

PROGRESS OF THE WAR

(Continued from page 2.) Rome, Nov. 16.—The Italian official statement follows: "On the mountainous front from the Asiago Plateau to the Piave river combats have developed and are continuing. Yesterday the enemy kept our positions under intense fire and launched violent attacks. Our troops, supported by artillery, resisted everywhere with great courage and counter-attacked with boldness, inflicting losses on the enemy and capturing prisoners. All the positions remained in our possession. The Regina Brigade fought with its usual valor at Malette D'Avanti and on Monte Flor. At Monte Tondare, where three successive attacks were repulsed, the Monte Marcolada battalion of Alpini showed firmness. At the defensive line of San Marino, in the Brenta Valley, enemy parties were driven back with heavy losses.

"At Monte Prassolan a party which had retired from Monte Roanone made a counter-attack, having received reinforcements, and repulsed the enemy who had followed close on its heels during withdrawal. At Monte Cornello our troops with stubbornness and admirable élan victoriously resisted the formidable effort of the enemy, lasting from afternoon until midnight. Enemy troops massed north of Asiago and in the Gallie Wood, were bombarded by our airplanes. On the Plains intense artillery activity continued across the Piave river. From Stelvio to the Astico some artillery firing is reported. There is local infantry action in the Givivario and Ledro Valleys. Yesterday and last night airplanes and airships repeated their bombardments of enemy troops along the Fluvial line and the ways of access."

Headquarters of the Italian Army in Northern Italy, Nov. 18.—(Sunday, by The Associated Press)—Having felt the Italian steel along the Piave, the enemy is again massing his forces on the north. Austrian prisoners taken at Follina and Fagure say that Von Bulow's forces, who were present four days ago at Nidor, on the Piave River, have now been swung northward, probably back of Asiago, on the front between the Piave and Brenta rivers. Some of the heaviest blows are now being struck there and although the enemy forces in that territory have exceeded the Italians, heavy reserves are being added to them and the pressure has been steadily increased since Friday. It is not possible to state where the allied reinforcements are but it can be stated that they are not on the Piave nor in the fighting zone at the north, which now appears to be one of the enemy's chief lines of approach. It is felt that the allied reinforcements could render incalculable service at this juncture in furnishing reserves to meet this concentration on the north and the correspondent is authorized that this would be considered most timely now. Austrian prisoners also say that fresh enemy divisions have recently been brought from the Russian front and the prisoners include a large number of Poles thus far used on the Russian front. They gave strange accounts of what is happening along the Russian front and assert that Russian resistance is giving place to easy living and feasting.

Rome Nov. 19.—Italian forces have begun an offensive on the Asiago plateau and have occupied advanced elements of trenches. Further attempts of the Austro-German troops to cross the Piave have been stopped. On the front west of the Piave, south of Quero, great numbers of Austro-German troops are attacking the Monte Montefenero and Monte Tomba lines.

Venice, Italy, Nov. 19.—The city has taken on new confidence and hope with the visit of Premier Vittorio Orlando, who gave directions for the protection and succor of the population, and who noted during a tour throughout the city the calm fortitude with which the inhabitants awaited events. The famous church of St. Mark continues open and frequent masses are attended by crowds of women and children who offer prayers for the preservation of the city.

Local and Other Items

Three Austrians, a woman and two men, were murdered at Virginia, Min., Thursday night, the police say, because they had subscribed to the Liberty Loan and Red Cross funds. They were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Alar and Peter Trepich, a boarder in the Alar house.

The world's record for butter production has been broken by Angie Ackme, a Holstein cow owned by A. W. Morris & Son of Woodland, California, in a test conducted under the supervision of the University of California. The cow yielded 1,333.1 pounds of butter in 365 days, 1,107.96 in 303 days and 2,426.51 in 2 years.

The British House of Commons has adopted a bill extending the life of parliament for another eight months, carrying it to July 30. This is the fourth time the life of parliament has been prolonged.

During a recent air raid over the Gallipoli peninsula and Constantinople by British naval aviators, the former German cruiser Goeben now the Turkish warship Sultan Selim, was hit and a large explosion caused, it was officially announced today. A vessel named the General, and reported to be the German headquarters at Constantinople was twice hit by bombs the raiders dropped. Two hits were also obtained upon the Turkish war office.

It is announced in the current issue of the Canada Gazette that, at the request of the United States authorities, notice is given that persons en route from Canada through the United States to another country must carry regular passports, which must be approved by United States Consuls in Canada.

Sir Robert Borden, on the eve of his departure for Halifax to open his campaign last week, issued a second manifesto to the Canadian people, setting forth his reasons for believing that they should give their support to the new administration. The second manifesto repeats the chief platform in the United Government platform, announced by the Prime Minister on October 18th, emphasizing more particularly what he conceives to be the duty of the government and the people in regard to the prosecution of the war and the solution of the various problems arising out of the world struggle.

London advices of the 16th say: Only one British merchant vessel of more than 1000 tons was sunk by mine or submarine last week, according to the weekly statement of shipping losses issued last night. This is the lowest record since Germany began her submarine campaign. Five vessels of less than 1000 tons and one fishing boat were sunk during the week. Germany's submarine campaign is waning as the result of the stringent measures that have been taken to combat it by the British and American naval forces. Last week only six British merchantmen were sunk and only one of these craft exceeded 1000. This is the smallest total of vessels sent to the bottom during any week since the submarine warfare began.

Wall Street bankers have received cable advices stating that the exchange value of the German mark in Holland and Switzerland markets has recently dropped to the equivalent of about ten and a half cents. The mint valuation of one German mark is 23.8 cents. Last March when German exchange was last traded in on the New York market four marks were quoted at 67 1/2 cents, or about 17 cents a mark.

The British steamer Kansas City is believed to have been lost at sea. Nothing has been heard from her since she was separated from her convoy in a storm on September fifth.

Mr. W. B. Robertson of this city received a telegram yesterday stating that his son Pte. Harold Webster Robertson had been killed in action on October 30th. Private Robertson signed on in Sackville with the 145th Battalion, which was disbanded after trenching England. He then joined the 40th Edmonton Battalion. Previous to leaving Charlottetown he was a clerk in the Bank of New Brunswick, afterwards joining the Bank of Nova Scotia in St. John.

British Get Five U-Boats

The British have sunk five German submarines in one day. In his war address in the House of Commons Tuesday Premier Lloyd George made the following announcement:

"If we act together I have no fear of what will happen. I see anxieties on the horizon and I have never concealed them. It is better to tell the people what is going on. But I see no anxieties that modify my conviction that there are only two things could defeat us. There was the submarine menace. If that had wringed from us the freedom of the seas, then indeed our hopes would be shattered. But now of the submarine I have no fear. We are on its track and I am glad to tell the House that on Saturday we destroyed five of them; five of these pests of the sea. What is the other? Lack of unity the only thing. I support every scheme that will help on the road to victory, and that will bring peace and bring healing to a world that is bleeding."

An Important Capture

Too much importance cannot be attached to the most recent success of the British expedition in Palestine. Jaffa, the seaport of Jerusalem, is in the hands of the British and the same report tells that our armies control the railway line leading to the ancient capital. The Turks are reported to be retreating northward and are no longer capable of offering effective resistance to the victorious advance upon it is regarded as a matter of the next few days.

The importance of the British success in the Holy Land is not so much a matter of territory gained, although with Jerusalem again in the control of the soldiers of the cross, as opposed to the crescent, there may be a pronounced revision of feeling on her part of thousands of Christians who, up to the present, have espoused the cause of Germany and the Turks. The real significance of the Palestine movement is found in the manner in which British successes may affect operations in Macedonia. It is reported that General Von Falkenhayn is preparing to launch a great army for the recapture of Bagdad. The British success at Jaffa, and the certainty of the capture of Jerusalem may cause him to change his plans. Assuredly it will be necessary for him to detach part of his force for the aid of the Turks opposing the British advance toward Jerusalem, in which event his Mesopotamian line will be greatly weakened.

Altogether the operations in this far eastern area are of great importance, inasmuch as the developments of the next few weeks may depend the elimination of Turkey as an effective force in the war.

Cherry Blossoms Fade

Mary Synon, in Extension Magazine.

If I had thought of Franklin Hoyt, after the time when we had worked together in Chicago I should have pictured him, bent over his drawing-board...

He wasn't glad to see me. Indifferently, almost brusquely, he returned my surprised greetings.

It was on that point that I ventured to make comment. "Queer," I told him as we watched together from the stern the lights of Honolulu glimmer down into the pin-points against the vast darkness of the ocean.

Even had I not desired to know what forces had transformed a mediocre newspaper artist into a lotus-eating expatriate, and what other forces were driving him back to his own land...

"I wasn't more than five years old when I began to dream of Japan," he said. "As other boys thought of engines and machines, and printing presses, I used to think of cherry trees, and bamboo houses, and queer little brown men."

"Because the dream seemed almost unattainable, I cherished it more. I knew Hearn by heart, and I used to climb to the top-most gallery of the Auditorium whenever they played 'Butterfly' at the opera."

"Do you remember her at all? She was the telephone switchboard operator in the office when you were there, a little girl with brown hair and with deep blue eyes that had a trick of looking not at you, but through you."

those days, I should have set it down as a response to her sympathy. I fell into the habit of going down to the board to talk with her in the hours when neither of us was busy.

"I suppose that it was because I hadn't seen any home life, since I had left home five years before, that I found their beautiful. There was a serenity about that house, five-room flat that it was, that lifted it above its restrictions of brick, and stone, and wood, and cheap furniture."

"When I had the offer of that New York job I refused, because I saw that it would definitely hold me back from accomplishment of my ambition, even though it would give me opportunity for advancing in my work."

Somewhat Frances seemed grateful beyond reason that I was going to accede to her conditions. It was out of her gratitude that she made her sacrifice for me.

"He shifted a little, turning his intent gaze from the greenish waves toward the stars that had replaced the Hawaiian lights."

"Did you ever come into the heart of a dream?" he said. "Did you ever find love and beauty, and inspiration all in one place, all that you had ever wanted in all your life? Did you ever feel, after having lived in a desert that you have come home into a land of loveliness? That was Japan for me."

"I had the feeling, on the day we landed at Nagasaki, that I had come home. Little things that I saw on the streets, voices that I heard, all came to me as if out of my recollection of another existence. Something in me deeper than thought also responded to the association."

The constant hacking cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you have done to relieve it, is a source of danger. The longer the cough stays, the more serious menace it is to your health.

FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST TO MAKE GOOD BREAD You must have Good Yeast GOOD BREAD is, without question, the most important article of food in the catalog of man's diet; surely it is the "staff of life." Good bread is obtainable only by using the Best Yeast, the best flour, and adopting the best method of combining the two. Compressed Yeast is in all respects the best commercial Yeast yet discovered, and Fleischmann's Yeast is indisputably the most successful and best known to the world. It is uniform in quality and strength. It saves time and labor, and relieves the housewife of the vexation and worryment she necessarily suffers from the use of an inferior or unreliable leaven. It is, moreover, a fact that with the use of Fleischmann's Yeast, more loaves of bread of the same weight can be produced from a given quantity of flour than can be produced with the use of any other kind of Yeast. Explained by the more thorough fermentation and expansion which the minute particles of flour undergo, thereby increasing the size of the mass and at the same time adding to the nutritive properties of the bread. This fact may be clearly and easily demonstrated by any who doubt that there is economy in using Fleischmann's Yeast. If you have never used this Yeast give it a trial. Ask your Grocer for a "Fleischmann" Recipe Book.
