REMARKABLE HEN

Fred Briscoe Has One Laying For Him
But As Yet He Has Not Become Alarmed

"I have a hen that lays me a double-yelk egg for breakfast every morning," was the tale Manager Fred Briscoe, of the Briscoe Opera House, handed a Planet reporter this morning. Yes, sir; a double-yelk egg every morning has been her record for a long time. I wouldn't part with that wonderful hen for any amount of money.

"But I want to tell you what happened this morning. I heard a loud cackling, and when I went out time when Mrs. Hen provides my morning treat, and on going out, I found her strutting around with a great air of pride, as though something unusual had happened. And, sure enough, there had. On opening up her egg after it had been cooked what do you think I found? Three yolks in one egg!

"I am afraid that hen will get stuck on herself over her wonderful feat and refuse to lay any more. The eggs are not much larger than the other, but they always contain a plural of yolks."

BRYAN ATTACKS ROSEVELT

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 13.—A tremendous ovation was tendered W. J. Bryan by 12,000 persons in the Coliseum here last night. When he stepped upon the platform the spectators arose, waved flags and shouted. The ovation lasted four minutes.

Mr. Bryan devoted himself to President Roosevelt, declaring he had gotten his doctrine for many things he had done from the Democratic platform.

He added: "The President has now been in office almost five years. How many trust magnates are in the penitentiary? We have a great many trusts in this country violating the law. I ask you to figure out on the basis of the number of trust magnates imprisoned during the past five years, how many generations it will take to solve the trust question."

TWELVE WERE KILLED IN EARLY MORNING WRECK

Two Express Trains Crash Near Sudbury With Terrible
Results—Forty Persons Were Seriously Injured And Some Of Them May Die

Sudbury, Sept. 13.—Twelve dead and three-score injured, many of them seriously, and some, perhaps, fatally, is the toll of a collision on the C. P. R. early yesterday morning near Azilda station, six and one-half miles west of Sudbury.

Failure of the brakes on the fast-going express bound east is held to be responsible for the collision which caused the first collision car of the third section of harvester train No. 1 to be telescoped. All the dead and injured were in this car.

The accident occurred about 7:15 yesterday morning. The third section of train No. 1 going west, which left Toronto yesterday afternoon, and the second section of No. 2, coming east, had orders to cross at Azilda station.

The harvester train was to take the siding and had slowed up within 75 yards of the switch when the express plunged into it.

A Tremendous Crash.
There was a tremendous crash, a rending of metal and wood, the hissing of steam, and then the air filled with the cries, shrieks and groans of passengers of both trains.

There were fifteen coaches on the harvester train with over 900 people on board. The eastbound train was also well-filled, but these passengers suffered only from the severe shaking up.

Luckily, fire did not break out among the wreckage, and the work of rescue was facilitated considerably. Those who were unhurt joined in the task of removing the injured and dead. Word was sent to Sudbury and four doctors were soon attending the wounded, who were later brought here and taken to the hospital and to local hotels.

The dead were also brought here, and preparations for an inquest are under way.

The Dead.
As announced by the C. P. R. officials at Montreal:

Viola Schade and Olive Schade, Moncton, Ont. These were two children, 12 and 10 years of age, respectively. Their parents were also very seriously injured, and are now in the hospital at Sudbury.

Besides these there is still one body which has not been recognized.

THE OFFICIAL ACCOUNT.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—Last night General Manager McNeill of the C. P. R. gave out the following report of the wreck at Sudbury:

"As far as the meagre despatches we have of the accident go to show, it was caused by the failure of the brakes on the express to act. The harvesters' train was standing on the main line, waiting, while the brakeman ran ahead to turn the switch, so that it might be sidetracked to allow the passage of the east-bound express. Before he could get the switch in position the express arrived and plunged head-on

LIGHTS WERE OUT

Citizens Complain That They Had To Walk Down Darkened
Streets Last Night

"What was the matter with the electric lights last night?" The question is being asked in more quarters than one this morning. All over the city there are citizens complaining about the lack of light, and judging from the number of complaints, there were a large number of people on the streets after the hour for the ringing of the curfew.

It, however, is a fact that the lights were not on last night and the moon was not shining. Several of the people who were forced to be out after dark had to make their way as best they could over the darkened streets. The electric light department should see to it that the lights are burning on all such nights. Often the excuse is that it is supposed to be a moonlight night. There are many moonlight nights when the moon never makes its appearance, and last night was a sample of these.

The citizens are paying for the street lighting, and they have a right to expect it whenever it is needed.

Should Wake Up

Citizen Thinks Chatham Should Provide Some Amusements For Visitors In Town

The utter lack of amusement of any kind in Chatham this year has been the cause of much comment recently, and some people are commencing to wonder what has gone wrong that there is nothing to entertain visitors who come here.

"What has been the matter with Chatham this year?" was the question put to a Planet reporter this morning by a prominent sportsman.

There have been no games this year to speak of, which is a marked contrast to previous years. Something needs shaking up.

"Now that Chatham has so many strangers in the city, with the Tilbury oil boom, it is the time to show what we have. The trouble isn't in not having it. It is in not bringing it out. In past years Chatham has been alive almost with lacrosse, baseball, football and cricket, but the only game to be seen on the park now is bowling."

There has also been a marked slowness in the line of music. What has become of our splendid band concerts on the park? It is not too late to have these. A small grant from the City Council would induce the Regiment Band to give a few concerts, and the effect would be very pleasant and acceptable."

Tenors Are Scarce

Paris, Sept. 13.—Recent examinations at the Paris Conservatory of Music show that good tenors are steadily getting scarcer, and that hardly any of the applicants have been able to reach the high C, or even the B flat on the scale. Physicians think the deficiency of tenors is due to violent exercises young men indulge in under the guise of sport, which ruins the vocal chords.

French Ministry Is Firm.

Paris, Sept. 13.—There was an animated discussion in the course of the Cabinet meeting held at Rambouillet, relative to the application of the Separation Law.

The result was that the Ministry decided to enforce the enactment in its entirety, but to pay the greatest degree of respect possible to the conscience of the people. No church will be closed before December, 1907.

The Government believes opposition will subside, thus obviating the danger of a religious conflict.

Expeditions Being Formed.

Brussels, Sept. 13.—At the session of the Polar Congress here yesterday, Dr. Jean Charcot announced that he was organizing an expedition to the south pole, and Charles Benard, president of the Belg. Geographical Society, stated that he was organizing an expedition to the north pole. The two expeditions will operate in concert.

"Armoury" All Right

"I noticed a letter in last night's Planet from a citizen who objects to the way armoury is spelled on the new building on the park," remarked Capt. Will Coltart to a reporter this morning.

"I may say, for the information of your correspondent," he continued, "that 'armoury' is the correct military spelling for the word, and any military man who should spell it otherwise would be laughed at."

"The contractor was not at fault, for if he had spelled it 'armory' he would certainly have had to erase it and cut it over again to conform with the correct military mode of spelling the word."

"In military circles the word armoury as well as honor and other such words, is always spelled with the 'u.' I merely mention this for the benefit of your correspondent, and to assure him that no mistake was made when the word was spelled 'armoury.'"

Men dislike having their old love letters read to them.

LIFE-LIKE.

How life-like are the waves of the sea! Yes. They come to the beach in great style and go away broke.

Trust to Nature.

A great many Americans, both men and women, are thin, pale and puny, with poor circulation, because they have ill-treated their stomachs by hasty eating or too much eating, by consuming alcoholic beverages, or by too close confinement to home, office or factory, and in consequence the stomach must be treated in a natural way before they can rectify their earlier mistakes. The muscles in many such people, in fact in every weary, thin and thin-blooded person, do their work with great difficulty. As a result fatigue comes early, is extreme and lasts long. The demand for nutritive aid is ahead of the supply. To insure proper health every tissue, bone, nerve, and muscle should take from the blood certain materials and return to it certain others. It is necessary to prepare the stomach for the work of taking up from the food what is necessary to make good, rich, red blood. We must go to Nature for the remedy. There were certain roots known to the Indians of this country before the advent of the whites which later came to the knowledge of the settlers and which are now growing rapidly in professional favor for the cure of obstinate stomach and liver troubles. These are found to be safe and yet certain in their cleansing and invigorating effect upon the stomach, liver and blood. These are: Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Bloodroot, Mandrake root. Then there is Black Cherrybark. The medicinal principles residing in these native roots when extracted with glycerine as a solvent make the most reliable and efficient stomach tonic and liver invigorator, when combined in just the right proportions, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Where there is a bankrupt vitality—such as nervous exhaustion, had nutrition—and thin blood, the body acquires vigor and the favorable effect of this sovereign remedy. Although some physicians have been aware of the high medicinal value of the above mentioned plants, yet few have used pure glycerine as a solvent, and usually the doctors' prescriptions called for the ingredients in varying amounts, with alcohol.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is a scientific preparation compounded of the glyceric extracts of the above mentioned vegetable ingredients and contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs.

TINSEL PICTURES.

ANCIENT EMBROIDERY THAT HAS BEEN REVIVED THIS SUMMER.

A Kind of Work Executed by Women of Spain, France and Italy in the Sixteenth Century Again Engages Feminine Attention.

That "nothing is new until it is old enough" was the utterance of a witty Frenchwoman. This remark is particularly applicable to the needlework of today. Revivals are the order in all the arts and crafts, and among the latest is the making of pictures with needle and thread. Embroidery pictures they are called, and the work is carried out in many different ways, but none can boast greater quaintness or a more decorative effect than those known as tinsel pictures. The word tinsel is a somewhat misleading one, but for want of a better it has been selected as an appropriate designation for the bejeweled and gold embroidered portraits and figures of the revived work. The tinsel picture, to adopt the term, is a species of applique work which was executed by the ladies of Spain, France and Italy in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

TINSEL PORTRAIT OF MARGARET OF BOHEMIA, 1534.

In the antique specimens occasionally to be met with an opportunity is afforded to judge of the richness of the fabrics of 1500 and 1600, especially the wondrous velvets which were extensively used by the embroidresses in their pictures.

The scheme of working founded on the old methods is as follows: Pasted upon a linen or silk foundation, which is stretched upon a frame, is a figure cut out of an engraving or drawn by hand on paper and painted and laid down in the same manner. The costume indicated is then carried out correctly in actual fabrics with every detail of trimming carefully put in either in gold or silver thread or in embroidery silk. Jewels are represented by beads and stones, while ruffles of lace are frequently put on with the dainty material itself. Faces, arms and hands alone remain uncovered, showing their printed origin. These are generally tinted and often a little painting or embroidery is introduced into the background. This is the accepted modus operandi, but different workers impart individual characteristics to their pictures by using other trimmings, such as chenille. One artist who is making a notable success of tinsel pictures almost invariably paints her figures on glass silk.

Summer Toilet Table Secrets.

There are some articles which are generally deemed necessary for the summer girl to have on her toilet table, and there are many luxuries the uses of which have long remained the cherished secrets of a few. No toilet table is complete without borax. It softens the water and removes grease from the face without parching the skin, as ammonia is apt to do.

Be sure your cold cream is made from vegetable fat and that you keep a sufficiently generous quantity on hand for its many different uses. A little cold cream rubbed on the skin and puffed over with rice powder will do much toward preventing sunburn.

The wise summer girl will have a small bottle of lemon juice on her toilet table. It will remove stains from the skin or nails. Put in water it is splendid as a skin tonic, answering the purpose of eau de Cologne and costing scarcely anything.

TO END ALL DISEASE.

Medical Advances of the Past—Prof. Ray Lankester's Summary of Position of Profession To-Day.

In his presidential address delivered to the British Association a few days ago, Prof. Ray Lankester devoted an important section to the medical advances of the past few years, and summarized in illuminating words the position of the profession to-day. A pathetic interest attaches to Prof. Lankester's address, in view of the movement to retire him as director of the Natural History Museum on a pension of £200 a year. In a long letter to The Times, Prof. Lankester protests, eloquently and with dignity, against the action which would deprive him of a salary of £1,200, and throw him, at the age of 60, upon a world with which he is unacquainted, having spent his life in research and scientific work. It is to be hoped that some better recognition of Prof. Lankester's work as a scientist will be made than that proposed by the directors.

Famous German Doctors.

Realizing that the two greatest medical discoveries of the century were made by British doctors, it is only proper to admit that German, French, and Austrian medical men are to be credited with illustrious services in the study and treatment of disease. Prof. Lankester's remarks on medicine begin with a deserved tribute to Koch and Cohn. It was the latter, a professor in botany at Breslau, who gave Koch a start on his distinguished career, to which bacteriology owes so much. Thus did a botanist make a great benefactor to the medical profession; and to a zoologist, Metchnikoff, the explanation of immunity is due. Fifteen years ago Calmette, a brilliant French investigator, startled the world with the announcement of his experiments on a horse, into whose veins had been injected cobra venom. Calmette showed that if the poison was administered in small and attenuated doses at first, and gradually increased, enough might ultimately be given to kill thirty horses without in the least disturbing the animal. The horse had become immune, and an examination of his blood would show that a powerful antidote had been created. The Behring lymph, a practical specific for diphtheria, was a result of this discovery.

The Warriors of the Blood.

There is no discovery in medicine that makes more fascinating and encouraging reading than that of Metchnikoff in reference to the work of the white corpuscles, named by him phagocytes, or "cell-eaters." It is this theory that is now generally accepted as the explanation of immunity noted by Calmette. The white cells, or leucocytes, are the natural enemies of hostile germs. They are the warriors of the body, and so long as they are numerous and healthy enough no disease germs can injure their employer. By means of the microscope Metchnikoff was able to give a graphic description of the action of the warrior cells, as soon as the disease germs set up their action in the blood. Inflammation is the first indication of the battle between the invading micro-organisms. They have declared a state of siege. The blood current in the capillary blood-vessels is stopped. The red blood cells might be likened to terrified wayfarers, huddling together. The infected territory is put, so to speak, under martial law, and the soldiers are called out. These dash out through the arteries, press through the tissue afflicted and give battle to the invaders. The battle rages, and usually ends in the leucocytes seizing and literally devouring their prey. The battle ended, circulation is resumed, inflammation disappears, and health is restored. It is to the action of the gallant little "phagocytes" that we owe our lives, once a deadly germ finds lodgment in the body.

Stimulating the Leucocytes.

In his address Dr. Lankester praised Metchnikoff's theory that the leucocytes should be stimulated in their activity, so that they might be always in training for the battles they may be called on to fight any moment. He found that alcohol, opium, and even quinine had a tendency to hinder the phagocytic action, and should, therefore, be used with extreme care, if not eschewed entirely. This discovery was probably in Sir Victor Horsley's mind when he spoke so earnestly of the dangers of alcohol as a drug. Of late years experimenters have been endeavoring to complete Metchnikoff's work by discovering some means by which the white corpuscles might be not only strengthened, but increased. When this is done the danger from germs will surely be a thing of the past, and mankind will have solved part of the problem of long life.

Work With the Microscope.

The study of disease is nowadays carried on chiefly by means of the microscope. Before this wonderful instrument was brought to something like its present state of perfection by Leitz, a knowledge of the cellular theory and micro-organisms, even if possible, would have been useless. By its use we have had the bacilli of leprosy, cholera, the plague, syphilis, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, yellow fever, malaria, the sleeping sickness and other diseases identified in the past few years or months. In most of these discoveries European histologists, chiefly Germans, have led the way, although a Japanese identified the plague germ and Col. Bruce and Major Ross made the discoveries relating to the germs whose favorite haunt is South Africa, and whose favorite messengers are mosquitoes and the tsetse fly.

In closing his review of medical advances in the past few years, Prof. Lankester warned his hearers that if England desired to keep the place in the world of science that had been won for her by Newton, Harvey, Darwin, Spencer, Huxley, Tyndall, and other great geniuses, she must be prepared to follow Germany's example, and employ capable investigators. It is necessary to spend a thousand pounds where one pound is now spent. As a result of wise expenditure of the kind, he did not hesitate to point his countrymen to a day when an end would be made of disease and the millennium ushered in.

The door "like a window" that shows how the baking is going on

It's Better to Watch Your Baking Without Cooling it!

A skilful cook knows how important it is to keep the oven door shut. The range which allows Madam to see the progress of the baking without chilling the oven has the right to her preference. The Happy Thought Range has an oven door "like a window"—transparent—showing the contents of the oven and allowing continual inspection of the baking going on inside. This window door is one of the exclusive features of the Happy Thought Range. The women in 130,000 homes are considered good cooks, just because they use this door. Its results are splendid. BLOOD DISEASES CURED

He was surprised at how the sore healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchingness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult Mr. K. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method for four months and at the end of that time every disease since. My boy three years old is sound and healthy. I can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish."

FIVE HOURS' FIRE

Makes a Big Hole in Shawville, Que., Which Was Deserted on Account of Its Civic Holiday.

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—A disastrous fire broke out yesterday afternoon about 3.30 o'clock in the Lucas Bakery at Shawville, Que., about sixty miles from here. It was soon a total loss.

The fire fighters were unable to cope with the flames on account of the scarcity of water and the small number of hands.

This was the civic holiday at Shawville and most of the people had gone to Ottawa to spend the day, with the result that the conflagration spread rapidly.

The Methodist Church took fire and was completely destroyed, as were the houses of W. A. Armstrong, R. B. Armitage, W. Wilson, A. Richardson, Mrs. McCreadie, J. Brownlee, J. M. Hodgins, J. H. Horner, George Horner and Robert McCreadie, the house and planing mill of G. F. Hodgins and the houses of J. Eades and G. A. Howard.

There are no fire appliances in Shawville and the task of controlling the flames was therefore a hopeless one. However, by 8.30 last night the fire had practically worn itself out.

Thirteen families are homeless. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

A LEADER CAUGHT

Mazury, Youthful But Dangerous, Begged For Instant Death.

Terrorist Leader Caught.
Moscow, Sept. 13.—Vladimir Mazury, the leader of the Moscow section of the "Flying Group," and his principal lieutenant, have been captured after a running fight with agents of the secret police, in the course of which Mazury was wounded.

Mazury is a mere youth, and when he was caught he begged the officers to kill him immediately. He is one of the most important leaders of the entire terrorist group.

Manifest Great Brutality.
Warsaw, Sept. 13.—The soldiers on duty here, enraged at the continuance of murders by the terrorists, are acting with great brutality. Governor-General Skallon is taking energetic steps to prevent an attack on the Jews, who are in a state of panic.

To Grapple With Terrorists.
St. Petersburg, Sept. 13.—Gen. Moeller-Sakomelsky, who subdued the mutiny at Sevastopol, has been appointed commander of the fifth army corps, the headquarters of which are at Warsaw. He is the army to grapple with the task of making life in Warsaw safe.

Governor-General Skallon's mind has been affected by the bomb outrages and the constant threats against his life.

Quiet at Siedlce.
Siedlce, Sept. 13.—The town was comparatively quiet yesterday. People are beginning to move about on the streets and the shops are opening again, although occasional shots led to temporary renewals of the alarm.

Some revolver shots, fired from a garret yesterday morning, caused a volunteer below, but no casualties resulted.

Cost of Street Light.
The City Council of St. Catharines took up the question of renewing the city lighting contract, which expires at the end of November. The Lincoln Light Company, which was merged into the Hamilton Cataract Power Company, at present holds the contract to light the streets, and the city pays $72 a lamp, a much higher price than other towns less favorably situated pay. A special committee has been appointed to deal with the matter.

Pulling Up Stakes.
The information was received in the city this morning that the dockmen are pulling up stakes at the Crow well in Raleigh, which, as we have mentioned before, turned out to be a duster. The banner will be interested in this information, for it will be remembered they were most enthusiastic in their report last Saturday that oil had been found in this well. It was unfortunate that the banner's story was not true, for if oil had been found in this well, the prospects for the whole field would have been much brighter. The dockmen, however, have not given up hopes of finding oil in Raleigh. Their efforts are being watched by many both local speculators, and outside men, interested in the oil business.

May Build Bridge.
The Parks and Cemetery committee yesterday afternoon paid a visit to Maple Leaf cemetery to look over the old bridge, and attend to some other minor matters which had been drawn to their attention.

"Will the Cemetery committee recommend the building of a new bridge at the cemetery?" Ald. Stone was asked this morning.

"If we can raise the funds to do so, the committee will advise the Council to consider the matter of building a new bridge," he replied.

"What is needed out there is an entirely new steel structure. Some of the fences are also in need of repair."

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WANTED TO RENT—A small house or a number of rooms; must have all modern conveniences. Apply Box 743, Chatham.

WHO WILL BE

THE MAYOR?

Ald. Scullard, Stone, and Potter All Talk Like Probable Candidates

DRIVE TO THE CEMETERY

Ald. Stone, Ald. Scullard and Ald. Potter drove out to Maple Leaf cemetery yesterday afternoon to look into the condition of the bridge out there, and to attend to some other minor matters.

As the buggy seat was no wider than the average, and as all three city fathers have a pretty fair share of avoidpoids, there wasn't much space left when all were seated.

Coming back it was noticed that the three were engaged in a very earnest conversation, but as the press representatives were not along, no record was kept of what was said.

Probably there were confidential remarks made between the trio that would not have been uttered had the wily scribes been in ear-shot.

At this is merely conjecture, but we will go further and suppose that a reporter was present. Sometimes reporters are given credit for being able to guess nearly accurately, and sometimes as in this case, they have to guess anyway—hit or miss.

It is taken for granted that the carriage bearing the distinguished gentlemen has just left the cemetery. Ald. Stone is allowing the horse to jog and the three are in a reminiscent mood. Great minds run in similar channels—probably all three were thinking the same thoughts.

Ald. Stone is first to break the silence.

To Ald. Scullard—"Have you definitely decided Tom whether you will come out for Mayor this year or not?"

Ald. Scullard lifts his pipe from his lips and lets the soothing fumes float gently upwards, then after a long pause, "Well, yes, I have. I have decided to come out against all comers. Yes, I have decided to make the plunge" (another graceful whiff from the pipe) "What about yourself, Ald. Stone? I saw by The Planet some time ago that you were likely to be a candidate."

"Oh, say 'just yet,'" from Ald. Stone. "I haven't made up my mind, but the chances are you may see me in the field. By the way, who do you think the 'dark horse' is that The Planet was hinting about?"

Ald. Scullard, from the way the article read, I came to the conclusion that it must be George Cowan. I have heard, too, that he may be in the field this year."

Ald. Stone—"No, it isn't George Cowan. George told me himself, everything in full swing for the final summer wind-up, will you go? If so, apply to A. Leadley, Chatham, 75 Yonge St., Toronto, Room 10, Phone Main 327, or F. Fox, D. P. A., 289 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y."

Healey Falls Power, Léves.
Cobourg, Sept. 11.—The perplexities of the Northumberland-Durham Power Co. were thrashed out at a meeting of the directors here yesterday when a deputation from the Village of Brighton was heard. Having heard Dr. Stinson there was considerable discussion, which was terminated by J. A. The motion carried and the meeting was immediately adjourned.

NO. 10. MASTER MINDS ON MUSIC

Being the 10th of a series of ten talks introducing sayings of great men, applicable to the Nordheimer Piano, the symbol to perfect music.

The man that has no music in himself,
Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds,
Is fit for treasons, stratagems and spoils.
—Shakespeare

In this last of our series of what the master writers have said about music we have quoted the familiar words of the greatest English poet. Many times Shakespeare has credited music with being the greatest of arts, and in his day music had not reached the summit of its magnificence that it has today with such instruments as

THE NORDHEIMER PIANO

The "concord of sweet sounds" is but another name for the NORDHEIMER TONE, only the concord is is more perfect than can be realized in any other instrument, for the Nordheimer is now accepted by the Canadian people as a whole as the leader. Certainly it is the favorite among the most refined music lovers. If you are a music lover we would like to have you visit our ware-room and see the magnificent display.

EDMONTON THE GATEWAY.

Fascinating is the Story of the Pioneers of the New Modern City—
Trading Post In 1897.

A special correspondent of The Toronto Telegram writes from Edmonton as follows: A picturesque mingling of the east and west takes place at Edmonton, "the metropolis of the last west." This city's history will be one of fascinating interest for posterity. It is the gateway of the traveler's last wilderness and to the world's last west. The record of a trading post in 1897, becoming before 1907 a beautiful modern city of nearly 15,000 people, the capital of a province as big and almost as rich as a European empire, will be an absorbing chapter in the history of Canadian cities.

Looks Calgaryward No More.

Ever since the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Edmonton has been her emporium on the mighty Saskatchewan. From there and through there was her communication with the rest of the world. Since November of last year her vista has been changed. She now looks east. The coming of the Canadian Northern Railway up the Saskatchewan Valley, the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific across the prairies from Winnipeg towards her, has turned her round. From Jasper avenue, the street traffic goes eastward and the look towards Strathcona is not now wistful. In fact, the C. P. R. that long ignored the city now the Alberta capital, is now becoming generous even if it is with a little bad grace. A high level bridge to cost $200,000 is what they propose to throw across the Saskatchewan to carry the railway into the city. The Grand Trunk Pacific will enter from the east, crossing the river at Clover Bar. It and the Mackenzie and Mann line will use a union station near the site of the present C. N. R. station. The citizens hope that the C. P. R. will also enter into the arrangement and cross the river at some other point than the one now proposed. Should the present plan be carried out the city will be cut into quarters and the C. P. R. will cross on the level after passing through a deep cut, the town's Yonge street, Jasper avenue, at its most busy point. The eastern end of the city, which used to be groves of poplars, has sprung into throbbing life. Elevators, railway shops and yards, four-story hotels and streets of homes now present themselves to the traveler's eye.

Crete and Christian Trade.
But the Crete still barters his furs with the Christian northwest with his chains of trading posts are on trails that all lead to Edmonton. There are eight fur-buying houses in the city. Colin Fraser, the veteran fur-trader, has just started back to his post at Port Chippewyan on the east end of Lake Athabasca, a three week journey, after selling his pack of furs for $27,750. This is the proceeds of the winter's work of himself and his men, who sledged across the plains and down the rivers to trade with the Indians. His pack contained 741 beaver, 181 skunk, 126 weasel, 369 red fox, 163 cross fox, 31 silver fox, 674 mink, 65 martens, 120 otters, 39 pounds beaver castors, 3,089 muskrats and 558 lynx.

As Old as Fort Rouille.
This bronzed and grizzled Highlander has spent his life since youth in the great, silent west. His face and figure are a study for the nervous, pampered city-dweller. Colin is content to spend his days in the great lone country, that he knows so well. Not many Canadians have seen Lake Athabasca, but on its great expanse the English fur-traders of the Hudson's Bay and Northwest Companies disputed when Toronto was old Fort Rouille. Fort Chippewyan, about four hundred miles north of Edmonton, was a trading post, busier than it is now, when this great city was only a scattered trading post. It was in 1789 from this far-flung outpost of Britain that the restless Scot, Sir Alexander Mackenzie, sailed in birch-bark canoes to the Arctic Ocean down the great river that bears his name. This summer Colin Fraser, sturdy Scot too, sails down the Athabasca River back to Fort Chippewyan from Athabasca Landing in a gasoline launch. His will be the first gasoline launch on Lake Athabasca, and what a stir it will create among the redmen who still hunt for furs and beaver at the trading posts exactly as did their forebears three hundred years ago. It is not long ago since the bustling provincial seat was Fort Edmonton, of the Hudson's Bay Co.

A Fortified Village.
Lovell's Gazetteer of 1881 speaks of the city as "a fortified village in the Northwest Territory. It is built of red earth enclosed by high pickets and entered by battlemented gateways. Its vicinity is rich in coal and gold and other minerals. It has three churches, (Episcopalian, Roman Catholic and Methodist), one sawmill, two grist mills, six stores and a hotel. Communication with Winnipeg is by steamboat. Pop. 1,500."

It is no stockaded trading post that the Hudson's Bay Co. have there now. Could the old braves leave their graves and go to the "company's post" they would see a modern four-story building and beads, blankets, guns and powder are not now the staple wares displayed.

Their Civic Government.
Against this storied background Edmonton's modernity stands out in bright relief. She has every modern convenience of the city except street cars, and a company has already secured a franchise for operating trams. The City Council's Board of Control is three salaried commissioners who are the Executive, and the Mayor and eight aldermen are the legislative branch. The Mayor is also chairman of the commission. The assessment is based on the single tax idea, the land being taxed and not the improvements upon it. In 1901 there were no sewers or water mains, and now there are twelve miles of sewers and nearly fourteen miles of water mains.

Not long ago three trains a week carried the traffic of the Edmonton district. Now seven trains a day are needed to handle the business. The customs receipts for the fiscal year of 1905 totalled over $57,000, and for the fiscal year of 1906 the total was $64,000. The building record for this year to the beginning of August totals $1,084,355. Last January about $12,000 was spent in building and in June the amount was about $244,000.

Needs No Irrigation.

No irrigation works will be needed as at Calgary, to make the surrounding country fit to support a city. The Grand Trunk Pacific will open the Peace River tract, five hundred miles of country northwest of Edmonton. The south has no such new country to open. North, east, west and south of Edmonton lies rich, black land, and Calgary has no such country about her.

Down the river about three miles lie seams of coal bared by the river. It is crudely mined, but the sale for it is ready. While not as hard as anthracite, it makes excellent fuel. It is loaded on barges and floated down to the Lloydminster and Vermilion districts.

A stretch of eight hundred and fifteen acres of coal lands lies here for development. An eight foot seam lies on the surface and about five hundred feet down is a twelve-foot seam. The demand in Edmonton for this coal is greater than the supply. Despite the great market for it, the coal is still being dug out in the slow primitive way.

Sunshine Eighteen Hours.

In the summertime there is sunshine eighteen hours a day. The sun is up at three o'clock in the morning. No matter how hot the day the night is always cool. The beautiful skies of the evenings that never darken till 10 o'clock, and the bracing air, freshened by the winds from the plains and lakes of the north and from the mountains, make a summer spent at Edmonton live in the memory.

GOLDWIN SMITH TO DOCTORS.

The Sage of the Grange Delivers Delightful Address.

At the banquet to the visiting doctors of the British Medical Association, which met recently in Toronto, Prof. Goldwin Smith delivered a characteristic address.

In proposing the toast of the British Medical Association, the venerable philosopher of the Grange said he would not dilate upon many advances made in medical science since he was young, and although he had not attended any of the lectures himself he knew that the people of the city realized that illustrious physicians were now their guests.

Since Darwin and the new discovery a large field had been opened. Reading material truth does not find spiritual aspirations.

To his old acquaintance and friend, Tyndall, the professor paid a generous tribute. Though Tyndall had termed himself a materialist, a less material or more spiritually-minded man was not known.

Dr. Smith assured the medical profession that in the re-organization of the University the senate had done the best they could to protect their privileges. "Guard your privileges, for they are not the privileges of your profession alone, but the safeguard of society against empirical medicine."

Once, Dr. Smith said, he had been introduced to a most famous New England spiritualist.

"I paid my guinea fee and learned that I was now to be talked to by the spirit Winona, but still I noticed that strong New Englander. She tried to get a point to start at, but got none. At last I said, 'Am I married or not?'"

"Then Winona told me about my nephew, who was trying for a Government position. As there was nothing better I let Winona keep on telling me, but as I never had a nephew I went away perfectly satisfied. These are only some of the quackeries we meet. Science itself speaks freely, and thank heaven for that—thank heaven for that."

Then the professor took a shaft or two from his quiver for the old countrymen who know little of the new world, and told of the Colorado beetle proclamation which said that "whereas Ontario has been devastated, around that town." Another English case of a long time ago was that of a lady who, being introduced to a Canadian traveler, said she knew at once it was a joke "because Canadians were always red."

"But we must not grieve over this, and must not grieve over the internal affairs of Australia."

"You gentlemen might give us a little advertising, for I believe we like advertising. Of course not like sandwiches, but quiet words here and there among the meetings. Tell them also that in this country the farm laborers need not lack for work, but clerks and journalists will starve upon the streets."

"Take your last look at Niagara. The next time you come it will be all chimneys and power," was the professor's parting witticism.

A Little Disfigured, But—

This is the season of the year when most of the rural editors are announcing that there will be "no paper next week," because the editor is going on his holiday, but the tone of The Haliburtonian, which halts it is needless to say, from Haliburton, is different. It was burnt out in the big fire, and the first week thereafter came out somewhat reduced in size, but still a very creditable sheet. It has the following announcement, which, under the circumstances, seems almost unnecessary: "Our readers will please overlook any technical defects in this issue, considering that we were absolutely burnt out, and although we have endeavored to pick out of our advertisements, those whom we know are in business again, we may in the rush have overlooked some. We hope that it will not be thought that any omissions are intentional, as such is not the case. We hope to have everything in shape by next week, and may state that in the meantime we can turn out all kinds of job printing, so bring along your orders for stationery, if you long yours in the fire. We have some high-class papers and envelopes, also good type to print it with."

"We Are Seven."

The gravestone in Conway Churchyard which is associated with Wordsworth's well-known poem "We Are Seven" is in serious danger of being irreparably damaged. The simple stone is, owing to the mutilations of curiosity hunters, fast disappearing, and within the last few weeks has been wantonly injured. There is a movement to obtain suitable protection for the stone.

Zam-Buk

CURES ECZEMA

He doubted Zam-Buk's power but is now convinced.

Mr. Geo. Rhinshart, of 210 Wilton Avenue, Toronto, says:—
"Last winter I had a big sore appear on the back of my right hand. I thought it would go away, but instead of doing so, it got worse. A patch of about four inches square became inflamed, then the skin broke and the sore mattered and discharged freely. Not only was it very unsightly, but it was very painful, too. In spite of my care it got worse, and to my great alarm a second inflamed patch appeared on my left hand. This was followed by an outbreak on my arm, and on the calf of my leg. The pain from these patches was terrible. At times, when they got thoroughly warm they itched until I could hardly bear. I used ointments and salves of all kinds, but got no benefit. One day I read a report in the newspaper of how a case of eczema of long standing had been cured by Zam-Buk. I had tried so many things in vain that I doubted whether Zam-Buk could cure me. My wife advised me to try it and I did so. The first few applications gave me relief from the terrible itching, and also soothed the pain. I cleansed the wounds thoroughly once daily, and applied Zam-Buk as directed. Within a few days there was a marked improvement, and gradually the wounds began to close. The discharging ceased and the skin began to grow again. Within a short time of commencing with the Zam-Buk treatment all the four wounds were not only closed up, but all the patches were covered with new, healthy skin. I consider Zam-Buk a wonderful balm, and shall always recommend it to my friends. If it can cure such serious skin diseases as mine was, it must be a very speedy cure for severe cuts and slight injuries sustained in one's every day work. I shall always keep a box handy."

Happy Home, Baking, Roasting, Washing, Preserving, Cleanly Road

All Household Roads Lead to Kitchen Work

NINE-TENTHS of kitchen labor and worry is caused by ill-working cook stoves and ranges; by ranges that draw poorly; that have such complicated drafts that only a skilled mechanic can manage them; whose grates are so constructed that it is a strong man's work to shake them down; ranges which work well when the wind is in a certain direction, but act like a fiend at other times; ranges whose work is so unreliable that the housekeeper is in a constant nerve-racking worry lest the meals be late or the baking spoiled.

The Pandora range is built to make work easy, a child can shake it down; its drafts are so simple that one learns them in a minute; its heat is kept in the range so effectively that you can do a big baking and hardly know there is a fire in it two feet away; it keeps the kitchen cool; it saves you worry; it saves you time and money; it saves you backaches and headaches, because it is so easy to manage and so reliable.

The Pandora makes kitchen work easy.

TOM EDISON AN OLD BOY
HE RANKS IN LIST AS CANADIAN STRATFORD'S GREATEST.

Major Larmour Writes Interesting Reminiscence of the Wizard as a Grand Trunk Telegrapher—How He Flitted Away to His Father's Home in Michigan and Never Returned Till His Recent Cobalt Visit.

Major R. Larmour, assistant superintendent of traffic for the western division, writing of "Old Time" the G. T. R. in the Stratford Old Boys Herald, gives a first-hand account of Thomas A. Edison's experiences in the G. T. R. metropolis as a telegraph operator.
It was over 40 years ago, and Edison was still young enough to be a misanthrope, and, like all other operators with little to do, found it hard to keep awake and promptly answer his half-hour roll call. His inventive genius found in this circumstance a field for operation. He procured the works of an old clock and manipulated the running gear so that instead of recording time in seconds, minutes and hours, it only did business every half hour, and that business was to give the Stratford office signal, "I I I."

Signal Too Prompt.
The prompt regularity with which this came in at the head office at Toronto marked too great a contrast with previous conditions, and thus aroused suspicion that there was some game being played, and an inspection followed, which disclosed the facts. The clock was confiscated. In those days there were no automatic stop signals to hold trains for orders, such as are now in use. The night operator, when he was to stop and hold one train to be met by another, simply lit a red lamp and held it conspicuously in his hand. One night Operator Edison was required to hold an east-bound freight that had right of track, until a west-bound train arrived.

Answered, Then Slept.
He had replied to the despatcher, acknowledging the receipt of the order, and signified that it would be carried into effect. Edison sat down with his red lamp waiting the approach of the east-bound train, but unfortunately dropped off asleep. The train arrived, and as there was no signal exhibited to stop, it went on its way. It was perchance, a vivid dream that awoke him, but too late. The train had passed him; the tall light was still visible. Edison, frantically swinging his red lamp, started on a keen run after it, and failing to notice the oncoming guard of those days at a street crossing, he tumbled into it. His lamp was smashed; he was helpless to avert the perhaps fatal results of his carelessness.

Back to Michigan.
Visions of Kingston penitentiary presented themselves as the natural sequence. Self-preservation in a moment became the dominant thought; quick decision and prompt action followed. He gathered up his belongings in the office, stepped on a passing train bound for Port Huron, where his father lived. I believe that until his recent visit to the Cobalt region he never set foot in Canada again. Fortunately for his peace of mind, as well as for the company, the two freight trains saw each other in time to stop without damage.

Got Tom's Wages.
Twenty-five years after Edison's adventure, the writer had become well acquainted with his father, residing at Port Huron. One day while discussing some new invention of Tom's which was then awaiting the verdict of a gentleman suddenly said to me, "Do you know, sir, that the G. T. R. has been owing me a sum of money for a long time now?"

I begged him to explain the circumstances. And with a half-humorous smile, he said: "When Thomas resigned his position with the G. T. R. at Stratford he was a minor. There was part of a month's wages due him, to which I think I am justly entitled."

Hickson Sent Cheque.
Writing to Mr. Hickson, then general manager, I recounted the circumstances connected with the return of the money due Edison as unpaid wages. Mr. Hickson promptly sent a cheque for the amount and instructed me to personally deliver the cheque and to make such ample apology for the company's seeming neglect as the occasion suggested. It is needless to add that I carried out these instructions to the full extent, taking with me some dozen leading citizens of Port Huron as witnesses, that the ceremony might not lack any of the dignity and impressiveness which the circumstances warranted.

It is also needless for me to add that Mr. Edison, in acknowledging the receipt of the cheque and apology on behalf of the G. T. R. Co., did full justice to the occasion, afterwards entertaining the visitors in a style well befitting the father of a son who had, by his own genius, perseverance and application, made of himself one of the most famous men living in the world, one whom this city will always be proud to remember as a "Stratford Old Boy," and to honor as one of the world's greatest benefactors.

Rare Botanical Find.
The Perth Examiner thus describes an interesting discovery:—"From a botanical standpoint, Mr. F. Morris, one of the teachers in the Port Hope school, and a young man well known in Perth, has discovered on an island in the Rideau the first walking fern ever reported in this section of the province. This particular species of fern, the many graceful fronds of which, and derives its name from the manner in which it grows and spreads itself. When the fern grows to maturity the top droops over and when it comes in contact with the earth it takes root and this process being continued during the summer months it received the name by which it is known. Mr. Morris is an indefatigable searcher after new species in the botanical world and he has succeeded in finding in this section, besides many other wild flowers and plants."

An Errand of Mercy.
Deeply impressed recently by an address given at Brighton on the evils of smoking, a young minister rose and said that that morning he had had a present of 100 cigars, one of them he had smoked, but he now determined to go home and throw the rest into the fire. Thereupon a Baptist minister arose and said that he meant to accompany his reverend brother.

Birth-marks, which mark and mar the outside of the body are a grief to every mother whose children may bear them. But for every child who bears a birth-mark on the skin there are many who bear an indelible birth-mark on the mind. Nervous mothers have nervous children and many a man and woman owes an irritable and despondent temperament to those miseries of dread which the mother waited the hour of her maturity. The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription strengthens the mother for her trial. With strength comes a buoyancy of spirits and quietness of mind, which are the mother's greatest gifts. A mother can bestow on her offspring, by giving vigor and elasticity to the delicate womanly organs "Favorite Prescription" practically does away with the pain of maternity and by the color of the best physicians in the world as simply as the blossoming of a flower. There is no opium, cocaine or other narcotic contained in "Favorite Prescription."

Colors.
White is the emblem of light, religious purity, innocence, faith, joy and life. In the judge it indicates integrity; in the sick, humility; in the woman, chastity. Red, the ruby, signifies fire, divine love and royalty. White and red roses express love and wisdom. Blue, or the sapphire, expresses heaven, the firmament, truth from a celestial origin, constancy and fidelity. Yellow or gold is the symbol of the sun, of marriage and faithfulness. Green, the emerald, is the color of hope, of hope—particularly of the hope of immortality and of victory, as the color of the laurel and palm. Violet, the amethyst, signifies love and truth or passion and suffering. Purple and scarlet signify things good and true from a celestial origin. Black corresponds to despair, darkness, earthiness, mourning, negation, wickedness and death.

THE $80,000 DIVISION
Former Manager of Home Life Retained $62,000 of it.

Mr. John Firstbrook Received $11,500—Other Directors Sold Their Stock at Par and Received Bonuses in Addition—Mr. Pattison Thought Mr. Stratton Would Be Recouped by the Increasing Value of Stock.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—The examination of Mr. A. J. Pattison, former manager of the Home Life, was continued before the Royal Insurance Commission yesterday, and Mr. Tilley questioned him at some length to show the difference between the various contracts which Mr. Pattison had as manager with the Home Life Co. He insisted that he had in 1925 given up a contract which brought him $2,600 a year for one which only returned him $1,200 per annum, because he thought the company, having changed to a level premium system, could not afford more, and that it would be better for them to revise the contract, so that the salary would be larger in subsequent years when the company's business and revenue were greater. Mr. Tilley next tried to obtain some idea as to the monetary value which Mr. Pattison placed on his contract in 1925, when it was made, but witness said he had not counted it. The change in the contract with the manager and the appointment of a permanent chairman were made by the directors, and the contracts with them were approved by the directors on Nov. 12, 1925.

Recommended by Committee.
These contracts were made on the recommendation of a committee composed of Messrs. John Phillips, Fred. Dyer and John S. King, who recommended that the officials in question be appointed for life. It was, Mr. Pattison presumed, the intention of the committee to bind the company for the period of witness' life, but the contract was made for fifteen years. The minutes indicated that there were five directors present at the meeting at which the contracts were confirmed, including the manager and permanent chairman, with whom Mr. King and Mr. Hillock were the others present.

The first consideration he had given to the question of the value of the contract to him was when approached to sell his interest in the company.

How $80,000 Was Fixed.
Coming down to the manner in which the $80,000 was paid him to surrender his contract, Mr. Pattison said that he had computed the probable revenues of the company for the balance of the term of the contract, and found that he would receive approximately $80,000. He also referred the matter to the actuary of the Home Life, whose estimate of value was a little more than his own. It was based upon a certain percentage of growth annually, which might or might not have been realized. Mr. Pattison said that his own contract with the company was also a consideration.

Mr. Firstbrook Got $11,500.
Mr. Firstbrook, who, Mr. Pattison said, received $11,500 cash for the surrender of his contract, in addition to the $80,000, complained that he did not get full value for his contract.

What Stock Was Worth.
Taking up the question of the value of the capital stock of the Home Life at the time of the amalgamation of the two companies, Mr. Tilley suggested that stock of the Home Life Co. could be obtained on the market at $20 per share or less, but Mr. Pattison could not agree with that suggestion because he did not know it was a fact. He admitted that in any large amount it could be obtained at some depreciation from the actual cost. In reply to further questions Mr. Pattison admitted he had never paid more than par value for the stock, and the premium he paid for it for any stock he held and some he had bought for less. The annual reports to the Government, which were produced by Mr. Tilley, indicated a large impairment of capital up to the date of the amalgamation.

Mr. Stratton Obtained Control.
Mr. Pattison said he gave money to the directors for their stock, but it was not obligatory on them to sell the stock, and they were not necessarily to pass off the directors' stock as a fact. He admitted that in any large amount it could be obtained at some depreciation from the actual cost. In reply to further questions Mr. Pattison admitted he had never paid more than par value for the stock, and the premium he paid for it for any stock he held and some he had bought for less. The annual reports to the Government, which were produced by Mr. Tilley, indicated a large impairment of capital up to the date of the amalgamation.

Directors Sold Their Stock.
Mr. Tilley suggested that the directors might have retired from the board, retaining their shares because they would have then been just as well off as their fellow-shareholders, but Mr. Pattison said he would not like to appear as a director who had been on the board for 12 or 15 years, with the suggestion that he retire and make way for a new man unless he disposed of his interest in the company at the same time. The directors enquired the terms proposed by Mr. Stratton, and they learned there were some willing to sell their stock. The price which Mr. Stratton paid for their stock was the highest price at which it had been sold. Mr. Pattison produced a schedule showing the amounts he paid to the various directors who sold stock he delivered to Mr. Stratton.

Schedule in Two Parts.
The schedule contained two columns, the second being the amount paid for the stock itself at the price paid by Mr. Stratton to him for its delivery, the first column represented amounts which he paid out of the $80,000 he received, as a consideration for services rendered the company as directors for which they had received no consideration.

SOME FIRST OCCASIONS.
Cannon and small arms were introduced in 1830.
Spinning wheels came to the rescue of women in 1830.
The first stereotyping was done in 1818 in New York.
Shirts resembling those now worn were in use in 1830.
Phrenology, "discovered" by Franz Joseph Gall, a Viennese physician, in 1796, became a so-called science in 1830.
The first submarine telegraph wire in this country was from Governors Island to the Battery in New York, laid in 1842.
Double entry bookkeeping was first used in the mercantile cities of Italy, notably Venice and Florence, in the fifteenth century.

rendered the company as directors for which they had received no consideration:

Thos. R. Wood	$500	$1,250
Dr. J. S. King	500	1,250
Fred. Dyer	1,250	1,250
Dr. Briggs	500	1,250
J. S. King	750	1,250
W. A. Firstbrook	250	1,625
J. Firstbrook	250	1,625
J. W. Curry, K. C.	500	1,250
N. F. Dupuis	250	1,000
T. Elliott	625	1,875
J. Firstbrook	$5,125	$16,625
A. J. Pattison	11,500	12,475
J. Hillock	200	200
Total	$16,625	$29,229

Directors Got Bonuses.
Mr. Tilley enquired in detail into the transactions covered by the schedule. Mr. Pattison explained that the amounts mentioned in the first column were arrived at by negotiation with each individual separately. The sum which Mr. Stratton gave for the stock as set forth in the second column, was the highest price at which he had ever known it to be sold. Mr. E. R. Wood had held his stock for five or six years, and had received no dividends, hence the payment of $500. Dr. John S. King's transaction was a similar one; there was in addition in his case a desire to be continued as medical referee of the company. Although he ceased to be a director, Dr. King is still medical referee. In Mr. King's case there was, Mr. Pattison said, a misunderstanding. When he came to settle up, Mr. Dyer, who had been connected with the company for 13 or 14 years without receiving director's fees, claimed that it had been arranged he should receive $2,500. Mr. Pattison said his impression had been that Mr. Dyer was to get $25 per share, but Mr. Dyer had convinced him that he had misunderstood that gentleman's proposition.

Press Told Him First.
Rev. Dr. Briggs, in answer to Mr. Tilley, said that he did not know anything about the $80,000 deal with Pattison until it came out in the morning paper.

"Did you think that it was worth $80,000 to cancel the contract?" asked Mr. Tilley.
"No. It was not in my mind. I said to a friend that these brethren should get $20,000 for their services, and my friends said: 'They are worth that much.' Nor did I know about the $11,000 deal with McCutcheon. It was an item that never came before the directors, and was an astounding thing to me. Although it appears in the minutes, it never passed before my eyes."

Witness Told How He Received $2,000 for his fifty shares in the company, $1,200 for his actual stock and $750 as a bonus for his services as director.
A Bigger Slice.
Mr. Tilley asked witness if he had known Pattison got $80,000 what he had been after a bigger slice, and witness answered in the affirmative.

Witness understood that the McCutcheon contract was just an assignment of Pattison's agreement. As far as the stock itself, it was not worth $25 per share as an investment.

Fred. Dyer, another director of the old Home Life, had fifty shares, which he sold for $2,500 to Pattison. He knew nothing of the $80,000 deal.

Dr. John S. King knew of the two contracts. Pattison had told witness that there were dealings, but he would explain them later.

Witness thought that Pattison was getting $500 instead of $80,000, just the same bonus as the rest of the directors. "There was a transaction going on," said Dr. King, "that was kept quiet from the rest of us. We realized that fully."

J. Walter Curry, K. C., was next. He knew nothing of the negotiations with the People's Life.

Mr. Curry's Understanding.
As to the transfer of Mr. Curry's stock, that was done by Mr. Pattison, with the understanding that the money was to come from Mr. Stratton.

Witness did not have anything to do with the McCutcheon agreement, although he seconded the resolution.

"Did you know that McCutcheon was getting $11,500 more than the $5,000?" asked Mr. Tilley.

"I don't know it yet," answered Mr. Curry. "I never saw that clause of the agreement."

John Firstbrook knew there was a deal going on, but as to the $80,000 transaction Pattison never told him anything about that. He thought if he had finished his contract with the Home Life for fifteen years he would have received $25,000.

In answer to the question: "Where did the money come from to pay you $11,000 and Mr. Pattison besides?" Mr. Firstbrook answered: "I thought it was to come from Mr. Stratton, who was a wealthy man."

The inner workings of the Canadian Homestead Co., of which witness was president and Pattison manager were enquired into by Mr. Tilley just before adjournment.
