HALIFAX ARCHITECT TO PLAN A TOWN.

(Halifax Chronicle, May 21.) Mr. A. R. Cobb, the well known Halifax architect, is to plan the new town of Humber, Newfoundland, and will leave on Tuesday next for St. John's to look over the situation.
He is uncertain at present as to just how long he will remain in Newfoundland this trip. He may just make a preliminary survey in conjunction with Mr. Thomas Adams, the well known town planning expert, who is to plan the town, and may then come to Halifax and draw the detail plans and specifications, or he may find it necessary to remove his office and staff from here to Newfoundland for the summer. That question cannot be determined until he gets to Newfoundland, where Mr.
Adams is to join him a little later on.
It was through Mr. Adams that the offer of the contract was made to Mr. Cobb, a marked distinction for a Halifax architect. The new town is to be built in conjunction with the big pulp and paper plant being located in its vicinity by the big English concern of Armstrongs, Whitworth and Co., and the probable population is estimated at about 2,000. The buildings to be planned and erected include dwelling, church es, school, hospital and town hall.
Mr. Cobb was at work completing the revised plans for the Provincial Exhibition buildings and plant when he received word of the Humber contract.

FRESH FISH AT TWILLINGATE.

According to a message from the Assistant Collector of Customs from the Sub-Collector at Twillingate, the first sign of codfish for this season was seen here on June 5. James Churchill trapped six bars.
He secured a further four bars yesterday morning, the fish being of good size. There are no reports from other portions of the coast.

MR. MORGAN'S RESIGNA- TION ACCEPTED

Mr. R. C. Morgan for some time past General Manager of the Newfoundland Railroad system, has resigned, and his resignation has been accepted.

THE HERBERT WARREN MISSING

The tern schooner Herbert Warren is now over 130 days out from Seville for St. John's, and grave fears are entertained for her safety. The vessel is owned by James Baird, Ltd. and was well found in every respect, having two suits of sails and was well stocked with provisions.

CACHELOT AND ABOT PURCHASED BY WIALING CONCERN

The Newfoundland Whaling Co., which is operating from Beaverton this season, has purchased the whaler Cachelot, recently owned and operated by the Labrador Whaling Co., which concern is about to be wound up. The Cachelot is now ready for sea, and will begin operations within the next week or so. The Company has also purchased the S.S. Cabot, from Messrs. Cashin and Co. This ship was formerly used as a whaler, and she is now being retro ready for the work. It is hoped the venture of the Nfld. Whaling Co. will be a successful one.—Daily Ews.

OPENING OF THE HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY

Speech from the Throne De- livered by His Excellency Sir Wm. Allardyce.

The first session of the twenty-fourth general Assembly of Newfoundland opened at 3 p.m. Thursday when His Excellency Sir Wm.
Allardyce, K.C.M.G., in the presence of both branches of the Legislature and a large number of visitors delivered the following speech from the Throne:—

Mr. President and Honourable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council:
Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Honourable House of Assembly:

On this, the first occasion of my meeting you in your Legislative capacity, I desire to extend to you my cordial greetings. Since my assumption of the Governorship of this most ancient Colony of the Empire, it has given me pleasure to associate myself with all your interests, and the welfare of Newfoundland will receive my earnest thought and solicitude.

On the twenty-fifth of April last, on the occasion of the marriage of His Royal Highness Prince Albert, Duke of York, it was my privilege, on behalf of the Government and people of Newfoundland, to forward to Their Majesties the King and Queen, a message of loyal and dutiful congratulations, and to his Royal Highness and bride, an expression of the fervent good wishes from this Loyal Dependency of the Crown.
Gracious replies were received from Their Majesties and from his Royal Highness.

Looking at the world today, we are struck by the rapidity with which civilization is making but slow progress.
Action is followed by reaction, and the economic pendulum swings from one side to the other. It will be some years before comparative equilibrium is reached. These world conditions affect us seriously in Newfoundland. They influence the cost of the commodities we import, they depreciate the value of the products we export, they tend to increase the cost of living, to hamper development of trade, and to limit the availability of employment. Although the rehabilitation of the world in its political and economic spheres is not proceeding as rapidly as had been hoped, it is evident that progress is being made, and we can therefore go forward to our tasks with cheer and courage.

The difference between the imports and exports at 30 June, 1922, showed for the first time since 1919 a balance in our favor. A larger quantity of Codfish was exported during the last fiscal year than during the previous year, though the value was less because of low prices in the foreign markets. During the season of 1922 more Vessels were engaged in the Bank Fishery, and the catch was forty per cent. larger than in the previous year. The result of the prosecution of the Seal Fishery this year was slightly below that of 1922.

The question of unemployment and the consequent distress among the people especially during the winter months, have caused my Ministers constant anxiety. These conditions are not peculiar to Newfoundland but are existent in well nigh every country. My Ministers have made an earnest endeavor to solve the difficult problem of unemployment by providing labour in connection with public works and other necessary measures. It is hoped that the crisis has been passed, and that new openings will shortly be provided to give all our men adequate employment.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Honorable House of Assembly:

The statements of expenditure and revenue for the last fiscal year will be laid before you in due course, and also the estimates for the several Departments of the Public Service, which latter have been prepared with due regard to economy and efficiency.

Mr. President and Honourable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council:
Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Honourable House of Assembly:

ELECTION PETITIONS FILED

Since my ministers assumed office in 1919 they have been giving continuous attention to the question of the development of the resources of this Island. While the fisheries of Newfoundland are and will long remain the staple industry of the Colony, yet my Ministers are convinced that the time has come when a very special effort should be made to secure the industrial development of the interior with a view to relieving the burdens which are now carried by our main industry. The influx of immigrants into the Colony has increased in the country by firms of high standing, and the profits which will be derived from turning our inland resources into money will materially increase our revenue and provide the means to meet the liabilities of the Colony without entirely depending upon the Fisheries. Proposals have been submitted by a powerful English firm for the development of the water power of Grand Lake and the Humber Valley, and the establishment of large Paper Mills and other industries in that vicinity. With the financial support of the Imperial Government, my Ministers after extended negotiations were able to give effect to their development policy, the details of which will be submitted to you for ratification. As the matter was of extreme importance, and time was an essential factor, a temporary arrangement was made under which the work was commenced at Grand Lake. Documents in connection with this temporary arrangement will also be laid before you.

My Ministers considered that the proposal in connection with the development of the Humber Valley was fraught with such far-reaching consequences, both to the future of this Island and the welfare of its people that it should be placed before the electorate. The House of Assembly was therefore dissolved in February last and an election called for the third of May. My Ministers have been sustained in their policy and can now proceed with confidence to the formal ratification of the proposed measure.

It is hoped to lay before you certain proposals for the operation of the Railway and its allied services to replace the agreement for temporary operation which expires on the 30th day of June instant.

With respect to the anticipated Gold-Rush to Labrador on the opening of navigation my Ministers have made the necessary preparations to maintain law and order, and representatives of the Departments interested will proceed there in due course.

In leaving you to the discharge of your duties I am sensible of the gravity of the questions which will come before you, and pray that, under the Divine guidances, wisdom and foresight may be granted you for the advancement and progress of our country.

ferings, but he has a very small

Birthday of the King

Sunday, June 3rd, was the 58th anniversary of the birthday of our King.

His reign has been darkened only by the great World War which shook the very foundations of the Empire.

He has already reigned longer than his father, Edward VII, and as a monarch has a place in the hearts of the people which deepens as time goes on.

All through his reign he has been blessed with the companionship of Queen Mary, who has followed the pure and beautiful example of the great Queen Victoria.

And it may be said that no monarchs have been more loved than King George and Queen Mary.

And now as George V celebrates his 58th Birthday the heart of the Empire is united in the expression of its loyalty and congratulations and hope that for many years he shall be spared to rule the great British Empire.

May he be privileged to witness the emergence of the land he loves so dearly and serves so faithfully, from the dark clouds which came after the war.

May it come in his reign to witness the coming of a true and lasting peace for which the nation and the world are anxiously waiting.

We hear, from the lips of the millions who call themselves Britons this prayer
"GOD SAVE THE KING."

RULES FOR Making Cod Liver Oil For the Guidance of Manufacturers

- 1st. The manager in charge of factory must see that the livers are fresh; that all brown or poor livers are thrown out; that there is no gall bladder attached to any livers.
  - 2nd. The good livers must then be washed in a tub of clean fresh water.
  - 3rd. The pan in which the livers are boiled must be perfectly clean inside, before any livers are placed in it.
  - 4th. Before you start to boil any livers, you must have sufficient steam.
  - 5th. Turn on the steam, and use as much as you need to have for the quantity of livers you have in your pan. Boil until the white scum floats off (which will take about thirty minutes.) Don't forget to stir the livers, and see that those in the bottom and those around the sides are brought into direct contact with the steam all the time.
  - 6th. Turn the steam off, and allow all to settle, not exceeding five minutes, according to capacity of liver boiler.
  - 7th. Then you dip all the oil you can get, which is the finest white oil. Put this oil in a cooling tank made of galvanized iron, and let the oil remain there till next morning. Don't forget to put a straining cloth over the cooling tank before you put any oil in, so that it will catch any bits of blubber; allow to remain 12 or 14 hours, or longer if possible, then dip from cooling tank and strain through double calico bag, inside bag to be one inch smaller all around; then strain into a tin shute under the bags, the cask to be at the end of the shute with a funnel, to lead oil into casks, which funnel to be covered with cheese cloth.
  - 8th. When you have dipped the finest oil from the top of the liver boiler pan, take all the blubber from the pan while it is warm. The oil from this blubber is not fit for medicinal purposes.
  - 9th. Then clean your liver pan with warm water and washing powder. Have it bright and clean for the next boiling.
  - 10th. Every bag, cloth, tank, funnel and pan, must be washed only with warm water, soap and water. Soda must not be used.
- The best results for medical oil can only be obtained by the use of tin barrels. Wooden packages generally make the oil dark, and destroy its fine flavor. Keep all oil in barrels in a cool place, and covered from the sun.

REGULATIONS For Salting Scotch Pack Herring

- One barrel salt to five and a half barrels herring—Large Fulls.
 One barrel salt to six barrels herring—Medium Fulls.
 One barrel salt to six and a half barrels herring—Matt Fulls.
- This amount of salt is for dredging and laying on rows only. It does not take into account that put on the herring before gibbing.
- All salt falling off herring in rousing tubs is put on rows as you pack unless very dirty or scaly; in that case, you have to make good the same amount, or otherwise you could not have any fixed rule on salt.
- Matt Fulls ..... 10 1/2 inches long ..... Milt or roe Medium Fulls ..... 11 1/2 inches long ..... Milt or roe Large Fulls ..... 12 1/2 inches long and upwards. Milt or roe Medium Filling ..... 11 1/2 inches long and upward Large Filling ..... 12 1/2 inches long and upward
- Filling Fish may be branded as Scotch Cure without the Crown Brand

No drowned, stale, or scaleless herring can be used as Scotch Pack, nor herring in half frozen state.

The root cause of light salting is to come as near as possible to the pleasing of the palate of the consumer; and if we bear in mind that over three-fourths of all Scotch-Pack Herring are consumed as a tonic before the mid-day meal, just as they come out of the barrel, without any fire cooking, we can see the reason at a glance for the right salting. The herring is dressed by the head and the tail being cut off, the main bone taken out. It is then cut into squares of about one inch, and is served with vinegar and other condiments. This gives power to the stomach to digest the following meal and keeps the consumer in the best of health.

People with bad stomachs please note that the art of cooking and eating right is just as essential as the art of curing; and based on the best medical directions, and with the chemical analysis of the constituent parts of herring as a food ever kept before the consumer, we need not be surprised that the people who eat most herring are the most healthy and efficient.

LUCY GRAHAM'S SECRET

The suddenness of the blow had stunned him. In this strange and bewildered state of mind he began to wonder what had happened, and why it was that one line in the Times newspaper could have so horrible an effect upon him.

Then by degrees even this vague consciousness of his misfortunes faded slowly out of his mind, succeeded by a painful consciousness of external things.

The hot August sunshine, the dusty window-panes and shabby painted blinds, a file of fly-blown play-bills fastened to the wall, the black and empty fire-laces, a bald-headed old man nodding over the Morning Advertiser, the slipshod waiter folding a tumbled table-cloth, and Robert Audley's handsome face looking at him full of compassionate alarm—he knew that all these things took gigantic proportions, and then, one by one, melted into dark blots and swam before his eyes. He knew that there was a great noise, as if half a dozen furious steam-engines were tearing and grinding in his ears, and he knew nothing more—except that somebody or something fell heavily to the ground.

He opened his eyes upon the dusky evening in a cool and shaded room, the silence only broken by the rumbling of wheels at a distance.

He looked about him wonderingly, but half indifferently. His old friend Robert Audley, was seated by his side smoking. George was lying on a low iron bedstead opposite to an open window, in which there was a stand of flowers and two or three birds in cages.

"You don't mind the pipe, do you, George?" his friend asked, quietly.

"No."

He lay for some time looking at the flowers and the birds; one canary was singing a shrill hymn to the setting sun.

"Do the bird annoy you, George? Shall I take them out of the roost?"

"No, I like to hear them sing."

Robert Audley looked at the ashes in the grate, and the picture of the man who had just died, and going into the next room, returned presently with a cup of strong tea.

"Take this, George," he said, as he placed the cup on a little table close to George's pillow: "it will do your head good."

The young man did not answer, but looked slowly round the room, and then at his friend's grave face.

"Bob," he said, "where are we?"

"In my chambers, dear boy, in the Temple. You have no lodgings of your own, so you may as well stay with me while you're in town."

George passed his hand once or twice across his forehead, and then in an hesitating manner, said quietly:

"That newspaper this morning, Bob what was it?"

"Never mind just now, old boy; drink some tea."

"Yes, yes," cried George, impatiently, raising himself upon the bed and staring about him with hollow eyes.

"I remember all about it. Helen! my Helen! my wife, my darling, my only love! Dead, dead!"

SUPPLY OUTLOOK BETTER FOR COMING FISHERY

Planters find Ways and Means to Secure Supplies to Prosecute Fishery—Number Smaller.

ST. JOHN'S—Every day the problem of fishery supplies looks more hopeful, and by the middle of June most of the planters who have schooners and fishing gear, etc., as collateral will likely have secured sufficient outfit to prosecute the fishery. About fifty schooners arrived in port this week, most of them from the Northern Bays with lumber cargoes, the freight of which as well as the cargoes, in cases where the skipper is the owner, will help materially in purchasing the necessary outfit to begin the fishery.

Men who have a reputation for always paying their accounts naturally do not experience the same difficulty in getting part accommodation as others. Many have been in a position to tender half the money required and get the other half on credit. A man with $200 cash gets $200 additional worth of outfit on credit. We do not mean to say that all the merchants are doing this, but some of them are.

In several cases in which the schooner was owned or partly owned by the skipper the vessel was taken as security.

If the merchants intend to remain in business they recognize that the fishery must be carried on, and it cannot be carried on to any extent now unless they assist the fishermen by helping them out in getting supplies.

Apart from the classes mentioned there is quite a number of independent planters and fishermen who have sufficient available means of their own in dry cash to purchase their outfit for the fishery, particularly in St. John's, Bonaville and Notre Dame Bay. They have all their fishery gear, boats and moorings, and all they want is some salt and provisions.

In the case of many of these men it is not the want of supplies that is worrying them, but rather the question: "If they get the fish can they make the venture pay?"

A great deal depends on themselves as to whether they cure the fish caught as it should be and as the foreign markets require it. That well-cured fish will fetch a price the coming fall that will pay, we have no doubt.

It must be assumed if one judges from the existing circumstances that there will be very much less men engaged at the fishery this season than heretofore. Fully 20 per cent of them have already gone to seek other work. More will follow during the month of June. Stores of schooners are laid up on this account and others are gone into the business of freighting.

There will be a big reduction therefore in the number of fishermen there will be less fish caught and, therefore, less to send to the markets. There is practically no fish so far to go from the South West Coast to supply the Oporto market in the month of July and August. Fish will therefore be scarce and in good demand next fall. All the circumstances contribute to promise a fair price that should pay the fisherman who have good article to sell.

To have the fish well-cured is essential, particularly Labrador fish. It should be lean and white, no specks or spots on the face, and better dried than heretofore to compete with the Iceland and Norwegian fish in European markets.

The soft cure idea has been overworked. It did well enough in war years and up to 1919, but it won't do any longer. It has helped more than anything else to give a bad reputation to our fish. Soft-cure fish does not keep long enough and the safest plan is to take no risks and dry the fish so well that it will never back in the foreign markets.

Two days can't be depended on to accomplish this, give it three or four "to work" if necessary.—Trade Review.

I shall not count my life as vain If only in some quiet way I find my chance to serve my Lord, My debt of love for Him to pay.

An unnamed man supplied the beast Whereon the lowly Saviour passed Along the way triumphantly, Acclaimed the promised King at last.

An unnamed man supplied the room Where once the Saviour broke the bread And gave the wine—His flesh and blood—His life—by which our lives are fed.

And unnamed crosses mark the spot Where common soldiers chance to lie, Who for the world's true brotherhood A sacrifice, feared not to die.

O grant me, Lord, the grace I pray, If I the quiet paths must lead,
 To give my humble gift to Thee, And know I, too, have met Thy need.

IT IS TO LAUGH

There's an 'inexpensive recipe for curing sundry ills, Such as gout and indigestion, bilious fever and the chills,
 Which the family physician Would ascribe to malnutrition, And attack with drugs and physics And with medicated pills.
 You'd be astonished, really, at the benefit it yields—Simply mix a little merriment and laughter with your meals.

If the biscuit should be overweight—Do not gulp it down in silence with a cold and stony glare, An ounce or two to spare—But use a lot of butter And laugh instead of mutter,
 And the stomach will receive it like the daintiest of fare.

The gastric juice will jump at it as if 'twere angel food, If you only masticate it in the proper kind of mood.

You may be using perfume as a tonic Fletcherite
 And chewing fifty-seven times each morsel that you bite, But however much you chew it O, be joyful as you do it, And give a happy chuckle as it passes out of sight!

You might chew your food forever With a sour and gloomy mien, And the Fletcherite doctrine would not rectify your spleen.

SAYS MARVALE'S CAPTAIN DID NOT ASK FOR POSITION

Ottawa, May 31.—The wreck of the C. P. R. steamer Marvale came up for discussion in the Commons today when Hon Ernest LaPointe, Minister of Marine, in response to a query from Mr. H. C. Hockken, Conservative, Toronto, declared that the wireless officials in the station near the wreck had not been asked by the Captain of the Marvale to give them their position, although facilities were at hand to furnish this service had it been requested.

JOURNAL OF REV.
HENRY GORDON
Tuesday, Nov. 12th (Continued)
The state of the place is something awful. The grave-diggers got to work at once, and were hardly a foot down when Arthur Hamel arrived to see about a grave for his brother. Both shifts came on together. Towards evening word came up to us that Rebecca Bird had died. It was splendid to see the willing way in which the diggers turned to and started in on the third grave. Working late the ygot a good half of it done before knocking off. Just before sunset I buried John Lethbridge. A terrible piece of news had arrived while we had been at work. Someone had been over to a cove ten miles outside of this, where a family of the name of Toomashie was living. He had found three of them dead, one more on the point of death, and the rest too sick to move. He was just in time to save a clean sweep, for they were out of food and wood. To add to the list of calamities for the day, Evelyn Learning took a sudden turn for the worse. With three little children all sick, and herself scarcely able to get about, poor Mrs. Learning was in great trouble. I offered to sit up with her to-night.
Wednesday, Nov. 13th.
The little ones were very restless all night. Evelyn seems to have lost her reason. She was the best of all our school-children, and I had great hopes for her future. I turned in this morning for a short nap, and had scarcely got to sleep when I was awakened by the smell of fire. The roof was caught round the stove-pipe, and it took some hard work to get it under control. By this time everything was ready for Rebecca's funeral, and I buried her before noon.
Mrs. Payne is convinced that she is to blame for her sister's death, and nothing will persuade her out of it.
She is practically insane. Everybody is getting anxious about their boats.
The ice is gradually creeping in, and any night, now, the harbor may catch over. In the afternoon, I got "St.
Helen" alongside the Company's wharf, so as to have her to hand in case of accidents. In the evening, I was compelled to bring Miss Udle and her maid up to the Parsonage, as it is impossible to keep both places going. It will be much better for us all.
Thursday, Nov. 14th.
Little Evelyn died in the night.
After making arrangements for her grave, I got "St. Helen" under weigh and ran up to Muddy Bay to fetch the body of John Hamel, which had been lying there since last Saturday.
Everybody in the place was helpless, except Arthur who was still weak from the effects of the sickness. Returning with the body, I found Evelyn's grave ready, so was able to bury the two at one time. Arthur had come back with me, and walked home again in the evening. He reached home tired out, about 7 o, and the first thing that greeted him was the sight of his only sister dead.
The poor fellow bravely struggled back to the nearest house and asked them to send word in to me.

in Sept., 1917, in connection with the

"Stall's Books on Avoided Subjects have been standard works for such a long time that it seems almost unnecessary to say a word in their behalf. I believe they have accomplished great good, and are written with care and delicacy, at the same time with sufficient frankness or the modest discussion of these delicate subjects. They are safe books for general reading, especially if from the various books there is proper selection for the youth or adult, man or woman, as the case may be."

THE STORY OF A GREAT LOVE
Remarkable Confession of a Young Man's Sin and Repentance FROM TIT-BITS.
To this letter I received the following reply on the very day of my marriage to her supplanter:- My Dear Harold:
I cannot conceal from you that your letter has been a terrible shock to me. It has almost broken my heart. But much as I suffer I would not have it otherwise. Your duty was clear, and I am glad you have had the courage to do it. If only you had confided in me earlier.
All I have to say is, my love for you will never change. No other man will ever replace you in my heart, and your happiness will always be my dearest wish and prayer.
After my marriage I wrote to the bank resigning my post, and took my wife to London, where, after some weeks, I got a berth as clerk to a stockbroker. Nemesis was soon on my track. I lost my situation and could not find another. My small capital was soon gone, and I was acc to face with poverty, with a wife and child to support.
I was reduced to despair, when, in a weak moment, I forged the signature of a wealthy distant relative to a cheque for a considerable sum.
The forgery was detected, and I was obliged to seek safety in flight.
HER RIVAL'S SACRIFICE
I crossed the Atlantic, leaving my wife and child almost penniless, and for four years picked up a living as best I could in the States and Canada, doing anything I could to keep life in my worthless body. I dared not write to my wife for fear my whereabouts would become known to the police.
One day I saw in an old English paper that my relative, whose signature I had forged, was dead, and I decided to return. After a long search, I found my wife and heard from her lips the following facts:- A few weeks after my departure she had a serious illness which left her an invalid, unable to attend even to her own wants. She was in extreme straits, penniless and starving when one day a lady called whom she recognized at once as Helen-the girl whom she had supplanted.
Her father was dead, Helen told her and she had come to London and was earning her living as a secretary.
She begged to be allowed to help my wife, and to make a long story short-for nearly four years she had maintained my wife and child in comfort out of her earnings, living herself in a single room on less than half her salary.
THE BURDEN OF REMORSE
As I listened to this story a flood of mingled shame and wonder swept over me. I stood humbled and abject in the presence of a love, so wonderful, almost superhuman.
"Where is she now?" I asked, almost instinctively dreading the answer I felt would come.
"She is dead," my wife answered,
"It was her devotion to our child that killed her," my wife continued.
"Doris had scarlet fever. Helen nursed her night and day, as I could not do it, with devotion and tenderness. Then, when Doris was out of Danger, she caught the fever, and a fortnight later she was dead.

"I was with her at the last, and as she lay dying, she gave me this message for you, almost with her last breath: 'Tell Harold that I die praying for him-that God will give him all the happiness that it was denied me to give him. I die blessing him.'"
* * * * *
Years have passed since that day.
I have re-established myself and am now fairly prosperous; I have tried, in such ways as I could, to atone for the past; but to my grave I shall carry the burden of a ceaseless remorse, and the memory of one of the noblest women ever sacrificed to man's cruelty and cowardice.

well with the rest of the family.
A country school board was visiting a school and the principal was putting the pupils through their paces.
"Who signed Magna Charta, Robert?" he asked, turning to one boy.
"Please sir, 'twasn't me," whimpered the youngster.
The teacher, in disgust, told him to take his seat; but an old tobacco-chewing countryman of the board was not satisfied, so, after a well-directed aim at the cuspidor he said:
"Call that boy back. I don't like his manner. I believe he did do it."

Hard Work Means Success
There never was a goal worth getting but you must work to attain.
You must suffer and bleed for it, cling to your creed for it.
Fail and go at it again.
Success is no whim of the moment, no crown for the indolent brow You must battle and try for it, offer to die for it; Lose it yet win it somehow.
The Pathway to glory is rugged, and many the heart-aches you'll know.
He who seeks to be master must rise from disaster.
Must take as he giveth the blow.
There's no royal highway to splendour, no short cut to fortune or fame You must fearlessly fight for it, dare to be right for it, Failing, yet playing the game.
The test of man's merit is trouble, the proof of his work is distress Much as you long for it, man must be strong for it, Work is the door to success.

A COPPER FIND?

At Argentia last week one of the employees at Silver Cliff Mine, who was prospecting, picked up a piece of high-grade Borneo Copper. The find was made on an adjacent property, the claim being held by Mr. Geo. Knowling Jr. and Mr. Wm. Snodgrass. It is not known if there is any quantity of the metal there, but the indications look very promising. It is possible that a more exhaustive survey will be made.

"Regretfully passing Newfoundland send our cordial greetings to Scouts and Guides.

London, May 29—The Church of Scotland is much concerned over the invasion of Scotland by Roman Catholics, from Belfast. A special committee at the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland in Edinburgh today went as far as to declare the influx is becoming a menace to the Protestant religion. The incursion particularly has been in the west of Scotland industrial areas, but the movement is spreading to Edinburgh and Dundee. A resolution passed at the Assembly meeting today urged a Government commission of investigation with a view to the preservation and protection of Scottish nationality and civilization.
