

The Union Advocate.

A WEEKLY JOURNAL

W. C. ANSLOW

Our Country with its United Interests.

EDITOR and PROPRIETOR.

Vol. XXXI—No. 6.

Newcastle, Wednesday, November 3, 1897.

Whole No. 1566.

PROFESSIONAL.
Law & Collection Office.
C. J. Thomson,
BARRISTER AT LAW,
Commissioner Newcastle Civil Court.
Public Buildings.
Newcastle, N. B.
O. J. McCully, M. A., M. D.
MEMB. ROY. COL. SURG., LONDON, G. B.
SPECIALIST.
DISEASES OF EYE EAR & THROAT.
Office: Cor. Westmorland and Main Streets.
Moncton, Nov. 12, 1897.
Dr. H. A. FISH,
NEWCASTLE, N. B.
Office: Pleasant Street.
Sept. 14th, 1897.
HOTELS.
HOTEL BRUNSWICK,
MONCTON, N. B.
Geo. McWherry, - Proprietor.
Clifton House,
Princes and 143 Cornhill Street.
ST. JOHN, N. B.
A. N. Peters, Prop'r.
Has been throughout. Prompt attention and moderate charges. Telephone communication with all parts of the city.
April 18th, 1897.
REMOVED.
My Customers and the public generally are hereby notified that they will find my office and warehouse in the building on the Public Wharf, formerly occupied by John McAllister, where I will keep on hand a full supply of PROVISIONS
consisting of Flour, Beef, Pork, Ham, Bacon, Tea, Sugar, Molasses, Butter, Eggs, Soap, Lard, Bran and Feed, Baked and standard Oatmeal and Cornmeal in bulk and 4 lbs. and 10 lb. tins, and all other provisions, etc., etc.
Store on Public Wharf.
J. A. RUNDLE.
Newcastle, Feb. 15, 1897.
The New Tariff is on and we are on the upper side.
British Goods
Lower and Cheaper.
Our stock is now complete in all Departments.
Tyke, Blenheim and Craven Sashes, a few pieces of Irish, Houghley, Scotch and Canadian Ties and everything else belonging to a First Class Tailoring Establishment. We will make up to you at a reasonable price, and at the shortest possible notice.
Center Block, where the Bank of Nova Scotia and yours truly have plenty of money.
Simon McLeod,
Newcastle, April 28th, 1897.
HAIR DRESSING.
The subscriber has removed to his new shop in the Doyle building and will be ready to attend to his customers to-day.
JOSEPH DILLON,
Hair Dresser.
Newcastle, Sept. 14, 1897.
Wanted at Clark's Harness Shop,
No. 1 Public Wharf, Newcastle.
Customers to purchase Double and Single Harness, hand made, sold at reasonable prices. Always in stock—Harness, Collars, and Breeches, Horse Blankets, Saddlebags, Whips, Curved Feed Buckets, Horse Boots, Shawl Straps and the usual stock kept in Harness Shops. Repairs promptly executed.
JOHN CLARK.
Newcastle, Aug. 23rd, 1897.
PROVIDENCE FUR COMPANY,
49 Winchester St., Providence, R. I.
Wants all kinds of Raw Fur, Skin, Ginning, Sables, etc. Full prices guaranteed. Careful selection, courteous treatment. Immediate remittance. Shipping Tags, Boxes, furnished free. Write for latest price circulars.
THIS PAPER MAY BE OBTAINED OF THE NEW YORK OFFICE OF THE UNION ADVOCATE, 100 N. 3RD ST., NEW YORK.

BARKERS' WHITE STORE Struck Newcastle.

What does that mean?
Why, you can now buy for about 75cts what you used to pay $1.00 for.
On the floor above our large Grocery and Tea store we have a Departmental Store of 2500 square feet of Bargains in Tin and Enamelled ware, Crockery and Glassware, Lamps, Clocks and small wares too numerous by far to mention in this limited space.

A Few Prices.

	our price, 38c	usual price, 60c
Lanterns,	1.50	2.25
Fancy China Lamps,	1.99	4.00
10 piece Toilet Sets,	8 "	2.50
" " White "
Dust Pans,	.05	.15
3 qt Dinner pail,	.15	.25
1 qt Tin Dippers,	.05	.10
Gum drops for 10c a pound.
Good Candy for 7c a pound.
and hundreds of others.

COME AND SEE.

FRUITS
Of all kinds in season, at reasonable rates
A full assortment of Temperance Drinks,
and the usual large stock of Groceries, Stationery, Fancy Goods, Crockery and Glassware.
Freebyterian Bymarks or Book of Praise—10 cents to $2.00
Geo. Stables.
Fronting the Square.
Newcastle, July 20th, 1897.

Buy your Groceries at John McAllister's The Cheapest Store in Town. Try Him.
Newcastle, Aug. 10th, 1897.

900 DROPS
CASTORIA
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomach and Bowels of INFANTS CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF
Chas. H. Fletcher
IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

CASTORIA is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else as the price or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get O-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

Perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and Loss of Sleep.

Fac-Simile Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher
NEW YORK.
At 6 months old
35 Doses—35 CENTS
EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

The Vice Regal Visit.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen and Lady Marjorie Visit Newcastle—Their Reception.

Their Excellencies the Governor General and Lady Aberdeen, and Lady Marjorie Gordon, accompanied by Capt. Hubert W. Wilton, A. D. C. of the Queen's Bays, arrived here in their private car about 4 o'clock. On their arrival they were met by the reception committee and a large number of citizens and escorted to the platform where Mr. Samuel Thomson, Q. C., read the following address:

ADDRESS.
To His Excellency the Right Honorable Sir John Campbell Hamilton Gordon, Earl of Aberdeen, Viscount Founant, Baron Haldon, Methil, Taves and Kellie, in the Peerage of Scotland; Viscount Gordon of Aberdeen, County of Aberdeen, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom; Baronet of Nova Scotia; Knight Grand Cross of the most distinguished order of St. Michael and St. George; Governor General of Canada, &c.

May it please your Excellency: We, the undersigned committee, in the name and on behalf of the citizens of the town of Newcastle, County of Northumberland, respectfully beg to extend to your Excellency a cordial welcome, on this your first visit to this portion of Her Majesty's Dominion.

The experience gained by you, in the arduous, able, and honest performance of the duties pertaining to the important responsible positions you have held as the representative of Her Majesty—as a member of Her Government, and as a legislator, have eminently qualified you for the Governor-Generalship of this Dominion; and we recognize in your appointment to that office a signal proof of Her Majesty's desire, for the good government and welfare of all classes of the people; and for the preservation of the civil and religious liberty now so thoroughly enjoyed, under the reign of our beloved Queen.

We desire to express our deep appreciation of your present address to this portion of the Dominion, and our recognition of your Excellency's desire, to become better acquainted with its institutions and inhabitants.

Although we cannot point out to your Excellency any striking evidences of great wealth and prosperity in our town, yet we can safely affirm, that the various industries and manufactures of the town, and the commerce of the community are in a healthy condition and that, in common with other portions of the Dominion, a prosperous future awaits us.

Our educational institutions for the young, carried on so satisfactorily to all classes under our superior common school system, are in line with those in other parts of the Dominion.

As regards the loyalty and devotion of the people to the Throne of Her Majesty, they are second to none in the Dominion.

The deep interest you have taken since your assumption of the office of Governor General, in all that concerns the educational, moral, social and commercial affairs of the Dominion, is not unknown to us, and we sincerely trust that your promotion as Governor General, may be marked by visible progress in the material wealth and prosperity of the Dominion, and in the rational enjoyment of all those moral and social blessings that result from good government.

We also desire to extend to Her Excellency the Countess of Aberdeen a most cordial welcome. We recognize and appreciate the deep and abiding interest she has ever taken, in the material and moral welfare of the Dominion, and the laudable efforts she is making for the uplifting of her sex, to a higher plane in the intellectual and social arena, and for the alleviation of human suffering in the cure and care of the sick.

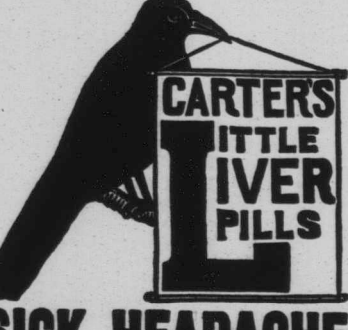

We sincerely trust that her prize-worthy scheme for the establishment of a Victorian Order of Nurses, which she has so much at heart, may receive a general support and be prosecuted to a successful issue; and that the seeds of philanthropic effort now being sown in that direction, will be long and abundant fruit.

We beg to assure your Excellency that, at all times, you can rely on the cordial efforts of the citizens of Newcastle, in support of every desire or act of your Excellency, for the peace, order and good government of the Dominion.

We earnestly pray, that your Excellency and your accomplished lady the Countess, may be long spared in the full enjoyment of health and strength for the performance of your respective duties, and that wherever your future lot may be cast you may be the objects of divine favor and direction, and the recipients of Heaven's best blessings.

Signed on behalf of the citizens of the town of Newcastle this twenty-seventh day of October, A. D. 1897.
R. R. GALE, Sheriff of Co. of Northumberland.
ALICE RUTHERFORD, Esq., M. L. C.
SAC. THOMPSON, Q. C., Com.
JAMES G. GORDON, Esq., M. L. C.
E. LEE STREET.
P. HARRISON.

Lord Aberdeen made an appropriate reply and was loudly applauded by the people present.

SICK HEADACHE

Positively cured by these Little Liver Pills.

They also relieve Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Too Hearty Eating. A perfect remedy for Biliousness, Nausea, Dizziness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Coated Tongue, Pain in the Side, TORPID LIVER. They Regulate the Bowels. Small Pills. Small Dose. Small Price.

Substitution

See you get Carter's,

Ask for Carter's,

Insist and demand

Carter's Little Liver Pills.

the fraud of the day.

their adopted home. The wide and easily passable river for many miles above the harbor was dotted with vessels awaiting loads of the lumber for which the country was already noted. In a half-dozen fine settlements the chief occupation of the men was the profitable work of hewing forest trees for exportation. For miles in every direction the land was covered with immense forests of pine and spruce woods. The slender spires of the white pines, which often attained to the height of a hundred feet, and the slightly less lofty columns of the black spruce were in constant demand for use as masts and yards of vessels; while the timber from both the trunk and the roots of black spruce, or poplar, was used as the French Canadian, styled the Dutch tamarac tree, was deemed essential for the knees and beams of ships. Nor was there any lack of hardwoods in this favored region. On the contrary, there were natural groves of stately maples, great clumps of black and white ash trees, ponderous oaks and beeches and thousands of graceful birch trees, for whose bark and wood there were many demands. Among these greater lords of the forest the silver fir, or fir balsam, was frequently to be found. Although of but small size, it claimed full forest privileges, and, with its symmetrical shape, its rich deep shaded foliage, and its long pendant cones, it crowned and ornamented many a gentle slope, or perhaps, in a humble spot, stood itself from the rays of a top ardent sun under the kindly branches of its loftier forest brothers. Drops of aromatic resin exuded from its trunk and branches, and formed in sticky transparent globules on the rough bark.

On the outskirts of the clearing the lesser trees, native to the country, strove to assert themselves. The wild cherry, with its hawthorn showed in early spring in masses of fragrant white blossoms. The purple scarlet of the sumach fruit seemed to glow against the green of the maples, and, as autumn approached, the scarlet berries of the mountain ash shone among the glossy leaves like veritable sparks of fire. The thriving town of Newcastle, on the left bank of the Miramichi river, some miles from the mouth, already boasted a thousand inhabitants.

The summer had indeed been unusually warm. The fields had turned a dull brown where the second crop of hay had been cut. Some of the little springs flowing into the river had dried up, and the shallow rills of water in their rocky beds. The leaves of the trees hung languidly to the branches, and a chance breeze would rustle them down in innumerable multitudes. The October days, usually a trifling chilly to the warm against the approach of the gloomier winter months. The boys in the frame house paid but slight attention to such a trifle as the weather. When the cows and hens had been duly attended to, the stent of wood cutting over, the garden carefully weeded and watered, and their simple food prepared, they were usually ready for a pleasant trip to the woods. Once, when searching for beechnuts, they found a spray of leaves curiously unlike anything they had ever seen before. The leaves which they were shaped like an aspen, showed only the network of ribs and veins, they were black to an ashy whiteness, and crumbled at the slightest touch. The boys puzzled their heads in vain. There were no aspen nearer than the Barilho many miles away. They found also that the beech-nuts although of full size were dry and tasteless, and returned home with empty baskets. When they awoke next morning, weary and footsore they realized how hot and harsh the ground had been in their bare feet and how the woods had seemed to be full of faint vibrations. Early as it was there was much stir in the village streets. The boys hurried out only to find that a thick haze enveloped the town. It was not a mist which had risen from the river, freshening the morning air with its dewy breath. The murky smoke of some forest fire had swept through the town. By daybreak it had passed on, and hung in a purple cloud bank above the farther shore of the river. There was doubtless a forest fire in the woods near Gaspé in Quebec. In their present dry state the woods would speedily ignite. It was not until the following evening that the terrible truth was realized and the whole forest wealth of the country would be destroyed. As yet there was little fear for the safety of the town itself. It was protected by a great clearing between the settled portion and the woods for the settlers had at all times a dread of forest fires, but much anxiety was expressed for the safety of friends in outlying districts. The 6th of October, 1897, was a never-to-be-forgotten day. The hot parched air was struggling to breathe. Great flocks of birds winged their flight over the town, making for the open coast. Now and then a wild goose, a crow or a lesser bird would fall to the ground, its charred wings telling the terrible cause of its flight and misfortune. The cows lowed dementally, and when free plunged frantically into the river, where many of them were drowned. The hens and cocks scratched the hot earth uneasily. Every hour or so a terrific explosion was heard. It seemed as if a corps of artillery were bombarding the town, but the cause of the reports was a far more terrible one. The great pines and spruces of the forest clung to the heart were crashing to the ground, carrying scores of trees with them in their fall. As the day wore on the dread sounds became louder and more frequent. The steady yet fierce snap of the burning branches was constantly to be heard. Far and near the woods seemed possessed of a thousand demons. There were those who in curiosity ventured near the edge of the clearing, but the showers of red hot pine needles and calined leaves drove them back, or perhaps a tiny fork of flame would dart from the moss at their feet. For miles in every direction the woods were aflame. Tall spires of smoke, cold as trees, ponderous oaks and beeches and thousands of graceful birch trees, for whose bark and wood there were many demands. Among these greater lords of the forest the silver fir, or fir balsam, was frequently to be found. Although of but small size, it claimed full forest privileges, and, with its symmetrical shape, its rich deep shaded foliage, and its long pendant cones, it crowned and ornamented many a gentle slope, or perhaps, in a humble spot, stood itself from the rays of a top ardent sun under the kindly branches of its loftier forest brothers. Drops of aromatic resin exuded from its trunk and branches, and formed in sticky transparent globules on the rough bark.

On the outskirts of the clearing the lesser trees, native to the country, strove to assert themselves. The wild cherry, with its hawthorn showed in early spring in masses of fragrant white blossoms. The purple scarlet of the sumach fruit seemed to glow against the green of the maples, and, as autumn approached, the scarlet berries of the mountain ash shone among the glossy leaves like veritable sparks of fire. The thriving town of Newcastle, on the left bank of the Miramichi river, some miles from the mouth, already boasted a thousand inhabitants.

The summer had indeed been unusually warm. The fields had turned a dull brown where the second crop of hay had been cut. Some of the little springs flowing into the river had dried up, and the shallow rills of water in their rocky beds. The leaves of the trees hung languidly to the branches, and a chance breeze would rustle them down in innumerable multitudes. The October days, usually a trifling chilly to the warm against the approach of the gloomier winter months. The boys in the frame house paid but slight attention to such a trifle as the weather. When the cows and hens had been duly attended to, the stent of wood cutting over, the garden carefully weeded and watered, and their simple food prepared, they were usually ready for a pleasant trip to the woods. Once, when searching for beechnuts, they found a spray of leaves curiously unlike anything they had ever seen before. The leaves which they were shaped like an aspen, showed only the network of ribs and veins, they were black to an ashy whiteness, and crumbled at the slightest touch. The boys puzzled their heads in vain. There were no aspen nearer than the Barilho many miles away. They found also that the beech-nuts although of full size were dry and tasteless, and returned home with empty baskets. When they awoke next morning, weary and footsore they realized how hot and harsh the ground had been in their bare feet and how the woods had seemed to be full of faint vibrations. Early as it was there was much stir in the village streets. The boys hurried out only to find that a thick haze enveloped the town. It was not a mist which had risen from the river, freshening the morning air with its dewy breath. The murky smoke of some forest fire had swept through the town. By daybreak it had passed on, and hung in a purple cloud bank above the farther shore of the river. There was doubtless a forest fire in the woods near Gaspé in Quebec. In their present dry state the woods would speedily ignite. It was not until the following evening that the terrible truth was realized and the whole forest wealth of the country would be destroyed. As yet there was little fear for the safety of the town itself. It was protected by a great clearing between the settled portion and the woods for the settlers had at all times a dread of forest fires, but much anxiety was expressed for the safety of friends in outlying districts. The 6th of October, 1897, was a never-to-be-forgotten day. The hot parched air was struggling to breathe. Great flocks of birds winged their flight over the town, making for the open coast. Now and then a wild goose, a crow or a lesser bird would fall to the ground, its charred wings telling the terrible cause of its flight and misfortune. The cows lowed dementally, and when free plunged frantically into the river, where many of them were drowned. The hens and cocks scratched the hot earth uneasily. Every hour or so a terrific explosion was heard. It seemed as if a corps of artillery were bombarding the town, but the cause of the reports was a far more terrible one. The great pines and spruces of the forest clung to the heart were crashing to the ground, carrying scores of trees with them in their fall. As the day wore on the dread sounds became louder and more frequent. The steady yet fierce snap of the burning branches was constantly to be heard. Far and near the woods seemed possessed of a thousand demons. There were those who in curiosity ventured near the edge of the clearing, but the showers of red hot pine needles and calined leaves drove them back, or perhaps a tiny fork of flame would dart from the moss at their feet. For miles in every direction the woods were aflame. Tall spires of smoke, cold as trees, ponderous oaks and beeches and thousands of graceful birch trees, for whose bark and wood there were many demands. Among these greater lords of the forest the silver fir, or fir balsam, was frequently to be found. Although of but small size, it claimed full forest privileges, and, with its symmetrical shape, its rich deep shaded foliage, and its long pendant cones, it crowned and ornamented many a gentle slope, or perhaps, in a humble spot, stood itself from the rays of a top ardent sun under the kindly branches of its loftier forest brothers. Drops of aromatic resin exuded from its trunk and branches, and formed in sticky transparent globules on the rough bark.

On the outskirts of the clearing the lesser trees, native to the country, strove to assert themselves. The wild cherry, with its hawthorn showed in early spring in masses of fragrant white blossoms. The purple scarlet of the sumach fruit seemed to glow against the green of the maples, and, as autumn approached, the scarlet berries of the mountain ash shone among the glossy leaves like veritable sparks of fire. The thriving town of Newcastle, on the left bank of the Miramichi river, some miles from the mouth, already boasted a thousand inhabitants.

The summer had indeed been unusually warm. The fields had turned a dull brown where the second crop of hay had been cut. Some of the little springs flowing into the river had dried up, and the shallow rills of water in their rocky beds. The leaves of the trees hung languidly to the branches, and a chance breeze would rustle them down in innumerable multitudes. The October days, usually a trifling chilly to the warm against the approach of the gloomier winter months. The boys in the frame house paid but slight attention to such a trifle as the weather. When the cows and hens had been duly attended to, the stent of wood cutting over, the garden carefully weeded and watered, and their simple food prepared, they were usually ready for a pleasant trip to the woods. Once, when searching for beechnuts, they found a spray of leaves curiously unlike anything they had ever seen before. The leaves which they were shaped like an aspen, showed only the network of ribs and veins, they were black to an ashy whiteness, and crumbled at the slightest touch. The boys puzzled their heads in vain. There were no aspen nearer than the Barilho many miles away. They found also that the beech-nuts although of full size were dry and tasteless, and returned home with empty baskets. When they awoke next morning, weary and footsore they realized how hot and harsh the ground had been in their bare feet and how the woods had seemed to be full of faint vibrations. Early as it was there was much stir in the village streets. The boys hurried out only to find that a thick haze enveloped the town. It was not a mist which had risen from the river, freshening the morning air with its dewy breath. The murky smoke of some forest fire had swept through the town. By daybreak it had passed on, and hung in a purple cloud bank above the farther shore of the river. There was doubtless a forest fire in the woods near Gaspé in Quebec. In their present dry state the woods would speedily ignite. It was not until the following evening that the terrible truth was realized and the whole forest wealth of the country would be destroyed. As yet there was little fear for the safety of the town itself. It was protected by a great clearing between the settled portion and the woods for the settlers had at all times a dread of forest fires, but much anxiety was expressed for the safety of friends in outlying districts. The 6th of October, 1897, was a never-to-be-forgotten day. The hot parched air was struggling to breathe. Great flocks of birds winged their flight over the town, making for the open coast. Now and then a wild goose, a crow or a lesser bird would fall to the ground, its charred wings telling the terrible cause of its flight and misfortune. The cows lowed dementally, and when free plunged frantically into the river, where many of them were drowned. The hens and cocks scratched the hot earth uneasily. Every hour or so a terrific explosion was heard. It seemed as if a corps of artillery were bombarding the town, but the cause of the reports was a far more terrible one. The great pines and spruces of the forest clung to the heart were crashing to the ground, carrying scores of trees with them in their fall. As the day wore on the dread sounds became louder and more frequent. The steady yet fierce snap of the burning branches was constantly to be heard. Far and near the woods seemed possessed of a thousand demons. There were those who in curiosity ventured near the edge of the clearing, but the showers of red hot pine needles and calined leaves drove them back, or perhaps a tiny fork of flame would dart from the moss at their feet. For miles in every direction the woods were aflame. Tall spires of smoke, cold as trees, ponderous oaks and beeches and thousands of graceful birch trees, for whose bark and wood there were many demands. Among these greater lords of the forest the silver fir, or fir balsam, was frequently to be found. Although of but small size, it claimed full forest privileges, and, with its symmetrical shape, its rich deep shaded foliage, and its long pendant cones, it crowned and ornamented many a gentle slope, or perhaps, in a humble spot, stood itself from the rays of a top ardent sun under the kindly branches of its loftier forest brothers. Drops of aromatic resin exuded from its trunk and branches, and formed in sticky transparent globules on the rough bark.

On the outskirts of the clearing the lesser trees, native to the country, strove to assert themselves. The wild cherry, with its hawthorn showed in early spring in masses of fragrant white blossoms. The purple scarlet of the sumach fruit seemed to glow against the green of the maples, and, as autumn approached, the scarlet berries of the mountain ash shone among the glossy leaves like veritable sparks of fire. The thriving town of Newcastle, on the left bank of the Miramichi river, some miles from the mouth, already boasted a thousand inhabitants.

The summer had indeed been unusually warm. The fields had turned a dull brown where the second crop of hay had been cut. Some of the little springs flowing into the river had dried up, and the shallow rills of water in their rocky beds. The leaves of the trees hung languidly to the branches, and a chance breeze would rustle them down in innumerable multitudes. The October days, usually a trifling chilly to the warm against the approach of the gloomier winter months. The boys in the frame house paid but slight attention to such a trifle as the weather. When the cows and hens had been duly attended to, the stent of wood cutting over, the garden carefully weeded and watered, and their simple food prepared, they were usually ready for a pleasant trip to the woods. Once, when searching for beechnuts, they found a spray of leaves curiously unlike anything they had ever seen before. The leaves which they were shaped like an aspen, showed only the network of ribs and veins, they were black to an ashy whiteness, and crumbled at the slightest touch. The boys puzzled their heads in vain. There were no aspen nearer than the Barilho many miles away. They found also that the beech-nuts although of full size were dry and tasteless, and returned home with empty baskets. When they awoke next morning, weary and footsore they realized how hot and harsh the ground had been in their bare feet and how the woods had seemed to be full of faint vibrations. Early as it was there was much stir in the village streets. The boys hurried out only to find that a thick haze enveloped the town. It was not a mist which had risen from the river, freshening the morning air with its dewy breath. The murky smoke of some forest fire had swept through the town. By daybreak it had passed on, and hung in a purple cloud bank above the farther shore of the river. There was doubtless a forest fire in the woods near Gaspé in Quebec. In their present dry state the woods would speedily ignite. It was not until the following evening that the terrible truth was realized and the whole forest wealth of the country would be destroyed. As yet there was little fear for the safety of the town itself. It was protected by a great clearing between the settled portion and the woods for the settlers had at all times a dread of forest fires, but much anxiety was expressed for the safety of friends in outlying districts. The 6th of October, 1897, was a never-to-be-forgotten day. The hot parched air was struggling to breathe. Great flocks of birds winged their flight over the town, making for the open coast. Now and then a wild goose, a crow or a lesser bird would fall to the ground, its charred wings telling the terrible cause of its flight and misfortune. The cows lowed dementally, and when free plunged frantically into the river, where many of them were drowned. The hens and cocks scratched the hot earth uneasily. Every hour or so a terrific explosion was heard. It seemed as if a corps of artillery were bombarding the town, but the cause of the reports was a far more terrible one. The great pines and spruces of the forest clung to the heart were crashing to the ground, carrying scores of trees with them in their fall. As the day wore on the dread sounds became louder and more frequent. The steady yet fierce snap of the burning branches was constantly to be heard. Far and near the woods seemed possessed of a thousand demons. There were those who in curiosity ventured near the edge of the clearing, but the showers of red hot pine needles and calined leaves drove them back, or perhaps a tiny fork of flame would dart from the moss at their feet. For miles in every direction the woods were aflame. Tall spires of smoke, cold as trees, ponderous oaks and beeches and thousands of graceful birch trees, for whose bark and wood there were many demands. Among these greater lords of the forest the silver fir, or fir balsam, was frequently to be found. Although of but small size, it claimed full forest privileges, and, with its symmetrical shape, its rich deep shaded foliage, and its long pendant cones, it crowned and ornamented many a gentle slope, or perhaps, in a humble spot, stood itself from the rays of a top ardent sun under the kindly branches of its loftier forest brothers. Drops of aromatic resin exuded from its trunk and branches, and formed in sticky transparent globules on the rough bark.

On the outskirts of the clearing the lesser trees, native to the country, strove to assert themselves. The wild cherry, with its hawthorn showed in early spring in masses of fragrant white blossoms. The purple scarlet of the sumach fruit seemed to glow against the green of the maples, and, as autumn approached, the scarlet berries of the mountain ash shone among the glossy leaves like veritable sparks of fire. The thriving town of Newcastle, on the left bank of the Miramichi river, some miles from the mouth, already boasted a thousand inhabitants.

The summer had indeed been unusually warm. The fields had turned a dull brown where the second crop of hay had been cut. Some of the little springs flowing into the river had dried up, and the shallow rills of water in their rocky beds. The leaves of the trees hung languidly to the branches, and a chance breeze would rustle them down in innumerable multitudes. The October days, usually a trifling chilly to the warm against the approach of the gloomier winter months. The boys in the frame house paid but slight attention to such a trifle as the weather. When the cows and hens had been duly attended to, the stent of wood cutting over, the garden carefully weeded and watered, and their simple food prepared, they were usually ready for a pleasant trip to the woods. Once, when searching for beechnuts, they found a spray of leaves curiously unlike anything they had ever seen before. The leaves which they were shaped like an aspen, showed only the network of ribs and veins, they were black to an ashy whiteness, and crumbled at the slightest touch. The boys puzzled their heads in vain. There were no aspen nearer than the Barilho many miles away. They found also that the beech-nuts although of full size were dry and tasteless, and returned home with empty baskets. When they awoke next morning, weary and footsore they realized how hot and harsh the ground had been in their bare feet and how the woods had seemed to be full of faint vibrations. Early as it was there was much stir in the village streets. The boys hurried out only to find that a thick haze enveloped the town. It was not a mist which had risen from the river, freshening the morning air with its dewy breath. The murky smoke of some forest fire had swept through the town. By daybreak it had passed on, and hung in a purple cloud bank above the farther shore of the river. There was doubtless a forest fire in the woods near Gaspé in Quebec. In their present dry state the woods would speedily ignite. It was not until the following evening that the terrible truth was realized and the whole forest wealth of the country would be destroyed. As yet there was little fear for the safety of the town itself. It was protected by a great clearing between the settled portion and the woods for the settlers had at all times a dread of forest fires, but much anxiety was expressed for the safety of friends in outlying districts. The 6th of October, 1897, was a never-to-be-forgotten day. The hot parched air was struggling to breathe. Great flocks of birds winged their flight over the town, making for the open coast. Now and then a wild goose, a crow or a lesser bird would fall to the ground, its charred wings telling the terrible cause of its flight and misfortune. The cows lowed dementally, and when free plunged frantically into the river, where many of them were drowned. The hens and cocks scratched the hot earth uneasily. Every hour or so a terrific explosion was heard. It seemed as if a corps of artillery were bombarding the town, but the cause of the reports was a far more terrible one. The great pines and spruces of the forest clung to the heart were crashing to the ground, carrying scores of trees with them in their fall. As the day wore on the dread sounds became louder and more frequent. The steady yet fierce snap of the burning branches was constantly to be heard. Far and near the woods seemed possessed of a thousand demons. There were those who in curiosity ventured near the edge of the clearing, but the showers of red hot pine needles and calined leaves drove them back, or perhaps a tiny fork of flame would dart from the moss at their feet. For miles in every direction the woods were aflame. Tall spires of smoke, cold as trees, ponderous oaks and beeches and thousands of graceful birch trees, for whose bark and wood there were many demands. Among these greater lords of the forest the silver fir, or fir balsam, was frequently to be found. Although of but small size, it claimed full forest privileges, and, with its symmetrical shape, its rich deep shaded foliage, and its long pendant cones, it crowned and ornamented many a gentle slope, or perhaps, in a humble spot, stood itself from the rays of a top ardent sun under the kindly branches of its loftier forest brothers. Drops of aromatic resin exuded from its trunk and branches, and formed in sticky transparent globules on the rough bark.

On the outskirts of the clearing the lesser trees, native to the country, strove to assert themselves. The wild cherry, with its hawthorn showed in early spring in masses of fragrant white blossoms. The purple scarlet of the sumach fruit seemed to glow against the green of the maples, and, as autumn approached, the scarlet berries of the mountain ash shone among the glossy leaves like veritable sparks of fire. The thriving town of Newcastle, on the left bank of the Miramichi river, some miles from the mouth, already boasted a thousand inhabitants.

The summer had indeed been unusually warm. The fields had turned a dull brown where the second crop of hay had been cut. Some of the little springs flowing into the river had dried up, and the shallow rills of water in their rocky beds. The leaves of the trees hung languidly to the branches, and a chance breeze would rustle them down in innumerable multitudes. The October days, usually a trifling chilly to the warm against the approach of the gloomier winter months. The boys in the frame house paid but slight attention to such a trifle as the weather. When the cows and hens had been duly attended to, the stent of wood cutting over, the garden carefully weeded and watered, and their simple food prepared, they were usually ready for a pleasant trip to the woods. Once, when searching for beechnuts, they found a spray of leaves curiously unlike anything they had ever seen before. The leaves which they were shaped like an aspen, showed only the network of ribs and veins, they were black to an ashy whiteness, and crumbled at the slightest touch. The boys puzzled their heads in vain. There were no aspen nearer than the Barilho many miles away. They found also that the beech-nuts although of full size were dry and tasteless, and returned home with empty baskets. When they awoke next morning, weary and footsore they realized how hot and harsh the ground had been in their bare feet and how the woods had seemed to be full of faint vibrations. Early as it was there was much stir in the village streets. The boys hurried out only to find that a thick haze enveloped the town. It was not a mist which had risen from the river, freshening the morning air with its dewy breath. The murky smoke of some forest fire had swept through the town. By daybreak it had passed on, and hung in a purple cloud bank above the farther shore of the river. There was doubtless a forest fire in the woods near Gaspé in Quebec. In their present dry state the woods would speedily ignite. It was not until the following evening that the terrible truth was realized and the whole forest wealth of the country would be destroyed. As yet there was little fear for the safety of the town itself. It was protected by a great clearing between the settled portion and the woods for the settlers had at all times a dread of forest fires, but much anxiety was expressed for the safety of friends in outlying districts. The 6th of October, 1897, was a never-to-be-forgotten day. The hot parched air was struggling to breathe. Great flocks of birds winged their flight over the town, making for the open coast. Now and then a wild goose, a crow or a lesser bird would fall to the ground, its charred wings telling the terrible cause of its flight and misfortune. The cows lowed dementally, and when free plunged frantically into the river, where many of them were drowned. The hens and cocks scratched the hot earth uneasily. Every hour or so a terrific explosion was heard. It seemed as if a corps of artillery were bombarding the town, but the cause of the reports was a far more terrible one. The great pines and spruces of the forest clung to the heart were crashing to the ground, carrying scores of trees with them in their fall. As the day wore on the dread sounds became louder and more frequent. The steady yet fierce snap of the burning branches was constantly to be heard. Far and near the woods seemed possessed of a thousand demons. There were those who in curiosity ventured near the edge of the clearing, but the showers of red hot pine needles and calined leaves drove them back, or perhaps a tiny fork of flame would dart from the moss at their feet. For miles in every direction the woods were aflame. Tall spires of smoke, cold as trees, ponderous oaks and beeches and thousands of graceful birch trees, for whose bark and wood there were many demands. Among these greater lords of the forest the silver fir, or fir balsam, was frequently to be found. Although of but small size, it claimed full forest privileges, and, with its symmetrical shape, its rich deep shaded foliage, and its long pendant cones, it crowned and ornamented many a gentle slope, or perhaps, in a humble spot, stood itself from the rays of a top ardent sun under the kindly branches of its loftier forest brothers. Drops of aromatic resin exuded from its trunk and branches, and formed in sticky transparent globules on the rough bark.

On the outskirts of the clearing the lesser trees, native to the country, strove to assert themselves. The wild cherry, with its hawthorn showed in early spring in masses of fragrant white blossoms. The purple scarlet of the sumach fruit seemed to glow against the green of the maples, and, as autumn approached, the scarlet berries of the mountain ash shone among the glossy leaves like veritable sparks of fire. The thriving town of Newcastle, on the left bank of the Miramichi river, some miles from the mouth, already boasted a thousand inhabitants.

The summer had indeed been unusually warm. The fields had turned a dull brown where the second crop of hay had been cut. Some of the little springs flowing into the river had dried up, and the shallow rills of water in their rocky beds. The leaves of the trees hung languidly to the branches, and a chance breeze would rustle them down in innumerable multitudes. The October days, usually a trifling chilly to the warm against the approach of the gloomier winter months. The boys in the frame house paid but slight attention to such a trifle as the weather. When the cows and hens had been duly attended to, the stent of wood cutting over, the garden carefully weeded and watered, and their simple food prepared, they were usually ready for a pleasant trip to the woods. Once, when searching for beechnuts, they found a spray of leaves curiously unlike anything they had ever seen before. The leaves which they were shaped like an aspen, showed only the network of ribs and veins, they were black to an ashy whiteness, and crumbled at the slightest touch. The boys puzzled their heads in vain. There were no aspen nearer than the Barilho many miles away. They found also that the beech-nuts although of full size were dry and tasteless, and returned home with empty baskets. When they awoke next morning, weary and footsore they realized how hot and harsh the ground had been in their bare feet and how the woods had seemed to be full of faint vibrations. Early as it was there was much stir in the village streets. The boys hurried out only to find that a thick haze enveloped the town. It was not a mist which had risen from the river, freshening the morning air with its dewy breath. The murky smoke of some forest fire had swept through the town. By daybreak it had passed on, and hung in a purple cloud bank above the farther shore of the river. There was doubtless a forest fire in the woods near Gaspé in Quebec. In their present dry state the woods would speedily ignite. It was not until the following evening that the terrible truth was realized and the whole forest wealth of the country would be destroyed. As yet there was little fear for the safety of the

The Union Advocate

Established 1867.
NEWCASTLE, N. B.
WEDNESDAY, Nov. 3, 1897.
Newcastle Societies.

MEET AS FOLLOWS:
NORTH-BRITAIN LODGE NO. 17 A. F. & A. M., in the Lodge rooms on the evening of the 2nd Tuesday of each month at 8 o'clock.
NEWCASTLE DIVISION NO. 453 A. of T., in the Temperance Hall every Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

COURT MURMUR NO. 165 I. O. F., in their room, Marine Hall, on the evening of the fourth Tuesday of each month at 8 o'clock.
NEWCASTLE BOARD OF TRADE, in the room in the Bazaar building on the evening of the first Monday in each month at 8 o'clock.

DURLEY.
COURT HAPPY RETREAT NO. 150 I. O. F., in Foresters' Hall, Durley, on the 3rd Thursday of each month at 7.30 o'clock.

NO TRACES FOUND.
Although a large number of men have been scouring the woods daily in the direction in which Mr. Anslow is supposed to have gone, not the slightest trace of him is to be found.

EDITORIAL NOTES.
Late Newfoundland despatches indicate that the Willett government have been defeated at the general election just ended in that island.

Late despatches announce that owing to the potato crop turning out much better than was expected, there is less danger of a famine in Ireland than was supposed.

The New Zealand government is seriously contemplating the adoption of a preferential tariff in favor of the United Kingdom, while leaving the tariff on foreign goods as it is at present.

There are three vacancies at present in the Canadian House of Commons. They are in the constituencies of Antigonish, Rimouski and Drummond, all in the province of Quebec. While there have been in all three cases and the election will take place on the 13th of November.

Our exchanges announce the death of Andrew Inches, Esq., Deputy Surveyor General of this Province at his residence in Fredericton on Sunday last. Mr. Inches was in the eightieth year of his age and for near 60 years has been connected with the Crown Land Department of New Brunswick.

In one of his late speeches the late Henry George asserted that the Democratic candidates for the position of Judges of the Supreme Court have to pay heavy black mail to the Tammany election fund. If this is the case it is enough to condemn the United States system of popular election to judicial offices.

The Toronto Globe announces that a patient sufferer has sent to the Finance Department at Ottawa an envelope marked "Consolidated Bonds," and containing $1,000 in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and American bills. If all Canada's bondholders were to be struck with the same disease what an immense amount of cash would be forwarded to the Finance Department at Ottawa.

Notwithstanding Great Britain has a large army and navy with a small war in one quarter of the globe always on her hands and generously sends her old and wounded veterans, she only pays out $1,481,000 in yearly pensions. On the other hand the United States who has not had a war for thirty years pays out the enormous sum of $141,055,000 yearly in pensions to old and disabled veterans. There is another remarkable thing about this American pension list and that is that in place of decreasing, it yearly increases. The largest active army that the United States has at present is her army of politicians, and the great majority of the pensioners of this country are played out politicians.

The sudden death of Henry George removed from the political arena of New York the most powerful and dangerous opponent that the corrupt Tammany bosses have had for years. Owing to Tammany's policy of improving and bettering the lot of the working classes and solve the labor question, he enjoyed the confidence and support of the vast army of working men of New York. Although he arraigned the Tammany bosses for their corrupt deals and acts in every speech he made during the present Mayoralty campaign, Tammany would not allow its speakers to attack him. This was because Tammany realized the fact that the hearts of the people were with him, and every attack their speakers made upon George only did more injury to Tammany. The result was that never since the days that Boss Tweed was denounced did Tammany's leaders receive such a bitter and searing castigation in New York as what they received from Henry George during the present contest.

Incorporation Defeated.

The election under the "Town Incorporation Act" held on Thursday the 28th of October 1897 resulted in the defeat of incorporation for the town of Newcastle. The vote polled was as follows:

Against	167
For	60
Total	227

This was a very small vote as there are about 600 voters on the list.

Hon. Mr. Blair in Town.

Hon. Mr. Blair visited Newcastle on Thursday accompanied by Mr. Pottinger and others. They were up the Indian town Branch in the morning arriving here about 1 o'clock. After inspecting the deep water terminus and property in that vicinity they proceeded to the station where all the offices and buildings were also inspected.

Laundry and Dye Works.

Mr. Merritt, formerly of the Telegraph, has now one of the proprietors of the Chatham Steam Laundry and Dye Works was in town on Friday evening. John A. Pond, formerly of Halifax, the other proprietor is an experienced man, having been in the business about twenty years. They will be open for work in the course of a week or two.

Germany and Russia's Invitation to France.

There cannot be the least doubt but that Germany and Russia are both jealous and envious of the position that Great Britain occupies in the world, and if their power were equal to their will, they would speedily bring about her commercial, political and colonial destruction. But knowing well that they are unable to accomplish this task without the aid and assistance of some other power, they are making an effort to induce France to join them in a crusade against the national foe with the hope that their united forces would bring about that most desirable result. Knowing that France is jealous of Britain's retention of Egypt, the Empress of Germany and Russia a short time ago invited the French Republic to join them in a league for the preservation of the peace of Europe. These two despotic empires who assume that they have a divine right to control and rule over the fortunes of nearly 200,000,000 of persons, recently met at Petersburg and arranged the affairs of the world to their own satisfaction. They claim to be the guardians of the peace of Europe, they actually stand as the representatives of all that is left effective in this civilized nineteenth century of these principles of kingship, which is a source to liberty anywhere on earth, and which the British and French people got rid of many years ago.

Although John Bull, like his envious neighbors, is a land grabber, the inhabitants of the country that he has seized and brought under his rule are the better for it as he has brought them civilization and instructed them in the arts of peace. If the two autocratic powers were successful in their efforts and induced France to join them in a raid upon the British Empire and it proved successful, the balance of power in Europe would incline heavily to the side of autocracy. Any lessening of the power of Great Britain at the present time would increase the power of Germany and Russia and as the governments of these countries are arbitrary and despotic, the tide now setting in for the emancipation of the people of Europe would be turned back and probably would result in the fall of the French republic. This is an impression which is now going on between the emperors and their people, and it would be a sin against liberty for Republican France to join the despotic powers of Germany and Russia to break the power of England.

During the century that is now drawing near its close the inhabitants of the civilized countries of the world have made rapid progress towards a higher state of civilization. If we are to judge by the signs of the times, during the coming century they will progress still more rapidly in that direction and one of the results will be that there will be no emperors claiming to rule their people by Divine right.

Death's Harvest.

The angel of Death is no respecter of persons. He visits every man alike whether he be prince or peasant, politician or millionaire when they have lived their allotted time in this world. In the space of a few days three men of note and great ability in the different positions they held in the United States have suddenly been cut down by the great reaper. With no thought of death in their minds, these men were each busily engaged with all their heart and soul, strength and striving to obtain their hearts desire.

One of these men was Charles A. Dana, the Editor of the New York Sun, a brief sketch of whose career appeared in our last issue. Another was George M. Pullman, and the third was Henry George, one of the candidates at the present election for Mayor of New York. Charles A. Dana who died suddenly at Chicago the other day had a phenomenal career. At the time of his death he was in possession of great wealth and power and a high social position in the land of his birth, and in and he bore the title of Marquis, which he had received from foreign power. All this he achieved with a career of thirty-seven years and in a single illustration of the good luck that some men have who are "born to rule." He was born in Chautauque County, New York, in March 1831. Began life as a clerk in a county store at the age of fourteen, and later he associated himself with an older brother in the cabinet making business at Albion. In 1859 he went to Chicago and engaged in the business of raising buildings a number of feet to bring them to new street grades. While riding in an old fashioned uncomfortable sleigh car running from Buffalo to Westfield, N. Y., a brilliant idea flashed through his mind and he had the good sense to seize it. From 1860 to 1880 there was no union among the different railway lines running through the country, but about that time they began to combine into great systems, and through travel became possible with Pullman's cars. Mr. Pullman's genius was to have a comfortable sleeping car attached to every train for the convenience of passengers travelling at night. It was a stroke of genius, as the event proved. He rented a workshop, employed skilled mechanics and built several comfortable sleeping coaches. From 1880 to 1883 he made a series of trials with them on the Chicago and Alton and Galena roads. At first the Pullman car was an experiment, then a success and afterwards a necessity on every railroad running on this continent. He managed and extended the system, perfected the cars, increased the conveniences and elegance, until the man who had been a suppliant about the offices of railroad managers became a dictator, and the name of Pullman known on two continents as many times as millions of Mr. Pullman, owing to his great financial ability and an executive capacity that was remarkable, amassed a colossal fortune. But in connection therewith, it is asserted, he also developed a grasping avarice, a cold blooded and heartless policy towards his employees, and a total disregard of the opinion of the people, that made him cordially disliked and hated by the masses.

From the earliest ages to the present time the lives of the great mass of the human race have been a struggle for martyrdom. Through many centuries they groined and suffered under the tyranny of oppressive laws which the men living in this nineteenth century can form but a faint conception of. In consequence of this, it is to be wondered that every age produced its crop of philanthropists who devoted their time, and talents which some sacrificed their lives in their efforts to reform the laws and find some way to ameliorate the condition of mankind.

New Brunswick's New Government.

FREDERICTON, Oct. 29.—This afternoon the resignation of the Hon. James Mitchell as premier and attorney general of the province was received and accepted by the lieutenant governor who at once sent for Mr. Emmerson to form a new government. The new administration sworn to office tonight at the executive council chamber as follows:

Hon. Henry R. Emmerson, premier and chief commissioner of public works.
Hon. Leonard J. Tweed, provincial secretary and president of executive council.

Hon. Albert S. White, attorney general.
Hon. James Mitchell, solicitor general.
Hon. Albert T. Dunn, surveyor general.
Hon. Charles H. LaBelle, commissioner for agriculture.

Hon. L. P. Ferris, without portfolio.

Death of J. G. Lorimer.

The Sun announces the death at Plymouth, Mass., of Mr. J. G. Lorimer, in the 90th year of his age. About fifty years ago Mr. Lorimer taught school in this county. Afterwards he turned his attention to journalism and was editorially connected with a number of papers published in this province. Some years ago Mr. Lorimer removed to Massachusetts, where he lived in retirement, and was with his son, William J. Lorimer, proprietor of the Plymouth House, Plymouth, Mass.

Grand Division S. of T. of N. B.

(Continued from the 2nd.)

The fifteenth annual session of the Grand Division, Sons of Temperance, convened in the Temperance hall, Market building, St. John, N. B., Wednesday evening. The attendance was large. After routine G. W. P. Woodburn delivered his annual address, as follows:

Under the good providence of God we are permitted to meet in this the fifteenth annual session of the Grand Division. I greet you all most cordially and trust that our meeting together on this public occasion may be productive of great good. Not only to each and all attending this session, but also to the advancement of the cause we all have so much at heart, and to the strengthening and building up of our noble order. Let us each endeavor to raise still higher the banner of temperance, which has been borne aloft by this Grand Division during the last fifty years, and not rest down as the principle of Lord Dunsley and Fidelity permit society from centre to circumference, and the traffic in intoxicating drinks be banished from this continent.

From the reports of deputies that have reached me either direct or through the grand scribe, I feel satisfied that the order is in a healthy condition. True, some divisions are languishing and are in need of a little St. John's Band of Hope, organized in their midst. When the grand scribe made his last report to the National Division on 31st March, a very large reduction in the number of members had to be reported. There were a number of divisions that had been inactive for a month or more, and were virtually dead long before the pruning knife reached them. We regret this, many are lost to our order, but we cannot concede that they are lost to the cause of temperance, for in my perambulations during the term of my office I have found that many of them are being absorbed by the order of St. John's Band of Hope, while others of them, especially in some Act districts, are earnestly working for the cause of temperance, their energies being put forth in connection with what are called several times a week evening and working from early to late at their headquarters. The grand scribe has been most successful in his campaign against "social problems," "social evils," "social ills," "social troubles," "social conditions," and open letter to Pope Leo XIII., 1891, and "A perverted philosophy," (Herbert Spencer), 1892.

In 1880 Mr. George was nominated by the United Labor Party for Mayor of New York, polling 68,000 votes, against 60,000 for William H. Hewitt, the Democratic candidate, and 60,000 for Theodore Roosevelt, who was the candidate of the Union League Party. Mr. George made an extremely active campaign, speaking several times a week, and working from early to late at his headquarters. The campaign was most successful, and he was elected Mayor of New York. He was a man of great energy and ability, and he was a man of great courage and determination. He was a man of great faith and hope, and he was a man of great love and kindness. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and respect. He was a man of great love and kindness, and he was a man of great faith and hope. He was a man of great wisdom and understanding, and he was a man of great strength and courage. He was a man of great honor and integrity, and he was a man of great respect and admiration. He was a man of great influence and power, and he was a man of great fame and glory. He was a man of great wealth and success, and he was a man of great honor and South End Notes.

Mr. John Kain died at his home in Allison on Saturday evening, after a lengthy illness. He leaves a wife, eight sons and one daughter to mourn their loss. The funeral takes place today, at Red bank.

Mrs. Isaac Sheagren has gone on a long visit to friends in Maine and Carleton Co.

Messrs. K. Dunnet and D. Mutch, of Whitesville and A. Lawlor, of Redbank, left on Tuesday for the west, the two former for Michigan and the latter for Minnesota. We wish them much success.

Mrs. Leach who was ill last week, is much improved in health. Mr. John Keys is also able to be out.

The many friends of Mrs. Jno. Lawlor will regret to hear of her illness.

Miss Murphy was a guest at the Fish House last week.

The weather is getting cold and winter like. We had quite a little fall of snow today. Most of the young men have gone to the woods.

Docktown Notes.

DOCKTOWN, Oct. 28.—A few parties are getting off to the woods, although the lumbering business is very dull. There is very little lumbering done near here. Parties make this their stopping place on the way to their operations on Barlowdown and other streams.

Robert Swin is making preparations for hauling white birch for spool wood.

M. A. Kelly is taking contracts for pulp wood.

Mr. S. Freeze has offered for sale his mill property, consisting of a claphop and shingle machine, and a well equipped saw and door factory. This would be a very desirable opening for any enterprising manufacturer. It is to be regretted that Mr. Freeze has determined upon this, as his factory has given work to several men the year round, and has been a source of profit to him, as well as of general usefulness to the place.

Several young men left here for the U. S. this morning. The dullness of the lumbering business is the cause of their going.

—Gleaner.

Death of Professor Newman.

Professor Francis William Newman, younger brother of the late Cardinal Newman recently died at the age of nine years. He was born in 1886 and was educated at Worcester College, Oxford. He was elected to a scholarship at Balliol, but being unable to subscribe to the act then in force, resigned in 1893. After that he travelled in the East and was in the East for some time. He returned to England and accepted the post of professor of Latin at University College, Oxford, where he held for seventeen years. He was an enthusiastic social reformer and wrote and lectured much on temperance and vegetarianism.

Several young men left here for the U. S. this morning. The dullness of the lumbering business is the cause of their going.

—Gleaner.

Killed by a Falling Tree.

William Sullivan, Jr., aged 23 years, son of William Sullivan, Sr., of Bass River, Kent Co., while working in the lumber woods near Berlin Falls, N. H., was killed by a falling tree. The body was brought to Haverhill Station on the morning train last Thursday evening and buried at Bass River the following Saturday. Rev. J. K. McCreary conducted the burial service. This makes the third of Mr. Sullivan's sons who remains were brought home for burial, and of the three sons two were accidentally killed in the United States. Deceased was a brother of Councillor Edward Sullivan of Campbellton.

Killed at Lawrence.

Phonograph, Oct. 28.—The dead body of Clendia Hagerman, son of Isaac Hagerman, of Bass Island, arrived from Boston last night, accompanied by deceased's brother, Darius Hagerman, of Lawrence, Mass. The latter states the deceased left his home one night last week to spend the evening at a place across the river from Lawrence. Not having returned during the night search was made and next morning his body was found in the river close to a railway bridge, from which it is supposed he fell on his way home. Deceased was about twenty years of age and had been living in Lawrence only a short time.

Run Away.

On Wednesday night while Ed. Falconer accompanied by Bert O'Donnell were driving down to Loughstown, their horse became frightened and ran away on the Mill Cove hill, both were thrown out and received quite a shaking up. The horse stopped half way up the other hill after straightening things up a bit they proceeded on their journey. The carriage top was only slightly damaged.

Strength Has Returned.

"My whole system was run down. I was so weak I could scarcely get around my work. I finally began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and after using five bottles I found that my strength had returned and my appetite was better. I now feel as strong as ever." Mrs. Kline, 9 Wellington Ave., Toronto, Ontario.

Hood's Pills cure constipation, sick headache, indigestion, biliousness. All druggists.

The Family Herald.

The American host of every great institution they have got. There is a Canadian institution, however, that has opened the eyes of Americans and other people all over the world. It is a great weekly newspaper that is a marvel of excellence and getting better every issue. It is to be found in the homes of the wisest of our people in every town and township of Canada. We refer of course to the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, which this year has a great picture as a premium for every renewal and new subscriber. Readers of the Advocate have an exceptional opportunity to get the Family Herald and Weekly Star clubbed with the Advocate.

IF YOU HAVE WEAK BACK, LAME BACK, BACKACHE, LUMBAGO OR RHEUMATISM, DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS WILL CURE YOU.

DO YOUR HANDS OR FEET SWELL? IF SO YOU HAVE WEAK KIDNEYS. DOAN'S PILLS WILL STRENGTHEN THEM.

HAVE YOU DROPSY, KIDNEY OR URINARY TROUBLES OF ANY KIND? IF SO, DOAN'S PILLS WILL CURE YOU.

SOMETHING WORTH KNOWING.

ACHES, DIZZINESS, FRIGHTFUL HEADACHES, DISTURBED SLEEP, DROWSINESS, FORGETFULNESS, COLD CHILLS, NERVOUSNESS, ETC., ARE OFTEN CAUSED BY DISORDERED KIDNEYS.

IF YOUR RETROUPE IS DEFECTIVE YOU SHOULD ALWAYS REMEMBER THAT DOAN'S PILLS CURE ALL KIDNEY TROUBLES, AND EVERY DOSE HELPS THE CURE.

SOLD AT ALL DRUG STORES.

Good Blood

is essential to health. Every nook and corner of the system is reached by the blood, and on its quality the condition of every organ depends. Good blood means strong nerves, good digestion, robust health, impure blood means scrofula, dyspepsia, rheumatism, catarrh or other diseases. The surest way to have good blood is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine purifies, vitalizes, and enriches the blood, and sends the elements of health and strength to every nerve, organ and tissue. It creates a good appetite, gives refreshing sleep and cures that tired feeling. Remember.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 20c.

12 Stearns Bicycles and 27 Gold Watches ARE GIVEN AWAY

To Those Who Send the Largest Number of

SUNLIGHT SOAP WRAPPERS

Ask your Grocer for particulars or drop a postcard to Lever Bros., Limited, Toronto.

Local Pickups.

—Clark, Skillings & Co. are having an Artesian well bored near their mill to supply water for their boiler.

—The Berque Norman, Capt. Barnley, arrived here Thursday night for D. & J. Ritchie & Co.

—Go to Mrs. Morris' for shaker flannel wrappers, made up at $1.25 and up.

—Mr. Wm. Cotter is having a block built in the rear of his shop on which he intends to erect a warehouse.

—Ice formed on Friday night in Messrs. Ritchie's boom.

—Considerable rain fell Thursday night.

—Call and see Mrs. Morris' ready made skirts from $2.50 up.

—Mr. G. A. Lounsbury has moved into the house recently purchased by him and formerly occupied by Mr. C. D. Mann. Mr. Mann now occupies the house vacated by Mr. Lounsbury.

—Call at Mrs. Morris' for kitchen aprons only 15c. each.

—Ruled and unruled Harkins' Academy school-books at the Advocate office, price five cents.

—Quite a fleet of ice boats at the public wharf loaded with fish and vegetables.

—Hickson's mill was shut down Thursday afternoon.

—Any one wishing wedding invitations should call and see the fine line of samples at this office.

—After serious illness, like typhoid fever, pneumonia, or the grip, Hood's Sarsaparilla has wonderful strength-giving power.

—The price of single copies of The Union Advocate is only two cents.

—Quite a fall of snow on Monday morning which turned to rain about noon.

—A correspondent from North Bay signing Golden Star failed to give name in confidence therefore the letter cannot be published.

—The Union Advocate is only one dollar per year when paid in advance.

—Sunday night was Halloween. On Monday morning a dummy man was found hanging at the top of the square flag staff.

—There are several very bad holes in the sidewalk on Pleasant St., that need fixing.

—Use Anti-Freeze weather strip on your door and your car will prove its advantages. Geo. D. Stothart, sole agent for Newcastle.

—The Advocate is kept for sale at the Johnson bookstore, Chatham.

—The boys in town celebrated Monday night as Halloween. A number of signs were removed and placed in the road and numerous other deeds done.

—Monday was All Saints day.

Forest Fires at Margerville.

Heavy forest fires during the past week were raging at Margerville burning fences as well as doing other damage. The farmers in the immediate neighborhood of the burning district turned out in large numbers to fight the fire.

How to Cure Corns.

Easy? Yes, if you go about it the right way. Get the best always. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor never fails to cure. Acts in twenty-four hours and causes neither pain nor discomfort. Putnam's Corn Extractor extracts corns; it is the best.

Fire in Carleton County.

On the afternoon of Wednesday last, three barns belonging to D. H. Nixon, of Lower Brighton, Carleton County, together with their contents consisting of all the season's hay and grain were destroyed by fire. It is not known whether there was any insurance on the crop or buildings.

Born.

At Oshawa, Oct. 29th, to the wife of Oliver Buhland, a son.

At Millerton Station, Oct. 29th, to the wife of Clifford C. Crocker, I. C. R., a son.

Shipping News.

PORT OF NEWCASTLE.

Oct. 22nd.—Sch. Gazelle, 12, Dorion, Carquet, gen. cargo, master.

22—Sch. Rupert, 12, Chatham, Carquet, gen. cargo, master.

23—Sch. Chas. Gifford, 206, Threl, New York, coal, R. R. Call; Fly, 11, McLaughlin, Tracelle, D. Fish, master; Delight, 106, McDonald, North Sydney, coal, R. R. Call; Dawn, 12, Shanon, Carquet, gen. cargo, master; 26—Marion F., 23, McLaughlin, Tracelle, Blueberries, Lobsters and Herring, W. Ferguson; Sea Star, 13 Chatham, Shippegan, gen. cargo, master.

29—Sch. Reilly, 38, Miller, Alberton, gen. cargo, master; St. Anne, 66, Poirer, Charlotte-town, gen. cargo, master; R. R. Norman, 333, Banley, Belfast, Belfast, D. J. R. Ritchie & Co.; M. Jona, 101, Leason, Chatham, Belfast, master.

30—Sch. Merida, 13, Ache, Shippegan, gen. cargo, master; Callahan, 12, Robert, Carquet, gen. cargo, master; Auzelas, 12, LeBouthillier, Carquet, gen. cargo, master; Anne, 12, Chatham, Shippegan, gen. cargo, master; Glenner, 13, Lambigue, Carquet, gen. cargo, master; Gladstone, 10, Albert, Carquet, gen. cargo, master; Rosalie, 10, LeBouthillier, Carquet, gen. cargo, master; Samuel Drake, 67, Olson, Summerside, oats, master.

Nov. 1—Onaga, 82, Mountain, Chatham, ballast, master; Grip, 11, Ache, Tracelle, ballast, master; McLean, 67, Boutin, Chatham, ballast, master.

CLEARED.

Oct. 20.—Sch. Ruby, Ferguson, Rosalene, lumber, D. J. R. & Co.

23.—Sch. G. S. Perry, Dagwell, Belfast, lumber, D. J. R. & Co.

25.—Sch. Fly, McLaughlin, Tracelle, ballast, master.

28.—Sch. Marion F. McLaughlin, Tracelle, gen. cargo, Wm. Ferguson.

28.—Sch. Gazelle, Dori, A. Carquet, gen. cargo, master.

29.—Sch. Iona, Lenson, Tracelle, coal, Ballyman.

31.—Sch. Samuel Drake, Ol-en, Summerside, lumber, master.

Nov. 1.—Sch. Ache, Tracelle, salt, master; M. C. McLean, Boutin, Charlottetown, stone, C. R. Fish.

2.—Sch. Reilly, Miller, Alberton, lumber, master; Bee, Barn, Carquet, flour, master.

A WIDOW'S STRUGGLE.

HARD WORK BROUGHT ON A SEVERE ILLNESS.

Nervous Prostration, Nihilism and Extreme Weakness—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Came to Her Rescue After Hospital Treatment Failed.

From the Fort William Journal.

In the town of Fort William lives a brave widow, who for years has by dint of constant labor kept the wolf from the door and her little family together. From morning till night she toiled to provide comforts for her loved ones until as late as last week she was a patient in the hospital, unable to get up, and so she began to lose health. Soon the slender frame became unable to bear its daily load of toil, and the poor mother was at last forced to give up the unequal contest, and become a burden where she had once been the chief support. Nervous prostration, heart disease, consumption, and other ailments which were the result of her constant labor, had taken their toll, and she was suffering untold agony, without finding any relief from her sufferings. Palpitation of the heart, dizziness, extreme pain in the chest, loss of appetite and nervousness were some of the symptoms of the disease, gathering that caused her to leave her home and seek relief in the hospital.

At last she was advised to enter the hospital, that she might have the benefit of skilled nurses as well as the best treatment; but after spending some time there without obtaining any relief the poor woman gave up all hope of recovery and asked to be taken home. So emaciated, and weak had she become that her friends were shocked and began to despair, and so utterly hopeless was her condition that it was like mockery to speak of recovery. Her strength gradually but surely returned and in a few months from the time she began using the medicine she was able to resume her work. The subject of this article, Mrs. Jane Macreille, is well known, and her youthful and beautiful appearance today causes people to exclaim—wonders will never cease. She attributes her restoration to her family, solely to the virtues to be found in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and her experience she hopes, may put some other sufferer on the right road to health.

This great remedy enriches and purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, and in this way goes to the root of disease, driving it from the system, and curing when other remedies fail.

Every box of the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has the trade mark on the wrapper around the box, and the purchaser can protect himself from imposition by refusing all others. Sold by all dealers at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

ESCAPE AND CAPTURE OF WINDSOR'S FIRE BUG.

WINDSOR, Oct. 28.—Great surprise and indignation filled the town this morning when it was known that John McIntyre, the firebug, had escaped. He had been confined in the Block House in charge of a constable, during the examination, and, despite the protests of the citizens and militia, was left without handcuffs.

While Constable J. Fuller was asleep early this morning the prisoner escaped through a window and in a moment was lost in the darkness. The most strenuous efforts were immediately made by the militia and constables to effect his recapture but without avail.

Great blame attaches to those in charge of the matter. The escape was the talk of the town to day.

Newtown, Oct. 27.—John McIntyre the escaped firebug, who on Tuesday, Nov. 26, was seen about noon in a railway cutting half a mile west of Newport, by Alex. Hamilton, a colored man. Hamilton and another colored man named John David, assisted by section men, succeeded in effecting the capture of McIntyre. They made sure of keeping him by tying his hands and feet with rope.

McIntyre made a fierce fight to get away from his captors, but there were too many for him. He was taken back to Windsor on a trolley.

GO TO McMillan's FOR BARGAINS IN BOOTS AND SHOES.

Men's thick soled standard screw laced Boots worth $2.25 only $1.75

" " " elastic side Boots " 2.25 " 1.75

" " " Dongolia Kid Laced Boots " 1.50 " 1.25

" " " Buff Boots " 1.75 " 1.35

" " " Elastic Side Nailed Sole Boots " 1.25 " 1.00

Boys' Strong School Boots " 1.35 " 1.10

Youths' Strong School Boots " 1.25 " 1.00

Children's M'annet Lined Button Boots " 1.05 " .90

Also a large assortment Ladies' Flannel Lined Skating Boots, strong and warm, suitable for fall wear selling at very low prices.

A few pairs Ladies' colored Shoes at cost.

McMILLAN'S BOOT AND SHOE STORE.

Newcastle, N. B.

New Advertisements.

MILLINERY.

Everything in the way of millinery can be found taking a look through our stock. Fancy Brocade Velvets, Goggles, Chiffons, Ribbons, Flowers, Wings and Plumes.

Carriage and Saloon, Walking Hats and Tams very cheap.

Ladies' Flannelette night Gowns, Undervests, Hose, Mitts, Handkerchiefs and collars, infants' Gowns, Bonnets and Toppings.

We have a lot of stamped linen goods which we are offering at cost to clear.

Trimmed millinery always on hand or trimmed to order at short notice.

Mrs. H. A. Quality.

Newcastle, Nov. 4, 1897.

To Cure an Obstinate Cough

Leading doctors recommend "GAMBELL'S Wine of Beech Tree Greenoate."

It seldom fails to cure, and is sure to give relief.

Ask your Druggist for it.

K. CAMPBELL & Co., Mfrs., Montreal.

Chatham Steam Laundry & Dye Works.

FITSPATRICK BUILDING, UPPER WATER STREET, CHATHAM. TELEPHONE 80.

THIS SPACE IS RESERVED FOR THE

For Sale.

A Rare Chance.

The Hotel Pontiac, situated in the centre of the town of Newcastle, N. B., between public wharf and railway. Consisting of a large yard, large shed, iron and brass foundry, fully of her ultimate value, 4000 sq. ft. 60 feet machine shop, 30x50 feet, containing good condition and well equipped with bearing and prominent tools, blacksmith shop, first-class engine and steel boiler and erection well that throws water over roof; abundance of patterns of best description. Will be sold on easy terms. Title good.

A good vertical boiler, 8 ft. high, 4 ft. diameter, 70 tubes with connections complete, cheap.

Reasons for selling—Old age and physically disabled. Also for sale, a steel and cast iron cemetery railing 916 feet, very best quality, and a ton of pure copper.

JAMES MURRAY.

M. Bannan's Cheap Grocery Store.

Owing to sharp competition and scarcity of money, I have reduced my prices 25 per cent on all cash sales.

To give you an idea of the cut I have made you can get

10 lbs. hand picked Beans for 20c.

Every lot of the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has the trade mark on the wrapper around the box, and the purchaser can protect himself from imposition by refusing all others. Sold by all dealers at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

AT COST.

During the month of November I will sell my large stock of Crockery and Glassware at cost.

CALL EARLY AND SECURE BARGAINS.

J. W. Davidson.

Newcastle, Nov. 1st, 1897.

Street's Specialties.

Street's Beef, Iron and Wine is what you need now, to build up your system, and prevent you from taking cold. Price 75c.

Street's Perfect Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda is a reliable remedy for Coughs, Colds and General Debility. Pleasant to the taste and is easily digested. Price 50c.

Street's Worm Syrup

is a pleasant, and efficient remedy for worms, in children and adults. Price 25c.

Street's Corn Salve is a sure cure. Price 25c. Our Own Corn Condition Powder, is the Farmer's Favorite. Large Package 25c. Prepared only by

E. LEE STREET.

AT THE NEWCASTLE DRUG STORE, Newcastle, Oct. 26th.

Clarke & Co.

Newcastle, Oct. 12, 1897.

GENTS' FURNISHINGS.

WHERE ARE YOU GOING TO BUY YOUR OVER COAT, ULSTER OR REEFER THIS FALL?

We have a big stock in and marked down at

ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.

We are bound to undersell anything in this town whether he be Jew or Gentile.

L. B. McMurdo, OAK HALL, NEWCASTLE, N. B.

Bulbs.

I have in stock Easter Lilies, Chinese Sacred Lilies, Hyacinths, all colors, Tulips, Crocuses, Snowdrops, all for sale at low rates.

1 tons of grapes to arrive, different kinds. For sale very low by the basket.

Geo. Stables.

Newcastle, Oct. 6th, 1897.

For Sale.

A Rare Chance.

The Hotel Pontiac, situated in the centre of the town of Newcastle, N. B., between public wharf and railway. Consisting of a large yard, large shed, iron and brass foundry, fully of her ultimate value, 4000 sq. ft. 60 feet machine shop, 30x50 feet, containing good condition and well equipped with bearing and prominent tools, blacksmith shop, first-class engine and steel boiler and erection well that throws water over roof; abundance of patterns of best description. Will be sold on easy terms. Title good.

A good vertical boiler, 8 ft. high, 4 ft. diameter, 70 tubes with connections complete, cheap.

Reasons for selling—Old age and physically disabled. Also for sale, a steel and cast iron cemetery railing 916 feet, very best quality, and a ton of pure copper.

JAMES MURRAY.

M. Bannan's Cheap Grocery Store.

Owing to sharp competition and scarcity of money, I have reduced my prices 25 per cent on all cash sales.

To give you an idea of the cut I have made you can get

10 lbs. hand picked Beans for 20c.

Every lot of the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has the trade mark on the wrapper around the box, and the purchaser can protect himself from imposition by refusing all others. Sold by all dealers at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

ASK FOR THE Balloon Brand SAUSAGES

PUT UP BY JOHN HOPKINS, St. John, N. B.

TO LET.

The Dwelling House formerly occupied by L. B. McMurdo, Possession immediately. For particulars apply to

L. B. McMurdo.

Newcastle, N. B.

BUSINESS ANNOUNCEMENT!

We are now located in our New Store in the PHINNEY BLOCK. With a nicely fitted store, plenty of room and a bigger stock than ever, we feel in a position to supply the wants of the public which we never had before, we wish this week to call your particular attention to two lines.

No. 1 DRESS GOODS.

We have endeavored to secure the latest novelties in this line and think we have succeeded fairly well. Fancy Tweed Mixtures, Silk Mixtures, Coat Cloths from 50c. to $1, these are 64 inch goods and trimmed with tubular velvet of which we have a good assortment in black and colored make a stylish dress. We have also plain Serges in black and colors the best values we have ever shown. We think we have just as nice an assortment as need be. To make sure that our judgment is correct come in and see them. Trimmings to match.

No. 2 LADIES' JACKETS.

We have them right, $2.50 to $10, sizes enough, prices enough, variety enough to please anyone. Just see our $3.60 Jacket is a daisy.

THE OWNERS OF RAMSEY'S CONDITION POWDER

Should Know That

is the Best Blood Purifier to be found for Horses and Cattle. For Diseases in Sheep, Hogs and Poultry it is unexcelled. Put up in Half and One Pound air tight cans, which keeps it fresh even if not used for a year. All like preparations that are put up in cardboard or paper packages lose their strength in a short time.

It contains more powder and will go further than any other Condition Powder sold elsewhere at the same price.

Special Prices on Five or Ten Pound Lots.

N. R. MACKENZIE, Chemist and Druggist. "The Pharmacy."

Newcastle, Oct. 26th, 1897.

GRAND DISPLAY Of Fall and Winter goods.

Style and beauty now team from every nook and corner of our store. The top notch of excellence and value has now been reached by Mailer Bros. Special 75 pairs of blizzard blankets extra heavy and large size only $2.50 per pair.

25 dozen of Men's lambs wool underwear only 50 cents per garment.

75 pairs of Men's heavy working pants at $1.15 per pair. Workmen's heavy all wool pants at $1.45 per pair. Cardigan Jackets Top Shirts and hundreds of other articles all cut down in price

Interesting Items for the Ladies.

Just opened up this week, novelties in dress goods, side combs, belt pins, belt buckles, and fancy hair pins. Women's and girls' saques in every style and price. The newest ideas in sailor and walking hats, gloves, etc.

Gents, don't pay 20 and 25 dollars for your fall suit. We will take your measure, guarantee you a perfect fit for $11.50 to $15.00.

MAILER BROS., Sutherland Store, Opposite Post Office, NEWCASTLE, N. B.

Now Open THE GRANITE STORE.

T. MORRISON'S NEW PREMISES.

NEW BLOCK, NEW STORE, NEW GOODS.

My new store is now open and I invite the public to call and inspect my stock of Dry Goods, Gents' Furnishings, Boots and Shoes, Ready Made Clothing, Furniture, &c., &c.

All my stock is New and Fresh, the latest designs and shades. Owing to enormous quantities of goods in manufacturers' hands I was enabled to purchase and will give my customers the advantage of getting more for a dollar than they ever did.

At Large Discount,

My store is fitted up with all the modern improvements and every attention will be shown to customers.

Thanking the public for their patronage since the fire, I ask for a continuance of their custom, and with improved facilities I am better able to serve them than ever.

D. Morrison, GRANITE HOUSE.

Newcastle, July 30th, 1897.

THROUGH BILLS OF LADING DIRECT FROM BERLIN, GERMANY, Fall Importations to J. D. Creaghan.

390 Ladies' Capes, Jackets and Mantles—the latest, the most stylish, from

Great Britain and France. CANADIAN MILLS

1500 pairs grey and white wool Blankets at a great sacrifice in price. Just fancy a large pair grey wool Blankets for $1.50 worth $2.75; a large pair white wool Blankets for $2.75 worth $4.00. Grey cottons, Flannelettes, Flannels, &c. Special importation of perfect fitting custom made clothing. Hats, Caps, Shirts and Gents' Furnishings.

J. D. Creaghan, NEWCASTLE & CHATHAM.

