'Not guilty" was the verdict this morning of Judge Elliot in the case of sharp brushes with the enemy, Gen. Fran-Rocco Melie, the foreigner charged with shooting with intent to kill, two hydro electric linemen, Hector Miller and William Skingsley, as the result of a shooting affray in the Hotel Harrison bar. A few moments later Melie walked from the courtroom, a free man. He shook hands with his counsel, E. W. M. Flock, and a number of his countrymen who were in the courtroom also moved forward to greet him. He nodded to take up again the ordinary round of life, after facing for several weeks the prospect of life imprisonment, which is the

which he was charged. Witnesses Had Been Drinking. Guilty of Carrying Weapon. It was true that the prisoner was guilty of carrying an unlawful weapon, the mere fact of that offence did not justify him in convicting him of the serious charge against him, conviction on which would render him liable to imprisonment for life. He warned the prisoner against the repetition of the offence of carrying a concealed weapon.

Started Back to Cells. When County Constable Northgraves opened the prisoner's box to allow him to go free, he turned to accompany the constable, evidently thinking that he was going back to the cells. When his counsel advanced and shook hands with him, however, he realized that he was no longer a prisoner, and walked across the courtroom and out the door, a free man.

BOMBS ON TORREON

Neutral Zone Outside City -This Is Agreed To-Rebel Leader Confident.

[Canadian Press.] Mexico City, March 23 .- It is conceded at the war department that the rebels and federals will engage in an early finish fight for the possession of Torreon, and it is announced here that Tlahualilo, a town two hours' ride from Torreon, has been agreed upon as the neutral point for foreigners and non-combatants. Tlahualilo is adjacent to the Hacienda of the same naem belonging to James Brown Potter. Villa's Suggestion. It is stated that an outside point has been selected as a place of refuge for non-combatants, because of representations recently made by Gen. Francisco Villa, the rebel commander, who explained that as he intended to employ dynamite, dropping it from aeroplanes, a neutral zone within the federal lines would necessarily be a dangerous locality in spite of any agreement.

March Nearing End. Bergejillo, Durango, Mexico (constitutionalist field base), March 23 .- Marked by cisco Villa's spectacular march against Torreon, which began last Friday, nearing an end today. Only a few haciendas and suburban towns remained between his army of 12,000 and the actual siege of Torreon. At no point does the rebel leader expect to meet strong resist ance, unless it be at Lerdo. Reports are that a more or less formidable garrison of federals has been placed by Gen. Refugio Velasco in Lerdo, to check the constitutionalists.

Cerro La Pilla, a huge mountain,-which overshadows Gomez Palacio, and which is maximum penalty for the crime with supposed to be fortified by the federals, is the only other matter of concern to the rebel leader.

Trustee Silverwood's Plan to Give $2,000 and 3 Per Cent On All Work Over $50,000

The building committee of the board of education will meet this afternoon to consider the appointment of a architect. . The board, at a recent session, went on record as approving of the principle of appointing such an official, and it was left to the committee to work out the details and see if such action might be taken without infringing on the moral or legal rights of architects wi may now have school work under way Trustee A. E. Silverwood, who is the present father of the school architect dea, suggested to the board that the architect be paid a salary of $2,000, and 3 per cent commission on all construction work over $50,000. Other trustees, showever, thought that some better salary arrangements might be arrived at, sa no sum was stipulated when the board approved of Trustee Silverwood's plan. The committee this afternoon will also let contracts for the wrecking of the old Aberdeen school. The brick that will be obtained in this way will be used for the additions to Princess avenue school. The committee may also consider the competitive plans for the new South London school. The Ontario Society of Architects has passed judgment on the plans and selected the one it deems the best, and the trustees will receive the report of the society.

Richard Sherman Had Doctor's Attention on Sunday, But Was Not Removed to the Hospital.

Sarnia, March 23.-Cast into the cells here on Saturday afternoon in a sunposed state of intoxication. Richard Sherman, aged about 40 years, whose home is believed to be about two miles from Strathroy, died this morning at a quarter to 6 o'clock.

On Saturday he was arrested after falling from a verandah on Dervine and Christner streets, and was placed in the cells. Sunday morning the police realzed he was sick and sent for a doctor. who found he had bad cuts on the fore head and nose, a black eye and that his left leg was sprained. The injuries were attended to, but it was found necessary to recall the doctor two or three times during the day and following night. An attendant was on hand to look after the nan, who was not removed to a hospital. There were people in the cell with Sherman when he died.

London, March 23 .- The interest in the disaffection in the army arising out of the newest phase of the home rule situation was displayed in the House of Commons this afternoon, when the House was crowded to listen to a statement from Col. Seely, secretary of state for war.

The communication made by Col. Seely was very brief and utterly vague. The gist of it was that some officers had inormed Gen. Sir Arthur Paget, commander-in-chief in Ireland, that they could not serve in certain eventualities. There was, he said, a misunderstanding, and these fficers had been ordered to rejoin their

Sir Arthur Paget had stated to the commanding officers of regiments that aclive operations were to begin against Ulster, and that it was expected the country would be in blaze by Saturday. Irish commander-in-chief wrote that he was in close communication with the war office and had received instructions from headquarters to notify his officers that those of them domiciled in Ulster would be allowed to disappear and afterward reinstated in their positions. They must, however, give their word of honor not to fight for Ulster. Other officers who were not prepared to undertake active operations against Ulster from other scruples must resign or be dis-missed. The Changing Age

Girls and boys from 14 to 19 years of age undergo physical changes which tax their strength to the utmost and the strain is always apparent from pale cheeks, colorless lips, and tired bodies—sometimes eruptions of the skin and the utter lack of the ambition and animation with which their younger years were filled.

Budding into womanhood and manhood, with the duties of school or business, demands concentrated nourishment which is readily convertible into red blood corpuscles, energy and strength, and the very best thing for this changing age is the medical nutriment in Scott's Emulsion-it possesses the rare blood-making properties of cod liver oil in a predigested form; hypophosphites for the nervous system, with the healing, soothing qualities of pure glycerine.

Its nourishing force promotes assimila tion, yields direct returns in abundant, red blood, fills hollow cheeks, tones the nerves, makes all good food do good, and does it in a natural easy manner. The sustaining nourishment in Scott's Emulsion is so helpful to this changing age that it should never be neglected-

Very Rev. Dean Davis Celebrates Anniversary-Spoke at Both Services.

Completing an uninterrupted period of 40 years of faithful service in one parish, Very Rev. Dean Dayis, rector of St. James Anglican Church, South London, occupled the pulpit at both services Sunday. The anniversary is a most unique one and will be celebrated by special services next Sunday. Dean Davis took occasion, however, to refer briefly to his long pastorate, at yesterday's services, expressing his gratitude at having been spared so long to minister to the wants of his congregation. He had always endeavored to give to his parishioners the test of which he was capable, he stated, and would continue to do so as long as he was spared as pastor of the church.

Dean Davis came to St. James parish in 1874, coming from his first charge at Payfield. The church was then only a frame structure of small dimensions, but under the able leadership of Dean Davis the parish grew and prospered until toit has become one of the most important in the city. Dean Davis is widely known not only in this city but throughout the diocese, and a host of friends will rejoice with him on this unique occasion when he completes such a long and credit-

IN ITS INDIVIDUALS

Man-Unit in Everything, Declares Rev. Murray Tait, of Wallaceburg.

METHODS OF CONVERTING

Power of Church Depends on Strength of Its Weakest Member.

"A nation or a congregation is as strong as the strength of the individual. It is when the thought of individuality grips us that we rise to greater and better things. The strength of the church itself depends upon the strength and power of its weakest member.' With these words, Rev. Murray C. Tait, B.D. With of Wallaceburg, preaching in the First Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning, aptly expressed the strength of individualism, showing that to reach a nation and mold its opinions and customs for God, it is necessary to work from the rather than attempt to deal collectively with its inhabitants.

Illustrating the text, the paster compared the methods of evangelism of three to you?" of the world's noted prophets, Isaiai, Jeremiah and Ezekiel. Of the three, Ezekiel attained more, because he had appealed to the Israelites separately. His missioning was not to them as a nation, but rather their eternal hope was pointed out as possible orly through their conversion as individuals.

Prophet of the Masses. "Isalah was a prophet of the masses," said the pastor. "His appeals were made to the people. Jeremiah, likewise adopted this form of winning the Israelites Christ. Both were a type of vastness. It was their main characteristic. "It remained for Ezekiel, then, to appeal not to the masses, but to the individual. He foresaw that Israel could not be brought back by a collective appeal. It required more than that. time was a dangerous one. It was in the days of Israel's greatness and fall. Everything was national-nothing in-

Christianity at its foundation has the value of the individual, and it was this path that the prophet pursued to win the Israelites back to Christ." The possibilities of the individual were pastor declared. imitless. the Human life is small when measured by infinity." he said, "but when reckoned by the power of mind, and might, it stands greater and best in all history." BALANCE IN GOD'S HANDS

God Is Present When Foulest Crimes Are Committed and Catastrophies Occur.

"And he said, go forth, and stand upon the mount before the Lord. And, behold, the Lord passed by, and a great and strong wind rent the mountains, and hold its regular meeting tonight at 8 broke in pieces the rocks before the Lord; but the Lord was not in the wind. And joyable program has been prepared and after the wind an earthquake; but the all the young people connected in any Lord was not in the earthquake. And after the earthquake a fire, but the Lord was not in the fire, and after the fire a still small voice." I.Kings, xix., 11-12. From will hold its regular meeting tonight in this text Rev. R. W. Norwood preached the church parlors. The meeting will be his sermon at Cronyn Memorial Church on Sunday morning.

God Is Everywhere. "But God was in the wind, God was in the earthquake, and God was in the fire," declared the speaker in opening. "From the minutest particle of matter to the greatest star of the heavens, God is present and reigneth. God is in many things that we are unaware of, for we are often entertaining God when we imagine we are but entertaining his angels. Also he is present when the foulest crimes and sins are committed, and overwhelming catastrophies occur, for at the present great noment of our national history the balance is in his hands, and he may preserve us or scatter the race like the sands of the desert before the wind.

"These statements may seem to contradict a heautiful text, but the answer lies in the knowledge of what Elijah was. For a man is after all but a man, a soul in the process of development, and there are often solltary moments, when like Elijah he will fling himself down and say: "It is enough; now, O Lord, take away my life; for I am no better than my fathers." Even after this God will not forsake him, but sends an angel, who is but a comrade, and without whom he could hold no communcatton with man or man with God, and

"It was after his solitary spell that God nt an angel and had Elijah lead through sent an angel and had Elijah lead through the desert and over crags until he was left at the mouth of that dark, yawning cave, from which place of vantage he heard the wind rush down the gorge, felt the earthquake, and saw the lightning, but God was not in any of these forces, for Elijah, but in Elijah himself. He spoke to him in the form of his reason or con-science as the whispering of the soul self to the body self. You will understand t last seemingly strange statement when I say that the kingdom of heaven is in you just because you are what you are. Angels Will Strengthen.

"It is nothing for a big soul to be lonely, for we read of Christ saying, 'My soul is exceeding sorrowful unto death,' as he entered the Garden of Gethsemane. Each one knows that terrible mood, and just because of that let me reassure you that it is no loss of faith for God will have an angel strengthen you.

'Elijah was the greatest thinker of his age-he was a man ahead of his timeshe was in a quandary, for he lived on a different plane than his people, for they saw God in the physical and were afraid just as you find people in primitive re-ligion, who see God in the grotesque, and show their manifestations through the fear for their God and see him in physical forces, and not through the intellectual or spiritual. Are you like these-afraid of your God? Is that the kind of religion you instil into the hearts and minds of your young boys and girls? No, you are giving them that of the New Testament,

"God appeals to us as he did to Elijal by the still small voice, and not as he appealed to the countrymen of Elijahthe wind, earthquake, and fire. "Elijah was the intellectual and spiritual leader of his day, and like many men of today could speak with God in his inner circle and had no need of the visible. "It is a far call from the God of the fire to the God of the still small voice, and God is to many of us today but the God of fear manifested in the fire, and the very fact that there are churches today that have the belief of everlasting fire is but an incident of their primivity. standpoint of the unit-to individualize, If God speaks to you by the still small voice then all obstructions are eliminated scious, and see how God is really speaking

BEWARE OF AVARICE SAYS REV. J. H. BOYD

Adelaide Street Baptist Pastor Decries Prevalent Sin of Greed.

THE DECEPTION OF JUDAS

'Black Sheep' of Disciples, Unable to Resist Temptation Falls Into Degradation.

"The Gathering Storm" was the subject of a Lenten sermon preached in the Adelaide Street Baptist Church last night by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Boyd. The ever-ready temptations of the devil, and the sin of avarice. He chose as his text the passage on St. Matthew, chapter xxvi., the story of the anointing of Christ, and His betrayal by Judas, beginning at the third verse, "Then assembled together the chief priests, and the scribes. condition, he saw life as it was faced and the elders of the people, unto the palace of the high priest, who was called

The speaker compared the story of Mary, anointing Christ, to the avaricious Judas. "The perfume that came from that box of costly eintment will go down through the ages wherever the gospel is social unrest today," said the preacher preached," said the speaker. "Time shall never obliterate it. In the gathering storm, when they were closing the nets the other man's position. It is then that, around Christ, this woman came while He looking at life from his viewpoint, we sat at the table and poured over His see clearly that which we did not see besaid 'Wheresoever this Gospel shall be preached in the whole world, there shall also this that this woman has done be told for a memorial of her.'

A Dark Story. On the other hand, what a dark story is he story of Judas. Matthew, in our text, ells of his avarice, but this is not the whole story. Back when he first entered the company of the apostles, the step in the direction of his greed was taken. They made him the treasurer of their company. They slung a bag over his shoulder, and the money in it was altogether in his keeping. No doubt, he said, 'I will do my best.' But one day he helped himself, thinking it would not be noticed, intending to pay back when he had the money. No one knew. Jesus apparently did not know. He did it again and again. The spirit of avarice grew. Then came the day when Mary poured out the costly ointment over Christ's head, and Judas cried out, 'To what purpose this waste? Finally he betrayed his Master for a paltry 10 pieces of silver, the price of a slave.

Throttle It. "When that chance to help yourself comes throttle it, or it will throttle you," Mr. Boyd charged, "just as it throttled Judas. "Judas did not mean to steal at first, but the devil whispered to him sitting at the table, and it led to the deed which he repented all his life. "He has gone to the company in the hereafter, which he kept in life. Men today who are associating with evil companions will have to suffer consequences through all eternity.

"There are men in London who are throttling their own souls. They turn their backs on all that is good and holy disregarding the prayers of their own mothers and dear ones. But they alone are responsible. Don't listen to the charmer who whispers, 'You will get a chance to repay soon.' Turn your back on such charmers," advised the speaker, "and listen to Him, who said, 'Come unto Me and I will give you rest.'

DR. THOS. TROTTER HEARD

McMaster Professor Preaches on "Temptation," Depicting Causes of Falling Into Sin.

Rev. Dr. Thomas Trotter, professor in McMaster University, preached morning and evening yesterday in Talbot Street Baptist Church to audiences that taxed to the limit the seating capacity of the church on the occasion of the 69th anniversary of the founding of the congregation. He preached on the subject of "Temptation," selecting his text, the Epistle of James i., 13: "Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted of evil, neither tempteth he any man.' Source of Temptation.

"No other subject is of so great moment in the lives of the young," said Dr.
Trotter, "yet it is an experience of a stage beyond which we never get." Dr. Frotter treated his subject in two divisions, the source of temptation, and the dread results of yielding to temptation. From Adam down, man had said that God tempted them, but they spoke adequate, God need not have given us falsely. Adam said, in blaming Eve for his temptation: "The woman thou gavest me." Burns was wrong, said Dr. Trotter, when he wrote that the light that leads men astray "is heaven's light." man who talks of foreordination, his speaker warned his hearers against the own moral constitution or otherwise, blames his temptation on powers external to himself, is speaking falsehood. Yet in a certain sense temptation is necesenticed." said the Apostle James. Man is tempted when his lower desires rise up and make an assault to God. James teaches that no external tempter, though It be Satan himself, can drag man down inless the tempter enters the door of man's own evil desires.

"James is nothing if not practical," continued Dr. Trotter. "If we are wise we will get into the company of this practical man James. There are inevi-table speculative questions that we might ask, but they are insoluble. Let us get within the circle of the practical, and from that standpoint James has said the last thing on temptation. Temptation Not Sin. Dr. Trotter then touched upon the evil esults of vielding to temptation, and discussed the question as to just where temptation passes over into sin. "For temptation in itself is not sin. The desires that spring from natural instinct are not sin." he said. "But when a man's nature clamors for ways and means to gratify these desires, that is yielding to temptation, and that is sin. And when sin is once born into the soul, it grows and grows until it becomes an overmastering thing. And the fullgrown sin brings forth death. Is this mere theory, apostolic or preacher's theory? No; you can see it on the streets of London every

Mystery of Sin.

"We see one young man who has yield-ed for the first, another who has been struggling with temptation for years, and then another who has been mastered by sin. There is no greater mystery in life than the mystery of sin and temptation. Temptation arises from the tide of evil thought and evil desire. There is great confusion in men's minds as to what is right and wrong. Moral judgment, conscience, fails. It is a compass deflected by the lodestone of evil. onscience is inadequate. Had it been the Bible, or sent Christ into the world. Christ is the light of the world.

"Moreover, we are sinners, and the blood of Jesus is what saves and redeems us from sin." Special anthems and solos were rendered by the choir and church soloists.

This question whether the C. P. R. made Canada or Canada the C. P. R. is like the old conundrum, which is first, the chicken or the egg; or perhaps, rather, does the dog wag the tail or the tail the dog?

What will the German fleet do when the Ulster rebellion begins? Will the Kaiser come to Belfast's call? But there's France again and the revenge. Ulster would be a poor exchange for Alsace-Lorraine. No, there is no German peril.

Asquith leave it to Ulster. He stands with Mr. Bonar Law for having English voters settle Ulster's future. Perhaps in his heart he knows that Ulster must for her own good be a part of the new Ireland, and that the home rule bill is satisfactory as it is without amendment.

THE UNIONIST POSITION.

THE insincerity of the Unionist position in regard to Ulster is manifest. Premier Asquith offers to allow Ulster ster exclusion, whatever countries wish it, for six years. Sir Edward Carson agrees to consider a plebiscite for permanent exclusion. If it were not for party politics six years would seem to him as good as permanent, for how could the dissenting counties, if still recalcitrant after the term of six years, be forced then to come into Ireland? Supposing a Liberal Government still in power, it would be less dependent on Nationalist support than now, and a Unionist Government might also be expected to let the counties alone.

As for Mr. Bonar Law's proposal of referendum to the whole country, Mr. Asquith could not think of taking to no purpose such a risk, even if Mr. Redmond would agree. There would be no decision on the merits of the case, the Tory electors voting straight party just to put the Government in a hole. A referendum would be more unnecessary, more futile, less decisive of anything than even a general election at this time.

Home rule has come to be "up to Ire land." And Ireland has decided the point by an overwhelming majority for a long time past. In 1893 it was held that "the dominant partner" had the main say. But England, grown weary and indifferent, is ready enough to put it up to Ireland and Pharaoh will let his people go. In England it is only a set of chagrined, discredited, cogging politicians that tries still to block the natural course of events with a view almost solely to party capital.

Premier Asquith is willing to leave Ulster's question to Ulster herself. Sir Edward Carson, chiming in with Mr. Law for a plebiscite of the United Kingdom. rather than of Ulster as Mr. Asquith suggests, betrays the people whom he has pushed up to the brink of ruin. He will the Slav newspapers of the Northwest, not let Ulster decide her own case, but and is utilizing them for purposes disloyal insists that her destiny be decided for her by a referendum in England and

THE PEOPLE OF INDIA

THE brief summary of the returns of the last census of India has now been amplified by the publication of details which are interesting as showing the heterogeneous character of that section of the empire. The population was given at 316,156,396; the area is 1,802,657 square miles. That would average about 175 people to the mile. But such an average would be deceptive, for there are some sections sparsely settled, while in others the people are crowded together. In the more fertile parts, there are as many as 750 to the mile, about three times what is recognized as the maximum in Europe for agricultural sections.

But the diversity of race and religion one of the most notable things in ountry. For every 10,000 of her people India has 6,939 who are Hindus; 2,126 Christians, and 328 of other classes. While the racial distinctions are still marked among the Indians, the religious element is the great factor in their division. Originally the Hindu proper was the dominant race, but the inroads of Mohammedanism brought in a more active element. And it is this latter which increases at the expense of the others. They are a more aggressive class, and while only second in numerical strength the controlling hand of England did not keep the peace.

This variety of race and religion is one of the stumbling blocks in the way of a united India, or the establishment of self-government to any marked degree. There is a liberal system of education in India, but it does not seem to have the effect of making the native population realize fully the diversity of opinion that would prevent harmony among them were self-government permitted. There can be no political unity between races so antagonistic, whose first act under unlimited freedom would be to fly at each other's throats. Many of the educated Hindus are agitating for selfgovernment and some of them it is to be feared are ready to go much further bian Nights, the mortal remains of a than constitutional agitation. They do not seem to realize that without the controlling influence of England there would be internecine war in a few days. Their only hope for peace and prosperity is with the hand of England on the helm of government.

THE SUNDAY DINNER

W E HEAR very often discussions on the proposal to abolish the big Sunday dinner, a plea for the busy housewife. We are all aware that Saturday is the busiest day of the week for the storekeeper in supplying his customers with various food stuffs for the Sabbath, and some have said the reason consists in the fact that the family is together on Sunday only, and that they have more time to enjoy a big

But do we consider the wife and mother? We forget that in most households her life is just one continuous round of preparing meals and supplying wants for hungry mouths. In many houses, Sunday is the busiest day of all for the housewife. We forget that it is she who is up with the sun preparing breakfast, while we luxurlously loll beneath warm coverlets, loath to leave the comfortable

races of people in Canada, of diverse crops up in political alliances, educational If Russia wants one thing it is an out there is an association of a century or two, with the assimilating influence of the higher class of statesmen, continually at work minimizing these evils, and drawing the French and English elements of the Dominion into closer and more harmonious relationship

While these old-time antagonisms are thus slowly dying out, it seems a pity that in the newer sections of the country there should be a tendency to maintain race distinctions, and bring our foreign population into conflict with the settlers of Anglo-Saxon origin. That seems to be the condition developing in the Northwest, and more especially in Manitoba. Political exigencies are used as the excuse for many unsavory practices, but the cultivating of race antagonisms for the benefit of any particular party is an inexcusable crime against the peace and prosperity of the

In Manitoba there is a large Slav population. The Ruthenians especially are very strong. To meet their needs, a bilingual system of education has been adopted, and a training school for teachers established. In itself this would be commendable, provided the object was to so train teachers that they would be able to instruct the young Ruthenians in English, and fit them for citizenship But its operations promise to be of doubtful value, for at the head of it is Ruthenian professor, appointed by the Conservative Government of the province. who, from all accounts, spends his time in fighting the Liberal party, and advocating what he calls a "Canadian Ukraine." He claims that all efforts to assimilate his countrymen with the Canadian people will be as futile as the attempts of Russia to denationalize the Poles. His desire seems to be the estabishment of an independent Ruthenian nation on Canadian soil. He is working for separate schools which shall teach the Ruthenian children in the Ruthenian language, and preserve their national characteristics. Any interference with these schools, or any attempt to Canadianize them, meets with his strongest opposition. He is a voluminous writer in to Canada. He even speaks of Canadians as "foreigners" And this man is an employee of the Conservative Government of Manitoba: his views are tacitly approved by the system of the province shaped to meet his demands. To secure the vote of his people, the Government sanctions a policy fraught with the greatest evil to the province. We can understand a French-Canadian, with the memory of the prior occupation of the country by his ancestors, having dreams of a French nation on the banks of the St. Lawrence. But the actress, sent a note to a reporter en that a number of Slav emigrants, fleeing from the tyranny and poverty of their own country, welcomed to Canada, and assisted in their early struggles by the Canadian people, should turn against their benefactors, and talk about the establishment of an independent Slav nation onnection with the population of the on our soil is inexcusable. And still more Canada, is the conduct of a Government which, for its own political advantage, and to maintain its own supremacy, panders to them in their folly. That the Roblin Government is in actual sympathy with the Ruthenian national movement is not possible, but it is none the less criminal to wink at their treason, and encourage them in hopes which must be disappointed, and may have some day to be crushed by violence.

FORTIFIED BEER.

TORONTO paper of last Saturthey would soon dominate the country if Aday tells of the interesting experience of a lady in that city undertook to stimulate her digestion by the aid of a bottle of beer. The first glass was found to be extra bitter, whereupon she concluded to try another of the same sort. The Norwegian coastline would be immensely more desirable.

The Norwegian people number less than 2,500,000, a mere mouthful for Russia. Worst of all, Sweden, their natural ally against a common enemy, is estranged from Norway. Both Scandinavian peoples, however have hopes of assistance from Great Britain and Germany against the despot power that has crushed the liberties of the democratic and progressive Finns. Indeed the interests of Germany and Great Britain should lead them to a concerted action in resistance of any encroachment of Asiatic tyranny upon free Scandinavia. It is seen with anxiety by Germans as well as Norsemen that Russia is beginning to feel herself recovered from the blow of nine years ago. In three years her navy will be third at least in Europe, and she is making vast additions to her army. Against this modern Macedonia the states of Europe will simply have to unite, more or less, composing their differences, in defence of free institutions and culture. Norway is a therough democracy and one of the most enlightened of nations. She must not be suffered to fall at any time, through an unnatural antagonism of Great Britain and Germany, into the jaws of the Bear. The trend of international alignment in this year is making for growingly better feeling among the Germanic peoples and Governments. The North Sea emergency s no more, if it ever was.

EDUCATION

[The Colonel, in Toronto Saturday Night.] About one-third of Toronto's taxable revenue goes to support the public schools. This means the expenditure every year of an enormous sum of If it was well expended there would be no complaint. On the contrary, however, we appear to be wasting a goodly proportion on frills, but more important, perhaps, we are wasting the children's time. The latest proposal is to send some 40 or 50 public school children to San Francisco in 1915, the object being to have these youngsters sing and otherwise disport themselves at the Panama Fair. Incidentally, the cost is set down at between $6,000 and $7,000. the taxpayers, as per usual, footing the

Among other frills to be instituted in the public schools is a book on manners. This sounds well, for if there is one thing we are short of in this generation. It is good deportment. But listen, just listen to this trash, contained in the volume: "A parlor maid is no more entitled to use the front stairs than a general servant is." "It is quite customary, for guests, after a visit, even a short one, o bestow upon a servant a small fee." Then our "book of manners" proceeds to tell us that a man should wear a white tie at the opera or large dinner, but that he may wear a black tie at the theatre or small dinner. Also, that he should wear a frock coat and "tile" to church. Imagine teaching a child whose schooling will in all probability end at the 14th year, that when he or she goes out to hustle for a living, as the average public school child does, they are to look for "hand-outs."

Imagine teaching one of the unwashed from "The Ward" that "to wear white gloves while playing cards is an affectation." Of course, it is all important that the parlor maid should not use the front stairs, and that the cook should know when her "steady" is properly dressed for the opera.

It looks very much as if the Ontario Department of Education would be better employed attending tango teas and writing fashion copy for th Journal and allow the schools to evaded our vigilant and watchful, though courteous and obliging butler and entered our sanctum sanctorum the other day for the purpose of interesting us in a whip socket for automobiles.

The contrivance is of his own invention and serves as an ornament as well as having its useful qualifications. When not used for the whip it can be used for cigar ashes or it makes a good place to keep a bouquet of beautiful flowers. It is believed this is the only automobile appliance that does not cost money to run. Most of the appliances use up so much power that there isn't any power left to run the car itself, but this whip socket does not. It looked to us like a good thing, but we were unable to buy any stock in the enterprise, as we had just spent our last loose $10,-000 for a hundred shares of stock in a company that is getting a right of way for a wireless telegraph line between New York and Philadelphia.

New Players to Report April 7. Manager Reisling has practically com-pleted the London club roster, and he is only waiting for reporting day to roll around in order to get first-hand information on the bunch he has chosen to represent London this season. He has 21 players on his list, and of these the majority of the youngsters and new players will report at Marietta on April 7. Last year's members of the team will not report until a week or so later. By that time Manager Reisling will have weeded out the rookies, and his squad will likely be cut down to 15 or 17 players. He in-tends to have all his outfielders report early, and expects to have these players rounded into nice shape before the league season opens. He has a number of good men signed up for the outer gardens, and it will likely take him longer to pick out the good ones for these positions than for the other positions on the team.

He is a southpaw and has a lot of speed. Jim Malley, the first baseman, will not likely be with the London team when it reports here. He has not had sufficient seasoning yet and Manager Reisling will have him report with the early bunch in order to see what he has got. He will likely be placed with one of the Ohlo State League clubs, where London can keep a line on him and get him back should he turn out well.

A Classy Bunch of Fielders.

A pretty good bunch of talent will battle for the three outfield positions. Eddie Lamy, the Saranac Lake skating champion, is bound to make good if the dope on him counts for anything. He is a left hand batter and hit .338 in the West Virginia League last season. He was leading the league up to the last few weeks of the season but finished third. LEHMAN'S WORK GREAT Vancouver Goalkeeper Saved Many Goals for Montreal Team-Score Was 9 to 4.

New York, March 21, - Showing a startling reversal of form over what they had done the last time the two teams me: a week ago, the Wanderers of Mentreal defeated the Quebec ,eam in the professional hockey series at the St Nicholas rink tonight. The score on the previous occasion was 16 to 8 in favor of the Quebec boys, but then the Wau-derers did not have the goal-tender that stood in the cage tonight. For the first derers did not have the goal-tender that stood in the cage tonight. For the first of the final games for the purse offered by the rink managers, the Wanderers had borrowed Lehmann, of the Vancouver team, and his work made all the difference in the world. When the final whistle was blown the score was 9 to 4 in favor of the team from Montreal, which was even a bigger ratio of difference than that displayed on their last contest, where the odds were reversed.

Quebec Still Has a Chance.

Although Quebec was outscored by a margin of five goals, they still have a chance to get in on the long end of the purse, for another game will be played Monday night, and the team having the greatest aggregate for the two nights will get the lion's share of the money The game was a very fine exhibition of the Canadian national winter sport, in the early stages, but along towards the end certain little differences of opinion cropped out, and there was a lot of the rough work that is usually seen among the local amateurs. The officials, who were also from the Dominion, would not stand for the display of temper, and they sent man after man off the ice. The most serious of these little spats came in the third period when Prodger, of Quebec, and Odie Cleghorn, of the Wanderers, came to blows, and for a minute threatened to be a free-for-all fight. Prodger, who is a rather husky individual, had been checking his lighter rival a bit more freely than he should have. ual, had been checking his lighter rival a bit more freely than he should have, and when Cleghorn saw an opening he spilled the big Quebec skater in scientific forbing. Predera was up in an instant fashion. Prodger was up in an instant, and went at his rival with his fists. Immediately there was a grand melee up in a corner of the rink, but it was all settled when the officials ruled the two of them off the ice for the rest of the

CANADIAN SKATERS CARRY OFF HONORS AT NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Con., March 21. - Canada, represented by Miss Chevalier, and Mr. Norman Scott, of the Winter Club of Montreal, carried off the honors at the competitions of the International Skata montreal, carried on the Arena rink here today. The pairs skating championship, the finals of which were held tonight, was awarded to Miss Chevalier and Mr. Scott. The award of the title to the Canadians will probably send the next international figure skating championships to Canada. Miss Weld and Mr. N. W. Niles, of the Skating Club of Boston, were awarded second place, while third place was given to Miss Crocker, and Mr. E. M. Howland, of the Skating Club of Boston. Among the judges in the contest was Mrs. Irving Brokaw, of New York, who thus has the distinction of being the first woman to judge a figure skating contest in this country. Mrs. Brokaw is an accomplished skater herself.

Th. illustrations are modern works of art, covering every important scene in the Canal Zone; they include 16 water-color plates with more than 600 photograp ic studies.

Presentation by THE LONDON ADVE

Willis J. Abbot, the versatile writer on International subjects and author of many books of history and travel, spent months in Panama and the Canal Zone in the proparation of this volume. He collected at first hands the complete history of the Great Canal, with a wealth of historical data concerning Panama which has never before been written. The result is a human interest story of this beautiful land and its people from the early days when Columbus tried to find a natural waterway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, down to the present time.

Special staff photographers made the hundreds of beautiful views which illustrate practically every page of this exhaustive book.

The well-known artist, E. J. Read, made the sixteen sumptuous water-color studies which are reproduced by the latest color processes on specially made paper.

The Panama Canal, the greatest engineering achievement of the world's history, cost more than $400,000,000

It links the two greatest oceans, and becomes the most important factor in peace and war. So where is the redblocded inhabitant of this globe that does not feel vitally interested in it! Truly, it is the wonder of this progressive age!

These little ads cost only a trifle and are read by 100,000 persons daily. One cent a word for the first insertion, half a cent a word for each subsequent insertion.

WANT AVIATION RACE FLOWN OVER MONTREAL

Canadians Point Out Advantages of Their Part Over New York. [Canadian Press.]

New York, March 23.-Efforts are being made by the members of aeronautical organizations at Ottawa, Ont., to have the world aviation race diverted from the route which includes New York City and flown over a course which will substitute Montreal for New York as the eastern control. The plan was suggested in a letter to Arnold Kruckman, manager of the bureau of aeronautics for the exposition. Kruckman said today that the idea had so many apparent advantages that it would be seriously considered.

The other was to be a half-length of Mrs. Ravenscroft, who wanted one just like Hetty Castleton's, except for the eyes, which she admitted would have to be different. "I have thought it all out, Brandon. I want to go there—just once. I want to go into that room again."

CHAPTER XX.
Once More at Burton's Inn.
Again Sara Wrandall found herself in that never-to-be-forgotten room at Burton's Inn. On that grim night in March she had entered without fear or trembling, because she knew what was there.
Now she quaked with a mighty chill of terror for she knew not what was there terror, for she knew not what was there in the quiet, now sequestered room. Burton had told them on their arrival after a long drive across country that patrons of the inn invariably asked which room it was that had been the scene of the tracedy and an fading out of the tracedy and an fading out of the scene of the

The mattress was there too, rolled up and tied with a thick garden rope. She knew there were dull, ugly bloodstains upon it. Why the thrifty Burton had persevered in keeping this useless article of furniture, she could only surmise. Perhaps it was held as an in-ducement to the morbidly curious, who always seek out the gruesome and gloat even as they shudder For a long time she stood immovable just inside the door, recalling the horrid picture of another day. She tried to imagine the scene that had been enacted there with gentle, lovable Hetty Glynn and her whilom husband as the principal characters. The girl had told the whole story of that ugly night. Sara tried to see it as it actually had transpired. months this present enterprise had been in her mind; the desire to see the place again, to go there with old impressions which she could not leave behind whe ready to emerge in a new frame of mind.

It was here that she meant to shake off the shackles of a horrid dream, to purge herself of the last vestige of bitterness, to cleanse her mind of certain thoughts and memories. Downstairs Booth waited for her. He heard the story of the tragedy from the surly innkeeper, who crossly maintained that his business had been ruined. Boot Booth waited until Sara came out to superintend the closing of her house for the winter. He called at Southlook on the day of her arrival. He was struck at once by the curious change in her appearance and manner. The same arrival to that his business had been ruined. Booth was vaguely impressed, he knew not why, by Burton's description of the missing woman. "I'd say she was about the size of Mrs. Wrandall, and much the same figure," he said, as he had said a thousand times before. "My wife noticed it the minute she saw Mrs. Wrandall. Same height and everything.'

A bell rang sharply, and Burton glanc-ed over his shoulder at the indicator on the wall behind the desk. He gave a great start and his jaw sagged.
"Great Scott!" he gasped. A curious grayness stole over his face. "It's—it's the bell in that very room. My soul, what can-

"It ain't rung since the night he pushed the button forthe button for— Oh, gee! You're right. She is up there. My. what a scare it gave me." He wiped his brow. Turning to a boy, he commanded him to answer the bell. The boy went slowly, and as he went he removed his hands from his problem. pockets. He came back an instant later, more swiftly than he went, with the word that "the lady up there" wanted word that "the lady up there" wanted Mr. Booth to come upstairs. She was waiting for him in the open doorway. A shaft of bright sunlight from a window at the end of the hall fell upon her. Her face was colorless, haggard. He paused for an instant to contrast her as she stood there in the pitiless light with the vivid creature he had put upon canvas so recently.

She beckoned to him and turned back into the room.

In consequence he had been obliged to transform it into a sort of store and baggage room.

Sara stood in the middle of the murky room, for the shutters had long been closed to the light of day, and looked about her in awe at the heterogeneous mass of boxes, trunks, bundles and rub-

Hay was the only line offered in any quantity on the market today. The price remains at from $12 to $14.50 per ton, as on Saturday. The average price per ton was $13. The hay was of rather poor quality, and the demand very slow. Straw was slow a'so; only a rew loads were on the square, and sold at $7 and $8 per

Oats are rather unsteady, on account of the limited supply. Only two loads were weighed, and sold for $1.21 and $1.24 per hundredweight. Wheat remained at quoted prices, and has been steady for several

No eggs were on the square, but they took a decided drop on Saturday, and sold retail for 27 and 28 cents per dozen. Wholesale buyers purchased them for 25 cents per dozen, in large quantities. Butter keeps high in price in spite of dealers' predictions that it would drop.

Potatoes were slightly cheaper late Saturday, and sold, wholesale, for 85 cents per bag. A large quantity of green vegetables was offered. None was on the market Monday. Chickens are scarce, and on Saturday the demand was much greater than the quantities at the end of this week, the farmers say. The cold weather has retarded the flow of the sap, and they say that the season will likely be a short one.

New York, March 23—Wall Street, noon.

Trading came almost to a standstill today, at prices barely changed from last week's closing, after an early rise and subsequent reaction. Settlement of the New Haven negotiations, the decrease in all freight cars shown in the fortnightly report and an increase in freight movement on western lines supplied ammunition to the bulls for operations at the opening, but the inquiry was not sufficiently broad to maintain prices. Traders who covered on the rise late last week put out new lines when it became apparent that the market had lost strength. Copper shares made relatively a better showing than other stocks, owing to the increased demand and higher prices for the metal both here and abroad. Bonds were irregular.

ACCIDENT VICTIM IS IDENTIFIED AT LAST

Woman Who Fell From Street "Come One, Come All," Yells Car on Friday Night Is Mrs. King.

Identity of the elderly woman who was Identity of the elderly woman who was rendered unconscious as a result of falling from a car at the corner of Clarence and Horton streets, late Friday right, was established on Saturday afternoon. For sixteen hours she lay in an unconscious stupor at St. Joseph's Hospital without the authorities there knowing anything of her name or antecedents. Late Saturday afternoon however Mrs. A. Cave, 233 Horton street, identified the woman as a Mrs. King, who had been employed by her for the past had been employed by her for the past

The woman's failure to arrive at Mrs. Cave's on Saturday was the direct cause of her identification. Mrs. Cave inquired of neighbors whether they had seen Mrs. King. Learning that the unknown woman in St. Joseph's Hospital answered her description. scription, Mrs. Cave went to that insti-tion and identified her.

identification has failed to pene rate, out little, the mystery that enshrouds the unconscious woman. Beyond her name practically little or nothing is known of the woman. She lived with a Ridout street family for some time, but absolutely refused to divulge any information of herself or relatives. Save for giving her name as Mrs. King she told nothing about herself.

Late last night the woman was still unconscious and the hospital authorities stated that her condition was gradually growing weaker. Slight hopes are held out for her recovery. out for her recovery.

While unconscious the woman mumbled that she had a sister named Mrs. Gilmours by The Advertiser yesterday failed to reveal any relative of the unconscious woman.

OVER SEVENTY OFFICERS SENT IN THEIR PAPERS

Given Twelve Hours to Accede to Order for Service in Ulster.

London, March 22.-What appears to be a reliable account of the defection of the officers at Curragh comes in a Dublin dispatch. On Friday morning the officers received notification from the war office that unless they were prepared for active service in Ulster under certain contingencies they should send in their papers within twelve hours. As a result of this notification, 70 out of 76 officers, including Lord Holmpatrick, resigned. General Sir Arthur Paget then communicated with the war office and subsequently had a conference with the Curragh officers. General Paget told them that the war office was willing to accept the resignadons of General Gough, of the Third Cavalry Brigade and the senior officer M his staff, Major Kearsley, but that the their refusal to serve, which meant that they might be court-martialled.

Declined to Accept. General Gough and Major Kearsley declined to accept the offer of special treatment and said they would stand or fall with their brother officers.

General Paget gave assurance that the movement of troops to Ulster was intended merely for the protection of Government property, and on this assurance the officers eventually agreed to proceed to Ulster for police duty, but resolutely refused to undertake hostilities against the Ulster loyalists.

This decision was forwarded in a special message to London and General Gough and the colonels of the other regiments were summoned by the war office to proceed to London. It is nderstood that the officers domiciled in Ulster will not be compelled to undertake active service against their will, but will be given the option of resigning from the army or prolonged leave of absence. regulation governing the officers' position is as follows: "An officer shall not be permitted to re tire voluntarily unless it is deemed expedient by the Army Council."

Ottawa, March 23.-Motion was made in the Supreme Court in the criminal case of Mulvihill versus the King for extension of the time in which to serve notice of appeal. The appellant was convicted of murder at Kamloops, B. C. and sentenced to be hanged. The court of appeal for British Columbia, J. Mc-Phillips dissenting, affirmed the convicion. The proposed appeal is based on contention that the appellant was not allowed a fair trial on account of having been refused an adjournment to enable him to meet the testimony of two witnesses, not present at the preiminary inquiry, and respecting which he received no notice until the time of the trial. Also that improper questions had been put to appellant when he was had been put to appellant when he was giving his evidence as a witness on his own behalf by the appearance of the control of t own behalf, by the crown prosecutor in respect of his previous character. FOUR LITTLE CHILDREN The man who gives the newspaper the exclusive tips gravely informed The Adertiser this morning that an agent of the Rescues Them From Burning rebel forces of Mexico was in London purchasing second-hand and damaged shoes in this leading shoe centre of the House at Great Danger to Dominion for the use of the dark-browed senors who are fighting in the ranks of Villa and Carranza.

The explanation was added that owing to the hostile feelings existing between the Americans and the Mexicans, the emissary of the bold, bad Mexican insurgents had passed up the United States in his commercial transactions and had come to Canada, and hence quite naturally enough to the leading shoe manufacturing centre of the Dominion.

The Advertiser was unable to secure an nterview with the mysterious stranger, who apparently made the rounds of the shoe stores, factories and pawnshops early this morning. "Yes, we had a man! looking for second-hand shoes in carload lots," said one dealer, "but we thought he wanted them for a social service settlement, or some missionary society, ocomething like that. Didn't know he wa Mexican desperado.

Trace of the rebel representative was lso found on Clarence street, where it is said he looked over the stock of second hand footwear of all emergency accommo RETURN EXPRESS MONEY dation bankers, and aroused suspicion by the covetous eyes he cast on the old pistols and blunderbuses used in the war of 1812. Nothing, declared Mr. Law, could save the army now but clear declaration that officers of the navy and army would not compelled to engage in civil war against their wish. He concluded: "The Government is attempting to coerce a portion of the United Kingdom without the authority of the electorate." Cheers for Asquith. Premier Asquith rose to speak, amid a great outburst of cheering. He said that after Mr. Law's speech it was necessary that the country should know at once the kind of issue that was going to be presented. He continued: "The duties of the army in relation to the civil power are very simple, and have never been contested. Any officer or private who refuses to obey an order is light to dismissal.' As far back as December last year, said Mr. Asquith, general officers of the army were informed that it might be their duty to come to the assistance of the civil power, and any officers domiciled in their area might be excused. If there had been any intention of an aggressive move toward Ulster, this would have been the ast step taken, and, he added, the m ments of troops were now concluded

Paget Denies. The premier said Sir Arthur Paget had emphatically denied that he had used any such owrds as "that this was the first step in a series of operations to conquer Ulster." These words had been wrongly attributed to the commander-in-chief in Ireland. General Paget had never received from the war office any instructions justifying such a statement. was, said the Premier, an undoubted fact that General Hubert Gough and other officers concerned had interpreted their instructions in a wider sense. The army council, the Premier said was now satisfied there had been a misunderstanding and the officers also were satisfied. In concluding: "If the doctrine laid down by Mr. Law, that any officer refusing to serve was only doing his duty, was to be preached, eht country was in presence of a new danger.' [Canadian Press.] London, March 23.-A much easier feel-

John Seely, secretary for war, and Field Marshal Sir John French. This conference was followed by a full meeting of the cabinet.

Belfast Quiet. [Canadian Press.] Belfast, Ireland, March 23 .- The capital of Ulster, in which are the headquarters of the provisional government of the province, is today perhaps the least excited city, outwardly, in the United Kingdom. No more troops have arrived here and today, and the markets advanced on none are expected, while the residents look to London and the Curragh camp for their news. The statement issued by Premier Asquith last night declaring that the movements of troops were of a purely precautionary character has not weakened the determination of the Unionists to be prepared for all eventualities. When Sir Ed- steady. ward Carson, the leader of the Ulstermen, read it today, he remarked: statement simply represents the position the Prime Minister has been driven to take. The Government has put itself in a ludicrous position, but its action makes no difference to us. We are proeeding steadily with our preparations and rganization. We are not in the least affected by anything the Government may do or pretend to do. We shall keep steadily in view our main object, which is to prevent ourselves being put by force under a Government we detest."

LONDON SUFFRAGE SOCIETY TO BREAK FROM NATIONAL BODY

The Alleged Unconstitutional Methods of Toronto Association Causes Local Branch to Decide on Entering New National Association.

At a special meeting of the London away and, if it was deemed advisable, suffrage Society, held in the Normal help in forming a new national associachool on Saturday afternoon, a resolution was carried in reference to the present split in the Canadian Suffrage Association, whose headquarters are in To-ronto. The London society has been affiliated with the national association tion in Canada Another interesting feature of the meeting was a resolution of sympathy with the women teachers of the city in regard to the present situation in connection with salaries. S100 FINE AGAINST HEAD CONDEMNED GUNMEN LOCAL MOOSE LODGE

Magistrate Finds Him Guilty of Having Liquor on Unlicensed Premises.

W. R. Shaw, dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose, was found guilty by Magistrate J. C. Judd today of a breach of the liquor premises of an unlicensed or unincorporated club and fined $100 and costs.

In finding Mr Shaw guilty Magistrate Judd stated that it was impossible in the face of the evidence, to rule otherwise.

"On the day of the raid five cases of mpties were taken away from the premses," said the magistrate in summing up. When Sergts. Birrell and Barnhill, with Inspector Galpin, visited the place at night they found 45 filled pints of ale in the clubroom, which, on the evidence of Mr. Wilson, who stated that they were for the members, who did not wish tea or coffee, was evidence enough alone to convict. The London lodge, or club, neither incorporated nor licensed, and find the defendants guilty. The guilt falls on the head of the society, who happens to be Mr. Shaw, and I have no alternative but to fine him $100 and costs." E. W. Scatcherd, who represented the defendants, stated that there would be no appeal in the case, and that so far as his clients were interested, the case would end with the ruling of Magistrate Judd. An order was made out by Crown Attorney James B. McKillop, for the con discation of the liquor seized in the raid.

James Wilson, steward of the club, who vas also summoned, was dismissed.

SCHUMANN-HEINK TOMORROW. The announcement that Mme. Schumann-Heink is to give a recital at the Grand tomorrow evening has aroused much discussion as to her extraordinary drawing powers. It is a certain fact that no artist draws the great audiences throughout the country that flock to hear the wonderful contralto. Mme. Schumann-Heink herself says: "Sometimes the song an artist likes best to sing is not the song the public cares most to hear. This is unfortunate, because an audience has much to do with how well or how badly an artist sings.. The ideal condition is realized when the current of sympathy between listeners and singers is established through a song that the one loves to hear as the other loves to sing it." Thus it will be seen that Schumann-Heink arranges her program with a view of pleasing her audience as much as herself, and this, coupled with the fact that she has a most wonderfully pleasing and gracious per-sonality, is responsible to a great degree for her wonderful success.

CHINESE OUTLAWS KILL SOME HUNDREDS

[Canadian Press.]

Peking, March 22,-Outrages by brigands in Central China are assuming alarming proportions. Several bands associated with the noted outlaw, Whitewolf, are ravaging various sections of the country, ruthlessly murdering and robbing the people and burning their property.

The latest exploit of the bandits was the massacre of three hundred townsfolk who were resisting their entrance into an important market town close to Siangyangfu. Province of Hupeh. Seventenths of the town was burned and the population ruined financially.

FALL WHEAT GOOD

Farmers Report It as Being in Good Con-

Fall wheat is in fine condition, the farmers report. It is much too early to give an idea as to the probable success of this year's crop, as the critical time in its growth is yet to come, when the late frosts and thaws commence. The recent snowfall was helpful, although the thin layer of ice which covered the ground in most places, caused some anxiety to farmers. This seems to have caused no damage, however, and unless there are some severe frosts and thaws, there will be an excellent fall wheat

NORTH-END WANDERERS BACK FROM ADVENTURE

Two Lads "Beating" Their Way to Chicago Got No Further Than the Border.

James Snowden and Freddie Suther-land, two small north end youths, victims of the wanderlust who were picked up in the Grand Trunk Railway yards at Sarnia by the police, were turned over to their parents and returned home to London late Sunday afternoon. The lads left their homes several days ago and when found tated that they were "beating" their way to Chicago. The police communicated with their parents, and on the promise of the latter that they would look after their sons the boys were given their liberty.

Snowden and Sutherland created a sensation a year ago when they disappeared, leaving notes to the effect that they were

OPENING UP A NEW COUNTRY. The opening up of the new territory traversed by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between McBride, B. C., 1,135 miles west of Winnipeg, and Prince George, B. C., 1,279 miles west of Winnipeg, is developing the important discovery that the district investment of the covery that the district in the covery that the cover covery that the district in that part of British Columbia is well timbered with spruce and much good cedar. The country is fairly level and the timber is probably the finest anywhere along the Fraser River. West of Willow River, an important townsite, settlers have already established themselves, and reports indicate that there is a large area suitable for settlers in the Salmon River country west of the Fraser River and reached through the townsite of Willow River. There are not more than two or three outeroppings of rock all the way from McBride to Prince George, and whee the timber is removed the soil will be found very rich and highly productive, and this section will become a very important one in time. An estimate of the lard available for critically and the second the second that the force of the second that the second able for agricultural purposes within four miles on each side of the railway would be approximately 75,000 acres, but this amount will be very much exceeded if the country continues similar for a further distance from the railway. This feature is being developed as surveys are made, From a scenic point of view from McBride to Hansard, a distance of about 00 miles, the mountains are always in view, extending on both sides of the Fraser River, with a pleasing softness to them, which resembles the Skeena River district to some extent. The Caribou Range, at about 1,150 miles west of Win-
