

The Minn Advocate.

A WEEKLY JOURNAL

W. C. ANSLOW

Vol. XXIV.—No. 6.

Our Country with its United Interests.

Newcastle, N. B., Wednesday, November 19, 1890.

EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR

WHOLE NO. 1202

THREE MAGNIFICENT SILVERWARE PRESENTS.

1st.—One Satin lined Cabinet, containing one half dozen Table Forks, one half dozen Teaspoons, one Butter Knife, and one Sugar Shell, all Plated with Pure Silver.
2nd.—One elegant Pickle Castor, Best quadruple Plate of Sterling Silver.
3rd.—One handsome Butter Dish, Warranted best quadruple Plate of Sterling Silver.

B. FAIREY, Newcastle.

Newcastle, November 7, 1890.

Law and Collection Office.

M. ADAMS.

Barrister & Attorney at Law
Solicitor in Bankruptcy, Conveyancer, Notary Public, etc.

Real Estate & Fire Insurance Agent.

CLAIMS collected in all parts of the Dominion.

Office—NEWCASTLE, N. B.

L. J. TWEEDIE

ATTORNEY & BARRISTER

AT LAW.

NOTARY PUBLIC, CONVEYANCER, &c.

Chatham, N. B.

OFFICE—Old Bank Montreal.

J. PHINNEY.

Barrister & Attorney at Law

NOTARY PUBLIC, &c.

RICHMOND, N. B.

OFFICE—COURT HOUSE SQUARE.

May 4, 1885.

G. J. MacCULLY, M.A., M.D.

Mem. BOT. COL. SURG., LONDON.

SPECIAL AT.

ISSUES OF EYE, EAR & THROAT.

Office: Cor. Waterland and Main Sts. Montreal.

Mon. Nov. 12 88.

Charles J. Thomson,

Agent MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY of New York.

Agent for the Commercial and Collecting Agency.

Barrister, Practitioner for Estates.

Notary Public, &c.

Claims Promptly Collected, and Professional Business in all its branches executed with accuracy and dispatch.

OFFICE.

Esplanade House, Newcastle, (Municipal), N. B.

Dr. R. Nicholson.

Office and Residence.

McILLUM ST., NEWCASTLE.

Jan. 22 1889.

Dr. W. A. Ferguson.

OFFICE on stairs in SUTHERLAND & ORR's building. Reside at Waverley Hotel.

Newcastle March 12, 1889.

Dr. H. A. FISH,

Newcastle, N. B.

July 23 90.

KEARY HOUSE

(Formerly WILBUR'S HOTEL.)

BATHURST, N. B.

THOS. F. KEARY, Proprietor.

This Hotel has been entirely refitted and re-arranged throughout. Stage connects with all trains. Livery connected with the Hotel. Bathing facilities. Some of the best trout salmon pools within eight miles. Excellent water in the kitchen. For terms and particulars apply to C. P. ATKINSON, or J. H. LAWLER, Mitchell House, Newcastle, Sept. 2, 1890.

For Sale.

THAT Lot of Land fronting on Pleasant Street in Newcastle containing 21 acres with 13 Story Dwelling, Kitchen and Barn thereon.

There is also a good cellar and a never failing supply of water in the kitchen.

For terms and particulars apply to C. P. ATKINSON, or J. H. LAWLER, Mitchell House, Newcastle, Sept. 2, 1890.

THIS PAPER may be found at the NEW YORK OFFICE of the NEW YORK PUBLISHERS, 100 Broadway, N. Y.

Clearance Sale BY AUCTION.

At the store of John McKee, commencing at 7 o'clock, every evening only, by private sale during the day at same prices as obtained by Auction.

The Stock consists of

Boots and Shoes,

Hats and Caps,

Clocks and Silverware,

BARGAINS

Geo. Stables,

Auctioneer.

Newcastle, Nov. 11, 1890.

Clifton House,

Princes and 113 Germain Street, ST. JOHN, N. B.

A. H. PETERS, PROPRIETOR.

Heated by steam throughout. Prompt attention to all moderate charges. Telephone communication with all parts of the city.

April 6, 1885.

CANADA HOUSE

Chatham, New Brunswick.

WM. JOHNSON, Proprietor.

Considerable outlay has been made on the house to make it a first class hotel and to still it with a desirable temporary residence both as regards location and comfort. It is situated within two minutes walk of Steamboat Landing and Telephone and Post Offices.

The proprietor desires to thank the Public for the encouragement given him in the past and will endeavor by courtesy and attention to merit the same in the future.

GOOD SAMPLE ROOMS

for Commercial Travellers, and residing on the premises.

Chatham, Jan. 1, 1890.

Spring & Summer MILLINERY

I have now in stock a beautiful line of all the latest Styles and Shades, also Old Ladies' and Widows' Caps, Ladies' Jerseys and Dress Trimmings, Ladies' and Children's Collars and Cuffs, Ladies' Hosiery, and a Variety Party Articles.

MILLINERY

Trimmed Millinery

always on hand, and Orders promptly attended to.

Mrs. J. Demers.

Newcastle, June 9, 1890.

B. & C.

STOCKINGS

By the YARD.

We have just received a quantity of the "True Knitting" by the yard in Grey, Seal and Black, different sizes, Yarn to match.

OVERCOATS, REEFERS, JUMPEES, and HEAVY PAJAMAS, just opened. Good! Good! and low in price.

BOYS' OVERCOATS

with and without Caps.

Long Boots for Men, Youths and Boys, also a good assortment of Strong Boots for Ladies, Misses and Children.

Bryant & Clarke.

Newcastle, Oct. 7, 1890.

Dental Notice.

Dr. Cates, DENTIST,

obliged to attend to business elsewhere for number of weeks, but will return to Newcastle to his Dental Practice, in due time. Notice of visit will be given in this paper.

Newcastle, Sept. 20, 1890.

To the Public.

I have in stock a good assortment of

STAPLE GOODS

in Cottons, Union Twines, all Wool Twines, Linen, Duck, Towels, Prints, Shirts, Grey and White Cotton Flannels, White Cottons, Grey Cottons, Check Gingham and Shirtings.

BOOTS & SHOES

In Ladies' Battledore and Laced Boots, Low Shoes and Slippers, Men's Laced Boots, Long Boots, Low Shoes, Battledore Boots.

A general stock of

HARDWARE,

also a full supply of GROCERIES and

TEAS,

in Green, Oolong, and other Teas of very choice quality all of which will be sold at the lowest prices by

WILLIAM MASSON,

Don't Give Up Selected Literature.

The use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. One bottle may not cure "right off" a complete cure, but it will improve the system, and by beginning the use of this medicine, with many people, the effect is immediately noticeable, but some constitutions are less susceptible to medicinal influences than others, and the cure is less prompt. Therefore, in such cases, be less prompt. Perseverance in using this remedy is sure of its reward at last. Sooner or later, the most stubborn blood diseases yield to it.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For several years, in the spring months, I used to be troubled with a drowsy, tired feeling, and a dull pain in the small of my back, so bad, at times, as to prevent my being able to walk, the least motion causing me severe distress. Frequently, I would be unable to get up in the morning. My system was all run down, my skin rough and of a yellowish hue. I tried various remedies, and while some of them gave me temporary relief, none of them did any permanent good. At last I began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continued it exclusively for a considerable time, and am pleased to say that I am completely cured."

Cured Me.

I presume my liver was very much out of order, and the blood impure in consequence. I feel that I cannot too highly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla to any one afflicted as I was.

"Mrs. N. A. Smith, Glover, Vt."

"For years I suffered from scurvy and blood diseases. The doctor's prescriptions and several so-called blood-purifiers being of no avail, I was at last advised by a friend to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I did so, and now feel like a new man, being fully restored to health."—C. N. Trunk, Decatur, Iowa.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

PREPARED BY DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by Druggists, $1, and $4, Worth & Sons.

ESTEY'S

Iron & Quinine Tonic

THIS Medicine combining Iron and Quinine with vegetable tonics, purifies and completely cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weakness, Impure Blood, Malacia, Chlorosis, Fever and Neuralgia.

It is an unfailing remedy for Diseases of the Kidneys and Liver.

It is invaluable for Diseases peculiar to Women, and all who are afflicted with it. It does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—other Iron Medicines do.

It enriches and purifies the blood, stimulates the appetite, aids the assimilation of food, and gives strength and vigor to the muscles and nerves.

For Intermitting Fevers, Leucorrhoea, Lack of Food, and all who are afflicted with it. It is the genuine has my trade mark and signature. Take no other.

Prepared only by E. M. Estey, Montreal, N. B.

FOR THE

Handkerchief,

TOILET

AND

The Bath.

Beware of Counterfeits.

MURRAY & LAMMAN'S

Florida Water.

The Universal Perfume.

TO BUILDERS AND JOINERS.

Having Received a lot of Bryon's Patent Concrete Road, Asphaltum, and other materials for Building, I wish to call the attention of Builders, Joiners, and others to the above materials, as being simple, useful, durable and cheap as compared with the old style of Cords and Weights, call and see model.

WM. MASSON.

Newcastle, May 27, 1890.

J. R. LAWLER,

Auctioneer and Commission Merchant.

Newcastle, N. B.

Prompt returns made on consignments of merchandise. Auctions attended to in town and country.

Newcastle, Oct. 1, 1890.

Tobacco. Tobacco.

JUST RECEIVED

50 Caddies NAPOLION CHEWING

To arrive this week.

50 Caddies INDEX.

25 Bets CROWN.

A. J. BABANG & Co.

Moncton, Sept. 5, 90.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M.D.

111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Without injurious medication.

THE CASTORIA COMPANY, 77 Murray Street, N. Y.

Selected Literature.

The moon was shining over the ocean and over the sea of green boughs on the hill slope below the piazza of 'The Lodge,' when dinner was done, and they all went out of doors. High above the trees of the little valley which is pierced by the river of the Gloucester branch, they could look across to the silver shining lights on Baker's island, and the twinkling from the distant windows of Marblehead.

Mr. Earle strolled away down the drive, with his cigar, followed by Freddy.

Mrs. Earle and Mrs. Leverington went up the piazza together.

Miss Dunneque held a little court with Dick Hitchcock, Valentine and Leverington, grouped before her chair.

Fanny Leverington walked up and down the piazza with Gertrude Earle.

Maude went away alone a little way down the magnolia path under the oaks.

Leverington followed her in a little while, but the people on the piazza supposed he had gone for a cigar with Mr. Earle.

He went straight down the magnolia path under the dark branches. Maude heard him coming and hurried on down the hill, with a vague thought of escape.

At the low stone wall bounding 'The Lodge' grounds he came up with her.

'You might have waited for me,' he said.

'The moonlight scarcely gets through the wall,' he said, 'but I have waited for you.'

'It must be lonely down on the beach.'

'We will go.' He sprang over the wall turned and held out his hands.

'Come let me help you over.'

'Nonsense. I'm not coming. If I do, there's a little while on.'

'Please come. We have no time to waste looking for the stile.'

'Time to waste?'

'Yes. I am obliged to leave for Denver to-morrow morning. And I want to talk with you.'

'You might talk if I don't come over the wall,' he laughed Maude, but she scrambled up on the low wall and stood there.

'He offered her his hands eagerly, but she did not take them.'

'Go away! I'll not come if I have any help.'

He stepped back and folded his arms.

'Anyway you like. I don't care what you do, if you'll only come. Don't roll down though, as you did down the sand bank,' he added mischievously. She jumped down flushing and laughing.

He took her hand and put it upon his arm. At the touch they stepped together, laughing, and walked on slowly together in silence.

They sat by the window for a long time before she put away her dinner gown, and in her dressing gown lay down upon her sofa, more unhappy than she had been for years.

She thought of her life as she lay there; the miserable little Western home, the girlish ambition which had grown with her growth, the cheap theatrical company with which he had first tried grand roles, the man who had taught her, who had managed her work, whose wife she had been for a few dreary, loveless years, the horrible months of the divorce trial, her terror to strength, and courage and ambition—then to Elver North.

They had worked together for two years; successes had been the same. She had loved him, and he had gone without telling her, without ever showing one sign of love for her. Valentine had been her hero of North's successes in London.

'And now Jack's going,' she thought. She did not imagine that she loved him, but she had hoped for freedom from him. Better men than he had offered her marriage. She had an idea that she might have accepted Jack.

At daybreak she rose utterly wretched, drew on a long rain cloak and went out of doors, down towards the water. She was intensely unhappy, she wished that she might go down under the waves forever.

Valentine had told her that Elver North was to remain for another year in London.

As Katherine, looking very pale and worn after her sad night, walked slowly down the beach road, she saw Maude Gessley in a white serge gown through the field of marguerites. Maude did not see Katherine, until she came out at the end of the beach road just above the sands.

Oh, good morning, Miss Dunneque, she said, blushing violently.

'Good morning. This is the advent of the lark; you are always so maternal?'

'Oh, no—that is—I mean yes, sometimes,' stammered Maude.

'It is a tryst, I was plainly, said Katherine, smiling. 'I was 20 once myself, my dear.'

She turned as if to go.

'No, it's not a tryst—not with me,' cried Maude.

It flashed upon her that Jack Leverington was amusing himself in a cruel fashion—that he had forced this meeting.

'I'm going back. Mrs. Earle wants me.'

She turned and ran away up the field. In the pine grove she threw herself down and with her head against a tree trunk sobbed out her anger and her grief.

Katherine went on down the beach. She was not surprised to see Jack Leverington coming toward her.

'I have frightened her away,' she said at once. 'She has gone, but I don't think she will go all the way. I will find her this side the lodge, as surely as she's a woman.'

'You must not talk so. You see how it is. I am obliged to go away early in the morning. I am as sure that I love you and want you for my wife as if I waited a dozen years to tell you so.'

'Aren't you coming down to the beach to see the sun rise again to-morrow morning?'

'Oh, I am not coming. I only wonder if you are.'

'You see—coming. Of course you will. Promise me that you will.'

'Indeed, I'll not. This is all too romantic and ridiculous. You are trying to act like some one you've read about in some novel.'

It was the gaze that had always

'I never read but two novels in my life, and those when I was a boy. I've no time to read novels. This isn't romance. I mean it; you know I do.'

'But it's so sudden, so ridiculously hurried,' urged Maude.

'I'm sorry if I seem ridiculous to you. If I could be here another month I could court your favor in a formal way. I'd be willing to serve for seven years to see you look at me again as you did for an instant this morning. My darling girl, don't you realize that we were made for each other. We—'

She escaped from his arm at once.

'Don't say such things to me?'

They walked slowly onward a little apart.

'We must go back.' She turned and took his arm, and they went back to the stile as quickly as they had come.

Half way up the magnolia path they met Gertrude Earle. Maude went up to the piazza with her without a word. Leverington went along the drive and joined Mr. Earle, who was still strolling about smoking.

When the dinner guests were going Gertrude Earle said to Miss Dunneque:

'Mr. Hitchcock and I are going to drive down to the hotel with you Katherine.'

There was no opportunity for the walk Miss Dunneque had expected with Jack Leverington. Her heart was sore against Gertrude Earle for cutting off a talk, which might have meant a good deal. Katherine did not sleep that night.

She sat by the window for a long time before she put away her dinner gown, and in her dressing gown lay down upon her sofa, more unhappy than she had been for years.

She thought of her life as she lay there; the miserable little Western home, the girlish ambition which had grown with her growth, the cheap theatrical company with which he had first tried grand roles, the man who had taught her, who had managed her work, whose wife she had been for a few dreary, loveless years, the horrible months of the divorce trial, her terror to strength, and courage and ambition—then to Elver North.

They had worked together for two years; successes had been the same. She had loved him, and he had gone without telling her, without ever showing one sign of love for her. Valentine had been her hero of North's successes in London.

'And now Jack's going,' she thought. She did not imagine that she loved him, but she had hoped for freedom from him. Better men than he had offered her marriage. She had an idea that she might have accepted Jack.

At daybreak she rose utterly wretched, drew on a long rain cloak and went out of doors, down towards the water. She was intensely unhappy, she wished that she might go down under the waves forever.

Valentine had told her that Elver North was to remain for another year in London.

As Katherine, looking very pale and worn after her sad night, walked slowly down the beach road, she saw Maude Gessley in a white serge gown through the field of marguerites. Maude did not see Katherine, until she came out at the end of the beach road just above the sands.

Oh, good morning, Miss Dunneque, she said, blushing violently.

'Good morning. This is the advent of the lark; you are always so maternal?'

</

