CANNOT SUPPORT BORDEN PROPOSAL

Hon. Mr. Bergeron, Conservative Member, Finds School Amendment Acceptable.

Ottawa, March 30. — Mr. Bergeron, the French Conservative member for Beauharnois, was the principal speaker in the autonomy bill debate today. Mr. Bergeron spoke exhaustively on historical and constitutional aspects of the measure, and said he had come to the conclusion that the Government amendment effectually protected the minority. He could not, he said, support Mr. Borden's amendment. He took the issue that there is an educational law in the Northwest Territories passed by the Government of Canada. This he quoted from the statutes of 1871. It required that Roman Catholic or Protestant minorities should be permitted to pay their taxes to the support of separate schools. That law had been amended in 1882, clause 16 of the remedial bills was merely a re-enactment of that law, in case there should be dispute. He quoted from the Government amendment of the territories to show that separate schools were established and maintained. There was a council of public instruction, and the Government, one Protestant and one Roman Catholic, the same as in the Province of Quebec. There were Catholic separate schools, and the Government had the ordinances to show how the privileges of the minority were from time to time reduced, till now it had what were called separate schools, but were not in the spirit separate schools. The change was not protested against by Archbishop Tache. Appeal was made to the Government to make the same effect would thus have become effective again, and partly because Sir John Thompson thought that an appeal to the Administration and Legislature of the territories would be effective.

Mr. Bergeron went on to say that he was not in favor of non-sectarian schools. He wanted children taught their duty to God. He doubted also if public schools were as effective as separate schools. He hoped in making the people united. The close of Mr. Bergeron's speech was an appeal for tolerance and conciliation that every creed and nationality might feel that it was a part of the whole. Mr. Bergeron expressed his satisfaction that two provinces were to be created, and thought that it was the duty of the Government to hold the lands in its control.

Mr. Belcourt, who followed Mr. Bergeron, argued at length the expediency of public policy, it was expedient and necessary to enact section 16. The Government, he said, had done one or two things. It had to continue, repeat or modify the act of 1882. The Government, by clause 16, was modifying that act. Mr. Borden's amendment proposed to repeal it. Going on with his argument, Mr. Belcourt said Conservatives favored schools without religious instruction.

Mr. Belcourt ended with a prediction that the bill would be carried by a majority larger than that which the Government regularly had, and an appeal for toleration.

LAKE TERMINUS OF G. T. PACIFIC

Indian Mission Near Fort William Chosen by Vice-President Morse.

Toronto, March 30.—The terminus of the Lake Superior branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific will be the tract of land known as the Indian Mission, adjoining Fort William, and on the south side of the Kaministiquia, and Mission Rivers. Mr. F. W. Morse, vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific, was in Fort William yesterday, and communicated the decision of the company to the mayors of Fort William and Port Arthur respectively.

The Indian Mission comprises about 3,000 acres, one-half of which is level land, but at present sparsely occupied, and the rest is taken up by Mount McKay, which is 1,000 feet high. The railway will be incorporated in the town of Fort William, and a traffic bridge will be erected to connect it with that town. This company has several extensive docks along the Kaministiquia River, above the C. P. R. docks, and will spend large sums on grain elevators, freight sheds and other things incidental to the new terminal. The line will enter the town from the west, midway between the C. P. R. and the Canadian Northern.

A dispatch from Fort William says: Mr. Morse and the council of Fort William have reached an agreement which was ratified by the council unanimously. The Grand Trunk Pacific will place all their lake terminals in the Indian reserve property south of the Kaministiquia. Construction will commence at once. The town will pay the company $200,000, the last payment of $100,000 to be made when the company has expended $900,000. All the land acquired by the company will be incorporated in the town of Fort William, and arrangements made for a railway and traffic bridge. The whole town is in fête.

NAN PATTERSON'S CASE

Her Sister and Brother-in-Law
Charged With Conspiracy.

Chicago, March 30.—Margaret Smith and her wife, who is a sister of Miss Nan Patterson, the actress, who is held in New York on the charge of killing Cassius M. Young, the maker, were arrested in this city this afternoon.

Smith had been summoned to appear as a witness in the case, but left New York city and state several months ago and had not been found until today. A New York detective unit went to locate Smith in Montreal. After making the acquaintance of the Smiths and getting on friendly terms with them, the detective learned that the couple when they left Montreal, and started south. Mrs. Smith has relatives in Covington, Kentucky, across the river from this city, and was arrested there today. Both Smith and his wife admitted their identity. J. Morgan Smith is declared by the New York authorities to have gone with Nan Patterson to the pawnbroker's shop in New York and to have selected for her the dress which Young was shot just before he was to have met Mrs. Young on the steamer on which they were to start for a long trip in Europe.

Worry Goes To The Stomach

How To Repair These Telegraph

I will gladly give any Stomach Sufferer a Full Dollar's Worth of my Remedy Free to Try.

I ask no deposit—no reference—no security. There is nothing to risk—nothing to pay, either now or later. Any stomach sufferer who writes me, and sends me a remedy may have a full dollar's worth free if he merely writes and asks.

I willingly make this liberal offer, because Dr. Shoop's Restorative is not an ordinary stomach remedy. It does not, indeed, treat the stomach itself. It goes beyond it—treats the nerves that control and operate the stomach. The nerves that wear out and break down, and CAUSE stomach trouble. For stomach trouble is really a nervous disease. It is a serious nerve trouble inside. That is why ordinary remedies fail. That is why my remedy succeeds. That is why I can afford to make this offer.

Yet do not misunderstand me when I say "nerves." I do not mean the nerves you ordinarily think about. I mean the automatic stomach nerves. I have not your mind has no control. I have not the space here to explain to you how the nerves control the stomach. But I can tell you that the nerves may be vitalized and restored. When you write I will send you a book which will make these things plain. But this much is certain—stomach nerves cause all forms of stomach trouble—indigestion, belching, heartburn, insomnia, nervousness, dyspepsia. No stomach medicine will cure these ailments. Only my treatment will do that. The other remedy Dr. Shoop's Restorative even claims to cure.

What ails the stomach nerves? Worry, probably. Mental anguish destroys their easy flow and leaves the stomach in a state of nervous tension. It is a serious nerve trouble inside. That is why ordinary remedies fail. That is why my remedy succeeds. That is why I can afford to make this offer.

Port Arthur's Member.

Toronto, March 30.—Mr. H. W. Kennedy, member-elect for Port Arthur and Rainy River, it was stated at the Parliament buildings this morning, has refrained from taking his seat in the House of Commons on account of his illness. He is the first place to enter the contest, combined with the facts of his slender majority, and the protest entered against his election. His friends, on the other hand, say that he is engaged in private business and will take his seat in due course.

DEATH TOO GOOD FOR GEN. VILJOEN

That is Why Actress May Belfort Horsewhipped the Boer Hero.

New York, March 29. — Miss May Belfort, the English comedienne, who declares that Gen. Benjamin J. Viljoen, hero of many Boer wars, no longer loved her during a period covering several years, last night made public for the first time many of the love misadventures she has received from him. She declares that Gen. Viljoen, although he already had a wife in South Africa, proposed marriage to her. She accepted him, she says, after he had promised to obtain a divorce subsequently, she declares, he scorned her.

Miss Belfort's reasons for giving out the letters are best told by herself. "I can no longer withstand," said Miss Belfort last night, "the oft-repeated denials of Gen. Viljoen, that he had put court to me. He has said he merely knew me as an acquaintance—nothing more. I feel that in justice to myself I should take this step to disprove the public mind of any erroneous impression the attentions of Gen. Viljoen may have caused."

"It is true I horsewhipped Gen. Viljoen publicly in Chicago, after he had made it plain to me that he had no intentions toward me. Indeed, upon that occasion, I carried with me a loaded revolver, with which I intended to kill him. But I did not use the pistol, because, at the last moment, I concluded that death was too good for the man. So I horsewhipped him. But I have that gun yet, and here it is."

Here Miss Belfort produced a revolver from a grip in her sitting-room. "I am a woman of sudden impulses," she said, as she handled the gleaming weapon, "and there is no telling what a woman scorned will do."

"I am only a woman. I have no one to defend me, and I must, therefore, defend myself. I have no friends, no relatives in this country."

Miss Belfort showed the reporter several large bundles of letters, all of which, she said, were written to her by Gen. Viljoen. Extracts from some of them follow:

"Always My Sweetheart."

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2, 1904.

My Dearest May:

I am here from New York, after spending some days there getting the stock of our company taken up.

I have been invited by the President to dine with him at the White House tomorrow.

Are you going to Australia, sweetheart? Are you going into the world now? I live here, May, I am glad to call you sweetheart and always hope for the day that will bring us together. As things stand, I cannot say, "Come, love, be patient," so long as you are here, I would be wrong for me to hold out any false hopes. I am unable, according to best advice, to proceed with my divorce suit until my company is fixed up and the newspaper story has blown over.

I never loved any woman before as I love you, and I cannot bear the thought of your saying that you are unhappy or doubting me. I am sad, my sweetheart. Heaven alone knows how I suffer. If I live here, May, I will always come to you yet. Farewell for the present, sweetheart! God bless and keep you. Ever yours, BEN.

My Cherie May:

Well, I can't blame you, my dear. I am sorry, but I must tell you the truth. But the reason, I trust you understand, from my former letters. Well, my dear, you say I am forgetting you. No, my love, such is not the case, but, alas, my hopes of having you as my wife seem to dwindle away. I fear to hold out any hopes and cannot deceive you. I will, however, make one more effort to take you to a desolate home, where I will not be able to provide for you. Do not forget me altogether, love. The girl who once loved me by book is a reproduction of your face, Your devoted BEN.

AN RAVOIR for the Present.

On Board the Umbria, Irish Channel, December 6, 1904.

Ma Cherie:

The passengers show little inclination to be sociable. I am the object of considerable scrutiny from those who, I suppose, never saw a live Boer before. All my dear, my dear, my dear, thoughts are always of you. Your kind face is before me, and I fancy I hear you say, "My Ben." Oh, May, my sweetheart, how I long to see you alone can tell, I am sad and my heart is heavy. The tears rush out of my eyes when I think of the happy days I spent in your dear home.

Now, my heart's love, I must close for the night, and again I bid you au revoir for the present. Good-night, sweetheart, and keep me in your guiding hand over you.

Ever and always your own, BEN.

Ma Cherie May:

I received your cable last night, but what can I answer? I am sorry, yes, but I am sorry that you should have been taken in by the news. I am sorry, yes, but I am sorry that you should have been taken in by the news. I am sorry, yes, but I am sorry that you should have been taken in by the news.

My Dear May:

Your reproachful letter received. I wrote to you several times to London. As to our relations, my dear May, I am sorry, yes, but I am sorry that you should have been taken in by the news. I am sorry, yes, but I am sorry that you should have been taken in by the news.

$15,000 FOR PLOT

Capt. Fraser Wins His Case Against Manager George Edwardes.

London, March 30.—The case in which Capt. Fraser accused George Edwardes, the theatrical manager, of stealing the girl of the manager's daughter, "The Girl of the Year," from a scenario Fraser submitted to Edwardes, who paid Fraser $15,000 as an expense, was decided in favor of Fraser. The jury awarded him $15,000 damages.

The judge refused to issue an injunction against future performances of "The Girl of the Year" on the ground that it was not necessary. The court heard counsel in regard to an application for a stay of execution pending an appeal.

TAKE THE MONEY

Goldwin Smith's View of the Gift of Rockefeller to Missions.

New York, March 30. — Goldwin Smith has written as follows: The answer which I wish last night to your telegram asking my opinion as to the responsibility of recipients of religious or charitable contributions for the source of the money was necessarily hurried and brief. But I do not of further consideration see how any but a very general answer can be given to the question. If the taint is manifest and notorious, moral mischief will be done by acceptance. Otherwise, I would accept for application to a good purpose whatever was offered, without scrutinizing the source or the motive. The man who has made a fortune by using his political power for the imposition of an unjust tax in his own interest is a defrauder of the public, and his wealth made in this way is tainted. But you could hardly refuse his contribution to charity or religion. The plea that the receiver of the contribution is merely a trustee, and as such out of all responsibility, does not seem to me to be in itself of much force.

TO ENTERTAIN ALFONSO

Great Preparations Being Made in London and Paris.

London, March 30. — Plans for the entertainment of King Alfonso in London are about completed. The Spanish monarch will arrive here on June 5, crossing the Channel in the royal yacht Victoria and Albert. The programme will probably include a royal family dinner at Buckingham Palace on the night of the King's arrival, a state banquet, a state ball at the palace, a dinner party or ball at Marlborough House, the residence of the Prince of Wales; a gala performance at the opera; and entertainments at the Spanish and Austro-Hungarian embassies, and at Lansdowne House, the residence of the foreign secretary. The King will also spend a day at Windsor Castle.

It is expected that after his official visit to London, the King will proceed to England and Scotland, and then proceed to Berlin.

69 CENTS DOWN THROAT

So Excited, Patient Said, but Doctor Found Not Even a Penny.

New York, March 29. — Rushing into the West Thirtieth street police station at 9 o'clock last night, a wild-eyed young woman began to emit spitting shrieks.

"What's the matter?" roared the startled sergeant.

"Get a doctor quick!" I've swallowed 60 cents, and it's stuck right here."

"There were two silver quarters and a 10-cent piece in me mouth, and when I took a sip of beer—forgetting all about the coins—down they go."

While the sergeant phoned an ambulance call to the New York Hospital, the woman, who was assisted by the reserves, pounded the woman on the back, she gasped more details.

"I always carried loose change in me mouth," she moaned, and now I've got it in the neck."

Just then the ambulance arrived. If the patient had exercised caution, the death of one-third of the rural laborers of England was the remarkable statement made in a court in London by Dr. Luke.

The diameter of the funnels—there are two of the new Cunarder Caronia is so great that they were laid on their sides a couple of locomotives could pass abreast.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

TORONTO.
 Toronto, March 30.—An energetic buying movement characterized the live stock trade at the city yards this morning, and the result was very satisfactory to the sellers in all lines. There was a marked expansion in the marketings of cattle, but owing to the renewed competition engendered by the attendance of a large number of outside buyers, the receipts proved to be considerably under market expectations, and buyers were reluctantly compelled to pay higher prices. The feature was a sharp advance in export cattle, one sale of cars being reported at $5.30, while several other sales were recorded at $5.25 per cwt. No actual advance in prices of butchers can be quoted, but when the quality of the offerings is considered, an enhancement of 5c to 10c per cwt looks reasonable. Sheep were about 25c per cwt higher, and spring lambs were firmer. Hogs were unchanged. Receipts were 474 head, comprising 1,285 cattle, 208 sheep and lambs, 1,400 hogs and 100 calves.

Butcher cattle—The consumptive outlet was very broad, and a wild scramble for supplies took place, with little chance for discrimination, on account of the lack of quality. Thereafter, there was a marked attendance of outside buyers present from Montreal and several Ontario points, looking for good quality and low prices. Competition with local slaughter interests, a quick clean-up of receipts occurred. The outside buyers all reported a scarcity of supplies in the country.

Export cattle—Many drovers who have been taking their cattle to the other market for some time past, are now returning to the city yards, and the market has been a splendid one for shippers here. The arrivals since Tuesday have all been unusually large, and they have been readily absorbed at higher prices. Quite a large number of buyers were on the market today, and prices advanced.

The buyers were not disposed to pay the higher values, demanded, but they wanted the cattle to fill space, and the highest prices in many months were realized. Stockers and feeders—The demand was brisk for all lines, and a clearance of receipts was effected at an early hour. Prices were very firm.

Milk cows—A scarcity of milkers was reported, and there is a good market for choice stuff.

OLD COUNTRY PRICES.

Hogs—Receipts, 17,000; market 5c higher; mixed and butchers, $5.15 to $5.25; good to choice, heavy, $5.25 to $5.40; rough heavy, $5.15 to $5.25; light, $5.10 to $5.25; bulk of sales at $5.15 to $5.25.

Sheep—Receipts, 7,000; market steady; good to choice wethers, $5.75 to $6.25; fair to choice mixed, $4.50 to $5.50; native lambs, $5.50 to $6.00.

THISTLE TENNIS CLUB TO OPEN SEASON WITH BIG TOURNAMENT

The spirit of enthusiasm and determination which was manifested at the annual meeting of the Thistle Tennis Club, held in the club house on Richmond street, last evening, augurs well for the success of the club this year. Some very important steps were taken in preparation for the coming tennis season, and there is no doubt that 1905 will be a red-letter year in the history of the sport in this city. For several years past it has been evident that tennis has been decidedly on the increase in London, both as regards the number of those who play, and their skill. For this, the L. C. I. Tennis Club, the tennis section of the L. C. I. and last fall's big tournament at the Thistle club have been largely responsible. On account of the large space of level lawn needed for the game, it can only find proper development through clubs. In Toronto there are many of these clubs, each with a large membership, sound financially, and productive of championship tennis players. There has not yet been such a club in London, perhaps, partly because this city is so small, and partly because of such an area, and that a central situation for a club was not for a long time forthcoming. This trouble is now overcome by the extensive and central grounds of the Thistle Club, as was made evident by the large numbers who congregated to the last fall's tournament. Anywhere in the neighborhood of 100 members are expected this season.

Another thing that was lacking to London tennis players was organization, and this deficiency, too, was filled last evening.

Mr. Alex. Calder occupied the chair. The first matter to come up was the question as to what relations are to exist between the club and the Thistle Club as a whole. Messrs. Dunn and Woods reported the result of interviews with several officials and shareholders.

ARE STONE BLIND WHEN SUN SETS

Tragedy of a Shanty in the Depths of a Forest.

FOUR LUMBERMEN STRICKEN

Make Their Way to Hut and There Find Man and Hound Frozen to Death.

Lachine, Que., March 28.—Night blindness is an ailment prevalent among lumbermen who work in shanties remote enough to make vegetables an unusual luxury. In most instances, the persons affected have the normal use of their eyesight from sunrise to sunset, but are stone blind when the sun is below the horizon.

Sometimes the trouble comes on slowly, beginning with a dimness of vision at morning and evening, and increasing until it is impossible for the patient to stir outside except when the sun is high. At other times, and especially in the bright days of March, when the glare of the sun upon the snow is trying to all eyes, night blindness sets in.

There was a curious case of this sudden coming on of the blindness in the Ottawa lumber district, near Beaver Lake. Four men had been detailed to mark the logs laid upon the ice, and they had worked three or four days in the glaring light of the March sun, taking of the forest the clear lake surface, with no particularly bad results. Two of them were sufferers from night blindness, and had to be led home at night by their companions, and as their shanty was four miles away from the lake it was their custom to start back a little before sundown.

One day they had about finished the job and worked rather late to complete it. To their dismay, they found when they started back that the shanty was four miles away from the lake it was their custom to start back a little before sundown.

The night was terribly cold, and there was more than half a gale of north wind blowing across the lake. To attempt to grope their way home in the dark would be to risk their lives. Happily one of the men remembered that one of the great timbers used as a skidway was a stick of white ash, the canoe tree of the Indians.

Cautionally they felt their way to this log and contrived to tear away a section of the bark, and the bark was easily rolled this up into what would answer for a torch, they lit it with a match and derived light enough for the four of them to be able to distinguish their surroundings.

The birch pole was at once completely stripped of its bark, and while at this work they decided that it would be almost madness to try to reach their own shanty that night along the narrow pathway their footsteps had made in the deep snow. Right across an arm of the lake on a projecting point was a deserted shanty, and thither they determined to go.

The journey was difficult, as even with the flaming bark to guide them the poor fellows found it difficult to steer a straight course. It was probably near midnight when they pushed open the rude, wooden-hinged door and entered the shanty.

A fire was quickly started in the caboose with some of the poles taken from the bottom of one of the shelving sleeping bunks, still in position all around the walls. After a time the sense of seeing came back to them as they sat about the bright fire, and they began to feel their new home with tolerable clearness. As their vision cleared they made out the figure of a man seated at the clerk's desk in the corner, with a fine hound at his feet.

A little investigation showed that both man and dog were stone dead and frozen to stiffness. It was evident that the shanty had been the home of the dead pair for a considerable time. The greater part of a fine deer hung in the cook's lean-to, which was entered by a door from the rear of the shanty. No trace of flour or other provisions was to be seen.

The visitors had been prodigal in their use of matches and now discovered that they had used the last of their supply. Their keenest search of the clothing and stores of the dead man failed to discover a single one, and, though they found a fine rifle in good order in the bunk where the bed had been made, not a single cartridge with a flame might be obtained could be found. They at once piled all available fuel upon their fire and determined to watch beside it all night.

The dead man was dressed in city clothes, some brown checked material, well made, and he had a good gold watch. On the table were old newspapers of six or eight months ago, all from the United States. A lead pencil lay near the hand of the dead man, and a bit of white birch bark, on which was written over and over again: "Blind," "Blind."

Naturally enough, the four men did not care to make a very close search for means of identification. They concluded that the man was a stranger in the woods, and an American. It is their opinion that the man was afflicted with night blindness while in the shanty, and became afraid to go far away from it for fear of being overtaken by evening and becoming unable to find his way back again. His matches were used up, and his rifle cartridges having disappeared it was impossible for him to make a fire to keep himself warm or to cook his meat. With thermometer ranging from 15 to 30 below zero, it would not be long before the frost would claim both him and his faithful hound as victims when without fire or provisions.

When morning came the shantymen made a breakfast of the venison in the lean-to and then started for Lake Umbagog to bury the dead men in the shanty, but arrived at the lakeside to find the building in flames, which soon made total destruction of it and its contents.

TWO CAMPS THIS YEAR FOR LONDON

Militia Department Acts on the Suggestion of Col. Peters, D. O. C.

It has now been definitely decided that there will be two military camps on Carling's heights at Carleton Place, the suggestion emanated from Col. Peters, D. O. C., and has been accepted by the militia department of Ottawa.

This means that the regiments and corps who are to go into camp will be divided into two brigades, one of which will stay in the city, and the other will be sent to Carleton Place for training before going into camp.

The first brigade will put up its tents on June 6, and it will consist of the following regiments: Twenty-seventh, Thirty-second, Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth.

The second brigade will go into camp on June 20, will consist of the Twenty-second, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth Regiments.

In order that both camps will have the services of the Army Service, the Pease and the Field Hospital Corps (Samaritan) will be stationed at Carleton Place just before June 20 and remain a few days after that date.

With two camps, much more efficient work will be done, and the soldiers will be pleased to have the soldiers with them for a longer period.

A JOINT INITIATION

SWEET CAPORAL

CIGARETTES STANDARD OF THE WORLD

THE PUPPET CROWN.

BY HAROLD MACGRATH.
[Copyrighted by the Bowen-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.]

"Your father nourished a particular against the late duke."

"And justly, you will admit."

"Her highness has offered you five millions for slips of paper worth no more than the ink which decorates them."

"And I have refused. Why? Simply because the matter does not rest with me. You have proceeded with a high hand, Madame, or rather your duchess has. Nothing will come of it. Had there been any possibility of my conceding your proposal, this kidnapping would have destroyed it."

"The rightful successor to the throne—"

"is Madame the Duchess," Fitzgerald completed. "I haven't the slightest doubt of that. One way or the other, it does not concern me. I am here simply to fulfill the wishes of my father; and my word, Madame, fulfill them I shall. You are holding me a prisoner, but I am not concerned with the certificates fall due against the Government. If they are not presented either for renewal or collection, the bankruptcy scheme of your duchess will fall through just the same. I will tell you the truth, Madame. My father never expected to collect the money so long as Leopold sat on the throne."

"The whistle grew shrill.

"This officer here," continued Fitzgerald, while the colonel made a comical grimace, "suggests violence. I shall save him the trouble. I have seen much of the world, Madame, and hard side of it—and, knowing it as I do, it is scarcely probable that I should carry away my person the equivalent of four millions of francs."

"Well, Madame," said the colonel, pushing his belt closer about his hips as a soldier always does when he is on the point of departure, "what he says is true, every word of it. I see nothing more to do at present."

Mademoiselle of the Veil was paying not so much attention to the colonel's words as she was to Maurice's whistle.

"Monsieur," she said, coldly, "have you no other time in your repertory?"

"Pardon me!" exclaimed Maurice. "I did not intend to annoy you. He stepped down and a pikehead of gray

"You do not annoy me; only the time grows rather monotonous."

"I will whistle anything you may suggest," he volunteered.

She did not respond to this flattery, though the pupils of her gray eyes grew large with interest. She looked the length of the room and back.

"Count, what do you think would be most satisfactory to her highness, under the circumstances?"

"I have yet to hear of her highness' disapproval of anything you undertake."

"Messieurs, your parole d'honneur, and the freedom of the chateau is yours—within the forty lines. I wish to make your recollections of the Red Chateau rather pleasant than otherwise. I shall be most happy if you will honor my table with your presence."

The colonel coughed, Maurice smoothed the back of his head, and Fitzgerald caught up his monocle.

"My word, Madame," said Maurice,
"it is worth much, being that of a diplomat, but such as it is it is yours.
However, my clothes are scarcely presented, which was true enough. Several buttons were missing, and the collar hung by a thread."

"That can be easily remedied," said she. "There are several new hussar uniforms in the armory."

"O, Madame, and you will permit me to wear one of those gay uniforms of light blue and silver lace?"

The colonel looked thoughtfully at Maurice. He was too much a banterer himself to miss the undercurrent of satire. He eyed Madame discreetly; he saw that she had accepted merely the surface tones.

"And you will wear one, too, Jack?" said Maurice.

"No, thank you. I pass my word, Madame; I do not like confinement."

"Well, then, the count will shortly return and establish you in better quarters. Let us suppose you are my guests for a fortnight. Since both of us are right, since neither your cause nor mine is wrong, an armistice!
Ah, I forgot. The east corridor on the third floor is forbidden you. Should you you mistake and go that way, a guard will direct you properly. Messieurs, till dinner!" and with a smile which illuminated her face as a sudden burst of sunshine flashes across a hillside, she passed out of the room, followed by her henchman, who had not yet put aside the thoughtful repose of his countenance.

"A house party," said Maurice, when he could no longer hear their footsteps. "And what the deuce have they got so valuable in the east corridor on the third floor?"

"It is small matter to me," said Fitzgerald tranquilly. "The main fact is that she has given up her game."

Said Maurice, his face expressing both pity and astonishment: "My dear, dear John! Didn't you see that woman's eyes, her hair, her chin, her nose?"

"Well?"

"True; you haven't had any experience with petticoats. This woman will rend heaven and earth rather than relinquish her projects, or rather those of her mistress. I should like to see this duchess, who shows a fine discernment in the selection of her assistants. Beware of the woman who frankly your enemy. If she is frank, it is because she is confident of her aid; if not, she is frank in order to disarm us of the suspicion of cunning."

"And she gives much to know the meaning of this house party."

"Hang me if I can see what difference it makes. She can not do anything either by frankness or by cunning."

"She gathered us in neatly, this red-haired Amazon."

"Red-haired?" in a kind of protest.
"Why, yes; that's the color, isn't it?"

"I thought it a red-brown. It's too bad that such a woman should be mixed up in an affair like this."

"Woman will sacrifice to ambition what she never will sacrifice to love.
Hush! I hear the colonel returning."

They were conducted to the opposite wing of the chateau, to a room which second floor. Its windows afforded an excellent view of the land which lay south. Hills rolled away like waves of the sea, dotted here and there with vineyards. Through the avenue of trees they could see the highway, and beyond, the river, which had its source in the mountains ten miles eastward.

The room itself was in red, evidently a state chamber, for it contained two couched beds. Several fine paintings hung from the walls, and between the two windows rose one of those pier glasses which owe their existence to the first Empire of France. On one of the beds Maurice saw the hussar uniform. On the dresser were razors and mugs and a pitcher of hot water.

"Ah," he said, with satisfaction.
"The boots may not fit you," said the colonel, "but if they do not we will have some more."

"I shall not mind the fortnight," said Maurice. "By the way, colonel, I notice that French seems to prevail instead of German. Why is that?"

"It is the common language of politness, and servants do not understand German. I am naturally a Frenchman, the German tongue; it is blunt and honest and lacks the finesse of the French, which is full of evasive words and meanings. However, French predominates at court. Besides, heaven help the foreigner who tries to learn all the German tongues to be found in the empire of the Hohenzollern and Hapsburg. Luchon will be served to you in the dining hall; the first door to the right at the foot of the grand staircase. I shall send you a trooper to act as valet."

"Spare me, colonel," said Maurice, who did not want any one between him and the Englishman when they were alone.

"I have never had a valet," said Fitzgerald; "he would embarrass me."
"As you please," said the colonel, a shade of disappointment in his tones.

"After all, you are a soldier; where every man is for himself. Make yourself at home," and he withdrew.

Maurice at once applied laces and puzzles, and put on the handsome uniform, which fitted him snugly. The coat was tailless, with rows of silver buttons running from collar to hem.
The breast and shoulders and sleeves were covered with silver lace, and Maurice concluded that it must be nothing less than a captain's uniform.
The trousers were tight fitting, with broad stripes of silver; and the half boots, with their patent leather, walked backward and forward before the pier glass.

CITY LEAGUE GETS THE PARK

Baseball People Reach Satisfactory Arrangement With Mr. W. J. Reid.

After considerable delay, the City Baseball League and Mr. W. J. Reid have made arrangements for the lease of the Tecumseh Park by the former for another season, and everything is clear sailing for the league. The conference at which the matter was settled satisfactorily was held yesterday afternoon, and besides the parties directly interested a delegation was present from the new lacrosse club.

Mr. Reid explained at the meeting that it was his first hope that the matter could be arranged. The only point which was a stickler was that Mr. Reid wished to have other organizations, and particularly the lacrosse team, playing in the park. He was willing to give the season first call on the grounds and allow it to arrange the dates for other clubs. It also could control the matter of paying for the rental of the grounds. The other organizations which used the park would have to pay the City League for the privilege, and would not have to pay another rental to Mr. Reid.

This arrangement was acceptable to all, and the papers for the lease of the park will be made out very soon. There are several improvements necessary, such as repairing the seats and dressing-rooms, and it is probable that they will be made.

now.

WANTED FREE LUNCH

Youth Decamped Without Paying,
but Was Run Down by Waiter.

A much angered waiter and a youth whose appetite was larger than his income furnished amusement for people on the street, and excitement for the two parties directly interested last night about 9 o'clock.

The young man in the case went into a Dundas street lunch counter and ordered ten cents' worth of late dinner.
The waiter, in his usual trusting style, filled the order without complaint, and then stood around as waiters are wont until the youth should settle. It appears, however, that the young man was plotting to get something for nothing. For five minutes he sat quietly munching his lunch cakes, and then with the desperation born of an empty pocket, he swung around in his chair and made a dash out of the store into the street. The waiter did not pause long before taking up the chase. Over the counter he vaulted, scattering bottles on to the floor in his eagerness.
The youth had quite a little handicap and he showed his heels to his pursuer for a distance. At Richmond street he turned and then ran through the city hall arcade. The spectacle attracted perhaps a hundred people, and they scrambled and tumbled through the city hall like a retreating Russian army. Into the market lane they followed the fugitive and his pursuer, and here the former suddenly slipped and fell. The waiter was onto him in a minute, and then the fun began. The crowd formed a circle around the pair, anxious to see who was to come out best. The youth was not anxious to mix it up with the husky waiter, however.

"Lend me a dime, some of you fellows, will you?" he cried out as he heard a policeman coming.
Strange to say, no one heard him, or else those who were in the inner edge of the circle had their arms pressed to their sides and could not get into their pockets.

A policeman arrived shortly after and the young fellow was taken to the station to be bailed out by some friends shortly after.

vice-president, Thomas Wheatley; secretary, E. T. Bates; treasurer, John mer Londoners to get in line and join in making the "Old Boys" a reality.

A credit to both London and Sarnia.

MRS. BLACKWELL DEAD.
Death recently claimed one of Ontario's most respected citizens, viz, Mary Montgomery, nee Blackwell, who was born in Haldimand on Sept. 15, 1830, and was united in marriage on March 10, 1850, to her husband, who predeceased her Nov. 25, 1886. In 1881 Mrs. Blackwell was elected to the office of deaconess of the Methodist Church, and resided on the tenth concession of London, where they remained for over twenty years. The funeral was the largest ever seen in Ontario. Six nephews of the deceased acted as pallbearers, and the J. H. Teney, rector of the church, conducted the services. Mrs. Blackwell's husband was a well-known and dispo-sitioned man for her many friends.

MR. HISCOX HOME.
After a long holiday trip through the Southern and Western States, Ex-Ald.
George I. Hiscox returned to this city last evening. Leaving here in the middle of January, he journeyed south to New Orleans, stopping at the chief points of interest on the way. Thence going through Mexico and California, Mr. Hiscox arrived at length in Portland, Ore., and witnessed the preparations being made for the coming World's Fair in that city. He then went on to British Columbia, and saw he was impressed by the way timber is wasted in that province, vast quantities of fallen trees being allowed to decay. Mr. Hiscox returned home through Winnipeg by the C. P. R.
He says that such is the activity of Winnipeg that people are putting up temporary buildings "that you could poke your finger through."

MISS HART'S FUNERAL.
The funeral of the late Miss Gertrude Hart, whose death was referred to in yesterday's Advertiser, took place yesterday afternoon at Guelp, from the residence of her aunt, Mrs. Chas. Raymond, Norfolk street, whence the remains were taken to Ashburnham, Mass., for interment. Beside those of her parents, Services were held at the family residence by Rev. L. H. Thomas, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Guelp, Mrs. Charles Raymond accompanying the remains to Boston. Miss Hart's death, at the hospital in Guelp, followed an operation for the removal of a tumor. She was a native of Ashburnham, Mass., and graduated from the Boston Convent School. Her educational talents were of a high order, and the generous way in which she devoted them to charitable objects made her deservedly popular. She had taught eloquution in Woodstock College, Mounton Ladies' College, Toronto, and the Brantford Ladies' College, and was widely known and esteemed throughout Ontario.

reports which reached him were not in the least exaggerated, for upon ar-

The family, the chickens and the horse

ASPHALT PAVEMENT KNOCKED OUT

Assessment Commissioner Reports Richmond Street Petition Sufficiently Signed.

At the meeting of the board of works last night, Assessment Commissioner Grant again reported this time legally—that the petition against the initiation of an asphalt pavement on Richmond street is sufficiently signed, meaning the death warrant of the installation.

In the discussion which followed the receipt of the report, it was suggested that a vitrified brick pavement be now initiated on the street, but it was finally decided to lay the matter over until it is ascertained what class of pavement is satisfactory to the majority of the people interested.

The petition of Rev. Canon Smith for a cement walk on north St. James street, from the street to the rear of the entrance of the See House, one half the cost to be paid in cash by the college, was granted.

The petition for a cement walk on north Laura street, Egerton to Eva street, was filed, a bylaw for the walk having been passed last week.

Petitions for cement walks on north Nelson street, Redan to Marmora; south Alexander, from Wilson avenue to the Wharfedale road; east Redan street, part way Hamilton road to Nelson street, were reported sufficiently signed, and they will be advertised at once.

As no walk had been initiated on the block, a petition against a cement walk on the Wharfedale road, Langarth street to the city limits, was filed.

Mr. Grant also reported that the petitions against a cement walk on the east side of West avenue, had been received too late, but the committee decided not to lay the walk this year.

AUDIENCE LARGE AND DELIGHTED

Miss Hope Morgan and Mr.
Wheeler in a Recital at St. Andrew's.

An encouragingly large audience attended the recital given in St. Andrew's Church last evening by the organist, Mr. Charles Wheeler, and the eminent Canadian vocalist, Miss Hope Morgan, who has been studying in Europe for some time. Miss Morgan's voice, a soprano of rich quality, shows the results of the finest of training, her numbers were thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. Miss Morgan has a remarkable range, her high notes being full-toned and pure, and her low notes possessing an unusually resonant quality. Perhaps the most striking of her numbers was Haydn's aria, which was calculated to show the powers of her voice to the full. Miss Morgan's rendition of the sweet Ave Maria (Schubert) was also much enjoyed.

Mr. Wheeler's work was of its usual artistic and finished nature. His rendition of every number stamped him as a musician of large ability.

The programme was as follows:
Organ—Marche Solennelle.....A. Mailly
Aria—With Verdu Clad ("Creation").....Haydn

"Sweet Clover" at the Grand TOMORROW, MATINEE AND EVENING.

"Sweet Clover" is not exactly a so-called rural play, although the title would indicate so. The first act occurs at Farmer Holcombe's Connecticut farm house, and the characters, which usually prevail in the rural districts are there, with a sprinkling of city folks, who are guests for the summer however, the scenes of the remaining three acts are laid in New York, and as the action takes place in fashionable drawing-rooms, abundant opportunities are afforded and taken advantage of for the very richest of costuming and scenic effects.
