LORD BERESFORD'S WARNING. London, June 21.-The Daily Mail publishes a letter from Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford to a correspondent, complaining of the want of proper strength and efficiency in Great Britain's Mediterranean fleet. THE LIBERAL SPLIT.

Herbert Asquith, former Liberal nome secretary, speaking at a Liberal dinner last evening, protested against the pro-Boer resolutions adopted at Queen's Hall, yesterday evening, being accepted as a pronouncement of the Liberal party. He declared that Boer independence was impossible, and said the Liberals favored a free federated South Africa, on the lines of Canada and Australia.

Mr. Asquith further said that Liberals holding his views had been branded as schismatics, but they had not changed their views, had always condemned the war policy, and that they considered it must now be left for the judgment of history.

Mr. Asquith said that at the beginning of the war he believed it possible to restore the status of the two African Republics, but that he was now a reluctant convert to the necessity of annexation

Rev. J. G. Shearer Speaks on the Matter of Sabbath Desecration-Need of Men for Home Missions.

Ottawa, June 20 .- At the Presbyterian General Assembly yesterday, Rev. Mr. McKay, of Lucknow, rose to a question of privilege. He said: I had a pamphlet prepared and distributed on "The Evils of Ritualism." After distributed them, William Campbell, clerk of the assembly, gave orders for them to be gathered up and destroyed. I wish to know did the clerk of this assembly act within his jurisdiction when he ordered the destruction of those tracts? The Moderator-No member has any right to distribute documents of any kind whatever within the church without the sanction of the court.

Rev. Mr. McKay-I raise no question as to whether I did right or wrong in distributing the tracts, but I ask did the clerk do right or wrong in order-ing their destruction. There is a phrase, "If thy enemy's ox or ass go astray then surely bring it back to him." (Roars of laughter.)

The Moderator-I can assure Mr. McKay he has no enemy in this court Dr. Sedgewick-Does he apply the term ox or ass to ritualism? (Laugh-

Rev. Dr. Campbell explained that he had ordered the papers to be destroyed because there was no authority given for them to be distributed. He knew nothing about the tracts or who had prepared them. The matter was dropped.

REV. J. C. MADILL'S CASE. The application of Rev. J. C. Madill for admission as a member of Winnipeg Presbytery was brought up through the reading of the report of the committee on applications, which recommended that the application be not granted, but that the synodical committee of Manitoba and the Northwest be permitted to employ him as an ordained missionary for a period of not exceeding twelve months under one

Rev. Mr. Farquharson, Pilot Mound, Manitoba, found fault with the finding of the committee. This was the second application Mr. Madill had made, and it should either be accepted or rejected. He moved that the application be not granted. Rev. Dr. Lyle, Hamilton, said the Presbytery of Hamilton was opposed to the application. They found in Mr. Madill qualities so serious that the speaker would not care to sit under him if he were in the ministry. If Mr. Madill was admitted into the church, the speaker said, advisedly, it would shake the confidence of the men engaged in the home mission work. They would be giving Mr. Madill a position if they adopted this report that they would not give to any Presbyterian student who had acted as Mr. Madill Congregational Union, which has cast

as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves unbearable at the monthly periods. Too often women come should be no applause in the court in matter of this kind. President Forrest, of Halifax, blamed Winnipeg Presbytery for all the trouole and said that body had violated the law of the church in appointing Mr. Madill for a single day.

Speaking of mistakes, Dr. Johnston said if the searchlight were thrown on the college career of others in the church there might be wonder as to how they passed the examinations.

Dr. Sedgewick, Halifax, said the plain course was that if Mr. Madill is to be restored he must first make his peace with the Congregational body.

After further discussion, and the moving and rejection of several amendments, the main motion, adopting the committee's recommendations, was carried by a vote of 76 to 52. Thus Mr. Madill is continued as a missionary for twelve months.

Rev. J. G. Shearer, secretary of the Dominion Lord's Day Alliance, addressed the assembly. He spoke of visit to Newer Ontario, and denounced the open violation of the Lord's Day practiced there by aliens. He describ ed conditions in Port Colborne, where on Sunday public sentiment is demor alized by open and general violation of Sabbath observance. Referring to the telegram sent by Inspector Stark to Mr. Wm. Adamson, and read by the latter to the assembly, Mr. Shearer said he was amazed to hear the chief of detectives say that soda water fountains did not run in Toronto on Sun-They abounded there on every side. Mr. Shearer deprecated the utilization of Sunday trains by Christians. He said that 90 per cent of the news papers of Ontario are willing to assist in the crusade to prevent the desecration of the Sabbath day.

RELIGION IN THE SCHOOLS. Religious instruction in the schools was discussed by Rev. Principal Caven, who reported for the committee which was appointed to consider the subject. While we deplore the sad necesity which detains a large body of Canadian soldiers in South Africa, engaged, along with his majesty's troops in restoring peace and giving freedom and deliverance to oppressed citizens and many native tribes, we rejoice that the calamitous war has resulted in the growth among us of the sentiment of fellow-feeling with the mother country and sister colonies, which must give stability and unity to the empire. While we hereby renew former expressions of attachment and loyalty to the throne, we pray that Almighty God may grant unto your excellency, in all personal and public relations, continual happiness and blessing.'

In the morning technical papers were read by Dr. William Oldright, Toronto; Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, Toronto; Dr. Angus McKay, Montreal, and Dr. R. W. Garrett, of Kingston. At the afternoon session, Dr. Angus McKinnon, of Guelph, president of the association, gave his an nual address. After speaking of the advertising methods of patent medicine manufacturers and vendors, and the press, regretting that ligious and secular, opened their columns freely to this class of advertising because it paid well, he said "I have referred to the semi-religious 'pray-for-hire-healers,' known as Christian Scientists, and allied to them are the Dowieites. Thus far the medical profession has treated these people with ridicule, or ignored them entirely If they confined their efforts to the unfortunates who imagine they ailments they have not we could well afford to continue thus to treat them but when we find them impudently undertaking to treat infectious dis-eases, such as diphtheria, scarlet fever and smallpox,, diseases which they ar unable to recognize, we think we have come to a point where toleration and forbearance become criminal. He pointed out that they thus acted in variance with health regulations, and helped to spread infections as against the regulations governing medical men who were compelled, under penalty, to report infectious diseases to the proper authorities, in order that spread of disease may be prevented.

The necessity of a medical act for the whole Dominion was also referred to. If the concensus of opinion was that each province surrender the con-trol of medical affairs to a single medical affairs to a single minion, then, he held, such a council must be representative in character, and largely, if not wholly, elected by the medical profession. The bishop stated that he would apply the same towards the mission debt. A vote of thanks was accorded to the

The discussion on the proposed canon on inadequate collections was resumed. Rev. T. G. A. Wright took strong exception to the canon on the ground that it infringes the paternal of the bishop and the right of a clergyman to be judged by his peers. He claimed that a clergyman has no right to be summoned before he is presented, and that it is improper to hold a clergyman responsible for the people's default. C. Jenkins, at some length, showed reasons for the passing of such canon. The faithful carrying out of the rules was necessary to the success of the work, and the failure to make the collections had a bad effect. This was one of the highest duties in order the carrying on of the spiritual work. Rev. W. Stout objected to the pro-Clerical and Lay Representatives posed canon on the ground that it will clothe the executive committee with an extent of power liable to be misused at any time. There was much need of improvement in this respect, and the interest and confidence of the laity must be secured in order to accomplish this.

Rev. C. R. Gunne held that if the synod had the right to pass a canon requiring collection, it had the right to provide the machinery to carry it out. The executive committee are members of the synod, and he favored the provisions of the canon as pro-

Rev. J. T. A. Wright took strong ground against the canon as proposed. He pointed out that the canon invades the episcopal office, that it places the clergy in a wrong position; it leads to no good end, and cannot be carried out. The laity were responsible for the temporalities of the church. Rev. Canon Brown was not an ardent supporter of the canon, and thought that it might be amended. He held that the lay representatives and not the clergy should be disciplined if occasion required. Principal Dymond pointed out that the lay representatives are disciplined when the assessment is not paid, in that they are not allowed to take their are an interim synod, of which the bishop is the chief member. He approved of the provisions of the canon. Mr. Henderson strongly advocated the proposed canon, and held that no harships to the clergy would result therefrom.

Rev. J. Ardill was not in sympathy and held that the canon was wholly unnecessary. There is already a canon in existence requiring that collections be made, and there was no use of another. The clergy were bound by vows to carry out the rules already in force, but he objected to the clergy being summoned before the executive committee instead of before the bishop. After further discussion the proposed canon was withdrawn.

The executive committee also recommended the adoption by the synod of the following resolution on superannuation and widows' and orphans' funds of various dioceses in the Dominion: That this synod without committing itself to any definite or final scheme, express its approval of the principles of the recommendation in the report (Provincial Synod Journal of 1895, pp. 94-5) adopted by the Synod of Canada, and deem it desirable to bring the matter to the attention of other dioceses, and to appoint a small committee to meet similar committees from other dioceses with the object of promoting a scheme which might be adopted by as many dioceses as practicable, and approved by the general synod for all Canada in regard to reciprocity as to the widows' and orphans' and superannuation funds; and that a copy of this report (if adopted) should be sent to the secretaries of all other synods in Canada, with a request that the substance thereof be brought before and such action as may be deemed proper. The provisions of the canon were explained by Matthew Wilson, K.C., and the resolution was carried. The executive committee also re-

Chancellor Cronyn explained the causes which rendered such a canon

Mr. W. F. Cockshut, of Brantford, in a vigorous speech, opposed the canon, which he thought altogether too sweeping. He showed that it would conflict with existing canons and disendow and disfranchise some who had for many years paid into the funds. He thought it would be better if more religion was taken into business and more business into religion, and if sermens had more business and less of the ideal put into them. The bishop explained that the Provincial Synod had authorized the ordination of godly men as perpetual deacons if they did not desire to proceed to full orders without the proper qualification.

Principal Dymond thought it 'well to take a broader view and to deal with the subject on general principles rather than to meet individual cases. Canon Young thought it better to give the matter more consideration and moved that it be referred back to the executive committee. Carried. His Honor Judge Ermatinger proposed a canon as to select vestries, the principal clauses of which read as follows: 1. This canon shall apply to church in this diocese whose vestry shall, at any annual meeting or any special meeting called for the purpose, pass a resolution adopting the provisions of this canon and declaring them to be thereafter in force in the parish. 2. The said vestry shall, at the annual meeting at which such resolution has been passed, or if passed at a special meeting, at the next ensuing annual meeting, elect not less than three nor more than eight select vestrymen from among the members of the vestry, who shall hold office until the next annual meet-ing or the election of their successors. if not elected at such annual meeting, and shall form, with the rector or incumbent and churchwardens, "the select vestry" of such parish. 3. The select vestry shall possess all the powers and privileges now possessed by the churchwardens, who shall, nevertheless, perform the duties and functions heretofore performed churchwardens, but subject to the direction and control of the select vestry, whose duty it shall be to manage and direct the temporal affairs of the church and parish.

The judge at some length explained the advantages to be derived from such canon.

Rev. C. C. Owen spoke of the great destrability of taking the laity into confidence, and handing all the temporal affairs of the church over to the select vestry. He had found it to work well in the Northwest and elsewhere, and it was working most satisfactorily to all in the Memorial Church.

Mr. N. A. Gilbert, of St. Thomas, urged that this would be the means of great gain to the church, as the laymen would take much more interest in church work under such a plan. Rev. C. A. Anderson thought it would be in the best interests of the church to support any measure that would tend to enlist the sympathies of the laity. They have to bear the repower in temporal affairs. Rev. Canon Brown opposed the canon on the ground that it was inadequate to effect the desired purpose He cited the cases of the church in the Maritime Provinces and in the United States, and held that its working there had not accomplished the end this synod had in view. It being 6 o'clock the synod ad-

Rev. Rural Dean Hicks took up the debate in favor of the proposed can-on on select vestry. He pointed out was not the same as that in the United States, where the clergy man's authority was lessened, and different from the voluntary finance committee system in vogue in some places here. He urged that it would have the effect of enlisting the sympathies and energies of the laity of the parish.

Mr. J. Brown, of Burwell Park heartily indorsed all that Rural Dean Hicks had said. He felt that the election of a select vestry would have a beneficial influence.

Mr. H. Stewart, of Morpeth, also advocated the proposed canon, and said that the more interest secured from the people the better for the church. Archdeacon Davis felt that the appointment of a select vestry would b a great benefit. He instanced his own where an advisory board had rendered valuable help to the war-

Rev. J. Downie pointed out that the proposed canon was optional. A select vestry would not be forced upon a congregation without their consent. Rev. J. Ardill thought that the proposed canon would clash with existing canons regarding the powers and duties of churchwardens. He thought it well to hasten slowly in so important a matter. He felt there was no cause to fear the laity, as they were almost as agreeable as the celrgy. Rural Dean Mackenzie would vote for the principle of the bill. It would be of great help, especially to young clergymen without experience, going into a nev parish, who imagine themselves possessed of plenary powers, and who

Canon Young was opposed to the canon on the ground-First, that it would take away powers from the rector, who now has power to have one or two wardens, while under the canon he would only appoint one of ten; secondly, it would take power from the wardens by dividing it among a greater number; and, thirdly, it would take power from the vestry, as it would be handed over to the select

Matthew Wilson, K.C., objected to the proposed canon in its present form while he favored the principle of se-ect vestries. After considerable discussion it was agreed that the bill pass the first reading, with the understanding that the clauses be amended as follows: First, to insure the right to return to the old method when thought desirable; second, to preserve the balance of power as between the clergy and vestry, and, thirdly, to have the right to appeal from the select to the full The bill was then read a first time and the synod adjourned.

Col. Leys and Fishing in the Thames.

The Chatham Planet seems to be in doubt as to whether Col. Leys ever did actually tender his resignation as a member of the Ontario Legislature; as to whether that resignation holds good; or whether it had been with-

It will be remembered that Col. Leys sent in his resignation in connection with what he regarded as the entirely unsatisfactory condition of parties honestly divide? fishery regulations as they affected the River Thames. This action on the course of the river. The matter being men of both political parties on this particular matter. There can be no bringing to a head the question of fair play fishing rights on the Thames, has met with the approbation of the people of London of both shades of politics.

There were those who seemed to believe that Col. Leys had really never sent in his resignation at all. But that was an incorrect view. The resignation was tendered in good faith; it though the circumstances under which it was tendered have been entirely altered by a satisfactory adjustment of the matters in dispute. Whether a new election is imperative or not there are two views as to the question of the legal necessity. Should it be held to be necessary to go through the formality of another election in order to fill the one term of the Legiseral election in June, 1902, it is hardly probable, we would say, that Mr. Whitney's followers in London would think it worth while, under all the circumstances, to subject the city to a terial. The public convenience would suggested. Should less convenient Province. counsels prevail, however, there can be no doubt of the result, as Col. Leys whole city of London in his stand in favor of free and impartial fishing rights and privileges along the whole course of the River Thames.

The Future of the City's Springbank Park.

Our contemporary the Free Press deals, though necessarily perhaps in a guarded way, with the necessity that exists for more electric lights at Springbank.

The city's Springbank Park is a thing of beauty, but, unless the greatest care is taken, it may not continue to be a joy forever. It is not too much to say that London's most westerly park, with its flowing river, its bold hills, its clear basins of spring water. its shade-giving trees and grassy meadow-bits, is one of the pleasantest natural parks on the continent: as it was once described, and not altogether inaptly, a little bit of Swit-

So great a dower of natural beauty needs to be carefully guarded, to prevent its ever being accurately described as an extensive stretch "where every prospect pleases, and only man is vile."

It is to the interest of the city to keep its most beautiful summer park for the use, mainly, of the women and children of London. In the afternoons, women and children are fully Springbank park belongs to the citizens, who would lose much if it ever became an undesirable place of resort. This is equally the interest of the

The city's Springbank Park may become "a joy forever," or something very different. Which shall it be?"

The Ontario Government and the Opposition.

It is always best to look at both sides, as the boy appeared to think who came home pretty well battered up with a black eye and torn clothes. His mother asked him how he got them. He said, "Oh, mother, but you ought to see the other fellow!"

There are no party questions in the Ontario House. They are all questions of administration. Take any department of government you like, and in what direction or upon what question could the great political

It was believed that Mackenzie would of a non-political nature. Col. Leys accede to this view and increase the finds himself backed up by the strong tariff to an extent that would have meant moderate protection. Believing this would be done, Sir Charles Tupdoubt that the action of Col. Would any of the Conservative party have failed to support their leaders had they stuck to free trade? Would any of Mackenzie's followers have left went through the usual routine; and him if he had yielded to what his presumably is beyond recall, even friends thought best, and increased the tariff so much that it meant moderate protection?

We believe it would be much better for all parties, and better for the leaders, if they felt they had behind will soon be definitely known; though them, supporting and criticising them, an intelligent and independent following. A country justice, after joining a couple in the holy bonds of matrimony, concludes in the following whimsical manner:

"Oh, Lord God, thou first constituted matrimony in Cana of Galilee, made it a holy order; let us thy servants constitute it on earth; and as the parties have agreed, I pronounce them man and wife, etc. Amen.'

After which he gave them the following certificate: "It was in dark and rainy weather,

The Passing of a Great Reformer. We refer to the death of Hazen E, Pingree, who for seven years held the position of mayor of Detroit, and was for four years governor of the state of Michigan. This is a feeling shared more or les by everyone, and is creditable to hu nature. There is a charm in age, and each period of life brings its own peculiar pleasures. Home is our first experience, and home the oldest and best institution we have.

Outside of our homes, however, much of our lives is spent. The world, using the term in its broad sense, is not much interested in anyone. Great men die and are little missed; and there are many honest, quiet lives that wield a wide influence, of many of whom the world knows very little. Among this class would be found many a faithful school teacher.

Our school system may be classed as one of our oldest institutions and one of our best. From the moment a child is able to put blocks one on top of another, until it leaves the university with the stamp of the university affixed, the Ontario child, the son or daughter of every man, whether rich or poor, is given an equal opportunity. Long may the children of all have that road which cannot be made easier for royalty itself kept open. Education is the greatest equalizer. It breaks down the barriers between rich and poor. It is the road by which so many boys, whose fathers had only very moderate means, became men of whom the whole country is proud. Such men. for instance, as the Premier of the Province of Ontario.

Dissolution

As announced yesterday, for the next ten days we shall hold a special sale. This will be something unusual. In drygoods circles, seldom, if ever, is a clearing sale brought on just when the season is at its height. But the fiat has gone forth, and shrewd buyers may expect to reap profit during this great sale. The goods must be cleared to make room for new purchases and a readjustment of the business, which must be done quickly.

EPPERSON WAS BORN IN LONDON

Escaped Chatham Prisoner Spent His Boyhood in This City.

Andrew Epperson, the criminal who escaped from Chatham jail on Sunday, after having a few days previously attempted to kill Judge Bell in the courtroom, is well known in London, he having been born and raised here. The family, which is partly of Indian and Spanish origin, resided near Clark's bridge, but Andrew left home and lived with a family named Henderson, near the corner of Cartwright street and Central avenue. Andrew was the youngest of five brothers and possessed an unenviable reputation from his earliest years. On Nov. 19, 1894, he was sentenced in police court, ogether with Fred Henderson, to three years in penitentiary on three charges of larceny of pigeons and chickens. Both offenders were then 12 years of age. Epperson returned later to the city and lived here for several years.

THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY MATTERS

[Special to Advertiser.] Ottawa, Ont., June 20.—The premier was asked this morning if there was any truth in the report published on the other side that the United States Government had agreed upon Russia as one of the arbitrators to decide the Alaska boundary case.

The premier replied that it was the first he had heard of it so far.

It will be remembered that the United States had refused to submit the case to arbitration. The Canadian Government have not learned yet that the United States Government has changed its decision.

The committee accordingly met in Shadyside Church.

The meeting was secret. Organization was effected by the election of Dr. Minton as chairman and Dr. Roberts as secretary. Dr. Roberts is not a member of the committee, but is an earnest advocate of a declaratory act, and as he has one already prepared, he will be utilized by the sub-committee appointed to draw up the "summary statement of the reformed faith," as well as to aid in the draft of the declaratory act. Drs. Herrick Johnson and John De Witt were made members of the sub-committee to prepare the brief statement. Committees were appointed to suggest changes in the confession and to prepare new chapters on "The Work of the Holy Spirit," on "Missions," and on "The Love of God."
After the appointment of these subcommittees an adjournment was taken.
The committee was actually in session only about four hours.

THE 1. O. G. T.

Grand Lodge in Session at Toronto-Need of a Revival-Junior Membership Grows.

Toronto, June 20.—The afternoon meeting of the I. O. G. T. Grand Lodge at St. George's Hall yesterday opened with a conference on juvenile work, conducted by T. S. Morrison, of Hamilton, grand superintendent of Juvenile Templars. He expressed gratification at the increase in juvenile membership from 435 last year to and expressed confidence that, with greater interest on the part of the adult membership, even a larger increase would be possible for the coming year.

NEED A REVIVAL. J. S. Robertson, president of the Canadian Temperance League, and for many years a prominent member of the grand lodge, said that there was an evident need for a 20th century temperance revival, as the evidences of an increase of the drink habit, among the young, at least, in the cities, were apparent. While the boys' brigades and other juvenile societies were doing good work, the field was open and need urgent, for temperance orders to give special attention to enrolling in a pledged organization the boys and girls of Canada. He would suggest that in place of leav-ing the responsibility for juvenile work on individual officers the grand superintendent should be supported by a committee, and the district and lodge superintendents also have committees to assist them.

The various suggestions were sent to the grand lodge committee on Juvenile Templars.

The grand treasurer's report showed a total revenue of $796 11, leaving a balance on hand of $36 26. The grand secretary reported a loss of 79 members, as against 487 last year. The May returns would show that there really was an increase.

F. S. Spence ridiculed the statement that the Ontario license law is the best in Canada, and said that the clause against selling to minors was rendered inoperative by an "iniquitous" proviso The grand lodge will decide on the next place of meeting and elect of-icers today. RODE OFF THE BRIDGE. Nyack, N. Y., June 20.-While riding a bicycle across the drawbridge at Grassy Point this morning, Torrance Burton, 14, rode off the bridge into the river and was drowned.

THE 'PINO WAR. Manila, June 20.-It is estimated that 40 insurgents were killed or wounded during the recent engagements which have occurred in Albay and Sorsogon provinces. Many insurgents are returning to their homes.

IT WILL PROLONG TIFE.—De Sota, the Spaniard, lost his life in the wilds of Florida, whither he went for the purpose of discovering the legendary "Fountain of perpetual youth," said to exist in that then unknown country. While Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will not perpetuate youth, it will remove the bodily pains which make the young old before their time and harrass the aged into untimely graves.

SABBATH DAY

'Tis Not the Dreary Affair the Subject Discussed at Synod of Huron Meeting.

> Force—Religious Instruction in Schools.

Divine service was held in St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday at 9:30 a.m. The synod assembled at 10:15 o'clock in the Bishop Cronyn Hall. The bishop occupied the chair. The proceedings were opened with prayer by the dean, after which the minutes of yesterday's proceedings were read, confirmed and

Rev. Canon Brown presented the re-Rev. Canon Brown presented the report of the committee appointed to consider the bishop's charge. The first clause contained an address to his majesty the King, expressing loyalty to his throne and person, and tenderest sympathy in regard to the death of the late honored Queen. The synod stood during the reading of the address, and at the close joined in the singing of God Save the King. singing of God Save the King.

The next clause was a resolution of sympathy with the widow and family of the late Right Rev. Bishop Hellmuth, formerly Bishop of Huron, gratefully acknowledging his efforts in healf of higher education, and his in behalf of higher education, and his able administration of the diocese. RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN SCHOOLS. The third clause referred to religious instruction in schools, asking the bishop to issue a pastoral to be read in churches, and instructing the delegates to the provincial synod to support any motion tending to improve the present law in this regard. The next clause recommended no action in regard to the communication from the Bishop of Tasmania to the Primate of Canada concerning the establishment of a century fund for the general purposes of the Church of England throughout the world. The England throughout the world. The report was unanimously adopted.

The bishop made feeling allusion to the death of the late Archbishop Lewis, giving a sketch of his grace's life and work, together with his ability as an administrator. ity as an administrator.

Canon Brown moved that the congratulations of the synod be tendered to Archbishop Bond on his election to the position of Metropolitan, and expressing their sense of his eminent qualifications therefore. The motion was seconded by the Rev. W. Craig, and carried unanimously. LORD'S DAY OBSERVANCE.

The election of delegates to the General and Provincial Synods then took place, after which the synod resumed business. Rev. W. J. Taylor read the report of the committee on the Lord's Day observance. They had communithe employes attending divine service. Most of them had replied courteously, stating that only such men were employed on the Lord's day as were necessary for through traffic or for the safety of the public. The committee feel that in many cases a slight effort on the part of the companies would so alter the requirements of the traffic as to allow many railway employes to attend divine service who now have no opportunity, or only very infrequent opportunities for doing so. The committee called attention to the case of many policemen as having no opportunity of attending morning or might be done to remedy this state of affairs. Answers to questions submitted to the rural dean showed: (1) Railway men are generally employed ried to raise a special sum for organis generally broken on Sunday; in Sunday work; (2) the license law clubs and late dinner parties in some places rob the day of much of its sanctity; (4) the late hour to which many are compelled to work on Saturday night in stores unfit them for worship on Sunday morning. All these things affect church attendance; but apart from these, the day is fairly well observed. The committee deprecate the growing tendency to treat Sunday as a holiday, and ask the synod to call upon all people to regard this as a day of rest MORAL TONE OF LONDON POLICE Dean Innes bore strong testimony to the moral tone of the London police force, who have their regular meeting for prayer and Bible study. After some discussion the report was adopted. The executive committee submitted road today say that there is not a the following recommendation in regard to inadequate collections: 1. In the case of a parish where the collections appointed by the synod have not been duly made and forwarded to the secretary-treasurer of the synod, or where the collections shall appear to the bishop or executive committee to be inadequate, the bishop may, at his own option, or when requested by ish, make full inquiry and report.

2. If it shall appear that the default is owing to any neglect of duty on the part of the clergyman of the parish, he shall be summoned to appear before the bishop and executive mittee to give explanation of such default. Should he refuse to appear and explain, or should his explanation be not satisfactory, he shall be liable to trial for contumacy.

3. The expenses of any clergyman so summoned shall be borne by the synod. Rev. W. Craig explained the several clauses. Rev. John Downie took exception to the proposed canon and pointed out that a number of the committee were themselves breakers of the law, and now desired to set themselves up as judges. The synod adjourned at one o'clock.

Backbone of Trackmen's Strike.

Toronto, June 20.-The trackmen between Toronto and Montreal on the Ontario division, seem to be the backbone of the C. P. R. strike. On the Owen Sound branch quite a few have returned to work, but Mr. Timmerman admits that on the line east toward Montreal little impression has been made on the strikers. A squad of the Toronto strikers went back to work this morning.

The local officials have received notification that the trackmen of the west, and especially of the Kootenay, stood with the company, and that there is very little disturbance of ordinary conditions there.

On the Gooderham estate, near Mr. Gooderham's kennels, a well was started. The men went down and down and down, until they struck a gravel bed, which was promising. Mr. Gooderham told them to go on, and at 200 feet they struck gas. It was piped, burned and tested, and then plugged up.

Mr. Gooderham said today there was, not sufficient quantity to bother with. But all the same the farmers in the vicinity have begun to figure up new values on their land.

A MEDICINE CHEST IN ITSELF.—
Only the well-to-do can afford to possess a medicine chest, but Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which is a medicine chest in itself, being a remedy for rheumatism, lumbago, sore throat, colds, coughs, catarrh, asthma, and a potent healer for wounds, cuts, bruises, sprains, etc., is within the reach of the poorest, owing to its cheapness. It should be in every house.

Botha, continues the story, or-dered the British cavalry leader to be sot, and the sentence was about to be carried out when a message came in hot haste from the British commanderin-chief, Lord Kitchener, imploring the Boer general to delay the execution, and offering to release 1,000 Boers from the prison at Simontown to secure Gen. "If all should go well, as Dr. Wallace hopes, it will be a great blessing," he said, drawing Shirley down to him and laying his lips caressingly against her cheek. "But if—the worst should come—hush, darling!" as she shrank and caught her breath sharply, "it will be all right, whatever happens, though we will hope for the best. But what I want to say is, if I should not live through it, you must not let it spoil your whole life."

"Don't, Clif! you will break my heart," Shirley pleaded, a great sob of agony bursting from her lips.
"No, I will not speak of this again,"

He took in, with one quick glance, Shirley's heavy eyes and quivering lips, and he knew that every fibre of her being was thrilling with nervous agony, in view of what she knew was before her dear one, and an expression of infinite tenderness illumed his face as he nite tenderness illumed his face as he nite tenderness illumed his face as he lifted his heart with the brief inward petition.

'Pray Heaven that I may save him for her."

Clifton was very calm, and talked with quiet cheerfulness of what was to come, even inquiring with a good deal of interest regarding the preparations and who was to assist him in his work.

"You are very brave, my dear friend, and I honor you for it," Neil Wallace remarked, in a low tone, intended only for Clifton's ear, as he bent to clasp his hand at parting.

"I am only trying to meet it as one should meet what nust be," the invalid remarked with a quiet smile. Then as his fingers closed aimost spasmodically over the hand he remarked with a quiet smile. Then as his fingers closed almost spasmodically over the hand he held, he looked up, with clear, searching eyes into the grand face above him, so fill of compassionate admiration, and added:

"But, Wallace, my friend, if I should not wake, you will try to comfort Shirley—my sweet 'Lady Shirley.'"

He did not appear to wish or expect a reply: but, dropping Neil's hand, turned his face away, while the young surgeon left the room with a swelling heart, and tears in his eyes, and he pondered long over those last strange words, which had seemed like an appeal and a solemn charge combined.

CHAPTER XLIII.

The following morning, Lord Wallace, accompanied by two other skillful surgeons, made his appearance in Clifton's rooms at the appointed hour.

Their patient was lying among his pillows, looking as calm and cheerful as though he was merely waiting to receive some friends, rather than to have the grave question of life or death settled for him.

His eye was clear, his hand steadyeven more steady than that of the nurse, who was in the act of giving him his raciding when the door opened to admit the three surgeons. e three surgeons, Shirley was sitting by his side—very let and outwardly self-possessed, but ith a face whiter than her husband's,

"I am ready, gentlemen, whenever you "I am ready, gentlemen, whenever you are."

Then he turned to the fair young wife beside him, and his eyes lingered on her face with a pathetic tenderness that brought tears to those of every observer.

"Courage, dear heart," he said to her in a low, fond tone, while he smiled bravely up at her; "it will not be so very long before all will be over."

Shirley's lids flushed with a sudden rush of tears, which she would not allow to gather and fall; but she smiled fondly back at him, though her heart seemed ready to burst with the grief and dread she tried so hard to restrain.

She did not attempt to reply, but, stooping, touched her lips to his white forehead, then released his hand and turned away, thus resigning him, as it seemed to her, into the hands of his executioners.

Five minutes later Clifton hed

Five minutes later Clifton had been

Five minutes later Clifton had been borne from the room to an unfurnished apartment opposite, where an operating table and other necessary appliances had been prepared, and, as the door closed upon him, Shirley, unable longer to endure the restraint which she had up to this time put upon her feelings, threw herself prone upon the bed, where her husband had so lately been lying, every nerve in her body quivering as if she herself were under the knife.

Here Madame Marton and Annie Vining found her, a few minutes later, in a partly conscious state.

Annie had come in her own carriage to take the young wife out for a drive, hoping, by getting her away from the house and all signs of the much-dreaded operation, to soften and shorten, in a measure, the horror of the long waiting and suspense.

spense, t first, after they had brought her herself, she utterly refused to go out.

"No-no; I must be here to meet him when they get through," she moaned, while a shudder shook her slight frame from head to foot.

"But it is going to take a long time, dear," Annie urged; "two hours at the very least, I overheard Dr. Wallace tell papa, and you will surely be ill if you remain here, where you cannot fail to breathe the fumes of the ether all that time, and live it over and over. Come, Shirley, dear, it is hard for us all; let us get out into the air and sunshine, and thus gain a little strength to meet Clif when it is all over."

So Shirley tacitly allowed them to get

when it is all over."

So Shirley tacitly allowed them to get her ready and assist her down to the carriage, where she lay back among the cushions, pale and still, scarcely uttering a word during the drive, for she was too weak and sick at heart to make the slightest effort, with that loved form writhing beneath the cruel knife constantly before her in imagination.

They went to the park where they stantly before her in imagination.

They went to the park, where they drove about for nearly an hour. Annie and madame striving to keep up a steady flow of conversation, hoping thus to distract Shirley's mind in a measure, although they did not annoy her by trying to make her talk

It was not an easy thing to do, for their own hearts were filled with dread and sorrow and an almost unbearable anxiety regarding the result of the opera-tion make her talk.

At last they gave the order to return, and were driven home, only to find the door of that mysterious room still closed and no tidings to cheer and comfort their heavy hearts.

heavy hearts.

Another hour dragged wearily by—such an hour as those three women never forgot—while they sat pale and almost speechless in madame's room, listening and experiencing keen darts of pain through every nerve upon the slightest sound; then at last the nurse came to tell them that "it was over."

"Is it well over?" Annie inquired, with pallid lips, as she threw her arms round Shirley, who had sprung to her feet at the moment the man appeared, then staggered and swayed dizzily as if about to swoon.

"But-but-oh! it has not been fatal!"

persisted Miss Vining, although the last word was almost inaudible.

"Oh, no, miss; we have carried him back to his own room and he is beginning to recover from the effects of the ether. Ah! poor lady! but she has borne it better than I thought she would."

This last remark the man fittered as he sprang forward and caught Shirley, just as she was slipping from Annie's arms to the floor.

He laid her upon the bed and then was obliged to leave her with her two companions and go back to his patient.

She began to recover almost immediately, however, and looked up eagerly as Dr. Wallace came hastily into the room, he having learned of her condition from the nurse.

he having learned of her condition from the nurse.

He administered a restorative, which brought back a little color to her lips; but when she attempted to rise, he laid her gently back upon the pillow.

"You must lie quietly here for the present," he said; "you need the rest. All is going as well as we can expect in the other room. When Mr. Vining comes wholly to himself I will return for you and take you to him."

YANKEES AT HENLEY.

Henley, Eng., June 20.—The oarsmen from the University of Pennsylvania were up bright and early this morning. They were all delighted with their quarters at the Five Horseshoes Inn, a rustic hostelry situated in a qicturesque spot. Ellis Ward, the coach of the Pennsylvaians, walked the crew to the railway station, where the boats were taken off the trucks and carried to the boat house. A small crowd of the inhabitants, and several British oarsmen watched the visitors' racing beat, which was much admired, as was also the clean-cut, athletic appearance of the Crew.

Great interest attached to the first appearance of the Americans on the water this afternoon. They took a spin to the starting point, with the stream, and back to their quarters. The average rate of their stroke was thirty to thirty-two to the minute. They covered the regular regatta course in 7½ minutes. The crew created a favorable impression. Their short boat aroused considerable curiousity.

AT SHEEPSHEAD BAY.

New York, June 21.—Shaw, the jockey, all but duplicated his success of Wednesday at Sheepshead Bay yesterday. He rode three winners and was only beaten a head in the last race of the day. He scored his victories on Ten Candles in the third race, Water Color in the fourth and Dark Secret in the fifth race, and then was beaten a short head on The Musketeer by All Green in the last race. His other mounts were unplaced. Water Color won the Swift stakes, at 7 furlongs, the only fixture on thecard. Six horses faced the starter, with Water Color favorite, and Gold Heels and Demurrer about equal at 5 to 2. The start was only fair, Water Color getting a little the worst of it. Gold Heels was the first to show, but Demurrer raced past him and showed the way by a length up the back stretch, with Dublin, Gold Heels, The Puritan and Water Color running head and head behind him. In the stretch Water Color drew away and won cleverly from Gold Heels. The Puritan, Dublin and Bedeck finished short heads apart in the fight for third money. Ten Candles made a new track record for 1 3-16 miles of 2:00 3-5. He was a 1 to 6 favorite, having only Maid of Harlem to beat. It was a perfect day for an outling, and a big crowd was in attendance. For the Fans.

Pitcher George Sullivan, the Kingston young man who began the season with the Canadian League, is about as popular in Toronto as Matthewson Batteries—Moore and Wood; Bernhard is in New York. Down at Kingston is in New York. Down at Kingston Sully has but to express the wish and he may have town, town pump and the may have town. all. But have you observed how elusive is baseball popularity. Just as sure as the sun will rise tomorrow, Sullivan will get his bumps as every other pitcher has. Then he will be forgotten. Matthewson, the New York phenom fell from the altitude of the gods to which he was elected by the fans. Matthewson was undoubtedly a great pitcher, but, being human, he couldn't win always. In London, dur-Batteries-Young and Schreckengost; George Cooper could have commanded more willing slaves than the mayor and his coun Before the season was over the bleachers were yelping "Send him to the bench!" Beware of hero worship in baseball. WHY HE MADE HOME RUNS. A Hantford paper tells of the meeting in Hartford the other day of Man-ager Reilly, of the Meriden team, and Reddy Grey. They talked of old times, Mr. Reilly, in speaking about the time when he saw Grey in another league, said that Grey was the last man on the team to go out to practice. He would be found curled up in a chair with a big book in front of him, and the other players had to take his book away from him to get him on the field. Grey is the most omnivorous reader playing the national game. Another specialty of his is making home runs. He acquired the home run habit so the game should be ended quickly and he could get back to his novel. Maybe Reddy was reading some of the dime literature that makes boys "bad" when he was with Toronto, for he certainly played bad ball.

THE CROOKED LEAGUE.

The more one learns of professional paseball the more he must admire Ban Johnson for breaking away from the so-called National agreement. Here is this Matthewson-Toronto, New York-Norfolk-Cincinnati case. Norfolk paid good "protection" money to the National League, and now it must stand for Cincinnati's steal and New York's "fence" work. What fools these baseball men must be to ante to Nick Young for which there is no return.-Exchange.

Toronto is badly in need of a short-Louis Bruce is popular and a good utility man, but he cannot do the work of a specialist in the infield. Pitcher George Sullivan's batting average so far is .579. In 19 times at oat he has made 11 hits.

Nelson, the New York second base man, is about as big as a nail. He is knocked off the bag every time he has to face a runner.

Montreal Herald: Schiebeck is said to be one of the fathers of indoor baseball, a game played with a small bat and a ball somewhat like unto a football. Shy plays this game all win-ter, and when he steps up to the plate in the spring he fails to see the balloon loom up. He cannot see the ordinary baseball, and therefore punches holes in the atmosphere.

JUNE MEETING

Rain Made Track Heavy, But Races Were Exciting.

Attendance at Last Day's Racing Was drawn 1,200 - The Results in Three

When the local devotees of horse racing awoke yesterday morning and road and garden, their hopes for another day's exciting sport sank at once to a low obb and as the road and the road as the road and the road as the r to a low ebb, and as the morning advanced, and the downpour showed no races and most exciting finishes of the signs of ceasing, their hopes almost touched the zero mark. However, a little before noon the rain second and the sky gradually cleared, and the afternoon turned out as fine as the preceding ones had been. The rain, however, had made the track heavy, and ing, and Intriguer a little ahead, until very muddy in spots, especially near just at the wire Lady Grosvenor's nose the pole. This had the effect of making the time of the different events. So close was the finish that all save slower than on the previous day, and the judges were in doubt until the anit was probably due to this, too, that the day's programme hardly equaled in interest that of Wednesday after-noon. For all that, the 1,200 people noon. For all that, the 1,200 people present were well satisfied with the sport provided for them. The meeting as a whole is certainly the most suc-cessful of those yet held by the London Turf Club, and that is saying a

As was the case on the previous day of the meet, there was not a single London horse, nor even a Middlesex horse, started in any of the events, though the surrounding counties Perth, Oxford, Elgin, Kent and Bruce all had representatives. The Musical Society Band, under

Fred L. Evans, enlivened the intervals of waiting between the races with popular selections.

THE RUNNING RACE. The three-quarter mile run, third on the programme, was called first, on account of the condition of the track. In the first heat Urganda led all the way, and won in a jog. Lochfein, a Cleveland horse, of which a good performance was expected, proved to be a disappointment, and after going the first couple of hundred yards well, dropped back, and was distanced. The Manton seemed to be unable to keep up the pace for the three-quarters that had landed it a winner in the fiveeighths on Tuesday.

In the second and final heat of the run, Urganda again finished first. This time, however, there was considerable dissatisfaction on the part of the judges owing to the manner in which McNamee had ridden The Manton. The up. The judges allowed the race to

The race which aroused the greatest interest during the day was the 2:21 pace, left unfinished from the previous afternoon. In this race Tom Appleby had two heats to his credit, while each of the other two starters had one each. Many people hoped to see Appleby win, but in this they were disappointed.

In the first turn of the initial heat a break on Appleby's part gave Alma lead, which the chestnut stallion found it impossible to make up. the three-quarter, Nono Wilkes broke, letting Appleby pass. Alma came in two lengths ahead, though Appleby made a gallant dash down the stretch. Alma had a good lead for the first half of the second heat. Appleby held second place until the quarter was reached, when the gray mare passed him. At the half Alma and Nono Wilkes were even, with Tom Appleby just behind and outside. Alma drew away from the others and had a fair lead, but one which Appleby, could he have repeated his performances of Wednesday, would have found no difficulty in closing up. At the threequarter, however, Nono Wilkes broke and wheeled a little just in front of Tom Appleby. The latter horse nar-rowly escaped a collision by pulling up, and in the meantime the Teeswater mare had got too far ahead to be caught. At the judge's stand Appleby's own-Porter, lodged a complaint of crooked work on the part of None Wilkes' driver. He was backed up by a well-known horseman, who said that Nono Wilkes' driver boasted to him after the race that "I gave Alma that race when I got down in front of Porter, and don't you forget it!" Appleby wished at least to have all bets de clared off, but the judges decided to et race and bets stand.

THE THIRD RACE.

Imperial owned it all in the 2:24 pace and 2:20 trot, he leading nearly all the way in all three heats. In the first, Black Thorn got away ahead, but on breaking turn Imperial took and held the lead. At the half Alruna was second, with Romola B., Black Thorn, Little John and Little Tim following. They strung out around the second half and the only change in their position at the finish was that made by Little John moving up from fifth to third place. Imperial got ahead in the second, and the only contest was for the place. There is great prosperity in Alabama. The earnings of the railroads of that state for the year 1900 were ed Little John and Romola B. and took second easily. The third heat was a repetition of the second, Imperial enjoying a hope-

Board of Works Favors Anti-Spitting Bylaw.

Many Matters Considered by Committee and Sent to the Engineer.

City Engineer Graydon's anti-spitting crusade did not end with the "don't spit" signs. Last night he again brought the subject to the attention of the board of works. He mentioned the evils of expectoration, as evidenced especially at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets, where so many people wait for cars, and suggested that the city favor a bylaw prohibiting spitting on the streets, if it were only Dundas and Richmond.

Ald. Parnell's motion to enforce such a bylaw between the G. T. R. tracks and Maple street on Richmond and between Ridout and Wellington on Dundas will go before the council. The engineer will consider and re-port upon the following matters that came before the board: Manager C. E. A. Carr's letter, re double-tracking Railway street; the condition of the road and a dump on Trafalgar street; the bad repair of the Wyatt street breakwater, West London, and improvements at the court house.

The board will inspect the west side of Colborne between Cheapside and Grosvenor, where Mr. Thompson, a ratepayer living there, said that the walk was being torn up when it should be left, and that road grading the required.
