NEWS FROM HAMILTON CITY.

The Toronto Daily World will be delivered to any address in Hamilton before 7 o'clock for a cent a week.

HAYNES WILL HAVE HIS WAY ALDERMEN AGREE TO PLANS

But Residents on Proposed Route Will Have a Chance to Complain on Tuesday.

Hamilton, Jan. 15.—(Special).—Hon. Charles Haynes can build his Hamilton, Ancaster & Brantford Railway in the Queen-street, to Aberdeen-avenue, to Hess, to Main, to the centre of the city. Judging from the way the aldermen talk now, they may change their minds when the residents of those streets have their say. The aldermen had a look over the ground Saturday afternoon and agreed with City Engineer Barrow's advice, that the above route was the best. The members of the finance committee and board of works will meet again Tuesday evening, and the residents of the streets will have a chance to make their kick.

PROF. MACALLUM'S PUNISHMENT AWARDED EDITORIAL

Prof. Macallum Explains Recent Occurrences — "Varsity" Editorial Will Pass Officially Unnoticed.

Prof. A. B. Macallum writes The World as follows: In reference to your news article in today's Sunday World headed "Varsity Editor's Punishment," in which my own name is mentioned, permit me to say that the majority of the statements therein contained are quite incorrect, and that what are correct are so stated as to convey a wrong impression. The facts themselves are very simple.

Dr. Jim Moore of Brooklyn Turns on the Light—W. F. Maclean, M.P., Addresses a Gathering at Brougham on Saturday Night.

Brougham, Jan. 14.—(Special.)—It was W. F. Maclean, M.P. for South York, that was announced as the principal speaker at the 'Conservative rally' here to-night, but it was Billy Maclean, the farmer's friend, and the man who fought the railways and the Bell Telephone Company, that the farmers of both sides of politics looked into the village to see and hear and give the glad hand to.

From Start to Finish. The meeting was held in the commodious and comfortable town hall and was interesting from start to finish. It was the witness of Charles Calder's (the Conservative candidate) personal canvass of the township and was largely attended. The chair was taken by Arthur Maclean, the well-known short-story writer, and he first called on Dr. James Moore of Brooklyn, who gave a short address, pointing out that Dr. John Dryden was the first man to begin the resolution of the township council to bring outsiders into the township.

Mr. Maclean Heard. Mr. Maclean, at the beginning of his remarks, received a long and hearty ovation. He said that he was not here to speak, but to listen. He said that he was not here to speak, but to listen. He said that he was not here to speak, but to listen.

NEWEST STYLES AUTOS
BIG NEW YORK SHOW OPENS

Three Hundred of the 1905 Models
Exposed to View in Madison
Square Garden

New York, Jan. 15.—In a blaze of light the automobile show opened Saturday evening in Madison Square Garden. The 300 handsome motor cars on exhibition revealed new beauties in design and workmanship for the 1905 models. Great crowds passed along the aisles and overflowed into the booths.

All the available space in the Garden, from the tunnel and basement to the pany boxes and the last balcony, was in use. The show is the largest of the kind ever seen in New York. The 300 cars, if put on parade in single procession in close order, would form a line three miles in length.

The "autos" are of every size and color, from the diminutive runabout to the heavy truck wagon and might racer, and from pearl gray to vivid red. The cars range in cost from $400 to $6000, the aggregate value of those on exhibition being about $500,000.

The Automobile Club of America and the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers have charge of the exhibition. David H. Morris is president of the former and Windsor H. White of the latter. The exhibit of American motor cars is to extend to the latter end of the month. The foreign makers of automobiles are exhibiting their latest models in Herald Hall.

Cars for 1905 show a certain sameness in style and general appearance. Many in authority believe that the cars have last reached a sameness or finality in design, and that improvements will now be in the construction of the car. Americans this year show cars which will vie with the best that come from Europe, for having settled upon a standard design, the American makers are now devoting their thoughts to general workmanship upon their cars.

Many makers believe that America will triumph within the next few years, bringing forth both touring and racing cars as good as those now imported at high prices, and making cars of a speed equivalent to or faster than the best that Europe turns out.

The first railway car resembled a stage coach. The first automobile followed closely the lines of a carriage even to the whip socket. The railway coach of early days gradually evolved into the magnificent traveling palace of to-day, and the automobile has quickly gotten away from its original shape and is to-day at a standard in style and build by makers and by consumers, though the automobile of construction has reached its zenith and the makers may now settle down to steady improvements in the mechanism.

From the little car of perhaps three and a half to horse-power but a few years ago, there have been evolved touring cars of to-day from ten to sixty horse-power. Weights have increased, and the horse-power has likewise increased, as is natural, for horse-power is required to carry the big, heavy, long and apparently cumbersome car. In controlling the machine of immense power at a low rate of speed without heating the motor the makers have solved one great problem, for cars of to-day are driven through the busiest streets under skillful hands without heating the engine or harming the car in the slightest.

Novelty in Convenience.
Perhaps the most popular horse-power in America will be the motor car of twenty-four to forty for the coming year, although sixty horse-power cars are to-day driven through the busiest streets under skillful hands without heating the engine or harming the car in the slightest.

The makers for 1905 have adopted a broader policy, and are seeking to commodate the public and to more thoroughly cover the whole field. There are indications of this both in the engines and in the bodies of the car.

There has been a general move toward sidelong body and limousine style of cars. There is likewise a decided step forward in the matter of convenience, the most enjoyable and shows most decided improvement in this direction.

Every maker offers a car of larger horse-power than was produced last season, and the cars are larger and more comfortable and elegant.

In endeavoring to cover the field thoroughly the automobile-makers are today putting out cars of every price, one maker displaying cars of to-day, one making a little buckboard at $250 to a touring car at $2500, with cars between these prices at almost any sum a man desires to pay.

Cars of Every Price.
The auto trunk will discover in the 1905 models almost universal use of pressed steel frames, four-cylinder engines, magneto ignition, shaft drive, long and narrow bodies, coil springs, every imaginable luxury, side door entrances and simplified controlling methods.

On all sides, in cars of perhaps as low as $1250 in price to cars of $20,000 or higher in price, are seen the side door entrances. They are to be found on the little ten-horse power touring car, or landaulet, or coupe, and on the double-phaeton bodies. The public demand for an entrance which would not require stepping into and out of the car, and the body-makers have accomplished the innovation with a comparatively few months of effort. It is into universal use. Many coupes and phaetons are, however, found with front entrances thru a space created by revolving the front seat. In bringing forth the side entrance the makers have been compelled to greatly lengthen the body, and thus to add greatly to the weight of the car, while giving entrance to the tonneau, formerly crowded as a rule. The longer chassis, and added weight, have brought about the increased use in horsepower all along the line.

The longer chassis adds to steering troubles within the city, and also to the difficulty of driving in the country. In building these bodies for the 1905 cars the body-makers have surpassed all of their former efforts in elegance, and in the painting, varnishing, decorating, and upholstering these bodies are magnificent.

Supplied With Tables.
Electric light systems, bodies which are supplied with tables, writing materials, and in fact a majority of the conveniences to be found in the man car, are seen, and many of the makers have vied with the Pullmans in turning out automobiles loaded with the sleeping car upon the road is not yet to be seen, but it is a future thing to bring forth that is not altogether out of the question.

CLIFFS SLIDING INTO SEA
LINE CHANGES IN A WEEK

Near Dover, England, First Great
Mass Fell With a Terrific
Crash.

London, Jan. 15.—England has not quite the same coast line as it had a week ago. Several landslides have occurred between Dover and St. Margaret's Bay. The largest of these, indeed, the largest, it is said, which has occurred on the southeast coast, was at St. Margaret's Bay on Monday, when an enormous slice of the cliff, estimated by the coastguard at about a quarter of a million tons, fell into the sea.

The first landslide occurred without the usual warnings in the shape of cracks in the earth. The effect was disastrous in the extreme. Fields had disappeared in places as the whole cliff was gradually slipping away from the mainland. When the coastguard patrolled the cliff Monday afternoon there was no sign of any great disturbance.

Narrow Escape of Inhabitants.
Early in the morning there had been a slight fall, and the inhabitants of the locality rushed to the cliffs. Being warned that there might be danger of further falls, they hurried away, and none to-day, for shortly afterwards a noise like the simultaneous discharge of a hundred great guns was heard, and a sharp crash was felt thru the village.

Cliff Is Scooped Out.
The main cliff looks as the part of it had been scooped out, with a gigantic scarp for the fall made by a gap about a quarter of a mile in length.

Too Early For Our Crews.
Philadelphia, Jan. 14.—Owing to the early date (May 20) on which it has been decided to hold the annual regatta on the Schuylkill River, the stewards of the American Yacht Association have decided to make no efforts in securing entries of crews from overseas.

COWS THAT HAVE A MISSION
CANADIAN SHIPS TO CHINA

Rev. Mr. Brewster to Establish a
Dairy in Connection With Religious Work.

New York, Jan. 15.—(Special.)—Some time late this month there will be landed in a southern province in China three missionary cows. They are traveling from California under the safe conduct of the Rev. William N. Brewster, a Methodist Episcopal missionary at Hinghua, South China, but who was born in Canada.

When Mr. Brewster first went to Hinghua, he was met by the missionaries and missionary cattle were enjoying the voyage as well as the rest of the passengers of the good ship Sibers, and that if the skins for the missionaries had been reaching there, the cows would be landed in China in better condition than when they left San Francisco.

Day's Wages for a Quart of Milk.
The missionary bought a cow and succeeded in getting about two quarts of milk a day. The milk cost him not less than 10 cents a quart. After while he arranged with a native to sell him milk at about 6 cents a quart.

During the last 12 years the people of the region have learned the value of milk in sickness. Quite a number of men, mostly converts to Christianity, are making a living by milking cows and selling the milk, not only to the foreigners, but also to the natives. A man may see a cow leading or driving one or two cows, through the streets of Hinghua, and he will know that the milkman is coming. The cow is milked by the door of the customer's house by the owner who he knows to be unclean milk.

These Chinese who thus purchase the milk are not buying food, but medicine. A bottle of milk is worth a dollar in the currency, but this sum represents a day's wages for the servant class, and of superior quality. A bottle of milk in Hinghua is as valuable as a bottle of potent medicine is in an American city.

Books For Sick Children.
Dairy farming will become a safe and profitable industry in that region, and Chinese sick people and babies can get milk at a moderate cost and of superior quality.

HOW TO DEAL WITH CANCER.
Remove It at an Early Stage as Possible.

N.Y. Tribune: Two announcements about the cause and curability of cancer have been made in the last few days. Dr. H. R. Gaylord of Buffalo is the author of one. Fully six or seven years ago he satisfied himself and a few professional friends that he had found a germ for this distressing disease. Since then he has been trying to produce a serum which would prove effective in fighting the latter.

Dr. Gaylord has succeeded, for he thinks that he has been able to cure a number of mice to which cancer had been imparted by inoculation. Dr. Roswell Park, who has given much study to the nature of the disorder, and who is in charge of the institution in which Dr. Gaylord has prosecuted these researches, is credited with characterizing the germ as the accuracy of his assistant's methods and results; and his endorsement is certainly to be regarded with profound respect. As yet the work has not been carried to its final stage. It is expected that in a few months a report will be made.

Seven physicians connected with the Harvard medical school, after a long and thorough investigation, have concluded that the best cure for cancer is surgery. Treatment of cancer by rays or other means is attended with but little success when the diseased conditions are on the surface, but it is pronounced in fact when there is a deep seated malignant tumor. The verdict on this subject, which comes from Boston, is not the less valuable because it is based on recent enquiry. On its own merits it is entitled to be regarded with some confidence, but the importance of the fact that it is in close accord with the latest report of the workers under the British Cancer Research Fund.

In announcing the convictions of himself and his associates, Dr. E. H. Nichols of Harvard refers to the belief that cancer is caused by a protozoan or microscopic organism belonging to the animal kingdom. In the last dozen years a number of men of repute have imagined that they had found such a germ. Diminutive bodies distributed in cancerous tissue, and not observed elsewhere, have repeatedly been described by experts, and a baleful influence has been imputed to them. Dr. Nichols does not dispute their existence, but he says that they are merely "excretions," and that the germ theory as applied to cancer, is now exploded. The serums which certain foreign specialists use in treating human patients, and which Dr. Gaylord has tried on mice, are prepared from the supposed parasites; but, if the latter are not really living organisms, the misgivings must arise concerning the virtues of any remedy derived therefrom.

If drugs and other medicinal agents are useless in fighting cancer, a resort to them is worse than useless. The practitioner who employs them wastes precious time. When he finally realizes that the knife is necessary the prospect of recovery has been perceptibly dimmed. Usual, and not infrequently, to say seriously, impaired. The operation whose assistance is invoked often finds that the hidden tumor ramifies in a surprising manner, thus compelling him to extend his exploration beyond the intended limits and prolonging the period during which anæsthesia is requisite. If the patient survives the operation itself, there is a possibility that further trouble will ensue in a year or two. In view of these only too familiar circumstances, the Harvard investigators reiterate the advice given by leading New York surgeons, to remove a cancer at as early a stage in its history as possible.

Confronted by such conflicting opinions, what should a physician do who has a case of cancer under his supervision? Keep alert to the possibility that Dr. Gaylord or somebody else may eventually be able to supply a helpful remedy. Then wait until the remedy has been employed successfully on 20 to 50 patients by specialists who cannot be suspected of bias. Independent testimony from competent witnesses is a prerequisite to the acceptance of every supposed discovery in science. Until it is forthcoming in the present instance, it should be placed only upon thoroughly approved methods of procedure.

Those Who Serve the Cause.
St. Petersburg, Jan. 14.—On the occasion of the Russian New Year, Emperor Nicholas, dressed in Grand Duke Sergius's portrait, accompanied by the Empress, visited the town of the order of St. Andrew. Prince John Obolensky, the former general of Finland, was given the honor of presenting the Emperor and Empress to the town of St. Andrew. Prince Obolensky, who has been a devoted secretary of state and retains his present position, was accompanied by the Black Sea district, has been appointed Mayor of Moscow.
