SOME people imagine that because they rent one 'phone they have a perfect right to the use of all other 'phones on the street, whether other subscribers wish to use the line or not. Such ideas are erroneous and autocratic. 'Phone systems were built for business purposes and every subscriber should do his own business over his own wire. Visiting and gossiping over the wires are a menace to good service and a fruitful source of dissatisfaction.

The exhibition will give you a chance to show and see what can be done by careful selection and intelligent labor. Make arrangements to spend the entire day in Watford.

SPECIAL emphasis is being laid by the department of education on the regulation of the teachers, trustees and inspectors from acting as agents for book concerns or school supply houses. In the new edition of the regulations and course of study just issued, prominence is given to the following:—"A trustee, teacher, inspector or officer of the department of education who is concerned or interested in the sale of books or supplies, employing him or paying him to act as agent or otherwise, are liable to the penalties imposed by the Department of Education Act." For any such contravention of the law a teacher is liable to a fine of $50, a trustee of $100, an inspector $500, or any other person officially connected with the department, $100.

MR. SAMUEL WHITT, who for some time past has made his home with his son-in-law, Mr. R. C. McLeay, Victoria street, passed away on Saturday night about 11 o'clock after a short illness, at the advanced age of 81 years. Deceased was a native of Nottingham, England. He was for many years engaged in the wholesale tea business, and before settling in Canada travelled extensively. He was a noble gentleman of the old school, well read and of considerable literary ability, and had an extensive knowledge of the world and the political and social topics of his principal countries and cities. In religion a staunch Anglican and in politics a life-long adherent of the Conservative party. Before coming to Watford he lived for many years in Toronto. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. R. C. McLeay, his wife having predeceased him about two years ago. The funeral service was held on Monday afternoon, Rev. S. P. Irwin, B.A., rector of Trinity church, officiating, assisted by Rev. E. B. Horne, M.A., pastor of the Presbyterian church. The remains were taken to Toronto on the 3 p.m. train Monday, and interment made in the Necropolis on Tuesday afternoon. The Watford pall bearers were Col. Kenward, E. D. Swift, W. J. Howden, W. McLeay, E. Clark and Jas. Glass.

Daughters of the Empire.

The September meeting of the Daughters of the Empire was held at the home of Mrs. A. G. Brown. There were thirteen members and five visitors present.

The program commenced with a reading by Mrs. T. G. Mitchell. The paper for the day "Why Should We as Daughters of the Empire Boom Ontario," was given by the hostess, Mrs. Brown. Mrs. Lamont gave a reading, "My Canada," Mrs. W. Stewart an instrumental, Mrs. Fitzgerald gave a Scotch reading and George Chambers a song. Each number was heartily enjoyed by those present.

A very pleasant feature of the meeting was the presentation to Reginald P. Brown by the Daughters of the Empire of a medal appropriately inscribed for his heroic and successful efforts in saving the life of a boy, thirteen years old, from certain death by drowning in Lake Huron on July 29th. The act in itself involved great personal risk and was one which showed unusual courage and unselfishness and one in which the Chapter were unanimous in showing their appreciation. The medal was presented by Mrs. Harris and gratefully acknowledged by the recipient.

After luncheon a very pleasant meeting closed by singing the National Anthem. The October meeting will be taken by Mrs. T. G. Mitchell. Subject "Heroism, The Life of General Gordon."

Wyoming's new sidewalks will be put down at 7 1/2 cents per foot and the crossings at 8 cents.

POLITICAL MEETING.

The meeting held in the Lyceum on Monday night, in the interests of Jos. E. Armstrong, was well attended.

Mr. Joseph H. Hume occupied the chair and introduced the speakers.

Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, made an excellent speech. He analyzed the cry of "larger markets for the farmer," and showed that the 90 millions of the United States would also have access to our markets with disastrous results to the Canadian farmer. So long as Canadians are doing three times the trade per capita that their southern competitors are doing a change would not be beneficial. There is no country in the world as well-to-do, man for man, as Canada, and it would be wise to leave well enough alone. He then showed how this prosperity had come about and reviewed the fiscal policy of the country since 1854.

He showed that the National Policy of Sir John A. Macdonald was the key-note of our success and that a change to reciprocity would ultimately lead to political union which is only annexation under another name. The hon. gentleman spoke in this strain for over one hour and drew an attentive hearing.

The chairman invited any one to speak on behalf of the Liberal party, but no one responded.

Mr. Jos. E. Armstrong, the Conservative candidate, was warmly greeted on rising. He referred to the insinuations of speakers on the Liberal side accusing him of selling cream in Fort Huron, and stated that the stories were entirely false. He showed how he had helped build up the creamery business of the county to the benefit of the farmer, and that the Petrolia creamery was doing a business of 40,000 lbs. each month, and never a pound shipped to the United States, if one was endeavoring to assist in building up the farming interests of the county and in return he was being browbeaten by his opponents. Regarding "free separators," he positively asserted that he had never purchased separators from the United States. He showed how the United States is the greatest competitor we have in the stuff we have to sell, and asked if there was any single industry in Canada that would be benefitted by the adoption of the pact. He ridiculed the idea of the farmer getting a better price for his produce and that at the same time living would be made cheaper. He reviewed the actions of the U. S. trusts and middlemen and explained how Canadians would be at the mercy of these men once reciprocity was adopted. He explained how our cheese, butter, etc., have standard prices, and that if our markets were opened to the U. S. the Canadian farmer would be compelled to take lower prices for these articles. He said that Canadian wheat brought better prices in the English markets when shipped direct than when going through U. S. channels. He spoke on cattle exportation and said that our standard grade of cattle would be jeopardized in price going through the same channels as the inferior and diseased cattle from the south. It had taken years to get the British embargo on Canadian cattle removed, and the introduction of the pact would place us again in the inferior position we occupied in the markets of the world many years ago. He reviewed the iron industry, pulp wood industry, the barley market and many other items, showing in each case the disastrous effect reciprocity would have on Canadian trade in each line. He was working for the welfare of the country and asked the support of the electors on the 21st.

Bravery Recognized.

A pleasing feature in connection with the meeting of the Daughters of the Empire on Friday last was the presentation by the Chapter of a silver medal to Reginald P. Brown, the boy who risked his life to save young Littleproud, of Inwood, from drowning at Hillsboro' last July. The brave act should certainly have been publicly acknowledged before this, and the Daughters of the Empire held back for some time expecting that probably Inwood people would take the matter up. However, as nothing was done, the Daughters of the Empire decided to move in the matter, with the result that Reginald Brown received from them on Friday a formal acknowledgment of their appreciation of his unselfish act. No nobler deed can any man do than to risk his life to save that of another. The medal is a handsome one engraved as follows:—"Presented to R. P. Brown for Life-Saving, July, 1911," and on the reverse side:—"Given by Hatford Daughters of the Empire."

A Letter From Rouleau.

Rouleau, Sask., Sept. 6, 1911.

Mr. Editor and readers of the Guide:

I have not been long in this country, hardly long enough to form a correct opinion of the place. One thing is certain, the season has been cold and wet, and the harvest is consequently late.

The weather now is wet and backward, and grain is ripening very slowly. There was a frost about the 28th of August that cut vegetables and damaged the wheat to some extent. There are a lot of sick men and boys in this country. There was an unusual number of harvest hands arrived this year and the harvest being late there are hundreds of them lying around inland cities and towns at their own expense. Last week's Winnipeg Telegram announced that "ten thousand harvest men had come into Winnipeg but they were a fortnight too early as the harvest has not fully opened."

This is a land flowing with milk and honey, but the poor man has to make some hard knocks to get the flow to come his way. There are men sitting in offices discounting money at from 12 to 25 per cent while others are working night and day in order to pay that interest. The majority and the best of city and town buildings are occupied by bankers and real estate men.

One noticeable difference between this place and Ontario is this: If you asked an Ontario farmer what he most needed he would invariably say "manure." Here they burn their straw and make no use of their manure. In Ontario every farmer has water for the going for, some having it piped into their building. In many places here they have to draw water a long way at the cost of 50 cents a load, about what we pay for a load of manure in Ontario. There are a lot of us here who will not load our pockets with dollars, nor yet be able to poll our vote on the 21st. Hoping this will find a space in our "little old paper" I will thank you in advance.

JAS. CRAIG, Rouleau, Sask.

The cost of the new post office of Tilbury will be $20,300.

Chatham new model school opened with 33 students.

WATFORD, SEPTEMBER 15, 1911.

Genuine Value.

Are you reading the advertising columns of the Guide-Advocate each week? If not you are allowing golden opportunities to pass you by every day. If "a penny saved is a penny earned" how many dollars would you add to your income every year if in your every purchase you got full value for your money? It sounds like a problem in mathematics, but it is not, it's common sense. When a merchant announces in his advertising columns that he has certain values for sale at a named price, his reputation stands being that statement. If the article does not realize his claim, he will make it right if you ask him. Often, too, if you watch the advertising columns you will find exceptional bargains in the article that at the very moment you need most. And as a general truth you'll find better values at the store that advertises well. You can save money if you'll cultivate the habit of reading the advertisements, and then take advantage of the opportunities which are constantly being offered by our merchants. Both sides gain in every honest bargain.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

It is estimated that the expenses of the Dominion general election will total close to $650,000. The number of polls, it is now stated, will be upwards of 14,000, as the vote has increased much heavier than expected, in the West especially.

The results of good, careful spraying are becoming more evident every day. The grower who sprayed his trees well this spring is now enjoying a crop of clean fruit that will sell in any market while a large percentage of the unsprayed fruit is fit only for hog feed.

As illustrating the heights at which the game of politics may reach its apotheosis when women receive the ballot, a recent election in Tacoma, Wash., where both men and women are created, by act of congress, a little lower than angels is enlightening. At this election, ladies opposed both the candidates; in the case of one because he had been married four times, and in the case of the other because he refrained from marrying until after his 48th year.

The proposition to hold school promotion examinations at Easter or at Christmas instead of at the season of the year when the weather is the most trying, is one that should be hammered away at until the change is brought about. The examination papers are becoming harder every year, and those who have to struggle with them should be given every advantage and consideration.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Bad Breaks.

I've made a million bad mistakes, I've made a million foolish breaks, in this wide world of wonders; and I expect to make some more before I reach that happy shore where no one ever blunders. And I shall not apologise, or squirt the briny from my eyes, or make long explanations; the breaks I made in other days are made—their ghosts I shall not raise, to swell men's tribulations. Of all the useless things men do, the blindest is to stand and view the past with grief and wailing; the future, like a sunlit sea, is waiting still for you and me, so let us both go sailing. The future, like a minstrel gay, is singing of a pleasant way, of scenes and days beguiling; the future, like a star-eyed maid (mixed metaphors, I am afraid) is becoming and smiling. The man who marks the future's curves, and frets about the past, deserves the kicks that he'll be given; he likes to make a friend of woe, and so, wherever he may go, by woe he will be driven.

A Prank of the Sea.

Some years ago a certain Captain Hodson, afterward an inspector in the Honolulu customs force, had a remarkable experience when the schooner of which he was in command was caught in a storm.

While Hodson stood with the man at the wheel, to see that the schooner was kept ahead of the wind, an enormous wave swept the vessel from stern to bow, throwing the wheelman flat on his face, and tossing the captain overboard.

As Hodson was swept over the side into the foaming water the ropes holding a boom broke, and let the hook drop to the deck, with one end hanging over the side of the schooner. A broken rope dangling from this end hit the captain on the head, and instinctively he seized it. The speed of the vessel dragged him along beside her. Presently the vessel gave a tremendous lurch, and her bulwarks went under water, when a gigantic wave tossed the captain aboard again. His presence gave the man at the wheel a terrible shock, for he thought the captain had been drowned. They finally weathered the storm and brought the schooner and her cargo safely to port.

It is thought that this is the only instance on record of a man having been washed overboard and then washed back again.

Of Interest to Boys.

The Broadview Boys' Institute, Toronto, has held for the past nine successive years a Boys' Fall Fair, in which the exhibitors are boys eighteen years of age and under, and the board of Directors is composed entirely of boys. Last year there were 2,100 entries, made by nearly 600 boys, and the value of the prizes totalled over $600, mostly cash. The exhibits include vegetables, flowers, canaries, and other pets, photography, art, industrial crafts, collections, penmanship, literature, Boy Scout work, etc. The Fair receives recognition and a grant from the Provincial Department of Agriculture. The competition is open to all boys, everywhere. A man can get along without doing much if he has sense enough to know what not to do.

Most married women are liberal-minded; at least, they give their husbands liberal pieces of their minds.

On the day courtship ends in marriage a man thinks he knows the woman in the case like a book—but later he discovers that he skipped several chapters.

Friend—Now that you have been married some time, tell me frankly your opinion on the marriage state.

Much-married Man (to his wife)—Just go outside, my dear, will you.

C. Cooper and F. Pettis, Kingsville, who were summoned to police court Thursday for selling short-weight bread, were tried at Kingsville, and judgment reserved. Fred Harrison and Archie McPhail, Leamington, pleaded guilty and were fined.

Donald McKellar, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter McKellar, Forest, while playing with other boys at the new public school building, fell through to the cellar, and fractured his right leg above the knee, sustaining several bruises as well about the body.

A stealer of grapes was shot in Sandwich a night or two ago. As the police cannot watch all the vineyards in that vicinity, the owners are obliged to do so, or have their goods stolen. Any number of people who think it no harm to steal a little fruit would be horrified to know that they are in the same class with sneak thieves and burglars.

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin. I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was wanted was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed up, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box.

"What's flour gluten, Bud?"
"It's what makes your dough rise, Rose."
"Yes"—she encouraged.
Added Bud very sagely:
"Makes it rise in the mixer and expand
"in the oven. It's the elastic part of "flour—absorbs all the water and milk
"—and things."
 Rose grew interested.
"FIVE ROSES, said Bud, is exceedingly rich
"in gluten. I s'pose because it's all made
"from Manitoba wheat. Takes up a lot
"more water — makes those fat loaves—
"lasts longer too."
"Saves money, doesn't it?" asked Rose.
Bud in a big voice:
"The fat loaf makes the fat pocketbook."
Use FIVE ROSES always.
And Rose said YES.

SNOBBERY BELOW STAIRS.

The Way English Servants Are Their Master's Aids and Graces.

Writing on snobs in the New York Tribune, Frederick Townsend Martin, the society millionaire, says:

We are all familiar with the ludicrous snobbery among English servants that existed in the time of Mr. Pickwick. Not so many of us, however, appreciate what snobbery exists today in the realms of the servants' hall. I was once visiting Baron Ferdinand Rothschild, when my valet came to me and asked if he could go to London by the morning train and get back in the afternoon.

I said to him, "Why do you want to go?"

He replied: "Oh, sir, as we are only stopping here a few days, I did not put in my evening suit, and last night, you being a foreigner, I found myself ranked above all the others who were to take precedence of dukes, earls and viscounts. I outranked them all and took in the housekeeper to dinner. And my mortification was great when I noticed that every one of the men around the table was in evening clothes, and I alone was in my ordinary black suit. By the way, sir," he continued, "perhaps you, being an American, don't know that in the servants' hall the valets and maids are always called after their masters' and mistresses' names. They don't call them Lady So-and-so, but simply by the last name. Thus, Earl Cork's servant would be called 'Cork.' And in the servants' hall they are seated at the housekeeper's table in exactly the same grade and rank as that observed by their masters and mistresses upstairs."

FRONT DOOR NIGHT BELLS.

Doctors Are Not the Only Ones Who Have Use For Them.

At 1 o'clock in the morning a man who was looking for a doctor found a door plate on which he distinguished the words, "Night bell," and rang the bell. When the door opened and a figure appeared in the semidarkness of the hall he said:

"Hurry up, please. There is a sick woman at No. 132."

The man inside said "All right," and in a few seconds both men were racing down the street to No. 132. In the top floor front room lay a very sick woman. The newcomer pulled a small table to the bedside and took from his pocket a sheet of paper and a fountain pen.

"What on earth are you doing with that?" said the man who had summoned him. "You're a nice doctor, you are."

"Doctor?" echoed the man. "I'm not a doctor; I'm a lawyer. Didn't you read the sign, 'Lawyer's night bell?'"

"But what does a lawyer need of a night bell?" the other man asked.

"To enable the people who want to make wills in the dead of night to find him readily," was the reply.

"Once in a while I'm called up to straighten out more serious entanglements, but most of the legal papers I write after 10 p. m. are wills. A lot of people who take sick suddenly recollect that they have never made a will and they want to repair the omission while there is time. When you said there was a sick woman here I naturally thought of wills, not medicine. There is a doctor in the corner house."

HORSE'S LEG SWELLED

Animal Was Too Sore and Lame to Work—Quickly Cured by "Nerviline."

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P. O. I had from his home a fine young mare that wrenched her right fore leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff, sore, and swollen. I applied Nerviline, and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment." We have received nearly five thousand letters, recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an all-round cure for aches and pains. One million bottles used each year. Try it yourself. Large bottles of Nerviline 50c; trial size, 25c. All dealers, or The Catarthone Company, Kingston, Ont.

The story is told by a travelling man of a pretty young lady who stepped into a music store in a nearby town the other day. She tripped up to the counter where a new clerk was assorting music, and in the sweetest tones asked: "Have you Kissed Me in the Moonlight?" The clerk turned half way round and answered: "It must have been the man at the other counter, I've been here only a week."

PAIN IS A PUNISHMENT.—Pain is a protest of nature against neglect of the bodily health, against carelessness regarding the physical condition. It steals in at the first opportunity and takes up its abode in a man and it is sometimes difficult to eject it. Dr. Thomas, Electric Oil will drive it out in short order. Pain cannot stay where it is used, but immediately flees away.

There are few towns where the stores present a more pleasing appearance than those of Watford. Our merchants take a pride in the appearance of their respective places of business and such pride is certainly commendable. That is not all. They carry good clean stocks of merchandise and their reputation for fair dealing draws a splendid patronage from the surrounding territory.

CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.—The intrusion of uric acid into the blood vessels is a fruitful cause of rheumatic pains. This irregularity, is owing to a deranged and unhealthy condition of the liver. Anyone subject to this painful affection will find a remedy in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their action upon the kidneys is pronounced and beneficial, and by restoring healthy action, they correct impurities in the blood.

A noble army of right thinking Liberals in Canada have gone on record in opposition to the Reciprocity Pact and we give the following quotations from their speeches:

Sir Geo. Ross, former Liberal Premier of Ontario, said: "In my judgment the commerce of Canada should never be placed at the mercy of the United States Congress or any other competing nation. We have adapted our transportation now to British trade. To enter into a reciprocity treaty with the United States would be dependent upon the humor of our American neighbors and would be to discount all this expenditure. Commercially I cannot bring myself to look with favor upon a reciprocity treaty under existing circumstances with a people who have specifically framed a tariff for our injury."

The Hon. Clifford Sifton, said, "reciprocity will reverse the conditions that have made a successful policy for Canada and will spell retrogression, commercial subordination and destruction of our national ideals and our proud position as the rising hope of the British Empire."

Mr. Lloyd Harris another prominent Liberal in the last Parliament was equally strong in his view.

The Labor Day social given by the ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, 10th con., was a decided success in every way. ARMSTRONG PRACTISES RECIPROCITY.

Has Duty Free Cream Separators and Sells Cream in States.

Free cream separators and the open U. S. market for Mr. Armstrong, but taxes and a closed market for the farmers. Joe gets the cream, and the farmer the skimmed milk.

J. E. Armstrong selling his cream in Port Huron when he could get as good a price in Toronto is the best object lesson in favor of reciprocity that has yet been given. But why does he do it? He answers:—"The American market being nearer."

If the farmers of East Lambton will vote to obtain for themselves the advantages that Mr. Armstrong enjoys, that is, free implements and an open U. S. market, they will elect Joe to stay at home and attend to the shipping of cream to Port Huron.

Last year over $750,000 worth of cream separators came into Canada duty free. Of course, Mr. Armstrong, being in the creamery business, profited by buying the duty-free separators. Then why does he oppose a reduction in the tax on farm implements?

"The American market being nearer," is the reason J. E. Armstrong gives for shipping cream to Port Huron instead of to Toronto. These five words by Mr. Armstrong say more in favor of reciprocity than yards of editorials and scores of speeches. They give the essence of the whole situation. The farmers of Lambton now find their best market 3000 miles away. There is a nearer market but they are kept out of it by a tariff wall. Through an error in the framing of the last U. S. tariff the duty on cream was placed at five cents per gallon, instead of two cents per pound, and Mr. Armstrong sends his cream to Port Huron "the market being nearer." Yet he asks the farmers of Lambton to vote against a measure that will enable them to do just what he has found to his own advantage to do, that is, to sell in "the nearer market". If "the nearer market" is the best for Joe, why not for others?

The Puzzle of 1911.

On April 15th, 1910, Mr. J. E. Armstrong, M.P., speaking in Parliament, said, "What has the minister done in regard to opening up new markets? The boast of the men leading the Liberal party previous to 1896 was:—"Place us in power and we will open up the markets of the world to the Canadian farmer, we will obtain for you the great market of 80,000,000 people to the south." "Let them point to one market they have opened up? They can't do it and they know it." We find Mr. Armstrong in April, 1910, upbraiding the Government for not opening up the United States market and in February, 1911, doing all he can to prevent them from doing it.

Again we find Mr. J. E. Armstrong addressing the Forest Grange last Christmas holidays, and stating that, "He did not see how any person could reasonably object to reciprocity in natural products," and now fighting against it. We find his Creamery Company sending cream over to Port Huron and when asked about it says "We sent it because the American market being nearer."

What do you think of the consistency of the man who upbraids the government for not opening this market, who tells the Forest Grange it would be a good thing, who uses it himself because "The American market being nearer" and then makes a quick right about face and says it would be a bad thing for the farmer. This is one the prize puzzles of 1911. Who can solve it?

An Expert Fruit Grower on Reciprocity.

A member of the farmers' delegation which went to Ottawa last December was J. E. Johnston, of Simcoe. He is manager of the Norfolk Fruit Growers' Association. Norfolk fruit growers will tell you that Mr. Johnston has revolutionized the industry in that county.

Addressing the Premier and members of the Government and Commons, Mr. Johnston, who is a Conservative, declared himself in favor of reciprocity with the United States in all agricultural produce. He spoke of the growing apple industry of his part of the country and the recognized superior quality of the fruit which made the growers not afraid of but eager for a larger competition. The prospects for further development of the apple business in Ontario under the co-operative system were very bright. He concluded with these words which every fruit grower should ponder:

"While the business of apple-growing is profitable today its extension would be promoted by the opening of wider markets. The Republic to the south with a population of ninety millions or so and a rapidly-growing demand for all kinds of food products would be an excellent additional market for our fruit. Even in the face of the duty prevailing, the shipments from our association this past year to the United States were 6,000 barrels, while 25,000 barrels went to the Northwest and 5,000 barrels to England and Scotland. Had there been free trade in apples we would have been able to sell our whole crop 50 cents a barrel better than we did. There are varieties of apples, such as Greenings, Belleflower and Talman Sweets which are not wanted at all in the Northwest but are readily taken at a good price in the United States. Apart from this there are localities in Canada which could import American fruit to advantage, and many sections in the United States which could use our fruit to even greater advantage. In years of scarcity the Canadian West would like to draw upon the Pacific Coast fruit more largely than it does, while in seasons of heavy productions we would be greatly benefited by an additional market. This illustrates the advantage of reciprocity.

"At present the Canadian apple-grower is discriminated against. The United States tariff on apples is 75 cents a barrel, while American apple-growers shipping into Canada have to pay only 40 cents a barrel duty. This is unfair and I respectfully ask, on behalf of Canadian fruit growers, that you as representatives of the Canadian people will endeavor in any reciprocal trade negotiations to have the American fruit tariff lowered to at least the same figure as the Canadian tariff. Further than this, we would welcome and request a complete withdrawal of all duties on apples entering either country. Reciprocity in apples would benefit consumer and producer alike."

How Armstrong Quibbled

ABOUT THE BLUE BOOKS. At Mr. Armstrong's meeting in Forest last Thursday night both he and Mr. Smith objected to Mr. Pettypiece quoting figures from the Report of Trade and Navigation for the year ending March 31st, 1910, which Mr.

Armstrong called "ancient history." They both gave figures which they said were from the Report for the year ending March 31st, 1911, and of course, their word was accepted. Next morning Mr. Pettypiece telegraphed the King's Printer, Ottawa, for copies of the reports for the year ending March 31st, 1911, and received the following reply:—"Last Trade and Navigation and part seven Trade and Commerce Reports by today's mail. Reports for 1911 not out yet." Comment is unnecessary.

UNITED STATES EXPORTS.

The figures that Mr. Armstrong did give were wrong and misleading. They were given with the object of scaring the Canadian farmer into voting against Reciprocity. He said that the U. S. in 1909 exported farm products to the value of $490,000,000, whereas the correct figures are $370,000,000, an error of only $120,000,000. But why go back to 1909 when Mr. Armstrong says 1910 is "ancient history?" Take 1910, when the U. S. exports were only $293,000,000. The exports of farm products from the U. S. have been falling off by the million every year, as will be seen by the following figures taken from the blue books:—

Decrease $283,000,000

Here is a falling off of nearly one-half the exports of farm products in twelve years. But that is not all. During these twelve years the imports of farm products into the U. S. increased from $75,000,000 worth in 1898 to $248,000,000 in 1910, or more than three times over. For 1910 the figures are:—

Exports.....$293,000,000
Imports.....248,000,000

Export surplus $ 45,000,000

Had Mr. Armstrong any desire to give the people a fair statement of the situation he would not have said that the U. S. exported more than they consumed of farm products $490,000,000 worth, but would have said that in 1910 the net export of farm products was only $45,000,000, or less than 50 per cent. per head. In the same year Canada's net export of farm products was over $90,000,000, or $13 per head. Is there any doubt about the value of the U. S. market to the Canadian farmer?

SELLS IN THE NEARER MARKET.

He stated that Russia exported certain farm products to the value of $236,000,000, where he should have said 236,000,000 rouble, the rouble being worth about 51 cents. Again, had he desired to be fair he would have stated that nearly all of Russia's farm products were sold in Europe. Like Mr. Armstrong, Russia prefers "the nearer market."

PLEASE PASS THE BUTTER.

He said that Denmark exported butter to the value of $7,000,000. The butter exports from Denmark for the past five years averaged $40,000,000 annually. Again, had he wished to be fair he would have stated that Denmark imported in 1909 over $50,000,000 worth of other farm products.

These few examples are sufficient to show that no dependence can be placed on Mr. Armstrong's statements.

"MAN WITH RED FLAG"

JOHN BURNS' NAME ONCE INSPIRED TERROR.

Now One of the Leading Legislators in Great Britain and is First Working Man to Reach Cabinet Rank in England—He Led Rioters and Went to Prison for His Principles—One of the Best Loved Men in England.

The vast change that has come over public life in England is graphically illustrated in the career of John Burns. Two decades ago England rang with the terror of his name. Today moderate men give thanks that so steady and conservative a man should be at the head of the Local Government Board. He used to stand in the public mind for all that was incendiary, visionary, revolutionary. To-day men look upon him as a firm brake on the runaway coach of labor. He is the first workingman to reach Cabinet rank in England. For many years he was the idol of his class; he is now regarded by a large section of it—the Socialists—with an almost venomous distrust.

His career has been one of storm and toil. He began life as a machinist on 75 cents a week, a fatherless boy with his mother dependent upon him. It must have been the Scotch blood in him that made him so passionate to educate himself. The passion has lasted. There are few men in England with a larger or a more thoroughly digested library on social and economic questions; there is no man in England who has studied the lives of the poor at such close range or with a more understanding sympathy.

Even before he was twenty he had made himself known as a stump orator on Clapham Common and a pungent letter writer to the local papers. The economics of poverty, problems of housing, the workings of the poor law, the causes of unemployment, the organization of industry—the book to such topics as readily as most boys of his age and class take to football and betting. His employers discharged him, not for slackness or inefficiency, but because they did not care to have a bitter, active propagandist of Socialism and discontent on their pay-rolls. Flung into the ranks of the unemployed, and boycotted by the ring of engineering masters, Burns threw himself wholly into the work of agitation. In the '80's he made himself known all over London as the leader of the unemployed, "the man with the red flag." He was frequently arrested; he was once actually imprisoned; for all well-to-do people his name became synonymous with anarchy, riots and spoliation.

A change began to come over John Burns when he was elected to the London Common Council. The agitator turned by degrees into the administrator. He was the only labor representative on the council, and his experience, sanity and good humor quickly made themselves felt. He proved himself an indefatigable councilor, inspecting and inquiring into everything on his own account, and securing reform after reform in the treatment and wages of the council's employes, the conditions of its contracts, the provision of parks, drainage works, asylums, public control of the London street car system, the erection of artisans' dwellings, and so on.

When he entered Parliament in 1892 he found the same sort of work waiting to be done on a far larger scale. He gained the ear of the House at once—first, because he never spoke without having something to say; secondly, because the breezy, vigorous confidence of the man, his sincerity and enthusiasm, made indifference im-

BABY'S TERRIBLE ECZEMA

Hands Tied to Prevent Scratching.
 FIVE DOCTORS FAILED TO RELIEVE.
 BUT ZAM-BUK WORKED A CURE.

Mrs. Chas. Levere, of Prescott, North Channel, Ont., tells how Zam-Buk cured her baby. She says:—My baby's head and face was one complete mass of sores. The itching and irritation were fearful, and the little one's plight was so serious that at one time we feared her ears would be eaten off by the disease.

"We had to keep her hands tied for days to prevent her rubbing and scratching the sores. Doctor after doctor treated her in vain, until we had had five doctors. They all agreed it was a frightful case of eczema, but none of them did any permanent good."

"As a last resource we were advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were at last working in the right direction. We persevered with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time I am glad to say Zam-Buk had effected a complete cure."

"For eczema, eruptions, rashes, tetter, itch, ringworm and similar skin diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, scalds, piles, abscesses, chronic sores, blood poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Catarrh and Bronchitis

The Bane of Thousands, and has hitherto baffled the Skill of Medical Science.

Catarrhazone

Dry air treatment is the one treatment that will cure these diseases. What stomach medicine has ever been known to cure Catarrh or Bronchitis?

Catarrhazone is not a stomach medicine, but an air medicine, that carries to the remotest parts of the throat, lungs, and air cells little drops of healing so curative that whenever it touches germ life it kills and eradicates them from the system.

Thousands of doctors and patients have been disappointed by using stomach medicines for coughs and colds. Have you not found it a rather roundabout way to reach the diseased portion of the throat and lungs?

Why not use Catarrhazone, which is breathed to the very root of the disease and heals so quickly and perfectly that every spot is rebuilt with new healthy tissue?

Catarrhazone is the only medicine that will cure. Thousands have testified.

Think for a moment. Is it not sense? Little drops of healing—the air carries them just where disease exists. That is why possible; and thirdly, because on many subjects he probably knew more at first hand than all the rest of the House put together. Everything that concerned the well-being and interests of the working classes found John Burns equipped at all points. A great deal of the social and industrial legislation of the past twenty years bears the mark of his influence, and you would have to search long and deep to come across another M.P. whose career has been so demonstrably useful and constructive.

With his snow-white hair, his large and deeply-lined forehead, his great, brown, burning eyes, his square and sturdy figure, his head thrown manfully back, his whole bearing suggestive of power and combat, John Burns is a striking figure as he rises to address the House or as he tramps up and down the terrace outside with free and swinging stride. But to see him at his best you should see him some Saturday afternoon in one of the public parks, among his own people, giving and exchanging salutations, patting a youngster on the head, helping to fish out a ball that has fallen into the pond, showing a boy how to handle a cricket bat, skipping over the ropes with the girls, congratulating the mothers, jesting with the policemen—his very picture of zest, health and jollity.

The workmen know him and love him. They recognize in him the biggest man that their class in England has yet produced. And John Burns knows them and loves them in return, and uses both his knowledge and his affection to rebuke, chastise them, and shame them into elevating themselves. Himself a non-smoker and a total abstainer, he never shrinks from rubbing in his conviction that there is little the Government can do for the workman compared with what the workman can do for himself. No man has spoken out so strongly against drink and betting. No man has insisted more trenchantly that social and industrial reform must begin with the individual. It is there that he parts company with Keir Hardie and his followers. They are Socialists and look to the state for everything; while John Burns hates nothing so much as the thought of the English workman becoming a prey to that policy of patting the cod-dle which the Labor party holds out as the highest social ideal.

ETERNAL LOVE

A Test That Tried Two and Found One Wanting

By F. TOWNSEND SMITH

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Helen Stanley believed that love should be immortal, that true love was immortal. But how recognize true love? If divorces only occurred between those who had made marriages of convenience it would argue that incompatibility was really to be found among those who married without love.

Miss Stanley knew well that many marriages between those who were inattentive with each other turned out unfortunately. Possessing ingenuity, she hit upon a plan of determining whether a case of love was true love or spurious. She treasured this plan in her mind for a long while, and when Ernest Gregory offered himself to her and she accepted him she resolved to put it into practice.

Her scheme was to betake herself, so far as her lover was concerned, out of the world. He was to understand that she was dead. If he loved her with that love which was immortal he would never mate again. Having proved that he was hers and hers only for all eternity, whether in the flesh or in the spirit, she would return to him, and their mortal union would be a delight.

Miss Stanley was an orphan and possessed an income sufficient to enable her to go to some remote country and disappear. She made a will so that after her supposed death her property could not be administered until after she had had time to return to life and placed cash in a foreign bank sufficient for her expenses during her supposed absence in the spirit world.

When Miss Stanley informed her lover that she was about to go abroad he was much surprised and chagrined.

HER WOMAN COVERED HER FACE WITH HER HANDS. Very much in love with her, he felt that the separation would be trying to him.

him. She told him that there was an immortal love; that they were united not only for this world, but for the next. Therefore a separation of a few months should not be considered of much moment. She realized that after their marriage no opportunity would likely occur to them to travel; since he was tied down to the practice of his profession she had better make the trip before their marriage.

A refusal to assent to this would have been arrant selfishness, so Gregory gave his consent, resolving to get on without his love as best he could till her return. When he bade her goodbye on the steamer he said to her: "If you meet any one over there you like better than me don't hesitate to sacrifice me. I love you too well to stand in the way of your happiness." "Honest," she said impressively, "you know that I believe in an eternal love. My love for you is of this kind. It only remains to be seen whether yours for me is the same. If anything happens to me you are free to marry another. If you do it, will indicate that your love for me is not the kind that I require. But heaven grant that your love for the wife you take may prove everlasting!"

There was something so spiritually elevating about these words that Gregory felt that if he lost her his life on earth would be blighted. If he had known that his love was to be submitted to a test he would have laughed at it as useless and absurd. He bade his fiancée goodbye and rushed ashore lest his emotion get the better of him.

Miss Stanley went to Paris, where she ordered her trousseau. Her lover had shown such unmistakable signs of constancy that she did not doubt he would stand the test to which she intended to subject him. At any rate, she was ready to take the risk of procuring her wedding garments. From Paris she went to Gibraltar and crossed the strait to Tangier. There she fitted out an expedition to go on to the desert of Sahara.

Two weeks later the Arabs whom Miss Stanley had hired for the expedition returned to Tangier and reported that robbers had attacked the little caravan, murdered the American lady traveler and taken everything that belonged to her.

In reporting the case the American consul at Tangier said that Miss Stanley had doubtless been murdered by her own attendants; that it was a common occurrence for a traveler to be thus dispatched, his belongings appropriated, and in order to escape punishment the men he had hired would lay the blame on the robbers that infest the desert.

When Ernest Gregory heard of his fiancée's death his friends feared for a time that he would lose his reason. He sailed at once for Gibraltar, crossed to Tangier and interviewed some of those who had been with Miss Stanley at the time of the tragedy, with a view to discovering if he could secure the body. The rascals at once caught on to a plan for making money. They said that they had buried Miss Stanley's body in a certain oasis and would go and get it for a consideration. Gregory hired them and went with them. They dug up a corpse, but decomposition forbade opening the casket which contained it. However, they gave Gregory enough proof that these were the remains of the American lady traveler to convince any one not conversant with the Bedouin conscience. Gregory took the precious relic to America and deposited it in a cemetery where he could visit it frequently. Within a few months a beautiful white marble shaft arose over the grave with an appropriate inscription. On the reverse were the words, "Immortal Love."

Miss Stanley had tied up her property for five years, and they passed without a word having been heard from her. When the time approached for an administration of her property, attorneys employed by her different relations began to take measures for a division of her estate. One morning Gregory, who was living a life such as she had indicated she would have him live, was treasuring her resting place on earth and looking forward to his reunion with her in heaven. One day he was laying flowers on her grave, and, looking up, he saw a woman and a little girl between three and four years of age gazing at him.

"Are you Helen in the flesh or Helen in spirit?" he asked. "Whether flesh or spirit, the woman covered her face with her hands. "Speak." "Mamma," cried the little girl, "what's the matter?" Gregory advanced and, taking the woman's wrists in his hands, exposed her face. "Yes, you are Helen," he said, "and living." "Mamma, come away." "Mamma!" exclaimed Gregory. "Is this your mamma?" "Yes. Come, mamma; let us go away from here." "I see it all," wailed Gregory. "You left me to submit me to a test. You wished to know if my love for you Causes Digestive Weakness and Poisons the Entire System.

"No one can have suffered more than I did with stomach trouble," writes Phil E. Pascalar, well known at St. Andrews Corners. "My doctor told me my indigestion and sleeplessness were due to poisons in the blood. Certainly my condition was desperate, and it seemed from the despondent feelings that swept over me that I would lose my reason. I happened to read about Dr. Hamilton's Pills and bought five boxes from the druggist. Such body-cleansing pills I never used; they were mild and yet quite strong enough to drive all the humors out of the blood. My stomach gained strength rapidly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I improved so much that in eight weeks I could eat and digest all ordinary food. Depression and weariness passed away and I am, thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills, enjoying robust good health."

No remedy for biliousness, indigestion, headache, sick stomach, or constipation that compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse substitutes. Sold in 25c. boxes. All dealers, or The Catarrozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

was that immortal kind you covered. Look!" pointing to the shaft and the flowers on the grave. "Are you convinced?"

When he ceased to speak there was only silence. Then, with an effort, his tone changed. Taking the child in his arms, he kissed her and said: "Pardon me, little one, for troubling your mamma. It is all over. Come, let us go away from here; the spot is hateful."

Leading the child, he started down a path that led to an exit from the cemetery, the woman walking beside him. Before entering the crowded street he stopped and said: "One word. As I have lived so live I always. What with you has been mortal with me is everlasting."

Then they passed from the inclosure he never entered again. Helen Stanley during her trip to the desert crossed the path of a young American traveler. She confided to him her intention to disappear from the world, and he helped her to carry it out. His own men by his order attacked her party and drove them away. Then the white man and the white woman journeyed together to Tripoli. Before reaching that city Miss Stanley found that she had met her true mate. Deeply in love, she had no thought of applying a test. Indeed, she dared not do so, fearing to lose the man whose being was as necessary to her as the air she breathed. The period of her effort to remain faithful to her immortal love in America was of brief duration. They were married before leaving northern Africa, and Ernest Gregory was left to cherish the rotting corpse of a daughter of the desert.

The wife would probably have remained buried for the rest of her life had it not been that children came to her, and it became necessary for her to come to life in order to transmit to them their inheritance. She had lived in countries where she was not liable to be heard of till it became necessary for her to return to America to prevent her property being given to clamorous relatives. She had returned incognito, and, having heard that her "immortal" lover had erected a shaft over her remains, she had been seized with a morbid curiosity to discover the truth. She had found him at her grave and decided to take her punishment then and there.

Gregory remained wedded to an immortal love. There was nothing worldly in it. The woman he had loved died before him and left him a share of her property. But he declined to accept it, turning it over to her children. He had been disappointed in his worldly love, and with his spiritual love those things which pertain to earth could have nothing in common. He died as he had lived—in wedlock of the soul.
