TWO SYSTEMS OF TIME ARE CAUSING MUCH INCONVENIENCE

Ontario Is Particularly Affected by Different Times.

TIMETABLES UPSET

Saskatoon Still Waiting for Results From Other Places.

Toronto, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—Analysis of Canada's much-muddled civic time systems reveals many peculiar situations. The local option method re daylight saving has produced, through a sort of patchwork process, a veritable crazy quilt of time areas. The result discloses some method in the madness of that irate citizen who vehemently declared that the Federal Government should make it a criminal offence for any city council to interfere with "God's time" by the introduction of daylight-saving ordinances.

The Quebec Legislature, having taken the "time bull by the horns," and made daylight saving a provincial measure, there is in that province general uniformity of time, so far as the big cities are concerned. The cities of Halifax and Sydney, Nova Scotia, are also on daylight-saving time, and St. John and Fredericton, N. B., will adopt it on Sunday next. Apparently, in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, the daylight savers hold the majority of the cities. When it is noon in Montreal it is 1 p.m. in the maritime cities.

Ontario Times a Puzzle.

There is the same difference in time under the standard system. It is in the populous province of Ontario where the discrepancies are most awkward, provincially. Kingston and Ottawa have put their clocks ahead an hour. Peterboro and other Eastern Ontario cities have not. Toronto also has daylight saving in conformity with Montreal and New York, so have St. Catharines and Niagara Falls, Ont., because of their New York State connections. But the cities of Hamilton, London, Brantford and Windsor and all of a dozen others in Western Ontario, with the exception of Kitchener prefer to stay on standard time, with the result that they are running their clocks one hour behind those of the provincial capital.

The city of Winnipeg having decided to stay with standard time, is now two hours behind Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa. Regina, which is normally one hour behind Winnipeg, is just now on a par with her sister prairie city, having adopted daylight saving time. Calgary and Edmonton, still on standard time, and are now three hours behind the big eastern cities. Saskatoon has apparently been watching which way the "cat jumps," so to speak, and will on June 1 take a vote on whether or not to adopt daylight saving time this summer—or the balance of it.

Over the Rockies.

Going over the Rockies one would naturally expect to find some agreement among the city hall clocks at the Pacific coast. On the contrary, it is 8 a.m. in Vancouver when it is 9 a.m. in Victoria. Vancouver time is four hours behind that of Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa, instead of three hours, as under the standard system.

The transcontinental railways, which are the most inconvenienced by the variations in time, are running on standard of sun time, throughout Canada. Timetables have been altered in many instances, however, to meet the situation in districts which have adopted daylight saving.

BANDITS ARE GAINING CONTROL IN TURKEY

Situation Is Assuming Serious Proportions.

Constantinople, May 19.—Alarm over the safety of Constantinople is apparently felt by allied officials here. Operations by bandits are assuming serious proportions, particularly in Thrace, where large numbers of Bolsheviki are arriving, and the United States embassy is under guard of armed sailors. Brig.-Gen. Harrington, commander of allied forces here, has gone to London to lay the military situation before the British authorities. Turkish Nationalists declare that banditary is being encouraged by the Greeks, who, they allege, are seeking an excuse for seizing Constantinople. The Greeks, on the other hand, state that uprising are being stimulated by Bulgarian chiefs. At any rate, life and property are not considered safe in the region about this city. The country is threatened with famine, as the fields are untilled, the people being terrorized and afraid to leave their villages.

DECLARES LENINE IS NOT GOING TO BRITISH CAPITAL

Stockholm, May 19.—Reports that Nikolai Lenine, Russian Bolshevik president, intended to go to London to negotiate with British Government officials relative to trade relations between the two countries, were denied by Leonid Krassin, Bolshevik minister of trade and commerce, here today. M. Krassin declared he was going to London, adding that Russia had placed orders amounting to £5,000,000 in England, and that the first British steamer to carry goods out of Russia was now being loaded at Petrograd.

QUEBEC WANTS MORE JUDGES.

Quebec, May 19.—It is authoritatively stated that in view of the constant increase in the judicial business and the great activity in legal spheres, a request had been made to the department of justice, Ottawa, and the attorney-general's department in Quebec, asking for the appointment of one or more justices to the superior court in this district to meet the requirements. The matter is now in the hands of the minister of justice, who is the only one with authority to deal with such requests.

SIR CONNOP GUTHRIE, one of a group of English financiers now in New York in connection with the plan to float an eight-million-dollar timber land deal in British Columbia.

ANOTHER WAY TO BEAT BOOZE INSPECTORS

St. John, N. B., May 19.—Proprietors of "speak easies," where hard liquors are dispensed contrary to law in this city, have developed a new scheme for covering up and destroying valuable evidence when caught by the inspectors. Heretofore when the officers came in upon them suddenly and a bottle of liquor was about, it was quickly smashed into the sink. The officers would gather up the fragments which carried the odor of the liquor and went into court with them. These fragments of glass with their tell-tale odor and other circumstances, usually secured a conviction. Now the illegal dispensers of the joy water keep a pail of creoline under the counter and, when suddenly visited by the officers, smash the damaging evidence into the pail. The odor of the liquor is killed by the creoline, and the officers get the laugh. The sleuths of the law are unable to figure out a solution to the creoline problem.

STREET RAILWAY PRESIDENT HERE ON SATURDAY

Government Grants the Men's Request for Arbitration Board.

WHERE IS STEVENSON?

Government Arbitrator Has Not Yet Reached City.

Charles Currie of Akron, Ohio, president of the London street railway, will be in this city on Saturday next to discuss the local situation, according to local officials of the company. It is not likely that the company will take any action regarding the board of arbitration before that time, as four days still remain in which a representative may be appointed.

As far as the men were concerned there have been no new developments since Wednesday night. Nothing has been seen of T. A. Stevenson of the department of labor, Ottawa, who is supposed to be in this city, although the minister of labor wrote both parties that he had wired Mr. Stevenson to investigate both sides of the case and to bring about a settlement, if possible.

Notification was received late Wednesday by both the London Street Railway and its employees that the Federal Government had granted the request of the men for an arbitration board. Both parties have five days in which to appoint a representative, and an additional three days in which to decide on a third party to act as an arbitrator.

J. M. Donahue, the lawyer who recently defeated the City Gas Company in its attempt to collect a "readiness-to-serve charge," was appointed several days ago to serve on the board in the interest of the men. While the company have selected no one up to the present time, Manager C. B. King stated, when interviewed last night, that a representative would be appointed before the expiration of the five days allowed.

Government May Act.

If the company fails to appoint a representative within the five days, the Government has the power to make the appointment. After the men have been chosen they will have three days to select a third and disinterested party acceptable to all concerned to act on the board as a referee.

The Government granted the board as the result of a request made by the men more than a week ago. The men took the step following the refusal of President Charles Currie of the company to sign a yearly agreement. The men refused absolutely to accept an agreement containing a 30-day clause, although they were willing to accept a 48-cent-an-hour wage scale, if a yearly agreement was granted.

Wired Mr. Stevenson.

In the letter received by Manager C. B. King, the minister of labor at Ottawa stated that he had wired Mr. Stevenson, an employee of the department of labor, who is in London in the interests of the builders' council, to investigate the street railway situation in this city, and if possible to bring about a settlement between the two. Up to the present time, neither the men nor the company have heard from Mr. Stevenson.

If the plans for the board are carried through the men will present their original request of 52 cents an hour, and a yearly agreement. The men had offered to reduce their request, first, to 50 cents an hour, and then to 48 cents, which was the maximum figure offered by the company, if a yearly agreement was granted.

CONSTABLE IS KILLED.

Belfast, May 19.—A constable was killed and a sergeant was wounded when a police patrol was ambushed at Letter Kenny, near here, last night.

FRANCE WILL NOT CONSENT TO GERMANS INVADING SILESIA

Premier Briand Comments on Lloyd George's Latest Address.

ATTITUDE OF PRESS

All Except Morning Post Indorse Premier's Stand.

Paris, May 19.—France insists on a strict application of the Versailles Treaty, in a drawing of the frontier line between Germany and Poland in Upper Silesia, Premier Briand declared last night on receiving newspaper correspondents. He reiterated statements he made to the newspapermen last Saturday, when, answering the address of Premier Lloyd George before the House of Commons on Friday, he declared that invasion of Silesia by German troops would not be tolerated by France.

M. Briand said he did not see the desirability of meeting Premier Lloyd George before all the documents relating to the Silesian plebiscite had been received from the inter-allied commission at Oppeln. The premier, whose statement was considered as an indication of the trend his impending address in the Chamber of Deputies would take, said: "I have nothing to say, except to maintain strictly my viewpoint that France in all this controversy places herself on the sole ground of the Versailles Treaty. There is no other basis of discussion possible. On the other hand, France and England can converse only as equals, and Mr. Lloyd George himself will agree to this when the misunderstanding is dispelled.

"I, too, want to see the treaty carried out," said the premier to the correspondents.

CABINET DECIDES NOT TO INTERFERE IN GARFIELD CASE

Sentence Will Be Carried Out On June 2.

NEWSIES FIND LITTLE TIME FOR BALL—SUNDAY GAME LEADS TO COURT

Magistrate Allows Accused to Go With a Mild Warning.

The Tigers, one of London's fast juvenile baseball teams, is having a hard time getting into shape for the approaching diamond tussels. After school is let out each night some of the members of the team have to carry papers, and on Saturday some of them have to work, as the remuneration they derive from pursuing the American pastime is not large enough to buy a pair of shoe laces, and to buy a pair of shoes they would have to pledge their salaries for several season.

As the team was not getting sufficient practice the manager decreed that the players must play "hookey" from Sunday school and practice on the Sabbath. Last Sunday the team was just "warming up" when a policeman called the game and requested the players to talk it over with the magistrate.

This morning the magistrate told the boys to choose some other day than Sunday to whip themselves into shape and allowed them to go.

TASCHEREAU EXPLAINS DELAY.

Quebec, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—Premier Taschereau, in an interview on the delay in putting into effect the new Quebec liquor law in this city owing to the non-repeal of the Scott act, said he had not yet reached a definite answer from the Federal Government to his request for the suspension of the Scott act, pending a referendum or to allow a temporary administration of the provincial law. He added that the Federal Government desired the Provincial Government to hold a referendum in the city of Quebec, but while he agreed with this view, it would entail still further delay and meanwhile the city must accept conditions that could easily be changed if the Federal Government would consent to the temporary suspension of the Canada temperance act.

FARMERS SELL MILK FOR TWO AND HALF A CENTS A QUART, WHILE CONSUMERS PAY 12

Wholesale Price Announced For Next Week by One Large Buyer Is $1.25 Per Hundredweight — Farmers' Wives Considering a Butter Strike.

Because of the drop in the price of butter, farmers' wives of the district are contemplating a strike, claiming that its manufacture does not provide them with a revenue in keeping with time and labor involved. On Saturday, April 30, creamery butter brought 57 and 58 cents, wholesale, here. On Monday, May 2, the slump began, and the same butter can now be purchased at 30 cents wholesale. Corresponding to this great reduction, the farmers' wives have been compelled to drop their market price on butter, and this morning they stated to The Advertiser that the creameries were to blame for the reduction.

One farm wife this morning frankly admitted to a reporter on the market that she "did not know what to do. If cheese was firm in price I could stop making butter," she declared, "and sell our milk to the cheese factory, but it is down, and our milk will not bring us much there. The milk factories have reduced their prices, and a further drop is predicted, so there is no profitable outlet there. I guess we will have to grin and bear it."

Have Same Opinion.

This opinion was shared by several other wives of farmers who were selling butter on the market today, and one added: "We could feed the milk to the calves, but if everyone starts that calves will come down in price, too. As it is, you cannot get rid of a cow now for more than half that paid a year ago."

Here a horny-handed son of the soil ventured to remark: "I have five cows, which I milk twice a day, spending three hours daily in doing so. For the milk I get nine dollars a week from a London firm, and it is not worth the time, let alone feeding and pasture expenses. If I could do so without a loss, I would get rid of my cows, and if the price of butter remains as at present, a great number of farmers will attempt to do the same."

Farmer Hard Hit.

"The farmer is hard hit," declared a prominent district farmer, "because everything the farmer sells is down in price, goods in the city have got to follow. Machinery is very dear. I paid three times the price for a binder last week than that asked three years ago. Manure spreaders, which sold for $100, are now $225. A farmer could hire men to spread manura for the interest on this money alone, without figuring on wear and tear and breakage to his machine after the outlay of capital."

"New cheese, which was 28 cents a pound, is now about 18 cents," opined a farmer's wife interested in the debate. "Therefore, we get about as much profit here from our milk as putting it into butter. But I am not complaining, as we must take the good times with the bad." Whether the women will go on a butter strike remains to be seen on the local market in the near future.

Problem Serious.

That the milk problem is regarded as a serious one is evidenced by the fact that delegations from this district representing milk producers, will wait on the Drury Government in the near future in an effort to have prices adjusted.

District farmers receive $1.25 per hundredweight of milk from a large wholesale here, which is less than three cents per quart, while it retails at twelve cents in the city.

Some milk powder factories are paying $1.50 a hundred for the best milk, in contrast to $2.50 a few weeks ago. Farmers on the market today stated that such a factory near Belmont is now paying $1.25 a hundredweight of milk of the best test, and that rumor says it will drop to $1. As there are 48 quarts of milk in a hundred pounds, the powder factory would thus obtain almost 40 quarts more per dollar than the average London consumer.

However, in the canvass of many farmers' wives selling butter on the market this morning, many declared that, regardless if the fall in price, they would continue to make and sell butter, because the present price paid for milk to be used for other purposes did not provide a revenue equal to the alleged meagre one on butter. There was a good supply of butter offered for sale on the market today, thereby indicating that the strikers had not yet organized for the fray.

CONSTITUTIONALISTS TO HAVE BIG MAJORITY

Rome, May 19.—The Constitutionalist party will hold a large majority in the new chamber of deputies, members of which were chosen at the elections on Sunday. This element, made up of Liberals, Liberal-Democrats, Nationalists, Fascisti (Extreme Nationalists), and former soldiers, increased its representation in the chamber by 96, according to the Idea Nazionale. The figures published by this newspaper show the party strengths in the new and old chambers as follows:

	New.	Old.
Constitutionalists	285	189
Socialists	120	170
Popularists (Catholics)	100	100
Collunists	15	36

There were 13 Republicans in the last chamber. The number of Republicans elected last Sunday has not as yet been determined, but the party's representation will probably be reduced. In the new chamber there will be a few Slav and German deputies.

CONSTANTINE AS GODFATHER.

Athens, May 19.—King Constantine stood as godfather at the christening of the posthumous daughter of King Alexander at the royal chapel yesterday, the child being named Alexandra. The ceremony was private, only Madam Manos, widow of King Alexander, King Constantine, Queen Sophie, Queen-Mother Olga and Princesses Irene and Katherine being present.

LOOKS AS IF TRUSTEES NEEDED A TIME CLOCK

That some members of the board of education are not setting a very fine example to public school children, whose destinies they aid to shape, is the opinion of a woman school trustee of this city. A committee meeting of the board was called for 4 p.m. on Tuesday last, and being the only member present on time she criticized fellow-members for their tardiness. The chairman of the committee was the greatest offender, arriving at the meeting fifteen minutes late.

"This meeting will not start until 4:15, anyway," the punctual trustee predicted to The Advertiser reporter present, as the scheduled hour of convening drew nigh. "If the school children are a minute late each day they are censured, but the members of the board drop in at any time during a meeting. I am sure these meetings are just as important as school, because the matters discussed pertain to it, and if we, indirectly, as chief guardians of the children, insist that they be punctual, we should at least do so ourselves as an example to them."

NINETY-SIX PERMITS FOR A TOTAL OF $266,835 ISSUED

Building Figures For Month Rising Rapidly.

BETTER BUILDINGS

With ten days yet to go of May, 1921, the stated value of building for which permits were issued for the month at the city hall yesterday exceeded the total for the whole of the month of May, 1920, by $150, while the number of individual permits was 84 less. The total value of permits issued this month to date is $266,835, distributed over 96 permits, while the total for the whole of May a year ago was $266,685, and the number of permits 180.

At the present time the total value of building, including alterations, underway this year is $770,225, and the number of permits issued 483. At the end of May, 1920, the figures were $650,765 and 459. So that in value the building underway already leads that for the whole of the first five months of 1920 by $119,460 with only 24 extra permits issued. The average value per permit this year is about $1,574, as compared with nearly $,1418 last year, an increase in average value of $56.

The permits issued yesterday included three dwellings and are as follows: T. Cohlan, 131 Sydenham, metal-covered shed, $50; Miss Tytler, 26 Grosvenor, deck on veranda, $200; W. Raymond, 948 Colborne, porch, $150; Dr. Fuller, 47 Windsor, brick veneer garage, $600; F. Chappelle, 50 Regina, raising part of roof, $100; J. W. Ball, 1084 Richmond, remodelling interior of dwelling, $150; M. Hoen, 108 Oak, frame kitchen, $200; T. H. Smallman, 353 Oxford, raising roof of dwelling, $150; Salvation Army, Dundas street, metal-covered garage, $150; M. Carrol, 201 John, veranda, $250; Mrs. Fisher, 71 High, open porch, $80; Albert Callahan, Windsor avenue, 2-story brick veneer dwelling, $4,600; John Scott, 711 Maitland, raising part of roof, $95; Misses M. and L. Hill, 1275 King, brick dwelling, $4,000; E. D. Fenn, Regent, frame and stucco dwelling, $2,500.

KING BABY IS SUPREME AT TECH. THIS WEEK

FRIDAY—PRIZE DAY

Many Formerly Puny Babies Are Now Sturdy Youngsters.

One hundred and ten more babies were brought to the Technical School for examination this morning at the big baby welfare clinics being held there this week as a feature of the exhibit. This makes the total number of babies examined to date 365, 86 babies having been examined at yesterday's clinic and 167 at the three school clinics last week. Another general clinic will be held tomorrow morning, the big prize-baby clinic being held on Friday afternoon by Dr. W. J. Bell of the Provincial Bureau of Child Welfare, Toronto. Only the best babies, selected from the previous clinics will be examined by Dr. Bell at the prize clinic. Prizes are being offered for the most perfect baby under two years of age, and for the baby making the greatest improvement during attendance at each of the three regular city clinics. Announcement of the names of the winners of these prizes will be made on Friday night at the Technical School.

At this morning's clinics the child welfare nurses noted with interest the entry of several lovely-looking babies who had been nothing but emaciated little bits of humanity two years ago, when they first began to follow rules laid down by the child welfare doctors and nurses. In one stirring youngster of two and a half years, who was so active as to defy all the nurses in putting him on the weighing scales (he remained unweighed), they recognized a puny baby who came under the notice of the child welfare association two years ago, and whose mother has been following the rules laid down by the nurses and doctors ever since.

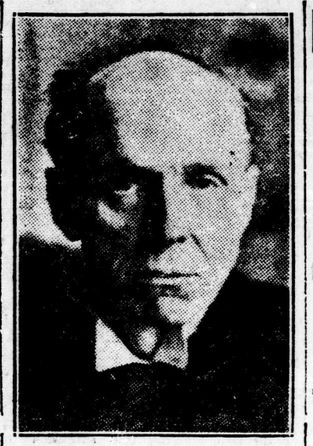

NO BIG RUSH TO FILL 'PERS' TODAY

Tomorrow Morning One Dollar Extra To Be Charged.

Despite the fact that liquor dispensed via the doctor's "per" route takes a jump of one dollar per bottle Friday, following the institution of further Government taxes on booze, the local branch of the Ontario Government dispensary reports that there has been no rush of thirsty ones to obtain the odd quart today and save a dollar.

"Business is not above normal," declared an official at the dispensary, "and today is not different than usual. The doctors and druggists who also must pay increased prices for liquors Friday, have not placed big orders because the law prevents them from carrying large stocks. There is a specified amount of liquor for them to lawfully possess, and this must not be exceeded. However, the prudent ones are stocked to the limit."

Dame rumor out on the street today stated that there was a great rush of out-of-town district residents to cash "pers" today and save money, but her statement was nailed on the head by officials at the dispensary.

LORD ROBERT CECIL, a member of the British House of Commons, who strongly opposes the measure for the protection of what are known as "key industries."

OTTAWA DAIRY PRICES STILL ON DECLINE

Ottawa, May 19.—Milk retailing at 10 cents a quart, cream at 5 cents a half pint, and the best butter at 30 cents a pound, are almost certain to be the prevailing prices for these dairy products in Ottawa on June 1. Conditions on the cheese market and the excellence of the pastures which make for greater production, are said to be the main factors in the anticipated drop. These new prices will bring the price levels back to 1914 levels. Local producers and dealers are expected to confer some time next week and settle the basis of the agreement to replace the present agreement, which expires on May 31.

EARLY CONFERENCE TO SETTLE STRIKE OF COAL MINERS

Lloyd George Will Arrange Meeting When Prospects Are Brighter.

London, May 19.—Canadian Associated Press.—Premier Lloyd George's separate unofficial conversations with the coal owners and miners have led to nothing so far, and even the names of those who interviewed the premier have not been divulged. It is said, however, that progress has been made toward clearing the way for an acknowledged conference between the mine owners and the men. The premier is determined that open negotiations will only be renewed when the way is reasonably clear to a settlement. There is no longer a pretence that the leaders of the miners are unanimously insistent for a national profits pool, but it is equally notable that public opinion remains far from whole-heartedly condemning the miners.

The executives of the transport workers and the railwaymen's union have jointly reaffirmed their decision that members of these organizations shall continue to refrain from handling imported or "blacklegged coal." This, however, is hardly likely to affect the existing position materially. Trade union funds are now depleted more than ever previously in modern times. The London tram service is almost normal again, the power house being operated by volunteer labor, assisted by naval ratings. The Glasgow dock situation is unchanged. Fourteen hundred volunteers are working and sleeping on the docks, among them being women volunteers, who are accommodated on the ships. Twelve ships from Montreal, loaded mostly with foodstuffs, are being discharged there. The government is making a good display of force about the docks, and machine guns are posted at strategic points, but as yet there has been no occasion for the use of force.

PALMERSTON AFFAIR BEING INVESTIGATED

The Chief of Police Believes "Grudge" at Bottom of Kidnapping.

Palmerston, May 19.—This morning there were no further developments in the investigation into the kidnapping and chloroforming on Tuesday night of Miss Edna K. Lee, leader of Knox Church choir and prominent musician, who was found gagged and bound in an out-of-the-way part of the town yesterday morning. Miss Lee's parents and the police here attribute jealousy, "and an attempt to blacken her character" as motives for the deed. Miss Lee is suffering from shock and exposure in the open, but is otherwise unhurt. Police Chief Wilson said today: "Miss Lee is a splendid singer, and her leaving one church to go to another has caused bad feeling." The chief said he thought that an "organized grudge" might be at the bottom of the affair. The authorities are today making investigations in Listowel, which is Miss Lee's home town, and in Guelph.

The police say that Miss Lee could not herself have tied the knots which bound her.

FOCH ACCEPTS TITLE IN QUEBEC REGIMENT

Quebec, May 19.—Canadian Press.—Marshal Foch, the generalissimo of the allied armies during the great war, has just accepted the title of honorary colonel of the 22nd Regiment at the Quebec Citadel. His appointment was sanctioned by his Majesty King George and approved by the British Government as well as the Canadian military authorities, and will be officially announced within a few days.

INDORSES FARMERS' CANDIDATE.

Medicine Hat, Alta., May 19.—The Dominion Labor Party, Medicine Hat branch, yesterday passed a resolution indorsing Robert H. Gardner, the United Farmers' candidate in the forthcoming Federal by-election here, occasioned by the death of the late Hon. A. L. Sifton.

M'FADDEN SAYS THAT HE WILL BE GLAD WHEN "IT IS OVER"

London Man Spends His First Night in Death Cell.

SLEPT FAIRLY WELL

Three Guards Are Assigned for Duty of Watching the Condemned Man.

Toronto, May 19.—William McFadden of London, Ont., found guilty yesterday, and sentenced to die for the killing of the druggist, Leonard Cecil Sabine, spent his first night in the death cell at the jail last night with his guard, the death watch.

But unlike other men who have spent their last days in the death cell, McFadden will be by himself. His death watch is in the same room, but separated by steel grillwork. The escape of Frank McCullough, due to doping his guard's coffee, caused the authorities to erect a separate section for the guard.

The section runs across the room, about three feet inside the door. So McFadden will have to amuse himself in the long days ahead of him, alone. He will not be able to play games with his guard, but can talk with him.

Governor Basher assigned three death watches to McFadden's cell yesterday on his arrival at supper-time from the city hall. The guards will work in eight-hour shifts, and are members of the jail staff. Today Governor Basher took on three extra guards to replace the ones he has put on the death watch. For the present Capt. Bridges, the jail chaplain, will act as spiritual adviser to McFadden, and visit him daily for religious services in prayer and Scripture reading. On his arrival at the jail last night McFadden had little to say. Handcuffed to Hotrum, neither spoke to the other in the police van as they sped from the city hall to the jail. Both men were depressed.

Gang Is Separated.

McFadden said in the jail as he was being searched and undressed: "I will be glad when it's over. They are putting me down for something I never did."

As the gang were separated, young Jack Conley, bedmate of Hotrum in their gun-running days, stepped over and shook hands with McFadden. "Good-bye, Mac," he said.

Then the gang were broken up for the last time. McFadden was hurried away to the death cell after he had exchanged his clothes. Hotrum, who is to receive his sentence next week, was put back in his own cell on another floor on the other side of the jail, and the Conleys and Hulse were separated in different cells.

McFadden ate a good breakfast this morning, and had little to say. He slept fairly well and was up with the first gleam of the sun.

EAGLE-EYED DRIVER CAUGHT NUMBER OF BANDITS' MACHINE.

Toronto, May 19.—Though his name is practically forgotten, police, press and public are today cymbaling praises for one wide-awake and pepful motorist, who in the down town district one evening about seven weeks ago jotted down the license number of a big motor making a quick get-away with five men aboard. The motorist gave the number to the nearest policeman, and within a few minutes the police intelligence system had communicated the number to officers in all directions. Motor bandits had just robbed a jewelry store. A few minutes later a policeman a mile or two away from the scene stopped a motor bearing the number named and arrested the chauffeur. The chauffeur gave certain information and four others were arrested in their beds that night. From that night the crime wave which had been sweeping over Toronto all winter was practically stemmed. There have been very few crimes of violence since.

One of the five men in the gang is under sentence of death for murder, another is convicted of murder and will be sentenced shortly. The third man will soon commence a twenty-year sentence in the penitentiary, and the fourth man a fifteen-year sentence. The chauffeur has not yet been tried.

It is the general opinion that the observant and now practically unknown motorist is entitled to a great credit for this important clean-up of criminals.

WILL TRY HULSE.

Toronto, May 19.—Walter Hulse, the driver of the automobile in which the Hotrum - McFadden - Conley gangsters operated, is going to be tried for the part he is alleged to have played in the holdups, according to authoritative information today. It is stated that Crown Attorney Hughes will lay a charge against Hulse of aiding and abetting and conspiring to commit an unlawful act. Hulse will appear in the police court tomorrow. He is still held

LONDONERS NOT PERTURBED OVER PROPOSED BILL

Not Afraid "Stock" Will Be Grabbed by Govt.

BOOZE WELL HIDDEN

One Packing Case Is Buried Under the Family Coal Bin.

Londoners do not seem to be perturbed a great deal by the movement on foot to have a bill passed at Toronto, by the Legislature, empowering the authorities to seize liquor supplies in the cellars of private citizens. While a few (very few) citizens whose cellars are better stocked with hard goods than a 1st barroom, may not sleep well these nights, because of the proposal, none were located by a reporter who sought the opinion of the public on the matter.

He decided to interview friends, knowing that many of them were fortunate enough to have a stock, but would not plead guilty to the tribute, fearing that the news hound would endeavor to interview the stock. "I have a few cases," said one thirsty individual, "but it will be months before that bill goes through at Toronto, if it ever reaches that stage, and by then, if the inspector will come around he can collect the empties from my cellar. They will have to hurry if they wish to get my hooch."

"My opinion," declared another booze hoarder, "is that many members of the Legislature have a little stock in the cellar themselves, and will buck the bill for this reason, hoping to delay or kill it so long as their cellars remain popular."

Another citizen, who is reputed to have an enormous stock, stated that the authorities would experience difficulty in locating his fire water. "I have been afraid that whiskey thieves would pay me a visit," he said, "and as a result have tried a packing case in my cellar, under the coal bin. This is where I park my liquor, and if that bill goes through, I will order a few tons of coal to fill my bin. Then if the inspectors come they must dig before they get the gold."

His companion, who is also reputed to have a "shot" or two on his premises, declared that should the bill pass he would give his whiskey away before he would let the Government get it. "How would they do it?" he inquired. "I do not suppose that they will make a house-to-house cellar inspection, and if they do not do this, I am not worrying, as very few people know that I have provided for a dry spell. There are lots of possible ways to beat that bill, and in a few months, if there seems to be any likelihood of it becoming law, I will adjourn to my cellar, pour out some of my best, light my pipe, take a sup and sit back to prepare my plans for the future."

CENTENNIAL SCHOOL PROGRAM SUCCESSFUL

Anniversary Entertainment by Pupils Pleases Very Large Audience.

The Centennial Methodist Sunday School auditorium was crowded to the doors Tuesday night, the occasion being the Sunday school anniversary entertainment.

The newly-elected superintendent of the school, Robert Tufts, presided, and the audience was delighted with the efforts of the children and young people taking part in the program, a great deal of credit being due to the teachers who trained the children.

The program was arranged by a committee, of which Mrs. William Huddleston was the convener, and opened with a chorus and a series of seven other numbers by the primary department, after which the following numbers were presented: Piano solo, Miss Ethel Diaper; drill, Thomas Leah's class of boys; solo, Miss Gertrude Standfield; piano duet, Misses Sadie and Ethel Hill; chorus, Miss Jackson's class of girls; drill, Mrs. Dunkin's class of girls; chorus, Miss Doris Wright's class of girls; instrumental, Miss Mary Wiley; solo, Miss Dorothy Heardè; piano duet, Misses Gertrude Evans and Dorothy Pierce; chorus, Miss L. Reed's class of boys; piano solo, Miss Leona Patton; vocal trio, Misses Bessie Crooks, Winnifred Kernohan and Dora Chapman; reading, "The Runaway Grandmother," Miss Marjorie Pack; solo, Miss Norma Cunningham; piano solo, Joe Cake; solo, Mrs. Gould.

The program concluded with a clever half-hour sketch entitled, "How a Woman Keeps a Secret," put on by ten members of the Cavell Club, Mrs. Huddleston's class of young women.

DEALERS CUT PRICES TO REDUCE STOCKS

In its summary of the iron, steel, metal and machinery markets for the week ending today, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News, Toronto, makes the following comment:

The matter of turning from the period of liquidation to straight business once more is occupying the attention of dealers in the iron, steel, and to some extent in the tool market. For some months dealers have been engaged in reducing their stocks, and for this purpose they have, in many cases, given special prices, especially in lines where they were heavily stocked with high-cost goods. In a number of cases quite recently dealers have been able to buy in the new market, add their profits, and ask for a price in excess of the liquidation figure. Buyers are not ready for the change, and realize that they are still in possession of the market, and this tendency is making it hard for business generally to get away to a fresh start, as the liquidation price is still held as the figure for the market to follow.

During the week that has passed dealers in several lines reported better business than they have had for some time. They do not regard this as evidence of a turn for a bigger buying movement, but they are pleased to take it for what it is worth and call it a good week's selling.

Prices have come down perhaps a little during the week, but the movement in that direction is very gradual, as most of the lines have already been reduced. Bar mill material is quoted around 3¾c per pound, and cold rolled shafting at 6½c base.

Business placed during the last few days centered around sheets and structural, the latter being for bridge work.

The scrap metal market continues in a poor way. The volume of business done is very small. One of the large dealers claims that his firm has not a single contract at the present time, nor is it anxious to make one, because it would be unable to buy at the low figures going at present.

Nearly all the business moving is being done in very small lots. One yard reports that a three-ton truck went out on a recent trip and took with it 40 orders, whereas in normal times three orders would fill the truck. Some of the yards are finding it necessary to make a special charge for delivery under a certain weight or value.

P. U. C. PICNIC

"Hydro Lights" Will Travel to Port Stanley July 9.

Saturday, July 9, has been decided upon as a result of a ballot of the P. U. C. employees for the annual picnic of the public utilities commission, according to a report issued by the president of the picnic committee, J. W. Peart. This date was chosen by a large majority in preference to Tuesday, July 5.

The following were elected chairmen of the various committees: Sports, W. G. Bailey; prizes, G. W. Blay, transportation, A. L. Green; refreshment, R. W. Swayze.

Port Stanley was chosen as the scene of the picnic, and it was announced that 404 adults and 137 children will participate in the day's outing.

SECRETARY DAVIS IS GRANTED FULL POWER

P. U. C. MAY CLOSE VICTORIA PARK TO ALL VEHICLES

Decision Will Be Made at a Meeting of Commissioners Today.

Decision as to the closing of Victoria Park to vehicular traffic will be made by the public utilities commission at its meeting this afternoon. This matter was laid over from the last meeting for further consideration.

The matter of extending the Dundas street ornamental street lighting system eastward from Wellington to Adelaide street will come up for review, but, in face of the recent statement of Mayor E. S. Little, that the city cannot at the present time afford to pay the additional cost entailed by such extension, it will probably be laid over for the present.

Tenders for the construction of the new hydro sub-station in the east end will be opened and the contract awarded unless the terms of the tenders make it necessary to refer them to the general manager for a report before the award is made.

RIVER WATER WILL HELP FIGHT FIRES

Addition of Thirty Hydrants Will Insure Supplementary Supply.

Reverting to the matter of the 30 hydrants that are being installed in connection with the river water service which has been installed by the waterworks department of the P. U. C., General Manager E. V. Buchanan stated that they would mean both additional aid in fighting fires and protection in case of a break in the regular system.

Each of the hydrants will carry in case of need two lines of hose. The average pressure at the pumping station will be about 150 pounds, but as the main is only a six-inch one, the pressure at the hydrant will be somewhere around 50 to 60 pounds. Under ordinary conditions this service will be supplementary to the regular fire-fighting system, but should a main burst as sometimes happens when the additional pressure needed is applied, the river-water service, while not as adequate in pressure, will insure the firemen of means to continue their work.

TO RECEIVE FIRST AID CERTIFICATES ON FRIDAY

Presentation to Florence Nightingale Division, No. 51, Graduates To Be Made by Mrs. J. B. McKillop.

The presentation of first aid and home nursing certificates, medallions and labels will take place Friday evening at the Latter Day Saints' Church, Maitland street, by Mrs. J. B. McKillop, the lady superintendent of District No. 1, St. John Ambulance Brigade (Overseas).

The successful graduates are the results of the classes held by Mrs. E. K. Swindall, lady superintendent of the Florence Nightingale Division, No. 51, held at the Latter Day Saints' Church, and great credit is due Mrs. Swindall for the efficient manner in which the classes were conducted.

During the evening a special demonstration of first aid and home nursing will be given, also solos and speeches from prominent members of the brigade.

As a result of the work accomplished and the service rendered the community during the late influenza epidemic by the congregation of the local Reorganized Latter Day Saints' Church they have now the honor of taking over the entire command of the Florence Nightingale Division, No. 51.

TO TEACH FARMERS HOW TO SHEAR SHEEP

Demonstration in Vicinity of Lucan Being Arranged.

Under the direction of R. A. Finn of the district office of the department of agriculture, a sheep-shearing demonstration is scheduled for next week in the Lucan area. The exact day will be set shortly. That this event will draw the attention of scores of farmers is the expectation of the department. It is acknowledged that in this particular and most important branch of the sheep industry there is an unlimited field for aiding the younger farmers in particular.

In the old days, it appears, that just a few experienced ones attended to the sheep-shearing end of the game. One man who would make a specialty of the work would travel about the countryside, shear the sheep on one farm and then pass on to the next. In the course of time, however, the industry suffered relapses, the usual interest was not taken and the rising generation of farmers who never had the opportunity of learning this feature, find themselves today more or less handicapped. The old sheep-shearers of the past have practically disappeared and it now falls on the Government to take this step toward a complete revival of learning of methods.

Preparations by the district office for organization gatherings for the eight school fall fairs in Middlesex are well under way. The meetings will be conducted at different localities and R. A. Finn will visit Appin, Lucan and other points within the next few days to aid in the preliminaries.

TOWN SPREADS INTO TWO STATES

It Is Also Located in Three Counties, But Its Rulers Agree Well.

OXFORD, Ohio, May 18.—Geographically the village of College Corner, five miles west of here, enjoys the distinction of being the most oddly situated town of Ohio, if not in the country.

The town, with its 900 inhabitants, is huddled together at a point where two states and three counties meet, thus making it difficult for a stranger in the village to figure out just where he is at.

For instance, Harry Foreman, a grocer in the town, can stand in the door of his place of business in Union County, Indiana, and shake hands with a man in Butler County, Ohio; or he may, with equal ease, shout "hello" to a friend on the other side of the street, who at that particular moment is in Preble County, Ohio.

For a good many years this complication caused the people of College Corner considerable trouble, and it still does, occasionally. However, a number of problems having to do with civil government have been solved so that, for the most part, the affairs of the town now move along as satisfactorily as if it were confined to one bailiwick instead of three.

Old Trading Point.

College Corner is located in a fertile agricultural region, and has for more than 100 years been a trading point of more or less importance. The first building in the town was erected in 1811; it was a log hemp mill. The town originally was laid out in Butler County, Ohio, but in time is natural growth caused it to spread into the adjoining Ohio county, and across the state line into Indiana. Just why the village was called College Corner no one at this day seems to know.

It may have been because it was located in the extreme northwest corner of Oxford Township, which was set aside by the general assembly of Ohio as a college township, the title of all the land being vested in Miami University. To this day this institution technically owns all the land in this township, collecting from the leaseholders annual "college rents."

One would imagine that the Ohio-Indiana line passed through the main street of the village, the storekepers on one side being in the Hoosier state, while those on the opposite side are in Ohio; but it doesn't.

In fact, the state line is the most insignificant part of the town, utterly indistinguishable to a stranger. From the main street it shoots off diagonally northward in a roadway; southward it cuts off a corner of the Foreman grocery, crosses the back yard of the Crecraft Hotel property, and continues as a dividing line between wheat and corn fields.

Of the 900 inhabitants of the village 500, approximately, live in Indiana, the other 400 in Ohio. The Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Western Railway station is in Indiana, and is technically known as West College Corner, Ind. The postoffice is in Ohio, and is known as College Corner, Ohio.

The town has two governments. On the Indiana side there is a board of three town trustees, elected by the people, also a village marshal. On the Ohio side there is a mayor, clerk, treasurer, six councilmen and a marshal.

Both sides are incorporated under their respective state laws, but the difference in the laws of the two states is what has complicated matters in the village.

When an election is held on the Ohio side an effort is always made to choose three of the six members of council from Preble County and three from Butler County. Each side of the town maintains a jail.

The two governing bodies of the village invariably act in concert upon matters pertaining to the welfare of the town in general. These bodies meet on the same night in each month, and not unfrequently during their sessions one body will call the other over the telephone, present its compliments, and inquire what evening in the near future will be suitable for a joint session for the purpose of considering some matter of general public interest.

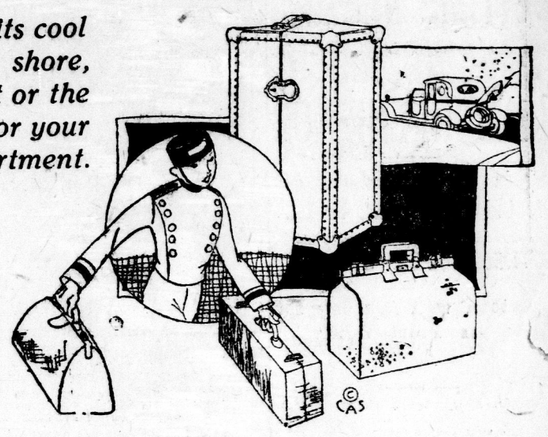

FORMER PRESIDENT AS LAWYER.

In the first "Record of the Class of '79 of Princeton College," published in 1882, a paragraph referring to his law practice is found after ex-President Wilson's name. He was then called "Tommy" Wilson, the name by which he is still known to his classmates. The paragraphs reads.

"Wilson, Thomas W., has hung his 'shingle' on the 'outer walls' at Atlanta, Ga., and reports his business prospects as excellent. After graduation, studied law from October to January, 1881, at University of Virginia, when he was compelled to leave on account of ill-health. Since then he has been hammering away at it at home. While in the University of Virginia he easily captured the oratory medal in the Jeffersonian Society. Tommy has also from time to time written letters on the condition of the south, which have been published in the Evening Post and very highly commended. Is neither married nor engaged."

ECHO IN COURT OF SOVIET RECOGNITION

Ownership of the Confiscated Goods Shipped To Great Britain Affected.

LONDON, May 12.—The initial judicial decision affected by the British Government's tacit recognition of the Soviet Government as the de facto government of Russia, was rendered this afternoon, when the court of appeal reversed a previous finding of the high court in the disputed ownership of a quantity of veneer and other wood materials shipped from Russia under a contract made by Leonid Krassin, the soviet trade commissioner.

The goods concerned had been confiscated by the Soviet Government in 1919, and were sold to a firm of British importers last August. The British courts found the original owners entitled to the goods, as the Soviet Government had not been recognized by the British Government, and consequently had not the right of confiscation.

The court of appeal found, however, that since the Soviet Government had been recognized as the de facto government of Russia, it was not within the jurisdiction of the British courts to consider the justice or morality of the confiscatory order, "although such principles," said the court, "are repudiated by the vast majority of the citizens of Great Britain, and are not recognized by its laws."

How to Rid the Arms of Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty.)

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required: Mix a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone. —Advt.

AUTHORS AS LECTURERS.

[Manchester Guardian.]

The constant turning of the wheel of history is illustrated once more in the "Chats by Authors" scheme just devised by a big London firm. In the Victorian era lectures by authors of all kinds—novelists, poets, essayists—were a well-recognized means of bringing handsome additions to an author's earnings. Coleridge, Southey, Carlyle, Thackeray, Dickens, all lectured or gave readings, and some of them did very well out of the business both here and, on a grander scale, in the United States. There was a feeling, no doubt, that an author as a concrete living personality stood higher in the market than as a mere abstraction, and it would be interesting to know why the fashion went out as completely as it did in the later Victorian period.

There is a possible explanation for the failure of interest in the author as lecturer. There is something of a gamble in this close commerce between the author and his public. The illustrated interview, or the appreciative paragraph, gives nothing away for there is a third party concerned in each of them. In a "chat" the author discards his shield. Just as plays founded on books are sometimes unsuccessful because the players do not reproduce the reader's conception of the hero and heroine, so most readers have their own conception of the author—a conception which may be shattered rather rudely when the author appears and speaks in person.

LOCAL EMPLOYMENT OFFICIALS PLACE BLAME ON IMMIGRATION DEPT.

J. C. Spencer Knows Nothing of Situation Reported at Labor Meeting.

Referring this morning to the statements made by labor representatives at last night's meeting of the Trades and Labor Council to the effect that hundreds of newcomers from the old country never see a farm, J. C. Spencer of the district employment bureau expressed the opinion that whatever the conditions might or might not be, no blame could be attached to his department. "It is a matter for the immigration people," he said.

Numerous instances were related at the meeting of the trades council last evening where dozens of prospective farmers had come into the country this winter who never intended to go to farms when they left England. One case was pointed out, that of a Pole, with eight children, who when questioned by the immigration authorities at the docks admitted that he was a shoemaker, and was headed for relatives in Toronto. Another "farmer" from Waterloo road vicinity of old London, volunteered the information that the only country he was familiar with was a glimpse of the landscape as he passed on the train to the embarking point.

Adelegate at the gathering, just returned from the east, reported last night that the offices of his own particular union in Toronto, Montreal and elsewhere are besieged daily by new arrivals; all trade unionists seeking information, and obviously giving the farm the cold shoulder. The same has been noted in many cases in local circles, it was said.

Opinion Expressed by Ald. G. A. Wenige in an Interview.

Ald. G. A. Wenige, in a brief interview with The Advertiser today, said that in his "opinion the town planning committee," of which he is a member, "should and would be a powerful factor in the elimination of the causes which brought about his charges against the efficiency of the board of works and other civic departments.

"No man would start to build a house without first having made or had made for him the necessary plans. He may afterwards deviate to some degree from the plans, but they form the basis on which he works. So it should be in civic affairs; no work should be commenced before proper plans are made, for its carrying out, and this is apparently the purpose for which the town planning committee has been formed."

NEXT WEEK WILL BE BIG ONE FOR WESTERN GRADS.

Students To Attend Functions From Monday to Friday.

UNIVERSITY DINNER

Dr. Charles E. Saunders and Prof. W. D. Henderson Will Be Present.

A letter received today by the dinner committee from Dr. Charles E. Saunders of Ottawa states definitely that he will be present for the annual convocation week banquet of Western University, to be held at the Tecumseh House next Wednesday evening. With Dr. Saunders and Prof. W. D. Henderson of the University of Michigan as the speakers, the program for the evening promises to be one of the most attractive of any university banquet in a long while. The musical part of the program is being looked after by Dr. Bernard McDougall, and will also be attractive.

The graduates in arts and medicine will be given the place of honor at the head table, along with the two distinguished guests of the evening. The graduates also have the privilege of inviting a guest to attend the function. The medical graduates of this year will have the record of being the last class to graduate from the old school. Next year's class will have had one year in the new building, as all classes will be conducted there beginning with the next term.

It has been suggested to the dinner committee that Dr. Charles E. Saunders should be asked to tell something of the experiments by which he produced the famous Marquis wheat, and the committee is forwarding this request to him.

Prof. Henderson, who is the other speaker of the evening, is a Canadian, a native of Ingersoll, and has made a great success of his work as head of the extension department of the University of Michigan.

Law seems to be the main attraction for the majority of the men who are graduating this year in arts. Most of them will be in attendance at Osgoode Hall next year. A graduate of three years ago, Mr. Frank Curran, who has since been in attendance at Osgoode Hall, is this year being awarded the degree of LL.B., by Western, he being the first man to secure this degree from Western. It is expected that others will be candidates for this degree in each year henceforth.

The senate of the university is called to meet on Friday afternoon ,the 27th, to hear the final reports from the faculty with regard to the standing of the candidates for degrees, and will pass upon them prior to the convocation to be held that evening.

The whole week is practically taken up with university affairs of one kind and another. The alumnae, with the co-operation of the third year in arts, are arranging a dance for Monday evening in Hyman Hall in honor of the arts graduates. Tuesday will see the big field day, Wednesday the university dinner, Thursday the university play, and Friday the convocation for conferring of degrees, at which the chief speaker will be Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education for Ontario.

START FOUNDATION OF NEW COLLEGIATE

Excavation Work Will Be Completed This Afternoon.

The work of laying the foundations for the new Great War Memorial High School on Waterloo street was begun by the Kingston Construction Company today, forms for them having been laid this morning. While the excavation work is not completed, it is expected that it will be tonight, and does not interfere with the foundation workmen. A cement mixer is on the job, and in addition to cement, many of the large grey stones salvaged from the old building will be utilized in the foundation, and white brick from the burned school will be used as filler.

No new men were hired today, but once the foundation work is underway the Kingston Construction Company will employ about 100 on the structure, selecting from a waiting list of 100 local married tradesmen who are at present unemployed. There are about 30 workmen employed on the contract today.

LADY AUTOIST GIVEN BENEFIT OF THE DOUBT

Police Allege Car Was Driven at Excessive Speed on Dufferin Avenue.

Mrs. E. Martin, 554½ Waterloo street, was given the benefit of the doubt, after all the evidence on a charge of speeding laid against her was heard in police court today.

Constable Walted Pope stated that at 5:25 o'clock Saturday afternoon auto No. 65-421 was driven from Dufferin avenue to Queen's avenue on Waterloo street in fourteen seconds. Chief of Police Robert Birrell informed the court that the distance between these two streets was 528 feet, and that as it was accomplished in fourteen seconds, the speed was 25.3577 miles an hour.

Mrs. Martin swore that her car was not on Waterloo street that day. She said that about 2 o'clock that afternoon her daughter drove the car downtown, but they went by way of Wellington street. Then they drove to Crumlin, returned, and went north on Wellington street to Wolfe, and thence home. Her daughter was called from work and gave similar evidence. She said she was not an experienced driver and could not have driven at the rate charged in any event. The mother said that they had owned the car only seven weeks.

DOING THEIR BEST

Chief Birrell Says His Cops Are Enforcing Headlight Law.

"I can't help what Mr. Bernard says, we are doing all in our power to enforce the law," said Chief of Police Robert Birrell today, when it was mentioned to him that C. E. Bernard, of the London Motor Club, had charged that the police were not strict enough in enforcing the law requiring motorists to have non-glare headlights. Mr. Bernard said that every night glaring headlights were in evidence on many highways. Chief Birrell added that all his men had been instructed to enforce the law to the letter.

LIL' BENNY CLAIMED HE WAS "FALL GUY"

Had Chased Work 25 Miles When Mr. Sleep Grabbed Him.

ONE GRAB TOO MUCH

G. T. R. Constables Hale Ben to Court, But He "Put One Over."

Benjamin Smith, colored, told Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett in police court this morning that he was the "fall guy" in a little chase along the Grand Trunk Railway tracks just before daybreak this morning.

Yesterday, Ben claimed, he chased work for 25 miles, and although he did not come into actual contact with it, was going to resume the pursuit this morning, having received definite information that Old Man Toil was staying on a farm twelve miles from the city, and that the much-sought gentleman would wait for him if he reached there before sunset.

The dusky pursuer decided that he certainly could not go 37 miles without sleep, and so, through sheer exhaustion, dropped to the ground near a fence on Grand Trunk property. He stayed near the railroad so that he would not lose his bearings, as he had been told to follow the road nearest the railroad.

As he dreamed of the pay-days to come, two railway constables stumbled over him.

"Somebody Else, Not Me."

"They were chasing a couple of fellows off a train," explained Ben, "and they started to let me go, but the fellows got away, so they took me. They had to get somebody I guess."

This explanation caused all the spectators, the policemen and court officials to burst into laughter, but Ben remained serious.

"If I let you go, would you go out to that farm and get work?" asked the court.

"Sure! Sure. Certainly!" exclaimed the prisoner.

"All right, I'll dismiss you," replied the deputy magistrate.

Smith grabbed his hat and darted for the door of the prisoner's box. He could hardly wait until a policeman opened it. Then he rushed for the first door that he saw, putting on his hat as he hurried away. When he reached the door which led into the witness-room from which he could get into the hall, he turned his head, and smiled. It was a winning, infectious smile, and if Ben had stopped in the hall to listen, he would have heard the roars of laughter that followed his departure.

PARTNERS FIGHT 3 DRUNKS, BUT ARE EACH FINED FIVE

Mysterious Assailants Have Yet To Be Found.

Robert Johnston and Edward Moran were called to police court this morning for being disorderly, the fact being that they were fighting.

Chief of Police Robert Birrell was indeed surprised that these two men were fighting, as they had been partners in a poolroom business and had always been the best of friends.

However, he could understand that they had been embroiled in fistic warfare when the case was aired. Bob and Ed had not ben fighting each other, but had fought three drunken ruffians who attempted to molest one of them. They did not know where their antagonists were, as they had escaped.

When Police Constable Parker plunged through the smoke of battle and got a clear view of the affair, he saw Moran, coatless and hatless, battling wtih a stranger. And this pair were not alley fighters, either, for the duel was taking place right on the street car tracks. Moran was getting the best of the argument, but whether the stranger and his two friends disappeared because of this or because the officer arrived is a mystery that until noon today was still recorded in the "unsolved" column.

For taking part in the disturbance, Johnston and Moran were fined $5 and costs each.

FRANCE WILL NOT

spondent of the London Daily Mail, "but there is nothing in the treaty which stipulates that all the rich mining districts in Silesia must go to the Germans, while the Poles will get what is left. I do not wish to enter into any controversy with Mr. Lloyd George, and I stand by what I said to you correspondents last Saturday."

"PERTINAX" DECLARES ENTENTE CORDIALE NOW AT STAKE.

Paris, May 19.—Declarations made regarding Poland and Silesia by Prime Minister Lloyd George yesterday caused considerable irritation to French newspapers. There was little comment on the premier's words this morning, but what there was seemed severe. Pertinax, the political editor of the Echo de Paris, said regarding the statement of Lloyd George: "Please give us even less if possible than you did in the last speech before the House of Commons. The affair is too grave henceforth to be treated as politics. There is no getting away from one fact—the entente cordiale is at stake."

LLOYD GEORGE SUPPORTED.

London, May 19.—Newspapers of this city today showed greater unanimity in indorsing Prime Minister Lloyd George's declaration of the British attitude toward Poland and Silesia, made yesterday, than they did his almost sensational statements before the House of Commons last Friday. There were in some instances references to the judiciousness of reiterating Great Britain's viewpoint at this moment regarding a point already made sufficiently clear. The Morning Post was alone in dissenting from the prime minister's declarations, and in an editorial bearing the caption "Smashing the Entente," the newspaper maintained its antagonism against Mr. Lloyd George's stand, which it declared to be "fantastic and absurd."

The manner in which the prime minister's statement of last Friday was received by the French press was generally criticised, the Telegraph repudiating accusations that Mr. Lloyd George expressed distrust of France, or hinted at an Anglo-French estrangement. The newspaper called such implications by French journalists "very foolish," and declared the British would support Mr. Lloyd George in insisting that settlement of the Silesian question must be along the lines laid down by the Treaty of Versailles.

NEW S. A. CITADEL IN EAST END TO BE OPENED ON JUNE 12

Commissioner Richards Will Conduct the Opening Ceremonies—Building Cost $15,000.

Brigadier Alex. Crichton, district commander of the Salvation Army, asserted today that the east end citadel of the Salvation Army would be formally opened by Commissioner W. J. Richards on Sunday, June 12.

The new structure which is of red brick, is practically completed. It is situated on the east side of Rectory street, opposite the east end fire hall. The cost is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $15,000. There will be two meeting halls, and office for the officer in charge in the building.

A special musical program will be held Saturday afternoon and evening by No. 1 Corps Band. Sunday afternoon and evening services of thanksgiving will be conducted by the commissioner. The opening ceremonies will be held in the afternoon.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

New York, May 19—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Declines ranging from 1 to 3 points in several of the prominent speculative issues marked the early dealings on the stock exchange today. Pressure was most apparent in Crucible Steel, People's Gas and Sumatra Tobacco. Some of the motor issues and junior oils also eased, and rails manifested none of the previous day's strength, most leaders reactting fractionally. New York Air Brake recorded the only noteworthy gain, rising 2 points despite yesterday's cut in the dividend. Preliminary exchange rates on London indicated increased firmness, demand bills repeating their recent maximum quotation at $4.

EXPORT MANAGERS OF W. O. FIRMS TO HOLD CONFERENCE HERE

Will Be Invited by the London Chamber of Commerce.

PASS RESOLUTIONS

Chartered Banks Will Be Asked to Contribute to Charitable Causes.

After one month of solid work devoted exclusively to the local welfare fund campaign the executive of the Chamber of Commerce in this city met at noon today to review the affairs of the organization and to resume once more its various activities. Among other things the executive dealt with several resolutions received through the month from sister organizations in other places.

One of the communications was received from the Temiskaming Board of Trade of New Liskeard. It stated that owing to the fact that banks in small cities, towns and villages rarely contribute to worthy charitable causes because it is claimed that all such gifts are made through the main offices of the banks, usually located in a large city, the board of trade in New Liskeard would petition all chartered banks to make some arrangement so that they could give assistance to worthy causes in the towns where they transact business.

Here's the Remedy.

As a remedy the board recommended that each chartered bank in Canada, with its central offices in a large city, should allot to each local branch a percentage of the profits of such branches to be donated to any worthy cause recommended by the local bank manager. It was pointed out that whereas bank managers are paid on a salary basis they can do no more than maintain their standing as citizens. Coming as it did on the heels of the local welfare fund campaign the suggestion met with considerable favor with the members of the executive.

Secretary Gordon Philip asked the board for permission to call a meeting in this city in the near future of the export managers of all manufacturing concerns in Western Ontario to confer generally on export business. It is believed that such meetings held at regular intervals would do much towards righting the balance of trade between Canada and the United States. The suggestion was received with considerable enthusiasm among local shippers.

This One Approved.

The recommendation of the Border Cities Chamber of Commerce that amendments or additions should be made to the companies act to restrict and further regulate the sale of stocks also met with considerable approval. It was believed that such restrictions were necessary owing to the large amount of unsubstantial stock being sold throughout the country at the present time.

Among several other regulations, the Border Cities' Chamber of Commerce would recommend that companies selling stock should be forced to show on their prospectus the amount of stock held by directors of the company and whether money was paid for such shares. It would also stipulate that the company show the amount of stock disposed of for other than cash and to whom the shares were issued. It recommended that all salesmen, brokers and agents should be licensed both by the Government and the company.

The question of deepening the St. Lawrence River so that ocean-going vessels could gain entrance into the Great Lakes was again dealt with.

CHATHAM SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD VISITS PUBLIC SCHOOLS HERE

After Tour of Inspection Party Will Be Received by Bishop Fallon.

Joseph Dulong, chairman, and seven other members of the Chatham separate school board are in London today for the purpose of inspecting the public school buildings of the city, including those in the course of erection. As the Chatham trustees contemplate making a notable addition to the separate schools of their community they expect to derive many valuable suggestions from the local institutions. Accompanied by V. K. Greer, inspector of public schools, and J. F. Sullivan, inspector of the separate schools, the delegation is this afternoon making their tour about the city. Before leaving the visitors will be received by Rt. Rev. M. F. Fallon, Bishop of London, and will also confer with different members of the London separate school board.

M'FADDEN SAYS

as a material witness, and it is said the crown will ask for another remand and then lay a charge against Hulse.

JUDGE BELIEVES McFADDEN WAS NOT THE SLAYER.

TORONTO, May 18.—William McFadden of London, Ont., was found guilty by a jury at the assizes here this afternoon of murdering Leonard Cecil Sabine, druggist, of this city, on the night of March 5, last, and was sentenced by Mr. Justice Logie to be hanged on August 3.

Roy "Patsy" Hotrum of Hamilton, Ont., a companion of McFadden in the hold-up at Sabine's store, on the night in question, was found guilty by a jury here last Saturday of the Sabine murder. Hotrum, whose trial took place before Mr. Justice Kelly, was not sentenced, because notice of appeal had been given by his counsel, who had been granted a stated case by Justice Kelly. In McFadden's case the presiding judge refused a stated case.

Prisoner Surprised.

When the foreman of the jury in the McFadden trial this afternoon announced the verdict, "guilty," the prisoner closed his lips, which usually are slightly open, opened them again, then bit them. For a moment his fists were clenched. He recovered his composure almost immediately, however, and resumed the air of comparative indifference which has characterized him during the trial. His counsel, Fletcher Kerr, appeared more moved by the verdict than McFadden himself.

Crown Counsel Waldron moved for judgment, and Justice Logie looked at the prisoner and said: "McFadden, stand up. Have you anything to say for yourself?"

Says Not Guilty.

The prisoner was silent for a second, then replied: "The only thing is, I'm not guilty of the shooting of that man."

Justice Logie said: "I believe, McFadden, that this is so, in so far as I was able to follow and distinguish who perjured themselves, and who did not.

"In all capital cases I have to make a report, and in doing so in this case I will state that, so far as I could discover, this shooting was done by Hotrum, and not by you. That, however, does not affect the sentence. There is only one sentence which I can impose on you, and I would advise you not to place too great confidence in the intervention of the governor-in-council.

Solemn Warning.

"I, therefore, tell you to make your peace with God in the short time which you have still to live. The sentence of the court is that you shall be taken back to the place whence you came, kept in close confinement until the third day of August, 1921, and on that day you shall be led to the place of execution and hanged by the neck until you ore dead. May God have mercy on your soul."

When McFadden was being taken from the courtroom by two constables, he smiled faintly and assumed an air suggestive of bravado. This left him, however, when he was temporarily placed in a cell in which Hotrum was sitting.

"I am going for something I never did," he said. "I am going for something I never did," he repeated. And as he walked back and forth he reiterated this statement.

Planning Appeal.

Before the judge sentenced McFadden, his counsel asked for a stated case, in order to appeal against the verdict. One ground of appeal was that Ammon Davis, a jeweler, whose store was robbed within a few nights of the Sabine murder, was prepared to testify that John Conley was one of the gunmen in the robbery, and that he had a big, blue-barreled revolver. The second ground on which Mr. Kerr wished to appeal was that Justice Logie, in effect, had taken away from the jury the consideration of the question as to whether McFadden's statements, as a whole, amounted to a confession. The construction of McFadden's statements should have been left to the jury, Mr. Kerr contended, and not so construed by the presiding judge.

Refuses Application.

In refusing the application for a stated case, Mr. Justice Logie ruled that Mr. Davis' evidence was inadmissible and irrelevant. As to his lordship having taken away from the jury the question of prisoner's evidence, the judge said he had simply pointed out that, if McFadden's statements were believed by them, they amounted to a confession.

In dismissing the jury, the judge thanked them and said he did not see how they could have reached any other conclusion than the one they had arrived at. "The law lays down what the penalty is," he said, "and if executive clemency is extended to the prisoner on the ground that he was less implicated than Hotrum, that is not for me or for you."

Conley Get 15 Years.

In passing sentence on Arthur Conley, Judge Logie said: "Public opinion is thoroughly aroused, and it would be a travesty of justice if you were to receive a light sentence for which your counsel has so eloquently pleaded on your behalf. The crime to which you have pleaded guilty is punishable with imprisonment for life, and also that you should be whipped. I am not sure that it would not be best to follow out the directions of the law and give you the extreme sentence, but in view of your counsel's eloquent pleading, and in view of the circumstances in which your wife is situated, I have decided not to give you the full penalty, but to allow you one more chance of leading a decent, respectable life in the future. Organized society is too strong for any criminal. It gets him in the end, and if for no other or higher reason you should bear in mind that honesty is the best policy.

"The sentence of the court is that you be confined in Kingston Penitentiary for fifteen years."

Jack Conley, who pleaded guilty to being connected with two hold-ups, was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary.

Walter Hulse is being held at Toronto jail, awaiting the pleasure of the attorney-general.

A word that's often used.

The customer who makes avail.

And they'll give you a chance to prove it,
If you call around today. b

GOVT. MAY SEIZE STOCKS OF LIQUOR

John O'Neill Considering Introduction of a Radical Bill.

TORONTO, May 18.—John O'Neill, M. L. A., Southeast Toronto, said today that he was seriously considering the introduction of a bill at the next session of the Legislature to authorize the seizure of private stocks of liquor and Government compensation therefor. He declared that the present situation, with the rich men's cellars stocked up with liquor while the poor man could not get any at all, was flagrantly unjust. "I want to make the thing equal all around," he said. "They can have mine along with all the rest."

TROTZKY REPORTED ILL.

RIGA, May 18.—Information has reached Riga tending to confirm the report that Leon Trotzky, the Russian Bolshevik war minister, is seriously ill. He is said to be in a sanatorium near Moscow suffering from cancer.

A WOODLAND SANCTUARY.

Algonquin Park, the Ontario Government preserve that has been set aside for a playground for the people, "is a sanctuary." No shot is fired in the great domain. No creature is hurt for thousands of miles. The tradition of hatred is dying out; and the man who would say, today, as so many have said in the past, "What a heavenly morning! Let's go out and kill something," would be sent to Coventry. The camera is there today; and the animals and birds are "snapped" in their daily living, free from terror. The accommodation in the park is such that the most varied tastes can be pleased. The Highland Inn and log cabin camps operated by the Grand Trunk Railway offer all the comforts that good service and social companionship can bring. The rates are reasonable. A handsome illustrated descriptive publication telling you all about it can be had for the asking, apply to any Grand Trunk ticket agent or C. E. Horning, D. P. A., Toronto, Ont.

DEMOLISHING SLUMS PRACTICAL HYGIENE

Proper Housing a Vital Factor in Promoting Public Health.

TORONTO, May 18.—The large part housing conditions and transportation play in the problem of tuberculosis was brought out at the 21st annual meeting of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis here today by Dr. F. L. Schaffner, Winnipeg, president of the association.

"To build sanatoria is praiseworthy," he said, "but to demolish slums is practical hygiene."

President Schaffner said housing problems were too tremendous to be dealt with adquately by invidual enterprise and should be treated along broad legislative lines. Rapid and cheap transportation were advocated by Dr. Schaffner as a means toward eradicating tuberculosis.

Secretary George D. Porter pointed out that the result of combined efforts in fighting tuberculosis for ten years was that instead of a death rate of 130 per 100,000 as was recorded in 1910, the death rate in 1920 was 83 per 100,000.

Sheriff A. B. Cook, Regina, Sask., was elected president of the association, and Dr. George D. Porter, Toronto, vice-president.

In the last named place many persons were injured as labor headquarters was burned.

TILLSONBURG, May 18.—Crops all through this district are coming along splendidly. The return of warmer weather finds farmers very busy. Rain is needed in some sections.

LONDON MAN IS ELECTED TREASURER

TORONTO, May 18.—Lloyd Harris, former Canadian trade commissioner, addressing the Canadian Confectionery, Biscuit and Chocolate Manufacturers at a banquet tonight, which concluded the annual convention of the organization, said Canada's export trade in Great Britain was suffering because of our present political system.

"The Government is so inefficient," he said, "that is has less business understanding than the boy in the street."

Officers were elected as follows: President, William Robertson, Toronto; first vice-president, D. Dingle, Winnipeg; second vice-president, H. N. Cowan, Toronto; treasurer, C. Currie, London, Ont.; secretary, C. J. Bodley, Toronto.

ORDERED TO STOP REPAIRING ROADS

Chatham Board of Works Halted by Highways Department.

CHATHAM, May 18.—Local enterprise in the shape of taking care of the roads entering the city by the Chatham Board of Works received "a slap in the face" today, when the department of highways notified Ald. Harry Fitzsimmons, chairman, to stop work in repairing bad spots on the worst entry into the city, Grand avenue east.

Following an inquiry at the last meeting of the council relative to bad spots on this road, although it is outside of the city limits, the board of works delivered several truck loads of crushed asphalt and commenced to fill up the holes. Cinders donated by the Harvester Company were used as a binder, and a good job was well under way. The action of the highways department has, however, killed any ambition the city may have in looking after the entries into the city. The work on Grand avenue east is not yet half completed, but will doubtless remain unfinished until the highways department issues the necessary permission.

LIVE WIRE KILLS OWEN SOUND YOUTH

Emerson Libby Meets Almost Instant Death in a Garage.

OWEN SOUND, May 18.—Taking hold of a live wire at the Owen Sound garage this morning, Emerson Libby, aged 18, received a shock which caused almost instant death. He was painting the ceiling near a high tension wire, and the first intimation of anything wrong was when a fellow workman saw him hanging with one hand grasping the wire and the other on a metal conduit. He hung there for a moment, then fell to the floor. When picked up he was still breathing, but though several doctors were on the spot quickly, efforts at resuscitation failed. It is thought that he was reaching over, steadying himself by resting his hand on the conduit and that losing his balance, he caught at the nearest thing, the wire, and as the conduit was grounded, he received the full force of the 550-volt current. He is a son of Frank Libby, manager of the Clinton Knitting Mills Company.

SUBWAY IS COMPLETED.

BRANTFORD, May 18.—The largest subway in the city, the new St. Paul's avenue railway subway, has just been completed, and is practically ready for traffic. It is expected that with the lesser hill extension of the street railway completed the route through the subway will be opened up, giving the city an almost circuitous route around its outskirts.

FORMER LONDONER TELLS OF MISSIONS

BRANTFORD, May 18.—Resumes of progress among bands, circles and societies were given at the convention of the Women's Missionary Societies of the Hamilton conference in the Methodist Church today. Demonstrations featured the gathering. Reports showed general advance, with decided gains in membership and givings.

Addresses on the work among the foreigners and strangers in Hamilton and district were given by Misses Hind and Black of that city. Local foreign children gave a demonstration of the possibilities of work among them. Brant avenue band staged "The World Children For Christ," and the Colborne street band put on a circle half hour.

Rev. F. Louis Barber, missionary to Japan, formerly of London, held the attention of the gathering this afternoon, telling of missionary work in the Land of the Sun. Reports of band and circle work were also presented.

FOR LOVE OF BETTY

[BY MAY CHRISTIE.]

(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

LXXXVIII.—PAYING APRIL BACK

And the love letter that Trevor had written Betty from the Junior Club, and which he—Davon—had intercepted.

"I didn't mean to keep it," he reflected, blushing now over the meanness of the act.

If only Betty could get a glimpse of that love letter—how it would cheer her up! April was acting so extraordinarily, too—this would be one good way of getting a little of his own back—of paying April back! The difficulty lay in approaching the subject with sufficient finesse.

He mustn't let Betty think that he had stolen a letter that was rightfully hers!

"Miss Gordon," he began, slowly, "I don't want to intrude on your private affairs in any way, but I have a curious suspicion that Jack Trevor wants to see you."

Betty gave an incredulous little start.

"Yes," went on Davon, firmly. "That is true."

"What makes you say such a thing?" breathed Betty, almost inaudibly. There was a suffocating sensation in her throat that rendered speaking difficult.

This question was indeed a "poser," Davon thought. If he told the truth he would have answered:

"A love letter in my pocket at this moment, written by Trevor to yourself—and my own desire to see April Moore have her pretty nose put out of joint—if you go to Maine, that will certainly occur!"

But aloud he merely remarked:

"Oh, various things. Wouldn't you think of going North?"

"To see—him?" Betty's tones were very low.

Davon nodded encouragingly.

"I would—if I were you!" he said.

Betty did not answer. Her thoughts were in confusion. What did this strange man mean with his insinuations? Had she so little pride left that she had given herself away on the subject of her love for Trevor? Such knowledge was unbearable.

"Let's change the subject," she said, stiffly. "Such a suggestion is quite impossible. I should never dream of going!"

"How she does care for him!" Davon reflected, shrewdly, not in the least deceived.

Somehow the more he knew of Betty Gordon the more critical he became of April Moore. He was desperately annoyed with April, and the root of his annoyance lay in the fact that he didn't understand her present game at all!

"It was awfully decent of her sending me the fifteen hundred dollars, of course," he told himself. "But, then, it's easy for a pretty girl like April to wheedle money out of men!"

This skillfulness of hers was useful—but, all the same, he thought she wasn't treating him fairly, hanging round Trevor up in Maine. And, now the fellow showed signs of recovering he wouldn't be at all surprised if April actually worried him into marrying her.

"Trevor's weak and quite unfit to cope with April's wiles," thought Davon, a meditative eye on Betty Gordon. "I'd really like to put a spoke in April's wheel, and I've a good mind to do it through this girl. . ."

To actually hand her Trevor's letter would be too dangerous. Betty would at once surmise that he—Davon—had stolen it.

"I could post it to her when I run up to town tonight," reflected that young man. "The envelope could be patched Experience had made him cautious—up."

he wasn't going to write a line that would give himself away.

—"I must be going now," said Betty, rising, and breaking into his thoughts. "Thanks so much for this news. I'm interested to hear of all my friends!" She tried to force a note of lightness into her voice, but the result was a dismal failure.

"Don't forget what I've been telling you—that Trevor wants to see you," remarked Davon. "I shouldn't be a bit surprised if you get word from Maine soon."

Ignoring his remarks, she held her hand out in farewell.

"Good-bye just now," he said. "Think over what I've said."

As he turned away from her, he was hoping that the seed he had tried so industriously to sow had fallen on good ground. If Betty could only be induced to take a trip to Maine, she would certainly queer April's little matrimonial game where Trevor was concerned.

"The chap's in love with her—if only she'll believe it" he told himself.

As for the ring that he had pawned, he could easily borrow two hundred and fifty dollars, reclaim it and send it on to Betty or to Trevor, making an excuse for the delay. To see Jack Trevor safely out of April's hands,—thereby clearing the field for himself—would be well worth the money.

Two hours later Davon had "patched up" Trevor's delayed letter to Betty and posted it in New York.

The following May morning dawned clear and fragrant. The birds were carolling their hearts out in the rambling garden of the Red Cottage. But the song in Betty Gordon's heart was even gayer and more springlike. For hope, long dead, had wakened to new being.

In her hand she held Jack Trevor's "delayed" but first love-letter. It was written to herself!

STUFFINGS FOR FOWL.

For potato stuffing, take two cupfuls of hot mashed potatoes, a cupful of bread crumbs, a quarter of a cupful of chopped salt pork, a teaspoonful of onion, half a teaspoonful of sage, and one egg. Mix thoroughly and use as stuffing. Never pack a stuffing too tight.

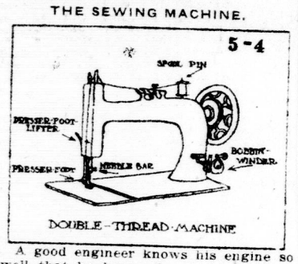

A good bread crumb stuffing may be made of three cupfuls of bread crumbs, chopped with a quarter of a pound of salt pork and two tablespoonfuls of fat; salt, peppor and savory should be added to taste, and then two eggs or more beaten in to make the stuffing sufficiently moist. Milk may be used to replace one egg.

Cracker crumbs also make a good stuffing. Add pepper, salt, sage, savory or marjoram to a cupful of cracker crumbs; melt a third of a cupful of butter or bacon fat in a third of a cupful of boiling water and pour over the crumbs. Milk may be used instead of boiling water.

For chestnut stuffing, very good for turkey, use three cupfuls of chestnuts, shelled, blanched (inner skins removed in hot water), boiled until soft, and well mashed. Add a quarter of a cupful of fat, a teaspoonful of salt, an eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper and a quarter of a cupful of cream. Melt a quarter of a cupful of fat; mix it with a cupful of cracker crumbs, and stir it into the chestnut mixture.

For duck stuffing cover pieces of dry bread with boiling water. As soon as the bread has taken up the water, press it out, and season the soaked bread with salt, pepper, melted fat and finely chopped onion. Sage, marjoram, or savory, and crushed celery leaves are the regular flavorings for stuffing. Thyme is liked by many people as well.

THE SEWING MACHINE.

A good engineer knows his engine so well that he hears the slightest break in the rhythm of its motion, knows that something is wrong, and very soon knows what it is. So we should be with our sewing machines, which, however standardized and rendered "fool-proof," as the manufacturers say, are nevertheless delicately constructed machines, requiring intelligent care to render good service.

There are two types of sewing machines, single thread with automatic tension, and double thread, or lock-stitch, with adjustable tension, the latter being in more general use. Each type has certain advantages, and each is stoutly defended by those accustomed to its use. The single-thread machine makes a chain stitch which must be fastened securely at the end of a seam, else it may pull out its entire length once it begins to rip. This machine is easier to thread than the other, having no bobbin, and is of much lighter weight, requiring, therefore, much less energy, but is also correspondingly less fitted for heavy stitching.

The double thread machine does both light and heavy work, and its stitch cannot be pulled out more than an inch or so. It is in every way a sturdier instrument, less likely to get out of order, but it makes a heavier demand on the operator's strength.

For either machine we need an oil used regularly and intelligently, and cleaning cloth and a paint brush with a firm, sharp tip, to remove dust and lint from the fine steel parts. A screwdriver, a wrench, a strap cutter and punch, and a small pair of pincers enable us to take good care of our machines, and make small repairs without the expense and delay of sending for an expert, or sending the machine to one.

Personal Health Service

(By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D., Noted Physician and Author.)

Tonsillitis.

The common acute tonsillitis of children and young adults is an acute inflammation and swelling of the tonsils with redness of the throat and soft palate around them and usually an accumulation of yellowish-white cheesy masses of secretion on the surface of the swollen tonsil at the orifices or mouths of the lacunae or follicles or crypts or openings. These peculiar yellowish-white spots on the tonsil are often mistaken by the laity for diphtheritic membrane, and in the early stage there may be a slight resemblance to that of diphtheria; if such a question arises a culture may be taken and sent to the laboratory whence a report may be had in twelve hours.

With ordinary tonsilitis there is fever, general malaise, dull headache and the familiar aches and pains of acute infections generally. In children there may be little or no complaint of soreness in the throat or pain on swallowing, and hence the nature of the illness may be unrecognized unless the throat is examined.

Children or young adults who have chronically diseased tonsils are liable to acute attacks of this kind at frequent intervals. When three successive attacks of tonsilitis have occurred within three years, it is high time to have the tonsils removed, if indeed some insidious yet serious systemic injury has not already been done.

The reason why tonsilitis is more prevalent in April and May than in other months is that, in our universal fear of fresh air, weather, cold, dampness and exposure, we keep so thoroughly housed up and overdressed all winter that our natural resistance to infections of the respiratory tract is at a pretty low ebb in the spring.

One with tonsilitis should go to bed at once and remain there for the duration of the illness, even though he still feels "strong enough to fight it." Disobedience of this rule is accountable for many a serious complication particularly in the way of valvular lesions of the heart. The sad part of it is that the valves of the heart may be involved by a lodgment thereon of germs coming through the blood stream from the seat of infection in the tonsils without any definite evidence which would apprise the patient of the complication, until long after the illness has been forgotten.

Gargling with a solution of all the boric acid the boiled water will take up, not as possible, every hour, will accomplish as much and more than any nostrum.

Cold compresses kept on the throat, changed every hour, for a day or two, give more relief, when there is much soreness or rawness, than any other application. A cold compress consists of two or three yards of cheesecloth folded into a pad 4 or 6-8 or 12 inches, and wet with ice cold or very cold water applied to the throat and covered with oiled silk or waxed paper or woolen flannel.

Otherwise the home treatment for acute tonsilitis is the same as the home treatment for acute coryza or other acute respiratory infection. And the precautions against the spread of the infection are also the same.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Mother and Daughter.

You have helped me on several occasions, particularly when you sent me the pamphlet dealing with sex hygiene for girls. I showed it to my mother and she said "That's much better than I ever could have told you." We are both very much indebted to you. Do you have any such pamphlets for boys of fifteen to eighteen years of age?. The boy in question is half way through high school and in association for the most part with boys a little older than he is (aged fifteen). (Miss H. G. M.

ANSWER—I am glad your mother approves the pamphlet I sent you. I should be glad to send a little article on the subject to the boy. I won't send such pamphlets to every one who asks. I send them when I think they may be good—I want to do as I would have a boy or girl of my own done by.

Bee Wine.

Please let me know what danger if any there is in drinking wine made with bees. Have been told that it forms tumors (Mrs. F. D.)

ANSWER—Government authorities advised against the use of so-called "bees" for fermentation. They recommend the pure yeasts commonly sold for baking purposes. "Bees" are wild or impure yeasts. These impure products are sold under all sorts of romantic titles and with a great deal of buncombe about the value of the fermented beverages.

THE LITTLE LAME DOG.

The Last Part.

The pot of gold had been returned to the sun by the bald-headed old eagle, and the storm clouds had disappeared, so the sun was able to shine forth quite brightly once more. Dr. Will-o-the Wisp, quite true to his promise, had arrived in time to cure Limpy's lame leg and had gone away with the golden feather of the blackbird perched on the top of his head.

How overjoyed little Limpy was when he found his leg straight for the first time in his life. Ting the tramp dog was overjoyed, too. It was not long before the journey home was begun. Ting knew the way quite well, and together the dogs started off.

Limpy's old mother was almost dead with anxiety. So anxious had she become she could neither eat nor sleep, and although little Pinkey the white rat did her best to try and comfort her, the old dog felt sure she would never see Limpy again.

Just as the old dog decided it was about time to die there was a familiar little bark outside, and in ran Limpy on all four legs. It is needless to tell how quickly the old dog got better then, and so, with Limpy—a lame dog no longer—she spent the rest of her days in peace.

Wants Pattern.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is my first visit to the Mail-Box. We take The Morning Advertiser, and I like to read the letters and get a lot of help from them. I see where flower seeds are so much in demand. I thought I could be of some help, so I am sending 35 packages of all kinds of flower seeds, and I hope it will swell the fund. I am late in sending them, but what isn't used this year will come in for next.

Will you please send me the stocking-foot pattern, and a sachet, if you have one to spare? I am sending a stamped, addressed envelope. Wishing the Mail-Box al lknids of success, I will sign myself. POTATO.

Ans.—Am forwarding a pattern. Potato. Thank you very much for seeds.

Wants Yoke Patterns.

Dear Miss Grey.—It is a long time since I wrote you before, but seeing that I could be of some help, I thought I would copy out these songs, and hope they are what was asked for. Would like to get some patterns for a yoke. I see where Hubby's Only One has offered some poppy seeds. Would like to get some. Here is my mite for S. C. H. and postage. A SUNSHINE LASS.

Ans.—Am mailing some poppy seeds, Sunshine Lass. Thank you for hospital mite.

Dear Miss Grey,—I saw in yesterday's paper where Charmian was sending in some bulbs. Will you please send me two. If I am too late, please send me some poppy seeds that Hubby's Only One is sending in. I certainly enjoy the discussion on books, and love a good interesting one, but have no particular author. Will now close, wishing the Mail-Box every success. I inclose my mite. HAPPY MOLLY.

Ans.—Am mailing poppy seeds, but Charmian will have to send the bulbs direct to you Happy Molly. Thanks for the hospital mite.

Offers Words.

Dear Miss Grey,—Didn't see my other letter in print, so thought I would try my luck again. Did you not receive it, Miss Grey? Or possibly it was my awful scribbling you couldn't make out. I'll admit it's awful, and I had been waiting so anxiously for a note from Lonesome Sue.

Boxites, doesn't that story in the 'Piser get you excited though? Oh, dear, it does me. I can hardly wait until I get the next issue paper, "Hiawian Guitar." I am still waiting for your letter.

Any of the Boxities wishing words of the following songs I will be pleased to send them: "You're a Million Miles From Nowhere," "Arabian Moon," "They're All Sweeties," "Lucky Fellow," "I'm So Tired of Dreaming Dixie Lu," "Afghanistan," "Take Me to the Land of Jazz," "An Old-Fashioned Rose, My Mother," "Feather Your Nest," "Margie," "Meet Me at Twilight,"

It's more than Twilight; now, friends, so will wind up my watch on the Rhine. I am, ever, PRETTY MICKEY.

P. S.—Lonesome Sue, write soon.

MARIE ANTOINETTE.

Dear Miss Grey,—It isn't so very long since I have written, but seeing I could be of some help I thought I would write.

I inclose the words of "Casey Jones" and "October's Party" asked for by Topeka.

I also have the words of "Drifting," "I Know What it Means To Be Lonesome," "Childhood," "Golden Gates," "Let the Rest of the World Go By." If anyone likes them I could copy them.

We are getting a dandy new memorial hall in Blyth, and I expect the opening will be in about two weeks, so all be ready.

Could you please send me a satchet bag or else put me on the list for one. And I guess that is all I can do at the present time. I will close, wishing every success to the Mail-Box. Please tell me what you think of my writing. Ten cents inclosed for fund. What are the satchet bags for? Sincerely,

BONNY JEAN.

Ans.—Many thanks for hospital dime and words of songs. Am mailing a satchet. They were sent in by Thistle to be sold to the Boxites to raise money for our hospital cot. Your writing is very good.

Marie Antoinette.

Dear Miss Grey,—How I have longed to be admitted to your circle! I think your hospital fund is one grand thing for les enfants, and herewith send a wee bit to help it along. Can you read French, Miss Grey? French words will slip out once in a while. Is not Canada a good country to live in? At least, I find it so. I like books so much. I just finished reading "The Music Master," and it is one grand story. I also love Pauline Johnson's poems. My favorite authors are R. Connor, S. Richmond, Barrie, and, oh, so many others. I adore them all! Now pour requests! Could I have some flower seeds, n'est-ce pas, and that stocking-foot pattern, so great, s'il vous plait?

MARIE ANTOINETTE.

Ans.—Am mailing seeds and the pattern. Thank you for the "wee bit."

Dear Miss Grey,—Well, here I am again. This is my third letter to the Mail-Box since Christmas. I have been so glad to get home-grown seeds—they are so much better than the ones we get from the store. I have had very poor success with the ones from the store the last two summers, and now I am asking for more seeds. I see where June Bride sent in some perennial pea seeds for the Mail-Box. Would you please send me some? Hope I'm not too late. Also snapdragon seed, asters, cypress vine and phlox, if this is not asking too much? The best care is none too good for flowers that are our daily companions. They are ever ready to cheer the sick and make home bright and cheerful. Plants respond quickly to loving treatment. All they require is heat and light and to be well watered and fed. A mere sprinkle of water day after day is almost death to any plant. Water only when plants are thirsty, then give enough to reach the roots. Nothing is better for plants than manure water, but use it carefully. When potting plants you can kill the worms in the soil by heating it before potting the plant. Always water a plant good before repotting, and let it stand for about an hour; then strike the pot against the table to loosen it. The plant with the unbroken roots can easily be put in the new pot without injury to the roots. A lover of flowers.

WISTERIA.

P.S.—Inclosed find dime for S. C. H. fund.

Ans.—Am mailing seeds, but there are no cypress or snapdragons in the Mail-Box. Thanks for hospital dime.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Kites rise against, not with, the wind. No man ever worked his passage anywhere in a dead calm.—John Neal.

Darkey.

Dear Miss Grey,—Have you room for another big nuisance? I see where Kathleen has sent in a copy of "Bill and the Widow." May I have the piece? I will make a few copies of it and return them with it to Mail-Box. I have "Revelations of a Wife." It is just the same as was in The Advertiser in serial form.

I, too, have two kiddies, a girl and a boy. Sometimes they're good and sometimes they're not. However, we manage to get along without much whipping, even if I do sometimes have to repeat orders a couple of times. Sometimes a little strap is a great persuader and reminder, and is like castor oil, "all right in its place."

Well, I must run now and hope to see my letter in print. Here is a mite for the kiddies. Will sign myself.

DARKY.

Ans.—Thanks for the hospital mite, Darky. "Bill and the Widow" is not in at present.

EXPERIENCED MOTHERS

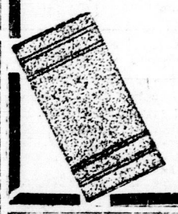

Know How Necessary It Is To Keep the Blood Rich and Pure.

Out of their experience thousands of mothers know that anaemia is the sure road to worse ills. They know the difference that good red blood makes in the development of womanly health. Every headache, every gasp for breath that follows the slightest exertion by the anaemic girl, every pain she suffers in her back and limbs are reproaches if you have not taken the best steps to give your weak girl new blood. The case of Miss Jessie MacNeill, Dominion No. 1, N. S., shows the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in building up the blood in cases of anaemia. Miss MacNeill says: "For nearly two years I was a weak, sick girl. Sometimes I would be confined to bed for a week or more at a time. I had no appetite, was very pale and if I walked quickly across the room my heart would flutter terribly. The least work should leave me utterly tired out. I had tried several medicines, but they did not do me any good, and I was much discouraged. Then I read in a local paper of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. After taking a few boxes I felt a lot better, continued their use for several months. The result is that I am feeling fine; have a good appetite and can work without feeling tired and depressed. In view of my experience I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a safe medicine to recommend to all weak girls."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Sarnia Celebrates Mint Opening On 11-Inning Defeat of Orme's Brants

2,500 People See Introduction of Professional Ball At the Sarnia Athletic Diamond—President Maines Sees the Opener.

SARNIA, May 18.—The official opening of the Michigan-Ontario League in this city was observed with fitting ceremony this afternoon, when "Hump" Pierce and his Port Huron-Sarnia crew took the measure of George Orme's Brants in a close-fought eleven inning contest. Errors in the pinches proved costly to the locals in the early part of the game, but after the ninth air-tight ball was the rule. Kelly, with the bases loaded with Brants, made a pretty double play unassisted in the sixth, when he speared Dey's vicious drive down the third base line.

Wolfe, who was batted out of the box yesterday, essayed a come-back today, but he was yanked in the second when he loaded the bases, Ketchum relieving and pitching himself out of the hole. Keiffer went bad in the sixth, two singles and a walk filling the bases. Two runs were shoved across on Hartline's single before the side was retired. In the eleventh Kaylor reached first when Werre dropped the threw, Hooker sacrificed him to second, Kelly's out sending him along to third. Maloney bent a ringing drive at Cully, who mussed it up and allowed Kaylor to cross the pan. Over 2,500 people were in attendance. George H. Maines, president of the league, took part in the opening ceremonies. Score:

Kitchener City Intermediate Team of W. F. A. Meets Second Defeat.

GALT, May 18.—In their first home game tonight Galt's intermediates in the W. F. A. defeated Hespeler eleven, 1 to 0, and thus obtained the lead in the five-club grouping. They are a strong team, and have given the local senior champions some hard tussles, and will be hard to beat for group title. Football had experienced a great revival here, and keen interest is being taken in progress of W. F. A. teams and in the five-team city league. The half-time score of tonight's game was 0—0. The teams:

Hespeler—Goal, Horner; backs, Dixon and J. Garside; half backs, Wildman, Chittick, E. Garside; forwards, C. Reuton, J. Reuton, Mather, Kerr, Arnold.

WOODSTOCK LOSES AT HOME.

WOODSTOCK, May 18. — Stratford seniors defeated the locals here tonight in a senior W. F. A. fixture. It was one of the best games of soccer witnessed here in some time. Frank Carson scored in the first half for Stratford, while B. Smith notched the second counter shortly after the commencement of the second half. Stratford had the edge on the locals for three-quarters of the time, but towards the close the locals ducksd up and kept the ball in the visitors' territory most of the time. The line-up:

Stratford—Goal, E. Dempsy; backs, G. Bradley; half backs, T. Ross, Cook; forwards, R. Reynolds, B. Smith, Robb, F. Carson, Kildour.

Woodstock—Goal, Brotherton; backs, Huddleson, Mitchell; half backs, Bottoms, Clarke, Beere; forwards, Desmond, Juniper, Ayres, Fleming, Boon. Referee—James Gunn.

Cockshutts—McGratton, Swinton and Knowles; Perrin, Garland and McLeod; Plant, Neale, Pepperby, C. Richardson and R. Richardson.

KITCHENER LOSES.

KITCHENER, May 18. — Kitchener's intermediate W. F. A. team lost their second straight game tonight, when the St. George team beat them here, 2 to 0. The winners played nice soccer, but they were very materially aided by the referee, whom they brought along with them. The feeling ran so high at one time, owing to his partisanship, that the Kitchener team was inclined to leave the field, but they continued, knowing that it was the sporting thing to do. The game will in all probability be protested.

Choose Team For Chatham Trip After Friday Night

Lacrosse Squad Out in Force Last Night—President Yull Promises Dinner If Group Is Won.

The lacrosse team which will make the trip to Chatham on May 24 will be chosen after Friday night's practice over at Tecumseh Park.

The squad were out in full force last night, and Coach Donahue and Trainer H. Scheiding gave them the hardest gruelling they've received yet. President T. H. Yull and Mrs. Yull were on hand to see the grind. Last night they put a real attack against the dedence, and no quarter. More material was out last night, and some of the additions look good enough for any company.

The squad has a new incentive to get started right away on the way to group honors. President Yull has offered the team a dinner if the district honors come to London.

St. Thomas has a good squad out working, and St. Marys and Stratford are reported to be putting in some hard cracks, too. It will be a tidy group to win.

The batteries were: Wingham—Sperdondy, Morden and Anderson. Brussels—Campbell, Thompson and Best.

Favorites For King's Plate Not Ill

Royal Visitor and Heath Bell Disprove Rumors by Working Out.

TORONTO, May 18.—There were all kinds of rumors around Woodbine today as to the condition of the King's Platers, but the report that Royal Visitor, the favorite of the race, and Heath Bell, both of the Brenner-Giddings stable, were among the many horses that are coughing, was refuted by their presence on the track, and both appeared to be in excellent condition. The fact is that the stable's third string for the guineas, Chief Sponsor, is the one affected.

Royal Visitor breezed through the stretch today a quarter of a mile in 25 seconds, in preparation for his final trial tomorrow morning.

Heath Bell was sent the full plate journey, one and a quarter miles, in 2:12, by herself, the half in :49, and the mile in 1:42 3-5.

The three Livingstone platers—Flea, Moll Cutpurse and Ragged Robin—worked together, a mile in 1:46. Moll Cutpurse being in front at the finish. Flagging Spirits, from the same stable, went three-quarters in 1:17.

SHORTAGE OF CARS IS CAUSING TROUBLE

LONDON, May 18. — (By Canadian Associated Press.)—The shortage of the London tram cars through the conservation of fuel is causing much inconvenience at rush hours. There are plenty of volunteer laborers unloading Belgian coal now, which is to be utilized for generating power.

Lord Londonderry suggests that his fellow coal owners in the Durham and Northumberland fields should undertake an amalgamation of coal enterprises throughout the United Kingdom into districts in order to reduce the overhead distribution charges. He believes the scheme would reduce the price without undue diminution in miners' wages.

GIRL IS HELD FOR STABBING

J. J. Lowe, Former 13th Battalion Man, Murdered in Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 19.—J. J. Lowe, a former member of the 13th Battalion, Rolay Highlanders of Canada, was stabbed to the heart during a brawl in a Chinese restaurant on St. Urbain street, this city, at 12:30 this morning, and when picked up by the police was still alive, dying as he was being admitted to the Montreal General Hospital.

Grace Blanco, 28, of 12 Clarke street, is under arrest charged with his death.

Lowe is said to have met Miss Blanco and another woman and to have gone with them to a Chinese restaurant at 48 St. Urbain street. An altercation arose and the women ran out pursued by Lowe, who cried: "They have stolen $5 from me."

They ran down the stairs and into the street and as Lowe caught up to the women and reached forward to seize them, one of them struck back quickly and Lowe fell. The women ran away and later were traced to 12 Clarke street.

A large body of strikers is assisting the police as special constables.

PENSIONS REPORT EXPECTED MONDAY

OTTAWA, May 18.—By Canadian Press.—The report from the special committee on pensions, insurance and re-establishment is expected to reach the Commons about Monday. The committee, it is understood, is now taking up the questions of housing and unemployment in the executive session and will probably spend another day or so on these two problems. Telegrams and resolutions from all parts of the Dominion in regard to housing are being received and considered by the committee. While the drafting of the report to be presented to parliament has not yet begun, it is not expected that many important changes in the returned soldier legislation this year will be recommended.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For the Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy; it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advt.

SIMCOE YOUTH IS SENT DOWN FOR BIGAMY

Homer Lambert Got Off Lightly After Pleading Guilty.

ST. THOMAS, May 18. — Pleading guilty to the charge of bigamy Homer Lambert, 20 years old, the Simcoe linotypist, was given three months in the county jail today, his sentence being given a sympathetic consideration by the magistrate, because Mrs. Lambert the second was alleged to have tried out a couple of other husbands and found them not up to her liking.

Lambert's first wife, Miss Kay of St. Thomas, refused to return to a home which he was prepared to furnish and let bygones be forgotten.

May Not Remain.

An intimation comes from Ald. Chas. S. Butler that he will desert his old associates around the council board, if the vicinity in which Mr. Butler has his business is not made fit to live in and the insanitary conditions at once improved. The alderman insists that the bylaw dealing with outside closets be rigidly and emphatically enforced. But word comes from the city building that such a health protecting ordinance cannot be found. And if the title or preface or opening chapters may be located, the fact will be apparent that the measure never reached its manhood. The bylaw was given a first and second reading, but the third or final disposition of the ordinance was left for future generations to squabble over.

ROBERTS PRESIDENT HEALTH ASSOCIATION

Red Cross Expects Enrollment of About 750,000 Members.

TORONTO, May 18.—Hon. W. F. Roberts, St. John, N. B., minister of health for New Brunswick, was elected president of the Canadian Public Health Association at the final session of the annual meeting here today. Dr. A. B. Alexander, municipal hospitals, Winnipeg, said three things were necessary in dealing with diphtheria—early diagnosis, the giving of antitoxin, and care in convalescence.

Mr. A. M. Heustis of this city said the recent campaign in Toronto to encourage children to drink milk had resulted in 1,000 more cans of milk being shipped here daily.

EXCELLENT DEMAND FOR HEAVY HORSES

Lobo Farmers Are Planning To Raise Many Fine Animals.

ILDERTON, May 18.—The farmers are busy now preparing for planting. Some roots have been sown, but owing to the cool weather many are waiting and are giving the land extra cultivation. The recent heavy rain was of great benefit to the oat and hay crops in Lobo, which are now looking fine, and some of the wheat fields are promising a very heavy crop. The entries for the fall wheat crop competition are now being taken, and promise to surpass 1920 in numbers.

The president of the Farmers' Clydesdale Club reports the arrival of the imported stallion, and business opens this week with Geo. Charlton and J. Crapp as managers. While cattle prices are down below pre-war prices, the horse market seems to be improving, and the demand for good heavy horses is quite keen, which will no doubt induce many of the horsemen to again start breeding.

The bee at the Memorial Park, Poplar Hill, was well attended, and although the thunder shower somewhat delayed the work, a good start was made, and it is hoped that next Friday will see a good turnout to finish up the painting and getting the grounds ready for the picnic of the U. F. O. on May 24. The entertainment booth has now an extended platform, which will be an improvement.

The Coldstream Public School is closed for two weeks owing to a case of scarlet fever, the young child of N. P. Campbell having been seriously ill for the past week. No other cases have as yet developed, and it is expected the prompt quarantine measures will prove effective. The patient is now well on the road to recovery. One family in S. S. No. 7 has also been under quarantine for a week for measles, which so far seems to be also checked.

The opening ball game was played on the Vanneck Junior U. T. O. Club grounds between Vanneck Juniors and Lobo Continuation School Club, with a large attendance of fans and rooters from each club. Rev. N. A. Campbell was umpire, and the score stood 17—3, in favor of the L. C. S., the visiting club.

The Bear Creek Community Club put on an excellent program at its regular meeting. Lance Telfer sang several solos. There were speeches by A. C. Ferguson and A. Fraser. A new and pleasing feature, community singing, led by Rev. N. A. Campbell, was much enjoyed by all. After the next regular meeting, which will be of a business nature, it was decided to postpone until autumn, probably in October.

The 10,000,000 gold marks possibly will be sent to the United States, as there the gold would have its greatest value. The Germans have not yet notified the commission when they will deliver this first installment.

These amounts do not represent all cash or currency, but only in part, the balance being bills of exchange which may immediately be converted into cash, and checks reckoned at the rate of exchange obtaining on May 13.

TEN-DAY LAY OFF FOR G. T. R. SHOPMEN

MONTREAL, May 18. — Owing to slackness of operations, it is said that the Grand Trunk Railway is declaring a ten-day holiday at Point St. Charles shops. The Angus shops of the Canadian Pacific Railway are also to be closed down, but the dates have not yet been announced. At railway headquarters it was suggested that no improvement in conditions can be expected until wages are revised downward. About 6,000 men are affected.

CELLAR ROBBED DURING FUNERAL

70 Cases of Liquor, Property of Late Francis Miernickie, Taken.

CARETAKER IS ARRESTED

Windsor Man Arrested by Detroit Police Pursuers in Speed Boat.

WINDSOR, May 18. — Police action following the theft of 70 cases of liquor from the home of the late Francis Miernickie, Riverside Drive, Sandwich East, while his remains were being carried to the grave Monday morning, brought about the arrest of Harvey O'Connor, aged 38, 156 Sandwich street west, Windsor, and William Langshaw, caretaker at the Miernickie home, who was present, police state, when the liquor was removed.

O'Connor is being held by Detroit police. He was arrested Tuesday afternoon after Detroit police, in a speed boat, chased his craft at a rate of 45 miles an hour for 15 miles on the Detroit River, finally ramming it after using riot guns.

In police court today Langshaw pleaded his innocence, and said that he knew nothing more concerning the whole affair than the fact that liquor bandits had beaten him and forced their way into the house and removed the liquor. Langshaw was remanded without bail for one week.

Windsor police were endeavoring today to secure O'Connor from the Detroit authorities. A warrant has already been made out for O'Connor's arrest on the liquor charge. Langshaw is charged with being an accomplice.

ARTHUR TATTERSAL HELD FOR FORGERY

Alleged To Have Issued Check in His Wife's Name.

SARNIA, May 18.—Constable Frank Norman left today to bring back Arthur Tattersal, wanted here on a charge of alleged forgery in connection with the issuance of a check for $490 on a local bank in his wife's name, according to police officials. Tattersal was arrested in the border city last night on a request from the local department, following receipt of a tip that he was located there.

Police Sergeant Alex Reith was called to substantiate under oath a written memorandum of complaints made by him against Chief of Police Jas. Forbes at a special meeting of the police commission this afternoon. At the conclusion of his testimony and questioning by the commissioners and Chief Forbes, the hearing was adjourned until Monday next, when P. C. Joseph Fournie, a complainant, will probably be called, and the chief will answer the complaints. In support of one of his complaints, Sergt. Reith declared that shortly before last Christmas he advised the chief by phone of an alleged disorderly house that he had observed, and the latter had told him to "never mind." The next day, he stated, he communicated all the facts to the chief, but nothing was done about it, and nothing has been done since. The commission decided to adjourn their hearing, and will likely continue their probe when the session is resumed next week.

WHISKEY BANDITS BUSY.

WINDSOR, May 18.—Whiskey bandits entered the home of O. E. Fleming, K. C., 1015 Sandwich street west, early this morning and stole $250 worth of case goods.

Liberals Put Blame For Dominion Unrest On Meighen Misrule

Telling Arraignment of Govt. Policies Made by Duncan Ross and G. M. Gordon in Splendid Fighting Speeches — Premier's Charges Hurled Back At Him.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, May 18.—Charges of inconsistency and political immorality levelled against the Liberal and Progressive parties by Premier Meighen were thrown back in his teeth by Duncan Ross of West Middlesex and G. M. Gordon of West Peterboro in the debate on the budget today. Mr. Ross is an old member of the House, who has seldom been heard to better advantage than today. Mr. Gordon made what was practically his maiden speech, but his address on the budget was one of the most thoughtful and effective so far delivered. He has a fine parliamentary manner, and his voice in any modulation carried to all parts of the chamber.

Talked Reprisals.

The member for West Middlesex declared at the outset that the Government, instead of making efforts to maintain and extend the only real market which Canada had at the present time, namely, with the United States, contented itself with talk of reprisals. The emergency bill of the United States, which has now passed both Houses, constituted a menace to many of the natural industries of the Dominion; in particular, the cattle industry. It was not yet too late, said Mr. Ross, for the Government to make representations to the Government of the United States (not cap in hand, or in any servile attitude) with a view toward maintaining amicable relations as to mutual trade.

Accuses Meighen.

The prime minister had made a speech on the budget. It had been a good speech; but Mr. Meighen had frequently mistaken vituperation for argument and declamation for logic. He had accused his opponents of inconsistency. It would be well for him to look among his own political followers for the commission of that particular sin.

Thereupon Mr. Ross proceeded to set forth the political history of Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of militia. He showed how the latter, while a follower of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, had in 1911, 1914 and finally in 1916, advocated tariff reduction and the placing on the free list of agricultural implements.

Has Forgotten Them.

"At that time," said Mr. Ross, "the minister of militia was the champion of the consumer, the laborer and the farmer. Today he has forgotten them. At that time he was the chief antagonist of the principle of protection; today he is one of its chief advocates. What is the reason? In the old days he was the tribune of the people; today he is a cabinet minister."

With Mr. Guthrie in his cabinet, it ill-became the prime minister, in the opinion of Mr. Ross, to accuse the Opposition of inconsistency. "How," he asked, "can there be harmony in a cabinet so constituted as the present cabinet is?"

An Excellent Speech.

The speech of the new member for West Peterboro was one of the best heard in the House during the present debate. He pointed out at the start that the sales tax imposed by the minister of finance would have the effect of increasing the cost of living and the cost of production. It was provided in the new taxation that milled products, such as flour, rolled oats, etc., were subject to the sales tax when inclosed in packages under 48 pounds in weight. Yet the inclosure of such packages was in the best interests of sanitation and the best protection against adulteration. The poor man could not afford to buy in large quantities; the rich man could. The new tax was a direct burden upon the laboring men throughout the country. Corn flour was taxable under packages of 40 pounds; cornmeal was taxable in any quantity. Corn flower was only purchased by the rich and well-to-do; cornmeal was a staple of the laboring man.

Cannot Be Reduced.

"If the food of the people has to be taxed," said Mr. Gordon, "how are you going to reduce the cost of labor and production?" The manufacturer cannot reduce the cost of production, if we tax the food of the workingman. For three years of the war the Government talked of giving the last dollar, and yet they permitted those who were amassing wealth to go scott free. Instead of making the income tax apply back to those three years they now tax the food of the workingman. We are back to the days of the corn laws in England.

"But," he said, "it will be some comfort to know that diamonds are on the free list."

School Boy Attitude.

The prime minister had taunted the Opposition with being "tools and minions," and with inconsistency. His charges were on a par with the action of a school boy looking out of a window and making faces at the passerby. Had the prime minister forgotten the eloquent words uttered by his minister of immigration, Mr. Calder, in 1919? At that time the latter had declared that he was a Liberal, and that no man could change his views. In the same year he had declared that a revision of the tariff was absolutely necessary. He had also declared that it was his duty to stay with the Government until the soldiers had returned and until after demobilization. "In Peterboro," said Mr. Gordon, "the soldiers have all returned long ago. What demobilization is he now waiting for?"

A voice—The demobilization of the Government.

The Government had talked of unrest and discontent. To what was that unrest and discontent due. The returned soldier had gone back to his forge, his lathe, his bench or his profession. It was not the returned man who was causing discontent and unrest.

Gives the Figures.

Mr. Gordon quoted from the Toronto Telegram to show that last year the Canadian General Electric Company of Peterboro, which had opposed wage increases for its men, had granted to Sir Frederick Nicholls, president, stock to the value of $563,000, and an annuity of $30,000. "That," he said, "is the thing which is causing unrest and unhappiness in this country. When men say they cannot pay wages enough to keep their employees and their families in decent livelihood and then get together in high places to take from the coffers of a big concern half a million dollars, that causes discontent and unrest. It is not the war which has caused this discontent, it is the men who have amassed fortunes through the war."

Cut the Bonus.

"There is another cause of unrest," said the member for West Peterboro. "During the present session the postman's bonus was cut by 25 per cent. A postman is a man who serves the public irrespective of the position which members of the public hold. He is a man who in many cases has a limited lease of life, because he is out in all kinds of weather. But his miserable bonus has been cut by one-quarter. And two days after this was announced the Government brings in a bill whereby the chief justice of the supreme court shall have a salary of five thousand a year as administrator, in addition to his ten thousand as salary, and that he shall be exempted on the latter from income tax. That," said Mr. Gordon, "is another cause for unrest and unhappiness. It is not the returned men who are to blame. It is men in high places who undertake to do for themselves what they have no right to do. We need big business in this country, but we want big business to be fair and to share honestly with those who are entitled to a share."

Made No Reduction.

The budget debate in the House was resumed this afternoon by Duncan Ross (West Middlesex). It had been expected that Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the Opposition, would speak this afternoon, but his contribution to the debate was deferred until tomorrow. Mr. Ross expressed disappointment that there had been no reduction in the tariff to bring down the high cost of living. It was generally recognized now that if the reciprocity agreement had been accepted in 1911 it would have been a great boon for the country. It had been adopted piecemeal by the Conservative Government itself. The Canadian livestock industry had been much benefitted by reductions made in the Underwood tariff; and now the Fordney bill had caused much uneasiness among cattle raisers. The time was ripe for the Canadian Government to go to the American Government, not in the way of pleading for favors, but on the basis of mutual interests, in order to retain the American market.

Must Get Busy.

If the Government did not see fit to take this action, it would be necessary to take some other means to provide for an outlet for stock-raising in this country. He suggested that during the coming visit to England, the prime minister should take up with the British Government without interfering in British politics, but in a business-like way, the removal of the cattle embargo. This would provide a new market for Canadian cattle, and would give the British people cheaper meat.

The prime minister had appeared to be much bothered about the Liberals. He seemed to fear that W. D. Euler would not be able to retain his seat. Such concern on behalf of an opponent was rather strange.

"Crocodile tears," remarked S. W. Jacobs (George Etienne Cartier).

The premier had fears, too, for the safety of Mr. Jacobs, Mr. Ross added. Then he was worried about the sincerity and consistency of the Liberals. Mr. Ross thought it might be well for the prime minister to look about him, when he was talking of consistency and sincerity. What about Mr. Henders, Mr. Argue, Col. Peck and the minister of militia and defence?

Goes After Guthrie.

Taking up the record of Mr. Guthrie in particular, Mr. Ross remarked that in the days when he had carried the banner of Liberalism particularly high, Mr. Guthrie had declaimed vigorously for free agricultural implements and for lower tariff duty. On the question of the tariff, indeed, Mr. Guthrie was a sort of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. In 1914 he had said that even the reduction of the duties on agricultural implements to a minimum would not be sufficient for him. This was on Mr. Knowles' motion to place agricultural implements on the free list. At that time Mr. Guthrie was not minister of militia; he was a tribune of the people. As late as the year 1917 the minister of militia had favored free agricultural implements. He had supported a resolution which provides for placing agricultural implements on the free list, moved by Hon. Frank Oliver in the session of that year. In fact, the minister of militia had always been a great antagonist of protection. Now he had swung over to the other side. He proposed to help the manufacturers and abandon the great body of consumers and the farmers of the Dominion. It almost seemed as if this stand for protection was a bid for the favor of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which might be very useful in the next election.

Charged Unfairness.

When the Opposition opposed the vote of $1,500,000 for militia drill this year, Mr. Guthrie had charged them with being unfair to the men who fought overseas. This was not a good argument, as many Liberals and their sons had fought overseas as had Conservatives and their sons. In any event no good could be accomplished by giving boys six days' drill in the summer camps. The war was over and peace firmly established, and it was not possible that there would be another war during the lifetime of the present generation.

The money voted for militia drill should be used to extend trade.

When Mr. Guthrie was in Opposition in 1914, he had very strenuously opposed the Government estimate of $2,000,000 for militia drill. Mr. Guthrie, on that occasion, had argued that the vote should be cut out on the ground of economy. This was confirmation of the position taken by the Opposition this year.

Fear an Alliance.

There seemed to be a fear and suspicion on the part of the Government that the Liberals and the Progressives might form an alliance. If they did it would be a union of the Progressive elements of the nation in an effort to give good government to this country. That would be far better than the union of decadent Tories and manufacturers. Mr. Ross believed that a union of the Progressives and Liberals would be the governing body of the next Parliament, or, if it did not, either one or the other would govern.

G. N. Gordon (Peteroro West) said that Peteroro had so far this year exported $1,000,000 worth of cereals, $1,000,000 worth of wood products, and other manufactured goods to the value of $500,000, which showed that the businessmen of that city could export in competition with American businessmen. The new tax proposals were, however, a severe blow to the industries of Peterboro. The boxing establishment of a certain cereal firm would be put out of business by the proposed taxation. People were more and more buying their cereals in small packages, and if these packages were forced off the market the sale of adulterated cereals would probably follow.

The taxation of food was discrimination against the workingmen. A tax on food was forcing Canada back to the days of the corn laws in England.

Mr. Gordon thought the income tax on the manufacturers should be made retroactive to cover the years during the war when it was not in force.

Exploded Blister.

And J. F. Johnston (Last Mountain) genially remarked that if Progressives were a "dilapidated annex" (citing the prime minister), then after the next election the Government party would be an "exploded blister."

Joseph Archambault (Chambly-Vercheres) touched a new note in regard to the credits to Greece and Rumania. He claimed that certain members of the Parliament were interested in companies which had shipped goods by virtue of the credits. Such members might be within the letter of the law, but Mr. Archambault argued they were not within its spirit.

Later W. D. Euler (North Waterloo) created amusement by a query. He referred to pleas made by the minister of finance for the use of Canadian, rather than United States manufactures. "Why then," quizzically asked Mr. Euler, pointing to two new clocks recently installed in the House, "why does the Government buy American clocks? There are clock factories in Canada."

BRITAIN EXPECTING EARLY SETTLEMENT OF MINERS' STRIKE

Sudden Return of Lloyd George Regarded As Hopeful.

LONDON, May 18.—(By Canadian Associated Press.)—The sudden return of Premier Lloyd George to town is taken as a clearer sign of the coming settlement of the miners' stike. Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, has undertaken delicate pourparlers in different directions in the last few days, and the results of these he has now reported to the prime minister, who will decide whether they are sufficient to warrant the calling together of masters and men in another conference.

Thomas Ashton, Lancashire pitmen's leader, advocates leaving the national coal pool proposal to a later date and accepting a temporary settlement.

The transport workers and railwaymen's executives met only separately yesterday. A joint meeting has been suggested, although it is believed the more representative leaders are anxious to avoid a dual meeting, and thus balk the extremists of the opportunity to precipitate action.

The Welsh miners' chiefs declare that if the strike were to be settled tomorrow most of the pits would be unable to open again for three months, while many men would still remain idle until the export trade had recovered.

PETROLEA MAN MUST HAND BACK $30,000

VICTORIA, May 18.—Isaac Greenisen, barrister, Petrolea, Ont., must return $30,000 and interest at 5 per cent to members of a syndicate of British Columbians in connection with a 60-acre townsite property at Nechaco, B. C., according to a judgment handed down in the supreme court here today by Mr. Justice Clements.

REQUEST NEW BRIDGE.

BRANTFORD, May 18.—Workmen in Drummond street district, East ward, have petitioned the city to construct a bridge across the canal. A majority of the workmen employed at the Verity Plow Works, employing 700 men, live across the canal from the factory and want better access to the factory. At present they have to go a distance out of their way to get to work.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

LIVE HOGS SELL AT $9 PER CWT.

Small Pigs Jump to $15 Per Pair—Eggs Bring 30c Per Dozen.

A further reduction in live hog prices took place at the local market on Thursday morning. The price paid was $9 per cwt; this drop was not anticipated, but as the demand was rather slow and supplies large, farmers were quite willing to dispose of their supplies at that figure; fat sows sell for $4; although there was a slump in hog prices, the maximum price of small pigs jumped to $15, and sell between $11 and $15 per pair.

Heavy supplies of dairy products were offered, but the wholesale price of eggs was the only change; eggs now sell for 24c and 25c per dozen wholesale and 30c retail.

Rhubarb was plentiful, and the price dropped to 40c per dozen. From $1 to $1 25 are the ruling prices for asparagus.

Only 2 yoagshdflucmfwyshcmfwyup

Only two loads of hay were sold today; there is a good demand.

Chicago, May 19.—Action of the wheat market today failed to justify rumors that a big break in prices would result from the passage of an anti-pit bill by the upper house of the Illinois Legislature. Instead of flocking to the bera side, a majority of traders took the view that any unusual set-back in values would furnish a good opportunity to buy, and that the anti-pit measure was stil la long way from enactment. Fresh crop damage reports from the Southwest tended also to steady the market, which, although ranging somewhat lower, kept well within ordinary limits. Opening prices, which varied from ½c ot 2½c lower, were followed by ralilies that in some cases brought the market back to the same as yesterday's finish.

Corn swayed with wheat. After opening ⅜c to 1⅜c lower, the market soon recovered, and for the May delivery reached yesterday's final figures.

Oats took the same course as ohter cereals, starting ⅜c to ¾c lower, and later turning up-grade.

WATERLOO GOLF CLUB FORMALLY OPENS SEASON

GALT, May 18.—The formal opening of the season at the Waterloo Golf and Country Club took place today, and despite threatening skies there was a very large turnout of both men and women. Mixed foursomes and a putting competition were the events on the links, while at the clubhouse high tea was served and bridge indulged in, and this evening a dance was held. Prospects are for the most successful season in the club's history.

Real Cave Man Didn't Go Wooing With a Club

Chicago Scientist Corrects Some Vulgar Errors About People Who Lived in the Stone Age — They Were Artists and Good Judges of Steaks.

Chicago, May 18.—Have you a modern incarnation of cave man in your home? If you think so, do you consider him Homo Neanderthalensis, or your pet Cro-Magnon? If you haven't given a thought to classification, do so at once. Mere modern man, in science anyway, is making a distinction in cave man types, and it may be necessary for you to throw overboard a whole pack of cave man notions.

Paleontologically speaking (that is, apropos fossil organisms) the last word has been wafted east from the Windy City with the announcement that the Field Museum of Natural History is soon to open the doors of a new marble palace on the lake front. Certain of the exhibits housed in this splendid new structure, it is said, are bound to puncture current, shallow conceptions of cave men.

Dr. Elmer S. Riggs, paleontologist and assistant curator of the museum, has declared that there is no evidence that prehistoric man did his wooing with a club.

"He was a good provider and brought home choice cuts of meat," Dr. Riggs says. "The caves he inhabited have been found partly filled with the long bones of animals he and his family devoured. Bones of the less choice sections are never found."

Competition, therefore, is an old story. From his neighbor's flat there was the odor of a tasty broiled tenderloin wafted into his niche when he got home from the day's chase, so he simply had to outdo the neighbors next day in order to appease the equally observant and hungry Mrs. Cro-Magnon.

In the light of Dr. Riggs' findings our real cave man isn't going to be the squat, beetle-browed, ape-necked, bone-crushing, cudgel-bearing Neanderthal of the last glacial period, a matter of some 50,000 years ago as conservatively estimated by H. G. Wells and the scientists who are his authority in "The Outline of History." That creature, we are told, is extinct.

In his place there came the conquering Cro-Magnon, the man of impressive stature, with broad face, pronounced nose and capacious brain box, the man who drew pictures for his spouse on the walls of their simplex apartment.

This is your Cro-Magnon man. If he preserves his stature approximating six feet, if he is more high brow than low, Neanderthal brow, he still may be your cave man—Cro-Magnon. But hereafter be specific in conferring the title for the stigma of the clubbing, low brow, inartistic, independent Neanderthal will offend him.

If you must have a pet name call him "Cro" for short.

WAR SPY LINCOLN GETS IN LIMELIGHT WITH PLOT STORY

Told Czecho-Slovakia of Alleged International Monarchist Scheme.

An extraordinary story of a great plan by German, Austrian, Russian and Hungarian reactionaries to overthrow Socialism and renew the war against the Entente, is told in a report written by the international spy, Trebitsch Lincoln, for the Czecho-Slovak Government, which has just been published here.

After conspiring for more than two years with German imperialistics, Lincoln deserted them last fall, because, he alleges, he learned of a plot to assassinate him on account of his Jewish origin.

On receiving Lincoln's report, for which a high price was paid, Czecho-Slovak diplomats are said to have been able to thwart the reactionary outbreak which was fully prepared for last November.

The essential assertions of this remarkable document are as follows:

The German monarchists are more than ever a menace to the peace of Europe. Their soul is Col. Max Bauer, intimate friend of Gen. Ludendorff and the former crown prince. Bauer began to organize the Prussian militarists as early as September, 1918. His plan as developed through two years, was, first, to overthrow the German socialist government.

Second, to install Ludendorff as dictator.

Third, to modify the constitution and give the German president monarchical powers.

Fourth, to elect Hindenburg president; and

Fifth, to have Hindenburg suddenly abdicate in favor of the crown prince.

Mentions British Officer.

The first negotiations were with Col. Ryan, British representative in Cologne, who is said to have consented in advance to the Kapp Luttwitz coup, provided the monarchy was not restored and Ludendorff's name was kept in the background. This was in June, 1919.

In September Bauer, Lincoln and Karl von Wiegand are said to have visited the ex-kaiser in Holland, with instructions to obtain his support if necessary by threatening certain derogatory disclosures relative to his conduct of the war.

On arriving at Amerongen, Lincoln was recognized by an American newspaper correspondent and forced to flee.

Negotiations with the ex-crown prince were begun in October and with the Hungarian Government in December. The latter was still hesitating when in March, 1920, the Kapp-Luttwitz coup, which was planned for June, was suddenly precipitated by the German Government ordering the arrest of Luttwitz, Pabst and Bauer, three of the leading conspirators.

The coup succeeded perfectly on March 13, and Col. Ryan, according to the story, even telephoned his congratulations from Cologne, but the plan soon went to pieces entirely, Lincoln maintains, owing to the incapacity of Kapp and Luttwitz and the hesitation of Ludendorff. The conspirators, including Ludendorff, fled incognito to reactionary Bavaria, where with Poner, chief of the Munich police, and Von Bahr, the Bavarian premier, they laid a new plot to overthrow the Socialists and march on Berlin at the head of the Bavarian, Pomeranian and Silesian royalists.

When the German Government learned of their presence it ordered their arrest, with the result that the plot was abandoned.

Trebitsch Lincoln was known in Montreal as a clergyman, and in London as a member of the British Parliament.

Super Cement Stopped Leaks in Cellar of Federal Customs House, Ottawa.

"A Boon to Concrete Builders"

So Says a Well-known Engineer

"I, THEREFORE, strongly recommend SUPER CEMENT for general use in Concrete Building."

We will be pleased to send architects, engineers, contractors, builders or anyone interested in cement mortar or concrete construction, a photograph of the letter of which the above is an excerpt.

The writer of the letter—a well-known government engineer—speaks of the efforts of the contractors to make the basement of the new Federal Customs House (The Connaught Building) waterproof, and of the success when SUPER CEMENT was used.

He states:—"In every case, against odds, SUPER CEMENT proved satisfactory and entirely kept the water out."

This is only one of the numerous instances in which SUPER CEMENT has proved to be waterproof absolutely.

SUPER CEMENT derives its waterproofness and unusual strength as a result of a new and improved process of making cement, which increases the bonding or cementing qualities over that of ordinary Portland Cement.

The hardness, density, solidity and wonderful strength of concrete made with the new SUPER CEMENT have been the subject of wide discussion among engineers, architects, contractors and builders, and they see greater possibilities of concrete construction as a result of the discovery of this new cement. SUPER CEMENT not only protects, but prolongs the life of concrete structures.

TOMATO PLANTS ARE BEING SET OUT IN RUTHVEN DISTRICT

Growers Hoping There Will Be No More Severe Frosts.

Ruthven, May 19.—Great numbers of tomato plants are being set out in this district, and growers are hoping there will be no more frosts. Corn which was planted recently is coming along splendidly. Peaches, cherries and pears promise a good average yield.

Mrs. T. H. Wigle, who had a slight stroke of paralysis recently, is much improved in health, and hopes are entertained for her complete recovery.

Clifford Fox and wife of Union have rented their farm to Almeran Iler, and have moved to Ruthven, and will occupy the residence of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Fox.

Walter Scott and Byron Squires have been appointed as delegates from Ruthven Lodge, I. O. O. F., to attend the grand lodge at Brantford in June.

William Smith of Union, who had set out a large field of early tomato plants, about 12,000 in number, had many nipped by the frost.

Herbert Malott of Union, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Malott, went to Saginaw on Monday, and was married. Mr. and Mrs. Malott will reside here.

MITCHELL FLOUR SENT TO SCOTLAND

Cement Equipment From Busy Perth Town Goes to England.

Mitchell, May 19.—A rather striking illustration of the widespread distribution of the products of Mitchell and district was shown one day this week when the following shipments were made: One car of flour to Glasgow, Scotland; one car of lumber to Flint, Mich.; one car of cement mixers to Birmingham, England; one car of horses, one car of hogs, and six cars of cattle to Toronto and other points east.

Everything is in readiness for one of the biggest celebrations here on Victoria Day that the town has ever had. The Mitchell Sporting Association has arranged a splendidly varied program, including races for which $1,300 in prizes are offered. There will be a baseball game, and a concert in the evening.

On Tuesday afternoon while Mrs. Wm. Connolly and little son of Logan were in the driving shed, the former picked up four cartridges. Thinking they had been used, Mrs. Connolly took one of the cartridges between the thumb and finger of her right hand, and started to pick it with a hairpin when it exploded, blowing off the four fingers.

The cornerstone of the new St. Peter's Lutheran Church at Brodhagen will be laid on Sunday.

The request was granted.

AMAZING RANGE OF GIRL'S VOICE

Boston Ghetto Jewish Girl Sings Three Tones Higher Than Geraldine Farrar.

Boston, May 18.—Those who should know believe they have found in Irene Cohen, 15 years old, coming from a humble home in the west end, a voice that will eclipse that of Geraldine Farrar and Rosa Raisa. Irene was discovered at the Boston Music School Settlement at 41 Allen street, an organization run for the development of talent among the poorer classes, which talent would otherwise never be given an opportunity.

Although she has been taking singing lessons at the settlement only six months, her teacher, Stetson Humphries, says she sings three full tones higher than Geraldine Farrar and more than a tone and a half higher than both Raisa and Pionsello. Moreover, she sings three complete octaves, striking four E's with remarkable buoyancy and brilliancy of tone.

Beginning with E below the clef, Irene's voice rises to E on the staff, to soprano E, and then to E coloratura, with an electrical effect. The effect of the striking of that last E upon the listener is as if a huge diamond were suddenly split in front of him into a million sparkling, iridescent pieces. Her teacher says no other dramatic soprano in the United States has a range that can compare with Irene's.

The girl has another year at the girls' high school before she can get her diploma, and then it is planned to send her to Italy for two years' study for an operatic career. Vaudeville managers have made all sorts of extravagant offers to get the girl to sing for them, but they have not been considered.

GODERICH DISTRICT MEETING AT BLYTH

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BLYTH, May 18.—On the fourth ballot today, Rev. D. N McCamus of Clinton was elected to the stationing committee at a meeting of the Goderich District Methodists. Rev. Selborne Anderson presided at the annual session, which has been in progress here for two days. It was recommended that Rev. Rufus L. Wilson of Bluevale be restored to active work, provided physicians think he is able to resume his duties again. He has been supplying on the Bluevale circuit during the year, and has done excellent work.

Rev. J. E. Ford presided at the evening meeting, at which Rev. D. N. McCamus spoke on "Present Day Evangelism." Missionary contributions totalled $10,216, a decrease of $69, from last year's figures. Deficiencies in ministerial salaries amounted to $874. To meet this contingency in part the district gives $381 from the augmentation fund. No changes are being made in the circuit boundaries.

The chairman of the district spoke most hopefully regarding prospects of an early union between the Methodist Churches in Clinton.

Mrs. Sovereign, a younger woman, had three ribs broken and is suffering greatly from shock. The young girl escaped with slight injuries.

PECULIAR ASSAULT ON PALMERSTON GIRL

Chloroformed, She Says, by Driver of An Automobile.

PALMERSTON, May 18.—Miss Edna K. Lee, leader of Knox Church choir, was found at 5 o'clock this morning with hands and ankles bound, lying in a lane on the outskirts of the town. She had been chloroformed, and it was several hours before she could be restored to consciousness.

While on the way home from the church last night she was accosted by the driver of an automobile, who asked her to come to the assistance of his wife, who was ill in the car. Seeing a woman seated in the motor with her hands to her face, apparently crying, Miss Lee complied with the request, whereupon she was seized, chloroformed, tied up, and taken to the place where she was later found. No clue is her assailants has been supplied. Miss Lee sustained no injuries except shock.

WRONG DIET CAUSE OF ADENOIDS AND ENLARGED TONSILS

Do Not Necessarily Have To Be Removed, Says Dr. Tillmann.

Dr. W. J. Tillmann's address on "Adenoids and Tonsils" at the Technical School yesterday afternoon, given in connection with the Child Welfare Exhibit, was most illuminating for the many mothers who were present. The speaker pointed out the fact that tonsil and adenoid growths were perfectly natural growth in the child's throat and nose and that they tended to be larger in the child than in the adult and varied in different children. He further declared that because a child's tonsils were discovered to be enlarged, was no reason for having them removed. From this beginning he went on to tell of the different unhealthy constitutional conditions which were known to be a result of enlarged tonsils and now, if such unhealthy conditions were found to exist, the tonsils should most certainly be removed. Such conditions were unhealthy mouth breathing on the part of the child, frequent attacks of earache, sometimes leading to deafness, frequent sore throat, enlargement of the glands at the angles of the jaws, changes in the child's chest, kidney disease and rheumatism.

Starchy Food a Cause.

The speaker mentioned too much starchy food and patent foods as a cause of enlarged tonsils and adenoids, these in turn allowing certain germs access to the body.

Two other very interesting addresses were given. One by Dr. W. P. Tew on "Pre-Natal Care of Mothers," in which he emphasized the necessity of medical attention during the early months of pregnancy, and the other by Miss Seburn, the Victoria Hospital dietitian, who spoke on the "Preparation of Food for Young Children." In this she warned the mothers against giving their children too much milk and bread, pointing out the benefits of a balanced diet.

D. H. McDermid formally opened the exhibit yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

This morning the second big clinic of the week is held from 9 until 12 o'clock, and this afternoon addresses will be given by Miss Burns, the provincial nurse, on "Hygiene in the Home," by Dr. H. W. Hill on "Infectious Diseases," and on "Home Nursing" by Miss Margaret McDermid.

FLORENCE COUPLE CELEBRATE THEIR DIAMOND WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Receive Congratulations of Scores of Friends.

A very unique and pleasant occasion was the celebration of the 60th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon of Florence, which was commemorated at the homes of their two daughters in Toronto on Saturday. In the afternoon a reception was held at the home of Mrs. W. T. Graham, and was largely attended by their many friends and acquaintances, besides a large number of relatives from outside points.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon received the guests, who seemed to come in an endless stream to pay their esteem and to congratulate the happy couple on attaining their diamond jubilee.

In the evening a dinner was held at the home of Mrs. Gage, attended by the near relatives.

Among the numerous gifts received from the relatives, two are worthy of mention as coming from their many friends. The members of First Avenue Baptist Church, of which their son-in-law, Rev. Dr. W. T. Graham, is pastor, and which church they have attended for the past few years, showed their love and appreciation by a very handsome gift in cut glass. The neighbors and friends in their home town at Florence also showed the way Mr. and Mrs. Gordon had endeared themselves to them by sending a beautiful handlettered and decorated testimonial expressing a great deal of heartfelt sentiment and love. It was signed by practically all of their old friends and the leading citizens.

Mr. Gordon has been in business in Florence for over fifty years. He has been an ardent prohibitionist, and rejoices in seeing prohibition practically enacted. Mr. Gordon has one sister living, Mrs. (Dr.) Graham, of Anoka, Minn., and Mrs. Gordon has one brother and two sisters still living, Mrs. Joseph Anderson of Napinka, Man., Mrs. (Dr.) Dunbar of Winnipeg, and Mrs. R. Duff of Humberstone, Ont.

There are stil ithree persons living who were at the wedding 60 years ago —Mr. Gordon's sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Graham, Mrs. Dunbar and Mrs. John Mylne.

Among the out-of-town persons invited: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ruth, Miss Jessie Ruth, Mr. Malcolm Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. John Sheppard and Mrs. R. M. Graham, all of London; Mr. and Mrs. Waugh, Mrs. John Mylne of Parkhill; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mylne, Paris; Mrs. Wm. Anderson, Guelph; Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson, Grimsby; Mr. and Mrs. Dutton, Rockwood; Mrs. J. Gage and Mrs. J. Anderson of Niagara Falls; Professor James Miller, F.R.C.S., of Kingston; Mrs. Hardy, Victoria, B. C.; Mr. and Mrs. E. Milton, Windsor, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gunston of Campbellville, besides the children, grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mr. Gordon holds a distinction of being a subscriber to The Advertiser ever since its inception. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon still retain all their faculties in a remarkable degree, and take a great deal of enjoyment out of life, having learned to grow old gracefully. They were married in Cayuga in 1861, and moved to Florence two years later, where they still reside.

SPRINGBANK PARK MECCA OF CROWDS

3,000 People Attend Opening of Popular Amusement Resort.

Springbank opened for the summer season with holiday crowds Wednesday night, about 3,000 people being carried to this popular resort via the street railway. In addition, the amusement park proved the Mecca for score of autos, and crowds thronged the various concessions which were open for business. The dancing pavilion proved the greatest attraction, space on the floor being at a premium. Music was provided by the Lombardo Orchestra.

The roller-coaster and merry-go-round drew a share of the crowd, while ideal weather assisted in running up ice cream and soft drink sales. "The House of Mirth" proved just as popular as of old, while many indulged in the odd games of box ball between dances. Very little difficulty was experienced by the street railway in handling the crowds to and from the park, extra cars being utilized to maintain a ten-minute service, and, aside from rush hours, when the "standing-room only" rule was in effect, there was no inconvenience noted. The park was practically deserted shortly after midnight, when the car service to the city ceased. Springbank will likely prove popular every afternoon and evening for the remainder of the season, providing that favorable weather, such as that of Wednesday evening, prevails.

I. O. D. E. PROTESTS AGAINST DISRESPECT TO NATIONAL ANTHEM

Will Place Slides in the Local Theatres Asking Audiences To Stand Throughout "God Save the King."

The Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., protested against the attitude of London audiences in rushing from the local theatres during the singing of the national anthem, at their regular meeting held yesterday afternoon in Cronyn Hall, when they decided to have slides ordered for all the local theatres, asking the audiences to remain standing at attention in the theatres during the playing of "God Save the King."

At this meeting Mrs. E. B. Smith was elected the London delegate to the annual meeting of the National Chapter, I. O. D. E., to be held in Toronto on May 30. Mrs. Emerson Nichols was chosen as alternate, but it is expected that Mrs. Smith will attend the national meeting.

An interesting piece of business at yesterday's meeting was the decision to send a wire of greeting to Col. Noel Marshall, war-time president of the Dominion Red Cross Society, who is being honored in Toronto this afternoon at a public gathering in the city hall, in recognition of his splendid services during the late war. The chapter also voted to contribute towards the jeweled pin which is being presented to Mrs. John Bruce, in recognition of her services. Other business was the voting of $50 towards the cadets' summer camp, and the decision to send flowers to Mrs. Cl. T. Campbell, the municipal treasurer, who is ill.

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL DISCUSSES IMMIGRATION ISSUE

Ernest Ingles Denies That Labor Representatives Favored Wage Reduction.

COMPLAINT BY MOLDERS

London Firm Sends To Hamilton Work Should Be Done Here.

That the delegates to the National Conference of the building trades and building contractors at Ottawa two weeks ago did not agree to a general reduction of wages on a national scale, was the emphatic statement of Ernest Inglis, vice-president of the Electrical Workers, in the course of his address before the regular meeting of the London District Trades and Labor Council last night. Mr. Inglis was a delegate to the convention, and declares that the resolution to this effect moved by the builders was never approved by the unions, although a report to that effect had been circulated by the press throughout the land. "Our resolution read that wherever it was deemed fit arbitration for readjustment of wages should be reopened between the employers and the men," said Mr. Inglis.

Contractors Blame Labor.

Discussing the work of the convention, the speaker explained that the contractors flatly place the blame for the excessive high cost of building on the wage scale, representing that fully 80 per cent of the total cost can be accounted for in this way. "I do ot feel," declared Mr. Inglis, "that it is necessary to enter into any prolonged discussion with reference to this. I fail to understand how any sane person can believe that the big firms are satisfied to do business on any such basis as 7 per cent profit. For of the remaining 20 per cent you have 8 per cent for interest and five per cent for rent."

Although thousands of building permits were being issued throughout the Dominion, it was Mr. Inglis' opinion that very little construction will be done, as the financial houses will never furnish the capital.

Just Fill in "Farmer."

Touching on the immigration question, he advised the local council that the issue had received its full share of attention at the conference. "Information came to us," he said, "that the Ontario Government was seeking in England for 50,000 farm hands. It was claimed, however, that they were advertising only in farm periodicals. "John Bull" was quoted to me as an instance, and it was asked what kind of farmers could be expected from the districts in which that paper has its greatest circulation. We discovered from a source of good authority that all that was necessary to get passage on out-going liners was to fill in 'farmer' on the application. In the past there has been in vogue a scheme of encouragement introduced, first, by the Dominion Government—the $5 bonus to every steamship or similar agent who secured a prospective immigrant. I believe now, however, that steps have been taken to cancel this, and the bonus goes out of existence on June 1. If you will remember, the immigration problem was taken up not long since with the Ontario authorites by our Labor representatives, who received no satisfaction, however."

Proposed Coolie Importation.

Replying to a query from the audience the speaker referred to Dr. Creelman, who, he pointed out, had been actively engaged in the immigration movement in England. "This is the same party," he said, "who at one time made stump-speeches to farmers in Ontario, asking them their opinion as to the feasibility of importing some 50,000 Coolies for farms here."

During the meeting complaint was made by the molders that a certain London firm was sending work to Hamilton which should remain here. A effort will be made by the central labor body to promote greater organization among the local workers.

A resolution was passed that a message of condolence be forwarded to the family of the late Henry Pearse.

THAMESFORD CROPS IN EXCELLENT SHAPE

THAMESFORD, May 18.—Farmers in this district report excellent progress with their work and predict splendid growth from now on. The wheat seldom looked better. The present low prices of farm produce are causing a good deal of discussion in the country.

William Hunter, Thamesford, and Miss J. Truman, Ingersoll, were married at the rectory last Saturday evening. Rev. W. D. Davis officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter will live in Thamesford.

Dr. W. J. McMurray, Toronto, visited recently with his mother, Mrs. Jas. McMurray.

Rev. T. H. Brown, Seaforth, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Brock.

Miss I. Dean, Tillsonburg, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Towle.

WILL HOLD BY-ELECTION.

LONDON, May 18. — (By Canadian Associated Press.)—The acceptance by Right Hon. Walter Long of a viscounty involves a by-election at St. Georges, Westminster, one of the safest Tory seats almost from time immemorial.

MRS. C. B. KING IS AGAIN PRESIDENT OF LOCAL Y. W. C. A.

Financial Statement Shows Institution To Be in Flourishing Condition.

Each year the financial statement of the local Y. W. C. A. becomes more interesting as the sums of money handled become larger. The annual report of last year was read at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the Y. W. C. A. board by the treasurer, Mrs. N. W. Bruce, showing the association's total assets to be $38,712.62, $27,681.48 of this amount being permanent assets. Last year the expenditure at "Lenmore" was $21,376.13, this amount being met largely by income from board, etc., the deficit being only $2,337.35, to be paid out of the general fund. At the Wellington street residence the expenditure was $12,718.98, all of which was met but $652.90. The Travelers' Aid department spent $2,111.14, a small amount of which was by special donations, but with the bulk of the expense, $1,731.14 to be paid from the general fund. For girls' work $2,584.34 was expended, with the deficit to be paid by the general fund amounting to $1,284.44. The amount spent on general administration was $4,854.65, of which $4,231.16 had to be paid from the general fund. The total deficit therefore was $11,741.35, to be paid out of the general fund, which fund was made up of donations amounting to $13,333.80.

Mrs. King President.

Mrs. C. B. King was again elected president of the board, with vice-presidents, Mrs. Angus Graham, Mrs. Harman Westland, Mrs. Charles Glass and Mrs. A. E. Calder; recording secretary, Mrs. J. H. Cameron; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Cleghorn, and treasurer, Mrs. N. W. Bruce. Mrs. Frank White was also elected to the board to fill the place made by the resignation of another member. Mrs. Alex Henderson and Mrs. Harman Westland were appointed delegates to the new women's citizenship committee of the Local Council of Women, and the constitution being submitted to all the affiliated societies by that organization was approved by the board. Miss Sutherland and Miss MacDonald were appointed delegates to the local committee on venereal diseases; Miss McCamus, Mrs. Alex Henderson, Miss d'Avignon, Mrs. John Crawford and Miss Cannell, as delegates to the religious education council; Mrs. King, Mrs. Angus Graham, and the ten Y. W. C. A. secretaries to the social service council, and Mrs. Frank White, Mrs. Ed Reid, Mrs. Charles Glass, and Mrs. C. B. King to the Local Council of Women.
