WARLIKE PREPARATIONS.

France, Germany and Italy Reported to be Getting Ready.

THE IRISH ANTI-RENT MOVEMENT.

Parnell Expected to Repudiate the "Plan of Campaign"—Dillon Defiant

SNOW BLOCKADES IN GERMANY.

Comment on the Great London Scandal—The Russian Agent at Constantinople Playing on the Sultan's Superstition—Miscellaneous Foreign Intelligence.

London, Dec. 21, midnight.

Another Revolt.

Rumors are current at Madrid that revolutionary agitators are projecting another revolt. The Senate has approved a credit of $45,000,000 for naval armaments.

Dillon's Case.

The court at Dublin to-day refused John Dillon's application for a stay of proceedings and required him to furnish bonds for his future good behavior pending an appeal.

The German Military Bill.

It is reported at Berlin that on the re-assembly of the Reichstag a letter from Emperor William will be read declaring it to be the duty of the members to support the Military Bill.

Parnell's Illness.

Friends of Mr. Parnell say that his illness has been of a very serious nature, and that for several weeks he was in a dangerous condition. When able to actively resume work he will convene the Irish party members.

The Berlin Boerse.

The feeling of alarm on the Berlin Boerse is abating. The tendency to-day was decidedly hopeful. Buyers took courage and all pressure to sell disappeared. Foreign stocks rose ¼ per cent. and Prussian consols ¼ per cent.

The Bulgarian Throne.

The Journal de St. Petersburg says Russia's refusal to accept the candidacy of Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha for the Bulgarian throne, is not due to personal objections, the Prince enjoying general esteem at St. Petersburg.

Gunmakers for the Czar.

Advices from Prague say that Russian agents there and in other parts of Bohemia are engaging gunmakers for Russian factories, which have urgent contracts to fulfil. The workmen, it is said, are offered higher wages than those they now receive.

Murder at Armagh.

At Armagh to-day a party of men called at the house of John Proctor and asked to see Proctor's son, aged 23 years. When the son appeared the men stabbed him to death on the door step. Two of the assassins were arrested. The motive for the crime is unknown.

Snow Blockades in Germany.

Heavy snow-storms in Central Germany have blocked the railway lines between Berlin and Dresden, Halle and Leipsic. The lines to Silesia and the west are partially blocked. To night snow continues falling throughout Saxony. In Thuringia several passenger trains are snowed up.

The Irish Leaders.

The collection of rents by trustees in Ireland is proceeding quietly, as the police do not seem able to find the rent offices. Mr. Parnell may approve of the "plan of campaign," although the relations between the Irish leader and his followers has never been less harmonious. Dillon and Parnell are not on speaking terms.

"Labby's" Views.

Mr. Labouchere, in a speech at Northampton this evening, said he regarded the Nationalist "plan of campaign" as simply the application of the trades' union principle legalized in England to industry in Ireland, in order to enforce the right of workers to sufficient produce of their toil to enable them to live and thrive.

The Duke of Leinster's Tenants.

The tenants of the Duke of Leinster, in County Kildare, Ireland, have met again and modified their demand for a reduction in rents, asking now for twenty instead of twenty-five per cent. reduction. The tenants have also joined in a request that the Duke's tenants at Athy be given the benefit of the purchase clauses of the Land Act.

Warlike Preparations.

Uneasiness is felt at Paris over the rapidity with which the Government is working to place the armament of France in the most complete condition possible. It is stated that manufactories of arms and ammunition are all being worked to their utmost capacity. It is reported at Paris that Italy is arming and that Germany is increasing her troops in Alsace-Lorraine.

Working on the Sultan's Superstition.

A Vienna newspaper states that besides the free distribution of money to gain Russian ends in Turkey, the Russian ambassador at Constantinople has obtained strong influence over the imperial fortune teller. This person possesses the greatest influence in the palace, and is consulted by the Sultan daily. The effect of Russian control of this personage's advice to the Sultan will probably counterbalance all other influences that can be brought to bear on the Porte. Enlightened Mussulmans complain bitterly of the Sultan's superstition.

Dillon Defiant.

At the regular fortnightly meeting of the Executive Committee of the Irish National League at Dublin to-day it was announced that since last meeting there had been received in donations from Ireland, $2,700; from America, $25,000. John Dillon said he would continue to carry on the plans of campaign in defiance of the Government. "Nobody," he said, "has a right to say the 'plan of campaign' is illegal until a jury has decided on the facts." Mr. Dillon also said the leaders of the new movement desire to benefit the tenants in Ireland without the assistance of the moonlighters.

The London Scandal.

The result of the Campbell divorce case was generally anticipated, but the verdict was awaited with intense interest last night. To-day it monopolizes conversation. There are two comments on all sides—severe condemnation of Gen Butler for not entering the witness box, and the most unsparing denunciations of the character of Lord Colin Campbell. On the last point everybody is agreed. It would be impossible to exaggerate the severity of their views. So great has been the scandal caused by the publication of the testimony in detail in the Evening Standard and Evening News, that some legislation is almost certain to result with a view to prevent this practice so far as is consistent with the ends of justice. An application last Saturday for an order to prevent the Evening News from reporting, verbatim, the counsel's speeches, on the ground that they were not privileged, and constituted obscene libels failed, although the Judge intimated that had it been made at the beginning of the trial he would have been inclined to grant it. At an early stage of the proceedings the St James' Gazette and the Pall Mall Gazette cut down the reports to their barest outline.

From the Congo Country.

Capt. Coquilhot, Chief of Bangala, a station in the Congo Free State, who is at Brussels on a visit, confirms the report that Lieut. Dubois was drowned in the River Congo while retreating from Stanley Falls Station. The evacuation of the place by the whites, Capt. Coquilhot attributes to a short supply of ammunition. The captain reports that after the unsuccessful attempt of himself and party to retake Stanley Falls from the ascent to which he was driven by ambush firing by the Arabs along the river banks, he punished the Arabs severely at Seeparra. Capt. Coquilhot does not believe that the capture of Stanley Falls station is the prelude to an Arab descent on the Lower Congo, and says there is plenty of time to bar the passage of the Arabs should they attempt such a move, and to retake the Falls station.

Parnell and the "Plan."

The Dublin Express (Tory) says an influential wirepuller belonging to the Gladstonian section of the Liberals was recently asked what he expected from Parnell. He replied that he expected Parnell to repudiate the "plan of campaign" and to induce Catholic clergymen of Ireland to withdraw support from the plan forthwith. "Otherwise," he added, "we are ruined, and will be powerless and in a ridiculous position when Parliament meets."

Cable Notes.

Lord Napier has been appointed Constable of the Tower.

The Hova Government has recalled General Willoughby, the Malagassy Agent in Europe.

The French Trans-Atlantic Co.'s steamer Mahommed Ladeck has been wrecked on rocks at Point Vendres. No lives lost.

A company is about to be started in London to supply steamers with gas manufactured from crude petroleum for fuel instead of coal.

The Spanish Government has dispatched officials to establish a settlement at the mouth of the Muni River, on the west coast of Africa.

The Hovas have paid 400,000 francs war indemnity due France under the terms of the Treaty of Peace, and the evacuation of Tamatave by the French is imminent.

At the Connaught Assizes to-day the prisoners accused of assaulting Bailiffs on the Clanricarde estate at Woodford were found guilty. Sentence was deferred.

Three farms belonging to Mr. Parnell's brother John was sold at auction to day in Armagh for 50 per cent. less than the sum at which they were valued three months ago.

The German steamer Marsala, at Hamburgh, from New York, has been in collision with the German steamer Massalia. Both steamers were damaged above the water line.

Bishop O'Dwyer, of the Catholic Diocese of Limerick, replying to-day to an address from the Limerick Corporation, said he thought it was his duty to restrain the ardor of the reformers, not to stimulate them.

An application made in London on behalf of the Treasury for criminal information against the Evening News for publishing obscene testimony in the Campbell case, resulted in the dismissal of the Government application.

The Berlin Deutsches Tagblatt rejoices over the rapid growth of German influence in Japan. It announces that the German Consul at St. Petersburgh has been appointed Household Minister and Chief Master of Ceremonies at the Tokio Court.

M. De Brazza's departure for the French Congo country has been postponed pending the action of the Chamber of Deputies on the proposed modification of the budget estimate for the Congo account. M. De Brazza says he will resign if the estimate is reduced.

The Admiral and officers of the German Squadron at Zanzibar paid a formal visit to the Sultan without consulting the German Consul. The latter has appealed to Bismarck to censure the Admiral. The Consul's relations with the Sultan continue unfriendly. The Sultan accorded the Admiral a hearty reception.

Fell with the Scaffolding.

Guelph, Dec 21.—A serious accident happened at Kennedy & Sons' lime works here to-day. A new kiln is being built and the scaffolding erected around it gave way under the heavy load it was carrying, precipitating seven men to the ground amidst the debris. Four of them escaped with a few bruises, but Mr. Kennedy, his son and James Davidson did not fare so well. Mr. Kennedy, jun., was buried under about three tons of stone, and it was some time before he was extricated, in an unconscious state. He is seriously cut and bruised about the head and body, and his injuries may prove fatal. Mr Kennedy, sr., and James Davidson were badly cut and bruised, but nothing serious is expected to result from their injuries.

DISASTER ON A RUSSIAN RAILWAY.

Indications of a Better Feeling Between Germany and Russia.

A FAMILY ASPHYXIATED.

Count Herbert Bismarck Advises the Bulgarians to Reach an Understanding with Russia.

London, Dec. 20, midnight.

Six Lives Lost.

Six persons were killed by a boiler explosion in the town of Locco, Lombardy, to-day.

Shipwreck and Loss of Life.

The steamship Llanelly, sailing from Liverpool, has foundered at Holyhead. Twelve persons were drowned.

Russian Railway Disaster.

A terrible railway collision occurred at Charkow, Russia, on Saturday, resulting in the killing of 13 persons and the injuring of 30 others.

Herbert Bismarck's Advice.

Count Herbert Bismarck, at the reception of the Bulgarian deputation yesterday, advised the Bulgarians to reach an understanding with Russia.

Disappointment.

The report that Count Herbert Bismarck has advised the Bulgarian delegates to accept Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia as ruler of Bulgaria is a great disappointment at Sofia.

A Family Asphyxiated.

A family consisting of six children and their parents were asphyxiated by escaping gas last night at Carrick-on-Suir, county Tipperary, Ireland. Five children were dead when found. The other child and the parents were still alive, but they cannot survive.

Madagascar.

The Paris Temps says the Hova Government has cancelled its contract with an English company, under which the company was to be allowed to collect customs and coin money in return for a loan of £800 000, but has signed a convention with the Comptoir D'Escompte for a loan of £600,000, giving that concern as security the right to collect customs at six ports in Madagascar. Four hundred thousands pounds of the loan will be devoted to paying the war in demnity demanded by France.

Germany and Russia.

The North German Gazette welcomes the indications of a better feeling between Russia and Germany as shown in the recent article in the St. Petersburg Messenger. The two nations, says the Gazette, recognize that there are permanent binding interes's common to both. The Gazette attributes the press bitterness to the influence of partisans of a policy of revenge against France. It says concord among the European powers is regarded as inconvenient from the English point of view, and that for the Poles was against Russia seems the first necessity. The Gazette rejoices that the Messenger recognizes that the German policy is ever directed towards peace with unshaken confidence in the wisdom and firmness of the Czar.

Cable Notes.

A Berlin despatch to the Standard says Prince Bismarck is again indisposed.

The Bulgarian delegates started for Paris and will go to London next week.

It is reported at Berne that the Swiss Government's military steps are due to a note from Germany asking the Government whether Switzerland is in a position to defend her frontiers better than she was in 1870.

THE FALL OF KHARTOUM.

El Mahdi's Account of the Capture of the city and the Massacre of Gordon and His Troops.

London, December 21.—There has just been received through Sir John Kirk, British Consul-General to Zanzibar, the following copy of a letter from the Mahdi to his Governor-General of Equatorial Africa, giving details of the capture of Khartoum. The letter is dated April 28, 1885:—

"I inform you, my dear friend, that according to the fulfilled promise of God the city of Khartoum was entered by the help of God January 29, 1885, at daybreak, through the helpers of our religion, who were ready and jumped over ditches, acting upon command of the Lord, who rules the whole world. It was in quarter of an hour or less that they came upon the enemies of the Lord, there cutting them off even from the beginning to the end of them. Notwithstanding they were strong with their arms of strength, they fled away before the troops of God, though, thinking to obtain safety by entering their enclosures and shutting doors, they were met face to face and hewn with swords and stabbed with spears until their cries were terrible. They were cut in pieces at once there upon the ground. Then the troops of God fell upon the rest of the people, who had shut their doors, fearing a like fate. They were taken up and killed properly. None were left but little children and slaves; but as to the enemy of God (Gordon) though we had warned him and talked kindly to him that he might return to God, yet he never did so, because his miserable state was foreordained by God. Because of his foolishness he was removed by God to the place of his wrath, which is a bad place to remain in. The end of this guilty people is that they were cut off, which, thanks be to God, befalls those who are to receive fire as their reward, while light is reserved for those who shall receive heaven as their dwelling place. There were ten persons only who were killed in this holy strife for Khartoum. The rest of our people received neither wound nor hurt. All has happened by the Providence of God, and we bow our heads in thanks to God for the help received from Him. May you also do so—bow your heads to God and thank His holy name."

This letter is sealed by the Mahdi, and was the first information that Emir Pacha had of Gordon's death and the fall of Khartoum. In fact, it is the first official information England has received of Gordon's death.

THE ANTI-RENT AGITATION.

How Three Nationalist M P.'s Hoodwinked the Police.

Mr. Parnell Ill—Wm. Redmond Summoned to Answer a Charge of Conspiracy—Father Fahey Released.

Dublin, Dec. 20.—Joseph Richard Cox, Jeremiah Jordan and Joseph Edward Kenny, Parnellite members for East and West Clare and South Cork respectively, succeeded yesterday in totally hoodwinking the police and in collecting and escaping with all rents due from tenants on the Vandeleur estates in County Clare. They went to Kilrush on Friday. It was known to the police that they went there to act as trustees under the "plan of campaign" to collect from tenants of the Vandeleur estates, the reduced rents refused by the proprietors. The authorities, however, could not ascertain the nature of the arrangements to be carried out between the tenants and trustees, and were led to believe that the tenants were to assemble at Kilrush on Sunday and hand in rents. The police accordingly were kept on the alert, and were instructed to watch for the arrival of the tenants, and to arrest the trustees and secure the money when it had all been handed in. The trustees, after having put the police on this tack, appointed three places of rendezvous outside the town of Kilrush, and managed to have all rebellious tenants instructed to go to proper places. On Sunday it snowed very hard in Kilrush. The trustees left their hotel separately, went each to his appointed rendezvous, collected the rents, returned unobserved by the police, and closed up their business without attracting any suspicion on the part of the authorities, who continued to watch for assembling of tenants at Kilrush, and finally concluded that either the vigor of the police arrangements or the severity of the storm had prevented the plan from being carried out. As a result the trustees were enabled to get away unnoticed with all rents, and some of the County Clare authorities are yet in doubt as to whether the Vandeleur rents were certainly collected yesterday or whether this statement that they were is not part of the stratagem to throw the police off their guard against postponed collection.

PARNELL ILL.

Mr. Parnell is at the Euston Station Hotel, London. He is ill, and confined to his room. He is unable to receive visitors, and is obliged to avoid the transaction of business, and is even prohibited by his physicians from taking any part in political discussion.

REDMOND SUMMONED.

William Redmond, Parnellite member of the House of Commons for North Fermanagh, was to-day served with a summons to answer a charge of conspiracy for serving as trustee of rents under the "plan of campaign."

FATHER FAHY RELEASED.

Father Fahy, who early in September was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for refusing to give bail for his good behavior, was to-day released unconditionally from the Galway jail. Father Fahy interceded with a land agent named Lewis for a number of tenants who were threatened with eviction, and Lewis accused him of having threatened his life. The magistrates ordered Father Fahy to give bail for his good behavior or go to jail. He refused to furnish bail, for the reason that it would be regarded as an admission that the charge against him was true. He was accordingly imprisoned. The priest met with an ovation on his release. The city of Galway was illuminated to-night in his honor.

London, Dec. 21.—Mr. Gladstone, in a letter to Prof. James Stuart, M.P., says he thinks the Home Rule measures are Conservative in the truest sense of the term. He adds that if he can help in some measure to settle the affairs of Ireland he will confer upon Great Britain a service greater than any he has as yet wrought.

HEALY AS COUNSEL.

Mr. Healey will represent Dillon, Redmond, Crilly and Harris at their trial at Dublin on Thursday next, when they will be called upon to answer to the charge of conspiracy in receiving as tenants' trustees reduced rents which had been refused by landlords.

CHANCE'S CHARGES.

P. A. Chance, Nationalist member of Parliament for South Kilkenny, writing to a prominent Nationalist concerning the arrests and seizures at Loughrea, charges the Executive with conspiracy, false imprisonment, assault and battery, trespass and robbery.

UNABLE TO AGREE.

In the hearing of Inspector Milling's summons against Messrs. Tanner and O'Connor, at Dublin yesterday, the magistrates were unable to reach an agreement.

STILL AT WORK.

League journals claim that trustees are still collecting rents of tenants and evading the police.

PRECAUTIONS.

The Leaguers are taking precautions to prevent another coup like that at Loughrea. In some instances they are secretly appointing fresh trustees.

PROCEEDINGS ABANDONED.

Proceedings against David Sheehy, Parnellite member of Parliament for South Galway, for accepting rents as trustee under the "plan of campaign," at Templemore, County Tipperary, have been abandoned.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Prescott Conservatives have taken action that will punish the Reformers thoroughly for their bad faith. They have nominated Mr. Philip Gareau, president of the Liberal-Conservative Association of that county. This destroys the Reform candidate's last chance, and places Mr. Evanturel in the position of having to fight for all he is worth. Mr Philip Gareau is an old resident of the county and will split the French-Canadian vote very badly, while he will poll the full English Conservative vote. The Reformers at the last election only elected Mr. Hagar by the aid of the English Conservatives. That vote is now withdrawn, and their present candidate, Mr. Mallcy, is practically out of the contest unless they can destroy Mr. Evanturel, and that contingency would simply ensure the election of Mr. Gareau. The predicament is one of their own creation, and arises from their own bad faith. La Canada repudiates Mr. Evanturel and calls upon all French-Canadians to support Mr. Gareau.

At the Liberal-Conservative convention for Grenville on Saturday, after the first ballot, the late member for the South Riding, Mr. F. J. French, was unanimously declared the choice of the convention. Nearly two hundred delegates were present.

ENDED AT LAST.

Close of the Campbell Divorce Case—The Judge's Charge—A Verdict that Neither Lord nor Lady Campbell are Guilty of Adultery—Gen. Butler's Conduct Censured.

London, Dec. 20.—Sir Charles Russell concluded his argument for Lady Colin Campbell in her divorce suit against her husband to-day.

The Judge proceeded at once to sum up the case. He said Lord Colin Campbell denied his wife's charge of infidelity, which depended chiefly on the testimony of Lady Miles. Whatever might be said against Lady Miles by the defence, it must be admitted that she was until lately Lord Colin's friend; that she had done all in her power to discourage the bringing of the action against him, and that she only took Lady Colin's part when she became convinced that unjust charges were to be brought against that lady. The testimony given by the doctors that Mary Watson was virgo intacta did not negative the testimony of Lady Miles that she saw Lord Colin and the girl in such a position as to warrant the belief that the pair were guilty. Suspicion, however, the Judge said, was insufficient. If adultery was not proved as a fact the jury were bound to find as a fact that Lord Colin was innocent. At the last trial, in which Lady Colin secured a decree of separation, it was shown that Lord Colin had given plaintiff a disease in such a manner as to amount to the cruelty which he alleged as the basis of her petition for separation. In the present case the evidence against Lady Colin depended on what the family servants said. This should be received with suspicion. In regard to the Purfleet incident the Judge said there were so many important examples of mistaken identity that the jury would be compelled to carefully consider whether sufficient evidence has been adduced to reliably establish the statement that the lady who was there with the Duke of Marlborough was Lady Colin Campbell. Referring to allegations concerning Lady Colin's conduct at Leigh Court, the Judge said they depended again on stories told by servants, and principally on those told by Rose Baer. Her own fellows describe her as a chatterer, and she had contradicted herself, and other witnesses had contradicted her on important points. She at first swore that the Duke of Marlborough and Lady Colin occupied the same apartment for an entire week at Leigh Court, and afterward she testified that the Duke of Marlborough was at Leigh Court only two nights. The Judge declared he believed Rose Baer has invented the story about Lady Colin and the Duke of Marlborough sitting together like lovers on a bench in the Paddington Station. Lord Colin's conduct towards his wife while she was in Paris, on the occasion when he telegraphed the Paris police to arrest her and lodge her in a prison for fallen women, Justice Butt characterized as outrageous, remarking that he never had known of anything more dishonest than Lord Colin's allegation to the Paris officials that his wife was living in open adultery with one of the co-respondents, and should be arrested and treated as a common woman of the town. The story told by the man servant, O'Neill, that he once saw through the keyhole of the door of the dining room at Cadogan Place, Chief Shaw and Lady Colin in a compromising situation, the judge said he could not regard with favor. The jury must consider whether O'Neill's letter to Lady Colin, after his discharge by her, seeking employment, was not an attempt at blackmail, and the jury should further consider the question whether Chief Shaw's testimony in denial, as the statement of a distinguished public official, was not worth as much, if not more, than the statement of such a person as O'Neill. Gen. Butler, the Court thought, should have come into Court and given testimony as to his innocence; but so long as he chose to remain away there was no power in England to compel him to come. It would, however, the Judge said, be impossible to exaggerate the meanness exhibited by Gen. Butler, if he was innocent, in remaining away from the court, because in so doing he deserted Lady Colin. But the Judge told the jury they must not take Gen. Butler's evidence of guilt on either his or Lady Colin's part. Replying to a question of a juryman, the Judge said that Gen. Butler was beyond the jurisdiction of the court, and that a subpœna could not compel him to attend and testify, because, being made a co-respondent, he was protected by the clause of the law which makes it impossible to ask an incriminating question, unless the witness was a voluntary one.

The case was then given to the jury and they retired. After a short absence they returned and reported that they could not agree upon a verdict. The disagreement of the jury was not final. They retired to reconsider the case, and returned at ten o'clock with a verdict that Lord Colin Campbell had not committed adultery, and that Lady Colin Campbell had not committed adultery with any of the co-respondents. The jury added a rider, that the conduct of General Butler was unworthy of a gentleman and an officer, and had caused the only difficulty which the jury experienced in reaching a decision. The announcement of the verdict was received with applause.

FORMALLY DISMISSED.

London, Dec. 21.—Judge Butt this morning formally dismissed the petitions for divorce presented by Lady Colin and Lord Colin Campbell, in view of the verdict rendered by the jury yesterday. The Judge granted Lady Colin £150 costs in her suit against her husband, and full costs of her defence against her husband's suit. He also granted full costs to the Duke of Marlborough, Chief Shaw and Dr. Bird, the co-respondents in Lord Colin's suit against his wife. Gen. Butler, another co-respondent, did not apply for costs.

PRESS COMMENTS.

The London newspapers, in their comments on the Campbell trial, express the opinion that although the verdict is unsatisfactory the jury could have come to no other conclusion, and that the case shows the necessity of an alteration of the divorce proceedings in the direction of Camera trials.

F. X. Archambault, attorney for plaintiff, and Hon. Mr. Laflamme, attorney for the defendant, in the case Zelie Mercier vs. Rev. Father Lynch. Both appeared before Judge Papineau at Montreal, when it was admitted by Mr. Archambault that he had not sufficient proof to sustain the serious allegations set forth in his client's declaration, and was consequently willing that the action be dismissed. Judgment was at once rendered accordingly.

WRIGHT AND PARDEE,

The Candidates for West Lambton, on the Same Platform.

Petrolia, Dec. 20.—(Special.)—Hon. Mr Pardee addressed a large meeting in the Oil Exchange here to night. He arrived at noon and was met by Mr. J. H. Fairbank, M.P.P., Mr. C Jenkins and Mr. C. Colter. The meeting commenced at three o'clock and Mr. C. Jenkins was selected Chairman.

Mr Pardee spoke about two hours on the different questions of the day, and claimed that Mr. Wright, his opponent, had been bidden by the Dominion Government to come up and defeat him; also that the Alpha Oil Company, of Sarnia, was using their best endeavors to return Mr. Wright to Parliament, claiming that the Alpha Oil Company have, as their objection to him (Mr. Pardee), a bitter feeling simply because Mr. Mowat some time ago objected to give the said Oil Company a charter of five million dollars. Mr. Pardee accused Mr. Wright of being a paid officer of the Government and accepting $1,400 from the said Government in regard to the Antwerp Exhibition. Mr. Pardee spoke on the timber question, the school book monopoly and other matters, and then resumed his seat. He was followed by

Mr. Wright, who completely brought down the house. Mr. Wright denied positively that he was paid by the Government, and declared that the Alpha Oil Co., of Sarnia, had nothing whatever to do with his becoming a candidate for West Lambton. He explained his position in regard to the Knights of Labor, and why he did not accept the first nomination. He completely disposed of all Mr. Pardee's attacks to the satisfaction of the large audience, and resumed his seat amid thundering applause.

Mr. Pardee replied, and was followed by Mr. J. H. Fairbank.

The meeting adjourned with the usual cheers.

The Labor Movement in the States.

New York, Dec. 19.—The Sun to-day devotes nearly a page to the publication of reports from leading cities of the country concerning the labor movement. It thus summarizes the situation:—From 27 places, embracing the largest cities in this country and principal manufacturing States, the Sun to-day presents a brief synopsis of the course of the labor movement during the past year. The results, as a rule, will be found to be very similar. In few places has the labor movement really succeeded, in few has it really failed. In most it has met with varying success, winning many small strikes, but losing the great strikes on which so much depended. The labor Unions seem to have emerged from the year's work more triumphantly than the K. of L. The latter organization is everywhere admitted to have increased in numbers, but almost everywhere comes the suggestion that the influence of the Order has not increased proportionately.

Died at the age of 136 Years.

St Louis, Dec. 19.—A letter from Sassakawa, Seminole Nation, Indian Territory, gives an account of the death there on the 5th inst. of Mrs. Susannah Warren Serapis, the oldest person in the United States, if not in the world. She was born in the old town of St. Augustine, Fla., in 1750. She was born a slave and was the property of a Spanish master until 1818, when she, with other Spanish slaves, fled from Pensacola when it was taken by Gen. Jackson. She lived in the Seminole country from then until the second treaty of peace with the Seminoles, when she was regarded as their common property, and was removed with them to the Indian Territory. She leaves one daughter, living in Austin, Tex., and who is in her 97th year. She leaves many grand children here—some of them nearly seventy years of age.

MR. MEREDITH AT GUELPH.

THE OPPOSITION LEADER WARMLY WELCOMED.

He Defines His Position on the Various Public Questions—Mr Raymond Relates His Conversion to the Conservative Party—Mr. Neville on Bible Mutilation.

Special per Canadian Pacific Line.

Guelph, Dec. 20.—There was a very large and enthusiastic Conservative meeting held in the City Hall here this evening. Mr. W. R. Meredith arrived in the city on the 5.30 train, and was met at the station by a large number of electors from the county and city. On the leader stepping on the platform he was greeted with rousing cheers. Carriages were in waiting and the party were driven to the residence of Mr. Charles Raymond, the Conservative candidate for South Wellington.

Shortly after eight o'clock the meeting opened in the City Hall. When Mr. Meredith and several local gentlemen entered they were cheered to the echo.

Mr. Thos. Goldie occupied the chair, and after the Conservative candidate, Mr. Chas. Raymond, and Mr. R. S. Neville, of Toronto, had addressed the meeting,

Mr. Meredith, on coming forward, was received with vociferous applause. He said:—Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen,—I am prepared to stand or fall upon the platform which I have laid down. (Cheers.) The government of Mr. Mowat have charged the party which I have the honor to represent with being untrue to the best interests of the country, territorial, legislative, and otherwise. On behalf of the Conservative party I utterly repudiate that charge. (Loud cheers.) I am as loyal to the Province of Ontario as the strongest Reformers who hear my voice to-night (cheers), and why should I not be, sir? I was born in the Province of Ontario: everything that I have came from the Province of Ontario; all my interests are in the Province of Ontario, and I should be a base man indeed were I willing to sacrifice the interests of this great Province, in which I have duties. I have also duties which I owe to the Dominion of Canada, and yet Mr. Mowat and his friends claim all for themselves. I say that is it the duty of Mr. Mowat to guard the interests of the Province of Ontario; so is it the duty of Sir John A. Macdonald, as trustee for the whole Dominion, to guard the interests of the whole Dominion (cheers). In referring to the boundary question he said that no doubt many present recollected that prior to the election in 1882 the Liberal party were appealing to the country on this question. I recollect well, sir, what the Globe said on the eve of that election:—"If the sun of the 21st day of June rise upon a Conservative victory, one-half of the territory of Ontario will be gone irrevocably and forever." Well, sir, the sun of the 21st day of June did rise on a glorious Conservative victory, and yet the Province of Ontario has not lost one foot of territory (cheers). It is said that the Conservative party at this election is going to the people on the "no popery" cry. It is said in the face of the statements I have made to the people of this Province that this is the issue upon which I desire this election to be fought out. I say that the men and the newspapers that are making such statements as that are making statements which are false (cheers). I ask them to look at the document which I have put before the electors of the city of London, and I ask them to point to a single line or letter that bears the slightest resemblance to raising such a cry as that (cheers). I deny the truth of that charge (cheers). I say that the Conservative party would not be true to its traditions if it were to raise any such question as that before the country (cheers). It is a recognized fact that in this country our people are composed of men of different religions, of different races, and I say that it would be a most dangerous thing to raise a cry in the contest. I would put my foot down upon it and say that the affairs of this country should be conducted without regard to any section of the people, and without regard to any church or creed within the limits of the Province of Ontario. (Tremendous cheering.) I want to see, sir, equal rights for all, exclusive privileges to none. (Cheers.) And, sir, I venture to say that there is not a Liberal within the sound of my voice that dare dispute the general principle upon which I declare the Government of this country should be conducted. It is not right to ask what a man's religion is. Sir, I utterly repudiate the charge that has been made against me in reference to the Separate Schools. It has been charged by my opponents that I am desirous of destroying the Separate Schools. That charge is as base as it can possibly be. Why, sir, in part of the declaration which I have issued to my constituents I declare that I would maintain the separate school system that has been guaranteed under the constitution to our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens—(cheers)—and that I would maintain the efficiency of that system. I think it would be in the interests of the young men of this country if they could be educated in the same schools, (cheers.) I say that wall would be broken down which stands between Protestant and Catholic. But the Roman Catholics of this country do not see the matter in this light, and he believes that the education of his children should be conducted according to the principles of his church, and by reason of this Separate schools were granted to the minority and gusranteed. It seems to me that we ought to have the Bible in our schools—the Bible as it was given to us pure and simple, and without any mutilation (cheers). Now, sir, I understand that there are three classes of schools in this country—the Separate schools, which, of course, are supported by the Roman Catholics, and with regard to which this question does not enter at all. Then there are the Public Schools where there are Separate Schools existing, and where a Catholic is not bound to send his children. It is a matter of choice if he sends them there. Now, in these schools there is no reason why the Bible should not be read, for the Catholic children need not be required to take part in the exercises or the reading of it if it chooses not to do. He then referred to the increased expenditure in the Province, and charged the Government with having mismanaged them. He then claimed that the Mowat Government has been encroaching upon the municipal rights of the country, and claimed that registrars, bailiffs and the like should be appointed by the municipal Corporations instead of by the Government at Toronto. He then referred to the way in which the Crown Lands Department has been managed. By figures he showed that timber limits had been sold without the consent of Parliament adverse to the best interests of the Province. He next dealt with the colonization road moneys, and showed how that amount of money was increased at the time of an election and decreased after it was over. He next took up the Gerrymander Bill and showed the manner in which constituencies had been cut up, in order, as Mr. Mowat said, to equalize the population. He gave an expose of this by referring to the County of Ontario. He said South Ontario had a Reform majority of 204, and North Ontario a Reform majority of 20. North Ontario had a population of 28,000 and South Ontario a population of 20,000. So he took some of the townships from North Ontario and put them into South Ontario, and the result was that North Ontario had a population of 20,000 and South Ontario a population of 27,500, thereby hoping to ensure the election of two Reformers. He then referred to the many acts which Mr. Mowat claimed to have passed in support of the workingmen, and pointed out that they were due to the Opposition and not to the Government. In conclusion he delivered a powerful oration upon the Riel question, and referred to the annexationists and secessionists. He sat down amidst the greatest enthusiasm.

The meeting was brought to a close by cheers for the Queen, Sir John A. Macdonald, Mr. Meredith and Mr. Raymond.

A LIE EXPOSED.

Letter From a Catholic Vindicating the Hon. Thos. White.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—I saw in the Advertiser, of the 17th inst., an inflammatory appeal addressed "to the Catholics of London," headed as "Sound Advice from a Good Source," and signed "Catholic Elector." The letter said that "this is the same Thomas White who at Cayuga, recently, held up a picture of Louis Riel with a rope around his neck, and sneeringly remarked, that he was the latest Catholic saint."

Sir, I have no hesitation in saying that article or letter in the Advertiser is an infamous lie from beginning to end, which was published only to deceive the people for political purposes.

I have it from a Catholic friend of mine who was present at the Cayuga meeting in question, and was also present at the City Hall meeting. He heard Mr. White's explanation, and he declares it is "the true one."

Sir, I, as a Catholic, and a supporter of the Dominion Government, abhor such an attempt to stir up sectional bitterness by resorting to the grossest lies and misrepresentation. Yours truly,

J. T. REDMOND.

London, Dec. 20, 1886.

It Looks Rather Suspicious, Mr. Ross.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—It appears the Minister of Education is guilty of promising a certain gentleman in Middlemarch a tavern license under certain circumstances. Now he finds that is a promise he cannot fulfill. This leaves the Minister of Education, who pretends to be a temperance advocate, in rather an awkward position, but Mr. Ross will stumble over it possibly and call the man a lunatic that puts this obstacle in his political path. It is also a fact that Mr. Ross, in company with another gentleman, in his last campaign, called on a Conservative elector to support him, and finding he could not persuade that gentleman to vote for him asked him not to put a nail in his coffin. In this he succeeded, as the gentleman referred to did not vote. Why Mr. Ross had an influence over this election may best be answered in the words of the gentleman referred to. His daughter had a school under Mr. Ross. Now, sir, if the Minister of Education assists in getting teachers a school, is it honorable to use his office electioneering in this way to return him to power? If so, take all you can, Mr. Ross. If not, then it is time that a more honorable, non-political gentleman filled the office of Minister of Education. Hoping I have not trespassed too far on your valuable space,

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

JOHN MONTEITH

Mr. Meredith & the Working Men

HIS BENEFICIAL LEGISLATION.

A glance through the journals of the Ontario Legislature is sufficient to convince anyone that Mr. Meredith has always had the interests of the workingmen at heart, and that he has succeeded in accomplishing much in their behalf. He is the father of much of the legislation which benefits the laboring classes, and where he was not successful, owing to Government opposition, in placing on the statute book measures which he had introduced in the interests of labor, he thereby forced the Government into action and is therefore entitled to the credit. A brief review of his course, and that of the Opposition, in regard to such matters, will be interesting to the electors at the present time, and should be studied by them.

During the first session of 1874 the Income Franchise bill was introduced and became law. One of its provisions was that it should not come into force until the beginning of the following year. Mr. Meredith supported an amendment to the effect that it should come into force at once, which would have enabled income voters to take part in the general elections of 1875. This they were not able to do, however, as the Government rejected the proposition. Mr. Meredith also moved an amendment to the same bill to strike out the provision requiring a person whose income was exempt to submit to taxation on it to qualify him as an income voter. This amendment was likewise rejected. In 1877 again, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment to the Elections Act, to the effect that an income voter should not be required to pay his municipal tax on income as a condition to his right to vote, except where the by-laws of the municipality required it. This proposition was also rejected. By the new Franchise Act the principle which Mr. Meredith then contended for is recognized. The wage-earner can now vote without being called on to waive his exemption from taxation.

During the same session Mr. Meredith supported a proposition in favor of manhood suffrage, which, however, received but little support. He also introduced and carried through a bill exempting the wages or salaries of mechanics, workmen, laborers, servants, clerks and employes, to the extent of $25, from seizure for debt. This was a great boon to the workingman, and prevented much hardship and injustice. Under the law as it then stood every cent of a man's wages could be taken to pay debts, thus leaving his family to starve.

During the second session of 1874 Mr. Meredith introduced and carried through a bill which raised the allowance to jurors from $1 to $1.50 per day. Workingmen who are summoned as jurors are thereby entitled to receive as compensation for their loss of time a more reasonable sum than formerly.

In 1877 the Opposition, led by Mr. Cameron, while not opposing the granting of the franchise to farmers' sons, contended that the same qualification should be extended to the sons of others. In 1882 Mr. Meredith moved a resolution declaring that sons of mechanics and others should have the same rights as farmers' sons. The resolution was negatived. This principle, contended for by Mr. Cameron and urged upon the Legislature by Mr. Meredith, is now by the new Franchise Act made part of the law of the land.

In 1885 Mr. Meredith introduced and carried through a bill giving priority to wage-earners for three months' wages (1) against any assignee of creditors, (2) on winding up proceedings, and (3) against execution creditors. Before the passage of this Act a wage-earner was compelled to rank with the other creditors, and cases of great hardship were of frequent occurrence.

Last session the Opposition procured an important amendment to Mr. Gibson's bill respecting contracts made outside of Canada for work to be done here. This amendment was to the effect that such contracts should be void only against the employer, and not altogether, as proposed by the bill. The original proposition would have been most unjust to workingmen brought here without a knowledge of the law. They would have been wholly at the mercy of the employers, who, not being bound by the engagement under which they brought men here, could have dictated their own terms to them and have thus defeated the object of the bill. That object is quite as well attained by the provisions of the bill as amended, and no injustice is done. Mr. Meredith also supported the Mechanics' Lien Act, and framed many of its provisions.

These instances are of themselves sufficient to show that Mr. Meredith has, throughout his whole career in the Legislature, consistently guarded the workingmen's interests, and has obtained for them many of the privileges which they now enjoy.

NOTHING HIDDEN

THE MANUFACTURERS OF CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER HAVE FOR MANY YEARS MADE KNOWN TO THE PUBLIC ALL THE INGREDIENTS OF THEIR POWDER.

In these suspicious times it is not enough that manufacturers of food preparations base their claims for patronage on the simple statement that their goods are "absolutely pure." The absolute purity of a poison intensifies the baneful effects of its improper use. The absolute purity of ammonia, a drug often used in the manufacture of baking powder and in some of the powders most largely advertised, greatly increases the force of the objection made by the most eminent scientists of our day to the use of ammonia in food. This protest of the medical and chemical professions is due to the fact that ammonia—a product of decomposition—when taken into the stomach with our daily meals is exceedingly injurious.

Hence the public should insist upon knowing what all food compounds contain and ALL that they contain. Let the edict go forth that no article intended for use in the preparation of our daily bread shall receive public support unless the manufacturers' formula be published. Then shall we have less imposition practiced upon a confiding public, and as a result less injury to the public health.

Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder is made only of strictly pure Grape Cream of Tartar, Bicarbonate of Soda, and a little wheat flour, the latter to preserve the strength of the powder; nothing else whatever.

TALKING ABOUT THE DEBT.

If the Dominion Government had not been called upon to pay over to the Provinces, for their own purposes, large sums of money during the last eighteen years the general Debt, about which the Grits utter such desolating cries, would have been $60,000,000 less than it is. Commencing in 1868 at $2,227,942 the payments on account of these subsidies have gone on increasing from year to year till last year they aggregated $3,959,326. This sum the people of the Provinces had paid over to them by the Dominion Government for their own uses; and they used it accordingly. The exact sum paid in this way since Confederation is $59,249,625 That is much more than the C. P. R has cost, and has come just as clearly out of the resources of the country as have those payments for Public Works which have gone to form the the main portion of the debt. In the States of the American Union no subsidy is paid by the Federal authority for local purposes. But in Canada the Federal authorities have paid $60,000,000 to the Provinces, which, if not so paid, would have gone in reduction of the debt. In other words, if the United States' plan had been in vogue here the general debt would by this time (interest taken into the account) have been some $70,000,000 less than it now is. When talking of the obligations existing on the part of the Dominion it may be well to bear this in mind. The people have had $59,249,625 paid directly into their pockets by the Dominion which the local governments have spent in various ways. The Province of Ontario has been paid a very large proportion of this immense amount. Since 1874 more than $30,000,000 have been paid to the Province of Ontario by the Dominion, all of which has filtered through the hands of the Grit ministers. Yet when talking of the debt no consideration of these facts is made. The old adage that "one cannot eat the cake and have it too" comes in here. The people in their need have taken from the Dominion some $60,000,000 in hard cash during the last 18 years', have applied to their own uses in various ways, and then politicians, like Mr. Mowat, coolly turn round and ask why the debt is so large? It is evident that one great cause why the debt stands at the present figure is that about one-third of it has accumulated from year to year in consequence of these large annual payments for provincial purposes. But as the Hon. Mr. Foster put it at the City Hall on Saturday night last, the debts assumed by the Dominion since Confederation amount to $106,000,000, so that out of the net indebtedness of $196,000,000 no less than $166,000,000 has been incurred for distinctly provincial purposes. The remainder, $30,000,000, is but a trivial amount when one takes into consideration what there is to show for it. The Intercolonial costing $32,000,000; the C.P.R. costing $37,000,000; the canals costing $28,000,000; the purchase and other expenditures in connection with the North-west, some $6,000,000, to say nothing of the minor outlays necessitated by a hundred different expenditures on account of the various public buildings, light-houses and so forth. And now that these things are being explained, the fact is seen that Sir Richard and Mr. Blake have but raised a big bug-a-boo concerning the Debt to scare people into the belief that something terrible is in store for them, there is less opposition to pursue it. It is one of those cries which has been grossly misrepresented to the public, and the fraud having been detected is recoiling with retributive force upon those that gave rise to the outcry.

RIEL AND HIS REBELLION.

SECOND ARTICLE.

Yesterday we left Mr. Laurier urging the volunteers, and all others no doubt, to study the causes of the rebellion, and suggested that both sides ought to be heard—the Government and their adversaries—so that the conclusions drawn might be based on facts and not on fanciful assertions. And now we resume the discussion in connection with the orator's recommendation, and proceed as follows:—

Assuming for the moment that causes existed warranting rebellion, there is another question which Mr. Laurier appears to have over-looked—perhaps it was inconvenient to discuss it, lest his final object, which was to create sympathy with his views, might be defeated. It is a question that rises above even valid causes of disturbance, such as was wickedly commenced, and over which he glories in a most inhuman and disloyal way. The question to which reference is made may be thus presented:—After all would it, that is rebellion, be wise or expedient in the circumstances? That could only be determined by a fair prospect of succeeding in the desperate undertaking. What is rebellion? It is armed resistance to the governmental powers at the moment in being. It it an attempt not to thwart them merely, but to displace them and to grasp their authority and functions. This actually was Riel's mad project, without money for his deluded followers, without food, without sufficient arms, without ammunition! The Quebec orator in exculpation of Riel as a rebel refers to William, Prince of Orange, but not in all history could he have found a less appropriate case to strengthen his plea. William had the utmost certainty that a revolution would be achieved. Millions in England favored his project; men and money were at his service, and the result fully justified his anticipations. It would have been madness to have entered on such an enterprise had the conditions been the reverse. But the Prince was a wise man, and depended on his own judgment and on his resolute and skilled agents for council and for battle. Had he been a fool, a dreamer, an enthusiast, the movement would have been a huge fiasco, and if caught he would have lost his head, or been executed in a more ignominious way. Could Riel and his Council imagine that the wild scheme they contemplated might be carried into effect? Could he fight the squadrons and over-match the appliances which the Dominion Government could assemble and employ against him and his miserable bands? When the conflict took place in earnest, the result made his attempt ridiculous, as it was criminal in its inception. At his instigation homes and barns of loyal settlers were plundered, and massacres perpetrated—several Priests being among the victims. To these atrocities are to be added the death of many young volunteers, whose lives were precious to their friends and their country. Having wrought this complexity of misery and bloodshed, the dastard, so soon as he observed that his last hope was gone, fled on his pony from the scene of contest, leaving his hopeless adherents to shift for themselves.

When he come from Montana to engineer the uprising had he been a man of sense and humanity he would have said to those who awaited his arrival:—"You cannot fight the Dominion, my friends, and it is needless to dream of a warlike attempt; the Government is strong, you are very weak; the Government is rich, you are very poor; they can grind you to powder, so stop in time. If conflict begins and widens, the innocent alone will suffer, they whom you suppose have done you injustice will be a thousand miles and more beyond the reach of your bullets. Bear your grievances, be they as weighty as you affirm, a little longer; friends will rise up on your behalf, for Britons love justice and right; they will yet plead your cause, and see your wrongs rectified."

Some such address would have redounded to his honor, and saved the miserable crowd, who, in their blindness, hurried into the fray; and saved, too, the youthful volunteers, whose names will long be remembered in Canadian homes, and rehearsed in Canadian story.

But it was not in Riel so to comfort himself—so to counsel. A huge but misguided ambition; and worse than that, a lust of money, to all appearance, were the mainsprings of his conduct. For $35,000 of Government cash he was actually prepared to betray his dupes and leave them to their doom. Infamous was the proposal, but it revealed the creature in his sordid baseness. And this is the hero—the imported mercenary—blood-stained years ago on the same soil, whom Mr. Laurier lifts to the skies; whom Mr. Blake, for political effect, has no objection to hear enrolled among the noblest who have lived!

The military bill before the German Reichstag is likely to cause a dissolution of that body. The Government was beaten on the proposal that the commission to which the bill was sent, should adjourn debate over the holidays. The Government was firm in refusing to approve such action, and refused any compromise. Nevertheless the summoning of the next meeting was left to the president of the commission, which is equivalent to the defeat of the Government; and the consequences will speedily develop.

The Canadian News says in effect that the choice of the successor to the late Bishop Maclean, of the Saskatchewan, rests between Dean Grisdale and Archdeacon Pinkham. The appointment rests with the Archbishop of Canterbury. As this eminent ecclesiastic can know little or nothing about either gentleman named, a considerable amount of wire pulling on a quiet and eminently respectable way is, no doubt, going on by the friends of the persons concern

ANOTHER GRIT FORGERY.

Ontario Grit journals have for some weeks been charging that Hon. Thos. White, in a speech delivered in New Brunswick in October last, declared that the people of Haldimand were "the most ignorant set he ever met." The charge appears to have been based upon a letter received by the Grit paper in Haldimand from Moncton, N. B, and signed E. P. Cook, President New Brunswick Liberal-Conservative Association. A letter addressed by Editor Sawle, of the Caledonia Sachem to Mr. D. A. Duffy, Chairman of the Liberal-Conservative Association at Moncton and Mayor of the city, brings out the fact that a contemptible forgery has been committed to help along the Grit cause. There is no Provincial Liberal-Conservative Association in New Brunswick. E. P. Cook is not the President of or a member of any Liberal-Conservative Association in New Brunswick. He is a truck driver in Moncton and a somewhat noted local character there. As for the charge against Mr. White it is utterly without foundation. A shorthand report of his speech was published in the Moncton Daily Times the morning after its delivery, and an examination of this report shows that Mr. White said nothing whatever of an offensive nature. He did not even mention Haldimand or any other county, and said nothing about the people. His speech was wholly devoted to a refutation of the slanders concerning the Government's North-west Land Policy and an explanation of the Riel matter. The Grits must try something else.

MOWAT'S JOBBERY.

A SCANDALOUS CASE OF FAVORITISM.

How Mowat "Supports His Supporters."

From the St. Catharines Journal.

The London FREE PRESS sounds a note of warning on the letting of the contracts for the new Parliament Buildings in Toronto which ought to convince every elector that the boasted economy of the Mowat Government is pure hypocrisy, and that the Hon. Oliver is as ready to perpetrate an extravagant job and throw a good sop to a supporter as any corruptionist who has yet figured in our annals. It will be remembered regarding these buildings that, after several years figuring on plans and cost by many eminent Canadian architects, Mr. Mowat, for reasons best known to himself and friends, reopened the matter and accepted the plans of an American architect, much to the annoyance of the home talent, many resident architects having spent considerable valuable time on designs and estimates. After this snub to his own people, it was only on the distinct understanding that the building would cost but $750,000, which was considered a large sum to pay for what at best is only an overgrown County Council Chamber and offices, that the appropriation was made. It is now known that the Government has exceeded this amount by about $1,200,000 which will therefore bring the cost of the work up to $2,000,000 when complete. The public have been kept in ignorance of this fact until lately. Ald. Hunter, of Toronto, who has seen the contract for the masonry alone, states that it is for $800,000. The specifications declare the stone to be used shall be from a Canadian quarry, and that from the one on the Credit Valley, which it now turns out is owned by a strong supporter of the Government. One would think this honest Government would have asked for tenders for the large purchase of stone—above $200,000 worth—but no, the quarry owners and men of this city, Thorold, Queenston and Beamsville, which produce a good building stone as the Credit Valley, are not noticed. Another and most outrageous action lies in the Government stipulating that all the bricks required—about 11,000,000—shall be made by the convicts in the Central Prison, thus setting a premium on the product of criminals to the disadvantage of the honest worker. We wonder how the Labor party will like this act, which may be followed by doing all that can be done of the woodwork in the same institution. Mr. Mowat's friends are keeping very mum on these matters, but the quarrymen and others in this section have full particulars of the affair and will show their feelings in the matter by returning Mr. Towers to assist in putting a stop to such rank corruption and favoritism.

An English scientific journal enumerates the following as among the inventions which are specially needed at the present time: Macaroni machinery, good red-lead pencils, type writers that will work on account books and record books, indelible stamp cancelling ink, a practical car starter, a good railway car ventilator, better horseshoes, locomotive headlights, an instrument for measuring the velocity of wind currents, apparatus for measuring the depth of the sea without sounding by line, piano lid hinge which shall be flush on the outside, good fluid India ink for draughtsmen, a good metallic railway tie, an effective cut-off for locomotives, a method of alloying copper and iron, and a moulding material for iron and brass casting capable of giving a mould that can be used over and over again.

SS MEETS HIS MASTER.

e Toronto School Inspector and the Minister of Education Discuss School Matters at Strathroy.

Decided Victory for Mr. Hughes, who Proves the Mis-statements of the Minister, and Covers Him with Confusion — The Audience Give their Verdict in Favor of the Inspector.

Following is the conclusion of the re- t of the meeting between Mr Ross and Hughes, Inspector of Public Schools Toronto. Mr. Ross went on to say:— y publisher may publish any authorized k under certain conditions, and he had tten to Messrs. Robinson, telling them t arrangements would be made to allow m to publish the books they desired do, but the Department had er things to attend to and could take the matter up at once. The new wing book was one-third larger than old and sold for one-third less. Mr. ghes assumed that 600,000 were used in ario schools, when, as a fact, there e only 250 000 sold. That made a erence of over one-half in Mr. Hughes' culations. The Schoolmaster, an Eng- paper, speaks very highly of these adian drawing books, and the practical ure of their teachings. Mr. Hughes' mmaries the loss to the Province at $50,. There was no loss on the Readers, they were better value for their price n the old ones, and on the wing books there was a saving of about ,000 a year; and every child who buys ifth Reader saves a dollar, making $58, or $60,000 of a saving every year. The y of it was this—Mr. Hughes had pre- ed an English history costing $1, and it not needed now with the Reader used. quoted from the Toronto Mail report speech of Mr. Hughes at a dinner on v 5, Guy Fawkes' Day. 1885, to show t he was not a liberal Protestant, but a hot Orangemen. He had a respect for nan Catholics here in Strathroy, and had n sat down at the same dinner table h Archbishop Lynch. The idea of the vernment was to treat all men as equal, en the colored people or the Roman holic citizens rights to Separate ools, and keeping the Public Schools as tral ground. Mr. Hughes was the first n he had ever heard regard the Public ools as Protestant Schools. They re not Protestant Schools. They were ally for Jew and Gentile, Christian l agnostic, or even the disloyal holic children, 50,000 of whom re attending the Public Schools of tario to-day. A few years ago the nservatives prepared a fly sheet calling the electors to turn Mowat out because did not do enough for the Separate ools. Now they call on all loyal adians to turn out the same Govern- nt because they did too much for the parate Schools and Protestanism was in ger. Yet there was only one amend- nt passed to the Separate School Act, l that was agreed to by Mr. redith and his followers in the House. Hughes pointed out that Roman holics had exceptional privileges he appointment of High School trustees. ll, admitting that, he had noticed that y few, if any, Catholics were elected to n positions by the electors or the town ounty Councils, and while all other de- minations were represented on those ards, the Roman Catholics were not, l we said we will give you the right by that you should have by practice. I uld have done it by any others had it n necessary, and it had the result of nulating the Separate Schools and direct- their current towards the High Schools, l the result has made me glad that I did it s true that the Public School inspectors paid by the municipalities, and the parate School inspectors by the Govern nt. This was the course pursued by . Ryerson, and they followed his exam- . It was contemplated to make a change the Public School inspectors' appoint- nts also, and he promised if they were de Government officers it would put a p to the evil of such men as Mr Hughes, Toronto, stumping the country, abusing Ministers and trying to turn out the vernment of Mr. Mowat. It might said that he (Ross) had been a blic School Inspector and a politician, , but he was a respectable politi- n and a respectable School In- ctor, too, he believed, and while he ed the office never abused the head of Department, either Dr. Ryerson or . Crocks (applause). Who sent for Hughes to come here? Was it the airman? He knew it was by his ut- ce.

Mr. Johnston—I did not.

Mr. Ross—Well, he didn't, then. The cretary of the Conservative Association s the man.

Mr. J. H. McIntosh—You're wrong ain. Make another guess.

Mr. Ross—They won't tell. However I r the Roman Catholics of this Province ntributed to pay the Inspectors of the ools, Public and Separate. Mr. Ross d the sanction of the Separate School t, providing that the trustees shall hold e property. Did Mr. Hughes know that e land in Toronto on which the Separate ool property stood was not leased from e church? If it was so leased the law s complied with. The demands of the man Catholics as set forth by Mr. ughes in Hamilton had not been com ed with. They had not got a Deputy-Min- r of Education; they had not got Model hools, and their Inspectors were only changed in the system of appointment, not granted them anew. Regarding the assessment, Mr. Mowat and other good lawyers, said a Catholic was as free now as he ever had been to support the Public Schools; and whose word would you sooner take, that of Mr. Mowat, a sound constitutional lawyer, or that of Mr. Hughes, who is no lawyer? Besides here are the assessment slips of 20 or 30 Roman Catholics in Toronto, and all are supporters of the Public schools. This is proof that there is no force used, as Mr. Hughes pretends. Mr. Ross did not repeat his old plea that the Teachers' Association, too, had asked for the Ross Bible, and claimed that the omission of 8 verses in the 2nd chapter of I Peter was the work of the Protestant ministers. The Archbishop had the right to be consulted in regard to the selections, because 50,000 Roman Catholic children attended the Public Schools. He closed by ridiculing the fears of a French invasion of the Province, and charged the Conservatives with disturbing the serene sky by stirring up race prejudices, which might deluge the country with blood. He had been three years a Minister and had never experienced the interference of the Catholic clergy.

Mr. Ross made the mistake of trying to overcome Mr. Hughes' logic with ridicule, and by laughing at and abusing his opponent to destroy the force of his reply. Instead of doing this, however, he roused Mr. Hughes' controversial powers, and the reply to Mr. Ross was a most vigorous one, its effect on the audience being fairly electrical. Mr. Hughes dealt with every question discussed by Mr. Ross and repeatedly rebuked him for his misstatements. Mr. Hughes admitted consulting the Archbishop concerning the use of selections for the Separate Schools only. He acknowledged editing Gage's Readers, but was proud to say they had been authorized in every Province of the Dominion where a change had been made since they were issued. He must also plead guilty to being the editor of books used in the schools of various States in the American Union, but they were chosen and authorized in an open and fair competition. It was also a fact that while he was the criminal who edited the Gage Readers, Mr. Ross, the now Minister of Education, was the accessory, and as a hired agent of the firm pushed their sale in the schools of the Province (cheers and laughter.) He denied that he ever applied to the Ontario Government for a position, and amidst wild excitement and derisive laughter compelled Mr. Ross to admit that a supposed application which Mr. Ross produced at the moment with a flat contradiction of Mr. Hughes' statement was not an application at all, but a statement of his qualifications, the first words of which read:—"In compliance with your request, I submit," etc. His trip would be amply repaid by the fact that he had forced Mr. Ross to take steps towards accepting the offer of Robertson Bros., as it would result in a saving of $31 000 a year to the country. Mr. Ross should be ashamed of trying to hide and shelter himself behind the skirts of the clergymen in regard to the Book of Extracts. The ministers asked for seven specific charges, of which Mr. Ross had granted but one. The insinuation of Mr. Ross that the Protestant ministers had struck out the eight verses in the 2nd chapter of I. Peter, that enjoin loyalty to the sovereign and Government were unworthy of the Minister of Education.

At this stage Mr. Ross, who appeared considerably worried, denied making the assertion, but said he knew who struck them out and would tell who it was in good time.

He dare not tell us now, said Mr. Hughes. (Laughter and cries of who shows the white feather now?)

Mr. Ross defended the extracts, and the right of Archbishop Lynch supervising them, because he says 50,000 Roman Catholic children attend the public schools. Before Mr. Ross issued the book he had changed the law so that not one of these Roman Catholic children should remain for religious exercises unless their parents should demand in writing that they should remain—a thing no Roman Catholic would dare to do, and Mr. Ross knew it. Mr. Ross' course in defending this in the way he had done was dishonest in the extreme. The Conservative party was not responsible for raising race prejudices. They were willing to give any Roman Catholic equal religious and civil rights with themselves, but they were not going to submit to be restrained in certain directions, and have the Roman Catholics enjoying the utmost freedom in those directions. The serene sky Mr. Ross hankered after was a serene sky with the beaming face of Archbishop Lynch for the sun and the Minister of Education shining as the moon with reflected light. So far as I am concerned, said the speaker, I will raise all the thunder clouds I can on such a sky, until there comes a thunderbolt that will hurl from power any Government refusing equal rights to all men—any Government whose existence depends on a political Papacy.

The quotation of Ross against Ross, by Mr. Hughes, in regard to the submission of the extracts to Archbishop Lynch for revision, was a strong point, and the erring Minister winced under it. Mr. Hughes asked why the Separate School Board of Toronto had absolute power in the matter of introducing books into the schools under their control, and the Public School Board—as intelligent a body as the other, he thought—were the absolute slaves of the Department in this respect.

The meeting closed a few minutes after two o'clock in the morning, with cheers for the Queen, Messrs Hughes, Ross, Brown and Johnston, a vote of thanks being passed to Mr Hughes for his visit and address, which will cost Mr. Ross some votes in West Middlesex.

MIDWINTER EXAMINATION.

Closing Exercises at Mrs. Evans' Ladies' School, Princess Avenue.

The closing exercises at this school formed a very enjoyable entertainment last evening. The Rev. Canon Richardson occupied the chair, and the Rev. D. G. Sutherland was also present, besides a number of the parents and friends of the pupils. The exercises were as usual begun with hymns and prayer. The Chairman won the confidence of the pupils by his affectionate and encouraging words. He showed also in cheering and emphatic terms his appreciation, not only for the thoroughness of the work of the school, but also for the religious tone which strongly characterizes the whole. The motto of the school is Proverbs III, 5, 6 and its aim is to train up the children to become earnest, loving, Christian women, and this idea is kept prominently forward in the various branches of study. The last term has been one of marked success and prosperity, both as regards the number of the pupils and the amount of work accomplished. In the Art Department the work is steadily advancing under the patient and careful teaching of Mr. Griffiths, and in music the pupils have made such marked progress as reflects great credit on their various excellent teachers and professors in the city. A few young ladies who, from various causes, could not take a part in this programme, deserve commendation for earnest, faithful work during the term; they are the Misses Beatrice Cross, Charlotte Newman, Fanny Nelles, Minnie Dixon and Hattie Barton. After the programme the proceedings were brought to a close by a few kind and impressive words from the Chairman, which were cordially endorsed by an address from the Rev. D. G. Sutherland, and followed by the National Anthem and refreshments. The following is the programme:—

MEMORIAL CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT.—The members of the Young Ladies' Auxiliary of the Memorial Church surprised their friends and realized a handsome sum by their entertainment and sale last night. The affair was most successful. There was an excellent attendance, and a brisk sale was carried on at the various tables in charge of the members of the Society. A musical programme was rendered under the direction of Dr. Sippi, in which the following took part:—Duet, the Misses Wright; song, Mr. Jones; duet, Misses Graydon and Gill; song, Dr. Sippi; piano solo, Miss Owens; song, Miss Barnard; piano solo, Miss Doherty. Messrs. Baynes and Forde contributed readings, and Rev. Mr. Richardson spoke briefly on the social relations of the congregation, showing how best to promote a desirable friendly feeling amongst the congregation and at the same time where the line should be drawn in maintaining the sacredness and reverence of worship and holy rites. The fancy work tables were in charge of Misses Elliot, Harris, Hartshorn, Thompson, Bullen, Owens, Granger, Raymond, Harrison, Berrington and Blackwell; ice cream table, Misses Graydon and Alice Gill; candy table, Misses Wright and Phillips. Refreshments were served in the south room. Misses L. Graydon, K Cronyn, McLean, Edge, Wright and A. Elliot exerting themselves to provide for the wants of their numerous visitors. The ladies mentioned, as well as Miss Bullen (President) and Miss Cronyn (Secretary), are to be congratulated on the success attending this venture of the Young Ladies' Auxiliary.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC.—The choir of the Dundas Street Centre Methodist Church, now the largest in the city, gave a "musical evening" of a very high order last night. The edifice was crowded to the doors. The selections were chosen from the best composers and were especially appropriate to the Christmas season. The choral work was remarkably well done, and the soloists all deserve high commendation. Mr Birks, the choir master, is to be congratulated upon the success he continues to attain in giving concerts of such exceptional merit. Rev. J. V. Smith presided and the opening prayer was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Ryckman. Among those who took part in the programme was Misses Ella Cole, R. Chute and Messrs. P. Carroll and T. Hook.

Headache,

Pain in the Side and Back, and Constipation, indicate that the digestive and excretory organs are in a disordered condition, and that a laxative is needed. For this purpose, Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the best medicine that can be used.

Ayer's Pills are a never failing remedy for Headaches caused by a Disordered Stomach. I suffered for years from this infirmity, and never found anything to give me more than temporary relief, until I began taking Ayer's Pills. This medicine always acts promptly and thoroughly, an occasional dose being all that is required to keep me in perfect health.—Mrs. Harriet A. Marble, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

I have found entire relief from Constipation, Stomach troubles, and Nervous Headache, by taking Ayer's Cathartic Pills. I suffered a long time from these complaints, was under medical treatment, without obtaining relief, and a part of the time was unable to work. A friend, who had been similarly afflicted, urged me to take Ayer's Pills. I commenced using this remedy, and, by the time I had taken four boxes, was cured.—F. L. Dobson, Topeka, Kans.

Mr. Wm. Dodson's Christmas Display.

This gentleman presents to the public a most recherche array of prime Christmas meat in every department, beef, lamb, pork, game and fowls. Prominent amongst the carcasses are five superior heifers, weighing 1,450 lbs each, fed by Mr. Hawkins, of Watford; also three prime heifers, weighing 1,400 lbs each, purchased from Mr James Snow, of London Township. The most prominent in this collection is a first prize heifer, bred and fed by Mr. J. Becton, of Glencoe. This choice animal tips the scales at 1,655 lbs. Along with this is another prime fed and superior four year-old heifer, weighing 1,400 lbs., fed by Mr. H. Mihall, of Westminster. It is an acknowledged fact that Down mutton heads the list in quality and flavor. Mr. Dodson has ten superior sheep, Down lambs from Mr. D Girom, of London Township, and eight Southdowns, bred by Mr. Bourne, of London. Also one monster hog, weighing 500 lbs., fed by Mr. O Fitzgerald, of Missouri, with six choice young Berkshire pigs, from Mr. Harris, of London Township, and several roasters, &c. The whole display reflects great credit upon both our feeders of live stock and also upon the enterprising gentleman who makes the display.

Arnum Division, No. 27, Order of Railway Conductors, Hamilton, has elected the following officers for the year 1887:—John McKay, Chief Conductor; George McGilvery, Assistant Chief Conductor; J. B. McKay, delegate to the Grand Division, which meets in New Orleans next May.

The fire alarm from box 23, shortly before two o'clock this morning, was caused by flames being observed issuing from a smoke house in rear of Mrs. Mills' grocery store on Burwell street, near York. The firemen were promptly on the scene, and soon succeeded in extinguishing the flames with the aid of some snow. Loss trifling.

A CARDINAL SIN.

BY HUGH CONWAY.

Josephine's heart sank. Frances would not have gone to Charing Cross if her intention had been to visit Twickenham, where the Trenfields lived. Should she telegraph to Allan? No, she must wait until to-morrow morning. If she telegraphed now, Frances might be back the next moment. Mrs. Melville felt little anxiety as to her safety. She sat knitting a pair of mittens, and feeling sure that Frances upon her return presently would explain her absence in a very simple manner. But Mrs. Melville did not know certain things with which Josephine was acquainted.

The two women sat up all night. As the hours wore on, Mrs. Melville began to catch something of Josephine's unspoken fears. The hour for returning from any party or entertainment had long passed; besides, Frances had not left the house attired for anything of the kind. It was much too late to think of telegraphing to any country place. Nothing could be done until morning. So, weary of watching and waiting, Mrs. Melville fell asleep on the sofa, while Josephine caught a few fitful snatches of slumber in the recesses of an easy chair.

Morning broke. Frances had not returned. Josephine awoke from the sleep to which, in spite of her uncomfortable attitude, she had at last quite succumbed, and aroused her companion.

"She has not come back—something must be done," she said.

"Allan must be telegraphed for at once," said Mrs. Melville, who now was as frightened as Josephine.

But they were loath to do so, and once more began suggesting reasons for Frances's absence, and tried to believe she would return by breakfast-time. Then they decided to wait an hour longer—till nine o'clock; then, if they heard nothing from her to telegraph.

Nine o'clock came but no Frances. The coachman was once more sent for and re-examined, but he could add nothing to his previous statement. He had driven his mistress to Charing Cross, and there had been dismissed. He was positive she had no bag nor personal luggage of any description; was certain she had no intention of starting on a long journey.

"Josephine," said Mrs. Melville, in an awed whisper, "do you think it could be possible that any of the other singers who are so jealous of her success could have enticed her away?"

"No, I don't," replied Josephine, who was busy writing the telegrams.

Two messages were sent—one to Allan's address at Hunsford, the other to Redhills, so that he might by no means be missed. It was fortunate that the Redhills one was sent, as Allan, having finished his business at Hunsford, had gone across there the first thing in the morning. He had scarcely entered his father's house when the message was delivered to him. "Come back at once—you are wanted—do not delay." It ran. Being sent by Josephine, he knew that he was wanted back for Frances's sake. Something had happened to his wife, or the telegram would have been sent from her. He turned pale, but said nothing. Glancing at his watch he saw the time was ten o'clock. He had not a moment to spare. He knew the times of the trains from Brackley by heart; there was nothing he could catch from that station which would enable him to get to town before six o'clock in the evening. He must drive to Blacktown and catch the midday express—he had two hours and ten minutes to do it in—the distance of good twenty miles. Every moment was precious.

He ran across to the stables.

"Put the fastest horse in the lightest trap," he said; "don't waste a moment—it is life and death."

Then he ran back to the house, and in a few hurried words told his mother what had happened. Mr. Bourchier not being down-stairs, he was saved any explanation with him. In less than two minutes he was in the light dog-cart, with the reins in his hands.

"No," he said to the groom, who was ready to spring up behind; "I don't want more weight than I can help. You come by the next train to Blacktown. I will send the horse and trap to the Railway Inn."

He waved his hand to Mrs. Bourchier and drove off, not at a headlong pace, but in the manner of one who knows he must get every ounce he can out of his horse, and, moreover, quite understands how to do so.

Allan had driven over that road hundreds of times, but had never found Steepsides so precipitous, or the name of Littlesteep invested with such a grim sarcasm. He dared not hurry his horse up and down these and other terrible hills; but when comparatively level ground was reached, he called upon him to do his best.

He was just in time. Tossing the reins and half a crown to the first respectable-looking man he could see who was on the lookout for chance employment, he told him to lead the horse to the inn, and say Mr. Bourchier's man would come about it later on; then he entered the express a second before it started, and by three o'clock was at Caversham Place, in a state of mind the worse because he did not know what bad news he had to hear.

He rushed into the house, and was met by his sister and Mrs. Melville. He saw by their grave looks that he had been recalled on no trivial matter. Where was his wife?

"Frances!" he cried, looking about as if trying to find her. "Where is Frances? Tell me! Is she ill? Where is she?"

"She is not ill, I am glad to say," said Mrs. Melville.

Allan felt greatly relieved.

Where is she? Why did you telegraph me? You frightened me to death, Josephine."

He looked at his sister, but she said nothing. Allan grew impatient.

"Will you tell me what is the matter?" he exclaimed.

"We are growing anxious about Frances," said Mrs. Melville. "She has disappeared."

"Disappeared! What do you mean?"

"We have not seen her since yesterday morning. We don't know where she went to; so thought it better to telegraph."

"I don't understand you. Where did my wife go?"

"She went off by train somewhere from Charing Cross."

"Well," said Allan, "what of that? She must have stayed the night with some friends."

"Oh, no," said Mrs. Melville, confidently, and shaking her head. "She has nothing with her—no luggage of any kind. People like Frances don't stay away at friends with only the clothes they wear on their backs."

"She must have gone to the Trenfields'," said Allan.

"We sent to Mr. Trenfield's office this morning. He had seen nothing of her."

"Have you seen the manager—perhaps he knows?"

"He called just now, but had heard nothing from her. Oh, Mr. Bourchier, she must have met with some accident, or been enticed away for some purpose."

DAN. M'KENZIE'S RECORD.

He Faces the Party's Interests Before the Country's Every Time,

JUDGE HIM BY HIS VOTES.

Substantial Reasons Why the Automaton Should be Defeated.

As Mr. Dan. McKenzie is offering himself for re-election it will be interesting and instructive to examine some of his votes since he last solicited the honor of representing East Middlesex.

On Feb 26th, 1884, Mr. Carnegie moved, seconded by Mr. Creighton, in amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply:—"That this House disapproves of the action of the Government giving authorization to two sets of readers for use in the schools of this Province."

Mr. McKenzie voted against this motion and with the Government in favor of two sets of readers, a blunder that according to Mr. Ross created vested interests which necessitated our payment of heavy compensation when the mistake was acknowledged.

On March 4th, 1884, Mr. Meredith moved: "That inasmuch as this House is of opinion that the right to regulate the liquor traffic by license laws belongs under the B. N. A. Act exclusively to the legislatures of the Provinces, it is not expedient to settle a scale of duties under the Dominion License Act of 1883, which this House believes to be beyond the jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament."

Mr. McKenzie voted against Mr. Meredith's defence of our Provincial rights, and with the Administration voted an acknowledgment of the validity of the Dominion License Act.

On Feb. 10th, 1885, the Opposition moved the issue of a writ for East Simcoe, Mr. Drury's election having been adjudged void by the Court of Appeal.

Mr. McKenzie voted for the Attorney-General's amendment to refer the matter to the Committee on elections, thus overriding the decision of the Court, and leaving East Simcoe unrepresented for the session.

On Feb. 25, 1885, Mr. Gibson (Hamilton) having moved an expression of opinion in favour of new Parliament buildings in keeping with Ontario's high position, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment that the Government should first deal with the matter on their responsibility.

Mr. McKenzie voted against this, and in favour of relieving the Government of responsibility by the action of the House.

On Feb. 27, 1885, Mr. Meredith moved the second reading of his Bill for rendering employers liable for compensation for the injuries of workmen in their services.

Mr. McKenzie voted to refuse this justice, assenting to Mr. Fraser's motion for the six months' hoist.

On March 3rd, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply, objecting to the Government favouring increased subsidies from the Dominion, as in consequence the demands of other Provinces could not be resisted.

Mr. McKenzie voted in favor of these appeals to the Dominion for funds to enable his leaders to meet their extravagant yearly expenditure.

On March 6, 1885, Mr. Carnegie moved for a select committee to enquire into the Agricultural College and Farm, especially with regard to the financial management.

Mr. McKenzie voted for the amendment to leave the matter to the Public Accounts Committee, well knowing that the Ministers gave the committee insufficient time for his ordinary work.

On March 9th, Mr. Broder moved in favor of making some suitable recognition of the public services of the volunteers of 1837-8. The Attorney General moved an amendment to give thanks also to the rebels of that period, and Mr. G. W. Ross moved in amendment to his leader to add the volunteers of 1866, who resisted the Fenians.

Mr. McKenzie voted to thank the rebels, though several Reform members were too loyal to do so, the Government majority being reduced to 4.

On March 10th, 1885, Mr. G. W. Ross moved the approval of the agreement with Messrs. Nelson and the two other publishing firms forming the School Reader ring.

Mr. McKenzie voted for monopoly and for exacting an exorbitant price from the school children.

On March 17th, 1885, Mr. Hardy moved the second reading of the Bill to divide Algoma and to gerrymander the rest of the Province.

Mr. McKenzie voted for the gerrymander.

On March 18th, 1885, Mr. Fraser moved the House into Committee on resolutions appropriating a sum not exceeding $750,000 for new Parliamentary Buildings.

Mr. McKenzie voted for this increase of the appropriation from the $750,000 of the former Act, though as it now appears even the larger sum will be greatly exceeded.

On March 24th, 1884, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment in favor of manhood suffrage to the second reading of the Franchise Extension Bill.

Mr. McKenzie voted with the Ministers and all the Reform members against Manhood Suffrage.

On March 25th, 1885, Mr. Creighton moved an amendment to going into Supply condemning the unsatisfactory and extravagant manner in which the moneys voted for Colonization Roads were expended so as not to secure an adequate benefit to the localities.

Mr. McKenzie voted against a business-like expenditure and in favour of the present system of making the Colonization Road appropriation a corruption fund.

On March 26th, 1885, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment to the third reading of the High School Bill requiring the approval of the House to regulations altering the basis of distribution of the High School grant.

Mr. McKenzie voted for leaving to the Government its absolute power without check.

On March 26, 1885, Mr. Merrick moved to reduce the expenditure on Sessional Clerks.

Mr. McKenzie voted against the reduction.

On the same day Mr. Creighton moved in favor of paying to the municipalities the interest to which they were entitled on the School Land Improvement Fund, as the right is acknowledged and the Province holds an available fund.

Mr. McKenzie voted against giving the municipalities their dues at present.

On the same day Mr. Wood moved condemning the over expenditure of $174,454 in 1884 and declaring that $50,000 should cover unforeseen expenditures.

Mr. McKenzie voted against condemning this misappropriation and in favor of the unrestricted squandering of our funds.

On March 27, 1885, Mr. Morris moved an amendment to the third reading of the Franchise Bill, objecting to the partial disfranchisement of the electors of Toronto by allowing them to vote only for two of the three members.

Mr. McKenzie voted for this plan of seating by statute a Reform member for Conservative Toronto.

Mr. White moved an amendment to prevent the gerrymandering of Essex, and Mr. Gray an amendment to prevent the gerrymandering of York.

Mr. McKenzie voted for both these schemes to unfairly strengthen Reform candidates.

Mr. Kerr moved an amendment condemning the disfranchisement of Cornwall, while eight eastern constituencies with a population of 166,057 returned eight members, and eight western constituencies with only 124,275 returned eight members.

Mr. McKenzie voted to increase the inequality in favour of the Reformers.

Other amendments were moved by Conservative members against gerrymandering the Bruces, the Ontarios, the Simcoes, Cardwell and Peel.

Mr. McKenzie voted for all of these partisan devices to falsify public opinion in favor of the Reformers.

Mr. Gibson (Hamilton) moved, seconded by Mr. Awrey, to give the city of Hamilton two members.

Mr. McKenzie even voted against this act of justice, though the proposer and seconder were both reform members.

Mr. Preston moved against the disfranchisement of Leeds and Grenville, pointing out the unfairness of reducing the representation of Eastern Ontario by two members.

Mr. McKenzie voted in favor of this partizan dodge to increase an existing inequality in favor of his party.

Mr. Metcalfe moved against depriving Kingston of its 50 years' old right to a member, and adding country districts to it.

Mr. McKenzie voted against the appeal of the ancient city.

Several other amendments were put to preserve a number of constituencies from unfair gerrymandering.

Mr. McKenzie voted for the fraud in each case, although both he and Messrs. Armstrong, Mills and other Grits harangued the people against Sir John Macdonald's statutory re distribution of seats.

Mr. Meredith moved that in dividing the constituencies the representation in the House should have fair relation to the party strength in the country, that by the present division the Reformers had an undue advantage, and by the proposed changes this disproportion would be greatly increased, so none of the changes should be made except the division of Algoma, Muskoka and Parry Sound, and the addition of a member for Bruce.

Mr. McKenzie voted in favor of the plan of his leaders to secure a majority of supporters in the legislature from a minority of electors.

Mr. Robillard moved to omit the clause relieving Dr. Dowling from the disqualification and penalties declared against him by the judicial tribunals for his corrupt practices.

Mr. McKenzie voted to insult the judges, to make himself and his friends a court of appeal, to bring the law into contempt and to seat Dr. Dowling by statute as a reward for his criminal services to the Reform party.

Mr. Kerns moved to give the franchise to clergymen, school teachers and enrolled volunteers.

Mr. McKenzie voted of course that such people were not fit for the franchise. This being the last amendment, the iniquitous Gerrymander Bill (1885) was passed.

On March 28th, Mr. Meredith moved to strike out the appropriation for $10,000 to pay Mr. Caldwell's law costs in his litigation with Mr. McLaren.

Mr. McKenzie voted for paying the expenses of the private lawsuit of a supporter of Mr. Mowat.

On March 28, 1885, Mr. Meredith moved to enable County Councils by a two thirds vote to discontinue the office of a Police Magistrate.

Mr. McKenzie voted to prevent Counties from having any such voice in their own expenditure. And so ends the record for 1885.

The above statement is in a great measure the record of every Grit member in Western Ontario, and can be truthfully applied to every Grit candidate in the Province.

Two Germans named Ditmer and Reynaert, alias Eberhard, residents of London, were arrested in a lodging house near the Nord Station, Brussels, Sunday. Ditmer had in his possession 10,000 francs in German notes. The arrest led to the discovery in the Nord station of two packages containing letters from London for Germany. Ditmer is a sheep dealer. He is supposed to have been concerned in the recent mail robbery.

Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated, whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A phamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp by A. H. DIXON & SON, 305 King street, West, Toronto, Canada.—Christian Standard. eod

Four-year-old Eddie Ericsson fell into the water at San Francisco the other day. A workman heard him scream, and looking up saw Eddie's 6-year-old brother slowly walking along winding up a top. "What's the matter?" asked the man. "Come and pull my little brother out of the water," slowly answered the boy. Eddie was pulled out, but it took vigorous rolling on a barrel to restore him.

London Markets.

Revised Daily.

London, Tuesday, Dec. 21st, 1886.

The market was small to-day, considering the good roads and the near approach of Christmas.

Grain deliveries were small, and prices firm. Wheat went from $1 28 to $1 32 per cental. But little, however, came in.

Oats were strong, at 90c to 92c per cental.

Good barley was scarce; in fact hardly any malting came forward.

Feed barley formed the greater portion that was offered, and this ranged from 80 to 85 cents per cental.

Other cereals at our quotations.

The meat market was not so largely supplied, but the quality was choice, and prices for best ranged from $5 50 to $6 50 per cwt—this was for choice Christmas stuff. Lower qualities sold at $3 50 to $4 50 per cwt.

Mutton sold at 5½ to 6 cents a pound.

Pork was firm, at $5 50 to $6 per cwt.

Butter was in good supply, at 20 to 22 cents per cental for single roll; for large roll and tub here was no quotable change in prices.

Eggs were scarce, at 22 to 25 cents per cental.

There was a large poultry supply, and prices were firm: 11 and 12 cents a pound was asked for turkeys, and geese were held at 7 and 8 cents a pound, and ducks and chickens accordingly high.

Potatoes were in fair supply, at 85 and 90 cents a bag; other vegetables at our quotations.

Apples were plentiful, at 45 to 65 cents a bag.

Hay in fair supply, at $8 50 and $10 a ton.

BY-LAW NUMBER ----

To Aid the London & South-Eastern Railway Company, by Granting to it a Loan of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars on Certain Conditions:

WHEREAS, it is desirable to aid The London and South Eastern Railway Company by granting to it, on the conditions hereinafter mentioned, a loan of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars, and the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of London has determined to grant the said loan on the said conditions.

AND WHEREAS, the total amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-law is the sum of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars.

AND WHEREAS, it will require the sum of $3,375 to be raised annually during the currency of such debentures to pay the interest of the debentures to be issued therefor, and the sum of $1,128.90 to be raised annually during the same period to meet the principal of the said debentures when due.

AND WHEREAS, the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality is the sum of $12,537,516 00, according to the last revised Assessment Roll thereof.

AND WHEREAS, the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said Municipality is the sum of $1,742,323.47-100, no part whereof or the interest whereof is in arrear.

BE IT THEREFORE ENACTED by the said Municipal Council:—

1. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Corporation to aid the said Railway, by granting to it by way of loan the sum of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars on the conditions hereinafter mentioned.

2. That the Mayor be and he is hereby required to cause any number of debentures to be made, not less than one hundred dollars each, and amounting in the whole to the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars, which debentures shall be sealed with the Corporate seal of the said City, and shall be countersigned by the Treasurer.

3. That the said debentures shall be made payable in thirty years from the date thereof, at the office of the Treasurer of the said City, and shall have coupons attached for the payment of the interest thereof.

4. That the said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly from the date thereof.

5. That the said debentures may be made payable in sterling money of Great Britain or any other currency.

6. That there shall be raised and levied in each year during the currency of the said debentures the said sum of $3,375 for the payment of the interest, and the said sum of $1,128.90 for the payment of the principal when due of the said debentures, and the same shall be raised and levied by a special rate sufficient therefor on all the rateable property in the said City of London.

7. That the said Company shall not be entitled to receive the said debentures, or any of them, unless or until

(a) Running powers shall be obtained by the Canada Southern Railway Company over the London and Port Stanley Railway between the Cities of St. Thomas and London, and into the City of London, not later than six months from the passing of this By-law; and

(b) The said Company shall have entered into an agreement with the Corporation of the City of London to pay to the Corporation of the City of London the sum of $3,000 per annum, payable half yearly (less any sum not exceeding $400 per annum which the said Company shall expend for necessary current expenses of the said Company, and for insurance of their buildings if required), for the period of twenty years from the time of the issue of the said debentures, with the privilege to the said Company of repaying to the said Corporation of the City of London the amount of the said debentures at the end of any half year during the said term of twenty years, or, at the option of the said Company, to convey, assign and transfer to the said Corporation of the City of London, free from all incumbrances, the real estate and other property purchased by the said Company with the proceeds of the said debentures, in lieu of repaying to the said Corporation of the City of London the amount of the said debentures, and thereupon the payment of the said annual sum of $3,000 shall cease. Such agreement shall also provide for the repayment to the said Corporation of the City of London by the said Company of the amount of the said debentures at the end of the said term of twenty years; in the event of the said Company not paying or conveying as aforesaid before the end of the said term of twenty years, under the privilege hereinbefore contained or at the option of the said Company, the said Company may then convey, assign and transfer to the Corporation of the City of London the real estate and other property purchased by the said Company with the proceeds of the said debentures, and shall also provide that the said Company shall insure at their own expense and as soon as possible, and keep insured in some reliable Insurance Company or Companies to be approved of by the Council of the Corporation of the City of London from time to time until repayment or conveyance, as aforesaid, all the buildings which the said Company may erect to as great an amount as can lawfully be obtained thereupon, and shall assign and transfer the insurance policy or policies, when issued, to the Corporation of the City of London as security for such repayment, as aforesaid. Provided, however, that in case the buildings of the said Company shall have been insured, as aforesaid, and the said buildings or any of them shall at the time of such conveyance (if any) to the Corporation of the City of London, as aforesaid, be destroyed by fire, then the said Company shall not be held liable for not conveying such of the buildings so destroyed, as aforesaid. And the said Company shall also agree to secure to the Corporation of the City of London the repayment of the amount of the said debentures and the payment of the said annual sum of $3,000, as aforesaid, upon the property, real and personal (if any), of the said Company, in such manner and by such mortgage, deed, bond, document or other writing as shall be by the City Solicitor deemed best and safest in the interests of the said Corporation of the City of London, and such agreement shall also be approved of by the City Solicitor before it is executed.

8. That no interest shall be allowed or be paid to the said Company on the said debentures until the conditions mentioned in the seventh paragraph hereof shall have been fulfilled.

9. That the foregoing sections of this By-law shall take effect on and from the fourteenth day of January next, and this and the subsequent sections thereof shall take effect immediately.

10. That the votes of the electors of the said city upon this By-law shall be taken on Monday, the third day of January next, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon, and that the several polling places and Deputy-Returning Officers for taking the said votes shall be as follows:—

For the First Sub-division of the First Ward, at the City Hall, and John J. Matheson shall be the Deputy-Returning Officer therefor.

For the Second Sub-division of the First Ward, at Patrick O'Neill's store, on the corner of Richmond and Bathurst streets, and James Smith shall be the Deputy-Returning Officer therefor.

For the Third Sub-division of the First Ward, at the Horton Street School House, and John Bonser shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Fourth Sub-division of the First Ward at George Quilton's house, on Grey street, and Frederick W. Cryer shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the First Sub-division of the Second Ward, at James Percival's store, on Queen's avenue, and James Percival shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Second Sub-division of the Second Ward, at the shop of John Turner, on Richmond street, and Oswald Baynes shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Third Sub-division of the Second Ward, at the house of A. Padfield, on Richmond street, and Charles A. Sippi shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the First Sub-division of the Third Ward, at the Colborne Street School House, and William Wilson shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Second Sub-division of the Third Ward, at the School House on Waterloo street, and John Fleming shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Third Sub-division of the Third Ward, at the house of Hugh Rose, on South street, and James Keenleyside shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the First Sub-division of the Fourth Ward, at the house of Christopher Teale, on Queen's avenue, and Alexander Gunn shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Second Sub-division of the Fourth Ward, at the Princess Avenue School House, and James Jury shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Third Sub-division of the Fourth Ward, at the Waterloo Street School House, and Henry Pratt shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the First Sub-division of the Fifth Ward, at the Park Street School House, and John E. Showier shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Second Sub-division of the Fifth Ward, at the East End Hall (late Town Hall), and Arscott Isaac shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

And for the Third Sub-division of the Fifth Ward, at the Adderson School House, and Thomas Van Allestine shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

That the Clerk shall attend at the City Hall, in the said city, on Wednesday, the fifth day of January next, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, to sum up the number of votes given for and against this By-law, and Thursday, the thirteenth day of December instant, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, at the said City Hall, is hereby appointed for the Mayor to appoint persons to attend at the various polling places, and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passage of the By-law respectively.

Passed in open Council this tenth day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

ALEX. S. ABBOTT, Clerk. T. D. HODGENS, Mayor.

Take notice, that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-law which will be taken into consideration by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of London on Thursday, the thirteenth day of January A. D. 1887, at eight o'clock in the afternoon, being upwards of one month from the first publication in the FREE PRESS and the London Advertiser, which first publication is on the eleventh day of December, A.D. 1886, and that at the hour, day and places therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

Dated this eleventh day of December, A. D. 1886.

A. S. ABBOTT, Clerk.

The Oxford County Model School Board of Examiners have completed their work and passed all the candidates—forty-one. Of these twenty-one from the Woodstock school, viz:—Misses Bayne, Bodwell, Bruce, Connolly, Douglass, Howard, Marshall, Smith, Webber and Withrow; Messrs. Bastedo, Davis, Hendershott, Holmes, McKay, Miller, Rice (Alfred), Rice (W H.), Revell (D. G.), Revell (J. C.), Templar. The class passed a highly creditable examination.

Signor Emilio, the Corn Doctor.—He takes in some of our shrewd citizens.—It does appear preposterous to notice by the FREE PRESS of the other day how Signor Emilio, a corn doctor, actually charges some of our citizens $5 for extracting each corn, and that he succeeded in relieving one of the girls employed at the Grigg House of $15, while his bill against Mr. Thos. Knowles reached the sum of $95. This is the more ridiculous from the fact it is known to almost every citizen in London that the sure corn cure manufactured by W. S. Barkwell, the chemist, of this city, will remove any kind of corn, hard or soft, and it only costs 25c. "Experience is a good teacher," but in this case rather an expensive one.—Adet. eod

Ricksecker's perfumes are fast taking the lead for elegance, durability and general superiority, finding preference wherever known, even in foreign capitals of fashion, over all others. As one of our fashion journals aptly puts it:—"An indescribably luscious odor surrounds the lady who uses Ricksecker's perfumes." Ricksecker's Edgewood Violets—as fresh, delicate, sweet and natural as the "mutely eloquent modest violet" itself, from which this perfume is directly extracted. The above perfume is not made by any other perfumers, and is the result of much experiment, thought, experience and cost. Avoid disappointment and accept no substitute for it. LEGISLATIVE CANDIDATES.

Result of the Nominations in the City Hall Yesterday Afternoon.

A BRILLIANT ADDRESS

Delivered by Mr. W. R. Meredith Upon the Public Questions of the Day.

OPEN BIBLE IN THE SCHOOLS.

His Attitude on All Important Issues Fully Defined.

THE LABOR CHAMPION

Expresses His Views Regarding the Wants of the Workingmen—Essery, the Irrepressible, Again on the Stump.

The City Hall was well filled yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the city nomination of candidates for the Local egislature. Sheriff Glass, Returning fficer, presided.

The writ calling for the selection of a epresentative was read by the Clerk, Mr. H Glass. After this formal document, mysterious and strictly legal language, d been read, an elector arose and said he d not believe ten persons in the hall knew hat it meant. The Sheriff accordingly ad it over again.

Mr. George S Birrell nominated Mr R. Meredith, and believed he would be cted by a large majority.

Mr. Richard Bland seconded.

Mr Frank Mills nominated Mr. Samuel ddle, whom he had known for many rs. He believed he would vote for asures affecting the labor interests irreective of party. He looked for his elec-

Mr. James Smith seconded.

Mr. Slade, the same elector who objected to the tone in which the writ read, here arose and said the mottoes the wall, left from the Saturday night ting, were an insult to a section of the ens.

he Sheriff said he had no control over matter, but did not think they were in way offensive.

r. Slade then mounted the platform moved that the meeting adjourn until mottoes be removed.

he mottoes referred to were 'One Law All," "Country Before Party," triots Have No Price," "Their Slanders Fall," "No Room For Rebels," &c., r. R. Carothers was nominated by Mr. lp Hoskin, and seconded by Mr. Geo. e.

Mr. W. R. Meredith was most enthusiastically received, and although extremely hoarse, he began his speech. He said:—As you will observe, it is extremely difficult for me to speak to-day. I have been suffering from a very severe cold during the past two days and instead of being upon the platform, I ought to be in my bed. However, sir, as this is the day upon which the public nomination is to take place. I have felt it my duty at whatever sacrifice it may be to my health, to be here and to meet my fellow-citizens face to face (cheers). My friend Mr. Essery has said he will toss up with me whether he or I shall speak first I will speak first, as I have but one story to tell, and have nothing to conceal from my fellow electors. My fellow-citizens have upon previous occasions conferred upon me the honor of electing me as their representative (cheers) An untried man in 1872 they chose me. Again in 1875 they renewed the expression of their confidence, and in 1879 I was again elected by a handsome majority. In 1883 by the unanimous voice of my fellow-citizens I was still again chosen to be their representative (cheers). I have, during the time I have sat in the House, endeavored honestly and faithfully to discharge my public duties in the interest of my Province and in the interest of my native city, and I think I have done so to the satisfaction of a majority of my fellow-citizens (cheers). To-day there are singular elements entering into the contest in which we are about to enter. Hitherto we have had battles between the Reform and Conservative parties. Candidates have been selected to carry the banners of the respective sides, and upon the issues upheld by their candidate we have gone into the field. For some reason, however, this time the Reform party makes no nomination, and an organization against which I have not a word to say nominate an independent candidate against me. I have nothing but the kindliest words to say for the gentleman who is to be my opponent on this occasion (applause) The newspaper which advocates the cause of the Reform side in this city has said that I seem to claim a divine right to represent the city of London I claim no divine right, except so long as the people desire that my services shall be given to them and to the city which I represent (cheers) It is perhaps to be noticed on this occasion, that for the first time in the history of this city, the gentleman on the other side is not a resident nor a voter among the electors of this city. This is the first time in the history of London that the city has had to go into a different municipality to elect a candidate for its representation in the Local Legislature.

A voice—Didn't Sir John go to the Pacific Slope?

Mr. Meredith—I am not discussing that; but this is the first time that the City of London when it has had to go outside to select a candidate to contest an election for the Local Legislature.

A voice—We will put him in.

Mr. Meredith—We will discuss that on the 28th instant (cheers) The state of my health will not permit me to enter into a general discussion of public questions, but it is my duty to touch upon one or two points arising out of a speech made by a gentleman on this platform the other night, which I feel was are flection upon me as a public man. Mr. Geo. C. Gibbons said I had been untrue to the interests of the Province of Ontario. He said I had at the bidding of Sir John A Macdonald and the Conservative party at Ottawa betrayed the interests of this Province (hear, hear) I hear a number of gentlemen say "Hear, hear." I do not know whether that means their approbation of the charge which Mr. Gibbons has made against me or not. If they do approve of it, I say that I throw it back in their face, as I do in his, the charge that I have ever been untrue to the interests of the Province of Ontario (cheers.) Why should I be untrue to the interests of my native Province? What interest could I have in betraying the Province in which I was born, in which is all I have, in which I expect my bones shall lie and in which my children hope to have their homes in the future? (cheers) No, sir, I have always to the best of my ability endeavored to stand by my native Province, not forgetting, however, that I was a citizen of this great Dominion, and had an interest in it as well as in the Province of Ontario (cheers) What is the ground upon which they make this charge? They say I was willing to barter away one half of the territory of the Province. I ask the gentlemen who make that charge to lay their finger on one single word or vote that points in that direction (cheers). I and my party have always maintained that the Province of Ontario should receive every inch of territory, to which, under the British North America Act, she was entitled to, and what we did advocate for was that after the Dominion Government had refused to ratify the award, it was useless to make a party fight over that great interprovincial question, and that, as the only means of settlement, it should be referred to the highest court in the British Empire. That is the position we took, but in doing so we said we did not give up one jot or tittle of our claim on behalf of the Province of Ontario (cheers) We said let a reference be made to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council and stand by the decision. But Mr Mowat said:—"No; I stand by the award. It is binding and the Dominion Government should ratify it." He kept the question open for years. Large sums of money were expended and great irritation was caused to the people. Ultimately, however, he was compelled to send the question to the highest court in the British Empire, the questions upon which it was to be decided being:—First, was the Award binding? and second, if not, what was the territory to which Ontario was entitled? The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council decided that the award was not legal and binding, and therefore were against Mr Mowat on that question. Then what did Mr. Mowat do before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council as soon as they had determined the award was not binding? Although Mr. Mills had been paid a large sum of money to prove that the boundary extended to the foot of the Rocky Mountains, Mr Mowat, without the sanction of Parliament or the sanction of the people, withdrew all claims to the boundary outside of the award. If any one is to be charged with being traitorous to the Province of Ontario, it was the gentleman who, before that court, with Mr. Mills' opinion that the boundary extended to the foot of the Rocky Mountains, gave up the claims of Ontario to all that amount of territory (cheers) The charge made against me and the Conservative party of being untrue to the interests of Ontario is untrue, and is one that is made in the absence of any better argument (cheers) They say a great cry is better than forty reasons to appeal to the electors, and the Reform party has been proceeding on that line. You remember on the eve of the general elections of 1882 the Globe said:—"If the sun of the 21st of June should rise upon a Tory victory, half of the territory of Ontario will be gone beyond recall." The sun of the 21st of June did rise on a Conservative victory from one end of this country to the other, and notwithstanding that this territory was awarded by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council to the Province of Ontario (cheers). I point your attention to that for the purpose of showing you that this is a mere cry, for the purpose of misleading the electors, and has no substance (cheers.) You remember at the last local election how they went around singing their song—"Ontario, Ontario, the traitor's hand is on thy throat! Ontario, Ontario!" (laughter.) This went ringing through the land, but it was simply a party cry for the purpose of arousing the electors when they had no real question to go to the country (hear, hear.) While the Conservative party were going on with that great public enterprise, the C P. R., and were endeavoring to foster the trade of the country, this was the cry that was being made for the purpose of destroying the Government that was then engaged in works of the greatest interest to every man (cheers) I understand that my opponents say on this occasion that it is necessary a gentleman should be selected who will especially look after the interests of the workingmen. Now, I have every desire to see the interests of the workingmen protected. I have ever desired to see justice done to them, but I stand upon this platform, not as the representative of any class or section of the community, but as the candidate of all classes and sections of the community (cheers). I observe that an attempt is being made to make very little of what has been done for the workingmen proceeding from the Opposition side of the House, and great credit is taken to the Government for what it has done for the workingmen. Now, what has been done by the party which I have the honor to lead in the Local House? I was elected in the fall of 1872 In the second session in which I sat in Parliament I introduced a bill to protect the wages of the workingman against seizure by a creditor. I saw that it seemed to be recognized in every civilized community that if misfortune came upon a man it did not follow that his wife and children should be left to depend on the mercy of the creditor.

A voice—What has been done for the honest man?

Mr. Meredith—This man makes some distinction between the honest man and the workingman. I do not see that I understand Mr. Slade to mean that that was bad law, exempting $25 of wages from seizure. I do not agree with him and I do not think this audience will agree with him.

Mr. Slade—If you had trusted him to the amount of $34 you would agree with me d——d quick.

Mr. Meredith—There are some men who think if a man becomes indebted to him they may take even his life. They used to imprison him, but thank God that day has passed (applause.) It is not a sin for a man to be unable to pay his debts. I have seen this kind of a case time and again. Sickness comes into a man's family; doctor's bills run up and he gets behind, perhaps loses his day's work for a time looking after the sick in his family, and a load of debt, which was large to him, although perhaps small to Mr. Slade and the capitalist, was heaped upon his head. The creditor could come and each week sweep away every dollar of that man when he went into employment again. I thought that was unjust and unfair and a law was introduced by me, providing that a man should have to the extent of $25 of his wages exempt from seizure by the creditor. I believe that was a good law.

Mr. Slade interrupted and said the lawyer them came in for his fee.

Mr. Meredith—It has nothing to do with the lawyer. It has to do with a court in which a lawyer does not appear. There is not a workingman in this audience who will agree with the objections made against this law, but will endorse me (cheers) The next question is that which relates to the wages of workingmen under the Insolvency Law. Under the old Act, persons were entitled to protection to the extent of two months' wages. When the Insolvency Law was swept away, however, that privilege went with it. Five per cent, or ten per cent, or whatever the estate paid, that was all he got. I thought that was unfair, and I introduced a bill that when an employer failed the workingman should receive his wages to the extent of two months in priority to all others (cheers.) I think in that I represented the interests of the workingmen as well as if Mr. Peddle had been elected to take my place (hear, hear) A great deal is said about the Workingmen's Compensation Bill. I cannot better illustrate the reasons which prompted me in the introduction of my bill on that matter than by telling you the argument I heard a Labor Reformer give at Detroit some time ago. He said:—"If I ship my donkey by a railway and it should happen to be killed, I can recover damages; but if I should happen to be a brakeman on that road and be injured I could recover no damages, nor could my family should I be killed. The life of the donkey is held to be of greater value than the lives of workingmen, and one of the reasons why workingmen are organized in the United States is to do away with that evil" (applause) I introduced a Bill to do away with that injustice. What did the Government do, however? They voted it down in 1885, and this year they introduced another measure not quite so wide as mine, but which Mr. Hardy, speaking at Essex Centre, declared to be a better Bill than mine. In my Bill provision was made that the workingman could receive five times the amount of his annual wages. Their Bill limited the amount to three times My Bill applied to the man who might be in charge of a stationary engine. As the law stood no claim could be made. This was felt to be a great evil, and you may remember that eight or nine years ago a strong plea was made to have licenses taken out by those who were placed in charge of stationary engines in buildings. My Bill proposed that for injuries in such cases the employer should be liable; but in Mr. Mowat's Bill he was not, and the operation of his Bill was taken away from the two great railway companies in this country, the G. T. R. and C. P. R. I thought that was wrong and opposed it. Then, sir, I am in favor of the principle of manhood suffrage (cheers). I know my opponents say, "You have taken up this question of manhood suffrage for the purpose of an election cry, and you are really not in favor of it." I ask you to look at my record in that respect. In 1874 I was one of three to vote for it, and in 1875 I was one of seventeen Then the Government brought in a Bill to grant votes upon income, but to that Bill they tacked a clause providing that the taxes should be paid before the right to vote could be exercised. I opposed that. When the right to vote was given to farmers's sons, I said it was unfair to give that right to farmers' sons and not to the sons of mechanics (cheers.) I proposed an amendment in that direction but I was opposed. In all these measures I was working in favor of the workingmen. So with regard to immigration. In 1884 I moved an amendment for the reduction of the amount to be granted. It is one of our planks now that all expenditure shall cease, believing as we do that it is unnecessary to bring in artisans to compete with those engaged here now. The question of prison labor is one of very great difficulty and hard to solve, but everybody must admit that the labor of prisoners should be laid out so that it does not come into competition with free labor, and yet something must be done to take care of those who are committed to the care of such institutions. There is but one contract running in the Dominion Penitentiaries, and the Government are resolved when that expires, in a short time, that it shall not be renewed. In Ontario, however, there are several contracts running which tend very seriously to interfere with the trade in competition with which the goods come. There is a contract, for instance, with H. A. Nelson & Sons, by which they get the use of machinery and pay for labor at the rate per man of about forty cents per day. What is the result? At Berlin there was an establishment at which children's sleighs, etc, were made, which has been entirely closed up owing to this undue competition. In the city of London, I am told, there is an establishment engaged in the same class of business which, if not closed up, is seriously interfered with, in consequence of this prison labor. I think that is unfair and the broad platform which I submit to the people of this country is that that kind of thing should be discontinued (cheers). Am I not acting in the interest of Mr. Peddle and his friends?

Mr. Thomas Marshall—What is your platform on that?

Mr. Meredith—I would not let them compete with free labor at all events. There are many things they might do. Now, it is said upon this occasion that Mr. Peddle is to receive the support of the temperance people of this constituency. I do not desire to make any references to myself that might not be in good taste but I think I may fairly say that ever since I have been in public life I have been a total abstainer. I have endeavored, by example, in every way to stop the drinking habits of the community, and I agree with all legislation that will proceed in the direction of decreasing the consumption of alcoholic liquors in this country, believing that as it grows, evils follow in proportion. Wherever the sovereign voice of the people has said there shall be no sale or manufacture of liquor in that county, that is a law which the Provincial Government should put in force (cheers) I see that Mr. Mowat is taking the ground that it is not his duty to enforce the Scott Act How is it then that a vote for $10,000 was taken to enforce this very Act (cheers)? My view is this:—Looking at it from the standpoint of a temperance man, or as a man who is not looking at it in that way, the duty of the Government is to honestly enforce the Act. Why should the scandal and disgrace exist of a law being on the statute book and not carried out as other laws? It leads to the disrespect of other laws Then, sir, an attempt is being made to make political capital out of the cause of the Mail newspaper. It has been said that the Conservative party has been raising in this country the "No Popery" cry. It has been said that the Conservative party has attempted to raise again those cries of sectarian hate and bigotry which were raised in days gone by. I utterly repudiate that they have done anything of the kind in this country. I repeat it, that men who would raise a cry of that kind for the purpose of getting into power, are men who should not be entrusted with it.

Mr. James Mills—Do you repudiate the Mail?

Mr. Meredith—Does Mr. Mills repudiate the Globe? I have laid my platform before the citizens of London, and upon that I am prepared to stand or fall (cheers). I have lived among the people of this constituency for nearly fifty years. I have amongst the Roman Catholics some of my warmest friends, and I want to know if there is anything in my record which would warrant the assertion that I would make an assault upon their liberties? (cheers). I realize that in this country we have a mixed community, of men of different races and creeds, and to build up this country there must be equal rights to all classes (cheers). The true principle, upon which our affairs ought to be conducted, is that no section of the people or Church should be otherwise than on a perfect equality with all other sections of the people (cheers) Exclusive rights and privileges to none and equal rights to all should be our motto (cheers). Sir, it should never be a question at what altar a man bows, or by what means he seeks to attain his heavenly abode. These are questions which should have no place in political discussions or political appointments. The only question should be:—Is he a citizen of the country, and deserving and fit to fill the position? I utterly repudiate the idea that I have attempted to build up any such platform, or to claim any rights for Catholics that I would claim for my Protestant fellow-citizens (cheers) I am prepared to give to them all the rights I claim for myself, and I propose to retain for all my fellow-citizens all the rights which properly belong to them. It is said that I propose to do away with the Separate Schools of this Province I deny that, and the man who makes that charge in the face of my address to the electors, in which I would maintain them and increase their efficiency, is an unjust and unfair man (cheers.) As I said before, I am prepared to be judged by my record and statements and nothing else. The men who raised this cry must fancy that the people are not intelligent. This privilege is guaranteed to Roman Catholics and they shall have their Separate Schools. No man could take them away, however much he might desire to do so; but I do not propose to do anything of the kind. I declare it is the duty of any Government in the Province of Ontario to make those schools as efficient as possible, that they may fulfil the purpose for which they were established (cheers) A great deal has been said about the Bible, and I am not here to deceive my Catholic fellow-citizens. I stand by the free, open Bible in the schools of this country, not casting upon my Roman Catholic friend, who have conscientious scruples against its being read, the duty of taking part in the service if he does not wish to do so. But it would be a sad thing if the Bible, which we all love as Protestants, without offence to our Catholic fellow citizens, should not be read and studied by the young of this country. What has been the cause of England's greatness? It has been that her people have been Bible-loving people. We must follow in that course and instruct our young in the truths of that book, which comes from the Great Infinite by means of His beloved Son (cheers) It is not offensive to any Roman Catholic, and I ask that in this community every man should stand equal before the law, and that there should be exclusive privileges to none, but equal rights to all (cheers) I know there are those who think that the Irishmen of this city will not vote for me now I do not believe they will be led away by these cries. They know my past record and principles. They know I will be true and fair to them, and shall see that justice is done them in any legislation in which I take part. I appeal to them to treat me according to my record in the past (cheers) It does seem to me that in this contest we have another question of very great moment—a question in which the people of this country are deeply interested. In it is involved the question whether there shall be one equal law over this Dominion. I charge that the Government of Mr. Mowat have made an alliance with persons in the Province of Quebec, who would set race before law. They have joined with those who demand that a Government shall be driven from power, because the law was executed and justice done. What were these same gentlemen, however, doing before the execution? They were crying out for justice and taunting the Dominion Government with the desire to let a criminal escape; but no sooner had the execution taken place than they declared that a judicial murder had been perpetrated and a martyr done to death. Who would have thought that political capital would be made out of that question? Who would have thought that any man would have come into the heart of the Province of Ontario and declare that had he been on the banks of the Saskatchewan he would have shouldered his musket and fought on the side of the rebels! (hisses). I do not believe there are many men standing here to-day who a short time ago would have thought it possible; but for the miserable purpose of leaping into power over this cry, this line has been struck. I appeal to the people to lay aside all party ties and party differences in the presence of this great danger, and stand up in defence of law and order and the maintainance of Confederation (cheers). The basis of Confederation is assailed, as well as the superstructure, in this demand for the destruction of a Government simply because it discharged its duty in carrying out the law. I leave my case in the hands of my fellow-citizens. I have appealed to them in the past and not in vain, and I hope I have done nothing to shake their confidence or warrant their disapprobation. I have not been able to take an active part in this contest and meet as many electors as I should like to have done The duties of my party have demanded that I should visit other sections. Therefore I leave my case in the hands of my fellow-citizens, asking them if it is in the interest of the Province of Ontario that I should be again returned to fill the proud position of representative of the Western Metropolis, to put their shoulder to the wheel to see that the city gives no uncertain sound but stand true to its colors (cheers.) I appeal to no man on personal grounds. I ask you to consider the persons who are before you, and I ask also for your support (cheers and cries of "You will get it." If, on the other hand, you think it not in the interests of the city that I should not be returned, I shall bow to the result and never cease to remember the great kindness I have received at your hands. Whether the result be to relegate me to private life or not I shall remember also that it is to the citizens of London I owe everything I have, and whether in the House or out of it, my earnest efforts and warmest exertions shall be to promote the interests of my native city and the country in which I was born. (Loud and long-continued cheering.)

Mr. Samuel Peddle was loudly cheered on coming forward. He began by remarking that the mottoes they saw around the walls (those remaining from the Liberal-Conservative meeting), had caused lots of commotion and provoked hard feelings, especially among those who called themselves Grits, but they had no effect on him, with the exception of that, "One Law for All." If he thought that was the case in this country he would not be on this platform to-day. He had nothing to say against Mr. Meredith; as a workingman he respected him, but if he (the speaker) thought Mr. Meredith could do as much for the workingmen as he could he would work for him as much as he was able. Mr. Meredith said he lived in London West, and was not a resident of the city. It was true he did live in one of the suburbs, but the principal part of his earnings were made and spent here. He had tried always to be a good Canadian; he had made it his study to keep "Canada for the Canadians," and to see that the people got Canadian productions—not English. He alluded to the various cries that had been raised by the party to which Mr. Meredith was allied through the Dominion Government. They had been told that Mr. Meredith would be a better representative of their interests than himself, but he thought that there were men here who did not believe it. Men who worked day after day at the bench, the forge and the mill, men with good constitutions, knew the difficulty in the way of their acquiring education. Such men as these knew more of the real wants of the working class than those outside possibly could. He said Mr. Meredith had told them a tale of his having been in Detroit and of hearing the speech of a labor reformer—he (the speaker) believed he knew who it was—and that he had taken a lesson from him. He (the speaker) was glad there was one labor reformer to give even Mr. Meredith a lesson. The Factory Act was then referred to by him, and he asked were the wages that could be earned by children to be compared with the advantage of education for them? It might not suit all at first, but would be found the best for the working classes. This, he said, was the first time a workingman had ever had a hope of representing this beautiful city in the Legislature He did not solicit the honor, and now that he had accepted it, was said he would back out at the last moment, but, as they knew, there was no back out to him. It had been asked why did they take this step. They, as workingmen, were not properly represented in the Legislature, as they should be, and they felt that they should be more strongly represented When a man entered into business with an intention to prosper and if things went wrong with him he could compromise with his creditors, but he asked did they ever know of a laboring man who had sickness in his family or who got out of work and fell into debt without any blame on his own part being given any law by which to compromise? Could the hearts of other classes go out to the workingmen and their families as would those of their own class in Parliament? He did not say these other men did not intend to do the best for the workingmen, but they did not think as the working class did. He next adverted to the question of class legislation, and the salaries of Government employes, especially those of the higher grade. These got good large salaries and were granted pensions at the close, besides. How much of this kind did the workingmen get? Not much, and these men got too much.

A voice—What about Powderly?

Mr. Peddle—"$5,000—too much, ain't it?"

He continued by saying he had prepared a platform which he believed to be right. The first plank in it was the abolishment of personal canvass as being more injurious to the poor than to the rich. He thought the candidates should not go into a personal canvass as was often the case, but should let their opinions be known through the papers or from the public platform. Another of his principles was that the qualification for mayor should be reduced to $750 for freehold and $1,500 for leasehold property. In the contest for the Local House no such qualification was required. He supposed it was as they never thought a plain cabinetmaker could ever get there. As to the prevention of convict labor from coming into competition with free labor, he could heartily support the views of Mr. Meredith, for that gentleman would get into the House from some other place, while he (the speaker) would be elected from this city. Competition in trade was a good thing in itself, but competition from such a source (convicts) was of the devil-devilish, and if the convict labor could be employed by the Mowat Government for the benefit if all it would be much better than the present system. As far as the stoppage of assisted immigration was concerned he was in favor of Mr. Meredith's ideas, only he went stronger still. He was willing that a man should be appointed to give all necessary information to good emigrants coming to this country. But he asked, at the last session when a Bill was introduced in the House in regard to emigration, why did Mr. Meredith not move to abolish it altogether? He moved to reduce it.

A voice—He moved to abolish it altogether.

Mr. Peddle continued that another of his planks was that a law should be passed by which industrious and temperate men could be assisted to get on the public lands. During these oppressive times there were many men who would like to settle upon the public lands. He, himself, had wished to do so when he came here, but he had not the funds. He believed if the Government would help the settlers a little at the beginning, after the first year they could get on all right and pay back the money, and he maintained that they should be helped by the Government. Another thing which he advocated was the establishment of a Government printing bureau, where all school books and such works could be printed, so that if there was any boodle the workingmen could get it—he would not object to that. Another point he favored was that the amount exempt on income tax should be raised from $400 to $800, so as to exempt those earning small wages from taxation. He knew lawyers earning large salaries who were only paying small taxes, while some workingmen, who chanced to be thrown out of work, were assessed and had to pay on income they never received. There was another law that should be more strictly enforced, that compelling children to attend school regularly. There was a better method pursued in Germany, though our educational system was regarded as the finest in the world to day. These men were appointed to go around and look carefully after the absentees, but here they were neglected and allowed to grow up wild around the streets. Another matter—and the violation of it was the base of all their troubles—he held was that the public lands should be reserved for actual settlement and not given to speculators, or, if so, that all lands held for speculative purposes should be taxed to the full value. It was just as necessary the number of acres owned by a man should be regulated as the number of his wives should be. Why, he asked, should any man hold land he cannot use? There was no reason for it, and it should not be so. Another point which he held, was that there should be shorter hours for workingmen. Seeing that the consumptive capacity of man was so small and their productive power so great unless something be done they could not easily get on. With the introduction of more labor-saving machinery the demand would grow less, and unless there was more consumption for the goods produced they must have shorter hours to labor. The aim could be accomplished by the nine hours' system through proper legislation. There was also another matter, which was not a law now, but which he thought must soon be made so, and that was the extension and application to all sections of the Province of the Torrens system of land transfer and registration. There was no reason why the workingmen should go and pay the lawyers to prepare their deeds when by buying the forms they could fill them up and do it themselves, and after this election some of them (the workingmen) would no doubt be allowed to do so. As he was not a speaker, he felt somewhat embarrassed, but said this was his adopted home. Here he hoped to live and die, and trusted they could say of him at least that he was honest and just. As to the temperance question, Mr. Meredith appeared to be so great a temperance man that he (the speaker) could not say much. But he could say he never drank, and never smoked, and that, in this contest, if nothing else did, should help the cause of labor reform. One thing he could say, that any public speaker who came on a platform here never failed to get a fair hearing. If he only had the nerve to come up here, no matter how illiterate he be, he could get a good hearing, and for that he thanked them. He was loudly cheered on taking his seat.

Mr. E. T. Essery said they all knew he had been a Liberal on the Dominion platform, and in the past had sacrificed his principles in support of Mr. Meredith. He thought that a party in Opposition who required a leader should have a good one, and supported Mr. Meredith as long as he remained true to Ontario. He then made a vigorous attack on the bureau system, charging the Mowat Government with the full responsibility of that iniquity, which robbed the rich and cutraged the poor in the name of justice; and he blamed Mr. Meredith for not objecting to it in the House. He instanced the cases of Chief Justice Draper and Judge Wilson, who had been elected in past days to represent London, although not residents of the city, to show that the position of Mr. Peddle was not an isolated one in this respect. He reviewed the measures which Mr. Meredith claimed credit for passing in the House, and went on to speak of the fact that Mr Meredith said he was not bound by the Mail. If he (Mr. M.) had any regard for his reputation he had better make that statement from every platform, for all knew the cry of his party was, "No Popery," "The Bible and Beer," "Let us get back," and that was all. He said he held in his hand the Tory Bible of London—(the FREE PRESS)—and then dealt with the various points enunciated in Mr. Meredith' platform as issued to the people. He had the honor to be here the other night when Hon. Wilfred Laurier spoke (loud hisses and cheers), and believed freedom of speech would be always allowed in London. He next attacked Mr. Carling, and said Mr. Meredith condemned the evils of the bureaucratic system because the Tory party always wished to work the municipal business. Who was the Mayor, who was the Chairman of Finance, who was Mr. Meredith?

A voice—A gentleman.

Mr. Essery—"He was also the Solicitor; and all three were Tories." The Scott Act now came in for a tirade, and the speaker declared it was the duty of the Collector of Customs to enforce it. At this moment he observed the motto, "One Law for All," and excitedly remarked that until their representative did his duty the sooner they tore down that rag the better it would be. After a reference to the Separate School system and the question of religious equality, he said as far as a secret ballot was concerned he and Mr. Meredith were in the same boat. If the Ontario ballot was not a secret one the sooner it was wiped out the better, and there should be no marks upon it by which it could be found how a man voted, and the only knowledge of it should be between a man's conscience and God. As to the question of manhood suffrage he had gloried when Mr. Meredith supported that measure in the House. He also endorsed Mr. Meredith's opinion that emigration should close. But Mr. Meredith, he held, was not only a Conservative leader in Ontario, but one of the ablest and decentest lieutenants in the Dominion at large. Had he ever said to Sir John, on this question, "Stop; in this matter I am the general, and you the lieutenant, and this emigration must cease?" No. The Dominion Government were paying out lots of money—one-half went to their favorites and the other half to bring in emigrants to compete with the workingman. Their system protected the rich, the manufacturers, the agents, "who toil not, neither do they spin." If Mr. Meredith was as honest in the Dominion as he was in the Legislature he (the speaker) would always stand at his back and wish him God speed. After saying that Mr. Peddle was the man for the laboring classes; he asserted that the reports of labor speakers could never be found in the papers, and again proceeded to enter into detailed reference to various questions Taking up that of the unfair competition of convict with free labor, he enquired who controlled the Penitentiaries of the Dominion, and answered that Sir John controlled every one of them and that they were competing with honest labor. He said if the men in the prisons were to be kept at work they must come into competition with free labor, and the only way to bring the matter to a focus was by the appointment of a commission to investigate the question. He repudiated the labor commission appointed by the Government; and blamed both the Mowat Government and Mr. Meredith for not giving justice to workingmen by a proper Employer's Liability Act. He asked what had the people of Ontario to do with the Quebec agitation, and then wandered off to the questions of the Boundary Award and Streams Bill in the old-time strain, charging Mr. Meredith with deserting the interests of this Province at the behest of Sir John. He asserted that the Dominion Government had sold timber lands in the disputed territory for $5 an acre, which had before been sold for $400 per acre, and boldly declared that the Fenian raid at the time the rebels were in Canada Sir John was on a drunken carouse in the streets of Ottawa. This assertion called down upon him the indignation of the audience, which was manifested in a very emphatic manner, and he quickly close by declaring himself in favor of Mr. Peddle, and by asking them to elect that gentleman.

The meeting closed with three cheers for Mr. Meredith and the Queen.

EAST MIDDLESEX.

A meeting of the ratepayers of the East Riding of Middlesex was held at Collins' Hall, in London West, at eleven o'clock yesterday before Col. Walker, Returning Officer, for the purpose of receiving nominations of candidates for the representation of the Riding in the Ontario Legislature. After the usual formalities had been complied with, the nomination of candidates was called for.

Daniel Mackenzie was proposed by George Douglas, of London Township, seconded by Thomas McGoey, of London West.

Richard Tooley was nominated by Jas. Gilmour, of North Dorchester, ex-Warden of the County of Middlesex, seconded by D. C. Kennedy, of London West.

Mr. Tooley selected Mr. N. P. Graydon as his financial agent, and Mr. A. J. B. Macdonald was chosen by Mr. Mackenzie.

The candidates briefly addressed the meeting, returning thanks for their nomination, and making a few remarks relative to the leading questions of the day.

The following are the deputy returning officers for the election, as also the polling places:—

DORCHESTER.

A Legal Holiday.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

DEAR SIR,—Believing there is an effort being made by some parties to have the holiday changed from Saturday, 1st January, to Monday, 3rd, and judging from previous experience, I think it would be very unwise. It is, firstly, a legal holiday; banks, Custom House, Post Office, &c., closed. Our country friends all understand that Saturday is the day. Railways are running their excursions on that day, and, altogether, I consider it would be a great mistake.

Thanking you for your space,

Yours, &c., NEW YEAR.

London, Ont., Dec. 20, 1886.

The Board of Trade inquiry relative to the stranding of the steamship Pavonia in October last, was concluded at Liverpool on Saturday. All concerned were acquitted of blame.

FREE PRESS CORRESPONDENCE.

SETTLERS' GRIEVANCES IN QUEBEC.

Their Oppressions from the Reform Government.

Let M. Laurier Look at Home.

Editor London Free Press.

SIR,—The affidavit of Mr. J. Kelly, published in a recent issue of the FREE PRESS, effectually disposed of the only alleged case of hardship which, in the opinion of Mr. Laurier, justified the recent rebellion in the North-west Territories. I have often been surprised that a gentleman of such estimable character and eminent ability as Mr. Laurier should attempt to defend, much less to justify, an uprising for which there was so little cause, especially in view of the harsh treatment to which the English speaking minority in his own province were subjected during the brief regime of the Joly Government. While Mr. Laurier waxes eloquent over the alleged wrongs of the Metis of the North-west, he entirely overlooks the fact that Mr. Joly's Commissioner of Crown Lands confiscated the properties of scores of settlers in the phosphate district, north of this city. Nor were these isolated or exceptional instances; it was part of a policy pursued by the Joly Government towards their political opponents who happened to be the unfortunate possessors of Crown lands in that part of the Province of Quebec. I am personally cognizant of the fact that men who had purchased and paid in full for their lands, partially improved them and endeavored to comply with all the rigorous conditions of settlement attached to the sales, were dispossessed of their property without warning and refused compensation in any form, or even a hearing of their grievances. One illustration of the policy pursued by Mr. Joly's Government will show your readers how the vested rights and personal liberty of English speaking citizens of the Province of Quebec were respected by those who are now the champions and defenders of Riel and the rebellious Metis. I give the statement as it was published in the Ottawa Citizen over the signature of the victim:—In 1861, Charles W. Brown purchased lots A and 1 in the fourth range of the township of Bowman, in the county of Ottawa, about fifty miles north of this city. He settled his father-in-law on the property, and from year to year improved and cultivated the farm. In 1877 he completed the payments upon the lots, including arrears and interest upon the unpaid purchase money, and transferred the property to his nephew, Mr. Thomas Higginson. In the meantime phosphate of lime was discovered upon the land, and a counter-claim was put in by a wealthy political friend of the then Commissioner. A sham investigation was held by officials of the department into the case, the result of which was that Mr. Brown's property was confiscated, with the purchase money and improvements, and he himself, while working upon the property, was arrested and brought before a magistrate for trespass. His mother-in-law, then in her sixty-fifth year, was evicted from the premises in which she had lived for very many years. Her house was torn down and destroyed, and the family were practically driven from the Province. Subsequently the Department tendered to Mr. Brown a small portion of what the property had cost him, which Mr. Brown, being at the time in embarrassed circumstances, accepted. I cannot, of my own knowledge, speak of any other cases of actual eviction, but I can give the names of scores of settlers whose properties were confiscated by the Joly Government, and who were practically driven from the Province without any compensation whatever for the money and labor they had expended in trying to make homes for themselves in the Laurentian wilderness north of this city. In support of my statement I beg to call your attention to the following comments of the press, on different occasions, upon the harsh and tyrannical course pursued by Mr. Joly's Commissioner of Crown Lands. The Lachute Watchman of April 4th, 1879, whose editor had at one time been himself a settler in the district where most of these confiscations took place, published an article, the concluding portion of which is as follows:—

"Nothing short of an amendment to the existing laws, which will deprive any Commissioner of the power of robbing a settler of his property, will satisfy the public or arrest the exodus of the bone and sinew of the Ottawa Valley. We have lost more of our pioneer population by Mr. Langelier's mad policy than we can hope to replace in the next ten years. His victims are devoting their means, their energy and their persevering industry to developing the resources of Manitoba and Dakota, while we are taxed—heavily taxed—to coax back the self-exiled French-Canadians from the mills and factories of New England, and to import the shiftless paupers and the inexperienced denizens of the manufacturing towns of the old world to fill the gap which persecution has created in this Province. But what better could be expected from men who gained office by fraud, who secured it by corruption, and who seem determined to cling to the Treasury benches until they are removed by the public as barnacles are scraped from the hull of a water-logged ship."

The Ottawa Free Press (Reform) in its issue of February 17th, 1885, thus describes the position of the settler upon Crown lands in the Province of Quebec:—

"It is quite apparent that a purchaser of Crown lands in the Province of Quebec is regarded by the department as a tenant at will, who can be dispossessed of his land at any moment the Commissioner wants it for a friend. Until the patent is issued he cannot call his farm his home."

On the 16th February, 1885, the Ottawa correspondent of the Hamilton Times (Reform) said:—

"The Commissioner of Crown Lands, over his own signature, admits that it has been the policy of the department for years to confiscate lands sold to settlers, whether paid for or not, when it suits the commissioners to do so. Several instances have been published in which, although the land was paid for, large improvements made and the owner had been in possession of the property for years, everything was confiscated without warning to the victim and without redress, and the evicted purchaser has been driven to seek a home in other provinces or in the States."

I could go on quoting extracts from various newspapers, all to the same effect—describing the reign of terror which prevailed in the settlements north of this city while Mr. Joly's Government was in power at Quebec. In view of all these facts, of which Mr. Laurier is cognizant, I am surprised that he should waste so much indignation over the comparatively trifling grievances of which the Metis of the North-west Territories at one time complained, while the outrages perpetrated by his own political friends in the Province of Quebec during their brief term of office are upon record and remain to this day unredressed. If the Metis of the Prince Albert settlement were justified in rebelling against the Dominion Government for delay in issuing the patents for the lands on which they had squatted, and refusing to recognize the justice of their demand to one-seventh of the entire North-west Territories, what would not the victims of Mr. Langelier's tyranny in the Province of Quebec be justified in doing to avenge the outrages perpetrated upon them by the Rouge party eight years ago?

I am, &c,

GEO. C. HOLLAND.

The "Catholic Record" and the Elections.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

DEAR SIR,—Being a constant reader of your valuable paper, and an occasional reader of the Catholic Record, I cannot read without noticing the various ways introduced in the latter paper to intimidate the Catholic electors of London not to tender their votes to our honorable and worthy representative, Mr. W. R. Meredith, but with fear and trembling over the school system (God bless us), to give their hearty support to the opposition candidate, Mr Peddle, the L G.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am a Catholic, perhaps only a nominal one (something new), and have, up to the present time, been a supporter of the Grit party for forty years; but henceforth I shall support with my little mite those gentlemen who have won for us, as electors, that honor and esteem as a country we are proud of to-day, and on the 28th inst. let us see Mr. Meredith returned with a majority he is worthy of from the electors of London, irrespective of creed; and I hope to see our esteemed representative, Hon. John Carling, receive that united support he so proudly merited from the electors of London at previous elections, on the coming general election.

Further, if the Catholics of London and elsewhere will peruse the Catholic Record over of a recent date they will see a scathing article condemnatory of their liberty and means of gaining a livelihood, from which I quote the following words:—

"Our experience as to nominal Catholics" (men who claim the right to judge for themselves), "teaches that the majority of them are either slimy politicians or saloon-keepers. The former pretends to carry the Catholic vote in his pocket, and sells to the highest bidder, while the latter strives to enrich his pocket at the expense of fools! * * * * The Church would willingly disown the membership of those rotten branches."

Again, the same article says "he is generally loud-mouthed, and paints his belief on the street corners * * * his tongue is generally flippant, and he knows all the disputed passages of the Bible;" and the writer of the article here quoted often read passages from the pulpit to the congregation which he never put into practice himself, and yet these gentlemen, against the will of their Creator, threaten to rain down heaven's lightning and hell's brimstone (I quote) on the heads of those who disobey their commands. I was taught by that Church to be charitable to all men. Is this Christianity? Is this liberty of conscience? Great Scott, how things do change!

Men of common sense and reason, and men endowed with a free-will from your Creator, look at this and judge for yourselves, and think whether the gentlemen who countenance such insults to be published in our midst, thought of the "slimy saloon-keepers" when they were building their new Cathedral in the city of London. No! They took their money whether they did or not, and from nominal Catholics too.

By inserting these few lines in your next edition you will greatly oblige,

LIBERTY OF CONSCIENCE.

London, Dec. 20, 1886.

Tampering with the Bible.

DEAR SIR,—I was thunderstruck in seeing that the Ontario Government had dared to eliminate from the Word of Life such fundamental passages of Scripture as, "There is no other name under Heaven given amongst men whereby we can be saved," and "For there is one God and one Mediator between God and man, the Man Christ Jesus." I am not surprised that the following curse should be discarded:—"And if any man shall take away from the words of the Book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the Book of Life, and out of the Holy City, and from the things which are written in this Book." As an all-wise God, He has given us His revealed will for our spiritual and moral guidance, and although in some cases it may be considered judicious, on account of human weakness, not to read some passages, yet, to eliminate them is, I consider, arrogant and presumptuous work, fit for only infidels and sceptics to indulge in, as it will surely bring down the curse above upon them, for God cannot lie. Let Episcopalians, Methodists, Congregationalists and Baptists be equally as firm as the Presbyterians in contending for the Bible in all its truthfulness.

It seems to me an evil spirit is rife amongst us, in trying not only to make us traitors to the memory of our countrymen who died for their country, but would also make us traitors to our God. As a people I trust we shall allow no tampering with the Bible, for as our Queen remarked in giving one to a heathen prince, "In this lies the secret of Britain's greatness," and "palsied be the hand" that dares to attempt to debase us as a people, by destroying that, which God states, will exalt us as a nation.

Yours truly,

TRUTH.

Mr. Hyman on Protection.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—Mr. Hyman, who was nominated by the Reform convention as their candidate, and who accepted their nomination, and who appeared on the platform with the Grit rebel Laurier-Blake combine, and publicly endorsed those traitors to civil and religious liberty, states that he is an "independent" candidate. It is, however, currently reported by some of his friends that as a manufacturer he is not satisfied with the policy of the present Government, on the ground that they have not adequately protected the manufacturers in their export trade; that although they have granted to manufacturers protection by duties under the law and high appraisements of values by customs officials, yet they have not secured export trade, and Mr. Hyman desires export bounties to be imposed such as the export sugar bounties by the United States and France. It appears that it is on this partiotic (?) ground that he is independent. Yours, etc.,

London, Dec. 20. ELECTOR.

No Doubt It Has!

To the Editor of the Free Press.

DEAR SIR,—The Globe of Saturday, 18th, says:—"In New York the boodlers are sent to Sing Sing, but in Canada some of them are wanting to be sent to Parliament."

I suppose it has reference to Blake, $600 per day; Mills, $8,000; Edgar, $8,000; Hyman and others too numerous to mention.

It is rather a mean trick to insinuate that they were getting too much from the Ontario Government. Yours, &c.,

The Veterinary College Examinations —Found Drowned—The Mayoralty —Escape of a Lunatic.

Toronto, Dec. 22.—At the Christmas examinations just concluded at the Ontario Veterinary College the following students obtained diplomas:—Geo Dunn, Simcoe; Jacob M. Fetzer, Centre Valley, Pa.; John F. Fisher, Brandon, Man.; D. Bell, Brampton; William Hunter, Brampton; W. S. Henderson, Arthur; J. A. Hennessey, Hamilton; William S. Hibard, Caledonia; G. N. O'Leary, Pickering; R. H. McInnich, Dakota; W. H. McNaughton, Vienna, Ohio; J. E. Rayen, Girard, Ohio; W. H. Riddell, Orangeville; C. Wagg, Goodwood; A. C. Wolfe, Durham; G. H. Thornton, Georgetown; M. E. Young, Belleville, Ohio; T. H. Sterling, New Hamburg. Rayen, Fisher, Henderson and O'Leary passed with great credit. There has been a larger attendance at this session than at any previous one.

The body of Timothy Harrigan, who was drowned by the capsizing of a boat in the Bay last night, was found this afternoon, and taken to the morgue.

David Blain, President of the Traders' Bank, and ex-M.P. for West York, has practically consented to run against Mayor Howland. He told the deputation that waited upon him this afternoon to wait till to-morrow morning for his formal acceptance.

Sir John Macdonald and colleagues left by the C.P.R. to-night for Ottawa.

Last night as P. C. McCarron was pacing his beat on Queen street west a young man named Henry Wall stopped him and demanded to be arrested. He told McCarron that he had robbed a mill at Stouffville a few nights ago.

An insane man named Major escaped from the Asylum at Guelph early yesterday morning and succeeded in boarding an east-bound train. When nearing Parkdale he jumped off, and although diligent search is being made, no trace of him has since been found.

Prisoners Sentenced.

St. Thomas, Dec. 22.—Peter Wright, who broke jail at Howell, Mich., last April, was to-day here sentenced to five years' imprisonment for numerous burglaries. Samuel Plain was awarded two years, and George Carey, counterfeiter, ten years.

THE ANTI-RENT AGITATION.

The Gladstonians Opposed to the "Plan of Campaign,"

AND WILL AID IN SUPPRESSING IT

Mr Parnell's Attitude---Mr. Chamberlain Adheres to His Original Irish Scheme.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL

Reported to Have Resigned His Seat in the Cabinet—Serious Snow Blockades in Germany—Miscellaneous Foreign Intelligence.

London, Dec. 22, midnight.

A Lull Expected.

The Parnellites say the "no rent" agitation will be suspended for a few weeks. A lull is expected until after Parliament meets.

They Will be Prosecuted.

The Government, it is reported, has resolved to prosecute Dillon and Healy for their declarations at yesterday's meeting of the Executive Committee of the National League, that they would continue to carry out the "plan of campaign" in defiance of the Government.

The "Plan" Abandoned.

At a meeting of tenants at Magherafelt, in Londonderry, to-day, Mr. Pinkerton, M. P. for Galway, informed his hearers that the "plan of campaign" had been abandoned, and urged them to form tenants' defence societies, the payment of rents to which the Government would be unable to prevent.

Gadban Effendi.

A Constantinople despatch says:—Gadban Effendi, Special Turkish Envoy to Sofia, whom several of the Powers attempted to have banished from the Porte's diplomatic service on the alleged ground of double dealing with Bulgaria, will, through palace influence, remain in Bulgaria, despite advice to the contrary of the Turkish Ministry.

The Bulgarian Regency.

It is stated at Constantinople that the Porte hopes, through the influence of M. Voulcovich, the Bulgarian Agent at Constantinople, to bring about a change in the Bulgarian Regency. The diplomats at Constantinople, however, believe that the Bulgarians will refuse to change the Regency until an acceptable candidate for the Bulgarian throne has been designated.

Churchill Resigns.

The London Times announces that Lord Randolph Churchill has resigned his seat in the Cabinet owing to a disagreement with the Admiralty and the War Office with reference to the increasing expenses of the country in view of existing financial difficulty, and also because he disapproved the home legislative programme of the Cabinet.

The German Military Bill.

Semi-official Berlin newspapers are discussing favorably a proposal to cover the expense of increasing the army by imposing a tax upon incomes of 6,000 marks and upwards. The North German Gazette expresses the hope that the members of the Reichstag during the recess will learn from their constituents the true sentiments of the people regarding the Military Bill, and that they will be ready on their return to vote for the measure with alacrity.

Winter in Germany.

The heavy snowstorm which is still raging over a large part of Germany has caused a complete suspension of railway traffic with Saxony, Thuringia and Bavaria, and a partial suspension of communication with Silesia, Posen, Frankfort, Metz, Worms and Strasburg (Alsace). The leading railway lines are being cleared by troops. The incessant downfall of snow makes the work very difficult. A postal service by means of sledges has been arranged between Dresden and Leipsic. A despatch from Cassel says that the storm is raging without abatement over central Germany and that no communication has been had with Berlin since Monday. Advices from other points agree in reporting a severe storm and intense cold.

Chamberlain's National Council.

Mr. Chamberlain stated last year that his scheme of National Councils in Ireland had the support of the Irish leaders. This was denied, and Cardinal Manning was asked to produce correspondence bearing on this subject in order to verify Chamberlain's assertion; but he declined to do so, regarding the correspondence as confidential. Chamberlain is now said to have gotten in his possession the actual letters in which Parnell approved of the proposed National Councils. If this be so there will be some lively scenes in the coming session of Parliament. Mr. Chamberlain has written a correspondent a letter in which he says he still adheres to his original Irish scheme, which has nothing in common with Gladstone's measures.

The Gladstonian Programme.

An interchange of views between Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues of the last Liberal Cabinet on the attitude to be adopted by the Liberal party at the opening of Parliament has resulted in an agreement to support the Government in all legal efforts to suppress the anti-rent campaign, but to urge the immediate enforcement of some form of Bill for the suspension of evictions. The Gladstone circle is irritated over the action of Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien, and the anti-rent leaders have been warned that there is no chance that the co-operation of Mr. Gladstone will continue unless they submit. Mr. Parnell, who is desirous of a common policy with Mr. Gladstone, is suspected of scheming to suppress the plan of campaign. The Pall Mall Gazette declares that both Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Parnell are no longer in accord with their followers, who, it says, unless that they discover and amend their error, will find themselves when Parliament meets without, even the rump of a party. Notwithstanding Mr. Parnell's displeasure, Messrs. Dillon, O'Brien and Healey continue their anti-rent tactics.

Parnell's Opinion.

A Dublin despatch says:—It can be authoritatively stated that Mr. Parnell is convinced that the position of the Irish tenants is worse now than when he introduced his anti-Eviction Bill, that the "plan of campaign" has, as is asserted, produced abatements in rents wherever everything else has failed. He thinks it remarkable that the Government should propose a Coercion Bill, as the entire absence of crime leaves no excuse for coercion. The suppression of the Irish National League would essentially result in the formation of secret societies that would rival one another in the commission of crimes, and thus necessitate the landlord asking Parliament for further coercive power. The present situation, says Mr Parnell, points strongly to the probability of the Government being obliged to introduce a bill reducing rents to the standard fixed by the recent decisions of Land Commission, also admitting leaseholders. The Government's illegal method of reducing rents through Gen Buller's action failed except where "assisted" by moonlighters or the "plan of campaign." Mr. Parnell will lead a strong attack upon the whole policy and action of the Government towards Ireland at the opening of the coming session of Parliament.

A Russian View.

The Journal de St. Petersbury, commenting on an article in last Monday's London Post, warning Turkey against coquetting any further with Russia, says:—"The inspirers of the Post chose a moment to utter their threat of war when all European Cabinets were consciously seeking to reconcile divergent interests which Bulgaria had created, and when Turkey and Russia had agreed upon a solution reconciling their interests in conformity with the Berlin treaty. We reserve judgment on the question whether the general tendency toward conciliation has upset certain calculations. If the article in the Post had some other and ulterior object, the powers who reprove the firebrand policy ought to affirm their resolution to preserve peace, and should act firmly against any attempt to intimidate Turkey. We hope the powers will not fail to do so. The Sultan should be advised that so long as he seeks conciliation and peace he will find powerful sympathies and energetic support."

Approval of the "Plan."

Dean Byrne, presiding at a meeting of five thousand Nationalists at Pomeroy, County Tyrone, to-day denounced the Government. He said if the coercive policy was persisted in he would not be responsible for the peace of his district. Sir Thomas Esmonde M. P., and a number of Catholic priests spoke in a similar strain. They approved the "plan of campaign," and said they were willing to take up arms to rid Ireland of landlordism. Several Government reporters were present at the meeting. Right Hon. A. J. Mundella, member of the last Gladstone Cabinet, in a speech to-day expressed his approval of the "plan of campaign." He objected to the Government's bringing criminal action for what was almost a civil offence.

Cable Notes.

Prince Alexander has started for Darmstadt.

Mr. Gladstone denies that Mr. Parnell has ever visited him at Hawarden.

A violent storm has been raging at Marseilles to-day. Vessels have been unable to leave port.

The English cricketers to-day defeated the Australian eleven at Melbourne by a score of 264 to 114.

The rumor of the fall of Kassala, published yesterday by the Bosphore Egyptian, of Cairo, is discredited in that city.

It is stated at Berlin that the object of sending a German fleet to Zanzibar is to support German occupation of the coast of Vitu.

M. de Brazza offers to relinquish his measures relative to the Congo, in favor of the measures of the French Chamber of Deputies.

A deputation of the Viceroy's Donegal tenants will shortly proceed to Dublin and pray for a reduction of 30 per cent. in their rents.

M. Flourens, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, will receive the Bulgarian deputation as private persons, but will accord them no official reception.

The organ at Dublin of the Irish Loyal and Patriotic Union asserts that Mr. O'Brien visited London secretly a fortnight ago, and had a conference with Parnell.

Paris newspapers state that M. De Lesseps attended a banquet last evening, and in a speech stated that 137,500,000 francs were still needed to complete the Panama Canal.

The claim of the Egyptian Government to lands in Egypt, owned by Ismail Pasha, the former Khedive, has been rejected by the court, which has ordered the lands to be surrendered into the custody of Ismail's agent.

Herr Von Mohl, formerly German Consul at St. Petersburg, has been appointed Master of Ceremonies at the Court of Japan, the Japanese Emperor having adopted the etiquette of the Prussian Court.

Prince Alexander has authorized a denial of Madame De Novikoff's statement that he used his position in Bulgaria to amass a fortune. He says he received only the money voted to him by the Sobranje and that he is now as poor as when elected to the Bulgarian throne.

POWDERLY AND POLITICS.

The Grand Master Workman Makes a Good Resolution and Utters Sensible Advice.

Philadelphia, December 20. — Grand Master Workman Powderly has addressed a letter to a committee of the United Labor party of this city, in reply to an invitation to address the convention of that party this evening. He thanks them for the honor tendered him, but says there are many good reasons why he should decline, and adds:—"When the laboring people of New York nominated Henry George for Mayor, they acted independent of party and without regard to the man that they placed at the head of the ticket. My name was used by partisans in New York to stem the tide. It was urged that I wrote a letter against Henry George and that I opposed the movement generally. I know of no better way of giving the lie to all of those false statements, and at the same time doing my part toward the establishment of a sentiment that would eventually tend to secure for labor some of the benefits that she asked for, than to go in person and refute the charges. I did it, and there my duty ended. In going to New York on that occasion I made a departure from a rule that I have observed for some time, and which I do not intend to break again, viz.: not to speak at a political meeting again while I hold the position of chief officer of the Knights of Labor. While it might be entirely proper for me to speak at such a meeting, yet it creates the impression that the order of the Knights of Labor is being drawn into the contest, and it is my duty to do all that lies in my power to keep the order over which I have been chosen to preside above the tide of partisan politics. At New York I spoke as an individual voicing the sentiment of united labor, and not as General Master Workman, of the Knights of Labor. While I am General Master Workman I will never again occupy a place, either as speaker or officer, on a political platform. I would advise you not to take any action as a party. It seems to me that it becomes the duty of all interested to endeavor to educate the masses to free the ballot-box from the degrading influences of the bribe-giver and taker, as well as from that tool of monopoly, whisky. Put forth your every effort to discover what is wanted in the management of the municipal affairs of your city; don't, as is too often the case, allow the interest to die out on the eve of election day, but continue until you have located the cause of the trouble. You will find that in order to remove the cause of the trouble you will have to begin at the bottom and work up instead of beginning at the top and falling down. If your movement means what its name indicates keep it up, and elicit the services of all honest men, for all such are interested in honest Government regardless of their calling in life.

SIR JOHN AT TORONTO.

Great Ovation to the Premier—The Chieftain Presented with an Address and a Gold-Headed Cane—Again an Overflow Meeting is Found Necessary.

Toronto, Dec. 21. — The concluding meeting of Sir John Macdonald's tour through Ontario was held here this evening in the Adelaide Street Rink. The building was packed to its utmost capacity, and hundreds could not get admittance. A large number of ladies occupied seats in the galleries. Mr. Edward Gurney presided.

Sir John was presented with an address from the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association, and the gold-headed cane which had been awarded to him in the vote for the most popular leader in Canada at the World's Fair held here last week. The presentation of the cane was made by a deputation of ladies.

Hon. Thomas White was the first speaker, and dwelt mainly upon North-west affairs.

Hon. Mr. Chapleau replied to the speech of Hon. Mr. Laurier, in this city, on the Riel rebellion, and Hon. Mr. Foster spoke on the fiscal policy of the Government. The speakers were enthusiastically applauded.

Sir John was given a great ovation, and defended the general policy of the Government.

On account of thousands being unable to gain admittance to the rink, an overflow meeting was held in St. Andrew's Hall. Hon. Mr. White repeated his speech there, and a number of local Conservatives made addresses.

Lynch Law in Ohio.

Eaton, Ohio, Dec. 21.—Wm. Mussel, the murderer of Daniel Christman, was brought here to-day. Arriving at the jail a mob of 500 attempted to take him from the officers, but were driven back. To night a crowd assailed the jail successfully, and at 8 15 had Mussel's dead body dangling from an electric light pole in front of the Court House. At the sight the crowd indulged in cheers and hand-clapping. The ceremony was conducted by the best citizens of the town. The body was left hanging an hour, during which time hundreds of women and children gathered to see it. It was then cut down and given to the undertaker. Mussel's crime was the killing of Daniel Christman, an aged and respected farmer living near Eaton, and the attempted killing of Mrs. Christman, on the night of December 7. Mussel had been employed that day by Christman to do some work, and after going to bed, got up and went out. Christman becoming anxious went out after him. Mrs. Christman then saw Mussel strike her husband dead with an axe. He came to the house, and beating her to insensibility, robbed the house of a few dollars, set the bed on fire, and fled. Mrs. Christman recovered and put out the fire and is still living.

Two Schooners Supposed to be Lost.

St John, N B., Dec. 22.—The schooner Sea Bird sailed for Dipper Harbor, Me., last Thursday and has not since been heard from. A heavy snow storm set in soon after she left port, and it is believed that she foundered or was dashed ashore and that all on board perished. Those on the vessel were Matthew Murphy, his two sons, 16 and 14 years of age, and John Mawhinney, an old man. A body answering to one of the Murphy boys was washed ashore at Musquash, N.B.

Newburyport, Mass., Dec. 22.— The British schooner Hope sailed November 22 from Parrsboro, N.S., for this port. Nothing has since been heard of her, and it is supposed she is lost.

Drowned in Toronto Bay.

Toronto, Dec. 22 —For some unexplained reason, two men, Joseph Guthrie and Timothy Harrigan, went for a row in the bay late last night, when the boat capsized and both were thrown into the water. Guthrie succeeded in reaching the slip in an exhausted condition, but Harrigan is supposed to have been drowned, as he has not been seen since. Both men had been drinking heavily. Harrigan was keeper of an eating house on Adelaide street.

SOUTH OXFORD.

Ingersoll, Dec. 18—Mr. Mowat's visit to Mr. George Cook, M. P. P., of South Oxford, on the 8th inst., at Norwich, in order to get him to resign from the contest in this Riding in favor of Dr. McKay, the nominee of the Reform party, was not successful, as yesterday morning every elector throughout the Riding received Mr. Cook's address, stating that he was in the field and purposed remaining there, rumors to the contrary notwithstanding. The effect of this was very perceptible on the face of every Grit, and towards evening it was freely rumored around town that Dr. McKay had been requested to resign.

Mr. Noxon, the great champion of temperance, at Dr. Williams' meeting last night, held at Salford (8 miles south of here, and a great temperance section of the Riding), endeavored to convince the electors that temperance had nothing to do in this contest, and should not be brought into consideration at all. Of course this coming from any other source (than from Jas. Noxon) might have had some effect, but that gentleman is too well known, and his remarks fell very flat upon the meeting. His own relatives say that he carries his principles of moral truth and virtue in his pocket and uses them, as occasion requires, for personal aggrandisement. N.B.—Should this statement be questioned, references can be given, and evidence cheerfully supplied.

The Ingersoll Chronicle in its last week's edition gives the names of the speakers who are stumping the Riding in favor of Dr. McKay, "James Noxon, James Brady, Thos. H. Noxon, etc." The former of these we have already given a passing notice, but as to the second we have not yet heard that gentleman. Everybody knows him. He is the Catholic school trustee, appointed by the Catholic School Board on our High School Board here through the legislation of the Mowat Government, and it is quite natural that he should have something to say, as the following letters will show:—

"London, December 9, 1883.

"DEAR MR. ——,—I venture to drop you a line in support of Hon. G. W. Ross, the new Minister of Education. Please say a good word for him to all our friends.

"Surjoined you will find a copy of Archbishop Lynch's letter in his support, which you may read to all in your confidence.

"JOHN COFFEY, Priest.

"Editor Catholic Record."

"It would be a severe blow to the Catholics to lose the Mowat Government, that has done all in its power for us. I hope the Catholics of West Middlesex will see to their own interest and return Mr. Ross.

"JOHN JOSEPH, Archbp. of Toronto.

"Toronto, Dec. 5, 1883."

I understand that he goes very extensively into this part of the subject, and besides exhibiting these letters "to those in his confidence," is doing all in his power for the Mowat Government "that has done so much for us." As to the third speaker (T. H. Noxon), we are all anxious to hear him; never have heard him; don't think he has time to devote to frivolous matters; life is too short, and he has no energies to waste, as he has been engaged in giving his brother James a character, and I have not heard of his getting through. Until I do I think I am safe in saying that the Chronicle's allusion to him can be taken cum grano salis.

The balance are light weights who, when they see more than half a dozen electors together, telephone for Noxon, as they did at Salford a few nights ago, or unless they take a load of trusty Grits with them from Ingersoll, as they did at the Beachville meeting.

An Amusing "Duel at Ottawa."

Ottawa, Dec. 19. John T. White alias "Our Cheerful Friend," a veteran journalist and now publisher of a periodical styled "The Investigator," was one of the principals in a duel fought here last evening. The other was supposed to be a sewing-machine agent who had offended the newspaper man to such an extent that the latter considered nothing but blood could avenge the insult. White had entrusted another newspaper man with a written challenge to send to this agent, but it was never delivered, a joke being put up in instead. A young man rather fond of adventure, was taken into confidence and agreed to personate the sewing machine agent. He accepted the challenge and it was decided that the affair should be fought with pistols at ten paces. A lonely spot by the rifle-range was fixed upon as the meeting place, and thither the party repaired near midnight, with the seconds and about twenty other persons who had been let into the secret. The revolvers were loaded with blank cartridges, and the duellists, having been placed back to back, the weapons were given into their hands they were then ordered to walk five paces each, and at the word turn and fire. This they did and White's opponent fell—mortally wounded, his second declared. A couple of newspaper reporters who had heard of the encounter and were anxious to see the fun arrived at this juncture and as they hurriedly approached were mistaken for the police and the whole duelling party fled in every direction. "Our cheerful friend" went home fully satisfied that he had avenged the insult offered him, and word of the supposed bloody affray soon spread. He has not been seen about to-day.

How the Two Leaders Were Received at Parkhill.

Parkhill, Dec. 17.—On Wednesday afternoon last Hon. O. Mowat arrived here to speak, along with Hon. D. Mills, in the Town Hall. Just two solitary representatives of the Reform party were at the station to receive him from the train. On Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock a telegram was received by a Conservative to the effect that Sir John would pass through here at 5.40 that same afternoon on his way to Petrolia. Although only an hour and a half of time remained, and many prominent Conservatives were at Lucan and a cold snow storm prevailed, nearly 500 people gathered at the station, and their cheers fairly drowned out the brass band, and the enthusiasm could not be quieted sufficiently to allow Sir John to respond to the unexpected ovation, and he simply stood on the platform and waved his hand at the cheering masses as the train drew away from the station. The above incidents are only "straws," but they indicate the direction of the political breeze.

A Heap of Trouble for the Negroes.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 22.—Several colored families from South Carolina passed through here yesterday, and will locate in Drew, Checot, Desha and other counties in the southern portion of Arkansas. They are from Aiken and Barnwell Counties, S.C., and give a gloomy account of affairs in that State, claiming the cotton crop was virtually a failure the past season; that the price of the staple is lower than ever before, and that landlords under the law absorbed the proceeds of black labor. They also allege they had no political rights, being to all intents and purposes disfranchised. Under these circumstances emigration was a matter of necessity, if not choice. Large numbers will leave Appleton, Blackville and other points in South Carolina within the next six weeks, bound for Arkansas.

It is reported at Sofia that Gadban Effendi, the special Turkish Envoy to Bulgaria, has fallen into disgrace with the Porte for sending false reports. Gadban has departed for Constantinople.

In the case of the persons accused of assaulting bailiffs on Clanricarde estate at Woodford, the jury at Connaught Assizes on Tuesday found that the prisoners had committed assault, but several of the jurymen considered that the assault was justifiable. Counsel for the prisoners submitted that no verdict had been found. The Judge directed the jury to again retire. When they returned they announced a verdict of guilty, but they expressed their belief that the prisoners had a right to defend a neighbor's home, and had acted in ignorance of the law. The Judge entered a verdict of guilty.

CANADIAN WIRELETS.

It is said that the Quebec Legislature has been called for the 27th Jan. next.

John Flanigan, a carter, committed suicide at Montreal Tuesday by hanging himself.

Mr. Roger Goulet, one of the half-breed Commissioners, and himself a half-breed, reached Ottawa Tuesday to make a report of his work during the summer. Until the present trip he has never been east of St. Paul. Mr. Goulet has been among the half-breeds all summer, and says they are now, with Riel out of the way, peaceable and contented.

The Marine Department have decided that the steamers Neptune and Northern Light shall make daily trips with mails and passengers, on alternate days, from Charlottetown and Georgetown, P. E. I., to Pictou, N. S., returning the following day, thus giving a daily mail each way between the island and the mainland during the winter.

Some confusion was caused at the Russell County nomination at Duncanville on Tuesday by the Returning Officer rushing into the campaign meeting two hours after nominations had closed, and announcing that no one had observed necessary formality of demanding a poll. The oversight was quickly rectified. Neil McCaul, however, who was first nominated, set up the claim that in consequence of the irregularity he had become member elect. He is an independent Liberal candidate.

Orion Catlin, 49 Pearl Street, Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I tried various remedies for the piles, but found no relief until I used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which entirely cured me after a few applications." Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, unprincipled persons are imitating it. Get the genuine. tuts

HEADQUARTERS FOR BARGAINS.

A Snake Story from Nova Scotia.

Canso, N S., Dec 18 —Hundreds of men are engaged searching for Farmer Cavener, who has been missing a fortnight, and have failed to find any trace of him. He left his house at dusk His daughter heard him calling for help from the woods adjoining the house. She went to the door and shouted in reply, but could not understand where he was, although his cries and groans were distinctly heard. She ran to neighbors for help. Meanwhile darkness and a snowstorm set it. The whole district was aroused next day and the woods for many miles thoroughly scanned. The general opinion is that he has been swallowed by a huge serpent and taken into the lakes. An eye-witness of reliability said that while recently coming to Canso he saw something which appeared to be an old dry log across the road, but when he came near to it the reptile, whose head was on one side of the road and its tail in the woods on the other side, gave two or three sweeps with its tail and darted into the forest, making the brush crack. The body seemed to be the size of a barrel and its length from twenty-five to thirty feet. It had a ferocious-looking head. The serpent has long been a source of dread to the people in that locality.

Fired by Incendiaries.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec 21.—News has been received from Vittoria, an inland town of Faulkner County, that about three o'clock Sunday morning every business house in the town was simultaneously set on fire and burned to the ground. Loss, $150,000. No one arrested, but suspicion points to certain parties.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT.

Mr. T. F. Kingsmill is on his way to the European markets on his semi-annual purchasing trip.

Gas Inspector Williams, of this city, reports the gas supplied by the St. Thomas Gas Company for the past quarter to be equal to that of 16.24 standard candles that is .24 above the standard required by law.

St Thomas Times:—"A charming Xmas number of the FREE PRESS visited us this morning. Our contemporary is to be complimented on its enterprise, as each Xmas finds it a year ahead of the last in improvement."

The name of Miss Allinson was omitted from the report of the recent entertainment in the Wellington Street Methodist Church. This young lady belongs to the lyceum, and is always active in the work connected with the church entertainments.

Thos. Grears, the unfortunate stone-cutter, of Woodbridge street, Detroit, formerly of this city, whose sad circumstances were mentioned in these columns a few days ago, lost another child on Tuesday morning, which makes the third. One still lives.

Among the imports per SS. Sarnia from Liverpool for Londoners were the following: John Birrell & Co., 6 pkgs. mdse.; W. J. Reid & Co., 21 pkgs. do.; John Green & Co., 10 do; Struthers, Anderson & Co, 3 do; James Cowan & Co, 4 do.; John Labatt, 12 bales hops.

Emma Studley applied at the Police Station yesterday for the issue of a summons against H. H. Scott, the Bailiff of No. 5 Ward, whom she charges with assaulting her and acting in a disorderly manner at her house. He will appear at the Police Court to day.

Ella Payne, the young girl charged with larceny, was let off by the Police Magistrate yesterday, sentence being suspended. The drunks were, William Lear, fined $5 or 20 days; George Maher, discharged; George Harvey, fined $2 or one week; James Shepherd, fined $5 or 20 days.

The Toronto Telegram asks:—"Why should Protestants sit still while their schools are being interfered with by the representatives of the Catholic Church? We can all see how quickly the Catholics would spring to their feet if any of their rights were threatened by the Protestants."

Mr. George W. Ross continues to repeat his statement that after the decision of the Privy Council in the Ontario boundary case, the Dominion Government had granted timber limits in the disputed territory. The statement is a falsehood; but Mr. Ross will continue to repeat it at every meeting he attends to the close of the campaign.

Mr. John McClary, of the firm of McClary & Co., of this city, was in Port Stanley the other day regarding the establishment of a branch foundry there. A public meeting of the ratepayers of the village was held Tuesday to consider the granting of a bonus of $5,000 in consideration of the foundry employing between 40 and 50 hands.

The 'Tizer is fond of holding certain gentlemen in London responsible for the actions of their supporters. It cannot, therefore, complain if we hold Dan. McKenzie, ex-M. P. P., responsible for its vile utterances against as devout and respected a Christian gentleman as is to be found in Canada, viz.: Rev. Evans Davis, of London South.

The following have successfully passed the professional examination for first-class and assistant High School Masters' certificates, at the respective training institutes:—Strathroy—First-class (also qualified as assistants) E P. Rowland, J R. Stuart. Assistant Masters—F. O. Colbeck, J. W. Garvin, A. D. Passmore, R. A. Patterson, G. D. Wilson, H. Charles.

The Hamilton Times' bravado that Mr. Meredith dare not visit that city to speak on political questions is best answered by an advertisement in the issue of the Spectator of the same day, wherein it is stated that the Leader of the Opposition will address the electors on Thursday evening at the Roller Rink. This is a sample of the Grit lies sent out about election times.

"An Eye-opener" writes as follows to the Toronto Telegram:—"Much has been said through the press about His Grace Archbishop Lynch and Mr. Fraser having in a great measure the control of the Ontario Government. If such was the case hitherto, what may be expected in future should the Ontario Government be retained in power by the Catholic vote?"

The 'Tizer has turned its attention (and abuse) to Rev. Evans Davis, of London South, for expressing his honest convictions upon the mutilated Bible. Now, it might tell the Christian public of London South what it thinks of its Grit friends in that suburb who held open meetings at McKenzie's committee rooms, on the Wortley road, during the afternoon and evening of Sunday last.

A Farmers' Institute, attended by professors from the Ontario Agricultural College, will be held in the Lobo Town Hall, at Coldstream, on January 10 and 11 next, and on the evening of the 10th, under the auspices of the Lobo Lecture Club Papers of practical worth and interest to farmers will be read and discussed, and addresses by prominent men in the county will be given. Four sessions will be held, free to all interested in agriculture.

Court Welcome, No. 12, I O F, held its semi-annual election on Monday evening at the Hall in the Hicks Block, the attendance being very large. The brothers chosen as office bearers were:—G H. Thomas, C. R.; P. Phillyis, V. C R; A McCombe, R. S; T. Amor, F. S; J. Amor, Treas; R Gilmour, Chaplain; Dr. O. M. Belfrey, Physician; R. Gardner, S W; T. Belcher, J W.; R. Bissett, S B.; W. L. Dundas, J. B; W. Bryant, G. D. R. C R., J. H. McClelland, P. C. R; Bros. Phyllyis and Bryant, Finance Committee.

The Toronto News (the labor organ of that city) says:—"Mr. Hardy's assertion that the Provincial Franchise Act is based upon the platform of the Knights of Labor, if he is correctly reported, is an audacious mis statement. As every one should know, that platform demands manhood suffrage—not a clumsy, complicated scheme, so intricate in its working that it is a matter for a lawyer to decide who has or has not the right of suffrage. Moreover, the same objection applies to this feature of the Government's policy as to the emigration matter."

Mr. George Buskin, missionary of the Algoma and North-west Evangelical and Colportage Mission, directed to the laborers of that district, is in the city, seeking aid to further the work. During the past four years more than 1,000 Scriptures in many languages, and 2,000 Scriptural books have been supplied; large numbers of religious tracts and magazines have been distributed, and many religious services held. The district is large, and laborers numerous and scattered, and the work a needy one. Communications can be addressed, care of Mr. Heath, Secretary Y.M. C. A. A contribution was made two years since in the city for the work.

At the closing exercises of the Princess avenue school the following programme was cleverly presented to the pleasure and approval of the large audience:—"Deacon Brown," recitation, Miss A. McKeown; "The First Music Lesson," duet, Misses J. Pratt and M Sweeney; "The Wonderful Scholar," dialogue, three little misses; "Mother's got a Baby," recitation, Miss Minnie Davis; "Cantalina," solo, Miss Fannie Bell; "Christmas Eve," recitation, Master Wm. Pearse; "The Grasshopper," duet, Misses A. Chapman and G. Laing; "Waiting and Watching," recitation. Miss Ada Boyd; "The Mouth of the Year," dialogue, six boys and six girls; "The New Year's," dialogue, a boy and a girl; "The Three 'Ifs,'" recitation, Master Wilby Judd; "Something Sweet to Think Of," solo, Miss Annie Cannon; "A Fussy Old Maid," recitation, Miss N Fletcher; "Going to Tea," recitation, Miss H Nash; "Thompson's and Butterwick's Difficulty," reading, Master S. Screaton; "Keep in the Middle Road," chorus song, several voices.

The death of Julia, wife of Issac Barrows, occurred at Nilestown on Saturday evening. Deceased had endured a long and painful illness with a Christian spirit of submission. The funeral, which took place on Monday, was largely attended. The sermon was preached by Rev. W. S. Goodell, of Smithville, who set forth the beauty and grandeur of Universalism, in which faith deceased rejoiced to live, and which grew brighter day by day unto the close of her life. She was 61 years of age, and had been a resident of Nilestown for many years, being held in high esteem by all who knew her. The Methodist Church, in which the services were held, was filled with friends who came to pay the last respects to one whom all will remember with gratitude and praise.—COM

The Methodist Church, Kerwood, was formally reopened on Sunday last, large and attentive congregations being present at both morning and evening services, at which the Rev. Messrs McDonagh and Hayhurst officiated. The Sabbath school was also visited by these gentlemen, who delivered interesting addresses to the teachers and classes. On Monday a splendid tea meeting was held in the church, which has been enlarged at an expense of over $1,000, and under the presidency of the pastor, Rev. W. H. Shaw, a very pleasing programme was rendered, and a large sum realized, which, with the numerous subscriptions heretofore received, will extinguish the entire debt owing on the church.

A perfect boon appears to have been inaugurated in favor of Mr. R. Tooley, the Liberal-Conservative candidate for East Middlesex. Betting rules strongly in his favor, and such confidence is expressed in his return that wagers are now being made not simply upon his election but on the probable majority which he will receive. One gentleman yesterday wagered $100 even that Mr. Tooley will have a majority of one hundred votes, and another bet of $50 to $25 was wagered that the Conservative candidate will secure one hundred and fifty majority. In fact the 'Tizer people admit as much themselves—in a private and confidential way.

The Brantford Telegram says:—"Major Smith, C Company, Infantry School corps, Toronto, in speaking to our representative, said that the number of applications for admission to the School was greatly in excess of the accommodation. Twenty-five officers and over 80 non-commissioned officers and men applied for admission for the term commencing Dec. 1st, of which number not more than 15 officers and 25 non-commissioned officers and men can be taken. The opening of the School about to be established at London will absorb a great many of the applicants and relieve the pressure on C Company."

THE KENNEDY MURDER.—An esteemed correspondent, writing from Granton, says he has just returned from East Tawas, Mich., the scene of the finding of Joseph Kennedy's body The particulars learned are somewhat different from first reports. The body was found in a swall near a cottage occupied by Tom Murphy. It was discovered by D. Larrabee and J. N. Green, who had been told a day or two previous to the finding of the body by a neighbor named Wilkins that Murphy told him he had buried a calf there. This aroused the suspicions of Larrabee and Green; who, going out under the pretense of hunting, went to the spot named by Wilkins and found the body buried under about three inches of earth, the feet being barely covered. The body was brought to Tawas City and placed in the vacant photograph gallery. An inquest was held in the Court House by Coroner A. G. Van Wey. The Joseph Kennedy referred to is a brother of John Kennedy, of Biddulph. He is supposed to have been murdered by some bad characters in a house of evil reputation, which he was lured to visit on a pretence of a business engagement.

WHAT'S IN A NAME.—Judge Chambers, of Detroit, has been engaged for a number of days in hearing testimony in the alleged infringement of patent case brought some time ago by the Grand Rapids Hoptonic Co. against Kirby Gregory, who is engaged in selling another quality of hoptonic for the Carling Brewing and Malting Co., of London, Ont. The plaintiffs secured a temporary injunction at the time they filed their complaint, but it was dissolved soon after by Judge Jennison, who expressed the opinion at the time that it was no infringement. The Grand Rapids Company complained that Carling & Co. manufacture a production which they call hoptonic and sell at a shilling a bottle, while the product of the complainants is sold at a dollar a bottle. This, they claim, is injuring their business, and that Carling & Co. are profiting by the complainants' advertising. Carling & Co. claim that as their tonic is composed more or less of hops they have a right to call it a "hop-tonic" The hearing has been continued until December 30. Judge Chambers says that the question is a puzzling one, as it involves the right of a man to name his article what it is.

THE LAND FOR POOR MEN.

One of the points made by the opponent of Mr. Meredith at the nomination was that the Local Government ought to put the public land more freely at the disposal of poor men, who desired to settle upon them. It was complained that at present no facilities of this kind are given. A man working at a bench may not wish to keep on at that. He may wish to work on the land, and make a home for himself as a farmer. Mr. Peddle expressed soreness that no chance was now given to such a man under the laws. No man, no matter how well he may be recommended, could get the land together with the help that is needed to enable him to tide over the first year in the wilderness. And it is a grievance that this matter has been so long lost sight of by the Mowat Government. The Sandfield Macdonald-Carling administration did a great deal in this way. They set apart large parcels of land in Muskoka, the best of it in that region, as Experimental Townships. The land was divided into lots, and each lot had a log house built upon it, and a certain part of it was put under the plough. Then, any poor man who thought that he could do better there than in a workshop in the cities, was invited by the Government of which the Hon. Mr. Carling was a zealous member, to come in and try his luck, and work his way according to his best intelligence. He was given every chance to make a home and raise his family in independence, and at the end of two, three or four years he was expected to pay back to the Government, as he earned it, the money that had been laid out in building the house and clearing the first few acres. The plan worked very well so long as that Government stood, and Mr. Carling had scope to develop the large ideas which then prevailed on this and kindred matters. We say kindred matters, because the plans of Mr. Carling embraced other schemes, equally beneficial to the country, namely, the advance of public money to the poor settlers to drain wet lands, by which whole townships were reclaimed, and the erection of the fine benevolent institutions, of which the London Asylum is an example. These were the plans of Mr. Carling, as the Minister of Agriculture and Public Works in Sandfield's Government, during 1867-71. When Mr. Mowat came in, in 1881, there was a check suddenly put to them. Mr. Mowat carried on the drainage, because he could not help it. The people of the wet regions demanded it, and he could not resist their demands. But all the policy of the previous Government which he could check or reverse, he did, and among the plans which Mr. Mowat did away with was that of the Experimental Townships. There was no longer that freedom of the land and encouragement to settle upon it which had been held out by Mr. Carling. But instead the land was sold out to timber speculators, to strip it at their sweet will, and the settler was knocked about at the mercy of the agents of the large timber firms This has been the policy ever since carried out by the Mowat Government. The timber merchants, usually big moneyed men, get many exclusive privileges. In the back part of Addington County some of the settlers have toiled for fifteen years, and over, and have not yet been able to get their patents. They are left under the iron heel of the limit-holder, and to him they must go, to his favor they must be indebted, before they can get the deed of their lands. The result is that many of them are wearied and disgusted, and ready to move off to the States or the North-West or anywhere, where more justice can be had than under the present system at Toronto. These crying evils have long been known to Mr. W. R. Meredith, and no man is better able to deal with them, and give the poor settlers their rights as men, or has a larger sympathy with them, in their struggles, than he. He has thus a claim upon the hearty support of the poor man, which we trust will not be withheld from him on the 28th of December.

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE.

A Grit paper says of Mr. Blake, that "he is a man who does not promise more than he means to perform." That may be so. But what has he ever promised? What does he promise now? He tells how pure and good he is, and commends the Golden Rule; the Globe assures us he has "a serene soul," etc. But what of all that? Are there not thousands as pure, as good, as serene, and as well living? That is not the only requirement in a public man. The people would like to know what Mr. Blake could do, differently from what the present Government is and has been doing all along. To say that he never makes promises without meaning to perform them is nothing, unless it can be shown that he has made any pledges and carried them out. On this point we may fairly ask for explanations. What policy has Mr. Blake ever laid down except that which was destructive? How has he ever proposed to better the condition of any section of the people? He has not only made no promise himself, but has opposed everything that the Liberal-Conservative Government has brought forward. He opposed the National Policy, and does so still. He has told the people of the Maritime Provinces that he would, if he had the power, "sweep it away." He opposed the C. P. R. at its inception. He has never said one word in its favor since its completion. True, his lieutenant, Mr. D. Mills, went so far as to say in his paper, the Advertiser, that "time would vindicate the wisdom of Mr. Carling and his colleagues in that particular." But the next day he recanted, and now says in effect that the C. P. R. is a mistake, and should never have been pressed forward. Mr. Blake has declared that it is not his business as Opposition leader to make promises of what he will do if he got into power; that his mission is "to criticise," merely; or in other words to pick holes in the coats of those in power, to find fault with everything. Therefore, our Grit contemporary is perfectly non-committal in saying that Mr. Blake never makes a promise without meaning to perform it. He never makes promises of any kind as to what he would carry out if he obtained power.

GROSS JOBBERY & FAVORITISM.

Toronto papers do not discuss the Parliament Buildings job except to gloss it over. One of them suggests that a paper containing the true history of the case would not be allowed to be circulated in Toronto. Why? Because the job is a Toronto scheme purely, demanded by the city, but not asked for by the country, and which the country will derive no benefit from.

One of the greatest scandals of the Parliament Buildings job is the advance of $1,200,000 in the total cost over the sum set apart by the Legislature. Ought a single Minister or Ministry to deal thus with the public money, and be held excusable? Mr. Pardee, by the "scratch of a pen," puts under the hammer thousands of square miles of our best timber territory, without the sanction of the people's representatives. This is a grave wrong. The Minister should have no such dictatorial authority. But Mowatism goes much beyond that. In the Buildings case, after the House had granted $750,000, the Commissioner of Works, Mr. Fraser, takes it upon himself to let the contract on a $2 000,000 basis, and this after pledging himself not to exceed the lesser sum. This is deliberate deception of the people, as well as a piece of the most wanton and unauthorized extravagance.

But probably the worst feature of the whole case consists in the Mowat Government's designating the particular quarry from which the stone shall be taken for use in the Parliament Buildings. The Specifications distinctly say that the stone for "the base of entire structure and facades of the entire superstructure" shall be "executed with Credit Valley Sandstone." It is a most suggestive fact that the Credit Valley Quarries are owned and controlled in all their business relations by a supporter of Mr. Oliver Mowat, one of "the grittiest of the Grits," viz, Mr. Kenneth Chisholm, member for Peel in the Legislature. In this way Mr. Mowat has nominated Mr. Chisholm, M P.P., as the supplier of stone, thus shutting out competition What do the stone quarry owners of Frontenac, of Perth, of Thorold, Queenston, and Beamsville, think of such glaring and brazen favoritism? What does the country think of it? The amount of "Boodle" involved in this single stone "deal" is estimated at $200,000—all fixed so as to drop into the pocket of one man, and that man a servile supporter of the Mowat Government.

Despite these facts, the Toronto journals maintain the "conspiracy of silence" regarding the particulars of Mowat's job.

THE "MILCH COW" AGAIN.

Mr. T. W. Anglin has been on an electioneering tour to Nova Scotia. He is reported to have said that if Blake were in power he would be willing to give them more money for their railways, and relieve all their necessities A very direct bribe, it will be seen. Mr. Blake, through his henchman, "says money" to the electorate of Nova Scotia. He has probably seen a great light on the "better terms" question. When in former years the Nova Scotians applied for more favorable consideration, Mr. Blake cried out against it. They were abused as "bloodsuckers on the Dominion," and "poor Ontayreo" was called the "milch cow" of the other Provinces. Now, it seems Mr. Blake is ready to do the milking of Ontario in order to bribe over the allegiance of the sea Provinces. Such is Grit consistency.

THE SCHOOL BOOK INIQUITY.

The Glengarrian, discussing the school book monopoly, says:—

"Some idea of what this ten years monopoly is worth may be had when it is stated that Messrs. Warwick & Sons, of Toronto, offered to print the entire set at ONE-HALF THE PRICE now charged, and at the same time allow the trade THIRTY PER CENT off, if the monopoly enjoyed from the other firms was secured to them. Messrs. Nelson & Sons have since sold out their right to the monopoly to Messrs. Copp, Clarke & Co., for no less a sum than $12,000.

"It was in connection with this matter that G. W. Ross, when in the pay of Messrs. Gage & Co., visited this country in order to try and induce the Inspector and trustees of different school sections to adopt the "Gage Series" in Glengarry This was immediately before he became Minister of Education, but having been so recently in the employ of Gage & Co. he was scarcely likely to be independent in making an arrangement with that firm whose money was still in his pocket."

"NO. D. M."

When the half-breeds were in want of seed wherewith to plant their fields, and sent to Ottawa asking for some, who was it that harshly said—"No. D. M.," and sent that back as an answer to the half-starving men? That piece of heartlessness was perpetrated by the then Grit Minister of the Interior—Hon. David Mills, who now poses as the friend of the red man. In view of such as he it is no wonder that the poet exclaimed "Lo! the poor Indian."

HOW IT AFFECTS LONDON.

It is when the matter is brought home that the citizens of London may realize how injurious is the system of convict labor, fostered and encouraged by the Mowat Government. If anyone will take the trouble to look into the Ontario Public Accounts for years past, he will find under the heading of the London Lunatic Asylum account after account from H. A. Nelson & Sons, of Toronto, for brooms, woodenware, etc. These accounts aggregate thousands of dollars, and as the goods supplied by this firm were made by cheap prison labor, and could have been obtained from houses employing honest labor in the city of London, it is hoped that those who are interested will bear this fact in mind when they go to the polls on Tuesday next. While Mr. Mowat intimates no intention of doing away with this evil, Mr. Meredith makes it a plank in his platform that this injurious and unfair competition shall cease.

WHAT IS BOODLE?

The Advertiser says:

"There is a vast difference between the legitimate trade of furnishing food and clothing to unfortunate lunatics than there is in members of Parliament obtaining timber limits at nominal values."

The trade of furnishing the Asylum or other public institutions with food and clothing is legitimate when tenders are properly called for these things. We have no name for it, when they are procured from political favorites at prices to the public unknown. But this is precisely what Mr. Hyman calls "Boodleism." Whether or not it was "silly" in that gentleman to call public attention to such matters in this city we leave others to decide. But as to the question of timber limits, we have to say, that when Mr. David Mills presented Messrs. Cook and Sutherland, political friends of the Grit Government, with 200 square miles of timber territory at any and every point which they might select in the Saskatchewan country, every honest man had a distinct opinion concerning it. In a word, it was not "legitimate;" it was a gross piece of corruption. What right had Mr. Mills to give away large tracts of the public domain, after his party had been overwhelmingly condemned at the polls, and on the eve of the resignation of the Mackenzie Government. Mr. Mills has never given an explanation of that matter acceptable to any honest man. It was a clear case of "Boodle."

COULD DR RYERSON KNOW?

Writing in 1876 the late Dr. Ryerson said:—

"Some sincere friends of the school system have expressed apprehensions lest under the new regime it might be brought within the pernicious influence of political party. I do not share in such apprehensions. I have every confidence that the administration of the school system will be strictly impartial and patriotic, and will accord in spirit with its inauguration and re-inauguration since 1846."

Such were the expectations of the father and founder of the school system in this Province. But he did not rightly estimate the supreme rascality of those who after his decease were to administer its affairs. Had he done so, had he known that a "Reform" Government would have banished the Protestant Bible from the Public Schools, and have substituted for it mutilated selections, made still more offensive by carefully devised omissions, he would never have sanctioned the placing of the educational trust in the hands of any who could carve and hack it to suit—Whom? Not the Protestant parents, for they never demanded that the Bible should be shut out from the schools. Can it be possible that Dr. Ryerson in his present state is conscious of the infamous use to which the school system, of which he was the father and founder, has been put by professing "Reformers?"

The Globe complains that the "Tories are working up West York." Yes, it is easy work now, for the people are so enthusiastic in support of the "wicked Tories" that the canvassing books are overflowing with the names of those who are turning their backs on Gritism forever.

If the Bible is an inspired Book, why should Mr. G. W. Ross take upon himself to "mutilate" it, to the disadvantage of the school children? Is he to set himself up above that which is written?

The Advertiser tells its readers that the Book of Common Prayer, which has been in use in the Protestant Episcopal Church for more than two hundred years, is a "mutilated" affair.

The banner to be inscribed to the honor of the member for Bothwell is to read "Mills and Mutilation."

THE FRENCH IN ESSEX!

A Sneaking Canvass by Quebec Rielites.

Langelier, Bergeron and Prefontaine Working Against Sol. White.

THEIR HYPOCRISY WITH FRENCH AND ENGLISH.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM!

Windsor, Dec. 22.—The Grits try to persuade us that the Riel question should not be made an issue in the Ontario elections, yet here, in Essex, they have imported several French Nationalists to work against Sol. White, to whom they owe a special grudge on account of the motion he made in the Local House, setting forth that the principal participants in the rebellion had been properly punished. They also wish to help Pacaud, who made himself notorious by denouncing the volunteers by calling them "thieves and murderers." These gentry are visiting every French district in the riding, working on the prejudices and sympathies of the French. They make no attempt to discuss Ontario politics, for they are ignorant of every question affecting the interest of Ontario; but Riel the hero, Riel the martyr, the hangmen Government, and the fanatic Protestants, is the burden of their song.

Langelier, M. P., Bergeron, M. P., the bolter, and Prefontaine, the member-elect for Chambly, are the most prominent strangers here. They avoid the English, but if they are compelled to say anything in an English community they change the Riel cry to the half breeds' grievances. The people of Ontario should know these facts.

Such detestable tactics are resented here by all fair-minded people, on both sides of politics. And they call upon the friends of British fair play throughout Ontario, to stamp this sneaking intrusion as it merits. Let these men mind their own business in Quebec! Why are they interfering in Ontario politics?

NO. 3 COMMITTEE.

Routine Proceedings of the Meeting Last Night.

No. 3 Committee met in the City Clerk's office last evening at 9 40 Present Messrs. Ald. Boyd (in the chair), Hiscox, McDonald, Nutkins, Engineer Tracy, Chief Roe, and the Secretary, Mr. Keary.

A communication was read from T. Van Idlestine, for a lamp on the corner of Elias and English streets, in No. 5 Ward. Granted.

From Mr. H. Childs—For permission to erect a small frame building in connection with the No. 5 Ward Welsh Scales. Referred to Chairman, Engineer and Ald Nutkins, with power.

From Charles Allen—For permission to exhibit his pulley block on the Market Square from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Chairman, Engineer and Market Clerk.

From W. Ironsides—Stating that it had cost him $12 to repair a lamp broken through a horse driven by Mr. Avey in No. 5 Ward. Referred to the Engineer.

Applications were read from Samuel Nottley, Thomas Aikens, Thomas Wheeler, A. Nicholson and J. McCallum, for a position on the call staff of the Fire Department. After motions and cross motions the appointment was conferred on Thomas Wheeler.

The following Fire Department accounts were passed:—Pay sheet, $939 06; James C. Grant, $5; T. Wheeler, $9 80; L. W. Crawford, $1; J. B. Smyth, $1 45; J. Percival, sen., $39.43.

The report of the Market Clerk was read and adopted.

The following tenders for 175 feet of hose were read:—J. Cowan & Co., 15 cents per foot, and nozzles 75 cents each; J Reed & Co., 17½ cents per foot; W. H Heard & Co., ——. On motion the tender of Messrs. Cowan & Co., being the lowest, was accepted.

Maurice Baldwin applied for payment of an account of $75 for watering the yard in front of the G. T. R station on York street during the summer, saying the work had been ordered by the Engineer. The matter was referred to the Chairman and Engineer, with power.

Adjourned.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER.—On Tuesday evening Mr. Malcolm McGugan, Reeve of Caradoc, and ex-Warden of the County, was entertained in the American House, at Mount Brydges, by upwards of fifty of his friends. The spread was an excellent one, and was done full justice by the assembly. After the proposal of the usual loyal and patriotic toasts by the Chairman, Mr. A McKellar, the health of Mr. McGugan was duly honored. In rising to respond, Mr. McGugan reviewed his municipal services for the past ten years, acknowledging kindly the support of the people, and the confidence they had always shown in him. He regretted that private affairs compelled him to sever his connection with so able, kind and courteous a body as the Caradoc Council had proved to be. Brief addresses were given by Messrs Leitch, McCracken, Gamble, Hardy, Cade, Campbell, Sutherland, Francis, Lindsay, Lockwood, Young, Pierce, Pearce, Brydon, Baker and others, all of whom paid a tribute to Mr. McGugan. Songs were given by Messrs. Donaldson, Cade, Lockwood, Burwell and Forsythe, and all dispersed at an early hour.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT.

Manager Shaw, of the Toronto Opera House, is laid up with rheumatism.

The Holmans are playing to good houses at St. Thomas.

The St. George's Society will give their Christmas cheer out on Friday morning at 11 o'clock, at 85 Dundas street.

Mr. J. A. Miller will shortly erect a double two-story brick dwelling on a lot at the corner of St. James' and George streets.

The ice was never in better condition than it is at present at the Princess Rink. The band will be there this (Thursday) night and Christmas afternoon and evening.

The Western University medical students have adopted colors, which they wear in their hats. It consists of a ribbon, three stripes, light blue in the centre and black on either side.

The very men who to-day are endeavoring to defeat Mr. Clancy in Kent on the religious cry, in 1883 were endeavoring to prejudice Protestant electors against him because he was a Catholic.

Rev. H. P. Chase, of Munceytown, has been appointed by the Bishop of Huron to the charge of the Sarnia and Kettle Point Indian missions. He officiated at the latter place on Sunday last to a large congregation.

Messrs. C. S. Hyman & Co. have presented another of their employes, Mr. Patrick O'Neil, of the tannery, with a gold watch, in recognition of the fact that he had been in the firm's service for a period of twenty-one years.

A bazaar and social entertainment was held last night in the Foresters' Hall, on Richmond street, which proved extremely successful. A very large and varied assortment of useful and fancy articles was offered for sale, and was disposed of at remunerative figures. Abundance of refreshments were provided, and an enjoyable intellectual programme was rendered under the supervision of Rev. Mr. McGillivray, the pastor. The affair realized quite a neat sum for the church.

MASONIC INSTALLATION.—The officers elect of St Joan's Royal Arch Chapter, No 2, were installed last night by R. Ex Comps. Hawthorn and Hungerford, of this city, and Jas. O'Connor, of Winnipeg:—Ex-Comp. Alex. McQueen, Z; Ex-Comp. W McCadden, H.; Ex-Comp. A E Cooper, J; Comp. J Siddons, Scribe E.; R Ex-Comp. W. Hawthorn, Treasurer; Comp. J. A. Thos. G. Lowe; Janitor, Comp. F. J. Hood.

The Chatham Planet makes a neat comparison:—"Mr. Arch Campbell closed down the mill on Wednesday night from six until twelve o'clock in order to allow his employes to hear Blake and Laurier. This was a generous act. On Saturday night, when Sir John, Hon. Mr. Thompson and J. J. Curran were speaking in the Opera House, the necessities of his work would not allow a similar privilege being accorded the men. Nevertheless, Mr. Campbell is the workingman's friend, according to his own pretensions."

we would like to say about the elegant stock of Ready-made Overcoats and Suits which we have now on hand, but it is impossible to do ourselves justice in a newspaper advertisement, without seeming to exaggerate facts. The fact is, our stock must be seen to be appreciated. Ours is a complete Gents' Outfitting Establishment, each department being complete in itself. Our Merchant Tailoring Department is our leading one, and our reputation for elegant fitting Suits and Overcoats to order is an enviable one. A CARDINAL SIN.

BY HUGH CONWAY.

"Oh, nonsense!" said Allan; but all the same he began to grow very nervous. He heard all the particulars Mrs. Melville could give, and for his own satisfaction summoned the coachman once more, and heard the little he knew. He was bound to acknowledge that Josephine had acted wisely in sending for him, and was considering what was the best thing to do to trace his wife. Yet he felt averse to take any steps in that direction, thinking the situation was most likely allowable of the simplest explanation a letter not posted—a telegram not sent, or misdirected—a message not delivered would account for everything.

All the while Mrs. Melville had been the chief spokesman. Josephine had only spoken a few words to confirm when called upon to do so. She had suggested no theory, nor volunteered any consoling supposition. Mrs. Melville had soon made him acquainted with all that was to be known; she had even broached her extraordinary idea as to the form professional jealousy might take, an idea which, in spite of his anxiety, made Allan smile.

He was fairly puzzled, but not a suspicion of evil entered into his head. He sat tugging at his thick moustache, trying to settle on a course of action, hoping that every moment would bring Frances or some news of her which would make the whole affair end in a hearty laugh. Then he turned toward Josephine, who was looking at him with a tender, pitying expression in her eyes. She was summoning up her courage for the painful task before her. Although she had not breathed such a thought to Mrs. Melville, she was now convinced that wherever Frances had gone she had gone with Digby Bourchier.

"What do you think about it, Josephine," he said.

He must be told. Her face grew pale.

"Allan," she said, "let me say a few words to you alone."

"Certainly," replied Allan; "don't rise, Mrs. Melville," he added, as that lady showed symptoms of retreating. "We will go into the other room."

He led his sister into the drawing-room.

"I can't talk about your affairs with this in suspense," he said kindly. "Wait until Frances returns."

He was beginning to feel a little tired, so threw himself into a chair. Josephine kneeled beside him, and put her arms round his neck. He knew that she was crying.

"Poor little girl," he said, stroking her hair. "I am forgetting that you have troubles too. Tell me what is wrong; but be as quick as you can, as we are wasting time, and I want to be doing something."

She held his hands. "Allan," she said, "it is your troubles I am thinking of—don't hate me forever if I tell you what I know."

A deadly chill came over him. There was something coming—he dared not think what. Josephine saw the look of fear in his eyes.

"Oh, Allan!" she cried wildly, "Frances has gone—gone forever with that villain, that fiend, my husband!"

CHAPTER XXI.

FALLEN INTO A TRAP.

Upon reaching Charing Cross Frances had dismissed her carriage and taken a first-class return ticket to B——. She inquired at what junction she must change trains, and being instructed as to the right route reached her destination in due course, and stepping from the station to the high road, wondered if she had undertaken a wise or a foolish adventure. However, having come so far, she was not going to return without attaining her object. Besides the great end she had in view, she wished to see Manders again and receive his explanation as to the change of his name, to learn if he were sailing under false colors, or had a right to claim kinship with her husband's family. If he were an impostor, her knowledge of his former condition in life would be useful to Josephine, who was longing to be freed from her cruel and worthless husband. So, intent upon the accomplishment of both missions, she took the road as indicated by Manders' letter and walked on with a quick and resolute step.

It was a beautiful spring—almost summer—day. A walk was a great treat to Frances, who was in splendid health. She rejected with scorn the assistance offered by the one frowsy cab at the little station, and walked on till she came to B——, through the long street of which she passed, followed by many curious eyes. She had nothing to conceal, so her veil was not brought into requisition. As she found what an innocent sleepy little country place she had come to, her doubts vanished. No evil could be intended by bringing her down to this quiet place. She walked on more confidently, wondering how long it would be before she encountered Manders. As soon as she was clear of the village she felt inclined, moved by the sunshine and fresh air, to burst into song. She was quite enjoying her walk. Flowers were growing by the wayside, humble little flowers, but she stooped every now and then and picked one or two, until she had quite a posy of them. She smiled at the absurdity of her action—picking wild flowers when she was bent on an errand of vengeance. She blamed herself for forgetting her object for a moment; threw the flowers away and walked on with a quicker step.

She must have been half a mile from B—— when the man she expected to see rose from the bank at the side of the road and came to meet her. He saluted her politely.

"I told you, you could not miss the way," he said.

They walked on side by side for a short distance.

"Where are you going?" asked Frances.

"Only a few steps further. The house is close by."

Then they came to one of those palings which seem peculiar to places in the vicinity of London. Gray wood palings, about six feet high: formed by over-lapping staves. They look very ugly and out of place round a gentleman's grounds, but no doubt have merits which permit them to exist.

"We must go in here," said Manders, stopping at the gate, which he unlocked and held open.

Frances hesitated. Her mistrust began to awaken. To hear the confession of an accessory to a foul crime, it would have seemed more natural had she been conducted to the slums of London. Manders saw her indecision and shrugged his shoulders.

"Turn back, even now, if you like," he said. "I have arranged everything, but that doesn't matter."

"Is the man you spoke of living here?"

"He is here at present. He will be gone to-morrow. You see his friends are respectable; although, after all, the house inside is but a cottage, as you will see."

Should she turn back? Even at the moment when, if she could to this limited extent trust her companion, she was on the threshold of learning all. She glanced at him. He was tapping the key on the gate post, and apparently accompanying a tune he was humming. It appeared to him a matter of supreme indifference how she might decide. No, she would go on.

CRACKING CAMPAIGN CHESTNUTS.

Messrs. Bartram, McKenzie, and Armstrong Paralyze London Westers With Their Stale Yarns.

Mr. McKenzie's meeting in London West last night was attended by from 75 to 100 people, and was marked throughout with a profound melancholy, that seemed to oppress both speakers and audience.

Mr. W. H. Bartram was chairman, and spoke for about half-an-hour in defence of the Government expenditures for charitable purposes. He appeared to feel that he was the discoverer of the argument that the more of the people's money the Mowat Government granted for the maintenance of charitable institutions, the less of the people's money from some other source would be required for the same purpose. Mr. Bartram remarked in conclusion that Mr. Tooley's only ground of asking for the support of the electors of East Middlesex was that he was a Tory and a follower of W. R. Meredith; but the speaker asked them to support Mr. McKenzie because he was a supporter of the Mowat Government.

Mr McKenzie came next. He spoke at length on the surplus, followed the Chairman in reference to the charitable grants of the Government, adding that if it were not for their support of the asylums some lunatics would be confined in jail, an evil that Mr. McKenzie would not have to go far from home to discover already existing. He agreed with the desire of the Conservatives to keep the Education Department out of the "muck and mire" of politics, and to do this would keep it just where it was. The Conservatives, if they got into power, would retain a Ministerial head of the Department; and the educational system never stood as high under Dr. Ryerson as it now stood under Geo. W. Ross. It was a model, and several other countries were copying it. The Conservatives had given up every point they urged against the new books, and admitted that they were cheaper and better than the old ones. Mr. McKenzie also stated that there was no foundation for the statement that a firm in Toronto had offered to furnish any of the books at a cheaper rate than they were sold for now. (All these statements, it may be remarked, are contrary to the facts as elicited from the Minister of Education by Mr. Hughes at Strathroy.) He also quoted the used-up argument in favor of Archbishop Lynch's revision of the Ross Bible, because 50,000 Roman Catholic children attend the public schools, and maintained that the Separate School Act was in all respects fair and just. He accused his opponents of misrepresenting his position on the Scott Act. He claimed no credit for its passage, but from his position had to recommend certain men who, he believed, were favorable to the Act, and had never heard of a fault being found with them yet. Fault had been found with the Inspector, but he was just as much their officer as he was his (McKenzie's), and they should have it out with him when they saw him. The Inspector went around and had acknowledged that he had made a mistake in that first lot of raids. He believed in supporting the Scott Act, as it was the will of the people, and he would be ashamed to vote for it unless he lived up to it.

Mr. R. S. Murray asked Mr. McKenzie if he would support a vote of $2,000,000 for new Parliament buildings.

Mr McKenzie gave no direct answer, but accused the Conservatives of over-stating the sums connected with that transaction.

In reply to a question as to his attitude on the prison-labor question, he was not very definite, either. Both Governments were responsible for this evil, if it was an evil. He wanted to know if the injury caused to free labor by the competition of prison labor was greater than the cost of keeping the prisoners idle at the public expense. He did not believe in convicts competing with free labor.

Mr. James Armstrong, M. P., followed. He spoke on the platform of Mr. Meredith, and then made a stock-in-trade Grit attack on the Dominion Government and its timber limit sales, giving the prices of Dominion timber limits as $5 per mile as against $400 per mile for Ontario timber limits.

The meeting broke up at about eleven o'clock.

DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL FARMS.

Early in November Professor Wm. Saunders, of this city, acting under instructions of the Hon. John Carling, Minister of Agriculture, visited Manitoba, and subsequently the North-west Territories and British Columbia, for the purpose of enquiring into the condition of agriculture in these Provinces. He returned yesterday, having during the past six or seven weeks inspected many of the most important agricultural sections in each of the Provinces, having interviewed many of the leading farmers, and gained much information in reference to the character of the soil, the condition of the climate, the extent of the settlements, and the progress made in agriculture. This information will be placed before the Government to aid in determining where the western experimental farms may best be located, so as to confer the greatest benefits on the farmers in general.

Mr. Saunders expresses himself as much pleased with the results of his investigations. In many parts of Manitoba, not withstanding the past unfavorable dry season, the farmers have had fair crops, especially on land which had been previously prepared by summer fallowing, and a very large area of land has been broken and made ready for seeding during the coming season.

In the extreme eastern section of the North-west Territories, although, on account of the drought, the crops have been very light, the farmers are hopeful, but in the central drier region, along the railway belt, many have become discouraged, while north of this the crops have been better, but in the western section, towards the foot-hills of the mountains, the crops have been very fair, and in some instances good. Everywhere the farmers are convinced that it is unwise to rely too exclusively on grain growing, and are turning their attention to mixed farming, which appears to be invariably successful.

In British Columbia the proportion of agricultural land is relatively small, but is very fertile. Up to the present the agricultural products of the country are not sufficient to supply local demands. Such articles as butter, eggs, roots and fruits, which could be produced in abundance, are still brought in quantities from different parts of the United States and Canada. On Vancouver Island the farming districts of Saanich, Somenos and Chemainus were visited, also the city of Victoria and the town of Nanaimo, and, on the mainland, the delta lands of the Fraser River and the country about Vancouver, Port Moody and New Westminster. The weather in British Columbia was very mild, with much rain at this season, and some fog along the coast. The grass was green, the stock all feeding out, and the flowers blooming in the gardens.

Crossing the mountains going west, the snow was from two to three feet deep, and had increased to about four feet by the time the return journey was made, and the crossing both ways was accomplished with but little delay. The scenery was grand, surpassing anticipation; the construction of the railway most substantial, and every precaution is taken to secure safety in travel. The snow sheds in the Selkirks are very substantial structures, being built entirely of twelve-inch square timber. One of them has already been severely tested by a heavy snow-slide, without any apparent displacement or weakening.

One day was spent at Banff, which is beautifully situated in the valley of the Bow River, and surrounded by high mountains. The celebrated Hot Springs issue in great volume from the mountain side, at a temperature of 120 Fahrenheit. A number of invalids are constantly visiting there to avail themselves of the curative properties of the water. Good and substantial accommodation is already provided, and the railway company is building a large hotel in anticipation of an influx of visitors next season. The large section of land reserved here as a public park by the Dominion Government is being laid out with pretty drives and walks, and the anthracite coal measures in the immediate neighborhood are being rapidly developed.

Prof. Saunders took the opportunity of visiting several of the Indian Reserves in the North-west, including that of Bull Head, near Calgary, under charge of Major de Malinard, and those of Piapot and Musquepeton, near Regina, under Mr. J. B. Lash. The Indians seem to be contented and happy, are furnished with comfortable log houses, and some of them have made considerable progress in agriculture under the instructors, also in stock-raising. The Indians composing the bands under the charge of Mr. Lash have cut and marketed during the past year over 200 tons of hay, this being the surplus over and above what was required for feeding their own stock. With the money thus realized they have bought for themselves wagons, sleighs and other necessary articles. The Professor was also present at the distribution of rations at each of the reserves visited, and had the opportunity of inspecting the character and condition of the food with which they were supplied. The flour issued was of the best brand, known as Strong Bakers' flour, and the pork was "Armour's" best, in excellent condition; the beef, also, was of excellent quality, and all the other supplies seen corresponding ly good.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

Mme. Janish and her company have succumbed to the inevitable.

Clara Morris is again very ill and not likely to play any more this season.

Hermann, the magician, is going to build a theatre to be devoted to the uses of conjuring alone.

P. T. Barnum has engaged King Theebaw's hairy Burmese family for his circus tour next summer.

Madame Ristori is about to begin another farewell tour of the world, starting shortly in Paris with "Marie Antoinette."

Miss "Zazel," who was fired from a cannon in the Barnum show some years since, is now a successful prima donna with the Harris Opera Co.

The City of Mexico was recently swindled out of $20,000 by a bogus advance sale for Mme. Patti. The swindler escaped to the United States.

Fred. J. Eustis, the leader and composer has sued Henry E. Dixey for, as he claims, of alienating the affections of Mrs. Eustis (Ida Bell) of the "Adonis Co."

Mrs. Langtry added to her American real estate investments last week. She loaned $4 500 on, property in Brooklyn and $11,000 on property in New York.

Gounod, the composer, is going to Rome to spend the winter with the Pope. The Pontiff is a great admirer of the musician, and has written a number of hymns which Gounod is to set to music.

Annie Pixley will not produce her new play, "The Deacon's Daughter," in New York this season, but will next fall open at a popular Broadway house, where she thinks the piece will make a long run.

It is related that when Minnie Hauk recently sang at Tin Cup, Arizona, twelve Apache chiefs retired behind the theatre after the concert and drew lots to see who should marry her. Minnie escaped. So did the Apache chiefs.

It is now cabled that Mrs. Crawford, the celebrated London divorce defendant, is going on the stage. The lady ought to find an advantageous and peculiarly suitable opening with the Ida Siddons Female Mastodon Minstrels or the Rentz Santley Company.

The play of "Lost in London" to be presented here on the 24th and 25th, is said to be exceptionally fine in scenic effects as well as in the acting and singing. There are five great scenes presented under the management of the celebrated Henry E. Hoyt, viz., Heart o' Bleakmoor, Home o' th' Swart King, Illuminated Snow Sensation, Fete of Comus, and Job's Vision, where, as the play ends, the auditor is translated from the Swart King's Cottage into a Wonderland of dissolving celestial beauty.

Knives and Pistols in Church.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 21.—For some months past the First Colored Baptist Church of this city has been involved in a quarrel which arose from the calling of R. T. Huffman, of Louisville, to the pastorate. The intelligent part of the congregation opposed calling him, on account of his bad character in Louisville, but were overruled, and Huffman came. He was soon accused of improper conduct toward the women of the church. He had an unaccountable influence over the ignorant portion of the congregation, however, and managed to hold on. It was announced that he would preach on "Rattlesnakes" on Sunday night, and as this was considered personal to his enemies a large congregation gathered. He, however, postponed the sermon until to-night. The church to-night was packed with Huffman's armed adherents, and an angry mob surged outside the building. Huffman on advice did not preach his rattlesnake sermon. As he left the church, the mob surged toward him. He drew two pistols and fired into the crowd, but no one is known to be hurt. The shots were returned and Huffman fled to the church. He escaped through a back window, but the crowd, thinking he is inside, are still there threatening to burn the house to get at him.

London Markets.

Revised Daily.

London, Tuesday, Dec. 21st, 1886.

The market was small to-day, considering the good roads and the near approach of Christmas. Grain deliveries were small, and prices firm. Wheat went from $1 28 to $1 32 per cental. But little, however, came in.

Oats were strong, at 90c to 92c per cental.

Good barley was scarce; in fact hardly any malting came forward.

Feed barley formed the greater portion that was offered, and this ranged from 80 to 85 cents per cental.

Other cereals at our quotations.

The meat market was not so largely supplied, but the quality was of the best, and prices for best ranged from $5 50 to $6 50 per cwt—this was for choice Christmas stuff. Lower qualities sold at $3 50 to $4 50 per cwt.

Mutton sold at 5½ to 6 cents a pound.

Pork was firm, at $5 50 to $6 per cwt.

Butter was in good supply, at 20 to 22 cents per cental for single rolls; for large roll and tub there was no quotable change in prices.

Eggs were scarce, at 22 to 25 cents per cental.

There was a large poultry supply, and prices were firm: 11 a d 12 cents a pound was asked for turkeys, and geese were held at 7 and 8 cents a pound, and ducks and chickens accordingly high.

Potatoes were in fair supply, at 85 and 90 cents a bag; other vegetables at our quotations.

Apples were plentiful, at 45 to 65 cents a bag.

Hay in fair supply, at $8 50 and $10 a ton.

CORRUPTION AND RASCALITY.

How the Public Institutions are Made to Serve the Grit Interests.

From the Belleville Intelligencer.

That the Grit party, despite their continual professions of honesty and economy, are shamelessly corrupt and extravagant, and that they make a liberal use of the public money in purchasing support for what they are pleased to term "Liberal principles," is beyond question. Further, they are making use, in the most corrupt manner, of the public educational institutions to serve the interests of their party.

For example, we are credibly informed that in 1884 tenders were invited for the supply of forty quarts of milk per day to the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb Mr. W. J. Massey, a Grit, tendered at 4 cents per quart, and Mr. R. J. Graham, a Conservative, tendered at 3 cents per quart.

Mr. Graham's tender being the lowest, he was informed by the then President of the Reform Association in this city that the contract would be given to him, provided he would become a member of that Association and agree to support the Mowat Government. Mr. Graham refused to sell his political independence, and the contract was given to Massey. The result was that the people had to pay, during that year, 40 cents per day or $146 per annum more than they ought to have paid for the supply of this single article to this one Institution, because of the corruption and partisanship of the Mowat Government and their supporters. Which leads to the inquiry:—How much money is thus corruptly spent in this and in the other public Institutions of the Province for similar reasons in each year?

Further, the blacksmithing work for the Institution was taken from Alderman Reeves because he refused to sell his political soul for money, and given to Mr. Hart, an "old reliable" Grit, brother of the late member for Prince Edward.

Not content with constantly making a party machine of the Institute, the Reform Club of this city have tried to "run" it in the party interest, as we lately showed. One of the teachers, whose work was unfavorably reported upon by the Inspector who was in this instance Mr. John Johnston, Public School Inspector for South Hastings and Belleville—was, on the re-opening of the Institution, assigned by the Superintendent to the charge of a lower class than he had previously taught, but without reduction of salary. Thereupon the Reform Club, of which the teacher is a member, demanded of the Superintendent that this political teacher be reinstated in the position that he had formerly held. The reply to this scandalous attempt to degrade the efficiency of this public educational institution in the interest of a party was what might have been expected from a public officer. The result was a complaint to the Government and a hearing of the charges before two Commissioners. The report of those gentlemen has not as yet been made public, and it is safe to say that it will not be made known until after the elections.

Where are you going? Well, I don't know, but I have been strongly advised by my many friends to go to A. E. Trebilcock's and order a suit and overcoat. They all say he will show you the largest assortment for suits and overcoats in the city. 235 Dundas street is his number. McBride is the cutter.

NO CURE, NO PAY.

GUARANTEE.

Procure from the Druggist mentioned below six bottles of Dr. Carson's Catarrh Cure, for which he will charge you Five Dollars he will also give you a guarantee, signed by himself, to the following effect:—"If after using the contents of the six bottles a cure is not effected, return the empty bottles with your signature written across each label, and also on the guarantee, when the druggist will refund you the five dollars paid." It often happens that six bottles are more than sufficient to effect a cure; but still it is wise to be on the safe side; besides, there surely is no one in the whole Dominion who would begrudge that amount to cure such a loathsome and stubborn disease, especially as there is No Pay if No Cure.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT.

Local, District, or Sporting News, to ensure prompt attention, should be addressed to "City Editor, FREE PRESS." Correspondents will please note this.

We, in Ontario, have a high standard of education, which is accounted for by the price of our school books.

The doctrine of events prove that the Liberal-Conservatives are the party of the true democracy in Canada.

Mr. J. M. Wilson has purchased the Mansion House, Stratford, from Mr. John Merner for the sum of $10,000.

This is the season of the year when the head of the family may be observed trudging along with a goose in each hand.

As the holidays approach, merchants grow less and less thankful to Mr. Mowat for bringing on the election in the manner best calculated to injure business.

Peter Wright and Walter Carnes, who committed a number of larcenies at Bayham, have been found guilty of the thefts at the General Sessions at St. Thomas.

A Blenheim lady by the name of Mrs. Blewitt, has written a romance which the Detroit News describes as a most successful work. The story is entitled "Out of the Depths."

Reid Bros. & Co. are distributing their useful office calendar among their customers. It is one of the handiest and best published. They will move into their new building on January 1st.

The Kingston Whig (Grit) says:—"It is awkward sometimes to defend the party at the expense of the country." This is what comes of Mowat promising a Normal School and giving—only a common.

A number of correspondents have favored us with reports of the nominations in electoral districts adjoining the city. The only excuse for their non-appearance at this time is the pressure on our columns.

The Grits have an agent travelling through the Township of Ellice, endeavoring to stir up prejudice against Mr. Hess on the ground that he subscribed liberally toward the building fund of the Methodist churches of Listowel and Wallace.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Telegraph Company have opened the following new offices in Ontario:—Deseronto, Deseronto Junction, Napanee, Napanee Mills, Newburg, Camden East, Yarker, Moscow, Enterprise and Tamworth.

Rev. W. R. Parker, D. D., of St. Thomas, has accepted the invitation to become the pastor of Spadina Avenue Methodist Church, subject to the approval of the Stationing Committee. Dr. Parker is President of the London Conference.

Mr. Hiram Walker, of Windsor, is at the head of another mammoth car wheel manufacturing company which will begin business in Detroit, April 1st. The works will employ 1,000 men, in the shops formerly occupied by the Peninsular Car Works.

Some days since the barns of Mr. Wm. Mitchell, of Raleigh, were destroyed by fire. The building contained a quantity of hay, and about 100 bushels of clover seed. The fire was caused by a spark from the engine of a machine engaged at the time in threshing clover. The loss is heavy.

The Calgary Herald of a late date says:—"George Wonnacott, of Pine Creek, was in town to-day with a load of oats which he sold at 11½ cents a pound. The oats are of the white variety, sown from eastern seed and run 40 lbs. to the bushel. Fifteen acres produced 850 bushels, which makes 56⅔ bushels to the acre." Mr. Wonnacott formerly resided here.

Mr. L. LaPlante, shoemaker, of Tilbury Centre, was robbed of $295 in bills one night lately, during his temporary absence from the house, although a workman was in the shop in an addition to the house. Entrance was made from the rear, the door being unlocked. The bureau, in which the money was, had been ransacked, and the bedroom gave evidence of having been thoroughly searched. No clue.

Mr. S. H. Blake, who has been denouncing Canon Dumoulin for expressing his opinion in regard to Ross' Bible, when Vice-Chancellor a few years ago, questioned the truth of the evidence given by His Grace Archbishop Lynch under oath, and when a nun appeared in the witness-box and gave her spiritual name he said, "he supposed that was one of those high toned Italian titles to cover a Bridget Malony." The Irish Canadian, in referring to the remark, stated that there were five hundred Irishmen in Canada who, had they been in attendance at the court, would have felled him (Vice-Chancellor Blake) to the ground upon the spot, had they suffered death that instant, for his cruel and brutal insult to a defenceless woman.

Hon. D. Mills, in a Tizer editorial yesterday, remarked:—"It is said Canon Dumoulin was present at the Toronto Synod when the report of the Scripture Readings was adopted, and never lifted his voice against it." Rev. Canon Dumoulin, in his speech the night previous, said he had never opened his lips in the Synod of the Diocese, and utterly denied with uplifted hands, in the presence of them all, and in the presence of the whole city, that he was present when the report was presented.

Hamilton Spectator:—"The Christmas number of the London FREE PRESS is gorgeous in beautiful lithographed covers, and profuse in handsome Christmas cuts, setting off well-arranged advertisements and appropriate reading matter. It is a beautiful production, and shows that the FREE PRESS establishment ranks high among the letter press and lithographic printing establishments of the Continent."

An information was laid before Squire J. B. Smyth yesterday by Beverly Burwell charging Jonathan Scott and Charles Proctor with the larceny of a quantity of wood in Caradoc Township. It is understood that the wood was owned by the parties in partnership.

The Toronto News remarks:—"If the Globe really wishes to promote the interests of the labor party, it can do so by letting us severely alone, or even abusing us, much more effectually than by its words of approbation and patronizing advice."

A fire broke out over the furnace in the Grigg House yesterday afternoon, caused by a lot of dust catching. The brigade was called out, but the fire was extinguished before they got there.

Mr. H. E. Moore, of the Tecumseh House, was somewhat easier last night, but he is not yet out of danger.

Ricksecker's perfumes are fast taking the lead for elegance, durability and general superiority, finding preference wherever known, even in foreign capitals of fashion, over all others. As one of our fashion journals aptly puts it:—"An indescribably luscious odor surrounds the lady who uses Ricksecker's perfumes." Ricksecker's Edgewood Violets—as fresh, delicate, sweet and natural as the "mutely eloquent modest violet" itself, from which this perfume is directly extracted. The above perfume is not made by any other perfumers, and is the result of much experiment, thought, experience and cost. Avoid disappointment and accept no substitute for it. New goods for Christmas presents have arrived. — CAIRNCROSS & LAWRENCE, chemists, 256 Dundas street. *

THE BRITISH CABINET.

HARTINGTON IN ROME AWAITING SALISBURY'S LETTERS.

Belief that the Former will not Enter the Cabinet—Further Prorogation of Parliament to Allow the Formation of a New Ministry—What Churchill's Friends Say.

London, Dec. 24.—The Times, commenting on the reported reason for Churchill's resignation, viz., that he was opposed to an increase in the military and naval estimates, says the estimates are not extraordinary, and only provide for the moderate strengthening of the naval and military condition of the empire, rendered necessary by the outlook of foreign affairs. Conservatives in Ireland look upon the resignation as a serious blow to the Ministry, while the Nationalists think it will prove fatal to the present Government.

Lord Hartington will arrive in London on Monday.—(Later.)—In consequence of Lord Salisbury's request, Lord Hartington will remain in Rome until Sunday to await letters from Lord Salisbury. Lord Hartington has not received an invitation to enter the Cabinet. It is impossible that an invitation would be sent by telegraph, as he has no cipher that would enable him to translate a Government despatch. He will not come to a decision until he has received Lord Salisbury's letters. Lord Hartington thinks that virtually there has been no change in the situation since last autumn. He reserves his opinion as to the future. The opinion grows that Lord Hartington will not enter the Cabinet.

It has been virtually decided to further prorogue Parliament until the second week in February. Lord Randolph Churchill alone insisted upon an early meeting. A Cabinet Council has been summoned for next week.

Lord Randolph Churchill is irritated and astounded at the unanimity of the denunciations of his course by Conservatives.

The supporters of Lord Randolph Churchill declare that when he is able to tell the true reason for his resignation, the disclosure will cause a sensation throughout the country and result in his triumphant vindication. They say it will be shown that he did not oppose grants for the necessary defence of the Empire, but that he refused to sanction an increase of estimates unless it was accompanied by a reformed administration of the War and Admiralty departments. Lord Randolph discovered, while in office, say his friends, that the Government had no control over the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of pounds which are yearly voted for the War Office for material that has never been provided, and that similar abuses exist in the Admiralty.

It is expected that Parliament will be prorogued until the 3rd of February in order to allow the formation of a new Ministry.

The Daily News, referring to Lord Salisbury's overtures to Lord Hartington, says:—By this act of miserable weakness and miscalled patriotism, Lord Salisbury acknowledges that the Conservatives are absolutely dependent upon the will and pleasure of Churchill. It is not strange that many Conservatives are puzzled over and indignant at the feebleness of their leaders, which must surely damage the reputation of modern Conservatism.

TORONTO.

St. George's Christmas Cheer—A Lively Christmas Trade—C. Bruce's Death.

Toronto, Dec. 24.—The annual distribution by the St. George's Society to the poor took place to-day. About 8,000 pounds of beef, 4 000 of bread, 700 of sugar, 400 of tea and 100 of candles, besides a miscellaneous collection of soap, baking powder, &c., were given away. About 700 families were thus benefited. There has been a much less number of applicants this year.

Tradesmen did a rushing business today, and many of them state that never in their experience have such large numbers visited their stores and purchased presents. The principal streets were thronged with people up to a late hour to night and the stores were crowded.

The final meeting in the interest of the labor candidates for the Local Legislature was held to-night.

It has been decided to hold a Coroner's inquest on Monday on the body of C. Bruce, who died at the Hospital last night after being thrown out of King's restaurant, York street.

Christmas Dinners for the Poor.

Cleveland, O., Dec 24.—Some time ago the Leader started a Christmas dinner fund for the worthy poor of the city. Contributions poured in and this morning the fund amounted to $3 600. At nine o'clock the distribution began. There were 2,600 baskets, and each basket contained a large turkey, a peck of potatoes, a half pound of butter, a two-pound loaf of bread, a half dozen onions, three or four oranges, parsley, etc. The baskets were given out at the great tabernacle on Ontario street. A Christmas card was tied to each, with directions in English, German and Bohemian for cooking a sumptuous Christmas dinner with the material furnished. Some of the people who applied for tickets had sick ones within their family, and in such a case a special mark was placed on their card. For these 500 separate baskets had been piled up, and in each one was placed a quart can of oysters. The crowd was very large, and the distribution was the greatest thing of the kind in the history of the city.

Telegraph Extension.

Fort Keogh, Mont., Dec. 24.—The Rocky Mountain Telegraph Company's new wire is completed from Medicine Hat, on the Canadian Pacific, to Fort Assiniboine, which is connected with Helena. The electric circuit is now completed in the north-west, east and west from the United States via the Canadian Pacific.

OUTLINE OF THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT BOARDS BILL.

Russian Reserves Called Out—Lord Colin Campbell Applies for a New Trial—Rescue of a Bear from a Burning Building.

London, December 24.

Russian Activity.

It is stated that the Russian reserves have been called out. Marked movements of troops have been noticed in Bessarabia.

The Campbell Scandal.

Lord Colin Campbell's solicitors have applied for a new trial of his counter suit for divorce against his wife, on the ground that the verdict of the jury was against the weight of the evidence.

The Berlin Boerse.

As business was about to close on the Berlin boerse to-day, a rumor was circulated to the effect that Emperor William was in a moribund condition. The rumor failed to affect prices, which closed firm, the market having recovered from yesterday's depression. Similar reports will have no effect in the future, as they will not be believed, even if well founded.

Brutin Saved.

When the firemen had secured such control of the flames at the Liverpool fire today, as to be able to confine them to the burning premises, it was noticed that the large Polar bear in the menagerie was still alive and comparatively unhurt, although surrounded by flames. A determined effort was at once made to rescue the fine brute. A powerful stream of water was kept in full play on the cage, and a number of daring men made their way under the current to the cage. This they wrenched from its fastenings, and grappling it with chains and bars managed, the bear desperately flying at them all the while, to drag the cage from the fire just before the walls of the burning buildings fell in with a crash. The rescue of the bear was witnessed by thousands of people, and greeted with great cheering.

The County Government Bill.

The Pall Mall Gazette publishes what purports to be a correct outline of the proposed County Government Bill now under consideration by the Ministry. The Bill constitutes county governing boards with jurisdiction embracing the various county authorities already in existence, simplifying the machinery of local government by placing in the hands of one body the powers now exercised by several. The new authority is to be composed of three classes of members—namely, one-third elected by the ratepayers, one-third nominated by the chairman of the present local boards, and one-third to be elected from the county magistracy. A leading Tory member who is in a position to know stated in answer to inquiries that the above was a correct outline of the leading principles of the proposed measure. He admitted that the Bill had aroused strong opposition, and that differences of opinion had arisen that threatened in the present complicated position of affairs to end at last in completely splitting the party. The hostility of the old-fashioned Tories and Whigs is said to be based on the proposed admission of the popular elective element, notwithstanding the fact that the nominated members representing vested interests and the governing classes are to constitute two-thirds of the new bodies, leaving the popularly elected members in a hopeless minority.

Cable Notes.

Over a dozen League meetings were held in Ireland to day.

The Frenchman, Lettellier, charged with being a French spy, is undergoing trial at Leipsic.

The Paris Temps and the Liberte deny that either France or Germany has any intention to go to war.

The French press have been warned against publishing military news which would be of use abroad.

A despatch from Cologne says the Bulgarian deputation and Prince Alexander had a cordial meeting there.

The snow storm in Central Germany has abated. Railway communication has been re-opened with Saxony and Thuringia.

Mr O'Brien has begun an action for £3,000 damages against the Dublin Express for libel in having accused him of being a swindler and an infidel.

The London Daily Telegraph says Gen. Willoughby, the Malagassy agent in Europe, has been instructed to stop negotiations in Paris for a loan for the Hova Government.

German newspapers publish a list of German merchants engaged in trade in Bordeaux who the Reveille of that city demands shall be rigidly boycotted and driven out of France.

The North German Gazette, commenting on the story printed in Progressist papers that the Czar, in a fit of rage, shot a German military attache at St. Petersburg, declares that such abuse of the freedom of the press requires an instant remedy.

The Shock Killed Her.

Mansfield, O., December 24.—At 8 o'clock this morning a 13 year-old boy named Calss was struck and instantly killed by a train at the depot. The remains were carried home, where the boy's mother was lying seriously ill. She was so shocked by the terrible tidings that her death resulted shortly after. The father is a coal miner of dissolute habits.

PAR ELL ON THE ANTI-RENT CAMPAIGN.

Dillon, O'Brien, Sheehy and Harris Acquitted — Military Activity in Germany—A French Journal's Attack on England—The Pope on the Position of the Church in Italy —Ravages of the Rabbit Pest in Australia.

London, Dec. 23, midnight.

Germany's Snow Blockade.

The snowstorm in Germany has ceased. The railway blockade at Dresden and Leipsig continues. A postal service by sleds was started to-day between Chemnitz, Penig, Leipsig and other centres. A telegram from Chemnitz says that coal and provisions are very scarce there, and that there is a great want of cattle for slaughter.

German Military Activity.

A Berlin despatch says the commission of staff officers continues making arrangements for new troops just as if the Military Bill was already passed. The War Ministry is hastening the production of repeating rifles. The Berlin Post states that the workmen in the factories at Spandau have been refused the usual Christmas holidays.

Anti-Renters Discharged.

Messrs. Dillon, Sheehy, Harris and O'Brien reached Loughrea to-day and attended court. They formally justified their charge of assault and battery against Police Inspector Davis, who was responsible for their arrest last week. The court decided that the charges against the four gentlemen for their conduct at Loughrea was insufficient to justify their prosecution, and they were thereupon discharged. The presiding magistrate was John P. Nolan, Nationalist member of Parliament. In consequence of their absence, the Dublin case against Dillon and O'Brien was to-day postponed for a week.

The Church in Italy.

The Pope, in receiving Christmas congratulations from the College of Cardinals, spoke at some length on the position of the Church in Italy. He protested against the anti-clerical movement which is being carried on in the country, and said the Holy See was now deprived of the last remnants of its patrimony. The only liberty left to him was that held by the Roman Pontiffs in the earliest ages. The Italian Government, he declared, had assisted the laity in unduly interfering with the administration of the Church, had expelled religious bodies and had tolerated an organized hostility against the Vatican. As the head of the Church he must continue to protest against the position in which he is placed.

The Rabbit Pest.

During the last ten years the loss caused by the rabbit pest in Australian fields through the decrease in the carrying capabilities of the land, destruction to crops, loss of rents, etc., would amount to at least $15,000,000. The rabbit which has caused all this damage is the common gray variety of wild rabbits, introduced in Victoria in 1860 for the purpose of sport. It has been so prolific in the propagation of its kind as to literally overrun a great portion of Victoria. In a speech in the Colonial Parliament it was shown that one section of about 12,000,000 acres, where a few [illegible] ago comfortable homes, fine orchards and all evidences of prosperity were to be seen, were rendered uninhabitable. Large sums of money have been expended by private citizens, municipalities and district authorities to exterminate the pest, but with only partial success. About 500 miles of rabbit proof wire net fencing have been erected in Victoria at a cost of about $400 per mile. Rewards have been offered by councils for rabbit skins, and payments have been made for about 157,000 dozens of skins. In one district from 750.00 to 1,000,000 rabbits have been purchased at a cost of 62½ per dozen. As to the remarkable fecundity of rabbits, it can be asserted on good grounds that one pair of rabbits will, under the most favorable circumstances (that is, a country consisting of sand hills, pine ridges and scrub), increase in two and a half years to the enormous number of two millions. A similar condition of affairs is said to exist in some of the other Australian Colonies.

Parnell Interviewed.

A reporter called on Mr. Parnell at the Euston Square Hotel this evening. He presented his card and was promptly admitted to Mr. Parnell's apartments. Mr. Parnell looks much paler and thinner than at the end of the last session, but he is evidently making good progress. He said that his physician believes that he will be stronger than for many years. Mr. Parnell explained that he had not yet granted personal interviews on political subjects, as the fatigue and excitement would be too much for him, but he was willing to make an exception when information was sought for by the American public. He said that his illness became acute about the end of October, but for several months previously he had been losing flesh, appetite and strength, until in the autumn season he felt almost entirely unable to do any work. Continuing, he said: "After my malady had become fully developed I was unable to read or write anything, or attend to any kind of business for several weeks, and it is only within the last three weeks that I have permitted myself even to think of political affairs, while even now the excitement and fatigue of the last few days have distinctly thrown me back, and made me feel worse." Mr. Parnell then turned to the political situation. He remarked that the Government, now that Lord Randolph Churchill had resigned, would have something else to think of than coercing Ireland. It would have to struggle for existence. The Government, he continued, would have been unlikely to apply coercive powers in any case, because the marked absence of crime, the general moderation with which the campaign had been conducted, and the fact that the object of the Government and of the campaign promoters was the same, namely, that of obtaining a fair rent abatement from unyielding land, had taken away many of the usual excuses for coercion. Regarding the legality of the campaign, Mr. Parnell said he was unwilling to take the law from either Justice O'Brien or Justice Johnston, both of whom were strong political partizans, who had received their offices in reward for political services, and who were notoriously lawyers of mediocre ability. There was confusion in the judgment itself, as well as in the proclamation. "In any case," continued Mr. Parnell, "if it should be finally and clearly decided by the high legal opinion of recognized authority that the campaign is illegal, you must remember it will be only technically illegal, and only so because the same right of combination which the Legislature, after much agitation, legalized for British workmen under the name of trades unionism has not yet been extended to Irish tenant farmers."

England and the Vatican.

The London Morning Post says it has authority to deny that negotiations are in progress between England and the Vatican.

The Nihilists.

The Russian Government has discovered the existence of an extensive Nihilist organization, members of which are principally workmen in large factories in St. Petersburg, in Moscow and in Vladimir. Many members of the organization have been arrested.

The Welsh Church Question.

John Bright has written a letter in which he refuses to give an opinion on the Welsh Church question. He says he expects that question will not be settled for a long time yet, pending a settlement of the Irish question.

Cable Notes.

The Berlin Boerse to-day closed depressed, under the influence of a renewal of sales to realize dealings, together with an increasing demand for money.

It is expected that the Prussian Landtag will meet on January 14. Among the Bills to be introduced is a new measure for an organic revision of the May laws.

The ocean yacht race for 1,000 guineas, to be sailed under the auspices of the Royal Thames Yacht Club next season, in honor of the Queen's jubilee, will be open to the whole world.

At Woodford, Ireland, to-day, 11 of the prisoners charged with assaulting bailiffs on the Clanricarde estate, were found guilty, and five were liberated upon giving recognizance for their good behavior.

The Credit Foncier and Credit Austalt have amalgamated in order to enable them to face all foreign competition. The Vienna newspapers state that the Society will have complete control of the money market.

Berlin will be illuminated on January 1 in honor of the 80th anniversary of Emperor William's entry into the army. It is rumored that the Emperor will seize the occasion to make an address to the Reichstag, deploring its attitude on the Military Bill.

The Rome correspondent of the Central News says Lord Hartington received news of Lord Randolph Churchill's resignation direct from Lord Salisbury and telegraphed in reply that he would return to London directly if Lord Salisbury thought his presence necessary.

CHURCHILL'S RESIGNATION.

Comments of the London Morning Papers.

London, December 24.—The resignation of Lord Randolph Churchill from the Cabinet is still the sensation of the hour. The desire to increase the expenses of the Admiralty and War offices, to which Lord Randolph was opposed, indicates, it is believed, that the Government are of the opinion that a European war is imminent and that extra naval and military preparations on the part of England are required to make her influence felt on the Continent.

The Morning Post says that the resignation of Lord Randolph Churchill has no connection with the foreign policy of the Government; that his opinions on foreign policy coincided with those of the Cabinet.

The Standard says:—Churchill has missed his mark. The circumstances attending his secession will deprive him of the sympathy extended to Ministers who resign from conscientious conviction. The Standard announces that Lord Churchill in his letter of resignation to Lord Salisbury gave as his sole reason for resigning his unwillingness to accept the naval and military estimates.

The Daily News says:—We understand that Lord Salisbury has asked Lord Hartington for assistance. The idea that he will resign is absurd. Lord Salisbury is not the sort of a man to admit publicly that he cannot conduct affairs without Churchill. Churchill may possibly now join the Liberals. Mr. Gladstone would, without doubt, accept his friendship, as he has ever had a kindly feeling for Churchill, in spite of his monstrous language.

The Daily Telegraph presumes that the result of Lord Randolph Churchill's resignation will be that the Conservative Cabinet will be weakened morally and personally, retaining office because there is nobody else to do the work.

The Chronicle thinks that Churchill's resignation will result in Lord Hartington's giving a still stronger support to the Government.

The Times this morning says there is reason to believe that the Marquis of Salisbury is ready to serve under Lord Hartington and will offer him the leadership in the House or allow him to form a strictly Liberal-Unionist Government.

The Daily News, referring to Mr. Chamberlain's speech at Birmingham yesterday, says his conciliatory temper will be reciprocated and that the speech will bear fruit. Churchill, the News says, has materially assisted in healing Liberal dissensions.

SEVERAL LIVES LOST.

A French Steamer Sunk by a British Ironclad.

Lisbon, Dec. 24.—The British ironclad Sultan ran into and sunk the French steamer Ville de Victoria, while the latter was lying at anchor in the Tagus. The Ville de Victoria had 250 persons on board. Several of them were drowned. The Sultan is an iron steamship, armor-plated, and is 9,200 tons burden.

Later intelligence concerning the collision between the British iron-clad Sultan and steamer Ville de Victoria shows that most of the crew and passengers of the latter were drowned. It is also learned that both vessels were at anchor at the time of the collision. The Sultan dragged her anchors and drifted against the Ville de Victoria.

Jealousy, Murder and Suicide.

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec 23.—William Warner, well known in this city, has been quite intimate with Mrs. Mary Lynch, a young married woman. A few weeks ago Mrs. Lynch went to her mother, who lives near Newtown. Last evening Warner called to see her, and during a quarrel Warner shot Mrs. Lynch through the heart. He then left the house. About eight o'clock this morning he returned to the house and shot himself. His body was found lying across that of his victim. He left a note in which he gave the cause of the murder as jealousy.

Great Fire at Liverpool.

Liverpool, Dec. 24.—The largest and most disastrous fire in Liverpool since the year 1847 occurred this morning, when the extensive general retail stores of John Lewis & Co., on the Brunswick road, were entirely destroyed. The stores contained an enormous Christmas stock, all of which was burned, as also was the menagerie connected with the establishment. Loss $2,000,000.

A SHORT STRIKE.

Brooklyn Street Cars Again Running —Serious Rioting.

Brooklyn, N. Y., December 23.—The strike on the Brooklyn street railway lines was ended to-night, and cars are again running. Some serious rioting occurred during the day. Policeman Dulfur was on Tompkin's Square when he saw the driver of a Fulton street car attacked by a mob. He tried to drive the strikers from the car and force the vehicle through the mob. He was knocked down, kicked and trampled upon. Finally one of the mob, believed to be Edward Davis, seized Dulfur's club and beat the latter on the head with it. The policeman drew his revolver and fired. The bullet struck the man in the back. The latter was taken away by friends. One of the strikers seized the policeman's revolver, and while Dulfur was fleeing from the mob, fired a shot at him. The bullet missed the mark it was meant for and the policeman finally took shelter in a drug store. Another policeman was beaten into insensibility by strikers.

THE JAMES BROTHERS OUTDONE.

Bold Daylight Robbery—A Jewelry Store Window Broken In and the Crowd Held Back by Revolvers.

Minneapolis, Dec. 24.—About 10 o'clock last evening three men drove up in front of the large jewelry store of J. R. Elliott, corner of Nicolet avenue and Third street. Two of the men jumped from their sleigh, while the third held the horses. One of the men carried a heavy stick of wood, with which he smashed the large plate-glass show window, in which were trays of diamonds, watches and jewelry, hurriedly seized all the articles available and threw them into the sleigh, while his accomplices kept the crowds of people that swarmed the streets at bay with cocked revolvers. Before anything could be done to apprehend them both men had jumped into the sleigh and drove rapidly up the street, the driver wildly lashing the horses and the robbers standing with revolvers pointed at the crowd. They secured between $6,000 and $7,000 worth of diamonds and watches. For boldness and daring this excels the James brothers' exploits. The streets were unusually crowded and scores of people were looking at the display in Elliott's window at the time of the robbery. Several policemen were within half a block of the scene, but could not get there in time to apprehend the thieves.

Charles P. Howard alias Charles J. Johnson, the Peoria, Ill., defaulter, was brought before the Toronto Police Magistrate. He expressed his willingness to go back to Peoria and was remanded till Monday on his own bail.

It is understood that the Governor-General will visit Montreal at the beginning of the year, and remain until after the carnival week. Lord Lansdowne will bring with him Lady Lansdowne and his suite, servants, horses and equipages. He will hold numerous receptions, dinner parties, &c., and will probably give a grand ball.

Instead of sending an artillery team to England next year it is proposed to hold a great competition at the Isle of Orleans, near Quebec, at which trophies should be offered of sufficient value to bring teams from all over the Dominion. The commander of the Durham, England, artillery has written expressing a desire to bring a team to Canada next summer.

The Ottawa Board of Trade yesterday discussed the question of discrimination in freight rates against that city, and decided to co-operate with the Kingston Board of Trade in appealing to the steamship companies at Liverpool for redress, the railway companies in Canada having stated that through freight rates were fixed by the steamship companies.

Colonel Thomas Scott has declined renomination for Winnipeg for the House of Commons. It is expected he will shortly become Collector of Customs. At a meeting of the Conservative Association Col. Scott proposed the name of Sir Donald Smith, which was seconded by Mayor Pearson, and a ratification will be asked at a full meeting of the Association shortly to be held. It is thought there will be no difficulty in electing Sir Donald.

Sir John Macdonald and his Ministers reached Ottawa Thursday morning. It is needless to say that they are all delighted with their recent experience, and they unite in declaring that the past week exceeded even the former trip. The veteran Chieftain is in excellent health. He shows no sign of the worry and toil of the campaign, and in no way tries to hide the pleasure he experienced at the enthusiastic reception everywhere accorded him.

She Was Forced to Marry Him.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec 23.—The following particulars of a most extraordinary occurrence have just been received: A young girl named Taylor, 15 years of age, living near Grayson Sulphur Springs, Grayson Co., was engaged to marry an Englishman named Rudd, stopping at the Springs. The time was fixed for the marriage and all its preparations made, when the girl changed her mind and refused to marry him. The Englishman applied to Squires Allrie and Frost for a warrant to arrest the girl. They issued it and the girl was brought before them to answer the charges preferred, whatever they were. Rudd insisted that the marriage take place then. She refused to comply, but the Justices insisted that she must keep her promise or go to prison. The frightened girl finally consented and the ceremony was quickly performed. There is no doubt whatever of the correctness of the above statement, and intense excitement exists in the neighborhood since the facts leaked out.

Prospect of Another Flood at Montreal.

Montreal, December 23.—The Harbor Commissioners' gauge to-day shows that the river has risen a foot since yesterday, and is now within a foot or so of the mouths of the sewers. There is, unfortunately, every likelihood of a flood, as the river is still open from the foot of the Island clear up to the rapids above the bridge. There is even no ice along the reefs—a thing seldom seen at this time of year—so that when the cold snap comes and closes the river, a sharp rise in the river may be looked for. The people on Forfar, Conde and other streets in that vicinity have already water in their cellars, and are preparing for energencies. In No. 9 Police Station all the coal and wood has been carried up stairs. Merchants who have already suffered from floods are also taking precautions. The pumps are all ready for work so soon as the water rises to the level of the sewers.

Killed in Sight of His Wife.

Lakewood, N. J., Dec. 23.—Fillemon Jamieson, a prominent resident and business man of Ridgeway, was instantly killed there yesterday by a train on the New Jersey Southern Railway. While driving across the track one of his horses balked. The train struck his team and wagon with terrific force, killing Mr. Jamieson and one of his horses, and knocking the wagon to pieces. Mr. Jamieson's house was at the side of the track, only a few feet from the crossing. The locomotive cut off Mr. Jamieson's head and hurled it down the embankment, nearly to the feet of his wife, who was a witness of his horrible death. She is insane from grief and horror.

Fatally Injured at Bothwell.

Bothwell, December 23. — A farmer named Tinney undertook to cross the track with a team this morning in the station yard while the west-bound mixed was shunting. The train was backing up at the time, and struck his sleigh, knocking a boy about ten years of age, son of James Fleming, shoemaker, of the town, off the sleigh on the track, the wheels of the car passing over both arms crushing them to a jelly. No hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Thrown out of the House to Die.

Toronto, Dec. 24.—A man named Bruce, who had been boarding at King's restaurant, York street, turned seriously ill Thursday night, and was thrown out on the sidewalk by King's servants, where he was found by the police constable and taken to the hospital. He died there shortly after his admittance. The heartless conduct of restaurant people is strongly denounced, and investigation will likely be held.

Deliberate Murder.

Kostinak, Miss., December 24.—Last night four or five armed and masked men went to the house of Jordan Teague (colored) and demanded entrance. A son of Teague opened the door, when the parties fired at him. They then killed Jordan Teague and shot his wife several times, it is believed, fatally. The community are highly incensed at the outrage

An Irish Blackbird.

A FREE PRESS representative passing through the market yesterday was struck by the fine display made by M. F. O'Mara, at his stall, No. 1, Market Bazaar. While admiring the display of turkeys, geese, ducks and all kinds of fowls, in addition to his usual stock of Christmas meats—consisting of Irish pork, extra sugar cured hams, breakfast bacon, sausages, lard and everything in this line, he was accosted by Mr. O'Mara, who exclaimed: "Have you seen my Irish blackbird?" at the same time pointing to a real old style wicker cage, containing a real live bird, seemingly happy and contented.

A.—You seem to keep up the reputation of the old firm of O'Mara Bros?"

"Yes," replied Mr. O'Mara, "we always endeavor to take the lead, and besides what you see here our display at the store, 69 Dundas street, is equal to any previous year. We always buy the best, and our business is steadily increasing each year." Every order entrusted to the firm will be punctually and correctly filled.

LOCAL LEGAL NOTES.—In the High Courts of Toronto on Thursday the following local cases were heard:—Birrell vs. Elliott.—Judgment on defendants' motion to set aside the judgment of Ferguson, J., in favor of the plaintiff in an action by the indorsee to recover a number of promissory notes given by the debtor to the defendant. Motion dismissed without costs, O'Connor, J., dissenting, but judgment varied by allowing the defendant credit for $129 money loaned by him to the debtor, to be deducted from the notes or paid in part to him by the assignee. G. I. Blackstock for the defendant. Aylesworth for the plaintiff. Mitchell vs. City of London Insurance Co.—Judgment on defendant's motion nisi to set aside the plaintiff's verdict in an action upon an insurance policy. Rule nisi discharged with costs, Wilson, J., dissenting, but judgment reduced to $1085 with interest and costs. Robinson, Q. C., and C. Millar for defendants. W. R. Meredith, Q. C., and Fraser (London), for the plaintiff. Waters vs. Regan.—Judgment for defendant's motion to set aside the judgment entered by Armour, J., at Chatham, in favor of the plaintiff, in an action to set aside a will on grounds of undue influence and irregularity. Motion to vary, setting aside the judgment and affirming the validity of the will in question. Osler, Q. C., and Meredith (London) for the motion. Moss, Q. C., and Bigelow, Q. C.

THE VOTERS' LIST.—Judge Elliot returned yesterday that it would be difficult for him to fix a date for the revision of the city voters' list before January 8th. He suggested to His Honor that if it were left till then the municipal elections would have to be held on the old list of 1885 as well as the Ontario legislative elections. An arrangement was finally made with Mr Hutchinson to have the work on the jury lists set for December 28, and Judge Elliot and City Clerk Abbott will spend Christmas Day over the 28th December on this work, so that the lists may be completed in time for the municipal elections.

The regular meeting of the members of Dragon Council, No. 752, Royal Arcanum, Thursday night, the following were elected to office for the ensuing year:—Past Regent, Thomas T. Mortimer; Past Regent, H. C. Symonds; Vice-Regent, A. B. Oraton, E. T. Essery; Secretary and Collector, F. H. Coles; Treasurer, James Chaplain, Adam Wheaton; Guide, Hurr; Warden, H. Huntley; Representative to Grand Council, Dr. J. M. Alternate, H. C. Symonds. Parent Council now has a membership of 66, and the list is rapidly increasing.

John Cookson came before Squire Peters on Thursday on a charge of "running" a house of ill-fame kept by Mrs. Mary A. Hale, assaulting and injuring the woman and the property. A fine of $1, with costs and costs up to $25, was placed before the young man with the option of a sentence of fourteen days' imprisonment. He took the fourteen days' sentence, and was committed to gaol on the charge of assault.

Rev. D. Stalker, formerly of Crinan, in Aldborough Township, has returned home from a tour to Europe and a year's study in Scotland, in which country he also raised money to help pay for a church at Gladstone, Man., of which he is the pastor.

The first annual exhibition of the Tilsonburg Poultry and Pet Stock Association, held on Monday and Tuesday, was a great success. Mr. R. McKay, of Hamilton, acted as judge. There were a large number of entries, and the large showroom was completely filled.

At the final meeting at Toronto, on Thursday night, in the interest of the Liberal-Conservative candidates for Toronto, Rev. Drs. Sutherland, Potts and Shaw delivered eloquent and forcible addresses on Papal aggression.

Lieut.-Col. Jackson has finished all the business connected with the transport service of the North-west rebellion, and made his final report to the Minister of Militia. He has left the capital for London, to resume his duties as Deputy Adjutant-General of No. 1 Military District.

Wm. Taylor, a respectable-looking young colored man, who was arrested a few days ago on suspicion of having stolen a revolver and two overcoats, which he was trying to pawn, was discharged at the Police Court yesterday. His reception in this city will not give William, who is a Southerner, any expansive ideas of Canadian hospitality.

If a firm of publishers are willing to put school books on the market at 16 cents each, while under the Nelson-Ross monopoly the public are charged 50 cents for them, it follows that parents are unfairly taxed 34 cents on each book. This is what the electors of London and East Middlesex should consider when asked to vote for the Mowat nominees.

The Parkhill Gazette (Grit) says "the system of holding the municipal (or any other) elections at Christmas and New Year's time is wrong, and some legislature should make it a business to change either the date of these elections or of the celebration of the Christmas holidays." Why not support Morgan and Meredith then? They are pledged to do so.

The Buffalo Courier makes a good suggestion. It is that free passes to the theatre be given to all ladies who will remove their tall hats. This might ruin the managers, but we are inclined to believe that it would abate the prevailing grievance. The passion for getting into places of amusement without paying is one of the most ardent that glows in the human breast.

It is generally understood that the term pater familias is Latin for "old man." As the latter sounds slangy, we may be excused for using the former, and calling attention to the fact that the season is at hand when the home becomes filled with tin whistles, gum drops and conflicting emotions, while the pater familias sadly weeps into his empty purse and wipes his eyes with the inside of his pockets.

In the inquest at Windsor on Thursday on the death of William Henry Jackson, the switchman in the yards of the Great Western division of the Grand Trunk Railway at Windsor, who caught his foot in a frog and was run over and killed by a freight train on the morning of December 19, a verdict was returned censuring the company for negligence in not having the frogs blocked with wood as the law requires.

Farmers coming in from the country at this time of the almanac, usually have two or three children piled into the wagon among the produce to be sold. The little country children may have just as much fun and just as big a Christmas when the day comes as the little city folks, but to miss the annual trip to the city, the sight of the gaily-decorated windows, the hurrying throng, the confusion, is to them like taking all the plums out of the Christmas pudding.

The death of Thomas Hall, sr., of Brussels, who was found hanging on his front gate a few days ago, happened in a peculiar manner. He had taken the chain off the gate to hang up a kettle used in butchering pigs. In the morning he replaced the chain, and it is supposed that while arranging the chain he took a fainting spell and fell forward on the gate, his neck dropping between two pickets. Deceased was born in Yorkshire, England, 1810.

Yesterday St. George's Society distributed their Christmas cheer to applicants therefor at No 58 Dundas street, and they numbered quite a few. Some 2,500 lbs. of beef, 500 loaves of bread, a barrel of sugar, 800 lbs. of rice, two chests of tea, 1,000 lbs. of flour, nine boxes of raisins. The Committee in charge of the distribution was composed of Messrs. J. Barron, Joseph Graham, H. Gibbons, F. Wheeler, A. G. Smith, T. Trebilcock, J. B. Cox, C. W. Walker, C. C. Reed, Alf. Cave and Edward Hanson.

The New York Herald of a late date thus refers to Mr. Newton Beers, who, with his company, is to produce "Lost in London" at the Grand Opera House this evening:—"The revival of 'Lost in London' was made last night before a full house. Great care has been taken in staging the play and selecting the cast. Mr. Newton Beers appears in the principal role as Job Armroyd. Mr. Beers is a good actor. In the most effective scenes he was intelligent and impressive."

The closing exercises of School Section 22, Westminster, were held Thursday. The chair was acceptably filled by Mr. Rowland, Secretary of the Board of Trustees. There was a large attendance of parents and friends. A well selected programme of recitations, solos, choruses, etc., was rendered by the scholars. A number of valuable books were presented to the prize winners by the Trustees. The worthy teachers, Misses F. Geeson and White, are to be congratulated on the proficiency of the scholars and the success of the entertainment.

The students of London Business College met at the residence of Mrs. Morrison, Horton street, on Tuesday evening for the purpose of honoring W. J. Elliott, their teacher, with an oyster supper. Mr. Elliott was formerly teacher in the Canada Business College, Chatham, and resigned his position in the London College, in order to take charge of the penmanship department of the Central Business College, Strathroy. He was presented on Wednesday evening with a handsome address.

MEREDITH AT HAMILTON.

A GREAT CONSERVATIVE MEETING.

The Opposition Leader, the Local Conservative Candidate and Others on the Political Topics of the Day.

Special to the Free Press.

Hamilton, December 23 Mr. W. R. Meredith arrrived here from London by the 5 30 train this evening, and was met at the station by a large number of his friends. A carriage was in waiting, and Mr. Meredith was driven to the residence of Senator Turner.

The meeting in the evening had been looked forward to with great interest by a great body of citizens. The place of meeting was the Royal Rink, the largest hall in the city. The place was crowded to the doors. A number of those present were ladies. Notwithstanding that the audience was so great, and that a vast majority were standing, the best of order prevailed throughout, and the people remained till the close of the meeting, manifesting the deepest intesest in all that was said. The audience was decidedly in favor of the speakers, as was manifested by the enthusiastic applause with which the speeches were frequently interrupted. The platform was filled with about one hundred of the most prominent men of the city and vicinity, including Messrs. W. R. Meredith, M. P. P.; J. E. Kilvert, M. P.; John Burns, the Conservative candidate; G. T. Blackstock, John Milne, Adam Brown, Senator Turner, W. A. Kerr, C. R. Smith, James Walker, Kenneth Dunstan, Alex. Turner, Jas. Stewart, John Knox, A. T. Freed, Wm. Carey, and many others.

On Mr. Meredith's entrance, accompanied by a large number of leading Conservatives, the whole audience rose and cheered him to the echo. The chair was occupied by Dr. Millar, President of the Conservative Association, who, in a neat speech, referred to some of the leading questions before the electors.

Mr. Geo. T. Blackstock was the first speaker, and on coming forward was loudly cheered. He said that he did not come there for the purpose of attacking anyone's private character, as had been done by some of the Reform leaders, but to discuss fairly and squarely the issues before the people. He referred to the South Wentworth election case and the corrupt way in which it was carried on by Dr. Dowling, and read certified copies of letters from Mr. Mowat, which went to show that he had a hand in the affair. He said that Dr. Dowling was unseated, and under the statute that then existed he was not eligibe for re-election; that Mr. Mowat, instead of repudiating that man, passed an act, which was strongly opposed by Mr. Meredith, by which Dr. Dowling was eligible for re-election within less time than the eight years, and that Dr. Dowling was re-elected and taken by the hand by Mr. Mowat and welcomed as one of his followers. He referred briefly to the Algoma and Muskoka elections. He then took up the Bible question, and said it was right and proper that the Bible should be read in our schools, but that that Bible should be in its original form—not a mutilated copy of that Holy book. He claimed that if the people would examine the Ross Bible they would find a singular concidence about it that every passage which in any way conflicts with either the political or religious views of Archbishop Lynch has been taken out of this Bible, and so it stands to-day. By quoting from the original and the Ross copies of the Bible, he plainly proved that the Ross Bible was a mutilated copy of the original work. In conclusion, he dealt eloquently with the Riel question, and was frequently interrupted by loud and prolonged cheering.

Mr. Meredith was the next speaker, and was welcomed with the wildest enthusiasm, cheers breaking forth again and again. He spoke in a somewhat hoarse voice. He said that he would not have been here to-night but for the statements that Mr. Gibson had made on nomination day, that he (Mr. Meredith) was afraid to address a meeting in the city of Hamilton. So he arose from a sick bed in order to be there. He said he had been accused by the persons who spoke here last night with being a traitor to Ontario. He utterly repudiated that statement and challenged Mr. Blake to prove it (cheers). He referred briefly to the boundary question, and said that it had been said if he was placed at the head of affairs he would sell the interests of Ontario to Sir John A. Macdonald. He asked the people if the record showed that to be the fact. Now, said he, I desire to say a few words to the artisans. Mr. Gibson appeals to the electors on this occasion as being the par excellence friend of the workingman. He says that both himself and Mr. Mowat have done a great deal for the workingmen, and therefore they should be returned. What are the claims he makes? Look at the Mechanics' Lien Act. That is an excellent Act, and the Government of Mr. Mowat is entitled to credit for it. I say that that Act, as it now stands, was the work of a private member of the House, and that I was one of the members who framed that Act, and had more to do with it than all the rest of the House put together (cheers). Then I understand Mr. Gibson claims credit for the Employers' Liability Act of 1886, and I observe that Mr. Hardy made some comparison with a Bill upon that subject at Essex Centre, which I introduced in 1885, and which was rejected by the Government. Mr. Hardy did not discuss that in Hamilton last night, because, I suppose, they knew too much about that measure. I want to point out that the same gentlemen who claim credit for that Act of 1886, including Mr. Gibson, are the men who, in 1885, voted down a wider measure by giving it the six months' hoist. Mr. Hardy said at Essex Centre that the Government measure was better than the measure which I introduced in 1885. Let us see if that is so. Under the measure of the Government the amount that a man can recover is three times the annual wages of the workingman, and under my measure this was five times the amount of his annual wages (cheers.) Then these gentlemen passed a Bill at the dictation of certain railway companies delaying its operation for a year, in order that they might have a chance of reviewing the whole thing again. I ask you, gentlemen, was my Bill or the one the Government passed most in the interests of the workingmen (cries of "Yours, yours," and cheers.) I am not going to discuss to-night the question of the unfair distribution of the constituencies, but I propose to call your attention to this fact that if it had not been for the members of the Government the city of Hamilton would have had two representatives to the Legislature, for every member of the Opposition voted in favor of the proposition (cheers) Therefore I think the Government was not in favor of dealing with Hamilton as fairly as the Opposition, had it the power to do so (cheers) I understand Mr. Gibson is now in favor of manhood suffrage, but when it was brought before the Legislature he voted against it I do not know how he justified his position. It is said by my opponents that I have brought it up for the purpose of making political capital out of it. I deny the charge; and my record shows that since 1874 I have always been in favor of manhood suffrage. (Cheers) Then, sir, I want a secret ballot. (Loud cheers) While in the Dominion elections the ballot is secret, in Ontario the ballot is not a secret one, and by means of the numbers which have been placed upon the ballots it is possible to trace the way in which a man votes. I say that a man who perhaps may not have as much backbone as he wishes ought to be able to cast his ballot as he chooses without being in fear of being punished for so doing (Cheers) I am in favor of doing away with the expenditure for immigration out of the funds of the Province of Ontario. I believe that Ontario has reached such a position that she should be her own advertisement. (Cheers.) I do not mean to say that we should shut out the people who wish to come to Ontario, but I do say that she ought not to expend any amount of money for the purpose of bringing in any persons to compete against the workingmen who are already here. (Cheers) The subject of prison labor is one that is pressing itself upon the people of this country. I am not here to deny that the subject is one involved in great difficulty. I know that the labor organizations themselves have been unable to solve the question. Is it fair? At all events, it is contrary to public policy and against the interests of the people, that the labor of our prisons should be let to others to be employed in connection with any particular industry that comes in competition with the free labor of the country (Cheers.) The result has been that in the town of Berlin an establishment was compelled to close, and in the city of London there is an establishment of the same kind which has been very much crippled. Now, I do not think that kind of thing ought to be, he continued, and my policy would be to prevent that kind of opposition to free labor. Reference has been made to the Separate School system, and I suppose it is on that question that Mr. Gibson said I would be afraid to come to Hamilton to-night. I think he will see in my presence that I am not afraid to be here and to stand on this platform (cheers). I think he will know after I have spoken that I am not ashamed to give my opinion upon the questions before the people (cheers). I have more than once during this campaign proclaimed that I have no sympathy with any crusade of that, the "No Popery," kind. I have proclaimed that I do not wish to interfere with the rights of my fellow citizens, and I repeat this statement (cheers). I have always maintained that in this country there should be no section of the people, there should be no church or creed, fighting the other. (Hear, hear.) All sections, all the people, all churches, and all creeds should be equal before the law in Canada. (Cheers) I recognize that we cannot upon any other principle but this carry on the affairs of this country in a mixed community, where we have men of different race and different religions. We are seeking to build up a country and we can only do it by respecting our fellow-men. I care not before what alter they may bow or by what road they are seeking to reach a better place. These questions should not enter public men's minds when they are dealing with the fitness of any man to fill any particular position. Cheers) The question is, Is he a loyal citizen and is he fit to occupy the position to which he is aspiring? (Cheers) In reference to the Bible, I think that occasionally there is more irreverence than there ought to be. I am not here to discuss the advisability of the selections that are made. What I maintain is that in the Public Schools of this country, where under the regulations no Catholic child is called upon to take part in the services, that the open Bible of this Protestant country ought to be placed before it. From every pulpit in the land, from every man that looks to see what is going on around him, you hear the cry that infidelity is on the increase in Canada, and perhaps throughout the whole land, and there is not so much respect for that great Book of Books as there was in days gone by; and I say that it would be a great mistake if we did not inculcate into our children the love for good words—not to teach our children that any portion of the Word of God that proceeded out of His mouth is not fit to be placed before them. (Cheers) The establishment of such a doctrine as that would do more to produce infidelity in this country than anything else that could be done. Let us follow in the wake of what has been the cause of so much good in the mother land, and let it be a Bible-reading people (cheers) The speaker at this point dealt exhaustively and eloquently with the Riel question, and was frequently interrupted with spontaneous outbursts of applause In conclusion he said:—My friend John Burns has not the education of Mr. Gibson, but he has an honest heart—(tremendous cheering)—and I am sure that we will carry him to victory on the 28th day of this month (cheers and cries of "we will"). I accept the terms upon which Mr. Burns gives adhesion to the Conservative cause. Mr. Burns says, first and foremost—I stand by the cause of the workingmen, of whom I am one, but after that I stand by my party, to which I have always been affiliated. I accept, as the leader of the party, Mr. Burns' terms—(cheers)—and I say that the declaration of that is an honor to his honesty of principle, and I hope and trust that there is no man who calls himself a Conservative within the city of Hamilton that will not only give his vote but use his best influence to see that John Burns is at the close of the polls away above both of his opponents (tremendous cheers.)

Mr. John Hewitt was the next speaker. He dealt extensively with the workingmen's platform, and pointed out that in almost every instance that platform was the same as that of the Conservative leaders His remarks were well received.

Mr. John Burns, on coming forward, was most enthusiastically received. He said:—I intend to reply to some remarks which have been made against me by Mr. Fred Walters. There are moulders in this city who can vouch for my statement. In 1874 the moulders of this city went on strike. They were fighting for their liberties and for their rights. Mr. Walters was working in Toronto, and he came and took one of their jobs. (Cries of "a scab, scab.") If what I say is not true, if there is a moulder here to-night let him rise and deny it.

A voice—"Remember your obligations Johnnie Burns."

Mr. Burns—Yes, I remember my obligations, and I am defending myself, and when Mr. Walters did that he did not remember his obligations. (Tremendous cheering) When he came to work there were two union men in the same shop, and because they refused to recognize him he had them discharged. One man was compelled to walk along the lake shore until he struck the city of Cleveland to get work The other is in Gurney's shop to-day. That is the class of men who have been villifying me from this platform. (Cheers and cries of "Give it to him.") Now, gentlemen, I could go right down the whole list, for he is not the only one. It is not, however, necessary to mention more. I just give you him because he was the Chairman of the meeting. Now, I said on this platform that I accepted the Conservative nomination, and one of my principles, too, is to stand by the workingman—(loud cheers)—and in all questions that come before the Local House—for I will be your next member—(tremendous cheering)—in the interests of labor, I shall support, and outside of that I shall give my whole support to Mr. Meredith (loud cheers). The Chairman then proposed three cheers for the Queen, Sir John Macdonald, Mr. Meredith and Mr. Burns, all of which were given right heartily, and the immense audience dispersed to their homes shortly after eleven o'clock.

HEALTHFUL & RELIABLE.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

MR. MEREDITH FOR LONDON.

Mr. W. R. Meredith has represented this city in the Ontario Legislature so long and so well, and has cast so much honor and credit on it by his manly and upright course, that any attempt to displace him is not likely to be regarded with general satisfaction. As a part of the body-politic Mr. Meredith holds no unimportant a position. He stands, confessedly, amongst those to whom the people look for wise guidance and honest administration, and it would be a simple folly on the part of this city to set aside one of its own sons to make room for any other person, be he a tried or an untried man; one that is known or unknown. The recent address which Mr. Meredith submitted to his constituents, and through them to the public of Ontario, was at once so honest and inclusive that his strongest opponents have not been able to do more than cavil at it. Of serious fault they have not been able to find any. It was eminently progressive, and at the same time sufficiently moderate to attract sympathy from all sides. And though he is to be opposed at the polls by the nominee of Labor it may be confidently stated that the experience that Mr. Meredith has had in public life, the liberal sentiments that he entertains, and the wide-spread attention to all that he says and does commands would prove of far more benefit to them than could possibly accrue from any other quarter. It may be truly said that there are but two other persons in political life in Ontario that are able to secure that amount of attention and respect that Mr. Meredith does—Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Edward Blake. There are many, very many, others that stand deservedly high in general estimation, but it may be taken that those whom we have named occupy pre-eminent positions. And a constituency shares in those honors which its representative commands. There is no one in London who may not be proud, who is not proud, of Mr. Meredith as our representative in the Ontario Legislature, even if for party reasons they may be obnoxious to his election. The magnificent receptions that have been accorded to him in all parts of the Province during the last few weeks have been but second to those that have awaited the triumphal course of Sir John Macdonald. It is admitted on all hands that London has in its representative a man whom all respect on account of his personality, his talents and the uprightness of his life in all its departments, and all its sides and phases. And yet we are asked to set him aside to make way for a gentleman who has not resided very long amongst us, and who may be said to have been unknown before he was named in opposition to Mr. Meredith. It can hardly be that those that have advanced Mr. Peddle seriously think that he can be elected in place of one of Mr. Meredith's cast and calibre. Rather, it has been done, as we suppose, to call attention to certain views which a section of the employed classes entertain on certain matters in which they are specially concerned, and which are attracting so much attention in England, America, and in most of the European countries. And it may be said that there is no one who has endeavored to strengthen the interests of the employed classes more fully than has the member for London. There is no one who should receive their confidence more completely than he. He has left no occasion unimproved to secure to them all those advantages that the Legislature could confer upon them. Why, then, should he be opposed by those whom it has been his pleasure and his honor to serve? No doubt Mr. Peddle is sincere in his desire to aid those who have nominated him. But it does not require much reflection to become aware that he could not bring that influence to bear in their favor that Mr. Meredith could most assuredly command. It is thus altogether in the interest of Labor that Mr. Meredith should have the opportunity of promoting those interests by being returned to the Legislature by the aid of the very class, some of whom have supposed, wrongly, as we think, that Mr. Peddle could assist them to a greater extent than Mr. Meredith would be able to do.

MORE REBELLIOUS TALK!

Discussing Quebec affairs, Mr. D. Mills, in the Advertiser, says:—

"The Governor and the moribund Government will need to take care lest they carry their defiance of the people to a point at which patience will cease to be a virtue."

Mr. Mills evidently means that a rebellion would just now be justifiable in Quebec, as he says it was in the North-west in 1885. Mr. Mills tried to incite a "civil war in Ontario" over the Boundary question. He sent a messenger (Mr. Marvin Knowlton) to New York, to tell the World newspaper that "Ontario was ripe for a civil war." His manœuvre was merely laughed at at the time, as the wretched resort of a demagogue. People said among themselves that Mr. Mills' share in any civil war would be a greater or less quantity of "Boodle." The man who got $8,000 for doing nothing but carry the bag of Attorney-General Mowat, had a very solid interest in creating all the trouble he could, in re Boundary matters. The more trouble, the more "Boodle" for "D. M." But when the rebellious talk of this expensive agitator becomes chronic, and he extends his bloodthirstiness to the North-west and Quebec, what might be the result if any considerable portion of the people shared his views? We should have the country plunged into a flame of civil strife, beside which the Riel rebellion was but child's play. Shame! Shame! Shame!

ANOTHER SIDE OF THE CASE.

It is very clear that if it be in the power of any ecclesiastical authority to compel the omission of any matter from the Public School books, it would be equally possible for the same interest to demand the introduction of matter to suit their especial ideas. The plea on which Archbishop Lynch puts the case is, that as there are 50,000 Catholic children attending the Public Schools, so the instruction in those Schools should be tempered in such a way as not to conflict with the teachings of their Church. On the same principle it would be right to say that some of the lessons should be distinctly Roman Catholic in their tone and tendency, so that those 50,000 children may be instructed in the "way they should go." To this end some voracious chapters such as are to be found in the "Lives of the Saints" might be read with instruction, and records of modern miracles might be made to attest to the continuance within the Church of that power which was wielded by the Apostles, and which it is claimed has not been withdrawn from their true successors. One may imagine the benefits that would accrue from that kind of thing to the rising generation. But it seems to be quite evident that if exclusion is to be tolerated on the demand of Archbishop Lynch inclusion could be enforced on a subservient Government in the same way, by the same dictum. The principle that lies at the bottom of the whole matter is this, that the Mowat Government, through the agency of Mr. G. W. Ross, have been willing to barter away the freedom of the Public Schools and the integrity of their conduct for political support, in order that they may be able to get from the heads of the Church, and through them of the members of their congregations—votes, votes! And it has been just the same with Mr. Blake in the sphere in which he acts. He has been willing to barter away the firm administration of justice—as in the case of Riel—in order to steal a few French votes from the Government at Ottawa. In either case the motive has been bad; in either case the means have been obnoxious. The evident duty of the people at this juncture is to stop at once the inroads that have been made on the school system, and to insist that as no Protestant authority has presumed to tamper with or to hamper the teachings in the Separate schools, so no Roman Catholic prelate should be permitted to dictate what shall be either taught or omitted to be taught in the non-sectarian public schools.

HOW TO EMPLOY CONVICTS.

When it is said that the labor of the Central Prison, when focused, as it is at present, upon one or two regular lines of industry, tends to cut off the labor of free men, Mr. Mowat's reply is that the convicts must be employed at something, and what are you going to do about it? how can we better it? Well, that is a matter for him to answer for himself, as it has been answered elsewhere. The special fault on his part is that he has adopted as a grand panacea in the Central Prison a system that has been tried and condemned both in Europe and America. He exults in the great amount of work done at the Central, under the goad of lash and rifle, unmindful that the more these special industries are forced in that prison, the greater is the injury to outside trades. The reason is that the contracting firms are able to make a considerable cut in prices, which every other factory in the same line must follow or lose their business. And this cut is made only by reason of the special privileges and extraordinary free facilities put at their disposal by the Government. Only carry out this plan to its legitimate end, and it will in time bowl down every one of the smaller factories, and thus nullify the good effects of the tariff against imported goods, and the prohibition which Sir John Macdonald has set against the importation of the products of United States prisons. Sir John has, at the Kingston Penitentiary, taken this subject up in a practical spirit. He has done away with every contract, as it expired, preventing its renewal; setting the convicts at occupations where they do not and cannot compete with free manufacturing industry, namely, in the quarry and on the farm. This is statesmanlike, and the reverse of the feeble, petulant cry of Mr. Mowat, "What can we do else?" resembling the reply of Sir Richard Cartwright to the manufacturers' deputations in 1876:—"We are but flies on the wheel; we can do nothing to help you." Now, in the farm and the quarry might be found the solution of the Central Prison labor problem, if Mr. Mowat had but the acumen to take hold of it. Was it not a mistake at first to plant such an ugly-looking Bastile in the centre of the city of Toronto? Why not have put it near to a large area of good land, upon which the convicts could have the benefit of healthy out-door labor in producing their own living out of the soil? The experiment is not a new one; it ought to be familiar to Mr. Mowat. In other countries, farm labor is found to be one of the most economical and least conflicting forms of industry that convicts are applied to. And in Ontario, with fertile soil at every step, it would seem to be specially adaptable. Instead of doing everything with a view to "strike a blow at Sir John," as Mr. Mowat has described his policy to be, he might take some time to look into this subject. The truest statesmanship as applied to the regulation of able bodied convicts probably would be, to make them produce cereal and other crops, for their own support, and to assist as far as possible in maintaining the Hospitals and Refuges of the country. It may seem difficult to reduce this to a system. It is, in fact, much firm, to work for all it is worth, as a "cheap Chinese" factory. That may save him the trouble of thinking out a plan which would be less hurtful to our mechanical trades. But this is what the workingmen want. Are they to be satisfied with the imbecile cry of "Oh, it can't be helped; we don't know and can't devise anything better. We are sorry for you, but you must only grin and make the best of it?"

THE $2,000,000 STEAL!

We have stated that the Mowat Government have designedly favored their supporters in the House in the matter of the stone required for the new Parliament Buildings. The proof of this is found in the Specifications which are to be seen in print, and one clause of which (on page 13) reads as follows:—

"CUT STONE.

"The base from the varied grade line to level of the entire structure, and facades of entire superstructure, including porch entrance, gables, dormers, chimneys, "Porte Cochere," vestibules, buttresses, platforms, and steps to all entrances, and interior works, shown by eighth scale elevations, and half-inch scale drawings, to be executed with Credit Valley sand stone. Said stone must possess these essential qualities: Strength, weight, appearance, facility of working, and durability."

Why should the stone of the Credit Valley, or any section of the country, be singled out in this way? To do so is to shut off all competition. It bars out the quarries of Kingston, Perth, Lincoln and Wellington, where there is abundance of excellent stone. But why are they thus barred out, by nominating the particular quarry from which all the stone for the above requirements shall be obtained? Is it because that particular quarry is owned and operated by a strong supporter of the Mowat Government in the Legislature—Mr. Kenneth Chisholm, M. P. P. for Peel? Let the people judge. Is it a cut and dried plan to put $200,000 into the pocket of the owner of the Credit Valley stone quarry, who is a good Grit? It looks like it. But what say the other quarry owners of the Province? What say the people at large? They are beginning to understand the kind of political abominations that are concealed in the system of contracting by which the Mowat Ministry has dared, with brazen hypocrisy, to extend an appropriation of $750,000 into an expenditure of $2,000,000.

Has Mowat done this of his own free will, or at the dictation of "Boodlers" in the House of Assembly? Are other Grit members interested in the same sense as Mr Chisholm, of Brampton? If so, to what extent? What is the inducement held out to Mr. Dan MacKenzie, and which caused him to say that a House which was good enough for the Parliament of United Canada twenty years ago, is not fit to stable his horse in? What is the inducement to Mr. John Waters, which causes him to favor this gigantic steal so vigorously, against the interest of every farmer in this Riding? Is it "Boodle" all round?

THE BALLOT NOT SECRET.

Mr. Peddle said on Thursday night that "the ballot box is the strongest weapon we have as workingmen to-day." And that is true, where you have a ballot box which protects the voter. But the Ontario ballot is no protection. Mr. Mowat has so contrived it, that every man who casts a ballot is duly ticketed, so that the way he voted may be easily traced by those who have any interest in tracing it. Let any man on Tuesday next, on going behind the screen, carefully examine his ballot, back and front. He will notice on the back a printed number. This number tallies with the number of the counterfoil, or stub, in the Returning Officer's hands. And any man whom it is desired to trace, as to how he voted, can be detected by this means. We say that such a ballot is no protection to any one who desires to vote secretly. Why does Mowat steadily refuse to alter this law? He has some occult reason for it. But is a Minister who has secret and unrevealed reasons for thus defeating and nullifying the ballot, entitled to the confidence of workingmen? That is the question.

EXTRAVAGANCE.

The Hamilton Times says:—"It is no information to be told in general terms that the Mowat Government has been extravagant." Thou sayest well! It is an old story, or as the Globe would say, in the street slang of the day which it uses so copiously, "a chestnut." Reckless expenditure has marked the career of the Mowat Government at every turn. Mr. Meredith has done his utmost to check it, but so far in vain. On January 26, 1883, he put himself on record in the House of Assembly as follows:—

"The rapid increase in the annual expenditure of the Province, the annual expenditure having nearly doubled between 1871 and 1882, while the general revenue, a large part of which is derived from receipts on capital account, has remained nearly stationary, and the rapid dissipation of the formerly available surplus, are, in view of the increasing requirements of the Province, matters which demand the earnest attention and consideration of all thoughtful men, if the Province is not in the near future to be driven to resort to direct taxation to meet expenditures which have hitherto been defrayed out of the annual revenues."

It is, therefore, as the Times says, no new information, to be told that the Mowat Government is extravagant.

Between elections and bazaars, says a contemporary, the holiday trade is not what it used to be. Properly the politicians should consider the interests of the business community in matters of this kind, but this is precisely what the politicians do not do. Mr. Mowat, by springing the local elections into the holiday week, has dealt a serious blow at the course of trade, and were it not for the good times prevailing in general, and abundance of money, the injury would be still more severely felt.

THAT "BOODLE."

Why do our Reform friends wilt so under the little excerpts which the FREE PRESS has given from the Asylum Accounts? Our local contemporary talks about it more with the feelings of a wet hen than the red and ribald organ that it has lately professed itself to be. The sensations of our city contemporary over these little "Boodle" matters may probably be likened to those of

"Abner Jones, of Angels, when
A chunk of old red sandstone
Hit him in the abdomen," it squirms and doubles itself up in a way the most agonizing. To onlookers, the whole thing is very amusing, especially as the exposure was provoked by Mr. Hyman by a remark which, if not "silly," was at least accounted rash and uncalled for.

CURRENT TOPICS.

The Advertiser now speaks of Mr. W. R. Meredith as "a burglar." The Globe of Thursday called him "this traitor." Let the Grits keep it up. Mr. Meredith's majority on Tuesday night will open their eyes.

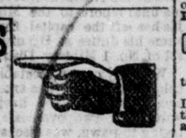
Mr. Edward Gurney, of Toronto, at a late public meeting ridiculed the conduct of Mr. Blake and his lieutenants in the Riel business, and remarked that while the Reform leader would not stand on the scaffold, he got under it. This sally caused roars of laughter at the expense of Mr. Blake.

No. 3 Committee are wanting 175 feet of hose, about $300 worth. They, of course, invite tenders for it, as that is the rule. No supplies can be got without public competition, in Corporation matters. But in regard to supplies for the Asylum—oh, dear! A man who takes the Clear Grit oath can get contracts involving thousands of dollars without tendering.

It may be "silly," but still it is the way with a great many people, to ask just now not only what is sold to the Lunatic Asylum, but what is sold from it? A good many head of cattle are killed there each year. Who gets the hides, and what does he pay for them? Does Mr. Hyman get them for his tannery? We can find no record of these matters in the public accounts. No doubt there is an explanation.

Rev. gentlemen of this vicinity are sarcastically told by the Advertiser that they are in ignorance of the contents of the Book of Scripture Readings known as Ross' Bible. If this were true, it is no wonder, seeing that the "Ross Bible" is a book prohibited to the general public. No one, excepting teachers, can lay hands on one of them, so closely are they kept from general circulation by the Minister of Education, or the powers behind him, to which he has so evidently sold himself. But the extracts that have appeared in the press, and not been disputed, give everyone sufficient data on which to found an intelligent opinion.

The Labor candidate here says that "legislation can do much for workingmen." Yet he is the Grit nominee for the city; at least that party have adopted him. Now, it is good Grit principle that legislation can do nothing for industry. That was the answer the Grits made to the industrial deputations in 1876. "We are but flies on the wheel," said Sir Richard Cartwright. "You are all wrong in supposing that legislation can assist you," said Mr. Mackenzie, and "Moreover, the National Policy is a national crime, a national disgrace." Mr. Blake says he would "sweep away" the N. P. if he had the power. Yet it is in the interest of those gentlemen that the workingmen of this city have been invited to co-operate.



The admonition imparted to those of the Early Church, "Buy ye one of another," seems to be strictly applied in Grit politics by the Mowat party. At the Deaf and Dumb Institute at Belleville, this kind of thing appeared in a trumpery milk contract. One Massey got the contract at a cent a quart over Graham, because he was a Grit, and for no other reason. The blacksmithing work of the same institution was taken from Reeves because he would not swear allegiance to the petty potentate at the head of the Grit Association, and given to an old reliable Grit, who had no opinion save that of party. In London also, it seems, the purchasing agents of the Asylum receive a list of the faithful, from whom, and no one else, all the food and clothing, boots and shoes, &c., are to be bought without tender. In the past eight years, no less than $85,000 was divided up among eight or nine local merchants, and all without tender for anything this large sum applies to. Whereas, a matter involving only a few dollars in Corporation matters has to be properly tendered for.

Some Unpublished Poems of Shelley.

From the St. James's Gazette.

THE RETROSPECT: OWN ELAN, 1812.

Ye jagged peeks that frown sublime,
Mocking the blunted scythe of Time,
Whence I would watch its lustre pale
Steal from the moon o'er yonder vale;

Thou rock, whose bosom black and vast,
Bared to the stream's unceasing flow,
Ever its giant's shade doth cast
On the tumultous surge below;

Woods, to whose depth retires to die
The wounded echo's melody,
And whither this lone spirit bent
And footstep of a wild intent;

Meadows, whose green and spangled breast
These severed limbs have often pressed,
Until the watchful fiend Despair
Slept in the soothing coolness there!
Have not your varied beauties seen
The sunken eye, the wikkering mien,
Sad traces of the unuttered pain
That froze my heart and burned my brain?

How do I feel my happiness?
I cannot tell, but they may guess
Whose every gloomy feeling gone,
Friendship and passion feel alone;
Who see mortality's dull clouds
Before affection's murmur fly,
While the mild glances of her eye
Pierce the thin veil of flesh that shrouds
The spirit's inmost sanctuary.

TO IANTHE: SEPTEMBER, 1813.

I love, thee, baby! for thine own sweet sake;
Those azure eyes, that dimly dimpled cheek,
Thy tender frame so eloquently weak.
Love in the sternest heart of hate might wake;
But more when o'er thy fitful slumber bending
Thy mother folds thee to her wakeful heart,
Whilst love and pity in her glances blending,
All that thy passive eyes can feel impart;
More, when some feeble lineaments of her
Who bore thy weight beneath her spotless bosom,
As with deep love I read thy face, recur;
More dear art thou, O fair and fragile blossom;
Dearest when most thy tender traits express
The image of thy mother's loveliness.

TO MARY WOLLSTONECRAFT GODWIN, JUNE, 1814.

Mine eyes were dim with tears unshed;
Yes, I was firm—thus wert not thou;
My baffled looks did [illegible], yet dread
To meet thy looks; I could not know
How anxiously they sought to shine
With soothing pity upon mine.

To sit and curb the soul's mute rage
Which preys upon itself alone;
To curse the life which is the cage
Of fettered grief that dares not groan,
Hiding from many a careless eye
The scorned load of agony.

While thou alone, then not regarded,
The joy that thou alone should'st be;
To speak years thus and be rewarded,
As thou, sweet love requited me
When none were near. Oh! I did wake
From torture for that moment's sake.

Upon my heart thy accents sweet
Of peace and pity fell like dew
On flowers half dead; thy lips did meet
Mine tremblingly; thy dark eyes threw
Their soft persuasion on my brain,
Charming away its dream of pain.

THE RIEL REBELLION.

Declarations of Half-breeds Engaged in the Outbreak

Valuable Testimony to the Cause of the Trouble—What the Grievances Amounted to—The Colonization Society Expulsion Charges Unanimously Disproved—The Rebellion Engineered, and Carried Out by Riel from First to Last.

Ottawa, Dec. 17.—The following are translations of declarations of half-breeds engaged in the North-west rebellion just received by the Government. They speak for themselves, and show just what grounds there is for the charge that the rebellion was caused by misgovernment. These 24 men were among the most prominent in the rebel cause.

"St. Laurent, 22nd Nov., 1886.

"I, Antoine Ferguson, French half-breed, say that the grievances I had against the Government before the troubles of 1885 were that the half-breeds' rights were not recognized, and that we considered that the Government had no right to impose upon us so many conditions before obtaining the titles for the lands that we had taken and occupied before any treaty was made. I never heard that anyone had been driven out of his land for the benefit of any colonization societies. I believe that the half-breeds would not have taken up arms if Riel had not been here. I believe that Riel was insane during the rebellion.

"ANTOINE FERGUSON."

"St. Laurent, Nov. 22nd, 1886.

"I, Alexander Cardinal, French half-breed, of St. Laurent, say that the only grievance that I had against the Government before the trouble of 1885 was that the half-breeds' rights were not recognized. I never heard that anyone had been driven off his land for the benefit of any colonization societies. I do not believe, nor have I ever believed for a moment, that Riel was insane during the rebellion. I do not believe that Riel was executed because he was a French half-breed, but because he had transgressed against the laws. Although there was some agitation before Riel's arrival, I don't believe there would have been any taking up of arms without him.

"ALEXANDER CARDINAL."

"St. Laurent, 22nd Nov., 1886.

"I, Louis Bousquet, French half-breed, of St Laurent say that the grievances I had against the Government before the troubles of 1885 were that the half-breeds were not recognized, and that we were asked dues to cut wood. I must say, however, that I never paid any. I never heard that anyone had been driven out of his land for the benefit of any colonization society. I do not believe that Riel was insane during the rebellion. I believe there would have been no taking up of arms had Riel not been in the country.

"LOUIS BOUSQUET."

"Fish Creek, 23rd Nov., 1886.

"I, Pierre Tourton, French half-breed of Fish Creek, say that the only grievances that I had against the Government before the troubles of 1885 was the slowness in granting the half-breed rights. For me, I had my rights in Manitoba. It was owing to false reports by Riel among the half-breeds that caused the taking up of arms. I never heard that any one had been driven out of his land for the benefit of colonization societies. There would have been no trouble if Riel had not been in the country. Riel was certainly not insane. He was a good deal too smart for us. I do not believe that it was because he was a French half-breed that he was executed; it was because he deserved it. I attribute all our misfortunes to that man.

"PIERRE TOURTON."

"Fish Creek, Nov. 23, 1886.

"I, Alexis Jervais, senior, French half-breed, of Fish Creek, say that I had not the least grievance against the Government before the trouble of 1885; that I was very much opposed to this movement. I used to say to the people that had nothing against the Government; that it was bad and foolish to rebel; that I had had my rights and sold my land in Manitoba, and that in striving here I had yet the advantage of taking no other land. The rebels forced me to join them in spite of my old age. I never heard that anyone had been driven off his land for the benefit of any colonization societies. I believe there would have been no trouble if Riel had not been here. I have never believed that Riel was insane, I believe that he was executed, not because he was a French half-breed, but because of his acts that deserved death.

"ALEXIS JERVAIS, SR."

"Duck Lake, Nov. 21st, 1886.

"I, Noel Jervais, French half-breed, of Duck Lake, say that I had no grievance against the Government before the troubles of 1885, and if took up arms it was because I was forced to so. I never heard that anyone had been given out of his land for the benefit of any colonization society. I don't believe, nor have heard it said, that it was because he was a French half-breed that Riel was executed. I thought so sometimes that he was not quite sane during the troubles. There would have been no trouble if Riel had not been in the country.

"NOEL JERVAIS."

"Duck Lake, 21st Nov., 1886.

"I, Joseph Ouellette, sr., French half-breed of Duck Lake, says that the grievance that I had against the Government before the rebellion of 1885, was that they were not granting our half-breed rights to the lands of the Northwest. I never heard that any one had been given out of his land for the benefit of any colonizating society. But I heard that a good many half-breeds could not obtain the entry of their land. I have since heard that it was because they were on odd sections. I never thought a moment that Riel was insane; if I had would not have followed him. There might have been some trouble even if Riel had not been here.

"JOSEPH OUELLETTE."

"Duck Lake, Nov. 20, 1886.

"I, Joseph St. Denis, French half-breed of Duck Lake, say that I had no complaint whatever against the Government before the troubles of 1885. I never heard, and I am quite astonished to be asked such a question, that any one has been driven out of his land for the benefit of any colonization society. It is certain, according to my opinion, and I never heard it said otherwise, that it was not because Riel was a French half-breed that he was executed. I never thought for a moment that he was insane during the rebellion. I believe there would have been no trouble if Riel had not been in the country.

JOSEPH ST. DENIS."

Duck Lake, Nov. 20th, 1886.

"I, Maxime Colin, French half-breed of Duck Lake, say that I had no grievance whatever against the Government previous to the troubles of 1885: that I never heard any one had been driven out of his land for the benefit of any colonization society. It is true that I have heard some persons say that Riel had been hung because he had French blood, but for my own part I don't believe it. I rather think it is because he took up arms against the Government. I never believed that he was insane during the troubles. It is true that he acted sometimes as if he had wished to be taken for an insane man.

"MAXIME COLIN."

"Duck Lake, Nov. 20th, 1886.

"I, Joseph Charette, French half-breed, of Duck Lake, say that I came here in the year 1884, when Riel was already in the country. On my arrival I passed an evening at the house of Charles Nolan, where I saw Riel and Maxime Lepine. It was there that I heard Riel and the two others expose their plans. They said at first that by the Manitoba Act, passed in 1870, the half-breeds had ceded only a small portion of territory; that the rest of the North-west had never been ceded; that consequently it belonged to them. That they were to ask the Government the amount in cash of the value of all the lands in the North-west at the Government price per acre; that if the Government refused to grant the sum en bloc they would then ask the interest on said sum during 20 years. They sent afterwards a petition to the Government in that sense. The reply was that the Government would not have anything to do with Riel. They vexed the latter, as also the principals who supported him. They said, 'if the Government don't want to give a few thousand dollars to satisfy us they will have to spend millions, and we will make trouble,' and then the trouble commenced in fact. After this juncture, however, Riel wished to go away, but the people retained him. I don't think, however, that there would have been any trouble if Riel had not been here, because Nolan and Lepine were not willing to make war. Riel was certainly not insane. I never heard that anyone was driven out of his land for the benefit of the Colonization Society. Most of the French half-breeds are living upon lands that are not entered, and they have never been troubled for that matter. It is true that I have heard that it was to avenge the death of Scott too that Riel was hanged; but for my part, although I thought the execution of Scott was for something in the execution of Riel, I firmly believe that Riel has done enough in 1885 to richly deserve death, for apart from what he has done, he would have done much more terrible things if he had been successful. I have myself heard some of his plans, which, if realized, would have been most disastrous.

"JOS. CHARETTE."

"Duck Lake, 20th Nov., 1886.

"I, John Sanserequet, French half-breed, at Duck Lake for ten years, say that the only grievance I had against the Government before the trouble of 1885 was that I was afraid I was to pay any fee to cut wood, but as I had wood on my own land I have never been troubled on that account. I don't know nor have I heard that anyone had been driven off his land for the benefit of any colonization society. I was complaining also that having settled on a school section before the survey, I could not obtain my pre-emption on that section, but only my homestead, and that I was obliged to take my pre-emption on the adjoining section. During the trouble I thought that Riel was not quite sane. I think that it was because he took up arms against the Government that he was hanged, and not because he was a French half-breed. I believe that if an Englishman had done what he did he would have been punished the same way. I may add that I was complaining also before the trouble of the slowness of the Government in granting me the entry of my land, for I made several trips to the Land Office before obtaining satisfaction.

JOHN SANSEREQUET."

Duck Lake, Nov. 20, 1886.

"I, Pierre Gariepy, French half-breed, resident in the Saskatchewan country since 17 years, say that the grievances against the Government before the troubles of 1885 were that the scrip to extinguish our Indian title to the land were not given, and that the Government were asking a fee to allow us to cut wood. I was surprised at the taking up of arms. They came suddenly and asked me to go to Batoche with my gun. They told me that I had better go willingly or else they would take me by force. I never heard that any one had been driven or threatened to be driven off his land for the benefit of any colonization society. I am certain that Riel was not insane.

"PIERRE GARIEPY."

"Carleton, Nov. 19th, 1886.

"Isadore McKay, French half-breed, of Carleton, says that before the arrival of Riel to the Saskatchewan the only grievance he knew of was the slowness of the Government in granting to the half-breeds of the North-west the grants in land or in money that would extinguish their rights or title to their lands. He never heard that the Government had threatened or turned anyone off his land.

"ISADORE MCKAY."

"Carleton, Nov. 19, 1886.

"I, Cyrille Lafond, French-Canadian, for 20 years at Carleton, say that I have asked my half-breed right of the Government two or three times, and that I never got any satisfactory answer to my letters and trouble. That the half-breeds of the South Branch had sent four or five petitions to the Government. I asked them what was the answer, and they told me the Government had looked over the petitions and afterwards thrown them into the fire. Then in the spring of 1884 we said to ourselves, 'Let us ask our rights together. Perhaps we will be more successful.' It was then that we held those big meetings that ended by sending for Riel. It is Charles Nolan that commenced that movement. I never heard that any one had been driven out or threatened out of their land in favor of Colonization Societies. I never heard anyone say that Riel was executed because he was a French half-breed. I thought at certain moments during the trouble that Riel was not quite sane. "CYRILLE LAFOND."

"Carleton, Nov. 19th, 1886.

"I, Charles Lavallee, son., French half-breed, of Carleton, say that I never heard before the trouble of 1885 that anyone had been driven out or threatened to be driven out of his land in favor of any Colonization Society. I had no grievance against the Government, having had my rights in Manitoba. I never heard it said around me that Riel had been executed because he was a French half-breed. During the trouble I could perceive by moments that Riel was not quite sane. I had known him in Manitoba, and I thought he was not quite the same man.

"CHARLES LAVALLEE."

"Carleton, Nov. 19th, 1886.

"Mr. Baptiste Bedou Delorme says that before the arrival of Riel to the Saskatchewan he had no grievance whatever against the Government, as he had had his half-breed rights before leaving Manitoba. He never heard, and is quite astonished that he should be asked such a question, that anyone had been driven out or threatened to be driven off his land to give room to any colonization society. The only thing that he heard was that the English half-breeds having sent petitions to the Government to have their rights, it was answered to them that no half-breeds in the North-west would have an inch of land. He never heard that because Riel was a French half-breed that he was executed. He never thought nor heard anyone say that Riel was insane during the trouble. He says, moreover, that it was Charles Nolan that commenced the trouble with his incendiary speeches.

"BAPTISTE BEDOU DELORME."

"Carleton, 19th Nov., 1886.

"I, Joseph Ledoux, French half-breed of Carleton, say that I never had any grievance with the Government before the trouble of 1885. That I was persuaded to take up arms, as most of my neighbors were, without knowing why. I had already had my half-breed rights in Manitoba. I never heard that anyone had been threatened or driven out of his land in favor of any colonization society. I never heard it said around me that it was because Riel was a French half-breed that he was hanged.

"JOSEPH LEDOUX."

"Carleton, Nov. 19, 1886.

"I, Baptiste Larocque, French half-breed resident here the past twelve years, say that I had not the least grievance with the Government before 1885. That I greatly condemn the troubles, for previous to them I was very well off. I had fine horses, cattle in quantity, agricultural implements, and to-day I am poor, owing to the rebellion. I never heard that any one had been troubled in his property on account of any colonization society. I never heard it said that Riel was insane, because he was a French half-breed. I don't think Riel was insane more than I am during the rebellion.

"BAPTISTE LAROCQUE."

"Duck Lake, Nov. 20th, 1886.

"I John Ross, sen., French half-breed, resident at Duck Lake for 15 years, say that the principal grievance I had against the Government before the troubles of 1885 was its slowness in granting our script. I was told, moreover, that we were not certain to obtain the lands that we were occupying, that we were to pay pre-emptions, whereas we thought we had an exclusive right to the lands we occupied without paying for them. We were uneasy. Reports were coming on every side that the Government ignored us completely; but what most exasperated us was the report that in answer to our petitions the Government were sending soldiers to fight us, and it was then we took up arms. But in taking up arms I never thought that we would be obliged to use them. I never thought for an instant that Riel was insane during the rebellion. I never heard that anyone was driven out of his land or threatened to be driven out for the benefit of any colonization society. JOHN ROSS, one of Riel's Council."

"Batoche, 23rd Nov., 1886.

"We, Antoine and Pierre Vandal, French half-breeds, of Batoche, say that we had no other grievances against the Government before the troubles of 1885 than those of the old half-breeds of this country who were asking for their scrips for us, we had our rights in Manitoba. We were not certain either if we could keep the lands we were occupying. We never heard that anyone had been driven off his land for the benefit of colonization societies. We believe there would have been no trouble if Riel had not been in the country.

"I, Antoine Vandal, believe that Riel was quite sane.

"I, Pierre Vandal, have said sometimes during the trouble that Riel seemed not quite sane.

"ANTOINE VANDAL.
"PIERRE VANDAL."

"Batoche, Nov. 22nd, 1886.

"I, Isadore Lafontaine, French half-breed, for fifteen years at Batoche, say that I had no grievance whatever before the troubles of 1885, but I heard that people were agitating to have what the people called their rights. I never heard that anyone had been driven out of his land for the benefit of any colonization society. I could not say if there would have been any trouble if Riel had not been here. I thought at certain moments that Riel was not speaking like a sane man. I believe that Riel was executed for his misdeeds. I did not know that he was a French half-breed.

"ISADORE LAFONTAINE."

"Batoche, 23rd Nov., 1886.

"I, Isadore Villeneuve, French half-breed, of Batoche, say that I had no grievance whatever against the Government before the troubles of 1885, and that if I took up arms against the Government it was because I was forced to do so. Riel sent men to me with an order of his council condemning me to be shot at six o'clock of that day if I was not with them by two o'clock. I never heard that any one had been driven out of his land for the benefit of any colonization society. I believe there would have been no trouble if Riel had not been here. I say that Riel was far from being insane. I believe that he was executed, not because he was a French half-breed, but because he deserved it. Any man, of whatever nationality, would have been punished in like manner had he committed the same deed.

I never heard that anyone had been driven out of his land for the benefit of any colonization society. I believe there would have been no trouble if Riel had not been here. I do not believe that it was because Riel was a French half-breed that he was executed, but because of his misdeeds during the trouble. I did not know what to think of his mental condition. I thought sometimes that he was either insane or very wicked.

"I, Emmanuel Champagne, French half-breed, of Batoche, say that before the trouble in 1885 my grievance against the Government was that it was not granting to the half-breeds their scrip, that we were not certain that we could keep the lands that we were occupying. I never heard that any one had been driven off his land for the benefit of any colonization societies. I cannot say if there would have been any trouble if Riel had not been here. I do not believe that Riel was insane. EMMANUEL CHAMPAGNE.

NORTH MIDDLESEX ELECTION.

A Rousing Meeting in the Township of Lobo.

A meeting in the interest of the Grit candidate was held at the new school house at Lobo village on Monday night. The audience was composed of ladies', school children, ratepayers of Lobo, and an equal number from London. Mr A. McGugan was chosen Chairman, and said any speaker in the interest of Mr. Morgan would have a fair hearing. Mr. John Waters, on rising, said he would reserve the privilege of replying. He was not a very strong party man, but he was responsible for the acts of the Government. He asserted that the Opposition were responsible for the squandering of the revenue, and that the Separate Schools was an issue which should not have been brought on. He admitted Mr. Meredith's diligence and industry for the welfare of the people of this Province, upheld the Government grab scheme for centralizing power at Toronto, and made out that he (Waters) was a futurist and could judge what Mr. Meredith would do if he came into power. He claimed a surplus of $4,000,000. said he voted for new government buildings as the present buildings were comfortable, but in the course of a few years would require a new roof. He promised the electors, if returned (of which he seemed to be doubtful), to vote for no more than $750,000. Mr. Gray than took the platform and in a few well-directed words gave Mr. Waters a version of the disputed lands not altogether to his liking. Mr. Joseph Moore, amid loud cheers, proceeded to analyse Mr. Waters statement. He showed up the Separate School system, and Mowat and Ross's truckling to Archbishop Lynch, for the sake of the Catholic vote, and said if things were to continue to go on in this manner we, as a free people, would enjoy freedom not much longer. He dwelt on the school book monopoly which Waters admitted, and showed the unfairness of bleeding the parents every few years, and ridiculed Mr. Waters' statement, that there was a possibility of the three firms getting at loggerheads among themselves and cutting the prices of the books. He pointed out Mr. Waters' discrepancy in the surplus, and showed that the surplus would not amount to one-fourth part of what Mr Waters claimed. Mr. Graham then took the platform, and proceeded to make a very forcible speech in support of Mr. Morgan, the Conservative candidate.

Why She Takes Boarders.

Puck.

"I never expected to be obliged to keep boarders for a living. I can imagine how my par would have felt if he could have foreseen to what I was fated to come. You know mine is one of the best families in New York and so is Mr. Van Blood's. I am related to the Vanderbilts and used to visit them and the Astors and all that set, you know. But now—(No, Mr. Giblets, I suppose the pudding sauce is not what it should be, but my cook left me at a moment's notice this afternoon and all the responsibility fell upon me, and what do I know about making pudding sauces?) A few years ago I had but to express a wish to have it gratified and it would be so now if poor par had not been so unfortunate in 'seventy-two and if Mr. Van Blood had been a financier instead of a gentleman. (Yes, Mr. Jenkins, I will see that a clean towel is sent to your room this evening. I was under the impression that you had had one this week.")

A new and excellent soap advertisement appears in the Chicago newspapers. It is the picture of a very dirty and disreputable tramp sitting at a table writing. On the table and wall are portraits of Patti, Langtry, Beecher, and other well-known soap puffers. The tramp is writing: "I used your soap two years ago and have not used any other since."

TOOLEY AT BRYANSTON.

A Rousing Meeting in London Township Last Friday.

A large and unusually enthusiastic meeting of electors was held in Bryanston last Friday night, with Mr. Thos Langford in the chair, and Messrs E Meredith, Macmillan and the rival candidates on the platform.

Mr. Meredith in a forcible speech charged the Provincial Government with introducing a system of centralization pernicious in character and detrimental to the rights of our municipal corporations; citing as examples the appointment of division-court clerks, bailiffs, etc., formerly appointed by our councils, but now "placed" by the Government of Mr. Mowat, which had gradually grasped every conceivable means of increasing its patronage, in order to strengthen and preserve its power, and this altogether irrespective of the voice or the will of the people. Some local offices had been filled recently by Mr. Mowat—the Registrarship, left vacant for 14 months, was for that period dangled before the eyes of a dozen hungry Reformers, and the favor eventually fell to—whom? John Walker, the "great disqualified," who was not even a resident of the Riding, and whose special claims, certainly did not consist of political purity. A correlative case—the appointment of E S Jarvis—the man who was so anxiously sought for and who made himself so mysteriously scarce during Mr. Mackenzie's election trial, as Scott Act Magistrate, was a shining example of Mr. Mowat's vaunted political morality. The intervention of Scott Act Inspector Williams with the politics of the day was strongly condemned and was, the speaker understood, not unknown to the people of Bryanston and the vicinity. A glance at the financial side of affairs revealed a startling state of things. With a vision ary surplus and a stationary revenue, the Government had plunged into a wholly unnecessary expenditure in the erection of uncalled for Parliament buildings, and this at a time when direct taxation was seriously considered as the only available means of meeting pressing obligations. Mr. Meredith closed with repudiating Riel and his allies, and condemning as unpatriotic and wholly unjustifiable the actions of Mr. Mackenzie and his party in connection with that unhappy affair.

Mr. Mackenzie followed in advocacy of himself and his party. In attempting to account for the alleged surplus of $6,700,000 he "figured up" to a sum less than $2 000,000, leaving the remainder enveloped in the shadow of a dream or to be found only in the regions of imagination. He admitted that the revenue was at a standstill, and yet approved of the erection of costly Parliament buildings, denouncing the present structure in unmeasured terms and using once more his famous comparison as to the stables. He condemned the introduction of the Riel matter into Provincial politics, and yet supported through thick and thin his master, Mr. Mowat, who had congratulated Mercier, the Rielite leader, in his doubtful victory over the champions of law and order in the Province of Quebec. He defended the school book monopoly, the Ross Bible; also his position on the Scott Act, and at the conclusion of a long speech found himself completely surrounded by the ruins of his own defence. Assuming to speak not only for himself, but for Mr. Mowat as well, he presumably presented for criticism the salient points of his party. His failure, however, was inevitable in view of the line of defence set up by the Reformers in the present campaign. A necessary appeal to the people—an immense surplus, a perfect Government—an arrangement delicately put together and liable to fall to pieces in the hands of a more skilful manipulator than Mr. Mackenzie proved himself to be.

Mr. Tooley, amid applause, rose to reply. On the authority of Ald. Hunter, of Toronto, who had seen the contract, he stated the tender accepted for the erection of the new Parliament Buildings called for $800,000. The Globe put it at $671,000, which was admitted by Mr. Mackenzie, which was certainly the minimum, and yet, in the opinion of the speaker, was altogether excessive. The present buildings, with a small outlay for repairs, might very well be used for years to come. He had been there and had felt comfortable, he had heard that his Reform friends had found them unhealthy, and in kind consideration for Mr. Mackenzie's health he was not only willing but, he believed, quite capable of relieving him from the cruel necessity of occupying them for the future. Concerning the School Book question, he objected, not to the quality of the book, but to the grinding exaction of Nelson & Co., who virtually monopolized their sale for a period to 10 years, compelling the parents of pupils throughout the Provinces to pay large prices in spite of the repeated offers of responsible publishers to furnish books equally good at a very considerable reduction in cost. This was, however, thoroughly consistent with all the acts of the Mowat administration, whose grasping propensities had now fully developed into a complete and dangerous system of centralization, until he felt the time had arrived for a re-arrangement on a more equitable basis of the rights of the people of Ontario. As a sort of earnest of a change in that direction which would enable his his popular leader, Mr. Meredith, to put into practice his views on the administration of public affairs, which were daily gaining ground in the country, he reiterated his assurance of redeeming East Middlesex on the 28th inst. He deprecated the course of Mr. Mackenzie re the Scott Act. On the platform he announced himself as not being a temperance man, while throughout his canvass he had sought votes from Conservative Scott Act men, as a temperance advocate. This he (Mr. Tooley) could prove on the best authority, and it was a case, he affirmed, of flying false colors, which he felt would receive the strong disapproval of all fair-minded men.

The next speaker, Mr Macmillan, M.P., received a hearty reception, and began a splendid speech by explaining the reason for the present contest. Under the statutes, two members, supporters of Mr. Mowat, held seats in the House until the summer of 1887. Was this fair? In Toronto Mr. Mowat, by a feat of jugglery, was guaranteed a Grit member, and yet it was the most Conservative city in Canada. A large number of constituencies found themselves at the present time with incomplete voters' lists. London, for example, was compelled to go back to 1885 for hers, thus disfranchising a large number, and all because Mr. Mowat thought proper in his wisdom to spring an election now. As a matter of fact, the disadvantage was the result of a panic caused by the report that the Dominion election were shortly to be held, and that a victory for Sir John Macdonald would bring a prestige to the Conservative party, which Mr. Mowat was anxious to avoid and, if possible, nullify. The Parliament Buildings were erected, not out of the surplus, but out of the proceeds of the Mercer Estate—the plunder of the widow and the orphan—money acquired by proceedings manifestly unfair, and typically illustrative of the greed of the Provincial Government. The Metis rebellion was fully reviewed—the resident Grits who abetted the unfortunate half-breeds in that outbreak were held equally culpable of crime with the active participants, and merited similar punishment.

Mr. Mackenzie attempted a refutation of the Scott Act charge, whereupon Mr. D. C McRoberts, an elector present, "spoke out in meeting," renewing Mr. Tooley's assertion and maintaining it to be true from his own personal knowledge.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Chairman, hearty cheers given for the Queen, Mr. Meredith and Mr. Tooley, and the proceedings, which were orderly throughout, terminated.

THE MOWAT GOVERNMENT.

Colonization Roads Expenditure Question

A POLITICAL BRIBERY FUND.

Below is a table of the annual expenditure in each year since 1868 for colonization road purposes, as shown by the public accounts:—

1869	$ 35,589 94
1870	50,040 00
1871	55,145 19
1872	75,799 19
1873	145,950 00
1874	90,762 43
1875	103,511 89
1876	85,931 40
1877	77,970 04
1878	85,012 48
1879	114,563 13
1880	96,839 99
1881	97,291 80
1882	103,950 00
1883	123,494 97
1884	185,772 55
1885	121,435 32

General elections for Ontario took place in the years 1875, 1879 and 1883, and for the Dominion in 1878 and 1882; and elections were held in Algoma, Muskoka and Parry Sound in the year 1884.

DISGRACEFUL WASTE OF MONEY.

This table plainly indicates that the moneys voted for this service are used for political purposes. It will be observed that the expenditure rapidly runs up in a year in which a general election is held, and then as rapidly recedes, to again rise when another general election comes around.

The Opposition have endeavored, while approving of liberal expenditures for Colonization Roads purposes, to improve the system of expending the moneys voted for that service, so that the settlers may receive the benefit intended from the grant.

FEARFUL EXTRAVAGANCE.

The last motion on the subject was moved on 25th March, 1885 (see Journal, 1885, p. 140). The motion was as follows:—

"The system under which the moneys voted by the House for colonization roads purposes is expended is an unsatisfactory and extravagant one, and open to great abuses in its administration, and does not secure for the localities intended to be benefited as efficient a service as they ought to obtain from so large an expenditure."

The motion was, of course, voted down by the Government and its supporters.

SHAMELESS BRIBERY.

In the year 1888, in which an election for Algoma was held, $17,000 had been voted for colonization roads in that district; $34,212 16 were expended. This was done, of course, without the consent of the representatives of the people, and was objectionable as being in fact a bribery fund in the hands of the Commissioner of Crown Lands, and yet the supporters of the Government voted manfully in defence of it. (See Journals, 1884, p. 189.)

The foregoing table of expenditures is, as before stated, taken from the Public Accounts, but it does not agree with the statement of expenditures as shown by the books of the Crown Lands Department. The actual expenditures upon the service of each year, some of which was made in the subsequent year, is, as shown by the reports of the Commissioner of the Crown Lands, as follows:—

1870	51,228 66
1871	55,145 19
1872	74,246 06
1873	159,367 71
1874	96,554 33
1875	99,815 93
1876	83,190 90
1877	75,952 76
1878	91,048 94
1879	106 856 14
1880	104,477 00
1881	99,214 10
1882	120,104 43
1883	152,174 04
1884	139,992 64
1885	118,771 37

These figures, however, make even clearer the corrupt mode of expenditure adopted by the Government.

Mr. Blake's Inaccurate "Man."

From the Moncton Times.

Mr. Blake, convicted of having used false figures in regard to North West land sales, admits his error in an ungracious way and shifts the blame to "the man" who, he says, prepares the figures for him. If Mr. Blake cannot spare time to search out the plainly printed figures in the public records, he should at least change his "man." And if Mr. Blake cannot be accurate when he has nothing to do but criticize, how can he expect to master the details of office in the event—improbable though it is—of a call from the people?

Trade Depression in England.

The final report of the Royal Commission appointed to investigate the reasons for the prolonged depression of trade in Great Britain has been published and circulated among members of Parliament. The commission says that in its opinion the chief features of the commercial situation are:—1st—The very serious falling off in the exchangeable value of the product of the soil. 2nd—The increase of production of nearly all other classes of commodities. 3rd—The tendency in the supply of commodities to out run the demand. 4th—The consequent diminution in profit obtainable by production 5th—A similar diminution in the rate of interest on invested capital.

How Hawks and Owls Eat.

From the Atlanta Constitution.

Capt. Tom Langston, who is one of Atlanta's most enthusiastic sportsmen, says: "Did you ever notice a hawk or an owl preparing to make a meal on a bird? The difference in their methods is very great. A hawk will first pick all the feathers off the bird and then tear it to pieces as it is devoured. He goes at it in a very systematic and dainty manner. Not so with an owl. After killing a bird the owl swallows it whole, feathers and all. He then sits quietly, and in an hour or so you will see the owl move his neck about as if he was trying to untangle a knot in it. Then he will sort of hump up his back, lower his head, and the next moment a ball of feathers will roll out of his mouth. The operation shows that the owl divests the bird of its feathers after swallowing it, while the hawk plucks out every feather and quill before he takes a bite.

FOR OUR COUNTRY READERS.

Safety Single-Trees.

In plowing among fruit trees or in corn, single trees having the traces arranged the usual way, will do much injury to the trees or corn. Our method of arranging the traces will avoid all this, as can be seen in the illustration. A knot is made on the end of the trace rope, when the rope is passed through the hole made for the purpose, and brought around in the grooved end of the single-tree. To prevent the rope from getting out of place it is wired or tied with strong cord. If the tree is struck by the end of the single-tree it slides off without doing much injury. If the trees are young and small, with smooth and tender bark, it is well to wrap the ends of the trace, for about 18 inches from the single-tree, with old cloth, to prevent the rough, twisted rope from chafing the trees. We always use a shorter single-tree in plowing and cultivating an orchard than in ordinary plowing, and also use a small horse or mule to do the work, as this allows of more thorough work, and with less liability of injury to the low branches or the trunks of the trees.—American Agriculturist.

Which Breed of Sheep?

An exchange says that in the babel of conflicting tongues continually going on it would be almost impossible for a novice to decide what breed of sheep it were best to select, in case he contemplated going into the business. We like to see a man nowadays who laughs to scorn all the doleful talk about the present or prospective ruination of the sheep business, and who is firmly persuaded that his particular flock, whether long, medium or short-wooled, is the best in the world. We take it for granted that he is a successful man and such a thing as failure would be impossible with him, even if he had nothing but scrubs. Success, in fact, depends more upon the man than upon the breed. And yet it is well to consider the local circumstances that undoubtedly enter into a correct calculation of the chances for reaping a harvest of profit. Where markets are convenient and land high in price, the production of wool is a minor consideration. Fine wool sheep husbandry in States like Ohio is becoming a thing of the past, under the stress of western competition and an unsatisfactory tariff. Merino sheep breeders, in Vermont, for instance, find the lion's share of their profits in the sale of pure bred stock to westerners, who are under the necessity of continually infusing new blood into their flocks. For the ordinary farmer, who makes sheep raising a necessary incident of his business, the safest course is to choose one of the strictly mutton breeds, and if, in the absence of incidents, they do not compensate him twice over for all his trouble, he had better ask himself if the fault does not lie at the door of his carelessness or want of judgment. Dogs and diseases are enemies that may, of course, work havoc in a flock and multiply the expenditure of money and labor, yet they are the exception and not the rule. He who regards every possible source of loss as a lion in the path is not fit to go into any business.

Diphtheria and the Milk Supply.

Professor Wortley Axe, consulting veterinary surgeon, who, at the request of the British Dairy Farmers' Association, is making an enquiry into the circumstances relating to an outbreak of diphtheria, said to have arisen from milk retailed by a local dairy farmer, has made a report, in which he says:—

I visited the farm of Mr. H., and gathered from him that his business extended over a large area of the parish, and that his milk was regularly supplied to ninety five households, divided among gentlemen, tradesmen and cottagers. Of this number diphtheria had shown itself in thirty, and I subsequently gathered that the malady had not appeared in any family to whom the milk had not been supplied, or in any person who had not partaken of it, either at home or abroad. So far as I could learn, there were no cases reported in the dwellings of those supplied with milk from other sources, and, with a few exceptions, all the cases occurred in the houses of the wealthy, where large quantities of milk were being daily consumed.

In seeking for possible cause of diphtheria other than that of milk, attention was naturally directed to a consideration of the general water supply of the parish, and the existing system of drainage and sanitary appliances, but, as will be shown hereafter in my detailed report, nothing could be found to connect either the one or the other with the origin or propagation of the fever.

As to the source whence the milk at Park Farm derived the infecting principle, no definite conclusion has as yet been arrived at. It may, however, be remarked that in the course of my investigation certain facts were brought to light which are of the highest interest to the inquiry, and point to a possible solution of the question.

In this connection I found that during the present year only one case of diphtheria had been reported in Frimley. This occurred during the last week of September, in the person of a boy living at Frimley Grove, a little over half a mile, as the crow flies, from the suspected dairy. Frimley Grove comprises a small group of cottages, situated on a rising ground, about sixty yards distant from a stream, which, after running a somewhat circuitous course, passes through the meadows of Mr. H., in which the cows have been regularly pastured. To this stream they had access, and from it their daily supply of water was chiefly derived. Attached to the cottage in which the sick boy resides is a garden about fifty yards in length, sloping sharply to the watercourse. In the middle of the garden stands a privy, and having regard to the lightness of the soil, and the sudden fall of the ground from it to the stream, contamination of the water by percolation of the sewage through the soil seems a not unlikely result.

Moreover, I was informed by the mother of the boy that, although everything removed from him during his confinement to the house was buried in the garden, the closet was afterwards used by him; and further, that during his illness, she had been in the habit of fetching her water for domestic purposes in pans which were used in and about the dwelling, thus exposing it to direct contamination. Whether the infecting material found its way into the stream by one of these channels, and thence into or on to the cows, to be finally mixed with the milk, is a question of the highest importance, and to which I propose to devote further attention. The result will be laid before the Council so soon as I have completed my investigation.

Stock Notes.

HORSES.

Feeding should not be suspended because there is not much work to be done; but should be sufficient to keep the animals in good order and avoid losing flesh. Good hay is ample feed for horses that are not worked regularly through the winter. Rye or oat straw cut up fine, wetted and mixed with from four to eight pounds daily (in two meals) of mixed corn and oats finely ground, will be quite sufficient for a horse at ordinary work. A feed of hay should be given at noon. Rain is worse than dry cold; a tight roof is better than tight walls; it keeps in the warmth and keeps the horses dry. In the south, where the winters are mild, mules suffer most from the cold, heavy rains. Southern farmers should think of this and give their mules protection from the rains, especially at night.

The horse's frog is a natural provision against injurious concussions of the sensitive inner part of the foot. Hence it should not be cut away. It also prevents slipping upon ice, having the adhesiveness of rubber in such a case. It is necessary sometimes to use sharp, high calks for road horses; and when those are used never have the frog cut or even pared. If it projects beyond the shoe so as to reach the ground, so much the better for the horse.

For wounds with calks, which are apt to occur early in the season, apply an ointment made of four ounces of lard, one ounce of resin, one of turpentine melted and stirred together, with half an ounce of acetate of copper. Exposure to snow, or mud which hardens upon the feet and legs, is apt to cause mud fever. To avoid this, wash the legs of horses coming in from the road with warm water, and rub them dry. If the heels and legs become inflamed and sore, the above ointment is an excellent application. It is not advisable to blanket a horse while in the stable. It makes him feel cold when he comes out. This is the time to use a blanket, if at all. A blanket to a horse is the same as an overcoat to a man. And above all things, a horse heated with driving should not be left standing exposed to a piercing cold wind. The custom of using a chest protector when a horse is at work is a good one, and will lengthen the life of the animal. It is a kindness to a horse to keep a stock of axle grease on hand and use it. A useful mixture is made as follows:—One pound of tallow melted, a pint of castor-oil and four ounces of blacklead (stove polish), in powder, the mixture to be stirred until cold. It is cheaper and better than any purchased axle grease.

SWINE.

Crowd the fattening pigs. As long as they will eat another ounce of corn, and if it is not given to them, time is lost, and time is money. The more quickly an animal is made fat the cheaper the meat is, for the less food is consumed. A good fire soon heats the kettle; but one may use the whole supply of fuel in keeping up a little fire without warming the water. It is much the same in feeding pigs. The right heat for the water for scalding hogs is 180 degrees. If the heat is greater the hair does not come off so freely. Where a large number of hogs are to be dressed, some regular system should be provided for handling them, so that two men can do all the work. It is quite necessary to keep fattening swine as clean as others; it is even more necessary; filth will flavor the pork; it can even be smelled in it. The filthy pens tend to make the meat unpopular, and cleanliness pays in many ways.

Keep young pigs warm. There is no better bed for growing pigs than a clean, earth floor, in a partly underground pen. If necessary provision is made for them, pigs are very clean animals, and their sleeping place is always kept clean when they can do it. Hence, they should have a chance.

Food that is somewhat acid, but not very sour, is better for store pigs than quite sweet food. The best and cheapest pork we ever made was fed with potatoes and corn ears boiled together, until the former were soft, when the whole was mashed and cooled and reduced to a thick mush. Give the brood sows, that are in-pig, a few cabbage or mangles. Sows thus fed never molest or destroy the young pigs when they are born. A bright, light pen with a dry earthern floor, in which they can root and roll in the warm sunshine from some large, south window, is the very best lodging for growing pigs and sows. An outer yard and feeding place besides this are necessary.—Rural New Yorker.

Lifting Out a Post.

Lifting out posts to renew the fence or to change the line is usually very hard and slow work, but the simple and effective method given in our illustration will show how it can be done both easily and quickly. A spadeful of earth is taken from each side of the post, and a short, strong chain loosely fastened around the lower end of the post, as far down as it can be placed. A strong lever—a stout rail will answer the purpose—is passed through the chain as shown in the engraving, until the end of the rail catches firm soil. By lifting at the other end of the lever the post is raised several inches, when both chain and lever are pushed down again for a second hold, which generally brings the post out. The chain is furnished with a stout hook at one end, made to fit the link, so that it can be quickly adjusted to any ordinary post.—American Agriculturist

It is commonly supposed that sheep are the only farm stock that will eat beans. They take to them more naturally than other animals; but even pigs can be made to eat them by mixing with other grain and grinding. The common beans are very nutritious, but not especially fattening. English horse beans are very different, and are not so much grown as formerly, as American-grown corn is taking their place.

The New York papers are wild over the fate of poor Jeannie Hein. She was a lace-maker and, by her illy-paid work, was supporting her old mother, her invalid sister, her two boy brothers and herself. She had the misfortune to be unattractive in person, and the audacity to be possessed of self-respect, so that some more lucrative occupations were closed to her. On Thanksgiving she took poison and died, leaving behind her the simple explanation that she feared she could not support her family much longer. And why not die in the harness, Jeannie? Will their support be easier that you are gone? You were weary of it, weary of it. Aye, and so is many another who fights the same sad battle. But is it not just as well to fight it out and keep the faith?

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS

Engineer Squires, of the Western and Atlantic Railroad, says that while speeding along through Georgia the other day at forty-five miles an hour, he saw a dog on the track wagging his tail at his master, who stood leaning against a wire fence snapping his fingers and calling to the dog to get off the track. Before the dog really knew what it was all about the locomotive struck him and flung him against his master with such force that he was doubled up and knocked through the fence. The man was not hurt much. The dog was killed.

Ten years ago Mrs. Ada Martin, of Bronson, Mich., broke her left leg, and paralysis of the limb and loss of speech followed. For some years past she found pleasure in making crazy quilts, sending to eminent persons for bits of cloth for the patches. Among others she sent to President Cleveland, who sent a patch and a neat letter. Mrs. Martin received the letter on Wednesday, and was so plessed that she attempted to rise, and in so doing knocked her son's revolver off of a stand near by. The pistol was fired by the fall, the ball passed through Mrs. Martin's paralyzed leg, the shock restored her speech, and apparently the leg will be all right again after the pistol shot wound heals.

Fred. Archer, the English jockey, was an extremely temperate man. In address and appearance he was quiet and gentlemanly, and though, of course, quite uneducated, was accustomed to benave with refinement. His excellence as a rider depended a good deal on his remarkable strength and the wonderful power of his hands. He had a horse under perfect control, and in this, perhaps, he excelled any of his rivals, and had the gift of pushing a horse at a pinch, and bringing him in with a rush at the finish. Archer, though the son of an old steeplechaser, was no good in the hunting field. He could not jump, and never rode in a steeplechase. On the other hand, his rivals, Cannon and Wood, are extremely fond of hunting.

A farmer of Brownhelm, O., while working at deepening the county ditch, found, four feet below the surface, a gigantic skeleton, apparently of a mammoth. The bones of the head measured 4 feet in length and 3½ feet in width, and the socket that holds the tusks was found to be 8 inches in diameter. Twenty-four rib bones were unearthed, each 5 feet long and 4½ inches wide, standing edgeways. The ribs, instead of growing to the backbone, as in case of most animals, were joined to the backbone by a socket joint. The grinders of the upper jaw are 8 inches in length and 3½ inches wide. The bones of the feet measured 18 inches across, and those of the hind leg from the hock to the ankle joint are 5 feet in length. The height of this creature is supposed to have been about 16 feet. These measurements show that the beast was one and a half times larger than Jumbo.

It is said that Major Ben Perley Poore, the Washington correspondent, delights in the use of the words of that dreadful old man in David Copperfield who repeated over and over, "Oh, my eyes and limbs! Oh, my lungs and liver! Oh, goroo, goroo!" The other day the playful Major saw a friend walking in front of him, so he stole up quietly behind, jammed the friend's hat down over his eyes, grabbed him by the throat and the hair, and shouted in his deepest tones. "Oh, my heart on fire! Oh, my eyes and limbs! Oh, my lungs and liver! Oh, goroo, goroo!" By this time the victim managed to get away, and turned a face full of wrath and terror on the tickled joker. It was a face Major Poore had never seen in his life, and the owner had never seen Major Poore, who made the best apologies possible, and left the stranger ruminating upon the strange characters one meets.

W. R. Sonner, of Fort Worth, Tex., has a mad stone that has been used over one hundred times and with success. It has a history. In 1818 Capt. Wilson, of Alabama, killed a white deer, and, knowing the Indian theory, looked in its stomach, and there found a stone as large as a goose egg that resembled a petrified sponge. This was the mad stone. The Indian theory is that the white deer is more susceptible to vegetable poisons taken into the stomach when eaten with grass than other animals. To preserve the life of the animal, nature has placed in the stomach this porous stone, which absorbs the poison, neutralizes it, and saves the deer's life. The stone, applied to a bite into which poison has been injected, at once draws it out, and when its pores are filled drops off. Being soaked in milk, the stone is made pure again, and ready for another application.

Some time ago an English gentleman found a large turnip in his field of the shape of a man's head, and with the resemblance of the features of a man. Struck with curiosity, he had a cast made of it, and sent the cast to a phrenologist, stating that it was taken from the head of a celebrated professor, and requested an opinion thereon. After sitting in judgment, it was reported that it denoted a man of acute mind and deep research, that he had the organ of quick perception, and also of perseverance, with another that indicated credulity. The opinion was transmitted to the owner of the cast, with a letter requesting, as a particular favor, that he would send them the head. To this he politely replied that he would willingly do so, but he was prevented, as he and his family had eaten it the day before with their mutton at dinner.

A writer in the Independent, of Romney, Me., a truthful man, too, says that the other day he saw a dog trying to bury a live rabbit which he had caught. He held the rabbit in his mouth while he dug its grave with his paws. When the grave was prepared, he put its unwilling occupant into it, covered it up carefully, and, after patting the dirt well with its paws, retired to a little distance and lay down, watching it. Presently bunny, doubtless thinking judgment day had arrived, arose from the tomb and started off on a run. The dog soon caught him and buried him again. Three times the little animal resurrected itself, and each time the dog caught and buried it, but on the fourth trial concluded that the rabbit was a little too lively for a corpse, and killed it before proceeding with the obsequies.

The Michigan Central Railroad is preparing to build ferryboats that will run winter and summer across the Straits of Mackinac. Of course there is much ice there in the winter and to get through the ice each boat will have a screw wheel at each end, the stern wheel to have one-third greater power than the bow wheel. When running through comparatively clear water or smooth ice the bow wheel will pull and the stern wheel will push. Its crushing power will be immense, and its projectors say that it will walk through ice two or two and a half feet thick with perfect ease. When it meets the great floes, so common in the straits, it is expected that the front screw will push the boat back and the rear screw will push her ahead. The greater strength of the rear screw will push the boat up against the floe, while the powerful currents circling ahead from the front screw will wash a passage in the floe and allow the ferryboat to run through.

Ye Unskilful Tobogganer.

(He calleth for his Lady Love.)

The lanterns are shining, my love, my dove,
Away to the slide let's be jogging;
For a ride I am pining, my dove, my love,
And I've brought out my little tobogan:
So put on your blanket coat quick as may be,
And come to the slide and tobogan with me,
Come ride on my little tobogan.

The north wind is blowing, my love, my dove,
It is splendid tobogganing weather;
So let us be going, my dove, my love,
And slide and toboggan together.
Oh! hasten my peerless one, off let us jog,
And dash down the slide on my little tabog,
Dash down on my little tobogan.

(They sally forth and reach the slide.)

At last off we're whizzing, my love, my dove,
And down the steep slide we are dashing;
Hear the air pass us fizzing, my love, my dove,
As on we go slashing and crashing.
We're nearing the bottom, aha! we are there—
* * *

But where's my tobogan, and where are you, dear?
Where's my love and my little tobogan.
Emerges from snow heap and gazes wildly around.)

What can have occurred, my love, my dove?
With something I must have collided;
I must have been flurried, my dove, my love,
And must have unskilfully guided
My vehicle, made from the back of a log,
My little tobogan, my little tobog—
But where the deuce is my tobogan?

Ah! now I espy you, my love, my dove,
But who in the mischief's that feller
Who walks so close by you, my dove, my love?
It's that brute of a clerk—that teller.
Ah! woe me unhappy! now homeward I'll jog,
For my love I have lost, and my little tobog;
Yes, all smashed is my little tobogan.

MORAL.

Young fellows, give ear: ere you go to the slide
With your girl, learn to steer, for a duffer
No lady can care for, and if you can't guide
Your tobogan you'll certainly suffer.
As my hero above, whose unskilfulness cost
Him the loss of his girl, and besides her he lost—
He lost his little tobogan. S.

Railroading Across the Rockies—Natural Obstacles, and How They are Overcome—A Brantford Firm's Contributions to the Work.

The Waterous Company, of Brantford, have received the following interesting letter:—

Ross Saw Mill, Duggan's Siding, B.C., Nov. 8th, 1886.

H. Waterous, Jr., Waterous Eng. W. Co., Brantford.

Dear Sir,—As I have now finished here fitting with the mill, I thought that you would be pleased to know how it worked and what amount this mill is able to cut when run with proper care. As it is the first of this particular style of mill you have sent to the Rockies, and as I have kept an account of all expenses of running this (25 H. P. Portable) mill and the amount it cut, I am able to give you a correct statement of what it cost to handle lumber in this part. Any of your customers may rely upon the truth of my statements. As you are aware, I left Brantford on the 7th May, the mill being shipped at the same time. I arrived at the Rockies on the 8th of June by way of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The mill arrived on the 20th and on the 21st we started to saw, and by the 8th of November we had cut 600,800 feet. The last month's cutting was the largest, amounting to 817,000 feet (these are the figures of the measurer employed by the C. P. R., and are correct, making an average of 31,423 feet per day not more than 13 running hours per day. This was all cut into inch boards and 3 by 4 inch planks, and all sized to 8, 10, 12, and 14 wide. All the cutting and edging had to be done with the large saw, as we had no edger. The timber was spruce, pine, fir, cedar, and hemlock. I see in one of your circulars that you give the amount of what has been cut per hour and day, but I thought it would be more satisfactory to you and to your customers to know what such a mill could do in the action, and you may rely upon this statement as being absolutely correct. During this time the expenses for repairs only amounted to $1.50, viz., for 1 bolt in action lever, 1 bolt in saw lever, and repairs on timber gauge. This mill was never stopped one working hour during the whole season. The new Peel dogs are a complete success, they are quick and sure hold every time. I am satisfied that there need be no trouble or delay in running these mills if they are properly looked after. There was no extra chance to make this mill run any better than any other. The men were all picked up as they came along. The only man that had any experience in a mill was the sawyer. I filed the saws myself and kept all other things right. It might be interesting for you to know how much timber it takes to build one of these snow slide sheds per mile. It takes over 6,461,806 ft. of timber and 62,000 bolts 36 in. long, and 200,000 spikes 10 in. long. I do not refer above to the ordinary snow sheds such as used on the Intercolonial Railway, these are used here where snow is likely to drift in, but in speaking above I refer to what might be properly be called snow-slides. They are built at a point where snow-slides are likely to occur, always in the face of steep and high mountains. One side (the high side of shed) is built up into the side of the mountain and has a slant over the top something like a shed roof. They are wonderfully strong and you may be under none too much so, as the accumulated snow of many years may start from the top of these lofty hills and come thundering down in masses 50 to 100 or 200 feet thick, with a force that nothing can resist. As it is the mountain on the other side of the valley from which the slide takes place. The snow in passing down slides from the top of the snow slide and rushes on down into the valley and on up, for be several hundred feet up, the side of the mountain opposite. One can imagine what it would be the result of such a slide striking a passing train. Certainly nothing but pieces of the smashed up wreck, that could be unrecognizable, would ever be found. Near where I am one of these slides happened. The snow came down the mountain in a body estimated to be 50 feet thick. It struck the track and carried it bodily down the mountain to the valley across the river that flowed through the valley, and up the opposite side to about the same height. It was there the railway track was found after the snow melted. Some cars were wrecked at the same time, and were never found, probably the remains were carried down by the melting snow to the Columbia River, and then down to the Pacific ocean. The location here is a very beautiful one. A photographer who is out among the mountains taking views for the Canadian Pacific, came along one day and took a picture of the mill, and I send you one which will show you a very fair idea of what the place looks like. The mountain that you see to the left is over 5,000 feet high from the railway track. The white spot between the higher and lower peak is snow, and in that hollow place all the year around, that snow is supposed to be 250 feet deep, and is a glacier; it is full of numerous cracks. The men have dropped lines down some of these cracks for over 100 feet without reaching the bottom. The high high peak seen on the picture is high and rugged and difficult to climb over. There was a rain cloud floated up against the peak once and burst, letting out a flood of water that brought everything down the mountain with it. Enormous rocks and trees were apparently no obstruction whatever. The course of the water made a clear sweep, and its track is easily seen yet. As it came down the rocks and trees that it bore up would sometimes lodge in narrow places on the sides of the mountain and be piled up 150 or 200 feet high, but the weight of water behind would soon be so great that the dam would give way, and down would come the water again, and rocks, trees, etc., and so it kept on until it reached the river, which was raised by this flood until the water stood 20 feet over the track. This cloud burst did a great deal towards preparing the mill site. Level places large enough to build a mill on are hard to get up here in the mountains. There are some very interesting things up here, and one need not get very lonesome if he has any taste for curious nature. A little way from the mill are soda springs and hot springs, so you can have both a plain soda and a hot bath, one or both, as you choose, and no thanks to anyone. Soda plain, however. No liquor is allowed up here, which is a good thing, where so many and such different kinds of men are employed away from all law and order.

I have been up the Roumanian, Bulgarian, and Thuringian mountains, but the mountains here, I think, are much grander. It is not possible to picture them. However, as you have been on the Andes and Alps, you can think back a few years to the time we were in Santiago, Chili (I now see by the papers you are the Hon. Vice-Consul of that progressive republic), and used together take a walk to the top of Santa Lucia and look off to the snow-capped Andes; it will give you an idea of this place. Only I am here in the very midst of them; then we were at a distance. Should you or any of the Brantford people be taking a trip over the Canada Pacific to British Columbia they can remember when passing through these sheds that Brantford saw mills with Brantford brains and muscle cut the six million or more feet of lumber that is required to build each mile. For this is not the only one of your mills here; there are a number of them, and I can tell you it does me good to know that no other mill, American or Canadian (and there are a good many, especially of the former, scattered around the mountains), have done as much or as good work as our own mills. I naturally feel a pride in the old shop and what it does. I have been with you now some 30 years, and there are there, still at work, men who commenced before I did, and I want you to let them know what this mill has done up here, for I know they will be glad to hear from it, and that their work is a success. As I am writing, my mind turns back to a time when we were having one of our annual shop picnics, about the time the Canada Pacific was first being talked about. Mr. Robertson, of the Bank of British North America, was making a few remarks, and spoke about the great railway, and said it was sure to be built, and would carry from ocean to ocean the Brantford saw-mills. We have seen that now all come to pass, and that his forecast of the future was correct. I have seen the Brantford saw-mills go ahead and cut the timber to build the railway bed, the stations, and the fences, and now we have turned back and are cutting the timber and plank to cover the road where it is necessary to protect it from the snow. I have made this letter too long, but there is so much here to be seen and to write about that when you start to write you do not know when to stop. But I know you take an interest in such things as are to be seen here. And I would say, come along and see for yourself, and I am sure you will be well satisfied and paid for your trip. With no more at present.

I am your old fellow traveller,
John Lyle.

Heroines in Slums.

You pass through a hideous London slum; the oil lamps flare and flicker in the wind, the hoarse hawkers shriek, the ragged children cry shrilly and from the public houses come the confused babble of laughter and cursing and rank whiffs of acrid smoke. Blowsy women, says the London Herald, which draws this lurid picture, pass you; ugly male night birds scowl at you with savage eyes; foul-mouthed young girls mere children, alas! salute you with impudent confidence, and the night is full of rank odors and bleared lights. You enter a narrow alley, watching carefully the manœuvres of the skulking creatures who slouch around with humped shoulders and evil gaze. A door opens and you are in the midst of a strange assemblage. A bevy of women gather around some long tables and watch you with dull curiosity. Here is one who is pinched with hunger, her thin fingers are knotty at the joints, her hair is wofully scanty, and she looks beaten, bloodless, sorrowful. Here is a bold creature who meets your look with a hard, brutal stare; she has heard the chimes of midnight. Here is a specimen of the ordinary, dirty, garrulous trollop so freely produced in the wilderness of London. Here is a mere female animal, a creature without a soul, who sits callously glowering at vacancy. A hoarse laugh sounds out harshly, and then a quiet voice, with the tone of a mellow bell soars along the low room and instantly the disorder is stilled. You move to the head of the room, and you are greeted by a white-haired woman dressed in black. Her eye is like still, her lips are composed, her forehead is very placid, and her manners are the manners of a great lady. She is fit to move in any asembly in the world, and her dignity would draw the eyes of men and women wherever she went. Beautiful she has been, and the exquisite remains of her fairness remind you of some splendid buildings grown gray with stress of years. When she speaks you hear that indefinable accent which is attained only by those who live among ultra refined people from their earliest years. A lady this of the highest breeding. You feel as if you were in the presence of a queen, yet she puts you at ease instantly, and falls into conversation with polished grace. Witty she is in a subtle way, and her wit is so strangely blended with pathos as to present a unique product of intellectual chemistry. She knows the world, and can flash out an occasional speech worthy of the salon rather than of this dingy shed; but the ruling aspect of her face and the essential tones of her voice are those of one to whom the affairs of the world are of small moment. She masters the evil assembisge in front of her, and the boldest slut that ever disgraced her sex is reverential toward the kind, grave lady, whose will dominates all. As you talk she tells you of her work. This refuge is open every night for the homeless, and her duty is to keep those who are poor, heal those who are sick, and to raise with loving, merciful words and deeds those who are fallen. None are too base for this lovely all embracing charity. Romances in plenty she can tell, and she does so with a soft matter-of-fact sweetness. Every form of human wretchedness is known to her, and her eyes are fixed day by day on sights of woe. Does she ever leave that fearful quarter? Never! O, discontented, puling folk, think o' that! This lady, who was once beautiful, rich, courted, has given up all for the sake of working beneficently in the weary world, and she passes her days in an appalling London slum. Lords and ladies of her own class see her, but they remain only for a little time; she stays at her post with still constancy, and bears the squalor, the ennui, the loathsome sights and sounds, the recital of wringing records of misery. She is content even to forego her name, and her very identity has perished from the brilliant world that once knew her. "I am Sister Zillah," she says with her courtly smile, "and that is all." Here is one who is an honor to London, to England, to the human race, toiling obscurely in a place where even men of the better class hardly dare to venture.

Albert C. Crocker, Superintendent of Wells for the Chartiers Gas Company, was inspecting a well five miles from Hickory, Pa., the other evening, when there was an explosion of gas and his left foot was blown off just above the ankle. It was pitch dark, and no lanterns are used about the well, so that Crocker could not see how badly he was hurt. He found that he could not walk, but had no idea that his foot was off. He was assisted into a buggy and driven over the rough roads to Hickory, when it was seen that his foot was gone. By this time he had lost almost every drop of blood in his body, but he was cool and plucky; he sent a man back for the missing foot, ordered the doctors to bind up the wound until a Pittsburgh surgeon arrived, and while waiting for him quietly breathed his last.

A well-dressed man entered a Philadelphia hotel the other day, registered, engaged a room, and then, taking a sealed envelope from his pocket, handed it to the clerk, saying: "There is a check in this envelope for $500. I want you to put it in your safe and keep it for me till Saturday. Don't give it to me before that time, for if you do I'll be sure to get it cashed and spend it all." On the strength of this he ran such a bill that the proprietor's suspicions were around, and, after trying in vain to get the stranger to settle up, he had him arrested. The envelope contained a piece of tissue paper. The fellow played the same game more than once in that city.

George W. Carley, of Detroit, has occasionally severe pains in his stomach, with curious swellings and bunches. He insists that they are caused by a lizard which he swallowed with some water from the Chattahoochee River, in Georgia, when his regiment, the Nineteenth Ohio, crossed it in 1864. A tremendous appetite and constant thirst are among the symptoms which Carley thinks are due to the lizard. The doctors think that imagination has more to do with the case than anything else.

A REFORMER'S PRINCIPLES.

Revolt on the Bible Question.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—In the "Voice of the People" in yesterday's Advertiser there was nothing but a tirade of abuse against the ministers that defended the Bible and criticised the Ross Bible. Now, Sir, if ministers would not defend the book that has given liberty to the world and salvation to those who believe in it, who would defend it? We have heard of the Canadian Gladstone (Mowat.) We Protestants do not want a curse brought on this Canada of ours the same as on Ireland (see Gladstone, Ireland and Rome.)

I have been a Reformer all my life, but the Advertiser has converted me, as well as many others. I have read the Tiger since it was started. I must give it up, since it has, at the bidding of somebody, abused the men who stood up for the book of books. Now, Sir, I hope every loyal man will show that he will not put up with any party or Government that will tamper with our Protestant liberties that our forefathers bled for.

LAYMAN.

London, Dec. 24, 1886.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—"Lost in London" is a powerful and thrilling drama of the emotional school, and has been presented here before effectively, but never with such an excellent cast of characters and scenic accessories as last night by the company of which Mr. Newton Beers is the leading man. In the difficult and masculine role of "Job Armroyd," the miner king, Mr. Beers acts with force and intelligence, portraying the passionate isolation of a man whose household treasure has been stolen from him by a villain, in a manner to win approval. His support is strong throughout, and the scenery and tableaux marvellously fine, as good as anything of the kind ever set before a London audience. The scenes of Blackmoor Heath, and the interior of a coal mine, with the "basket" full of people being hauled up the shaft, are extremely realistic; the streets of London, the conservatory, and the ramshackle cottage, near London, with its transformation into a gorgeous and splendid tableau of "Job's Vision," are very beautiful to the eye. In the fifth act a number of comedians and singers appear in a pleasing divertissement, introducing songs, dances and eccentric choruses. Mr. Geo. Dunton, formerly of this city, is a member of the Company. The audience were delighted with the performance. A matinee will be given this afternoon, and again this (Saturday) evening the Company will appear.

ANNUAL ART LOAN OF THE Y. M. C. A.—An unusual treat will be offered to the art-loving public during this Christmas season at Victoria Hall. "On Furlough," a great masterpiece by one of the world's greatest painters, Carl Depriggar, has been secured through the efforts of Mr. Judson, and will be the centre of attraction in an exhibit of art much above the average. Last year's exhibition was a great success, artistically and socially, and this year's display is so much in advance of all previous ones that it is sure to be the art event of the season. There are two series of prizes offered to the exhibitors. Each visitor will have a vote, as on previous years, for the public prizes, three in number. The artists' prizes, consisting of gold medals, are now on view at Murray's gallery store. "On Furlough" attracted thousands of visitors in Toronto last year, and it is hoped that it will prove here a source of great profit to a deserving institution.

CHRISTMAS EVE AT THE HOSPITAL.—The patients at the City Hospital enjoyed a Christmas Tree last night, which was generously furnished through the liberality of a number of citizens. The distribution of presents was made by "Santa Claus," and the list included suitable articles of clothing apparel, and tasteful little articles of daily use. There were also cakes, oranges, grapes, oranges and other fruits. A festival was held in the surgery, and the patients unable to be present were not forgotten. Rev. Canon Smith was present, and delivered a brief and forceful address. Miss Duncan, the head nurse, and Drs. Belton and Balfour assisted in the affair.

V. Dixon's Treatise on Diseases of Men. The book will be sent sealed to any address on receipt of two 3c. stamps. Address M. V. Dixon, 47 Wellington St. East, Toronto, †

The gentlemen who had bought the Corriveau silk mills from the Exchange Bank have disposed of the property at a considerable advance to another syndicate.

The fishing tackle belonging to Mr. Wm. Dougher and stored at Stromness, Ont., was destroyed by fire on Thursday night. Loss about $1,800; insured for $1,200 in the London & Lancashire. Cause of fire unknown.

The funeral of the late Hon. Judge Ramsay took place at Montreal yesterday and was largely attended by judges of the Court of Queen's Bench and Superior Court and members of the Bar, and a large concourse of prominent citizens.

THE UNITED STATES.

Capt. Peter E. Lefevre, superintendent of the Savannah line of steamers, was found dead in bed yesterday morning at New Rochelle, N. Y., suffocated by coal gas. Mrs. Lefevre was found unconscious, and is not expected to recover.

MISCELLANEOUS.

It is stated that martial law rules throughout the Republic of Costa Rica. Dr. Rafael Zealdivar, ex-president of Salvador, and other prominent men, have been ordered out of the Republic.

Le Peuple, a paper published in Hayti, says:—On Sunday last a woman in this town gave birth to a child which had the perfect form of a gorilla. After exhibiting it for about an hour the doctors stifled it.

Writing from Carecmero, Venezuela, a correspondent says:—"I believe the world has never witnessed such a plague of locusts as that from which we are suffering. I have just been to Pspsro, and the innumerable millions I have witnessed no figures could describe."

A Panama letter of recent date says:—A number of Colombian citizens have been illegally banished from Costa Rica without cause. One of them, the editor of a paper, was cruelly flogged, and others were ill-treated. A serious diplomatic complication is threatened in consequence between Colombia and Costa Rica.

FIRE FLASHES.

St. Thomas, Dec. 24.—At 7 o'clock this morning the alarm of fire was given at St. Stanley, smoke having been seen issuing from the roof of the grocery of Jas. H Webb. Before assistance could be obtained the whole building was enveloped in flames, nothing being saved, Mr. Webb losing his books and clothing. The dwelling was not occupied; Mr. Webb occupied the store After lighting the fire he had gone over to Ordish's hotel for breakfast. The stock was valued at $700; building, $800; book debts $600; total, $3,100. Insured for $900 on building and stock. The property is owned by the heirs of the late Robert Webb. The flames were thus prevented from spreading to the stables of Batt's Hotel, although they caught fire several times.

About 11 o'clock last night, as Mr. Thos. Olde and family, Yarmouth, returned from the Xmas tree entertainment, they discovered their house was on fire. The alarm was given and shortly 30 or 40 were on the scene and at once took hold to put down the flames. After one hour's exertions the flames were brought under subjection, though it was not till about 3 o'clock this morning that the fire was totally extinguished. It is suspected the fire originated by the wood-box becoming ignited. Damages will run to about $400. Insured in London Mutual.

The Fishery Act Receives the Royal Sanction.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—The Dominion Government has been officially notified that Her Majesty has assented to the Act passed last session to amend the law relating to foreign vessels fishing in Canadian waters, but reserved by the Governor-General for Imperial consideration. The Act, introduced by Hon. G. E. Foster, provides for confiscation of foreign fishing vessels entering Canadian harbors, and failing to comply with the laws of Canada under the Treaty of 1818. For instance, American fishing vessels can enter Canadian ports for purpose of obtaining shelter, wood, water and repairs. Many entered for the purpose of obtaining bait and shipping men, and escaped because there was no penalty provided by the earlier act relating to fishing in Canadian waters. They could only be prosecuted for infraction of the Customs laws in case they neglected to enter at Custom House. The new law provides a penalty for infraction of the fishery acts.

Powderly's Latest Circular.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 24.—Mr. George Rodgers, Master Workman of District Assembly, 24, Knights of Labor, still refuses to make public General Master Workman Powderly's communication regarding the attitude of the Order toward the Anarchists. It is stated in substance that it declares no Assembly may either contribute money in aid of Anarchists or take action encouraging such contributions or otherwise aiding them. The other section is to the effect that no Assembly of the Knights of Labor can, without violating the constitution and laws of the Order, lend itself in aid of any political movement whatever, much less make of itself an active political machine.

Pasteur is winning new laurels. A Swiss soldier recently bit the dust, and the Frenchman has completely cured it.

"Ha! ha! ha!" laughed Dumley as he finished a long chestnut. "Capital story, eh, Featherly?" "Yes," replied Featherly, "it's good every time, Dumley; good every time."

Smith (with effusion)—"Hello, Brown, is that you? I heard you were drowned." Brown (with sadness) "No. It was my brother." Smith (thoughtlessly)—"What a pity."

"Such a price for a toboggan suit!" he declared, as though its dimensions would drag him away to his grave; but he smiled when she said:—"This suit, father dear, is to bag him."

Reasonable—"Didn't I hear you call your dog some queer name, Snooper?" "Yes, Snippit: I call him 'Care.'" "That's funny. Why do you call him that?" "Because he kills cats."

"Oh, Clara," said Maud, "Charley took me sleigh riding last night. I had such fun. I drove." "What was the matter with Charley?" "Stupid! He couldn't drive with his teeth, could he?"

Wife (reading the paper)—"Here is an account of a man in Iowa who has sold his wife for seventy-five dollars. Isn't it dreadful?" Husband (thoughtfully)—"Well, I dunno. Seventy-five dollars is a good deal of money."

Jones—"Can you keep a secret, Brown?" Brown—"For goodness sake, don't tell me any secrets!" "Why not?" Brown—"Man, I belong to fourteen societies now, and carry enough secrets around to drive any ordinary man insane. Tell some other fellow."

Peckham (meeting an old friend)—Why, Dingley, is this you? I haven't seen you in ten years. How are you, anyhow? Dingley—O, I'm just like I used to be. By the way, Peckham, how's your wife? You used to say you had the boss girl when you were single. Peckham (sadly)—She's still boss.

Thanksgiving's gone, the season glad,
Enjoyed by saint and sinner,
At least by every one who had
A splendid turkey dinner.

'Tis gone, but we've no cause to growl,
For Christmas now has come,
And on this day we'll eat the fowl

MAYORALTY, 1887
To the Electors of the City of London.
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, In compliance with the request of a large number of ratepayers, I have consented to become a candidate for the position of Mayor for 1887, and respectfully solicit your votes and influence.
If elected, my long experience as Alderman will be the best guarantee that the duties of the position will be well and faithfully attended to Yours, &c.,

MY MOTTO
Honesty and Economy in Civic Administration.

CARD.
To the Electors of the City of London:
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—My name having appeared in the press as a candidate for the Mayoralty for 1887, and a requisition, very largely signed by all classes of citizens [including many ladies], having been placed in my hands for acceptance, I have carefully considered the matter, and regret exceedingly that owing to business matters over which I have no control, and in consideration of my present state of ill-health, I have decided not to enter the field at present. It will be impossible for me, under the existing circumstances, to give the time and attention that the position demands, and to do justice to all. I feel very grateful for the honor conferred, and for the expression of confidence in me by the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly signed my requisition. Perhaps, in the near future, if it is their wish, I will be most happy to accede to their request.
I remain, most respectfully,
GEORGE T. HISCOX

WILD INDIAN BLOOD PURIFIER.
From the San Francisco Examiner:—Manhiqua, the famous Indian doctor and chief of the Cherokee tribe of Indians, claims that the herbs combined and known as the Wild Indian Blood Purifier, excel all others for purifying, regulating and toning up the system. They are used by the Western cowboys and people in general Western States. 25c. per bottle makes one quart of medicine for it.

A CARDINAL SIN.

BY HUGH CONWAY

"I don't think he will. They will get alarmed at your absence, and will send for Allan. He will come back, and Josephine, my darling wife, will tell him how I called, how you found I was a dear old friend. Josephine is very suspicious. She will send Allan to the Lyncham. He will find that I have left to-day with a friend for Nice—left Charing Cross. Then Allan will rage and fume, and will take the first train to follow me and you. He will go hunting about the Continent, and perhaps in a fortnight's time come back to England."

Her heart sank. She quite believed he had taken steps to insure this result. Josephine's words and manner came back to her. She saw what they meant.

"Then," continued Manders, "when he returns, he will perhaps find that you have been spending a few days with your old friend here."

"He will take a full amount of revenge," said Frances.

"He will try to. I shan't blame him. You see I rented this pretty quiet place for the benefit of a person who was much kinder to me than Josephine. I am afraid the truth is well known in B——. I dare say Allan will want to shoot me, but you'll find it hard work to make matters clear to him—or to any one else, I expect."

Frances grew crimson as she grasped the full extent of his villany. She rose from her chair.

"And you!" she cried, in scathing accents, "you to whom my father and I showed nothing but kindness, to plot and intrigue to ruin me in my husband's eyes. If you have any feeling of manhood left, open the doors and let me go."

"You may go free any moment you like after you have heard what I have to say, and promised me something. I only want to show you exactly how you stand. Your fate is in your own hands. Will you listen?"

"Speak on and let me know the worst a man is capable of."

"Oh, I'm capable of anything. But sit down again; it seems more comfortable."

"I prefer standing."

"All right; stand as long as you like. I am in no hurry, but I shan't speak until you sit down."

The question was not worth disputing. She resumed her seat.

"That's better," said Manders, smoking with an air of enjoyment. "Now listen, and you'll see what I want you to do. It's very little, but until you promise to do it we must continue to be fellow-lodgers."

"I suppose you want me to assist you in carrying out your imposture?"

"Something of the kind. It suited me to be here and state that my name was Digby Bourchier. Every one has believed that for the past three years. It was under that name that I won Josephine's affections. I told her I was the heir to Redhills and could turn them all out at any moment. Smart, wasn't it?"

Frances withheld her approbation—his cynical candor was revolting.

"Well, as you know all about me, and, I suppose, are burning to tell Allan and all of them that I am not a Bourchier, but the son of poor but honest parents named Manders; I have been obliged to keep out of your way as long as possible. Looking after Josephine, I tumbled against you. That was a mistake on my part."

"Then," said Frances, slowly, "all the tale you told me about the penitent criminal—the tale which lured me down here—was false?"

"That was smart, wasn't it. Takes a Yankee to devise such a plan as that."

"Go on," said Frances.

"I guess there isn't much more to say. It suits me to keep the whole thing dark for another month—after that I don't care. You can tell everybody that Digby Bourchier is George Manders. You swear that until this day month you keep silence, and here are the keys for you, you can walk out at once, catch the train, and be in town by five o'clock."

"What is the alternative?" asked Frances, disdainfully.

Manders laughed, and flipped his cigar ash into the untidy grate behind him.

"There is none," he said. "It's only a matter of time—you'll have to promise before you leave this place; so you'd better be a sensible girl and make up your mind to do so at once—not send poor Allan first across France after you."

"I will never promise—never. If you have taken these pains to insure my silence, your end must be utterly evil. You are a liar, an impostor, and, for all I know, a murderer. Let me go!"

"Better consider the matter a bit," said Manders, tilting back his chair and putting his hands in his pocket. There's no harm done yet; you can be home in a couple of hours. By and by it will be too late to avoid gossip and scandal."

She made no reply, but, turning her head away, looked carefully around the room—there was no means of escape. She rose and tried the folding-doors on her right hand. These were locked. Manders watched every action, but for a while said nothing.

"Well," he said, at length, "have you considered?"

She had considered, and felt convinced that he was weaving some diabolical plot—something that must needs be evil to her husband's people. By this time she rightly believed that he was capable of any villainy. How could she keep silent for the time specified, and know that he was working unchecked to accomplish the object he had in view. This might be Allan's ruin, Josephine's ruin, Mr Bourchier's ruin, in fact, every one's ruin. No, she would never consent; nothing should wring such a promise from her. Besides, she felt if it was to be a contest of will between herself and Manders, she was quite his match; therefore, when he repeated his question, she set her lips firmly and looked him full in the face.

"I will never promise," she said. "I will stay here until I am released; but I will promise nothing."

Manders muttered an oath.

"You are a foolish, obstinate woman," he said. "Now we shall see which can tire the other out. Until you swear to keep silence for a month, you stay here my prisoner. You'll have to give in sooner or later."

She said nothing, but sat still, thinking what to do. She looked at her watch, and found the hour was nearly three. In that room it might have been any time. There was not a ray of daylight to show it was not midnight. She thought of the distance from the road to the house, and wondered if it were not possible to attract the attention of some passer by a prolonged scream. To be entrapped and imprisoned this way seemed absurd. A hundred yards or so from the high road, and within a few miles from London. Surely her voice would reach as far as the road, and some one would come to her assistance. She hated the idea of resorting to the feminine extremity—screaming; but what could she do? She could not overpower her jailer; no one was likely to come by chance or on business to that deserted cottage; she had seen Manders lock the gate securely. Her only hope of escape was to make her voice heard. She must try, much as she disliked screaming in cold blood. If no one came to her aid her only chance would be to tire her captor out, to put her power of resisting fatigue and watching against his. No, she would promise nothing, unless her life was in absolute danger—nothing.

Well-Earned Fame.

Twenty years ago, there located in the City of Buffalo, a young and unknown doctor, who, unassisted by wealthy patronage or introduction, possessed but patience, honor, industry and skill as his stock in trade. Upon these four elements of character he has long since succeeded in rearing a giant and substantial enterprise—alike a credit to the State and Country, and a priceless boon of healing and relief to poor humanity. Dr. R. V. Pierce's World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute to day stands out amongst the leading institutions of the age as a monumental example of what Integrity, Learning and Enterprise can accomplish.

In this far-famed institution Luxury and Skill go hand in hand. A corps of eighteen experienced and skillful physicians and surgeons guarantee the most careful, conscientious and successful treatment, while every mechanical appliance and facility for treatment that learning can develop and suffering humanity utilize, is at the service of the many patrons of this grand establishment. *

THE LODGES COLUMN.

Gleanings From Within and Without the Fraternities.

Masonic.

Meeting next week:—Monday, Annual Communication of all city Lodges for Installation.

On Monday evening R. W. Bro. R. B. Hungerford, P. D. D. G. M., assisted by other Grand Lodge officers, will install the officers-elect at the Blue Room of the Temple. The ceremony of installation is one which every brother should make a point of witnessing. The officers chosen for the three principal positions in the different Lodges give promise of exceeding great usefulness during the year on which we are about to enter, and let us hope that their installation vows will sink deep into their hearts and cause them to strive to the utmost to advance the interests of the Ancient Craft in their respective spheres in 1887. With this admonitory suggestion the conductor of the Lodges Column wishes his brethren throughout the jurisdiction "A Merry Christmas"—and many of them.

"Vindex" calls the attention of The Lodges to the omission in the "Scripture Readings for Public Schools" of the seventeenth verse of the second chapter of First Peter, viz.:—"Honor all men; love the brotherhood; fear God; honor the King," and asks why the Minister of Education, and at whose dictation, left out that important verse, unless it was to please the opponents of Freemasonry and other kindred Orders and Societies. The conductor of this column is not in a position to throw any light upon this question, and, while he has very strong convictions as to who prompted the elimination of the verse referred to, in view of the fact that he cannot adduce convincing proof that the verse was left out to please the religious denomination opposed to Freemasonry, Oddfellowship and other associations which inculcate the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man, he does not deem it prudent to venture an opinion, more especially as to his mind a political contest should be conducted purely on the merits of the measures passed by the party in power for good or evil. Members of the various secret societies are to be found arrayed against each other in political discussions, but so far as the writer has been able to notice during a rather intimate acquaintance with quite a few associations, these same brethren have left politics out of doors upon entering the Lodge room, and he trusts the course which has been pursued in the past will be adhered to in future. Masonry has no room for men who forget their obligations in this regard.

The London Masonic Board of Benevolence, through its Secretary, Bro. Hungerford, has distributed its Christmas mite to the worthy Masons' widows and orphans of the city during the week, and there is every reason to believe the pittance has been received with gratitude by those for whom the fund was set apart. If it assists in gladdening the hearts of those bereft of breadwinners during this festive season, it will have accomplished the object aimed at by those having the custody of the funds.

Grand Scribe E. R. ex-Comp. David McLellan has been elected an honorary member of Metropolitan Chapter, No. 93, R. A. M., Victoria, Australia.

R. W. Bro. J. C. Hegler, D. D. G. M., of Ingersoll, has kindly consented to install the officers of Norfolk Lodge, A. F. & A. M., on Tuesday evening, 4th Jan.

The third jubilee of the Grand Lodge of Scotland was celebrated recently at Edinburgh, when Sir Archibald Campbell, of Blythswood, Bart., M. P., was elected and installed as Grand Master Mason of Scotland. The brethren, to the number of upwards of 1,400, at the conclusion of the installation ceremony, assembled in the Drill Hall, Forest Road, at a banquet at which Sir Archibald Campbell presided, and was supported by the office-bearers of the Grand Lodge.

Bro. Joseph P. Huyck, of Belleville, is the oldest Mason in Canada, having been initiated in 1816. He is nearly 94 years of age and has retained all his faculties in a remarkable degree. His wife died on Friday, aged 87. They had been married 67 years.

Here is a new idea, and although it smacks of "Clannishness," it probably did not detract from the festivities of the evening. The Montreal Gazette says:—"Bro. John D. Dolre, of Ionic Lodge, will, in full Highland costume, with bagpipes, play some Scottish selections at the installation and reception of Ionic Lodge, in their hall, Chatham street, on St. John's Day evening." Now, then, W. Bro. Brock, yank out your pipes and give us a "skirl" on Monday evening.

"Don," of the Toronto News, says:—"I have a letter from somebody, which gives a large number of reasons why I should show up Freemasons and enter into a crusade with the idea of keeping every Freemason out of public office, on the ground that they owe their duty to the Order as a higher allegiance than honesty, decency and morality. Now, I like to get letters from people, like to hear the grievances that are going, but I do dislike to peruse the epistle of a man who does not know what he is writing about. A man who has never been a Freemason knows nothing about it. Some one of them has perhaps got the best of him in a horse trade, and he therefore sits down and calls the whole of them thieves and liars and so on. Freemasonry has got too strong a hold, is too respectably supported and firmly entrenched, to fear such onslaughts; but this is an example of how ignorant and villous people will put their spurs on and try to climb something which is a great deal better than they are, and of which they know nothing. A man may be perfectly honest in attacking things of which he has no knowledge, but a man with good sense and good manners, and a realizing sense that nothing pays like a man minding his own business, leaves this sort of thing alone. I am not making any effort to defend Freemasonry, for the simple reason, that if I were a Freemason I would be bound to say nothing but good of them, and if I were not one, I would know nothing about it, and consequently would feel it my duty either way to keep my mouth shut."

Malloch Chapter, Royal Arch Masons of Clinton, has chosen the following officers:—Dr. Worthington, Most Excel. Prin.; W. G. Duff, 2nd Prin.; James Young, 3rd Prin.; Major Murray, Scribe E and Sec.-Treas.; W. L. Oulmette, Scribe N; M. R. Counter, Prin. Soj.; Joseph Ryder, Janitor.

Blyth Lodge, No. 303, will be officered as follows during 1887:—A. Murdock, W.M.; D. Carder, S.W.; S. Gidley, J.W.; W. Wilson, Chap.; C. Tanner, Sec.; S. Potter, Treas.; J. Emigh, Tyler.

Wilson Lodge, No. 113, of Watford, has chosen the following officers for the ensuing year:—Walker Messacar, W.M.; D. J. Horning, S.W.; E. H. Messacar, J.W.; Wm. Grooms, Chap.; E. H. Long, Sec.; E. Matthews, Treas.; John Newell, Tyler.

Doric Lodge, No. 121, Brantford, has elected the following officers:—W. Bro. Dr. Secord, W. M.; Bro. Nuttall, S. D.; Bro. Heath, J. D.; Bro. Rev. Authony, Chaplain; Bro. Past Master Heyd, Treasurer; Bro. Excell, Secretary.

Maitland Lodge, No. 33, Goderich, will be officered by the following brethren during 1887:—W. M., C. A. Humber; S. W., W. H. Muney; J. W., H. W. Ball; Chaplain, S. Yates; Treasurer, S. Sloan; Secretary, R. Price.

Oddfellowship.

Bro. J. B. King, of Toronto, grand secretary of the Independent Order of Oddfellows', held a lodge of instruction in Howard Lodge Strathroy a week ago. The attendance of local and visiting members was large, and the occasion was one of interest and instruction to all present. After the secret work had been thoroughly exemplified by Bro. King, an excellent spread was served in the hall, under the catership of Mr. R. S. McGowan. Bro. H. McColl was called to the chair, and able addresses were delivered by brothers Rev. Silcox and J. F. Sutherland, of Mt. Brydges, A. Rogers, Kerwood, — Rogers, Glencoe, Grand Secretary King, — Stapleton of Picton, and W. Geddes, S. Nicholson, P. H. Johnson and H. Urquhart, interspersed with selections by the Pleasure Party. The proceedings closed by votes of thanks.

A lodge of instruction in connection with St. Clair Lodge, I. O. O. F., was held on Thursday evening in St. Clair lodge room, Point Edward. Bro. J. B. King, Grand Secretary, was present on the occasion. Visiting brethren from Sarnia and Port Huron were also present.

Eight Encampment, No. 20, I. O. O. F., St. Thomas, have elected the following officers for the ensuing term:—C. P., D. J. Bourhner; H. P., J. H. Cole; S. W., George Maxwell; Secretary, L. Fazgeson; F. S., A. M. Wilson; Treasurer, F. Doggett; J. W., W. J. Keefer; D. D. G. P. Walden will instal the officers the first Monday in January.

Forestric.

"A New Member" from Alisa Craig on Dec. 23rd says: "At the last lodge meeting of the Foresters in this village one of the members on M.D. circulated among the members small pamphlets entitled the "Political A B C." Each page contained a cut of some Canadian politician—the frontispiece being a sort of cross between Blake and Mowat, while the pictures of Sir John A. and Meredith were vile characters. On each page is a verse of doggerel, such as Mills sometimes grinds out, faulty in rhyme and totally wanting in reason. If this production has been prepared for the Foresters I must protest, for I do not know a single member of the Order low enough in the scale of intelligence to read the pamphlet and rise from the reading with any feeling but that of pity and contempt for its author. I would like to know from some one high in the Order if the circulation of such things are in accordance with the rules." No person has a right to use Forestry for political purposes.

The election of officers of Court Forest Queen, No. 6563, A. O. F., was held the other evening and resulted as follows: P. C. R., Bro. Dr. W. J. Mitchell; C. R., Bro. A. E. Lewis; S. C. R., Bro. T. More; Treas., Bro. F. T. Ball; Sec., Bro. R. H. Brock; S. W., Bro. G. W. Rowe; J. W., Bro. E. Irwin; S. B., Bro. C. Weller; J. B., Bro. R. Fysh; Minute Sec., Bro. Wm. Lonchray; Physician, Bro. Dr. Mitchell; Agent for Endowment Fund, Bro. R. H. Brock. Members admitted during the past term, 33.

United Workmen.

Rev. Bro. Westney, of Pickering, preached a sermon to the brethren of the Ancient Order of United Workmen in that place, and in the course of it, he said it was no good to visit the fatherless and the widow without ministering to their needs. The A. O. U. W. possessed the virtues of pure religion. It had been in existence but 18 years, and had in that time distributed to widows and orphans over fifteen millions of dollars. It numbered 170,000 good and true men within its ranks, 15,000 of whom belonged to our own Ontario, although the order had distributed this vast sum of money for the relief of widows and orphans, yet the membership had not been called upon to contribute more than fourteen or fifteen dollars a year. The Canada Life Assurance Co. had distributed this year $242,660, but at a cost per member of $52. The Confederation had paid $75,000 at a cost of $41 per member, more than three times the cost of the A. O. U. W. The rev. gentleman had no objection to the rich taking policies in stock companies, but he claimed the A. O. U. W. was the poor man's friend. He closed a most impressive sermon by calling on the members of the order to live up to the teaching of their ritual and to conform themselves to the principles of pure religion as set forth in his text.

WATERS IN BIDDULPH.

His Conduct as a Legislator Scathingly Denounced by Conservative Speakers.

[Communicated.]

Lucan, December 24.—A meeting was held last night at McFalls' School House, Biddulph, called by Mr. Waters. There were about 150 voters present. Mr. Samuel Hodgins was appointed chairman.

Mr. Waters opened the meeting, and spoke for two hours and a half. He tried to defend the school book monopoly, and eulogised Mr. Ross as a strong temperance man, as an educated man and as a Christian gentleman. He touched on the Parliament buildings job, but not being able to explain the trickery and jobbery of the Government in the contract, he made a very poor impression on the people. He also referred to the Separate School question, but being in a Presbyterian section of the riding, his remarks fell very flat.

Mr Macklin, on coming forward, was loudly cheered. He gave a very lucid explanation of Mr Meredith's policy on the Separate school question explained very forcibly the fallacy of the enormous and suppositious surplus supposed to be held by the present Government, and showed up in glaring terms the iniquities and extravagant expenditure of the Mowat Administration. He alluded in a forcible way to the jobbery in connection with the Parliament contract, and exclaimed the gross injustice done in awarding the contract for the stone to Mr. K. Chisholm, M. P. P., instead of advertising for tenders, as is usually done. He ridiculed the idea of giving the American architect the sum of $35,000 for barely overseeing the masonry work, and spoke at length on the Ross, or, as the people of this section style it, the Lynch Bible. He completely carried the audience with his straightforward explanation of that question. He then touched on the school book monopoly and handled it in a masterly style, dwelling at length and going into the facts of the case, showing the enormous profits made by the present monopolists out of the parents of this Province to satisfy the claims of some of the Government's hangers-on, men who have done political dirty work for the party. He ridiculed the idea of appointing the present Registrar, a man who did not live in the Riding, a man who had no interest in the Riding, and a man who did not even live in the Province when the office became vacant. The colonization roads were next taken up, and the crookedness of the Government clearly shown up in their expenditure of excessive amounts of money previous to elections. The hypocrisy of Mr. Waters, who always poses as a temperance man, and who has always strongly advocated temperance, in his voting against the amendment brought in by Mr. Meredith concerning the Saloon and Tavern License Act, as far as locating taverns are concerned, without a third signature of the voters in that polling sub-division, was also dwelt upon. After scathingly denouncing the Mowat Government and ridiculing Mr. Waters for supporting that Government on every measure, he resumed his seat amid tumultuous applause.

Mr. Waters replied for nearly an hour. The meeting was composed of five-sixths of Conservatives, but notwithstanding that both speakers had a fine hearing.

Mr. Stanley briefly addressed the meeting and made some telling points.

Mr. Waters again replied.

Mr. John Fox made a short but pithy address.

The meeting broke up at one o'clock this morning with a vote of thanks to the Chairman, cheers for the Queen, Meredith and Morgan. It is now believed that Mr. Morgan will hold the polls on the 28th by a good majority.

LONDON WEST.

A Meeting of the School Board—More Accommodation Provided for the South—Teachers Appointed.

A meeting of the London West School Board was held Thursday to select teachers to fill vacancies in the school. The members present were Messrs. E Houghton (Chairman), D C. Macdonald, D C. Kennedy, John Kelly, G Bartlett, A. R Murdoch, J. S. Dearness, I. P. S.; and R. H Honner, headmaster.

Miss Hawkins' resignation was received and accepted.

Moved by Mr. Macdonald, seconded by Mr. Kennedy, that the Board regret the departure of Miss Hawkins after two and a half years' of faithful services. Carried.

Mr. Dearnes, by invitation of the Chairman, addressed the Board. He approved of the room selected in the southern part of the village, over R. A. Jones' store, and would like to see a kindergarten school established there, but explained that it would be impossible to adopt that system yet. In answer to a question he explained the kindergarten system. He was glad to learn that the Board had recognized the necessity of placing efficient teachers in the junior rooms.

Twenty five applications were received, from which the Board selected Mr. Scott to take charge of the southern division, at a salary of $300, and Miss Douglas and Miss Jeffries at salaries of $250, to fill the vacancies caused by the resignation of Miss Anderson and Miss Hawkins.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Dearness, who thanked the Board for their courtesy.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS,

And Services in the Various Anglican Churches and St. Peter's Cathedral.

In the various Anglican churches and in St. Peter's R. C. Cathedral, the usual Christmas services will be held to-day. A special feature is being made of the musical portion of the service, and a programme has been arranged by Dr. Verrinder in St. Peter's, while the carols composed by Mrs. Moore will be a feature in the English Church services. All of the latter have been appropriately decorated.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

The ladies and gentlemen who have been busy for the last few days at the decorations of St. Paul's Church, are certainly to be congratulated on the satisfactory result of their efforts. While the designs have not been so elaborate and ambitious as in former years, what has been attempted has been thoroughly well done, and the decorations are both rich and tasty. One advantage this year is that the quality of the cedar used is much better than formerly, and all the wreaths and festoons are thick and bushy, which adds considerably to the finish and appearance of the decorations. The windows are trimmed with evergreens and the sills covered with a wine colored fabric, the motto being white letters, in old English text, from end to end—"There is One God and One Mediator Between God and Man, the Man Christ Jesus." The pulpit is very handsomely decorated with holly and evergreens, panels being set in with tastefully worked emblems, the cross and crown, "I. H. S.," the cross keys and dagger, and the shepherd's crooks. The motto on this piece is "And on Earth Peace, Good Will Toward Men." The pedestal in front is also trimmed with evergreens. Great festoons of evergreens are suspended from the chancel arch, and a gold star hangs in the centre, with the word "Emmanuel" in large with letters just below it. The face and pillars of the galleries are heavily festooned and wreathed with the green, and the Baptismal Font has a magnificent lily in flower, with holly and evergreen trimmings tastefully disposed along the sides. The reading desks are generously trimmed with the same materials. Amongst the foremost in the work were Miss McClimont, the Misses Smith, the Misses Labatt, Miss Meredith, Rev. Mr. Hicks and Mr. Shaw-Wood, assisted by a number of other members of the congregation.

Following is the order of service at 11 o'clock this morning:—

Carol	F. J. Hatton
Responses	Tallis
Psalms	Goss
Te Deum	Woodward in D
Benedictus	Woodward in D
Anthem	There were Shepherds Abiding
Kyrie	Krameo
Preacher	Lord Bishop of Huron

ST. JAMES' CHURCH.

Three great white bells suspended from the chancel arch form the most striking feature of the Christmas decorations in St. James' Church, London South. They are a beautiful and appropriate ornament. There are three evergreen arches extending clear across the chancel, with a golden star pendant from the keystone over them, and a white dove in the centre under the bells. Festoons of evergreens frame the whole, which looks like a splendid picture. "For unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given," is the motto crowning the arch. The baptismal fount has a lot of splendid calla lilies, around the base of which are a proper arrangement of tube roses, holly and ivy. The windows are all trimmed with evergreens, and connected by festoons of the same material. A handsome wreath of smilax, ivy and holly surrounds the book rest on the pulpit, and the rest is covered with evergreens. Holly and ivy are used extensively in these decorations, and the blending of the different shades of green and the red berries is very effective. The decorations are really superb, and too much praise cannot be given those members of the congregation to whose well directed energy the result is due. The handsome memorial window has been put in place. It has a picture of St. James, the first missionary disciple, with a pilgrim's staff and water-pouch, and this inscription:—"To the glory of God, and in loving memory of William Henry Whitehead, born 8th of April, 1810, died 30th of April, 1886. Though I be absent in the flesh I am with you in the spirit."

Service to-day at 11 o'clock. The Christmas carols, composed by Mrs. Moore, will be rendered by the full choir.

THE MEMORIAL CHURCH.

Willing and busy fingers have been at work for the last few days preparing the Christmas decorations for the Memorial Church, and the result attained is a striking and beautiful one. The judicious use of cedar boughs, with holly and ivy in liberal quantities, has heightened the natural beauties of the church interior, and produced a harmonious picture of English Church decoration. The chancel, pulpit and reading desk alike share in the artistic embellishment, which affords a pleasing contrast to the snow-mantled aspect of out-door scenery. The Christmas services to day will be made as bright as possible in commemoration of the principal event of the Christian year, and special musical services will be rendered by the full choir.

THE CHAPTER HOUSE.

The decorations are principally in the chancel, which is very prettily festooned on each side. There is an appropriate motto over the altar, and the reading desk and pulpit are lavishly decorated with holly and evergreens, the red berries of the holly contrasting brilliantly with the green of the cedar. The music will be an attractive feature of to-day's service.

CHRIST CHURCH.

The Christmas decorations in this Church consist of the usual number of wreaths and festoons of evergreens entwining the pillars, windows, gallery, organ, etc. The pulpit and desk are gracefully decorated with ferns and mosses, the window ledges being also filled with the same. Beautiful floral designs occupy prominent positions, and banners bearing appropriate mottoes are placed on the walls and chancel, and the whole presents a very attractive appearance. The music, under the direction of Mrs. Holmes, has been carefully prepared and will include Mrs. Moore's Christmas carols.

QUEEN'S AVENUE.

Services will be held at 11 and 7 to-day, Rev. D. G. Sutherland officiating. In the evening there will be a special choral service by the full choir, the music being selected and arranged for the occasion.

Latest Notes by Telegraph and Mail.

THE POSITION OF WHEAT.

New York, December 23.—Wheat today had a rally and seems to be disposed to take a stand in favor of a moderate advance on the European political situation which tends to offset the increase in the visible supply, which is now 61 million bushels as against 58 millions last year, and this notwithstanding the 35 millions increased exports over the corresponding period of last year. The war cloud of Europe appears to be thickening, as is evidenced by the various nations arming themselves to the teeth, which is certainly significant to say the least, and does not portray confidence in a continuation of the existence of present peaceful relations. The delay of actual hostilities breaking out is probably due to a desire on the part of Emperor William to pass his remaining short period of existence in peace and good will towards his fellow men. His death, however, would undoubtedly be the signal for the Germans taking the French by the throat and demanding either their money or their lives.—Henry Clews & Co.

LIVE STOCK TRADE.

John Swan & Sons' weekly report, Dec. 11, says:—In Edinburgh the supplies of home-fed cattle were fully as large this week, but in Glasgow market the numbers were somewhat less. Although there has not been any material advance in value, trade has been rather in favor of sellers for this class of stock. Irish supplies continue strong, but these have not as yet participated in any advance in value, as they had to compete with Canadians. Consequently, while top qualities have fully maintained former rates, secondary and inferior kinds have not shown the slightest advance, and a difficult finish took place at the close of the markets this week. With the exception of London, the English markets show little change, though for the better descriptions of cows and heifers adapted for the markets of the Midland counties, more enquiry has been manifested. The best qualities of cows and bulls have also made rather more money here, but inferior kinds were unaltered. Foreign supplies for the week have been limited to 250 Canadian cattle, the last direct shipment from Montreal for the season, which met a fairly good trade and brought better prices. The States steamer has not yet arrived. Calves of good quality and useful weights realized the highest prices of the season; pigs sold at previous prices. In Edinburgh market there was a moderate show of store cattle, which met a very slow trade, at prices a shade under those of last week, and store sheep were also more difficult to sell. Of milk cows the display was good, but prices show a decline of from 10s to 20s per head from last week's. Many of the principal local fat shows throughout the country will be held next week. Top price of the best beef, 8s to 8s 3d per stone; secondary, 7s 3d to 7s 6d. Top price of the best mutton, 8½d to nearly 9d per lb. in Edinburgh, and 8½d in Glasgow; secondary, 7½d to 8d; ewes, 6½d to 7½d.

LIVERPOOL PRODUCE MARKET REPORT

Dec. 10, 1886.

Cheese.—The demand generally (which is usual at this season of the year) continues moderate, but some holders of strictly choice September makes appear confident, and being in few hands, refuse, in some cases, to offer such at present. Some less sanguine holders, however, have shown a disposition to sell, and a few lots of Septembers have been offered at 60s to 61s, with buyers ready to take such as freely as offered when choice, but the available offerings at the prices named are small, and not large enough to affect the market. The London market continues quiet, and a careful estimate of stock there in all hands is 100,000 boxes; Bristol 40,000 boxes; Glasgow under 5,000 boxes (stock of Scotch is now smaller than has been known for many years at the same period); Liverpool 100,000 (an increase of 30,000 boxes from my estimate of November 12.h); which shows conclusively that the demand for some time past has been mostly local and on speculative account Country buyers claim that English (which is being retailed at 61 to 81 per lb.) is cheaper than Americans and Canadians but as the supply of English is getting small, they must soon come on to Americans, and at slightly enhanced figures, as all accounts agree that the available stock to come forward is smaller than usual; and this, combined with a shortage of over 300 000 boxes as compared with last season, must sooner or later be felt, and already some of the knowing ones are beginning to see this. I quote Finest September Colored 61s to 63s, White 60s to 62s, Finest August 56s to 58s, Medium to Fine 46s to 55s, Middling to Good 35s to 45s, Skims 20s to 30s.

Butter.—The market continues firm. A good demand is experienced for Finest Creamery and U. S and Canadian extra, and holders obtain full prices, as the available supply is small; medium grades are also enquired for at 60s to 70s for Western and Canadian Dairy. The stock in all hands is small. I quote Finest Canadian and U. S. extra 105s to 115s, Fine 95s to 100s, Good to Fine 70s to 80s, Grease sorts 35s to 45s

Bacon.—With increased arrivals and some anxiety to sell, prices have given way 2s to 3s per cwt, but with a good country demand the week's arrivals are about all cleared at the decline mentioned. I quote Staffordshires 35s to 38s 6d, Cumberland Cut 38s 6d to 38s 6d, Singed Wiltshire 35s 6d to 38s 6d, Short Rib 37s to 38s, Long Rib (according to size) 35s to 44s, Shoulders 27s 6d to 30s 6d, Bellies (Rib in) 35s to 36s, Clear Bellies 37s to 42s, Long Backs 30s 6d to 32s 6d, Short Clear Backs 36s to 38s.

Apples.—Arrivals have been heavier than for some time past, but demand good and a slight advance in price; quality and condition in most cases being splendid. I quote winter varieties of Canadian and American at 10s to 27s 6d, and choice Newtown Pippins 40s to 47s 6d, fair to good ditto 30s to 35s. Receipts from America from August 9th to December 9th 291,837 barrels; same date last year 249,584 barrels.

SIR,—Is there any good reasons why the children of the city schools should be kept on the tenter hooks of anxiety in regard to their school examinations all through the different vacations? Yours, &c.,

Dec. 24. PARENT.

How is this, Mr. Checkley?

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—I understand that upwards of 140 pupils have recently been writing for entrance to the Collegiate Institute. My boy came home feeling pretty well satisfied that he had passed a very fair examination, but seemed very much disappointed at the remarks made to the class by the head master of the Collegiate Institute, to the effect that he would only take fifty at any rate. That he would have to examine so strictly as to "pluck" as many as possible, and thus prevent more than fifty passing. Now, I hope that our Inspector, to whom we look for fair play, and who I believe has generally had the confidence of the boys, will see that Mr. Checkley's desire to keep our boys back will not be allowed. Let the boys and girls be encouraged. If there is not sufficient room in the Institute let there be more room made, or let the school be kept for children of citizens only.

Yours, &c., CITIZEN.

A Very Pertinent Query.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—How is it, that although the leading Presbyterian ministers in Toronto, together with the Presbyterian Review, have all so unmercifully attacked the "famous Ross Bible," and who are political friends of Mowat and Ross, and declared themselves Reformers up to this date, have escaped the condemnation of the Tizer, while two or three other ministers who stand up in defence of God's Word are attacked as politicians, &c.? What has it to say of the Revds. Mulligan, McLeod, Macdonell, Laing, Henderson, and the long list of faithful Presbyterian Reformers who object to the carving up of the Bible? Surely their object cannot be to remove old friends from office and put Tories in their place. It is well such men prefer their religion to their party. Will the Hon. D. Mills or his henchman answer this? Yours faithfully, LEX.

Deathbed Repentance.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

DEAR SIR,—I see in Mr. Mackenzie's address to his constituents in London West, the other night, that after a long consideration he has at last arrived at the conclusion that the seizure made by the Inspector on the celebrated twentieth of May last, was a mistake. An admission dragged from him at the last moment, by public opinion, came from him with a very bad grace. Mr. Mackenzie must have known when the thing was done, that it was a most high-handed proceeding, and one that could only be carried out by such an officer as the Inspector is. I fear his admission of the mistake that was made is too late, and that within a day or two a better and an abler man will represent us

Is this admission of Mr. Mackenzie's his own private opinion? or is it the opinion of the great council at the Court House, consisting of the child like countenance of Eli Samuel, as he fills the Magisterial chair, with the great Czar of Middlesex as chief adviser, and a number of lesser lumbaries sitting around him? The law, as administered by the Czar of Middlesex, has been a miserable failure; it has been brought into such contempt that they cannot get a decent County Constable to serve a paper on any one. The only constable they had for their low cunning proceedings is now serving a month (which should have been six) in the common jail for robbing the Grand Trunk Company.

Mr. Mackenzie's change of opinion must have been of recent date. He has been seen at almost every township fair, during the fall, in close company with the Inspector—I suppose to help carry out the law. Respectable men of his own party have turned away in disgust when they saw it, but I hope that on the 28th the electors will roll up such a majority for Mr. Tooley that will teach Mr. Mackenzie a lesson he will never forget.

A FARMER.

London South, Dec. 24, 1886.

Views of a Citizen.

To the Editor of the Free Press.]

DEAR SIR,—Some articles in the Advertiser in regard to the mutilated Bible have been brought to my notice, as well as some letters, one signed "Protestant," another signed "Disgusted Episcopalian." I never dreamed that a paper could be found in this fair land that would stoop so low as to publish so much abuse.

When it becomes necessary to abuse such men as Rev. Canon Innes, Rev. E. Davis and Rev. Hunter, for doing their duty in the Lord's vineyard, the cause for which it is published must be at a very low ebb.

If all would treat such a publication as I do, such a one would not exist; in my estimation it is not deemed fit to kindle the fire with.

I am glad to say such men as "Protestant" and "Disgusted Episcopalian" are very few, so few, indeed, that it is not difficult to place your finger on the very parties.

If I do not mistake, Bishop Baldwin neither requires nor will accept the advice of such. If Bishop Baldwin were to take any step, methinks it would be to instruct his clergy to defend that most holy and inspired book with all the earnestness and zeal they are possessed of. Would to God more of them would do it.

I cannot imagine anything that would give our noble and beloved Queen more pain than to know how the religious education of our young people, in the most enlightened portion of her dominions, has been interfered with, and the Holy Bible so mutilated by a political party in order to keep themselves in power.

The Bible, the upholding of which is the secret of Britain's greatness to-day, and unless the people of this Province do not come forward, Grit and Conservative, and uphold it still, I fear the result. Most certainly will such a sin be sooner or later visited on the nation. Yours truly,

London, Dec. 24, 1886. W. E.

Emasculation of the Bible.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR.—The Advertiser in last night's issue, untruthfully commenting on the letter of the Rev E. Davis, states "had he taken the care to inform himself as he should have done, by examining the Book of Scriptural Readings." How could he do that? when it cannot be got by the public, as is evident from the following received from a Toronto firm to-day, on application for it:—"Ross' Scriptural Readings are not supplied to the trade. Teachers have to apply to the Minister of Education for them direct." How is it that they are not to be got the same as the other school books? Is it that the Minister of Education should supply them at his own price without any competition, or that they should be kept back till after the election, so that the emasculations should not be known to the public? As the Advertiser admits, and that is sufficient, the emasculation of "For there is one God and one Mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus," but glosses it over by saying "but if that verse is not there, others teaching the same truth are, such as for instance 'I am the Way, the Truth and the Life;' 'no man cometh unto the Father but by Me'" A criminal to plead with the judge for a remission of his penalty is one thing, the judge to act as mediator between him and the law is another. A mediator is one who intervenes between two parties. His work is reconciliation, and there is but one Mediator, "the man Christ Jesus." Prayer offered to the Saints or to the Virgin Mary, to act as mediators, removes the one Mediator from the office, which He alone holds. "I Am the Way," as far as I can understand it, means, that He is the example, the source of Truth, and that He is the fountain of spiritual life; and it is only by Him, His guidance, His merits, and His enlightenment that we can come to the Father, and is distinct from His mediatorial work, the same as a judge receiving a petition for the commutation of a sentence, and the judge mediating with the Crown to grant a pardon. I think this is a fair example of the Advertiser's misrepresentations, that the two passages teach the same truth. Why was the former emasculated, when, as Protestants, we believe that there is but one Mediator?

If the Bible should be kept from children in our schools, why should it not be kept from them in our households? The Advertiser may think that the Bible is not fit to be read by childen, but would it say that the Advertiser is unfit for their reading, and which teaches falsity (which it cannot say the Bible does) by stating that Mr. Meredith was at the Roman Catholic Church when he was 200 miles away, and other gross immoralities often contained in it? Why does not the Advertiser first leave off its falsity before emasculating the Bible of its truth? Considering that the public are not yet able to get the "Scriptural Readings," it is not at all strange that such deep interest is the religious training of our children is thought of just now, for it is only now that we are beginning to know how the Bible has been tampered with; we shall yet fully know, but not till the elections are over, and upon Mr. Ross' authority we shall then know "who did it." Is the Advertiser right in calling it "Scriptural Readings," or is it trying to shield the arrogance of Mr. Ross in calling it "Ross' Spiritual Readings?" If the latter, I think Mr. Ross had better read the 18th and 19th verses of the last chapter in the Revelations before it is too late for him to benefit by them. Reader, remember that the Bible gave us religious and civil liberty, and its destruction means their destruction also.

Yours truly, TRUTH.

Perfect Hair

Indicates a natural and healthy condition of the scalp, and of the glands through which nourishment is obtained. When, in consequence of age and disease, the hair becomes weak, thin, and gray, Ayer's Hair Vigor will strengthen it, restore its original color, promote its rapid and vigorous growth, and impart to it the lustre and freshness of youth.

I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a long time, and am convinced of its value. When I was 17 years of age my hair began to turn gray. I commenced using the Vigor, and was surprised at the good effects it produced. It not only restored the color to my hair, but so stimulated its growth that I have now more hair than ever before.—J. METEOROLOGICAL SERVICE OF CANADA.

Fair and Colder.

Toronto, Dec. 25, 1 a.m.—The area of low pressure which was over Indian Territory last night is now central over the Lower St. Lawrence Valley as an important storm, and the pressure is highest in the North-west Territories. Snow or rain has fallen heavily in Ontario and Quebec, and it is now beginning to rain in the Maritime Provinces, attended by a south and east gale. It has turned decidedly colder to-night in Ontario, and the weather has remained very cold in the North-west. Storm signals are displayed at all ocean ports.

Indications:—Lakes—Moderate to fresh west and north winds; generally fair and colder.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT.

Local, District, or Sporting News, to ensure prompt attention, should be addressed to "City Editor, FREE PRESS." Correspondents will please note this.

The death is announced at Port Stanley of Edwin Hough, engineer of the steamer Ruby.

Rev. J. B. Richardson, of this city, is announced to preach in the new St. Paul's Church, Woodstock, to-morrow.

The Brockville Times says the Grits in that town are offering Conservative electors $100 each to vote for Fraser.

Mr. O. W. Smith, night station agent of the Grand Trunk here, has gone on a holiday visit to his brother in Omaha.

The Princess, Richmond Street and Westminster rinks will be open for skaters this afternoon and evening.

It is stated that Mr. H. W. C. Meyer, barrister, of Wingham, will be elected Mayor of that town without opposition.

Messrs. Pethick & McDonald, merchant tailors, remembered their employes yesterday by presenting to each one a Christmas turkey.

At a late meeting of the directors of the North Middlesex Cheese Company, Messrs. C. C. Hodgins and Jos. Morgan were appointed auditors.

The Ingersoll Sun will change hands next week, J. A. Campbell having disposed of it to Mr. T. A. Bellamy, late of the Orangeville Advertiser.

Mrs. John McCallum, of West Lorne, transplanted some strawberry plants into pots and took them into the house. She is now enjoying the ripe fruit.

The G. T. R. Company will cause all trees within a distance of ninety-nine feet on either side of their lines of railway to be cut down during the winter.

Mrs. McReady died lately at the age of eighty-nine. The deceased has lived in and around Newbury for many years, and all those who were acquainted with her esteem her very highly.

The new Methodist Church at Listowel was opened last Sunday and over $8,000 secured towards the payment of it. Mr. Thos. McCormick, of this city, presided at the tea meeting the following night.

Reid Brothers gave a dinner to their employes and a large number of invited guests at their new building on Thursday night, which was followed by a ball. An exceedingly pleasant time was spent by all.

The electors of the Province of Ontario could not end the year better than by entrusting the Government of the Province to Mr. Meredith and his able colleagues "And they will do so," is the current opinion of a large number.

The Catholic Record is Grit first, last and all the time. It asks its Ottawa readers to vote for Brouson, the Grit candidate, in preference to Mr. P. Baskerville, the Catholic and Conservative nominee. But Baskerville will be elected notwithstanding.

Mr. Geo. T. Hiscox announces in a card that, owing to illness, he will not be able to accept the Mayoralty candidature, so generously offered him. He thanks his friends for the confidence reposed in him, and hopes at some future time to be able to accede to their request.

Mr. J. E. Dawson, of Butte, Montana, formerly of the G. T. R. here, has, as was mentioned in these columns a day or two since, been appointed General Manager of the Montana Union Railway. Mr. Dawson's friends in London and Western Ontario will be glad to hear of his promotion.

Mr Stiff, of the G. T. R., declares that there is no foundation for the rumor that the injury to Sir John Macdonald's private car a few days ago was caused by dynamite. The accident, he says, was caused by the swinging door of a freight car, which scraped Sir John's car as it passed on the next track.

The Methodist Church, Nilestown, had a very successful entertainment and Christmas tree on Thursday night, when in addition to the programme of songs, recitations, etc., rendered by the children of the school, there were songs from Mr. Dobyn, an address by Mr. Brenton, readings by W. Gibson, of London. Perhaps the most attractive feature of the evening was the mouth organ selections rendered by Master Bede Aylsworth and Garnet Eckart. Part of the reed band from Dorchester Station (for boys of seven years they handled the instruments wonderfully). The prosperity of the school reflects great credit on Mr. A. Leith, the Superintendent. At the close the friends from London were invited by Rev. Mr. Phillips over to the parsonage, where they partook of an oyster supper served in good style by Mrs. Phillips.

On Thursday last the London and Patrolia Barrel Company, the partners in which are Wm. Hockin, sr., John Forrestal and Henry Taylor, presented each of their 61 workmen with a fine turkey as a Xmas box. Yesterday the men, in a neatly-worded address, thanked the Company for their kindness, which, they said, was the more marked at this time when there is so much strife and turmoil between capital and labor. Messrs. Hockin and Forrestal replied to the effect that it was a great pleasure to them to see the men prosperous and happy, and that what benefited the employers must benefit the employes, and promised they would always meet the men in a fair spirit on all and every occasion. Mr. R. Kidner replied on behalf of the absent partner, Mr. H. Taylor.

W. M. Dack, the Grit nominee for Centre Huron, has been posing among the temperance people of that riding as an out-and out temperance man, but his hypocrisy has been beautifully exposed by Mr. J. Gentles and others, who called him as a witness against a Paisley hotel-keeper, and on the evidence of three witnesses, the hotel-keeper was convicted of a breach of the Scott Act in supplying W. M. Dack with a glass or two of hot whiskey. Of course Dack tried to make out it was "beef-tea," but one of his companions was manly enough to say it was whiskey, and that the liquor drank by Dack was the same as he partook of. This is the class of men the Grits are running against ex-Mayor Baird, of Kincardine.

A number of citizens, with the object of showing their respect and appreciation for their old teacher, Mr. Jas. C. Thompson, waited upon him yesterday and presented him with a purse of money amounting to about $250, as a slight token of the esteem in which he is held by them, and as a practical recognition of the interest taken in them during their student days. Among the principal contributors, outside of the city, were Hon. Frank Smith, Mr. Justice Ferguson, J. S. Ferguson, of Toronto, Dr. Fraser, of Stratford, and others. Hon. John Carling, W. R. Meredith, James Magee, besides a great number of other gentlemen, members of both the medical and legal professions, helped to swell the list in this city.

About half-past four yesterday morning Mrs. Joseph Fay, of Glencoe, died suddenly of heart disease. She went to bed in her usual health, but about 1 o'clock became sick. Gradually she grew worse, and about 2 a.m. Mr. Fay roused Mr. A. Campbell, who went for a doctor. Doctor Walker was speedily summoned and did all in his power to alleviate her pain, but she was too far gone to be restored. Dr. Lumley was then called, but about 4 30, some time before Dr. Lumley arrived, she died. She leaves three children behind her, the oldest about ten.

The Irish Benevolent Society distributed their Christmas cheer to a large number of poor people yesterday afternoon. The Society gave away some 10 quarters of beef, 9 barrels of biscuit, 700 loaves of bread, 200 pounds of tea, 400 pounds of sugar, 200 pounds of currants, 200 pounds of raisins, 1 barrel of rice and three barrels of oatmeal. The gentlemen who collected the money and helped to distribute the cheer were Messrs. B. C. McCann, H. D. Long, Dr. Sippi, J. B. Vining and Dr. O'Rourke.

Delos R. Davis is a young colored barrister, of Essex County, who received his barrister's gown by Act of Parliament. Mr. Davis was a Conservative, but has turned Grit. At a recent meeting in Mr. Clancey's favor at Hunton's Hall, in Kent County, Mr. Davis attacked Mr. Robert L. Holden before that gentleman had said a word, but when Mr. Holden took the platform he returned it with several hundred per cent. interest, and if ever a man felt sorry for picking a fight it was Mr. Davis.

The Globe's warning, "Watch the bribers," is good advice for Conservatives to act upon. It is the men who turn their eyes heavenward, and, following the example of their good prototype, the Pharisee of old, of whom the leaders of the party are lineal descendants, who require to be watched at election times. The London purists are no exception to the rule, as the election trial showed.

At the close of the choir practice on Christmas Eve Dr. Sippi, organist of the Memorial Church, was presented by Mrs. Richardson with a purse of gold coin, amounting to $50. The presentation was made in behalf of members of the congregation as a mark of their appreciation of Dr. Sippi's indefatigable and successful efforts for the efficiency of the choir.

At the last meeting of the Luckuow Caledonian Society the following officers were elected:—Chief, Dr. D. A. McCrimmon; 1st Chieftain, A. McPherson; 2nd Chieftain, Peter McIntosh; 3rd Chieftain, D. McDonald; 4th Chieftain, D. McMillan; Corresponding Secretary, D. D. Yule; Financial Secretary, George Kerr; Treasurer, John Murchison.

The Globe makes a great ado in yesterday's issue about W. A. Frost's description of Algoma at a Grit meeting in Parkdale the night previous. People who are not acquainted with "Jack" Frost will be pleased to hear that he is a Globe reporter, and dare not say his soul is his own—if the Deacon says to the contrary.

The new toboggan slide on Col. Walker's property, overlooking the river, has been lighted with electricity several nights during the week, and is one of the best to be found in the Dominion. The members and their lady friends congregate in large numbers nightly and seem to enjoy the sport immensely.

Ex-Alderman Cowan announces in another column his acceptance of the Mayoralty nomination tendered him by very many citizens. Mr. Cowan has hosts of friends in the city who will doubtless exert themselves to place him at the head of the polls in the approaching contest.

Strathroy Age:—"Mr. F. J. Winlow, son of our respected Town Clerk, Mr. J. B. Winlow, who for the past year has been teller in the Traders' Bank, Wallaceburg, has been recently appointed manager of said branch."

Mr. P. Hamilton, chief assistant in Mr. Tiffin's office, G. T. R., Stratford, has left for Kansas City, where he has secured a situation in the Assistant General Manager's office on the Union Pacific.

A very enjoyable treat was given the patients of the Asylum Thursday evening by the choir of St. Andrew's Church, under the leadership of Mr. S. H. Marshall. The reading and recitations of Miss Evans were first-class and highly appreciated. Mr. Marshall was jolly and courteous as usual, and repeatedly encored. Miss McNeill is always a favorite at the Asylum, and her appearance was greeted with round after round of applause. It is needless to say she was encored every song. The following is the programme:—

Glee—"Here in Cool Grot."
Duet (piano).....Mr. Green and Mrs. Marshall
Song—"Skippers of St. Ives".....Mr. Marshall
Song—"Jessie's Dream".....Miss McNeil
Song—"Coming Through the Rye"Miss A. Croden
Song—"What Will Jack Say".....Mr. Plewes
Recitation—"Ride of Jennie McNeil"Miss Evans
Chorus "Carnival"
Piano Solo.....Mr. Green
Duet—"Two Merry Girls"...The Misses Croden
Reading—"The Church Organ".....Miss Evans
Song—"Tit for Tat".....Miss McNeil
Song "The Dude".....Mr. Mason
Duet—"I Know a Back," Mr. and Mrs. Marshall

Berlin Daily News:—The Christmas number of the London FREE PRESS deservedly takes the cake. It has no less than 24 pages, largely of seasonable reading matter. The covers are magnificently lithographed in beautiful colors and reflect the greatest credit on that establishment. There are besides these beautiful covers a large number of holiday illustrations and cuts which make it very attractive and readable. The FREE PRESS has no superiors as a first class newspaper, and a few equals.

Mr. W. R. Meredith will address a mass meeting of the electors of No 5 Ward at the Town Hall on Monday evening at 7 30. All the workingmen of East London are invited to attend and hear Mr. Meredith discuss the political issues now before the electors.

Mr. W. Jenkins, sr., has bought of Mr. Peter Perdue, sixty acres of the original Cole homestead, on the Huron road, Goderich Township, paying therefor the sum of $2,100.

The following is Miss McGarry's programme for Wednesday evening, Dec. 29th, in Victoria Hall:—

1ST PART.
1. Scene from Macbeth.....Shakespeare
2. In Mother's Absence.....Anon
3. Mizpah.....Tennyson
4. Norah and the Spirits.....Irish Dialect

2ND PART.
1. Courtship of Henry V.....Shakespeare
2. Parrbasins.....Willis
3. The New Lochlabar.....Will Carlton

IT PAYS TO GO TO THE BEST—THE Canada Business College
Chatham, Ont.,
after TEN YEARS of successful work under the same management, is in a position to offer a course of instruction which is certainly NOT EQUALLED IN THE DOMINION, NOR do we believe it to be EXCELLED IN AMERICA, for thoroughness. The chances for the graduates of a College of our acknowledged standing securing good positions are threefold compared with those of an institution without such. We do not guarantee situations, nor will we promise assistance to students in securing positions, until they prove themselves well qualified for their duties and worthy of our aid. By this means we have secured the confidence of business men, and are frequently applied to for book-keepers and office hands. GOOD BOARD can be secured in Chatham for $2 50 per week. Railway fare is allowed to students from a distance. Those who are desirous of attending ONLY THE BEST should write for our handsomely illustrated catalogue.

J. D. O'NEIL, Veterinary Surgeon. Office, infirmary and boarding stables—345 and 347 Talbot street, London. Established 1874. This office and infirmary are comprised in buildings 36x80 and 28x36 feet in dimensions, perfectly ventilated. It is a model establishment of its kind, and affords every accommodation for the treatment of sick and lame horses. A careful assistant, Dr. W. Green, V.S., and competent attendants, are always in charge, day and night, to attend to the wants of every equine patient. Dr. O'Neil makes a specialty of dentistry, firing and surgical operations. Firing has been much abused in the past, and many owners of horses have been disgusted with the unsightly blemish left after the inexperienced hand with the iron. The veterinary art practised on scientific principles. Horses examined as to soundness, also bought and sold on commission. Telephone. 127

THE K. OF L.

Growing Opposition to Powderly in the Ranks of the Order—The Anarchist Matter Provokes Anger—Movement for a Special Session of the General Assembly.

New York, December 25.—The dissatisfaction of the Knights of Labor and the alleged unconstitutional action of the General Assembly at Richmond in increasing Mr. Powderly's salary to $5 000, creating an office for Charles H. Litchman at $2,000, reducing Frederick Turner's salary to $2,000, adding to members to the General Executive Board at $4 a day and expenses, and increasing the term of office to two years, is widespread and increasing. Besides the unfortunate ending of the big strike of butchers in Chicago, the letter of Mr. Powderly denouncing the Chicago Anarchists and forbidding District Assemblies 24 and 57 from paying over any money that they had collected for the defense of the Anarchists, have added to the discontent, and the last assessment of twenty-five cents ordered by the General Executive Board, in the face of the fact that the expenses in the item of salaries alone have been well-nigh doubled, has started a movement which will in all probability lead to a special session of the General Assembly. Several District Assemblies have already refused absolutely to pay the last assessment, on the ground that it is illegal and unnecessary, and many more separate Local Assemblies in various parts of the country have done the same. It is necessary under the laws of the Order for five district assemblies in as many different States to demand a special session, and then the General Master Workman is bound to call it. District Assembly No. 24, of Chicago, to which the Anarchist circular was addressed, has taken the initiative in the matter and will in all probability prefer charges against the General Master Workman before the General Executive Board for exceeding his authority in issuing the order in regard to the Anarchists and in ordering the Chicago butchers back to work. This body has determined to sign a call for a special session of the General Assembly to be held soon. There is little doubt that the necessary five States can be secured. At least one district assembly in New York will sign the call, and there are districts in Connecticut, New Jersey, Indiana and Michigan which are anxious to have the matter settled as to whether the Knights of Labor are a constitutional body or whether they are entirely in the hands of the Executive Board. Should there be a special session called there is little doubt that there will be a serious split in the Order. Many of the most influential men in it, even in District Assembly 49, are disgusted with the way things are going. One of them said yesterday: "Powderly has acted like a fool in this matter of the Anarchists. It is not a matter of sympathy with them, it is a matter as to whether they shall have fair play." The official organ of District Assembly No. 24, which Powderly rebukes for raising funds for the defence of the Anarchists, a paper called the Knight of Labor, is particularly bitter in denouncing Mr. Powderly, and it is supported in its utterances by many Knights of influence here.

TORONTO.

Found Dead in Bed—Burglary—Accident at a Toboggan Slide—Fire—Haulan's Return.

Toronto, Dec. 26.—Henry Fox, proprietor of a large planing mill on King street West, was found dead in his arm chair yesterday morning, where he had been left sitting when the family retired the previous night. His death is attributed to a stroke of paralysis. He has been in excellent health, and his death was quite unexpected. He was 61 years of age.

The premises of the Telfer & Harold Manufacturing Company, corsets, &c., were burglarized early this morning, and a large quantity of goods, silk and other material carried off.

A serious accident happened yesterday afternoon to the thirteen year old son of Rev. Dr. Thomas at Riverdale toboggan slide. His toboggan collided with a tree stump and he was thrown violently forward, his left arm and leg being broken, besides receiving other injuries, which, however, it is thought will not prove fatal.

Fire broke out in the butcher's store of George Planner, Yonge street, about three this morning. Loss to stock and building will be about $600; covered by insurance.

Haulan arrived here yesterday, looking hale and hearty. He says he will not leave for Australia till August next, as he intends visiting the Southern States to row Gaudaur before going there, should sufficient inducement be offered.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

An Insane Mother Kills Her Three Children and then Cuts Her Own Throat.

Omaha, Neb., Dec 26—Charles Burger, a farmer living ten miles south of Bushville, returned home from town Christmas evening and found his wife and three children dead in the house. His wife had been subject to temporary fits of insanity, and it is supposed that while out of her head she killed the three children and then cut her own throat with a razor.

ACCIDENT ON THE C. P. R.

Two Men Killed and Twenty Passengers Badly Jarred.

Winnipeg, Dec 26—(special)—Two cars of a passenger train on the Rocky Mountain division of the Canadian Pacific Railway became detached, and ran three miles down a heavy grade, jumped the track and were smashed. Express Messenger McNally and an unknown passenger were killed. Twenty passengers were badly jarred.

GEN. JOHN A. LOGAN DEAD.

Another of the Foremost Men of the United States Passes Away.

Washington, Dec. 26.—Senator John A. Logan died at three minutes before three o'clock this afternoon of acute rheumatism. His death, which came with a startling suddenness to his family and friends, had not been unexpected by his physicians for some days. The lurking tendency to brain complications which had been present in a greater or less degree and constantly increasing in severity during his entire illness had prepared them to expect the worst. The racking pains which he suffered during the early days of his illness yielded to treatment, but left him in a weak and exhausted condition, from which he never rallied, and upon which the fever preyed with increasing violence until the hour of his death. Intimate friends gathered with the grief-stricken and almost frantic relatives about the bedside, while in the spacious hall and parlors below a sad-faced throng remained in hushed expectancy. The stifled sobs of the wife and children, and the inarticulate utterances of the dying man, as shortly after two o'clock he regained sufficient consciousness to recognize his wife, were audible at times throughout the mansion. At five minutes before three Dr. Baxter came out of the sick room and said to one who was waiting for intelligence:—"Simply say he is dying." Then the voice of prayer at the bedside rose above the sobs of the stricken mourners, and with its end ended the life of the warrior statesman.

John Alexander Logan was born in Jackson county, Illinois, Feb 9, 1826, served in Mexico, and returning home in 1848, began the study of the law. Having been admitted to the bar, he commenced practice in 1851, was chosen in 1853 by the Democrats of Jackson and Franklin counties to represent them in the State Legislature, and was re-elected in 1856. In 1858 he was elected a representative to Congress, and re-elected in 1860, but resigned on the breaking out of civil war in 1861. He entered a regiment of Michigan volunteers and was present at the battle of Bull Run, July 21, 1861; was soon after made Colonel of a Regiment of Illinois Volunteers raised by him, and took an active part in the capture of Fort Donelson, Feb. 13-16, 1862, when he was wounded, and for his gallantry was promoted to the rank of Brigadier-General of Volunteers, and in November following advanced to the rank of Major-General. He was actively engaged in the siege of Vicksburg (May to July, 1863); commanded the Fifteenth Army Corps from Nov., 1863, to Sept., 1864. He was absent on leave for the next four months, canvassing his State in behalf of the Republicans in the Presidential campaign, but rejoined his command in December, 1864, at Savannah, and remained with it to the close of the war. In May, 1865, he succeeded General Howard as Commander of the army of Tennessee, but resigned a few months later. He was appointed Minister to Mexico the same year, but declined, and was elected a member of Congress (1867-69) from the State at large in 1867, and re-elected in 1869. In 1870 the Illinois Legislature elected him United States Senator from March, 1871, to March, 1877. At the last election he was Republican candidate for Vice-President.

LABOR TROUBLES.

Some 2,000 Philadelphia & Reading Railroad employes have struck at Port Richmond, Pa., because the company decided to reduce the number of shifting crews. The men say this cannot be done without doubling up, and, rather than submit they quit work. This has seriously crippled the company, and in consequence the tracks are badly blocked with coal and freight cars. Should the strike extend to the main line and branches it will result in the shutting of all the company's collieries. The latter employ about 15,000 men and boys.

A Jackson, Tenn., despatch of Saturday says:—Freight brakemen on this division of the Mobile & Ohio Railroad are on a strike. Three crews got in this morning. Local freights were ordered out with only two brakemen, which they claimed were not enough. Other crews, as they come in to-night, will strike. The men say no train shall move until their demands are acceded to. A grievance committee waited on General Manager Talcott recently, asking for increased wages, which have not been granted. The yards are blocked with cars. The strikers are quiet but determined.

OWING TO A STORM

The Atlantic Cables Working Badly.

Buffalo, Dec. 27.—Owing to a storm on the other side, hardly a line of cable news has come up to two o'clock this (Monday) morning. A great magnetic storm was noted at Rochester Sunday. At 3.45 p.m. the pole of a needle two feet long swung over an arc of ten degrees. The strong earth currents thus indicated may account for the bad working of the Atlantic cables.

Imagines Himself the Messiah.

New York, December 25.—Abner Baker Magoun, of South Hanover, Mass., was committed in the Police Court to-day for insanity to the care of the Commissioners of Charities and Corrections. He claims that Simpson & Stiles, of Texas, holds $85,000,000 in trust for him, which a Catholic priest is trying to get from him. He registered at the Fifth Avenue Hotel on Thursday. He is a fine-looking man about 50 years old, and had in his possession $2,416 in cash. On Friday he locked himself in his room, and it was necessary to force the door open. He registered as Hon. W. Baine. The italic "b" was a ruse to keep enemies from getting his money, he said. He ordered his meals to be given in his room, and took them through the transom and threw $10 out to the waiter. It is thought that he was formerly in the furniture business in Chicago, and had become crazy on religion. At times he imagined himself to be the Messiah. He was sent to Bellevue Hospital. The police have received a telegram from South Hanover, Conn., from Mr. Magoun's son, asking that he be detained until the son's arrival in this city from South Hanover to-morrow.

MINOR TELEGRAMS

THE DOMINION.

The death is announced of ex-Ald. Hornier, of Montreal, aged 82.

A meeting of the Dominion Cabinet was held Friday afternoon, at which all of the routine business was cleared off.

An old woman, named Doran, while being taken by her friends to the Hotel Dieu, Montreal, yesterday, died suddenly.

A despatch has been received from the Imperial Government announcing that the river Orenoco has been opened for British trade.

J. D. Ross, of the Montreal Star, having acquired a half interest in the Ottawa Evening Journal, will take editorial charge on the 3rd of January.

The new Windsor hotel at Port Arthur was destroyed by fire Friday morning. The guests had a narrow escape. The building was only just occupied, and the loss will be heavy.

Christmas Day was observed throughout the Dominion in the usual way. The services in the Anglican and Catholic churches were generally very largely attended. Services were also held in some of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches.

Charles Harrison was arrested at Ottawa Friday for passing Confederate bills. He is known to have disposed of a quantity, and several were found in his trunk. He is said to have been supplied by an American dealer in these goods, who has sent quite a stock to Canada.

Sir John Macdonald, Sir Hector Langevin, Sir Alexander Campbell, and Messrs. Pope, White, McLelan, Foster and Costigan spent Christmas at Ottawa, Sir Adolphe Caron at Quebec, Mr. Chapleau at Sherbrooke, Mr. Carling in London, Mr. Thompson in Nova Scotia, and Mr. Bowell at Belleville.

Le Manitoba says that through Mr. Royal, Ambrose Lepine, who was concerned in the first Riel rebellion, has obtained a reinstatement of all his civil rights, which he lost in accepting the commutation of his death sentence. Lepine acted in a most loyal manner during the rebellion of 1885.

It is stated that the stockholders of the Moncton sugar refinery are fortunate enough to have several cargoes of raw sugar on hand, and as the refined article has advanced fully half a cent per lb. the Moncton people will clear a good many thousands of dollars. The refinery has been running its full capacity for some months past.

Mr. Percy Sherwood, Chief of the Dominion Police Force, has secured a couple of counterfeit two dollar Dominion bills of the recent issue. The work is so cleverly done that it is difficult to detect the counterfeit. The signature of Mr. Nash, of the Finance Department, is so well executed that he says himself it would be hard to swear that it was not his own handwriting.

THE UNITED STATES.

President Cleveland has been confined to his room since Friday with another attack of rheumatism in his knee, the result of over-doing before he had completely recovered from his recent illness. He was better last night.

The family of Joseph Seidlote, a Cincinnati car painter, consisting of himself, wife and six-year old son, were poisoned yesterday by eating canned green peas. Seidlote died last night, but his wife and child may recover.

John B. Lute an employe of a Portsmouth, N. H., brewery, kicked his wife to death in a brutal manner last night. Her head and body were terribly bruised, and her throat was torn open evidently by a kick. The body was nude. No motive.

In accordance with a purpose long anticipated, Mr. H. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., offered his responsible employes on Saturday a choice of $250,000 worth of stock in his firm, or, if they prefer, the same amount in cash; decision to be made any time before the 1st of July next.

A special from Muskogee, Indian Territory, says Captain Sam Six Killer, Chief of Police of the Indian Territory, was brutally assassinated Friday night. He was next to Chief Bushyhead, the best known Cherokee in the United States. He possessed great courage. Dick Vannon, one of the assassins, was pardoned out of the penitentiary a few weeks ago by President Cleveland, and is the worst desperado in the Territory.

The great bicycle race at Minneapolis closed at 10 05 Saturday night; all previous records for long distance riding were broken. Schock left the track at 10 05 p.m., having ridden 1,405 miles in 142 hours. The best previous record was 1,404 miles, 3 laps, in 144 hours. Morgan quit after completing 1,170 miles. M. Normandeau quit at the same time as Schock, with a record of 1,050 miles, beating Prince's record in the same rink of 1,042 miles.

GENERAL CABLE NOTES.

Christmas was gayer at Paris than usual this year, owing to brisker business.

By royal decree the Spanish Cortes have been closed until January 17th.

A Mandalay despatch says:—A number of Buddist priests have visited General Roberts and offered their assistance in the pacification of the country.

The German members of the Bohemian Local Government Board have resigned in consequence of the recent action of the Bohemian Diet on the motion to divide Bohemia into two parts, Czech and German, according to the language of the inhabitants.

Causes Which Led to Lord Churchill's Resignation.

THE CABINET IN NO WAY DISRUPTED.

The Government Awaiting Lord Hartington's Return to London.

DAILY RUMORS OF WAR.

The Maintenance of Peace Dependent upon the Action of the Czar, who is Said to be an Inveterate Drinker—Gossip from the German Capital.

London, Dec. 25.—The resignation from the Cabinet of Lord Randolph Churchill still remains the all-absorbing topic of conversation, and interest in his action will probably intensify until the developments consequent upon the return of Lord Hartington from Italy have been made public by the Cabinet. The prevailing opinion at the clubs is that Lord Randolph has failed to effect the personal coup d'etat which he is supposed to have contemplated. His abrupt retirement does not appear in any way to have disrupted the Cabinet, and it is considered very doubtful that other resignations will follow. It is expected that Lord Hartington will reach London by Tuesday, and an important meeting of the Cabinet will be held immediately after his arrival. He is now in Rome, and several urgent summonses have been sent him to hasten his departure.

THE DIVISIONS IN THE CABINET

that led to Churchill's resignation, embraced questions of wide interest. Lord Randolph's disagreement with the chief spending departments commenced with a proposal to reform the entire civil service, including an investigation of the votes asked in the coming financial year. Hamilton and Smith, heads respectively of the Admiralty and War Office, while willing to consider a general scheme of future departmental investigations, declined to discuss the estimates now under preparation, and were supported by a majority of the Cabinet. On the County Government Board Bill Churchill was defeated by a majority of one. On the question of the withdrawal of the army from Egypt he was supported by only four of his colleagues. On the proposed cloture rules and he failed to carry with him one-third of the Cabinet. But an issue of far more importance to him as a leader of the Tory democracy was that of perpetual pensions. His position on this question rallied against him the entire body of permanent heads of departments, supported by every member of the Cabinet except Churchill's personal appointees. The claims of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach to reinstatement to the post from which Churchill dislodged him are being trumpeted by his friends, but the attacks showered upon him by the dominant classes for his failure in Ireland have sensibly weakened him in public opinion. The reasons, moreover, that suggested his removal from the leadership of the House, to make room for a more active spirit, are urged more strongly than ever. The matter

COERCIVE MEASURES IN IRELAND

HANGS ON HARTINGTON'S DECISION.

If Hartington's personal feelings alone were concerned he would probably suggest, as the easiest way out of the difficulty, the appointment of Chaplin to the vacant seat in the Cabinet, leaving everything else untouched, and avoiding the confusion and perils of a general reconstruction.

THE "THUNDERER'S" OPINION.

The Times says Lord Randolph Churchill's resignation will do more for economic reform in one year than his administration would have been able to do in a dozen years.

WAR RUMORS.

Not a day now passes without fresh rumors of war. None of those which have appeared this week amounts to much singly, but collectively they give rise to uneasiness, both in political and financial circles. Vienna and Berlin have been pulling different ways for some time past, and now show signs of serious disagreement on the Bulgarian business. Stories about the Czar's condition grow daily more numerous and more consistent. The Vienna correspondent of the Times says that Austrian statesmen declare that the maintenance of peace is entirely dependent upon the action of the Czar, and, as he drinks, delirium tremens may at any moment cause him to commit an act of folly which would precipitate a war. Austria must be ready for such a contingency. The Bester Lloyd says that the Czar's fear of the Nihilists is excessive, and that he is suspicious of everybody with whom he comes in contact, including even his own wife and children. The often-denied story of his shooting Count Reutern is reaffirmed, and the fresher rumor of some insult offered to a German military attache at St. Petersburg seems not without foundation. Diplomacy in the presence of a mad Czar is disposed to acknowledge its own impotency. The feeling in financial circles is, as usual, one of extreme timidity. The idea prevailing in the city is that war may come at any moment. Money may be had on call for Stock Exchange transactions very cheap, but long loans are negotiated with difficulty.

A BLESSING TO THE UNEMPLOYED.

Berlin, Dec. 25.—Although the railway service was restored yesterday morning traffic is still seriously blocked, especially in connection with Christmas deliveries. However, the snow-storm was a Godsend to the unemployed. Thousands of men are employed in clearing the streets of Berlin. For this work they receive three and one-half marks per day. The trains were running all last night and the streets were lively with traffic. The thaw is only partial. The weather is pleasant. Advices from Saxony and Silesia say that much work was suspended during the snow storm. In the mines of Silesia the men were compelled to stop work. In Nuremberg the snow is three feet deep. A number of trains were snowed up, and passengers suffered great privation before being released.

THE EMPEROR.

Emperor William has been unable to drive out in his carriage since Sunday. He had Christmas gifts sent to the palace. The Crown Prince and Princess made daily visits to the stores for the purpose of selecting Christmas presents, and were followed from place to place by a mob of onlookers.

SUPPRESSING SOCIALISM.

The state of siege is being severely enforced in Frankfort. Letters from Socialists of that city say that even the possession of prohibited publications is deemed sufficient cause for arrest, without proof that the person arrested is connected with a secret society. The official press defends the present measures on the ground that discoveries have been made of Anarchist plots in industrial centres. They say that since the murder of Officer Rumpff, by Lieske, the Police of Frankfort have traced the ramifications of an Anarchist conspiracy to those centres. Minister Von Puttkamer's circular directing the authorities to prosecute persons found circulating forbidden publications is construed by the police to include persons who circulate such works without knowledge of their contents. The Progressist papers declare that if the law is applied as Herr von Puttkamer directs, liberty of the press throughout Germany will be suppressed, even political economists being debarred from a free exposition of Socialist theories. The papers point out that an ill-disposed commissary of the police can arbitrarily arrest men who have no relations with Socialism, and they assert that virtually Herr von Puttkamer is trying to establish a political inquisition with an index expurgatorious.

BISMARCK WILL BE ASKED TO EXPLAIN.

Advices from Vienna say it is reported there that a serious difference exists between the Cabinets of Vienna and Berlin. It is claimed that Prince Bismarck is serving Russian designs without regard to the interests of Austria. Herr von Tisza, the Hungarian Premier, it is stated, will soon hold a conference with Count Kalnoky and will insist that the situation be cleared up and that Bismarck be asked to declare whether Germany is an ally of Russia or of Austria-Hungary.

NOTES.

Madam Adele Esquiros, the French novelist, is dead.

The Belgian Government is having built an improved van for the safe conveyance of valuable mails.

The Swiss Bundesrath has passed a resolution ordering the frontier guards not to permit the exportation of Swiss horses.

Baron Schenitz, Governor of German New Guines, has sent from Huon Bay a specimen of gold quartz which gives promise that a rich field has been discovered.

The Socialists of Brussels, Saturday, opened a co-operative provision and recreation house, and many members of the party gathered to celebrate the event. The "Marsellaise" was sung and violent speeches were made, but further than this there was no disorder.

The Paris Temps says the owner of a French fishing smack at St. Brieux is suing the English Government for indemnity for losses, which he claims he suffered by the action of the Newfoundland people, who prevented him from fishing off the north coast of that Province.

The towns of Liege and Namur, Belgium, have sent a petition to the Government asking that the ancient citadels at those places be demolished. The petitioners say that in the event of an invasion these citadels would furnish a pretext for a bombardment, while they would be useless for purposes of defence.

Lord Hartington, accompanied by Right Hon. Henry Chaplin, a member of Lord Salisbury's former Ministry, attended Christmas services Saturday at St. Peter's and Santa Maria Maggiore Cathedrals, Rome. Lord Hartington will go to Monte Carlo on Monday. He will not reach London until January 10.

CHRISTMAS CRIMES.

A Terrible Record of Desperate Deeds—A Tired Mother Ends Her Own and Her Child's Life by Suffocation—A Number of Other Murders.

New York, December 25.—Charles Marston, of 218 East One Hundred and Nineteenth street, returned home last evening to an appalling bereavement, rendered doubly so by the Christmastide festivities of his neighbors. He found his wife dead, by her own act, and his babe, a girl two and one-half months old, dead with her. He had left his wife in the morning apparently happy and contented. Their Christmas preparations were nearly completed, having occupied their minds for several days. Mr. Marston is an entry clerk in a down-town store. He arrived home last evening shortly after 6 o'clock. His son by his first wife, Frank, a boy of 14, was waiting at the street door of the flat. He had come from his work earlier, but had not been able to get into the family rooms on the third floor. Father and son supposed that Mrs. Marston was out with her baby. But they at last tired of waiting outside, and Mr. Marston sent the boy up the fire escape. The door was opened in this way, and Mr. Marston went up toward the front room. The way led through a bedroom, and when the door to it was opened a volume of gas rushed out. This was the first hint that anything was wrong. Mr. Marston ran into the front room and struck a match. The light disclosed the bodies of mother and babe in the bed, as though for a night's rest. The door, windows and ventilators were closed, and the single gas jet turned on had quickly filled the little room to a suffocating degree. The bodies were yet warm, and medical aid was quickly at hand, but nothing could be done. Before taking her life Mrs. Marston had set her house in order. A new bonnet that she had just trimmed was hung upon the clock in the front room, and over it a piece of crape was draped. Another piece of mourning stuff was tied about the neck of the dead woman. Stuck in the frame of a looking-glass in the kitchen was a note in German written on the back of an envelope. It read:—"DEAR PAPA:—Be so kind and let me sleep. I am so tired. Buy Frankie a new suit for his Christmas. Forgive me, dear Charley. Your loving wife, AUGUSTA." Mr. Marston is about 50 years old and a man of domestic habits. He said that he and his wife had lived very happily together.

OTHER TRAGEDIES.

Dennis Carney, a young rough, was stabbed to death in 27th street early this morning. He had been in the company of two other hard characters, and it is supposed the party quarrelled over a ham they had stolen.

In a quarrel to-day between Michael O'Neill and Ed. O'Loughlin, in Brooklyn, over the possibility of jumping from Brooklyn bridge, O'Neill knocked the other down. Jumping up O'Loughlin drew a knife and stabbed O'Neill in the abdomen fatally.

Dr. Henry Andrews, of Brooklyn, committed suicide by shooting, while in a fit of despondency.

Quite a number of murders and stabbings are reported from various parts.

Henry Peck and John Hayes, two white ruffians, were arrested on the west-bound Air Line Railroad train last night, between Oakland City and Princeton, for the murder of O. Hart, negro porter at the Huntingburg depot, Ind., the same evening. The prisoners were taken to Princeton jail, and Saturday morning were taken to be sent to Jasper County, seat of Dubois County. A mob was raised to lynch them, but by the bravery and determination of Sheriff McGary and other officers the crowd was kept from the prisoners, who were taken away unharmed on the Air Line Railroad. A mob is feared at Jasper.

At Cincinnati this morning the body of Nicholas Paffenberger was found in a gutter with a fearful gash in his forehead. It is not clear who killed him.

At Maysville, Ky. Frank Jefferson, aged 40 years, was killed by Alfred and Sam Jefferson, both under 20. There was a general quarrel.

At Gallitzin, Pa., a young man named Gregg was shot and killed by a brewer named Aukaubaner. Gregg was intoxicated and threw a stone through Aukaubaner's window, whereupon the latter seized a gun and shot him.

At Belvidere, N. J., during a fracas Gotlieb Schwartz shot John W. Brown in the head and neck.

At Nashville, Tenn., Otto Beard, the 14 year-old son of a widow lady, was instantly killed by Price Peck, a negro ruffian, to-day. Peck, Grant Humphreys and Frank Loftin, three negroes, had been quarreling all the morning. They had cut one man and badly beaten another. Peck fired at a young man, who remonstrated with them, and missed, the ball striking Beard in the head, passing through and killing him instantly. All were arrested.

Mike Hadderman, a leader at the Connellsville, Pa., Coke & Iron Company's works, shot and killed a fellow employe named John Gibson at an early hour this morning. The men had been drinking together, quarrelled over the great strike of last spring, and Hadderman, drawing his revolver, fired four shots into Gibson's body, killing him almost instantly. Hadderman has been arrested and claims the killing was in self defence.

But one fatal affray marked the celebration of an unusually lively Christmas in Louisville, Ky. John Jennings, night cook of a restaurant in a tough locality, punctured the heart of Anderson Martin, the day cook, in two places. Whiskey was at the bottom of the murder. Both men were under thirty years of age.

John Dudley, Marshal of Zaleski, Vinton County, O., was fatally shot by Charles Anderson, this afternoon. The trouble arose over a girl in a saloon, and the shooting was deliberate and cold-blooded.

Jacob Murth was smothered at his home at Jersey City, N. J., this morning. He fell while drunk on his face, and his nostrils and mouth were pressed so tightly against the floor that he was unable to breathe.

T. L. Ellis was killed at Repton, Ala., to-day by John Posey.

HUME ELLIOT'S ADDRESS.

What He Had to Say at a Meeting in West McGillivray.

One night last week Mr. Hume B. Elliot, barrister, of this city, attended a meeting at West McGillivray in the interests of Mr. John Morgan, the Liberal-Conservative candidate for the Riding. The Parkhill Gazette (Grit) says:—"Mr. H. B. Elliot, son of Judge Elliot, and brother of the late S. Elliot, who was shot in the Riel rebellion, was next called upon. This young gentleman is an eloquent, powerful speaker, and handled his arguments in a manner which would have done credit to a veteran statesman. After referring to the Factory Act to prove that the Dominion Government were not—as Mowat claimed—always the aggressors in affairs between the Dominion and the Province, he took up the school book question, holding the view that it was pervers to the interests of the country at large to have a Minister of Education who is subject to the impressions of acute partyism, and that this important position should be occupied by a person in no way connected with the Government. Speaking of Quebec politics, he said it was possible that Mowat's 'I-congratulate you' telegram to Mercier may have expressed his (Mowat's) and Waters' sentiments, but he refused to believe that it expressed the sentiments of loyal Ontario. If Blake came into power the Reform party would have for comrades the annexationists of the Maritime Provinces, and the Revenge party of Quebec who overthrew their government because a rebel was hung and the laws were upheld. The speaker had spent some time in the North-west, being called there on a sad mission, and had taken advantage of the occasion to inquire from the Metis the cause of their grievance, and found invariably that they had no grievance, but were misled by Riel, and he had been told by them that had they been able to get hold of the man who had betrayed them—Riel—the Government would not have been put to the trouble of his trial. He had never heard Riel denounced in Ontario so bitterly as the half-breeds had denounced him. He closed his address by a earnest appeal for the support of the Conservative party for Mr. Morgan."

What more convincing proof can be adduced of W. D. Balfour's unfitness to represent South Essex in the Legislature than the fact that Hon. A. S. A grand musical and literary entertainment was given at S. S. No. 9, St. Ives, West Nissouri, on Friday evening, Dec. 17, the school-house being crowded to excess. The music rendered and the addresses given were by talented ladies and gentlemen. The entire programme was a complete success, owing very much to the zeal and ability of the worthy teacher, Miss M. A. Stuart, who, we are pleased to know, is engaged for another year. The proceeds of the evening were $28, to be devoted to purchasing prize books for the pupils. Mr. Jno. A. Urquhart acted as chairman.

A very pleasant evening of social enjoyment was spent at the Manse of the Rev. J. W. Penman, of the South Presbyterian Church, of North Nissouri, on Tuesday evening, Dec. 21st. Recently the rev. gentleman resigned his position as pastor of the church, in consequence of which a number of his friends assembled on the evening prior to his departure and presented to him and his good lady a handsome and well filled purse, accompanied by an excellent address read by Miss M. A. Stuart. The purse was presented by D. Wilkie, Esq. Short and pithy addresses, pleasant socialities, and a sumptuous repast, provided by the good ladies, made up a very enjoyable evening, and after tendering a hearty vote of thanks to the Chairman, Mr. J. A. Urquhart, the kind friends took an affectionate farewell of the rev. gentleman and his lady who, accompanied by many kind wishes for their future welfare, left the following day for the neighborhood of the city of Ottawa.

DEATH OF AN OLD RESIDENT.—The year now so rapidly approaching its termination has witnessed the demise of a very large number of the old and respected residents whose industry, energy and general exertions have contributed in such a material degree in the development of the Forest City to its present important position. Yesterday morning there passed away another old and highly esteemed citizen in the person of Dr. Robert Hobbs, at the advanced age of eighty-six years. Deceased was born in Queen's County, Ireland, in 1800, and received a liberal and thorough education at Trinity College, in Dublin. After graduating with honors he came to this country between thirty and forty years ago, and has practiced the profession of medicine almost without interruption since that time. During the last eighteen or twenty years he occupied the position of physician for the County Gaol in a very satisfactory manner. In politics he ever remained a consistent, enthusiastic and devoted member of the Liberal-Conservative party. He leaves a family of six to mourn his death. Robert is engaged on the Gault line in the North-west, Pepper occupies a position in the C. P. R. Superintendent's office at Port Arthur, and John is employed at the establishment of T. Herbert Marsh, here. Two of the daughters are married—one to Dr. McAlpine, of Parkhill, and another to Henry Faulkner, of Toronto—while the youngest is unmarried, and resides at home. The funeral will take place from the family residence at 2.30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

"STRAWS SHOW," ETC., ETC.

A Dead Give-away by the Grits Regarding Meredith's Re-election.

Nothing more clearly indicates the hopelessness of the Grit cause in London than the fact that several members of their Committees have hired nearly all of the livery rigs in the city for to-morrow's election, in contravention of the Election Law governing corrupt practices by agents. If they had the welfare of Mr. Peddle and the Knights of Labor at heart, or had the faintest idea of electing their nominee, they would not fly in the face of the law in this respect. Mr. Peddle's friends can gauge the seeming interest the Grits take in that gentleman's candidature by this flagrant infraction of the Election Law.

GRIT BRIBERS ABROAD!

Doubtful Voters Visited by Two Notorious Grits—Beware of the Metcalfe Township Timber Agents.

The Globe and Tiser have for several days past been sounding an alarm that large sums of money were being spent in different portions of the Province by Conservatives in corrupting the electors. From the fact that the Liberal-Conservative nominees have neither "Colonization Road Boodle" nor "Timber Limit Revenue" under their control, but rely mainly upon the intelligent electors for victory, it may be taken for granted that the Grit organs mentioned are simply endeavoring to "draw a herring across the trail" to cover up the illegal expenditures contemplated by their leaders. Indeed, it is known that two of the Grit clique from this city, who made themselves very conspicuous in West Middlesex at last election in purchasing timber (in G. W. Ross' interest), were abroad last evening in London West and London South, endeavoring to make converts by the "Come-along John" process. The individuals answered the description of the men who officiated as trustees of the money realized from the Indians forged School Bonds, which was brought to Canada and secreted in London for some time. The members of Mr. Tooley's Committees in the suburbs will do well to keep a strict watch upon the class of people alluded to this afternoon and evening, and circumvent them by adopting the Globe's advice to "clap them in jail." The Grits have the Provincial Treasury at their backs and will leave no stone unturned to carry into practice that which they so brazenly accuse their opponents of doing. Watch the "heelers" on every street in the suburbs by means of a patrol.

A COLLISION AT KOMOKA.

Two Engines and Several Cars Badly Damaged—The Drivers Injured Slightly.

The serenity of Christmas Day on the Southern Division of the G.T.R. was disturbed at an early hour by a collision, which, although resulting in the smashing of two locomotives and the damaging of several cars, was, very fortunately, not attended with any loss of life. The accident took place at Komoka, between a freight and passenger train. It appears that a freight train which had come from Glencoe, bound east under charge of Conductor Johnson, with Thomas Morehead as driver, was engaged in shunting on the main line, and for the purpose of endeavoring to guard from danger the semaphore had been turned against the train from London. This chanced to be No. 51 Chicago Express, going west, with Engineer John Robinson and Fireman Albert Prodger in the cab. Conductor Harry Nell having charge of the train. The freight crew had almost completed their work when the Express came rushing along at a rapid rate, but from some reason it is stated that Mr. Robinson and his fireman did not observe the condition of the semaphore until almost upon it, and at the same moment his attention was called thereto by the fireman. Then he instantly reversed the lever and applied the air-brakes, which had the effect of greatly decreasing the speed, but it was too late to prevent the meeting, and the two engines came together with a loud crash, staggered for a moment, then once again sprang to the charge with such force that both were badly smashed and piled upon each other in great confusion, totally wrecked. The baggage car was telescoped by the tender of the Express and broken up. The coaches were somewhat damaged and some ten of the freight cars broken to such an extent as to render it necessary to have the contents transshipped on their arrival in London. The Auxiliary was despatched to the scene of the accident, and the track cleared in a few hours, the battered cars and engines being brought back to the city and another train sent out to take the passengers westward. Very happily, not a single one of the passengers sustained any injury whatever, but the trainmen did not meet with like good fortune. Mr. Robinson had his head severely cut and deep gashes opened upon it, being also badly bruised about the limbs and body. Mr. Morehead suffered some cuts on the face and was badly bruised about the body, while his fireman, Mr. Hurkett, sustained an injury to his knee-cap, and several contusions on the body. Conductor Nell met with a rather peculiar experience. He was walking through the passenger train and had reached a point near one of the doors when the collision occurred, and the shock was so severe as to hurl him through the door. How he escaped so well he does not know, but as it is he is considerably bruised and shaken up. None of the men's injuries are regarded as dangerous unless it be those on the heads of the drivers; and all hurt are residents of this city, and reliable and experienced employes upon the line. Whether any responsibility attaches to them for the affair will probably be for the officials to determine.

Where are you going? Well, I don't know, but I have been strongly advised by my many friends to go to A. E. Trebilcock's and order a suit and overcoat. They all say he will show you the largest assortment for suits and overcoats in the city. 235 Dundas street is his number. McBride is the cutter.

FREE PRESS CORRESPONDENCE.

The Cuckoo Business.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—The most amusing piece of political "cheek" I ever saw, is that of the friends of the Labor candidate asking Mr. W. R. Meredith, who was born and bred in London, and has been its representative for fourteen years, to step down and out for a man who has been in Canada only five or six years, and who does not live in the city at all, or pay taxes in it. This is reducing the contest to a farce with a vengeance. Sir, I have always voted Grit, but I can't go this "cuckoo" business. I mean to vote for Meredith, and let party take care of itself. Yours, J. D.

"Consistency a Jewel"

To the Editor of the Free Press.

DEAR SIR,—It will be news to many electors of this city to know that Mr. T. C. Hewitt, one of the Water Commissioners, has at last swallowed his anti-Labor exclamations, and now comes out as one who "cordially approved the endorsation of Mr. Peddle by the Reformers of the city." Is this the same Hewitt who was asked a year ago to subscribe to the Knights of Labor platform, and who indignantly spurned it—indeed, insulted the gentlemen who asked him to give his views on the question? If it is, and I know of no other person by the name of T. C. Hewitt in London, I would strongly advise every member of the different K. of L. assemblies in the city to record their votes against him if he offers for re-election. So far as I can hear he has no interest in London. Yours,

A KNIGHT OF LABOR.

Anti-Immigrant.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—I was surprised to see so much bad feeling displayed by Mr. Peddle towards immigrants from the old countries! Why, sir, I say nothing against him for that, but was he not himself an immigrant a few years ago? I am informed he came here from the Whitechapel district, in old London, a few years ago. I was an immigrant myself ten years ago, and am proud to say that I found a helping hand amongst Canadians, and by hard industry I have now got a house over my family that was paid for by my own earnings. Sir, I, for one, don't want any Whitechapel Socialism around my shanty. If I ever can afford to keep a carriage I hope to be able to do so, in this free country, without any one of Mr. Hyndman's pets coming up to me, and telling me I am an usurper of somebody else's "rights." I think he hit the wrong string that time, Mr. Editor. Canada is no place for socialistic ideas. Here, every man may, if he is steady and saving, have a cottage and piece of ground of his own in a few years. Or if he wants to settle on wild land, he can get all he will know what to do with for nothing, for a very little money. But those who are squealing most about the land are the last so tackle it themselves Catch them toiling in the bush like our old settlers did in London and Westminster Townships, hewing their homes out of the forests. No, sir. The agitators of today are not made of that kind of stuff. They would rather talk and agitate for some political party than take an axe in their hands and go to work like the men of old did. CLEVELAND'S
SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER
DOES NOT CONTAIN
LIME,
AMMONIA,
OR ALUM.
Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder, manufactured by Cleveland Brothers, Albany, N. Y., is absolutely pure and wholesome. It is made only of strictly pure Grape Cream of Tartar, Bicarbonate of Soda, and a small portion of wheat flour, and does not contain Ammonia, Alum, Lime, or any adulteration whatever.
The Cream of Tartar is refined by a new process which frees it entirely from lime and every impurity, and is obtained in the pure crystals and ground in their own factory; the Bicarbonate of Soda is prepared expressly for them; and to ensure uniform and absolute purity of their baking powder all the ingredients are subjected to searching chemical analyses and none used unless proved to be perfectly pure.
In confirmation of the above the able and reliable chemists of the New York Produce Exchange report as follows:
"We are analyzing all the Cream of Tartar used in the manufacture of Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder, and we hereby certify that it is practically chemically pure—testing as high as 99.95 per cent. and not less than 99.50 per cent.
"From a hygienic point of view we regard Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder as the ideal baking powder, composed as it is of pure Grape Cream of Tartar and pure Bicarbonate of Soda.

TO-MORROW'S DOINGS.

The elections that are to take place to-morrow all over the province may be said to carry with them an unusual amount of interest. The questions at issue comprise many that have not before presented themselves, and include considerations of more than usual gravity. These matters have been so fully discussed through the medium of the press and the platform that it is not necessary to recapitulate them at any length at this time. But we would urge upon our readers the advisability of taking up strong ground as against those inroads upon the liberties of the people, which have presented themselves at many points. It is the beginning of encroachments that should be resisted. Adverse principles once admitted form precedents which are sure to be pushed with vigour at some future time by those that advance them. Mr. Mowat has, in order to retain office, permitted and devised many such inroads. They have been seen in reference to the municipalities, with regard to the Public Schools, with respect to the administration of the timber lands of the Province, while such encroachments have been made on the true condition of the finances as to make the introduction of new schemes of taxation imperative, if some efficient check be not put upon present and proposed expenditures. There are many other matters of importance to which reference has been made in these columns which tend to intensify the dangerous position, and which demand at the hands of the people a stern rebuke. One of the main objections that has been raised against the Mowat Administration has reference to the fact that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues have left no opportunity unimproved by which to attack those who have built up the National Policy; who have raised the credit of the country to its present high standard; who have aided so efficiently in the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and who have done so much to advance the general interests of the country at every point. It might have been supposed that the Provincial Government would have been glad to have countenanced such a beneficial course of things. But they have not. On the contrary, they have used all the means at their command—means that were not put in their hands for any such purpose—to hamper the action of the Dominion Government, and to break up and destroy those very measures which have resulted so satisfactorily to the people. If for no other reason than that, they should be compelled to retire from the position that they have occupied but to abuse. We hold it, therefore, to be the duty of all those that approve the policy of the Ottawa Government to set their faces firmly and resolutely against Mr. Mowat and his aims. If they wish the same successful policy to be maintained in the future that has done so much for us in the past, they should at least see to it that the enemies of that policy should no longer occupy a position of advantage which has been used to threaten with destruction those very procedures that have been so useful to the country at large. The bitter hostility that the Grit administration of Ontario has shown towards the policy of Sir John Macdonald should be of itself sufficient reason in the minds of all true Canadians to take away from it any further opportunities of mischief. It has seemed to have been thought by Mr. Mowat that his first duty was to hackle and break up the Ottawa administration, the true interests of the people of the Province being a secondary consideration. But even if it were to be admitted—for the sake of argument—that Provincial affairs had not gone extremely wrong, yet the fact that those far more important interests that affect trade and commerce the Dominion all over, and which carry with them the general progress of the country, have been grossly assailed by Mr. Mowat in his executive capacity, should be sufficient to warrant the decision that he should not be permitted any longer to do such great injury to the public weal under the pretence of administrating Provincial affairs. We hope, then, that every friend of the National Policy, every friend of progressive development, all those that aim to make Canada a successful country, now and in the future, will join hands to-morrow in putting an end to that Grit conspiracy which has its head centre at Toronto, the chief aim and end of which is to dethrone all those measures that are calculated to build us up as a live and vigorous nationality. How can anyone anticipate future progress while maintaining the enemies of it in their stronghold of assault?

The Woodstock Times remarks:—We notice a letter in the London FREE PRESS last Tuesday, from our townsman, Daniel Richards, stating that since the manufacture of brooms by convicts in the Central Prison the number of hands employed by him has been reduced from about fourteen to one or two men. The wages were formerly $1 50 to $2 per day. It is now about $1.65 per day, and this rate will not last long as the prison contractors only pay their men 35 cents per day. Working men, are you willing to support Mowat's Government, who encourage such outrageous competition?

The Brockville Times says: The Recorder writhes under the revelations made by the London FREE PRESS, as reproduced in the Times, regarding the Parliament buildings contract. We give another small dose to-day from the same source, which we hope will have a good effect upon our bilious contemporary.

RIEL IN ONTARIO POLITICS.

The Lucknow Sentinel complains that Mr. W.R. Meredith should have addressed himself to the Riel question at the Wingham meeting. The explanation is, that Mr. Mowat took the earliest occasion to send a telegram of congratulation to Mr. Mercier, Opposition leader in the Quebec Local Legislature, upon his supposed "victory" over the Ross Government. The following was the telegram so sent:—

To Hon. H. Mercier, M. P. P., 88 Berrie street.
Penetanguishene, Ont., Oct. 16.—Have just received here the joyful news of your great triumph. I congratulate you and all our friends on your important victory. May your premiership be a long one and full of advantage to your province and the Dominion, and of honor to yourself.
O. MOWAT,
Prime Minister of Ontario.

Now, the chief plank in the platform of Mr. Mercier was condemnation of the Ross Government for its failure to pass formal censure on Sir John Macdonald, for his part in sustaining the execution of Louis Riel. The position of Dr. Ross was that it was not a Provincial, but a Dominion question, and one with which his Government had no authority to deal. But Mr. Mowat and Mr. Mercier took a contrary view. Mr. Mercier took up the Riel cry because he thought it would ensure a political revolution in Quebec, and bring him into power, whereby he would have an opportunity to hackle at Sir John for the hanging of Riel, and Mr. Mowat supported him in that course, congratulated him by telegraph upon his supposed success, and invited his co-operation in Ontario to help him (the Little Premier) to "strike a blow at Sir John Macdonald," which was his avowed purpose in springing on the local elections at this time—a time so inopportune to the business of this country. Mr. Mercier responded to that appeal by sending his "best orators" into Russell and Prescott, among the French population, to foment the Riel agitation afresh, and secret emissaries into Essex to persuade the French residents to support Balfour and Pacaud, the former of whom acted as Mowat's agent at the great bribery infamy at Toronto, in which McKim and Dowling also participated; and the latter of whom was rewarded by Mowat with Government employment for having printed a paper, upholding Riel and denouncing the Queen's volunteers as a ret of "thieves and murderers."

Is any further reason necessary why Mr. W. R. Meredith, as a loyal citizen of Canada, as the upholder of what is dearest to Ontario—its peace and prosperity—should have laid bare the atrocious hypocrisy and infamy of these proceedings? In so doing he is supported by nine-tenths of the loyal people of Ontario.

MOST CHRISTIAN LIKE.

One of the questions in a certain fly sheet is as follows:—

"Who tried to rob Ontario of the Mercer estate?"

That is not the true question in re Mercer, which is, who robbed the young man Mercer of the estate which his own father had earned? We answer—Oliver Mowat! Who, in order to rob young Mercer of his estate, used the treasure of Ontario in expensive lawsuits, for the purpose of branding him indelibly with social disgrace and legal disability? We answer — Oliver Mowat, that good Christian Premier and politician. Who, after robbing young Mercer of his rightful patrimony, used it in erecting a Reformatory for fallen women, and, with malicious inappropriateness, labelled it "Mercer," so as to perpetuate for ever the memory of the old man's fault? We answer, Oliver Mowat. It was a mean-spirited thing—this "victory" over a young man whose fortune was snatched from him by Oliver Mowat only because his father had not made a will. It was the blood of this young man that Mowat took by seizure, and greedily applied for the benefit of the demireps of this Province. A more shameless transaction, or one which reflects less credit on Ontario, was never perpetrated before. Why need Mowat have associated the name of that unfortunate old gentleman forever with fallen women, under the circumstances that have become so notorious? It was a most unkind, unchristianlike act, affixing a stigma alike upon the living and the dead. Let Mowat go!

"NO ROOM FOR REBELS."

Hon. J. A Chapleau said at Toronto:—In the hour of danger when everything was looking dark I thought I could rely upon those who like myself had taken the oath not only of allegiance but the oath of advising Her Majesty of all bad designs and plots on the part of her subjects. I thought I could rely upon all my colleagues of the Privy Council to assist me in putting down the beginning of that outbreak which would have been a thousand times more dangerous than the North-west rebellion, and among those whom I looked to assist me was the Hon. Mr. Laurier, but I found him already in the camp of the rebels. He was not actively engaged in the struggle, but he had been aiding and abetting and counselling those whose object was to rouse in the Province of Quebec a war of nationality, a war of race and a war of religion."

This is not surprising when it is recollected that Mr. Laurier has boasted that he was the son of a rebel, and was himself a rebel when the occasion called for; in other words, when he thought fit to be. It is more surprising to find a man who boasts of his rebellious spirit, as a manly quality, advocating an Indian war of extermination, based on "money and revenge," and with watchword of "$35,000, or as much as you can get." It is more surprising still to hear a man of Mr Blake's supposed political sagacity (loyalty excluded), publicly championing the same infamous cause, and expressing his love and friendship for the man who said that if he had been on the banks of the Saskatchewan he would, like Riel, have been found with a musket in his hand, fighting for the cause for which Riel was hanged. To say that the attitude of Mr. Blake on this matter has been a surprise to his moderate party friends, does but faint justice to the subject. It has filled them with dismay and a repugnance which they cannot conceal. They realize now more than ever that a stunning defeat awaits him.

PASTEUR'S METHODS.

In a recent communication to the Paris Academy of Sciences, M. Pasteur describes certain modifications lately made in his method of treating rabies. Formerly the treatment was uniform for all persons, regardless of age, sex or the severity of the bites. In the case of the Russian patients who had been bitten by mad wolves, however, the inadequacy of this treatment led to experiments which have resulted in considerable modifications. Under the former milder treatment, virus from fourteen to fifteen days old had been used. The violence of the poison from the bite of the wolf, one of whose victims died while under treatment, and two others shortly after, suggested to M. Pasteur the necessity of more rapid and active treatment for those cases, and their success induced him to adopt a more energetic method with all patients, especially where the bites are on the face or where there are deep lacerations on other parts of the body. In these cases the inoculations are hastened in order to arrive as quickly as possible at the freshest virus. On the first day virus of twelve days is used at eleven o'clock, that of ten days, at four o'clock, and that of eight days, at nine o'clock. The following day virus of six, four and two days respectively is used at the same hours. On the third day, the inoculation is from virus one day old. The fourth day virus eight, six and four days old is used, the fifth day, virus of three and two days, the sixth, virus of one day, the seventh, virus of four days, the eighth that of three days, the ninth, that of two, and the tenth, that of one. If at the end of that time, the bites are not healed, the same treatment may be renewed at intervals of a few days for four or five weeks. The same is true of cases which, as not infrequently happens, are not brought to the institute immediately after being bitten. This system of vaccination has been in operation only for a comparatively short time, but the results have been excellent, the patients subjected to the more energetic treatment having recovered under circumstances exactly similar to those under which former patients died.

CURRENT TOPICS.

Very young girls who have this season made their debut in New York society are called "debbies." Antiquated old maids are "tabbies." And the intermediate ones, who are still youthful by courtesy, but have been about as long as is advisable before marrying, are "tarriers," because they tarry unmarried.

When is Mr. Meredith going to take back his sneer at Mr. Mowat as a "Christian politician?"—Globe.

Mr. Mowat has never been sneered at by anyone as a Christian. It is the treachery and hypocrisy which he displays under the garb of Christian virtue, his "stealing the livery of heaven to serve the devil in," that has justly laid him open to the censure of honest men.

Rev. Dr. Potts, of Toronto, speaking at a Conservative gathering on Thursday night said:—

"I say if anything has caused my soul to burn with indignation during the last year or so it has been the despicable attempt, not only in Quebec, but in Ontario, to make a hero and a martyr of that arch-traitor and rebel and murderer, Louis Riel."

This sentiment was received with deafening cheers.

The Durham Review (Grit), regarding the Parliament buildings job, says:—

"John Blyth, in his speech on nomination day, claimed that contracts had been let amounting to $800,000, and gave his authority from a rabid Conservative Alderman of Toronto."

This is a mistake. It was Alderman Hunter who made the statement that the contract for the masonry alone was $800,000, and Mr. Hunter is a Reformer. And it was because he was a Reformer and in sympathy with the Mowat Government that he was allowed to see the contract. Had he been a Conservative, it would not have been shown to him. Moreover, it was neither as a Grit or Tory that he made the statement, but as a citizen of Toronto, anxious to stop a similar extravagant job in connection with the proposed new Court House. It was because the Parliament buildings contract was so far in excess of the estimates, that he said Toronto could not afford to enter upon the construction of a new Court House. But Mr. Hunter is too good a Grit to find fault with the expenditure of $2,000,00 for Parliament buildings. That comes out of the Province, and not the city, which makes all the difference. Again, why is the contract kept from the people? Is Mowat afraid to tell what he has been doing in that matter, till after the elections? He knows the contract, in its present shape, will not bear the light of day.

CARD.

To the Electors of the City of London:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—My name having appeared in the press as a candidate for the Mayoralty for 1887, and a requisition, very largely signed by all classes of citizens [including many ladies], having been placed in my hands for acceptance, I have carefully considered the matter, and regret exceedingly that owing to business matters over which I have no control, and in consideration of my present state of ill-health, I have decided not to enter the field at present. It will be impossible for me, under the existing circumstances, to give the time and attention that the position demands, and to do justice to all. I feel very grateful for the honor conferred, and for the expression of confidence in me by the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly signed my requisition. Perhaps, in the near future, if it is their wish, I will be most happy to accede to their request.

I remain, most respectfully,

REV. MR. TRELEAVEN ON POLITICS.

The Pastor of the London South Methodist Church

Condemns the Reform Party for Its Riel Tactics and Opposition to the Canada Pacific Railway.

The London South Methodist Church was well filled last night when the pastor, Rev. R. J. Treleaven, preached from the text:—"Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people"—Prov., 14th chap., 34th verse. His sermon had sole reference to the political situation in Canada, and the evils which have arisen from intense partisanship. The first topic he touched upon was the Riel matter, concerning which he said:—It is this partisanship which sees no good at all in the opposite party. Like unregenerate and bitter persecuting Saul, persecuting to the death every dissenter from his own views, hailing men and women and casting them into prison, so each party to-day seems bent on the destruction of the other. Like Saul, being exceedingly mad against the other, the persecution continues even unto strange cities. So it is that sentient Chapleau is brought here to chastise the Grits, and the rebel Laurier has to come to inflict punishment upon offending Tories. The effect of bitter partisanship will be seen by every man whose sense of right is not in subjection to his party attachment. Take, for instance, the case of the mean, mercenary, murderous Louis Riel. Those words are not mine. They have been applied to him by both political parties of the day. The very mention of that name makes the hearts of many a household beat more quickly and tears to flow in fond remembrance of loved ones that fell on the northern field. I am not here to-night to say there were or were not grievances prior to the outbreak of that rebellion. I am not here to say whether grievances did exist or not, or whether they were sufficient to justify that outbreak. I am not here to decide the truth of what some say, that you may look for the secret of that outbreak to some dark, invisible power behind the throne. What I am here to say is this:—When the great Reform party of Canada dared the Government to do its duty in this respect, and sought to make political capital out of the delay, then I say that when that Government did its duty, even as defined by the Reform party, did its duty according to that grand old principle of British law, a principle established in Magna Charta over six and a-half centuries ago—"We will sell justice to none"—it is unwise, it is unworthy, it is unfair on the part of the Reform party to turn around and seek to make capital against the Government that did its duty in the hanging of the mean, mercenary, murderous Louis Riel. Mr. Treleaven then touched on the question of the Scripture Readings, and declared that it was now unworthy to make political capital out of it, after it had passed through the Local Legislature without opposition by the Conservative party. He said this was his opinion, without in any way attempting to say whether or not Archbishop Lynch had not had a hand in the preparation of those selections. There was still sufficient in the Readings to establish every principle of Protestantism. The C. P. R. was next dealt with. He said:—"Do you think it is right for the great Reform party of Canada to speak evil of the Canadian Pacific Railway? that mighty monument of Canadian enterprise, the wisdom of which coming ages will speak of, and the advantages of which succeeding generations shall reap." He said it would tend to bind the Dominion together. He deprecated the "No Papery" cry. The remaining portion of the rev. gentleman's sermon was devoted to the press and the use of the ballot. His remarks on these topics were absolutely general, and were intended to raise a higher tone among editors and electors. The singing of "God Save the Queen" and the Benediction closed the services.

MRS. BEDGOOD'S DEATH.

A Respected Resident of the Fifth Ward Hangs Herself on Sunday Afternoon.

Mrs. Robert Bedgood, a respected resident of the east end of Dufferin avenue, died by suicide yesterday afternoon by hanging. Deceased had for some time been in poor health. She had suffered two strokes of paralysis, one that she had about two years ago having deprived her of the use of her left side, and nearly cost her her life. She lived in constant dread of another stroke, and the change from an active and useful life appeared to bring on despondency, to which the sad event of yesterday was in a large degree owing. She spent Christmas Day with her brother's family, Mr. Henry Terry, on South street, and appeared more cheerful than usual on Sunday morning, when she visited her niece, Mrs. James Bloomer. In the afternoon Mr. Bedgood, at her request, went down to Mr. Terry's place, and Mrs. Bedgood dressed herself as if to go out. She must then have gone back to a small shed in the rear of the lot, where her husband discovered her body suspended by a clothesline to the nails in the plate of the roof. Mr. William Evans cut down the body, and with the assistance of another neighbor carried it into the house and placed it on a bed. Dr. Gardiner was sent for, but no efforts could restore life. Mrs Bedgood was about 63 years of age, and had been twice married She lived on the best of terms with her husband, and both were highly respected in the neighborhood. She was well-to-do, and had no children. A few days before her death she gave her husband a ring, which she asked him to keep always. No cause can be ascribed for the sad event other than despondency and temporary aberration. Dr. Flock, Coroner, was notified, but it is not likely that an inquest will be held.

FIRE FLASHES.

Montreal, Dec. 26.—Fire broke out in the wholesale millinery and fancy dry goods establishment of A. J. Turcot & Co., on St Paul street, early this morning, and about $20,000 damage was done to the stock and building.

Hamilton, Dec. 26.—W. D. Morden's barn was fired by tramps last night. Loss about $700; insured for $500.

Newark, Del., December 26.—The large mills of the Dean Woollen Company here were entirely consumed by fire on Saturday morning, causing a loss of $200,000.

Reported Arrest of Jim Cummings

Chicago, December 25.—Two local papers published this morning accounts of the arrest here yesterday of Jim Cummings, who has long been believed to be the perpetrator of the St. Louis & San Francisco express robbery, and two of his accomplices. According to the accounts referred to the men were arrested in a house of questionable repute and upwards of $20,000 was captured with them. The men are said to have been shadowed for some time on account of their lavish display of money. The Inter-Ocean will say to-morrow that these accounts have no foundation. Oscar Cook, a cooper, has been arrested at Kansas City on suspicion of complicity in the Cummings express robbery near St. Louis.

An Illicit Still Seized.

Guelph, Ont., December 25.—On Friday morning the internal revenue officers seized an illicit still in full operation in the cellar of Edward Johnston's hotel, at Eden Mills, a village seven miles from here. Some distilled spirits and a considerable quantity of wort in different stages of fermentation were found. Johnston made a determined effort to escape, but was arrested after a hard chase. He appeared at the Police Court here yesterday and was committed for trial.

A CARDINAL SIN.

BY HUGH CONWAY.

Having fallen such an easy victim to his craft, she quite believed that he had arranged things so that Allan would be lured away on a false scent. Her heart grew sick with the thought; her cheeks flushed at the idea of her husband pursuing her and Manders on the Continent. How bitterly she regretted the desire for revenge which had been played on by this villain, and so led her into such straits. She must make some one hear!

So she stood up, opened her shoulders, drew a long breath, and screamed a scream, which, coming without warning, made Manders jump in his chair. He had evidently counted upon this proceeding, as it appeared to trouble him little. He lit a fresh cigar and laughed, while his prisoner sent scream after scream, hoping one might succeed in travelling the distance. At last, utterly exhausted, she sank on her chair, waiting to see if her efforts had attracted any attention.

"It's not a bit of good," said Manders. "You'll only ruin your voice and tire yourself out. I'll bet you don't make anyone hear if you scream for a month."

From the composure with which he regarded her efforts she felt he was speaking the truth in this respect. The way he had deadened the windows was with a view of guarding against her cries being heard.

She sat down and for three hours neither spoke nor moved. It seemed like a horrible dream. It was now past six o'clock. She knew that Josephine and Mrs. Melville would be wondering at her absence she dreaded lest they should even then telegraph for her husband. The lies that for one moment Allan should be led to suspect her of wrong was maddening. Had a loaded pistol been in her hand she would have shot that wretch opposite to her without compunction. Yet she grew more and more resolved to lend herself in no way to his schemes.

He sat all the while in the same chair, smoking continually. The air grew heavy and foul with the fumes of his strong cigars. The room was small and only ventilated by the chimney and the crevices of the doors. Part of the time he pretended to read, a dog-eared novel, several of which were scattered about; but he kept the while a close watch on his captive. At half-past six he rose.

"Still determined?" he asked.

Frances did not trouble to reply.

"Then I must prepare for the siege," he said, opening the cupboard behind him and taking out some provisions, a bottle of brandy and soda whisky. He made a hearty meal and then replaced everything except the brandy and soda water. "Sorry I must be ungallant enough to refrain from asking you to share my meal," he said, "but if the besiegers supplied the besieged with provisions the fortress would never fall."

Till then the thought of hunger and thirst had not occurred to her. He intended, she saw, to starve her into submission. However, she was not hungry or thirsty yet; so she put off considering the evil moment.

Presently Manders spoke again.

"I don't mind doing what I can to make you comfortable, as long as I don't injure myself. You ain't very cheerful company, so if you like to go into the next room, I've no objection."

He opened the folding-doors, then coming back put a lighted candle on the table near her.

"You can go in there," he said, "if you like, and stay there till you are tired; but you must leave the door open so that I can see what you're about, if I want to. If you try to break down things and get to the windows I shall come in and stop with you, or make you come back here."

Anything was better than his company. She took the candle and passed into the adjoining room.

It was furnished in the half-bedroom, half sitting-room style. That same precaution had been taken with respect to the window, and a chest of drawers was placed in front of the door, which was no doubt locked. She could not get at it without removing the piece of furniture and alarming Manders. She could sit in semi-privacy behind the half open folding-door, but she knew that if she approached the window he must see her. Screaming in this room she felt would be less likely to aid her than in the other.

Still she was alone—away from those hateful eyes. She could throw herself on a chair and collect her thoughts. She need not check the tears which, in spite of her bold bearing, were springing to her eyes, she could pray and hope that some chance, or some mistake on Manders' part, might reveal her whereabouts to the friends who, she was certain, would be seeking her high and low to-morrow. She felt glad she had not yielded herself as she walked through the little village. Many persons must have seen her, and would be able to put enquirers on the right track. She would be traced to Charing Cross, where some one may have noticed her. Yes, she would hold out for a long while yet.

There was a washstand in the room. She ventured to pour out a little water and bathe her face, not without fear that her jailer would intrude when he heard her movements. But he did not; and, feeling refreshed, she sat down to pass the long and sleepless hours as best she could.

One by one they passed. She drew out her watch and wound it up; it would be terrible not to have the means of knowing how the time went. It was now night; she had touched nothing since breakfast-time—nearly twelve hours ago. She drank a little of the brackish water left in the ewer and assuaged her burning thirst. Manders, she knew, was still smoking, and, she supposed drinking, as, from time to time, heard the chink of glass and the gurgling of fluid. Would he eventually drink himself to sleep? This was the only chance of escape she could think of, unless the rescue came from without.

Her candle had now burned down into the socket. She felt she dare not stay there in darkness; she feared she might drop off to sleep if the light were withdrawn. She must have another candle, must summon up her courage to go to him and demand it. Moreover, it was better to show him she was not afraid. So she stepped boldly into the front room.

"Going to give in?" he asked, as she entered.

"Give me another candle," she said, peremptorily.

"Help yourself," he said throwing several on the table; "there's lots here—enough for a week, I calculate."

She took a couple, and while so doing glanced at him. No, he was not drunk yet. But there was a look in his dark eyes which sent a thrill of fear through her—a look she had not seen there yet—a look that made her long for a weapon. She felt, as she retreated to her own domain, that those eyes were following her. What would happen if sleep or fatigue overpowered her? Brave as she was she shuddered at the thought.

Should she yield and promise? Never till in the last extremity! Should she promise, and, considering how that promise was extorted, break it the moment she was free? No, she could not do that. A promise or an oath, no matter how given, must be sacred to Frances Bourchier. Oh, if Allan were here; her strong, brave husband! She pictured his wrath—pictured him shaking Manders like a rat—and this mental picture gave her great comfort.

"THE CHRISTMAS JUBILEE."

Dr. Talmage's Discourse Last Sunday.

Brooklyn, Dec. 26.—The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D.D., preached in the Brooklyn Tabernacle this evening on the subject: "The Christmas Jubilee."

Dr. Talmage's text was St. Matthew, Ch. ii., v. 9: "When they had heard the king, they departed; and lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young Child was." The preacher said:—

At this season all Christendom celebrates the birth of Christ. Step down out of your comfortable surroundings into the cold December night of Bethlehem. Two plain people are benighted in a village barn after a walk of eighty miles, too long a trudge for one in poor health. No lords of state awaiting in antechamber, as when other kings are born. No messengers mounted at the doorway ready to herald the advent from city to city. No medical skill in attendance. No satin-lined cradle to receive the infantile guest. But a monarch born in the hostelry called the house of Chimham, the night with diamonded finger pointing down to the place, the door of Heaven set wide open to look out; from orchestral batons of light, dripping the oratories of the Messiah; on lowest doorstep of Heaven the minstrels discoursing of glory and good will.

Soon after the white-bearded astrologists kneel, and from leathern pouch exhale the frankincense and rustle out the bundles of myrrh. The loosed star, the escaped doxology of celestials; the chill December night afloat with May morn; our world a lost star, and another star rushing down the sky that night to beckon the wanderer home again, shall yet make all nations keep Christmas.

Are there no new lessons from the story not yet hackneyed by oft repeatal? Oh, yes! Now in the first place, it was a sidereal appearance that led the way. Lo, the star which they saw in the East went before them. Why not a black cloud in the shape of a hand or a finger pointing down to the sacred birthplace? A cloud means trouble, and the world has had trouble enough. Why not a shaft of lightning quivering and flashing and striking down to the sacred birthplace? Lightning means destruction, a shattering and consuming power, and the world wanted no more destruction.

But it was a star, and that means joy, that means hope, that means good cheer, that means ascendancy. A star! That means creative power, for did not the morning stars sing together when the portfolio of the world's work was opened? A star! That means defence, for did not the stars fight in their course against Sisera, and for the Lord's people? A star! that means brilliant continuance, for are not the righteous to shine as the stars forever and ever? A star! That means the opening of eternal joy. The day star in the heart. The morning star of the Redeemer.

The unusual appearance that night may have been a strange conjunction of worlds. As the transit of Venus was foretold many years ago by astronomers, and astronomers can tell what will be the conjunction of worlds a thousand years from now, so they can calculate backwards, and even infidel astronomers have been compelled to testify that about the year one there was a very unusual appearance in the heavens. The Chinese record, of course entirely independent of the Word of God, gives as a matter of history that about the year one there was a strange and unaccountable appearance in the heavens. But it may have been a meteor such as you and I have seen flash in the horizon. Only a few years ago I saw in the western sky a star shoot and fall with such brilliancy and precision that if I had been on a hill as high as that of Bethlehem on which the shepherds stood, I could have marked within a short distance the place of the alighting. The University of Iowa and the British Museum have specimens of meteoric stones picked up in the fields, fragments flung off from other worlds, leaving a fiery trail on the sky. So that it is not to me at all improbable, the stellar or the meteoric appearance on that night of which we speak. I only care to know that it was bright, that it was silvery, that it flashed, and swayed, and swung, and halted with joy celestial, as though Christ, in haste to save our world, had rushed down without his coronet, and the angels of God had hurled it after Him! Not a black cloud of threat, but a bright star of hope is our glorious Christianity. One glimpse of that stellar appearance kindled up the soul of the sick and the dying college student until the words flashed from his pale fingers, and the star seemed to pour its light from his white lips as Kirke White wrote these immortal words:—

When marshalled on the nightly plain,
The glittering hosts bestud the sky,
One star alone of all the train
Can fix the sinner's wandering eye.
Hark! hark! to God the chorus breaks,
From every host, from every gem,
But one alone the Saviour speaks,
It is the Star of Bethlehem.

Once on the raging seas I rode,
The storm was loud, the night was dark,
And ruddy blew the wind
That tossed my foundering bark;
Deep horror then my vitals froze,
Deathstruck, I ceased the tide to stem;
When suddenly a star arose,
It was the Star of Bethlehem."

Notice also in this scene, that other worlds seemed to honor our Lord and Master. Bright star of the night, wheel on in thine orbit! "No," said the star, "I must come nearer, and I must bend, and I must watch and see what you do with my Jesus." Another world that night joined our world in worship. That star make a bow of obeisance. I sometimes hear people talk of Christ's dominion as though it were to be merely the few thousand miles of the world's circumference; but I believe the millions and the billions and the quadrillions of worlds are inhabited—if not by such creatures as we are, still such creatures as God designed to make, and that all these worlds are a part of Christ's dominion. Isaac Newton, and Kepler, and Herschel only went on Columbus voyage to find these continents of our king's domain. I think all worlds were loyal but this. The vast organ of the universe, its pedals and its pipes and its keys, are all one great harmony, save one injured pedal, save one broken stop—the vox humana of the human race, the disloyal world.

Now you know that however grand the instrument may be, if there be one key out of order, it spoils the harmony. And Christ must mend this key. He must restore this broken stop. You know with what bleeding hand, and with what pierced side, and with what crushed foot, he did the work. But the world shall be attuned, and all worlds still be yet accordant. Isle of Wight, larger in comparison with the British Empire than our island of a world as compared with Christ's vast domain. If not, why that celestial escort? If not, why that sentinel with blazing badge above the encampment? If not, why that midnight watchman in the balcony of heaven? Astronomy surrendered that night to Christ. This planet for Christ. The solar system for Christ. Worlds ablaze and worlds burnt out—all worlds for Christ.

Intensest microscope cannot see the one side of that domain. Farthest-reaching telescopes cannot find the other side of that domain. But I tell you how the universe is bounded. It is bounded on the north and south and east and west by God, and that God is Christ, and that Christ is God, and that God is ours. O, does it not enlarge our ideas of a Saviour's dominion when I tell you that all the worlds are only sparks struck from his anvil, that all the worlds are only fleecy flocks following the one Shepherd, that all the islands of light in immensity are one great archipelago belonging to our King?

But this scene also impresses me with the fact that the wise men of the East came to Christ. They were not fools, they were not imbeciles. The record distinctly says that the wise men came to Christ. We say they were the magi, or they were the alchemists, or they were the astrologists, and we say it with depreciating accentuation. Why they were the most splendid and magnificent men of the century. They were the naturalists and the scientists. They knew all that was known. You must remember that astrology was the mother of astronomy, and that alchemy was the mother of chemistry, and because children are brighter than the mother you do not despise the mother.

It was the lifelong business of these astrologers to study the stars. Twenty two hundred and fifty years before Christ was born the wise men knew the procession of the equinoxes, and they had calculated the orbit and the return of the comets. Professor Smith declares that he thinks they knew the distance of the earth from the sun. We find in the Book of Job that the men of olden time did not suppose the world was flat, as some have said, but that he knew, and the men of his time knew, the world was globular. The Pyramids were built for astrological and astronomical study.

Then, the alchemists spent their lives in the study of metals, and gases, and liquids, and solids, and in filling the world's library with their wonderful discoveries. They were vastly wise men who came to the East. They understood embalmment as our most scientific men cannot understand it. After the world has gone on studying hundreds of years, it may come up to the point where the ancients began to forget. I believe the lost arts are as mighty as the living arts.

They were wise men that came from the East, and tradition says the three wisest came—Casper, a young man; Balthazar, a man in middle age, and Melchior, an octogenarian. The three wisest men of all the century. They came to the manger. So it has always been—the wisest men come to Christ, the brainiest men come to the manger. Who was the greatest metaphysician this country has ever produced? Jonathan Edwards, the Christian. Who was the greatest astronomer of the world? Herschel, the Christian. Who was the greatest poet ever produced? John Milton, the Christian. Who was the wisest writer on law? Blackstone, the Christian. Why is it that every college and university in the land has a chapel? They must have a place for the wise men to worship.

Come now, let us understand in ounces and by inches this whole matter. In postmortem examination the brain of distinguished men has been examined, and I will find the largest, the heaviest, the mightiest brain ever produced in America, and I will ask what that brain thought of Christ. There it is, the brain weighing sixty-three ounces, the largest brain ever produced in America. Now, let me find what that brain thought of Christ. In the dying moment, that man said: "Lord, I believe; help Thou mine unbelief. Whatever else I do, Almighty God, receive me to Thyself for Christ's sake. This night I shall be in life, and joy, and blessedness." So Daniel Webster came to the manager. The wise man of the east followed by the wise men of the West.

Know also in this scene that it was a winter month that God chose for His Son's nativity. Had it been the month of May that is the season of blossoms. Had it been in the month June—that is the month of roses. Had it been in the month of July—that is the season of great harvests. Had it been in the month of September—that is the season of ripe orchards. Had it been in the month of October—that is the season of autumnal foliage and forests. But He was born in the month of December, when there are no flowers blooming out of doors, and when all the harvests that have not been gathered up have perished, and when there are no fruits ripening on the hill, and when the leaves are drifted over the bare earth. It was in closing December that He was born, to show this is a Christ for people in sharp blast, for people under clouded sky, for people with frosted hopes, for people with thermometer below zero, for people snowed under. A December Christ! That is the reason He is so often found among the destitute. You can find Him on any night coming off the moors. You can see Him any night coming through the dark lanes of the city. You can see Him putting His hand under the fainting head in the pauper's cabin. He remembers how the wind whistled around the caravansary in Bethlehem that December night, and He is in sympathy with all those who in their poverty hear the shutters clatter on a cold night.

It was this December Christ that Washington and his army worshipped at Valley Forge, when without blankets they lay down in December snow. It was this Christ that the Pilgrim Fathers appealed to when the Mayflower wharfed at Plymouth Rock, and in the years that went by the graves dirged were more in number than the houses built. Oh, I tell you, we want a December Christ, not a Christ for fair weather, but a Christ for dark days clouded with sickness, and chilling with disappointment, and suffocating with bereavement, and terrific with wide-open graves! Not a Springtime Christ, not a Summer Christ, not an Autumn Christ, but a Winter Christ!

Oh, this suffering and struggling world needs to be hushed and soothed and rocked and lullabied in the arms of sympathetic Omnipotence! No mother ever with more tenderness put her foot on the rocker of a sick child, than Christ comes down to us, to this invalid world, and He rocks it into placidity and quietness as he says: "My peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you." Oh, you broken-hearted; oh, you persecuted and tried souls, oh, you burden bearers, this day I declare unto you a December Christ!

Notice also a fact which no one seems to notice, that this Christ was born among the sheep and the cattle and the horses and the camels in order that he might be an alleviating influence to the whole animal creation. It means mercy for over-driven, under-fed, poorly-sheltered, galled and maltreated animal creation.

Hath the Christ who compared Himself to a dove no care for the cruelties of the pigeon-shooting? Hath the Christ who compared Himself to a lamb no care for the sheep that are tied and contorted, and with neck over the sharp edge of the butcher's cart; or the cattle train in hot weather from Omaha to New York, with no water fifteen hundred miles of agony? Has the Christ whose tax was paid by a fish, the coin taken from its mouth, no care for the tossing fins in the fish market? Hath the Christ who strung with his own hand the nerves of the dog and the cat, no indignation for the horrors of vivisection? Hath the Christ who said "Go to the ant," no watchfulness for the transfixed insects? Hath the Christ who said "Behold the fowls of the air," Himself never beheld the outrages heaped upon the brute creation, that cannot articulate its grief? This Christ came not only to lift the human race out of its trouble, but to lift out of pang and hardship the animal creation.

In the glorious Millennial time the child shall lead the lion and play with the cockatrice only because brute and reptile shall have no more wrong to avenge. To alleviate the conditions of the brute creation Christ was born in the cattle pen. The first bleat of the Lamb of God was heard amid the tired flocks of the Bethlehem shepherds. The white horse of eternal victory stabled in a barn.

But notice also in this account the three Christmas presents that are brought to the manger: Gold, frankincense, and myrrh. Gold to Christ. That means all the influence of the world surrended to Him. For lack of money no more asylums limping on their way like the cripples whom they sheltered, feeling their slow way like the blind people whom they sheltered. Millions of dollars for Christ where there are now thousands for Christ. Railroads owned by Christian stockholders, and governed by Christian directors, and carrying passengers and freight at Christian prices. George Peabodys and Abbott Lawrences and James Lenoxes no rarity. Bank of England, Bourse of France, United States Treasury, all the moneyed institutions of the world, for Christ. The gold for Christ.

Gold not merely paid the way for Joseph and Mary and the divine fugitive into Egypt, but it was typical of the fact that Christ's way shall be paid all around the world. The gold for Christ, the silver for Christ, the jewels for Christ. The bright, round, beautiful jewel of a world set like a solitaire on the bosom of Christ.

But I notice that these wise men also shook out from their sacks the myrrh. The camels came and they snuffed at it. They did not eat it because it was bitter. The pungent gum resin of Abyssinia called myrrh brought to the feet of Christ. That means bitterness. Bitter betrayal, bitter persecution, bitter days of suffering, bitter nights of woe. Myrrh. That is what they put into His cup when He was dying. Myrrh. That is what they put under his head in the wilderness. Myrrh. That is what they strewed his path with all the way from the cattle pen in Bethlehem to the mausoleum at Joseph's country seat. Myrrh. Yea, says the Psalmist, "all thy garments smell of myrrh." That is what the wise men wrapped in the swaddling clothes of the babe. That is what the Marys twisted in the shroud of a crucified Christ. The myrrh. Oh, the height, the depth, the length, the breadth of a Saviour's sorrow! Myrrh. Well might the wise men shake out the myrrh.

But I notice, also, from another sack they shake out frankincense. Clear up to the rafters of the barn the air is filled with the perfume and the hostlers and the camel drivers in the farther part of the building inhale it, and it floats out in the air until passers-by wonder who in that rough place could have by accident dropped a box of alabaster.

Frankincense. That is what they burn in the censer in the ancient temple. Frankincense. That means worship. Frankincense. That is to fill all the homes, and all the churches, and all the capitals, and all the nations, from cellar of stalactited cave clear up to the silvery rafters of the starlit dome. Frankincense. That is what we shake out from our hearts to-day, so that the nostrils of Christ, once crimsoned with the hemorrhage of the cross, shall be flooded with the perfume of a world's adoration. Frankincense. Frankincense in song and sermon, and handshaking, and decoration. Praise Him, mountains and hills, valleys and seas, and skies, and earth and heaven—cyclone with your trumpets, northern lights with your flaming ensign, morning with your castles of cloud, and evening with your billowing clouds of sunset!

Do you know how they used to hold the censer in the olden time? Here is a metal pan and the handle by which it was held. In the inside of this pan were put living coals. On the top of them a perforated cover. In a square box the frankincense was brought to the Temple. The frankincense was taken out and sprinkled over the living coals, and then the perforated cover was put on, and when they were all ready for worship, then the cover was lifted from this censer and from all the other censers, and the perfumed smoke arose until it hung amid all the folds and dropped amid all the altars, and then arose in great columns of praise on side or above the Temple, rising clear upward to the throne of God.

So we have two censers to-day of Christmas frankincense. Here is the one censer of earthly frankincense. On that we put our thanks for the mercies of the past year, the mercies of all our past lives, individual mercies, family mercies, social mercies, national mercies, and our hearts burning with gratitude send aloft the incense of praise toward the throne of Christ. Bring on more incense and higher and higher let the columns of praise ascend. Let them wreathe all these pillars, and hover amid all these arches, and then soar to the throne.

But here is the other censer of heavenly thanksgiving and worship. Let them bring all their frankincense—the Cherubim bring theirs and the Seraphim theirs, and the one hundred and forty and four thousand theirs, and all the eternities theirs, and let them smoke with perfume on this heavenly censer until the cloud enfolds the throne of God. Then I take these two censers—the censer of earthly frankincense, and the censer of heavenly frankincense—and I swing them before the throne, and then I clash them together in one great Alleluia unto Him to whom the wise men of the East brought the gold, and the myrrh, and the frankincense, when "the star which they saw in the East went before them."

See-Saw, How Nice it Works.

Ingersoll, Dec 24th, 1886.—Mr. Jas. Brady is the only one left of the Chronicle's list of patriots who was announced as stumping the riding of South Oxford in favor of Dr. McKay. Why is this? Oh; it is so simple. Mr. Brady is a part of Mr. Mowat's political "machinery." He is the Division Court bailiff, appointed by Mr. Mowat. He is also the Catholic representative on our High School Board, appointed by the separate school, and is reported as holding the price of the Catholic vote of South Oxford in his pocket. He is the "Metis" of South Oxford, as Mr. Mowat's patron saint, Riel, is of the North-west. He is doing all in his power for Mr. Mowat, "who has done so much for us Catholics," and Mr. Brady in particular. Go in, Jim, but don't place Dr. Williams under too deep a debt of gratitude.

TRADE, TRAFFIC AND FINANCE.

Latest Notes by Telegraph and Mail.

BRITISH GRAIN TRADE.

Liverpool, December 24.—A leading weekly grain circular says: The wheat market has regained its firm aspect and prices have recovered from the slight decline. There is renewed inquiry for wheat for future deliveries and for cargoes. The country markets are firm but not active. Millers abstain from buying. At to-day's market there was a good attendance. Wheat was firm and a fair business was done at an advance of 1 to 2d. There was a good trade in flour; some kinds showed an advance of 6d. Corn was firm and moderately active. Prices were unchanged.

LONDON AGRICULTURAL SEED TRADE.

Monday, December 13, 1886.—Messrs. John Shaw & Sons report to-day's market as without striking feature. Business in cloverseed seems generally in abeyance until after Christmas. Meantime values all round keep steady at the wholesome, low level characteristic of the present season. In perennial ryegrasses the late advance is well maintained, and there has been rather more doing in foreign Italian at hardening rates. Bird seeds exhibit this week no change. Their rate just now is very small. Mustard and rapeseed meet for the moment but little inquiry. Feeding linseed is steady. Peas and haricot beans move off slowly on former terms.

MARK LANE "EXPRESS" REVIEW.

London, Dec. 24.—The Mark Lane Express (which was issued to-day instead of Monday, the regular day of publication), in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says:—The wheat trade was limited, but prices were steady. Foreign wheat was quiet. The increase of American supplies tends to depress the market, but the disturbed condition of affairs in the eastern part of Europe counteracts this influence and strengthens the market. There is a good prospect of increased business with the new year. At to-day's market the tone of wheat was firm. Flour was 6d dearer. Corn, barley, beans and peas were steady.

RAILWAY NOTES.

The traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ending December 18th were $360,831, as compared with $315,819 for the corresponding week of last year, showing an increase of $45,012

The gross earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for the week ending December 21st amounted to $198,000, as compared with $161 000 for the corresponding week last year, an increase for 1886 of $37,000.

The Michigan Central Railway Company has given notice to agents and connections that commencing January 1, 1887, all arrangements for percentage divisions of through rates with other railroads and lines will be subject to arbitrary rates, fixed on a mileage basis. These are not to be considered as regular tariff, but only as the minimum proportion which will be accepted on through rates. It is claimed that this action on the part of the Michigan Central indicates the correctness of charges heretofore made that interior roads are taking grain from points in Ohio to New England points on a basis of twenty cents per 100 pounds, or ten cents less than tariff. This freight is being shipped to Toledo, Detroit and Cleveland, and is then forwarded by the Michigan Central or other connecting roads to destination. The Michigan Central, it is said, does not propose to accept a regular pro rata portion on severely cut rates, and consequently it establishes the minimum rates as the smallest proportions it will accept from its connections This action, it is said, also indicates that the Michigan Central has given up hope of the pool being able to enforce agreed rates.

Protestant Clergymen Preaching Submission to Rome.

From the Toronto World.

In one important respect the present election contest in Ontario differs from all that have preceded it. It is in the main a battle between Grit and Tory—Reformer and Conservative—according to the old usage. But it is something more besides; it has developed into a battle between Catholic and Protestant as well as between the two political parties. And the remarkable feature of the case is that we find a number of Protestant clergymen supporting the Roman Catholic side of the controversy. Of course we do not find the Catholic clergy divided in this way; they are always as one man for their own church. The clergy of the Anglican Church appear to be almost wholly on the Protestant side; men of High Church views and men of Low Church views are for once in agreement. It is, strange to tell, within the ministry of the Methodist and the Presbyterian Churches that the most conspicuous Protestant champions of the Pope's power in Canada are to be found. Now, how are we to account for this, how explain a phenomenon so contradictory of all our former experience? The task is on the face of it a most difficult one; but we may get a glimpse of the truth if we look in the right direction.

The adherents of the Churches just named have for a long time been on the Reform side of politics, by a large majority. Presbyterians whose affinities were with the "Auld Kirk" have been mostly Conservatives; but in the whole body the far larger number have been Reformers. Among the Methodists, too, taking clergy and people together, to be a Reformer has been the rule, and to be a Conservative the exception. And no wonder, either, seeing that in time not so very far back Old Country Governors and Canadian Tories joined hands to deny to Methodist clergymen the legal right of solemnising marriage, except under conditions implying inferiority and reproach. That Presbyterians outside of the Established Kirk, also Methodists of all shades of opinion as to Church rule and order, should be on the side of "Responsible Government and the Voluntary Principle," was natural enough. And just as natural was it that the same men should be opposed to the pretensions of the Church of Rome, whether as a spiritual or as a political power.

Already we have progressed somewhat; we have found good reason why both Methodists and Presbyterians should lean heavily to the Reform side; and patriotic reason, too, of which neither they nor their descendants need ever be ashamed. But observe that over all the historical period indicated, these Reformers in politics—Presbyterians and Methodists together—were wholly opposed to the power of the Church of Rome in Canada. They believed that this power had increased too much already, and ought to be diminished. All the more strange, therefore—is it not?—to find Presbyterian and Methodist clergymen to-day trying to make the worse appear the better reason, and to lead Protestant people into the ditch of submission to Rome.

We have to face the extraordinary fact that a number of Protestant clergymen, more or less, are to-day conspicuous in advocating the pretensions of the Church of Rome, and in advising the surrender of Protestant rights. How account for this? It will not do to charge against these men that they are consciously doing so, or to question the sincerity of their Protestantism. After a good many different explanations proposed and rejected, we have to fall back on one which is both simple and sufficient—excess of political zeal. Old and deeply-rooted political associations have blinded the eyes of some Protestant clergymen, and have drawn them away from the right path. They appear now to regard as trifles things which the Church of Rome has always held to be of the utmost importance, and which used to be of great importance in their own estimation, too. The intensity of their gaze upon old political issues hinders them from seeing the great issue of the day in Canada. Their habit of living too much in the political past, and dreaming of it, is what has sealed their eyes to the realities of the present.

They fail to discern the signs of the times, and dream that things stand now just about where they did twenty years ago. A most profound delusion! let us say, and one from which they will get a rude awakening ere long. Most emphatically things are not what they were before Confederation; and the change is more remarkable in Ontario than in any of the other Provinces. Never before had Ontario a Provincial Premier in political alliance with the Provincial ruler of the Roman Catholic Church. Once this Province was ruled by John Sandfield Macdonald, himself a Roman Catholic born and bred; but not from him could Archbishop Lynch ever have obtained what he gets from the Protestant Mowat now on the merest hint. This one new thing—the close political alliance between Church and State—between the Roman Catholic Church and the Provincial State in Ontario—has created a new situation. Does Mr. Mowat not see it? do his Protestant clerical defenders not even suspect what this tremendous change really means? Must we say that the Premier and his defenders together have been given over to strong delusion, to believe a lie? They might be troubled with at least a suspicion that they are standing on dangerous ground. The change is so radical, so extraordinary, that even very careless Protestants ought to feel alarmed. It is such a glaring contradiction of the old Methodist and Presbyterian position on the question of relations between Church and State, that it is fairly astounding to our ears to hear of it. Imagine Conference or General Assembly debating and approving, twenty or twenty five years ago, some things which have been done in Ontario within the last ten years. Why, the thing would have been regarded as morally impossible, as being quite outside the limits of reasonable consideration.

The alliance between Church and State in Ontario is the one great fact upon which we should fix our eyes. Many points now hotly debated are mere side issues in comparison. What precise share Archbishop Lynch had in putting together the "Ross Bible" does not much matter; the main question is—why was he ever allowed to have any share at all in such a work? For what reason was he permitted to have even the semblance of being a party concerned at all? That there should be an active alliance between the Ontario Government and the head of the Roman Catholic Church in this Province is the thing to be accounted for. Account for it on the political principles of Reform and Liberalism, or on the religious principles of Protestantism, if you can.

The Presbyterian or the Methodist who declares himself a Reformer to-day, as he has been all his life, may be consistent. But he of either Church who endorses Mowat's unholy alliance cannot successfully maintain that on the question of Church and State he stands where he stood, or where his father stood, twenty years ago. The Church of Rome has not changed her position; but he has changed his, with a vengeance. Disputings as to incidentals cannot be avoided, for out of them material facts and circumstances must be established. But the practical union of Church and State in Ontario is the main matter for Protestant people to fix their eyes upon.

Those Protestant clergymen who are virtually preaching submission to Rome may depend upon it that they are not carrying their people with them. They have forfeited their consistency by advocating that which all their lives before, until a short time back, they would have most indignantly repudiated. But the people will not so easily be drawn from the old moorings. Giving the Church of Rome a share in the secular government of Ontario is going too far for the majority of Protestant people, we should imagine. Some day the blind guides who are now leading people astray, to the extent of their influence, will get a tremendous awakening out of their delusion.

The fundamental error of these blind guides of ours lies here—they fail to comprehend the extent to which the Church of Rome is using Provincial powers for her own aggrandisement. It may be said:—Oh! was not Sir John in good accord with that Church before Confederation, and did not a heavy share of his support come from Roman Catholic votes? True, indeed, but in those days who ever heard of Roman Catholic interference with Protestant education in Ontario, or with the secular affairs of this Province in any shape. How is it that such encroachments as these of the Church of Rome in Ontario, within the last few years, were never heard of in the former time—never until Confederation and the Provincial rights craze gave Archbishop Lynch his opportunity? We see this, that things are being done in Ontario now which could not possibly have been done then. And we may see, further, that the Archbishop, or somebody acting for him, adroitly threw out the bait of Roman Catholic support of provincial rights in matters purely secular or territorial, in order to catch Mowat's support of the Church in its encroachments in those fields wherein it especially desires to encroach. Small matter to Archbishop Lynch where Ontario's western boundary is fixed, whether at Algoma Mills or within a stone's throw of Winnipeg—if only the boundaries of his control over legislation and administration in the Province be extended. Mr. Mowat, simple soul!—swallowed the bait—fell into the trap—and now his defenders are at their wits' end trying to show that he did what was for the best all the time. But one thing he and his Protestant clerical defenders may be sure of. The reaction provoked by that gigantic blunder of his is only beginning. It will not cool off and subside, but will grow stronger and hotter every year that passes. The fierce light which now beats upon the situation will be growing fiercer all the time. Most emphatically the element of time is against Mr. Mowat and his defenders. Revolutions do not go backward, and we are now only at the beginning of one which it is beyond their power to stay.

Ricksecker's perfumes are fast taking the lead for elegance, durability and general superiority, finding preference wherever known, even in foreign capitals of fashion, over all others. As one of our fashion journals aptly puts it:—"An indescribably luscious odor surrounds the lady who uses Ricksecker's perfumes" Ricksecker's Edgewood Violets—as fresh, delicate, sweet and natural as the "mutely eloquent modest violet" itself, from which this perfume is directly extracted. GEORGE! GEORGE! when you are down in the city to-day run into W. H. Trebilcock's Silk and Corset House, 150 Dundas street, and get me a pair of those elegant Nursing Corsets, only $1 35 a pair. I can't get along with this miserable thing I had made to order; and while you are there bring home a pair of their fine Gold colored Sateen, size 20, only 50 cents a pair. Remember, George, at Trebilcock's; I can't get a perfect fitting corset anywhere else in the city. American silver taken at par.

Al who have used Barkwell's Bronchial Balsam claim that there is no preparation to compare with it for the immediate relief and permanent cure of all coughs and colds, no matter how distressing or severe. You Need

The most effective medicine, for the cure of any serious ailment. If you are suffering from Scrofula, General Debility, Stomach, Liver, or Kidney diseases, try Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the safest, best, and most economical blood purifier in use.

For many years I was troubled with a Liver and Kidney complaint. Hearing Ayer's Sarsaparilla very highly recommended, I decided to try it, and have done so with the most satisfactory results. I am convinced that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is ever compounded, for diseases caused by impure blood.—Edward W. Richardson, Milwaukee, Wis.

The Best Remedy

I have found Ayer's Sarsaparilla a more effectual remedy, in the ulcerous forms of Scrofula, than any other we possess.—James Lull, M. D., Potsdam, N. Y.

I have taken, within the past year, several bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and find it admirably adapted to the needs of an impoverished system. As a blood purifier, and as a tonic, I am convinced that this wonderful preparation has no equal.—Charles C. Dame, Pastor Congregational Church, Andover, Me.

BY-LAW NUMBER -----

To Aid the London & South-Eastern Railway Company, by Granting to it a Loan of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars on Certain Conditions:

WHEREAS, It is desirable to aid The London and South Eastern Railway Company by granting to it, on the conditions hereinafter mentioned, a loan of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars, and the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of London has determined to grant the said loan on the said conditions.

AND WHEREAS, the total amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-law is the sum of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars.

AND WHEREAS, it will require the sum of $5,375 to be raised annually during the currency of such debentures to pay the interest of the debentures to be issued therefor, and the sum of $1,125 90 to be raised annually during the same period to meet the principal of the said debentures when due.

AND WHEREAS, the amount of the whole ratable property of the Municipality is the sum of $12,587,510 00, according to the last revised Assessment Roll thereof.

AND WHEREAS, the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said Municipality is the sum of $1,742,323 47-100, no part whereof or the interest whereof is in arrear.

BE IT THEREFORE ENACTED by the said Municipal Council:—

1. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Corporation to aid the said Railway, by granting to it by way of loan the sum of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars on the conditions hereinafter mentioned.

2. That the Mayor be and he is hereby required to cause any number of debentures to be made, not less than one hundred dollars each, and amounting in the whole to the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars, which debentures shall be sealed with the Corporate seal of the said City, and shall be countersigned by the Treasurer.

3. That the said debentures shall be made payable in thirty years from the date thereof, at the office of the Treasurer of the said City, and shall have coupons attached for the payment of the interest thereof.

4. That the said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly from the date thereof.

5. That the said debentures may be made payable in sterling money of Great Britain or any other currency.

6. That there shall be raised and levied in each year during the currency of the said debentures the said sum of $3,375 for the payment of the interest, and the said sum of $1,123.90 for the payment of the principal when due of the said debentures, and the same shall be raised and levied by a special rate sufficient therefor on all the ratable property in the said City of London.

7. That the said Company shall not be entitled to receive the said debentures, or any of them, unless or until

(a) Running powers shall be obtained by the Canada Southern Railway Company over the London and Port Stanley Railway between the Cities of St. Thomas and London, and into the City of London, not later than six months from the passing of this By-law; and

(b) The said Company shall have entered into an agreement with the Corporation of the City of London to pay to the Corporation of the City of London the sum of $3,000 per annum, payable half yearly (less any sum not exceeding $400 per annum which the said Company shall expend for necessary current expenses of the said Company, and for insurance of their buildings if required), for the period of twenty years from the time of the issue of the said debentures, with the privileges to the said Company of repaying to the said Corporation of the City of London the amount of the said debentures at the end of any half year during the said term of twenty years, or, at the option of the said Company, the thirteenth day of January, A. D. 1887, at eight o'clock in the afternoon (being upwards of one month from the first publication in the FREE PRESS and the London Advertiser, which first publication is on the eleventh day of December, A. D. 1886), and that at the hour, day and places there named for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

Dated this eleventh day of December, A. D 1886.

are of two kinds: firstly, those which are only skin deep (which are not now to be considered); secondly, those which are caused by a bad state of the blood, and which attack various parts of the body in different ways. Skin disease shows itself in the HEAD, sometimes in the form of Dandruff, which no amount of brushing and combing will get rid of, and sometimes in the form of Scaly Eruptions. In the NECK, by an enlargement of the glands (commonly called Glandular Swellings), which if unchecked become very unsightly wounds. In the ARMPITS, and the inside of the ELBOWS, by an inflamed Roughness of the Skin, which is very painful when washed. In the HANDS, by deep Cracks or Fissures, which, if healed for a few days, speedily open again, or by horny-looking patches. In the LEGS, by Hard, Shiny and Inflamed Swellings, or by wounds more or less deep. And on the BODY, in Red Scaly Patches, which as often as rubbed off, form again, or in the discharge of a thin, watery fluid of a very disagreeable nature. In all these cases the treatment must be twofold. An Ointment is required to relieve Itching, and Medicine must be taken to change the state of the Blood, and render it pure. Both these requirements are supplied by

Signor Emilio, the Corn Doctor.—He takes in some of our shrewd citizens.—It does appear preposterous to notice by the FREE PRESS of the other day how Signor Emilio, a corn doctor, actually charges some of our citizens $5 for extracting each corn, and that he succeeded in relieving one of the girls employed at the Grigg House of $15, while his bill against Mr. Thos. Knowles reached the sum of $95. This is the more ridiculous from the fact it is known to almost every citizen in London that the sure corn cure manufactured by W. S. Barkwell, the chemist, of this city, will remove any kind of corn, hard or soft, and it only costs 25c. "Experience is a good teacher," but in this case rather an expensive one.—Advt eod

Rev. David Ryan preached at Victoria Hall last night before a large audience.

Mr. John Emerton, of Strathroy, leaves for home this morning, after spending a short holiday with friends in this city.

The death is announced of Mr. Henry Lunday, an old and highly respected resident of South Norwich, aged 63 years.

Rev. R. J. Treleaven, of London South, will preach the anniversary services of Brownsville Methodist Church next Sunday.

Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels appear at the Grand Opera House to-morrow night. They give an exceedingly lively performance.

Dr. L. C. Sinclair, of Tilsonburg, has been nominated by the North Norfolk Conservatives to oppose John Charlton, Esq., M. P.

Conductor Richard Spettigue is officiating as night station agent at the Richmond street depot during the temporary absence of Mr. D. W. Smith.

The band will be in attendance at the Star Rink to-night, and a carnival will be held on Friday evening. There were large crowds present on Christmas.

The Tiger says "Mr. Peddle does not profess the tricks of the professional orator." On a question of this kind who can speak with more authority than David Mills?

The new toboggan slide constructed for the city club is being liberally patronized, and all who attend appear to enjoy themselves very much. This was especially the case last week, and also on Christmas.

The Rev. David Savage, assisted by several Band workers, among whom will be Messrs. Chapman, Seedweek and Jones, commenced a series of services in the Methodist Church, Tilsonburg, yesterday.

Stephen White's term as member of the Council of the Agricultural and Arts Association for the Western district expires the present year. Albin Rawlins, of Forest, is one of the candidates for the next term.

The Springfield Argus says:—"The London FREE PRESS has issued a very attractive Christmas number. The lithographed cover, which was executed in the FREE PRESS establishment, reflects credit upon the firm."

Petrolia Advertiser:—"A Daisy.—The Xmas number of the Daily FREE PRESS, London, is a handsome specimen of the typographical art, and speaks millions both for the enterprise of the management and the skill of the men."

The Richmond street covered rink attracted very large throngs of patrons on Saturday afternoon and evening, when the Seventh band were present, and rendered choice music for the crowds. The other rinks were also liberally attended.

In the case of Graham vs. the London Mutual Insurance Company, which has been in dispute for many months, judgment has been given for defendants with costs in an action upon a fire insurance policy. D. Macmillan for defendants.

While the scenery of "Lost in London" was being removed from the Grand Opera House on Saturday night some person who thought a fire was in progress sounded the alarm, causing the brigade to turn out. Of course, their services were not required.

The grand bazaar in aid of St. Peter's Cathedral, which is to be opened at the City Hall this evening, will no doubt be very numerously attended. An exciting cane contest between Sir John A. Macdonald and Hon. E. Blake will be one of the features.

A so-called sparring match, with gloves, took place at Dorchester on Christmas eve, which was witnessed by quite a few of the would-be sports, who are partial to anything which savors of the "prize ring." The affair may be denominated as somewhat of a farce, the contestants being George Harding and one Henderson, both of whom acknowledge the Forest City as their home. It is stated that Henderson was no match for his opponent, who succeeded in vanquishing his man and knocking him out of time in such a style as to be awarded the victory within a very few minutes.

Henry Thompson and Thomas Davidson have for some time past been manufacturing whiskey without the privilege of the Government, at Essex Centre. They were arrested by Collector of Internal Revenue John Davis and brought to Windsor on Friday. There was not sufficient evidence to hold Davidson, and he was discharged. Thompson was fined $250 and $6 costs and three months in the County Jail. In case the fine is not paid inside of three months the term of imprisonment will be extended another month.

A social reunion of the city and London South Circles of the C. L. S. C. was held at the residence of Mr. W. H. Winnett, President of the Centre Circle, on Christmas night, with a view of the members becoming better acquainted with each other, and promote the interest of the C. L. S. C. in this city. The evening was spent in social enjoyment, addresses being given by Mr. Winnett and Rowell, and several of the members took part in a short programme.

The Rev. Dr. Caven, of Toronto, doubtless had the Globe in his mind's eye on Friday last when he wrote:—"Are men simply stupid, or are they worse, when they parade from day to day quotations from eminent persons in praise of the Bible, to which every Protestant gives his unqualified assent, as if these were a severe rebuke of those who would suffer less than the entire sixty-six books of the Bible to be printed in any volume?"

The nomination of candidates for the Mayoralty of London for 1887 will take place at the City Hall at 10 o'clock this morning, and the meetings for Aldermen will be held in the first division of the several wards at noon. In the suburbs and surrounding townships the nominations will take place at the customary time and places. The Mayoralty nominees spoken of are Messrs. James Cowan, W. Scarrow and M. Anderson.

Hon. D. Mills, the gentleman who denounces politicians for circulating statements which to his mind are not in accordance with facts as they appear to the average Grit mind, does not deem it out of place to circulate the statement that Hon. Thos. White exhibited a picture of Riel as a new saint of the Catholic Church in Haldimand, although the author of it has been forced to swallow the lie since he originated it.

"A Presbyterian Elder," writing in the Mail on Saturday, says the reason the Canada Presbyterian has nothing to say regarding the "mutilated" Bible, is because the proprietor, C. Blackett Robinson (a brother-in-law of Deacon Cameron, of the Globe), has a fat printing contract with the Government, and is the humblest "pumpkin pie eater" in the Government train. Dy'e twig the milk in the cocoanut?

Our exceedingly erratic contemporary, in alluding to the East Middlesex election prospects, says the Tories "won't be able to bring in non-resident voters" on Tuesday next. That's a fact. But how will the 60 odd persons who voted for McKenzie at last election, on bogus deeds of the Woodside and Woodview properties, get their work in? That's what is troubling McKenzie's London South Committee at this time.

A young man named William Delay, who is a resident of London West, was arrested last night by Detective Ryder upon a charge of stealing an overcoat belonging to another young man named William Clarke. It is alleged that the offence was committed on Saturday evening at the restaurant of Jerry McDonald. Delay was wearing the garment when taken into custody on the street.

John Hackett, of London West, was again placed under arrest and locked up in the county gaol yesterday afternoon upon a warrant charging him with the same offence for which he has repeatedly appeared before the County Magistrate—that of assaulting and ill-treating his wife Mary Ann. The warrant was issued by Squire Peters, before whom Hackett will appear for trial.

There will be a rousing mass meeting of the electors of No. 5 Ward in the late Town Hall there this evening at 7.30, when addresses will be delivered by Mr. W. R. Meredith and other speakers. All who desire to hear the political issues of the day intelligently discussed should attend.

Mr. Dan Collins, of London West, has secured the sheet of water at Stratford which is known as Lake Victoria for a term of years, and expects to harvest a large crop of ice therefrom for the use of his patrons. He has already secured nearly 1,000 tons in the vicinity of the city.

Henry Clark was brought to the County Jail on Saturday afternoon by Chief Robert Miller, of Strathroy, having been sentenced by P. M. Noble, of that place, to six months' imprisonment in the Central Prison upon a charge of neglecting and refusing to support his wife.

Mr. Coyne and his Grit henchmen in West Elgin, call Mr. A. Ingram, the K. of L. candidate, "an adventurer," "only a brakeman," etc., thus showing the great and burning love animating the Grit heart for the workingmen of this country.

Christmas Day passed off very quietly and peacefully in the city. There was not so large a crop of bibulous people gathered in by the police as has been the case in some former years, but still the cells did not remain without a few tenants.

Miss Mary Dodds was presented with a handsome Church of England service and hymnal by the members of the Congregational Church of Watford last week, as a slight recognition of her appreciated services as organist of the church.

Mr. John Murray, of Ridgetown, has bought from Charlton Bros., London Township, a first-class two year old imported Clydesdale stallion for the sum of $1,800; name, Farmers' Pride.

George S. Morris, who has completed a contract upon a section of the West Ontario Pacific Railway, is leaving for Kentucky to enter upon another extensive contract on a line there.

The prisoners confined in the County Gaol here were entertained on Saturday to a most bountiful Christmas dinner, and appeared to heartily enjoy the unusual feast.

Dr. R. C. Gibson, who has been absent in B. C. and California for the past two months, has returned to Watford, and will resume the practice of his profession there.

LOCAL NOTICES.

The bazaar in aid of St. Peter's Cathedral, which is to begin in the City Hall on next Monday evening, the 27th inst., promises to be a great success. The bazaar will continue for 10 days. The chief feature of the bazaar will be a contest for a gold headed cane between the two great political leaders—the Rt. Hon. John A. Macdonald and Hon. Edward Blake. The supporters of each member are most earnest in their endeavor to have their choice the winner. L24dv.

The great popularity achieved by our High and Lassie cigars has induced unscrupulous manufacturers to put inferior cigars on the market under similar brands, and retail dealers to repack our boxes with snide goods. To protect our interests, we have been compelled to attach lithographed stickers to each and every cigar of this brand, with the name of the same and the initials H. McK & Co. thereon. We respectfully request our customers to see that they get the genuine article, manufactured exclusively by H. McKay & Co., London, Canada.

THE LONDON MUTUAL

The only Mutual Fire Insurance Company licensed by the Government of Canada. Head offices, 428 Richmond street.

This company insures private residences and the contents thereof, and farm property; and by the last Government returns it will be seen that it has, with exception of one other company, and whose business in Ontario it doubles, more property at risk than any other company in the whole Dominion. The business of 1886 has exceeded that of any previous year, and still increasing, thus making this company the largest, most successful and best mutual fire office in the world, result of reasonable rates, good management, and fair, honest dealing. For insurance apply to J. A. Hutton, city agent; Arch. McBrayne, 744 Dundas street, for East London; John Ferguson Campbell and Wm. Stanley, county agents, or at the office, Richmond street, between 9 and 4 daily.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

APPALLING LOSS OF LIFE BY THE RECENT SNOW STORM IN GERMANY.

Fully 200 Victims—Report that Russia and Turkey will Send a Joint Ultimatum to Bulgaria—The S.S. City of Chester Damaged by Fire—Miscellaneous.

London, Dec. 30, midnight.

Fire on Board Ship.

Fire broke out in the store cabin of the Inman steamer City of Chester, in Alexandria Dock, Liverpool, to-day. The flames have been extinguished. It is reported that much damage was done.

He Wanted to Kill the Premier.

At Bucharest the trial of M. Alexandresco, who, on September 16, shot at the Roumanian Premier, M. Bratiano, was commenced to-day. The bullet missed M. Bratiano and struck M. Robesco, a member of the Chamber of Deputies. The prisoner confessed that for political reasons he intended to kill the Premier.

Appalling Loss of Life.

A Berlin despatch says:—The removal of the snow which fell in the late storm has revealed an appalling loss of life. Many travellers were overtaken by the storm. Fifty bodies have been found in Saxony, thirty in Thuringia and forty in Southern Germany. It is estimated that the total loss of life will be nearly 200.

A German Complaint.

The Berlin newspapers complain of what they call England's culpable negligence in failing to adopt subterranean telegraph lines to connect with the submarine cables, the result of which fact was the total telegraphic isolation of London in the recent storm. They express the hope that this experience will lead to the adoption of the German system in England.

A Joint Ultimatum.

It is rumored at Vienna that Russia and Turkey have agreed to send a joint ultimatum to Bulgaria ordering the Government to comply with their demands under pain of the occupation of Roumelia. Nothing definite has been received from the Prince of Mingrelia. Odessa telegrams, however, report that intimate friends of the Prince have received more hopeful news, presumably from the Prince himself.

Arctic Expedition.

The St. Petersburg Academy of Sciences has received a telegram from Dr. Bunge at Orlinga reporting the successful termination of the labors of the Russian expedition, which has been exploring the region around the mouth of the Lena river, in Eastern Siberia, and the new Siberian Islands, where the Jeannette expedition came to grief. Dr. Bunge has been conducting his explorations for two years or more. The expedition, which is under his command, went to the coast of the Arctic Ocean overland. The explorers have no ship, and there are only taree or four men of them altogether.

War not Remote.

A Paris despatch says:—Diplomats consider the statements made by the Government organs yesterday, that Gen. Boulanger had not, as reported, reduced his supplementary military estimates from $60,000,000 to $10,000,000, coupled with the Journal Official's list of his reappointments of the generals in command of the French fortresses, another evidence that war is not remote. Much curiosity is expressed as to what Germany will think of Gen. Boulanger's decree making these appointments and bestowing upon Gen. Thibaudau, commander of the Paris garrison, the new title of Superior Commander of the National Defence.

Madagascar.

Madagascar has concluded arrangements for obtaining a loan of $3,000,000 for 25 years, at six per cent. per annum, from the Comptoir d'Escompte of Paris, guaranteeing therefor the customs revenue of six of the Madagascar ports. Of this sum $2,000,000 is to be devoted to paying off the French indemnity. The balance will be expended on the native army. The French will evacuate Tamatave in January. The French Resident's relations with the Madagascar Government have for some time been quite strained owing to his insisting in maintaining a French protectorate over the country. Malagassy Ambassadors have started for Europe.

Cable Notes.

Altogether 40 Socialists have been ordered to leave Frankfort.

David Duncan, M.P. for Exchange Division, Liverpool, is dead.

The Spanish Government will ask the Cortes for extra credits to build and arm new land forts.

Gen. Kaulbars has been attached to the staff of the Grand Duke Vladimer, eldest brother of the Czar.

Five persons were killed and a number of firemen were injured to-day at a fire which destroyed a large block of buildings at Lisbon.

Mr. Gladstone, replying to a letter criticizing John Bright's action on the Irish question, says:—"There is only one reason why I remain silent after my former relations with that distinguished man, and the kind and loyal aid he so often gave me. I do not mean, if I can avoid it, to write or speak one word that could possibly give him pain."

A Double Murder.

Brenham, Tex., Dec 30.—Oscar and Thomas Hopkins (colored) were killed here to-day by Daniel Nelson, another negro. The Hopkins boys and Nelson were leaders in rival brass bands. Last night, while Nelson, with his band, was playing at a dance in the country, two shots were fired through a window. Although the shots were harmless, Nelson claimed that the Hopkins boys had attempted to kill him. He borrowed a double-barrelled shot gun and killed the Hopkins brothers on sight.

Fighting in Mexico.

Nogales, Ariz., December 30.—A report has reached here that Mexican troops and revolutionists have had a terrible fight in Sinaloa, and that many were killed on both sides. The report is unconfirmed.

THE BRITISH CABINET.

HARTINGTON DECLINES TO ACCEPT OFFICE.

But he and Chamberlain and Goschen will Continue to Support the Government—W. H. Smith to be Leader of the Commons—The Cabinet to be Rearranged—Efforts to Reconcile Churchill—The Radical-Whig Alliance Unbroken.

London, December 30.—Lord Hartington has declined to become a member of the Government. Lord Hartington, Joseph Chamberlain and George J. Goschen had a conference to-day. They found themselves equally averse to joining any coalition cabinet, and all three decided to support the Conservative Government.

CHURCHILL'S SUCCESSOR.

Hon. William Henry Smith, Secretary of War, is to take Lord Randolph Churchill's place as leader of the Conservatives in the House of Commons.

WILL REARRANGE THE CABINET.

The Marquis of Salisbury, after an interview with Lord Hartington to-morrow, will hold an informal council for the purpose of rearranging the Cabinet. There is not a whisper about Sir Michael Hicks Beach having resigned the office of Chief Secretary for Ireland, and it is certain that at the meeting of the Cabinet on Tuesday the other Ministers concurred in his expressed decision to continue his present work. Sir Michael, replying to an address presented by a deputation of Ulster Liberal-Unionists in Dublin to day, expressed the hope that he would be able at the coming session of Parliament to assist in bringing before that body the suggestions of the deputation. The tenor of his remarks indicated that he would remain in his present position. Lord Charles Beresford, one of the junior lords of the admiralty, is mentioned as successor to Wm. Henry Smith in the War office, otherwise the Ministry will remain unchanged.

THE ALLIANCE UNBROKEN.

Lord Hartington's conference to-day with Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Goschen proved that the Radical-Whig alliance is unbroken. Mr. Chamberlain's interview with Lord Hartington lasted two hours. Both gentlemen expressed the opinion that it would be the wisest policy to maintain the Liberal Unionist body as an independent section.

THE TORIES GRATIFIED.

The refusal of Hartington to enter the Cabinet gratifies the Tories, who strongly objected to the infusion of Liberal blood into the Ministry. A majority of the members of the Carleton Club preferred the return of Churchill even at the cost of the submission of the Government.

TRYING TO RECONCILE CHURCHILL.

The efforts to reconcile Lord Randolph promise better. Lord Rowton, acting on behalf of Lord Salisbury, and Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, for Lord Randolph, met at the Carleton Club to day. Lord Randolph, in the Club, denied that he was moving to effect a reconciliation, but expressed his willingness to entertain proposals if they tended to strengthen the party.

A CABINET COUNCIL.

The Cabinet Ministers will go to Osborne to-morrow to attend a Council, at which the question of a further prorogation of Parliament will be discussed.

THE BIRMINGHAM RADICALS.

The Birmingham Radical Union has agreed that Chamberlain's recent speech offered to the Home Rulers grounds for compromise. Jesse Collings, speaking at Birmingham, declared that a reunion should be effected now or never. The Liberals should unite on general legislation and thus eject the Tories.

CHURCHILL'S TERMS.

London, Dec. 31. The Post continues to urge that the Government effect a reconciliation with Lord Randolph Churchill. It is reported that the latter insists as a condition of his return to the Ministry that the places of Lord Iddesleigh and Sir Richard Cross in the Cabinet be given to Mr. Ritchie and Sir Hy. Holland.

IRELAND.

Parnell Resumes Work—Dillon Gives Bail for His Good Behavior—Nationalist Leaders Still Collecting Rents.

London, December 30.—Mr. Parnell resumed work to-day, being engaged for several hours in the London offices of the Nationalist party. He hopes to be able to go to Dublin next week, as he desires to hold private consultations with Messrs. Dillon and Healey and other prominent Nationalists.

IN THE SLIGO COURT

to-day there was another case of counsel for the defence withdrawing because Catholics were not allowed to serve as jurymen. Eight persons were on trial, all of whom were accused of assaulting Bailiffs while the latter were endeavoring to evict tenants. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty. The Judge discharged the prisoners with an admonition.

TRIAL OF DILLON, ET AL.

At Dublin the trial was resumed of Messrs. Dillon, O'Brien, Redmond, Harris, Crilly and Sheehy, who are charged with conspiring to solicit tenants to refuse payment of their rents. Mr. Gerrard's speech for the Crown showed that the prosecution relied upon speeches made by the defendants and upon articles in United Ireland for evidence of conspiracy. The accuseds' counsel disputed the relevancy of such evidence. The trial was adjourned.

COLLECTING RENTS.

John O'Connor, M. P., and Messrs. Mandeville and Casey, resumed the collection of rents of the Kingston estate in Cork at midnight.

DILLON GIVES BAIL.

John Dillon appeared in court at Dublin to-day and deposited the required bail of $5,000 for his future good behavior, pending the outcome of his appeal. Messrs. J. G. Biggar and Dr. J. E. Kenney, Nationalist members of Parliament, were his sureties.

Annual Meeting of the Commercial Travellers' Association—The Dead Identified—The Ontario Music Teachers' Association—A Clydesdale Stallion Show.

Toronto, December 30.—At the annual meeting to-day of the Commercial Travellers' Association John Burns was declared elected second Vice-President. The Toronto Board of Directors are A. S. Hart, T. P. Hayes, Thos. Smith, R. J. Orr, Hector Morrison, Wm. Ince, jr., George West, John Walker, Thomas Blake. The Hamilton Board of Directors are G. E. Hamilton, F. Ashbough, J. H. Herring, H. G. Wright, R. McCullough, William Braid. The annual report showed a profitable year's business. The surplus amounted to $119,368 97, the net gain being $19 889 52. The membership was placed at 2,515, being 227 more than last year. The receipts were as follows:—Ordinary certificates, $24,790; honorary certificates, $370; duplicates, $64; interest, $5,524 07; total, $30 748 07. The expenditure amounted to $10,858 55, leaving a balance of $19,889 52. A number of proposed additions and amendments to the by-laws were adopted. The Treasurer's report showed the total assets over liabilities to be $119 368 97. The report of the sick benefit fund showed receipts of $816.75; disbursements, $755 20—balance, $61.25. The President announced that the railway companies had renewed the travelling privileges to the Association, and a vote of thanks was passed to these companies and steamship companies. President Blain, after paying a high compliment to President elect Black, vacated the chair, and Mr. Black took possession of the gavel, at the same time thanking the members for the honor conferred upon him. The conversazione to night in the Pavilion Music Hall was a most brilliant and successful affair.

The body of the man found in the bay on Tuesday has been identified as that of a man named John Laurent, who registered at a hotel here on December 16 as coming from Quebec.

The second annual convention of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association closed to night. The following officers were elected:—President, Dr. C. A. Sippi, London; Vice-President, Edward Fisher, Toronto; Secretary, H. Guest Collins, Toronto; Assistant Secretary, Miss Hillary, Toronto; Treasurer, Arthur E Fisher, Toronto; Executive Committee, J. E. P. Aldous, Hamilton; G. B. Sippi, London; J. C. Morgan, Barrie; Theodore Martens, Toronto; J. H. Jones, St. Thomas; Dr. Crozier, Belleville; R Philps, Guelph; Mrs. R. Smith, Stratford; W. F. Foote, Goderich; W. Carey, Kingston; J. Singleton, Port Hope; J. D. Kerrison, Toronto; D. Brown, Ottawa; W. Garrett, Brantford; Delegates to National Music Teachers' Association—Edward Fisher, George Sippi, St. John Hyttenrauch, J. W. P. Harrison, A. E. Fisher, J. Martens, D. J. O'Brien. Committees were appointed to wait upon the Ontario Government, to obtain a grant and a charter.

The annual meeting of the Clydesdale Horse Association of Canada was held here to-day. There was a good attendance. It was unanimously decided to hold a stallion show in the coming spring, in Toronto, not later than the middle of March, and a committee was appointed to make necessary arrangements. The following officers were elected:—President, David McCrae, Guelph; Vice-President, Wm. Smith, Columbus; Directors, Robert Graham, H. H. Hurd, Hamilton; Jas Beith, Bowmanville; Thomas Taylor, Barwick; Wm Rennie, Toronto; John McMillan, Constance; John Jackson, Grahamsville.

The Late Gen. Logan.

Washington, Dec. 30.—At the Logan mansion this morning the remains still lay in the chamber where the General died, but had been placed in a casket. Floral pillows with funeral legends, crosses and anchors, and other appropriate emblems, were placed near the casket and about the room. At eleven o'clock the family were summoned, and for a brief time were left alone with the dead. Then the lids were fastened in place. The doors were opened, the widow, supported by her son, and followed by her daughter and her husband and other relatives and friends, entered. Mrs. Logan knelt sobbing at the head of the casket. When others had entered and the door had been closed the voice of the Pastor was raised in prayer. When prayer was finished the Congressional Committee took formal charge of the remains. The hearse was surrounded by platoons of Grand Army men in uniform, and followed by a long procession of carriages moved slowly to the Capitol. Arrived there the casket was placed upon a bier. At two o'clock the doors were again opened. The lid of the casket had been removed; military guards of honor, fully uniformed and accoutred, stood at rest at the head and feet and on either side of the casket, while lines of Grand Army men were drawn up from door to door between which the people passed to view the remains. The President has directed that while the remains are lying in state at the Capitol flags on public buildings in this city will be displayed at half-mast, and that they remain so until after the funeral.

RUMORED RUSSO-GERMAN ALLIANCE.

The Crown Prince of Germany and the Comte de Paris—Talk of German Annexation of Queensland—Gladstone on "Locksley Hall and the Queen's Jubilee."

London, Dec. 30, 3 p.m.

A German Scheme.

The Cologne Gazette advocates the founding of a large settlement of Germans in Queensland, in view of the eventual separation of that colony from England and its annexation to Germany. Such a movement, says the Gazette, is necessary to counterpoise the tendency of Australia to become possessed of the whole south seas.

The French Army.

The Paris Journal Officiel publishes Gen. Boulanger's re-appointments of Generals to the command of the French fortresses. They include the reappointment of Gen. Thibadeau to the Paris garrison, with the new title of Superior-in-Command of National Defence. Government organs deny that Gen. Boulanger has reduced his estimates for the military credit.

The French Press Laws.

A Paris despatch says:—In consequence of canards published about the Czar, which have caused great annoyance in St Petersburg, M. Flourens, Minister of Foreign Affairs, will move in the Chamber of Deputies that a clause be added to the French press laws providing for the punishment of such offences on complaint of the Ambassador from the aggrieved Government.

John Morley Replies to Mr. Dicey.

Mr. John Morley, writing in reply to Mr. Dicey's book on Ireland, argues that the question is not a theorem, but a problem, that it is not a matter of proving a thesis but of curing a malady. If Home Rule is too mischievous to be tolerated, so is everything else. A Crown colony is opposed to the union. Irish representation is opposed to the union. A Provincial Legislature on the model of the Legislature of Ontario and Quebec would be worse than repeal, and a Local Government would cure nothing and disturb everybody. Mr. Morley intends writing a second article.

A Russo-German Alliance.

The London Times' Paris correspondent affirms he has information from an undoubted source that Russia and Germany signed a direct alliance a fortnight ago. "The Czar," adds the correspondent, "was decided in taking this course by the attitude manifested towards Russia by Count Kalnoky, Austrian Minister of Foreign Affairs, and by the expectation that M. Floquet would be made Prime Minister of France." "This shows," concludes the correspondent, "that the reported alliance between Russia and France was but a chimera."

The Coming King of France.

Orleanist papers at Paris report that the Crown Prince of Germany and Comte de Paris recently met at Torto Fino, Italy, and breakfasted together. The papers say the Prince treated the Comte as the coming King of France and broached his ideas of ending the system of military armament in time of peace, which, he said, were rendering Europe unable to compete with American trade and agriculture. A writer in the Matin affirms the Prince further said:—"My accession will be a guarantee of peace, for it will mark the end of Bismarck's reign. Count Von Hatzfeldt will be made Chancellor and he will conclude an alliance between France, England and Germany."

Gladstone to the Laureate.

Mr. Gladstone in the Nineteenth Century on "Locksley Hall and the Jubilee," after praising the laureate's verse, deals with the teachings of the poem. Mr. Gladstone admits that no greater calamity could happen to a people than that of breaking utterly from its past. This applies, however, he says, more to the aggregate than the immediate past. In the first three decades of this century England won great military glory, but her industry was bought to the lowest point of degradation. With the history of these three decades he says the history of the last fifty years contrasts favorably. He expresses the hope that his article will show that England is still young, though old, and in her latest days has not been unworthy of herself. Justice, he adds, forbids that the jubilee of the Queen should be marred by tragic tones.

Cable Notes.

Herr Kantsk, leader of the Poles in the Reichstag, is dead.

The Imperial Government has decided to cede Port Hamilton to China.

Madame Bert totally denies that her husband, Paul Bert, was converted to the Catholic faith.

It is officially stated that a three per cent. dividend on the capital stock of the Canadian Pacific Railway will be payable in London on February 17th.

The Vienna Anarchists, Steudel, Szwarz and Ordreczk, have been sentenced, the first to five and the two last named to three years' imprisonment for forgery.

ONE DROWNED AND FIVE WILL DIE.

A Steamer Burned Just Out of the Harbor of St. John, N.B.—Terrible Sufferings of the Crew.

St. John, N B, December 30—The two-masted steamer, Sir John, which sailed Tuesday night at 10 30 o'clock, was, two hours later, burned just outside of the harbor. The first news was brought in by a passing schooner, which saw her on fire. Searching parties started out, and yesterday morning found the crew of 20 men huddled together in the snow on the rocks at Black Point. Their clothes were frozen to their bodies, and they were suffering terribly. They were brought to this city on sledges. It was found that five were so badly burned, including Capt. Furdy, the commander, that they cannot live. The fire broke out in the galley at midnight from an overturned lamp. The flames spread so rapidly that when the vessel was beached the pilot house, where the captain stood at the wheel, was in flames. John Sinclair, the steward, was drowned while swimming ashore. The rest got on land by a line carried ashore by the captain. The loss on the steamer, which was new, this being her third trip, was $20,000; insured for $6,000. The loss on the cargo is $50,000; insurance unknown.

A Double Suicide.

Boston, Mass., Dec 29.—Two girls, Sadie Biglow, age 18, and Lizzie Hart, 19, who came here from St John, N. B., two or three years ago, and who have been employed in dry goods houses here and New York, had a dispute with some young men here Christmas night, after which they went to their rooms, took poison, and died shortly after.

NORTH WEST NEWS.

Shocking Fatality on a C.P.R. Locomotive—Fire in Winnipeg—Killed by Over-Indulgence in Whiskey.

Winnipeg, December 30—A fire at an early hour yesterday morning destroyed Melland's boot and shoe store. Loss about $8,000.

It is stated that Mr. Andrew Mitchell of Montreal, and Mr. John Mather, of the Keewatin Lumbering Company, will construct an extensive flouring mill at Rat Portage.

The Lieutenant-Governor in Council has granted a charter to the Manitoba Railway Construction Company, it being applied for for the purpose of constructing and operating a line of railway from Winnipeg to Emerson. The object of the company is to secure the Local Government aid of $6,400 per mile and build the road, so far as possible, with local capital. The provisional directors are Messrs. G S. McKay, Peter M. Morrison (Toronto), Alex McIntyre, J. H. D. Munson and C. S. Hoare.

John Hill, a laborer, was found nearly dead from exposure in a shanty on William street yesterday morning. He was taken to the hospital, where he died shortly after. Whiskey caused the trouble.

A shocking and fatal accident occurred on an up-freight special on the eastern division of the C.P.R. on Monday night, two miles east of N pigon. A carpenter named Gordon, from Port Arthur, was riding on engine 269, together with Brakeman Frederick. Fireman Harry Brunell and Engineer Ramsay, when the crown sheet burst. The frightful rush of steam blew the three first-named men out of the engine on to the track, where they had to lie in the cold, with the temperature 40 below zero. All were terribly scalded and frozen. Gordon died two hours after with a broken back. The fireman had one leg broken, and was badly frozen on the face, hands and feet. The brakesman was badly scalded and smashed about the face, but was able to walk. The engineer escaped injury.

AN ALABAMA HORROR.

Burning of a Steamboat Used as a Boarding House — Twenty-two Lives Probably Lost.

Mobile, Ala., December 30.—The steamboat Bradish Johnson, used as a boarding house at Jackson, Ala., where the West Alabama Railroad bridge is building, was burned at 10 o'clock last night. Two whites, Otis McElroy, of Mobile, and Dan Milhouse, of New York, are missing; and two negroes, Lewis Adams and Ben Bush, were drowned. It is believed that ten others, all negroes, perished in the flames, and ten others were drowned.

Manitoba Furs.

Utica, N. Y., Dec. 29.—One day last week a car laden with furs was ferried across the St. Lawrence River at Brockville, transferred to the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railway, and afterwards sent to New York. The car came from Winnipeg, and the furs it contained were owned by the Hudson's Bay Company and valued at $71,000. The skins in the car represented the destruction of 137 bears, 65 silver foxes, 5,137 beavers, 800 foxes, 4,255 lynxes, 8 178 martens, 291 wolverines, 207 wolves, and a host of small animals. Another carload valued at over $60,000 passed through to New York a few days ago.

The Coroner will Investigate.

Philadelphia, Dec. 29. Dr. Formad, coroner's physician, is investigating the singular series of deaths in the family of Mrs. Mary Hart. Dr. English found on his return to the city from a four days' absence, that Mrs. Hart's new born infant, which was in full health when he last saw it, died on Monday night very suddenly and mysteriously. He also learned that it was the thirteenth child which Mrs. Hart had lost in the same way and at the same tender age. Under the circumstances he declined to give a certificate, and the coroner will hold an inquest on the body of the infant to-morrow.

A Premature Explosion.

Reading, Pa., Dec. 29.—A premature explosion of powder occurred in Lawrence, Brown & Co's. colliery at Trackville today. Thos. Fisher was so badly burned that he died. Richard Penn was badly burned, and Harry McCormick was hurled some distance and had an arm broken. Three Italians were frightfully burned and scalded.

CANADIAN WIRELETS.

The Ice bridge across the St. Lawrence at Montreal has now formed, all present danger of the city being inundated being consequently averted.

A disagreement over a financial question between the corporation of Montreal and the municipality of St. Gabriel has resulted in the arrangement for the latter's annexation to the city falling through for the present.

The Douglas Methodist Church on St. Catharine street West, Montreal, was broken into Tuesday night and a silver candlestick, a table cover, thirty yards of carpet and other articles stolen. There is no clue to the burglars.

Efforts are being made to have Sir John Macdonald and Messrs. Thompson, Foster and White make a tour of the Maritime Provinces before Parliament meets. It is undecided yet whether arrangements can be effected. A tour of Eastern Ontario by the Ministerial party is also being talked of.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has been notified by the Imperial Government that twelve eighty ton guns, for the defense of Victoria, B C., are now being constructed at the Woolwich arsenal, and that they will be ready for shipment and transportation over the road April next. Drawings for special cars requisite for their conveyance have been sent, and the cars are now being built by the company. It is also said that large consignments of war material will arrive in the same ship which brings the guns.

AMERICAN WIRELETS.

The Gloucester fishing schooner Richard K. Fox was wrecked at North Chatham, Mass., yesterday. The crew escaped.

All Philadelphia lager beer brewery employes struck yesterday morning, and 2,400 active workmen did not report for duty. The cause of the strike was the announcement of a reduction in wages.

W. A. Pinkerton says he has secured information as to the whereabouts of all the money stolen by the Frisco train robbers. The portion not captured in Chicago and Leavenworth was buried in five different States. Each of the locations had been designed by Witrock.

A special from Leavenworth, Kansas, states that Oscar Cook made a confession Wednesday in which he stated Featheringham, the express messenger, knew all about the plan to rob his car, and was a willing victim to the attack of the robber. He said he was promised $10,000 of the amount stolen.

EARTHQUAKE IN CANADA.

Two Hundred and Twenty five Years Ago—A Strange Convulsion of Nature.

In view of the recent shocks of earthquake at Charleston and elsewhere in the States of late, it is of interest to read of the last great convulsion of nature in the Valley of St. Lawrence. It was in 1661, two hundred and twenty five years ago, and the following account is taken from the records of the Jesuits at Quebec:—

"About half past five in the evening of the 5th February, a great noise was heard throughout all Canada, which terrified the inhabitants so much that they ran out of their houses. The roofs of their buildings were shaken with great violence, and the houses appeared as if falling to the ground. There were to be seen animals flying in all directions; children crying and screaming in the streets; men and women seized with affright stood horror struck with the dreadful scene before them, unable to move and ignorant where to fly for refuge from the danger. Some threw themselves upon their knees on the snow, crossing their breasts, and calling on the saints to deliver them from the danger by which they were surrounded. Others passed the rest of the dreadful night in prayer; for the earthquake ceased not, but continued at short intervals, with a certain undulating impulse, resembling the waves of the ocean, and the same sensations or sickness at the stomach, were felt during the shocks, as is experienced in a vessel at sea.

"The violence of the earthquake was greater in the forests, where it appeared as if there was a

for not only their branches were destroyed, but even their trunks are said to have been detached from their places, and dashed against each other with great violence and confusion—so much so that the Indians declared that all the trees were drunk. The war also seemed to be carried on between the mountains, some of which were torn from their beds and thrown upon others, leaving immense chasms in the places from whence they had issued, and the very trees with which they were covered sank down leaving only their tops above the surface of the earth; others were completely overturned, their branches buried in the ground and the roots only remaining above ground. During this wreck of nature, ice upwards of six feet thick was rent and thrown up in large pieces, there issued thick clouds of smoke, or and from the openings in many parts, fountains of dirt and sand, which spouted to a considerable height. The springs were either choked up or impregnated with sulphur; many rivers were totally lost; others were diverted from their course and their waters were entirely corrupted. Some of them became yellow, some red, and appeared entirely white as far down as Tadousac. This extraordinary phenomenon must astonish those who know the size of the river, and the immense body of water in various parts, which must have required such an abundance of matter to whiten it.

"They write from Montreal that during the earthquake they plainly saw the stakes of the palissades jump up as if they had been dancing; and that of two doors in the same room, one opened and the other shut of their own accord; that the chimneys and tops of the houses bent like branches of trees agitated by the wind; that when they went to walk they felt the earth following them, and rising at every step they took.

"From Three Rivers they write, that the first shock was the most violent, and commenced with a noise resembling thunder. The houses were agitated in the same manner as the tops of trees during a tempest, with a noise as if fire was crackling in the garrets. The shock lasted half an hour, or rather better, though its greatest force was probably not more than a quarter of an hour, and we believe there was not a single shock which did not cause the earth to open more or less.

"As for the rest, we have remarked, that though the earthquake

yet it was not always of an equal violence. Sometimes it was like the pitching of a large vessel which dragged heavily at her anchor, and it was this motion which occasioned many to have a giddiness in their heads. At other times, the motion was hurried and irregular, creating sudden jerks, some of which were exceedingly violent, but the most common was a slight, tremulous motion, which occurred frequently with little noise.

"At Tadousac the effect of the earthquake was not less violent than in other places; and such a heavy shower of volcanic ashes fell in the neighborhood, particularly in the River St Lawrence, that the waters were as violently agitated as during a tempest. Lower down, toward Point Alouettes, an entire forest of considerable extent was loosened from the shore and slid into the St. Lawrence.

"There are three circumstances which render this earthquake remarkable; the first, its duration, it having continued from February to August. It is true the shocks were not equally violent. The second circumstance relates to the extent of the earthquake. It was universal throughout the whole of New France from Gaspe, at the mouth of the St Lawrence, to beyond Montreal, also in New England, Acadia and other places more remote. It must, therefore, have extended more than 600 miles in length and 300 in breadth. Hence 180,000 square miles of land were convulsed in the same day and at the same moment. The third circumstance, which appears the most remarkable of all regards the extraordinary protection of Divine Providence, which was extended to the inhabitants, for while large chasms were opened in various places, and the whole face of the country was convulsed, yet there was not a single life lost, nor a single person harmed in any way."

The Cold Wave.

Ottawa, Dec. 30—The lowest points touched by the thermometer last night were:—Pembroke, 36° below zero; North Wakefield, Que., 34°; Maniwake, Que., 37°; Des Joachims, Q., 30°; Renfrew, Ont., 34°; Almonte, Ont., 29°; Ottawa, 27°; Mattawa, Ont., 26°; Pickanock, Q., 40°.

The necessity of adopting the most practical measures for preserving the health and improving the sanitary condition of the city is at present becoming very plain to the people. Mr. James Cowan has served as Chairman of the Board of Health, and has had occasion to become acquainted with what is best calculated for the purpose. By electing him as Mayor the electors can rely on having a practical man at the head of affairs. *

Where are you going? Well, I don't know, but I have been strongly advised by my many friends to go to A. E. Trebilcock's and order a suit and overcoat. They all say he will show you the largest assortment for suits and overcoats in the city. 235 Dundas street is his number. McBride is the cutter.

A GRAND TRUNK ORDER.

Employes Must not Hold Office Either Political or Municipal—How it affects Ald. Stringer.

A Windsor despatch states that a bombshell was exploded in the municipal arena there on Wednesday by the receipt of a notice from the G. T. R. authorities to the effect that all employes must either resign from the service or cease to seek or hold municipal office. This order practically disfranchises four employes of the Grand Trunk Railway in Windsor from the right of filling positions to which the voice of the people may elect them. Of course, the employes who may be nominated for municipal honors, will accept the alternative sooner than leave their employment, and will, through the force of necessity, resign.

The railway authorities here profess to have received no such circular, and do not believe anything of the kind has been issued. However, it can be stated on authority that may be relied upon—obtained despite the reticence of the railway authorities—that Mr. Samuel Stringer, who has served for many years as Alderman in No. 3 Ward, and who is again a candidate, has received official notification that he must either resign his candidature for that position or accept the consequences—a peremptory dismissal from the service of the Company. If Mr. Stringer desires to retain his situation, and it is altogether likely he does, his resignation as a candidate may be looked for immediately, and thus a contest for Aldermen will be averted in No. 3 Ward, as only four gentlemen accepted the nomination. The representatives elect will be Messrs. Joseph Hook, William Bowman and Benjamin Higgins.

This order might appear at the present juncture of affairs somewhat arbitrary and uncalled for, but when it is remembered that the order was promulgated on the old Grand Trunk over seventeen years ago by Mr. C. J. Brydges, then General Manager, and has never been rescinded, it will appear in a different light. Through the fusion the old Great Western employes became subservient to G.T.R rules, and this order was apparently enacted in order that the efficiency of the railway service could not be impaired by any possible conjunction of opposing political circumstances.

SUDDEN ANNOUNCEMENT.—We owe an apology for not advertising sooner our fresh arrivals of ladies' hand satchels and gentlemen's valises for Christmas presents, but we can safely say that in no other year have we shown a nicer and better selected stock than this. Ladies' hand satchels (plush and leather) in great variety from 40c to $8, and gentlemen's Club, Gladstone, Salisbury currier valises; barristers' briefs, doctors' surgical bags from $1 75 to $40. Trunks in all kinds and prices.—ALEX. JOHNSTON & Co, Leather Merchants, 351 Richmond st.

The managers of the Windsor Electric Railway assert that their recent suspension of operations is only an incident almost inevitable to a new enterprise of the kind. They have utilized the time to make some repairs and to duplicate every portion of the machinery which can possibly break. They are confident that operation of the road will not hereafter be interrupted in any weather.

Already Mr. James Cowan is being very favorably spoken of as the best candidate for the Mayoralty. The ratepayers desire to have a good reliable business man placed at the head of municipal affairs, and such is Mr. Cowan. *

It is generally believed that a sound, practical business man, who is successful in his own private affairs, is the person best adapted to superintend the management of matters affecting a community. Such is the case with Mr. James Cowan, the present candidate for Mayor. *

FREE PRESS CORRESPONDENCE.

Per Cental.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—Will you be kind enough to give the meaning of the word per cental in your market list, so that the farmers will know the meaning. We are used to bushels and pounds. Yours, A SUBSCRIBER.

ANS.—The term per cental means per 100 lbs. or per cwt. By the 100 pounds is the legal way of selling grain in this country.

An Inconsistent Youth.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—I see by this morning's FREE PRESS that a number of the members of the "Riel-Laurier-Blake Club" have been acting in a most ungentlemanly manner. Among other names I notice that of Thos Reid, son of the Collector of Customs in this city.

On the night of Laurier's meeting this verdant youth was one of the "gallant Rielites" who undertook to throw out the Young Conservatives. Amid froth and foam he loudly condemned the action of that body as cowardly, ungentlemanly and low. It is not necessary to make a contrast, as that is to be found in the letter of "Young Canadian" "Consistency, thou art a jewel." Yours, BREVITY.

London, Dec. 30, 1886.

Another One Sorry.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

DEAR SIR,—Among the names of the young Grit hoodlums who so disgracefully, and with such an utter lack of manliness, serenaded Mr. Meredith's residence last Tuesday night, I was much pained and surprised to see the name of Master Thos. Reid, the young son of my old and esteemed friend, Mr. Robert Reid, Collector of Customs. Master Reid is a law student in the office of Mr. James Magee, one of our prominent Reformers in this city, and by his childish and ungentlemanly action on the night in question, has brought disgrace, not only on his own family, but also on the law office in which he is employed. Let us charitably hope that Master Reid was led astray by a foolish enthusiasm, which he now must be heartily ashamed of, and that he and the other rowdies will publicly apologise for their misbehavior. Yours truly,

Who is to Blame?

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—I have had a good deal to do in the past in connection with city affairs and claim some credit for assisting in enterprises which have been of advantage to it. I have always supported and promoted railroads coming into the city, because I felt that in order to make London a centre of business it was necessary to concentrate all the railway interests possible in it. London for years has had more railway accommodation than any city in the Dominion, and these roads have, by the large amount of money expended in wages, greatly contributed to make London what it is to-day.

The city is financially largely interested in these roads, having invested over one million of dollars to advance these interests. And it will not do to allow these interests to be removed from London to Stratford without making a strenuous effort to prevent such an injury as that would be to the city. Stratford is too near London to have built up a large thriving city at our expense, which will be the case if the G.T. Railway workshops be located there.

After the amalgamation of the G T. and G.W. Railways took place, Mr. Hickson, with his staff of officers, visited London. In company with the then Mayor, Mr. E Meredith, waited upon him, and in complying with our request, increased the workmen in their shops from 200 to 500, and continued that number up to the time the shops were burned. He also stated that when the locomotive works were removed from Hamilton it was his opinion, and that of his associates, that they should be located in London. This would have increased the number of workmen to at least 1,000, and made it necessary to build large shops.

Now the question is, who is to blame for not having these shops located here? I think that the citizens themselves are largely to blame. The course taken by leading citizens against the road has no doubt created unpleasant feelings and an impression that there exists in the city a spirit of hostility to the Company. The encouragement given to competing lines, notably the London Junction, South-eastern and other foolish schemes, the neglect to furnish water for the shops in London East according to agreement, which caused them to be burned, and the absence of any proposition from the Council regarding the workshops, the tone of discussion, and the course taken by some citizens no doubt has led the company to the conclusion that the assistance offered at other points for the construction of the works would not be secured in London.

The Mayor said in the City Hall on Monday that the Company never intended to bring the locomotive shops to London. I am sorry that the Mayor should think in this way after all that has passed in this matter. I believe that Mr. Hickson had waited for two months to receive an offer from the city. I am satisfied that if the proper measures had been taken by the Joint Committee of the Board of Trade and the Council in the early part of the year all the works, including the locomotive, could have been secured for London. M. ANDERSON.

London, Dec. 30, 1886.

GEORGE! GEORGE! when you are down in the city to-day run into W. H. Trebilcock's Silk and Corset House, 150 Dundas street, and get me a pair of those elegant Nursing Corsets, only $1 35 a pair. I can't get along with this miserable thing I had made to order; and while you are there bring home a pair of their fine Gold colored Sateen, size 20, only 50 cents a pair. Remember, George, at Trebilcock's; I can't get a perfect fitting corset anywhere else in the city. American silver taken at par. *

The lack of railway competition has served to retard the growth and development of the city. Mr. James Cowan, if elected as Mayor, will assist materially in bringing to a successful consummation the proposed connection with the leading railway lines of this continent. *

THE MICHIGAN CENTRAL BONUS.

Ratepayers' Meeting in its Favor in No. 5 Ward Last Night.

Convincing and Clear Statements by Mayor Hodgens and E. Cronyn—Murray Anderson Opposed to the Bonus—He is shown up as a Tool of the Grand Trunk—J. W. Little also Sits on Him.

A meeting in the interest of the $75,000 bonus by law to provide station facilities and grounds for the Michigan Central Railroad in this city was held in the Fifth Ward Town Hall last night. The temperature of the building was below the freezing point, and the comparatively small number of ratepayers who were induced to remain edged up close around the hot air register with their caps and overcoats on. On the platform Mayor Hodgens, Messrs. W. J. Reid, B. Cronyn, J W. Little, Ald. Bartlett and Garrett suffered sociably together and blew their fingers to keep the circulation up.

Mayor Hodgens presided, and in his opening remarks referred to the posters distributed in the hall as giving full information on the railway question. The meeting to-night was to explain matters a little more fully. They had passed a bonus of $75,000 for the London and South-eastern, which bonus had never been used, and now they came back to the people and asked leave to apply that bonus on the station and grounds of the Canada Southern Railway. The C. S R. had arranged with the Grand Trunk for running rights over the road, and would pay $8,000 a year as rent of the buildings, leaving not more than $375 for the city to pay as the total cost of such connection. The agreement was to stand for six years, and there was no doubt that at the end of the six years the L. & P. S. R would come back to the city, and the station, if the G. T. R. did not want to renew the lease, would be available for the C. S. R., and so the railroad would not be idle a moment. He asked all interested in the cause of labor to come out in support of this scheme, the cost of which would not be felt by the city, and which would give us a new route to and from the European markets, and the best connection possible with New York. It would also give us a valuable competing coal line and result in a reduction in the price of coal. To get the Canada Southern into this city we had at one time been willing to offer the Grand Trunk a reduction in the rental of the L. & P. S. road, the members of the committee favoring the offer of a reduction of $5,000 a year; but the Canada Southern people had effected the arrangement without costing the city a cent. He had no doubt of the bonus being carried if the friends of railroad competition did their duty. He wished to correct a mistaken impression that had got abroad, that the Car Shops were lost to the city. The Committee had done every thing they could, and the members were as anxious to retain the Shops as any of the ratepayers could be, and they had agreed to offer a bonus of $200,000 to have them rebuilt. He believed the opportunity was not taken away from London yet. At Stratford, Mr. Hickson had only decided to put an addition to the present Shops, at a cost equal to the bonus granted. With us it stood in this position:—It would cost $110,000 to rebuild the shops, according to plans now in Mr. Hickson's possession, and $60,000 of that sum was recovered as insurance on the burned buildings, while the balance could be made up by a bonus. London had a claim on this money paid for insurance on the former buildings, and while we could not compel the Grand Trunk to rebuild their works, and it was better not to get at loggerheads with them, the agreement under which the Port Stanley road was leased was still in force. The more workmen we got the better, and he hoped and felt confident that the new Council would leave no stone unturned to get the shops. Mr. Hickson left it in such a way that it was yet in our power to get the works, and if we stuck together we could get them.

Mr. B. Cronyn said it was just a year since he had the pleasure of addressing them on the important subject of railways. The London & South-Eastern Railroad Company having abandoned the line proposed by them, for the good reason that the opportunity of connection with the C.P.R system was consummated without any great expense to the city. When this was obtained it was suggested by Mr. Ledyard, of the Canada Southern or Michigan Central Railroad, that an effort be made to get access for their road to the city. His efforts in this direction were so far successful that he had obtained running powers over the L & P. S. R. at a fair rate, and without cost to the city, and what he now asked us to do was to provide the capital necessary to furnish station buildings and terminal grounds for the Michigan Central here, on which the railway company would pay the interest, or nearly the full interest, and the absolute title to the property would be vested in the city. It was not a bonus they were asked to vote on, it was a loan simply, and the Railway Committee were the stewards who would see that the property purchased would be a fair bargain for the city, and after it was purchased it would remain the property of the city. The important requisite in this matter was to get a full vote polled to carry the by-law, and the results would place London in the most favored position regarding railroads of any city in Canada, with direct connection with the three great systems, the Grand Trunk, the C. P R., and the Michigan Central, the latter of which possessed advantages not excelled by either of the other two.

Mr. Murray Anderson then mounted the platform in response to an invitation from the Mayor. He announced his intention of voting against the by-law, and requested all citizens to oppose it, too, as the advantages asked for were unnecessary and unfair. He was not opposed to railroads, as he was the projector of most of those now possessed by the city. He could not see the advantage it would be to the city for the Canada Southern to have running powers over the Port Stanley road, and had no hesitation in saying it would be a positive injury to the road and to the city, as the C. S. R. could not be considered a competing line, and would not bring any new business to the city, but would divide the present business between the C S. R. and our own road, and would build up St. Thomas at our expense, putting about ten men there to do the business of the road, and for this the Company asks the citizens to vote them $75,000 to build a new depot. I think this is a cool piece of absurdity, particularly when you remember that in five years the lease of the road expires, and the road then, with the depot and all the land, reverts back to the city. Then, what will you do with the $75,000 depot? I hope the citizens will, on Monday, vote the by-law down. I hope, also, that the London and Port Stanley R. R. will not be mixed up in any way with other roads till after the lease expires with the G. T. R. It is a splendid property and getting better and more valuable every day, and if well managed will prove a protection to the city's interest against monopoly for all time to come. The last year I was President of the road, before it was leased to the G. W. R., I managed to liquidate an old debt of seventeen years' standing, of $308,000, against the Company. Part of this debt was in the shape of a judgment, and had it not been paid at the time, the road would probably have been sold. This was about all the debt against the road except the first and second mortgage bonds held by the city—about $600,000—and this debt being settled, adds to the value of the city bonds over $200,000, which makes them a first-class asset to the city. He went on to point out that by the London & Port Stanley line and lake propellers plying between the Port and Montreal, the city could have again what it used to enjoy—almost direct connection with the European markets—and goods laid down here cheaper than they could be laid down in Hamilton or Toronto. He accused the Mayor of springing the matter on the people, and said it would be better to bonus the Car Shops than to bonus this road. The Mayor was responsible to a large extent for the Car-works not being rebuilt. Mr. Hickson had waited this spring in Montreal to get an offer from the city, and if he had got it the shops and Locomotive Works would probably be built here too. London East had not been fairly treated in this respect. If His Worship had gone to see Mr. Hickson when he was urged to go, the matter would have been settled.

A voice—Has it not been left open for six years?

Mr. Anderson—Yes.

Mayor Hodgens denied the statements of Mr. Anderson flatly. He had taken action as soon as Mr. Hickson notified him, and the Council and Committee had used every effort to get the matter settled. Mr. Hickson had delayed the answer to our proposal for nearly three months, and then said no.

Mr Anderson read a letter from Mr. Hickson to prove that he was ready to discuss the question before he saw the deputation, but Mr. Hodgens said the date of the letter (August 8) was after the deputation had waited on him. It was while Mr. Hickson was at the seaside, and they were pressing him for an answer to their proposal, that he wrote to Mr. Anderson trying to prevent the passing of the C. P. R. bonus and to keep the city without competing lines. His Worship referred to the time when the L. & P. S. Railroad was in Mr. Anderson's hands as a bad time for the road, which was in a disgraceful state, and hoped the city would never see such a hot-bed of iniquity again. He concluded by asking all in favor of the by-law to stand up.

About two-thirds of the people in the hall responded. When His Worship put the negative, only one man stood up after hesitating a little.

The Mayor then said—I will call it unanimous.

Mr. Anderson—Only five voted for it. (Laughter)

Mr. J. W. Little said he had opposed the Mayor in his public life, but could not but endorse his action in the railway matters, where His Worship had been prompt and energetic and prudent in looking after the city's interests, spending both his time and money. In reply to Mr. Anderson, he pointed out that the Grand Trunk had a separate lease of the station buildings for 99 years, so, even if they gave up the L & P. S Railroad, the new buildings would be required. He ridiculed the idea that ten men could do the work of the road, when the buildings in the city alone would require more than that number to look after them. The opening of the country along the Canada Southern east and west of St. Thomas would be a good thing for London business men, and would draw trade to the city. It would also reduce the price of coal 50 cents a ton, and prevent manufacturers from leaving the city. Of the bonus asked $51,000 was to be spent in land, so even if it had to be sold again, which was most unlikely, it would realize what was paid for it. If the Grand Trunk lease were renewed, the C. S. R. agreement would also be renewed for the same time. He concluded by recommending the by law to the people as a most economical means of securing a decided advantage for the city.

The meeting then broke up.

New Year in London.

Good resolutions for the New Year are now in order. The most popular of which is.—I am resolved henceforth and forever to have no dealings with self-styled corn doctors, or preparations sold in imitation of the "Sure Corn Cure" (by whatever name known), but to use only the "Sure Corn Cure" Manufactured by W. S. Barkwell, Chemist. Our readers can find hundreds in this city anxious to testify to the virtues of this preparation. *

There were nearly 500 ballots tendered at the election at Ottawa on Tuesday by persons whose names did not appear on the voters' list, and who swore that they were omitted by mistake. These tendered ballots have not been counted yet, nor will they be unless a recount is demanded, when the Judges will examine into the right of each person tendering.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a highly concentrated and powerful medicine. It is an anodyne expectorant, and, if promptly taken, in cases of Coughs, Throat or Lung troubles, soothes and heals the irritated tissues, and quickly allays all tendency to Consumption.

Six years ago, I contracted a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs, and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a Cough, Night Sweats, Bleeding Lungs, Pain in my Chest and Sides, and was so completely prostrated, as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, am now as well and sound as ever.—Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family, for Colds and Coughs, with infallible success, and should not care to be without this medicine through the winter months.—Russel Bodine, Hughesville, Lycoming Co., Pa.

MR. BLAKE'S TALK.

Mr. D. Mills says in his paper that the Conservative party have "no man who can talk like Mr. Blake." Perhaps it would be hard to find a politician who can talk so well and to so little purpose. That Mr. Blake is a talker, few will gainsay. He is as loquacious as his political ways are devious. His conclusions are often reached by routes the most opposite and circumlocutory. When people think him on the way to Nineveh he is making an adventurous passage to Tarshish. He told us at the Rink here in a round multitude of words how he would scorn to make a political platform of the Regina scaffold; yet in three weeks he was at Ottawa, cheek by jowl with M. Laurier, constructing that very platform. He told the workingmen at Toronto that a succession tax, whereby every man who inherited a foot of land would have to pay a juicy fee to the state, was the grand panacea, yet dashed all their hopes by declaring that he could not impose it, but some other body. And so when he told the gudewives of Bruce that it took seven yards of cotton to make the gudeman a shirt, they could see at once that Mr. Blake was a talker, not a practical man. Nor is his talk original. He constructs nothing out of the peculiar elements of Canadian life and business for the public good, but strives to adapt doctrines from other lands, introduces fallacies long exploded as veritable wisdom cold drawn from the gods. His tax theory is the invention of doctrinaires of whom Mr. George is at present a prominent apostle, just as the theory of minority representation, proposed by him a few years ago, was the conception of Mr. Hare. Mr. Blake meets an idea in his readings, is struck with it, puts it on the mental turn-spit, takes some opportunity of making a speech upon it, and then quietly drops it, with the evident relief and gladness of one who emits some conglomeration of indigestible particles from the epigastrium. He seems satisfied with having talked on a subject. It has to the uninitiated a smack of learning, and gives scope for long strings of rhetorical mother-of-pearl. But after he gets through who is instructed, whose longings for new light are satisfied? who feels that there is in it anything at all that an honest, wayfaring man may cling to? When Sir John speaks even for a few minutes, everyone realizes the practical bent of his address; they can feel a strong hand working consistently and faithfully for their welfare. His ideas are coherent, and so straight and clear that all know at once that if what he says be realized, there is a solid gain to the country, to the community. But with Mr. Blake it is all talk, talk, talk, grumble, grumble, grumble. No one feels that any of the darkness has been dispersed, but on the contrary that the prospect is blacker for all. Nothing is right, not one gleam of light anywhere. He gives nothing for drowning men to hold by, while Sir John, like a brave and trusty boatman, casts out ropes and buoys in every quarter, with words of cheer and hope. Were Mr. Blake even tolerably accurate in the matters of fact which he attempts to treat of, occasional flights into the empyrean might be overlooked, as it is the attribute of vapors to fly upwards. But even in this line of debate his industry is of the second-hand order. He rose in the House last session with a ream of foolscap in hand, and turned over sheet after sheet for seven dreary and wretched hours, when they contained nothing but a record of the North-west agitation, which now turns out to have been based not on the eviction of settlers, as alleged, but on Louis Riel's claim for $5,000 against the Government. All these dry and dusty documents have been set at naught and fully exploded. It was all talk, talk. It turns out that these so-called "facts" were furnished Mr. Blake by Mr. M. C. Cameron, of Huron, now noted all over Canada as the champion Ananias. But does Mr. Blake apologize for having thus been the instrument of abusing public confidence? Not at all. He simply says, Well, the facts are not mine; they were given to me by some other man, and if they are not right, he is to blame, not I. Mr. Blake can talk, and say many things in quite glittering language, investing his topics with numerous and ponderously eloquent periods, whenever he shall lean out of the little intellectual paradise which he has constructed for himself with a more or less inaccurate brief in his hands. But that is not what the people want. They seek something tangible and that makes for their benefit. Mr. Blake came forward with the "water-stretch policy" for the C P R.—little bits of railway joining large quantities of water. How ridiculous such a scheme sounds in comparison with the great fact that has been accomplished by Sir John, a continuous line of 3,000 miles, stocked with the best engines and cars in the world, a road already subsisting by the traffic which it has created, but which Mr. Blake had predicted would not pay for the axle grease used. And so with the National Policy. Sir John has proven to be right and practical, and Mr. Blake wrong and impractical. What Mr. Blake condemned is found to be the very thing that the people of all classes of labor have profited by, and want to see continued. And thus it is, that while Mr. Blake talks, Sir John acts, and acts so clearly and pointedly in the public interests that it is no wonder he remains to-day the most popular man in Canada, while Mr. Blake is regarded as a talker only, a visionary, and mere retailer of second-hand economical nostrums.

"MY TOWN" ROSS.

At the Glencoe meeting on Tuesday, the 21st, when the school question was under debate between Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, and Mr. J. L. Hughes, of Toronto, Mr. Ross, being rather worsted in argument, did what no public man is justified in doing, lost his temper, and indulged in language unbecoming a gentleman. He had already called in question the right of Mr. Hughes to discuss on public platforms the character and direction of the text books used in our schools, and threatened that when the School Inspectors of this Province were made "officers of the Government"—which is a part of Mowat's centralizing policy—a summary check would be put to this privilege on their part. He intimated that the gag would be used in that case to good account. He further twitted Mr. Hughes with having been once employed on the editorial staff of the Gage series, and being thereby a prejudiced witness—a reminder which came with an ill grace from Mr. G. W. Ross, who was himself not only an Inspector of Model Schools, as a special appointee of the Mowat Government, but in that capacity had stumped the country in favor of the adoption of the Gage series, as the paid employe of that firm of publishers. It will be seen how easily under these circumstances, Mr. Ross, on becoming Minister of Education, reconciled to his own conscience the proposal to compensate this firm for real or imaginary losses in business. But his ill-temper at Glencoe led Mr. Ross into a still more glaring exposure of his dictatorial and domineering spirit. When pressed closely by Mr. Hughes, Mr. Ross rose angrily, and said:—

"This gentleman is the Inspector of Public Schools in Toronto. It is disreputable of him to talk to a sworn Minister of the Crown in this way. From the platform of my town (Strathroy) he would be pulled down and put out of doors."

This outburst of impotent rage was of course received with the utmost ridicule. Mr. Ross sat down amid a storm of hisses. The idea that no one who held opinions differing from those of Mr. G. W. Ross could get a hearing in Strathroy, seemed too absurd to the Liberal electors of Glencoe. And the results of the election do not confirm Mr. Ross' assumption of superior authority in the town of Strathroy, which gave a majority of seven against him. How, then, can Strathroy be called by Mr. Ross "my town?" The electors there pulled him down and put him out of doors politically in good style. So did the good people of the other centres of intelligence in the West Riding—Glencoe, by 45 majority; Delaware, by 35; Newbury and Wardsville. All these important places, where the LONDON FREE PRESS is so well circulated, pulled Mr. Ross down from his political platform, and hustled him out of doors in a manner which must have opened his eyes. Where did he get his support? Not in the heart of the constituency, where the people are able to see him clearly as he is—a little scholastic tyrant—but in the remote country parts, where he spends so much of his time spouting at tea meetings and soft sawdering the women! This is the secret of Mr. Ross' standing in the Riding, not the intelligent support of men versed in public affairs. Yet he has the face to speak of Strathroy—where he is in a minority—as "my town." If Strathroy was ever Mr. Ross' town, it is so no longer. It has been redeemed from his political grasp. He but insults the residents of that town when he intimates that no man—School Inspector or otherwise—who presumes to contradict him—Mowat's Mighty Minister, the ex-School Inspector—would get a fair hearing, but would be "pulled down and put out of doors."

THE USE WE PUT THEM TO.

"My object all sublime
Shall be achieved in time
To make the punishment fit the crime—
The punishment fit the crime."

A sense of the fitness of things not less keen than that of Mr. Gilbert's "Mikado," says the N. Y. Times, has evidently inspired the Dominion authorities to turn the confiscated American schooner High land Light into a cruiser. Her crime was that of unlawfully fishing in Canadian waters, and her punishment, in addition to having been condemned and sold, will be that of watching to seize other vessels engaged in the same forbidden occupation. For this purpose her name is hereafter to be Vigilant, perhaps in perpetual satire upon the lack of watchfulness which brought her to her present fate, as well as in reminder of what she is expected to become for the future. This vessel, which was bid in by the Government when sold by the Admiralty Court, is the second American craft acquired this year by the Dominion authorities for use in its coast service.

INCREASING RECOGNITION.

Proofs are daily multiplying of the extent to which the Canadian Pacific Railway is being recognized in Europe as the best avenue to Japan and eastern countries. A correspondent of the London Times, writing from Ikao, Japan, says:—

"Competition, allied with steam and steel, is fast operating to lessen the enormous distance which separates Japan from Europe. Already, with ordinary luck, the traveller who does not tarry may reach Tokio from London, by way of North America, in thirty days. Soon he will be able to do so in twenty-four or twenty-five days, by way of Montreal and Port Moody."

It is reasonable to presume that just as it will become the route of travellers, it will also become the channel for great volumes of commerce. The immense quantity of tea shipped over the road during the year 1886 is but the beginning of great and increasing business in the future. And yet the Grit press have laughed at the prospects of Asiatic trade, and pronounced it a "vision."

PROGRESSIVE DEMOCRACY.

Henry George, who was to lecture in London on Christmas night, is a fanatic on the theory of land ownership. In one of the works which he has published he is specially strong in pointing out the weak places in our civilization, and draws the conclusion that poverty and suffering is the normal condition of modern civilization. But this is only relative; it is no hardship to be poor—that is, to have only a sufficiency of food and clothing, with nothing left to expend upon luxuries. Mr. George, like most other agitators, tries to impose an impossible problem on society, and that is that the total productive energies of a community can be equalized. Because every man has not got as much as another has not been brought about by the principles of modern civilization, considered in their economic aspects, so much as by the difference in the intellectual capacity of the individual, and from a true sense of what constitutes wealth. The production of the first necessaries of life, the bread and butter of society, is the true wealth of a nation, and there should be more producers. Where do you find men treading on each other's toes? In the cities and towns, which are fairly congested with a surplus population. Thus Mr. George has offered nothing practical to the solution of the question of poverty. Will the plan proposed by Mr. Henry George relieve the congestion of overcrowded cities? On the contrary, he can only intensify it, for he would make land an undesirable investment from the fact that he proposes to place all the taxes of Government upon the land. He would remove the tariff, exempt personal property, improvements on the land, and everything else would fall under the general category of making every man equal. George's argument is that God made the land for the use of the people, and that no single man has a right to appropriate a portion of it, and then the additional value which comes to land from individual effort is to be taken as taxes for the whole community. In fact, the whole economic rent of the land would go for taxes, because they belong to the people as a whole and not to the individual. Now, what would be the result of this? The bulk of the taxes would fall upon farm lands. For though building lots in the cities and towns may be a thousand times more valuable than the same extent of property in the country, yet the vast extent of the latter makes its rental several thousand times greater than that of the former; consequently, farm life would thus become less remunerative, perhaps cease even to yield a decent living; then the rush to the city would become intensified. The dissatisfied laboring men of the town would suddenly find their ranks swollen by an army of new competitors, causing wages to fall in proportion to the competition. On the whole the vast majority of men are better off, better fed, better clothed, better housed, than they ever were, and a peep into London market and to the business centres of the city this Christmastide would fully prove this. If there are a better off people than Canadians at the present time they should be heard from. The ills of society are incidental and do not belong to the body politic. You can't change the nature of a man if you give him all the property in the country. Mr. Henry George's theory of land naturalization is nothing short of reducing our present society to primeval savagery, or the condition of North America when Columbus first set foot on this continent.

Chatham Planet:—The Advertiser advises every man in London, whether he has a vote or not, to go to the polls and tender it. That is Mr. Mills' idea of election purity. If Mr. Meredith's proposal for manhood suffrage had been carried out every man would have had a vote.

The Woodstock Sentinel has a headline in which the following appears:—

"THE BIBLE BRIGADE FROZEN OUT."

"MOWAT AGAIN RETURNED."

A great triumph, indeed, and a wonderful subject for rejoicing, that the supporters of the Bible in the schools have been overthrown.

The Mayor of Windsor has issued a circular to the General Committee and those who have promised to subscribe to the Queen's Jubilee Fund in the Royal borough, stating that the entertaining of the poor and their children will involve a very large outlay, as the district will include all parishes within a radius of six miles of Windsor. It is intended by the inhabitants of Windsor and Eton to hold a grand carnival and Venetian fete, to last several days, including elaborate illuminations of the river.

MINOR TELEGRAMS

THE DOMINION.

Hon. J. J. C. Abbott has been tendered and has accepted the nomination as Mayor of Montreal.

The total value of property in Montreal exempted from taxation this year amounts to 15¼ millions.

Rev. Mr. Scoular, pastor of the Erskine Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, has accepted a call to New Westminster, B. C.

Some very dangerous counterfeit ten dollar bills of the Canadian Bank of Commerce are in circulation in the Ottawa district.

Ald. James O'Brien has decided to retire from the contest for the Hamilton Mayoralty, leaving the field clear for the re-election of Mayor McKay.

Judge Jette gave judgment yesterday in the case of Mrs. Langevin vs. the Montreal Herald for an alleged libelous article which appeared in that paper. The court ordered defendants to pay plaintiff $100 damages and costs of action.

B. Dubois, one of three men who were severely injured by being knocked over by an engine on the Canadian Pacific Railway at Montreal on Wednesday, has died from effects of same. The other two are still unconscious and in a critical condition.

The cold spell at Montreal culminated in a reading 20 degrees below zero yesterday. At Mount Royal Vale it was 22 below, and at Cote St. Paul 23. The river has taken finely, and road making is going on vigorously. The water is still rising at Lachine.

The Court of Review, at Montreal, yesterday dismissed an action for fire insurance against the Stanstead Company on the ground that the policy had become cancelled by the fact that the building had afterwards been insured with another company without giving notice to the Stanstead, as required by the policy.

The Dominion Government has decided to appeal to the Supreme Court from judgment recently pronounced in the Exchequer Court by Judge Henry, to the effect that the Federal authorities had not a good title to the land in the railway belt in British Columbia, on the ground that the Provincial Legislature never made a proper transfer.

News has been received that Mgr. Morean, Bishop of St. Hyacinthe, Que., now in Rome, has been elevated to the dignity of Roman Court Assistant to the Pontifical Throne by the Pope. The privileges of this dignity are, in brief, the right of precedence over other bishops of chanting mass in Papal chapels, of assisting the Pope in his duties, of having a place in the chapels near the throne, and lastly, of watching the conclave.

THE UNITED STATES.

Gen. W. W. Loring Pasha, formerly of the U S. Army and the Confederate Army, and later the commander of Loring's corps in the Egyptian Army, died at New York of pneumonia last evening.

At the new armory building at Nanticook, Pa., yesterday, a scaffold upon which five men were at work gave way, and the men were precipitated to the ground, 40 feet below. All the men were seriously hurt, being terribly cut and bruised. Two are fatally injured.

FIRE FLASHES.

St. John, N.B., December 31.—The Waverley Hotel at Fredericton was badly gutted by fire early this morning. The inmates were all asleep when the alarm was given, and many of them barely escaped with their lives. The flames had made considerable headway before they were discovered. The loss will be very heavy, as there was only $2,450 insurance on the building and its contents.

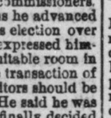
A year ago Jacob Michels and May Sheehan, both members of St. Patrick's Church in Louisville, in opposition to the wishes of their parents, ran away and were married. The marriage proved a happy one, and all concerned were soon reconciled, but the young folks found that they had violated the rules of the Church, and were outside the fold. Father Lawler told them if they would offer suitable apologies and be married by a priest they could be reinstated. After much hesitation they accepted the conditions, and the other evening there was a second wedding, and Mr. and Mrs. Michels are safe in the Church again.

Fred Appel, an old man of 75 years, lived for over fifty years in St. Louis, and owned several houses. Last spring the Health Department notified him that he must make sewer connections on his property. He said that he had lived fifty years without them, and didn't see why he should make them now. After sending him several notices, the department the other day ordered him to begin work at once. Then the old man went down cellar and hanged himself by the neck until he was dead.

THE BEAUTY OF THE FACE.

It May be Preserved by Exercising the Muscles.



I know something much better than paint for preserving a youthful appearance in the face, writes Clara Bell. It is very simple, and is suggested by the massage treatment for removing superfluous flesh. In this case the object is, in a measure, to restore wasted flesh, or rather to prevent waste. Wrinkles, the surest mark of approaching age, and the hardest to eradicate or conceal are due to the gradual wearing away of flesh underneath the cuticle. Why does it wear away? Because the facial muscles have either too little or the wrong kind of exercise. It will be observed that wrinkles usually take a downward course. This is due to the wrong kind of exercise. What exercise? Why, the washing and wiping of the face, to be sure. Not that I am going to advocate the discontinuance of this salutary and wholesome exercise; I simply suggest a change in the method. Instead of rubbing the face down in washing and wiping, always rub upward. This will have the effect of counteracting the influence of the flesh to depart from under the cuticle, and will keep the flesh free from wrinkles. It is rather an awkward habit to acquire at first, but perseverance will make it second natures, and the result is worth many pains. This exercise is designed particularly for the benefit of the eyes and upper portion of the cheeks. For the lower and middle portion, where hollowness is often noted rather than wrinkles, but sometimes both, there is another plan. The facial muscles are subjected to very slight activity in the ordinary exertions of eating and talking. To fill the cheeks out, plump and round it is necessary to develop the muscles there. These muscles are very slight at the best, and any special effort well directed will increase them in capacity and size. An excellent exercise for this purpose is this: Take a piece of soft leather kid, or chamois skin will do, and put the end of it between the teeth; then chew gently upon it for several minutes, taking care not to raise the teeth from the leather. If the teeth are raised it will bring into play only the ordinary muscles of mastification, whereas the purpose is to develop those that are seldom used. One who tries this method will find the cheek going through a queer action that is anything but graceful and pretty; nevertheless it is immensely effective, and will restore to its youthful plumpness even the most hollow cheeks of the decrepit sexagenarian. Those in middle life or those who are just beginning to feel the approach of age will find this plan especially valuable. Its beauty does not recommend it, but its simplicity does.

As Chairman of the Finance Committee Mr. James Cowan gained a thorough insight into the several departments of city business, and can utilize that knowledge to the great advantage of the people if elected. Vote for him.

Mrs. Champagne, of St. Louis, has not known where her father was for years. The other day an old gentleman called and said he was her long-lost parent. He showed such a surprising knowledge of the family that she believed him. He told her that he had made a fortune of $8,000,000 in the far West, and now that he had found his heir he would die happy. It was a touching meeting, and the only drawback to the old man's happiness was the fact that it was after banking hours, and he was out of cash. Then his dutiful daughter loaned him $15, and pretty soon he stepped out. Mrs. Champagne has not seen him since, neither has she seen her son's beaver overcoat nor his gold watch and chain.

Mr. James Cowan, the popular candidate for the Mayoralty, has enjoyed a long period of services in the City Council. This entitles him to consideration at the hands of the ratepayers.

A Hint to Silence.

Spread straw and tanbark on the street,
Let not a single church bell ring,
Put shoes of list on horses' feet,
And muffle every noisy thing.
Throttle the man who lifts his voice,
Let every throat be cold and numb;
In silence, secret thought rejoice,
Let all the world be deaf and dumb.

O, gracious Silence, at thy throne
With voiceless lips we kiss the dust;
Thy noiseless reign with joy we own,
And hail thy speechless judgments just.
For past is our Election Day;
We tell thee with our grateful tears:
Send us no other one, we pray,
For eighteen hundred thousand years.

A CARDINAL SIN.

BY HUGH CONWAY.

Allan left the shop and walked as fast as he could in the direction of "The Shrubbery." He would have run at his top speed, but he did not wish to attract the attention of the villagers. He was soon at the fence which surrounded the garden of the cottage. He glanced up and down the road, and seeing no one, placed his hands on the top of the palings, drew himself up and looked over. He was none the wiser for so doing, as a thick hedge hid everything inside from sight. He dropped back on the road, and walked until he came to the gate through which Frances passed the day before. It was a strong rustic gate, through the crevices of which he could peer and see a winding path, with shrubs on each side. The gate was locked, and he saw no signs of a bell or other means of asking for admission; not that he would have used them had they been there. His object was to enter the house unseen and unsuspected. There was no one in sight, so, placing his foot on one of the cross-bars of the rustic gate, in a moment he was inside the fence.

He walked rapidly along the winding path until it emerged from the shrubs and led up to the house door. Then he paused to reconnoitre, and, as he saw the cottage a feeling of joy came over him. His fears were groundless—the house was absolutely deserted. The whole garden round it uncared for and full of weeds, the grass on the lawn untrimmed, and every window in the house with shutters up. It was plain that no living creature was about. He felt so relieved at the evidence of emptiness that he had time to wonder who could have built so small a house on so large a plot of ground. It was only a one-story cottage—a small villa, containing at the most six rooms. He walked up to the front door, and noticed that there was no knocker, and that the bell-handle had been removed from its socket. The house might have been untenanted for months. However, to make sure, he went round to the back; every window there was shuttered and closed. He looked at the chimneys—not a wisp of smoke came from either. He pushed open a little door, which led into a small paved yard with offices around it. From this yard he was able to look through a window which had no shutters up—the kitchen window—and see the fireless grate, the clock which was not going, and other evidence of non-occupation. Wherever Frances might be, she was not here. If she came to 9 — to meet Digby, "The Shrubbery" was not their destination. He must now retrace his steps, and—degrading task—inquire if others had seen the lady whose personal appearance so favorably impressed the village saddler.

He did not even knock at the door. Beyond a doubt the house was empty. Besides, he had no intention of knocking at doors if it could be avoided. So, little guessing he was within a few yards of the wife he sought, he returned to the path through the shrubs, intending to leave the precincts at once.

He was now in a mood more suitable for noticing trivial things. He reached the spot where Digby asked Frances to wait while he gave notice of her coming, when a dark object on the side of the path caught his eye. Raising it, he found it was a thick black veil, such a one as Josephine had told him she noticed in his wife's hand when she left the house. In her anxiety to obey her conductor's command, to come quickly lest the door should be closed against them, Frances had let it fall. She had either not noticed the loss, or had not ventured to delay in order to recover a thing of such trifling importance.

Allan looked at the veil, and all hope that it was not his wife who had yesterday passed through R—— was at an end. He knew the veil well; it was one he had bought by her instructions in America. He remembered objecting it the thickest and most concealing that could be obtained. He remembered laughing at the way in which it completely hid Frances's features. It was so dark and thick that it almost defeated its own ends of freeing the wearer from fear of recognition and observation, by attracting curiosity. He knew it too well!

She had been to that house. Was she there now? Could it be possible that the closed shutters and general uninhabited appearance of the place were nothing but a part of a plan to evade pursuit? He hated himself for the suspicion, but determined he would see the inside of that cottage before he left. If it should be, as he believed, empty, he might at least find some other traces of his wife.

How was he to get in? If he knocked or kicked at the door it would be useless, if there were people inside they wished to make outsiders believe that the house was deserted. Hence the closed shutters and fireless kitchen grate. He might knock all night to no purpose except of giving the alarm. No, he would get in, if possible, unseen and unheard—and then! Allan ground his teeth and strode back to the house.

He went to work very deliberately. His wrath was at white heat. He could plan and calculate—and act when the time came. He saw at once that the front of the house was impregnable—four shuttered windows and a stout door would defy his resources. He must gain ingress from the back.

To the back he went once more, but before attempting to force his way in, walked to the end of the grounds and looked over the fence. Broad green meadows stretched away in the rear of "The Shrubbery." Here and there, a long way off, he could see white farm-houses. A curious look—not a pleasant one—stole over Allan's face as he saw what an isolated place the cottage was. "If he is there," he muttered, "I shall have him all to myself. We need not be afraid of interruption." Yet, he did not believe there was anyone in the house.

But another thought struck him. Digby Bourcher was out—he could not bring himself to say they were out. It was fine enough to tempt everyone out. No one could stay in a hermetically-sealed abode. He would be back by and by in the gray of the evening, and upon entering his house would find an unexpected visitor waiting for him. This supposition was probably correct. Allan felt glad to think he would meet him in the gray of the evening, not by broad daylight like it was now—for it was scarcely six o'clock, and the sun had some way yet to sink.

Now to get into the house. He began to wish for the assistance of an experienced housebreaker. He had little doubt but he could find a way of entering through that kitchen window; but could he do it noiselessly? If he broke a pane of glass he would alarm the inmates if there were any. His object was to guard against this. He went once more into the back-yard, and closed the little door behind him. He was free from all chance of observation and interruption. Then he looked at the window, and tried to think how a housebreaker would set to work.

He discovered an empty wine-case, which he placed under the window-ledge. Mounting this ease, he found his head well above the middle of the window. He made no attempt to raise the sash, as through the centre pane he could see that the hasp was shut. If that centre pane were out of the way he could put his hand in and undo the fastening. Yes, he could get in easily enough. Let him thrust his gloved hand through the glass and the thing was done.

True 38 Years Ago, True To-day.

The Hon. John C. Spencer, late Secretary of War and Secretary of the Treasury of the United States wrote 38 years ago: "Upon reflection, I am convinced that it is a duty to humanity and to the cause of medical science to state publicly, of POND'S EXTRACT, what I have so frequently communicated to my friends and acquaintances. Its effect in calming and quieting nervous agitation is surprising. It is a remedy perfectly invaluable, and is so gently astringent, so soothing and so healing that it cannot injure. It not merely relieves, but cures all sorts of Aches, Pains and Inflammations." wfd&w

ON THE BIAS.

SHOPPING.

She was shopping, so they say.
So they say, so they say,
While her husband toiled within his office dim,
And she kept it up all day,
Up all day, up all day,
For of course she had the things all charged to him.

She bought rouge and bandoline,
Bandoline, bandoline,
Bonbons, fichus, kerchiefs, collarettes as well,
A silver soup tureen,
Soup tureen, soup tureen,
And a bonnet that she thought was "just too swell."

A dress of old gold plush,
Old gold plush, old gold plush,
The choicest sealskin sacque that she could find,
And without a single blush,
Single blush, single blush,
She swamped her husband; now he's lost his mind.

The tall bonnet may not go, but at least its mansard roof must be sacrificed.

The life of the book-agent is full of wormwood and gall. The wormwood is barely perceptible.

The high seas—Yes, they are the only ones that will sea as long as the women wear high hats at the theatre.

"I see in the paper that three tons of yarn are yearly used in the manufacture of base balls," observed Fangle. "I suppose that is the reason so many clubs get worsted," replied Snooper.

Aquarius—"How do you account for the failure of the no-license movement in your town?" Sloon—"There are a number of reasons, but the principal one is the drinking habits of our citizens."

An Open Question—Parson—"I hope for a mild, open winter." Layman—I hope for a hard old-timer." Parson—"But, my dear sir, think of the poor." Layman—"Great Scott, man, think of the toboggan club!"

Things One Would Rather Have Left Unsaid—Love-lorn Middy (about to join his ship)—"I've come to say good bye, Amy!" Cousin Amy—"Good-bye, Jonnny. When we see you next, I hope you'll be an admiral!"

Professor—"What would you do in case you happened to discover that there was still life in a body that you were dissecting?" Student—"I would ask the subject if he was agreeable to my going on with the operation."

Customer—"Well, how's business?" Druggist—Brisk, sir, brisk. Customer—Getting away with lots of goods, eh? Druggist—Yes, indeed. Customer—What article seems to hold the lead nowadays? Druggist—Almanacs.

"Are your going to hang up your stocking, dear?" inquired a young wife of her hubby. "Hang up my stocking!" replied the hubby, "I'm afraid I couldn't get anything on it." Then he realized that he had made a mistake.

—The waves roll back on the desolate shore,
The ships return over the sea,
And the child returns to its father's door,
And the cattle wind home from the lea.
The leaves return with the spring-time bloom,
And the light returns with the day,
But the cash the candidate spent on his boom
Is gone forever and aye!

The many silly questions that are asked at railroad ticket offices would try the patience of a saint. The other day a man stepped up to the window at Port Jervis and asked:—"Will this train coming now leave before the one going next?" The agent said he would have to give it up.

Kate—"What in the world did you tell Charley you were twenty-one for? You know you are not a day older than seventeen." Effie—"Yes; but you don't understand. I heard pa say, the other day, that a minor can't be sued; and I didn't want to discourage Charley, know know."

When one of Professor Stowe's students, in a quizzing mood, interrupted the lecture to inquire how it happened that John, who was only a fisherman, obtained such ready entrance to the high priest's house on the night of the trial, quick as a flash came the answer:—"I don't know. Perhaps he sold him fish."

A Generous Husband—"What are you going to buy your wife for a Christmas present?" "I am thinking of getting her a piano." "Can she play?" "Of course not. Do you suppose I'd be such a fool as to buy her a piano if she could play? I am going to get her a piano because it makes the parlor look so stylish."

What took the prize.—"Where do you come from?" asked a Dallas man of a neighbor. "I'm just in from the Fair Grounds." "Have the judges of live stock awarded the prize to the biggest jack?" "They have." "Did my uncle or my father get it?" "Neither of them. A strange donkey from Eastern Texas got the prize."

Things One Would Rather Have Left Unsaid.—Hostess (across table)—"By the way, Bishop, I hear Sir Wormwood and Lady Scrubbs are in town, and Justice Tupper and his wife. I only wish I had known it before, for I would have asked them to-day to meet you." Mental chorus of guests—"I wonder which of us would have been left out?"

Physician (to patient)—"Have you been out to-day madam?" Patient—"Yes, sir, I attended an auction sale of household effects." Physician—"You probably overdid yourself?" Patient—"No, I didn't do anything. My husband went off this morning without leaving me a cent." Physician—"I see. I would recommend bromide, madam; you are suffering from nervous prostration.

Colored Sarcasm—Impecunious African—"Boss, can't you gimme a dollar for a Christmas gift? I hasn't done a lick ob work in six mumfs." Wealthy gentleman of leisure—"My colored friend, I haven't got anything to do myself, and haven't had for a great many years." "Well, den, boss, we am boff in de same fix, and ef I heahs ob a job ob whitewashin', I'll go halvers wid yer, pore white man."

A citizen of Pocahontas, Ia., has invented a new fuel, which bids fair to take the place of coal in the prairie countries. He grinds cornstalks and coarse prairie grass together and moistens them. This pulp is pressed into blocks about twelve inches long and four inches thick and dried. One block will give an hour's steady heat. This fuel can be produced for $2 a ton, and the inventor claims that it will last twice as long as the best soft coal.

TOLU AND TAR.

All healing tar. Everybody knows the curative properties of tar. As a remedy it has been employed for ages, and when combined with healing balsams as in Dr. Oakwood's Compound Syrup of Tar and Tolu, it produces a remedy of unrivalled efficacy for the cure of coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, and all throat and lung affections. eod

When the presiding Elder preached recently at Hermitage, Mo., he was much annoyed at the sound of a small bell which rang whenever he was particularly emphatic. At last he stopped in the sermon and said:—"I once knew a man to ring a chestnut bell in church and go to the penitentiary for it." Thereupon one of his hearers stepped to the pulpit and moved a small call bell that had stood just under the edge of the big Bible in such a position that when the Elder banged the book the bell rang.

London Markets.

Revised Daily.

London, Thursday, Dec. 30.

The market was small to-day, and very little produce came for sard.

Grain was active, and the best wheat sold at $1 30 and $1 35 per 100 pounds, or 78c and 81c per bushel.

Oats were firm, at 90c to 93c per 100 lbs, or 30 6-10c and 31 28-100c per bushel.

Barley was not forward in active supply, and prices were unchanged.

The meat supply was not large, but prices were firmer for good beef, and $6 to $7 prevailed for choice.

Pork ruled at our quotations.

Butter had no change from our last report.

No change in vegetables or apples.

Poultry dull at our quotations.

Hay only in fair supply, at $8 50 to $10 per ton.

Latest Notes by Telegraph and Mail.

MANCHESTER DRY GOODS.

London, December 29.—The Manchester Guardian, in its commercial article, says: The market is inactive in consequence of the holidays and mail and telegraph interruptions. A few fresh orders have been received from India and China. Home houses are buying quietly and steadily in small quantities. On the part of producers the tone is remarkably steady considering the weakness of the demand. Prices are sustained by the knowledge that the current level is low, by the anticipation of a revival in demand early in 1887, and by full extent of production still under contract in most of the leading departments. Yarn is quiet. The market for export is poor. In the cloth department progress is poor. The best India and China shirtings are strong, although there are few orders.

LIVERPOOL PRODUCE MARKET

Cheese—Continued dull, the little business passing being mostly confined to August makes, at 56s to 58s, and medium to fine grades at 46s to 55s, of which the stock is not large. Holders of finest September continue firm, and in many cases refuse to offer at present, as American advices continue strong, and being considerably above prices here they are confident. The stock in Liverpool at present is principally in finest quality, which is held in most cases from 1s to 2s per cwt. above the views of buyers. At Chester Fair this week the offerings of English were small, and the few lots of finest brought 2s to 5s per 120 lbs. more than at the previous Fair. I quote finest (American and Canadian) September colored, 61s to 62s; white, 59s to 62s; finest Augusts, 56s to 58s; medium to fine, 46s to 55s; middling to good, 35s to 45s; skims, 20s to 30s.

Butter—With small stocks and a good enquiry holders of finest creamery, and U. S., and Canadian extra, have been able to obtain full prices, the transactions being larger than for some time past. Market closes strong. I quote finest Canadian and U. S extra 105s to 115s; fine, 95s to 100s; good to fine, 70s to 80s; grease sorts, 35s to 45s.

Bacon.—Early in the week prices were decidedly easier, but with stronger American advices, and a good country demand, prices for some cuts had advanced 6d to 1s per cwt. A large business is reported for forward delivery, and market closes strong. I quote Staffordshires 35s to 38s 6d; Cumberland Cut 26s to 38s 6d; Singed Wiltshires 36s to 39s; Short Rib 37s to 38s, 6d; Long Rib (according to size), 36s to 44s, Shoulders, 27s to 31s; Bellies (rib in) 35s to 36s, Clear Bellies 37s to 42s, Long Back 30s 6d to 32s 6d, Short Clear Backs 36s to 38s.

Apples.—With lighter receipts and an improved demand, choice winter varieties have sold well at an advance. Newtown Pippins continue scarce; a few choice selected brought 58s per barrel. I quote winter varieties of Canadian and American 12s to 27s per barrel, and choice Newtown Pippins, 50s to 58s per barrel, fair to good 35s to 45s per barrel. Receipts from America from August 5th to December 16th, 317 522 barrels—same date last year, 287,004 barrels.—Dec 17.

SMOKE STACK SPARKS.

The Canada Southern Railway has declared a dividend of 1½ per cent., and the Michigan Central directors have declared a dividend of 2 per cent.

The total railroad mileage in Dakota on December 15, 1886, was 3,491 miles. During the year 679 miles of track was laid. The new construction of 1887 is estimated by the Commissioner at from 500 to 1,000 miles.

Mr George T. Hull has been appointed chief clerk to Assistant General Passenger Agent Kimball, of the Pennsylvania Company, succeeding William D. Buss, who resigned to accept the Cleveland passenger agency of the Mt. Vernon and Pan Handle.

The present cost of operating the railways of the U. S. by steam, is $502,000,000, but to transport the same tonnage, using men and horses, would cost $11,306,500 000. That is to say, a return to old methods would render commerce practically impossible.

Land Commissioner McTavish, of the Canadian Pacific Road, says that he looks for a large movement of immigrants to the Canadian Pacific country, west of Winnipeg, during the coming season. Work upon the Hudson Bay road is progressing rapidly. This road, he says, will be completed next year in time to bring ice, should there be a failure in the local crop, to St. Paul to build the ice palace of 1888.

Tuesday afternoon a meeting was held at the office of James McMillan, at Detroit, between the representatives of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railroad and the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, to complete the arrangements for the construction of the railway bridge at Sault Ste. Marie. As the preliminary arrangements had been thorough but little remained to be done in the way of consolidating the two companies holding charters, respectively from the Dominion Government and the United States Government. The bridge will be about 2 500 feet in length, with 350 feet spans, but as yet no contracts have been let. These will be given out by bids to be advertised for at once.

The Wisconsin Central has issued orders to employes in its sleeping cars, dining and parlor car departments, prohibiting them from receiving any fees whatever from patrons of the road. The rule is absolute, with the exception of the blacking of shoes, which porters are allowed to do only when requested, and the fee for which is fixed at 10 cents. Simultaneously with this order the pay of such employes has been increased, making it about three times the amount received ordinarily by sleeping car porters. The Wisconsin Central thus takes the first step towards abolishing an abuse which is in existence on all the railroads in the United States. Sleeping car porters receive generally about $15 a month, and levy contributions upon the passengers for the balance of their salary.

LONDON WEST POLITICS.

The Claimants for the Reeveship Have it Out—Municipal Affairs.

A large and influential meeting of the electors of London West was held last night in Collins' Hall. Colonel Peters was unanimously elected Chairman, and Mr John Kelly, junior, did the duties of Secretary. After a good deal of talking, how long the candidates were to speak, it was unanimously agreed that 20 minutes would be sufficient to explain municipal matters.

Mr. James Campbell, one of the nominees, spoke of his position as a candidate, and thought he had the hearty support of Knights of Labor. Mr. Campbell denied that he opposed any improvements in the village. He was in favor of the break water, and a strict herd law in the village, but did not favor the strict enforcement of the pound law, as had been carried out. Mr. Campbell said he had a bad opinion of newspapers, especially some letters in the Advertiser.

Mr D. C. Macdonald said some of the newspapers were a bad lot.

Mr. Lacey declared he did not know what Mr. Campbell was talking about. Would he repeat.

Mr. Campbell—Shut your mouth; you'll know what I mean in time.

Col Peters—Repeat again, Mr. Campbell.

Mr. Campbell said that the job on the Cemetery hill had been bungled, and Lacey had refused to second a resolution brought in the Council to complete the work on the boundary between London West and the Municipality, and had nearly embroiled the Council in a lawsuit. He said there were $3 000 in the account not answered for by the signing of cheques by Lacey.

Mr. Lacey declared he never signed any such cheques or orders, and the $20 paid to the constable had been duly earned. He said there was just $930 unaccounted for in the accounts.

Two ratepayers asked who got the $20 offered as a reward for breaking a lamp.

Mr. Campbell I don't know, for the item does not appear in the accounts.

Mr Lacey alluded to charges made by Mr. Campbell against him as chairman of the Finance Committee. The $4,000 upon which so much stress had been laid by Mr. Campbell, was plainly accounted for—the note which had been given had never gone to a notary and had never been protested. The $20 fine was offered as a reward by a motion in the Council to prevent the reckless destruction of property, and Mr. Campbell had a hand in the business with him.

A voice—Who got the money?

Mr. Lacey—The constable.

A voice—Had he right to it?

Another voter—Of course.

Mr Lacey declared he did not know the committee appointed by the Council had bought a pound for the village, 100 feet of which was their property for all time to come. They had bought the property cheap, and there was no thinking man but would say they wanted a pound or a cow by law.

Mr. Moore asked Mr Lacey if justice would be done all around in the cow by-law, as he understood all the village cows had not been kept off the street last summer.

Mr Lacey explained that the officials had been impartial in their duties. The cemetery hill job was next explained. With regard to London Township and this municipality, the Township of London was giving half in payment for the work, and London West had the best of the bargain. The break-water was also explained by Mr Lacey. A letter was read from the Advertiser by Mr Lacey, under Mr Campbell's signature, which, he declared, there was not a word of truth in on any one point. He paid a high tribute to the efficiency and ability of the present Reeve, Mr. Fitzgerald, and sat down amid cheers.

Mr. D. C. Macdonald asked if Mr Lacey would push the Chancery suit against the city relative to the water works dam. Chancellor Boyd was willing to take the evidence at any time.

Mr Lacey would aid this to the best of his abilities. This was apparently satisfactory to the meeting.

Mr. D C. Macdonald, Reeve Fitzgerald and Solicitor Bartram made speeches on municipal matters.

Mr. Macdonald addressed the meeting as "fellow Grits," and was sorry that such two pillars of the "party of purity" as Lacey and Campbell there should be butting their heads for the Reeveship of the village.

The meeting lasted till a late hour, but nothing of interest to the electors was elicited.

DR. WEIR'S CASE.

Another Adjournment Resolved Upon—Law Points Argued.

The examination of Dr. Weir, of Oscoda, Mich., whose extradition is sought upon a charge of murder and rape committed in the United States, was resumed yesterday at the Court House before Judge Elliot, the Crown and defendant being represented by the same counsel as in the past. It was understood that the object of the previous adjournment had been to obtain the evidence of Dr. Waugh and to determine whether further evidence for the defence should be allowed.

The question was argued between the counsel, and finally Mr. R. M. Meredith objected to the testimony of Dr. Waugh being admitted, as he said the adjournment had not been for that purpose.

Mr Hutchinson held that the evidence was admissable, but said as it was objected to he would close the case without it. He then requested His Honor to ask the defendant if he had anything to say.

Mr. Meredith objected to this being done.

However, it was at last agreed that the case should be adjourned until Monday next, in order that His Honor should finally render decision as to whether evidence for the defence will be admitted or not.

ANNIVERSARY.—The anniversary of the Sabbath School in connection with the Elizabeth Street Methodist Church was held on Wednesday night last, a very large audience attending. The Superintendent of the school, Mr. W. Heaman, occupied the chair, and the Rev. T. Cobb opened the proceedings with prayer. The scholars, assisted by the choir, rendered several choruses in fine style, showing careful training, and the London Harmony Club did their best to add to the pleasures of the evening by rendering a couple of selections, which were very well received. Recitations, readings, dialogues, kindergarten songs, etc., were also given by the scholars, after which "Kris Kringle" distributed the gifts from a well-laden Christmas tree. The entertainment passed off very satisfactorily, and the audience spoke of the different pieces in a highly laudatory manner. Financially, also, the affair was quite a success.—COM.

Mr. James Cowan has served a long apprenticeship at the municipal bench, and has graduated with honors. He is now able to deal in a practical, business-like manner with all matters affecting the city that may come within the province of the Mayor.

How Our Senses are Deceived.

It is well known that the senses are subject to normal deceptions (sinnes tauschungen), which seem to be inborn in the structure of the nervous system and the sense-organ. In some respects the world that we piece together from our judgments and sensations proves to be somewhat different from the world to which we apply the foot-rule and plumbline, which we weigh and measure by objective standards. The science whose business it is to discover the nature of these discrepancies is psychophysics. M Sorel, in a recent article (Revue Philosophique, October, 1886), calls attention to the wide practical bearing of this study, shows how it was taken into account by the Greek architects, and how it modifies our esthetic conceptions. He looks forward to the time when all these deceptions will be quantitatively determined, and applied in every-day life. Not only will we have a real psychophysic law (or laws), but perhaps also the signs of practical consulting psychophysicists will grace our streets. Science.

Mrs. Lilla Stewart, a young widow of Quincy, Ill., and J. W. Miller, a well-to-do lumberman of Mason, Mich., formed an engagement to marry by letter, not having seen each other. Miller sent her $20 with which to go to Eau Claire, and she sent him a piece of her dress by which to identify her. Then she left her two children and went to Eau Claire, where Miller met her and where they were married. They will take in Quincy on their tour and pick up the two children.

Saving the Lawyers.

"The first thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers." This is rather a blood-thirsty proposition, which we modify by offering to cure this worthy class of people. Most of them suffer (in common with nearly all others of sedentary habits), from the injurious effects of dyspepsia, indigestion, piles, loss of appetite, and other ailments caused by a constipated habit of the body. Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" eradicate all these disorders in promptly removing the cause thereof, and induce a rare degree of comfort and health.

"My dear friend," said a minister at the beside of a sick man, "I want to call your attention to the blessed consolation which religion brings in hours of suffering and danger to those—" "I'm much obliged to you," interposed the grateful patient, "but you are too late." "Too late?" "Yes, sir, my physician says that the crisis is past, and all danger is over."

LOCAL NOTICES.

Mr. James Marshall, the well-known livery stable keeper, has added a number of single and double coupes, of the latest improved pattern, to his stock of sleighs, and can now guarantee the utmost satisfaction to all. At any hour of the day or night vehicles may be secured at Marshall's, at the same price as charged for rigs less stylish and infinitely less comfortable. The new rigs are neatly upholstered, roomy and well lighted. The occupant while driving is enabled to see all about him, without being subjected to cold drafts from open doors or windows. Mr. Marshall's hack business is now the best in London, and he means to keep up his reputation as a first-class caterer to the public in this particular. f

THE GRAND BAZAAR that is now going on in the City Hall in aid of the St. Peter's Cathedral fund, is proving to be a grand success. The hall was crowded to overflowing last night; nearly every available inch of space was well filled. This evening the result of the voting on the gold-headed cane between the two great political leaders of the Dominion Parliament will be made known. The voting will continue until the 5th of January, when the polls will close. The Band of the 7th furnishes excellent music every evening. *

This is a good day to incubate new resolutions for 1887.

Mr. Hector Cameron, of Belmont, fractured several ribs by falling from a hay loft a few days ago.

Rev. G. B. Sage, B. D., Professor in the Hellmuth Ladies' College, will preach in Christ Church, Exeter, on Sunday next.

Mr. Bert Heywood, of Wichita, Kansas, formerly in the G.T.R. car distributing office here, is passing his holiday vacation in the city.

There will only be one Catholic Conservative in the Ontario Legislature for the next four years—Mr. James Clancy, of West Kent.

The aspirants for municipal honors in London South are to do some talking to the electors at Trebilcock's Hall, London South, to-night.

St. Andrew's Society will distribute their annual New Year's cheer this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Reid Bros.' old store, 240 Dundas street.

The Chatham Planet prints an accurate portrait of a lady's stocking, which shows that it is the habit of the Chatham lady to wear her calf in front.

Sheriff Glass, returning officer for the city election, yesterday made his official declaration. Mr. Meredith's majority over the "combine" was 213.

Judge Bell, of Chatham, commenced to wrestle with 770 appeals against the town voters' list, on Wednesday, but nobody appearing, all were dismissed.

The ratepayers of Port Stanley will, on Monday, vote on the By-law granting a bonus of $5 000 to McClary & Co., of this city, to establish a branch foundry in that village.

The Tiser's assertion that the correspondence published in yesterday's Mail, regarding the Catholic vote in London, was "manufactured in the FREE PRESS office" is a barefaced falsehood. Try again.

"If the electors of No. 5 Ward take my advice," said a prominent ratepayer yesterday, "they will return William Hayman, the builder, to the Council. He's a practical workman and a business man to boot."

Messrs. Pole, Brown, Macfie and Lotan have purchased the Appin cheese factory from L. R. Richardson. The price is said to be $2,500. Pole & Brown have also bought the Mayfair cheese factory from the stockholders. The price, $2,700.

Registrar Patullo, of Woodstock, gave the boys on the editorial, reportorial, business and mechanical staff of the Sentinel Review a grand blow-out at his residence the other evening. About thirty were present, and had a most enjoyable time.

James Munro, of Braemar, met with a rather serious accident a few days ago He was returning home with the wagon, when by some means the horses got frightened and ran away. Munro was thrown out and broke his thigh. He is doing as well as could be expected.

The first sub-contract on the W. O. P. R extension between Woodstock and London, is finished. The contractors were Messrs. Eddington & Cameron, and their foremen Messrs. Findlay and Bird. The work was finished up satisfactorily, and has passed the necessary inspection.

A public meeting will be held at Exeter this evening to consider the propriety of offering a bonus to the C. P. R. provided a branch of the same will run through the village. An influential committee will be chosen to confer with a committee already appointed by St. Mary's and Goderich.

There was a good attendance at the bazaar in the City Hall last evening, under the auspices of the R C. Church, and a liberal portion of the articles displayed were disposed of. The band was present, and rendered choice selections of music. The bazaar will be continued to-day and to-night.

The cantata—"An Hour in Fairy Land"—was given at Christ Church last night by the children of the Sunday School. Mr. Wright was musical director, and Mrs. Holmes presided at the piano. An exceedingly pleasant entertainment was given, and the large audience in attendance left the building highly pleased.

Miss Duncan, Lady Superintendent of the City Hospital, desires to tender sincere thanks, on her own behalf and that of the staff of nurses, to the many kind friends who contributed so liberally to the recent Christmas tree for that institution, among which are specially mentioned:—The Floral Mission Society, the Young Ladies' Benevolent Society (of St. Andrew's Church), and Young Men's Christian Association, together with many merchants and private individuals. Every patient in the Hospital received a present, and many articles were received that will be of value to the institution Miss Duncan speaks in high praise of the charitable disposition of the citizens, which was evidenced in the getting up of this tree.

When a man works for nothing and boards himself, he is usually rather indifferent about obeying orders. He is not very anxious as to whether he pleases or not. He is more liable to assume the manner of a master than of a servant, and the fact that he works for the public, instead of for private parties, makes not the least difference. Everyone knows that the foregoing is true, yet the people strive to run the affairs of the city on just such a basis, and then are so illogical as to find fault with the outcome. This would be great fun if it did not cost so much.

The children in attendance at St. Andrew's Church Sabbath school, with their friends, enjoyed a very pleasant time last evening, when the first Christmas tree entertainment under their auspices was given. After the distribution of the customary presents a good intellectual programme of readings, recitations and songs was rendered. During the evening Mr. Robert Allan, teacher of the Young Men's Bible Class, was made the recipient of a handsome volume of Canon Farrar's "Life of Christ" as a token of esteem.

Stratford Times:—Tuesday week's FREE PRESS was an especially fine number. In addition to the usual news edition there was a twenty page Christmas supplement which certainly was one of the finest things ever issued from any newspaper office in Canada. Both the covers were beautiful colored lithographs, and on each inside page was a fine wood cut. The supplement also contained a number of excellent Xmas stories.

Mr. Edward Chandler, of Stratford, while walking through one of the rooms of his house some time ago, ran his foot pretty forcibly against a sharp substance, which caused a stinging sensation, but no more was thought of it until the foot became swollen and inflamed. Dr. Robertson was subsequently called, made two incisions and drew forth a large sized needle.

While Mr. John Thomas and family, of Fletcher, Kent Co., were going to Chatham the other day, the horses took fright and started off, throwing the family into the ditch, with the democrat on top of them. Mrs. Thomas is a woman of over 200 lbs. She got from under the buggy and asked if it was hurt. Being answered in the negative they resumed their journey.

Yesterday morning Carleton, a young son of Mr. James Stewart, of the G.T.R., St. Thomas, had his right eye seriously injured with a pitchfork. While playing with a neighbor's lad the prong of a pitchfork was run into the eye, scraping the ball. Dr. Gustin was called, and though the injury is a serious one, hopes are entertained of saving the sight.

Voting for the popular prize at Victoria Hall was somewhat desultory yesterday, the vote being scattered all over the collection. The leading numbers were 26, 34 and 29, by Misses Wood, Hendershott and Gunn, respectively.

PRESENTATION TO MRS. BALDWIN.—There was a very pleasant surprise in store for Mrs. Baldwin on the return of the Bishop and herself from Toronto on Thursday evening last, in the presentation of a chaste and beautiful china breakfast set, together with a very handsome pair of drawing-room portieres. It was accomplished in the most kindly and thoughtful manner, and was the gift of the ladies of every Anglican congregation in the city. The first intimation to Mrs. Baldwin of their kind intention was when on her return she found that the gift had taken quiet possession. The following note accompanied the presentation:—"The ladies of the Episcopal churches in the city beg Mrs. Baldwin's acceptance of the accompanying gifts as a very slight token of their affection," to which Mrs. Baldwin sent the following reply: "Mrs. Baldwin cannot find words to express the pleasure experienced on returning home last night and finding the beautiful presents so kindly given by the ladies of the Episcopal churches in this city. She desires to convey to them her heartfelt thanks, in which the Bishop joins, and to say how deeply touched and overcome both have been by this act of love coming in such a form, and as a glad surprise and welcome home They together wish their thoughtful and sympathetic friends every blessing at this joyous Christmas tide."

HOLIDAY FESTIVAL.—The Christmas festival in connection with the Pall Mall Methodist Sabbath School was held on Wednesday evening. The Superintendent, Mr. W. D. Buckle, presided, and there was a large attendance. The Juvenile Missionary Collectors made their returns, the total amount being over $54, Mary Lee collecting the highest amount, over $8, and Herbert Lee being next, with over $7. They both received handsome prizes. The scholars of the school gave some choice music and recitations, after which the "London Harmony Band," under the able leadership of Mr. William May, rendered some of their best music. Mr. John Bowman then delighted the audience with his artistic and humorous magic pictures. Refreshments were then served to the scholars, and the proceedings, which were very successful throughout, brought to a close.

AT THE ASYLUM.—Mr. E. N. Rossiter, of the city, and a number of his musical friends, gave a splendid concert at the Asylum last evening for the benefit of the patients. The programme consisted of a choice selection of choruses, duets and solos, and all were so well rendered as to call forth hearty applause. Miss Bradford and Mr. A. Jury presided most acceptably at the piano.

Elections not Injurious to Trade.
The elections, as predicted, did not prove injurious to the Xmas trade, for almost all of that well-selected and immense stock of Xmas goods to be seen at Barkwell's Drug Store a few days ago has been disposed of. No doubt the extraordinarily low prices he allows at Xmas had much to do with the rapid sale. He has just received a few lines suitable for New Year's presents, on which it is said he gives the same bargains. *

It is desirable, if possible, to secure the re building in this city of the G. T. R. car shops, and the retention here of an industry so important for the interests of the people. Mr. James Cowan is heartily in favor of using all possible means to retain them, and if elected Mayor will use his influence for that object. *

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

SEVERAL HUNDRED LIVES LOST AT A FIRE AT MADRAS.

The French Premier Does not Believe War is Imminent—Earthquake in Spain—Mutiny in a French Prison—Trial of Dillon et al. for Conspiracy—Lord Iddesleigh and the Bulgarian Deputation.

London, Dec. 31, midnight.

The British in Burmah.

The British army of occupation are within two miles of the great ruby mines of Burmah.

Earthquake in Spain.

A shock of earthquake was felt to-day in Almeria, Andalusia. Is caused much alarm, but no injury

Several Hundred Lives Lost.

Fire broke out to-day in the reserved enclosure at the People's Park, Madrid, where the annual fair was being held. A panic ensued, and it is reported that several hundred persons were burned or crushed to death.

Mutiny in a Prison.

Prisoners in the jail at Gaillon, Department of Eure, France, mutinied to-day, and attempted to overpower the jailers and escape. Several of the latter were wounded and one prisoner was shot dead. Troops, summoned by telegraph from Rouen, soon reached the jail and succeeded in quelling the mutiny.

Austria-Hungary.

Herr Tisza, the Hungarian Premier, publicly states that there is complete accord between himself and Count Kalnoky, Imperial Minister for Foreign Affairs, and denies that it is true that Count Kalnoky intends to resign. Herr Tisza privately says he is hopeful that peace will not be broken, and declares that the policy of Austro-Hungary is distinctly peaceful.

War Not Imminent.

M. Goblet, French Prime Minister, received a syndicate of members of the Paris Stock Exchange to-day. He told them he did not believe that war was imminent. France's relations with every power were excellent and she desired nothing but peace; "but," he added, "to view the possibility of war calmly the nation must be powerful enough to protect her rights."

Iddesleigh and the Bulgarians.

A Sofia despatch says:—The Bulgarian deputation report from London that Lord Iddesleigh, British Foreign secretary, listened with cordial sympathy to their presentation of Bulgarian's case, but reserved expressing any views until the deputation met him again at his residence at Pynes, Exeter. Lord Iddesleigh thought another interview necessary because there were so many matters to discuss in connection with the object of the deputation's visit.

The Alleged Conspirators.

When the trial of Messrs. Dillon, O'Brien, Redmond, Harris, Crilly and Sheehy, on the charge of conspiracy, for acting as trustees under the "Plan of Campaign," was resumed at Dublin to-day, but two of the defendants—Mr. Crilly and Mr. Sheehy—were present. Of the absentees, Mr. Redmond was excused, as the court was told he was kept away by illness. The Judge ordered the business of the court to be suspended until the unexcused gentlemen put in their appearance. This they soon did and the trial proceeded, the session being largely devoted to hearing the testimony of police for the prosecution.

Cable Notes.

A Mr. Power has donated $100,000 to the Congregation de Propaganda Fide Rome.

M. Bartholdi has been promoted to the rank of commander of the French Legion of Honor.

The revenue of Great Britain for the past year shows an increase of over $16,250,000.

The Portuguese and German Governments have concluded a convention delimiting their respective territories in Africa.

Princess Metternich has obtained a prize for the best composition in an anonymous literary competition.

The statement is made at Paris that President Grevy has effected a reconciliation between M. de Freycinet and M. Ferry, who will jointly support the Goblet Ministry during the coming session of the Chambers.

MONTREAL.

Papal Honors—Eyesight Restored—Accident at a Railway Crossing—C.P.R. Dividend.

Montreal, Dec 31.—Mgr. Pacine, of Sherbrooke, has been elevated by the Pope to the dignity of Roman Count and Assistant at the Pontifical Tarone.

Information has been received that a son of Hon. L. Beaubean, who has been blind since childhood, has been successfully operated on by an oculist in Paris, having recovered the use of one of his eyes.

Last evening, when the Lachine train was nearing Blue Bonnets, it ran into a heavy sleigh, which had stuck on the track. The driver saw the train coming and unhitched his horses in time. The engine struck the sleigh and smashed it to pieces, two of the locomotive wheels leaving the track. The passengers got a shock but none were injured.

The proprietors of the Star have had trouble over their special Christmas number, which has dragged them into court with the Customs Department. It appears that the execution of the number was confided to certain artists and lithographers in New York, and that before it was sent to them to Canada Mr. Graham had a conference with the Collector of Customs, and came to an understanding to admit the paper admitted free of duty as educational matter. Mr. Ambrose, Customs Collector, recently requested Mr. Graham to collect 35 per cent. duty. Graham referred Ambrose back to the Collector. The matter has been referred to the Minister of Customs at Ottawa.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has declared a dividend of three per cent., payable on 17th February next.

THE BRITISH CABINET.

MR. GOSCHEN OFFERED THE CHANCELLORSHIP OF THE EXCHEQUER.

And is Taking Time to Consider—Salisbury Rejects Churchill's Terms—The Changes Made in the Cabinet—Unionists Opposed to a Coalition—Hartington Approves the Government's Programme.

London, Dec. 31.—It is semi-officially stated that Hon. Wm Henry Smith will retain the office of Secretary for War. Hon. Edward Stanhope will succeed Churchill as Chancellor of the Exchequer, and the Earl of Carnarvon will take the office of Colonial Secretary, which Stanhope now holds. The other offices will remain unchanged.

WILL GOSCHEN ACCEPT?

Lord Salisbury has returned to Hatfield House, leaving the composition of the Ministry still uncertain. He has offered Mr Goschen the position of Chancellor of the Exchequer, and is awaiting his response. Mr. Goschen has consulted with Lord Hartington, and is asking time to consider. At a late hour to-night he had not replied and had given no sign of what he intended to do.

CHURCHILL'S TERMS REJECTED.

Lord Randolph Churchill to-day, through Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, consented to resume office on condition that Lord Salisbury gave assurance that he would support his (Churchill's) proposed root-and-branch reforms of abuses in the naval and military administration. Baron Rowley conveyed the offer to Lord Salisbury, who rejected it in terms that will widen the breach between him and Churchill.

GENERAL ACCEPTANCE.

The Cabinet appointments mentioned to-day, meet with general acceptance in Ministerial circles, but nothing will be definitely settled until the next Cabinet Council.

NOT YET SETTLED.

The Globe says it doubts that any of the appointments reported to have been made in consequence of Lord Randolph Churchill's resignation have really been made. It adds that the Marquis of Salisbury's choice for the Chancellorship of the Exchequer, relinquished by Lord Randolph, is limited to Mr. William Hy. Smith, Sir Michael Hicks Beach and Lord George Hamilton. Nothing, however, says the Globe, as to who shall succeed Lord Randolph Churchill is settled.

NO COALITION.

Lord Hartington has informed Lord Salisbury that he and his colleagues, including Mr. Goschen, were in accord in the belief that it is unadvisable to form a coalition Government, but promise to continue to give the Ministry a cordial support.

GLADSTONE'S TERMS.

London, Jan 1.—The Standard says that Mr. Gladstone will not give his assent to a union of the Liberals unless the bill for the government of Ireland be given preference over the Land Bill in Parliament and a separate parliament be granted to Ireland.

HARTINGTON APPROVES.

It is understood that Lord Salisbury explained to Lord Hartington the financial and legislative programme for the coming session of Parliament, and that this programme, which gives almost no ground for contention from the Unionist point of view, was approved by Lord Hartington.

HARCOURT AND CHAMBERLAIN.

Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt had a long interview to day with Mr. Chamberlain.

Funeral of Gen. Logan.

Washington, Dec 31.—The hall of the Senate was tastefully draped to-day. The chair of the dead Senator was covered with crape. The President remained quietly in his room this morning and was compelled to abandon his intention to attend Logan's funeral owing to inclement weather. Services were conducted by Rev. Drs Butler, Tiffany and Newman. The Benediction was pronounced, and then the funeral procession reformed and filed out of the Senate Chamber. At the head of the procession rode General Phil Sheridan in full uniform. He was followed by four members of his staff in line, and a band played a funeral march. The sidewalks throughout populous parts of the route were [illegible] despite the terrible [illegible] At 3 40 o'clock [illegible] tery began to [illegible] cession [illegible] to the [illegible] The Edward Stanhope will succeed Churchill as Chancellor of the Exchequer, and the Earl of Carnarvon will take the office of Colonial Secretary, which Stanhope now holds. The other offices will remain unchanged.

WILL GOSCHEN ACCEPT?

Lord Salisbury has returned to Hatfield House, leaving the composition of the Ministry still uncertain. He has offered Mr Goschen the position of Chancellor of the Exchequer, and is awaiting his response. Mr. Goschen has consulted with Lord Hartington, and is asking time to consider. At a late hour to-night he had not replied and had given no sign of what he intended to do.

CHURCHILL'S TERMS REJECTED.

Lord Randolph Churchill to-day, through Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, consented to resume office on condition that Lord Salisbury gave assurance that he would support his (Churchill's) proposed root-and-branch reforms of abuses in the naval and military administration. Baron Rowley conveyed the offer to Lord Salisbury, who rejected it in terms that will widen the breach between him and Churchill.

GENERAL ACCEPTANCE.

The Cabinet appointments mentioned to-day, meet with general acceptance in Ministerial circles, but nothing will be definitely settled until the next Cabinet Council.

NOT YET SETTLED.

The Globe says it doubts that any of the appointments reported to have been made in consequence of Lord Randolph Churchill's resignation have really been made. It adds that the Marquis of Salisbury's choice for the Chancellorship of the Exchequer, relinquished by Lord Randolph, is limited to Mr. William Hy. Smith, Sir Michael Hicks Beach and Lord George Hamilton. Nothing, however, says the Globe, as to who shall succeed Lord Randolph Churchill is settled.

NO COALITION.

Lord Hartington has informed Lord Salisbury that he and his colleagues, including Mr. Goschen, were in accord in the belief that it is unadvisable to form a coalition Government, but promise to continue to give the Ministry a cordial support.

GLADSTONE'S TERMS.

London, Jan 1.—The Standard says that Mr. Gladstone will not give his assent to a union of the Liberals unless the bill for the government of Ireland be given preference over the Land Bill in Parliament and a separate parliament be granted to Ireland.

HARTINGTON APPROVES.

It is understood that Lord Salisbury explained to Lord Hartington the financial and legislative programme for the coming session of Parliament, and that this programme, which gives almost no ground for contention from the Unionist point of view, was approved by Lord Hartington.

HARCOURT AND CHAMBERLAIN.

Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt had a long interview to day with Mr. Chamberlain.

Funeral of Gen. Logan.

Washington, Dec 31.—The hall of the Senate was tastefully draped to-day. The chair of the dead Senator was covered with crape. The President remained quietly in his room this morning and was compelled to abandon his intention to attend Logan's funeral owing to inclement weather. Services were conducted by Rev. Drs Butler, Tiffany and Newman. The Benediction was pronounced, and then the funeral procession reformed and filed out of the Senate Chamber. At the head of the procession rode General Phil Sheridan in full uniform. He was followed by four members of his staff in line, and a band played a funeral march. FAILURE FIGURES.

Dun, Wiman & Co's. Annual Report of Business Failures for Canada and the United States—The Weekly Trade Review.

New York, Dec. 31.—Dun, Wiman & Co's. annual failure figures for the Dominion of Canada, show very slight changes as compared with last year, the number of failures in the Dominion for 1886 being 1,252 as against 1 256 in 1885. The liabilities, however, show considerable increase, amounting to in 1886, $10,386,000, as compared with $8,861,000 in 1885. Failures in the United States in 1886 numbered 9,854 with liabilities $114 000,000, as compared with 10,637 in 1885 with liabilities of $124,000 000. One person out of every 98 in business failed in the United States in 1886. In Canada one person in every 59.

Dun, Wiman & Co.'s weekly review of trade which will be issued to-morrow will say:—"Rarely has a year opened with greater disheartenment than the year 1886 and closed with more confidence. The disheartenment was not wholly justified, and there is some reason to feel that the confidence may be partly unwarranted. The failures for the year have been fewer than in 1885, and the aggregate of liabilities has been smaller, but the average for the year has been scarcely lower, and for the last quarter failures have been both more numerous and larger than for the same quarter of 1885, the increase in the amount of liabilities for that period being no less than 40 per cent. During the past month the failures have been unusual in amount of liabilities. Without known disturbance or depression in important branches of trade to cause them, they come like "bolts out of the blue," and seem to indicate an unexpected expansion of credits. When it is remembered that familiar causes of such expansion have existed; that the currency has been largely increased, and that wild speculations ran riot a month ago in stock and produce markets, these failures, with their rising volume of indebtedness, justify a fear that confidence has grown too fast. The natural inference is that some firms anxious to recover in a few months the losses of several weary years, have gone beyond their depth. How much unsoundness in commercial credits has thus been produced it is not yet possible to judge.

During the past week legitimate business has not been large in volume. The dullness usual in the closing week of the year is reported from all quarters, but dealers are busy in making accounts. The feeling of great confidence in trade during the past half-year has been very large, and generally remunerative, and the prevailing tendency is to count upon a continued enlargement for the next season, and it would be wise not to forget that it is possible to build too largely on the future, even in a time of real and healthy improvement. Prices have advanced during the week in nearly all speculative markets. Advices from abroad stimulates trading here, while stringency is noted at Boston. Chicago banks, anxious to keep western money out of this city, are talking of paying interest on deposits. Stocks are stronger in spite of a rise in the rate of exchange, which indicates that foreigners are selling to some extent. Wheat has been active, war rumors ruling, and has advanced 2½ cents, with sales of 31 millions bushels in five days. Corn advanced a cent, and pork products are active, dressed hogs rising half a cent, and lard a quarter. Cotton has stiffened on smaller receipts for the week, and widely circulated small crop estimates. Coffee has advanced half a cent; oil 2½ cents, and iron 75 cents per ton, with over 21d bid for the new iron, which the Thomas Company recently offered at 20d. Copper is weaker at 11⅝. The production for the year has been only 19,000,000 pounds less than in 1885, and larger than in any other year, while the consumption appears to have increased 26 per cent for the year. Coal carriers are all embarrassed by the lack of rolling stock, the output for the year having been the largest on record.

AFTERNOON CABLEGRAMS.

TEN MINERS KILLED IN A DURHAM COLLIERY.

The Trouble in the British Cabinet—Austria Seeking a Closer Alliance With Germany—Spain Contemplating the Erection of New Forts Along the Mediterranean.

London, Dec. 31, 3 p. m.

Ten Miners Killed.

Ten miners were killed this morning by the falling of a cage in a colliery at Houghton Le Spring, in Durham.

The British Cabinet.

The London Standard says: — "The Cabinet is prepared to give any post to Liberal Unionists except that of Premier. Efforts will be made to induce Sir Michael Hicks-Beach to become the successor of Churchill as the leader of the House of Commons if negotiations for a coalition should fail."

Vienna Rumors.

Herr Von Tizza, Hungarian Premier, is now at Vienna conferring with the Emperor and Austrian Ministers. There are rumors that the resignation of Churchill from the Cabinet has induced Austria to seek closer alliance with Germany. Events are tending toward a renewal of the triple alliance.

Spanish Forts.

The Spanish Government's decision to ask credits for new forts was reached at a Cabinet Council, over which the Queen presided. Large sums will be asked for forts along the Mediterranean coasts and at Cadiz, and more money will be asked, if necessary, to prepare for a European war. The Cabinet decided to adopt a neutral policy.

The "Times" on the Situation.

The London Times regrets the loss of a coalition Ministry through the opposition of the Conservative rank and file. It says it cannot look with much hope to the work of the coming session of Parliament. Irish and foreign affairs will task the Ministers to the utmost. The courage with which the Conservatives profess to be ready to face the trials in store for them can only be praised at the expense of their intelligence.

Hicks-Beach's Advice.

In the course of his reply to the Ulster Liberal-Unionist deputation, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach said:—"We want the full support of the Unionists, which, to my mind, cannot properly be given while part of them are regretful of circumstances. A chance was lost last summer. That chance has reoccurred. If you are able to influence the Liberal-Unionist leaders so that they shall avail themselves of that chance do so. There is not a man in the Cabinet who is not willing to make any sacrifice to obtain such result. The matter will rest with you and your leaders."

Cable Notes.

Henry M. Stanley had an hour's interview with King Leopold yesterday.

Mr. Foxwood, in a speech at Liverpool last evening, estimated the naval outlay in 1886 87 at $66 250,000.

The Servian Government has opened confidential negotiations for the confederation of the various Balkan States in the event of war.

M. Wishnegradsky, the new Russian Finance Minister, favors the conversion of the debt and State monopoly of the spirit and tobacco trades.

The Swiss Government intends to send to the authorities of each canton a private note concerning the mobilizing of troops in the event of war.

THE CANADA COMPANY.

The Company's Resources—The Prosperity of the Country—Increased Value of Lands—Dividend Declared.

London, Dec. 31. — The half-yearly meeting of the Canada Company was held here yesterday, with Mr. Gillespie presiding. The full dividend of £2 per share for the half-year was recommended. The chairman said the funds of the company now on hand amounted to £1,700, instead of £1,400 a week ago; of this the proposed dividend would absorb £1,600. The Chairman said the prosperity of Canada was returning more slowly than that of some other places; but there was marked progress. He believed they had seen the worst of the depressed times. The cereal crops being the backbone of Canada, a rise in the value of wheat was an important element in the future prosperity of the country. There has been a considerable improvement in the company's sales and leases of land over the previous year. A large proportion of the sales were of inferior low-priced lands. On 1,480 acres, valued in 1876 at 43 shillings and under, an increase of 100 per cent. had been [illegible]. On 1,789 acres, which were [illegible] 43 shillings an acre, the [illegible] of the

A Boarding House Burned.

Chicago, December 31.—The Minnesota House, an immigrant boarding place, was burned early this morning. Two servant girls were injured by jumping. Several lodgers were cut and bruised. All escaped in little more than their night clothing. The firemen are searching the building expecting to find some of the immigrants suffocated or burned to death.

CANADIAN WIRELETS.

There is a great boom in the phosphate mining industry in the Du Lievre district. Some remarkably rich deposits have recently been discovered.

It has been discovered that the fire on Sunday morning last in Turcotte & Co's. wholesale dry goods store, Montreal, by which property to the value of $20,000 was destroyed, was caused by burglars.

Patrick O'Meara, the defaulting assistant city clerk of Montreal, who absconded to New York about three years since, has returned to Montreal, and the Mayor has placed the matter in the hands of the City Attorney.

A meeting of the city sanitary and health officers and public analysts has been held in Montreal to discuss a proposed change in the Public Food Act, providing for the appointment of an inspector to examine all milk coming into the city and the farms whence it is brought.

The tender of the Imperial Bank was accepted yesterday for five per cent. Toronto City debentures, amounting altogether to about $800,000, as follows:—Five years at $102.25 ten years at $104.25 and twenty years at $108 50.

The Executive Committee of the Toronto City Council have recommended to the Council that $30,000 be appropriated towards purchasing a site for a new Drill Shed. The Government has agreed to erect the building if the City provides the site.

A proposition has been set on foot at Ottawa for Dominion militia men to commemorate the Queen's Jubilee next year, by the inauguration of an annual rifle competition to take place at the D. R. A. matches for a handsome challenge cup to be known as the jubilee cup.

There is some talk of a protest in the Ottawa election case, on the ground that Mr. Bronson is an American citizen. There will likely be a crop of protests in this section. Account, it is stated, has already been demanded in Glengarry, and steps will probably be taken in Russell, North Renfrew and South Renfrew. As regards Russell, there are some ballot boxes not yet in, and the result is not yet definitely settled.

It is understood that the C.P.R. have abandoned the idea of building a spur line across the Spray River as the falls to reach Banff. They intend putting up a magnificent hotel at Banff, one of the finest of that class in America, and they will offer all possible convenience for the conveyance of passengers to the hot springs at Banff, and also extra inducements in the shape of low passenger rates, but they will not build the spur line in the meantime. The hotel they will erect next summer, and it will be offered for sale as soon as the resort warrants that it will do a good business. This is in deference to the fears of other parties at Banff, who were afraid that the C.P.R. intended to create a monopoly at that place.

AMERICAN WIRELETS.

At Newark, N.J, three hundred and seventy-five Chinamen held a mass meeting yesterday to protest against the treatment they are receiving in the U. S. A Committee was appointed to prepare an appeal to the American people.

The smallest amount of ship building in Maine for ten years has been done during the past year. At present the only demand is for vessels for fishing purposes and the coasting trade. The outlook appears even more discouraging than a year ago.

Let every good citizen give his vote and influence to the Bonus By-law, and if necessary devote a little time on Monday next to secure its passage by a triumphant majority.

Poultry Pickings.

The best practice is to clean out the coops and houses daily; use air-slaked lime to sweeten and drive all vermin out, avoid filth and give good ventilation. It costs less in the long run to clean the poultry house daily, as one would the stable, than to do so semi-occasionally.

Carelessness must go out and business sense must come in to make poultry management successful. This is especially true where poultry is made a specialty. Nevertheless 50 to 100 fowls may be kept on every farm with little special care besides providing good, clean, comfortable quarters.

Young and inexperienced breeders should go slow, examine carefully always, visit other fanciers, learn by observation, ask questions; raise the first year only one breed, study characteristics, wants and vitality, and stick to that variety until you know them. Learn all there is in the fowls and in their care.

DOLLS THAT DELIGHT US.

The Way the Parisians Make the Playthings that Tickle the Household Tots.

New Orleans States.

Dolls play a conspicuous part not only in the decoration of the shop windows, but in the diminutive feminine world they take precedence over all other toys. The manufacturers of Paris produce the finest wax dolls. Each workman has models at home, and buys materials for manufacture. The skeleton is constructed out of lime and plaster of Paris, and the eyes, nose, mouth and ears are cut with a knife. The figure, being ready, is dipped in hot wax and dried. It then goes to the painter for features, then to the hair dresser for a wig, and finally to the work girls to be dressed. The money value of the dolls depends upon its coating of wax; the thinly coated ones usually crack in cold weather. The wax formerly was produced through the agency of the bee, a substitute is beginning to be found in oxocerite, or wax made from the residue of petroleum.

Dolls form a miniature world of inanimate women, since the young ladies who play with dolls prefer young lady dolls. It is difficult to comprehend that they require every article in use by the human being except food and drink. The styles of doll out fits change with the fashion in dolls. Their hair is dressed according to the fashion of the day. Their furniture, dresses and other articles of wear are patterned after the fashion of the animate world. The dolls themselves have undergone a marvelous evolution. They can walk, kneel down, sit down, stand up or be placed in any attitude. Not satisfied with this the inventor has provided them with interior apparatus to play musical airs. They squall and laugh artificially. They automatically say "papa" and "mama." In a word, the modern doll has been favored by invention as plants and animals are by selection, and threatens to talk to us automatically and become human without humanity and living without life.

It cannot be said that the modern progress of the doll toward artificial being has an elevated tendency on the young. The primeval object of the doll among the Greeks and Romans—an object persistent through all later history—was early to impart to the mind of the young girl the duties of maternity. The girl with her doll was a mother in embryo, as it were, learning maternal duty and love toward offspring. The doll of to-day is either a source of amusement or inordinate vanity. Even if endowed with an interior phonograph, and thus enabled to reproduce the human voice in any amount of speech, it must become a mere toy, stripped of its moral teaching.

The German Army.

The following particulars are taken from the "Explanatory Memorandum" which accompanied the bill for the increase of the army, now under the consideration of the German Reichstag: — The peace establishment has grown from 378,069 men in 1870, to 401,059 in 1871, and has stood at 427 274 since 1881. This force is distributed in 483 battalions of infantry, 20 battalions of Jagers, or light riflemen, 465 squadrons of cavalry, 340 batteries, with 1,404 field pieces fully horsed 31 battalions of foot artillerymen, 19 battalions of pioneers, two battalions of railway artificers, and 18 battalions of train. The increase, amounting to 41 135 men, will, if sanctioned by the Reichstag, be distributed as follows: Five regiments of infantry (four of them Prussian and one Saxon), 15 battalions of Prussian Jagers and one of Saxon do., 24 batteries of artillery (17 of them Prussian, two Bavarian, three Saxon, two Wurtemberger), nine companies of railway artificers (six Prussian, one each for Bavaria, Saxony, and Wurtemberg) one (Prussian) company of pioneers and 14 companies of train (12 Prussian, 1 Saxon, 1 Wurtemberger). One new cavalry brigade will be raised, and will be attached to the 14th (Royal Saxon) Army corps. There will also be, of course, the corresponding divisional and brigade staffs for the new forces. 6 generals, 65 staff officers, besides the regimental officers. These will include, for the infantry, 5 colonels, 35 majors, 120 captains and 360 lieutenants; for the Jagers, 1 major, 4 captains and 12 lieutenants; for the artillery, 21 majors, 24 captains and 48 lieutenants; railway artificers, 3 majors, 9 captains and 18 lieutenants; for the pioneers, 1 captain and 2 lieutenants; for the train, 14 captains (Rittmeister) and 28 lieutenants. The memorandum concludes with a piece of information which will be new to very many persons. The legally obligatory period of service with the colors in Germany is three years. The average actual period for the infantry soldier is only two years and four and a half months.

Scarrow has a good municipal record. Vote for him.

Strong efforts are being made to induce the Pardon Board of Pennsylvania, to pardon Simeon Schnafisky of Pittsburgh, who had been in prison for a year and a half for assault. His fellow Hebrews are anxious to see him exonerated, and one of them gives this curious reason why he was convicted: "In the first place the charge is untrue. The day the trial came off was one of the most solemn in our religion. No one dared profane it by appearing in a judicial trial. As a result he was found guilty. Had it occurred on any other day his acquittal would have followed."

The electors of London are reminded that the object of the Bonus By-law to be voted upon on Monday, is NOT to grant a bonus to any Railway Company, but simply to authorize the City Council (through the London and South-eastern Railway Company) to expend a sum not to exceed $75,000, in providing terminal facilities for the Canada Southern or Michigan Central Railway.

At the half-yearly meeting of the Canada Company, held in London Thursday, the full dividend of £2 per share for the half year was declared.

In reference to an item stating that an overcoat was stolen from Mr. A. Morris' second-hand store, Mr. Morris writes that he does not now carry on the second-hand business.

Miss Fannie Matthews, who eloped with the Rev. C. B. Seals, of East Lynn, Ill., and who was caught here the other day, has been placed in her mother's care by the Pinkerton detective agency.

The month just closed was a big one for marriages, there being 65 registered with the City Clerk. The births numbered 44 and the deaths 40. For the year the totals were 521 births, 405 marriages and 304 deaths.

William Barlow was brought before Squire J. B. Smyth at Hodge's office yesterday morning. He paid $1 and costs for assaulting his wife, and the charge of malicious damage to Fred. Somers' property was withdrawn.

Alex. Thompson, of Appin, was fined $1 and costs and bound over to keep the peace for one year by Squire Peters, at Schram's office yesterday. The charge was using abusive and threatening language towards Robert McKay, of Glencoe.

On Wednesday evening a pleasing ceremony took place at the residence of Mr. John Hindmarsh, G. T. R. engineer, when his daughter, Mary A., was united in marriage with Mr. Alvin Wigle, of Kingsville. Rev. W. Godwin performed the ceremony, and Miss Lizzie Hindmarsh officiated as bridesmaid, with Rev. J. H. Kirkland as groomsman.

A man called Doherty, with a face looking considerably the worse for hard usage, applied at the Police Station yesterday afternoon for a warrant against the bar-tender at Rowell's hotel, who he says knocked him down and loosened several teeth in his jaw. The warrant was not issued, but Doherty was told he could have a summons if he came around when he was sober.

Alex. Waddell, drunk, was fined $5 or 20 days at yesterday's Police Court. Owen Cambridge did not appear in answer to a charge of non-payment of license fee, and the case was enlarged till Wednesday. A similar charge against Wm. D. Lyons was withdrawn. E. J. Cushman and Jas. Quinn, drunks, were discharged, and judgment was suspended in Thomas Tayler's case.

On Wednesday evening a large number of persons assembled at the Talbot Street Baptist Church for the purpose of bidding a social farewell to their former pastor, Rev. Alex Grant, who is about to remove to Toronto. A bountiful spread of good things was provided, and after they had received full justice the chair was taken by Rev. Mr. Porter, who briefly introduced Mr. Grant. That gentleman expressed the regret he felt at parting from his many friends in London, and spoke of the tender associations which the city possessed for him. He reviewed the growth of the Baptist church, and closed by urging that harmony should continue to exist between old and young. Hon. David Mills paid a high tribute to the character and energy of Mr. Grant, and alluded to the growth and success of the Baptist Church in the Province. Rev. Mr. Porter expressed his regret at the departure of Mr. Grant, and wished him God-speed in his great work. During the evening the choir furnished music, and recitations were given by Miss Mittie Fraloe.

THE MITCHELL HORROR.

Sad and Tragic Death of Mr. and Mrs. John Daw.

Mitchell papers to hand yesterday bring fuller information regarding the terrible accident which occurred near that town last Saturday afternoon. About three o'clock the whole community was shocked with the tidings from the northward that a double tragedy had been enacted, resulting in the death of an old couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Daw. It appears that Mr. Daw was out in the barnyard looking after the cattle when a bull, about one and a half years old, attacked him, and before anyone had any knowledge of the fact the poor man was gorged in a terrible manner. His ribs were all broken in, one shoulder and arm broken, and his face and head fearfully bruised. He was still alive when found; the bull had spent his rage upon his helpless victim, and left him a mangled mass of humanity with just life enough to groan. A neighbor woman, Mrs. Fitzgerald, first discovered the unfortunate man and called his aged wife, Mrs. Daw, out of the house. On seeing her husband's mangled form lying on the ground, she exclaimed, "Oh, my poor old man!" and fell over against Mrs. Fitzgerald and expired in a few minutes. The neighbors were aroused and medical aid called, but by the time the doctors arrived both husband and wife were dead. Of the deceased we can only say they were a kindly old couple, frugal and industrious, and they leave a grown-up family all respected and well to do. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon.

THE BONUS BY LAW.

Arranging to Get Out the Voters on Monday Next—Citizens Nominated.

The London Board of Trade met in their rooms, Masonic Temple, yesterday afternoon, the following members being present:—W. J. Reid, A. M. Smart, T. Smallman, J. A. Nelles, A. D. Cameron, J. D. Labelle, T. R. Parker, W. R. Hobbs, J. S. Pearce, T. Green, Col. Walker, J. W. Little, C. S. Hyman, B. Cronyn, C. Murray, W. Y. Brunton, I. Danks, Mayor Hodgens, J. B. Laing, T. S. Hobbs, John Marshall, F. H. Butler, W. Gray, S. F. Glass. The chair was occupied by the President, Mr. J. W. Little, with Mr. Nelles as Secretary.

Mr. W. T. Strong was balloted for and duly elected as a member of the Board.

The following gentlemen were proposed as members: S. F. Glass, W. Gray, S. Grigg, F. H. Butler, John Burland, T. B. Escott, John Bowman, James B. Vining, J. R. Minhinnick. They will be balloted for at next meeting.

The President stated that he had received a communication a few weeks since, signed by a large number of merchants and citizens, asking that a meeting of the Board be called at as early a date as possible to consider the question of placing steamboats again on the river, and also to discuss as to whether it is advisable to have a Western Fair for 1887 or not.

On motion of Mr. Cronyn, seconded by Thomas Green, it was decided that a meeting be called to consider these questions at a date to be named by Messrs. Cronyn, Brunton and Reid.

The Chairman then stated that the next matter was the railway question, and called upon Mr. Cronyn to address the meeting.

Mr. Cronyn was sure they all knew the object for which they had met. The by-law that would be the consummation of all their efforts to secure railway competition would be voted upon next Monday, and it was desirable that it should be passed. The difficulty to contend with was the apathy of the voters, and the trouble in getting them out, and he thought they should have at each polling place good men to get out the vote. They had carried it though so far, and should finish the work on Monday.

Mr. Hyman believed they should have some organization, but the question was as to whether they should go to the expense of hiring teams or not. He thought they could have two good men at each polling sub-division, and the trouble was not in passing the by-law, but in getting out a sufficient number of votes to make the required number.

On motion, it was decided to appoint members for each polling sub-division, and the following were selected:—

No. 1 WARD—No. 1 Sub division J. S. Pearce, J. A. Nelles; No. 2—W. R. Hobbs, John Campbell; No. 3—F. H. Butler, John Marshall, T. S. Hobbs; No. 4—John Labatt, C. B. Hunt, R. Bennett.

No. 2 WARD—No. 1 W. J. Reid, M. Masuret, G. C. Gibbons, J. B. Laing; No. 2—A. M. Smart, E. T. Essery, A. O. Jeffrey, Col. Walker, John Green; No. 3—C. S. Hyman, I. Danks, S. O'Meara.

No. 3 Ward—No. 1—A. D. Cameron, P. Mulkern; No. 2—T. H. Smallman, Thomas Green; No. 3—John Purdom, John Forestal, W. H. Winnett.

No. 4 Ward—No. 1—C. Murray, W. T. Edge, Hugh Hartshorn; No. 2—T. Macbeth, E. Fitzgerald, John Williams; No. 3—Mayor Hodgens, John Christie, J. D. Lawe.

No. 5 Ward—No. 1—B. Cronyn, J. B. Laidlaw; No. 2—S. F. Glass, E. J. Carlin, W. Gray; No. 3—A. Black, W. D. Ross.

SUBURBAN MUNICIPAL POLITICS.

A Second Meeting in London South to Discuss Affairs of the Year.

Messrs. Odell, Skuse, Gerry and Parnell addressed another meeting of London South ratepayers last night in Trebilcock's hall, which was presided over by Mr. John Pritchard. There was a fair attendance.

Reeve Odell, in addition to the ground touched on previously, announced that this would be his last trial for office, whether successful or not.

Mr. Gerry expressed his views on the pathmaster question, advocating the appointment of good men to the position. He was a strong advocate of payments of township money being made by check instead of through the Deputy Reeves. He was a candidate for their suffrages, and would, if returned, look closely after the economical administration of their affairs.

Mr. J. O. Coughlin came before the people of Westminster as a candidate for the Reeveship. If elected he would conduct its affairs with due regard to economy. He reminded his hearers that he had served them faithfully in the past, and thought his record should be considered. He did not say they would go very far wrong if they supported either of his opponents, but he promised to serve them to the best of his ability if their choice fell on him.

Mr. Marshall questioned the legality of some of the amendments to the municipal system proposed in Mr. Parnell's platform. He doubted if they had the power to divide the ward into districts under commissioners. It was a question whether doubling the statute labor tax, adopting the Badgerow system of raising revenue, or annexation to the city was the best way out of their difficulty.

Mr. Parnell did not know whether the division into districts could be legally accomplished, but that did not interfere with the merits of the scheme, which could be agitated for. He was in favor of increasing the statute labor tax. He did not want an expensive hall built for the Council to meet in, but a permanent place of meeting provided as cheaply as might be.

Mr. G. D. Sutherland would not support placing the statute labor tax in the hands of Commissioners who would spend it all in the section or street where the most votes were.

Mr. Mills advocated the appointment of a general Commissioner. It was too big a job for the Deputy-Reeve to look after the whole Ward.

Mr. McElheran asked what was done with the money collected as dog tax.

Mr. Odell said the township applied the surplus to the General Improvement Fund every two or three years.

Mr. McElheran did not think it was managed right. It remained in the hands of an official, and was used by him instead of being deposited and drawing interest. He believed they collected quite enough taxes, but did not expend the money judiciously.

Mr. Thomas Brenton could not understand how, if the work of a Deputy Reeve was so hard, there were so many men after the position. He would go in for electing one man and keeping him there till he died. (Laughter.)

After some further conversational efforts the meeting adjourned.

FREE PRESS CORRESPONDENCE.

Mr Reynolds' Disclaimer.

Editor Free Press, London.

DEAR SIR,—In your daily paper of Dec. 28th, you print a letter entitled "Ross Brought to Book," and signed "Robert H. Reynolds." Were there the least particle of truth in the letter, from beginning to end, I should not be so much ashamed of the forged name. But as the meeting was (and our poll here has proved it to be) a decided success for the Hon. G. W. Ross, I must say that the writer of said letter is not only a forger but a despicable liar, and I am extremely pleased that his lies had no effect on the people of West Middlesex on election day. Thanking you for inserting this in your widely circulated and valuable paper.

I am, yours truly,

A Home Rule Suggestion.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—As a ratepayer of this city I would like to call upon my fellow-citizens to do all they can to discourage the municipal aspirations of those citizens who are so anxious for Aldermanic honors, that they attempt to get into the Council by running in a Ward in which they do not reside, and in which they have not the same interest as they would if they resided within its limits. I cannot understand how the electors can support any such candidates. If they cannot get a nomination in their own Wards, let them wait a few years more, and probably, if they are worthy, they may be nominated by the electors of the Wards in which they live. Until such time I hope they will be left at the foot of the polls in the Wards which they now seek to represent.

Yours truly, HOME RULE.

Mr M. Anderson to Mr. Little.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—At the meeting held in the Town Hall last evening to consider the bonus of $75,000 asked for by the South-eastern R. R. Co. to build a depot, I made the statement that when the lease of the L. & P. S. R. to the G. T. R. expired—which would be in five years—the road and depot would revert back to the city. Mr. Little, in reply, said that the Grand Trunk had a separate lease of the station building of the London & Port Stanley R. R. for 99 years. Therefore it could not revert back to the city, as stated by Mr. Anderson. Now, Mr. Little was either ignorant of what he was saying or wilfully misrepresented the matter, for there is no such lease in existence, nor never has been. The depot building belongs to the L. & P. S. R.

The Railroad Traveller's Rights.

From the Chicago Herald.

A man named Myron T. Ely has done the public some service in compiling from court reports a manual of the railway passenger's legal rights. Why, when, and where may a passenger be ejected from a train is frequently a perplexing question for conductors, and the exercise of the right is certainly humiliating to passengers.

For instance, it is one thing to prevent a drunken or disorderly person or a "bad character" from boarding a train, and quite another to expel such a one after being lawfully on board.

But having lawfully allowed a drunken man to get on board he cannot be expelled during the journey unless he misbehaves.

Then, too, a company may refuse to allow a passenger to board a train without a ticket, but if he succeeds in getting aboard he cannot be expelled for want of a ticket if he tenders the legal fare.

But if you refuse to pay your fare and the train has been stopped for the purpose of putting you off, a subsequent offer to pay does not give you a right to remain nor take from the conductor the right to exclude you from the car.

Nor having been put off do you gain a right to re-enter immediately on tendering either the fare or a ticket. You forfeit your right to continue on that train.

Except that if the train stops at a regular station and before being ejected there the fare is offered, the conductor should receive it.

It is a familiar rule that in case it is lawful to expel a passenger it must be done with as little violence and force as possible, and in a manner so as not to injure him.

In some States a statute provides that the expulsion must be at a regular station, or near some dwelling house. A violation of such a provision makes the company liable.

You must exhibit or deliver up a ticket when properly requested. You cannot ride upon a bogus or improper ticket, nor on one which has "expired," nor on a forged or stolen ticket, nor yet on one purchased with counterfeit money. An Illinois decision makes you liable to expulsion, without redress, if you, having no ticket, refuse to pay fare, even though the fare asked be more than the price of the ticket. You may be ejected for violation of law, or for wilful breaches of any reasonable rules made by the company. You cannot ride on a ticket purchased with counterfeit money, if the company's agents are apprised of that fact.

Where there is no such statute requiring expulsions to be made at some regular stopping place or near a dwelling, the passenger may be put off at any convenient point, except that he cannot be expelled where or in a way he will be knowingly exposed to injury.

The moral of all this is to buy a clean ticket, providing you can't get a pass, and then behave yourself.

TAR AND TOLU.

It is important at this season of variable temperatures to insure against the settling of a cough or cold which, if neglected, may result in a serious throat or lung affection. Dr. Oakwood's compound syrup of tar and tolu is a panacea alike for the simple and more aggravated forms of these common but troublesome ailments. Ask your druggist for it. tuts

Zachariah Hartman, of Mauch Chunk, tried to cross the Lehigh River on the ice near Drifton Junction, and broke through. He had been in the water nearly an hour when a brakeman on a passing train saw him, and gave the alarm when the train reached the station. Conductor Arndt at once pulled the bell rope out of the cars of his train, and with a lot of his men ran up the track. They found Hartman forty feet from shore, clinging to the ice, unable to move and only partly conscious. Two boards were laid on the ice, but they were not long enough to reach him. Then Conductor Arndt made a noose in the rope, and, swinging it around and around, cast it toward the imperilled man. The noose spread out and settled over his head and shoulders, and in a jiffy the railroad men had him on solid land. It was two hours before Hartman could speak.

Every workingman should go solid for Scarrow.

TO MODERATE THEIR RANCOR

The majority gained by Mr. W. R. Meredith at the recent election in this city, as it used to be, was 313 votes. Last Tuesday, owing to the inclusion of London East, a new element was introduced which had previously been associated in Provincial politics with Middlesex East. So when comparisons are made as to the reduction of Mr. Meredith's majority from that which he carried in 1883, it should be borne in mind that a large Grit vote was "gerymandered" into the constituency. The result was not, however, as had been anticipated. Mr. Meredith's election was not in any way jeopardized by it, but Mr. Tooley's way back to the Ontario Legislature was made a little easier. When the Dominion elections take place London East will vote with East Middlesex again, leaving the old city limits as the area over which the electoral struggle will take place. Viewed from this point, and taking the recent vote in favor of Mr. Meredith as the basis, the Conservative candidate, Hon. John Carling, will begin with 313 votes in his favor. This showing may tend to moderate the enthusiasm of some Grits who seem to have been boasting in the absence of any exact knowledge of the facts of the case. The return of Mr. Carling by a larger majority than at the election of 1882, may be confidently calculated upon. It would be a result richly deserved, for there is no man who has proven himself so useful to his constituents as has the city member.

SECRETS LAID BARE

The Hudson Bay Company are this winter sending their fur collections over the Canada Pacific and other railways to the Atlantic seaboard for shipment to England. One train passed through to New York a day or two ago with $60,000 worth of assorted peltries, and sometime before a consignment of some $71,000 worth passed to the same destination. This is one of the indications of the breaking up of the old system carried on for a century and a half in the Northwest, whereby all this traffic was carried to Hudson Bay, to be passed secretly out of the "back door" of Canada. By this policy, so dexterously planned and executed (vide Mr. W. McD. Dawson's report) the fur trade was carried away back into the interior from the very shores of the lakes and rivers adjoining the settlements of Canada, to keep it out of view, and so lessen the chances of opposition springing up. The report of Mr. Joseph Cauchon also says, touching this point, that "the public in general was kept in the dark respecting a trade which, though partly carried on in the very centre of Canada, and within range of steam navigation, was so managed as to pass by a circuitous route, by means of the primitive canoe, or over portages on men's backs, away hundreds of miles into the interior, and round by Hudson's Bay." By keeping the nature and extent of the great fur trade out of the public sight, by contriving by a dexterous use of language, to associate the great North-west with the Hudson's Bay region as a land of ice and snow, without explicitly asserting it, and by devising maps calculated to confirm this view, and causing them to be introduced into the schools, the secret was kept locked up for generations. Even so late as 1875, a Premier of Canada, the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie, was still under the mental shackle of this old and deceptive mode of popular education. He refused to believe that Manitoba and the great Territories lying beyond were fit for any important development as an agricultural country. He persisted in associating it with the Hudson Bay, by describing it as a land "cursed by an Arctic climate," when the mere fact that was patent to all, that thousands of wild cattle ranged those plains through summer and winter in thrifty condition, indicated the country as one in which civilized man could make a happy and prosperous home. It was this old time notion which staid the hand of the Grit government in prosecuting the Canada Pacific Railway. They dawdled with the matter, professing to have no certain knowledge that could justify the undertaking, and were fearful that even were the road built it would not be remunerative, that, in fact, "there would not be traffic enough to pay for axle grease." It remained for Sir John A. Macdonald and his colleagues to drag the secrets of the Great Lone Land to the light of day, and make it no longer possible for the Hudson Bay or any other Company to carry on extensive commercial operations and exercise valuable privileges there in which the Canadian people should not participate. The road was built, and with such a rush, too, that the world was startled as from a sleep, and awakened to the fact that a new Empire that had lain dormant as the heritage of the bear and buffalo, and out of which the fur traders had made colossal fortunes, was now, as if by the stroke of a wizard's wand, thrown open freely to all mankind. It was the completion of this capstone to Confederation to which Sir Edward Watkin alluded at a meeting in England last June, where he spoke of Canada as "that miracle of modern times." The C. P. R. now not only carries the peltries of the H. B. Co., is developing a local traffic in wheat, in timber, in coal, in meat and live stock, is laying the teeming wealth of the North west at the doors of Ontario, and creating new outlets for our manufactures, so well fostered by the National Policy; but it is opening traffic with Montana, Idaho and California, as a through line to the eastern seaboard; it will shortly carry the English and foreign mails far on the road to China, Japan, and Australia, and bring from thence the rich merchandise of the Old World. All this is the noble fruit of progressive government which has lent itself to the hewing out of a great future for Canada, and converting the whole land from its wastes and wildernesses and its little pariah politics, into a great and flourishing nationality.

THE RESCUE OF EMIN BEY.

The heroic Stanley is again on his way to the wilds of Africa. On Thursday he had a long audience with the King of the Belgians, under whose direction this fresh and perilous journey is being undertaken. It has been generally understood that no expedition would be organized until the arrival of Dr. Junker in London with the latest information as to the existing obstacles on the various routes proposed. But it would be perfectly practicable for Stanley to meet Junker on the way, since the famous Russian explorer is to be in Cairo on Saturday week, Jan. 8. Indeed, he has already urged that Stanley should be sent in command of a relief expedition, as some fighting must be done, and he has declared that the roads are now practicable. There seems to be a full purpose to hurry forward the relief expedition, and hence we may presume that Stanley goes in advance to make the preliminary arrangements without further loss of time.

An Austrian by birth, and originally a physician by profession, Emin found himself ten years ago serving under Gordon, then Governor-General of Egypt's domains, extending nearly to the equator. As a man of education, high scientific attainments, tact, courage, and enthusiastic devotion to his work in Africa, Gordon sent Dr. Emin on a mission from his headquarters on the Upper Nile to M'tesa, the King of Uganda, in the region of the great lakes. His success was followed by advancement in executive work, and within two years he became Governor of the equatorial province, when Gordon received a still more extensive command. During the four succeeding years Emin distinguished himself by his practical financial management, making his province a scouce of profit instead of expense, and also devoted himself to the improvement and civilization of the native tribes, teaching them several mechanical arts, greatly enlarging their agriculture, and maintaining good order while repressing the slave traffic. In the midst of these practical works he found time for valuable geographical researches and general scientific observations in many parts of the extensive Province. Keeping his force of Egyptian troops in good discipline, he was able for a long time to repel the Mahdi's movements in his direction, and to hold his Province faithful to the Khedive. It was to Emin, indeed, that Gordon contemplated at one time a retreat from Khartoum, by ascending the Nile, a plan which he abandoned through unwillingness to desert his post and the people who had remained faithful to him.

The gradual extension of the Mahdi's sway out off Emin from the outer world, and from the early part of 1883, we believe, until the present year nothing was heard from him. Less than two months ago letters from him reached Zanzibar, whither they had been forwarded by his companion, Dr. Junker, who was himself endeavoring to make his way to the Zanzibar coast, and who, in fact, arrived there about three weeks ago. The letters told a story of heroic and sanguinary defense for months against the steadily encroaching armies of the Mahdi and a gradual retreat up the Nile from station to station, until Emin had arrived at Wadelai. There he found himself between two fires, the hostile forces of the Mahdi on the north and those of Mwanga, the King of Uganda, on the south. Perhaps he might have perished there save for the neighboring King of Unyoro, who sent him some supplies and the assurance of his amity. Since then the dangers of his position have apparently been greatly increased, as news has come that Mwanga attacked the King of Unyoro and totally defeated his army.

If the sympathy and applause of the whole civilized world does not go with Stanley, it will be because his errand is so little understood. He has given up a long lecture tour in America and Australia, which was certain to yield him a profit of $75,000 to $80,000, and has exchanged months of ease and lionizing for the perils and hardships of a forced march through thousands of miles of African wilderness, at the head of a private expedition which will be too large to hide or run and too weak to fight its way through formidable opposition. If he succeeds, the prospects of permanently maintaining a civilized government in a territory of enormous extent and inhabited by some five thousand natives now more or less elevated above their neighbors, will be immensely improved, and the brave Emin who has held his own, in the midst of a sea of enemies, for years, will be comparatively safe. Failure would be very likely to mean death. It is the quintessence of that daring nobility which has animated so many British explorers that leads Stanley to throw aside his well-earned laurels and hope of rest for the sake of such a task. None but a hero could attempt it.

In the course of the work of restoration of St. Bartholomew the Great, London, the architect has discovered, worked up into the walls of the apse and of the Lady Chapel to the eastward of it, a number of the original carved stones which formed part of the Norman Church. Among others are some massive caps of pillars, mullions of windows, etc., and also some of the more delicate stone facery work of the Decorated period. These stones have been collected together, and are now laid out for inspection in the Lady Chapel.

ALBERTA COAL.

The Western States are now suffering from a fuel famine, which suggests an early resort on their part to the great coal fields at Alberta. The States of Montana, Idaho, Dakota and Minnesota, are dependent on Pennsylvania for their coal supplies. But owing to various causes, the lack of adequate supplies, and the difficulties of haulage over long distances, and the consequent high prices, the people of those States have been for some time left with short supplies. It is natural therefore that they should seek to open a trade of this kind with the North-west, where there is an abundance of the very best kinds of coal, which can be easily made available by extending a line of railway across the frontier. In this way it is probable that a United States market will ere long be found for millions of tons of Alberta coal, and a large inflow of American money amongst out North-west settlers.

West Elgin Mercury:—A charming Xmas number of the London FREE PRESS is to hand. It is charming in appearance as well as in detail.

Strathroy Dispatch: — The brilliant Christmas number circulated by the London FREE PRESS last week is the best of the many advertisements of lithograph work the company has yet turned out.

We learn that the British Government have ordered twelve 82 ton guns at Woolwich for the defences in British Columbia. The first gun is to be ready by April, and we understand the Canadian Pacific Railway are now building a truck to take it across.

Le Monde says of the Ontario elections: "Meanwhile, the result does not change the relative power of each political party in the province. And if we had general elections to-morrow, Sir John A. Macdonald would be sustained by a large majority, as has always been the case in Ontario."

About 1,000 children are engaged in pantomimic entertainments in London during the holiday season. The majority are from three to ten years of age, though one child of only a year and a half was noticed. Most of them are employed on the stage from nine in the morning until one o'clock the next morning.

The champion toboggan slide is being constructed at Kingston, N.Y. The toboggans will go a long distance down one steep incline, and, parsdoxical as it may appear, on the return trip they will descend nearly as great a distance, at the end of which, on ascending a long flight of stairs, the tobogganers will find themselves at the point where they started from.

Montreal Gazette:—There were, undoubtedly, many grounds of attack upon the Government which would have commended themselves to the electors; the administration of Mr. Mowat has been by no means so perfect as his admirers claim; the state of the finances of the province threatens an early resort to direct taxation; the school book monopoly is an outrageous imposition upon the people; the expenditure upon colonization roads has been invariably made with a view to gain party advantages, and upon these and many other questions of administration the Government could have been effectively attacked.

Mr. Graber has lately made some curious observations upon the effect of light upon eyeless animals, a report of which appears in the proceedings of the Vienna Academy. He put a number of earthworms into a box, which was provided with an aperture at one side, through which light was allowed ingress. The result of many experiments showed that the worms sought the darkest part of their temporary prison, and that at least two-fifths of their number shunned the light. Experimenting with rays of different colors by means of stained glass, he found that the worms exhibited a marked preference for red light.

The Advertiser defends and excuses the conduct of the intoxicated Young Liberals who affrighted Mr. Meredith's family by their riotous performances at his house at midnight on Tuesday, while that gentleman was absent from home. For so doing, and in further ventilating the subject, the Young Liberals in question will not feel in any way indebted to the Advertiser. The plea that they were "hilarious," or intoxicated, is no excuse whatever for such a display of rowdyism. A line must be drawn somewhere, and all respectable people draw it at this, and severely censure the misconduct of the Young Liberals in driving to Mr. Meredith's house yelling and howling like Comanches. No doubt they are all most heartily ashamed of it, and so should be the Advertiser, if it had a spark of manliness.

Notice to Contractors

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Midland Harbor Works," will be received until Tuesday, the 25th day of January, 1887, inclusively, for the construction of Works at Midland, Simcoe County, Ontario, according to a plan and specification to be seen on application to the Reeve, Midland, at the office of the Resident Engineer, Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway, Peterboro', and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa, where printed forms of tender can be obtained.

Persons desirous of tendering are requested to make personal enquiry relative to the work to be done, and to examine the locality themselves, and are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, the blanks properly filled in, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque, made payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, for the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000), which will be forfeited if the party decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order, A. GOBEIL, Secretary.

NEW TEACHERS NAMED.

Five Young Ladies Recommended for Appointment.

At the meeting of No 1 Committee of the Board of Education, Mr. Sharman occupied the chair, and there were also present Messrs. Love, Campbell, Fraser, J. H. Wilson, Ball, McArthur, Inspector Boyle, and the Secretary.

The Chairman explained that the meeting was called for the purpose of selecting teachers to fill five vacancies in the teaching staff caused by the resignation of city teachers.

The applications on file were considered and the following were recommended for appointment: Misses Baxter, Fleming, Oliphant, Saelton and Butt; the latter to be appointed to the Protestant Home, and the others to be located by the Inspector.

The resolution passed at the last meeting of the London Teachers' Association was considered relative to the employment of a special music teacher, and on motion it was resolved that action be deferred.

Adjourned.

OTTAWA.

Lieut.-Gov. Dewdney — A Dangerous Counterfeit—Patent Business.

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—Lt.-Gov. Dewdney arrived from the North-west to-day with Mrs. Dewdney.

Dangerous counterfeit ten-dollar notes of the Canadian Bank of Commerce are in circulation in this district. The paper on which the counterfeits are printed is of a slightly darker color than that used in the genuine notes.

The business transacted in the patent branch of the Department of Agriculture during the past twelve months shows an enormous increase over preceding years. The revenue derived from patents was somewhat over $74 000. Upwards of 30,000 persons visited the patent model rooms, Western Block, during the year.

Births, marriages and deaths in the city during the past year were:—Births, 1,300; marriages, 300; deaths, 1,080. Of this number 866 deaths occurred amongst the Catholic population, 130 marriages and 296 births.

FIRE FLASHES.

Omemee, Ont., Dec. 31.—Alex. Fehr's saw and shingle mill, with a lot of shingles and lumber, was destroyed by fire last night. Cause of fire unknown. Loss about $5,000; no insurance.

Fishermen's Luck.

Gloucester, Mass. Dec 31.—The year has been unprofitable and disastrous to fishermen from this port and attended with loss of life. The loss this year has exceeded the average. The figures comprised a total loss of twenty six vessels, value at $152,300. The number of lives lost was 137.

MR. STRINGER'S POSITION.—The Tixer is fond of accusing its contemporaries of perpetrating "despicable tricks" upon citizens, whenever anything is brought to the surface regarding the standing of any of its political friends. The latest grievance is that the FREE PRESS did not consult Ald. Stringer before publishing the facts connected with an order in force on the Grand Trunk Railway, prohibiting any of its employes from running for or holding municipal or political positions. The fact is that Ald. Stringer received intimation that he must give up his candidature for Alderman of No. 3 Ward or resign his position in the shops. It is known that Mr. Stringer does not purpose giving up his employment, and as the G. T. R authorities will not make "fish" of him and "flash" of other employes, it is surmised that his object is simply to put the electors to the trouble and the city to the expense of a useless contest. The FREE PRESS has no quarrel with Mr. Stringer, but it is aware that Asst.-Supt. Larmour informed a citizen yesterday afternoon that it was his (Stringer's) intention to resign his candidature. The "roorback" of the Tixer that "it would now be impossible for him to withdraw" is on a par with its election intelligence. The three G. T. R. employes nominated as Councillors at Windsor have not found it "impossible to withdraw," and Mr. Stringer has between now and Monday next to follow their example.

THE NEW YEAR.—Midnight. At the churches the voices of the worshippers rise in gratitude to the Almighty for the blessings vouchsafed during the past and in supplications that the Divine favor may be bestowed even more freely in the time to come. A spirit of calmness pervades the streets as though nature itself were mourning over the close of the old year, and the only sound heard is the steady tread of the policeman on his beat, the hum of the busy presses in the newspaper offices, and the boisterous song or laughter of some belated individuals who are celebrating the night in their own peculiar fashion. The city clocks sound the solemn hour that marks the departure of the old year, and casts it into the long roll of time that can never be recalled. As the last strokes die out glad cries are heard, and suddenly comes stealing softly upon the air the melody evoked from the chimes in St. Paul's. They are performing the old off fulfilled duty of ringing out the old and in the new. It is a joyous, merry peal that plainly indicates the advent of the new year, which is ushered into existence fraught with great hopes and possibilities, and it conveys to all the pleasant greeting, "A Happy New Year."

YOUNG MEN suffering from the effects of early evil habits, the result of ignorance and folly, who find themselves weak, nervous and exhausted; also MIDDLE AGED and OLD MEN who are broken down from the effects of abuse or over-work, and in advanced life feel the consequences of youthful excess, send for and READ M. V. Lubon's Treatise on Diseases of Men. The book will be sent sealed to any address on receipt of two 3c. stamps. Address M. V. Lubon, 47 Wellington St. East, Toronto, Ont. †

Men's and Boys' Woollen Underclothing at cost; Men's Cardigan Jackets and Scarfs at cost.—R. S Murray & Co. tuts

As Chairman of the Finance Committee Mr. James Cowan gained a thorough insight into the several departments of city business, and can utilize that knowledge to the great advantage of the people if elected. Vote for him.

The voting on the favorite oil paintings now on exhibition in Victoria Hall, will continue to-day. The score last night at the close of the polls stood as follows:—Miss Buckle, No. 22, 41 votes; Miss Gunn, No. 29, 31, and Miss Woods, No. 26, 27.

Mr. James Cowan, the popular candidate for the Mayoralty, has enjoyed a long period of services in the City Council. This entitles him to consideration at the hands of the ratepayers.

Vote for Scarrow and the rebuilding of the Car Works.

THE UNITED STATES.

The public debt statement will probably show a reduction during the past month of a little over eight million dollars.

Montreal, Dec 31.—While the storeman was filling high wines in the grocery store of P. Legard to-day, a spark from his candle set the place on fire. Damage $6,600; covered by insurance.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

Cleveland, O., Dec 31.—At 10 30 this morning two boilers in the Empire Mower and Reaper Works at Akron exploded. The two-story brick boiler house was completely demolished. Several men were buried in the ruins, which took fire, and it was with difficulty that they were rescued. One man was killed and three were fatally injured.

A Girl's Protest.

Norristown Herald.

We're getting very tired of the silly things men say
About the "good old-fashioned girl," and her superior way.
The highest point of nonsense they have fairly overtopped,
And we "the girls" decide that it is really time they stopped!

Our dear old grandmas—bless them!—never mean to lead astray
Young Ned or Tom, when, with a loving smile at us, they say,
"Ah, boys, the girls are different from what they used to be!"
But we think they've forgotten all the fun they had, you see!

They remember all the spinning, but the dancing they forget!
They can recollect the baking—not the way they used to fret
When they had to stay at home sometimes, to dust the parlour clean,
When lots of other girls and boys were "dancing on the green!"

Why should a girl sit down and spin from morning until night,
With so much big machinery—do you think it would be right?
And modern girls can make good pies, and fancy dishes, too,
And just as well, we'll wager, as the old ones used to do.

But for an instant we'll assume the girls were better then,
Were more up-to-date, industrious—but how about the men?
We think our grandpa just too nice when sometimes he will say,
"Oh, girls, the boys are not so fine as in my old-time day!"

But, seriously, we should think that older folks would know
That times are very different from fifty years ago!
"The girls" must follow with the world, which surely has advanced—

* * * * *

One day grandma forgot and we were perfectly entranced
When she said that she was noted once for a minuet she danced.

A CARDINAL SIN

BY HUGH CONWAY.

But not without noise. There would be a crash of broken glass, which would give the alarm. He must find a better way than that one.

What made him the more anxious to proceed quietly was the fact of this one window being so ably guarded. Every other window barred and bolted—this one, the very one a housebreaker would choose, left at his mercy. It made him think that after all someone was inside, or someone would return very soon. The truth, although Allan knew it not, was that Geo. Manders had no fear of an assault from the outside. His closed windows were only closed to keep in the prisoner he had caught, and to make the house appear untenanted. As no one could see the kitchen window without entering the yard, he had not troubled about it, or had forgotten it.

Allan took off his glove, and drew a diamond ring from his finger. "Her gift on our wedding-day," he said to himself. He could cut the glass with that, but still the pane must fall inside. Then a brilliant inspiration seized him.

Out came his knife, and with it he ripped up the side of his thick dog-skin glove; then from it he cut as large a piece of leather as possible. This he threw into a half-filled water-butt standing near him, and for a minute or two let it soak. He searched in his pockets and found a piece of string, the end of which he fastened to the centre of the sodden leather. Every schoolboy knows the toy, and knows how heavy a stone it will raise if properly applied. Allan spread it out over the pane of glass, pressed all air from under it, saw that it adhered firmly, then, holding the string in his left hand, went to work with the diamond.

It is not easy for an unskilled hand to cut glass with a diamond ring, but, after a few attempts, one of the edges of a facet caught properly, and Allan contrived to make a long scratch, enclosing an irregular oval round the piece of leather. Replacing his ring on his finger, he struck the glass smartly; the piece fell in at once, and to his delight remained dangling by the string, which he now held very short in his left hand. It was true it jarred a little against the pane below, but only for a second, and the noise it made was not great. He pulled it up, and drew it through the aperture: then swiftly, but noiselessly, put back the catch of the window. The road was clear.

The sash went up easily; he stepped over the window-sill, and stood in the little dirty kitchen. He was without weapon of any kind; but he wanted none. He was a tall, powerful man, and was confident that as soon as his enemy was in his grip weapons might be dispensed with. He was lightly clad, with nothing to interfere with the free play of his muscular arms.

Not he paused for a second. Could he, this man who had stolen into another's house, who was ready and eager to proceed to any extremity, could he be the Allan Bourchier who rose that morning with every joy in life his own? He had lived a month years since then. No, he was not the same man; it may be he would never again be his former self. However, that mattered little at the present moment. Now to work.

He paused noiselessly over the flagged floor, and found the door was not locked; but upon opening it he saw that another door, one of green baize, at first sight seemed to bar Hickon's further passage. It was looked or bolted. For a moment he thought his exertions had been useless, but upon examination he found the wood-work under the baize was a skeleton frame, covered on each side with the thick woollen material. His penknife was called into requisition. A long slit was soon made, through which he put his hand and felt a bolt. Very quietly and cautiously he drew it back. It was the only fastening; the door opened noiselessly, and he looked into a passage with doors on each side—a passage which he knew led to the front door.

He closed the baize door behind him, intending to strike a match and pursue his investigations. He could hear nothing, but his first impression was that the place reeked of cigar smoke. But it was clear there was no living creature in the house.

The moment he closed the door he was in darkness—no, not absolute darkness. Allan staggered, and leaned for a moment against the wall, while a dreadful dryness seemed to rise in his throat. His heart throbbed, and his fingers involuntarily opened and closed again, for, from the right hand, stealing through the crevice between the door and the door-post, was a long, thin ray of light; and as he strove to recover himself he heard voices—the voice of a man and the voice of a woman—in the room from which the light came.

It was all over! He had only one thing left in life to be thankful for; he could take his revenge to the uttermost. Let him place his back against the wall opposite to that door, and one blow from his foot would send the flimsy obstacle flying, and Digby would be in his hands.

CHAPTER XXIII.

JUST IN TIME.

One by one the long hours went by in that extemporized prison where Manders held Frances his prisoner; still the jailer and the captive struggled for victory, but the protracted struggle was telling on both. It was not till five o'clock in the afternoon that Frances was forced to tell herself that the duration of her power of resistance must soon be measured by minutes, not hours. Allan had not come to her aid, so she could only suppose he had failed in tracing her, or had followed the route laid down by Manders' subtlety. If this craft had led her husband to Nice it would be days before he returned. Josephine must have summoned him long ago—yet when she counted the hours she could hardly see how he could yet by any chance have come to her rescue. There was another thing which made Frances long for freedom. To-night she was to sing. What would happen if she did not make her appearance as announced? She must be back in London in time to keep her engagement. But how was she to be freed? If free, would she have strength to do her duty? Oh, why did Allan not come!

And hunger—merciless hunger was beginning to make its presence and power apparent. It was now thirty hours since she had eaten anything—since anything save that water had passed her lips. Yes, in a very short time she must give in, lest even worse befall her. Once or twice in the last two hours she thought her senses were going—indeed, she was not sure but for a few moments they had absolutely left her. She had, she believed, lost consciousness and awoke with a start, and a feeling unable to realize where she was and what had occurred. It was only the eyes of the man opposite which had brought back her senses. Now as yet of hysterical, light-headed feeling was creeping over her; she struggled against it, but it came again and again. Strange to say, Allan, Josephine, Mrs Melville, everyone seemed fading from her mind—she was asking herself if they had any real existence, if they were not phantoms of her imagination! The only thing that seemed real to her—the fixed purpose in her brain—was that she must sing and set to-night.

Meetings next week—Tuesday, Corinthian Lodge, 32; Wednesday, St. George's Lodge, 43.

The Executive Committees of the Royal Arch Chapters and Knights Templar are to meet Wednesday night, 5th inst., to settle the basis of agreement regarding the joint occupancy of the Chapter Rooms by the three bodies named. The rooms formerly occupied by the K. T.'s have been leased for a term of years by the Brunswick Club, whose lease of a portion of the Odd-fellows' Hall has expired.

R W Bro Lake Slater, D D G M, of the third district, installed the officers of the various Lodges in St. Thomas on St. John's Day, and did the work well, receiving a hearty vote of thanks from the brethren for his efforts. Bro Slater will pay the following official visits next week:—Mount Olivet Lodge, No. 300, at Thrandale, on Tuesday, and Doric Lodge, No. 289, at Lobo, on the Wednesday evening following.

At the last meeting of Burns Lodge, No. 161, A F & A M, the following officers were installed:—W Bros Robert McGregor, J P M; A N Wood, W M; Bros J M Wilson, S W; David E Lee, J W; J Rogers, Treasurer; V W Bro J Newall, Secretary; Bros Samuel F Scott, Chaplain; John Roberts, Tyler.

At a meeting of King Hiram Lodge, No. 37, A F & A M, at Ingersoll on St. John's Day, the following brethren were installed by R W Bro J C Hegler, D D G M, as officers for the year 1887:—W Bro W L Underwood, W M; Bro John Podmore, S W; Bro J Fred Choate, J W; Rev Bro E C Saunders Chap; W Bro W A Woolson, Treas; Bro A J Reid, Sec'y; Bro C W Riley, S D; Bro Jas P Boles, J D; R W Bro C H Slawson, D of C; Bro R Grieg, Organist; Bro J O B Galer, I G; Bros Jas McIntyre and S Martin, Stewards; Bro Angus McLeod, Tyler.

The following officers of St. John's Lodge No. 68, A F & A M, Ingersoll, were installed by R W Bro J C Hegler, D D G M, for 1887 on St. John's Day:—W Bro John Morrison, W M; Bro J B Jackson, S R; Bro W A Sinclair, J W; Bro Rev Jno Reynolds Chap; Bro A Custis, Treas; Bro Im Ewart, Sec; Bro A McLeod, Tyler; Bro Herbert Wood, S D; Bro Geo R Thomson, J D; Bro John R Warnock, D of C; Bro B Winkler, and R W Woodrooffe, Stewards; Bro J H Hegler, jr., I G; Bro Greig, Organist; Bros R W Woodrooffe, W Mills and J Sadden, Room Committee; Bros J B Jackson, John Kerr and John Warnock, Finance Committee; Bros John Warnock, R W Bro J C Hegler, Hugh Kerr, James Sadden and Al x Macaulay, Charity.

The following officers of Huron Lodge, No. 392, Camlachie, were installed on St. John's Day last:—Bros John Ferguson, W M; J S McMillan, S W; J B Hizzle, J W; D F Smith, Treasurer; James K Calcus, Secretary; George Fulsher, S D; J D Schram, J D; Benj Schram, D of C; James Symington, S S; James McClure, J S; James Cairns, I G; James Parker, Tyler; John McIntyre, Treas.

Napthali Lodge, No. 413, A F & A M, G R C, Tilbury Centre, has chosen the following officers for 1887:—W M, Bro W E Bottoms; S W, D D Ellis; J W, E J C Luck; Treas, John Beatty; Chaplain, R Peaker; Secy, J W Richardson; Tyler, W J Moffatt.

At the regular meeting of Lebanon Forest Lodge, 193, Exeter, held Dec. 27th, the following officers were installed:—Worthy Bro H Shackman, W M; Bro W Weekes, S W; Bro H Samwell, J W; Bro J Tyndall, S D; Bro D A Ross, J D; Bro S Robinson, Chaplain; Bro McLaughlin, I G; Bro Brooks, Tyler.

The officers of Waverly Lodge, Guelph, have been installed as follows:—W M, W Bro A J Little; S W, Rev Bro J C Smith; J W, Bro H Gummer, Chaplain, Bro D E Messenger; Treas, W Bro H Gemmell; Sec, Bro R C Chase; Tyler, W Bro H Bolton.

At the annual meeting of King Baldwin Preceptory, K. T., Belleville, for the election of officers, the following Sir Knights were elected:—Sir Knight S S Lazier, Eminent Preceptor; Sir Knight D B Robertson, Constable; Sir Knight J P Thompson, Marshal; Sir Knight Rev M W McLean, Chaplain; Sir Knight George H Pope, Treasurer; Sir Knight William Smeaton, Registrar; Sir Knight Donald McLean, Sub-Marshal.

The Toronto Freemason says:—"M E Comp Sargant is doing his best to revive interest in the Royal Craft. Dying, dead and dormant chapters should be struck off the roll. We want no lifeless branches on the capitular tree, and where Chapters do not and will not meet, it would be better to erase them from the roll. Let us have sure and certain progress with fifty Chapters rather than half dead-and-alive work with eighty. If Chapters will not meet withdraw their warrants. We feel assured that M E Comp. Sargant will endorse this advice. He has nerve enough, and in prompt action will have the unanimous support of the members of Grand Chapter." It may be said on behalf of the London Chapters that the Companions chosen to fill the offices this year are Masons who will not suffer the Chapters to retrograde, and the Past Officers owe it to their younger brethren to assist them by their presence and advice at every meeting.

The Worshipful Masters of the city and suburban Lodges have arranged with W Bro Rev J A Murray, of St. Andrew's church, to preach the usual Masonic sermon to the London Brethren on Sunday, the 9th inst. Bro Murray is a Past Master of the Craft.

The annual sermon of Beaver and Euclid Lodges, Strathroy, will be preached in the Front street church there to-morrow morning, by the pastor, Rev W McDonagh.

At the regular meeting of Huron Chapter, R A M, Goderich, the following Companions were elected:—Z, J as W Green; H, Isaac Humber; J, Jas Addison; Scribe E, H W Ball; Scribe N, A Allen; Treas, M Nicholson; Prin Soj, Joseph Beck.

The following officers have been installed for Britannia Lodge, A, F & A M, Seaforth, for the following year: Bro A H Ireland, P W M; Bro Ballantyne, W M; Bro W J Fear, S W; Bro H Town, J W; Bro John Street, Secretary; Bro A Strong, Treasurer; Bro D Moore, S D, Bro F G Neelis, J D; Bro J Stewart, S S; Bro S Scarlett, J S; Bro Dr. Campbell, I G; Bro John Williams, Tyler. After the usual meeting of the Lodge, the brethren repaired to Bro. Kennedy's hotel, where an oyster supper was prepared, to which all did ample justice. The principal feature of the proceedings was the presentation of a Past Master's jewel to Worshipful Bro. Ireland, who has filled the Master's chair for the past two years, greatly to the satisfaction of the Brethren. The jewel is a costly one, being of solid gold with a diamond in the centre.

At the half-yearly meeting of Court Brighton, 6,562, A O F, London South, the following brethren were elected to fill the various offices for the ensuing term, viz.:—Chief Ranger, Bro Geo Leach; P C Ranger, Bro Wm Peacock; sub C Ranger, Bro Wm Friendship; Treasurer, Bro R Dunn, re-elected; Secretary, Bro H Sutherland, re-elected, Sen Woodward, Bro Alex R Wallace; Jun Woodward, Bro James Jupp; Sen Beadle, Bro W B Galasby; Jun Beadle, Bro W H single; Surgeon, Bro J M Piper M D C M; Minute Secretary, Bro W Row; Agent to Endowment Fund, Bro D H Young. The Trustees and Auditors were re-elected. After the election Bro Dr Piper presented the Court with the complete works of Charles Dickens in six fine volumes, which will make a good addition to our Court Library. The gift was highly appreciated by the Court, and a hearty vote of thanks tendered the Doctor.

At the regular half-yearly meeting of Sanctu-Elgin, No 5,863, A O S, St. Thomas, the following brothers were elected officers for the ensuing term:—Pastor, P Armour; sub-pastor, R Leeman; treasurer, T Whalin (re-elected); scribe, P Revell; first attendant, J Watts; second attendant, G V Fuke; senior keeper, F Stone; junior keeper, G Noble; past pastor, C Scrase. The officers were then installed by Bro F Revell, district pastor.

It is becoming evident that making hog growing a business cannot be made profitable in any section of the country. In some Eastern States where large droves are kept cholera or some other disease attacks them as seriously as it has in the West. A few pigs kept in connection with other stock may make a profit, but large droves do not do as well, besides costing more to keep.

Any one can take Carter's Little Liver Pills, they are so very small. No trouble to swallow. No pain or griping after taking. 25 cents.

When mixing a mess of bran for milch cows it is usual to take hot water and scald it so as to partially cook the feed. If given while still warm, as it generally is, it is much more stimulating to milk production. But this warmed food is unnatural and unhealthful. This is one of the drawbacks on cooking food for stock, which though of en promising well for a time, proves unprofitable in the end.

Persons suffering from sick headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, pain in the side, &c., are asked to try one vial of Carter's Little Liver Pills.

If farmers helped their wives peel potatoes, as they might well do in winter or when not otherwise busy, they would learn some facts about the economy of keeping the best potatoes for home use. At the best there is much waste in preparing potatoes for cooking. Those with deeply-sunked eyes or of irregular form lose most, and that too of the best, since the portion of the potato near the skin is more nutritious than the centre. Some smoothly-shaped thin-skinned potatoes are profitable for baking, as if well done the skin is as palatable as any part of the potato.

No other medicine has won approval, at home, equal to Ayer's Sarsaparilla in Lowell and vicinity.

One reason why hogs are less healthful than formerly is the prevalent practice of breeding from half-grown males as soon as they are fit for service, and castrating them before they attain maturity. Perhaps this course may be advisable for making pork of the males thus castrated, but it is bad for the progeny. A boar of improved breeds should be kept until five or six years old, at which age his meat when killed will be fit only for soap grease. This is expensive, and other farmers wishing the use of such a boar can well afford to pay for it.

The bulk of barnyard manure in Northern States is made in winter, and this is also the time when most grain is fed to fattening animals and the manure is consequently most valuable. As far as possible it should be drawn out as fast as made, and the earlier in the winter the better. It makes a great difference to spring cultivated crops having the manure on the ground early, so that rains and melting snow will carry its soluble portions into the soil. Another advantage of winter drawing of manure is that it is saved from danger of wasting in the barnyard through the summer. After spring plowing begins there is little time to draw manure.

A Severe Trial.—"I tried all the doctors in this locality for liver and kidney troubles (which I had for years) with no benefit. Four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters cured me." says Lemuel Allan, Lisle, Ont. 2

The depression in the dairy industry will not be unmixed evil if it results in weeding out the poorer class of cows and replacing them with those giving more milk and butter. As a farmer remarked recently, the way to make dairying profitable is to keep more cows on fewer legs. It is the number of legs, or animals, that entails the expense. It would be entirely practicable for many farmers to get more milk and butter from five cows than they now get from ten. The saving in expense of keeping with the smaller number will soon repay the extra price of better animals. But whether few or many, milch cows must be fed liberally with milk producing food to make them profitable.

Faithful.—J. R. Faithful, of Stroud, Ont., says he suffered from quinsy for several years, until cured by Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which medicine is a specific for all painful complaints. 2

Milk is often a scarce article in farmers' homes during the latter part of winter. If only one or two cows are kept and timed to drop their calves in the spring, they are probably now giving so little milk that it is of little value for making butter. When this is the case the best use that can be made of the milk is to can it, filling those cans that have been already emptied of fruits put up during the summer. All that is necessary is to bring the milk to a boil so as to expel the air. The canned milk will be thought as much of in times of scarcity as summer fruits are in winter, and there is no danger of having too much of it. Milk is a necessity, and in country neighborhoods at some seasons can scarcely be got.

Mr. G. W. Macully, Pavilion Mountain, B. C., writes: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is the best medicine I ever used for Rheumatism. Nearly every winter I am laid up with Rheumatism, and have tried nearly every kind of medicine without getting any benefit, until I used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It has worked wonders for me, and I want another supply for my friends, &c." tuts

Much of the future value of the horse depends upon the care given it during its first winter. There is apt to be a sudden check to growth when the change is made from weaning and from green to dry food, and unless this is prevented by good, substantial food what is then lost will never be regained. Exercise is also very important, so that liberal feeding will result in a proportionate development of muscle instead of all fat, as it might if the colt was kept tied all the time. The value of a horse is largely in its muscles, and these are made by exercise quite as much as by the character of the feed. With little use of the muscles the strength giving food will not be assimilated, but will be passed out with other matter not needed by the system in the excrement.

Scrofula

Is one of the most fatal scourges which afflict mankind. It is often inherited, but may be the result of improper vaccination, mercurial poisoning, uncleanliness, and various other causes. Chronic Sores, Ulcers, Abscesses, Cancerous Humors, and, in some cases, Emaciation, and Consumption, result from a scrofulous condition of the blood. This disease can be cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

I inherited a scrofulous condition of the blood, which caused a derangement of my whole system. After taking less than four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla I am and, for the past year, have not found it necessary to use any medicine whatever. I am now in better health, and stronger, than ever before.—O. A. Willard, 218 Tremont st., Boston, Mass.

I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores for five years; but, after using a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the sores healed, and I have now good health.—Elizabeth Warnock, 54 Appleton street, Lowell, Mass.

Some months ago I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores on my leg. The limb was badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy failed, until I used Ayer's Sarsaparilla. By taking three bottles of this medicine the sores have been entirely healed, and my health is fully restored. I am grateful for the good this medicine has done me.—Mrs. Ann O'Brian, 158 Sullivan st., New York.

London Markets.

Revised Daily.

London, Thursday, Dec. 30.

The market was small to-day, and very little produce came for sale.

Grain was active, and the best wheat sold at $1 30 and $1 35 per 100 pounds, or 78c and 81c per bushel.

Oats were firm, at 90c to 91c per 100 lbs, or 30 6-10c and 31 2-10c per bushel.

Barley was not forward in active supply, and prices were unchanged.

The meat supply was not large, but prices were firmer for good beef, and $6 to $7 prevailed for choice.

Pork ruled at our quotations

Butter had no change from our last report.

No change in vegetables or apples.

Poultry dull at our quotations.

Hay only in fair supply, at $8 50 to $10 per ton.

FASHIONABLE RINGS

How the Brooklyn Boys Squander Money on Finger Decorations.

Brooklyn Eagle.

"I sell finger rings from $3 up to $5,000," said a Brooklyn jeweler to a reporter. "Of course the most intsresting class of rings are those known as engagement rings. There are but few varieties of the latter, the most popular being plain gold bands, with diamond settings. Sometimes a ruby is preferred, but diamonds have the call. No, I don't suppose it is really necessary for a prospective groom to give his fiancee an engagement ring, but custom has decreed it, and in consequence we keep them for sale. Wedding rings are not so expensive as they were when I was married. I paid $18 for the ring with which I married my wife twelve years ago. I could now buy a similar ring just as heavy for $11. No man should regret the sum he pays for a wedding ring, as the sensation experienced in buying it seldoms comes to one more than once in a lifetime. A fine good-sized ruby is even more costly than a diamond of the same size. Their value depends wholly on their color. Opals? No, we sell but a few opals, probably because they are considered unlucky. Cats' eyes, greenish brown stones with a light running through them, were formerly very popular with ladies. Serpent rings are now but seldom worn. Of course, some men will load themselves down with jewelry whether it be fashionable or not. To buy diamonds judiciously one must be a pretty good judge of those stones. Here is a diamond which I sell for $25, which an inexperienced buyer could not distinguish from this stone (holding up a diamond of similar size) which is worth $125. One is very much off color, while the other is pure white, and as clear as a bell. In fact the cheaper of the two stones makes the best showing, is more dazzling to the eye, and is seen to much better advantage by gaslight. Its defects, however, are easily distinguishable to the eye of the experienced jeweler."

SCIENCE OF SLEEP.

The Sense that First Loses Consciousness in Slumber.

From the British Medical Journal.

Each successive gradation in sleep is marked by the inclusion of a nervous system, which is for the time being shut off, so to speak, from participating in the general life function of the individual until, when the maximum intensity is attained, nothing is left but the purely animal—one might almost say the vegetative—life. Sleep of this degree of intensity, although a perfectly normal process, is not, in health, of long duration. After the lapse of variable space of time, the systems one by one resume their functions until finally the sum of perceptions brings about the condition of awakening. The brain shares in the need, which is everywhere apparent, of periods of rest.

The products of cerebral activity accumulate more rapidly than they are eliminated, and a period therefore arrives when the tissues are no longer able to do their work. The result is an invincible feeling of indisposition to exertion, physical or mental. The temporary and involuntary cessation of activity is at once followed by a diminution of the blood supply; the anæmia so induced being, therefore, a consequence, and not a cause, of the state of rest.

The various parts of the nervous system are not all involved simultaneously or to the same extent. The centres governing voluntary movement are the first to be affected, as seen in the nodding of the head and the closure of the eye-lids, and the body, if not prevented, tends to assume the position of repose determined by the laws of gravity. The special senses soon follow, but here again they are not abrogated en masse. Sight is the first to go, the stimulus no longer reaching that portion of the cerebrum where it can give rise to a definite sensation, even where the closure of the lids has not shut off external stimuli altogether.

Hearing and smell are remarkably persistent, and, except in the deepest sleep, may be said to be only dulled and not extinguished. Every one is familiar with the ease with which sleep is put an end to by unaccustomed noise, even of a light intensity or, better still, by the cessation of any monotonous sound, as, for instance, the awakening of travellers by rail or steamboat on any stoppage of the train or machinery. Instances are on record, too, where the inhabitants of a house have been roused simply by the smell of tobacco, indulged in by inexperienced or incautious burglars.

The persistent sensibility of these senses may, to some extent, be accounted for by the fact that they are not shut of from communication with the outside world as are, for example, the eyes. To allow sleep, or at any rate, quiet sleep, a certain harmony must exist in the condition of all the organs, which must, so to speak, be tuned to the sleep tone. If one organ be in a state of activity, or, on the other hand, its condition be abnormal in some other way, the sensorium refuses to abdicate its control.

This is familiar to us in the case of cerebral activity or cold feet at bed time, both being inimical to sleep. Inasmuch, therefore, as insomnia may result from either set of causes, we can either employ drugs, such as opium, which act directly on the nerve centres and so bring about sleep, or we may resort to medicines like hypnone, which is said to favor sleep rather than induce it by allaying the irritable or hyperæsthetic conditions of certain organs or parts.

SUDDEN ANNOUNCEMENT.—We owe an apology for not advertising sooner our fresh arrivals of ladies' hand satchels and gentlemen's valises for Christmas presents, but we can safely say that in no other year have we shown a nicer and better selected stock than this. Ladies' hand satchels (plush and leather) in great variety from 40c to $8, and gentlemen's Club, Gladstone, Salisbury currier valises; barristers' briefs, doctors' surgical bags from $1 75 to $40. "I tell you what, the wages of the workingmen are low enough now, but some of the Council have tried to make them still lower," said a workingman to his chum in the Arcade yesterday. "But Cowan never tried to reduce them," was the reply. "No," said the first, "he always opposed any reduction in our wages, and I'm going to vote for him for Mayor." "So are we all, and we'll elect him, too," responded the other. *

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or Diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced. tuts

METEOROLOGICAL SERVICE OF CANADA.

The Weather.

Toronto, Jan. 1, 1 a.m.—The depression from the Gulf of Mexico is now central, with slightly increased energy, over New York. It is causing a general snow-storm, which extends from the Lakes to New Brunswick, it being followed by very high pressure from the North-west, where it is now very cold.

Indications:—Lakes, strong winds and gales from the north north-west: partly clearing weather, with light snow-falls; colder by night: very cold on Sunday.

Mr. H. Winnett, of the Queen's Hotel, Toronto, is passing New Year's in the city.

Capt. Anderson, of the C. P. R. steamer Alberta, visited his friends yesterday with his family.

London has been chosen for the next meeting of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association.

Mr. Frank Restorick, of Watford, shipped 500 lambs from Alvinston to Buffalo on Thursday.

Mr. J. R. Boothby has again been appointed Collector of Labor Statistics for Stratford, for the Ontario Bureau.

A genuine native Japanese, Mr. Z Horikosh, of Tokio, Japan, was one of the guests at the Grigg House yesterday.

Some rascals entered Thedford school house a few nights ago and destroyed all the books, slates, etc., they could find.

While Wm. McDougald, aged 64 years, of con. 6, Aldborough, was cutting wood the other day he fell down and immediately expired.

The sudden death is announced at his residence, in the State of Missouri, of the Rev. D. McRuer, Presbyterian Minister, formerly of Ayr.

Mr P. Currie, teacher in S8. No 9, East Williams, was recently presented by his pupils with a gold chain, and an elegant set of gold studs and cuff buttons, toilet set, etc.

The Canada School Journal has passed into the hands of Mr. J. E. Wells, who has been its editor for some time past. Mr. Wells was formerly a resident of Woodstock.

Mr. H. S. Holmes, station agent at Thedford, is about to remove to Acton. He has made himself highly esteemed and popular by his gentlemanly conduct and painstaking.

Mr. D. Holmes, the oldest conductor in the service of the Grand Trunk Railway, is laid up at Stratford with erysipelas in the head, and is so low that the members of his family are with him.

Mr. William Garen, business manager for Frances Bishop, is in the city arranging for the appearance of that actress at the Grand Opera House on Friday evening next in "Mugg's Landing."

The Princess Rink will be open for skaters this afternoon and evening, and the ice is in first-class condition. The London South Band will perform a number of their choicest selections.

There is a well-to-do farmer in Tuckersmith, nearly 70 years of age, who has never yet been on a railway train, notwithstanding the fact that cars have passed within a quarter of a mile of his farm for years.

The stores of Messrs. W. J. Dyas, James Wright and A. Meekison, of Strathroy, were burglarized early Wednesday morning, by breaking the windows in the front. No goods were taken of any moment.

Mr. M. Parkinson, of the Strathroy Collegiate Institute, and Miss Lizzie, daughter of Thos. Magladery, Esq., of Parkhill, were united in marriage on Wednesday. They will make their home in Strathroy.

Mr. W. Fitzpatrick, livery stable keeper, of Strathroy, had his leg broken in three places the other day by being kicked by a horse, which knocked him down and trampled upon him. He had a wonderful escape from death.

One day lately four grade cattle, belonging to Messrs. H. Snell & Sons, Hullet, got out of the yard and ran down the concession as far as the railway track, which they attempted to cross just as the freight train came along. Three out of the four were killed.

The annual distribution of New Year's cheer under the auspices of St. Andrew's Society took place yesterday afternoon in the premises formerly occupied by Reid Bros. A large number of applicants were made glad by being sent away with heavily-laden baskets, and in addition some twenty-five families who did not apply personally were given good cheer. The amount distributed was 700 lbs of beef, 300 lbs tea, 400 lbs sugar, 500 loaves bread, 2 barrels oatmeal, 2 barrels flour, a barrel each of raisins and currants. The Committee in charge of the distribution were Messrs. T. Brock, T. A. Brown, J. W. Jones, J. W. McIntosh, John Milne, J. A. Burns.

Palmerston Telegraph:—Mr. Jas. Wilson, conductor, G. T. R., was told the other morning, by the station agent at Listowel, that there was a parcel for him at the Post Office in that town. On opening the parcel he found it was a splendid inkstand set in various stones and ores in their natural state. The specimens comprise gold, silver and lead ores, agate, calcedony, and other precious stones. The present was sent to Mr. Wilson by a former resident of Listowel, but who is now a citizen of Denver, Colorado.

A meeting of delegates representing the Liberal-Conservatives of East Middlesex was held in the Young Conservative Club Rooms, Masonic Temple, yesterday afternoon, the President, Mr. Joseph H Marshall, occupying the chair. One or two sections of the riding not having any representative present it was decided to hold a convention of the party on Saturday afternoon, 15th inst., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Dominion Parliament.

The death is announced of Mrs. W. G. Ryckman, which occurred at Catalatti, West Virginia, on Tuesday, after a short but painful illness from inflammation. Deceased left Parkhill a short time ago, in company with her husband, whose health has been very poorly of late, in the hope that the Southern climate would benefit him, and shortly after their arrival in Virginia Mrs. Ryckman was taken ill, and in spite of the best medical aid, passed away.

Last evening a livery rig was engaged by Mr. Muirhead for the purpose of driving to London West. A horse was sent up from McDonald's stable, and it was observed at the time that the animal appeared tired, as though it had been overdriven. In company with Mr. Rutherford Mr. Muirhead drove slowly to the village, and after a brief stay there the two were about to start on the return trip, when the horse suddenly fell dead.

The adjourned case of Robert Morrow, charged with poisoning the cattle of Dr. McKay, of Courtland, was resumed before Squire Brown at Simcoe on Wednesday. Some additional evidence was taken, when Morrow was sent up for trial. In the evening he was allowed to go home on bail, to appear at the next court of competent jurisdiction, himself in $2 000 and two surities in $1,000 each.

The inmates of the City Hospital were given a treat last evening in the shape of a cantata, entitled "An Hour in Fairyland," which was rendered by the pupils of Christ Church Sabbath School. A number of anthems, carols, glees and solos were also given by the members of the choir. Mrs Holmes presided at the piano, which was kindly loaned by Mr. Halle.

A sheet of ordinary paper warmed in front of a fire will, in a dark place, give a very decided electric spark upon the application of the knuckle, with a crackling sound. On placing a sheet of gold leaf between two sheets of paper thus electrified, and passing a pencil point over them in a zigzag course, a luminous flash quite strong will appear.

Stratford Beacon:—"A majority against him (Mr. Leveragе, of Fullarton) in his own township was poor satisfaction to the Warden for championing the cause of the Boodle Government at Ottawa." So; what about "my town" (Strathroy) in Geo. W. Ross' case, which went back on Mowat's Government and Minister of Education?

The following statement of the amount collected for customs duties in the city during the month of December exhibits a gratifying increase over the same month of the preceding year:—

Duties collected, Dec.,	1886	$35,483 03

Governor Foraker, of Ohio, has appointed Mr. James M. Boyle, of the Commercial Gazette, to the vacancy on the Cincinnati Police Board. He has reported the proceedings of the Legislature for several years, and is an expert stenographer. Mr Boyle was at one time on the Toronto Mail's reportorial staff.

Mr. John McLay, formerly Registrar of the County of Bruce, has entered an action against the Municipal Corporation of Bruce in the High Court of Justice. Common Pleas Division, claiming $20,000 damages for libel.

By request of a large number of friends Miss B Dodge, solo soprano of Queen's Avenue Church, will give a concert in Victoria Hall about the middle of January, on which occasion a crowded house may be expected.

The usual holiday services will be held this morning in the various city churches. Rev. C. W. Ball will preach in Christ Church at 11 o'clock.

There will be skating at the Richmond street covered rink this afternoon and evening. The Seventh Band will be in attendance. *

Mr. J. S Dearness, of this city, has been elected an honorary member of the Historical Society of Montreal

THE WATER COMMISSIONERSHIP.—Mr. James Muirhead, one of the nominees for the position of Water Commissioner, is, according to the last revised Assessment Roll, not qualified for the office, and a statement to that effect appeared in the last issue of the FREE PRESS. Mr. Muirhead has called to say that, although his name does not appear either as tenant, or owner of the property on the 1886 Assessment Roll, the fault is not his and he intends offering for election on Monday by advice of his solicitors. He contends that he is a tenant and should have been assessed as such for the Mall property as he pays the taxes. The question therefore, is, can a tenant have his name placed on the roll after it has been finally certified by the County Judge, the applicant having failed to take cognizance of the usual appeal within the time allowed by law? It is purely a legal matter and will in all probability be further heard from.

SUCCESSFUL TEACHERS.—In the report of the Middlesex Model Schools the names of the successful candidates at Strathroy were published in the order of their standing in teaching. The following are the names of the successful teachers in training at the London school, with their marks in practical teaching, based on the reports of the Model School teachers and County examiners. The maximum number of marks for teaching was 300:—Minnie Pickering, 228; Amanda Hodgins, 227; Lizzie Walton, 218; Thomas Flaherty, 217; C. J. Bradley, 215; Fanny Cleveland, 2.6; A. Rhodes, 202; M. Fleming, 203; Lydia Edwards, 200; S McLellan, 200; M Baxter, 198; F McArthur, 195; Eliza Douglas, 191; Jenny Goulding, 191; Minnie Skelton, 190; Thos. Banting, 190; Maggie Murray, 188; S. Shannon, 188; Kate McDonald, 186; Rebecca Hodgins, 185; Letitia Brett, 180; D. Webster, 174; H Young, 172; Fenton Fitzgerald, 172; Maggie Hennessey, 170; Lizzie Cathro, 168; Lizzie Perry, 165; Jessie Hendrie, 164; Charlotte Jeffrey, 162; Jenny Nicol, 161; Bertha O'Neil, 157.

Rickseeker's perfumes are fast taking the lead for elegance, durability and general superiority, finding preference wherever known, even in foreign capitals of fashion, over all others. As one of our fashion journals aptly puts it:—"An indescribably luscious odor surrounds the lady who uses Rickseeker's perfumes" Rickseeker's Edgewood Violets—as fresh, delicate, sweet and natural as the "mutely eloquent modest violet" itself, from which this perfume is directly extracted. The above perfume is not made by any other perfumers, and is the result of much experiment, thought, experience and cost. Avoid disappointment and accept no substitute for it. Elections not Injurious to Trade.

The elections, as predicted, did not prove injurious to the Xmas trade, for almost all of that well-selected and immense stock of Xmas goods to be seen at Barkwell's Drug Store a few days ago has been disposed of. No doubt the extraordinarily low prices he allows at Xmas had much to do with the rapid sale. He has just received a few lines suitable for New Year's presents, on which it is said he gives the same bargains. * *

It is desirable, if possible, to secure the re building in this city of the G. T. R. car shops, and the retention here of an industry so important for the interests of the people. Mr. James Cowan is heartily in favor of using all possible means to retain them, and if elected Mayor will use his influence for that object. *

Three Hundred Lives Lost by the Fire at Madras.

THE BRITISH CABINET.

Mr. Goschen to Succeed Lord Randolph Churchill as Leader of the Commons.

VESSEL SUNK BY COLLISION.

Fourteen Lives Lost—Irish Landlords Offer to Sell Their Estates to the Tenants—Emperor William Celebrates the Eightieth Anniversary of His Entrance into the Army.

London, January 2, midnight.

Fourteen Lives Lost.

The British steamer Dragoman, from Savannah for Liverpool collided, with and sank an unknown vessel off Bardsay. Fourteen persons were drowned.

Shipping Statistics.

The shipping statistics of the port of Liverpool for 1886 show a decrease of 100,000 tons. The coastwise trade shows an increase, the falling off being in the foreign trade.

Gladstone and Goschen.

Sir Wm Vernon Harcourt and Arnold Morley visited Mr Goschen to-day. It is rumored that the latter was sent by Mr. Gladstone to advise Mr. Goschen not to leave the Liberal party.

A Chance for the Tenants.

The Marquis of Londonderry, Lord-Lieutenant for Ireland, offers to sell his Irish estates to the tenants. The terms of sale are not mentioned. Lord Templemore has offered to sell his estate in Donegal at 20 years' purchase on a basis of 8 per cent. rental.

Small-Pox on Board Ship.

The German steamer Preussen, from Bremen via Port Said, arrived at Melbourne, Australia, yesterday, with a case of small-pox on board, and was quarantined. The disease spread to 24 other persons. Thirty passengers who were landed at Sydney have also been taken sick.

A Liberal Offer.

The Marquis of Bath has agreed to sell his Monaghan estate at 17½ years' purchase on a basis of 17½ per cent. reduction from the judicial rents or at a reduction of 42½ per cent. reduction from non-judicial rents, provided payment be made in one year. The Marquis will cancel all arrears of rent and evicted tenants will be reinstated.

The Portuguese Parliament.

The Portuguese Cortes was opened today. In the speech from the throne the King returned thanks for the reception accorded him by European Courts on his recent journey abroad. Portugal's foreign relations were declared satisfactory, and the announcement was made of intended changes in the customs tariff in order to establish equilibrium of revenues and expenditure.

The British Cabinet.

The London Post, in announcing that Mr Goschen has agreed to succeed Lord Randolph Churchill in the leadership of the House of Commons, expresses fear that his appointment will lead to the abandonment of the Tory-Democratic policy upon which it is necessary to fight the Conservative battle. The Post again urges upon Lord Salisbury the imperative necessity of seeking some means to regain Lord Randolph, if Mr. Goschen's acceptance be not final.

Lady Campbell.

Lady Colin Campbell has resumed her charitable work at the East End, appearing and singing as formerly at Cottage Mission Hall. An immense crowd assembled, one third got inside and the rest stayed outside and cheered. Mr. Austin, founder of the Mission, proposed an address thanking Lady Colin for her many acts of kindness and devotion among the very poorest of the population of Lime House and Stepney. This was carried amid loud demonstrations of sympathy and applause.

The Madras Fire.

Two hundred and seventy-five natives lost their lives by the burning of the reserved inclosure at the People's Park, Madras, Friday. The fire lasted only fifteen minutes. (Later).—It is now ascertained that 300 persons lost their lives, being either burned to death or suffocated, while the number injured is placed at the same figure. The Commander-in-Chief and the first Prince of Travancore, who were present, escaped uninjured. Among the victims were two European women, and many European children are missing. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

European Finances.

During the past week there was a strong demand for discount on the London Stock Exchange, the settlement, combined with the curtailment of supplies, through the break down of the telegraph lines, increasing the tension in the money market. The rates of discount were 4½ to 6. On the Stock Exchange business was very restricted until the end of the week. On Friday the market was more active, closing notably firmer. The year opens with a general expectation of permanent activity and a healthy business. American railway securities were very flat early in the week under short money supplies, but improved quickly after the settlement, and closed buoyant. Business on the Paris Bourse was dull during the past week, and although the market closed firm on Friday, all quotations were under those of the preceding week. The new loan declined 32c, three per cent rentes, 30c; Panama Canal shares, 3f 72c; Suez Canal, 12f; Bank of France, 45f. The drain of gold has ceased. It is calculated that freight on bullion from Liverpool to New York costs one half less than that on bullion from Paris, making gold for America cheaper from London than from Paris, even with exchange at 25f., 35c. Future supplies for America will therefore be furnished by the Bank of England instead of the Bank of France. Business was inactive on the Berlin boerse during the week, but at the close on Friday prices were firmer at a general fractional advance.

The German Emperor.

A Berlin despatch says:—Emperor William yesterday celebrated the eightieth anniversary of his entrance into the Prussian army by receiving all his commanding generals, headed by Crown Prince Frederick William. The Crown Prince addressed the Emperor as follows:—"The army celebrates with your Majesty the day upon which, eighty years ago, you entered the army. On several occasions we have been fortunate in coming before our chief in war to thank him for leading us through severe struggles in glorious victories. To-day, however, your Majesty can look back upon sixteen years which have been richly blessed by peace—years, above all, dedicated to the undisturbed development and strengthening of an Empire which was only established after long waiting and struggling. This work of peace succeeded because Your Majesty's competent and active leadership raised the capability of the army to that state of perfection of which every German soldier is justly proud. The Prussian principle that no difference exists between the people and the army, because both are always ready to defend their country, has, by Your Majesty's care, become the property of the whole German nation. In this natural capability lies our greatest security for the maintenance of peace. May I then again tell Your Majesty that our strong and united nation in grateful love and faithfulness, always ready for sacrifices, trusts in its Emperor and leader in war, looks with joyful confidence upon him as the preserver of the peace, and cherishes the wish that God's blessing in fullness may dwell upon him." The Emperor, replying, referred to his father, who, he said, allowed him to enter the army in the hope that he would experience better times than Prussia then endured. Providence had permitted him to see such happier times in the fullest measure. These better days were especially due to the success of the army. Here the Emperor, much moved, embraced the Crown Prince and afterward Gen. Von Moltke, to whom he spoke in an earnest manner, thanking him for his unparalleled services. Finally, turning to the other officers present, he said he hoped to meet them again on the 1st of January, 1888. The city was gaily decked with flags since dawn, and at night the whole town was beautifully illuminated. The Emperor attended a special service in the Cathedral, driving there in a carriage. Crowds lined the streets through which he passed and unceasingly manifested their enthusiasm. At night a military banquet was held, at which eighteen commanding generals and 364 colonels and staff officers were present.

The procession attendant upon the ceremony of reinstalling Mr. Sullivan as Lord Mayor of Dublin, Saturday, was the simplest ever witnessed in the city. There was none of the display usual upon such an occasion.

The fund for the benefit of James Stevens, the Fenian ex-Head Centre, amounts to £1,831, of which £1,247 still remains in the hands of the committee. It is proposed to raise £2,000 with which to buy an annuity.

Mr. Gladstone, Cardinal Manning, the Earl of Selborne, the Duke of Westminster, Canon Farrar, Prof. Tyndall, the Archbishop of Canterbury and others have signed an appeal to the press not to publish the details of divorce and criminal trials.

A fire occurred in the Oldscalchi Palace, Rome, to-day. The majolica collection and valuable pictures in the Palace were seriously damaged. King Humbert perceiving the flames hastened to the spot and remained an hour encouraging the firemen.

The German Commission on the Army Bill has been summoned to meet on the 5th inst. The Progressists will present to the Reichstag a proposal to tax incomes to meet the increased army expenditures. The War Office has completed arrangements for an increase of the army in April.

Mr. Sexton, in thanking the corporation of Dublin for electing him Sheriff, said that if the Government asked him to do anything that he considered opposed to the public interest, or to the liberty of any Irish public man, they would receive a short answer.

Count D'Aunay, the French agent at Cairo, at a reception given by him to the French residents New Year's Day, said he was authorized to declare that France would not allow her interests in Egypt to be endangered, and had decided to take measures accordingly.

The Mayor of Bocs, a town in Transylvania, has been officially notified to prepare for the spring manœuvres which are to be held there, and which will be attended by Emperor Francis Joseph. The unusual earliness of the notice is supposed to indicate an intention to concentrate troops in Transylvania.

MONTREAL.

Presentation to a Railway Man—Death of Judge Torrance—Civic Revenue—Sudden Deaths—The Weather—The Queen and the Sunday School Scholars.

Montreal, Jan. 2.—John Porteous, General Freight Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, has been presented with an address signed by the employes of the Company, on the occasion of his severing his connection with the Company.

Judge Torrance, of the Superior Court, died to-day, after a brief illness, from pneumonia. It is thought the disease was contracted while attending the funeral of the late Judge Ramsay. The deceased Judge was born in Montreal in 1823, was educated in a private school, and at McGill College, and afterwards at Edinburgh University, where he took the degree of M. A. He studied law with the late Duncan Fisher and Hon. Jos. Smith, subsequently Attorney-General for Lower Canada and Judge of the Queen's Bench. He was called to the bar in 1848 and was appointed Judge of the Superior Court in 1868. He was a lecturer and Professor of Roman law in McGill University.

The civic revenue for 1886 will reach nearly two million dollars. In 1885 it amounted to $1,766,137.

A carter named Thomas Brett, aged 23 years, took suddenly ill on McGill street to-day. He was being driven to his home, but died before reaching there.

A man, whose name is unknown, died suddenly in Gauthier's saloon, St. Lawrence street. Death is supposed to have resulted from over drinking.

The total snowfall for yesterday and to-day was six inches. At midnight the thermometer registered over 10 degrees below zero, with a downward tendency.

TORONTO.

Stabbing Affrays—A Hot Mayoralty Contest.

Toronto, Jan. 2.—Two stabbing affrays occurred here yesterday. Early in the evening two colored men, George Wilson and Samuel Jackson, while being ejected from a saloon on York street, stabbed a man named James Healey with a clasp knife—fortunately not in a vital spot. Both were arrested. About eleven o'clock three men went to the house of Mrs. McGarry, Centre street, and one of them drawing a knife accused her of giving evidence against them, and aimed a blow at her. She caught the knife in her right hand and screamed for help. The ruffians then bolted. Mrs. McGarry's hand is very badly cut across the palm, and she lost a good deal of blood before medical assistance was procured.

So intense is the feeling over the mayoralty contest that both candidates held meetings on New Year's Day. In several churches to-day and at the Prohibition Club's gospel meeting this afternoon, Ministers urged their hearers to support the temperance candidates for mayor and aldermen. Friends of both candidates are confident of success.

There was considerable falling off here yesterday in the New Year's custom of calling. The day passed off quietly, most people preferring to remain indoors, the weather being very cold.

A MAD CAREER.

Frightful Trip of a Wild Cat Train—Several People Reported Killed.

Toronto, Jan. 1.—A thrilling account of a trip on a wild cat train down the Rocky Mountains is told by Wm. Tillie, a traveler who has just arrived here by the Canadian Pacific Railway from British Columbia. Last week two cars of a passenger train, while being hauled up the steepest grade in Kicking Horse Pass, which is one inch to the foot for nearly two miles, broke loose from the locomotive and commenced a mad career down the mountain side. The brakes were frozen and could not be applied with effect. Some of the twenty occupants in the cars tried to rise, but the speed was so great that they could not stir from their seats. The cars reached a safety switch, a distance of two miles from the place they broke loose from the locomotive, in one minute. The passenger car caught the safety switch and was piled on the opposite incline a complete wreck. The baggage car, which did not contain any passengers, went on down the main line and did not leave the track. A number of passengers were killed, and others received probably fatal injuries. Some miraculously escaped almost uninjured.

He Ate 30 Quails in 30 Days.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—John C. Mann, of Minneapolis, last night completed the task of eating 30 quails in 30 days, at the rate of one quail daily, which project was undertaken by Mann on a wager of $4,000. His appearance and health were not perceptibly affected. He is a smooth-faced, good-looking young man, 21 years old. Only three other successful attempts of the kind are on record.

A FORECAST.

WHAT THE YEAR MAY BRING FORTH.

The Collapse of at Least One of the Great Powers Possible—The Czar Desirous of Avoiding War—No Change in Austria-Hungary's Attitude.

London, January 1.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegram says:—"The prospect for the next twelve months is lively enough. The year about to begin may very well see the collapse of one, at least, of the great Powers and of two or three minor States. The elements of disintegration are not confined to Turkey, and it is a mistake to suppose that in case of war Bulgaria is the only small country whose existence would be imperilled. In Vienna there is considerable anxiety for the immediate future. Everybody feels that the new year opens under unpleasant auspices. A somewhat reassuring item of intelligence comes, however, from Cracow. The Dziennik Polski hears from St. Petersburg that during the recent ministerial council the Czar declared that he would have no war, and actually shook his fist at one of the ministers who had made bellicose views. I am inclined to believe there is some foundation for this story. The Czar has lately told different members of his entourage that he wished to avoid war. The aspect of affairs on the Austro-Russian frontier is threatening enough, but it is a good deal worse on the borders of France and Germany."

AUSTRIA HUNGARY'S ATTITUDE UNCHANGED.

Herr Tisza, the Hungarian Prime Minister, answering the New Year's congratulations of the Liberal members of the Diet to-day, said that the Government adhered to the Eastern policy himself and Count Kalnoky had already enunciated, and would endeavor by every means to maintain peace so long as the vital interests and honor of the country were not jeopardized. Notwithstanding that all the States of Europe had been arming since the abovementioned declarations were made, nothing had happened to diminish their hopes of a preservation of peace. On the contrary, the various rulers and their governments showed pacific intentions corresponding to the wishes of their people.

PEACE WILL BE PROLONGED.

President Grevy held his customary New Year's reception at the Elysee, Paris. The Papal nuncio made an address in behalf of the diplomatic body. M. Grevy, replying, referred to the good relations that had existed between France and all the other powers for a period long enough to be noted in the life of our generation. He believed that peace would be prolonged by the wisdom of the several Governments for the happiness of the nations.

GOBLET APPLAUDED.

The press of Paris is unanimous in its applause of the pacific utterances of M. Goblet in his speech made to a deputation from the Stock Exchange, and says that it hopes the speech will put an end to the alarmist campaign.

THE GERMAN PRESS.

The German Government organs deny that any special Russo-German alliance directed against Austria has been formed. Articles in the Cologne Gazette reflect the increased irritation shown in official circles against Russia. The Berlin Post semi-officially declares that the recent anti German articles which have appeared in the Russian press were not written by journalists, but by General Soboleff, formerly War Minister at Sofia, and a staff officer named Pusrevatki. The Post further says it fails to understand the conduct of the Russian Government in permitting its officials to stir up war.

CANADIANS TO BE HONORED.

Rumored Distribution of Titles in Honor of the Queen's Jubilee—Sir John Macdonald to be Raised to the Peerage.

London, Jan. 1.—Club gossip is very busy at present with what is to be done and what is to be left undone during the Jubilee year. A very fruitful subject of discussion is the bestowal of titles, and rumors of all kinds prevail clubdom in Pall Mall and St. James street, and fill the air of fashionable Belgravia drawing rooms. These rumors may be taken for what they are worth, but some of them are interesting. It is said efforts are being made to confine the list of honors to two thousand names, of which eight hundred belong to officers of the army and navy. The colonies and India will be liberally provided with honors and titles. Inside official circles here it is generally understood that Lieut.-Gen. Lord Russell, commander of the British forces in North America, will be advanced in rank and probably be made a G. C.; Vice-Admiral Lyons, commanding the North American and West Indian squadron, who is only plain "Mr.," will be created a "Sir." This is the first time in the history of the colony that an untitled officer has commanded the fleet.

Sir John Macdonald, the Canadian Premier, who now wears the highest honors ever conferred on a colonist, and is a member of the Imperial Privy Council, will doubtless be created a peer of the realm, with the appropriate title of Earl of Ottawa. Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner to England, will be advanced to the Grand Companionship of the Bath and made a Privy Councillor of the Empire. Mr. Sandford Fleming, the first Chief Engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the originator of the twenty-four-hour system and of the project just launched for laying cables from British Columbia to Australia and Japan, who is now a Companion of the Bath, will be made a Knight Commander. It is also regarded as a certainty that the originators of the Canadian Confederation now living, the members of the Dominion Cabinet, the lieutenant-governors and premiers and chief justices of the various provinces will also be knighted, or, where thus honored now, will be advanced in rank. The honor of knighthood will doubtless be offered to Edward Blake, leader of the Liberal party in Canada.

The Iron and Steel Industry.

Philadelphia, Dec. 31.—The Bulletin of the American Iron and Steel Association says:—Our iron and steel industries were especially active during 1886, and this activity was fairly distributed throughout the year. An improvement in the condition of most of these industries had commenced in 1885. Our production in 1886 of pig iron, Bessemer steel and steel rails, open hearth steel, structural iron and steel and some other products, has been much larger in 1885, and our production of pig iron, Bessemer steel and Bessemer steel rails and open hearth steel has been much the largest in our history.

BRITISH POLITICS.

GOSCHEN OFFERS TO ENTER THE CABINET CONDITIONALLY.

Hartington Willing to Assist in Forming a Coalition Ministry—Conferences to Effect a Reunion of the Liberal Forces.

London, January 1.—Mr. Goschen, Lord Hartington, Sir Joseph Chamberlain and Sir Henry James held a long conference to-day. The weight of opinion was in favor of Mr. Goschen's accepting office. Mr. Goschen thereupon waived all personal distaste and wrote to Lord Salisbury that he would enter his Cabinet under certain conditions. He will hold a conference with Lord Salisbury on Monday.

WHAT THE "STANDARD" SAYS.

The Standard says that the Government would warmly welcome Mr. Goschen if he should consent to enter the Cabinet, and that if he should stand for the Exchange Division of Liverpool he would have the support of the Conservative leaders. The Standard also says that although Lord Hartington declines to enter the Cabinet he would be willing, if the Government resigned, to join in the formation of a coalition Ministry.

CHURCHILL'S PROPOSALS.

Lord Randolph Churchill proposed to reduce army and naval estimates $5,000,000.

CHAMBERLAIN.

The Pall Mall Gazette states that Joseph Chamberlain yesterday made definite overtures to Mr Gladstone for a reunion with the Liberal Party. Mr. Chamberlain has postponed his proposed meeting with the electors of Birmingham, as he wishes to await the result of the present political crisis.

IMPORTANT COUNCILS

are proceeding in the interest of Liberal reunion, Sir William Vernon Harcourt taking the part of chairman and arbitrator. The negotiations are making slow progress, and Chamberlain and Gladstone are still wide apart in spite of all that has been done. Mr. Gladstone stands uncommitted. He has given his sanction to friendly consultation without promising his acceptance or holding out hopes of a compromise.

THE PARNELLITES

are far from hopeful of a satisfactory outcome of these conferences, for the reason principally that the terms put forward by Chamberlain are inadmissable from the Nationalist standpoint. Chamberlain proposes as the foremost condition of reunion that the Irish land question be taken first, leaving Home Rule to be dealt with separately. His object may not be understood by Liberals generally, but is clear enough to the Parnellites—namely, to postpone Home Rule indefinitely. If for the sake of Liberal unity the Land Bill should be taken up first, he would saddle it with clauses reserving a control over Irish affairs incompatible with Home Rule, and making it impossible to deal with the question of a native Irish Parliament on the only terms the Nationalists could consistently agree to. The Parnellites consequently resist all attempts of Chamberlain or any one else to take up the land question first. Their policy is to insist on Home Rule coming first, and to this policy they intend to adhere.

A REUNION

of Chamberlain's followers with the Liberals based on any such conditions as Chamberlain contends for would, while gaining the Chamberlain vote, on the other hand involve the loss of Irish Nationalist support. Gladstone cannot return to power, no matter what combination he and Chamberlain might make, so long as the Tories remain in office, without the eighty-six Parnellite votes. Nor do the Parnellites desire his return to power just yet. They prefer a Tory Cabinet at the present juncture, and for some time to come, long enough, at any rate, for the land agitation to bring rents down to a proper level all over Ireland, and until tenants can buy their holdings on reasonable terms. Until these objects are achieved the plan of campaign must continue, no matter which party is in office.

A FATAL SLEIGH RIDE.

Sad Accident to a Party of Pleasure Seekers—Their Sled Struck by a Fast Express Train—Two Ladies Instantly Killed and Seven Seriously Injured.

Fort Wayne, Ind., January 1.—At 8 o'clock this evening the fast express bound east under high speed struck a sled containing twenty young people who were crossing the track of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway, two miles east of this city, en route to a country residence for the purpose of attending a dance. Mrs. Lizzie Lepper, aged 23, and Miss Tina Minecker, aged 17, were instantly killed; Miss Lottie Eix had her right leg broken; Miss Lizzie Kanning, ribs broken; Miss Lena Haight, arm broken; Miss Emma Shuler, leg broken; Miss Gusta Heine, back badly injured; Miss Lizzie Wellke and Miss Belle Bishop, badly bruised and suffering from nervous prostration. The party was being driven by Byron Westrumb, who saw the train approaching rapidly and was implored by the gentlemen to stop, but did not heed them. The gentlemen jumped out, but the ladies did not succeed in doing this until too late. The scene just after the accident was heart-rending. A relief train was promptly sent to the scene with a corps of surgeons, and the dead and wounded properly cared for.

Scarrow was a faithful Alderman. He deserves to get the Mayor's Chair.

Sorry for Mr. Meredith.

From the Berlin Daily News.

If ever a man deserved a better fate than he has yet received, that man is Mr. W. R. Meredith, the able, honest and talented leader of the Opposition in the Legislature of this Province. Even his opponents admire and respect him both for his talents and honesty. He has spent some ten or twelve of the best years of his life in the service of his country without any of the rewards which mostly follow such labors. He has passed through three general elections and faithfully attended to all the onerous legislative duties of all these years that fell to the leader of the Opposition—all without the realization of a fee or reward. Mr. Meredith has fairly earned the Premiership, but the fates have been against him.

"I tell you what, the wages of the workingmen are low enough now, but some of the Council have tried to make them still lower," said a workingman to his chum in the Arcade yesterday. "But Cowan never tried to reduce them," was the reply. "No," said the first, "he always opposed any reduction in our wages, and I'm going to vote for him for Mayor." "So are we all, and we'll elect him, too," responded the other.

A BRACE OF BRIBERS.

The "Mysterious Strangers" Turns Up in North Perth—How Grit Boodle was Scattered Along the Concession Lines of Wallace—An Infamous Plot to Defeat the Conservative Candidate—The Conspiracy Unearthed—Two of the Conspirators Arrested.

From the Listowel Standard.

One of the most bare-faced conspiracies ever brought to light in this part of the Province was got wind of on the evening before the election. It was no less than a plot to deprive Mr. Hess, the Conservative candidate, of the votes of a large number of his friends in the township of Wallace. On Monday word reached Mr. Hess that on the night previous certain parties had been through the northern part of the township, calling at the houses of farmers who were known to be Conservatives, and leaving two dollar bills. In most cases the farmers were routed out of their beds and had the "boodle" thrust upon them unawares, the "mysterious strangers" immediately making off after telling them to use their teams and work for Hess. At some places they would represent themselves as agents of the Dominion Government, and at others as having been sent by Mr. Hess. Those who were sharp enough to see through the plot refused to take the money, and had the "mysterious strangers" not suddenly decamped they would undoubtedly have been given a warm reception. The news also reached town on Monday evening that some or the same parties were at work that evening on the boundary and along the 3rd concession. Efforts were at once made to find out who the scoundrels were and to capture them. The boodle distributors were described as wearing fur overcoats, which furnished a clue to the owners of the coats and rendered the identification of the parties comparatively easy. A searching party was organized, and the result was that at an early hour on Tuesday morning warrants were issued for the arrest of Henry Leslie, of Elma, and Thomas Hallock, a shoddy peddlar, who resides in Gorrie. Hallock was arrested in the Grand Central Hotel, to where he had been traced, and Leslie was subsequently arrested at his own house. The plot, as was suspected, was nothing more or less than a conspiracy to defraud a considerable number of Conservative electors of Wallace out of their votes, and thereby reduce Mr. Hess's majority in that township, and perhaps secure his defeat. This was made apparent when it was found that Grit scrutineers had been imported from Stratford to attend at the polling sub divisions in which the boodle had been distributed, and whose instructions undoubtedly were to swear every man at whose place money had been left. But the calculations of the conspirators were nipped in the bud, as it were, by the arrest of Hallock and Leslie, and the game being up with them, the strangers who were brought in to act as scrutineers were speedily given the wink to not put the oath. It was subsequently ascertained that between sixty and seventy farmers had been called on, but so far as we know, not a single man of them accepted the money forced on them as a bribe. In several cases the money was refused point blank; in others it was left outside of the houses; others again had the money forced into their pockets, while still others did not realize that money had been left with them till the "mysterious strangers" had gone. Had they delayed their disappearance in the darkness they would undoubtedly have fared badly, as the indignation was intense upon the discovery of the trick that had been perpetrated. Hallock and Leslie were released on bail, the former in $4,000 and the latter in $2,000. Their examination was adjourned till Wednesday next, at 10 a.m.

The electors of London are reminded that the object of the Bonus By-law to be voted upon on Monday, is NOT to grant a bonus to any Railway Company, but simply to authorize the City Council (through the London and South-eastern Railway Company) to expend a sum not to exceed $75,000, in providing terminal facilities for the Canada Southern or Michigan Central Railway.

Chunks of Diamonds.

Diamonds were trumps in a friendly dispute between Charles L. Davis (Alvin Joslyn) and "Pony" Moore, the minstrel, of London, who met in the Morton House, New York, recently:—Moore owns some of the finest diamonds in London. He wears three old-mine stones on his shirt-front, as large as nutmegs and as transparent in color as the eyes of an angel. Some one introduced him to Davis. The latter drew down his shirt cuffs and tried to paralyze Moore by the brilliancy of his solitaires. The negro minstrel was a stoical as an Indian. "I see you are fond of diamonds," he said. "Perhaps you would like to look at some beauties?" He drew a chamois bag from his pocket and rolled out a handful of stones of exquisite lustre. Nothing daunted, Davis pointed to his stud and the buttons of his waistcoat. He next turned down the band of his trousers and exhibited a huge diamond doing service in an undergarment. "Get on to that and die," he said, in a tone of sarcasm. After this he drew a fist-full of loose diamonds from his pocket and threw them upon the bar for Pony's inspection. Not long afterward a load of ice was dumped into the chute leading to the cellar. The noise startled those in the cafe. "What's that?" Moore asked. "They're dumping Davis's diamonds into the safe down stairs," James W. Colher, the actor, said. "He has them locked up there every night."

We say:—Vote for Cowan for Mayor.

Work for a Missionary.

From the Belleville Intelligencer.

Prince Edward Island sustains its Independent Conservative Legislative Council, but that this was no declaration in favor of Toryism was shown a few months later, when an overwhelming Reform majority was elected to the House of Assembly.—London Advertiser.

As usual, Mr. Mills misstates. Prince Edward Island sustained its Conservative Government by electing to the House of Assembly a large majority in their favor. A few months later the electors of the Island, voting under an entirely different franchise, declared in favor of retaining the Legislative Council, which the Conservatives proposed to abolish. Such are the facts. Mr. Mills ought to receive the attention of a missionary.

Grapes and Figs.

The figures given by the Evening Bulletin, of San Francisco, representing the fruit crop of California during the past year, are simply astounding.

It estimates that about 175,000 tons of grapes have been produced, of which nearly 15,000 tons have found their way to the East to furnish forth the festive board. Most of the large remainder has been converted into 15,000,000 gallons of wine, the ordinary being a drug on the market and the good finding a ready sale.

Of dried fruits the product is set down at 2,000,000 pounds of prunes, 750,000 pounds of peaches, 500,000 pounds of pitted plums, 600,000 pounds of apricots, 450,000 pounds of evaporated apples, and 150,000 pounds of figs. Large as this crop may appear to the uninitiated, the belief is expressed that the soil of California has only half tried to show what it can do, and that during the coming season these amounts may be easily doubled and possibly trebled.

Archbishop Lynch and Sir John.

La Minerve says: It is false to pretend that His Lordship Bishop Lynch is hostile to Sir John Macdonald. We repeat that the Archbishop of Toronto, although giving his support to Mr. Mowat, is none the less favorable to the Ottawa Government. Like many others, he makes an absolute distinction between Federal and Provincial politics. Bishop Lynch knows perfectly well the broad and enlightened views of the Prime Minister, and he is, moreover, an ardent partisan of the National Policy: "Canada for the Canadians." His Lordship makes no mystery of his sympathies for the Ottawa Government, and we may say the same of many of his colleagues in the Province of Ontario.

Scarrow made a good Chairman of Finance. He will make a good Mayor.

A tired man managed to get a seat in a crowded Brooklyn Bridge car the other evening, and was enjoying it, when he saw an elderly and frail-looking woman standing with two or three young women. He arose, reached out a long arm, put his finger on the elderly woman, and said:—"Madam, here's a seat." The lady at once started for the seat, without giving word or look to the tired man; but her companion, a bright and pretty girl, grabbed her cloak and in a stage whisper said: "Thank him! Thank him!" Whereupon the elderly lady stopped short and said with great distinctness, "I'm very much obliged to you, sir." The tired man lifted his hat, but it was to the pretty girl, whom he eyed with great and apparent admiration all the way across the bridge.

The interests of the large ratepayers is the interest of all. Cowan is one of the largest taxpayers in the city and will be personally benefited by a reduction of taxes. Vote for him, and rely upon it if the taxes can be reduced he will do it.

The London correspondent of the Irish Times says another domestic romance is being prepared for the London courts. The principals are a veteran soldier on the verge of fourscore, and his wife, a young lady of 25, who married twelve months ago. It was stated that on one occasion the venerable husband was set upon by his young wife and actually kicked down stairs, and that another time she called for him at his club, and when he came out on the steps, thrashed him with his own walking stick.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a highly concentrated and powerful medicine. It is an anodyne expectorant, and, if promptly taken, in cases of Coughs, Throat or Lung troubles, soothes and heals the irritated tissues, and quickly allays all tendency to Consumption.

Six years ago, I contracted a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs, and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a Cough, Night Sweats, Bleeding Lungs, Pain in my Chest and Sides, and was so completely prostrated, as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, was now as well and sound as ever.—Isadore Johnson, Springfield, Ill.

THE ELECTIONS TO DAY.

The Polling Places and Deputy Returning Officers in the Various Wards.

The municipal elections will be held to-day throughout the Province, and in London, at least, the contest promises to prove of a somewhat exciting character, as considerable interest is being manifested in the result, more especially with regard to the Mayoralty. The friends of both Messrs. Cowan and Scarrow are confident that their candidate will be returned, and no effort will be left untried to accomplish that object. The contest for Water Commissioners is a triangular one, Messrs. Kingston, Muirhead and Hiscox being in the field, and two of them to be elected. There will be a contest for Aldermen in the several Wards, with the exception of No. 2, in which Messrs. Moule, McDonald and Greer were elected through the retirement of the two other gentlemen nominated. The only voting for School Trustees will be in Wards 3 and 4, Messrs. J. M. Wilson and W. Trick being the rival candidates in the former, and Messrs. Yerex, Howard and Cook in the latter—one to be elected for each Ward. In addition the ratepayers will be called upon to vote upon the by-law to aid the London & South-eastern Railway Company by granting to them, under certain conditions, a loan of $75,000, for the purpose of securing connection with the Michigan Central system. The polling in every instance will be upon the voters' list of 1886, and those qualified to vote upon the bonus by-law are freeholders or tenants, holding a ten years' lease. The polling places will be as follows:—

FIRST WARD.

Sub-division No. 1, at the City Hall; J. J. Matheson, Deputy Returning Officer.

Sub-division No. 2, at Patrick O'Neil's store, corner of Richmond and Bathurst streets; James Smith, Deputy Returning Officer.

Sub-division No. 3, at the Horton street school house; John Bonser, Deputy Returning Officer.

Sub division No. 4 at George Quinton's house, on Grey street; Frederick J. Cryer, Deputy Returning Officer.

SECOND WARD.

Sub division No. 1, at James Percival's store, on Queen's avenue; James Percival, Deputy Returning Officer.

Sub-division No. 2, at John Turner's shop, on Richmond street; Oswald Baynes, Deputy Returning Officer.

Sub-division No. 3, at Padfield's store, on the corner of Richmond and Oxford streets; Charles A. Sippl, Deputy Returning Officer.

THIRD WARD.

Sub-division No. 1, at the Colborne street school house; W. Wilson, Deputy-Returning Officer.

Sub-division No. 2, at the school house on Waterloo street; John Fleming, Deputy-Returning Officer.

Sub-division No. 3, at the house of Hugh Rose on South street; James Keenleyside, Deputy-Returning Officer.

FOURTH WARD.

Sub-division No. 1, at the house formerly occupied by Christopher Teale, on Queen's avenue; Alexander Gunn, Deputy-Returning Officer.

Sub-division No. 2, at the Princess avenue school house; James Jury, Deputy-Returning Officer.

Sub-division No. 3, at the Waterloo street school house; Harry Pratt, Deputy-Returning Officer.

FIFTH WARD.

Sub-division No. 1, at the Park street school house; John E. Showler, Deputy-Returning Officer.

Sub-division No. 2, at the East End hall; Arscott Isaac, Deputy Returning Officer.

Sub-division No. 3 at the Anderson school house; Thomas Van Idiestine, Deputy-Returning Officer.

THE SNOW BLOCKADE.

Travel on Grand Trunk Connections Hindered by the Drifts, Etc.

During the last few days there have been heavy storms upon several of the American railway lines, and this, in connection with the drifting of the snow, has had the effect of greatly interfering with the running of trains—in fact traffic has been almost at a standstill. It is stated that a very large number of cars are standing upon each side of the river at Detroit and Point Edward awaiting transportation, but in consequence of the great difficulty experienced by the transfer boats in crossing, these cannot be moved for the present. During Saturday night and yesterday it was almost impossible to effect a crossing, and therefore while freight business is nearly suspended, passenger traffic is also materially retarded. One train was "laid out" for upwards of five hours at Stillwater, Mich., on the Chicago & Grand Trunk. Upon the southern division and branches the chief trouble is caused by the drifting of the snow, which has taken place to such an extent as to render all trains very much behind time. The Limited Express going east, due to leave London at 4.40 a m., did not reach here until nearly seven o'clock last night, and the snow had accumulated to such a depth that it became necessary to send out a snowplow to clear the track on that and the Petrolea section. Trains from the east are also away behind time, and should the present weather continue business may be stopped altogether. Of course no trains were run upon the London, Huron & Bruce yesterday, but it is feared that a considerable portion of that branch will be found badly blocked this morning, and that the snowplow may have to be despatched over it.

RAILWAY NOTES.

The return of traffic of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ending December 25th is as follows:—Passenger train earnings, $119,534; freight, $254,316; total, $373,850. For the corresponding week last year the earnings were:—Passenger, $112,524; freight, $218 283; total, $330,807, showing an increase for 1886 of $43,043

The following is the statement of the C. P. R. Company's earnings and expenses for November, 1886:—Gross earnings, $1,073,286; working expenses $625,049; net profits, $448 236; increase in net profits for November, 1886, as compared with November, 1885, $46,233. For the eleven months ending November 30th, the figures are as follows:—Gross earnings, $9,187,703; working expenses, $5 764,462; net profits, $3,423,241; increase in net profits for the eleven months ending November 30th, 1886, as compared with last year, $439,057. *

Mr. James Cowan, the popular candidate for the Mayoralty, has enjoyed a long period of services in the City Council. This entitles him to consideration at the hands of the ratepayers. *

FREE PRESS CORRESPONDENCE.

MR. LITTLE'S REJOINDER.

The Late Superintendent of the L. & P. S. R Refutes Mr. M. Anderson's Charge.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

DEAR SIR,—I fear that the head line to your report of the meeting in the London East Town Hall has given offence to Mr. M. Anderson. I am very sorry, as I was particularly careful in my reply to him to say nothing offensive, and to give him all the consideration due to his age and experience. The statement made by me to which he takes exception referred more especially to passenger accommodation as the context would show.

If you will kindly insert the enclosed letter, your readers will be able to judge whether I would not have been justified in going even further than I did. As it appears, that should the city undertake to again operate the L. & P. S. line after the termination of the present lease, as Mr. Anderson seems to desire, there are no adequate terminal facilities for either freight or passenger business.

Yours truly, J. W. LITTLE.

London, Jan. 1st, 1887.

J. W. Little, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—In answer to your inquiry as to the leasing to the G. W. R. Co. of certain lands and buildings belonging to the L. & P. S. R. I beg to state that a portion of the grounds used for freight and coal yards facing on Bathurst street, with a portion of that occupied by station, was leased for a term of 99 years, the equivalent being the right to run the L. & P. S. passenger business to the G. W. R. passenger station; the portion of land left for the use of the L. & P. S. in my opinion is too limited to do such an amount of freight business as would be demanded by any trunk line, and there is no promise for passenger business save and except that provided by running to the General Passenger Depot of the G. T. R.

THE NEW RAILWAY BONUS.

Mr. Anderson's Strictures Upon Mr. Cronyn's Statement.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

SIR,—Mr B. Cronyn in speaking of the by law of $75,000 to build a depot for the C. S. R., says that it is only a loan. That it will cost the city nothing. I am sorry that Mr. C should resort to subterfuge to induce the electors to vote for the by-law.

He knows that every property holder will be made responsible for the loan, and will be taxed for it every year until it is paid up, and he also knows that they will never receive a dollar of it back.

This is a species of deception, and Mr. C. should be above that kind of business, but it is in keeping with the promise he made to induce the citizens to vote for the London Junction and London & South-eastern Railway by-laws, when he and his associates had not the slightest prospects of building either road, but they put the city to the expense of $800 for the voting on them.

All the schemes of these gentlemen have been most disastrous to the interests of the city, and to their conduct can be attributed the fact of many empty houses now in the city, and that our workingmen driven to Windsor, Brantford, Stratford and other places to find work

London is not in a position, financially, to invest $75,000 in a depot that will not be necessary five years hence.

Vote against the by-law.

CAN THIS BE TRUE?

A Whiskey Informer as a Candidate for School Trustee in No. 3 Ward.

MR. EDITOR,—I see in to-day's issue that a man by the name of Trick is offering himself as a candidate for School Trustee in No. 3 Ward. This same man about eighteen months or two years ago was following the very exalted position of whisky informer, going around with another man who was at the time a High Court officer in the Ancient Order of Foresters, and who was brought before the High Court for his conduct. Whether they were in the employ of the Inspector or whether they were doing it on their own responsibility I do not know, but they did their best to get some of the hotel-keepers fined, and I think succeeded in some cases. Their mode of operation was to loaf around hotel-keepers' houses on Sundays and try to get something to drink or find out who was going in and give their names to the Inspector. I think when we are so hard up for School Trustees as to elect such men as that the city must be losing all respect for honest men. Are these the sort of men we want to expend the public funds of the city?

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain

The Water-works.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

Mr. Hewitt has handed in the following letter for insertion:—

SIR,—An article appears in your issue of 30th inst., reflecting on the conduct and management of the Water Commissioners for the past year, and we cannot permit the statements made by you to pass by without entering our protest, and to give them a flat contradiction. Neither of the undersigned are candidates for re election, and taking into consideration the time and attention, without pay or reward, that we have given to make the system of waterworks a success, your strictures cannot be regarded otherwise than unfair and unjust. When we entered upon our duties we found the finances of the office in anything but a satisfactory condition, a large amount was overdrawn at the bank, and matters generally had been carried on in a loose, slipshod manner. The reservoir upon examination was found to have been constructed in a manner in which it was impossible to have been cleaned, and that there was positive danger to the city in case of fire, and, besides the water was filthy and dangerous to the health of the citizens, as pointed out in our report for 1886. You misstate the amount expended in the repairs, which were absolutely necessary to be made. You place them at $8,000. The amount actually expended for cleaning the filthy pool, which was alive with crabs and other noxious and abominable things, was $1,281 91. In the original construction of the reservoir no means had been provided for draining off the water; this we remedied, and at any time now, within five hours, the water can be drawn off and the reservoir cleaned, besides which we provided that a direct pressure could be brought from the pumping house to the city in case of necessity arising from a large conflagration. All this work we claim has been done cheaply and efficiently, and we defy contradiction. As to the future water supply our report fully explains it will be necessary in the near future to increase the means of providing for the same, and the sooner this is done the better. When we assumed office the bank account was overdrawn over $14 000, while on the 1st December last our credit balance was $5,222 41, after having expended no less than $15 934 24 in permanent improvements in the present year, and $8,108 32 in the previous year. All the work was performed by contract save and except the cleaning out and cementing of the reservoir, which was done under the supervision of the Engineer, and cheaper than was ever done before. The increase in revenue was over $4,000 the past year, and having laid the mains, so soon as the house services are completed, this will be more than doubled, thus you will see that neglect cannot be laid at our door and that everything has been done by us in the city's interest that could be possible. All our meetings were held with open doors, and on all occasions the reporters of both newspapers were present, and can testify that all business was done openly and above board and no wrangling.

Trusting that you will give this communication publication, we are

FOR THE MAYORALTY.

Though the name of Mr. Cowan has been mentioned at various times in connection with the Mayoralty, yet he has never forced himself upon the attention of the citizens. On the contrary, he has given way to the claims of others when the great likelihood was that he could have been elected without any difficulty. This modesty on his part should not be used as a reason against his election to-day. Rather, it may be thought it should form a very substantial consideration in his favor. He has had so much experience connected with the duties and the matters of the Council, and has always been moderate and forbearing in his demeanor, considerate and obliging. At one time Chairman of the Finance Committee he possesses an excellent knowledge of many matters of financial importance, and would, we believe, prove a very useful administrator. On these and other grounds there is no hesitation in recommending him to the good opinion of the electors this morning with the view of asking them to support him heartily at the polls.

MUNICIPAL CONSIDERATIONS.

The public mind will be devoted to-day to the municipal elections that will take place in all parts of the Province. And though they are supposed by some to be of minor importance, they are in truth of more personal concern than are those that have recently occupied the energies of the people, and to which such extraordinary results have been ascribed. The affairs of the Province do not come home to us individually so closely as do those of the municipality in which we live. It is to our own municipality to which we pay tribute, and in order that city life may be genial and prosperous, so is it necessary that the municipal matters should be well and economically administered. For example, to-day the people in this city are asked not only to elect certain gentlemen into whose hands the conduct of affairs is to be placed for the coming year, but it is proposed that a by-law be assented to authorizing the expenditure of a considerable sum of money for railway purposes. And if that by-law be assented to, as it no doubt will be, the effect will be to open up another line of railway to the necessities of London. Who will not admit that that is a matter which, as concerning ourselves, is of far more importance than any issue such as a "boundary award," determining whether a large tract of barren wilderness be included within the legal limits of Ontario or remain within the custody of the Dominion? So, too, that other municipal matter by which the C. P. Railway was brought into the city, and which will be open to competition in the course of a few weeks the entire railway traffic of the city. Will not all of us be willing to agree that those objects are of far greater importance to us as a community than any of those questions about which men were willing to go almost distracted a few days ago? The proper selection of able and judicious men to conduct the affairs of the city are in a measure of as much importance to us. There are a hundred things that enter into our municipal life that might be much better carried out than they are, if the hands into which they are placed for keeping were better adapted to the task. Not that the men themselves are not, generally speaking, objects well worthy of trust, but that the system upon which they are called to work is so inefficient, so diffuse, and roundabout as to wreck united action. Those most experienced in municipal affairs are the most firmly convinced that it will not be until a Board of paid Commissioners replaces the unwieldly Council, and the Ward system be finally abolished, that the progress of the city can be properly and economically adjusted and carried on. That the Ward system lies at the root of most of our troubles is well understood. Its tendency is to detach the efforts of the Aldermen from the furtherance of city objects as a whole to concentrate them on the isolated portions which they individually represent. Thus it is that improvements have been so often carried on piecemeal, and their efficiency to a great extent destroyed. Perhaps there could be no matter that could be brought before the people that would carry with it so much importance in the future as this very one—of applying to the Legislature for power to set aside the City Council as at present constituted, substituting therefor a compact and responsible Board of Commissioners who should have the direction of affairs. That is, in the carrying out of public improvements, the ordering of the lighting, the watering, the cleansing, the sewerage, hospital affairs, and, generally, all those matters that are at the present time scattered amongst those Committees of the Council which are for ever shifting, and which, for that very reason, are devoid of tangible responsibility. There is very much to be done before the affairs of the city can be administered to the best advantage. No doubt those that have constituted the various Councils from time to time have done well according to their lights; but so long as the city is broken up into small constituencies, all of which are clamoring for special advantages, irrespective of general considerations, and united progress, so long will inefficiency triumph, and non-economy fall.

ROSS'S BOAST AGAIN.

The Hamilton Times says that Mr. G. W. Ross is justified in calling Strathroy "my (his) town," because he once taught school there. Well, whatever his school teaching amounted to, the political instruction which he has given from time to time has been such as to leave him in a minority. In the centres of intelligence the people have evidently learnt their "a, b, abs" in regard to Mr. Ross' pretensions, seeing that every town and village gave majorities against him. In the rear parts of the country Mr. Ross was more successful, by making himself a good fellow at "swarries." Thus humbug may prosper for a time; but the day will come at last when every one is found out.

But that is not the real point at issue, which is, the threat made by Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, that, did Mr. Hughes dare to question his statements in the town of Strathroy, "he would be pulled down from the platform and put out of doors." In what page of the Ross mutilated Bible is such intolerance taught and sanctioned? Does Mr. Ross imagine that free speech in Ontario can be muzzled as the members of the Government seem to be in certain matters, to wit, the Parliament buildings job, which they dared not discuss as an issue in the elections? What do the good people of "my town" think of the opinion which Mr. G. W. Ross holds concerning their probable conduct at public meetings? Time was when the Grit party in Strathroy were intolerant enough. Logic and truth from a Conservative leader was once provocative of disorder there akin to riot. The Hon. Matthew Crooks Cameron, when Provincial Secretary in the Macdonald-Carling administration, was once treated to a specimen dose of Grit illiberality. No man in public life at that time was more moderate, more truthful and logical, or more respectful in his public addresses, than Mr. Cameron, yet he was refused a hearing by the friends and supporters of Mr. Ross in the town of Strathroy. On the occasion in question, which many will recollect, he said nothing offensive or contradictory, his speech was merely a fair, candid and judicial exposition of public affairs, without a tincture of acrimony, yet for the whole evening Mr. Cameron was howled at with rude and ruffianly vehemence by the friends of G. W. Ross. They hissed in the speaker's face, and by their conduct showed themselves ready to "pull him down from the platform, and put him out of doors." A more scandalous exhibition of intolerance was probably never before seen in the West Riding, yet it was intelligible as being coincident with the dawn of Mr. Ross as a political force in that neighborhood. Mr. Ross had won his spurs as a temperance orator, making interest with one party by denouncing hotel-keepers, separately and collectively, as a set of public criminals, each one he charged being guilty of "at least one murder," and conciliating the other party at election times by resorts which later on would have been condemned under the anti-treating clauses, all with a view to future political contingencies. It was the select coterie which he had thus gathered around him which refused Mr. Cameron a hearing in "my town" of Strathroy. But it is doubtful if Mr. Ross could summon the same spirits to his aid to-day. A change has taken place, and Mr. Ross is now in a minority there, just as he is in the other centres of intelligent opinion. It was, therefore, an empty boast which he made in threatening that his Glencoe opponent would be "pulled down and put out." Next we shall perhaps hear that any one who calls the Ross interest in question shall be treated to tar and feathers.

A SOUTHERN MERRYMAKING.

One of the most dangerous traps that a human being can fall into is a ball or merrymaking in a country village down South. In the larger towns it has become bad form to fire at your antagonist in a cotillon. Such a proceeding would forfeit social position at once, and this fact must be regarded as most hopeful for the eventual improvement of manners in the rural districts. The N. Y. Herald has an account of an interesting affair which took place at Caperton, West Va., on Christmas night, the leaders being two new arrivals from Kentucky named Gilbert and Hall, between whom there had been a vendetta of long standing. The meeting of the two at the Christmas ball was accidental, and it was supposed at first that they might get through the evening without drawing any weapons. But a dispute arose regarding an engagement for a dance with one of the girls. "Pistols, knives and razors," says the chronicler, "were instantly drawn." The employment of razors would seem to imply that there were colored persons present, but they may have been there in the capacity of musicians or waiters. "Those not interested fled immediately," the narrative continues, "but about twenty remained to the finish." The pistol shots soon broke all the lamps, and left the combatants in total darkness, and "the firing continued until the ammunition was exhausted." When the noise ceased some of those not interested returned cautiously to the room and struck a light. They found the floor covered with blood and the dead almost piled in heaps. Gilbert had been killed, "with six pistol shots in his body," and Hall was stabbed fatally in the abdomen. John Land's throat had been cut by a razor. John Montgomery had been shot fatally in the neck, and Tom Montgomery horribly cut in the breast and shoulders. Several others had received severe but not fatal wounds. None of the ladies were killed or wounded. The Sheriff bestirred himself immediately after the event, but could find only one participant in the fray who was willing enough to be arrested, and this one when brought before the magistrate jumped through a closed window, and although shot and wounded, made good his escape.

THE GERRYMANDER DID IT.

The Tilsonburg Liberal is of opinion that if "the people had been left alone Mr. Mowat would have about the same majority as he had in the last House." It may be so, but that majority, which the Grit organs place at 17, was not large enough to suit Mr. Mowat, and so he passed a second Gerrymander Bill, doing away with some constituencies, as of Cornwall, altogether, "fixing" Toronto so that a Grit had to be elected, and by otherwise hiving the Conservatives and re-arranging the Ridings so as to strengthen the Grit party where they were weak, and making them impregnable where they were already strong. In this way, by the aid of two gerrymanders, Mr. Mowat won a few supporters, among them three Rielite representatives of the French settlements. Had Mr. Mowat "left the people alone," it is a question whether he could have maintained his old majority.

CURRENT TOPICS.

In the list of "Gone and Forgotten" events in 1886, the Advertiser puts the Blake banquet of Jan. 14. True, true!

While some of our young farmers in the centre of Ontario may be looking elsewhere for a more extended opening, it may be well to bear in mind that in the northern parts of this Province there are millions of acres of good land to be had for the asking, and where the climate is more moderate than in Manitoba.

Now that the elections are over, no doubt Mr. Mowat will summon enough courage to fill the Shrievalties and Registrarships vacant in the Province. The Registrarship of Carleton has been vacant for many months, but fearing to cause a split in the party, the filling of it was put off until after the election. Thus party expediency is consulted by Mowat before the public interests.

Soup kitchens in Birmingham have reduced the price of a child's meal, consisting of three quarters of a pint of soup and two slices of bread, one of which is spread with jam, to one half penny. This is nearly as great a triumph of economy as that of providing a large and live news paper for the same amount. The soup kitchen expects to reduce the price of their meals still further to one farthing.

Montreal Sharehold:—We are in receipt of a handsomely illustrated Christmas number of the London FREE PRESS. The cover contains two colored lithographs, which are very creditably executed. The letter-press covers 28 pages of appropriate reading matter interspersed with numerous illustrations, which will make it a very acceptable offering to its readers. We congratulate the publishers on their enterprize.

Gen. Roberts has arrived in Burmah at the beginning of the cool, dry winter, and finds little difficulty in subduing the rebels and breaking up the bands of Dacoits. The leaders, with their followers, are surrendering by hundreds. Where any resistance is offered a whole band behind stockades can be almost exterminated without appreciable loss to the British troops. There is no reason to doubt that by the end of winter the rebels and Dacoits will not only be put down, but civil administration will be established throughout the whole country.

Tobogganing has caught the popular fancy in the United States, and is everywhere the rage, from Chicago, where the houses are lumbered up with jimcrack furniture paterned after a toboggan, to Saratoga, where the swells do not wear "common blankets," but go about gorgeous in velvet, and use toboggans upholstered like a Pullman palace car. The poets have caught fire, so to speak, and toboggan poetry appears in almost every journal. One paper, which has not taken kindly to the new sport, remarks of this poetry, "Chute it," the English of which is, we presume, "Let her slide."

St. John, N. B, Sun:—The Dominion Ministers, so far as we have seen, have not entered into the discussion of Provincial issues in their late tours. They were holding meetings in the Province during the Provincial campaign, but this is due to Mr. Mowat himself, who brought on the election after the addresses had been promised and arranged for, and after several of the meetings had been held. Mr. Blake has addressed gatherings, notably in Hamilton, to which he spoke on Provincial subjects and in favor of Provincial candidates, but the Dominion Ministers have not taken any such part in the campaign.

THE LONDON MUTUAL

The only Mutual Fire Insurance Company licensed by the Government of Canada. Head offices, 428 Richmond street.

This company insures private residences and the contents thereof, and farm property; and by the last Government returns it will be seen that it has, with exception of one other company, and whose business in Ontario it doubles, more property at risk than any other company in the whole Dominion. The business of 1886 has exceeded that of any previous year, and still increasing, thus making this company the largest, most successful and best mutual fire office in the world, results of reasonable rates, good management, and fair, honest dealing. For insurance apply to J. A. Hutton, city agent; Arch. McBrayne, 744 Dundas street, for East London John Ferguson Campbell and Wm. Stanley county agents, or at the office, Richmond street, between 9 and 4 daily.

Notice to Contractors

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Midland Harbor Works," will be received until Tuesday, the 25th day of January, 1887, inclusively, for the construction of Works at Midland, Simcoe County, Ontario, according to a plan and specification to be seen on application to the Resve, Midland, at the office of the Resident Engineer, Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway, Peterboro', and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa, where printed forms of tender can be obtained.

Persons desirous of tendering are requested to make personal enquiry relative to the work to be done, and to examine the locality themselves, and are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, the blanks properly filled in, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque, made payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, for the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000), which will be forfeited if the party decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order, A. GOBEIL, Secretary.

BIG SNOW BLOCKADES.

Western Railroads Suffering Severely.

Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 2.—The present storm on the railroads was the worst in this locality in five years. Fortunately the weather is not very cold or the roads would be unable to move a train. There is over five feet of snow on a level in the exposed places, while in the ravines it is much deeper. The Michigan Central had to abandon several of their passenger trains. Three west-bound passenger trains became stalled in drifts five miles east of here, and it required nearly all day, with five locomotives, to bring them to this city. East-bound trains had another bad time last night. The New York fast express became caught near New Buffalo, and the Grand Rapids train following crashed into the rear, damaging a Wagner sleeping car and injuring the fireman and the porter. No freights were running on this line. On the Wabash road the same trouble is being experienced. Three engines were required to take out the regular day train which had not reached Indianapolis after fighting snow for 24 hours. The Louisville, New Albany, Chicago Road fared best, but they had a great deal of trouble. To-night the weather is colder and bids fair to make railroading well nigh impossible to-morrow.

An Exhibit of California Fruits.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—The Citrus Fair of Northern and Central California, now running in this city, furnished a number of revelations to fruit men. On exhibition are watermelons, nuts, dates, oranges, olives, figs, lemons and various kinds of semi-tropical fruits, which ripened in the open air in December. The oranges shown are considered equal to any produced in the world. Placer County's display of raisins furnishes a striking illustration of the cause that is driving imported raisins out of the market. Included in the exhibit are ten boxes of raisins similar in appearance. Nine boxes are California raisins; the tenth one is the best imported Five-Crown Dehesia, from Spain, and experts are challenged to pick it out. There are also shown some fine raisins faced by machinery, far superior in appearance to any imported article. The fruits exhibited are from that part of the State north of San Francisco. Sacramento is the shipping point for the entire section. As illustrating the growth of the raisin industry it is stated that Sacramento shipped in 1884, 82,250 pounds of raisins; in 1885, 1,102,910 pounds.

Hanged Himself Because he Couldn't Pay a Bill.

Detroit, Jan. 1.—Paul Klerath, a laborer, 72 years old, of 117 Brewster street, contracted a bill of between $2 and $3 recently at a grocery store near the corner of Brewster and Antoine streets. Yesterday morning while Klerath was at the store the grocer presented his bill, and, not getting anything, he remarked, in a bantering way, "If you don't pay this bill I'll have you arrested and sent to the workhouse." The old man took the remark seriously, and went home and hung himself in the woodshed with a piece of packing twine which had come wrapped around some New Year's presents, sent to the old man from members of his family in the northern part of the State. His wife discovered him about three o'clock. His body was then cold. He was seen to enter the woodshed about one o'clock. The body was taken to Blake's undertaking rooms. Coroner Keefe will hold an inquest next Monday night.

Four Vessels Ashore.

Philadelphia, January 1.—The German ship Bertha, which sailed from Hamburg November 11 for Philadelphia, struck to-day abreast of Ocean View, Del., and filled with water. She has on board a cargo of empty petroleum barrels and general merchandise consigned to merchants at this port. The ship has twelve feet of water in her hold, and will, if the weather continues bad, break up and be a total loss. The vessel and cargo are valued at over $100,000. The crew were saved by the life-saving crew. Including the iron ship Salamanca ashore at Rehoboth and the schooners Ruth Carlisle ashore at Fenwick's Island shoals, and William Bailey on the strand at the Delaware breakwater, the value of vessel property bound to this port now ashore and in danger of total loss will foot up $300,000.

Troublesome Tramps.

Lancaster, Pa., January 1.—The tramps in the Lancaster County Workhouse who recently struck for roast beef and were put in irons as a result, are a villainous set. Last night at midnight the Irish tramps headed by a few English and American brothers, began a terrible attack on their German associates, some of whom were severely punished. Nightwatchman Shaub was in among them and discharged a number of shots from his pistol before the attacking party retreated to the old building the workhouse yard, which they call their fort. Officer Shaub was considerably hurt and bruised about the face and head. The tramps are quiet to-day, but there is certainly as to how long they will remain so.

MINOR TELEGRAMS

THE DOMINION.

Another dissolution canard was spread about the streets of Ottawa on Friday.

The Kings on Gas Company has made a reduction of fifty cents a thousand in the price of gas.

Lord Kerry, the eldest son of his Excellency the Governor-General, accompanied by his younger brother, Lord Charles, reached Ottawa from England to-day, where they have been at school.

New regulations for the management of the Montreal Customs House, designed with a view to facilitate business and put a stop to the repetition of past irregularities, have been forwarded to the Collector at Montreal by the Department at Ottawa.

A novel attraction is being associated with the Ottawa mayoralty contest, the story being circulated that on account of Her Majesty's Jubilee, the occupant of the position is likely to be knighted, and this belief still urges a number of workers on each side to increased exertions.

The school trustees of Artemesia, County of Grey, have ordered the use of Mr. Ross' Scripture selections to be discontinued in several of the public schools. The Plattsville School Board has also passed a resolution declaring the Ross Bible an unsuitable book to be read in the public schools.

A despatch has been received at the Agricultural Department, Ottawa, stating that 297 packages of Colonial exhibits have been brought from London to Halifax per steamer Durham City, which arrived at Halifax to-day. This is the second large shipment. The New London arrived at Halifax early in the week, and the packages which came by her are en route for distribution.

At the Governor-General's reception at Ottawa Saturday, at his office in the Departmental Buildings, nearly five hundred persons attended. His Excellency was attended by Capt. Streetfield, Military Secretary, Hon. Mr. Anson, A. D. C., and Capt. Hodgins, G. G. F. G., A. D. C. Among those who assisted at the reception were Sir John Macdonald, Sir Alex. Campbell, Sir Adolphe Caron, Hon. A. W. McLelan, Hon. Thos White, Major-General Middleton, and Lord Frank Hamilton and Mr. Wemess, from Government House.

THE UNITED STATES.

The Mrs. Senator Logan fund has reached $40,000.

At New York Saturday night John Marrone, an Italian, shot fatally Dominico Monsillo, also an Italian, and 60 years old, in an altercation over a game of cards.

Two brothers named Connor living at Coppersill, Floyd Co., Va., while engaged in a drunken row Saturday, fatally stabbed their father, who tried to separate them.

A family in Pittsburgh named Thomas are suffering severely from trichinosis through eating raw ham, which proved to be alive with the parasites. One of the sons cannot recover.

All but $8,000 of the money stolen by the Adams Express robbers has been recovered. Witcrock, alias Fotheringham, declares Cunningham, the messenger, was not a party to the crime.

Eugene Carter, colored, has been living in New York with a white woman. Saturday morning another negro, named Taylor, went in to possess the white prize. He struck Carter on the head with a slab of marble. Carter died last night.

Alexander Brown, a well-to-do farmer residing several miles from Lampasas, Texas, was found in his house yesterday morning murdered. He had been bound hand and foot and then struck on the head with an iron bar. The house had been ransacked.

A squad of six convicts working on the Augusta & Chattanooga Railway, near Augusta, Ga., overpowered and disarmed their guards on Saturday, imprisoned two guards in a hole just dug, and with picks and shovels triumphantly marched into the adjoining woods and escaped.

Great fears are entertained at Rockaway Beach for the safety of five unknown men who are out in an open boat hemmed in by ice in the middle of Jamaica Bay. It is almost impossible they can survive the exposure much longer, and they are making small progress in their effort to reach shore.

At the annual New Year gathering of Methodist Sunday Schools held here yesterday the following despatch was sent to Queen Victoria, Windsor Castle:—"Three thousand Methodist Sabbath School scholars assembled in Montreal send greetings this jubilee year." The following reply was received to-night:—"Methodist scholars, Montreal: The Queen thanks you for your greetings. (Signed) Ponsonby." The reply was read in St. James Street Methodist Church to-night, when the large congregation rose and sang "God Save the Queen."

Shipping Statistics.

Halifax, N S., Jan. 1.—The shipping of the Maritime Provinces shows a tremendous decrease during the past year. The number of vessels registered to date in Nova Scotia is 2,972, of a total tonnage of 527,037, a decrease, compared with Dec. 31st, 1885, of 59 vessels and 13,818 tons. The number of vessels registered in New Brunswick is 1,045, of 270,086 tons, a decrease of 15 vessels and 18 503 tons. The number for Prince Edward Island is 225 vessels, of 30,658 tons, a decrease of 2 vessels and 5,382 tons. The total shipping registered in the three Maritime Provinces aggregates 4,183 vessels, of a total tonnage of 827,781, a decrease for 1886 of 76 vessels and 37,703 tons. Two hundred and fourteen vessels were registered in the Maritime Provinces during the year and 290 were struck off the registry books.

Narrow Escape from a Horrible End

Mount Joy, Pa., Jan 1.—Samuel Smeltzer, of this place, who has just returned from Red Lion, York County, reports the people greatly excited there over the narrow escape of a respectable citizen from being buried alive. Henry Welchman, aged 45, who had died suddenly, was being lowered into the grave when his weeping son suddenly cried out:—"I must see father once more; something tells me he is not dead." The young man's appeal was granted, and the lid of the coffin was removed. The body was found to be warm, and was carried back to the house, where the supposed dead man slowly regained consciousness and is thought to be getting well. The Welchman family are certainly having a happy New Year.

Roasted to Death.

Ashley, Jan. 1.—John Cosklo started in early to celebrate the new year Friday, and late that night was seen to enter his cabin, where he had lived alone for years. This morning for the first time he was missed, and neighbors, breaking into the house, found him roasted beyond all semblance to a human form, in the open fire place. The remains could only be identified by the buttons of his clothes and skull. He had evidently started a large fire of cordwood and fallen into it while still under the influence of liquor.

A Fatal Railway Disaster.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 2.—Reports have reached here of a serious accident which occurred on Friday night on the Southern Pacific Railway, near Devil's River, about 200 miles west of San Antonio. A collision occurred in a deep cut between a construction train and a regular freight. Many freight-laden cars were wrecked and afterwards burned. Four white men on the construction train perished in the burning wreckage. The railroad employes are very reticent, and refuse any particulars.

Destitution in the Texas Drought-Stricken District.

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 2.—An official report of a convention of county judges from the drought district of Texas, held at Albany, will be published here to-morrow. Twenty-one counties were represented in the Convention. In those counties there are now in need of food, clothing and fuel 30,000 people, while thousands more are without seed for the coming year's planting. An appeal is made to State and National Legislatures and to the country at large to furnish at once $500,000 to relieve immediate wants.

A Year's Theatre Fires.

The Neue Freie Presse publishes a list of the theatre fires which have taken place during the past twelve months in various parts of the world. The statistics are as follows:—

Date.	Name of Theatre.	Place.
Dec. 7, 1885....	German.....	...Moscow.
Jan. 2, 1886 ..	White's.....	Detroit, Mich.
March 12, 1886..	City	Lemberg, Gallicia.
May 5, 1886	Local	Derby, England.
May 15, 1886....	Local	Bochum, Germany.
July 29, 1886....	Hindu	Tinnervelly, British India.
Oct. 15, 1886....	Del Filo-Dramatici	Ravenna, Italy.
——	Local	Madrid.
——	Local	Orleansville, Algiers.

At Tinnervelly a hundred natives were burned to death. Otherwise the loss of life during the year in theatres was very small. The journal named states that 1886 was "the most favorable year in regard to theatre fires and losses by them" that has elapsed since the Ring Theatre catastrophe.

Function of Color in Nature.

One of the devices by which animals render themselves the more fit to survive consists in adapting themselves to their environment by imitating it. The object of such imitation is primarily to escape observation from the animals that prey upon them, and to approach their own prey unobserved. The most striking characteristic of natural scenery is its color. Accordingly we find that protective coloring is the most widely distributed mode of mimicry, though the forms of natural objects are not infrequently imitated by animals. In a general way, the animals in cold climates are more liable to be white, like the ice and snow, among which they live, while those of tropical habitat present the wealth of color for which Southern scenery is famous. The animals of the desert are quite generally of a sandy appearance, and many marine animals of a limpid, transparent tint. To account for this general correspondence between climate and color, the direct action of sunlight has been brought in as a sufficient cause. But apart from the fact that this cause has little explanatory power, it is inconsistent with the fact that many very tamely colored species abound near the equator, and attractive color is not infrequent in northern forms of animal life. Local influences are obviously of great importance. The theory that a direct photo-chemical action takes place is in some instances undoubtedly true. Catapillars, in passing into the chrysalis stage, have been observed to spin a dusky-red cocoon when on a brick wall, a green one when on a twig, or a white one when on a white fence paling. In these cases the change of color has been observed to take place within the few hours of spinning the cocoon, and is probably not analogous with the usual origin of protective coloring. In such unique cases as the chameleon, when the change of color is under voluntary control, the imitation of the environment is impossible if the creature be blinded. But, apart from these exceptional cases, the only sufficient explanation of color in the animal world is that it must be a useful trait. In what way it is useful has already been stated. It is impossible to convey in a few words the cumulative effect of the instances of imitative coloring which Dr. Wallace presented. The stripes of the tiger, resembling the strong contrasts of light and shade caused by the shadow of dry grasses under a burning sun; the remarkable list of caterpillars aping the tint of the petals and the curl of the tendrils of the flowers and plants on which they live; and, more wonderful still, the leaf butterfly of India, which even has the pink circles due to fungi on the leaves, which it imitates so closely that the lecturer had to point out on the screen which were leaves and which were butterflies—these and many more give evidence of the great role that color plays in nature. —Science.

Cowan never took part in any municipal jobs and never will. Vote for him for Mayor and secure proper civic administration.

The old-fashioned fireplace, with its back log of glowing coals to throw heat into the room, was probably as wasteful a method of heating houses as could well be devised. But the fuel of those days was plentiful, and the fireplace with open draught to the chimney at least gave better ventilation than have been devised by the methods of heating houses provided now. Heated air is not unhealthful, provided it has not been heated so as to destroy substances with which it comes in contact and thus change its carbon to carbonic acid gas. Our present modes of warming houses are defective alike in the waste of heat and in lack of ventilation. The best stoves and furnaces allow an enormous amount of heat to go out through the chimney, while all give much impure air to the rooms which they occupy. There is room for invention as to the best means for cheaply and effectively warming houses, and at the same time securing good ventilation.

Cowan is not the tool of any class but represents the best interests of all classes in the city. Vote for him for Mayor.

Sir Andrew Clark being about to retire from the acting staff of the London Hospital, a committee, of which the Duke of Cambridge is a member, has been formed, in order to present him with a testimonial as a recognition of his services.

Keep it Dark.

[Texas Siftings.]

If you're bent on hidden pleasure, or you boil with naughty wife,
Keep it dark.

And you wouldn't drain its measure, to the loss of counterfeit,
Keep it dark.

When you want to be anonymous and ventilate your mind
In a screed with gulle synonymous and vengefully designed
Then you better write your letter
Or pursue your little lark,
When the sleepers shut their peepers,
That is, do it in the dark.

If you want to season courting with a captivating spice—
Keep it dark.

With the angry sires cavorting in a most forbidding guise—
Keep it dark.

If you want to add completeness to exhilarating sips,
Then remember stolen sweetness is the best
from beauty's lips;
Or the Towers at your trousers,
With their teeth will leave a mark,
The infernal boot paternal!
Keep it dark. Keep it dark.

If you're fond of sly diversion when temptation thrills the nerves,
Keep it dark.

Or are making an excursion on another man's preserves,
Keep it dark.

If the limit Hymeneal from your catalogue is missed,
And some other man's ideal you discover may be kissed—
If you mention your intention
To become a social shark,
You'll get Hades from the ladies;
Keep it dark. Oh, keep it dark.

If you want to get a finger in that mess—the social pie—
Keep it dark.

And your aspirations linger on a slice with longing eye,
Keep it dark.

Take the pill, although it's bitter, 'tis the cleverest disguise,
And preponderance of glitter that will carry off the prize.
'Tis invention and pretension
That will soonest hit the mark;
The demurest are the surest,
For they always keep it dark.

A CARDINAL SIN

BY HUGH CONWAY.

What kept her from doing so? The man opposite, who wanted her to promise something. She had forgotten what it was. She would ask him again presently. Oh, yes; she would promise anything else. He would let her go then, and she should be in time. The truth was, her brain was getting disordered.

Now, strange to say, considering he had means of sustenance at his command, Manders, although his mental state was all right, was suffering almost as much physically as his companion. Frances's action which had deprived him of any stimulant, was answerable for this. Brandy had become an absolute necessity to him, and he had now been hours and hours without it. He was in a state that loathed the very sight of food. The watching and absence of sleep were telling on his undermined constitution. He began to feel almost certain that, in spite of the advantages enjoyed, his prisoner would outwit him. His talk about the impossibility of her being traced to his house was to a great extent braggadocio. Even if Allan were fool enough to follow the false scent, others might look in the right direction. He had not counted on this determined resistance. A few hours was the outside he had thought possible. He reckoned greatly upon her fear of compromising herself by spending a night away from home. she had spent that night away, and, as far as he could see, was resolved to spend another if necessary, and her powers of endurance would permit. Why, another night, or half of it, would make him helpless. He felt he was growing as weak as a cat. It was his old mistake—once more he had been too clever.

Besides, promise what she would, the evil was done—it was too late now—her absence was known. Allan would insist upon its being accounted for. It had been part of his plan to let it be inferred that she had gone away with him. He had no idea that Josephine knew anything about his establishment at B——, but had she been fully aware of its existence, he assure it would be the last place in which Allan would expect to find his wife. No, he felt sure that fool Allan would go blundering off to Nice.

Yet Frances might be treated. To-morrow, if he could last out until then, would be too late. Her tips must be sealed at once—this evening. In a fortnight, a week even, he could make his last venture a success. He would go straight to Caversham Place, force those papers from Josephine, then down to Redhills, and make his final settlement with Mr. Bonrcher; then away to Spain, or any other country with which there is no extradition treaty.

The whole tenor of his thoughts now pointed to a black crime. Frances's silence must be assured. Her promise would be of little good to him now that she must account for the time she had been away from home.

He was thinking how he should for a while conceal the dark deed he was meditating. That sooner or later her fate would be known he did not doubt. He did not think a pistol-shot would be heard, and thought it would be easy to bestow his victim in some place, either under or above ground, where she might be undiscovered for many days. The more he thought of it the more certain it seemed to him that Frances must not leave that room alive. He longed for the missing brandy to nerve him to the deed he had resolved upon.

It was nearly six o'clock. He made up his mind that at six o'clock it should be all over. His fingers were stealing furtively toward the breast of his coat. He was wondering, with a horrible curiosity, whether one shot would suffice. Then he looked across at Frances and saw a change in her face.

Her eyes met his vacantly, but she shuddered a little. Then she pressed her hand to her head.

"What did you ask me to promise?" she inquired. "I have forgotten."

"It's no good asking now," he replied, sullenly; "the time has passed for promises."

"Yes, but you told me I should go the moment I promised. I must get back to-night. Tell me what to say."

She spoke in a bewildered way, and Manders knew that to let her leave the house in such a state would be fatal to him. His hand crept to his breast pocket.

"It's too late, I say. You won't go back to town again!"

Dazed as she was, she saw the action, and caught the true meaning of the words. Quick as a thought she sprang to her feet and rushed into the inner room; it was but two steps there, and her movement was such an unexpected one that the villain, although he drew the pistol from his breast, had no time to aim. Besides, why should he run the chance of bungling? She was there, safe enough, and at his mercy.

But as she ran she gave one piercing cry for help—a cry which, startling and pitiful as it was, fell on one person's ears like the sweetest music, in a flash showing him that the wife he loved was in that room by compulsion, not of her own free will.

Crash! The door was driven in and flew back against the wall, and, before the oath which leaped to his lips was uttered, Manders turned his pistol to the door and fired.

The bullet must have passed within an inch of Allan, but that inch was as good as a mile. Before the trigger could be again drawn Allan was upon the ruffian, and as he came he struck full and square at the wicked face such a blow as his strong arm had never before struck, most likely would never strike again. All the wrong and the rage that nerved him was thrown into that blow. It took effect on Manders's temple. The man fell like a log, and added to the stunning consequences of that brave stroke by knocking his head against the chimney-piece as he went down. Taken altogether, it was a highly satisfactory blow.

As Manders's heels went up, a second chamber of the revolver exploded, but the bullet went harmlessly through the ceiling. Allan Beauchêne took the pistol from his senseless foe, and went to seek his wife.

His quick eye caught and understood everything—the locked door, the padded windows, the ready pistol. Frances had been a prisoner; her absence was explained. But he had yet to learn how far the prostrate ruffian had harmed her. His fingers closed in an ominous fashion on the pistol-butt as he went from one room to the other; just inside the door of which Frances lay as senseless as her late jailer.

Crushing down an impulse to return, and then and there put a bullet through his brother-in-law's head, Allan raised his wife and sought for means to restore her to herself. He found the last of the water in the jug, with this he bathed her face. He sprinkled as he did so the still wet hair on her head, which had never once removed it. Even as he was chafing her hands and trying to bring her back to life, he kept half an eye on the other room. His had no intention of letting the man escape.

But Manders's senselessness lasted longer than did Frances's. She soon opened her eyes and looked at Allan. She put her arms round his neck and blessed him but made no allusion to the present situation. He thought she was strangely composed.

THE FLYING YEARS.

Dr. Talmage's Discourse Last Sunday Morning.

Brooklyn, Jan. 2.—This morning at the Tabernacle the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D.D., expounded some passages of Scripture concerning the longevity of the patriarchs. His text was Genesis, chap. 47, v. 8: "How old art thou?" The preacher said:—

The Egyptian capital was the focus of the world's wealth. In ships and barges there had been brought to it from India frankincense and cinnamon, and ivory and diamonds; from the North, marble and iron; from Syria, purple and silks; from Greece, some of the finest horses of the world, and some of the most brilliant chariots; and from all the earth that which could best please the eye and charm the ear and gratify the taste. There were temples and sums with red sandstone, entered by the gateways that were guarded by pillars bewildering with hieroglyphics, and wound with brazen serpents, and adorned with winged creatures—their eyes, and beaks, and pinions glittering with precious stones. There were marble columns blooming into white flowerbeds; there were stone pillars, at the top bursting into the shape of the lotus worn in full bloom. Along the avenues, lined with sphinx, and fane, and obelisk, there were princes who came in gorgeously-upholstered palanquin, carried by servants in scarlet, or else were drawn by rabicles the snow-white horses, go den-bitted, and six abreast, dashing at full run. There were fountains from stone-wreathed vases climbing the ladders of the light. You would hear a bolt shove, and a door of brass would open like a flash of the sun. The surrounding gardens were saturated with odors that mounted the terrace, and dripped from the arbors, and burned th incense in the Egyptian noon. On floors of mosaic the glories of Pharaoh were spelled out in letters of porphyry, and beryl, and flame. There were ornaments twisted from the wood of tamarisk, embossed with silver breaking into foam. There were footstools made out of a single precious stone. There were beds fashioned out of a crouched lion in bronze. There were chairs spotted with the sleek hides of leopards. There were sofas footed with the claws of wild beasts, and armed with the beaks of birds. As you stand on the level beach of the sea on a summer-day, and look either way, and there are miles of breakers, while with the ocean foam dashing shoreward, so it see ned as if the sea of the world's pomp and wealth in the Egyptian capital for miles and miles flung itself up into white breakers of marble temple, mausoleum and obelisk.

It was to this capital and the palace of Pharaoh that Jacob, the plain shepherd, came to meet his son Joseph, who had become Prime Minister in the royal apartment. Pharaoh and Jacob meet, dignity and rusticity, the gracefulness of the court and the plain manners of the field. The king would fain make the old countryman at ease, and seeing how white his beard is and how feebls his step, looks familiarly into his face, and says to the aged man: "How old art thou?"

High before last the gate of eternity opened to let in, and the great throng of departed centuries, the soul of the dying year. Under the twelfth stroke of the brazen hammer of the city clock, the patriarch fell dead, and the stars of the night were the funeral torches. It is most fortunate that on this road of life there are so many milestones, on which we can read just how fast we are going towards the journey's end. I feel that it is not an inappropriate question that I ask, to day, when I look into your faces, and say, as Pharaoh did to Jacob, the patriarch—"How old are thou?"

People who are truthful on every other subject, lie about their ages, so that I do not solicit from you any literal response to the question I have asked. I would put no one under temptation; but I simply want, this morning, to see by what rod it is we are measuring our earthly existence. There is a right way and a wrong way of measuring a door, or a wall, or an arch, or a tower, and so there is a right way and a wrong way of measuring our earthly existence. It is with reference to this higher meaning that I confront you, this morning, with the stupendous question of the text, and ask:—"How old art thou?"

There are many who estimate their life by merely worldly gratification. When Lord Dundas was wished a Happy New Year, he said: "It will have to be a happier year than the past, for I hadn't one happy moment in all the twelve months that are gone." But that has not been the experience of most of us. We have found that though the world is blasted with sin, it is a very bright and beautiful place to reside in. We have had joys unnumerable. There is no hostility between the Gospel and the amusements and festivities of life. I do not think that we fully enough appreciate the worldly pleasures God gives us. When you see your enjoyments, you do not go far enough back. Why do you not go back to the time when you were an infant in your mother's arms, looking up into the heaven of her smile; to those days when you filled the house with the murmur of boisterous merriment; when you shouted as you pitched the ball on the playground; when, on the cold, sharp, winter night, muffled up, on skates you shot out over the resounding ice of the pond? Have you forgotten all those good days that the Lord gave you? Were you never a boy? Were you never a girl? Between those times and this, how many mercies, how many kindnesses the Lord has bestowed upon you. How many joys have breathed up to you from the flowers, and shone down to you from the stars, and chanted to you with the voice of soaring bird, and tumbling cascade, and booming sea, the thunders that with bayonets of fire charged down the mountain sides! Joy! Joy! Joy! If there is any one who has a right to the enjoyments of the world, it is the Christian, for God has given him a lease to every-thing in the promises. "All are yours." But I have to tell you, that a man who estimates his life on earth by mere worldly gratifications is a most unwise man. Our life is not to be a game of chess. It is not a dance in lighted hall, to quick music. It is not the froth of an ale pitcher. It is not the settlings of a wine cup. It is not a banquet with intoxication and revelry. It is not the first step on a ladder that mounts into the skies, or the first step on a road that plunges into a horrible abyss. So that in this world we are only keying up the harp of a rasture, or forging the chain of a bondage. And standing before you to-day with life on the one side and death on the other; song on the one side and groaning on the other; mansions on the one side and dungeons on the other; heaven on the one side and hell on the other I put to you the question of the text:—"How old art thou?" Towards what destiny are you tending, and how fast are you getting on towards it?

Again, I remark that there are many who estimate their life on earth by their sorrows and their misfortunes. Through a great many of your lives the plough-share hath gone very deep, turning up a terrible furrow. You have been betrayed, and misrepresented, and set upon, and slapped of inheritance, and pounded of misfortune. The brightest life must have its shadows, and the smoothest path its thorns. On the happiest brood the hawk pounces. No escape from trouble of some kind. While glorious John Milton was losing his eyesight, he heard that Salmasius was glad of it. While Sheridan's comedy was being enacted in Drury Lane Theatre, Cumberland, his enemy, sat growling at it in the stage-box. While Bishop Cooper was surrounded by the favor of learned men his wife took his lexicon manuscript, the result of a long life of anxiety and toil, and threw it into the fire. Misfortune, trial, vexation, for almost everyone. Pope, applauded of all the world, has a stoop in the shoulder that annoys him so much that he has a tunnel dug, so that he may go unobserved from garden to grotto, and from grotto to garden. Cano, the famous Spanish artist, is disgusted with the crucifix that the priest holds before him, because it is such a poor specimen of sculpture. And, so, sometimes through taste, and sometimes through learned menace, and sometimes through physical distress, sin, in ten thousand ways, troubles come to harass and annoy. And yet it is unfair to measure a man's life by his misfortunes, because where there is one stalk of nightshade, there are fifty marigolds and harebells; where there is one cloud thunder-charged, there are hundreds that stray across the heaven, the glory of land and sky asleep in their bosom. Because death came and took your child away, did you immediately forget all the five years, or the ten years, or the fifteen years in which she came every night for a kiss, all the tones of your heart pealing forth at the sound of her voice or the soft touch of her hand? Because in some financial Eurooldon your fortune went into the breakers, did you forget all those years in which the luxuries and extravagances of life showered on your pathway? Alas! that is an unwise man, an ungrateful man, an unfair man, an unphilosophic man, and, most of all, an unchristian man, who measures his life on earth by groans, and tears, and dyspeptic fit, and abuse, and scorn, and terror, and neuralgic thrust.

Again: I remark that there are many people who estimate their life on earth by the amount of money they have accumulated. They say:—"The year 1866, or 1876, or 1883, was wasted." Why? Made no money. Now, it is all cant and insincerity to talk against money as though it had no value. It is reinement, and education, and the thousand blessed surroundings. It is the spread-eagle of the table that feeds your children's hunger. It is the lighting of the furnace that keeps you warm. It is the making of the bed on which you rest from care and anxiety. It is the carrying out at last of you to decent sepulture, and the putting up of the slab on which is chiselled the story of your Christian hope. It is simply hypocrisy, this cynical fosirmants trying to peer in through the cracks and the keyholes of heaven—afraid that both doors of the celestial mansion will be swung wide open before our entranced vision—rushing about among the apothecary shops of a means to an end, will find out his mistake, when the glittering treasures slip out of his nerveless grasp, and he goes out of this world without a shilling of money or a certificate of stock. He might better have been the Christian porter that opened his gate, or the whitehaired workman, who last night heaved the coal into his cellar. Bonds, and mortgages, and leases have their use, but they make a poor yard-stick with which to measure life. They that boast themselves in their wealth, and trust on the multitude of their riches, none of them can, by any means, redeem his brother, nor give to God a ransom for him, that he should not see corruption. "Wise men die, likewise the fool and the brutish person perish, and leave their wealth to others."

But I remark:—There are many—I wish there were more—who estimate their life by their moral and spiritual development. It is not sinful egotism for a Christian man to say: "I am purer than I used to be, I am more consecrated to Christ than I used to be. I have got over a great many of the bad habits in which I used to indulge. I am a great deal better man than I used to be." There is no sinful egotism in that. It is not base egotism for a soldier to say: "I know more about military tactics than I used to before I took a musket in my hand, and learned to 'present arms,' and when I was a pest to the drill-officer." It is not base egotism for a sailor to say: "I know how better to clew down the mizzen topsail than I used to before I had ever seen a ship." And there is no sinful egotism when a Christian man, fighting the battles of the Lord, or if you will have it, voyaging towards a haven of eternal rest, says: "I know more about spiritual tactics, and about voyaging towards Heaven, than I used to." Way, there are those in this presence who have measured lances with many a foe, and unhorsed it. There are Christian men here who have become swarthy by hammering at the forge of calamity. They stand on an entirely different plane of character from that which they once occupied. They are measuring their ife on earth by golden-gated Sabbaths, by pentecostal prayer meetings, by communion tables, by baptismal fonts, by hallelujahs in the temple. They have stood on Sinai and heard it thunder. They have stood on Pisgah and looked over into the Promised Land. They have stood on Calvary and seen the cross bleed. They can, like Paul the Apostle, write on their heavies' troubles "light" and "but for a moment." The darkest night their soul is irradiated, as was the night over Bethlehem, by the faces of those who have come to proclaim glory and good cheer. They are only waiting for the gate to open, and the chains to fall off, and the glory to begin.

I remark again, there are many (and I wish there were more) who are estimating life by the amount of good they can do. John Bradford said he counted that day nothing at all in which he had not, by pen or tongue, done some good. If a man begin right, I cannot tell how many tears he may wipe away, how many burdens he may lift, how many orphans he may comfort, how many outcasts he may reclaim. There have been men who have given their whole life in the right direction, concentrating all their wit and ingenuity, and mental acumen, and physical force and enthusiasm for Christ. They climbed the mountain, and delved into the mine, and crossed the sea, and trudged the desert, and dropped at last into martyrs' graves, waiting for the resurrection of the just. They measured their lives by the chains they broke off, by the garments they put upon nakedness, by the miles they travelled to alleviate every kind of suffering. They felt in the thrill of every nerve, in the motion of every muscle, in every throb of their heart, in every respiration of their lungs, the magnificent truth: "No man liveth for himself." They went through cold and through heat, foot-blistered, cheek-smitten, back-scourged, tempest-lashed, to do their whole duty. That is the way they measured life—by the amount of good they could do. Do you want to know how old Luther was; how old Richard Baxter was; how old Philip Doddridge was? Why, you cannot calculate the length of their lives by any human arithmetic. Add to their lives ten thousand times ten thousand years, and you have not expressed it—what they have lived or will live. O, what a standard that is to measure a man's life by! There are those in this house who think they have only lived thirty years. They will have lived a thousand—they have lived a thousand. There are those who think they are eighty years of age. They have not even entered upon their infancy, for one must become a babe in Christ to begin at all.

Now, I do not know what your advantages or disadvantages are; I do not know what your talent or talent is; I do not know what may be the fascination of your manners or the repulsiveness of them; but I know this:—There is for you, my hearer, a field to culture, a harvest to reap, a fear to wipe away, a soul to save. If you have worldly means, consecrate them to Christ. If you have eloquence, use it on the side that Hall and Wilberforce used theirs. If you have learning, put it all into the poor-box of the world's suffering. But if you have none of these—neither wealth, nor eloquence, nor learning—you, at any rate, have a smile with which you can encourage the disheartened; a frown with which you may blast injustice; a voice with which you may call the wanderer back to God. "O," you say, "that is a very sanctimonious view of life!" It is not. It is the only bright view of life, and it is the only bright view of death. Contrast the death scene of a man who has measured life by the worldly standard, with the death scene of a man who has measured life by the Christian standard. Quinn, the actor, in his last moments said: "I hope this tragic scene will soon be over, and I hope to keep my dig ity to the last." Malherbe said in his last moments to the confessor: "Hold your tongue! your miserable style puts me out of conceit with heaven." Lord Chesterfield, in his last moments, when he ought to have been praying for his soul, bothered himself about the proprieties of the sick room, and said: "Give Dayboles a chair." Godfrey Kneller spent his last hours on earth in drawing a diagram of his own monument. Compare the silly and horrible departure of such men with the seraphic glow on the face of Edward Payson, as he said in his last moment: "The breezes of heaven fan me. I float in a sea of glory." Or, with Paul, the apostle, who said in his last hour: "I am now ready to be offered up, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought the good fight, I have kept the faith. Henceforth, there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the Righteous Judge, will give me." Or compare it with the Christian death-bed that you witnessed in your own household. Oh, my friends, this world is a false god! It will consume you with the blaze in which it accepts your sacrifice, while the righteous shall be held in everlasting remembrance; and when the thrones have fallen, and the monuments have crumbled, and the world has perished, they shall banquet with the conquerors of earth and the hierarchs of heaven.

This is a good day in which to begin a new style of measurement. How old art thou? You see the Christian way of measuring life and the worldly way of measuring it. I leave it to you, to say which is the wisest and best way. The wheel of time has turned very swiftly, and it has hurled us on. The old year has gone. The new year has come. For what you and I have been launched upon it, God only knows.

Now let me ask you all—Have you made any preparation for the future? You have made preparation for time, my dear brother; have you made any preparation for eternity? Do you wonder that when that man on the Hudson River, in indignation, tore up the tract which was handed to him, and just one word landed on his coat sleeve,—the rest of the tract being pitched into the river—that one word aroused his soul? It was that one word, so long, so broad, so high, so deep, eternity! A dying woman, in her last moments, said:—"Call it back!" They said:—"What do you want?" "Time," she said: "call it back!" Oh, it cannot be called back! We might lose our fortunes and call them back; we might lose our health and perhaps recover it; we might lose our good name and get that back; but time gone is gone for ever.

Some of you, during the past year, made preparation for eternity, and it makes no difference to you really, as to the matter of safety, whether you go now or go some other year—whether this year or the next year. Both your feet on the rock, the waves may dash around you. You can say: "God is our refuge and strength—a very present help." You are on the rock, and you may defy all earth and hell to overthrow you. I congratulate you. I give you great joy. It is a happy New Year to you.

I can see no sorrow at all in the fact that our years are going. You hear some people say:—"I wish I could go back again to my boyhood." I would not want to go back again to my boyhood. I am afraid I might make a worse life out of it than I have made. You could not afford to go back to boyhood if it were possible. You might do a great deal worse than you have done. The past is gone! Look out for the future!

To all Christians it is a time of gladness. I am glad the years are going. You are coming on nearer home. Let your countenance light up with the thought. Nearer home!

Now, when one can sooner get to the centre of things, is he not to be congratulated? Who wants to be always in the Freshman Class? We study God in His world of the Biblical photograph of Him; but we all know we can in five minutes of interview with a friend get more accurate idea of him than we can by studying him fifty years through pictures or words. The little child that died at six months of age knows more of God than all Andover, and all Princeton, and all New Brunswick, and all Edinburgh, and all the theological institutions in Christendom. Is it not better to go up to the very headquarters of knowledge?

Does not our common sense teach us that it is better to be at the centre than to be clear out on the rim of the wheel holding nervously fast to the tire lest we be suddenly hurled into light and eternal felicity? Innumerable kinds of optical instruments trying to peer in through the cracks and the keyholes of heaven—afraid that both doors of the celestial mansion will be swung wide open before our entranced vision—rushing about among the apothecary shops of this world, wondering if this is good for rheumatism, and that is good for neuralgia, and something else is good for a bad cough, lest we be suddenly ushered into a land of everlasting health where the inhabitant never says: "I am sick."

What fools we all are to prefer the circumference to the centre. What a dreadful thing it would be if we should be suddenly ushered from this wintry world into the Maytime orchards of heaven, and if our paupers n of sin and sorrow should be suddenly thrown up by a presentation of an emperor's castle surrounded by lawns with springing fountains and paths, up and down which angels of God walk two and two. "We are like persons standing on the cold steps of the National Picture Gallery in the rain, under umbrellas in the rain, afraid to go in amid the Turners, and the Titians, and the Raphaels. I come to them and say: "Why don't you go inside the gallery?" "O," they say, "we are doubtful whether we can get in." I say: "Don't you see the door is open?" "Yes," they say, "but we have been so long on these cold steps, we are so accustomed to them we don't like to leave."

But," I say, "it is so much brighter and more beautiful in the gallery, you had better go in." "No," they say, "we don't know exactly how it is out here, but we don't know how it is in there." O, let us be glad that we are one year nearer the scene that explains all and irradiates all!

In 1858, the French resolved that at Ghent they would have a kind of musical demonstration that had never been heard of. It would be made up of the chimes of bells and the discharge of cannon. The experiment was a perfect success. What with the ringing of the bells and the report of the ordnance, the city trembled, and the hills shook with the triumphal march that was as sublime as it was overwhelming. With a more glorious accompaniment will God's dear children go into their high residence, when the trumpets shall sound and the Last Day has come. At the signal given, the bells of the towers, and of the lighthouses, and of the cities, will strike their sweetness into a final ring into the heavens and float off upon the sea, joined by the boom of bursting mine and magazine, augmented by all the cathedral towers of heaven—the harmonies of earth and the symphonies of the celestial realm making up one great triumphal march, fit to celebrate the ascent of the redeemed to where they shall shine as the stars for ever and for ever. With such anticipations, we can look back without a single regret upon the dying years, and forward with exultation to the time when the archangel, with one foot on the sea, and the other foot on the land, shall swear by Him that liveth for ever and ever that time shall be no longer.

Crockie Baldwin, of Philadelphia is a ninety-five-year-old cockatoo in the Zoological Gardens there. She is very garrulous and very cross. A white-haired citizen told the keeper the other day that when he was a boy, sixty odd years ago, he used to plague Crockie, who was then the pet of a Mrs. Baldwin, and noted for her conversational powers. Mrs Baldwin gave the bird to a friend, who kept her twenty-five years. Then she was offered for sale in a bird store where Mr. Cox, of Germantown, found her, bought her for $80, and gave her to the Zoo.

One of the most admired performers in a sensational drama recently produced in Cincinnati was a big bulldog, that at a critical point in the play came bounding out, and, seizing the villain by the throat, or thereabouts, hung on like grim death, amid uproarious applause. The other night he grabbed his man as usual, but something gave way, and the dog fell near the footlights, and then he stood there and calmly ate a big piece of liver, which had been fastened under the villain's throat, and had hitherto been the incentive for the dog's exertion.

TOLU AND TAR.

All healing tar. Everybody knows the curative properties of tar. Last summer a pretty and romantic city girl spent the summer on a Maine farm, and got up a mild flirtation with the young man of the house. He was not particularly bold, and so one evening, as she swung in the hammock in the moonlight, she coyly said to the young fellow, "What is God's best gift to man?" He pondered a moment, as he watched the color come and go in her cheeks, and then said, decisively "A hoss." The young woman said that it was getting damp, and she must go right into the house.

TRADE, TRAFFIC AND FINANCE.

Latest Notes by Telegraph and Mail.

BRITISH GRAIN TRADE.

Liverpool, January 1. — A leading weekly grain circular says: The grain trade is very strong. The year closes with unusual activity. Wheat is dearer in all positions. There is a large inquiry from speculators. The demand from millers is small, but it is expected to increase after the turn of the year. Cargoes are held at 6d advance and few are offered. At yesterday's market there was a large attendance with a strong feeling. Wheat was very firm and a fair business was done at an advance of 1d to 2d over Tuesday's rates. In flour a good business was done, mostly at an advance of 6d. Maize was in good demand at an advance of about ½d.

Chirosophy.

From the Boston Courier.

It was cold and bleak without, but warm and bright within. They sat side by side near the glowing grate and watched the flickering firelight as it danced among the bric-a-brac on the tables. They were both in deep thought, and no sound was heard save the sighing of the wind among the trees in the orchard and the measured tick of the ormulu clock which rested on a bracket against the opposite wall, and over which was suspended a snow shovel covered with violet velvet and trimmed with pink satin ribbons.

"It was not an hour nor a scene for aught
But love and calm delight."

The youth was manly in appearance and the maiden a vision of beauty, and judging from their attitude and adjacency they were lovers. Suddenly the maiden broke the silence, the poetic silence:—

"Have you heard of this new science called chirosophy?" she asked, in tones sweeter than the musical tinkling of a silver bell.

"I have, darling," he answered, in accents of ineffable tenderness; "not only heard of it, but have given it considerable study."

"Dear me!" exclaimed the maiden. "I am surprised. You have studied chirosophy? Then perhaps you will give me some instruction in the science?"

"Certainly, my own. Please let me have your hand."

"Oh, George!" murmured the maiden, overwhelmed with confusion, and crimson with blushes; "this is so sudden."

"What is so sudden?" the youth asked in surprise.

"Your asking for my hand," tremblingly responded the maiden. "But—there—what can I do but refer you to pa, and believe me, dearest, you need have no fear of the result. He will certainly consent to my becoming your wife."

Then, throwing herself on the neck of her lover, the maiden gave vent to her emotions in a flood of happy tears.

Let us draw the curtain over this affecting scene.

Mr. James Cowan has served a long apprenticeship at the municipal bench, and has graduated with honors. He is now able to deal in a practical, business-like manner with all matters affecting the city that may come within the province of the Mayor.

A Splendid Showing.

From the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.

Few people have any correct conception of the great improvements made of late years in the speed and carrying capacity of first class lake vessels. A few years ago a vessel was regarded as doing very well if she made one round trip a month; from the progress recently made in shipbuilding it looks as if steamers would soon be in commission which, with good dispatch at terminals, would make the round trip in a trifle over a week. The flyers of the lake fleet show the following splendid record for the past season;

	Round Trips.
Propeller Albany, Western Transit Line...	18
Propeller Jewett, Union Steamboat Line...	17½
Propeller Boston, Western Transit Line....	17½
Propeller Syracuse, Western Transit Line...	17
Propeller Hoga, Union Steamboat Line....	16½

Navigation opened April 26 and closed practically the first week in December, so that the above record was made inside of seven and a half months. The work of the Albany, Capt Frank Williams commanding, which seems to have won the pennant this season, is deserving of special comment. As shown above she made 16 round trips between Buffalo and Chicago; every run but one from port to port was made in three days; her average consumption of coal was 141 1 6 tons to the round trip, and she delivered at Buffalo 45,000 tons of freight during the season. This does not include her heavy up business.

In view of such results as these it is evident that the possibilities of the lake route have hardly been approached as yet.

It is generally believed that a sound, practical business man, who is successful in his own private affairs, is the person best adapted to superintend the management of matters affecting a community. Such is the case with Mr. James Cowan, the present candidate for Mayor.*

Dr. W. H. Hale, an Edinburgh physician, who is travelling in this country, has a cane which, he says, cost $2,500. The head contains over three pounds of 18-carat gold, and is mounted with sixty-five diamonds. The gold snake which entwines the upper part of the cane has ruby eyes. In the top of the head is secured a gold chronometer balance watch, the cover of which contains a gold monogram of its owner, studded with twenty-four diamonds.

Scarrow is economical, and will save thousands of dollars to the city.

London Waiters.

The greatest social revolution in London within the last generation has been the alteration in the hotels and eating-places. Corresponding with this has been the alteration in the waiters. The old-fashioned British waiter is certainly not extinct, but he is very rare. The waiters are now imported like so many of the dishes they serve, from abroad. Their slim forms and obliging, nonchalant manners would astonish our ancestors. I know of one restaurant where there are twenty-seven waiters, and each of them pays three-and-sixpence a day for his place. They do not in the least grumble; some of them make money fast. One of them told me that in another year he would have enough money to retire to his native canton Ticino.

Now about the feeing of the waiter. Some people give too much, while others give too little. What I generally do is to give a penny on every sailing I spend. If I only spend a shilling on a light lunch, I give the waiter a penny. If my dinner runs to six shillings, I give him sixpence. I expect the general run of tips approximates very closely to this.

It has come to be understood as a matter of social philosophy that one ought to be on good terms with the waiter. He will serve you well the first time if you are a stranger to him, but if you do not give the "correct tip," he will bear the matter in mind. It is not alone that he will assume a sour and disappointed manner, but even if he knows his trade sufficiently well to conceal his emotions, he knows how to make you suffer. He has a good deal of a certain kind of patronage at his disposal. A wary diner-out at a public dinner takes care to establish good terms with the waiter. He, to some extent, is able to make sure of the green fat of the turtle, the back of the grouse, and the old Madeira. The waiter who knows and respects his customer is able to make him thoroughly comfortable; to make his table the picture of neatness; to have everything hot and of the best, and to give judicious hints and disinterested advice.

One day I had a talk with a waiter of the old school, in the well known hotel of a pretty London suburb.

"Well, sir, I have been pretty well all my life a waiter. I don't call it hard work, that is to say, it is not hard work with the hands, though it is hard work with the head. It does not do to put much beer or wine in one's mouth, I assure you. I have sometimes been carrying a dozen different orders in my head. In some places we get a comparative holiday on Sunday, except in places near London. A few waiters pay for their places; the head waiter of the old Cock in Fleet Street used to do so. I get a small salary, but I mostly depend on tips. I have buried my wife, and my children are in business, and I am now all alone in the world. I have never been a month without employment, and I have saved up enough money to provide for myself if I were obliged to give up."

"Sometimes," quoth this head-waiter, "there are ways in which a head-waiter may be able to do something for himself, and even get a place of his own. He may have made friends among his customers, perhaps have lent them some money in their younger days, and they may be ready to back him up when he takes a place. Perhaps some gentlemen have an idea that they will start a hotel, say a big one on the limited liability plan, which often means unlimited ruin. They say, 'We will go down and have a dinner on the ——, and have a talk with Bob. Bob has been there for the last thirty years, and, if there is any man living who knows all about it, that man is Bob.' And so they offer to make Bob manager; and perhaps he invests his own savings in the venture, and, if he is a good man and has good luck, he may make his fortune. There is nothing that he might not do—go into the wine trade, and so on."

I had some talk with the people of the inn, who were growing quite gray, and had long reminiscences of this inn before the railway came to the place, or only came within a few miles of it. Now there are three railway stations not far from one another.—All the Year Round.

No doubt about it, Scarrow is the best man. Vote for him.*

Franklin R Goodhart, of Reading, who was made insane by a joke played by boon companions in a saloon about two weeks ago, died from nervous prostration on Monday. Goodhart was a well known gambler, and had made and lost a great deal of money. In 1849 he went to California, and a year later came back with $9,000 in dust. Cards soon swept it all away, and he followed Yankee Robinson's circus for two years as a sharper, his forte being three-card monte and faro. Then he and "Canada Bill," one of the most notorious confidence men of his time, made a tour of the country. They worked the Western railroads and Mississippi steamboats, and both pocketed winnings by thousands. During the way Goodhart operated in the Union camps, and before its close had accumulated a fortune. About 1867 he went with Tom Coleman and Harry Hartman to Chicago, and won $30,000 at faro in one sitting, breaking the bank. This money was soon gone and Goodhart's luck left him.

Frank Weigman, who died in Cincinnati recently, was born in 1781, in Westphalia. When a boy 18 years old, he entered the English army, and subsequently became a soldier of Frederick II. of Prussia. He fought in the war against Napoleon, and was one of Blucher's men at the battle of Waterloo, when he received a sword thrust which marked him for life. He came to America when he was 90 years old, and on the 26 h of last October he celebrated his 105th birthday. He was but four feet and a few inches in height, and as spry and active as a boy of sixteen. His hearing, eyesight and appetite were excellent. He left 23 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren. His brother died some time ago in Germany at the age of 103, and his mother died at 99.

☞ George T. Hiscox, who was born and raised in London, solicits your vote to-day for Water Commissioner. Economy and efficiency in the water-works department are his watchwords.

Co-operative Economy.

A Startling Truth!—Thousands die annually from neglected coughs and colds, which soon ripen into consumption, or other equally fatal diseases of the lungs; when, by the timely use of a single bottle of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, their lives could have been preserved to a green old age.

Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated, whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp by A. H. DIXON & SON, 305 King street, West, Toronto, Canada. Sunday eod

Then he made arrangements to ship them by a certain train on the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas Railroad, but he missed the train which a few hours afterward was wrecked. At last he got the racers away, and a day or two afterward the stables at Vicksburg were completely burned with their contents.

BY-LAW NUMBER ——

To Aid the London & South-Eastern Railway Company, by Granting to it a Loan of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars on Certain Conditions:

WHEREAS, it is desirable to aid The London and South Eastern Railway Company by granting to it, on the conditions hereinafter mentioned, a loan of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars, and the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of London has determined to grant the said loan on the said conditions.

AND WHEREAS the total amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-law is the sum of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars.

AND WHEREAS, it will require the sum of $3,375 to be raised annually during the currency of such debentures to pay the interest of the debentures to be issued therefor, and the sum of $1,128.90 to be raised annually during the same period to meet the principal of the said debentures when due.

AND WHEREAS, the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality is the sum of $12,537,510 00, according to the last revised Assessment Roll thereof.

AND WHEREAS, the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said Municipality is the sum of $1,742,323.47-100, no part whereof or the interest whereof is in arrear.

BE IT THEREFORE ENACTED by the said Municipal Council:—

1. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Corporation to aid the said Railway, by granting to it by way of loan the sum of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars on the conditions hereinafter mentioned.

2. That the Mayor be and he is hereby required to cause any number of debentures to be made, not less than one hundred dollars each and amounting in the whole to the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars, which debentures shall be sealed with the Corporate seal of the said City, and shall be countersigned by the Treasurer.

3. That the said debentures shall be made payable in thirty years from the date thereof, at the office of the Treasurer of the said City, and shall have coupons attached for the payment of the interest thereof.

4. That the said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly from the date thereof.

5. That the said debentures may be made payable in sterling money of Great Britain or any other currency.

6. That there shall be raised and levied in each year during the currency of the said debentures the said sum of $3,375 for the payment of the interest, and the said sum of $1,128.90 for the payment of the principal when due of the said debentures, and the same shall be raised and levied by a special rate sufficient therefor on all the ratable property in the said City of London.

7. That the said Company shall not be entitled to receive the said debentures, or any of them, unless or until

(a) Running powers shall be obtained by the Canada Southern Railway Company over the London and Port Stanley Railway between the Cities of St. Thomas and London, and into the City of London, not later than six months from the passing of this By-law; and

(b) The said Company shall have entered into an agreement with the Corporation of the City of London to pay to the Corporation of the City of London the sum of $3,000 per annum, payable half yearly (less any sum not exceeding $400 per annum which the said Company shall expend for necessary current expenses of the said Company, and for insurance of their buildings if required), for the period of twenty years from the time of the issue of the said debentures, with the privilege to the said Company of repaying to the said Corporation of the City of London the amount of the said debentures at the end of any half year during the said term of twenty years, or, at the option of the said Company, to convey, assign and transfer to the said Corporation of the City of London, free from all incumbrances, the real estate and other property purchased by the said Company with the proceeds of the said debentures, in lieu of repaying to the said Corporation of the City of London the amount of the said debentures, and thereupon on the payment of the said annual sum of $3,000 shall cease. Such agreement shall also provide for the repayment to the said Corporation of the City of London by the said Company of the amount of the said debentures at the end of the said term of twenty years; in the event of the said Company not paying or conveying as aforesaid before the end of the said term of twenty years, under the privilege hereinbefore contained, or at the option of the said Company, the said Company may then convey, assign and transfer to the Corporation of the City of London the real estate and other property purchased by the said Company with the proceeds of the said debentures, and shall also provide that the said Company shall insure at their own expense and as soon as possible, and keep insured in some reliable Insurance Company or Companies to be approved of by the Council of the Corporation of the City of London from time to time until repayment or conveyance, as aforesaid, all the buildings which the said Company may erect to as great an amount as can lawfully be obtained thereupon, and shall assign and transfer the insurance policy or policies, when issued, to the Corporation of the City of London as security for such repayment, as aforesaid. Provided, however, that in case the buildings of the said Company shall have been insured, as aforesaid, and the said buildings or any of them shall at the time of such conveyance or any to the Corporation of the City of London, as aforesaid, be destroyed by fire, then the said Company shall not be held liable for not conveying such of the buildings so destroyed, as aforesaid. And the said Company shall also agree to secure to the Corporation of the City of London the repayment of the amount of the said debentures and the payment of the said annual sum of $3,000, as aforesaid, upon the property, real and personal (if any), of the said Company, in such manner and by such mortgage, deed, bond, document or other writing as shall be by the City Solicitor deemed best and safest in the interests of the said Corporation of the City of London, and such agreement shall also be approved of by the City Solicitor before it is executed.

8. That no interest shall be allowed or be paid to the said Company on the said debentures until the conditions mentioned in the seventh paragraph hereof shall have been fulfilled.

9. That the foregoing sections of this By-law shall take effect on and from the fourteenth day of January next, and the subsequent sections thereof shall take effect immediately.

10. That the votes of the electors of the said city upon this By-law shall be taken on Monday, the third day of January next, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon, and that the several polling places and Deputy-Returning Officers for taking the said vote shall be as follows:—

For the First Sub-division of the First Ward, at the City Hall, and John J. Matheson shall be the Deputy-Returning Officer therefor.

For the Second Sub-division of the First Ward, at Patrick O'Neill's store, on the corner of Richmond and Bathurst streets, and James Smith shall be the Deputy-Returning Officer therefor.

For the Third Sub-division of the First Ward, at the Horton Street School House, and John Bonser shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Fourth Sub-division of the First Ward at George Quinton's house, on Grey street, and Frederick W. Cryer shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the First Sub-division of the Second Ward, at James Percival's store, on Queen's avenue, and James Percival shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Second Sub-division of the Second Ward, at the shop of John Turner, on Richmond street, and Oswald Baynes shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Third Sub-division of the Second Ward, at the house of A. Pacfield, on Richmond street, and Charles A. Slipp shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the First Sub-division of the Third Ward, at the Colborne Street School House, and William Wilson shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Second Sub-division of the Third Ward, at the School House on Waterloo street, and John Fleming shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Third Sub-division of the Third Ward, at the house of Hugh Rose, on South street, and James Keenleyside shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the First Sub-division of the Fourth Ward, at the house of Christopher Teale, on Queen's avenue, and Alexander Gunn shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Second Sub-division of the Fourth Ward, at the Princess Avenue School House, and James Jury shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Third Sub-division of the Fourth Ward, at the Waterloo Street School House, and Henry Pratt shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the First Sub-division of the Fifth Ward, at the Park Street School House, and John E. Shower shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

For the Second Sub-division of the Fifth Ward, at the East End Hall (late Town Hall), and Arscott Isaac shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

And for the Third Sub-division of the Fifth Ward, at the Anderson School House, and Thomas Van Idiestine shall be the Deputy Returning Officer therefor.

That the Clerk shall attend at the City Hall in the said city, on Wednesday, the fifth day of January next, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, to sum up the number of votes given for and against this By-law, and Thursday, the thirtieth day of December instant, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, at the said City Hall, is hereby appointed for the Mayor to appoint persons to attend at the various polling places, and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passage of the By-law respectively.

Passed in open Council this tenth day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

ALEX. S. ABBOTT, Mayor.
T. D. HODGENS, Clerk.

Take notice, that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-law which will be taken into consideration by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of London on Thursday, the thirteenth day of January, A. D. 1887, at eight o'clock in the afternoon, being upwards of one month from the first publication in the FREE PRESS and the London Advertiser, which first publication is on the eleventh day of December, A. D. 1886, and that at the hour, as and places therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

Dated this eleventh day of December, A.D. 1886.

A. S. ABBOTT, Clerk.

Valour's dam was a sister to the famous Joe Daniels, now the most fashionable horse in California. Valour is a fine horse, lots of bone and muscle, besides good feet; he stands 15 hands 3 inches. Mr. Burgess has also bought a brown 4-year-old (Chicago Volunteer) colt, from Colonel O'Malley, of Wardsville, Ont., that is considered a very promising animal.

An old and respected resident of London, Mr. Dennis McCarthy, of Grey street, died on New Year's Day, after an illness of three days from an attack of congestion of the lungs, in the 79th year of his age. Mr. McCarthy had been a resident of London for forty-three years, and had seen it rise from a small place to a live and prosperous city. He was employed for many years at the McClary Company's establishment, and took an active interest in the St. Vincent de Paul and kindred societies. He leaves a family of grown-up sons and daughters, two of the latter being in the Convent here. Mr. McCarthy attended St. Peter's Church on Christmas morning last. He was well thought of by all acquainted with him.

Notwithstanding the statement of the Tizer that no order was issued to G. T. R. employes regarding holding municipal offices, we have the fact in black and white before us that Mr. A. Whittaker, Supt. of the Mechanical Department at Windsor, showed the order to quite a number in that town, and Messrs. Blanning, Carney and Elsey—the three Councillors who are affected by it—also state that they received formal notification. The public can safely bet that the Tizer is again lying—as usual.

Joseph E. Kilroy, of Windsor, has published a card, formally announcing himself as an Independent candidate for election to the Dominion Parliament. This will make a three cornered fight, Messrs. Patterson and Cleary completing the triangle. Mr. Kilroy as editor of a Knights of Labor paper and Secretary of the Windsor Assembly, probably gives the best indication of the source from which he expects his principal support.

Mr. Redfield, U. S. Customs Inspector here, has been superseded by Mr. Roderick McNeil, who assumed his duties on Saturday. Mr. Redfield has filled the position for some time, and rendered himself very popular with the railway employes and the travelling public, being regarded as the most courteous and obliging gentleman who has occupied the position in this city; hence, his departure is much regretted.

The art loan exhibition in progress at Victoria Hall was visited by a very large number of citizens on New Year's day, and considerable interest was manifested in the contest for the pictures considered the best by a majority of the visitors. Up to the present 68 votes have been awarded to "Mignon" by Miss Gussie H. Wood, 74 to "What Shall I Say," by Miss Emily M. Gunn, and 46 to a portrait by Miss Amy Buckle.

Mr. F. M. Bell-Smith, of this city, recently gave one of his literary entertainments at Ailsa Craig, where the people did not seem to appreciate his efforts. At Montreal, however, where he gave five performances, he was welcomed with crowded audiences, and the Star says:—"He has a fine appearance, a good voice, and is at home with his audience from the start."

Mr. Pacaud told the women of his own race in North Essex before election that if they would induce their fathers, brothers and sons to vote for him, and so elect him, he would secure the removal of the American duty on straw braid, the manufacture of which is an important domestic industry among his country women.

Mr. S. B. Fuller, of Woodstock, has purchased a very choice animal in Kentucky, being a bay stallion called Aspinwall, by imported Australian, dam Hester, by Lexington, which will be used for improving stock. Aspinwall is a grand horse, has immense bone and muscle, and stands about 15 hands 3 inches.

The St. Thomas Journal states that Alfred Newcombe, who has a wife and family in this city, and who has been making a living in St. Thomas by peddling cleaning soap, was taken to the Home there on Friday. He is suffering from consumption, and there are no hopes of his recovery.

Voting on the by law granting Messrs. John Heard & Co., of Amherstburg, $6,000 to secure the removal of their factory to St. Thomas, took place at St. Thomas Friday last, and resulted in its being carried by a vote of 731 to 67. It was necessary to poll 627 votes in its favor.

Robert Willard, a farmer from near Amherstburg, was killed while driving home from Windsor on Tuesday night after the election. He drove over an embankment and the waggon fell on him, breaking his neck. He lived only a few hours after the accident.

The boarders of the Hutchinson House, St. Thomas, of which Capt. McBride is the popular proprietor, yesterday presented the attaches of the house with a well-filled purse as a small token of appreciation of their efforts to promote their happiness throughout the year.

The Canada Company made a satisfactory report of the prosperity of Canada at their recent half-yearly meeting. Since 1876, some of their lands had risen in value 100 per cent. What has Sir Richard Cartwright to say to this?

An overcoat was left on the corner of Bathurst and Clarence streets on Saturday evening by a man who ran across to make an inquiry regarding the trains. When he came back, as might be expected, the coat was missing.

John Harris, for some time turnkey at the county jail here, died suddenly at the St. Thomas Hospital the other afternoon. Mrs. Harris died about a year ago, and a large family of young children are now left orphans.

Mr. A. Ingram's majority in West Elgin has been increased to 35. Talbotville gave him 69 majority.

An item appeared a few days ago to the effect that Mrs. Daisy and John Fisher were charged with theft. They merely furnished bail for John Daisy, who was charged with larceny.

There was a large attendance at the usual weekly service in Victoria Hall last evening, and the meeting was addressed by Mr. Hay, of the Woodstock Baptist College, who was at one time a member of the Y.M.C.A. here.

Mr. James Cowan, from his intimate acquaintance with the financial affairs of London, is highly qualified for the position of Mayor.

New Year in London.

Good resolutions for the New Year are now in order. The most popular of which is.—I am resolved henceforth and forever to have no dealings with self-styled corn doctors, or preparations sold in imitation of the "Sure Corn Cure" (by whatever name known), but to use only the "Sure Corn Cure" Manufactured by W. S. Barkwell, Chemist. Our readers can find hundreds in this city anxious to testify to the virtues of this preparation.

Vote for Scarrow and the rebuilding of the Car Works.

If you want something to please you and your friends, go to A. E. Trebilcock's and order a suit and overcoat. They have the largest assortment of tailoring goods in the city. Call at 235 Dundas street before leaving your order.

Picture Framing to order. Cabinet Frames from 90c up. Plush Frames and Hand Satchels, cheap, at Howard's Weekly Payment Store, 231 Dundas street. L3hn

The maintenance of the Fire Department in a thorough state of efficiency is a matter of vital importance to the city. Mr. James Cowan is practically familiar with this branch of civic affairs, and if elected Mayor can bestow upon it the care, oversight and judgment it requires.

Elections not Injurious to Trade.

The elections, as predicted, did not prove injurious to the Xmas trade, for almost all of that well-selected and immense stock of Xmas goods to be seen at Barkwell's Drug Store a few days ago has been disposed of. No doubt the extraordinarily low prices he allows at Xmas had much to do with the rapid sale. He has just received a few lines suitable for New Year's presents, on which it is said he gives the same bargains.

Cowan pays more freight than all the civic candidates put together. Consequently, he is personally interested in securing railway competition.

Xmas and New Year's Gifts at "Colwell's Popular Music House," 171 Dundas street. The best assortment of Musical Instruments and lowest prices. See the Holiday White Sewing Machines.

Work Boxes, Writing Desks, Scrap Books, Dolls, Toys, &c. Xmas and New Year Cards from 1c. upwards.—J. T. LIVELY, 6 Market Lane.

It is desirable, if possible, to secure the rebuilding in this city of the G. T. R. car shops, and the retention here of an industry so important for the interests of the people. Mr. James Cowan is heartily in favor of using all possible means to retain them, and if elected Mayor will use his influence for that object.

For Holiday Gifts buy a nice Musical Instrument or a White Sewing Machine at "Colwell's Popular Music House," 171 Dundas street. The best goods and the lowest prices; from a Mouth Organ to a Piano.

The conduct of affairs at the City Hospital requires careful supervision and the exercise of some practical knowledge on the part of the Mayor. This Mr. James Cowan is well qualified to give from his long experience.

Staple and fancy dry goods of every description, suitable for fall and winter wear, selling cheap at J. J. Gibbons', 199 Dundas st.

A man who is capable of conducting an extensive business successfully is the best qualified to manage the city business. Mr. Cowan does this, and should be elected Mayor for 1887.

The great popularity achieved by our High and Lassie cigars has induced unscrupulous manufacturers to put inferior cigars on the market under similar brands, and retail dealers to repack our boxes with snide goods. To protect our interests, we have been compelled to attach lithographed stickers to each and every cigar of this brand, with the name of the same and the initials H. McK & Co. thereon. We respectfully request our customers to see that they get the genuine article, manufactured exclusively by H. McKay & Co., London, Canada.

MASSACRE OF NATIVE CHRISTIANS IN UGANDA.

Meeting in London to Promote the Establishment of an Imperial Institute—Speech by the Prince of Wales—Prospect of a Reunion of the Liberal Party.

London, Jan. 12, midnight.

Massacre of Christians.

A Rome despatch says:—The Propoganda has received a letter from Catholic missionaries in Uganda, Africa, in which is related the story of a massacre of native Christians there. The writers say that King Mounga recently discovered a servant studying a catechism, and being greatly enraged caused the massacre of one hundred negro converts. Most of the victims were burned alive. Mounga, the missionaries say, vows that he will destroy all the Christians in his Kingdom.

The English Liberals.

The London correspondent of a New York paper declares that he is convinced that there is now a real desire on the part of Mr. Chamberlain and Sir George Treveylan to find a modus vivendi with the Home Rule Liberals. It is generally believed that the ministerial policy of Lord Salisbury's Cabinet as it develops itself will do more to reunite the dissentient Liberals than any cut and dried resolutions which they might adopt among themselves. If the conferences do not lead to cooperation they will at all events promote a friendly feeling between the two sections of the Opposition, and this is likely to bring about a more definite understanding in the near future. The great meeting which was held in St. James' Hall last evening will help the re-union considerably. The meeting has never been surpassed in London for enthusiasm and unanimity. The Liberals are now hopeful that they will be able to carry many of the metropolitan seats at the next general election.

An Imperial Institute.

A meeting was held in St. James' Palace to day of gentlemen interested in the promotion of the establishment of an Imperial Institute. The Prince of Wales presided, and in explaining the object of the meeting he said the general feeling of the people of the Empire favored the giving of some signal proof of love and loyalty to the Queen on the occasion of the jubilee of her reign. An Imperial Institute was the fittest memorial that could be erected. This would form a practical means of communicating with the colonies. He commended the idea of such an institute, which, he said, would be regarded as a centre from which knowledge of England's commerce and industry would be extended. He relied upon assistance being found to support the institute, and predicted that it would be a lasting benefit to this and future generations. A resolution was passed that an Imperial Institute would be a fitting memorial of the Queen's jubilee, and directing that the people of the Queen's dominions shall be appealed to for funds to support and maintain such an institute.

THE DEAD EARL.

The Queen Deeply Affected by Lord Iddesleigh's Death — a Telegram from Mr. Gladstone—The Death Scene.

London, Jan. 12.—The Queen was deeply affected by the news of Lord Iddesleigh's death, and immediately sent a telegram expressing her sympathy with the widow and family.

Mr. Gladstone, who always highly esteemed Lord Iddesleigh, was much affected, and Mr. Gladstone sent the following telegram:—"We are sorely grieved by the news of the death of one so eminent, respected and beloved. We must reserve a more particular expression of our feelings until later."

In an interview this evening, Dr. Longstone said:—"I was summoned to Downing street at about 3.15 p. m. On arriving I found Lord Salisbury and several gentlemen in a room with the Earl of Iddesleigh. The Earl was dying on a sofa. He was in a semi-conscious condition, and excessively pale. His eyes were closed, his pulse was scarcely perceptible, and his heart was still. The pallor was that of death. I applied restoratives directly, but they were without effect. I cannot say precisely when he died. If he was not dead when I arrived he passed away soon after without a struggle. The Earl was older, physically, than he was in years. In his condition the cold journey from Exeter yesterday was very injudicious. Without a post mortem examination I cannot say positively, but I think the deceased suffered from fatty degeneration. He might bear much fatigue and excitement without ill result. There was nothing unusual in his sudden collapse. It by no means follows that the Earl was laboring under excitement.

There will be no inquest on the remains of the late Lord Iddesleigh, the doctors certifying that death resulted from failure of the heart's action.

London, Jan. 13.—The Morning Post, in an article on the death of Lord Iddesleigh, says:—"It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that such a serious blow may in some degree affect Lord Salisbury's Government. Lord Iddesleigh was one of the most single-minded and honorable gentlemen that ever gave their life's labor to the public service. The Daily News says:—"It is not in human nature to altogether ignore the distressing circumstances which in all human probability hastened Lord Iddesleigh's death, and those who are responsible for thus harrying a true, loyal friend and colleague may be left to the judgment of their own consciences."

The cash and securities thus far found in the hovel of Jos. Perry, the miser, who with Richard Price was found last week frozen to death in Philadelphia, amount to $130,000. U. S. bonds, greenbacks, and gold and silver were found hidden in cupboards and other places.

BISMARCK'S SPEECH

CREATES A DEEP IMPRESSION AT PARIS.

Comments of the Press—The Debate in the Reichstag on the Military Bill Continued—Bismarck Insists Upon the full Scope of the Measure.

London, Jan. 12.—A rumor of Gen. Boulanger's retirement from the French Ministry, alleged to be consequent on the flat refusal of M. Goblet to lay before Parliament a bill for military credits, is believed to have been started with the view of influencing a decision in the German Reichstag on Prince Bismarck's army bill. At the same time currency has been given to the report by an under-current of jealousy which exists in official circles, and even the army, at the important position which Gen Boulanger has assumed in the affairs of the nation. A new Cabinet combination is already been canvassed from which Boulanger is to be excluded. Bismarck's utterances are likely to raise Boulanger still higher in public estimation with the result of forcing the French Government to tolerate his excesses rather than provoke an open rupture with him.

WHAT WILL BE THE RESULT?

Opinion as to the result of the Reichstag vote differs considerably, but the weight of judgment inclines to the belief that yesterday's speeches will overcome the opposition of the Centre party, and that the German Government will obtain a small majority in favor of Bismarck's Bill.

FRENCH PRESS OPINION.

A Paris despatch says:—Bismarck's speech created a deep impression. The general opinion is that it does not increase the prospects of peace. The Matin says:—"The account opened in 1876 will never be settled as long as the German flags floats over Metz and Strasburg." The Temps says: "Prince Bismarck's speech in the Reichstag will produce a singularly reassuring effect in Europe. In response to his declarations that Germany has no intention of attacking France, France can declare that she no longer dreams of attacking Germany." All the evening papers in Paris in their interpretations of the speech concur in attributing pacific intentions to Germany.

THE FEELING AT VIENNA.

A Vienna despatch says: It is learned from semi-official sources that Prince Bismarck's speech in the Reichstag yesterday meets with lively recognition in Government circles, as it is thought to show that he is trying to effect an entente cordiale between the Cabinets at St. Petersburg and Vienna.

THE DEBATE CONTINUED.

Berlin, Jan. 12—The debate on the Army Bill was resumed in the Reichstag to-day. Dr. Windthorst again spoke in favor of a triniate term. Bismarck replied:—"In three years we might be confronted with altered circumstances. To be sure, it is also impossible to calculate the position of affairs seven years hence, but in that period efficiency of the army would be secured and a compromise would be possible. In the Centre party a number of heterogeneous political elements are becoming united, but will the union last? Is its continuance until next elections certain? At the time when so many rights and privileges were granted to the Reichstag by the constitution there was no idea that they would lead to such miserable disputes as have now arisen." In speaking of the Imperial Army the Chancellor said he had no intention to detract from the rights of sovereigns of the Federal States as the heads of their respective armies, nor, he continued, would the Government contest the right of the House to criticize the Bill during the debate on the Budgets, provided the Government's proposals were now accepted. Referring to the question of the working classes, he declared that the Government did not wish to drag it into the present discussion. He was sure that if called upon by the Emperor the workingmen of Germany would be ready at all times to come forward in defense of the Fatherland. In concluding, he again assured the House that he would not abandon a hair breadth of the Bill, and must insist upon the full scope of the measure. The Reichstag then adjourned.

THE RESULT UNCERTAIN.

Prince Bismarck has long daily conferences with the Emperor with reference, it is supposed, to the position of the Reichstag. In Government circles it is believed that a division on the Bill will be taken to-morrow. The Government supporters despair of the passage of the measure.

OTTAWA.

Jubilee Postage Stamps—Boom in North-west Lands.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—It is stated that new Jubilee postage stamps, issued in London, Eng., about a week ago, will be distributed for use among the colonies of the Empire. This will necessitate a new arrangement with the Postal Union, as the stamp will be a twopence halfpenny one. In the Dominion it will be designated and printed as a five-cent stamp.

The Interior Department has received advices that the Dominion and Canadian Pacific Railway lands around Calgary are being rapidly bought up by capitalists. During December a farmer sold at that place 640 acres at an average price of $3 50 per acre. During the same month applications were made for 3,840 acres more.

Caused by a Broken Switch Rod.

River Du Loup Station, Que., January 12.—An engine and four cars of a westbound through express train ran off the track at St. Pascal at 3 10 p.m. to-day. The tender rolled down an embankment, but the engine and cars remained close to the rails. Nobody was hurt, though the fireman had a narrow escape, being pulled out from beneath the capsized tender half an hour later uninjured. The line was cleared at 8 30 p.m. A broken switch rod is supposed to have caused the run-off.

It is reported at Dublin that the Executive will prosecute Mr. Dillon, with the purpose to estreat his sureties.

TORONTO.

The Industrial League Formed—Highway Robbery—West Northumberland Election Case—Sir John Macdonald—Friendly & Co.'s Embarrassment—Railway Collision.

Toronto, Jan. 12—A meeting of manufacturers was held here to-day which resulted in the formation of an organization to be called the Industrial League. The following officers were elected:—President, W. H. Storrs, Acton; Vice-President, J. F. Ellis, Toronto; Treasurer, M. B Perine, Doon; Secretary, Frederic Nicholls, Toronto.

A. L. Cowan, traveller for Barrington & Sons, Montreal, was attacked by three highwaymen, on Bay street, late last night, and robbed of a gold watch and $25. One held a revolver close to his face, while the other two were searching his pockets.

The application made yesterday for a writ of mandamus, to compel the County Judge of Northumberland and Durham to proceed with a re-count in the West Durham election case, was renewed at Osgoode Hall to-day and judgment reserved.

Sir John Macdonald arrived here this morning. It is probable that he will return to Ottawa to morrow night.

A meeting of the creditors of Friendly & Co., manufacturers of overalls, &c., was held to-day. It was strictly private, but it is understood that the creditors are willing to give the firm an extension of time until May 1st if they would consent to a receiver being placed in their warehouse. If they refuse, the creditors purpose suing on their notes and securities, and securing an order from the court, compelling an assignment. Montreal, New York and local houses were represented at the meeting. The liabilities are placed at from $60,000 to $70,000. An amicable arrangement will likely be arrived at, as the creditors express the most friendly feeling towards the embarrassed firm.

A collision between two freight trains occurred near Union Station about twelve o'clock to-day. Two cars and one of the engines were damaged. No one was injured.

The English, French and German creditors of the insolvent estate of Rothschilds & Co., wholesale jewellers, have agreed to accept a compromise of 25 cents on the dollar. The total liabilities of the firm were about $106,000, divided among Montreal, London, Birmingham and continental houses.

A BIG CURLING EVENT.

Grand International Bonspiel at Toronto—Score, Canada, 782; United States, 509.

Toronto, Jan. 12.—There is great interest here among curlers regarding the international bonspiel which took place to-day. Only 29 out of 50 rinks promised from the United States turned up, and in consequence several Canadian rinks were without opponents. The ice was keen. Nine rinks were played on outside ice, and twenty on inside ice. There was a large attendance of spectators at each rink. The total scores of the rinks, on outside ice, were:—Canada, 210; United States, 187; and on inside ice, Canada, 572; United States, 322. Grand total, Canada, 782; United States, 509. Majority in favor of Canada, 273. The losers took their defeat good-naturedly, and handed over their brooms to the winners with grace and dignity. Col. Stevenson, of Montreal, efficiently performed the duties of umpire, and was ably assisted by Matthew Hutcheson, of Goderich, and A. M. Stewart, of the Scottish-American. Following are the detailed scores, the United States coming in order first and Canada second:—Outside ice—Thistle, N. Y., 10; Moss Park, Toronto, 27. St. Andrews, N. Y., 17; Barrie, 33. Milwaukee, 23; Collingwood, 16. Milwaukee, 28; Brantford, 18. Milwaukee, 19; Thamesville, 38. Thistle, N. Y., 28; Brampton, 14. Mosholn, N. Y., 21; Seaforth, 19. New York, 18; Sarnia, 32. Thistles, N. Y., 23; Old Scarboro', 13. Inside ice—Caledonia, N. Y., 17; Thistles, Hamilton, 40. Caledonia, N.Y., 12; Peterboro', 33. Ogdensburg, 23; Maple Leaf, Scarboro', 23. Albany, 13; Granite, Toronto, 28. Caledonians, Buffalo, 9; Scarboro', Heather, 36. Caledonians, Buffalo, 16; Orillia, 28. American, N.Y., 13; Markham, 27. Burns, Ogdensburg, 13; Chatham, 33. St. Andrew's, N. Y., 12; Whitby, 38. Utica, 18; Bowmanville, 31. Caledonians, Buffalo, 20; Waterloo, 25. Yonkers, 14; Lindsay, 26. Caledonians, Buffalo, 20; Niagara, 19. American, N. Y., 9; Caledonians, Toronto, 40. Caledonians, N. Y., 7; London, 32. Yonkers, 19; St. Mary's, 23. Jersey City, 26; Aurora, 18. Manhattan, N. Y., 24; St. Catharines, 25. Caledonians, Buffalo, 15; Caledonians, Hamilton, 30. Caledonians, Buffalo, 25; Toronto, 17. The usual dinner is being held at the Walker House to-night, and there is a fancy dress carnival at the Granite Rink in honor of the American visitors.

Snow in the Montana Mountains.

Fort Keogh, Mont., Jan. 12.—Many stage coaches are blocked in Western Montana and numerous casualties are reported. The snow is terribly deep in the mountain roads and the roads are impassable. On January 2nd Tony Wise and a Swede named Martin, while at work on Swede Mountain, near Cook City, a huge slide swept the men into eternity.

Fire at Portsmouth, Ohio, yesterday morning destroyed several buildings. Thomas Murphy, an aged man, was burned to death.

LORD IDDESLEIGH DEAD.

FALLS FAINTING WHEN ENTERING LORD SALISBURY'S RESIDENCE.

And Expires a Few Minutes Afterwards—Sketch of His Career.

London, Jan 12.—Lord Iddesleigh is dead.

4.30 p. m.—Thus far but meagre particulars are known regarding the death of Lord Iddesleigh. It has been ascertained, however, that he was taken suddenly ill this afternoon while in conference with Lord Salisbury and death ensued shortly after.

5 p.m.—It is now ascertained that Lord Iddesleigh was not taken with his fatal illness while engaged in conversation with Lord Salisbury, but that he fainted while ascending the stairs of Lord Salisbury's official residence in Downing street, as he was about to visit Lord Salisbury. He was taken into the Prime Minister's room and almost instantly expired.

London, January 12.—Dr. Mortimer Granville, Lord Iddesleigh's physician, has issued a bulletin, which says:—"Lord Iddesleigh for many years past suffered with cardiac affections, which, while not placing his life in immediate peril, rendered the prospect of its sudden termination only too possible. He died of syncope. The melancholy event, although startling to those around him, has not been unforeseen by his immediate friends, and it has been anticipated by his medical attendants."

Sir James Ferguson, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in an interview, said: "Lord Iddesleigh, a moment before leaving the Foreign Office, spoke to me very calmly about quitting office. He expressed the hope that our separation would not be permanent. Stanley, the explorer, was waiting to see him about the Emin Bey expedition. Lord Iddlesleigh asked me to see Stanley and make another appointment for late in the evening. Lord Iddesleigh was looking well—in fact better than usual. He conversed with me pleasantly, and when we parted he was in good spirits."

The body of Lord Iddesleigh lies in Lord Salisbury's room. The Prime Minister arrived shortly after Lord Iddesleigh was taken ill, and while doctors were trying to rally him. He is greatly affected by the death of his former minister.

Mr. Manners, Lord Salisbury's private secretary, says:—"The moment Lord Iddesleigh came inside the ante-room he sank down upon a chair. I was in the next room. Hearing groans, I went into the ante-room and lifted him to the sofa. Doctors were in immediate attendance and remedies were applied, but he never spoke. He died twenty minutes after he was taken ill." His son, Hon. Henry Stafford Northcote, was sent for, but did not reach his father until ten minutes after all was over. He left late for the Pynes, in Exeter, the family seat, to tell his mother of her husband's death.

The body of Lord Iddesleigh has been removed to the family residence.

Sir Stafford Henry Northcote, Bart., was born in London, October 27, 1818, was educated at Balliol College, Oxford, taking a first-class in classics and a third in mathematics. He was called to the bar at the Inner Temple in 1847, was made a C. B. (civil division) in 1851, in recognition of his services as one of the Secretaries for the Industrial Exhibit on, and is Captain in the 1st Devon Yeomanry Cavalry, and a Deputy-Lieutenant for the county. He was returned member for Dudley in the Conservative interest in March, 1855; was an unsuccessful candidate for North Devon in March, 1857; was returned for Stamford in July, 1858; and continued one of the representatives of that borough till May, 1866, when he was elected for North Devon. Sir Stafford Northcote, who was well known for the interest he has taken in art and education, was private secretary to Mr. Gladstone when the latter was President of the Board of Trade, and was Financial Secretary to the Treasury from Jan. to June, 1859. He was appointed President of the Board of Trade in Lord Derby's third administration, in June, 1866, and was Secretary of State for India from March 8, 1867, till Dec., 1868. He published "Twenty Years of Financial Policy, 1842 61," in 1862. He was elected Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, Jan. 12, 1869; presided over the Congress of the Social Science Association held at Bristol the same year; and was appointed a Commissioner to inquire into the law relating to Friendly Societies, Nov. 2, 1870. More recently he was a member of the Joint High Commission, whose labors resulted in the Treaty of Washington in 1871. When Mr. Disraeli formed his Cabinet in Feb., 1874, Sir Stafford Northcote became Chancellor of the Exchequer. He was a member of the last Disraeli Cabinet and on the elevation of Mr. Disraeli to the Peerage, Sir Stafford became leader of the Government in the House of Commons. On the formation of the Salisbury Ministry in 1885, the deceased statesman was raised to the Peerage with the title of Lord Iddesleigh. In the present Ministry he has held the position of Foreign Secretary up till a few days ago, the circumstances surrounding his resignation of that office being familiar to the reader. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society in April, 1875.

AMERICAN WIRELETS.

Reports come from the eastern portion of Tennessee that Mormon missionaries are gaining many converts.

An accident occurred Tuesday evening on the Sixth Avenue Elevated RR., at Fifty-third station, New York, by which three employes were injured and several hundred passengers badly shocked. A switch was left open and a train ran into a baggage car.

The Chief of the Pittsburg, Pa., Fire Department, Evans, assistant Chief Steele, and Firemen Haupt, Graham, Milligan and Benny were painfully burned by a natural gas explosion in the cellar of a dwelling occupied by Mrs. Anderson, on 12th street, this morning.

Maj. D. P. McIlraith, at one time Chief of Police at St. Paul, Minn, and later a Government detective stationed at Pittsfield, Mass., killed himself Tuesday morning with a revolver. He had been ill for a long time and had returned to his home in Cleveland to put himself under the care of a physician.

The conjecture has been made that Prof. S. Schaff, who took morphine in Cincinnati jail Tuesday and died, was the bomb thrower at the Chicago Haymarket riot. This is based on the fact that his friends in jail were Anarchists and that two of them say he wrote many of the most incendiary articles in the Chicago Anarchists organ before the riot. It is thought that he feared a trial would reveal his connection with the riot and result in his arrest for that crime.

AFTERNOON CABLEGRAMS:

LONDON PRESS COMMENT ON BISMARCK'S SPEECH.

Another British Cabinet Minister Resigns—Emir Bey's Position.

London, Jan. 12, 3 p.m.

Another Resignation.

The Standard announces that Earl Cadogan has resigned the office of Lord Privy Seal.

Approval Wanted.

The German Imperial Government has sent to the Government of every State in the Empire a circular asking its approval of the proposed increase of the army.

Belgian Military Orders.

The superior officers of the Belgian army have been officially notified to be ready in the event of a rapid mobilization of troops. The general inspection, which is usually held in the summer, has been ordered for February.

Emir Bey.

Dr. Junker, the explorer, has arrived at Cairo. He says that when he left Emir Bey, a year ago, the latter was in a condition to hold out eighteen months. It will take four months for the relief expedition to reach Emir Bey after leaving Zanzibar.

Foolish Tenants.

At Listowel, Ireland, sessions yesterday Judge Curran, in the hearing of ejectment cases, refused to rescind any arrears of rent, on the ground that when he did so last sessions, tenants attributed most evil intentions to him.

Tupper's Return.

"It is true, as stated in the London papers, that Sir Charles Tupper has been requested by Sir John Macdonald to confer with him on Canadian public affairs. Sir Charles will probably sail in a few days, but the date of his departure has not yet been fixed.

The Future of New Guinea.

Sir James Garrick, the Governor of Queensland, took part last night in the discussion at the Colonial Institute on the future of New Guinea. He said annexation should not take place unless it was accompanied by necessary safeguards for the protection of the interests of the natives. The Australasian colonies, he said, desired that the southern part of New Guinea should be incorporated with the British Empire.

Lord Mayor's Reception.

The Lord Mayor gave a magnificent reception yesterday at the Mansion House to the Colonial and British representatives assembled in London to attend to-day's meeting, which will be presided over by the Prince of Wales, when the question of establishing the Imperial Institute, as a jubilee commemorative establishment, will be discussed. A thousand invitations were issued for the reception, and the spectacle was one of great beauty. Sir Charles Tupper was unable to attend in consequence of the press of business arising out of urgent Canadian affairs.

Bismarck's Speech.

The London Standard says:—"The speeches of Bismarck and Von Moltke make the situation look, if possible, darker than ever. Von Moltke's assurance that Germany's desire is for peace is doubtless sincere. Bismarck's possibly is so. The Times thinks it probable that Bismarck will be defeated. It says:—"His statement is discouraging both to those who looked to Germany as the ministry of peace on the basis of treaty rights and to those who hoped to see Europe gradually relieved of the grievous burden of enormous armies and increasing taxation. He sees the threatened storm and is determined to provide for the safety of his own country." The Daily News, referring to Bismarck's speech in the Reichstag, says it will have a bad effect upon the peace of Europe and that it tends to confirm the fears that Germany meditates an attack upon France. The Daily Telegraph thinks the speech will chill to the freezing point the martial ardor of the Revanche party in France, and that the utterances of both Von Moltke and the Chancellor will have a good effect in preserving peace.

Cable Notes.

M. Clemenceau received the Bulgarian Delegates at Paris yesterday.

The Standard says British military operations in Burmah will be virtually finished within a month, when Gen. Roberts will return to Calcutta.

Lawless Strikers.

Richmond, Va., January 12.—Riotous demonstrations on the part of the striking employes of the Old Dominion Steamship Company occurred to day. A telegram from L. Bremond, General Traffic Manager of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad at Newport News, to Gen. Wickham, Second Vice-President of the company, says:—The strikers have taken possession of pier No. 2, set fire to the bathhouse of the Old Dominion Land Company and perpetrated other outrages. Bremond asks for an armed force to protect the company's property and arrest the offenders. Judge Peek, of Warwick County, has made a formal call on Gov. Lee for military aid, and he has taken prompt action in the matter by ordering three companies, two white and one colored, from Richmond and one white company and one colored company from Hampton to proceed at once to the scene of the disturbance. The Richmond companies left at midnight.

Old Friends Fall Out, and One Kills the Other.

St. Louis, Jan. 12.—Robert A. Steele, a member of the firm of Hull & Steele, commission merchants, at the Union Stock Yards, was shot and killed at about 10 o'clock this morning by Y. R. Marsteller, a trader about the yards. The men had until to-day been good friends, and a day or two ago Mr. Steele loaned Mr. Marsteller $15. The former left his office this morning to go to the yards, and on his way thither he met his debtor. He asked that the loan be paid, but Mr. Marsteller refused, and the men became engaged in a quarrel, during which Mr. Marsteller drew a revolver and shot the commission merchant three times. Each bullet took effect in the region of the heart, and death was almost instantaneous. The murderer was arrested, and is now in jail. The affair has created something of a sensation, both being old gray haired men and prominent in their respective business circles.

Indians Dying of Starvation.

Fort Keogh, M. T., Jan. 12.—A dispatch from Fort Shaw states that there is terrible suffering and privation among the Cree Indians on the South Fork of the Sun River. They are entirely destitute of food and clothing and not in any way fortified against the inclemency of the weather. This band of Crees are in reality British subjects, who engaged in the Riel rebellion, and came across the line last summer. When they first came across the line they numbered 400, but the number has since been greatly diminished by death. It is thought that unless the Government takes prompt measures to alleviate their sufferings great fatality will result to the band.

MONTREAL.

A Residence for the Governor-General—A Great Snow-Storm—North-west Coal—Dumont Declares Riel was Sane—The U. S. Embargo on Canadian Horses Revoked.

Montreal, Jan. 12.—The idea of securing a permanent residence for the Governor-General in this city appears to be very popular with all classes of the community.

Word has been received here that a great snow-storm is raging between Calumet and Brockville. No. 3 West, due at 8 a. m. on the G. T. R., is reported six hours late.

Sir A. T. Galt recently brought down to Montreal some samples of coal from the Medicine Hat mines, of which concern he is the head. It is of excellent quality, in several grades. It emits a fine glowing heat, and appears to be equal to any obtainable from the Lower Provinces. It is used largely by the C. P. R. west of Port Arthur, and is finding a market in Winnipeg.

Gabriel Dumont, when in conversation with some French Canadian snow-shoers, while on their recent excursion to New York, stated distinctly that the late Louis Riel was perfectly sane, and quite responsible for his acts in the North-west.

The Royal Commission on Railways opened their session here to-day. Sir A. T. Galt stated that the purpose of the Commission was not specially to hear complaints, being more general in its scope, and intended to see whether it is not possible to provide greater and improved facilities for the commerce of the country.

Dr. Anderson, Consul-General for the United States, this afternoon received a dispatch from the Secretary's office at Washington, stating that the embargo on Canadian horses has been revoked. The same intelligence was communicated to all United States officials at the lines.

Lively Scene in a Legislature.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 12.—There was a big fight in the House of Representatives yesterday. When the regular Democrats were holding their caucus and nominating final officers the Republicans and disaffected Democrats and the two labor men, numbering 61 in all, and constituting a majority, held a meeting in the Speaker's room and nominated and elected an entire mixed ticket. Dr. Baird, the disaffected Democrat, was elected Speaker, and then took the chair. No sooner did he seat himself than Mr. Beckwith, Chairman of the Democratic Caucus, tried to forcibly eject him. A general hand-to-hand conflict ensued and the police, sent by Governor Abbott, attempted to removed Terrence McDonald, the newly elected Sergeant-at-Arms, but were overpowered by the latter's friends, amid the greatest excitement. The Speaker declared the House adjourned till to-day at 10 a. m. During the excitement the galleries were filled with people, who cheered the combatants in the arena below. The defeated Democrats tried to renew the conflict, but the Republicans withdrew, followed by crowds of congratulating friends.

A Coal Famine Threatened.

New York, Jan. 12.—At the Coal Exchange yesterday dealers said if a settlement was not effected very soon nothing could save this city, New England and Northern New York from a coal famine. There is not more than a week's supply in this city. The retail prices have been advanced from one to two dollars per ton.

CANADIAN WIRELETS.

Sir John Macdonald spent his seventy-second birthday in Kingston on Tuesday, and left for Toronto in the evening.

At the last meeting of the Kingston City Council a resolution was adopted to memorialize the Ontario Government to establish a School of Practical Science for Eastern Ontario in that city, and a deputation was appointed to press the matter on the Government.

Three actions against Ayer & Co., in connection with the seizure of their patent medicines, are reported to have been entered in the Court of Exchequer by the Department of Customs. The total amount of the penalties sought to be recovered by the actions is nearly $700,000.

At the Allan phosphate mine, in Portland East, it is contemplated to shortly sink the main shaft to the depth of 500 feet, the experience of the superintendent being against the theory that Canadian apatite exists only in shallow deposits. The depth of the shaft is now 200 feet. The ore being extracted is of very high quality.

The Department of the Interior have received from Edmonton a specimen of rock that certainly contains a large percentage of petroleum. It will be sent to the Assay office. There has been a great deal of discussion over the question of whether petroleum exists in that district, and the results of the Assay will be watched with considerable interest.

The Governor-General's Military Secretary denies there have been, as reported by cable, any cases of hardship arising out of rent payments on the Marquis of Lansdowne's Kerry estates. He gives particulars of the five cases of alleged hardships reported to General Buller, and investigation shows the treatment of tenants have been extremely lenient. There are about a thousand tenants on the Kerry estate.

Mr. A. M. Crombie, at present local manager of the Merchants' Bank of Canada in Montreal, enters the service of the Canadian Bank of Commerce as their manager at that point, succeeding Mr. Robert Gill, who takes another responsible position in the Bank. His accession will bring additional strength to the administration of the Bank of Commerce. Mr. Crombie was for some years manager of the Commercial Bank at St. Thomas and afterwards of the Merchants' Bank at Hamilton, whence he was promoted to the Montreal office.

The reports of Colonel Ravenhill and Colonel Phillips, upon their recent mission to Canada on behalf of the Imperial Government to purchase horses for remounts, have been received. They state that three of the eighty three specimens of Canadian horses selected died on the voyage, but that the other eighty were landed in good condition. They have given the greatest satisfaction. The ranch horses are breaking admirably, and as Colonel Ravenhill expresses it, there is a great future before the ranchers of the North-west if they will only attend to the three Bs, viz., breeding, branding and breaking. Ten of these ranch horses, it may be stated, were from the herds of Major J. Stewart, brother of the Mayor of Ottawa, whose ranch is situated near Fort McLeod. The trial purchases have given such satisfaction that the War Office have ordered that 300 more Canadian horses be purchased next year.

It is slow, hard work to cut stalks by hand for a number of cattle, requiring one or two hours per day, which, if time is valuable, as it ought to be, should not be wasted in this way. For a few dollars a horse power cutter can be got which in a single day will cut all the stalks to be used during the winter. The farmer is a poor manager who cannot use the time of himself or men thus saved in some better way than competing with horse or steam power.

THE DEAF MADE TO HEAR.—"After eight years suffering from deafness so bad that I was unable to attend to my business, I was cured by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil. With gratitude I make this known for the benefit of others afflicted." Harry Ricardo, Toronto. 2

It is never best to churn all the cream on hand. That which was skimmed last has not had time to get into uniform condition with the rest, and most of its butter goes into the buttermilk. It also makes butter come slowly, and after a long time has been needlessly spent in churning.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT.

"Box 2," Appin—Its publication in these columns cannot be permitted.

Miss Mary Bell, teacher of the Nilestown School, closes her engagement with the Trustees on March 1st.

The year just closed by the Nilestown Cheese Factory was a most prosperous one. The remaining cheese was shipped on Friday.

Mr. W. J. Paisley has been appointed License Inspector for the district of West Huron, in the place of Stephen Yates, deceased.

Mr. James Noble, J.P., of Strathroy, has been appointed Police Magistrate under the Scott Act for Middlesex county, so report says.

The bankrupt stock of Joseph Bettscher, of Gowanstown, amounting to $1,300, was sold by Mr. W. Y. Brunton Tuesday to John C. Butler, of this city, for 55 cents on the dollar.

Ald. Jones Tuesday, after being sworn in, resigned the Winnipeg Mayoralty, and a new election was ordered immediately. Ald Penrose, of Ward No. 3, also resigned because of disqualification owing to his partner having a contract with the city.

The death is announced at 403 Clinton avenue, Detroit, on Tuesday, of Freddie J. Parker, eldest son of E F. and Jennie Parker, aged 4 years and 3 months. The friends of the family in London will hear of this announcement with regret.

Ed. Case, of Hamilton, has accepted the challenge of Peter Priddy, of Pittsburgh, to run a series of three foot races for $1,000 a side, the distances to be half mile, three-quarter mile and one mile, the winner of two races to take the money. The races will be run in New York about May 1.

The supporters of Mr. William Gerry, the newly-elected Deputy-Reeve of No. 2 Ward, London South, to the number of about thirty, were entertained at supper at Mr. John Friend's refreshment rooms Tuesday night. Mr. Ed. Parnell occupied the chair, and all present spent a happy time.

The attendants at the P.M.'s daily levee yesterday were a respectable class. Two young men were fined $1 each for furious driving; a liquor case was enlarged till Tuesday next, and two or three men found in a bar-room in hours prohibited by law were fined $2 each. One drunk was remanded for six days.

Mr. John Robinson, jr. of Chatham township, and late of West York, sastained a severe accident while chopping wood in the former place on Tuesday. He was engaged in felling a tree which lodged upon another, and in endeavoring to cut down the second it fell, and struck him with such a force as to break his right arm and leg.

A writ of habeas corpus and certiorari has been obtained by counsel for Dr. Weir, of Oscoda, Mich., now awaiting extradition here upon the charge of murder, and the document was duly served upon the proper officials on Tuesday afternoon. The papers demanding Weir's extradition have already been received at Ottawa from the United States' authorities.

Residents of the Fourth Ward are complaining of the neglect of the snow-plow contractors. Tuesday night, it is said, there was a foot of snow on the Wellington street walks near the Fair Grounds, and in other parts of the Ward the same state of affairs prevails One resident of the Ward who spoke to the contractor was told that City Commissioner Owen had ordered the plows not to be taken out.

Miss Kate Hughson, formerly organist of the Church of the Holy Angels, St. Thomas, was married on Tuesday morning to Capt. Philip Broderick, of Sarnia. Rev. Father Flannery performed the ceremony which was witnessed by a large congregation. The bridesmaids were Miss Kate Murray, of this city, and Miss Tillie Hughson; Messrs. Charles Kennedy, of St. Thomas, and Beautrie, of Sarnia, groomsmen. The congregation and members of the Maypole Club presented the bride with a purse of $75 and an address wishing her all the happiness in the venture.

Dr. Bice, of St. John's, being about to leave for Colorado to join his wife, who has gone there for the benefit of her health, was on Tuesday evening presented with a handsome gold watch by a number of friends with an address expressive of the kindest feeling of the people of the neighborhood toward him and Mrs. Bice. The leading spirits in the presentation were members of the Methodist congregation, Mrs. Bice having been the organist of the church for some time prior to her departure. The presentation took place at Dr. Bice's residence, where refreshments, provided by the ladies, were partaken of, and in acknowledging the surprise the doctor expressed his regret at leaving St. John's, and promised to convey the kindly sentiments of those present to his wife.

The Buttle (Montana) Daily Miner of the 6th says:—"There was a farewell dinner party at Fischer's last evening that was significant in its preparation and personnel. Fischer "turned two stalls into one" that General Manager Dawson, General Minty, Dr. Murray and Mr. Blackwell might dine, and dine they did. The occasion was Mr. Blackwell's departure for Omaha and another field of duty. Mr. Dawson, who succeeds him, and General Minty, and Dr. Murray thought they would play innocent on Blackwell, and asked him to dinner. It was a meeting that will need a special entry in the memorandum book of memory. Challenge words of kindness were answered by words that challenged kindness. It was one of those little dinner parties whose recollection is cherished like a maiden's remembrance of her first lover's kiss."

The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U was held in their room, Dundas street, Mrs. Gregsten (President) in the chair, and the following members present:—Mesdames Moore, Williams, Crawford, Simpson, Darch, Westland, Ely, Burgess, Mayell, Campbell, Cook, Jones, and Misses Tytler, Green, Crone and Simpson. After the opening services the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. The Treasurer's report showed the disbursements to be $33.18, leaving a balance of $100 18. A communication was read from Mrs Treefer, of Toronto, requesting the Secretary to send her items of interest in connection with the work for publication. The programme of the newsboys' entertainment was submitted to the meeting and approved It was decided to form a Loyal Legion Band, with a view to giving military drill and general instruction and entertainment for the boys willing to join Mrs. Lawrason was proposed and received as a new member. The meeting then adjourned.

The electors of Lisgar, Man., have called a convention, and will place candidates in the field in opposition to Prof. Goldwin Smith and Mr Rose.

After years of suffering, persons who have vainly sought remedial help from other sources, have obtained the long desired relief from Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, which puts a stop to the torments of Dyspepsia, renews activity of the Bowels and Liver, relieves maladies incident to the gentler sex, and builds up failing health and strength, gives purity to the blood, and tone to the whole system. tuts

AH, THERE! ABUSE? NEVER!

A Delicate Preliminary Titillation, Nothing More.

THE "DECENT FELLOW" ASPECT OF THE CASE.

THE "CHARLEY" SIDE AND THE PUBLIC SIDE.

A Few Considerate Considerations

The Advertiser says we "abuse" Mr. Hyman. We deny it in toto. We may say, totally in toto We do not intend to "abuse" Mr. Hyman. He can be put to a better use than to nip him in the bud, and cut him off in his prime in that fashion. He must be preserved as a bright and shining example of what our representative ought not to be.

Our sometime amiable, but often erratic, irascible and disgruntled contemporary, is very sensitive in regard to the public reputation and sacred person of its protege. It evinces some doubtless well founded alarm lest the journalistic town-crier should start up with his honest old proclamations to shatter all that gentleman's fine pretensions and startle him out of his equanimity, or that the rude winds of the political campaign he has entered on should prematurely wither up his prospects.

And this delicate consideration, and tender solicitude, is perhaps justified by the flimsy, diaphanous and attenuated material of which the said pretensions are composed. Indeed, many others will be somewhat concerned lest perchance in the necessary handling incidental to an election contest, it should suffer dangerous and irreclaimable collapse.

We are reminded that "Charley is a decent fellow," as a reason why we should tread on tip-toe when his name is broached. We may concede without any affectation of merely diplomatic civility, or sarcastic inuendo, that he is a decent fellow. But what of that? Is he the only decent fellow in the Grit party, or the city? If he is so, it is as like as not because he can't help it. It is in the air around and about him. He is it in spite of all temptation to be anything else. London is made up of decent fellows. The woods are full of such. A church could not hold all the decent fellows we could go out and scare up in half an hour. Now, there's Mr. Campbell, a decent fellow, but the Grits let him slide this trip. Away he was sent on the political toboggan, a shattered and shivered wreck of his former political self, but a decent fellow, and many others we could name. It is surprising that our amiable contemporary should seek to warp popular judgment on this point in favor of any particular hon. Grit gentleman-expectant, as holding an exclusive interest in that common virtue. For as the old song, which we make up on the spur of the moment, says in regard to this:—

They are all decent fellows,
Both in leathers and prunellas,
And we need no one to tell us
In this happy London town (ha! ha!)
That we're all decent fellows,
When in youth and when age mellows,
All too decent to be jealous
Though some like to blow their bellows,
With none near to take 'em down (fa la!)

We would cheerfully extend this into a comic opera, were it not that that good fellow our fat friend, who may be called the John Ell Sullivan of music in this part of the country, is just now too busy doing artistic demi-semiquavers from house to house in the Second Ward to spare a few minutes to compose the score.

No, gentlemen, we will not abuse Mr. Hyman. We refuse to abuse, or accuse, except to put him forth as a brilliant illustration of misdirected municipal confidence. But we will attend to him allee samee. He must be kept steadily, nay, sternly and determinedly in view, yet will be dealt with in a way that no one familiar with public usage can reasonably complain of.

You've seen a pussy-kitten frisk with a ball of bobbin, haven't you? Yes? Well, that is how the Tory critic has so far dealt with the political aspiration of the "decent fellow" in question. He first grabs it up and holds it attentively for a few seconds, then suddenly rolls over on his back, purrs at it, and finally springs up on all fours with his spinal column arched—"humped," the Tizer would say—and tail lashing lovingly and playfully, not malignantly or uskindly. He mauls and tosses it, paws it first on one side, then on the other, hauls it towards him, looks at it curiously, then sends it spinning across the room, only to spring after it again. The "good fellow" will occasionally screech out, but don't fear. It is only a little claw in the ear or the cheek. It doesn't hurt; it only reminds, and is mere preliminary skirmishing, and it has all to do with the hon. gentleman's public acts and conduct, no more.

When our amiable contemporary says "Charley is a good fellow," it makes the mistake of supposing that it is the Charley side of him that the public have to do with. (One might have been led to say the "Champagne Charley" side, but for a pronounced prohibitionist the title would be inapplicable—as to which—um-Mumm—peek-a-boo!) We have nothing to do with that, we accept the Charley side C. O. D. and F. O. B without question, honor the draft at sight, and pass the chip, rake in the pot, and bet that the Charley side will at any time beat three of a kind. (Note.—What absurd college jargon is this?—Editor.) It is with the nefarious and reprehensible—viz., the Grit—side only that we mean to deal as well as the municipal record earned in the years 1882 3 4. The dissector has only as yet made a pass or two with the scalpel at the hon. gentleman's political pericardium. In due time all the delicate little interlacings of objectionable and incompatible growths will be reached, laid bare, and it is hoped extirpated. But if there is screeching and howling now, at what has been already approached, if there is such wriggling and outcry to escape from the political and municipal resurrectionist, what will be said when the "subject" assumes the metaphorical aspect of Tom Nero, in Hogarth's "Fourth stage of cruelty?"

John, some hot lemonade for these gentlemen!

is a common expression, often heard from those who have realized, by personal use, the curative powers of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. "I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died from lung trouble.—E. Bragdon, Palestine, Tex.

About six months ago I had a severe Hemorrhage of the Lungs, brought on by a distressing Cough, which deprived me of sleep and rest. I had used various cough balsams and expectorants, without obtaining relief. A friend advised me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

I did so, and am happy to say that it helped me at once. By continued use this medicine cured my cough, and, I am satisfied, saved my life.—Mrs. E. Coburn, 18 Second st., Lowell, Mass.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for over a year, and sincerely believe I should have been in my grave, had it not been for this medicine. It has cured me of a dangerous affection of the lungs, for which I had almost despaired of ever finding a remedy.—D. A. McMullen, Windsor, Province of Ontario.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life. Two years ago I took a very severe Cold which settled on my lungs. I consulted physicians, and took the remedies they prescribed, but failed to obtain relief until I began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Two bottles of this medicine completely restored my health.—Lizzie M. Allen, West Lancaster, Ohio.

THE WINTER ASSIZES.

THIRD DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The Grand Jury returned true bills against John Shea and Joseph Johnnings for rape; W. Morkin, Martin Morkin and John Barrett for assault, occasioning bodily harm; and Alex McPhail for assault and occasioning actual bodily harm.

Dominion Savings Society vs. Jackson—Action on note. Settled between the parties.

McAuley vs. McAuley—Action to recover full amount of annuity devised under a will. Verdict for plaintiff for $75

Watford vs. Dignam—Action to recover compensation for alleged illegal distress and sale of property.

In the case of Watford vs. Dignam, His Lordship reserved decision.

Lyons vs. Dickinson—Postponed till next Court on payment of costs.

The Grand Jury brought in a true bill against John Hunter for assault with intent to commit felony.

Brylyed vs Elliott—This case possessed the most interesting characteristics of any that have come before the Court at the present sittings, more especially as it resulted in an amicable arrangement, which promises to result in linking together two young lives in the bonds of matrimony. It was an action for breach of promise of marriage, and both parties are residents of London township, the plaintiff being a young woman of eighteen summers, and the defendant twenty-two years of age. The plaintiff, who is not too prepossessing in appearance, appeared in the witness box with an infant in her arms, and her counsel claimed that the defendant had promised to marry her, and that subsequently under this promise he was enabled to seduce her, as the result of which she maintained he was the father of her child; and she asked compensation for the breach of promise, averring that in consequence of what had occurred she had been turned from her parents' house, and had been compelled to find a home with other relatives. She agreed, however, to marry him if the ceremony were to take place at once.

Defendant admitted the making of the promise, and the breach thereof by him, but stated that he was possessed of very little means, and that he would consent to wed the girl if the marriage was postponed until the next Assizes, which would be only two months hence.

His Lordship remarked that it would be a very desirable thing if the matter could be so amicably arranged, as the parties seemed willing to engage in marriage.

One of the counsel immediately inquired if His Lordship would not consent to adjourn the court in honor of the happy settlement.

Mr. Fraser, for the girl, offered that if the young man would marry her at once her brother would support her and the child for three months.

Mr Meredith objected that there was some difference between the families, and that defendant wished when he married to set up a home at once. He also urged that the young man should not be compelled to marry at once upon stepping out of the box.

His Lordship, with a humorous appreciation of matrimonial felicity, remarked:—"He might only be stepping into the box."

After a few further words an agreement was effected between the parties amicably, the defendant consenting to marry the girl within three months.

His Lordship said that if the marriage did not take place within three months he would assess such damages for the girl as he might consider proper.

All parties agreed to this, and the matter closed.

Bobier vs. Molsons Bank—This was an action involving the question simply of whether plaintiff had issued three notes held by the bank, and was heard without a jury, His Lordship taking only the matter of accounts into consideration.

Case unfinished.

KILLED ON THE CROSSING.

A Lobo Farmer and His Team Crushed to Death in London Township.

Yesterday afternoon, shortly after five o'clock, Mr. David Knight, a farmer of lot 14, in the 3rd concession of Lobo, while on his way home from attending market, and when about to cross the track of the London, Huron & Bruce Railway, two miles north of Hyde Park, was unable to control his team of spirited horses, and could not prevent them from crossing in front of the approaching train. The engine struck the rig before Mr. Knight could escape from the sleigh, and both him and the horses were killed. Deceased was well known in London and Lobo Townships, and his sudden taking off will be deeply regretted.

The latest remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, etc., is McGregor's Lung Compound. There is no remedy in existence containing any one of the active ingredients composing McGregor's Lung Compound, so do not say you have taken everything until you have tried this for your cold or cough, and your opinion will be the same as all who have used it, viz., that it is the best. A FAITHFUL SERVANT.

The general idea seems to be that the coming of Sir Charles Tupper to Canada is in connection with his re-entry into the ranks of the Government, probably as Finance Minister. Without professing any special knowledge on this matter, yet it may be said that such a step would be viewed by the large majority of the people with eminent satisfaction. Sir Charles has long ago won for himself a high place in the affections of the people, and should he find himself able once more to accept the arduous position in the Government that fact will be viewed with an unalloyed satisfaction. There can be no doubt that his presence in the ministry would add no little strength to it. In days gone by Sir Charles proved himself a power for good, a very tower of strength as against those that sought to hinder the progress of Canada, if by so doing they could but foist themselves into office. And that power has undergone no diminution. On the contrary, the experience that he has gained during his term of service in England will prove of great service in the new position that public expectation has allotted to him. And more than that, he has by reason of his energy, his talent and his foresight, gained the confidence of the leaders of society at home. The efforts that he put forth in connection with the Colonial Exhibition haveshown him to possess faculties of no common an order—for by adapting himself to the required conditions he was able to smooth over many difficulties, and to contribute to a very large extent of the wonderful success of that enterprise. And it was a wonderful success, more especially as far as Canada is concerned The slanders which have been launched against this country through the medium of the Grit press, from the platform by Grit speakers, have been to a very great extent neutralized by what the many, many thousands who visiting that Exhibition saw with their own eyes. And in respect of that great and honorable occasion it may be said that to no one individual has its success been more attributable than to Sir Charles himself. Quite apart from the position that he holds as one of the most powerful personages who have contributed to the strength of the Liberal-Conservative party, Sir Charles has won the gratitude of the people by reason of his never-failing zeal in the service of this country. And that service he is willing to continue. Though he has been the object of low and spiteful remarks in a portion of the Grit press, yet it is well known that he has not done anything that has not been necessary and justifiable. Canada occupies too high a place in the general estimation at home to be represented by any scurvy sort of a person, who would scurry through its affairs in a mean and shabby way. Sir Charles has not only attended to the business of the country in an indefatigable and exemplary way, but he has upheld its dignity in a praise-worthy manner. He has had access to the highest circles, and by his force of character, and his intimate knowledge of all the details of Canadian life, of Canadian affairs, has commanded a respect, has enforced a hearing which few would have been so fortunate as to command and secure. If, then, his return should be the forerunner of his re-entry to the ranks of the Government at Ottawa, the fact will be received with sincere congratulation by all those who esteem merit, and who are willing to accord to talent its just reward.

The assurance that the Reichstag, when it comes to the point, won't refuse to furnish the 40,000 extra men that Bismarck wants for his army puts Germany in a position to refuse to be trifled with by anybody. Germany's best hope of peace lies in the good old Emperor, who dreads the thought of dying to leave his people at war, or of living within the sound of battles wherein age prevents him from taking part. In answer to the addresses on the eightieth anniversary of his admission to the Prussian army he lost no occasion to impress the people with his desire for peace, coupled with touching allusions to his great age. That his wishes are greatly respected by his people is certain, and their influence is nearly as great as Bismarck's heavy hand in keeping down the excitement caused by the bellicose crowing of Gaul across the border.

Hamilton Spectator:—They have had an other examination of the students at Mr. Mowat's Model Farm at Guelph. In one case only—first year students who passed in all subjects—are the residences of the students given. In this class thirty passed, and of these eleven are not residents of Ontario. Eleven out of thirty is rather a heavy percentage of foreigners of a school that is intended for the benefit of Ontario farmers' sons. It can, of course, be explained that outsiders are not taken into the institution so long as there are Ontario people to fill it. But it seems to be a fact that there are never enough Ontario people to fill the school. Either the Ontario farmers have not much faith in Mr. Mowat's agricultural school, or it is much too large for the needs of the Province.

THE RUIN CRY.

"At the end of eight years Ministers find the public burdens enormously increased, the people discontented, the country impoverished, and the great region of the North-west still an unoccupied waste."—Advertiser.

Mr. Mills has never had any very cheering thing to say of his country, and it can hardly be expected that he would change his tune on the eve of a general election. We are bound to say, however, that he is entirely wrong in every particular. The public burdens have not been increased, the people are not discontented, the country has not been impoverished, nor is it true that the North-west is still an unoccupied waste. Mr. Mills has made this sweeping charge in general terms, and he very unfairly omits to provide his readers with the details. We propose to do so in a very brief way. In the first place the public burden is the interest paid on the national indebtedness, and as the sum so paid in 1878 was but $1 59 per head of the population, and was not one cent more in the last fiscal year, it is untrue to say there has been any increase in this respect. We also deny that the people are discontented. The very opposite is true, and the only men who are discontented are the Grits of Mr. Mills' pretensions, who feel sore over the persistent refusal of the electorate to place them in office or listen to their unfounded charges against the progressive Government of the day. Why should the people be discontented? Was employment at this season of the year ever more abundant, or labor better paid? Where are the idle factories and the soup kitchens which cast a gloom over the hopes of this country during the winters when Mr. Mills and his party were muddling public affairs at Ottawa. Then on what ground is it alleged that the country has been impoverished? If the trade returns, the bank statement or the record of the Savings Banks be looked into it will be found that they all prove a condition of things the very opposite to that which Mr. Mills asserts does exist. In the monetary institutions of the country there are over $100,000,000 more of money at this moment than were there in 1878. We stand prepared to give the details. Does the fact that the savings of the people have increased five hundred per cent. since 1878, prove our growing impoverishment? Are the enormous investments in business enterprises, and the development of our railways and channels of commerce to be taken as proofs of national decline? No man in his sober senses can say so. Lastly, it is not only false, but it is a reprehensible thing to say that the North-west is still an unoccupied waste. Mr. Mills knows that thousands of contented settlers are to be found there, that great cattle ranches are in operation, that coal mines are being developed and that the territories are to-day looked upon as the vast basin into which streams of immigration are flowing and will continue to flow for years to come. If it is by such means that Mr. Mills hopes to influence sensible Canadians, he will find, as he has found in the past, that his evil intended story will not be believed.

SLAUGHTER OF INNOCENTS.

The Grits have no hope, based on past experience or present prospects, of electing their candidate for London. If they should catch a few votes more than they did last time, they will have much to be thankful for. But if the Conservatives are alive and work as we believe they are doing and intend to do, the vote on the Grit side at next election, whenever it comes off, will fall very far short of the last vote. Mr. Campbell was felt to be the strongest man on personal merits that they ever put into the field, yet he was bowled out, as others were before him, by a rousing and decisive majority. One after another their best men have been set up by the Grits only to be, in the words of Mr. Gibbons, "downed every time," Yes, as one may say, "knocked down and dragged out" every time. The Grit candidate, whoever he was, has on each occasion "come up groggy," and after the battle been taken off the field by his backers so used up that he did not want a second dose of the same medicine. Only to go back twenty years let us see how the list stands. There were:—

Mr. Peacock,
Mr. F. E. Cornish.
Mr. Hugh Macmahon,
Col. Walker,
Mr. Samuel Peters.
Mr. John Campbell,

A pretty formidable list of good men, some will say. All these gentlemen within twenty years have been sent out, save in one case, to "fecht wi' Honest John Carling," but all returned from the contest beaten and all out of joint. Seldom has a man once beaten by London's champion and favorite representative, ever had the temerity to come out for a second licking. The Grits don't relish fodder of that sort. And so they get a new man each time to go forward and be "doubled up." This time it is Mr. Hyman who has that fate in store for him. He is pretty gritty, no doubt, in fact "one of the grittiest of the Grits," as he proclaims himself. All the more need then for the Conservatives to give him, as in cribbage jargon, "one for his nob," in other words "a settler."

The Conservatives, on the other hand, have never shown ingratitude toward the man who has fought their battles. He is to them the same John Carling in every contest, the old reliable candidate and solid, energetic worker for London. He never lags, lapses, or makes mistakes, but is to be depended on every time. He always "comes up smiling" and hearty, the same man always, who knows and keeps his friends, not using and dropping them at the end of the contest.

Heathen gentlemen all over the world will hear with glee of the bitter complaints uttered by philanthropists in London. The philanthropists complain that only £500,000 a year are spent on the London hospitals, while £1,000,000 are voted to send vests to Borriobools Gha.

CURRENT TOPICS.

The production of Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan's new opera at the Savoy Theatre is now likely to occur week after next. The secrecy about the title and plot is preserved, but some artists concerned allow themselves to say they are confident of another success not less than that of "The Mikado."

The placing of a folded newspaper across the chest under the overcoat is found by many roadsters to be the best possible shield against the cold winds in driving. A newspaper or sheet of paper placed between the bed covering will be found to be equal to a blanket in keeping out the cold or the warmth within.

About ten miles of pipes arrived in Winnipeg a few days ago from Bristol, England, and are now at the depot. They are consigned to the Winnipeg Waterworks Company, and will, it is said, not be laid before the spring. A large amount of excavating work has been done by the company since the winter set in.

Winnipeg Manitoban:—The London Advertiser has received a copy of an interesting publication, containing "three well-written stories, the sense of each being laid in a different country." The scene of one of them, by the author of "No D. M.," isn't laid on the Saskatchewan, is it? If not, a fourth story should be added to the book at once by the talented editor of the Advertiser.

Ottawa Citizen:—The greatest of philosophers of modern times, Mills by name, says the Mowat victory at the recent Provincial election was a condemnation of the Dominion Government, and he predicts that that Government will shortly be "abated as a public nuisance." Mr. Mills has his eye on the office of the Minister of the Interior in the Eastern Block. If the Dominion elections do not result in the success of his party, we are persuaded Mr. Mills will be guilty of some desperate act.

The Indianapolis Sentinel says:—Henry M. Stanley was a complete failure as a lecturer. He not only drew no paying houses, but his delivery was so bad that he could not be understood half the time, and when he was heard his language was so confused and inarticulate that it conveyed no ideas to his hearers. So Stanley invented the story of being called to Europe by the King of the Belgians to fight the Arabs on the Congo. I fancy he will do this from the safe distance of the rooms of the European geological societies.

Stratford Herald:—In London a rough and tumble discussion is going on between the FREE PRESS and Advertiser about the Grand Trunk Car Shops and kindred matters. It appears the Rielite candidate for the Commons against Hon. John Carling is Mr. C. S. Eyman, who more than anyone else seems to have been to blame for the non-assistance of the London Waterworks to put out the fire that demolished the Shops. This dereliction of duty is being well rubbed in by the FREE PRESS, which has besides caught the Advertiser in a number of prevarications, rather more glaring than ordinary, and the consequence is the Advertiser has its back up in great style and is mad as a setting hen.

In an article on the Canadian woollen trade the Monetary Times says:—"A very fairly satisfactory tone is observable in the replies of woollen manufacturers in Canada, and their agents' enquiries about the condition of the trade. We hear of one Ontario mill that is occupied for two months ahead, of another whose orders will take till mid-March to complete, and the reports from other mills in the adjoining provinces as well as this are of a favorable character. The Penman mill at Paris is very busy, so is the Campbellford mill. The Auburn and the Brodie mills at Peterboro' are fully occupied; a flannel factory in Ontario is running night and day."

Russia's Trans-Caspian railroad has pushed across the sandy wastes north-east of Merv, and trains are now running to Charjui on the Oxus. Engineers are throwing a railroad bridge across that classic stream, and track laying will soon begin through Bokhara, on the way to Samarcand and Tashkend. Two steamboats have been launched on the Oxus to carry freight and passengers between the railroad and Kaiva. When we remember that a few years ago Europeans ventured into those regions only at the peril of their lives, we understand how rapidly events are moving in Russian Central Asia. The Emir of Bokhara, who is doing all in his power to speed the coming railroad, is the grandson of the ruler who put to death Col. Stoddart and Capt. Connolly, the envoys of Queen Victoria. Merv, now a way station on the railroad, was hardly known in its modern aspects until O'Donovan made his famous ride some ten years ago; and Khiva, now joined by steam to the western world, contained no Europeans twenty-five years ago, when Vambery visited the place disguised as a Dervish, except some some poor Russians then languishing in the dungeon.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT.

The dedication of the Methodist Church, Shedden, took place last Sunday.

The Liberal-Conservatives of Ridgetown, on Monday evening, January 17, will banquet Messrs. S. White, T. W. Crothers and Geo. Rockey.

On Tuesday night unknown parties forced one of the doors of the Erie Iron Works, St. Thomas, and carried off a barrel half filled with machine oil. Nothing else has been missed from the establishment.

The drug store of Dr. Clements, at Sarnia, was entered the other night by springing the lock of the front door. Although the till contained seven dollars only three were taken, and nothing else in the store was missing.

A black fox was captured near Locke's Springs by two St. Thomasites Tuesday; a silver grey fox was shot near Iona on Saturday, and Mr. R. Donaldson, of Corinth, trapped a five-foot long black otter a few days ago.

The work of sinking the shafts for the St. Clair tunnel at Sarnia is being rapidly prosecuted—a depth of 60 feet having been reached on the Canadian and 40 feet on the Michigan side. The soil is said to be of stiff and compact blue clay, very favorable for the work.

Peter Wyatt, son of Mr. John Wyatt, caretaker of the county buildings, St. Thomas, was engaged in a friendly boxing match with gloves in the apartments of a companion, Tuesday night, and aimed a blow at his opponent, who ducked and Wyatt's elbow struck the dodger's head, fracturing the arm.

A young man named George Ballah, of South Dorchester, accidentally shot himself with a revolver on Sunday evening at the G. T. R. crossing, near Orwell. The bullet struck his right shoulder blade and glanced out, making an ugly but not dangerous wound. He had dropped the revolver in the snow, and was brushing it when it went off. Dr. McLay, of Aylmer, dressed the wound.

Last November Emil Schelberg, who resides near Simcoe, was shot in the back, the shot penetrating his lungs. The shooting took place near the residence of Stephen Brown. As Shelberg was going home on the road, he was accosted by Michael McCafferty, James McCafferty, Hugh McCafferty and Anthony McGinty, James McCafferty having a gun and the others heavy clubs. An altercation ensued, and seeing that he was no match for them he started to run. He had gone but a short distance when he received the contents of the gun in his back. Michael McCafferty, Hugh McCafferty and McGinty were lodged in jail, but the man who did the shooting, James McCafferty, escaped. Schelberg and Miss McCafferty had been keeping company against the wishes of the family of the girl. Contrary to all expectations Schelberg recovered, and the sequel to the shooting occurred Tuesday. Ever since the affair attempts have been made to settle the case. Schelberg declined to abandon his determination to wed Miss McCafferty, despite the opposition of the family, and as the young woman favored the suit, it was decided to allow the pair to be wedded. Schelberg was also paid $1,000 not to prosecute, and yesterday he left the vicinity as the husband of the woman for whom he had nearly died, and with his pockets lined with bank bills. The parties held at Simcoe will now be discharged.

MILLIONS FOR THE TEETZEL FAMILY.—The St. Thomas Journal says:—For a great many years there has been a tradition in the Teetzel family, of which a great many members reside in this vicinity, that a large estate in the hands of the German Government is the property of the family, and could be secured if only a few missing links in the chain of proof could be discovered. Of late years some of these links have come to light, and a little energetic work on the part of some of the heirs has placed the matter in such a state that hopes have been raised that the validity of the Teetzel claims to the estate will soon be acknowledged. A letter was recently received from a lawyer in Germany, stating the position in which the estate is, and giving very satisfactory assurances that the claims of his clients could be established. It appears that the estate should have descended to John Solomon Teetzel, the grandfather of the elder members of the Teetzel family, at present living in Canada. This gentleman set sail for the United States, but met with several extraordinary mishaps on the way, being finally shipwrecked on the shores of Canada, in which he decided to make his home, settling near Toronto. His direct heirs, as far as the third generation, numbered only thirteen and the four million dollars, if it be ever received, will be divided among these thirteen or their heirs. The lucky thirteen are Mr. Wm. Teetzel, of Flora, stree'; Mr. John King, Mr. J. W. McFerran, and the heirs of the late Nelson Teetzel, all of this city; Mr. John Johnston and Mr. Chas. Teetzel, of Fingal; Hiram Teetzel, of Michigan; John Teetzel, of Chicago; Mrs. Bell, of Benton Harbor; John Teetzel, of Blenheim; Wm. Teetzel and Mrs. Soules, of London; and Mrs. Hagar, of Toronto. Two of the heir-apparents have already agreed to give $10,000 each to the R. R. Y. M. C. A. building—when they get the fortune.

TWO CHILDREN POISONED.

Fatal Results of Medicine Administered to the Wrigney Children in Granton.

Two children of Mr. Wrigney, of Granton, were fatally poisoned on Tuesday. They were sick and the father went for Dr. Lang, who prescribed powders for worms. The Doctor's clerk filled the prescription and it is feared he made some mistake, and put up a deadly poison, as one of the children died in five minutes after taking the medicine and the other in half an hour. An inquest will be held.

MINOR TELEGRAMS

THE DOMINION.

Bob McCullough was found guilty at the Hamilton Assizes yesterday of attempting to murder his wife by cutting her with a razor.

Allen Ballyntine, the young man who shot Mrs. Luke Lawson at Lake George, N. B., last week, was yesterday committed for trial in the Supreme Court on the charge of murder.

THE UNITED STATES.

A freight train on the Illinois Central RR was wrecked yesterday near Ashkum, Ill. C. Koester, a stock drover, was killed.

At New Orleans, La., Valsin Benne aged 22, last night shot and killed his 17-year old sweetheart, Clara Carter, because she would not marry him. Benne then fired a shot at his own head, but was, however, only stunned.

Mary Malledy was found dead in a tenement in Cherry street, New York, yesterday. Her skull had been broken. Anthony, her husband, was found in the apartment stupidly drunk. He was arrested on suspicion of murdering his wife.

An iron passenger bridge spanning Raisin River, connecting two principal portions of the village of Bissfield, Mich., fell yesterday, intense cold having caused the iron to contract. William Slack and Charles Quigley were injured fatally.

At a meeting of the Western Nail Association at Pittsburg, yesterday, it was decided to advance the card rate on nails from $2 40 to $2 60 per keg. Wages will now be advanced one cent per keg, which will be an increase of 5½ per cent. over present wages.

It is reported that Franklin Sproule, of Kennebec, Maine, brother of Robert Sproule, recently hanged for murder in British Columbia, and administrator of the estate of deceased, is about to enter a petition of right asking permission to enter a suit for $100,000 damages against the Dominion Government for the unlawful execution of Sproule, who, it is contended, can now be proved innocent of the crime.

The New Anti-Mormon Bill.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The anti-Mormon Bill, as it passed the House to-day, by the adoption of the Tucker substitute for Edmunds' Senate Bill, makes the lawful husband or wife of any person prosecuted for bigamy, polygamy, or unlawful cohabitation a competent witness against the accused, and further provides for the registration of all marriages. It annuls all territorial laws, providing for the identification of votes of electors at any election, and also all laws conferring on territorial courts the power to determine divorce cases, and abolishes woman suffrage in the Territory of Utah. Penalties are prescribed for unlawful intercourse and polygamy is declared to be a felony. The financial corporations known as the Church of the Latter Day Saints and perpetual emigration fund company, are dissolved, and the Attorney-General is directed to wind them up by process of court, and all laws for organization of the militia of the territory and creation of Nauvoos Legion are annulled. Polygamists are made ineligible to vote, and a test oath is prescribed to all persons desiring to vote that they will obey the laws of the United States, and especially the laws in respect to crime defined in this and the original Edmunds Act.

Train Wreckers at Work.

Kansas City, Mo, Jan. 12.—A southbound passenger train on the Missouri Pacific, due here this morning, was wrecked near Dunbar, Nebraska, about midnight. The wreck was caused by the loosening of a rail by parties unknown. The train, coming at the rate of 30 miles an hour, plunged 15 feet down an embankment and landed in a snow drift. James Dewitt, engineer, was caught under the boiler and killed. Frank Henowith, express messenger, of this city, was internally hurt and may die. A lady, whose name is unknown, was badly hurt. None others were badly injured so far as known. The entire train left the track, and probably the loss of life would have been greater except for the plunge. Officials say this is the result of revenge on the engineer, on account of his sticking by the Company during the strike last summer, and say some of the men engaged in the strike of that time are suspected. A number of California excursionists were on the train.

E'sewhere in this issue we present a large advertisement of H. H. Warner & Co., setting forth the fact that up to December 27, 1886, they had sold the enormous amount of 26,587,335 bottles of "Warner's Safe Cure" in North America alone, to say nothing of the European and Australian trade. These figures seem almost incredible, but coming as they do from a house so well-known and honorable, we feel safe in attesting to their truthfulness. "Warner's Safe Cure" has certainly been a great boon to the suffering, and its success has depended altogether upon its own merits. For Kidney, Liver, Blood and Urinary troubles, and especially for Female Complaints, its equal was never known, and for this reason it deserves all the praise which it receives.

FIRE THIS MORNING.—Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, P.C. Crawford, who was on duty in the neighborhood, noticed flames issuing from the kitchen in rear of the residence of Mr. A. B. Powell, on Kent street. He pulled box 26, the alarm sounded, and the firemen were quickly on hand. The brigade succeeded in confining the flames to the kitchen, which was destroyed. Loss not known.

YOUNG MEN suffering from the effects of early evil habits, the result of ignorance and folly, who find themselves weak, nervous and exhausted; also MIDDLE-AGED and OLD MEN who are broken down from the effects of abuse or over-work, and in advanced life feel the consequences of youthful excess, send for and READ M. V. Lubon's Treatise on Diseases of Men. The book will be sent sealed to any address on receipt of two 3c. stamps. Address M. V. Lubon, 47 Wellington St. East, Toronto, Ont. †

Cured of Weak Back.

H. M. Randolph, Broadway, N. Y., says: "I tried many physicians and all other plasters without avail, until your Petroline Plasters were recommended which made a complete cure." Of druggists and Harkness & Co., Agents.

In many country places the district school in winter affords the only educational advantages which the mass of young girls and boys can hope to enjoy. Parents and guardians during this season of comparative leisure should visit the school in their neighborhood and learn for themselves the progress that children are making. It does not matter that greater advantages may hereafter be given the pupils now attending them. Nothing can make good the time and opportunities lost in early life. It is a common mistake to suppose that less experience and teaching capacity are required for the best management of very young pupils, and the country school is too often left to the teachings of those with no experience in teaching, and with knowledge only a little in advance of the most forward pupils. This economy in a matter of the greatest importance is of the penny-wise pound-foolish kind that ends in poverty and loss.

J. B Mason, Providence, R. I., suffered with pneumonia, accompanied with a dry cough, hoarseness and entire loss of voice. Physicians afforded him no relief. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY cured him, and he says it saved his life.

In a communication to one of the scientific journals, on the subject of paper and the industries connected with it, M. De Boutarel presents some valuable data showing the great increase in the quantity of pens, paper, pencils, &c., manufactured in Europe and the United States alone. According to this authority, the production of paper, which at the beginning of the century was practically nothing in the United States, some time since amounted to 500,000 tons per annum, and this quantity is just doubled in Europe—the value of the straw, rags, and other materials used in the manufacture of the paper being about $100,000,000. The value of all this paper, when manufactured, is estimated at $200,000,000. The value of the steel pens annually produced, M. Boutarel finds, to be not less than $4,000,000.

The girls that are wanted are good girls—
Good from the heart to the lips,
Pure as the lily is white and pure,
From its heart to its sweet leaf tips.

The girls that are wanted are home girls—
Girls that are mother's right hand,
That fathers and brothers can trust to,
And the little ones understand.

Girls that are fair on the hearthstone,
And pleasant when nobody sees;
Kind and sweet to their own folk,
Ready and anxious to please.

The girls that are wanted are wise girls
That know what to do and say;
That drive with a smile or a soft word
The wrath of the household away.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense,
Whom fashion can never deceive;
Who can follow whatever is pretty,
And dare, what is silly, to leave.

The girls that are wanted are careful girls,
Who count what a thing will cost,
Who use with a prudent, generous hand,
But see that nothing is lost.

The girls that are wanted are girls with hearts;
They are wanted for mothers and wives;
Wanted to cradle in loving arms,
The strongest and frailest of lives.

The clever, the witty, the brilliant girls,
They are very few, understand;
But, oh! for the wise, loving home girls
There's a constant and heavy demand.

A CARDINAL SIN.

BY HUGH CONWAY.

In the afternoon another telegram came for Allan. This he tore open with feverish haste. Frances was no worse, but the fever was still at its height. No immediate danger.

He could bear it no longer. The thought of his wife lying miles away—ill, delirious—almost drove him mad. See her and know the worst he must. Even if he returned by the next train he must go to town to-night. To-morrow Mabel and Kenneth would be at Redhills, so his mother would have plenty of aid. Moreover, his father had not spoken.

Praying that he might be at once apprised of any change, he went up to town by the mail, and found his wife with her rich hair shorn away, and ice laid upon her burning head. Found her crying for him.

In a way she knew him. Her brilliant eyes turned ever to his. With her hot hand in his, or with his arm around her, she seemed quieter. If he moved from her side for a moment she was distressed, and the violence of her delirium increased. Ever and anon she prayed him to protect her, to save her from some awful fate. Hour after hour Allan sat by her side. Seeing her like this he could not believe that her life was not in imminent danger although assured by the highest authorities that as yet there was nothing to tremble at. Josephine, who was longing to go to her father, stayed with them. It was a greatest self sacrifice she had ever made. Perhaps it was the thought of the way in which she had wronged Frances by her suspicions that nerved her to perform it. She would do what she could to atone.

All day on blond'y messages came from Redhills, each one in a similar strain. There was no change either for worse or better. Toward the evening the last one came. "He is sensible—come if you can."

All the importance of seeing and speaking to his father came before Allan once more as he read it. Yes, he must go at all risks, at all cost to his own feelings. Was it a special mercy from Providence that about this time Frances grew quieter?—that she did not seem to be so needful of his presence—that he could even draw his hand from hers and leave the room without hearing her piteous cry of "Allan! Allan! Allan!"

Much as he regretted that imperative call which took him from his wife's side at this moment, he dared not disobey it. Commending Frances to the care of Josephine and Mrs. Melville, he started for the west by the first train in the morning. He found that Mabel and his brother were at Redhills—that although Mr. Bourchier's senses had returned to him, the doctors gave little hope that he would recover.

"Will you go to him at once, Allan?" asked his mother.

"Yes, at once. Who is with him now?"

"Mabel and the nurse. I will come up with you."

"No, I have something for his ear alone—something I must say. Ask them to leave him, if only for five minutes."

"You will not say anything to vex him?" asked Mrs. Bourchier, anxiously.

"Not if I can help it. But what I have to say must be said. Tell everyone to leave his room."

Allan's manner was so peremptory that poor Mrs. Bourchier, whose custom it was to yield when commanded, followed his behest, and her son, with noiseless tread, passed through the door of the sick-room, and with a beating heart found himself alone with his father.

CHAPTER XXVI.

"TRUTH DWELLS ON DYING LIPS."

Mr. Bourchier opened his eyes as Allan entered the room. Seeing who it was, a faint smile of welcome spread over his pale face. He was strong enough to return in a perceptible manner the pressure of the young man's fingers. He was propped up in his bed, so that when Allan kneeled beside him their heads were nearly level. He looked eagerly into his father's face; it was calm and serene, hardly the face of a man who finds himself in his last moments tortured by remorse.

"I hope you feel better to-day, father," said Allan.

"Yes," answered Mr. Bourchier, quietly; "I am better—but I am dying, my boy."

Allan beat his head and tried not to sob.

"I am glad you have come" continued his father. "I was afraid I should not see you again. Mabel is here, and Kenneth; but I should like to see Josephine. Where is she?"

"She cannot leave my poor Frances, who is very ill. When I go back I will send her to you."

"I dare say that will be too late, my boy. Frances ill, you said? I should like to have seen her too," he added, as if thinking aloud.

Allan dreaded the ordeal before him. The idea of troubling his father's last hours with the question he must ask was terrible. He only brought himself to the point by thinking that a man meeting death as calmly as Mr. Bourchier could have nothing to trouble his conscience. The question must be asked; and as he looked at that quiet, white face, his heart leaped as he guessed that the answer would be an entire denial.

He kneeled for a few moments longer in silence, ever holding his father's hand in his own; then he leaned forward until his lips were close to the dying man's ear.

"Father," he whispered. "I have something to ask you. Forgive me asking it at such a moment; but my happiness and my wife's happiness depend upon it."

Had he been looking into his father's face he would have seen a startled expression flash into the eyes. Could he have read his father's thoughts he would have known that Philip Bourchier was crying in spirit—"At last, at last; when I hoped to die and carry the secret of the crime with me."

But he said not a word, although he knew what Allan's question would be. He neither encouraged nor forbade. He saw that the sword was about to fall, and lying there with his life ebbing away, his strong, keen mind was casting about for a means to mitigate the wound it made. Not for his own sake—he cared nothing for that—but for the sake of Allan; for the sake of Frances; for the sake, though to a lesser extent, of his wife and other children. He said not a word, but the weak clasp tightened round his son's finger's. Then Allan spoke again.

"Father, it is only to hear you deny it, and set my mind at rest, I ask you. That man the man you killed that night—did you know his name—who he was—what his death or life meant to us all; and oh,—God! forgive me for asking you!—did you shoot him thinking he was but a ruffian, who had designed to rob and murder you? Tell me, for my whole life hangs on your answer!"

It was out—a moment would decide all. The tension on Allan's nerves was so great that he buried his face in the pillow beside his father's, and sobbed convulsively.

Yet Philip Bourchier spoke not. Allan felt the clasp of his fingers relax, and then, lifting his head, he looked at him to his horror and dismay his father lay, to all appearances, senseless, as when he had seen him for the first time after his sudden illness.

TAR AND TOLU.

It is important at this season of variable temperatures to insure against the settling of a cough or cold which, if neglected, may result in a serious throat or lung affection. Dr. Oakwood's compound syrup of tar and tolu is a panacea alike for the simple and more aggravated forms of these common but troublesome ailments. Ask your druggist for it. tuts

ON THE BIAS.

A SLAY-RIDE.

The sky was clear, although
Old Prob prefixed snow,
And that chill winds should blough
A couple in a sleigh
Set out upon their weigh,
For no one said them neigh.

But soon the air to cleanse
The storm from northern feanse
Swooped down on mirbty peanse.
It chilled them through and through;
When the chill breezes blough
They knew not what to dough.

Far from their home demesne
The hapless pair were semsne
With highly mournful miense,
Chanting a pious hymn
To soothe their anguish grymn,
Slow freezing limb by lymn.

They perished in the night
From that cold north wind's blight,
Which froze their vitals quight.
While from their lips, death-dumb,
These sad words seemed to cumb:
"We'd better stayed to humb."

Pencils are sometimes lead, but the pen has to be driven.

We can't understand how it is that pickpockets do such heavy business during the holidays without advertising at all.

Sunday school teacher—Now, children, can any of you tell me who Methuselah was? Small scholar—He was a chestnut.

Pretty miss, looking into the dude's palm:—"Your hand is very soft. You are either a barber or a gambler. I can't tell just right away.

Watching the old year out—Sexton—"I beg your pardon, sir, but the services are over." Sleeper—"I you'll build it this mornin', Maria, I won't ask you ag'in all winter."

A Lynn caterer advertised to give away a mince pie to every purchaser who bought 15 cents worth of good. He must have got his pie meat dog-cheap, or his goods at a bankrupt sale.

Necessarily So.—"And what was the disposition of the remains?" was asked of a man who recently lost his mother-in-law. "The disposition of the remains," he replied, with real feeling, "was quiet and peaceful."

THE HAPPY FATHER.

A cobbler who was wed last year,
To-day remarked with laughter,
"My last has always been my joy,
My first will be hereafter."

"They eat horses in France," observed Jogging, "isn't it horrible?" "I think you ought to be the last to say so," rejoined Snooper. "How is that?" "You have been known to consume a great many 'ponies' yourself."

Easily Recalled.—"Can you recall the names of those two friends, my dear," he said to his wife, "whose affection was so great that one offered to die for the other? Da—Da—the first begins with a D." "Oh, yes," said the lady, placidly; "you are thinking of Dan and Beersheba."

Companies are so Mean—"Yes, Nellie, dear, I am going to the Montreal Carnival. I don't care a bit for snowshoes, toboggans and all that sort of thing, don't yer know; but that horrid old company is going to look over Charley's books, and the dear boy says we must go. Companies are so mean!"

There was a missionary concert at a Rockland church the other evening, and among other things was a paper on missionary work, read by a young lady. When she had finished the leader of the meeting said: "We will now sing "Hallelujah. 'tis done." Whereat everybody smiled.

The season has come when the calendar's tricks
Sadly lessen men's chances for heaven,

An exchange says:—"Wives should aim not merely to give their husbands acceptable gifts, but to practice a wise economy in buying such gifts." A good way to achieve this object all sublime is to borrow the money from the husband's pocket while he is asleep, and buy him a smoking cap. He would never wear it, of course; but it would last that much longer—and that's economy.

[Scene at the Savoy Theatre.—Time, midnight.] Sir Arthur Sullivan—"So that's settled—the name of our new opera shall be——." Mr. Gilbert—Hush! we are observed." Sir Arthur Sullivan—"Allegro, Crescendo! Tempo di valse! Who is it?" Mr Gilbert—"'Tis the cat, she may have heard all. Let us dissemble." [They dissemble, and mysterious paragraphs giving the wrong cognomen of their opera appear in the papers.]—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Philadelphia clergyman on Sunday took for the subject of his sermon, "What's in the Bible?" There will be found in a great many Bibles, about this time of the year, nearly a quarter peck of fall leaves, but the reverend gentleman did not allude to this fact. Neither did he say anything about the spectacles, receipts for making blackberry jam, cough medicines, and soap, time-stained letters, and dried herbs, which are frequently found in the Bible.

Family Physician—Your case puzzles me exceedingly, Miss Bessie. After a careful diagnosis, I find you have symptoms of arsenical poisoning, malaria, a mild form of dyspepsia, slight indication of softening of the brain, and—I regret to say it—a suspicion of gout." Miss Bessie—How horrid! and after the care I have taken of myself this winter. Why, doctor, do you know I haven't been anywhere for two weeks, except to our cooking-club dinner night before last.

A mother gave her little boy two bright new pennies and asked him what he was going to do with them. After a moment's thought the child replied:—"I am going to give one to the missionaries and with the other I am going to buy a stick of candy." After a while he returned from his play and told his mother that he had lost one of the pennies. "Which did you loose?" she asked. "I lost the missionary penny," he promptly replied. How many grown people are like that little boy.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cures Colds, Coughs, and Consumption; an unequaled anodyne expectorant.

It probably makes little difference in the consumption, but potatoes, even at present prices, and they are not very high, are much the dearest food that comes on the table. Wheat flour or cornmeal are cheaper, as there is little waste in preparing them. In fact, the price of wheat in some western markets is even less per bushel than the price of common potatoes.

Nearly 100 lives have been sacrificed in Philadelphia during the last two years at the grade crossings of the steam railroads and the streets. If 1885 there were fifty-two victims. In 1886 the number was reduced to thirty eight. This does not include the persons killed while walking on the tracks, or of those who lost their lives by falling from the cars.

CACKLE! CACKLE! CACKLE!

All Day Long is the Burden of Their Song at the City Hall.

The volume and variety of sound that can only be produced where a miscellaneous collection of fowls are gathered into one enclosure continues to resound without intermission from the City Hall, where the annual Exhibition of the Ontario Poultry and Pet Stock Association is in progress. Everything is now in perfect order, and the very large and excellent display of birds, fowls and rabbits can be seen to the best advantage. The attendance of visitors yesterday showed quite a gratifying increase over the previous day, and no doubt to-day there will be a still greater influx of spectators, especially as this is to be children's day. One of the most attractive exhibits is the fine group of Leghorns shown by Mr. F Wixson, of Ingersoll. His birds have the true Leghorn ring in whites, blacks and browns. The combs are nicely set on, thin, smooth and straight. The plumage is perfect. The ear lobes are pure white, and tidy, and his birds all through show careful and judicious breeding.

The Judges have, as they always do, given Mr. Wixson a lion's share of red tickets.

The work of judging the birds is being proceeded with as rapidly as possible, and a considerable portion of the prizes have been already awarded, but as very few have been entered up so far it is impossible to give more than the following at present:—

A Lucky Escape.—Mrs. Cyrus Kilborne, of Beamsville, Ont., had what was thought to be a cancer on her nose, and was about to submit to a cancer doctor's operation, when she tried Burdock Blood Bitters, which effected a radical cure. This medicine cures all blood diseases. 2

A farrow cow may be fattened by high feeding while still giving milk. But unless there is especial use for the milk it is not good policy to do so. Dairymen who can make every quart of milk pay high prices do it; but farmers who rely on turning milk into buttermilk will do better to dry early and fatten all the faster. They thus get the profit of making oleomargarine without its attempted fraud.

Joseph Busan, Percy, writes: "I was induced to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lameness which troubled me for three or four years, and I found it the best article I ever used. It has been a great blessing to me." Frauds may imitate Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in appearance and name, but in everything else they are dead failures. tuts

Look out for the calves and weakly sheep at this season. If cold weather and change to dry food make them thin, vermin are pretty sure to follow. Kerosene mixed with lard, rubbed into the skin where the vermin are most numerous, will soon destroy them. Then feed fattening food, oil meal or corn. Vermin rarely attack stock in good flesh, for fat of any kind is sure death to them.

Since so many Eastern farmers have been driven out of sheep and wool-growing there has been a depreciation in fertility. It is hard to keep uplands in good cropping order without sheep. Possibly for a time greater apparent profit resulted from giving the whole land to crops, but in the end the part of the land given up to sheep will enable the farmer to make the whole more fertile and obtain larger profits from a smaller area in crops.

BOTTLES OF

Warner's SAFE Cure

Sold to Dec. 27, 1886.

No Other Remedy in the World can Produce Such a Record.

This wonderful success of "Warner's Safe Cure" is due wholly to the real merit of the Remedy. For a long time it has been REGARDED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES AS THE ONLY SPECIFIC FOR KIDNEY, LIVER AND URINARY DISEASES AND FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

Thousands of people owe their life and health to "Warner's Safe Cure" and we can produce 100,000 TESTIMONIALS to that effect.

Read the following and note the large number of bottles distributed. We guarantee these figures to be correct, as our sales-books will prove.

Boston, - - 1,149,122.

JOHN WILLIAMS, P. C. (Hamilton, Ont.) says his wife was suffering with indigestion, pains in the back, shoulder and right side, the shoulder at this time being quite numb, and she was Rarely Free from Headache. A physician stated that it was Hardness of the Liver. After doctoring for twelve years, with no effect, she began using "Warner's Safe Cure" and after she had taken six bottles, she was in better health than she has had for many years.

Providence, - - 171,929.

WM. GILBERT (Uffington, Ont.), writes that in the year 1881, he was stricken with severe pains and high fever. The doctor pronounced it "rheumatic fever" and claimed that he could not save him, as it would affect his heart. He went to the hospital in Toronto, and they said that he could not be cured. His Sufferings were Intense. His legs began to swell and in a short time his body was swollen to an enormous size. He commenced taking "Warner's Safe Cure" and began to improve. He says he is now up and around, and is well, and is sure that "Warner's Safe Cure" was the means.

Portland, Me., - 441,105.

M. LEVY (Port Hope, Ont.) says that ten years ago he was afflicted with a very lame back, which would be so bad at times that he could only with great difficulty rise from his chair, and then only with the most agonizing pain. He tried all sorts of remedies without any effect, and finally he commenced using "Warner's Safe Cure." After taking nine bottles he felt like a new man. The pains had all left him and he was cured.

Bal. of New Eng, - 441,753.

JOHN ASKWITH (Ottawa, Ont.), writes under date May 25th, 1884, that previous to October he was taken very ill. He was very nervous and could not sleep, and suffered greatly from Passing Gall Stones. He continued in this state until the following March, and began taking "Warner's Safe Cure." By the middle of April, he was completely restored to health.

Detroit, - - 848,946.

REV. C. HAMILTON (Milburton, Ont.) says he considers "Warner's Safe Cure" has no equal in the world for Kidney Trouble. Says he could not get along without it, and can say without hesitation that it has been of untold benefit to him and needs only a fair trial to prove its virtues to relieve the suffering.

Milwaukee, - - 458,894.

T. C. DIETRICH (Galt, Ont.) says that summer before last he was taken with severe Nervous Prostration, and Inflammation of the Liver, and that his blood was full of uric acid; and his liver did not properly perform its functions. He has taken a number of bottles of "Warner's Safe Cure" and is to-day confident that it has secured for himself a surprising physical gain.

Minnesota, - - 648,017.

J. H. HARRIS (Brooklyn P. O., County Ontario, Ont.) writes Nov. 4th, 1885, that since prior to the year 1870 he was troubled with catarrh and Bronchitis, and experienced no relief from the innumerable remedies which were at times prescribed for him. He was induced to try "Warner's Safe Cure" and at the end of three weeks' use of it was enabled to bid farewell to his bronchitis, and in another week to catarrh, and afterwards all the irregularities of the kidneys disappeared. He has never had any return of the disease.

The Weather.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 13, 1 a.m.—The depression mentioned yesterday is now passing off the Gulf coast, and the pressure is increasing over the lakes. The weather is mostly cloudy, with light local snowfalls from the lakes to the Atlantic, with lower temperatures in Ontario and higher temperatures in the Eastern Provinces. A depression of some importance is developing to the south-west of the lakes.

Indications:—Lakes—Winds shifting to north-east and south-east, partly cloudy to cloudy weather, lower followed by higher temperatures; milder to-morrow.

NO CURE, NO PAY.

GUARANTEE.

Procure from the Druggist mentioned below six bottles of Dr. Carson's Catarrh Cure, for which he will charge you Five Dollars; he will also give you a guarantee, signed by himself, to the following effect:—"If after using the contents of the six bottles a cure is not effected, return the empty bottles with your signature written across each label, and also on the guarantee, when the druggist will refund you the five dollars paid." It often happens that six bottles are more than sufficient to effect a cure; but still it is wise to be on the safe side; besides, there surely is no one in the whole Dominion who would begrudge that amount to cure such a loathsome and stubborn disease, especially as there is

"Observe my 'ad.,'
It is not bad,
And often I renew it;
It brings me trade,
And I have made
Many a dollar through it:
For trade, you see,
Comes right to me,
Whole seas and oceans of it:
And truth to tell,
It pays me well,
And thus I make my profit.
Ah! pray make no mistake,
We are not shy;
We are very wide awake.

A Toronto correspondent hints that a new Conservative paper, to be called the Star, is to appear in Toronto about February 1st.

Mr. Nelson R. Butcher, High Court reporter, of Toronto, was in the city for a short time yesterday on his way to Chicago.

Menno Shoemaker, of the townline, Minto and Wallace, whilst chopping in a bush lately, got his leg broken by a tree falling on him.

The Stratford Herald under the management of Mr. W. S. Dingman, is making rapid strides towards the top of the journalistic tree.

Those who of late years have mourned the absence of the "real, old fashioned winter," stand a good chance to be thoroughly suited this time.

The Young People's Society, of London South Methodist Church, will give a musical and literary entertainment in the lecture hall this evening.

Mr. C. F. Ewer, formerly of Strathroy and latterly editor of the Winnipeg Manitoban, is now editing the Calgary Herald, which is to be materially improved in every respect.

The Stratford Herald remarks:—"The London Advertiser has a big heading about "Infamous Slanders of the FREE PRESS." We congratulate the FREE PRESS on this tribute to its reliability.

Mr. C. G. Charteris, Treasurer of the County of Kent, who has been in failing health for some time, was recently seized with a paralytic stroke, and has been suffering severely since that time.

Brighton Beach, near Sandwich, is not likely to bloom as a summer resort this year. Mr. Buchanan is erecting and equipping a distillery on the premises, and will begin operations within 60 days.

Mr. A. McD. Allen, of Goderich, has returned from England. The return journey was a very rough one, heavy seas running all the time. Mr. Allen represented Canada's fruit interests at the Colonial Exposition.

"Don," of the Toronto News, says:—"I have it on the best of authority that the Mowat Government is determined to bring the licensed victuallers to time." They must have displeased the Hardy-Pardy combination.

The street car employes of this city had $25 distributed amongst them on Tuesday. It was a gift from a benevolent gentleman, and it was the unanimous wish of the men that the gentleman would live many years to do the same thing.

The Minister of Education has rendered his decision upon the report of his deputy, Mr. Hodgins, on Mr. Idington's charges against Principal McBride, of the Stratford High School, relieving Mr. McBride of all the charges.

James Robb, a laborer residing in Stratford, went out to milk the other morning, and was in the act of bending down one knee in order to extract the lacteal fluid, when the bovine displayed a spirit of animosity by kicking him on the left jaw, breaking it in two places.

The Stratford Beacon, in order to cover up the tracks, dubbed the attempted bribery by Wallace Conservatives as "mad" work. Yet it sent out one of its staff to scrutineer at the poll where the "mad" work was to tell in Herr Schmidt's favor. Sandy was a canny chiel, so he was!

It is generally understood that Dr. Jacob Baxter, of Cayuga, M. P. P. for Haldimand, will be chosen Speaker of the new Ontario Legislature. Dr. Baxter has been in the Assembly since it was instituted in 1867, he and Hon. T. B. Pardee being the only two charter members that the House can boast of.

After a couple of weeks' rest, the Rev. David Savage has returned to his evangelistic work in the Montreal Conference. He has spent upwards of four months east of Montreal holding meetings at Compton, Danville, Coaticook, Stanstead, Lennoxville, and Sherbrooke, and other places of less note.

Frank Forsyth, of Stratford, will pass the remainder of the winter in the Central Prison for attempting to do grievous bodily harm to Minnie Jackson by stabbing her, and for vagrancy. He got six months, and Mrs. Phoenix and the Jackson girl were fined $10 and costs for keeping a disorderly house.

The adjourned case of James McDonald, hotelkeeper of Paris, formerly of London, charged with selling liquor contrary to the provisions of the Scott Act, was called at Brantford on Tuesday, and three witnesses examined on behalf of the prosecution, who testified to having purchased liquor off defendant. The defence claimed that a police magistrate living in the city of Brantford had no jurisdiction to try offences committed in the County of Brant outside of the city; that the information improperly charges defendant with having committed an offence more than three months before the information was laid; that the information should have been explicit as to the date when the offence was committed. By consent of counsel on both sides, judgment was reserved until the first of February next, by which time it is expected some of these questions will have been settled by the higher courts.

The Canadian Order of Foresters will celebrate their anniversary this year by special religious service in the Memorial Church on Sunday, the 16th instant, when the sermon will be preached by Rev. Canon Richardson, and instead of the annual banquet there will be a concert in the Victoria Hall by the celebrated New Orleans Jubilee Singers, whose recent visit to this city will ensure a hearty reception on their return. The date of the concert has been fixed for Tuesday, January 18. The Courts interested are Robin Hood, Defiance, Victory, Orient, and Eclipse (London South). It is a good thing to have a little variety in the annual entertainments, and the brethren of the C.O.F. will doubtless spend a pleasant and profitable evening.

The love the Grits bear for loyal French-Canadians (who are Conservatives) may be judged from the following excerpt of an editorial in last evening's Woodstock Standard—Jim Sutherland's organ:—"Are the loyal Britons of Ontario to stand indifferently by while this iniquitous Government shall deliberately and with fiendish malevolence appoint a Frenchman (Dr. Casgrain, of Windsor) to represent them in the Senate, and actually make laws for the government of Britons? Never! We raise the flag of revolt! We call on all true Britons and on all true Protestants, and especially on all Presbyterians, to take up arms against this outrage!" Whew!

The charge against Mr. Hodgins, of London Township, for alleged violation of the provisions of the Canada Temperance Act, came up for hearing yesterday afternoon before Squires Jarvis and Wheaton at the Court House. As, however, the witnesses were not present, and their attendance could not be secured without warrants being issued and the parties arrested, and also, as in consideration of the alleged appointment of James Noble, of Strathroy, as Police Magistrate for the County, under the Scott Act, it was not considered desirable to proceed with any further charges before two magistrates, the whole case was dismissed.

"Daddy Nolan," which is to be presented at the Grand Opera House to night, would be a very indifferent performance were it not for Daniel Sully, says the Detroit News. The specialties introduced by Fred Arnold, Louise A. Fox and Mr. Sully were the entertaining features of the evening. Master Malvey, as "Jimmy Nolan," is a sort of "Peck's bad boy" and would be more pleasing if he were not so very loud. The scene showing the Brooklyn bridge at night, with New York in the distance, is probably one of the most realistic stage effects ever seen.

The weather moderated considerably yesterday afternoon, and this exercised a very beneficial effect on the Southern Division of the G.T.R., rendering locomotion much more easy than for the last few days. Upon the east end especially passenger trains were enabled to make considerably better time. The northern section of this division has been almost entirely paralyzed of late, not a freight train having been able to move since Sunday night, but last evening trains were running again as usual.

At the last regular meeting of Victoria Lodge, No. 1, D. of R., I.O.O.F., the installation of officers took place. Bro. J. G. Watson, D.D.G.M., assisted by Bro. R. K. Cowan, installed the following:—Bro. Seighon, N. G.; Sister Bingle, jun., V.G.; Sister Church, Secy.; Sister Brown, Treas.; Sister Pontey, War; Sister Pringle, Sen. Con.; Sister Levine, Chap.; Sister Tanner, R.S.N.G.; Sister Effner, L.S.N.G.; Sister Douglas, R.S.V.G.; Sister Seighon, L.S.V.G.; Bro. Lowe, I.S.G.; Bro. Mitchell, O.S.G.

Mr. T. White, merchant, Dutton, who had a sore throat, was using chlorate of potash tablets, which he carried in a tin box in his pants pockets. A day or two ago he stood by a hot stove in a hotel to warm himself. On entering the dining-room a short time afterwards a terrific explosion startled everybody in the house. This was quickly followed by another, and a third, the contents of the box having exploded. Mr. White's hands were considerably scorched and blistered.

A four-in-hand sleighing party, which came through the city on Tuesday evening, included the members of the Chapter House choir, who, after their ride, were entertained with an oyster supper at the residence of Mr. I. Danks. After the refreshments, Rev. Principal Fowell spoke, complimenting the choir on the great improvement in the music under the direction of C. E. M. Dadswell. A number of songs were given by the different members, which added to the enjoyment of the evening.

A fight for small stakes took place Tuesday night, in a hall on the Hamilton Road, between George Harding and James Raison. Quite a number of city sports witnessed the encounter, which was conducted with spirit and determination on both sides. Harding is a bigger and more experienced man than his opponent, and all Raison's "gameness" could not save him from being flattened out in the eighth round, and failing to respond when time was called. Harding got the stakes.

The popular vote at the Y. M. C. A. art exhibit now stands as follows:—Miss Wood has 446 votes on No. 26; Miss Gunn has 334 votes on No. 29; Miss Buckle has 136 votes on No. 22. The voting will close on Monday evening next at half-past eight, when the medals and prizes will be immediately presented to the successful competitors. The artist's award will be made known on Friday evening.

Mr. J. McLean, of St. Thomas, has sold the O'Malley farm, near Wardsville, to Mr. Purdy, for $8,750. The farm consists of 200 acres.

Revs. J. A. Murray and Sawyer, of this city, delivered addresses at a tea meeting in the Port Stanley Presbyterian Church Tuesday night.

Those who lack capillary adornment should use Dr. Dorenwend's Great German Hair Magic. It has brought good heads of hair on bald heads after every other remedy has failed. It is unfailing in restoring gray hair to its original color, and preventing falling out of the hair. For removing dandruff it is the greatest preparation in the world. Ask your druggist for it and take nothing else.

A Valuable Testimonial.

Wm. Devoy, on corner of Piccadilly and William streets, told me nearly two years ago of the virtues of Barkwell's Bronchial Balsam. I had been working in a drain and caught a very severe cold. I got a bottle of that celebrated Balsam, and it so quickly and completely cured me of that acute attack, that I have never been without it since. I have recommended it to a great many and they all agree with me, that it is equally good for adults and children, pleasant to take and never known to fail, no matter how severe the cold.—JOHN WALTERS, 31 Bathurst St. *
