JOB PRINTING

'The Accommodation Bill.'

(Concluded.)

"No—no, I won't," stammered the unfortunate man, over whose mind a dreadful suspicion had glanced with the suddenness of lightning. "I will go back to Hornby," and he made a desperate but vain effort to snatch the fatal instrument. Then, pale and staggering with a confused terror and bewilderment, he attempted to rush into the street. He was stopped, with the help of the bystanders, by one of the clerks, who had jumped over the counter for the purpose.

The messenger despatched by the bankers to Hornby returned with the answer that the alleged acceptance was a forgery. It was stated on the part of Mr. Hornby that Mr. Burton had indeed requested him to lend two hundred and fifty pounds, but he had refused. The frantic asseverations of poor Mr. Burton were of course disregarded, and he was conveyed to jail. An examination took place the next day before the magistrates, and the result was, that the prisoner was fully committed on the then capital charge for trial at the ensuing assize.

It was useless, as painful, to dwell upon the consternation and agony which fell upon the dwellers at Grange Farm when the terrible news reached them. A confident belief in the perfect innocence of the prisoner, participated by most persons who knew his character and that of Hornby, and that it would be triumphantly vindicated on the day of trial, which rapidly approached, alone enabled them to bear up against the blow, and to await with trembling hope the verdict of a jury.

It was at this crisis of the drama that I became an actor in it. I was retained for the defense by my long-known and esteemed friend Symonds, whose zeal for his client, stimulated by strong personal friendship, knew no bounds. The acceptance, he informed me, so little resembled Hornby's handwriting, that if Burton had unfolded the bill when given back to him by the villain, he could hardly have failed to suspect the nature of the diabolical snare set for his life.

In those days, and until Mr. now Sir, Robert Peel's amendment of the criminal law and practice of this country, the acceptor of the bill of exchange, on the principle that he was interested in denying the genuineness of the signature, could not, according to the English law of evidence, be called, on the part of the prosecution, to prove the forgery; and of course, after what had taken place we did not propose to call Hornby for the defense. The evidence for the crown consisting, therefore, on the day of the trial, of the testimony of persons acquainted with Hornby's signature, that the acceptance across the incriminated bill was not in his handwriting. Burton's behavior at the bank, in endeavouring to repossess himself of the bill by violence, was of course detailed, and told heavily against him.

All the time this testimony was being given, Hornby sat on one of the front seats of the crowded court, exhibiting in the visible accomplishments of his Satanic device. We could see but little of his face, which, support-

Kidney Suffering

Backaches and tired feelings tell of weak kidney action—Prompt relief by using DR. A. W. CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. There is no treatment for kidney disease which will afford you relief so quickly as Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, and none which will so certainly cure the most complicated forms of this disease. There is a reason for this. Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills weaken the action of the liver and cleanse as well as the kidneys and thereby effect a thorough cleansing and regulating of the excretory system. Mr. S. J. Arme, of New Carlisle, Co. Va., writes: "I have suffered a great deal with kidney troubles and pains in the small of the back and have tried a good many remedies without obtaining very much benefit. I wish to say, however, that I can heartily recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a splendid medicine as they have proved of very great value to me." ed on his elbow, was partially concealed by a handkerchief he held in his hand; but I, who narrowly observed him, could occasionally discern flashes from under his pent brows—revelations of the fierce struggle which raged within.

The moment at last arrived for the prisoner, whose eyes had been for some time fixed on Hornby, to speak or read his defence, and a breathless silence pervaded the court.

Burton started at the summons, like a man unexpectedly recalled to a sense of an imperious, but for the moment forgotten, duty. "James Hornby!" he suddenly cried with a voice which rang through the assembly like a trumpet, "stand up, and if you can face an innocent man—"

Hornby, surprised out of his self-possession, mechanically obeyed the strange order, sprang involuntarily to his feet, let fall the handkerchief that had partially concealed his features, and nervously confronted the prisoner.

"Look at me, I say," continued Burton with increasing excitement; "and as you hope to escape the terrors of the last judgement, answer truly: did you not, with your own hand, and in my presence sign the bill?"

"This cannot be permitted," interrupted the judge. "If you do not speak," proceeded the prisoner, heedless of the intimation from the bench; "or if you deny the truth, my life, as sure as there is a God in heaven, will be required at your hands. If, in consequence of your devilish plotting, these men consign me to a felon's grave, I shall not be cold in it when you will be calling upon the mountains to fall and cover you from the vengeance of the Judge of heaven and earth! Speak, man—save your own soul from mortal peril whilst there is yet time: mercy and repentance!"

Hornby's expression of surprise and confusion had gradually changed during this appeal to its usual character of dogged impassibility. He turned calmly and appealingly towards the bench.

"You need not answer these wild adjurations, Mr. Hornby," said the judge, as soon as he could make himself heard. "A smile curled the fellow's lips as he bowed deferentially to his lordship and he sat down without uttering a syllable.

"May the Lord, then, have mercy on my soul!" exclaimed the prisoner, solemnly. Then glancing at the bench and jury-box, he added, "And you, my lord and gentlemen, work your will with my body as quickly as you may; I am a lost man!"

The calling of witnesses to characterize the opening of the judge's charge, pointing from its first sentence to a conviction, elicited no further manifestation of feeling from the prisoner; he was as calm as despair.

The judge had been speaking for perhaps ten minutes, when a bustle was heard at the hall, as if persons were striving to force their way into the body of the court in spite of the resistance of the officers. "Who is that disturbing the court?" demanded the judge, angrily.

"For the love of Heaven let me pass!" we heard uttered in passionate tones by a female voice. "I must and will see the judge!"

"Who can this be?" I inquired, addressing Mr. Symonds. "I cannot conceive," he replied, "surely not Mrs. Burton?" "I had kept my eye, as I spoke, upon Hornby, and noticed that he exhibited extraordinary emotion at the sound of the voice, to whomsoever it belonged, and was now endeavouring to force his way through the crowded and anxious auditory.

"My lord," said I, "I have to request on the part of the prisoner, that the person desirous of admittance may be heard."

ed her at the proper time? replied his lordship with some irritation.

"My lord, I do not even now know her name; but in the case involving the life of a prisoner, it is imperative that no chance be neglected."

"Let the woman pass into the witness box," interrupted the judge. The order heard before our eyes a pale, stunted woman, of about fifty years of age, whose excited and hurried, earnest manner, seemed to betoken great and unusual feeling.

"As I'm alive, Hornby's deformed housekeeper," whispered Symonds, "this poor devil's knot will be unraveled yet."

The woman, whose countenance and demeanor, as she gave her evidence, exhibited a serious, almost solemn intelligence, deposed to the following effect:—

"Her name was Mary McGrath, and she was the daughter of Irish parents, but born and brought up in England. She had been Mr. Hornby's housekeeper, and remembered well the 4th of February last, when Mr. Burton, the prisoner, called at the house. Witness was dusting in an apartment close to her master's business room, from which it was only separated by a thin wooden partition. The door was partly open, and she could see as well as hear what was going on without being seen herself. She heard the conversation between the prisoner and her master, heard Mr. Hornby agree to sign the paper—[all she ought to say—for two hundred and fifty pounds; saw him do it, and then deliver it folded up to Mr. Burton."

A shout of execration burst from the auditory as these words were uttered, and every eye was turned to the spot where Hornby had been seated. He had disappeared during the previous confusion.

"Silence!" exclaimed the judge sternly. "Why, woman," he added, "have you never spoken of this before?"

"Because, my lord," replied the witness with downcast looks, and in a low, broken voice—because I am a sinful, wicked creature. When my master, the day after Mr. Burton had taken up, discovered that I knew his secret, he bribed me with money and great promises of more to silence. I had been nearly all my life a gentleman's poor and miserable, at most an outcast, and the temptation was too strong for me. He intrusted me, however—for my mind, he

PILES

"I have suffered with piles for thirty-six years. One year ago last April I began taking Cascarets for constipation. In the course of a week I noticed the piles began to disappear and at the end of six weeks they did not trouble me at all. Cascarets have done wonders for me. I am entirely cured and feel like a new man."

saw, was sore troubled—and he sent me off to London yesterday, to be out of the way till all was over. The coach stopped at Leeds, and, as it was heavy upon me, I thought, especially as it was the blessed Easter-time, that I would step to the chapel. His holy name be praised that I did! The scales seemed to fall from my eyes, and I saw clearer than I had before the terrible wickedness I was committing. I told all to the priest, and he has brought me here to make what amends I can for the sin and cruelty of which I have been guilty. There—there is all that is left of the wages of crime, she added, throwing a purse of money on the floor of the court; and then bursting into a flood of tears, she exclaimed with passionate earnestness, "for which may the Almighty of his infinite mercy pardon and absolve me!"

"Amen!" responded the deep husky voice of the prisoner, snatched back, as it were, from the very verge of the grave to liberty and life. "Amen, with all my soul!"

The counsel for the crown-cross examined the witness, but his efforts only brought out her evidence in, if possible, a still clearer and more trustworthy light. Not a thought of doubt was entertained by any person in the court, and the jury, with the alacrity of men relieved of a grievous burden, and without troubling the judge to resume his interrupted charge, returned a verdict of acquittal.

The return of Burton to his home figured as an ovation in the Pool and Otley annals. The greetings which met him on all sides were boisterous and hearty, as English greetings usually are; and it was with some difficulty the rustic constabulary could muster a sufficient force to save Hornby's domicile from sack and destruction. All the windows were, however, smashed, and that the mob felt was something at all events.

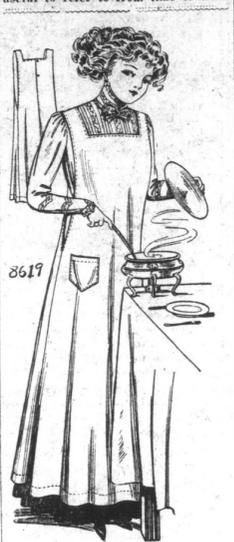

Burton profited by the painful ordeal to which he had, primarily through his own thoughtlessness, been exposed, and came in a few years to be regarded as one of the most prosperous yeomen-farmers of Yorkshire.

Mr. Frank Symonds' union with Elizabeth Burton was in due time solemnized; Mr. Wilberforce, the then popular member for the West Riding, I remember hearing, stood sponsor to their eldest born; and Mary McGrath passed the remainder of her life in the service of the family her testimony had saved from disgrace and ruin.

Mr. James Hornby disappeared from Yorkshire immediately after the trial, and, except through his business agents, was not again heard of till the catastrophe at the Brunswick Theatre, where he perished. He died

Every woman, whether she has to do the work about the house or not, will find use for a simple, practical work apron, such as the one here pictured. It slips on and off easily, and is the simplest of garments to make. Besides, it is infinitely attractive and becoming, with its long lines and square cut neck. The usual apron materials are suitable for reproduction, such as linen, gingham, Holland and percale. The medium size requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. Cut in sizes small, medium and large.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Speaking of women's rights I have a brand new grievance. And that is in the matter of pockets. Another department in which men undoubtedly have a very unfair advantage of us. Once upon a time I did a "lost articles" story, which consisted in interviewing the clerks at some half dozen "lost articles" departments as to which sex they thought lost the most articles, and why. The unanimous answer to the first question was that women were the biggest losers. (In a different sense from that in which it was meant, I agreed.) In answer to the "why" the various hypotheses that women were more leather-headed, that they had too many things on their minds, that they had to carry too many bundles, and that they didn't know what they were doing half the time anyway, were advanced. And no one suggested that it might be because men are provided with pocket space that probably aggregates to the space in a good sized grip, while women have none or at most only one or two diminutive affairs which they seldom use for fear of swelling the hang of the coat. (I used to know a little girl whose mother promptly sewed up the pockets of any new garment for fear she might be tempted to do such an unattractive thing as put something in them.) Do you know how very many pockets a man really has? I doubt if you do, even if you are a man. I had no idea until the burning need of this crusade occurred to me. Then I asked the masculine man who occasionally condescends to read these articles, and he couldn't tell me off hand. So we took the count together. And what do you think we found? He had fifteen pockets without his overcoat, and four more in that. In one way I should think the multitude of pockets would be rather a nuisance, and that is in remembering just what pocket you had put that particular thing. But in all other ways this is undoubtedly a vast injustice to our sex. Here's a suggestion. Why can't some woman's club that hasn't quite enough committees to go around among all its members, appoint a new committee to call the public attention to this injustice? Get a dressmaker or tailor to design a feminine costume with fifteen—let's have sixteen—pockets, and let the crusade with a banner adorned by a pretty girl in this dress. "But I don't believe any woman would wear such a queer thing," protests Mrs. Literal-minded. Well, come, to think of it, there is that about it.

Ruth Cameron

When You Think

Of the pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always associated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle. While in general no woman rebels against what she regards as a natural necessity there is no woman who would not gladly be free from this recurring period of pain.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well, and gives them freedom from pain. It establishes regularity, subdues inflammation, heals ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private and confidential. Write without fear and without fee to World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

If you want a book that tells all about women's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 31 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 30 stamps.

Fads and Fashions.

Tapestry is used for evening gowns. Red and brown are growing in favor.

We see many theatre wraps of fur and velvet. Lace-trimmed and tucked blouses are popular. There is a decided vogue for all antique laces. Many of the short trains are broadened with fur.

Long black caracal coats have white fox collars and cuffs. At the side of the velvet hats many women are putting nothing.

Scarfs, muffs and sashes of the new Janus cloth are very trending. Tapestry is used as bandeaux in dressing the coiffure for evening.

Hats covered with suede or undressed kid are very new and pretty. Evening wraps are striking combinations of rare fabrics and drapery.

Large-brimmed hats covered with gold gauze and lace are very striking. Tailless ermine is much in demand on handsome gowns or hats of velvet.

Sables and all the brown-toned furs are especially in evidence this year. Street skirts and day dresses are still worn several inches from the gown.

If you have narrow bands of fur, why not edge the lace bow for your evening hat.

Blue is tremendously popular in all its shades, but the smartest is the vivid canard blue.

A butterfly form of satin, or velvet, or both, is placed on many velvet turbans.

For a white gown comes the ceclise sash girdle, with its cut and shaped flower rosette.

The most striking feature of the present styles is the vogue for vivid, vigorous colors.

Many black velvet cloche-shaped hats have facings of white satin and bands of ermine.

Paris is quite enthusiastic over the velvet bags, and America promises to take up the fashion.

Afternoon gowns are neither long nor short, and they are an even length all the way around.

Persian effects have made their appearance in the form of colored chertle dots in black veillings.

In evening gowns the sleeves are very short indeed and some dresses are practically sleeveless.

The kimono sleeve has been generally adopted that it is practical, the only sleeve of the year.

There has been a decided tendency of late to shorten the coats of suit and to enlarge their collars.

The cabochon of wooden beads or of metallic thread graces the turned up brim of a beaver or felt.

Scarfs, muffs, wraps, gowns and hats are successful and extremely lovely when of velvet and fur.

For formal afternoon wear chin chilla and plain ermine form scarfs, muffs and sometimes hats.

The long black velvet sash, with its big butterfly bow and its long pointed ends is very modish.

Velvet brocade is used on all materials—on chiffon, satin, crepe de chine, moire and mousseline de soie.

Intense white hats are draped with metal tissue over blue or rose. Tulle cords or tassels trim them.

Beads, especially the small porcelain beads, are used on everything from cotton crepe blouses to satiny evening dresses.

The new corduroys have a flat square rib instead of the old round tubular effects, and they are very smart looking.

Jade buttons in lovely old shades of green are used on the various types of clothes, being added to give a touch of color.

Black chiffon lined with white and trimmed with broad bands of ermine without the tails forms a most fashionable scarf.

Mary's Dream.

A NEW-FASHIONED ROAD BOARD.

Dear Sir,—Well, my laws, I had an awful queer dream last night, and it has bothered me all day. I know there is something going to happen. You seem to be sort of solemn ever since I told him this morning. I dreamt that one of the Tory promises had been fulfilled, and that we had the Electric Road Board. And oh, sir, it worked like a charm. There was no talking to be done at all, and when a man went to work he did not know who put him on or how long the job was to last. The chairman would come down the street when a job was to be done, and he would be charged with electricity, and the man he would point his finger at would feel the shock and would know it meant to go to work. The same thing would happen when a man was "put off." He would find his money in his pocket, and that was sufficient proof that the job was finished. I dreamt that Tom went to one of the members and in a grave way he was told that a few men were going on Glover Road for 'half a day, it was only a short job, and it was a bit of money they were keeping for a rainy day. But, my sake's alive, they need not wait long for a rainy day, said I, as we have had quite a lot of very wet days during the past three moons. I asked Tom what was meant by the Electric Road Board and he said it was something like the secret societies, you know, said he. It would never do to let everybody know when there was a job going as every one that was able to crawl would be along to have their names down, but the Electric Road would go away with all that and the secret society business, (and he said it with a curious wink of his eye), would give the work to the most needy ones. Under the old system, said Tom, (and this time he actually winked his ear), all the chairman's friends would be expecting a job, and if they didn't get it there would be wigs on the green. There was a lot of other queer things in my dream, but that is all I can remember of it, although I have been trying to call it back all day.

It is uncommon strange that a few people went to work on Glover Road the other day on a short shift, and very few people knew anything about, and still you'll find people foolish enough to tell you there is nothing in dreams. I can prove there is, sir. I lapsed you remember the time the steamer Commodore ran down the fishing boat of Pough Cove some years ago. The steamer was taking an excursion party to St. John's, you know, and all the night before I was dreaming of seeing poor Tom struggling in the water. I was so sure that I persuaded him not to go, but he was shipped as a deck hand, he could not stop home. He says he can see in imagination the poor man and his son as they were struggling to keep afloat.

So by these tokens I expect we will soon see an Electric Road Board. Oh, my goodness, we'll be all shocked if we do.

Yours sincerely,
Mr. Grace, Dec. 1, 1910. MARY.

The Mongolian Here.

The Allan liner Mongolian, Captain Peters, arrived here yesterday at 5 a.m. from Philadelphia with 424 tons of freight, 9 baskets mail matter and three passengers in saloon: Misses Annie M. LeDrew, Gertrude March and Anna D. Scott; Messrs. L. W. Morgan, H. Morgan and 13 steerage. The ship left Philadelphia at noon on Monday last, was delayed in the Delaware by rain and thick weather, but on the run here had very fine weather, while it was as warm as it would be in the month of June.

Sulphur For Botwood.

The s.s. Nora, Capt. Houge, arrived here from Sabine, Texas, at 1 a.m. yesterday with 1,500 tons sulphur for Botwood to the order of the A. N. D. Co. Since leaving there, 9 days ago, the vessel had gales of wind, mostly from the N.W., with very heavy sea, and as a result of steaming against this the ship's bunkers ran short and she had to replenish them at Norfolk, Va., and also came here for the same purpose and to get a pilot to take the ship to her destination. After discharging her sulphur the ship takes a cargo of lumber to New York. In the rough weather which she experienced the ship had her rails smashed and also had some damage done around the decks, but nothing of a very serious import.

SIX ARRESTED.

Saturday night there were six prisoners arrested for drunkenness and held at the lockup all night.

Saturday evening one of the carpenters working at the car shops up at Reid's was using a maul in driving a spike, when in striking it a piece of the iron flew from the implement and striking the white of the left eye inflicted an ugly wound, from which the blood flowed copiously. The man was taken to a doctor and treated and the sight of the orb will be impaired for some time to come. The man narrowly escaped losing the sight of the eye altogether.

The C. C. C. Parade.

The C. C. C. paraded yesterday forenoon to St. Patrick's church and were in charge of Major J. F. Donnelly. The lads mustered out in good form and presented a smart appearance, this being particularly the case with the new Promotion Co. who looked very neat in their new uniforms. At the church a Miss Cantata was sung by Rev. Fr. Phippy, who also preached a very eloquent sermon. Though the band could not be present yesterday, their absence was well made up by the bugle corps which gave the various military calls in capital style.

A Naval Reservist, a resident of the West End, went to his home under the influence of drink Saturday and acted in such a disorderly manner that officers Lee and Humbler, who were called, had to arrest him. The man once before was mentally affected, and it was feared that he was suffering from another attack of the same malady.

On the arrival of the s.s. Mongolian here yesterday a man named Lorenzo Morgan, of Cupids, was taken ashore on a stretcher and sent to the General Hospital in a dying condition. He came from Pennsylvania, where he underwent an operation for tumor.

Diphtheria at Trepassey

On Saturday we published a telegraphic message reporting the outbreak of diphtheria at Trepassey, and three deaths from it. It came from a correspondent on whom we rely. The gravamen of the report was that a girl named Hagerty had been in the General Hospital and had brought the disease from that institution.

Dr. Keegan denies this and states that there has been no case of diphtheria in the General Hospital for four months, and the Public Health Officer says that there has been none in the city since October 15th.

Mary Hagerty, of Trepassey, was sent home from the Hospital dying from a tuberculous disease, and died four days after reaching home.

The message sent to the Evening Telegram, Evening Herald and Evening Chronicle was as follows:—

"Three deaths occurred here from diphtheria, brought here from General Hospital by a girl named Hagerty, short time ago, and who died of that disease; family named Molloy, Irving close by, took it, and father, mother and five children were stricken with it, two of the children dying. Is it not true that the building was sent to blaze if the authorities cannot root it out?"

Naturally enough, Dr. Keegan, the Superintendent of the General Hospital, telegraphed to Dr. Giovannianni as to the facts of the cases, and received the following reply:—

"Did not see Mary Hagerty after coming home. Brother told clergyman she had a sore throat and sore tongue before dying. No case of diphtheria developed in her family. Family next door developed diphtheria two days after her death. I sent no report to papers."

In view of the fact that cases of diphtheria did occur in the General Hospital "ever" four months ago; in view of the fact that Mary Hagerty developed a sore throat and a sore tongue before dying, evidently from some tuberculous disease, and that the family next door developed diphtheria two days after her death. It is important to prove, that in spite of the circumstances of suspicion in the two messages, that there was no connection between the diphtheria next door and Mary Hagerty's sore throat, and that Mary Hagerty did not have diphtheria, and that therefore she did not take diphtheria from the General Hospital to Trepassey. The strongest evidence (we do not know whether medical authorities would consider it conclusive) that the General Hospital is not responsible for this outbreak is the testimony of Dr. Keegan that there has been no diphtheria in the General Hospital for four months, and of the Public Health Officer that there has been none in the city since October 15th. An enquiry by competent persons and an authoritative statement to the public are very desirable.

The Election Returns.

Just as we expressed our disgust at the piffle in Saturday's news despatch, so to-day we express our strong appreciation of the great improvement in the political matter. To-day we received the names of the candidates with the votes they received in the constituencies where there was a contest on Saturday. It is a marked improvement on anything we have received before during a British General Election. We congratulate the Hon. R. Watson on the achievement. As to the election result, the trend of the results so far points to a deadlock and it may be for the best, if it leads to another conference and a settlement by consent of the Veto difficulty and the Home Rule question.

Such a settlement could well precede the Coronation to which it would add color, and be an auspicious opening of a new era of goodwill under our great Imperial King.

Ends Dyspepsia in Few Minutes.

Heartburn, Gas, Indigestion and all Stomach misery vanishes.

There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to Stomach trouble knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive virtue contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sour acid stomach in five minutes; besides overcoming all foul, Nauseous odors from the breath.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on each 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures Indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, Belching of Gas and Eructations of undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headache, Bloatingness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.

If your Stomach is sour and full of gas, or your food doesn't digest, and your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent case from your druggist and make life worth living? Absolute relief from Stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and, besides, one case is sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble.

Surely a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapepsin, which will always, either relieve at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.

A Peculiar Accident.

Saturday evening as a domestic in a residence on Queen's Road was doing some laundry work, she placed a hot iron which she was using on top of a tin of bog polish left standing on the table. The iron was not long there when the tin exploded, and the contents, which had become very hot, were thrown over her person, burning her badly about the face and arms. It is believed that the heat from the iron created gases in the mixture, causing it to explode. Fortunately the staff escaped the young woman's eyes or she might have lost her sight.

Had Terrific Weather.

The Lady Napier, Capt. Marshall, which arrived here from Macleod yesterday had terrific weather for a while on the run here. Gale succeeded gale with a mountainous sea, and sometimes the wind reached the velocity of a hurricane. In the Gulf stream she had vivid lightning and heavy thunder with torrential rain, and the vessel did well to come through such weather with the little damage she has sustained.

Personal Notes.

Capt. Marshall, of the Lady Napier, and Capt. W. Fitzgerald, of the Lella Rosa, both of whom arrived from Brazil yesterday, leave by this evening's train for their home at Carboneira.

Miss Margaret McConnell, daughter of William McConnell, of Simonds St., will leave to-day for Montreal via Halifax, and will be married in St. John's towards the end of the month. The happy groom is John R. Sharpe, of St. John's, N. B., temporarily located in Newfoundland, and they will make their home in the Ancient Colony for a while.—St. John, N. B., Telegraph, November 12, 1910.

Golden Arrow Wreck.

Joe Byrne and crew, including two divers from St. John's, are at the wreck in the schr. Kate of Haricot. They have picked up the clothing of all the crew on the rocks, even the inside garments that they wore. They will remain there for ten days. Some of the clothing was turned right inside out, and all the buttons on an oil jacket were gone. The manual of the schooner double reefed was also found on the rocks. Pieces of the deck beams were picked up seven miles away at Cape Dog.

P. S. A. Meet.

Mr. H. Y. Mott delivered an address on "Home" yesterday afternoon at the P. S. A. meeting in the Congregational Church. The subject, he said, had been suggested by the question propounded by Mr. Soper, last Sunday, viz., "Is Life Worth Living?" Mr. Mott said that one of the institutions that made life worth living was no doubt "Home" in this world and the hope of Heaven in the next. The sacredness of home has been upheld in all times and all places. There was nothing that had so strong a hold on humanity whether it were rich or poor home was home, whether it be rich with all the luxuries of life or only with the bare necessities. The address besides being philosophic and instructive contained many passages of wit and humour for which the speaker is proverbial. Mr. Harry Cowan rendered the fine old hymn, "Nazareth" in good style. Mr. A. W. Martin will speak on "Epitaphs" next Sunday.

T. A. Meeting.

The following were nominated as candidates for officership in the T. A. Society at yesterday's meeting, viz.: W. J. Ellis, for President; L. J. Griffith, for Vice-President; R. J. Power, 1st. Asst. Vice-President; P. W. Cox, 2nd. Asst. Vice-President; M. J. Summers, Treasurer; P. Hanley, Asst. Treasurer; Geo. J. Coughlan, Secretary; N. Murphy, Grand Marshal.

There were 12 men nominated to look after the rooms. Seven will be elected out of this number at next Sunday's meeting when the election of officers will take place.

The Juvenile Branch also held their annual meeting yesterday when all the officers of last year were re-elected. The report read showed that the Society is in a flourishing condition there being 400 members on the roll.

The Guardians for the year will be chosen on the 18th inst.

A Powerful Sermon.

Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan preached an impressive and powerful sermon on the Last Judgment at the R. C. Cathedral at Vespers last evening. He took his text from St. Matt. 24th chap. 29th and 30th verses. "The sun shall be darkened and the moon shall not give her light, the stars shall fall from heaven and the powers of the heavens shall be moved. Then shall appear the sign of the Son of Man in the heavens and they shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of Man coming in the clouds of heaven with great power and majesty." The rev. preacher in eloquent terms and earnest manner portrayed in vivid colouring the scene that shall be witnessed on the last day, and exhorted the congregation to conduct their lives that they may be eligible to be admitted into the everlasting joys of heaven, when there shall be no more sorrow and suffering.

McMurdo's Store News

MONDAY, Dec. 5, 1910.

We have just struck something "extra special" in the way of a Nail Brush—the "Rubberset" in fact. This is the latest number to be added to this remarkable series, and it appears to be as good in its way as the Rubberset Shaving Brush and Tooth Brush are in theirs. The back of this brush is made of some kind of rubber composition and is light, clean, and durable. But the inside of the back, in which the bristles are held, is solid hard rubber, and the bristles are fixed so tightly that they cannot come out. Such a brush will last for years. Price $1.75 each.—adv.

Schr. Hamlet O. K.

The schr. Hamlet, which was 21 days out from this port to Lamalou and which it was feared was lost, returned up all night, having arrived at Grand Bank Saturday evening, according to a telegram received by Geo. M. Barr, Capt. Rasmussen of the Alger was right in his statement that the skipper of the Hamlet was a careful man. He brought the vessel well to sea and avoided the dangers of the coast, though the ship must have got a drubbing.

A Mean Trick.

Saturday a man who arrived by the Bruce express, hired a young chap to drive him from the railway station to a hotel, and on the way asked the other to have a drink, which was refused. The fare alighted at a saloon and said he "wouldn't be a minute" but had hardly left the cab when the other who had been paid whipped up his horse and drove away. Such conduct is extremely mean and tends to give the city a bad name.

"Tim" Is Delighted.

He Gets a Drive in an Automobile.

"Were you ever in an automobile? Sure, I needn't ask, for I know you weren't. You are nearly cross-eyed from trying to keep yourself in good health and not get knocked down by one of them. And it isn't the knocking down that you'd mind so bad, only that all the papers would get a hold of it and everyone in town would know you got knocked down. Some people hate to get knocked down for that reason, but there are others who wouldn't mind getting knocked down if they were sure they'd see their full name and address in the papers. Well, what makes me talk to ye in this strain is the fact that the other day I was invited to a drive in an auto. At first I thought the man who was beckoning to me wanted me to tell him where some one lived in the neighbourhood, as that is the only time an automobile owner talks to a poor man. Then I thought he might want me to hold on the auto while he went in to get a drink; we poor men often get a nice paying job like that. But after using my brains a bit I came to understand that the auto could hold on itself. Anyway, the man beckoned to me and after looking him all over I decided I wasn't in debt to him, so I went over to see what he wanted for."

"When I got near him I discovered 'twas Mr. Vall, the Laundry man, and he beckoned me to get in for a drive. Are you sure you mean me, says I? "Oh, yes," says he, with a smile, "get in, Tim, and have a run."

"You're sure," says I, "you weren't beckoning to some one else."

"Not at all," says he, "get in and don't be losing time." I got in in the same fashion and about as quick as I'd get into an electric chair, but when I sat down, oh me, oh my, I felt so comfortable that I felt like jumping out."

"Are you alright, says Mrs. Vall? "I felt like this once before," says I, "and that was one night on the Ferris Wheel when they ran it up on the Parade Ground." Swiss—when away she went with a smoothness that you'd hardly know you were moving only that all the slops and all the people are going the other way. Every one seemed to look the head off me, and seemed to wonder what a poor man was doing in an automobile. Of course poor men get drove to the hospital when they are weak enough not to be able to walk; they also get a drive to the graveyard, but that's because they can't walk also. Yes, and sometimes they get hauled to the booth on polling day for fear 'twould be too late to vote after your tea; but that's about the extent of the poor man's driving excursions in this world. Hence the crowd wondered, and when they were done looking at me they looked at Mr. Vall to see what he was doing wrong with him, for 'tis not the custom in this country to give the poor man a lift.

Automobile owners have a grand excuse for "not seeing" you; they have to keep looking straight ahead. But 'tis nice and convenient to look straight ahead when you don't want to see a fellow.

My advice to any man is to get a drive in an automobile, 'twill add years to your life. 'Tis hard to get a drive, though, but if you watch things closely you may succeed. Some of the owners may slip on Water St. this winter, keep your eyes open and pick him up and he may remember you next summer coming home from Mount Cashel Garden Party and give you a lift.

I don't know that any of the members for St. John's have an auto. I'm sorry for that, for I'd recommend you to pretend you were cool with them, and they'd surely give you a drive two years from now on the eye of an election. "Would be a long time to wait," 'tis true, but you can believe 'twould be worth waiting for."

Sacred Concert.

There was a large audience at St. Patrick's Hall yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the sacred concert given in aid of the C. C. C. The different numbers on the programme were well rendered, and all who assisted were obliged to respond to encores. Following is the programme:
Chorus—St. Patrick's Hall Boys.
"The Palmis"—Mr. Normandieu.
"O Dyine Redeemer"—Miss Strang.
Recitation—Mr. Suzeille.
"Frothing Son"—Mr. D. McMurty.

"Angels Ever Bright and Fair"—Miss J. Strang.

Vessels Arrive.

The brig, Lady Napier arrived here at noon yesterday after a passage of 30 days from Macao. She had very fine weather all through except for fog off the Banks. She is in ballast and consigned to Crosbie & Co. The Aureola, Capt. Olsen, arrived here at 6 p.m. yesterday from Pernambuco after a run of 24 days to Bishop & Sons in ballast. The vessel had fine weather all through. Stafford's Liniment for Swollen Joints, Etc.—dec21,10

Exhausted from Fever.

Patrick Power, of Water Street West, who arrived here by the short train Saturday, was in a terrible state on landing. He was very "hot" and in proceeding towards his home collapsed and fell on the street. Among others who ran to his assistance was his brother, Mr. Peter Power, the barber, and the man was shocked at the sight as he did not know his brother had arrived here nor that he was ill. Peter assisted him to his home and on arrival there it was seen that he was delirious as he did not recognize his little ones. Later Dr. Anderson was called and pronounced the man to be suffering from typhoid and sent him to hospital for treatment.

Burned by Matches.

While a young man of the West End was lighting a match on a box Saturday evening, the whole took fire and he was pretty severely burned about the hands and arms. He had to go to a doctor for treatment.

Window Cabinet.

Mr. Joseph Roper's jewellery store window on Water Street has been recently very attractively and artistically decorated for the Christmas season. A beautiful window cabinet, recently imported by him, displays a valuable stock of silverware, jewellery and novelties, and the whole illuminated by electric bulbs presents a very handsome appearance especially at night time.

Marine Notes.

The s.s. Adventure, Capt. Cough, left Sydney for here Saturday night. The schr. Dorothy Baird, Keppel, master, sailed today for Pernambuco, ship laden by Jrs. Baird, Ltd. The s.s. Kamford sailed for Bell Island Saturday night to load ore for Sydney. The schr. Ingra, consigned to Geo. Neal, arrived last night with a cargo of coal from Sydney, making the run in 3 days. The shore train at 6 p.m. Saturday took out about 40 passengers. The express at 6 p.m. yesterday took out J. C. Murray, A. B. Weldon, J. Mofferop, G. H. Massey and two daughters, C. Pletcher, P. Murphy, Nurse Colford, H. J. Crowe, H. D. Reid and 60 others.

Twitching of the Nerves

Wonderful cure brought about by DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD. It is only by watching the symptoms of nervous exhaustion and applying restorative treatment that you can expect to ward off locomotor ataxia and paralysis.
Mrs. E. J. Vanderburgh, of Eastern Welland Ave., St. Catharines, Ont. states:—"For twenty-one years I was badly afflicted with heart trouble, nervousness and cramps in the limbs, also twitching of the nerves and nervous headaches. I became weak, debilitated and emaciated. My condition was distressing and I was made worse through worry and loss of sleep."
"I tried a hundred remedies in vain. After having used half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my old trouble had entirely vanished, and I was enjoying better health than I had in my life."

Such cases as this prove the wonderful efficiency of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. It cures in Nature's way by enriching the blood and for this reason enriching the blood and its benefits are lasting. 50 cts a box, all dealers. Edmanston, Ont.

Beware of it! There is every evidence that a low grade flimsy class of silverware is being marketed in this country. Stuff that looks nice, and sells cheap! It is not cheap at any price. It won't stand, and not worth repairing when broken. If you want a good piece of English goods at a reasonable price go to TRAPNELL'S.—adv. 11.

Besides her husband, she is survived by four daughters, three of whom live in this city, and the other in Somerville, Mass. The funeral will be held Thursday morning, with a High Mass of requiem at the Church of the Sacred Heart. Interment will be in Mt. St. Mary's Cemetery.—Pawtucket, R. I. Times, Nov. 22nd.

[Deceased lady was formerly Miss Mary Rendell, of St. John's West.]

TO-NIGHT'S WRESTLING MATCH In the British Hall.

YOUNG OLSON, 146½ lbs.

Working-men Mayors.

Policemen as Chief Magistrates.
 Nowadays it is always possible for the humblest boy in the town to become its head if he has the brains and "push." Recent years have abundantly proved this by showing us several noted working men who have risen to the mayoral chairs of their native or adopted towns.

Right Worthy Gentlemen.
 Indeed, two very well-known mayors of a year or two past were men who had both actually risen from the workhouse of the place which they served later as chief magistrates. These were Mr. Will Crooks, late M.P., who was elected Mayor of Poplar, and Alderman Hornbrook, one of Devonport's most respected citizens, who that large town placed in its mayoral chair a year or two before Poplar did herself a similar honour with Will Crooks.

Many people will still remember that Cardiff raised a working man to the highest honour the Welsh city could confer on him, and not only so, but it chose him for Lord Mayor during the year when the late King Edward had promised to visit the city, and His Majesty was so pleased with the way the mayor received him and carried out his duties on behalf of

POLICE COURT NEWS.

In the police court to-day 2 drunks were discharged.
 Two disorderlies were each fined $5, or 14 days.
 A Danish seaman for the same offence $2, or 7 days.
 A vagrant who was up before the court a few days ago was remanded.
 Three boys who broke the glass in Mr. Smallwood's hot-beds, were each fined $1, or 5 days.
 The man Dwyer who beat his wife so severely a few nights ago was again remanded as the woman is too ill to appear against him.

Minard's Liniment Co. Limited.
 Gentlemen,—Last winter I received great benefit from the use of MINARD'S LINIMENT in a severe attack of LaGrippe, and I have frequently proved it to be very effective in cases of Inflammation.
 Yours,
 W. A. HUTCHINSON.

Narrow Escape.

Men who arrived from the northward yesterday say that Raymond Tiller's schooner bound from this port to Westleyville, narrowly escaped destruction off Cape Bonaville Saturday evening. She was running through Gull Island Tickle when a shoal there broke and the sea filling her decks smashed the forecastle and main boom and tore away part of the bulwarks and did other damage. The wonder is that the sea did not beat in the decks and cause the vessel to founder. Had she been the length of herself further astern she would have gone in on the rock and not a soul on board would have been saved. Besides the crew there were several passengers on board and their escape from death was a narrow one.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its Forms can be Cured.
 It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything, I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.
 Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at Cardiff that he knighted "Sir" William Crossman on the spot.

From Policeman to Mayor.

Then, a year or two back, Kingston-on-Thames did justice to one of its hardest workers on the local council by electing Councillor Clarke to the mayoral seat. Mr. Clarke had been a policeman in the Royal ancient borough, and in consequence many of the elite of the place were averse to his being made chief magistrate. Twice before, when he had been proposed by those who recognized his merit and services, he had been defeated by such narrow majorities as one or two, but at length even his one-time rivals had to admit that there was no other man so fitted for the mayoralty as the former policeman, and thus Mr. Clarke reaped at last the well-deserved reward of faithful service.

Breezy Blackpool did equal honour to itself and Alderman Brodie when it made the latter gentleman its mayor in 1904, for the well-known alderman had formerly been a policeman in Manchester.

Mr. Timothy Owen was still a sign-man on the line when his fellow-townsmen at Aberavon, Glamorganshire, raised him to the mayoral chair. No man in the place was more highly respected than the popular signman, and in proof of this no fewer than 30 railwaymen, headed by Mr. Richard Bell, accompanied Mr. Owen to church on his first visit there.

Selling Nuts and "Spice."

One of the best-known men in the south-west country, and certainly one of the most popular in Plymouth, is Alderman Bond, who has several times been elected mayor. Mr. Bond began his striking career as a boy in a solicitor's office at Plymouth, and worked his way up through the various ranks, until he finally found himself sitting in the chair of the mayor.

The late Alderman Scarr still stood behind his shop-counter in Leeds market and sold pennyworths of sweets when he was actually mayor of the leading Yorkshire city. And the same gentleman had the novel experience of selling nuts and "spice" in that way one day of the week, and on the next of acting as host to Royalty on behalf of Leeds, when the late King Edward and Queen Alexandra (then Princess and Princess of Wales) visited the town in connection with the extension of Leeds University.—Tt-Bits.
