Report of Contingent Committee was laid before animates upon some of the items, among which were a silk gown, two portmanteaus, and several trunks. Further consideration of the Report resumed to-morrow.

The House resolved itself into Committee of the

THE CHRONICLE.

Saint John, N. B., April 4, 1856.

CIVIC ELECTION.

The annual election of members of the Common Council came off on Tuesday last; the result of which will appear in another column. It will be seen by the returns that the anti-prohibitionists have lost two of their men, namely—Councillor Newlan, one of the most independent and energetic members of the Board; and Alderman B. S.

Tilley, whose place, however, is supplied by Mr.
Joseph Coram, not a Son of Temperance; while the prohibitionists have lost Alderman Keans and King. Mr. Keans has been recognized<sup>1</sup> for some years past as a prominent Son of Temperance, and as holding a high and responsible office in the Grand Division.

The prohibitionists claim a gain at the Council Board, of those whom they did not lose. Now with due deference to their other judgments, we cannot look at the matter in their light. Supposing one of their number were in possession of a certain amount of real property at the commencement of the year, and held precisely the same identical property at the close of it, notwithstanding an action of ejectment, recovered possession of this property had, in the meantime, been disposed of in his favor, could it be fairly said that he had gained this property, simply because it was not wrested from him? Certainly not.

The Common Council have also more to do with the Prohibition Law than have the Directors of one of the city Banks. Why, then, is the liquor question foolishly to be turned into an issue, to be even tried by the freemen and freeholders of Saint John? A man should be elected to office by reason of his entire qualifications to discharge the duties of the office, and a mere negative claim, such as not bring, not cheating, not being dissolute, ought not to become substitutes for the recommendation of a superior capacity, notwithstanding the fact that they do not necessarily go hand in hand.

Mr. C. W., who had been here before,
but chose to keep himself less
and less seen, has now come to tell us that he is now more or less having
of the time of having nothing to do with the Anti-Saloon movement, and is anxious to get away from us.

THE LAUNCHING.

BY WILLIAM D. GLASER.

The stars are bright, the ocean calm to see,
The thrill of life along her decks,
And quivering with her feet the ground,
With one exulting, joyous bound,

She leaps into the ocean's arms.

H. W. Longfellow.

Well may they seek the ship to-day
With colors flaunting wide;

Well may she wear her best array,
So true a brife to be;

Long has the dainty Queen kept

Her secret, hidden in the dimmest gloom;

But now her last, lone sleep is o'er,

We give her to his arms.

She girded our darling from the deck,
The bosom heaved with love;

A spirit or more fruitless form,

A fairer love before her eyes,

Trove down thy hollow thundering shock,

Thy sounding waves, O sea!

That's all the song we have.

Her house has been where green hills kiss
The river's rolling tide;

But, oh! our eyes must learn to miss

The Ocean's new-made brife;

While the sun, like a red fire,

Waves over the ocean forever rise,

Far off, beneath the dimmest gloom,

Our beauty sends her brife.

Any spirit may be the minister

That else would leave her here;

These little toils are nothing like her,

The tempest of the week;

And proudly may her enjouy'd

These hours that stripes and stains;

The sea that spills a ship like a

Do worth a thousand waves.

VARIETY.

SOURCE OF LIES.—The New York relates a story of a former widow who had for a long time been extremely staining Latin words.

The former was being perfectly satisfied with the course and the conduct of the young widow, received him from school, and placing him by the side of a few days, thus addressed him:

"Now, Josephine, here is a word, and there is a word of mine."

"Josephine, it is a word, and there is a word, and there is a word of mine."

"Josephine, it is a word, and there is a word, and there is a word of mine."
