ONE OF THE HUNDREDS THAT LEAN UPON OTHERS, OR ARE YOU SUFFICIENT UNTO YOURSELF?

It takes energy, brain-power, concentration to make a livelihood. Vitality—and the power to keep it, must be considered.

CHAPTER IX.

Then I told him, as quickly and as connectedly as I could, of the resolution I had come to, of the arrangement I had made with my old friends, and of my unalterable determination to enter the novitiate on the first of May.

He received my communication, after the first sharp interjection, entirely in silence. When I had ceased speaking he leaned his elbow upon the mantel-piece, with his face away from me, and remained for fully five minutes gazing into the fire. A slight movement on my part made him turn round.

'Then you have come to say good-bye to me now—your final good-bye, Miss Bernard?'

'Yes.'

'Do you know that you have communicated this bit of news in a rather startling and very unprofessional fashion? Do you know that the law entitles me to a quarter's notice of a movement of the kind, Miss Bernard?'

'I know—I know; but I cannot help that. Why must you?'

'Oh, you must—must you? And you expect me to part with you on the best and friendliest of terms? I am to send you back to your patrons with an indorved testimonial of all the cardinal virtues you brought from them—eh?'

'You will say nothing unjust or harsh of me, I know. You and yours have been too true and kind to me from the first day I entered your house, Sir Richard.' I answered, in a rather tremulous voice.

'I will say nothing harsh, certainly. I think I can even vouchsafe you a character for the ordinary

In Dread of Something

You can scarcely tell what it may be. Hysteria, Incontinence, Nervous Collapse.

You can only throw off this depression when the nerve cells are restored to health by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Your digestive system has failed to supply proper nourishment to the nerves and you are compelled to seek aid from other sources.

It will take some patience and persistent treatment, but there is no way by which you can so certainly restore health and vigor as by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The best time to restore the nervous system is long before such a critical condition is reached. Such symptoms as sleeplessness, headaches, nervous indigestion, muscular weakness, loss of energy, failure of memory and power of concentration, irritability and discouragement tell of a failure of the nervous system and warn you of the approach of serious trouble.

qualifications of servitude, Miss Bernard—for honesty, sobriety, good-temper, patience, and devotion to your duty. I can say you have been a good little girl on the whole, age and experience considered; but—but the only thing I have to say just at present—is good-bye— isn't it? And as the hour is advanced and my cigar—'

'Good-bye—good-bye,' I muttered, huskily, too heartsore even to place my hand in his. 'I—I will not keep you longer. Good-bye.'

My hand reached his somehow then, and the room seemed to whirl round. I felt his arm clasp me quickly, and the next moment my hot face was buried on his shoulder, and the tears I could no longer restrain fell heavily from my eyes.

'Not a novice yet, Miss Marie,' he whispered, kissing the tears from my face; 'not quite detached from the perishable creature yet. I must put this break-down in my report to the Lady Abbess.'

'If you like,' I answered, struggling to regain my self-possession. 'I will tell her myself—tell her that it cost me just a little to leave forever the people who had—had been so kind to me; the little children I had learned to love, the house that I had learned to love, the house that I, a friendless stranger, had been told to call my home, almost from the first day I entered it.'

'Your home?' he interrupted. 'You call my house your home? Then why do you want to leave it and my children, whom you love? Why? why?'

'For—for many reasons. Because I am called to a higher life; because I cannot stay. I mean I—I want to go.' I stammered, turning away from his eager look. 'Good-bye, Sir Richard; good-bye! I am sorry to leave you. I thank you for all your goodness to me, and I will never forget you and her—never!'

'Wish me well—wish me happiness before you leave my arms,' he said, laying his cheek upon mine. 'I could believe in the fulfillment of a good wish from such true lips as yours, my little friend.'

'May you prosper,' I said, 'in all your earthly aims and hopes! May you be happy—happy as you deserve to be—in your home, your love, your children! I can wish you no more.'

'Why are you leaving me?' he asked, sharply, after a moment's silence. 'I will not say good-bye until you answer that. Look me in the face, Miss Bernard, and tell me what this sudden resolution means.'

'I have already told you. It means—means—'

I stopped as my eyes met his, for that glance told me evasion and subterfuge were of no more avail. It told me my pitiful secret was no longer my own, that he knew why I was leaving him.

How the knowledge had come to him, when I had betrayed myself—that moment, or long before; I could not guess; but I could read no surprise, no compassion, no rose, or chivalrous compunction in the flushed, smiling face bent over mine—only a look of intolerable triumph, of base satisfaction, that half-maddened me.

'Marie,' he whispered, 'the revered mother won't take you. You will have to come back to the children and me. Make the most of—'

He stopped, with a sudden impression upon his lips, and at the same moment a strain of unearthly music filled the room. Jessie's voice, wild, shrill, despairing, echoed for a moment in our horrified ears.

He rushed to the opened window, looked out into the thick darkness for a moment, then came back and seized my hands.

'What is the matter with you? Why are you shaking like that? He cried, in a rough whisper.—'Surely you are not silly enough to be frightened by such—such—'

'It was her voice—her voice in pain! Oh, have pity on her—you who loved her once! She is appealing to you.'

'Appealing to me! to me! What wrong have I done her?' he said, fiercely.

'Appealing to you not to make that that woman—the guardian of her children. In life she a ked me to save them from her; she did, she did, Sir Richard! And now, in death, her tortured spirit has found voice. Oh, you cannot discard it—you dare not discard it!'

'Hush—hush! What is that? It was Mrs. Johnson's whining voice. She was evidently advancing across the hall toward us.

'Jessie, Jessie! Where are you! Come to your poor old mother, my darling, and tell her your trouble. She—she is not afraid of you. Come my daughter!'

'I—she—we must not be found together at this hour, Marie,' said Sir Richard, confusedly. 'I must escape at once. I will go part of the way to-morrow with you and the children, but now—'

'Go,' I said, pointing to the open window, 'you can escape that way without being seen.'

'To-morrow morning I am going with you to Worthing,' he said, hastily dropping out of the window.

I turned and found Mrs. Massey confronting me. One glance at her flushed face told me that she had been listening for some time, that she knew my pitiful secret—had heard my mad appeal which he had so angrily repulsed.

I sunk back into my chair, covering my face with my hands.

'To-morrow morning!' she echoed, with a fierce laugh. 'Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Johnson! Come in here a moment, please. I have a bit of news that will startle you a little, I fancy. Do you see this person covering before me—your grandchildren's invaluable governess, your daughter's devoted companion—'

'Yes, yes! What is the matter? She has seen—heard—'

'I have just interrupted her in the act of planning an elopement for to-morrow morning with your son-in-law!'

'Miss Bernard—an elopement—with her master! You are losing your senses, Mrs. Massey.'

'Time will show. I came down here to look for a book I had mislaid, and found her crying in Sir Richard's arms, protesting her love for him and his children, urging him to accede to her wishes, with a shameless impudence I have never heard equalled. Your voice in the hall startled them, however, and he dropped out of the window, at r promising to fly with her in the morning.'

'Miss Bernard,' cried Jessie's mother, recoiling from me—why—why don't you speak? Tell me she is raving. You—you were not here with my son-in-law?'

I made no answer.

'Look at the leaves of the flower I gave—I mean, he wore in his button-hole—on the shoulder of her dress! Look at the color of her cheeks—the guilt in her eyes! She cannot deny it!'

'Marie Bernard,' said Mrs. Johnson, coming close to me and gripping my shoulder, 'Look me in the face and tell me, were you alone with Sir Richard at this hour of the night? Has he promised to leave with you in the morning?'

'Yes,' I answered, slowly; 'I was here with him, and he has promised to go to Worthing with me in the morning.'

TRAMPED 60 MILES TO SAVE HIS CHUM

Prospector at Larder Lake Got Back with GIN PILLS Just in Time.

LARDER LAKE, ONT., MARCH 26th, 1911.

'I am writing to tell you the good GIN PILLS did me. I had been suffering for some time with my kidneys and urine. I was constantly passing water which was very scanty, sometimes as many as thirty times a day. Each time, the pain was something awful and no rest at night. I began to feel worn out. I heard of your GIN PILLS and decided to give them a trial at once. I sent my chum out to get them (about 60 miles)—and I am pleased to inform you that in less than six hours, I felt relief. In two days, the pain had left me altogether. I took about half a box and to-day I feel as well as ever and my kidneys are acting quite natural again. Thinking you for the pills which I always intend to keep by me. Yours respectfully,

WELCOME RELIEF.

We have never received a letter that pleased us more than this one. When we realize what GIN PILLS meant to this sick man, lying on a bed of pain miles away from a doctor in the frozen north, and how they helped him, we feel that our efforts to prepare a standard preparation for kidney and bladder troubles have been crowned with success.

GIN PILLS is a wonderful solvent for uric acid. It instantly neutralizes the hot, scalding urine, allays the burning pain, soothes the irritated bladder and heals the kidneys. Take GIN PILLS on your positive guarantee of a cure or your money back. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. Free sample, if you write mentioning this paper, The National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Dept. N Toronto.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"My friend," Mrs. Louise Noble, "you and I and Fred, young, headless, cynical, living in this reckless town of New York, may laugh sometimes at old things like the law and religion when they say, 'thou shalt not.' We may think that phrase was written for old fogies. And we may sneer at 'The wages of sin is death.' But my friend, there comes to all of us sometimes the knowledge that the law and religion are right. What they say we shall not do—that we cannot do without suffering. I have learned that. Also I have learned that the wages of sin is death. It's worse than death—it's a Hell on earth."

Louise Suydam was the wife of Walter Lispenard Suydam, a New York millionaire. After eight years of marriage she decided that she was misnamed and eloped with Frederick Noble, a plumber. Mr. Suydam divorced her and she married Mr. Noble. After living together less than six months, less than three weeks after their marriage, these two unhappy people committed suicide. And the reason for this act was that they had found that the love (?) which caused them to defy conventions and morality, which they looked upon as an eternal affinity decreed by God and nature, and not to be denied, no longer existed. The monotony and common-places of ordinary married life had killed this love, which was so great that they were willing to sacrifice everything to it. In less than three weeks.

Probably you know most of these facts. They were chronicled widely enough. I am merely relating them for those who did not chance to read them, and recalling them for those who did. In the words I have quoted, I think Louise Suydam Noble preached a powerful sermon as any minister ever gave. For the minister tells us that the wages of sin is death, because that is what he believes. She tells us that because she knows. She had received that wages, and more than that—"a Hell on earth."

In an ordinary married life, where the marriage is between two people who love each other dearly, where there is a reasonable degree of prosperity, where there are many friends and many interests and activities to add to the happiness of both parties, there is, nevertheless, much stress and strain upon the affection that these two feel. There are times when which irritate the little cage of married life grow irksome, that are days when one wears upon the other, there are moments when tempers flare up and things are said that should not be. Now tell me, if there is all this stress and strain in normal married life where there is everything to favor happiness, what will there be in that union, which, by defying conventions, has thrown away standing and friends and the joys of a lawful respected domestic hearth with happy children about it, and very likely material prosperity to boot?

In every married life, the lovers' love, in which passion is a prime element, must gradually change. The love may become the affection of habit which one feels for anyone with whom he lives. It may cool into something little more than mutual suzerainty. It may degenerate into actual dislike. It may develop into sweet and enduring friendship and tenderness, which to me is the most beautiful love on earth. What chance is there for this happy outcome in a marriage like that of Louise Suydam and her affinity?

"Affinity," Earle couldn't live with his first wife because he decided they weren't mated. He broke up his home and made his little child fatherless to go to his "affinity." Julia Kuttner, whom he said was his true soul mate. In about ten years she appeared in the divorce courts, testifying that her soul mate choked and beat her. "But, my friend," says Louise Noble, "there comes to all of us sometimes the knowledge that the law and religion are right. What they say shall not do—that we cannot do without suffering."

To any man or woman who is tempted to defy convention in any way and set up a higher (?) standard of morality for herself or himself, I commend these words of Louise Suydam Noble. You may not believe ministers, or friends, or your family. You may say they are theorizing. You must believe her. She knew. God help her.

skyscraper office building to replace their present headquarters at the corner of Wall and Nassau Streets, opposite the Stock Exchange and the sub-treasury. It is said the Morgan firm has just completed the purchase of property with a frontage of 83 feet on Wall Street and 113 feet on Broad Street, which has heretofore been in the hands of the Drexels. The plot is considered the most valuable piece of its size in New York. Real estate men estimate its market value at nearly $1,000 a square foot. At $1,000 a square foot it would be worth about $9,000,000. Anthony Drexel bought a part of it in 1872 for $250,000.

Taking Ancestral Portraits.

The most tragic form of snobbery in a country place is that which concern itself with the tracing of a pedigree. In my travels I came upon a man who confessed that he had made thousands of pounds out of the conceit and snobbishness of folk living in country places, and especially people who happened to possess names of a high-sounding character. His method of work was simple, and only the ultra-snob could be taken in by it. He would glance through a local directory and select a few names of the Fitz-Blank style. A short visit to the town would help him to determine the character of the person—a snob is easily distinguished—and he would return to his place and write that he had come into the possession of a portrait which he had every reason to believe was that of an ancestor of Mr. Fitz-Blank. Their would be a few quaint hieroglyphics on the back of the canvases showing that the original was a native of the town in which Mr. Fitz-Blank was residing. In nine cases out of ten that picture sold at a price which meant a profit of 100 per cent. to the dealer after he had paid the little Italian artist, who turned out the pictures by the dozen. In many a country-house to-day there is a fine old full-length portrait of an ancestor which was painted in a murky studio somewhere down Whitechapel way.—London Saturday Journal.

Pneumonia from a Cold

PNEUMONIA is second only to consumption in the number of deaths which it causes, and like consumption always has its beginning with a cold. Cold in the head, fever and chills, a cough which gradually becomes dry and more painful in the chest, rapid difficult breathing, feelings of exhaustion and depression—these are symptoms of pneumonia. You can prevent and cure pneumonia by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, the greatest of all treatments for the throat and lungs. The only safe way is to regard every cold as serious. By frequent doses of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine you can quickly break up the cold and guard against dangerous developments. 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmansoa Baes & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, March 14. The Coal Conference resumed its sessions in the Foreign Office today. The period of general discussion has obviously ended, and unless the disputants are in a position to give definite replies to Premier Asquith's proposals, as a basis for the continuation of negotiations, compulsory legislation must follow. The pangs of hunger are already affecting tens of thousands of workers, as the factories cannot be run without fuel, and their families have to rely on their savings or the small strike pay. The greatest sufferers are the families of those men who have no trades' unions' fund to fall back on. The magnitude of the strike is almost inconceivable. Over 4,000,000 are directly affected, and the national life is paralyzed. Food prices have gone up and fuel is unobtainable, whilst shipping and every branch of industry is held up.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, March 14. A most serious strike disturbance is reported from Haydock in Lancashire. A crowd of strikers from the Earlestown district first went to the pit with the object of preventing the firemen from filling the tube with coal. They were driven away by the police. The strikers then went to the Prince's pit, and after doing some damage, returned to Wood pit, to the number of 1,000. Forty policemen were met with a fusillade of stones. Three policemen were injured and taken to hospital. The police finally were able to flank the crowd, but were unable to arrest any. Additional police have been sent to Haydock.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, March 14. The Times to-day publishes a special article showing the financial loss inflicted practically on all railways in the Kingdom. Twenty-four companies show a decrease in receipts of $2,500,000. About 85 per cent. of the decrease is due to freight traffic. Some railways in the colliery districts have suffered decreases of more than 70 per cent. It is estimated that since the strike began Britain has lost the sale of 190,000 tons of bunker coal to the world's coaling stations.

Special to Evening Telegram. DUNKERTOWN, Iowa, March 14. Twenty-five were injured, 13 seriously and one fatally, in a wreck on the Chicago and Great Western Railway, three miles east of here this morning.

Time of Election.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Please inform me through the columns of your valuable paper if the people of this country have any right to demand a General Election in the Fall of 1912. Sir Edward Morris says that the elections is to take place in 1913. I do not know what the law has to say in the matter, but I think according to the statutes the Morris Party must go out of power automatically about the first of June 1913. That being so, I think it advisable that a general election be held next Fall. The Spring is not a suitable time for an election, therefore, the proper time would be next Fall, 1912. It would not be wise or even just to the people of this country, to permit the present extravagant party to retain power one minute longer than the law allows. The people of this country never sanctioned such reckless expenditure of public moneys, as that being practiced by the Morris Government, and should be permitted to pronounce upon it at the polls as soon as possible.—Please advise us soon as possible, if we can by any constitutional means bring about a general election in the Fall of 1912. Also, Mr. Editor, we should like to ask if any provision has been made for a revision of the voters list. Yours truly, NORTHERN VOTERS.

Revision of Voters' Lists.

The Leader of the Opposition, Sir Robert Bond, directed the attention of the Government in the House of Assembly some few days ago to the fact that no supply was being asked in the Estimates tabled for the cost of the Revision of the Voters' Lists. He pointed out that the revision should be undertaken this summer, and that provision should be made this session for the cost of it. The Premier, Sir Edward Morris, however, declared that it was not the intention of the Government to have a Revision of the Voters' Lists this summer and that there was no need to make provision for it this session.

This announcement puts the Premier and his colleagues of the Executive Council in an extraordinary position. Is the Premier a dictator who is above the law? Do the members of the Executive Council constitute a political oligarchy, which can disregard a statute laid down for their guidance? The last Revision of Voters' Lists was held in the summer of 1908.

Now, section 9 of the Election Act, 1889, sets forth that:

"At the Courts of General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, to be held in the several districts of this island at such times and places as the Governor shall, by his Proclamation appoint, the Justices at such Sessions shall, once in every four years, make out lists of all the inhabited places within their respective districts, and shall assign to each of such Justices within such district a particular division thereof, within which such Justices shall act in procuring and revising the lists required by this chapter; and such Justices shall give orders or instructions in writing to such persons as they may appoint to make out alphabetical lists, according to the form of schedule A to this chapter, of all persons entitled to vote at any election of a member of the House of Assembly, who reside at such places or within such limits as such Justices may, by such orders or instructions, assign to such persons respectively, and of all persons who shall claim to be inserted in such lists. Every person so appointed, before entering upon such duties, shall be sworn faithfully to perform the same before any Justice of the Peace."

It will be observed that a duty is imposed upon the Governor personally of issuing a Proclamation for making and revising Voters' Lists once in every four years. Under the Statute the Governor must issue a Proclamation shortly for the making and revision of Voters' Lists this summer. But his Ministers, speaking through the Prime Minister, decline to bring in the vote of supply to enable the Governor to carry out his statutory duty in regard to the electors of the country, and decline, too, even after this obligation has been pointed out to them by the Leader of the Opposition.

Chief Steward Wright, of the Sagona, while the ship was beset by the stormy weather which we noted yesterday, was hurled down the companionway and pretty badly hurt about the side and legs. The cook was also considerably hurt by a fall down the companionway. Mr. Wright had about twenty pounds sterling worth of clothes destroyed. Chief Engineer Forbes also lost most of his belongings, which were washed overboard. Some of the men, including the chief steward, did not remove their clothing from the time they left Dundee until they arrived in port.

A Peculiar Happening.

A peculiar happening was noticed at Portugal Cove yesterday when thousands of haddock swam in there through a lake of water in the ice. The climate being intensely cold the fish perished and floated on the surface; all the people of the place went out after them and secured from 1 to 2 qtls. each. The fish are of large size, and never before did anything of the kind occur at the Cove.

Where is the Policeman?

When the streets are all deserted at night, and the last gay reveller has zig-zagged to his home, where are the police?

This question is often asked by the respectable night-bird who has walking home from the ball, without encountering a single member of the force. It is common experience that after midnight very few police are to be seen. Yet Scotland Yard will tell us that there are more than twice as many constables on the beat at night than there are in the daytime. Where are they?

I asked this question of an inspector the other day, and received the answer, "It is not the business of the police to be seen, but to see!" Then he went on to tell me that a certain peer had gone home—in a perfectly sober and wide-awake condition—from Westminster to the suburbs one night in the small hours. Next day he complained to the Commissioner that he had not seen a single policeman all the way, and added some caustic remarks about the unprotected state of the streets at night.

The fact is that the night policeman deliberately keeps out of the way of the passer-by. It is his duty to see what he is up to, and this is best accomplished if he himself is not noticed. So he steps into the shadow of a porch or other convenient shelter and keeps his eyes open.

The other night I went out in pursuit of knowledge about two o'clock and carefully looked up and down the street. Not a policeman was to be seen. Then I strolled across to a low wall which would have given convenient access to some gardens behind the houses, and stood looking at it for a minute. When I turned to go away there was a policeman standing a couple of yards behind me. He made no remark, but he was careful to follow me home; and then I found he was wearing silent boots.

When the streets are quiet, about one in the morning, the night policeman examines the doors and windows, and then sets his marks on any doors, low walls, and the like that offer opportunities to the enterprising burglar. These are so contrived that each time he passes on his beat he can see if anything has been moving. Some of them are so delicate that even the passing of an amorous cat will leave its record. Then he resigns himself to a monotonous tramp from one end of his beat to the other, and creeps in the shadows if he hears anyone coming.

It is an easy matter to put the thing to the test. Abot two in the morning—preferably when it is a little foggy—put on an old jacket, muffle your throat in a scarf, pull a tweed cap well over your forehead, and then go out carrying a large bag filled with coal or anything else that is heavy.

You will not get very far before you will be pounced upon by a policeman, who will prove very inquisitive about the bag. You will probably spend the rest of the night in the cells while they make inquiry about you, but you will be released all right in the morning if nothing is known against you. But if you have ever been in trouble before, the consequences will be awkward.

The experiment may be varied by hanging about in the small hours round a house that is worth burgling. Then you will gain useful knowledge of the methods pursued when a man is charged with "loitering with intent to commit a felony."

The streets of the metropolis are well watched at night, and the watching is all the more effectual for not being noticeable.—The Watch Dog.

White Coats Taken.

The Postal Telegraphs received the following message at noon to-day:—"Men shooting at Cobler's Rock, near Cape Frels, yesterday took 130 white coats; report seeing thousands of old seals. Three steamers sighted outside well on track of seals."

Hurt by Fall.

Mr. James Wood, of Goodridge's employe, while running down over Lime Street to the scene of the fire on Monday night slipped and fell and was hurt so severely that he had to be assisted home. It is feared that one of his ribs is broken, and he sent for Dr. Tait for treatment to-day.

Removing Walls.

To-day Mr. S. Garrett has a staff of masons and helpers engaged removing the front wall of the central store of the Collins building. It was in a bad state and to leave it so would be dangerous for people passing that way.

Training For Business

Mr. H. Hirst, chairman and managing director of the General Electric Company (Limited), says in the Standard that university men of good education, good social standing, and willing to work are wanted in business for highly paid positions, and that they cannot be got in sufficient numbers, has aroused keen interest and much comment in business circles.

Sir Edward H. Holden, chairman and managing director of the London City and Midland Bank, does not entirely agree with Mr. Hirst's views regarding the need for the university man.

"Put Mr. Hirst's ideal university man by the side of the 'business educated' young man in any commercial house in London at twenty-two years of age. The university man is ignorant of business, the other is an expert."

PATIENTS FOR HOSPITAL.—Mrs. Wm. Brien, of Topsail Road, and Miss Jesse Emberley, of St. John's, both ill of some internal disease, go to the General Hospital to-day. Jonathan Sheppard, of Spaniard's Bay, arrived by to-day's train. He is very ill and was taken to Hospital by Mr. Ell. Whiteway.

WILL BE SUMMONED.—A couple of nights ago a resident of the west end came home intoxicated and attempted to beat his wife who had to fly to a neighbour's house. He followed her and kicked in the door breaking the panelling. He will be summoned for damages. Some of the west end wife beaters should receive similar treatment.

President F. P. U.

CONTOVERTS TORY FALSEHOODS.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Permit me space to reply to the statement made in this morning's editorial of the Daily News regarding a Bond-Cooker coalition. The article in question states that I announced last evening the collapse of the F. P. U. movement and its absorption by the Bond Party. Editor Robinson knows full well that the statement is false, for I said no such thing. The talk of the collapse of the F. P. U. by the organ of the Morris Government is a case of a Morris wish being father to a Tory thought. It is further manifestly absurd in face of the fact which every citizen of St. John's is aware that on Tuesday last the F. P. U. had the biggest parade and the largest meeting of representative men from most of the districts of the island ever held in St. John's. So much for the falsehood of the Tory declaration that the F. P. U. has collapsed. Now as to the other matter. The F. P. U. has not been absorbed by the Liberal Party, nor will it be absorbed by the Liberal Party. It will remain an independent organization. Does Editor Robinson contend that the Irish Party and the Labor Party have been absorbed by the Liberal Party at home because they have decided to support, and are supporting to-day, the Asquith Government, in order to obtain the legislation they have set their minds upon? The F. P. U. is in a similar position. They desire to put an end to wild extravagance, land grabbing, soft jobs to incompetent hoelers, and want a Government which will make the lot of the toilers easier, and to do this they have set forth a programme of reforms, and the F. P. U. must look to one party or the other and therefore to the party from which it can obtain what it wants.

What I stated yesterday I repeat to-day. The Government's conduct towards the F. P. U. during the last three years and their management of public affairs, especially regarding land grabbing and general extravagance is sufficient to invite the F. P. U. to consider the advisability of inviting Sir R. Bond to become their political leader and thereby place themselves in the position to meet such attacks as those encountered in to-day's News and Chronicle. I can assure Sir E. P. Morris that the F. P. U. don't intend to be insulted with impunity by his organs, or to permit his organs to insult outport sealers again as has been done by the two Tory papers to-day.

I have no idea as to whether Sir Robert Bond would entertain such a proposal. But if such an arrangement comes about, the Government have no one to blame but themselves and their own conduct. The attempt made by the Tory party and the Tory press to destroy the influence of the Fishermen's Union, its leader and its organ, the letter of Mr. Morrison to the News and Chronicle on the Liberal Suits, the attacks on the F. P. U. demonstration and mass meeting by the Government organs and hoelers afford ample ground for the F. P. U. to take up the matter. The President, however, has no authority to make any coalition, but he has a right to submit any suggestion to the Council for decision. I venture to assert that if a coalition was agreed to, between the Union and the Liberal Party, that the question of what would become of the present Government would be a foregone conclusion.

Yours truly,
W. F. COAKER,
President F. P. U.

Last Night's Discourse.

The lecture given by the Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan last night in the T. A. Hall on the "Life of Fr. Matthew," in aid of St. Bonaventure's new wing, was largely attended. The Premier, Sir Edward Morris, presided, and beside him on the platform were Messrs. M. W. Furlong, F. J. Morris and Rev. Bro. Culhane, Superior of St. Bon's. The Rev. lecturer was introduced by the Chairman and for two hours kept the closest attention of his hearers, delivering one of the most interesting, impressive and fluent addresses listened to for some time. Reviewing the labors of the apostle of temperance from the early ages, in learned and comprehensive style he related some striking instances of Fr. Matthew's generosity. Particular emphasis was paid to an incident which occurred at Dublin when he was arrested for non-payment for temperance medals, he having given all his funds away to charity. General indignation was excited amongst every persuader and he was liberated by the funds collected by public subscription, the leader of this movement being a Protestant, Sir John Russell. At the conclusion of the lecture a vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. M. W. Furlong, K.C., on behalf of all interested in the St. Bon's movement, and was carried unanimously.

Who Are the Masters?

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Who are the masters in this unfortunate country of ours to-day—the Reid Nfd. Co. or the people? Such a question must have but one answer. It is quite plain that the Morris gang, who are supposed to represent the people and to sit in the chair of authority, have ignominiously, ignominiously, and in a most reprehensible manner, abdicated their position of authority in favor of the Railway Contractors. A few days ago Sir Robert Bond asked that all correspondence between the Government Engineer and the Reid Newfoundland Co., re the railway tie-up, be laid on the table of the House. When the copies of the correspondence were laid on the table some days afterwards, it was found to be one-sided. There were 39 letters in all, and these from the Government Engineer to the Reid Newfoundland Company, with no replies from the latter whatsoever. Does not this plainly show that the Railway Contractors are the Masters? They can with impunity utterly ignore the correspondence of the Government. Sir Edward Morris in trying to squeeze out of the hole now says that no letters passed between the Engineer and Contractors; they were simply orders and required no replies. This makes matters worse still, and would go to show that the Government authorities did not interest themselves so much as to demand of the Contractors an explanation of why the trains were not running.

The present Government is rather too thick with the Contractors for the public good. They are not in a position to demand of the Reids other than the Reids themselves chose to do.

The Morris Party have simply tied themselves, as independent factors, to the Messrs. Reid in their acceptance of a gift of Sanatoria. Whatever spark of independence or of authority might have remained with them they have disgracefully bartered.

There are "soft jobs." The Premier has an eye to that whichever provides or can provide soft jobs for his educated following. The greater and more numerous the avenues of expenditure the better the spendthrift gang appreciate it. The more Sanatoria the more soft jobs, and the more money they will need the greater the appropriation, and the greater the appropriation the better for the educated men (i.e. those holding soft jobs).

Soft Jobs.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—You are slightly in error in speaking of the amount paid to Hon. P. T. McGrath for the making of speeches for certain Ministers of the Government. The amount should read $355.40 (three hundred and fifty-five dollars and forty cents). It is said about town that Mr. McGrath is the maker-general of speeches for Ministers. It is plain, Mr. Editor, that all of Sir Edward's soft job holders are not educated men.

Churchill's Naval Policy.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.

It looks as though Churchill will have to rely upon the Unionist support to carry out his policy concerning Germany's comprehensive naval programme. He admits in fact though not in words the principle of two British keels to every new German keel. The Radical section and Ministerial press are expressing unflinching hostility; the Radicals and Laborites are also working every possible influence against Churchill's policy. The Pall Mall Gazette says: "Our anxieties for the future are little relieved and if we mistake not these anxieties are shared by Churchill himself. Unless the big programme is again brought forward next year and pressed rapidly to completion we shall in the spring of 1915 in ratio have 3 ships to 2 of the next strongest power, and our absolute supremacy will have departed and we shall be unable to grapple with the emergency however urgent in any distant part of the world without weakening to a dangerous extent our defence and home seas. The Mother Country will shrink from no sacrifice in warding off this perilous threat to our imperial existence. She will use her resources to the last, but if imperial unity stands for more than a mere phrase the time has come for the daughter States to range themselves firmly by her side. A hint from them will do more than ought else to show our rivals the futility of their endeavor to wrest the trident from our fist, and will be cheap in the long run whatever it cost."

The following telegram was received from Boston Wednesday by Rev. Mr. Hewitt the Anglican pastor of Petty Hr: "My brother John was lost overboard from the 'Muriel' on February 4th. Please break the news to my mother, Mrs. Samuel Chafe, as fear the sudden shock to her of the letter of his death which his captain has written her." (Sgd.) Clara Chafe, the signer of the message is a daughter of Mrs. Chafe who was a resident in Boston some time. John Chafe the deceased, was a fine able young fellow who only left his home at Petty Hr. last fall and went fishing out of Boston. It is thought he was washed overboard from the vessel. Mr. Hewitt broke the melancholy news to the parents. A brother and sister also mourn the deceased at Petty Hr.

Goodland, the President of the Society, read a most interesting paper on "Traditional Beliefs and Legends," which kept his hearers interested from start to finish. The paper was illustrated by numerous stories of folklore, which showed very great research. Songs and recitations were contributed by Messrs. F. Bussey and W. Tucker, which were well received, and at the close interesting speeches were made by Mr. J. W. Lawrence and W. H. Hynes. A smoker will be held on next Thursday night.

A New Champion

Los Angeles, Feb. 22.—A new featherweight champion was proclaimed here to-day when Johnny Kilbane, of Cleveland, Ohio, clearly out-fought, out-gamed and out-slugged Abe Attell, the hitherto invincible champion. Kilbane's victory was clear-cut and decisive, and came as a surprise, as the fight began with odds of 10 to 4 on Attell, and little Kilbane money in sight. Johnny had the better of all the rounds, with the possible exception of two. He left the ring with one mark over his head. Attell was badly bruised. Nine thousand people witnessed the fight.

OBITUARY.

Yesterday many dear friends were apprised of the death of Mary Grant, wife of James Grant, and daughter of William St. John, an old-time victualer of St. John's West. The deceased lady carried the respect and love of the very many with whom she came in contact. Her kindness and hospitality did not confine itself to any person or creed, but, like a stone-thrown ripple in the water embraced everything within its radius. She represented a type of charity not often met with in these days and which, alas, is becoming rarer every year. Goldsmith's Village Clergyman, with his long-remembered guest, seems to have been her ideal and on her crest might well be written these words: "It is more blessed to give than receive."—R. I. P.—P. C. B.

Light, Warmth and Food.

These three words embrace the most urgent necessities of life, and it is an extraordinary thing that in each case our thoughts turn to Gas; this after all is but natural. We want Light, gas gives us the best, cheapest and healthiest artificial light known. Again, we want Warmth, and the gas fire is at hand to give it in its best form; and, lastly, we must have Food, and here the gas cooker never fails us. All this is absolutely true, as we have shown over and over again. If, however, any of our customers are in the least doubtful on any of these points, we cordially invite them to consult us. In the meantime, our advice is to get good burners and buy makes of well-known makes, to use modern gas stoves and cookers, and, above all, to keep your gas appliances (whether old or new) in good order, for in this lies the true secret of efficiency and complete satisfaction.

The Coal Strike

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.

After the session yesterday of the joint conference of representatives of Government, owners miners adjourned till this morning. The Miners' Executive gave out the resolutions which were adopted prior to the opening of conference and later presented by the Delegates to the Ministers at the joint session. These resolutions in effect state the miners will sanction district negotiations for settlement of rates for peace workers other than coal getters, when owners have conceded minimum rates provided for in schedule drawn up by Miners' Federation with 5 shillings as irreducible minimum for men, 4 shillings for boys. The resolutions indicate that a contrary view was widely held. The miners still insist that the settlement of the strike must be national in scope. This one miner's delegate frankly admitted, "Leaves no ghost of a chance for immediate settlement." Meantime there are indications that English colliers who are in a position to make favorable terms with owners are growing restive. At Sunderland the miners of the neighboring districts met yesterday and protested against continuance of strike. They agreed that Durham lodges should urge members to return to work if a truce was not effected by end of week. In Lanarkshire, Scotland, two pits have been re-opened with non-union miners work.

Sheriff Webb shot dead and several jurors wounded, and Allen the prisoner, was wounded and left in the court room. The murderers escaped to the mountains.

Suicide Case.

Further particulars are to hand of the rash act, under sad circumstances, which occurred at Sound Island, Placentia, on February 15th, as previously referred to in the Telegram, in which Samuel Bailey, a 48 year old resident of that place committed suicide by jumping overboard. Bailey's mind was deranged for three months previous to his death and his strange actions warranted the closest attention and watching of his friends. On the day in question Bailey reached a serious stage of insanity and was being watched by four men. In some unaccountable way he got clear of his guards and immediately ran down to the nearest wharf and jumped overboard. The four men chased him to the pier and succeeded in reaching him in the water, but were unsuccessful in saving him as when he was brought ashore life was extinct. The Insane Man Jumps Over Wharf to Death.

The Minister of Justice Department to-day received the following message from Noah Simms, J.P. of St. Anthony: "Alfred Rice, of Grand-Lier, left his home Wednesday to cut firewood. Not returning at night a search party went out from this place to-day at 3 p.m. His body was found six miles from his own house. Suspected to have died from heart failure."

In the county of Guysborough, on the shore of Country Harbor, there is a town-site laid out after the old-time style in a series of streets running at right angles and enclosing the regulation squares. A few of the streets were cleared and graded, a few partially graded, and the most of them have only a geographical possibility. We do not know whether the location has any name at present or not, but it has a history. Known to all Scotsmen at least is the name of Flora MacDonald, the heroic young maiden who guided Prince Charlie to a place of refuge and eventually saw him safe aboard the ship which carried him to France. In a short time Flora was pardoned by the House of Hanover, and was happily married. Thirty years after the '45 Rebellion, she and her husband took up land in North Carolina, and accompanied by a number of other emigrants, crossed the Atlantic and settled in the New World. Even at that time, the first mutterings of the War of Independence were in the air, and within a few months the "embattled farmers" fired the shot heard round the world at Lexington. Through the efforts of herself and her husband, a regiment named the "North Carolina Fencibles" was raised to aid the Royal cause. After fighting a number of battles the force was killed off, disbanded or taken prisoners, among the prisoners being the husband of the heroine. Flora MacDonald

In the county of Guysborough, on the shore of Country Harbor, there is a town-site laid out after the old-time style in a series of streets running at right angles and enclosing the regulation squares. A few of the streets were cleared and graded, a few partially graded, and the most of them have only a geographical possibility. We do not know whether the location has any name at present or not, but it has a history. Known to all Scotsmen at least is the name of Flora MacDonald, the heroic young maiden who guided Prince Charlie to a place of refuge and eventually saw him safe aboard the ship which carried him to France. In a short time Flora was pardoned by the House of Hanover, and was happily married. Thirty years after the '45 Rebellion, she and her husband took up land in North Carolina, and accompanied by a number of other emigrants, crossed the Atlantic and settled in the New World. Even at that time, the first mutterings of the War of Independence were in the air, and within a few months the "embattled world" at Lexington. Through the efforts of herself and her husband, a regiment named the "North Carolina Pencilers" was raised to aid the Royal cause. After fighting a number of battles the force was killed off, disbanded or taken prisoners, among the prisoners being the husband of the heroine. At length she managed to obtain his freedom and the two returned to Scotland. After the war was over, largely through her influence the British Government made a grant of land and a townsite to the surviving members of the North Carolina Pencilers, together with food supplies, farming and lumbering instruments and free shipment to their new home. This new home was the townsite to which we referred in the beginning. Thither to Country Harbour came the ship and the settlers who manfully started to work at the task of rearing new homes in the wilderness. But the soil was unproductive and the climate was very different from what they had been used to, and so the settlement was rapidly deserted. Some returned to their old home, some crossed over to Britain, but the most of them scattered among the other settlements in Nova Scotia, and a few of them coming to Halifax. Flora and her husband had a hard time of it after their return to Bonnie Scotland, and tradition hath it that she was often heard to say, "I have done muckle for both the House of Stewart and the House of Hanover, and I have been mickle the gainer by either."

Such is the tradition, partly oral and partly written, which connects our provincial history with the life of the romantic maid who saved Bonnie Prince Charlie from his enemies.—Halifax Recorder.

THE FARMER.

The farmer is the only member of the Ancient and Amalgamated Order of Cou-p o n Clippers who works at the trade for a n y length of time. He is the only citizen of this r e p u b l i c who doesn't have to enter the bankruptcy court every $14,000 in liabilities and assets consisting of a second-hand cash register and a Round Oak stove. The farmer lives longer than the editor, because his life is brightened by an occasional square meal. There are other differences, also. The farmer can stand on the four corners and express his opinion of the new Methodist minister with perfect impunity, but if the editor suggests that the aforesaid minister is a victim of mental paralysis, an outraged congregation will make his subscription list look like a scal sieve. The old-fashioned farmer who used to get up at 4 A.M. and guide the erring footsteps of a corn plow until dark, is now a painful reminiscence. Few farmers stay on the farm after they are fifty, preferring to move to town and loan money to the banks. They are thus able to look every man in the face, and invite him to seek a warm, moist climate in case an argument arises. The farmer used to vote the way his father did, but he is getting over it. He is also getting over the habit of throwing large rolls of currency into propositions that promise 100 per cent. dividends the first year. The cartoonist who portrays the farmer in chin whiskers and cowhide boots, ought to get off Main street once a year and wise up. The new brand of farmer rides around in an automobile, smokes ten-cent cigars, and lives in a house that makes the ordinary town residence look like a portable corn crib. He is the real autocrat of this republic.

PASSED ST. PIERRE.—Wednesday afternoon three sealing steamers passed St. Pierre. It is believed they were the Kite, Floydson and Southern Cross.

Detective's Good Work.

Detectives Byrne and Tobin did more than ordinarily smart work in rounding up the females who had been stealing ladies' coats and other articles from hallways. These thefts extended over a period of 12 months and were so secretly performed that all attempts to get at the thieves were futile until Saturday last. The officers patiently waited and watched all this time. They had minute descriptions of the ladies' coats stolen, and saw a young woman wearing one which was very much like one of the missing articles. She was quietly followed to her home and politely asked where she had bought it from a woman. The person who originally owned the coat was shown it and it was then discovered that it had been stolen by the woman who wore it, from the owner's house on Springdale St. Matters affecting the theft of the coats were then gleaned from the culprit whose mother was visited and she was seen to be wearing a coat stolen from the hallway of a resident of the corner of Gower and Victoria Streets. The woman said her daughter had given her the coat. Warrants were then procured and the house of a friend of this woman was searched and there a coat stolen from a resident of Charlton Street, 4 months ago, was found and identified. Three coats were then found in the house of a friend of the guilty mother and daughter and all concerned then admitted to the systematic stealing of the apparel, and the prisoners were given their deserts in Court. Both detectives deserve credit for their painstaking attention to and clearing up the larcenies.

Men Working Rather Hard.

During the past few days men who reside off Barter's Hill and on the higher levels have been going to the woods and bringing to the city firewood which they haul out on catamarans. The men work hard in this respect but are compelled to do so as labor is scarce and they are not gifted with much cash. They are constituents of the Premier's and do not forget the fact that he recently drew $12,000 to pay himself partly for the trip he had to Washington, London and the Hague, while money is being spent in a most prodigal manner for the wording of speeches and sops to political heelers and Government parasites. Disgust is expressed on all sides at the wanton waste of public monies, and people do not wonder that they are groaning under taxation and cannot afford themselves, like the unfortunate men alluded to above, fuel or the bare necessities of life. These people, however, are only waiting the chance to hurl the present horde of grafters from power and give Mr. Morris his Waterloo in St. John's West at the next election.

Southern Shore Notes.

A young man named Byrne, of Briggs South, has entered a seminary in Canada to enter upon the novitiate in the Order of the Christian Bros.

Rev. Fr. Ravlins is doing excellent work at Cape Broyle and has erected many new school buildings in the diocese, he being deeply interested in education.

A resident of Renew's while cutting wood there recently gave himself a bad gash with the axe he used. But for Mr. Edstrom he might have bled to death. He rendered first aid and kept the life current from flowing too freely until Dr. Freebairn arrived.

Rev. Fr. Walsh, of Renew's, will soon make alterations and additions to his parochial residence, which will be a great improvement.

The brass band formed at Renew's has greatly improved under the tuition of Prof. Power, of St. John's, who is now there. The band discourses excellent music in a very capable manner.

Not for 40 years has there been so much snow and frost on the Southern Shore, and the cut of wood for fuel and building purposes was therefore necessarily shorter than usual.

Bellaventure Was First.

Much conjecture was rife yesterday afternoon as to which of the steel ships took the lead going down the shore. Passing Cape St. Francis the ships could scarcely be made out plainly, but the general opinion was that the Bellaventure was in advance of the others. Last evening Hon. M. Winter had a message from Capt. Bonavista saying that the ships passed there in the following order: Bellaventure, Bonaventure, Florizel, Adventure, Nascope, Beothic. The Stephano was not sighted and it is presumed took a different course than the others.

M.C.L.I. Debate.

Examination System Condemned. A large and enthusiastic gathering attended the M. C. L. I. debate last night, the subject being of exceptional interest. "Is the average child better equipped for life's duties by the competitive examination process by which it is educated?"

The Rev. M. Fenwick opened the debate for the affirmative and dwelt chiefly on the meaning of the words "average" and "competitive" claiming that education was good and necessary and tended to develop the best in man.

Mr. Winsor followed showing that our present system had produced good men.

The third speaker on the affirmative was Mr. Davis who is to be congratulated on his maiden speech; he dwelt principally on the value of competition.

Mr. R. A. Squires, M. H. A., led off for the negative and made some telling points against our present examination system. The chief points being that:—The individuality of the scholar was lost, and that marks and school honours seemed to be the highest goal, that cramming was very much in evidence, that the average child was neglected, attention being centered on the brightest children, that the system generally did not produce men and women who were well equipped for life's duties.

Mr. W. White was the second speaker on the negative. He showed that the trend of public opinion abroad was setting strongly against the examination system. The Dean of St. Paul's stated at a meeting of head masters in London, January last, that boys were pursued by the "demon of examinations." He also quoted T. P. O'Connor, Count Leo Tolstol, Bernard Shaw, Dr. Montessori, etc., as being against the present system. The Montessori System as outlined in "World's Work" Magazine (Feb.) demonstrates great progress in educational ideas, the examination process being entirely eliminated, children are trained according to the senses, natural inclinations alone being the guide; so successful has this system become that last June the Government of Switzerland abolished the examination system and established the Montessori System in all the public schools; many other nations are sending teachers to train so as to take up the work.

Mr. George Roberts was the next speaker who spoke strongly against the present system. Children are compelled to learn a lot of subjects which are entirely useless to them when starting in life.

A large number of speakers took part in the general debate which was almost altogether against the present system. Several strongly condemned "home lessons" as a heavy mental burden on the child and a source of great worry and annoyance to the parents who in many cases have to teach the lessons so that the children may be examined in same next day.

Mr. S. Whiteway made a strong plea for training along the line of natural endowments, especially after the age of 14 years.

The debate was very largely one-sided and showed that public opinion as represented by the M. C. L. I. is not in favour of the present examination system.

Lenten Recital.

The Lenten Recital held last night under the auspices of the Daughters of the Empire, at the Methodist College Hall, was attended by a very large and appreciative audience.

The following splendid programme was rendered and needless to say was thoroughly enjoyed by all present:—
 1.—Organ Solo, Offertoire in D; Bapist—Mr. A. Mews.
 2.—Solo, Ave Maria (Italian Luigi Luzzi)—Miss D'Alberti.
 3.—Solo, "It is Enough" (from Elijah)—Mr. Ruggles.
 4.—Vocal Duet, The Crucifix. Faure—The Misses Strang.
 5.—Piano Solo, Rhapsodie Hongroise, Liszt.—Miss Rogers.
 6.—Reading, "The End of the Task," Bruno Lessing—Miss Flora Cur-tis.
 7.—Vocal Solo, "The Better Land," Cowen—Mrs. W. C. Job.
 8.—Violin Solo, "Andante," Beethoven.—Miss S. Johnson.
 9.—Solo, "Ave Maria," Gounod—Mrs. KING.

Violin Obligato—Miss Johnson; Piano Miss Rogers; Organ—Mr. King. Misses D'Alberti and Rogers and Mrs. W. C. Job had to respond to encores. Miss Rogers is a daughter of Rev. Dr. Rogers, Pastor of Gower St. Church, and this was her first appearance on the concert platform and her manipulation of the piano displayed her ability as a musician. Mrs. Job and Miss D'Alberti as was to be expected acquitted themselves well, and Mr. Ruggles who also was encored beautifully sang, "Lord God of Abraham." Miss Johnson's violin solo and the vocal efforts of Mrs. King and the Misses Strang were deservedly applauded. Miss Curtis reading received great praise, and her ability as an elocutionist was fully demonstrated. Messrs. King and Mews contributed in no small degree to the success of the recital.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

When death is near, and I am at last facing the mystery which chills the heart of men, will memories of all my money chasing bring to my soul a gentle peace again? Will mortgages and stocks and bonds and leases dispel the gloom that daunts my dying CONSOLATION eyes? Will bank books help, or teach me what true peace is, or light the waters, where death's river sighs? Will comfort come from him who yearly pays me the interest on bonds or farms or ores? Will money bribe the carman who conveys me o'er sobbing waves to undiscovered shores? When death is near, and I must go sailing from scenes I love, across uncharted seas, and friends stand near, some cheering and some walling, some saying to me, "Now, look pleasant, please," my heart will find no comfort in my riches, but in the thought that every now and then I've helped some fallen pilgrims from the ditches, and that I always loved my fellowmen.

Gone to the Wall And Through It!

To meet the demands of our rapidly increasing business we are compelled to make extensive alterations to our store. To enable us to do this without inconveniencing our customers, we have decided to close our Store for 14 days.

When we have completed these alterations our Store will be second to none in the city. This will enable us to stock a larger range of Up-To-Date Gents' Furnishings, which up to the present we were unable to do, through lack of space.

We thank our numerous patrons for the excellent support they have given us since we started the K. & A. STORE, and hope that when we re-open that Bright little Store on the Corner, it will be just as popular as ever.

We remain, yours faithfully,
