DIED IN A FIT OF COUGHING

Sudden Demise of an Elderly Man at Toronto—Boy Crushed to Death.

DIED IN A COUGHING FIT.
Toronto, Nov. 22.—An elderly gentleman named Leonard was attacked with a severe fit of coughing and died suddenly at the residence of James Gallagher, 44 "Pape" avenue. Dr. Passmore, summoned, but arrived too late to render aid. It is supposed that Mr. Leonard's death was due to the bursting of a blood vessel.

FOUND IN TORONTO BAY.
Toronto, Nov. 22.—The dead body of Rosa May, a middle-aged laundress, was found in the bay at the foot of Cherry street today by two men employed on a dredge. The woman's identity was established from letters found in her pocket. She was penniless and despondent, and it is regarded as a clear case of suicide.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.
Kingston, Ont., Nov. 22.—A dispatch from Morton, Ont., says: "Marion Stevens, while playing at David Meakin's, went to the door. She knocked a gun down, and as she went to pick it up, she accidentally shot herself in the right side, cutting an artery leading from the heart and died instantly."

CRUSHED TO DEATH.
Toronto, Nov. 22.—Yesterday afternoon a score of boys were playing in and around an unoccupied frame building on Evans avenue, when it suddenly collapsed, burying several of the boys in the ruins. Wm. Barry, aged 8, died a few minutes after being taken out. Willie Brash, 12 years, and Frank Cogshall, 10 years were terribly injured, and are in a critical condition. Several got away unhurt. The collapse of the building was caused by the boys chopping away the posts and scantling to feed a bonfire they had started in an adjoining ravine.

The little mix-up between Rev. Richard Hatchett and Rev. William Le Burtis, which occurred last Thursday at the store of the latter on Dundas street, Woodstock, led to the appearance in the police court of Alexander Green on Saturday afternoon. Green is an adopted son of Mrs. Le Burtis, and he was charged with assaulting Mr. Hatchett. Rev. Wm. Le Burtis said he had been called a liar by the reverend gentleman, and had consequently ordered him out. He said he would go when he got ready. Then Le Burtis and Green put him out twice.

Rev. Mr. Hatchett threw a stone through the window. Green was fined $5 and costs. Rev. Mr. Hatchett claimed Rev. Mr. Le Burtis was drunk.

IT WAS QUITE UNEXPECTED!

Commercial Treaty Between France and Italy.

Speculation Regarding Its Effect on European Alliances.

Paris, Nov. 22.—It was quite unexpectedly announced yesterday that a commercial treaty had been concluded between France and Italy, granting mutually favored treatment, except for silk goods, which will remain subject to the maximum tariff. A bill, embodying the agreement, will be submitted immediately to the chamber of deputies. The government also introduced a bill in the chamber today modifying the wine duties favorable to Italy.

The negotiations that have culminated in this arrangement have been on foot for two years. But nobody believed that a definite agreement was pending. It is believed that the French affair was instrumental in inducing France to grant the necessary concessions, though it is noteworthy that the silk duties, which caused the breaking of the treaty in 1887, remain almost unchanged. The negotiations have been conducted with the utmost secrecy.

The exact effect of the concessions involved is not known as yet, but it is expected that they will have an important political influence for the removal of a long-standing friction between the two countries. The treaty, it is noticed, was concluded during the absence of Emperor William from Germany, and there is much speculation regarding the probable results upon the European alliance.

REACHING OUT.

London, Nov. 22.—The Birmingham Post says an agreement has been arrived at with the Congo Free State, "allowing the surveying of an African transcontinental line along the western shores of Lake Tanganyika and Albert Edward."

IMPERIALISM.

The Daily Mail, referring to Canada's contribution to the West Indies relief fund, says that it is an eloquent reminder of the duties due from the mother country and fostered by the spirit of imperialism. Canada's canal, the P. R. R., its confederation of provinces, its preferential trade law, naval reserve scheme—all these have been prompted by Canada's spirit of imperialism. And what is it, adds the Mail, but business-like imperialism which induces Lord Strathcona, of Canada, to confer with the government with reference to a Canadian fast steamship service. Historians will have much history about Canada's lead in imperialism.

A CRISIS.

London, Nov. 22.—The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News says something of a sensation has been caused there by the announcement in headed type in the semi-official North Gazette that Dr. Von Miquel, Russian minister of finance, instead of Prince Hohenlohe, the chancellor, presided over the cabinet council held yesterday (Monday). The Daily News correspondent says: "The fact that Prince Hohenlohe is in the best health and can be seen any day walking the streets gives some color to the rumor of a chancellors crisis."

THE KAISER AND HIS TRIP.

Berlin, Nov. 21.—Emperor William is expected to arrive here at the end of the week. It is said that in conversation at Messina he spoke optimistically of the situation.

PLAGUE RIOT IN INDIA.

London, Nov. 22.—A dispatch to the Times from Allahabad, capital of the northwest provinces of India, says: "A serious plague riot took place at Serlingapatam on Nov. 18. Ten thousand natives from the villages round about concentrated in Serlingapatam and made a desperate effort to enter the fort and rescue the prisoners there. Another mob from the Mysore side tried to rush the bridge. In each case the police fired volleys, and succeeded in frustrating the attempt. Many persons were killed or injured. For thirty-six hours the police were kept under arms. Utterly traitorous and lawless patched to the scene of the disturbance to be in readiness for any renewal."

FINAL OFFER TO THE DONS

False Report That Spanish-American Negotiations Had Ceased

Judge Day Submits the Final Proposition From Washington.

Spanish Commissioners Expect to Reply on Wednesday—Favorable Comments of London Newspapers on the Proposition—Rebellion in the Visayas Islands Suppressed.

Paris, Nov. 22.—The bulletin sent out yesterday, stating that "the president of the Spanish peace commission, Senor Montero Rios, had refused to continue the negotiations," was probably the work of stock jobbers.

The United States peace commissioners have undoubtedly made their final proposition here.

When the conference opened yesterday afternoon, Judge Day, addressing Senor Montero Rios and his colleagues of the Spanish commission, recurred to the protracted negotiations and reaffirmed the decision of the American commissioners to reach an amicable conclusion. Judge Day concluded his remarks by saying that the Americans, preferring not to break the armistice, or to resume hostilities, had determined to present another and final proposition, which he hoped would lead to a speedy and amicable adjustment. That portion of the presentation setting forth the new proposal—that the United States must have possession of the entire Philippine archipelago, with a tender of $20,000,000 for a treaty cession of the islands—was then read.

Without betraying their mental attitude, the Spanish commissioners suggested an adjournment until Wednesday.

NO THIRD PARTY.

Spain's proposition to invoke the offices of a third power to construe the words, "control, disposition and government of the Philippines," was rejected by the American commissioners on the ground that the dictation of the third article of the protocol, dealing with the Philippines, is so broad and clear as to afford no justification for arbitration as between the parties to the agreement. In the event of cession, Spain may enjoy for a term of 12 years, rights of commerce in the Philippines equal to those of the United States. If the United States acquire the islands by conquest, Spain may not enjoy such rights. Should Spain refuse cession, she may remain liable to indemnity claims, national and individual, since the outbreak of the last Cuban insurrection. Should she refuse indemnity for expenses of the conquest, one of the Carolines, which she may now sell, and other privileges within Spanish jurisdiction might be taken with the United States without any return to Spain for them.

The Spaniards expect to reply at Wednesday's meeting.

THE LONDON PRESS.

London, Nov. 22.—The morning papers concede the generosity of the offers of the United States peace commissioners, and express the opinion that Spain would be foolish to reject them. They express universal gratification at the announcement of an "open door" policy in the Philippines. The Daily Mail calls the offer of $20,000,000 an indemnity a surprising act of generosity. The papers generally take it for granted that the "open door" will be adopted in the West Indies also. The Daily News says: "The United States have now become an Asiatic power, and Lord Salisbury clearly has reason to predict that the expansion of the United States would give Great Britain a valuable ally in the China seas."

REBELLION SUPPRESSED.

The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail says: Gen. Rios, the Spanish governor of the Visayas Islands, cables from Iloilo that the rebellion of the native forces in the Spanish military service has been subdued. Ninety-seven rebels were court-martialed, of whom 25 were shot and 69 sentenced to imprisonment for life, with hard labor. The insurrection at Davao, on Mindanao Island, has been suppressed, according to Gen. Rios, and tranquility prevails in the rest of the islands, except Negros.

Passengers who arrived at Manila on Monday by the steamer Adelante report that the Spanish gunboats recently visited Sorsogon and fired three shells into the town, claiming that the insurgents there refused to lower their flag when ordered to do so. On the insurgents showing fight, is added, the gunboat left hurriedly. The shells did little damage.

SON OF A PEER

A Sensational Story About the Convict McWherrall.

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Truman, wife of Ramsome Truman, a printer, now living in New York, has been circulating a story to the effect that Walter MacWherrall, who was sentenced to life imprisonment five years ago for the murder of an old couple named Williams near Port Credit, is the son of a Scotch peer, and that she is his wife. The department of justice has been investigating her statements, and is now in communication with the firm of old country lawyers from whom Mrs. Truman received an annuity regularly. She gives MacWherrall the title of Viscount Fraser, son of Lord Malcolm, and is trying to have him liberated, as she says, in her Toronto home at the murder of the Williams.

Truman is known in New York for her excessive indulgence in liquors, and when the latter she frequents the city and new and startling like the above.

URGED TO DECLARE WAR

Against the Bell Telephone Company.

Stringent Measure Advised by Ald. McPhillips.

Is Willing to Put Up $10,000 Personally to Carry on the Fight.

Scheme for a $75,000 Breakwater in West London Vetoed.

Ald. Gerry's Proposition to Buy the Great Railway Company's Franchise—Several Important Matters Discussed by the Aldermen.

The city council met last night and discussed some interesting projects, including a $75,000 breakwater for West London, war with the Bell Telephone Company, the purchase of the London Street Railway, and a decision that no more plank walks be laid in the city. With such a programme a midnight session was inevitable. None of these important undertakings were launched upon, but some of them will be considered again at the next meeting. All the members were present.

Ald. McPhillips pressed his motion to compel the Bell Telephone Company to remove their poles and wires from the city streets, for the reason that their right to operate the system had expired.

The motion was seconded by Ald. Greenlees.

Ald. McPhillips had a pile of documents bearing on the case before him, and his arraignment of the Bell Company was a lengthy one. He reviewed the treatment the city had received at the hands of the company before the new company was formed, and said it was not right they should be allowed to remain here without paying a cent to the city. If he were mayor of the city he would see that the city got what was right and fair from them, he said. Without asking the city to pay a cent, he obtained the opinion of one of the best counsel in Canada, and it corresponded with his own. This corporation was not to be allowed to tear up the streets at will. The company should pay at least $4,000 or $5,000 a year to the city. If the council did nothing, the speaker would, as a private citizen, take steps to have the city protected. When the company did what was right and fair, he would desist. The People's Company had done some good, and if they had been given a fair show their system would now be in operation.

Ald. Greenlees said the Bell Telephone Company was entitled to no consideration at the city's hands whatever. If the negotiations with the People's Company fell through, up would go the rates and the company would again insult the city's officers.

Ald. O'Meara, while admitting that Ald. McPhillips' opinion might be right, said it was the council's duty to obtain the opinion of the city solicitor before they voted for such a motion.

Ald. McPhillips replied that his opinion had been asked months ago and had not been given.

Mr. Joseph Judd, representing the Bell Telephone Company, said the effect of Ald. McPhillips' motion would be to cut down the company's poles. He did not think the company should take such high-handed proceedings. The whole matter had been fought out in Montreal, and the privy council declared in favor of the company, which has a Dominion charter.

During the discussion which followed Ald. McPhillips said that, ten years ago, with his partner, Mr. Hector Cameron, he was connected with the company, and knew what he was talking about.

Some of the aldermen thought it

Gray at Thirty

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expect from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it.

DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

would get the city into a lot of trouble by passing the motion. Ald. Jolly thereupon offered to put up $10,000 to the credit of the city to fight the case with if his motion carried.

A motion by Ald. Taylor to defer action until the city solicitor's opinion be received passed, Ald. McPhillips, Jolly and Greenlees voting nay.

WEST LONDON BREAKWATER. Ald. Douglas moved that a bylaw for $75,000 to build a breakwater in London West be prepared to be submitted to the people in January. Seconded by Ald. Jolly. The mover claimed that the increase in value of property in West London would more than double the cost of the breakwater. It was a small trifle—only 2½ cents a year per $10 of taxes, he said.

Ald. McCallum twisted Ald. Douglas about the scheme being brought for election purposes. What was the total value of West London? he asked.

Ald. Douglas—About $400,000. Ald. Jolly—The $1,000 spent this year on the breakwater had been practically thrown away. He thought a good breakwater could be built for $50,000, and would not cost the city a cent.

Ald. O'Meara graphically pictured the horrors of the floods, which had swept West London, and asked would the aldermen, for the sake of a few cents, see human life and property destroyed in this way.

The mayor said it was a mistake that West London was brought into the city, but that now they were in protection had to be afforded. There could be no harm in submitting the bylaw to the people, anyway.

"How much would it cost to jack it up?" asked Ald. McCallum.

Ald. O'Meara—About half of the taxpaying of London doesn't pay into the city (laughter).

Ald. Hunt said a bylaw for $75,000 would not be likely to pass. Better to ask for $50,000. He moved that the matter be referred to No. 2 committee, and that the engineer bring in a report and plans.

Ald. Cooper objected to the motion because of the expense—$200 for $300—to take the vote.

Ald. Wilkey seconded Ald. Hunt's motion.

The motion by Ald. Douglas was negative also on the following vote: Yeas—Mayor Wilson, Ald. McPhillips, Belton, Douglas, Jolly, O'Meara, Stevely, McCallum—4. Nays—Ald. Winnett, Cooper, Hunt, Dreaney, Wilkey, Nutkins, Gerry and Greenlees—8.

Ald. Taylor was in the chair, and refused to take the responsibility of moving the casting vote. After the motion was declared lost, Ald. Carrothers said he would vote yea, but the chairman refused to entertain the vote. Ald. Douglas gave motion to bring the matter up again at the next meeting.

A CIVIC STREET RAILWAY. Ald. Gerry gave notice of motion that a committee, consisting of Ald. McPhillips, Jolly, Carrothers, Hunt, Nutkins and Greenlees and the mayor, be appointed to consider the advisability of purchasing the franchise of the London street railway, and report to the council, and in case any member of the said committee should not be a member of next year's council, that their place be filled by members of the council of 1899.

AGAINST PLANK WALKS. Ald. Jolly's motion that hereafter no plank walks be laid in the city, but that when a walk be condemned, it be replaced by artificial stone, was referred to No. 2 committee.

Ald. Douglas's motion to place signs on certain streets was also sent to No. 2 committee.

ANOTHER SEARCH FOR MONEY. Ald. Taylor gave notice of motion to provide funds for the building of the butchers' shed.

Ald. Carrothers gave notice of motion that the Ontario Government be petitioned to grant London special legislation to place two of the aldermen on the board of police commissioners. He added that the people were now handicapped by two government appointees.

COMMUNICATIONS. The Kirk-Latty Manufacturing Company of Cleveland, wrote, stating that they have an extensive business in Canada at present, but owing to the duties imposed, they found it essential to establish a factory here. They wished to know the inducements to establish here. They make nails, tacks, etc. Referred to No. 1 committee.

No. 2 committee will deal with a communication from Mr. W. H. Bartram, asking for the dismissal of Foreman, Hea and City Engineer Graydon, on the ground of incompetency.

George A. Rowe, et al., petitioned for a drain on Oxford street west, about 600 feet. No. 2 committee.

A most pathetic case is that of Mr. W. T. Tanner, of Becher street, who slipped off the end of the King street bridge while it was being constructed, and sustained injury to his spine. Worry over this unsettled his reason, and he is in the asylum. An application for damages was sent to No. 1 committee.

John Garvey and others asked for an electric light at the corner of Richmond and Carling streets.

The regulations governing the handling of rage and bones in the city, as proposed by the board of health, were the subject of a letter from the city solicitor, who questioned the city's right to enforce them. Referred to the board of health with power.

A petition from Edward Webster and others for the use of the East End town hall, in which to hold an entertainment on Thanksgiving night, was granted, but not before Ald. McCallum had pointed out that the bylaw calling for the rental of $5 per night for the hall was being ignored. Ald. Jolly.

Mr. W. D. Stanley, Middlesex county auditor, wrote, intimating that his council would not be favorable to the changes made by the city council in the hospital agreement. Referred to the hospital committee with power to negotiate.

POLICE REMISS. Mr. Peter Birtwistle applied to the council to obtain police protection for his property on King street west, now vacant. Application to the chief, he said, was ineffectual. The street railway company had been furnished with four policemen for each car because some of the windows were broken. Yet his building would hold all the cars in the city, and the windows in it had been broken, and the doors forced repeatedly. A policeman caught one culprit, but the magistrate let him go.

Ald. McPhillips said this was one of many such complaints. He moved to specially instruct the chief to look after the matter. If it was a case of a hanging lamp over the sidewalk, or some drygoods boxes on the sidewalk, respected citizens would handle it, and find it. Yet some of the heaviest ratepayers couldn't get protection. It was a disgrace to the city.

Ald. O'Meara seconded. He thought it should have been the special duty of the police to look after the property after attention had been called to it.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES. The report of No. 2 committee was submitted by Ald. Douglas, chairman, and adopted unchanged.

No. 1 committee's report was submitted by Ald. Winnett. One clause recommended "that the mayor be instructed to sign and complete the agreements made by your committee in connection with the city hall disaster."

A recommendation to disperse with the services of Mr. Jolly, assistant in Mr. Carrother's office, was not adopted. The chairman said the assessment commissioner found an assistant necessary the year round.

Ald. O'Meara thought an assistant was needed there only in the busy season.

The mayor said he had been empowered to make the appointment temporarily, which meant that it could last through his term of office. It was, he said, not the agreed piece of business of the committee to take this matter out of the hands of myself and the commissioner.

MR. CHIPMAN WAS NOT DISMISSED.

The report of the sewerage committee, as submitted by Chairman Cooper, recommended that the services of Consulting Engineer Chipman be dispensed with, the time of his engagement by the city having expired on Nov. 1.

Ald. Cooper would not move the adoption of the clause, and read an extract from the agreement with the city to show that they had to engage him for at least three months. He moved that Mr. Chipman be re-engaged for three months. Ald. O'Meara seconded.

Ald. Stevely said that if Mr. Chipman was not re-engaged, he would be dismissed at the outset of the work. He moved in amendment that Mr. Chipman's services be retained at his present salary during the pleasure of the council.

A SEWER DIFFICULTY. Ald. McCallum asked that Mr. Boyd, of Wreay street, be allowed to state the grievances of the Wreay street residents, whose cellars are flooded in consequence of Mr. R. Stephens, of Westminster township, draining his property into the Wreay street sewer.

Ald. Greenlees produced a copy of a resolution passed in the Westminster township council in 1889, and which gave Mr. Stephens power to lay a drain from his property into the Wreay street sewer. The power was exercised at the time. Ald. Greenlees said, and the power given by No. 2 committee was quite additional. Mr. Stephens was said to have got bored, and was draining his neighbors' property also. No action was taken.

HOSPITAL MATTERS. The hospital committee's report was read by Chairman Carrothers. Ald. Wilkey opposed the grant of $50 each to the unsuccessful architects who had submitted plans for the new hospital. The clause was adopted on a division of 10 to 4.

The tenders of Smith Bros. & Co. to put in marble in connection with the plumbing for $2,249, and of Mariyn & Hannett, to lay tile floors for $1,920, were accepted.

INQUIRIES. Ald. McCallum asked who gave P. L. Maréchal & Co. permission to settle on the city's property on Thames street. Ald. Cooper could not give the information. He understood it was on the authority of the engineer, but he had not yet looked into the case.

Ald. McCallum explained that his works rental Mr. Marden had shifted his place from Miss Dunnett's place to the city property.

BYLAWS. The bylaw granting an extension of time under their franchise to the People's Telephone Company, was given a first reading and laid over.

A bylaw to ratify the agreement between the county and city relating to the administration of justice, was read three times and passed.

A bylaw for $55,000, representing the debt of the city of West London, another for $6,300 for the north end school, and a third for $8,000 for the Collegiate Institute addition, were each passed.

The London Bolt Company's exemption bylaw got two readings, and was laid over.

The mayor was authorized to ratify an agreement to pay $600 toward the cost of the switching privileges arbitration between the L. E. and D. R. R. and the G. T. R.

NATURAL GAS

A Lucky Strike on a Hamilton Mountain Farm.

Hamilton, Nov. 22.—Yesterday morning, while drilling a well on Wm. Beattie's farm, half a mile east of Ryckman's Corners, James Marshall struck a capital flow of natural gas. The drill had reached a depth of 212 feet, when suddenly there was a rumbling noise followed by a jet of salt water, which spouted 80 feet above the surface of the ground. Up to three o'clock the salt water was steadily flowing out of the hole with every indication of the presence of gas in large quantity. Many people visited the well as soon as the news of Mr. Jardine's luck was circulated.

The Dangerous Knife

CANCER ROOTS cannot be removed by operations of any kind, and in most cases the disease returns in a worse form. We would be glad to send particulars of a principle which leading physicians are now adopting. The cure is remarkable.

DECIDED SUCCESS

Of the Catholic Club Opening Concert—the Performance To Be Repeated.

The Catholic Club gave their opening concert of the season last night in their spacious rooms on Richmond street. The hall was filled some time before the hour for starting, and a large number who tried to gain admittance after this had to be turned away. In order that all who desire may enjoy this musical treat, the concert will be repeated next week, date to be announced later.

This club has always had the reputation of getting up some of the best concerts of the season, and this reputation was well sustained last night before an appreciative audience. The programme was an excellent one, and was introduced by the president with a few remarks. Rev. Father Tiernan also made a pleasant little speech. Every number of the evening was well received. The programme was provided by well-known local talent, as follows:

Chorus, "Faust" soldier's chorus; piano solo, Miss Walsh; vocal solo, M. Appari "Martha." Mr. J. Coates Lockhart; vocal solo, "Past and Future." Miss Wells; vocal duet, Messrs. Coles and Miller; male chorus, "Onward"; piano solo, Miss Walsh; vocal solo, "The Sailor's Grave." Mr. J. C. Lockhart; recitation, Mr. Conway; vocal solo, "Sing, Sweet Bird." Miss Wells; anvil chorus, "See How Darkness."

The members of the club chorus are the Misses Dwyer, Peck, Murray, Mulligan, Kelly, McKittick, Deaghy, Froman, Moore (2), Connors and Wells, and Mrs. Mullins, and Messrs. Miller, O'Hagan, LeBel, Blye, Leach, P. Coles, Forrestal and Murphy. Mr. Mullins was director and Miss Moore accompanist.

A BRAVE SOLDIER.

Tells How He Contracted Rheumatism on Service.

His Sufferings Were Terrible and He Could Get No Relief Till He Began Using Dodd's Kidney Pills—Then His Cure Came Quickly.

Windsor, Nov. 21.—"I have suffered for many years from chronic Rheumatism," writes Mr. F. G. Fenton, of this city. "I have seen active military service on different occasions, in different climates, and the hardships I have borne sowed the seeds of the disease in my system, and nourished it, till it had me completely in the toils. I went through the Northwest campaign, 1885, and after my return home, I thought I would never be of use again."

"My sufferings were past the power of words to describe. Every joint was a furnace of fiery burning pain. Every movement seemed to tear my flesh apart, and I used to cry after dinner, but with always the same result—failure."

"Finally, thank God, I was advised to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I did so, and the result is told in three words—They Cured Me."

"I have served in the Thirty-Third (British) Regiment, through an Indian campaign, and in No. 2 Co., R. R. C. I., and my comrades in the latter corps were much for the truth of these statements."

Mr. Fenton is a man who has earned an honorable record in the service of his Queen and country. He knows whereof he speaks, and his word cannot be doubted. He has no experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills enough to prove beyond dispute that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one, the only cure on earth for Rheumatism?

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at 50 cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or sent, on receipt of price, to the Dods Medicine Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Holland has established compulsory service for all Dutch citizens in the army. The only persons exempted are priests, ministers and divinity students.

FAGGED OUT.—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength has gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there was nothing to live for, and that they were better dead.

As Parnelle's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Dandelion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parnelle's Pills.

SCROFULA. Whether transmitted from parents or acquired, it is within the curative range of the Sarsaparillian Resolvent.

Cures have been made where persons have been afflicted with Scrofula from their youth up to 30, 40 and 50 years of age, by DR. RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT, a remedy composed of ingredients of extraordinary medical properties, essential to purify, heal, repair and invigorate the broken down and wasted body. Quick, pleasant, safe and permanent in its treatment and cure.

Sold by all druggists. $1 a bottle.

Radway's Pills

Always Reliable, Purely Vegetable.

Perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. RADWAY'S PILLS for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Dizziness, Vertigo, Costiveness, Piles.

Sick Headache, Female Complaints, Biliousness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Constipation and all Disorders of the Liver.

True Comfort for the Aged and Others afflicted with Costiveness and Paralysis of the Bowels.

One to three of Radway's Pills, once in twenty-four hours, will secure regular evacuations from the bowels. Persons who, for 20 years, have not enjoyed a natural stool, and have been compelled to use injections, have been cured by a few doses of Radway's Pills. Persons advanced in life often suffer from indigestion, and from paralysis or inability to evacuate from the bowels; likewise from urinary difficulties. We have the evidence of a large number of aged persons, from 70 to 80 years of age, who have been cured of this defect (who were compelled to resort to injections to empty their bowels) by the use of Radway's Pills. Two or three pills every night, in all cases, insure a natural evacuation from the bowels, and a regular flow of urine. In cases where there is irritation of the bladder, the Resolvent should be used alternately with the pills. If the organs are kept regular, life may be extended to a much longer period. By keeping the Liver, Stomach, Bowels and Kidneys in a healthy condition, the blood will be pure and dissolution checked. This great desideratum is within the reach of all by the use of Radway's Pills and Resolvent. Drastic Aloetic Pills in persons of advanced age, hasten dissolution; irritates and wears out the bowels and coats of the stomach, destroys the absorbent, so that these vessels are incapable of assisting in the repair of the body's waste. If Radway's Pills and Resolvent are used by the aged, life will be prolonged to the full measure of time. Another great end is secured by nourishing the body with these remedies—the faculties will remain in healthy condition. A weak, feeble and decaying body enfeebls the intellect and clouds the brain.

Price 50c per box. Sold by Druggists or Sent by Mail.

The Protestant Orphans Home

It is hardly necessary to defend the ladies and gentlemen who have managed the London Protestant Orphans' Home for so many years. The institution has done excellent work for well-nigh a quarter century. It is doing good work today, and we have no doubt it will continue admirably to perform its unremunerated labors of love through long years to come. To oversee and maintain such an institution is no sinecure. The names of those who, in London, have given so much of their time and attention to this department of child-sheltering and child-saving, are a sufficient guaranty that everything that is practicable is being done to carry out the philanthropic work in the best manner. The thanks of the public are due to these ladies and gentlemen who so interest themselves. Dealing often with peculiar circumstances and difficult persons, the work is not without attendant annoyances; and the least self-denying workers have a right to expect, in freedom from the slanders of irresponsible sensationalism.

The Bonding Privilege.

The Boston Chamber of Commerce will petition the international conference to retain the bonding privilege accorded Canadian railways. This Chamber speaks directly for the vast manufacturing interests of New England. These interests had a representative at Quebec during the sitting of the conference, urging the retention of the Canadian bonding privilege, which the great American railway corporations would cancel if they had the power. We do not see that the question should be a subject for discussion by the conference at all. The American commissioners cannot demand a quid pro quo for the bonding privilege, because it is not so much a concession or favor to Canada, as an advantage to the United States. The shortest route between the New England and the Western States lies through Canada, and to lose the advantage of carrying goods in bond over Canadian railways would be a blow at American interests, which are too powerful to be defied. Not only would it fall heavily on the east, but the western agriculturists would feel it in a manner picturequely described by Senator Knute Nelson, of Minnesota, thus:

"Whenever we destroy the bonding privilege, the right of transit through Canada from the far Northwest to New England, that very moment you strike a blow at every American farmer in the Northwest. You are binding him hand and foot, and putting him into the caldron of these (American) railroads, to roast and singe in a purgatory of railroad rates."

Prospective Blow at Our Fish Trade.

The United States consul at San Juan, Porto Rico, calls attention to the large market which that island affords for Canadian fish. He thinks that the market should be captured by United States fishermen, and no doubt when the island tariff is fully Dingleyized it will work that way. The American tariff aimed at the Canadian fishing industry was a singular piece of folly and short-sightedness. In seeking to exclude Canadian fish from New England markets, more injury was inflicted on the Massachusetts fish trade than on the Canadian. During the era of free fish, Massachusetts merchants carried on a large and profitable business by purchasing the fish of Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, after these fish had been dried; then bringing them to Boston and sending them for sale to the Spanish and British West Indies and South America. But that business was killed when a duty was put on Canadian fish. Says the Boston Herald:

"As a rule the fish dried in the Canadian Provinces are better dried than those which are dried on our Massachusetts coast, on account of climatic conditions, and when the duty in the tariff was imposed upon Canadian fish, it became difficult for our merchants to maintain the trade with the West Indies in the manner in which it had formerly been carried on. Twenty years past shipments of the West Indies of provincial caught fish, which formerly went from Boston, have been made from Halifax, and in the absence of a large and constant business, we have not been able to maintain from Boston, as we otherwise should have done, a line of steamers to the West Indies, hence our fish merchants have been compelled to send their goods for shipment to New York. This has been unfortunate for the trade of Boston, for if we had to the extent that we formerly had the opportunities of sending large quantities of goods to these southern places, the basis would exist for establishing a line of steamers from Boston to the West Indies, and perhaps to South America, and as the development of one line of trade leads on to another, these shipments of fish would have been accompanied by shipments of New England products of various kinds, so that in this way a trade would have been built up which is enjoyed by our New York rivals."

Thus the United States tariff, designed to aid American fishermen, diverted a large export trade from Boston to Halifax. The American Government will probably attempt to throw this trade back again to Massachusetts. It has already taken one step by applying its navigation laws to Porto Rico, and the next move will probably be the assimilation of the Porto Rican tariff to that of the United States. The Porto Ricans find it profitable to buy Canadian fish, but their profit must be subordinated to that of American fishermen.

Continent of Cut-Throats.

On the first of this month Nicaragua, Honduras and Salvador were consolidated into one republic with the title "United States of Central America." They started off with a brand-new constitution. But revolution has already shown its ugly head. Salvador, the largest of the three states, claims ascendancy in national affairs. The Salvador Conservatives, the revolutionary party, have kidnapped the Governor, and will probably meet the troops of Honduras and Nicaragua in battle. The speedy disruption of the union is almost certain, and there will doubtless be a legacy of bitterness which will defeat future attempts at coalition.

Any other result would have been surprising. There is not a republic in South America fit for self-government, with the possible exception of Argentina, which is largely colonized by Europeans. Brazil was tolerably well governed under Emperor Dom Pedro, but he was overthrown in the name of liberty by a horde of brigands, who continue to demonstrate their notions of liberty by bloodshed and revolution. It is the same in nearly every South American country: torn by bloody faction fights at the instigation of political adventurers. The people are a mongrel crew; the copious Spanish strain is not the best assurance for the evolution of the national character in something higher and better. With decent government there would be a large influx of Europeans, who would in time elevate the standard of civilization. It is understood that Germany once had an eye on Brazil as a field for colonization, but the Kaiser prefers that his subjects should stay under the German flag, and the Monroe Doctrine prevented its being planted in South America. The republics there are Uncle Sam's proteges. He can hardly be proud of them.

The Sultan's cash box was sadly drained in entertaining the Kaiser. In former days this could be remedied by sipping from the Armenians, but the Turks have killed the goose that laid the golden egg.

The Spanish-American peace commission has arrived at a pretty warm stage. Perhaps it is just as well in the interests of peace that the commissioners have to talk at each other through an interpreter.

The Kolnische Zeitung of Berlin wants American sausages kept out of Germany. The Germans regard the sausage as a distinctly national institution. It is natural they should resent foreign interference.

Robert G. Porter, who was sent by President McKinley to Cuba to look into the economics of the island, reports in favor of a 60 per cent reduction of the Cuban tariff. The twin evils of Spanish rule and high protection have impoverished fertile Cuba.

The thrift of the Scotch is revealed by the British parliamentary returns of the savings bank deposits. The English had on Nov. 20, 1897, the sum of £20,045,197 to their credit, and the Scotch, £14,865,271. Yet the population of England is nearly seven times that of Scotland.

Mr. Garrow, the new member of the Ontario Cabinet, is an able and practical man, a skillful lawyer and an adept parliamentarian. He has always been temperate in political discussion, and no one is more successful in holding the attention of the whole House.

In July, August and September of this year we imported $4,972,163 worth of the great staples of British manufacture, as compared with $4,350,272 worth in the corresponding period last year. There can be little doubt that the preferential tariff is one cause of the increase.

Professor Wiggins says the recent meteoric showers are caused by the people of Mars pelting us with stones to attract our attention. But the professor has pelted us so often with such yarns that he attracts attention no longer. He has ceased to add to the gaiety of nations.

It would seem that the once bitter enmity between France and Italy is being healed. They have agreed to arbitrate their dispute in Africa, and have concluded a commercial treaty. Is the project of a union of the Latins—France, Italy and Spain—taking shape? They are all beset with serious troubles, and a common sympathy tends to link them. "Affliction's sons are brothers in distress."

The growth of population in the 15 largest cities of the United States is shown by the following comparative table:

Mr. H. Foster, M.P., now in New York, has great hopes of enduring peace between Britain and the United States. "He said that, of course, we had had our family jars in the past, but that neither country had believed in the probability of an armed contest between us. This, he thought, was best evidenced by the fact that we never were both angry at the same time. If the American people showed signs of irritation, the English people were sober; and if England seemed guided for the moment by want of reason, the Americans were calm and collected."

Why Anarchy Thrives.

[Philadelphia Ledger.]

Great Britain has accepted an invitation to take part in a conference with European powers to consider measures for the suppression of anarchy, but Lord Salisbury confesses that he has no great hope of a successful outcome. There is no such hope in sight. Anarchy is a product of the conditions existing in Europe, and until those conditions change it will continue to flourish. The statesmen who will be called to consider it will, perhaps, note that it is most rampant in those countries where the most despotic conditions prevail. There is comparatively little of it in England, where it is never dangerous, but a great deal in Germany, Italy and Russia.

The Reason.

I know a fair young maiden,
Into eighteen stores she went;
She spent all day a shopping,
And she never spent a cent.

You'll think this was outrageous,
But I do not think you will,
If you stop and just consider
That her papa paid the bill.

CUTICURA
WORKS WONDERS.A Remarkable Cure of Sore Eyes
And Sight Restored.

I am a graduate of Oberlin College, taught long enough to have been given the Honorary degree, and I have a great many acquaintances in and around Boston. About three years ago my son brought home a box of Cuticura Soap, and I picked up the circular that was around it, and learned about the CUTICURA SOAP, and told him to get me a cake. When I got it, the circular advised its use for the bath, teeth, scalp, etc. I had been a great sufferer all my life from sore eyelids, the whole lid outside and in was red as a beet. I had to sit in a dark room, evenings, for eight and a half years, and wear black spectacles to keep the sun from my eyes in the daytime. When I got the CUTICURA SOAP, I got a fine, soft cloth, dipped it in hot water and rubbed it on the soap and washed my eyes with it. I can't tell you how much good it has done me, although it is smarted very much at first. My eyes are as clear and bright as when I was a young lady. I had to go back to work in getting spectacles and wear No. 15, the same as I did twenty years ago. I can read medium sized print in daylight without any spectacles. As a matter of course I am kind of a walking advertisement of CUTICURA. People will call to me when I am going along the street and tell me how much good my CUTICURA SOAP has done their eyes.
—Mrs. M. R. CONGDON,
Jan. 13, '97. 28 No. Cedar Avenue, Oberlin, O.

22—We take pleasure in publishing this testimonial as showing the interest taken in CUTICURA REMEDIES, and the various uses made of them not anticipated or suggested by us. We cannot, of course, anticipate how CUTICURA SOAP will work in cases similar to the above, but to those who desire to try it we would suggest beginning with a very weak solution or "suds" of warm water and CUTICURA Soap until its action is determined. For inflamed, granulated, or cataractous eyelids, light applications of CUTICURA ointment will in most cases be found to work wonders.

Ready for...
Thanksgiving

THANKSGIVING is the initial winter holiday. The old-time idea of hospitality and good cheer was to make an ABUNDANT SPREAD of everything the ingenuity of the good housewife could suggest on Thanksgiving Day. The more correct conception of the art of feasting is to present "quality," not quantity. With this in mind we invite your attention to our "all-over-the-house" Thanksgiving Sale. Every department stocked with choicest values and appropriate to the season. These few items point the way:

P. O. BOX 807 MONTREAL

Local Market.

London, Tuesday, Nov. 22.

Wheat, white fall, per bu.	69c to 72c
Wheat, red fall, per bu.	69c to 72c
Wheat, spring, per bu.	70c to 72c
Oats, per bu.	43c to 51c
Peas, per bu.	54c to 60c
Corn, per bu.	44c to 45c
Barley, per bu.	48c to 52c

The attendance was only fair today, the rain being a great many from coming in. Deliveries of grain were quite disappointing, only a few loads being offered. Prices were much the same as Saturday.

Eggs were steady, at 17c to 18c for new laid, in baskets, lots.

Butter was lower, the deliveries were heavy again today. Between Saturday and today's receipts there seems to be a surplus, and the result is that lower prices prevail today; closing prices were 12c to 15c for cream, 12c to 16c for butter.

Meats were quiet and unchanged.

Deliveries of potatoes were large; the price ranged from 50c for poor, by the load, to 70c for good, by the bag. No other changes.

POP CORN.

Our shelled rice is the best and largest in the market. Try it.

THE QUEEN OF THE SEASON

But now Mr. Douceby exerted himself to be heard.

"I don't think I have quite made myself understood. I should be happy to drive Lady Vivien, but a violent pain in my wrist—caused, I fear, by holding a heavy book too long last evening—renders it impossible this morning." If the trip could be postponed.

But no one would hear of this, and Aymer loudly protested against it. "We may not have such a sunny day for a week to come. Viva can take the reins, Douceby, if the exertion will be too great for you. She is a capital whip!"

But Mr. Douceby coughed and hemmed, and protested that he could not impose such a task on her ladyship, as the horses were very fresh—in fact, had not been out of the stable. "He is afraid of them, the little coward!" muttered Vivien. "I suppose I may ride one of those fiery steeds of yours, Mr. Douceby?"

He assented eagerly. One or both were at her service; only a growing conviction that he himself was threatened with a cold in his head, which he could not afford to catch, really nothing tried his system so much as incessant sneezing, the brain being sensitive to a degree.

But no one staying to hear more, he slipped away to build up the fire in the library, draw a screen around it, and lounge in a fauteuil with a French novel, till the equestrians returned. Accordingly one of Mr. Douceby's bays was saddled for Vivien, and when she came to the door equipped en Amazone, she found a groom leading the mare up and down the carriage drive, while Sir Innis Hatherfield and her brother were gravely looking on.

Her exclamation, "What a pretty creature!" made them turn and join her.

"Pretty enough, but not well broken in," said Aymer. "Don't ride her to-day, Vivien."

"Because she is a little skittish? Nonsense! I do not care for the tame, spiritless things generally allotted to ladies."

"That is not play, but temper," observed Sir Innis, pointing to the struggle that was going on between the mare and the groom who held her. "I would really be advised by Eselyn if I were you, Lady Vivien."

"Would you?" she queried, with a look that plainly denoted that she did not intend to be. "Are you a very timid horseman, Sir Innis?"

"Not very," he said, but anyone—especially a lady—might feel nervous with such an unmanageable brute as that threatens to be."

"Neither am I timid," Vivien remarked. "And I have a temper of my own, so I can make allowance for my horse."

The baronet shook his head but walked away, and Aymer began to assert himself.

"We must mount you on something else. I can't let you ride this thing of Douceby's."

"And why not?" Because Sir Innis Hatherfield takes upon himself to disapprove of it?"

"He is an excellent judge of horses, Viva," a reply that made Lady Vivien smile satirically.

"Ah! yes, of course. I have learned before today that he is a universal genius; but what his objections about Mr. Douceby's mare have to do with me I cannot understand. I choose to ride her, and he chooses to predict that she is ill-tempered. Well, I don't contradict him, but I intend to please myself."

"And risk a spill. Don't blame me if mischief comes of it."

Vivien disclaimed a reply, but gathered up her skirts and prepared to now joining them, and she had prudently enough before their talking and laughing could make the bay more restive than she was.

A gentleman came forward to assist her, and she sprang lightly on to her flimsy steed; but ere she did so, she heard two or three sentences interchanged that made her compress her lips firmly.

"Viva insisted on riding the brute," were the first words she caught.

"And you intend to permit it?" was the exclamation they evoked.

"My dear Innis, what can I do? If you knew her obstinacy!"

"I know the danger she is incurring, and so do you!" was Sir Innis' answer.

And stung by it into a sense of his duty to his sister, the Earl strode towards her, intending to insist that she give up her purpose. But he was too late. Vivien was not going to be dictated to by Sir Innis Hatherfield, and she made the groom let go the mare's head.

In a few minutes after it is not at all improbable that the adventurous demoiselle wished herself safely where her steed was trying to place her, on terra firma, for a scene ensued that made the ladies shriek and hide their faces, and the masculine lookers-on prepare themselves to witness a sad accident. But Vivien was a good and fearless rider, and after making several attempts to unseat her rider, the mare suffered herself to be controlled, and the relieved party set out on their expedition.

But they did not keep together long. There was a bridge path, which the equestrians preferred, and it was arranged that they should follow it and rejoin the carriage some miles further along the road. Up to this time the bay had cantered by the side of Aymer's horse in such a quiescent mood that Vivien was in the highest spirits, and could not resist casting triumphant looks at her brother and Sir Innis. But when the gate was opened through which they had to pass, the mare suddenly laid her ears back, planted her fore-feet on the ground, and refused to stir.

"Ride on," said Vivien, with the utmost composure; "and she will!"—the word sounded like shall—"follow you."

Easily said, perhaps; and her former victory made the lady sanguine of success; but she was not destined to achieve it this time. Neither coaxing nor threats were of any effect, and Vivien disclaimed to use the whip; her brother provoked at this second display of the creature's temper, rode back to her side to assist or advise her, but as soon as he drew near, the mare backed, and in spite of her rider's efforts to prevent it, galloped off in another direction.

"No matter," said Vivien to herself, "I shall tame her yet. She has not conquered me, and ere long she must tire, and I will be able to guide her where I will. It is but making a detour through the lanes instead of keeping to the dull highways, and in my present humor I don't know but that I prefer my own thoughts to the chatter of Julia and Jane Estridge."

A little while and the mare suffered herself to be turned towards a cross-road leading through a wood, and again Vivien exulted in her perseverance.

"Sir Innis shall see that I am not to be subdued."

But the thought went no further, for the mare started to shie at a white rail, and the triumphant lady found herself she scarcely knew how, lying on the grass beside the road, her cheek smarting with the stings of the nettles on which it reposed, and a curiously unpleasant sensation pervading every limb at any attempt to move them.

She closed her eyes and lay still for a few minutes, feeling too sick and bruised to do anything else. She could hear the mare feeding at no great distance, doubtless enjoying its meal all the more for the victory by which it had gained it. Then she listened for the sounds of pursuit. Doubtless her brother's alarm for her safety had induced him to follow her; but no, no, no, turning into this cross-road must have baffled him, for no welcome tramp, tramp reached her ear.

But what was this she heard coming steadily towards her? Wheeling on a steady trot a horse drawing some light vehicle. It was, it must be the dog-cart driven by Sir Innis, the very person of all others from whom she would have concealed her disaster. Sir Innis, who had foretold it, and whose warning she had imprudently scorned.

For the first time in her life Vivien St. Orme wished she could faint, anything rather than meet the gaze of the dark eyes, whose contemptuous pity would be worse to bear than all the pain she was now suffering.

She could hear the mare feeding at no great distance, doubtless enjoying its meal all the more for the victory by which it had gained it. Then she listened for the sounds of pursuit. Doubtless her brother's alarm for her safety had induced him to follow her; but no, no, no, turning into this cross-road must have baffled him, for no welcome tramp, tramp reached her ear.

But what was this she heard coming steadily towards her? Wheeling on a steady trot a horse drawing some light vehicle. It was, it must be the dog-cart driven by Sir Innis, the very person of all others from whom she would have concealed her disaster. Sir Innis, who had foretold it, and whose warning she had imprudently scorned.

For the first time in her life Vivien St. Orme wished she could faint, anything rather than meet the gaze of the dark eyes, whose contemptuous pity would be worse to bear than all the pain she was now suffering.

wards her, intending to insist that she give up her purpose. But he was too late. Vivien was not going to be dictated to by Sir Innis Hatherfield, and she made the groom let go the mare's head.

In a few minutes after it is not at all improbable that the adventurous demoiselle wished herself safely where her steed was trying to place her, on terra firma, for a scene ensued that made the ladies shriek and hide their faces, and the masculine lookers-on prepare themselves to witness a sad accident. But Vivien was a good and fearless rider, and after making several attempts to unseat her rider, the mare suffered herself to be controlled, and the relieved party set out on their expedition.

But they did not keep together long. There was a bridge path, which the equestrians preferred, and it was arranged that they should follow it and rejoin the carriage some miles further along the road. Up to this time the bay had cantered by the side of Aymer's horse in such a quiescent mood that Vivien was in the highest spirits, and could not resist casting triumphant looks at her brother and Sir Innis. But when the gate was opened through which they had to pass, the mare suddenly laid her ears back, planted her fore-feet on the ground, and refused to stir.

"Ride on," said Vivien, with the utmost composure; "and she will!"—the word sounded like shall—"follow you."

Easily said, perhaps; and her former victory made the lady sanguine of success; but she was not destined to achieve it this time. Neither coaxing nor threats were of any effect, and Vivien disclaimed to use the whip; her brother provoked at this second display of the creature's temper, rode back to her side to assist or advise her, but as soon as he drew near, the mare backed, and in spite of her rider's efforts to prevent it, galloped off in another direction.

"No matter," said Vivien to herself, "I shall tame her yet. She has not conquered me, and ere long she must tire, and I will be able to guide her where I will. It is but making a detour through the lanes instead of keeping to the dull highways, and in my present humor I don't know but that I prefer my own thoughts to the chatter of Julia and Jane Estridge."

A little while and the mare suffered herself to be turned towards a cross-road leading through a wood, and again Vivien exulted in her perseverance.

"Sir Innis shall see that I am not to be subdued."

But the thought went no further, for the mare started to shie at a white rail, and the triumphant lady found herself she scarcely knew how, lying on the grass beside the road, her cheek smarting with the stings of the nettles on which it reposed, and a curiously unpleasant sensation pervading every limb at any attempt to move them.

She closed her eyes and lay still for a few minutes, feeling too sick and bruised to do anything else. She could hear the mare feeding at no great distance, doubtless enjoying its meal all the more for the victory by which it had gained it. Then she listened for the sounds of pursuit. Doubtless her brother's alarm for her safety had induced him to follow her; but no, no, no, turning into this cross-road must have baffled him, for no welcome tramp, tramp reached her ear.

ONTARIO FARMERS

Annual Meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union.

We have received the programme of the next annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union, which is to be held at the Agricultural College at Guelph. The "union" will commence with a public meeting in the large convocation hall on the college grounds on the evening of Dec. 7. There will be six sessions in all, and the meeting will close on Friday afternoon, the 9th of December.

The summary results of the field experiments conducted this year on over 3,000 farms will be presented and discussed at the meeting. This, along with the reports on co-operative work in horticulture, dairying, bee-keeping, soil physics, and the weeds of Ontario should make the meeting interesting and profitable to all.

We also notice that Prof. C. F. Curtiss, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station of Iowa, and Mrs. S. T. Rorer, principal of the Philadelphia Cooking School, and an associate editor of the "Ladies' Home Journal" have been engaged to speak at the meeting.

The Guelph Fat Stock and Poultry Show and the annual meeting of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association are both to be held in Guelph on the 6th, 7th and 8th of December, and the annual meeting of the Guelph Poultry Association on Thursday of the same week.

Arrangements have been made with the railway companies for reduced rates to Guelph to attend the Experimental Union meeting and other interesting events which take place during that week.

All inquiries regarding railway rates, etc., should be made to C. A. Zavitz, secretary, Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont.

CREMATED THE LOT

Eighty Barrels of Ontario Apples Infected With the Codling Moth Pest.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 22.—Two carloads of Ontario apples, which were recently, were found on inspection to be partly infected with larvae of the codling moth. One car, which was consigned to Victoria, had 88 barrels condemned, and the infected fruit and barrels were cremated on Saturday.

STEAMER STRUCK. Quebec, Nov. 22.—The steamship Otter is on shore on White Island reef, and is likely, in the opinion of shipping men, to become a total wreck. She went ashore in a thick fog on Saturday morning. The crew landed on White Island, from which they were taken subsequently by the steamship Lord Stanley and brought to port.

STRUCK WITH AN AXE. Toronto, Nov. 22.—Richard Houston and Frank Baker had a quarrel Saturday night and proceeded to fight. Baker said he should not have used it, and seizing an axe in self-defense he hit Houston on the head with it, with the result that Houston may die. Baker appeared in the police court Monday morning and was remanded for a week to see how Houston gets along. Houston said Baker's attack was without provocation on his part.

SALE OF LIQUOR ON PLEBISCIT DAY. Toronto, Nov. 22.—After the recent prohibition plebiscit, a number of actions were taken against saloon-keepers by the Citizens' League for selling liquor on that day, a course which was held to be contrary to law. These cases have been fought out in the courts, and yesterday Judge Curran threw out the first case on the ground that the action should be accompanied by an affidavit, as the judgment was on technical grounds. The case will likely be carried to a higher court.

A PUZZLING SITUATION

Teaching the G. T. R. Employees New Rules.

Increased Receipts—Proposed Change—A Rumor Denied.

The receipts of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ending Nov. 14 were $23,838, and for the corresponding week of last year $20,674, showing an increase for this year of $12,000.

The Grand Trunk officials deny the report that the company propose selling its three Michigan branches, viz., the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee, and the Toledo, Saginaw and Muskegon, and the Cincinnati, Saginaw and Mackinaw. These roads have a mileage in all of 369 miles, and were bought some years ago to act as feeders to the Grand Trunk.

It is rumored that the Wabash Railway will purchase outright the part of the Grand Trunk over which it now runs its trains between Windsor and Buffalo. It has all along been understood that the purchase some time before the expiration of its present agreement, but rumor has it that the deal will be closed within a couple of months, the price being in the neighborhood of $4,000,000.

The adoption by the Grand Trunk Railway of the new set of rules has given rise to a contingency that the officials will find much difficulty in getting over. In order to have the employees made conversant with the new system a car has been fitted up and put in charge of a competent instructor, who is at present engaged in visiting the various terminal points and disseminating the necessary information. The employees are required to pass a written examination, some 200 questions having to be mastered. It has been found that many of the employees cannot write, and the officers are trying to figure out how to get over the difficulty. The new system has to be learned, but the question remains, how will those employees who cannot write be taught? Some of those who lack in this respect are among the oldest and most efficient employees of the road, and the officials do not feel like to discharge them, but are puzzled how to deal with the matter.

Paine's Celery Compound

A Heaven-Sent Blessing to Users of Narcotics.

IT SAVES FROM AWFUL
SUFFERING AND DE-
GRADING DEATH.

There are thousands in our midst who regularly make use of opium, morphine, codeine and bromides in order to allay physical and mental pain. While they sympathize with the deeply piteous those who are called upon to endure terrible sufferings, we cannot too strongly condemn the use of narcotics for alleviating pain. The victims will no doubt be relieved for a short time, but suffering comes again, and the habit will enslave and degrade them in a thralldom worse than death.

There can be no good reason advanced why men and women should use opiates and narcotics. The great object should be to banish the cause of weak and shattered nerves, and not simply to ease pain for a brief interval.

Paine's Celery Compound, that wonderful medical prescription without a trace of any narcotic in its composition, is the heaven-sent medicine for the banishment of pain. It reaches the seat of trouble at once, and gives strength and power to every nerve-fibre and tissue; the organs of digestion are given new force and regularity; natural sleep is enjoyed from night to night, and a new life is taken on.

Have will-power ye slaves of narcotics; follow the example of the men and women now using Paine's Celery Compound and your harvest of blessings will be a rich one.

Cats can swim if they only care to exert themselves sufficiently. The ancient Egyptians used to fish with them on the Nile, according to the representations on walls and so forth that have come down to us.

There is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nullify this danger with Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil—a pulmonary of acknowledged efficacy. It cures soreness and lameness when applied externally, as well as swollen neck and croup in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses most substantial claim to public confidence.

Delicate children! What a source of anxiety they are! The parents wish them hearty and strong, but they keep thin and pale.

It brings rich blood, strong bones, healthy nerves, and sound digestion. It is growth and prosperity to them.

No matter how delicate the child, it is readily taken.

Mortal Combat

Consumption during every hour of the night and day kills fourteen persons in the United States alone. It is a constant mortal combat between the forces of life and death. Increased vitality will throw off the deadly germs but debility fosters their multiplication and triumph. Shiloh's Consumption Cure has a double influence. It strengthens the system and at the same time kills the germs. In many cases serious affections of the lungs have been healed like ordinary wounds.

Mrs. JEAN HAMILTON, Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I was much prejudiced against so-called patent medicines until I realized in person the value of one which had cured a friend after suffering three years from distressing chills and colds. I took but four doses when my chills ceased. This experience made me believe Shiloh's Cure efficacious for coughs and colds, so I tried it and wish to recommend it to every one who needs a good cough medicine. For people living in the country, it will save lots of worry about croup, coughs and la grippe, for it will stop these very quickly."

If you have taken a cold and are suffering from throat trouble or a cough, send to your druggist for a bottle of Shiloh's Consumption Cure, take a hot foot-bath, with plenty of mustard in it; put plenty of blankets over you, and begin a faithful course of the cure. If you are not relieved by the time you have taken two-thirds of the bottle return it to the druggist and he will refund your money. 25c., 50c. and $1 a bottle through out the United States and Canada. LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. I was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

LONDON PRESBYTERIAN COUNCIL.

The regular meeting of the Presbyterian Council was held in Knox Church, South London, last night, with the president, Rev. Thomas Wilson, in the chair. Rev. J. G. Stuart read a paper on the progress of Presbyterianism in Canada during the last decade, and comparing it with the advances made in different departments of its work during previous periods. The paper was carefully prepared, and gave rise to a discussion which was participated in by a large number of members. General satisfaction prevailed as a result of the progress of the church, and a hopeful view was taken of its work in the future. Rev. Messrs. Robertson and Ballantyne, of the Hamilton Presbytery, were present and took part in the discussion. On motion Mr. Stuart was requested to prepare his paper for publication. The next meeting of the council will be held in St. Andrew's Church.

THE RAVELLINIS AT THE GRAND.

The performance given at the Grand last evening by the Ravellinis combination was a treat. The gathering of such a clever company of artists is a rarity in the vaudeville stage. The many acts are complete and clever, and there is not one turn that is not unique in its way. The audience was large, and the two of the specialty acts it was very demonstrative in its approval. The first night will give the performance a most favorable recommendation, and the balance of the week should draw well. The prices are 15, 25 and 35 cents, and matinees on Thanksgiving Day and Saturday. Nine complete turns are on the programme. Barney and Russell, in their character changes, are the best in this line ever seen here. In full view of the audience, a complete transformation is made in sketches that characterize every-day life. Seymour and La Rose do some of the most marvelous tumbling imaginable. The clever balancing of Harry and Annie Ladell—the latter a little girl—is remarkable. Annie is handled like a large ball. The performance concludes with the

NEED

Doan's Kidney Pills

They Remove the Headaches, Back aches, Feelings of Listlessness and Tiredness, Bring Color to the Cheek and Health and Strength to the Entire System.

There are many young women suffering from dragging headaches, and many whose disease is attributed to some other cause. These delicate filters are apt to get clogged and congested at times, and the poisons which it is their duty to carry off are absorbed in the blood.

Is it any surprise that there should be headaches, backaches, tired feelings, weakness, dark circles under the eyes, when poisoned blood—instead of purified blood—is being carried through the body.

Doan's Kidney Pills are proving themselves a great boon to women, curing many obscure diseases by causing the kidneys to promptly purify the blood, and clear away the uric poisons. A Hamilton lady who speaks highly of Doan's Kidney Pills is Mrs. T. Bradley, 227 Wilson street. She says that for the past nine years her daughter had been in poor health, and in healthless, lacked ambition, and always felt tired, weak and drooping. In addition she suffered greatly from nervousness and sleeplessness, as well as heart weakness and palpitation. All the treatment we had did her very little good, until she started taking Doan's Kidney Pills.

"After the first box there was a marked improvement in my daughter's health," says Mrs. Bradley, "so much so that we procured two boxes more. When these were finished she could hardly walk on account of the pain in her back, but this is entirely gone now, and I cannot recommend Doan's Kidney Pills too highly."

Doan's Kidney Pills sold by all druggists, 50 cents a box or three boxes for $1.25, or sent by mail on receipt of price. The Doan Kidney Pill Company, Toronto, Ont.

MR. CROUSE'S CLAIM

Mr. Essery's Statement in Regard to It—Reduction of Builders Rates Recommended.

The regular meeting of the water commissioners was somewhat lively yesterday. Mr. E. T. Essery charged the commissioners with base conspiracy, and said he was about to issue a writ against the city if arbitration was not agreed upon to settle the claim of John W. Crouse, of Byron, against the city. When the Griffith Springs were bought, he said, Mr. Griffith agreed to pay one-half the law costs or damages that might be incurred through Mr. Crouse, and now that the latter has submitted his claim, city Solicitor Meredith contended that arbitration should settle the matter; but Mr. Crouse wanted a proviso that in the event of the arbitrators taking a wrong view of the judge, Mr. Griffith's lawyers could not see their way to grant them.

Mr. Essery said he thought he had been dealing with the board, but found he had to deal with outside parties, who were interfering in the matter. He would find out what right the city of London had to conspire with a third party.

Chairman Jones replied that there was no conspiracy, and that Mr. Griffith's solicitors were consulted simply because Mr. Griffith was interested financially. No action taken.

Superintendent Moore recommended that the rates charged builders should be reduced, as follows: Cubic yard, for concrete, from 12 to 5 cents; stone, per cord, measured in wall, 12 to 2 cents; cement walks or floors, per square yard, when not exceeding six inches in thickness, 3 to 1 cent. Action deferred for a week.

On the recommendation of Mr. Moore, the hydrant at the corner of Pall Mall and Maitland streets will be moved outside the sidewalk.

Thomas Ralph's application for a main on Leslie street, West London, was referred to the superintendent. Robert Hueston, liveryman, appealed against the charge of $34 32 for one service at his stable. An investigation showed that the increase was due to a leak in the pipe, and the board agreed to deduct one-half the difference in the two accounts.

The report presented by Engineer Findlay for the two weeks ended Nov. 20, showed that 32,503,692 gallons had been pumped. The depth of water in the reservoir had never been less than 10 feet 6 inches, and the greatest depth was 13 feet.

Mr. Levi Lewis applied for a refund of rates charged for a vacant house in South London. Referred to the superintendent to report.

Members present: Commissioners Jones (chairman) and Little, and Mayor Wilson. Secretary Ellwood and Mr. Moore were also in attendance.
