LOSSES LIGHT IN FRENCH RANKS IN FIGHTING ABOUT VERDUN

Berlin Admits That Russians are Making Serious Efforts to Break Through in the East.

French Colonel Tells How Douaumont Was Retaken.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Paris, March 24.—There has been no change in the situation around Verdun since yesterday, according to the official announcement of this city.

LOSSES LIGHT.
Paris, March 24.—(Montreal Gazette)—The smallness of the French losses as compared with the German losses is emphasized in an interview in the Petit Parisien with Colonel "D" who is now in Paris slightly wounded. He commands the brigade which retook the Douaumont position and held it against the German assault.

BAYONET FIGHT.
His account of the recapture of Douaumont shows that the French fought with the bayonet only. Colonel "D" said to the general in command.

BIG EASTERN STRUGGLE.
Berlin, via London, March 24.—The importance of the struggle around Verdun naturally overshadows interest in the contest on the eastern front, but the latest despatches show that hard fighting is in progress in the northern sector of the Russian line.

AUSTRIANS AS CRUEL AS ANY INDIAN

A Tale of Indian Torture Tells How Austrians Treated Serbs.

RETREAT WAS FULL OF HORRORS
Roads Led Through Morass Or Else Over Mountain Top.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
St. John, N. B., March 24.—Wearing the unique cap of the Serbian army, Roy Leitch, a former student of the provincial university at Constantinople, yesterday participated in the Serbian retreat from Scutari to Durazzo.

WORDS INADEQUATE
"The story of that retreat will never be adequately told. It was too horrible. Our language cannot picture the events during that retreat which would bring home to us the awful horror of it. For one hundred miles, the road was strewn with the bodies of men, women and children.

NURSES IN THE RETREAT
About three hundred English, French, Russian and Italian nurses were also in the retreat, and they suffered as much as the men.

IN THE SEARCH FOR VILLA, THE MEXICAN BANDIT, DEAD OR ALIVE, UNCLE SAM'S SOLDIERS WILL BE MATERIALLY AIDED BY THE SIGNAL CORPS ATTACHED TO GARRISON'S FORCES, WHO WILL CARRY A PORTABLE WIRELESS PLANT, WHICH WILL COMMUNICATE WITH THE SHIP AND DESPATCHES ON THE TRAIL OVER THE ROUGH, UNBROKEN COUNTRY.

ARTILLERY FIRE KEEPS HEAVY ABOUT VERDUN

Russia Evidently Making Big Drive in the East—Berlin Denies any Russian Gains, but Petrograd Claims Advances.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
The lull in the infantry fighting in the Verdun region of France continues, the artillery, however, keeping up its active work.

Interest is being aroused by the determined attacks of the Russians on the German northern front in the east. Berlin admits no permanent successes for the Russian troops, but the Petrograd statements continue to claim advantages gained at various points, both to the northeast of Dvinsk, in the acobastad region, and near Lake Narocz, to the south.

CRUISER SAFE.

Ottawa, Ont., March 24.—The naval department has received a message from the Admiralty stating that the British cruiser Cumberland is safe. A despatch from Norfolk, Va., last night, announcing the finding of an old log book from the vessel washed up on the north Carolina shore, gave rise to the fear that she might have met with an accident.

HEAVY FIRING.

New York, March 24.—A news agency despatch from Amsterdam to-day says: Flushing correspondents of Amsterdam newspapers reported sounds of heavy firing in the Channel from the direction of Ostend and Westende.

G.T.R. Earnings.
Montreal, March 24.—Grand Trunk earnings for the week ending March 21 were $67,232 compared with $85,937 for the corresponding week of last year, an increase of $18,705.

SHACKLETON BACK FROM THE ANTARCTIC

Word Comes From Sydney That Explorer Has Returned.

OBJECTS OF HIS VOYAGE
Thirty-two People on His Boat, Including Scientists.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Sydney, N. S. W., March 24.—Lieut. Sir Ernest H. Shackleton has returned from his Antarctic expedition. News of the achievements of the expedition is withheld for the present.

IN TWO SECTIONS.
The expedition left England in two sections about six weeks after the delay due to unfavorable ice conditions. The party headed by Sir Ernest himself set out on a 1,700 mile voyage from South Georgia, an uninhabited island in the South Atlantic Ocean about 800 miles due east of Cape Horn for Ross Sea on the other side of the South Pole.

LSGT. BINGHAM IS WOUNDED

Brantford Man, Who Left With First Contingent, in Casualty List.

Lance-Sergeant W. Bingham, 41 Dundas street, Terrace Hill, 4th Battalion, has been wounded, is the news contained in to-day's casualty list.

TWO VIEWS

With Regard to Ontario Government Prohibition Proposals.

Mr. Fred Mann, chairman of the recent Local Option campaign in this city, when seen by a Courier man with regard to the Ontario Government Prohibition proposals said: "We haven't obtained all we want, but we realize that it is a big helping. Another thing we feel that the act should have come into force about July 1st. However, taken altogether, there is no very serious criticism to offer."

MR. FREED WESTBROOK.
"The government confiscates a lot of property; there can be no question about that. From the hotelman's standpoint it is hard to say as yet how many of the larger hotels can afford to stay in business. I have here the statements of two Brantford hotels. The one shows that, excluding the bar there would have been a loss last year of a little over $1,000. The other shows over $2,000 loss. Those figures are without any rent, taxes, water, insurance or light. A better showing of course might be made in running them on a boarding house basis. The government of late years has forced hotelmen to make expenditures which are to-day not worth a cent to them. The last election of less than two years ago was fought on the license issue. Mr. Rowell, who had the abolition of the bar as his only platform, was badly beaten. Why Premier Hearst under the circumstances should suddenly spring this thing, I and a large number of others cannot imagine."

Ice Still Thick.
By Special Wire to the Courier.
Kingston, Ont., March 24.—There is still a firm ice bridge here and it is thought the opening of navigation cannot be looked for earlier than April 30th. More farmers produce is being brought to Kingston from the islands than earlier in the winter. The ice in the harbor is two feet thick.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE HELD AT ROUMANIAN KING'S HOUSE

General Staff-Representatives Received Satisfactory News.

German Political Agent Becoming Very Unpopular in Bucharest.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
London, March 24 (Montreal Gazette)—The Daily Chronicle's special correspondent at Bucharest, writing on March 19, says:

"A conference of great importance has been held at the Rumanian king's residence. It was attended by the chief of the general staff, Premier Bratianu and the chief of press service of the ministry of the interior. It is significant that no communication regarding this conference has been issued, but I am aware from a most reliable source that the allied machine-guns at Bucharest have received news of a serious defeat. Immediately after the conference the King received the Greek minister to Bucharest. It is a noteworthy fact that the German political agent in Bucharest, completely failed, and his continued presence in Bucharest is beginning to evoke strong signs of displeasure."

FRANK WILD, second in command, in charge of provisions; George Marston, in charge of general stores, artist; P. O. Tom Cream, in charge of sledges; Captain Orde Lees, R.M.L.I., in charge of motor; Lieut. F. Dobbs, Royal Dublin Fusiliers, in charge of section of dogs; Lieut. Courtney Blackburn, assisting with dogs; J. Wordie, geologist; R. W. James, physician and magnetist; Leonard H. Hussey, meteorologist and astronomer; F. Hurley, photographer and cinematographer; E. Studd, Cambridge University and Camborne school of mines, and Lieut. Frank A. Worsley, R.N.R., of New Zealand.

Marked Revival of Trade is Reported in the West

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Vancouver, March 24.—There is a marked revival of business all over the west and on the prairies and signs of an improvement in British Columbia, according to George Bury, vice-president of the C. P. R., who is inspecting this section of the company's property.

Count Zeppelin to Retire; Younger Men in His Place

New York, Mar. 24.—A special London cable to the World says: Count Zeppelin will be retired soon from an active part in the construction of Zeppelin airships, leaving the work to his chief engineers, headed by Herr Durr.

So states a despatch to the London Daily Express from Geneva, which adds that the announcement of Count Zeppelin's impending retirement comes from Friedrichshafen, the great German airship base on the shore of Lake Constance. Count Zeppelin, in his seventy-eighth year, has been in indifferent health for the last eight months and his physicians advise him to retire from public life.

The hundredth Zeppelin has just been completed, according to Swiss and Munich newspapers. More than half that number have been constructed at Friedrichshafen. Austria has been helping to build them since the war began. It is probable that at least a quarter of these airships have been destroyed. The people of Friedrichshafen are demanding that Zeppelin fleets celebrate the building of the hundredth airship by a great raid on London and Paris.

MORAN IS VERY CONFIDENT OF WINNING OF BOUL

Has Engaged Hotel to Hold Triumphant Reception In.

CAN HARDLY WAIT FOR THE FIGHT

Indications Are That Crowd Will be Enormous One.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

New York, March 24.—The rapid approach of the time when Willard and Moran will enter the ring and risk their prestige as champions and challenger, has affected the principals in sharply contrasted ways. Willard's easy-going, good natured attitude and manners have not changed to any extent, and the result of the bout is not which are non-committal, although indicating that to his mind, at least, there is to be no result, and that is Willard winner.

WANTS TO GET AT IT.

Moran, on the other hand, has reached the keen fighting edge which all trainers contend is necessary in a boxer who is to be at his best when he goes against an opponent. The Pittsburgh pugilist is keyed to the point where he is brimming over with fighting spirit and confidence. He can hardly wait for the hour that will call him into the ring. He shows the tension under which he labors when he is asked over and over again by thoughtful admirers:

"How do you feel?" and "What do you think will be the result?"

At such times it is evident that it requires considerable control for Moran to hold himself in check.

READY FOR VICTORY

So confident is he, however, of defeating Willard on points or a knockout, that he has engaged quarters at a local hotel for a reception to be held immediately after the bout on Saturday night. When someone called his attention to the fact that Jeffries did the same thing at Reno in 1910 before his fight with Jack Johnson and never entered the banquet hall, Moran simply remarked that it would be different this time, and that the celebration would begin at 11.30 p.m.

Willie Lewis, his trainer-in-chief, claims that Moran has never been in such superb physical condition for any previous bout and that this supreme confidence and rather grouchy attitude of his principal is the best indication that Moran is fit to fight faster, better and with greater chance of winning decisively than ever before in his ring career.

SURVIVORS OF THE LOST VESSELS

Some of Officers and Crew Landed of Boat Lost Off Dover.

St. John, N.B., March 24.—Five officers and half a dozen of the crew of the lost Canadian steamer Empress of Fort William arrived in this city yesterday on the Steamer Corinthian. They are on their way to their homes in Quebec and Ontario. The Empress of Fort William, owned by the Empress of Canada Steamship Company, was sunk a month ago off Dover, England, while endeavoring to rescue some of those who were struck a mine and foundered. All those on board the Empress of Fort William were subsequently rescued, after a thrilling experience, by a British cruiser.

The captain and several of the crew afterwards were given positions on other steamers. Those who arrived yesterday will probably join others of the company's vessels in Canada.

Walter Dauber, proprietor of the Chalybeate Springs Hotel, near Bedford, Pa., killed an unknown masked man whom he found prowling around the building.

THE COURIER

Published by The Brantford Courier Limited, every afternoon, at Dalhousie Street, Brantford, Canada. Subscription rate: By carrier, $3 a year; by mail to British possessions and the United States, 2 per annum.

Friday, March 24, 1916.

The Situation.

It is announced that the Huns are keeping up their violent shelling to the northwest of Verdun, and that their activity in this regard is evidently preparatory to a massed infantry attack.

The Russians continue to press the Germans back from the Riga district and it is said that half a million troops of the Czar are now assailing Von Hindenberg's line on a front of 150 miles.

The people of Holland are popularly supposed to be of very sluggish temperament, in fact the term "Dutch phlegm" has become a current term in the essential named, but they have evidently become thoroughly aroused over the sinking of the liner Tubantia.

The United States Trouble With Mexico.

Continually as they fight among themselves there is one thing which the Mexicans are united upon, and this is in their hatred of Americans. All those who have visited that country agree upon the circumstance that such is the case, and the feeling seems to be largely based on resentment over the Monroe Doctrine, under which our neighbors seek to assume a paternal oversight with regard to Southern American countries.

When Mexico is touched all the people are touched, especially as far as Uncle Sam is concerned, and it is this fact which renders it quite within the possibilities that Carranza, recognized by Washington as the President, will be unable to keep his forces from joining the Villa outfit with regard to the American invasion.

The wires have been cut and it is difficult to obtain accurate information, but at last accounts General Funston and his staff were worried over the possibility that if Carranza men had joined in a repelling movement communications could easily be severed between General Pershing's invading army and Funston's headquarters at San Antonio, Texas.

The Buffalo Courier points out that there are left in the United States only seven mobile organizations available for service. They are: Second cavalry, Fort Ethan Allen, N.Y., and Fort Ontario, N.Y. Third infantry, Madison Barracks, N.Y., and Fort Ontario, N.Y. Fourteenth infantry—One battalion at Fort Lawton, Washington. Twenty-first infantry—Van Couver Barracks, Washington.

Thirtieth Infantry—Plattsburg Barracks, N.Y. Fifth Field Artillery, with the exception of one battery—Fort Sill, Okla. Third Field Artillery—Three batteries at Fort Meyer, Va.

Every other mobile organization in the army is now in Mexico, on the border or on foreign service.

Mexico has no standing army but every man jack seems to have the fighting instinct and with a population of 16,000,000 to draw from, material in that regard is not in any sense lacking. Moreover the nature of the country is such as to lend itself to effective operations of a defensive nature.

RECRUITING RALLY FOR THE 215TH

THREE WEDDINGS ON WEDNESDAY

Soldiers of Col. Cockshutt's Battalion Presented With Picture.

Paris, March 23.—A very pretty wedding took place yesterday at eight o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Parkhill of Brantford Township, when their daughter Miss May, was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Roy Priest, son of Mr. C. W. Priest of Burlington, Ont. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very sweet in a dress of white Marguerite and net embroidery, trimmed with ribbon roses and carrying a bouquet of valley lilies, with orange blossoms in her hair.

The many friends of Mrs. John D. Reynolds, Willow street, will regret to hear that she has been seriously ill for this past week with heart trouble. Mrs. Ed. Pitts is visiting with relatives in Hamilton. Mr. John A. McKay of Toronto has been spending a few days with his mother in town. Miss Mary Kay has returned home after an enjoyable holiday spent at Woodstock.

The Prince of Wales Chapter, Daughters of the Empire, held a meeting at the residence of Mrs. J. K. Moran, when arrangements were made for the musical and sale of home-made cooking, which is to be held this evening, at the residence of Mrs. H. Goldie. Proceeds are in aid of Patriotic work.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Presbyterian Manse, yesterday morning when the Rev. J. C. Nicholson united in marriage Mr. Wm. Rogers of Paris, to Miss May Miller of Falkland. They will reside in Paris, where the groom has bought a market garden. The many friends of Mr. John Reynolds, Dundas street, will be pleased to hear that he was somewhat improved to-day. The Paris company of the 215th Battalion have been given a copy of the famous painting "Your King and country need you," by the artist, Mr.

Paul Wickson. The picture is much appreciated, and is now hanging on the wall at the Y. M. C. A., the headquarters for the 215th Battalion here.

Miss Kathleen Drews has returned to her home in Winnipeg after an extended visit with relatives in Paris and vicinity. Prior to leaving, Miss Drews was given a farewell party at the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. Meredith, Paris Junction.

A wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Presbyterian church, when the pastor, Rev. Mr. Nicholson united in marriage Mr. John E. Barker of Princeton and Miss Emily Violet Reading of Drumbo. The young couple will reside in town, and their many friends extend hearty congratulations.

On Sunday evening the 215th Battalion will hold a recruiting meeting in the Gem theatre. The speakers will be Lieut.-Col. Cockshutt of Brantford, Adjutant Sweet, and a Lieutenant who has been wounded recently, and sent home to Toronto, along with other speakers. During the evening, Margaret Cunningham will sing "The March of the Cameron Men." So far, 20 recruits have signed up here with the 215th.

The many friends of Mrs. John D. Reynolds, Willow street, will regret to hear that she has been seriously ill for this past week with heart trouble. Mrs. Ed. Pitts is visiting with relatives in Hamilton. Mr. John A. McKay of Toronto has been spending a few days with his mother in town. DRUGGISTS MAY REFUSE TO SELL ANY LIQUOR

Government is Considering Establishment of Dispensaries.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Toronto, March 24.—Opposition by the chief druggists of the province to taking over the sale of liquor for medicinal purposes under the terms of the new prohibition measure is becoming more pronounced. Cabinet ministers are to-day confronted with the ever growing probability of the druggists, with a few exceptions, absolutely refusing to handle liquor. The government is understood to be giving the most serious consideration to the question of establishing government dispensaries, where liquor can be sold at cost for the purposes specified, viz, medicinal, mechanical or scientific.

Hood's Pills

pure constipation, biliousness and all liver ills. Do not grip or irritate. 25c.

Under the Ontario laws a druggist who twice breaks the law for selling liquor contrary to the provision of the Ontario license act, loses his license as a druggist. The druggists fear this penalty because of the many tricks and deceptions which might easily be worked by people desirous of securing liquor. The druggists might be duped, but this would not protect them from court proceedings. All these considerations are leading the drug men to take a determined stand. They admit that some druggists may be quite willing to handle the liquor and that will force others to do likewise. In government circles, however, it is generally expected that the province will have to operate dispensaries.

Fire Damaged Club Rooms. By Special Wire to the Courier. St. Thomas, Ont., March 24.—Fire from an overheated fire place early this morning badly damaged the rooms of the Elgin Club in the Naam block at Aymer, and the office of the Aymer Tribune was damaged to the extent of about $2,000 by water and smoke.

For Bad Treatment. By Special Wire to the Courier. Windsor, Ont., March 24.—Daniel O'Connor and his wife were both sentenced by Judge Dromgole to-day to two years and six months in Kingston for inhuman treatment of their nine-year-old daughter, Elizabeth.

Child Scalded to Death. By Special Wire to the Courier. Woodstock, Ont., March 24.—Harry Wilkes, aged three years, fell backwards into a vat of boiling water last night and died immediately. The child's father is Private Rueben Wilkes, who is in the trenches with the 15th battalion.

MAYOR ORDERS CLEAR PASSAGE FOR CITIZENS

Sentries at Old Post Office Must Not Make People Take to Road.

Mayor Bowly to-day sent the following communication to Lt. Col. Catcliffe of the 125th Battalion. Mayor Bowly asks the Courier to publish the letter.

Brantford, March 24, 1916. Lieut.-Col. Catcliffe, 125th Battalion, City.

Sir,—Last evening, somewhere before 10 o'clock, my daughter in company with Mrs. Raymond and Miss Raymond, were coming past what is known as the Old Post Office building and a soldier in uniform with bayonet fixed to his rifle, stepped to one side, he stepped to one side and she tried to get past and he fixed his bayonet on her person, and then she got out into the street, along with my daughter and her mother, Mrs. Raymond.

Now the walks of this city are for the use of the public of this city, of all classes, and no order of military was made last night, nor does it exceed the Civil Law. It would only be in case of Martial Law being proclaimed that the rights of the public streets can be interfered with. I am writing you because it occurred at your quarters, and I presume that whatever is being done there, is being done by that superior officer of yours. If so, that superior officer does not know his business.

I have received nothing but courtesy from you, and it is nothing personal in my writing this communication. I have the honor to be, Yours very truly, J. W. Bowly, Mayor, City of Brantford

BUSINESS EXPANSION

Makes New and Larger Quarters Necessary.

Leon Lazarus, maker of men's clothing, who fourteen years ago started business in Brantford, has won the approval of citizens. This is apparent from the fact that he has found it necessary to move from 97 Colborne Street to that modern store at 62-64 Colborne Street, which he has purchased.

Starting business in a small way, Mr. Lazarus has won a coveted place among local merchants, as a gentleman's tailor. The expansion of business will include the addition of several popular lines for which there is a great demand, among them being a full stock of the union made men's supplies, manufactured by the Klean Overall and Shirt Company of this city. These goods will be sold at no increase over the old standard prices. Other popular lines will be ready-to-wear suits in well known makers, such as The College Brand, Gardeners, and those made by Samuel Hart, the producer of Society Brand clothes. In these lines will be suit values from $7.00 to $18.00, and these garments being semi-finished, patrons may have the garments perfectly fitted, and the suit ready to wear in a few hours, the work being done by expert tailors engaged on custom work in the store.

Another department to be added is that of clothing for boys. This line, much in demand, is being made to prepare for the opening of this new and modern store on Saturday, the 25th (to-morrow) and the public are cordially invited to call. The opening will be continued for the next week or ten days, when Mr. Lazarus expects to be in a position to show the most complete stock of these lines in the city.

The store will be popular, beyond a doubt, as the exclusive Men's and Boys' Clothing Store—Ordered or Ready-to-Wear.

ATTACK AT NIGHT

At night the Russians attacked in thick waves. The first two waves were mowed down before they reached the entanglements. The third attack pierced the German position on a front of less than 100 yards, and the assailants were ejected by a counter attack led in person by a regimental commander. At dawn the Russians made a fourth attack, but it was smothered in the initial stages by German artillery.

Four Russian divisions are said to have participated in these movements. The Germans were compelled to sum up almost no reserves. Their losses were heavier than on the two preceding days of the fighting, on account of the Russian drum fire, but it is asserted that nevertheless they were surprisingly small.

HAVE FAITH IN HINDENBURG

Activity of the Russians at other points of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's is less marked. Comparative quiet prevailed on March 19, along the sector between Wiszniew and Narocz Lakes, except for a strong night attack of the Russians, which was repulsed.

The losses sustained by the Russians in these encounters are said to have been very heavy. Notwithstanding the severity of the actions, no concern is evident here. The state of public feeling was expressed by a correspondent, who said: "The people have no anxiety, because they know Hindenburg is there."

POLICE TRYING TO TRACE TWO MISSING GIRLS

Left For Hamilton Wednesday Morning and Not Heard Of Since.

The absence from home of two local girls is causing considerable anxiety and distress in the city. Ruth Kettelwege, age 22 years and Hannah Edge, 16 years, left here for Hamilton on Wednesday morning, and have not been heard of since, though all efforts have been spared to trace them. The matter has been reported to the police both here and in Hamilton by Mr. Edge, and the authorities described as being rather stout in build, five feet six inches in height and of fair complexion.

With the City Police

The police court was very light this morning, only three trivial cases being on the docket. Mrs. Toy Fox, charged with the conversion of certain parts of an oil drilling outfit, was fined $20 and costs to the extent of $18.75. John Yurash was charged with neglecting to send his children to school, and was given a week in which to do better. The case against Frank Atkinson, of obtaining coal under false pretences, was adjourned until Monday.

Elaine the Fair

A New Serial Story of Absorbing Interest.

"Any hope?"

"None," the Doctor said curtly. "Never was. Death was instantaneous. Only for the storm we might have been in time to save his life. He was not half an hour dead when we found him."

"Suicide?"

"Apparently so. The pistol was in his hand. He was shot in the right temple."

"Is there any suspicion of foul play?"

"No, I can't say there is. But there are peculiar features about the case. Who bolted the side-door? None of the servants; they were fastened in. Then, though Mr. Verinder's day was numbered, he took his own life. Look at this!"

The Doctor gave Sir Everard the note he had received from the dead man. Denham opened and read it.

"Dear Mr. Verinder—Please come without a moment's delay, bringing Standish with you. I want to alter my will and give it into safe keeping. Circumstances have arisen which make this imperative, and I dare not delay a moment. I beg of you to let nothing stand in the way of your coming. More depends on it than I can explain in writing.—Yours, etc.,

"It is inexplicable," Everard said, standing with the letter in his hand, and the Doctor noticed that he was very pale. "Perhaps his will may throw some light on the matter."

Mr. Standish had joined them, and he too looked exceedingly grave.

"I must remain in charge of the room and his papers until the police come," he said. "That letter will be important. It is an awful affair, and it is no wonder Miss Verinder collapsed. Such a sight will haunt her to her dying day. Poor Verinder!"

"Where did he get the pistol, sir?" Markham, coming up behind them, who spoke.

"What is that?" asked the Doctor, wheeling round.

"He had no pistol this morning, sir, and he could not stir to get one for himself. If we could discover who gave it to him we might find out the whole thing."

"Have the police been sent for?"

"Yes, sir; I sent a man on horseback."

The cold light of dawn was stealing in through the great windows of the corridor, revealing the blanched and scared faces gathered round the door of the dead man's room. Outside there were traces of last night's storm. A huge 'em had been struck by lightning and lay across the terraces and flower-beds among overturned vases and statues and the brown masonry of the terrace. Trees and lawn was strewn with broken branches, and the storm had almost destroyed the ancient rookery in the wood. The desolation outside was a fit setting for the more terrible desolation within.

"Breakfast is laid in the dining-room," said a footman, whose face showed the shock he had undergone. Then, turning to the Doctor, he asked falteringly, "Is master—"

"Dead, my man! Let no one leave the house until the police arrive. Have you heard how Miss Verinder is?"

"She has come to, sir, I believe, but she is very bad."

"I had better see her when I put his finished breakfast." Then he put his arm within Denham's and drew him a little apart. "Some one must tell Miss Carden," he said.

"She knows," Sir Everard answered; "but I will speak to her. My compliments to Miss Carden, James, and ask her if she could see me in the small drawing room."

"Will you dine before you see her, sir?"

"No, no! Give her my message at once! I will join you, Doctor, as soon as possible."

The other men went down to the dining-room when the lawyer had secured Mr. Verinder's door. A fire had been kindled and a breakfast prepared, over which they discussed in low tones the terrible tragedy which had just been enacted.

Meanwhile Sir Everard had gone to the drawing room and the unbarred door at his heart made him feel the half stifled in the atmosphere of the room. There was tragedy all round him, and every fresh item of suggestion or information only added to the weight. What had Lucy been doing, unexpected ways kept him so strangely aloof, even when she seemed most loyal, even when she seemed most loyal. "You could not have heard a word," he said. "He could not see her white frightened face as he had grasped hers in the darkness. What self-control the girl had. Another woman stifled into complete immobility. How set her small face had looked when he had questioned her! If Lucy made up her mind to keep a secret he knew that nothing could force it from her. And it was that very task he had set himself that he turned suddenly, for Lucy was in the room."

Her face was ashen-pale, and she was trembling from head to foot. She stood with her back to the door as far away from him as possible and put out a shaking hand to ward him off as he drew near to her.

"What do you want me for?" she asked.

"Lucy, Lucy! Do not look like that! Speak to me! Tell me all that is in your heart! We belong to each other."

"I belong to no one," she interrupted, putting her hand to her throat. "Oh, to no one! I have no home, no friends—nothing!"

A sharp pang pierced Everard's heart. He crossed the room, and she pushed him violently back.

"Don't touch me! Don't come near me! Everything is over between us!"

"That is nonsense. I love you with my whole heart, and we are promised to each other. Things can never be over between us. Lucy, darling, if you would only trust me and let me help you, all those mysterious would be tangled up. You are in some horrible predicament but it is not of your own making. I know you too well to think that. Tell me what took you to the corridor last night. That was the beginning of the trouble. If you will explain that I shall know how to fit in the rest. It is a terrible affair, and what you may say may throw light on it. I beg, I entreat you to speak."

"I have nothing to say," she answered obstinately. "Oh, why do you make it so hard for me?"

"Because I love you so much. I don't think you ever knew how full my heart is of you. Everything I have is yours; I don't wish to hide a thought from you; you satisfy every part of my being. Such being the case, I must be sure to step out of my life and become a stranger to it. It is impossible!"

She looked at him for one wild moment as if she would have cast herself on his breast and sobbed out the story. He was just about to seize her and clasp her close when she again shrank back. A veil seemed to drop over her face, hiding her heart.

"You are very kind, Sir Everard," she said; "but I repeat that I have nothing to say, and that therefore everything is over between us. From never be the wife of a man from whom I have anything to conceal. There is an obstacle between us. That is all I can say."

"I don't care!" he cried. "Lucy, I will ask no questions will be satisfied with nothing wrong. I would stake my life on your truth and goodness. I have been a fool to worry you with questions you shall hear no more and we shall forget the whole thing. No one but myself knows that you were in the corridor, and no one else ever knew. You are not a cold, unfeeling, my darling, I will take you to my mother's and make you my wife as soon as it can be done. We will go away until you forget all about this horrible thing. Lucy, Lucy, speak to me!"

He was kneeling beside her now, for she had sunk on a chair as if he had limbo could no longer sustain her. He passed his arm around her and entreated her with words of the fondest love to give herself to him to be loved and cared for as women are loved and cared for before.

She put her hands on his shoulders and pushed him back. Her eyes, grave and solemn, searched him through and through.

"You would do this for me?" she asked.

"You would make me your wife, the mistress of your home, with this secret between us? You would be silent about last night and shield me from suspicion—perhaps from shame and punishment? You love me well enough for that?"

"All that and a thousand times more! Come to me, dearest! Trust me! Prove what I will do. I will take you away to the other side of the world, where you will forget all this, where you will not know me and I will not know you, and you cannot understand how much I love you; but this time twelve months you will not be afraid to trust me with your secret. Come, Lucy!"

He rose to his feet, and she rose too. She offered her face mutely for his kiss; she yielded when he clasped her to his heart. Then she shook herself resolutely free.

"That was good-bye," she said—"good-bye for ever! Oh, I don't need to wait a year to know your love, for you have shown it to me now! But you have made me more than ever sure that I am right. There is an obstacle between us which can never be removed, and until I can give you my full confidence to the man I love I will never marry. And, as that cannot be, we must part!"

"Part! I won't let you go! Do you hear me? Must; and the time may come when you will be glad, rejoiced, at what I am doing to-day. You will go your way—I will stay here, and I will never cross again. Forget Lucy Carden; let time heal your wounds. Love some other woman with a clean and open past. Good-bye!"

Her hand was on the door; in another minute she would be gone. But he held her back with a despairing grasp.

"Wait a second," he said. "There is a secret, but it is not yours, and you think yourself bound by it. I shall claim you, and I vow that nothing shall come between us!"

"Don't!" she cried. "Let it alone! Don't touch it! If you do you will only regret it once, and that will be all your life. Let me go, Everard, and forget me. Oh, if you only knew you would see there is no only way!"

"Lucy, is this your last word?"

She nodded. Words would not come, but there was inflexible resolve in her small face.

"Then I accept the risk," he said, releasing her. "We part here, but only for a short time."

"For ever!" she said, and the words fell on his heart like a knell.

CHAPTER III.

"When I am practically penniless?"

"Yes, Miss Latimer, I am sorry to say such is the case. Your aunt has treated you most unjustly, I must say."

"And she left all her money to Miss Verinder's? Now I wonder why?"

"It was probably the result of some momentary fit of pique, and her sudden death almost immediately after prevented her from undoing it. Had she lived she would have given you the money in any way before you left home?"

"Well, we had a difference of opinion."

"She was hot and hasty, but she did not keep ill-will towards any one long, least of all to you."

"Do you know Miss Verinder?"

"I have seen her. She seems a sweet and beautiful girl. If it were not for the injustice done to you, your aunt's choice could not have fallen on one more suitable."

"Wasn't she very rich before?"

"She inherited Wayland Manor and a small estate, but she must have been rather short of ready money. The estate does not bring in much."

"You will be surprised, Mr. Bolton, when I tell you that I received a letter this morning from Miss Verinder. I want you to read it and give me your advice."

Gracilia Latimer took a letter from her pocket and handed it to the old lawyer.

The envelope was small and thick and of a glossy smoothness. A graceful monogram, "E.V.," was stamped in dark blue on the flap. The address was written in a small, firm, peculiar but elegant handwriting.

"Very characteristic," Mr. Bolton commented.

"Characteristic of what?"

"In the first place, I should say she had herself well in hand, and, in the second place, that her will power is so great that she will get whatever she wants. I use to be a great dab at reading character by handwriting, and this is peculiar—very peculiar."

"But you know Miss Verinder?"

"No; I have only seen her at the opera a few times. I could tell you a good deal more about her if I studied the letter. However, I must read it first."

"Do, and tell me those mysterious things afterwards."

The lawyer flattened out the sheet on the table before him and began to read.

"Dear cousin Gracilia—You will be surprised at my writing to you, but I cannot wait a minute longer before trying at least to set myself right with you. Your aunt's money should have been divided equally between me and I have no claim at all on it. I could see any way of setting things right I should promptly make every penny of it mine. I don't know by the terms of Mrs. Latimer's will, if I renounce the legacy it will not benefit you, as the money will in that case all go to charity. I don't know what to share with you. It is most painful subject, and we need not dwell on it. I only refer to it to let you know how I feel, and then I shall come to the subject of my letter."

"Before my uncle's death a distant cousin of my own, Lucy Carden, lived with us and was companion to me. I loved her dearly, and we were very happy together, but she died under the most peculiar circumstances parted us. As they relate to Lucy's affairs I need not go into them. Since then I have been alone except for my Italian maid, and I have never had a companion of her, and as the weeks go by I feel more and more utterly forlorn in this big house. You know the circumstances of my uncle's death, and you cannot wonder if I feel myself growing morbid. I want a companion of my own age to be with me and take the place of my dear friend. Will you come, dear Gracilia? Lucy and I loved each other, and I think you would not find me hard to live with. I have a pleasant room, and many other things which make me happy to think of. Do, do come, like a dear good girl!"

"It seems horrid to talk of money matters, but of course some arrangements must be made. All but I name too large a sum than the estate may contain. I am going to try to share it with you. You shall be my younger sister, and I shall make you an allowance of four hundred pounds a year. Will you think that sufficient? You can't tell what a relief it will be to my mind to be able to restore even that small share of what I have innocently robbed you of."

"If you will have I shall be so happy, so grateful! I have heard so much about you, and I am sure you are a hard-hearted man. I shall be watching every post for an answer.—Always, dear Gracilia, your affectionate cousin, Elaine."

"A very proper letter," the lawyer said. "What is your own feeling about it?"

"At first I was sitting down to write a point-blank refusal. Then I thought it would be only fair to take time to think it over. I must earn my bread in some such way, and, in short, finally I came round to the other side and decided to accept."

"It is not the same thing as going among complete strangers."

"Do you know, that is the most serious drawback? Matters between employer and employed are so much easier to arrange when they are on a pure business footing. One thing I am resolved on, and that is that it shall be a matter of business. I cannot dream of accepting the salary she proposes, but I think I might ask for a hundred a year. I could scarcely dress suitably on less."

"She nodded. "I am glad to remember that she has the large fortune that ought to be yours."

"My aunt had a legal right to leave her money to whomever she pleased."

"All the same, she treated you to her money to do as she pleased."

"I cannot understand her action," Gracilia said, sighing. "It is out of character; it puzzles me. I have never had a word from Mrs. Latimer, I ever claim to be her niece, and if I go at all it must be on a business footing."

"Then you have decided on accepting her proposal?"

"I am very sorry that you are reduced to taking such a step, but if it had to be done, I think this a very satisfactory way."

"I won't call it reduced." And I regarded as a mysterious portent of "death or pestilence, or great trouble," to quote a chronicler of 1473. The prosaic explanation is the flooding of underground water channels.

The dead lifeboat put out in a blinding snowstorm the other day to help a schooner which was driving before the gale. With great difficulty the captain, his wife, the mate, and three boys were rescued. When the lifeboat the captain said that he had left two dogs, a cat and a kitten in the ship. But when the lifeboat was being beached a wet bedraggled kitten leapt on shore. It had, unseen by anyone jumped into the lifeboat at the last moment.

A remarkable scene was witnessed a few days ago at Bickerstaffe Hall Farm, Ormskirk, one of the largest farms on Lord Derby's estate, when a large staff of men and women gathered last season's potato crop. Owing to the unfavorable weather about six acres of tubers had then to be left ungrounded. Contrary to expectation the crop is digging up remarkably well over 60 per cent being quite sound.

As you are in black you will act as a foil to me. I believe she wears nothing but white. Perhaps you know she is called 'Elaine, the Lily-maid'?"

"No," said Gracilia, her eyes sparkling with interest. "And you say she is really kind. I believe I need have no apprehensions."

Mr. Bolton was turning over Miss Verinder's letter thoughtfully and peering at it through his glasses.

"Her uncle's death was an awful and inexplicable affair. Then the disappearance of Miss Carden and the sudden breaking off of her engagement to Sir Everard Denham made a great deal of sense. It is no wonder if Miss Verinder feels morbid."

"Tell me about Miss Carden. Remember that I was shut up with Mrs. Latimer and scarcely ever say a word."

A woman detective has received an appointment from the Bristol authorities. There is nothing unusual in this. Bristol appoints special training in police work, and although her duties will chiefly consist of the ordinary detective work, she will be carrying out all classes of crime and mystery. "Women," an authority explained, "are particularly adapted for work which comes under the scope of the ordinary detective, but unfortunately it is sometimes unsafe to trust a woman with an important investigation where young men are concerned. They are swayed by emotion. They can't help it; it is their nature, and they have been known to fall in love with the man they have been sent to watch."

The train was so close that the pain was blinding and the carriage exteriors and windows cracked. In order to prevent the train catching fire the brigade turned a water hose on to the carriages. Many passengers, terrified by the spectacle, tried to leave the train, whilst others opened the windows and received a severe drenching from the hose.

MONARCHS

Monarchs Lose to Riverside Champions
Toronto, March 24.—That the brand of hockey played in the O. H. A. is just as good as that of the amateur teams of the west was demonstrated last night at the Arena when the Monarchs, champions of the O. H. A. senior series, defeated the Riverside, ex-Allan Cup holders, by 8 to 7. The game was but an exhibition affair, as was the one played a week ago between the same teams, which resulted in a three-all tie.

BOTH GOALERS VERY WEAK.
It was by no means as good an exhibition of the winter pastime as given by the teams on their first meeting. There was little sensational hockey shown for the reason that the checking was very close. The large score can be laid at the door of both goalkeepers. Collett in the Riverside net played his poorest game of the season. Several long shots beat him in the first period. In the second period he improved a little, but in the last he again fell to pieces and used bad judgment on several occasions. At the other end, Ferquhar was as bad as, if not worse than, the Riverside man. Farquhar is not the regular goaler for Monarchs. He is a very nervous chap and on one occasion in his hurry to toss the puck which he stepped with his hand he knocked it into his own goal. Like Collett, too, he was weak on long shots. Lieut. Applethorpe, on account of sickness was unable to play at right wing for the Riversides. He was replaced by Parkes of the Argonauts. Parkes is not a wing man and lacked condition, but he played a good game nevertheless. Parkes is one of the cleverest players in the game, but despite the fact that he has not played for some time, he displayed some of the cleverest shooting of the game. His shots were well on the goal and he scored twice. Dick Irwin was at centre for the Monarchs for half the game, but was weak.

Lacrosse Played by Soldiers in Bermuda

Ottawa, March 22.—Dr. J. L. Chabot, M.P., has received the following official letter from Lieut. Col. C. M. Edwards, O.C., of the 38th Battalion, now in Bermuda:—"Sir, On behalf of the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the 38th (Ottawa) battalion, C.E.F. I wish to thank your association for your most kind consideration in sending sixty lacrosse sticks and balls to us. No sooner had the case been opened than the members of the battalion who had played Canada's great game in the past were at it again. Lacrosse is a novelty in Bermuda, but no doubt it will prove as popular with the people here as the other games that we indulge in. "I again have the honor to thank you for your kind consideration of us."

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT AT Y.M.C.A.

Three Games Last Night, One Between Ladies' Teams.

The basketball tournament which was held at the Y.M.C.A. last evening was well worthy of mention. There were three different games played during the evening, all of which were very neatly and cleanly played.

The first game was between the 84th battalion and a Y.M.C.A. team, the 125th boys being unable to attend. The 84th boys were a little too strong and swift for the Y. M. C. A. team. At half time the score was 17 to 9, in favor of the 84th. Both teams played very well, but towards the end the 84th made some very good shots and played very fast, ending the game with the score 27 to 12 in their favor. The line-up:—Dodds, Wiggins, Westwood, Parm, Russel.

The next game was between the Brantford Y. M. C. A. senior team and the Galt Y. M. C. A. team. The Galt boys were very fast and played a good game, but they were not quite good enough to cope with the excellent local players. The boys from Galt were very swift in the start, but they lost their speed towards the end of the game, the final score being 48 to 22 in favor of the Brantford team. The line-up:—Brantford—Vansickle, Johnson, Whitaker, Buckborough, Smith, Galt—Bond, Burgess, Webb, Blain, Snell.

Last of all, but perhaps the most interesting, came the girls' game between the B.C.I. and Y.W.C.A. girls. They played very well during the whole game, keeping the score very even. At half time the score was 2 to 2 in favor of the B.C.I. girls, but the game ended with the tie score of 8 to 8. There was a very good attendance at these games, everyone

Honor Roll

That the Pastime Bowling Club is doing its share in contributing towards the defense of the empire, was shown clearly in the honor roll compiled of members and ex-members of that organization (8 in number), who are now either at the front or in khaki, and preparing to go. The list contains one commanding officer, one major, and no less than six captains. It is as follows:—Lieut. Col. M. A. Colquhoun, Major E. H. Newman, Capt. Geo. H. Sager, Capt. P. E. James, Capt. E. F. Corey, Capt. F. D. Fraser, Adjt. Aubrey Emmons, Lieut. C. M. Sheppard, Lieut. S. W. Seago, Lieut. W. H. Coghill, Lieut. T. Bingle, Corp. J. H. Orr, Sergt. A. H. Jewell, Sergt. Alf Taylor, Pte. There are twenty-seven perpetual "jags" in Dover, N. J., according to the list made out by the Board of Protectors.

Secret service officials declare the plot counterfeited $5 Federal Reserve notes started in prison at Walla Walla, Wash. Nine convicts are reported under arrest.

Annual Meeting of Pastime Club

Officers Elected For Year 1916, at Enthusiastic Meeting.

Great enthusiasm and interest was exhibited by all present at the annual meeting of the Pastime Bowling Club held last evening in the council chamber of the city hall. The attendance was gratifyingly large, and a great deal of routine business was transacted. The financial report of the club for the year 1915 was submitted, and proved very satisfactory indeed, showing the affairs of the organization to be in splendid condition. Some fifteen applications for membership were received and considered, and the following officers and committees appointed:—Trustees—A. B. Burnley, W. H. Inglis, Don Thorburn, F. S. Blain and S. M. Burnley. President, Donald McPhail; Past President, Geo. H. Sager; Vice-President, Alex. Aitken; Sec.-Treas., F. S. Blain. Executive—F. Corey, Dr. Wiley, Hy. Bond, Art. Ames. Games Committee—Don Thorburn and executive. Overseer of Greens, A. B. Burnley. Stewards: F. F. Jackson and Sam Puckerings.

In an exhibition game at London last night, Sarnia O.H.A. inter-mediate champions, defeated London Overseas by 8 to 7.

Monarchs were favorites over Riversides last night. There was quite a lot of betting on the game, some of it at 2 to 1 on the Winnipeg team. Riversides go to Collingwood on Monday to play an exhibition game in aid of the Patriotic fund. Reg. Noble of the Riversides is a Collingwood boy. Aura Lee O.H.A. junior champions played an exhibition game at Detroit last night and were defeated 4 to 1. They play again to-night and on Saturday night meet Berlin Union Jacks at the Arena. Alex. Romerli, the Toronto boy, who is a member of the 61st Battalion Allan Cup, is visiting his parents and was present at last night's Monarch-Riverside game at the Toronto Arena. The St. Paul team are playing in Pittsburg to-night and the press agent has the Pittsburg papers say that the visitors have earned the premiership in hockey in the United States and Canada by winning the champion-

Liners.

Jack Ness is handling himself well at first base for the White Sox, and promises to give Pournier a run for the job.

Gus Rose, who was one of the star pitchers in the Peterboro Baseball League last summer, has joined the 63rd battalion at Peterboro. Boston Journal—George Miller, a Lowell catcher, will not play ball this year, because he is drawing $70.70 a week in a Canadian munition works. Jack Dalton, former Toronto and Brooklyn outfielder, who jumped to Cincinnati was the last to turn him down.

It is now rumored that Hal Chase may play first base for Pittsburg. There are many who think Chase is a Pirate at heart. Anyhow, he did his best to scuttle the Highlander ship when Stallings was the skipper. E. E. Fout and his six children, burned to death in the fire which destroyed their home near Keyser, W. Va., were buried in one casket. William B. French, a street sweeper in New Brunswick, N. J., who came into a fortune of $20,000 two weeks ago, died in Los Angeles yesterday.

A SUNDAY SERMON BY PASTOR RUSSELL

NEW CREATURES PERFECT IN HOLINESS Not of the Flesh, But of the Spirit.

Holiness Means Completeness—Only the Church Are Holy Now—Jews Failed to Be Holy—How Christ's Followers Fulfill the Law—Development of the New Creation—Fasting on the Old Body—Judged by Heart Attitude—Self-Discipline—Attaining the Spirit of a Sound Mind—Love the Bond of Perfection.

Brantford, Ont., March 19.—Pastor Russell gave an able address here today, based on 1 Peter 1:16: "Be ye holy; for I am holy." He gave a condensed report:

The word "holy" is related to our word "whole," which signifies complete, unbroken. Viewed from this standpoint, our text is a wonderful exhortation. Our Lord Jesus also exhorted us: "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father in Heaven is perfect." (Matthew 5:48.) Very properly we note who are thus addressed. It is not the world; for the Bible is not addressed to the world. In their fallen condition, out of harmony with God and not seeking to know His will, mankind are not in a position which would allow them to address themselves as saints, strangers, foreigners, as the Lord speaks of them through St. Paul. At present they have neither the address nor the things of God. So far as they are concerned, His great plan is yet future. The Father loves the world sympathetically, and has made provision that ultimately they shall have a glorious place, rich blessings, but not yet.—Ephesians 2:11, 12; 1 Corinthians 1:21-25; John 1:10.

During the long period from Adam to the making of the Covenant with Israel at Mt. Sinai, God recognized no nation. Man's race, the world's fellowship with His because of Adam's transgression, God did, indeed, speak through a few, such as Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, Moses, and Abraham, who made certain declarations not clearly understood by any at that time. No one was permitted to come into covenant relationship with God except in the sense that Abraham did, and through animal sacrifices, which typified the great sacrifice for sins yet to come.

Then came God's dealings with the one nation of Israel. He separated them from all other nations. (Exodus 19:2-6; Amos 2:1.) He gave them His Law, and promised that if they would keep that Law they should have everlasting life and should exercise the greatest privilege which God mentioned to Father Abraham; namely, that through them all the families of the earth might be blessed. They thought that by obeying His Law, and that they found that they could not do so—that they could not be holy.

This holiness was briefly comprehended in the command, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy mind, with all thy soul, and with all thy strength; and thy neighbor as thyself." (Luke 10:27.) But Israel could not attain to this holiness, this completeness; for, like all the other races, they were imperfect. No imperfect man could keep a perfect law.

Year by year for over sixteen centuries God permitted the offering of typical sacrifices; and they renewed their covenant annually on the Day of Atonement. Thus they were made acceptable to God for the sin they committed, and were kept in covenant relationship with Him. Over and over again they tried to keep the Law, but failed continually. The Apostle Paul tells us that during all those centuries not one Jew was justified through keeping the Law.—Romans 3:20; Galatians 2:15, 16.

How Christians Can Keep God's Law. When came the Gospel Dispensation. Our Lord Jesus, by His life and by His preaching gave forth a Message of mercy and peace, to those Jews who could not keep the Law, saying still to them, "Be ye holy." During all those many centuries the Israelites had tried to be holy, but had failed; and how could those of our Lord's day expect to be holy, complete, lacking nothing, any more than could their ancestors? Ah, there was a secret which Jesus disclosed to the earnest and sincere, the "Israelites indeed!" The reason why any could keep the Law after Jesus came, was that Christ accomplished an important work, applicable to those who became His disciples. The Law could not succeed in keeping the Law of God, but Christians can do so. This is not because they are born than the Jews, or naturally we are all "children of wrath, even as others."—Ephesians 2:3.

In the absolute sense, Christians cannot keep God's Law, any more than could the Jews, and for the same reason. Doubtless, the various provisions of the Law are also in the image of God. It will be the spirit nature in its highest form. The God first began to develop this New Creation in the person of our Lord Jesus Christ at the time of His baptism in Jordan. The Father's purpose was sending the Spirit into the world by which out imperfections are legally cancelled, made as though they did not exist. Thus, by keeping the Law of the spirit, by having our Lord Jesus cancel our iniquities of body, we are perfect, before God. As Christians, we keep His Law.

According to God's Plan, our Lord Jesus laid His life down as a ransom, a corresponding price, for the life of Father Adam. Adam sinned, and must meet the penalty of sin—death. He died; and all of his posterity have been born under the conditions of sin and death which his disobedience entailed upon them. Mankind die because sin entered into the world through one man's disobedience, as the Apostle explains. (Romans 5:12.) But through His death our Lord Jesus secured the right to annual Adam's death sentence and to take possession of all mankind. Thus Adam and all of his posterity will be awakened from death; otherwise the entire human race would suffer eternal death; for the penalty of sin is death, not the mere act of dying, but remaining dead forever.—1 Corinthians 15:21, 22; 1 Timothy 2:5, 6.

At the beginning of the Messianic Kingdom our Lord will take possession of the world. Mankind are something like a scrap-heap of old machines, engines, boilers, etc., all rusted and twisted out of their original shape. But the one who will take control has infinite power and ability to repair and to reconstruct all these defective beings. During the thousand years of His Reign this will be His work. It will affect the dead as well as those having a measure of life when that Reign begins. The Messiah will bring all who will out of sin and death conditions back to the perfection lost in Eden, redeemed as Calvary.

Offices of the Glorified Christ. God purposed, before the foundation of the world, to permit sin to bring forth its evil fruitage for six thousand years, and then to usher in the Millennial Day, the Millennial Sabbath, during which He would do, through Jesus, His appointed Channel, a work for mankind which they could do for themselves. Meantime, He has been selecting and preparing the classes that will be His agents, under Christ, to usher in His great work for humanity—first, an earthly class (enumerated in Hebrews 14), and then a spiritual class, the Church.

Jehovah God has also purposed that our Lord Jesus shall be the great King of the world during the Millennial Sabbath, and that this spiritual class shall be associate kings under Him; moreover, that Jesus and the Holy Spirit shall be the great Priest, and His great work for humanity—first, an earthly class (enumerated in Hebrews 14), and then a spiritual class, the Church.

God is judging His people according to the heart. (1 Samuel 16:7.) The world cannot know all about God's people. They look at things from the natural man's standpoint; and when they see a child of God do or say something unkind or improper, they draw their conclusions accordingly. But we must not judge them. Our heart attitude must ever be to wish to do the Lord's will. Should any of God's people willingly consent to sin, he would be a partaker of that sin. If overtaken in a fault, he must correct it. Whoever as a New Creature in Christ is seeking to be holy as God is holy, will watch his words and conduct, and will try to keep a strict rule over his mortal body, and if that body should temporarily get from under control, he will discipline it by way of punishment, will correct it in order to make it remember for the future.—1 Corinthians 11:31, 32.

All true Christians should be on the alert to note God's providences. Nothing can come to us without being by accident; for all things must work together for their good. Should one of them meet with what would appear to be an accident, if he should have some peculiar experience, he should think, "Is this something to teach me a special lesson, or is it a chastisement from my Father for wrong-doing?"

Every child of God must receive discipline, in order that his character may be developed. Even our Lord Jesus had discipline. But in His case these experiences were never punishments; and it is for the Lord's people to be on guard to see that their disciplines are not in the nature of punishments, so as to get the greatest benefit for them.—Hebrews 12:5-11, 13.

The Lord's people should also study the character of God, to see His wholeness, His completeness, that they may copy His example. They are to have "the spirit of a sound mind." Our minds are not sound naturally, being blighted by sin by accident; but the New Creature is always loyal to God. The Scriptures tell us what God's will for us is, what His mind is; and we are to copy Him. God is LOVE. But He will not be loving at the expense of Justice. So let us copy God in His Wisdom, Mercy, Justice, and Love. All these noble qualities will be manifest more or less in the Church of Christ.

Apparently Unjust Arrest
Had Real Reason
For It.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
London, March 24. (Cable to the New York Times)—An astonishing story of an Englishwoman, who was associated with a German spy was related in the House of Commons yesterday.
C. P. Trevelyan, while discussing alleged high-handed acts of the government told about an English squire who returned from partridge shooting to learn that his daughter had been carried off by the police. For a fortnight he was unable to discover her whereabouts. Finally he found that she had been thrown into jail and cross-examined without having any legal aid. She still remains under lock and key.
Many members were much impressed by the apparent injustice done to the woman until Sir F. E. Smith on the other side of the story. This told the daughter, he said, was an intimate friend of a German spy who had to flee from England because he was connected with attempts at as-sination. Last May, said Smith, she went to Switzerland to meet the spy and returned carrying a message to one of his accomplices. When she was arrested literature was found in her possession that advocated revolution and murder.

SASKATCHEWAN M. P.
SENT UP FOR TRIAL

Accused of Having Corruptly Accepted Sum of $500 For His Vote.

Regina, Sask., March 24.—C. H.
Cawthorpe, member of the Legislature for Biggar, was sent up for trial at the next session of the Supreme Court on a charge of bribery by magistrate Hofferman in the City Police Court this morning. Bail was fixed in two sureties of $500 each, and the accused's own recognition of $500.
Mr. Cawthorpe is accused of having corruptly accepted $500 for his vote and influence in December, 1913, to defeat the Danish-the-bar Bill, introduced in the Legislature at that time and later withdrawn. The only witness heard at the preliminary trial yesterday morning was Frank Brunner, who told the story which has repeated several times against other members of the Assembly.

NERVOUS DISEASES IN THE SPRING

Cured by Toning the Blood and Strengthening the Nerves.

It is the opinion of the best medical authorities after long observation, that nervous diseases are most common and more serious in the spring than at any other time of the year.
Vital changes in the system, after long winter months, may cause more trouble than the familiar spring weakness and weariness from which most people suffer as the result of indoor life, in poorly ventilated and often overheated buildings. Official records prove that in April and May neuralgia, St. Vitus Dance, epilepsy and other forms of nerve troubles are at their worst, and that then more than any other time, a blood-making nerve-restoring tonic is needed.
The antiquated custom of taking purgatives in the spring is useless, for the system really needs strengthening, while purgatives only gallop through the bowels, leaving you weaker. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine, for they actually make new, rich, red blood that feeds the starved nerves, and thus cures
the many forms of nervous disorders.
They cure also such other forms of spring troubles as headaches, poor appetite, weakness in the limbs, as well as remove unsightly pimples and eruptions. In fact they unflinchingly bring new health and strength to weak, tired and depressed men, women and children.
Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
