistant District Attorney Dooling, who with Saul B. Mayers, has been investigating New York's huge securities thefts, declared that, from papers found on several prisoners caught in the drug net, he had good reason to believe that the operations of the swindlers in this city and Cleveland have expanded beyond the limits of the American continent. So brazen were they in their operations, that the leaders, according to information he received, tried to buy a New York Hotel, offering $1,000,000 for it.

Make Good Catch

The arrest last night of Robert McDonald, who declared himself as a stock salesman and is said to be a close friend of "Nicky" Arnsztajn, is one of the best "bites" in a long time, Mr. Dooling said. Among his effects were found several checks on non-existent banks, and numerous blank certificates of stocks in various non-existent mines, he added. An address book contained scores of names and addresses of persons said to be implicated in the bond plot.

One "phone number was Nick-4630 Schuyler. Another discovery was a check for $1,000 on the mythical "Union National Bank of New York."

Mr. Dooling also exhibited a large number of blank checks of various banks in St. Augustine, Fla., two banks in San Diego, Cal., two in Vancouver, B. C., and one in America, Ga., all of which, he said, did not exist. The check on the St. Augustine bank was made out for $10,000, signed by "Abram Staloback" in a city about 1200 miles from here, but nearer New York City, it was learned here tonight.

It is believed he will be arrested within a few days.

Chief Smith also is said to have informed the New York police that he has under observation all persons here believed to be connected with the case, but could not act unless requested to do so by the New York authorities.

Detectives, who left Chicago today with Arthur C. Eberment, wanted in New York in connection with the plot, did not pass through Cleveland. He was taken to New York by way of Detroit.

A RESOLUTION OF IMPORTANCE

Ottawa, May 13.—(Canadian Press)—A resolution of importance to manufacturing, farming, chemical and other industries of Canada, is set to come before the House tomorrow in the form of proposed amendments to the Inland Revenue Act, respecting the distillation of denatured alcohol, especially denatured alcohol. One of the clauses of the resolution provides: "That denatured alcohol, and especially denatured alcohol, which is adapted for use in the arts and industries, or for fuel, light or power, or for any mechanical purpose, may be manufactured in Canada, free from excise duty."

This is the legislation which was urged by the Advisory Council on Scientific Research as a means of bringing "industrial alcohol" within the reach of all users in the hope that it would prove cheap and suitable substitute for gasoline which is becoming scarcer and dearer each season.

MAN SUSPECTED OF MURDER IN BOSTON WAS

In St. John About Three Months Ago According to Opinion of Boston Officers.

SENT MESSAGES FROM THIS CITY

Special to The Standard. Boston, Mass., May 13.—Paul Pappas, wanted in connection with the finding of the body of Mrs. Altes Arnsztajn in the cellar of his lodging house at No. 517 Columbus Avenue, is being traced today by the authorities through a card-index suit box which he sent from St. John, N. B., to his brother Gregory Pappas, in Chicago about three months ago. Agents of the American Railway Express Company were questioned today as to the point at which Paul Pappas shipped the package, which was admitted to the St. John, N. B., Gregory Pappas told the police that he had not seen his brother since shortly after Xmas. The victim disappeared Christmas night and shortly afterward Pappas sold the goods in the ward and also disappeared. Bearing out the belief of the police that Pappas has fled to Canada was the statement of Harry Bernakes of Chicago to the effect that the suspect had written him from St. John several weeks ago. The police also learned that Pappas sent post cards to several of his Chicago friends from the Dominion.

In the meantime the police investigation has revealed the probable source for the crime. Jealousy of Mrs. Arnsztajn and a desire to possess her property, the police believe, brought about a quarrel which resulted in the slaying of the woman. The nature of the several stab wounds in her neck, together with blood stains and the condition of the dress which she occupied at the Columbus Avenue lodging house, indicated that she was killed while lying in bed.

Through Mrs. Anthony Deaneau, of No. 29 Moulton street, Lynn, the police learned facts in the early life of Mrs. Arnsztajn. According to her, Mrs. Arnsztajn was born in East Long Meadow, near Springfield, thirty-three years ago, and was taken to Menramcook, N. B., when she was five years old. She lived there until she was seventeen, when she was married to Arnsztajn. She then moved to Mount Pleasant, N. B., in 1915 or 1917 to East Saugus, where she and her husband lived.

Shortly afterward she and her husband separated. A short time later Pappas entered her life. The victim's husband is believed to be living in or near St. John.

General Obregon Has Given Instructions to Allow Him to Leave Country in Safety.

NUEVO LAREDO HOLDS CELEBRATION

Whistles Were Blown and Bells Rung on News That Monterrey Had Gone Over.

El Paso, Texas, May 13.—President Carranza of Mexico, is surrounded in desperate straits at Rinconada, near Esperanza Station, in the State of Coahuila, according to a telegram from General Alvaro Obregon, received tonight by Roberto Pesquera, financial agent for the revolutionists here. Instructions have been given to allow Carranza to leave the country in safety, General Obregon's message said.

"Carranza has not been made prisoner," the telegram, which was dated today, read. "He has been surrounded for the last three days, having fought at Rinconada, near Esperanza Station, and I think he cannot stand much longer."

"Orders have been sent to the officers directing the attack that they notify Carranza that he can go wherever he may be spared, offering him a guard to escort him to Vera Cruz, that he may leave the country and be free to reappear in Mexico."

"Colonel Crocco, noted for his criminal proceedings, has been captured at Seab, one of our naval units, together with General Jose Murguia. "As to the shooting of prisoners, which you refer, I can assure you that it is only newspaper talk, as we do not yet know the casualties to the enemy."

(Signed) A. Obregon. Charges that President Carranza has used the nation's resources to perjury and to buy "venal newspapers" are contained in a manifesto issued by General Obregon at Chihuahua, capital of Guerrero, in April, 1919. The last remaining stronghold of the Carranza Government about the Texas-Mexican border will be surrendered to the revolutionist forces Friday morning at nine o'clock. It was formally announced tonight following a series of conferences between General E. Reyes, revolutionary representative, and General Rafael Calles, Carranza commander of Matamoros.

The source of the message is not known here, nor has the capture of Monterrey by rebels been confirmed in Nuevo Laredo. The wire declared Carranzists forces retired without firing a shot before the advance of rebels at ten o'clock last night.

Watt, treasurer of the Australian Commonwealth in England. Mr. Watt arrived in London this week and has given out a number of interviews in which he urged closer co-operation between Great Britain and the Dominion, and emphasized Australia's determination to remain a "white man's country."

At a dinner, given in his honor, which was attended by Viscount Milner, secretary of the Colonies, and numerous other men in public life, Watt in an address said: "The dominant thought in our minds has been that in South Eastern Asia five eight hundred million colored people, and the Australian people say that whatever can be done to keep our country for such as the British and their children, should be done."

"We know that we could not repel an armed assault by the great yellow or brown nations, but we believe that in the fullness of time, the Statesmen of the Empire will understand our attitude and assist us to enforce it."

"If there are conversations in the near future between the Empire and the British Government, the Australian people want their views registered before the responsible thinkers in the home of our Empire."

THE QUESTION OF MARITIME UNION AGAIN

Dr. Baxter and Mr. H. J. Logan Give Spirited Addresses on the Subject at Moncton Club.

POINTING OUT THE MANY ADVANTAGES

Special to The Standard. Moncton, N. B., May 13.—Addressing the Canadian Club here tonight, Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, K. C., of St. John, and H. J. Logan, Esq., of Amherst, put forward strong arguments in favor of Maritime Union. Hon. Mr. Baxter, who spoke first, declared that the lesson drawn from the meeting of statesmen at Charlottetown in 1864 to bring about the union of the Maritime Provinces, but which finally resulted in the confederation of the Dominion of Canada, should be a determining factor in the future of the Maritime Union of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. Hon. Mr. Baxter declared there was no mutual co-ordination between the various legislators of the Maritime Provinces a condition that would be remedied by Maritime Union. The Union was not a political issue, the speaker said, and he would be willing to accept any united government, be it Great Britain, or the United States, or a steady falling away in population of the Maritime Provinces, as compared with the increase in the West and asked where the provinces in favor of going to end. Hon. Mr. Baxter did not look so much at the benefits to be gained in an economic sense, as at the political issue, from a political point of view. Under Maritime Union the united government could go to Ottawa as a unit, with one common aim and purpose, not to ask for favors, but for the Maritime Province rights. As an incidental benefit to be secured, Hon. Mr. Baxter said that in getting a new charter for the United Provinces, in all fairness, seek a re-adjustment of financial stipulations. They could ask for a wiping out of the debt on any one Dominion government which was a result of the Maritime Provinces' withholding from the Dominion their due, but said the blame was directly at the door of the provinces themselves. Now was the time, he affirmed, to do something of the whole utility of the movement would be lost.

Mr. Logan dwelt on the advantage of a unification of legislatures, and declared that unless there was a union of interests from the Maritime Provinces they would be swallowed up by the West in the very near future. Logan gave as an example where Maritime interests had been neglected, the fact that in the building of the great railways of the Dominion the Maritime Provinces had paid their full share of cost, but had not had over 300 miles of road laid down in the provinces, outside the International. A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker on motion of Capt. J. E. Massey, seconded by Hon. C. W. Robinson.

Protestant Orphans' Home Annual Meeting

Board Met Last Evening and Received Reports—Much Has Been Accomplished During Year—Directors Elected.

The appointment of a committee to consider and develop schemes for a larger and a permanent institution was among the business transacted at the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Protestant Orphan Home held last evening in the Board of Trade rooms. P. H. Estabrooks, the chairman, presided, and there was a large attendance.

On account of the absence of Henry C. Rankin, treasurer, his report will not be presented until a later date.

Dr. Morison, Chairman of the Standing Committee, presented a very interesting report of the year's activities of his committee. During the past year the field of their labor had been enlarged and the Martello Hotel had been acquired as an annex to the parent home on British street. This added labor had increased their responsibility and because of the varying ages of the children admitted had been the cause of much anxiety. Fifteen children had been admitted to the British street Home. One boy in hospital awaiting the issue of a medical certificate and one girl has been approved of and a medical permit issued. With the 21 boys and 22 girls already in the home this will make a total of 46. Dr. Morison paid a high tribute to the Menial membership of Miss Frost. There had been 40 children admitted to the West Side home during the year, 16 infants and 24 older children, 12 had been returned to the custody of their guardians leaving 37 children at present in the home. There were a number of applications unapproved and he begged the new standing committee to give these applications prompt attention. Mention was made of the general good health of the children due to the right rules requiring medical examination. The chairman in his report mentioned the names of the following ladies: Mrs. McLellan, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Secord and Miss Smith, saying that they had been most faithful in the performance of their duties.

The report concluded with several recommendations: (1) that standing committee consist of 4 men and 3 ladies with the duties of investigating applications, dealing with applications for the adoption of children and finding suitable homes for wards of the institution; (2) applications for admission for illegitimate children to be not received unless the guardians or parent allows child to become a ward of the institution; (3) No Roman Catholic child be admitted unless parent or guardian renounces all claim to the child.

J. King Kelly moved, seconded by W. H. Golding, that a note of thanks be extended to the standing committee. This motion was carried unanimously. In extending the vote of thanks the chairman remarked that it was a source of wonder to him how Dr. Morison found time to devote to other duties so energetic was in the performance of his duties on the standing committee.

W. H. Golding spoke of the recent campaign for funds which, he said, was rather an educational campaign. Literature dealing with the work of the institution had been distributed all over the Province.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Golding for the splendid work he had done in this campaign.

J. A. Likely, reporting for the Building Committee said that the British street institution was in good shape but many small repairs were necessary on the home in West Side. He felt there should be a special man for the Carleton home.

Resolutions of thanks were passed to David Hipwell who had been so energetic in the discharge of his duties; to Hon. J. K. Fleming, Woodstock, who furnished two rooms in the West Side Home; to L. O. L. K. of P. I. O. O. E., and all the societies who had so generously donated to the institution.

CARRANZA'S POLICY TOWARDS STATES

Was One of "National Suicide," According to Oregon—Wants Border Like That of Canada.

Mexico City, May 9.—(Sunday), by the Associated Press. The New Mexican states toward the United States was "national suicide." General Alvaro Obregon declared Sunday evening to the Associated Press, in the first exclusive interview given a Foreign correspondent since he joined the Revolutionary forces after fleeing from Mexico City April 11.

"My ideal for the relations between Mexico and the United States is to make the international border like the Canadian boundary, withdrawing troops, except custom officials," he said.

General Obregon plainly showed the strain under which he has been laboring for more than six months. He was hoarse as he talked, his voice was hoarse, a sun-baked face, heavily shadowed with white, covered his face. Outside the little hotel in Tacubaya, a suburb, where he was making temporary headquarters, the narrow street was jammed with automobiles and spectators.

The revolution was a moral and not an armed revolt, General Obregon said, and his followers had been given strict orders to guard private rights and to take nothing without the consent of the owners, and payment being made; that he had not named any provisional government officials and had issued strict orders that supporters of Carranza should not be harmed physically.

The Liberal Constitutional Revolutionary movement General Obregon affirmed, was a nation-wide "moral" protest against the tactics of the Carranza regime in attempting to impose Gnaccho Bonillas, former Mexican Ambassador to the United States, as the next president, after having imposed State governments of his own choosing upon the people, notably in San Luis Potosi, Tamaulipas, Queretaro, Nuevo Leon and Guansajuato."

SYDNEY COUNCIL GIVES WELCOME TO AID. HEAPS

Gives His Version to Audience of 500 People of the Recent Winnipeg Strike Trouble.

Sydney, N. S., May 13.—At a mass meeting of labor, held in the Curling rink this evening, at which about five hundred were present, an official welcome, on behalf of the Council of the city of Sydney, was extended to Aid A. Heaps, of Winnipeg, a labor leader, by Labor aldermen of the Board. Besides a version, given by Aid Heaps, of the recent Winnipeg labor trouble, the features of the meeting were a scathing denunciation of the attitude of the Sydney Ministerial Association, uttered by J. C. Waters, in regard to the condemnation by that body of the City Council's action in welcoming strike leaders to Sydney, and a strongly worded speech by Aid. Angus J. McDonald, of Sydney, in which he outlined his reasons for presenting to the City Council the resolution of civic welcome for Aid. Heaps and decried those who have criticized him for the action.

Resolutions were passed, in which the meeting went on record as being in disagreement with the recent decision of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in refusing to support action to bring the case of convicted strike leaders before the Privy Council for trial, and as being in favor of allowing the strike leaders mentioned freedom of bail until such a time as trial by the Privy Council is granted.

The first speaker of the evening was Aid. Angus J. McDonald, who, in his introductory remarks, defined his attitude towards Winnipeg strikes and his own position as a labor representative in supporting the resolution which officially welcomed Aid. Heaps to Sydney.

Wid. Aid. Heaps was presented to the meeting; he was accorded a tremendous ovation. Beginning, he dealt with the criticism directed towards his acceptance of a reception of the city, remarking that he had expected only a welcome from the ranks of labor. This he had received. The city of Sydney was not the only place where civil administration had exceeded the hand of welcome. The Mayor of Fort McMurray had presided over a meeting at which he was present. At Edmonton the Mayor was present on the platform. "I have been called a black and white man," he said, "here, yet the 35,000 people who elected me to represent them in the Winnipeg Council do not look upon me as entirely undesirable."

Proceeding, he dealt with the Winnipeg strike, tracing it from its advent to the clash caused by Government intervention and the arrest of its leaders. Regarding the arrest of strike leaders as undesirable, he said: "I don't know that when the shackles went on their wrists that they were not to shackle them, but the labor movement. Orders were issued which made clear to the strike leaders that the strike might be repressed. The jury which tried me was picked by the Crown prosecutor had no access, a procedure unknown before in Canadian history. Contrary to British constitution, we were looked upon as guilty men. We were convicted so that the Government might justify our wrongful arrest in the eyes of the people. Winnipeg strikers went to jail because of the ideals they represented, the ideals which are the same as those held by workers over the whole of Canada."

At the conclusion of Aid. Heaps' address J. C. Waters was called upon to make a motion that the meeting protest against the action of the Trades and Labor Congress in refusing to support the carrying of the case of imprisoned strikers to the Privy Council.

HARRISON PAYS DEATH PENALTY FOR THE MURDER

Of George Griffiths, an Invalidated Canadian Soldier, on September 7, 1918, in New York.

Ostling, N. Y., May 13.—(By Canadian Press)—Richard Harrison and Chester Cantine were hanged in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison tonight. Cantine was the first to be executed. Harrison was brought to the chair two minutes after Cantine was pronounced dead.

The electrocution today of Richard Harrison, aged twenty-four, more familiarly known as "Ricky," more for his notorious career of the man who led a gang of henchmen which murdered George J. Griffiths, aged thirty-eight, an invalidated Canadian soldier, on September 7, 1918. The murder took place during the halcyon of the Knickerbocker Waiters' Club, 687 Sixth Avenue, New York, at 415 a. m.

Twenty members of the club were in the building at the time five hold-up men entered, headed by "Ricky" Harrison, and in response to a command "put up your hands" given by the leader, the twenty men were lined up against the wall and relieved of their money and valuables. The robbers took $700 in cash, and jewelry amounting to $2,000, all of which was afterwards recovered from Harrison, who conducted the search of the victims.

During the process of robbing the club members, Harrison took a fancy to a signet ring worn by Max Pincus. The ring was not removable as it had been worn by Pincus for a number of years, and the deed had grown around it. Harrison then threatened to break Pincus' finger and his throat, was succeeded by a punch on Harrison's nose, inflicted by George Pritchard, another club member. A mix-up followed, in the midst of which the police arrived in response to an alarm given by Chas. D. Henshall, manager of the club, who had previously escaped through a window.

During the melee one of the bandits Euro De Primo, aged 25, was shot and killed. Policeman Bertram Maschall fought a gun fight with the gang, the gang holding him at bay from the head of the stairs. He succeeded, however, in wounding Harrison and Gustave Gullabue, aged 19. Two others escaped. Gullabue is now serving life imprisonment. He was found guilty of murder in the second degree, and at his trial confessed to the part he played in the shooting of Pritchard, who was an Englishman by birth, was fatally wounded by a bullet which struck him in the head, when he was going to the assistance of a fellow club member. He died later at the hospital.

Since Harrison was sentenced to death on October 4 at the General Sessions, his counsel has made several applications for a new trial on his behalf, all of which were refused. The final attempt took the form of an application for a writ of certiorari on May 5, which was denied by Justice Richard P. Lydon in Supreme Court.

GEN. CURRIE PRESENTED WITH SWORD OF HONOR

And Illuminated Address at Banquet in His Honor Given in Montreal.

Montreal, May 13.—Officers, who served under General Currie in France took advantage of his presence in Montreal yesterday in connection with his appointment to the Principality of McGill University, to present him a sword of honor and an illuminated address at a banquet at the University Club last night. The historic significance of the latter is apparent when it is stated that it bears the signature of every officer who held an independent command or appointment in the Canada Corps when the "cease fire" sounded.

The sword bears on its blade the inscription: "To General Sir Arthur William Currie, G. C. M. G., K. C. B., Commanding Canadian Army Corps, from officers holding commands and staff appointments on November 11th 1918, as a token of their regard and deep admiration for his magnificent services to Canada and the Empire in the great war."

The address is signed by some six Major-Generals, 22 Brigadier-Generals, nine Colonels and 109 Lieutenant-Colonels, and it praises not only "his military knowledge" and "unquestionable judgment" but also the "human feeling" as evidence in "the marked care displayed at all times" for the comfort and well-being of his men.

General Currie, in his acknowledgment, showed a profound appreciation of this esteem and suggested that the men who had passed through those experiences would be equal to playing their part in the tests of the future.

The problems of today, General Currie continued, were grave and difficult in many respects, but approached in a spirit of good-will and tolerance and sympathy and with the same ideals as had actuated them overseas, there was no reason why they should not find a solution. The general drew a parallel between the organization that was necessary in the Army and for the work connected with McGill University.

The chair was taken by Major-General Sir H. E. Burstall, K. C. M. G., of Quebec, who made the presentation to the guest of the evening.

COLD WEATHER HAMPERS FARMERS

Moncton, N. B., May 13.—The backward weather prevailing in Eastern New Brunswick is having a discouraging effect upon the farmers whose preparations to crop, on a somewhat larger scale than last year, may have to be considerably curtailed as a consequence of the shorter seeding period. Only in a few places has a start been made in preparing the soil for seeding. Unless there should be a change to warmer and finer weather very soon there will be a considerable shortage in farm production in this section in comparison with last year.

DIGBY TO PROTECT ITS DUMB ANIMALS

Digby, N. S., May 13.—There was an interesting meeting last evening in the Court House of those interested in the prevention of cruelty. The S. P. C. A. agent, C. A. Jordan, told of some of the cases he had looked into during the past six months. As a result of the meeting, a branch of the S. P. C. A. will likely be organized, and a meeting for that purpose will be held in the Town Hall on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Shore expect to leave on the 20th for an extended trip to the West. The former will attend the Fisheries Convention, to be held in Vancouver, and en route they will visit at Winnipeg and Calgary. Mr. Shore expects to return in about a week, but will remain in Vancouver, somewhat longer in Vancouver, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Margeson.

Rev. Dr. Ross, of Halifax, and the Rev. G. Layton, of Kentville, were in Digby this week on business connected with the Presbyterian Church. The Presbytery of Halifax recommended that the Bay View congregation be united with the Methodist Church, on the plan of co-operation agreed upon by the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches of Canada.

Steps are now being taken for the consummation of the local union and will, in all probability, be fully ratified at the Municipal District meeting early in June.

WILL ORGANIZE SOCIETY WITH THE LONG NAME—METHODISTS AND PRESBYTERIANS TO UNITE.

A committee was appointed to nominate the directors which resulted in the following being elected: T. H. Estabrooks, H. C. Rankin, J. A. Likely, W. H. Golding, C. H. Peters, David Hipwell, W. M. Campbell, F. A. Kinneer, Dr. Morison, Rev. E. H. Cochrane, Moncton, and J. H. Fleming, Fredericton. Mrs. D. McLellan, Mrs. J. S. McLaren, Miss Estabrooks, Mrs. Vassie, Mrs. F. N. Stetson, Mrs. F. W. Murray, Miss Gunn, Mrs. E. Raymond, Mrs. E. A. Young, Mrs. J. E. Secord, Mrs. C. B. Allen, Mrs. F. J. Harding, Miss Helen Sydney-Smith.

W. M. Campbell brought up the matter of the permanent project of the directors. He felt that the meeting should not adjourn without giving some expression of their intentions and that a committee should be appointed to consider the matter.

J. King Kelly spoke along the same lines, saying that the time had come when they must broaden out. The Martello Home was only a temporary one, a permanent home with provincial association was needed. The West Side home was only filling a gap.

Judge Forbes moved, seconded by J. King Kelly that a committee of five be appointed to consider and develop a scheme for a permanent institution and report at an early date to the Board. This motion was carried and the following committee appointed: J. S. Fisher, D. C. Clarke, David Hipwell and J. King Kelly.

There was some discussion on the matter of admission of children but the majority that the entry system necessitating a rigid medical examination was the best and was the reason for the exceptional good health among the children.

Labor conditions had also been a disturbing factor in the past but it is understood that from now on no inconvenience will be encountered from that quarter.

HOW TO CLEAR THE WAR DEBT OF BRITAIN

Noted English Financier Advocates Annual Reduction by Production.

ARGUMENTS USED IN GERMANY'S FAVOR

Apply With Equal Force to Domestic Debt of Great Britain.

Cross-Atlantic News Service. (Copyright) By Sir Oswald Stoll, Chairman of the London Coliseum, and a leading authority on High Finance.

London, May 13.—Be as kind to the Germans! As you are asked to do by the Germans!

It proves not only that Germany could not pay £2,000,000,000 under the solemnity clauses of the peace treaty but that even were the sum reduced to £2,000,000,000 and £500,000,000 of this sum set off against the arrears of property under the treaty, Germany could not even then pay the balance of £1,500,000,000, ending it were not to carry interest pending its payment, and were payable in thirty annual instalments of £50,000,000 be payable in 1923.

This statement is quite true, as events will prove. But why cannot Germany pay under the terms of the peace treaty? Because her mode of payment involves the accumulation of the bulk of both interest and principal as compound interest, and at 5 per cent compound interest, a capital sum doubles itself in 14 years.

As Mr. Keynes rightly judges: "It is as certain as anything can be that Germany cannot pay anything approaching this sum" in that time.

Nevertheless, there is nothing in his book to prove that Germany could not pay the whole of the indemnity of £2,000,000,000 without interest, by 350 payments of £50,000,000 per annum, instead of £1,500,000,000 by thirty such payments.

It cannot be contended seriously that Germany cannot pay 1s. per annum per head of her population (the 10s. decreasing inversely with any increase in the number of heads).

The point is that Germany cannot pay unless she is relieved of the stupendous effects of compound interest. But what about the enormous obligations of the working section of ourselves (the British people) to the investing section?

Are not those obligations accumulating at compound interest just the same?

The nation as a whole has undertaken to pay them to the investing section. It is, therefore, in honor bound to pay! But can it possibly pay without a striking modification of the financial system underlying industry? Its war debt of victory is £2,000,000,000.

But who is asking that over £50,000,000 per annum for 160 years shall be paid?

Who is pointing out that even that would be a greater hardship on one section of the British population of 45,000,000 than upon the whole of the German population of nearly twice that number? Are not the British people being told that if they consume less, spend less, produce more, they will be able to redeem this debt of £2,000,000,000—a greater debt than Germany's war debt, plus an indemnity of £2,000,000,000.

When the war debt and privately invested capital, which drew interest and redemption, were limited to pre-war dimensions, one-third of the population was constantly on the verge of starvation.

Today the war debt is all times greater in amount and the section of the community which must grind out the return upon them is actually smaller. The development of machine power per man makes production capacity greater only in such occupations as lend themselves to machine power.

Halifax Man Now Has No Use for Crutches Since Tanlac Has Relieved Him of Rheumatism.

Some of the older residents in St. John's, remember William Weatherdon, who left here about twenty-five years ago, and went to live in Halifax, N. S. He still resides there at 113 Agricola St., and recently made the following statement which will be read with great interest.

"I feel I ought to let everybody know how Tanlac has relieved me of rheumatism, for I doubt if anyone has suffered more from it than I have during the last ten years. I used to ache all over with a steady, throbbing pain that drove me almost frantic. At times I couldn't bend my knees, or flexibly to get my coat on and it was only with great pain and difficulty that I could stoop over. My feet swelled up so that I was unable to put my shoes on and my knees got so stiff that I was only able to get around the house with the help of a crutch. My hands got all out of shape and I couldn't use them and at night my whole body ached so I couldn't sleep a wink and often would just sit in my armchair before the fire the whole night through.

"That was the state I was in when I started taking Tanlac, and I want to say that the way the medicine helped me was simply wonderful. I've taken seven bottles of it altogether, and the rheumatism seems to have left my system entirely. Today, I haven't got an ache or a pain in my body, and all the stiffness and the swelling has left my joints. I no longer need crutches to get about and although I am working every day, exposed to all kinds of weather, the rheumatism never gives me a bit of trouble. Never in my life have I known a medicine do what Tanlac has done for me, and I strongly recommend it to all who suffer as I did."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Company and the leading drug list in every town, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—A.D.V.

NOTORIETY SEEKER TO SHOOT NIAGARA IN STEEL BARREL

Bristol Barber Wants to Emulate Example Set in 1886—Special Air Apparatus in Barrel.

(Cross-Atlantic News Service. Copyright) Bristol, May 12.—Kicking a buxky man lion in its den, swinging by one leg from a parachute, and placidly shaving customers in a cage of wild animals, has still left Charles Stevens, 56, a Bristol barber, unshaken with life.

He is going to try to break the wearying monotony by shooting America's Niagara Falls in a barrel. If that fails to arouse him from his lethargy, he said here today, he will be quite at a loss to know what to do in this grab world.

Stevens sails for America shortly with a specially constructed steel barrel in which he will make his tranquil sojourn down the Falls.

The redoubtable barber, who is married, is five feet nine and a half inches in height. His barrel will be six feet two inches high, allowing for a head and feet. It is to be weighted at the bottom with a 100-pound weight to keep it upright if the Falls will permit. Special breathing apparatus is being installed by submarine engineers.

The barrel over the Falls has been blazed for Stevens. In 1886, '87 and 1901 barrel passages were made. Previously, in 1853, a Captain Webb came to a terrible end in attempting to swim the rapids; while in '86 William J. Kendall, in a cork vest, struggled through with his life. The 1901 adventure was achieved by a woman, Maude Willard, whose barrel was sucked under and so lashed about that she suffered terrible injuries and died shortly thereafter. The next month another woman succeeded in the same attempt.

In 1911 Bobby Leach, 69 years of age, "leaped" the Falls in a steel barrel. "No more Niagara," was his first word on emerging from his barrel. Blondie's tight rope crossing is remembered.

The total production capacity falls far short of the colossal requirements, and a desperate conflict between the investing and working section of the community is being rendered inevitable by the folly which expects that these requirements can possibly be met without help on equally colossal lines for the productive working section of the nation!

Now, just as it is being asked that Germany shall give promises to pay which shall bear no interest, but be redeemed by 30 or more equal annual instalments of the capital sum which these promises to pay are to represent, I have, during the past five years, been asking that promises to pay which shall bear no interest shall be permitted to British producers, and be redeemed by them by a specific number of annual instalments totalling the capital sum which these promises to pay are to represent.

IMPERIAL WAR MUSEUM MOST INTERESTING

Will be Opened in Crystal Palace by King in June and Last Four Years.

OVER TEN THOUSAND EXHIBITS ARRANGED

London, May 12.—Spectators hearing the inscriptions "Hull's Cove," "Ploccally" and "Hale Avenue," erected by British troops just behind the front lines in France, are among the more than 10,000 exhibits being assembled at Crystal Palace, London, to form the Imperial War Museum. It will be opened by the King in June and will continue for four years.

Exhibits innumerable have been gathered from every land where the war cast its spell to show the common effort of the Empire during the great conflict. Shortly after the signing of the armistice, the memorable signposts mentioned were found discarded as lumber. In addition to those bearing "street" names, which, to many of the men who knew them best, had meant so many direction posts to the military hostilities, the anti-aircraft pom-pom, which, mounted at Gresham College, fired the first shot in London since the Roman invasion—the direction being the Zeppelin raid in September, 1916,—and scores of other exhibits which have equally vivid associations.

The larger pieces of ordnance, some of which weigh 14 tons, are being arranged on a floor of the spectacle hall. But the galleries will hold displays of equal, if not greater interest. These include war paintings and trench implements, realistic scenic models and protective devices and courses that throw an illuminating light on conditions which existed in the German army. Some of these are amusing, some tragic.

There is a cycle with a dynamo attachment for lighting an officer's dug-out upon which two of the worst of fenders had to sit in shifts and pedal in order that those within might have illumination while they devised new plans of aggression.

Far less amusing is a specimen of the enemy's "bear trap." A soldier exploring No-Man-Land, slipped into its ugly spikes, concealed in the grass, and escape from their grip was virtually hopeless.

Looking at the Hfeborns of the Lusitania, the shattered funnel of the Vendictive, the portion of the Zebruce and the formidable mines that bestowed the Dardanelles, the exhibit will recall to "those who were there" many chapters of a great epic.

Japanese Emigration Growing. Tokyo, May 12.—According to investigations of the Foreign Office 150,000 Japanese are living in the United States, 110,000 in Hawaii, 60,000 in China proper, 31,000 in Brazil, and 70,000 in other countries, the total being 480,000. This is an increase of 90,000 as compared with that of 1914.

PRINCE OF WALES' CANADIAN TOUR

(Cross-Atlantic News Service. Copyright) London, May 12.—The London public has just been afforded an opportunity of seeing the filmed record of the tour of the Prince of Wales in Canada.

The film was shown at a theatre on Regent street. It had previously been shown before the King and Queen at Albert Hall. The film is the one made by the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company, but has been considerably revised in order that a comprehensive idea of the Prince's tour might be given in an hour. Londoners were enthusiastic over the reception given by all sections of the Dominion, as shown by the film.

GLASGOW FRIENDS SENDS GREETINGS ON JUBILEE APPEAL

Hate off to The Salvation Army! An Organization that after fifty years of work emerges from its war activities as strong as ever demands our admiration. There is no social savor that it does not attempt to heal; it does a work that no one else will undertake. It has, of course, some critics, but what are they compared to its host of friends.

The Church, too, has paid its tribute. Spurgeon declared that "if The Salvation Army were wiped out of London 5,000 extra policemen could not fill its place in the repression of crime and disorder."

And what is the secret of The Army's success? Nothing but earnestness. Its workers live quiet, modest lives. No one can say that they benefit financially by their association with the great Organization. They get no more than a mere living wage. The Army is wedded to poverty; it lives from hand to mouth. It practices perhaps the most genuine Socialism that the world has ever seen. Renunciation is the watchword.

And what tragedy and pathos lie behind its activities. Its Officers tackle the roughest proposition in the foulest surroundings. They arrest the would-be suicide, they train the tramps' children for honest work; its women do not hesitate to tackle the

THE END OF HIGH PRICES?

The New York firm of Wanamakers recently advertised a reduction sale of 20 per cent. which on livestock proved to be a genuine one. The goods were not first marked up, and then discounted, but the reduction was found to be from the regular sale prices. Experts decided that the only explanation for this phenomenon is that the turn of the high price tide is in sight, and that shrewd merchants are beginning to unload before there comes a decided reaction.

We sadly fear there is no very great reason to anticipate any general decline in prices as yet; in fact the index number for the last month shows the contrary to be the case. When any reduction does come, it will not be due to any one cause, but to several, and the effect will be cumulative. This is in itself an important consideration, because there will probably be no collapse of prices as such, but a gradual falling off until the normal is reached. There will not, however, be any definite falling off in prices as long as people continue to buy just what they need, and they will have to buy just what they need, without any regard to the amount they are asked to pay for the things. Not until people make up their minds to buy only what they imperatively require, and as little of that as possible, can any general reduction be looked for.

There are some people of course who are so situated that they have been compelled to follow this policy all along, but we doubt if it is generally true that those who have been easy spenders are altering their ways to a great extent. There are just as many automobiles being purchased as ever there were, notwithstanding that the cost of them has increased considerably of late, women are wearing just as expensive clothes as ever they did; pleasure seekers are just as active as ever; in fact zeal for economy is conspicuous by its absence. Speaking generally, money is plentiful; wages are high and employment not hard to find if a man really looks for it. Few are attempting to save; money goes as easily as it comes. Under these circumstances, it is scarcely to be expected that there will be any real falling off in prices; as long as people have money and are willing to spend it, those who have goods to sell will take advantage of the conditions they find.

THE EQUAL RIGHTS QUESTION.

One Miss Jessie Muir, the head of the modern languages department of the Ottawa Collegiate Institute, has resigned her position as a protest against the adoption by the College Board of a teachers' salary schedule, which places the maximum salary that may be paid to a female head of a department at $400 less than the amount that may be paid to a male head, and also below the maximum of male assistants.

Miss Muir takes the position that she cannot accept a distinction which the Board has made between men and women teachers with the same qualifications and doing the same work. Evidently the Board, in adhering to its schedule, is also concerned only with the principle at issue, for there is no question of immediate expenditure involved. Miss Muir is not complaining about her present salary. The distinction made by the Board is in the maximum, and the effect would not be felt financially for a few years.

We realize that we may be taking our life in our hands when we express the view that the Board is quite right in the course it has taken. Speaking generally, a man holding a $2,400 a year position, which is the salary payable to a male teacher in Miss Muir's position—a woman can receive $2,000 only—is the head of a household, with a wife and family to support, boys to educate and put out in business, and girls to maintain until they marry, or learn to keep themselves. A woman has not these liabilities. She may in some cases have a mother or an invalid sister to support, but even so, that is not such an undertaking as clothing and educating a family is for a man. A question may arise, should there be any difference on principle in the remuneration paid to a man and woman, given equal qualifications. It is claimed by many that there should not. In that case another question comes up. Should a woman be given a position in competition with a man who has a family to bring up when she has no such liability? Women—or the great majority of them, at any rate—are looking for husbands to provide them with a home and the various comforts of life, and are complaining that there are not enough men to go round. How do they expect to find them if positions which will enable a man to support a wife and family are to be given to women who, as a rule, have only themselves to keep? The course adopted by Miss Muir may be heroic, but it was rather foolish just the same.

HONORARY DEGREES.

It is announced that the Senate of the University of New Brunswick has decided that for the future the degree of Bachelor and Doctor of Civil Law shall be given to members of the legal profession only. This is perfectly right, but can the Senate explain why the same principle should not apply to the degree of Doctor of Laws? A man who takes a degree in any subject is usually supposed to be learned in the particular subject to which the degree refers, but this is not the case in the great majority of the instances in which the LL.D. is conferred. Why choose a purely law degree by handing it out to men who know absolutely nothing about that subject? If it is desired to decorate any particular individual by providing him with a handle to his name, why not make him a Doctor of Philosophy, which may mean anything and is wide enough to cover every branch of learning. No man is given an M. D. or a D. D. unless he is either a physician or a clergyman. Why, then, give a law degree to men who are not lawyers? Any man can be a philosopher—of sorts, but it needs learning to make a lawyer.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.

Premier Foster announces that to maintain a free employment bureau would cost $30,000, of which the Province would be called upon to contribute half, that would be $15,000. He also says that the cities of Fredericton and Moncton are willing to contribute a quarter of this amount, and we presume the city of St. John would be quite ready to do the same. That would reduce the amount to be provided by the Province to $7,500. Now, is the Premier going to contend that this sum is more than the Government can afford to find for so desirable an object as helping returned men and others to find employment? There was no hesitation on the part of the Government when the grant of an additional $24,000 was made to increase the seasonal indemnity of the Legislators, or to creating another portfolio at $2,100, but when it comes to doing something to help the returned men, the Government cannot afford any money. What do the returned men themselves think about it?

THE IRISH "REPUBLIC."

In State convention assembled the Democrats of Connecticut have demanded that the United States shall recognize the Irish "republic." Similar action was taken by the Democrats of Rhode Island, and it is expected that the New York Democratic convention will do likewise, for its chairman will be Bourke Cochran, long noted as a twister of the British lion's tail. In Congress a few days ago, a New Jersey representative offered a resolution requesting President Wilson to refuse to recognize Sir Auckland Geddes as Ambassador from Great Britain, but to recognize Dr. Patrick McCartan, who has been nominated by the Sinn Feiners as their diplomatic representative to the United States. These related incidents give one rather a low opinion of the Irish-Americans in the United States. The idea is, of course, to attract Sinn Fein and various other hyperbated votes to the Democratic candidates, and if so transparent a trick can succeed the Irish-American voters must, as the Mail and Empire says, "be rather gone as intelligence." It is only fair to say that although the Democrats are the leaders in this game, the Republicans do not scorn it wholly. One of the speakers in behalf of Senator Johnson, of California, a candidate for the Republican nomination, devotes most of the time at his command to a denunciation of Great Britain, and it is chiefly on the ground that the League of Nations will be controlled by Great Britain that Senator Johnson opposes it.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Some Class Distinctions. Wise men are instructed by reason. Men of less understanding by experience. The most ignorant by necessity. And beasts by nature. —Cicero.

At the Shrine of the Tall Chimney.

The materialism of the city today is the null stone round the neck of democracy, which is dragging down and making it possible for a determined minority, through blackmail or corruption, to compel people to agree to give up the things they do not want. —Sir Auckland Geddes.

'Good Riddance'—A. B. C. Opinion.

(Victoria Times.) According to a despatch from Winnipeg the orthodox Mennonite Church colonies in Manitoba and Saskatchewan expect to depart from Canada this summer and establish a great colony in the Mississippi Valley. The decision has been reached, says the Winnipeg Tribune, because the sect in general has the right to retain special privileges in the conduct of its schools, added to which is the apprehension that public opinion eventually will wrest from it exemption from military service in time of war.

The Legislative Indemnity.

Arrangement is made from Toronto that members of the provincial legislature are prepared to accept a "compromise" of $2,000 instead of $2,400 for their session's "work." This is very considerate of them and we are sure the people of Ontario will be deeply grateful to them for their kind concession.

THE EXHIBITION.

It is very satisfactory to learn that the St. John Exhibition Association intends to resume the holding of its biennial fair again this season. It is now six years ago since the last one was held, and people will be glad to see another. These exhibitions, properly conducted, are capable of doing an enormous amount of good; they stimulate interest in production, the breeding of live stock and the growth of grain and roots, and they promote a healthy rivalry among the agricultural community. At the present time this interest cannot be too great, for never in the history of agriculture was there such a pressing need for production in all lines to exceed its previous high-water mark. While of course it is necessary to pay a certain amount of regard to the amusement side of these exhibitions, it is to be hoped that the Executive will not overlook the fact that the exhibition is primarily intended as an agricultural and industrial one—at least it is on that account that the Government gives its grant; and that instruction and the dissemination of knowledge, and not amusement only, should be the leading consideration.

GROW "SPUDS."

The present shortage in the supply of potatoes, and the consequent high price that they are bringing, may lead some farmers to market more than they can properly spare, having regard to their seed requirements. If this should be the case, it will mean that the successful sower will be both scarce and costly again next winter. In view of this possible outlook, therefore, it would be advisable for everyone who has any vacant ground—no matter how small—now to plant sufficient potatoes to supply his own household requirements later on. An eighth of an acre (20 yards by 20) will need about a barrel of seed, and will produce at least ten barrels later on, which will probably allow of the sale of enough of them to pay all expenses, after making full provision for the family needs.

BRITISH IMPERIAL VIEWPOINT ALTERS

Those Who Live Overseas Have Better Ideal of Empire Than Those in England.

London, May 10.—In an editorial which discusses Lord Jellicoe's appointment as Governor-General of New Zealand, and describes the same as a direct acknowledgement of the part played by that dominion in the war, the Times goes on to refer to the fact pointed out at a meeting of the Royal Colonial Institute, that only one third of the members of the institute belong to the United Kingdom.

In one sense it is undoubtedly true as was said by Sir George Perley, the Times continues, that the ideal of Empire is closer to those who live overseas than to those who live in the heart of the Empire. Anyone who knows the dominions will agree

RIVER WHARVES NOT TAKEN OVER

It will be recalled that a short time ago the statement was made that the matter of the transfer of certain wharves on the St. John River and tributaries had been settled. The following letter from the Deputy Minister of Public Works for the Dominion shows just how far that statement was justified:
8th May, 1920.
Dear Sir—
Replying to yours of the 5th instant, asking information in regard to the situation with respect to the Federal Government taking over wharves on the River St. John, belonging to the Provincial Government of New Brunswick, I may say that there was some negotiations in the year 1918 with this object in view, and reports were obtained from the Department's Engineers in whose districts the wharf properties were situated as to the class and volume of traffic served by the wharves, the population benefitting therefrom and other information as to the commercial necessity for the work.
As a result of the examination and the negotiations referred to, the Provincial Government passed Orders-in-Council transferring certain wharves to the Dominion Government.
The next step in the matter would be the passing of an Order-in-Council by the Dominion Government to accept transfer of these wharves and liability for their future maintenance and operation.
Up to the present, however, the Dominion Government has not seen its way to accept this liability, and so far as this Department's information goes at the present time, if the wharves which the Provincial Government desire transferred to the Dominion are accepted, it would involve an immediate expenditure of something like eighty-seven thousand dollars on the part of the Dominion, which sum would cover only for one or two seasons.
Yours truly,
J. B. HUNTER,
Deputy Minister of Public Works.

The valedictory was delivered by Hilton D. Bickelmeier and was as follows:
Your Honor, Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate, Mr. President and Members of the Associated Alumni, Mr. Chancellor and Members of the Faculty, Fellow Students, Ladies and Gentlemen:
Another college year has passed beyond recall with its failures and successes, with ambitions that have not been attained, and we of the class of 1920 stand with our feet upon the threshold of the open door about to step out into "the wide, wide world." For forty years this day has been our goal, toward it we have looked with expectancy and put forth our best endeavor, and it has ultimately been reached. We have listened to the "Well done" of our chancellor, but, even now, other scenes, other pursuits await us and we realize that we have made simply a beginning. Our goal has receded and we must now employ our cherished theories to cope with the stern realities of that larger life for which this has been but a preparation.
Before we gaze sadly from the battle of our times away, it is in order for us to review the history of the class. In the autumn of 1916, as freshmen, we entered this life of study and were subjected to a mild form of indoctrination by the sophomores and learned that in college life "the first great law is—to obey." We entered upon the more year "proud of our student profession." Our number had been diminished by ten and through at this time the whole student body numbered barely forty, what was lacking was made up in spirit. A brief sojourn had developed a feeling of loyalty to all that pertained to U.N.B. and of responsibility for maintaining her honors. Custom had made us the leaders of the freshmen and we were suitably vigilant lest harm should in any way befall them. We had at that time, perhaps, an undue amount of confidence in our ability, yet it is to be hoped that we stood for the enforcement of our unwritten laws in such a manner as to bring about a clean, well-ordered college life.
During those trying days in 1917 consequent upon the submarine losses of the freshmen, the failure of the French offensive, the disaster which had overtaken the Italian arms and our own failure at Paschendaele and Cambrai, where the fighting men paid with their lives for the attainment of the higher command, during this somber period we endeavored to keep alive the college activities against the dawn of a brighter day. Enoecenia Day, 1918, with the fortunes of the Allies appearing to be in the ascendant, found it rather doubtful if the old college would be able to open its doors in the fall.
But had we known, even then the tide was turning. The long sought leader had been found, Marshal Poch, "the organizer of victory," had assumed the supreme command and defeat was to know us no more. And then the glorious Hundred Days which made the world safe for free peoples; these crowded hours of glorious life which will live for ever in our memory.
After the War.
When we returned to resume our work as juniors, the old college had secured a new lease of life. A large freshman class and the first of the returned students from overseas brought about this happy result. The ranks of our class were augmented by two of these men, making our number fifteen. On the successful conclusion of the war, all college functions were revived on a pre-war scale. For the second time, the impressive cords of the 1920 class responded with a junior sea; the annual "Con" was also revived with complete success.
Our senior year has been one of the most successful in the history of the college. In addition to the return of former students from overseas, there has been the largest enrollment of new students on record. We might now survey very briefly the events of the past year.
Much of the time at college must be spent on the purely academic subjects of the prescribed curriculum and yet the primary object of a college course is to fit us for the duties of life, and the development which comes to us from study is one-sided when not supplemented by that which is derived from an active participation in college affairs and the student societies. The undergraduate who does not link himself with some of these and give the man unqualified support has not only missed one of the most enjoyable phases of college life but has failed to develop some of those characteristics which make a resister man in practical contact with the world.

Not Such Extreme Styles In England

Cross-Atlantic News Service. (Copy right.)
London, May 12.—"A great many of the terrible crimes of the present day are occasioned by the wicked dress of women. Look at the crime all over the world just because of the way women dress, arousing the evil in men. I want to raise my voice against the shameless dress worn by women at every opportunity."
This is the keynote of a scathing evangelized campaign being waged with increasing ardor here by American evangelists headed by Mrs. Alma White.
Mrs. White, who has opened a "Pillar of Fire" mission at Westminster, continued as follows:
"I intend to condemn with all my strength the extremely short skirts and low cut necks, said to appeal to women to be more careful in their respects. Plain dressing is the direct command of the Bible, and the women who are violating the Scriptural injunctions on this matter are causing untold misery and evil wherever they go."
Mrs. White has somewhat softened her assault on English women by conceding that she did not "find such extreme styles here as in New York, where such wickedness of dress prevails."

HAS HOPES FOR THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Manchester, Eng., May 12.—(Associated Press.)—Lord Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England and former Ambassador to Washington, talks hopefully of the prospects of a League of Nations.
"Whether the League becomes a weapon for the preservation of peace, or withers and dies, does not depend upon the government of statesmen or politicians, but upon the peoples of the member countries," he told the Manchester Chamber of Commerce.
"In time to come, if the public of the various countries will put their hearts and minds to the work, we may eventually arrive at a stage when war might be regarded as a thing of the past."
Lord Reading, at the word of Washington's farewell address were treasured by the American people "as perhaps never had words of man been treasured. They are treasured as illustrating the very strong conservative traditions of the United States which he asked his audience to take into account in considering the present American attitude toward the League."
The Speed Limit.
(Toronto Mail and Empire.)
The legal speed limit of 20 miles an hour in the cities is too high. When 15 miles was the limit few accidents occurred unless actual speed was more than 20 miles. Now about 25 miles seems to be the prosecution rate. When children and vehicles abound on the streets of the large cities, a maximum of 20 miles is sufficient for any careful motorist.

FRANCE URGES ALLIED BOND TO BUY FOOD

Proposes International Issue at Normal Exchange Without Interest.

UNITED STATES IS EXPECTED TO OBJECT

British Plan Calls for Currency Issue on Pre-War Values Payable in Five Years.

Paris, May 13.—It now seems clear that at least three distinct projects for improving the situation in foreign exchange will be submitted to the Brussels conference as a result of the preliminary exchange of ideas here at the International Parliamentary Commercial Congress.

This conference is confining its discussion entirely to exchange issues, carefully omitting the question of international liquidation of war debts through the League of Nations, a scheme which is being pressed vigorously in certain French circles.

The propositions advanced here with regard to amelioration of the exchange situation, however, would require special legislation by Congress of an un- precedented character, and consistent opposition to them in the United States can be foreseen. Here are the three propositions:

1. The British suggestion for international currency notes, issued by the allied governments jointly at normal exchange rates, with guaranteed payment at the expiration of five years by the temporary withdrawal from circulation of a corresponding amount of each government's treasury notes, each government to accept a proportion of this issue commensurate with their international purchase of foodstuffs and raw materials. The total amount of such a joint issue has not yet been determined.

2. The Belgian plan, which provides for an issue of international gold bonds through an international exchange institute which is to be created, the bonds to bear a definite rate of interest and to be guaranteed by the national wealth of each participating country. These bonds would not be legal tender, but merely negotiable in French interests in the Orient and makes it plain that this decrease operates to the benefit of England.

3. At San Remo the deliberations relative to Turkey were alternated with conversations relative to Germany. It was a bad method, and we hope we will not make the same mistake again. If the German proposals proceed to the final business of the Turkish Treaty at the same time as the hearing of the German proposals to the League of Nations, it will be impossible to avoid regrettable complications.

Every time the British Government would object to the German proposals to follow toward Germany, we would hear England trying to obtain supplementary advantages in the Orient. Every time France would try to make her solution prevail in the Orient, we would hear it said that England would add to disarm Germany or to force them to pay. The two negotiations would be mutually poisoned. That is why they should be successive and not simultaneous.

The Temps then says that it is true that the Turkish delegates are at Paris, but no one knows just what the Government they represent amounts to. It goes on to speak of the British domination of Constantinople, which is a very sore point for French diplomacy.

"Last month," says the Temps, "a very singular thing happened at Constantinople." The Government of the Sultan, wishing to send to Azerbaijan, arms and ammunition to employ against the Nationalists, the British officer presiding over the commission of control was the only one consulted. He gave permission without noting the letter or Italian officials. A British officer, without openly revolting against him, refused to recognize his decisions. If it is true that the British authorities have not authorized the signature of his envoys, it is not worth much. As far as we can find out, the provinces of Asia Minor regard the Sultan as a prisoner of foreigners and without openly revolting against him, refuse to recognize his decisions.

If it is true that the British authorities have not authorized the signature of his envoys, it is not worth much. As far as we can find out, the provinces of Asia Minor regard the Sultan as a prisoner of foreigners and without openly revolting against him, refuse to recognize his decisions.

"But without laying too much importance on the incident, it is one thing that is not explained—how can the British authorities consider, for it is their doctrine that international control is limited to border organization, that only England has the right to furnish what pleases her to the Sultan's Government?"

The Temps says that there is yet work to be done on the Turkish Treaty.

"We had better find out just what authority the Sultan has today," the paper says, "if his power is nil, the signature of his envoys is not worth much. As far as we can find out, the provinces of Asia Minor regard the Sultan as a prisoner of foreigners and without openly revolting against him, refuse to recognize his decisions. If it is true that the British authorities have not authorized the signature of his envoys, it is not worth much. ### LE TEMPS ASKS FOR TRUTH ABOUT TURK SETTLEMENT

Paris Paper Wants Britain to State Whether There is Secret Treaty.

PRESSURE ON FRANCE

Says Millerand Got Worst of Negotiations at San Remo Through Procedure Adopted

Paris, May 13.—In an article entitled "The Division of Turkey," the Temps tonight calls upon the British Government to state openly whether it has a secret treaty or agreement with the Sultan. The Temps further charges that Lloyd George brought pressure to bear upon the French at San Remo to get them to consent to certain clauses of the Turkish treaty. The Temps says:

"If there exists between England and the Sultan a treaty for a protectorate which is in a concealed form as in Persia, one may understand the attitude of the British command. But when the Turkish papers published last winter a secret treaty which said was signed by the Prime Minister and the present grant of the high commissioner of the British Government denied it."

"Can the reports which are now circulating also be denied? Can the Turkish delegates state that there exists no arrangement of any sort which places or promises to place their Government under the formal and regular protection of any one power? Would it not be useful that such a declaration be made with all the necessary authority, and that it should be inseparable from the future treaty?"

France, when she was recently accused of imperialistic plans, was not embarrassed when she denied it in the most emphatic manner. England, in her turn might make such a denial without damaging its dignity."

The Temps says that the Turkish Treaty was drafted at London at a time when France was very much occupied with German problems. It says that on the whole, the Turkish Treaty represents a distinct loss of French interests in the Orient and makes it plain that this decrease operates to the benefit of England.

At San Remo the deliberations relative to Turkey were alternated with conversations relative to Germany. It was a bad method, and we hope we will not make the same mistake again. If the German proposals proceed to the final business of the Turkish Treaty at the same time as the hearing of the German proposals to the League of Nations, it will be impossible to avoid regrettable complications.

POSSIBILITIES OF AN ANCIENT ASSYRIAN CITY

FOR SYRIAN TRADE AND COMMERCE

Is a City of Many Religions, All of Which Agree in Hatred of Jews.

Haifa, Syria, May 13.—Haifa sits at the foot of Mount Carmel, the sea, looking northward across the Bay of Acre to the bold headland of Rasoun Nakurah, where the last British outpost—Sunset city—faces the Ottoman-occupied zone of the French.

In one end of Haifa—the German-occupied zone—a British Governor whose province stretches from Acre to Caesarea and comprises half of Galilee. His northern frontier is the barrier beyond which Arab tribes are in revolt. Lancers at Tiberies, Commander of London and Stafford Yeomanry in the hills round about, machine-guns in the old chateau at Acre. Such is the force that has its base at Haifa.

It is a trim, pleasant little place as you see it from the holy hill. The huddled "old town" hides its filth and squalor, its crooked streets and crowded bazaars. Reaching out from this ancient labyrinth towards Cape Carmel is the new colony of German- built villas flanking tree-lined streets that venture a little way up the lower mountain slope. Some 600 Germans, mostly aged people, still live here.

Lonely Soldiers. New town and old town shelter between them a strangely mixed population. Christian, Jew, Moslem, all told there are 40,000 persons dwelling outwardly in amity. Add to this the diverse elements drawn together by war. The narrow High-street is ever full of movement and vivid color. There you see British Tommies, listless and looking a little lonely; turbaned Indians chanting blithely in a cloud of dust; stately Bedouins from the hills shouldering aside the rabble with superb indifference; aged Germans as inconspicuous as relics of the Stone Age, saluting timidly the emblems of the new order; and Syrian, complacent Jews, important native police in black turbans above British khaki, herds of chattering schoolchildren released from the convents that dominate Haifa, bearded Eastern Moslems in sombre flowing robes standing in the shadow of the mosque; the brown, barefooted friars of the Latin Rite sharing half the tongues of Europe between them; the bare feet of the Carmelites, the quiet monastery of the Carmelites, set on the summit of the mountain, where a British prior says Mass above Elijah's cave.

Haifa is steeped in religion. If you tire of convents and of shrines that mark episodes in the life of Elijah, there is the new religion of Abbas Effendi for your contemplation. Abbas Effendi is an old-old man, a man of saintly character and wonderful personal charm, who succeeds his father (the founder) as the head of "Babism," a creed which is described as a blend of all creeds, although some prefer to call it reformed Mahometanism. Abbas Effendi has numerous followers in America and a few in England; he is enormously wealthy, and his devotees stand him many presents. A fine large motor car was conveyed to him by this week's Kibbutz mail-bus. He wears white robes, and when he walks abroad in the sunshine the Babists in Haifa, who regard him as divine, stand with hands clasped and their eyes on the ground.

WANTS TO PLAY IN CHINA'S BACKYARD

Paris, May 12.—(Associated Press.)—The German government has made advances for re-establishment of commercial and diplomatic relations with China. The German government has said on good authority to have assured China that notwithstanding her refusal to sign the peace treaty, Germany is willing to recognize all classes in the treaty according privileges to China. On the other hand Germany indicates the hope that China will refrain from confiscating any German property in China.

GATARRH AERIAL ROUTE FROM PACIFIC TO AMAZON

This Would Do Away With Difficulties of Crossing Andes.

London, May 11.—Establishment of an aerial route from the Pacific to the Amazon as a means of surmounting difficulties of road travel among the Andes, is advocated by G. M. Dyott, unit recently a squadron commander of the British Royal Naval Air Service.

"There is no serious difficulty in the way, so far as the scheme's practicability is concerned," Mr. Dyott told the Royal Geographical Society. "We have heard of the great height of the Andes, but there are low altitudes at which they may be crossed. One of the Andean ridges can be negotiated at a height of 7,000 feet, but there is another ridge of 10,000 feet. Peru," he continued, "is peculiarly suitable for aerial traffic. Aerial highways will undoubtedly play a large part in the future development of that country. It is of importance that rapid communication should be established between the interior and the coast, and in order to do this the airplane must come to the rescue."

Discussing the difficulty of traveling by road, Mr. Dyott said that it took five days to travel from one part in the Andes to another, whereas the airplane would cover the distance in fifteen minutes, and in another stage of the journey it took him exactly a week to travel a distance which would be negotiated by the airplane in 30 minutes.

Australia Now Debtor Nation Has Piled up Debt of 300,000,000 Pounds and Has No Assets Beyond Morale of People.

London, May 11.—(Canadian Associated Press)—Hon. W. A. Watt, Treasurer of the Australian Commonwealth, who arrived here today in the course of an interview, remarked that Australia had piled up a debt of 300,000,000 pounds and had no assets beyond the morale of its people. Australia had a debt of 60 pounds per head, and where as he was before the war a debtor nation was now a creditor nation. Mr. Watt said, further, that the situation in the Pacific was very delicate, owing to the attitude of Japan which tried at the Peace Conference to successfully to ensure equality of races in all Allied and Associated Countries which would have given the Japanese new entry into any Allied territory. Having failed in this, she had apparently by these means, delayed the issue of a mandate to the Australian Government for the Pacific Islands, which would give to that Government power to enforce restrictions on colored immigration.

Quite Unintentional. A tramcar collided with a milk cart and sent can after can of milk splashing into the street. Soon a large crowd gathered. A very short man coming up had to stand on tiptoe to see past a stout woman in front of him.

"Mind your own business!" the stout woman turned round and glared at the little man, and said sternly.

Mr. Roon was one of the star battalions of Yale and champion polo player, so that athletic stunts are no novelty to him, and today he demonstrated that he has not lost none of his speed since his college days.

The bet was the result of the recent strike of elevator operators. Roon and Johnson were compelled to mount several flights of stairs then, and he laughed at Johnson for being out of breath at the end of the climb. "Why I can't go from the cellar to the flag pole in fifteen minutes," said Roon. "Money says you can't," retorted Johnson, and the bet was arranged.

One of the stipulations was that Roon must not run up the stairs. He complied with it, but spectators say that he didn't limit the length of his strides.
