LONDON HAS TWO WINTERS IN ONE YEAR. This isn't the Yukon, or Siberia, or even Thessalon, Ont., where they had snow-piled streets on Easter Sunday. It is London, in Western Ontario's "banana belt," and to be precise the location is Dundas street, just east of Adelaide. The picture shows how the spot looked when The Advertiser staff photographer passed it this morning on his usual matutinal stroll. Three inches of snow fell last night.

CITY TREASURER SAYS BUNNELL BILL PASSED

Council of 1922 Agreed to the Expense Involved in Street Railway Report.

City Treasurer James Bell states that ex-Mayor Wilson is correct in his declaration that the city council of 1922 passed for payment the Bunnell report bill of expense, aggregating $1,100 or so.

Just what will develop in view of this is difficult to determine. The present councillors have twice filed the Bunnell bill from the Hydro-Electric Commission, claiming that no moneys were available, and that the city council did not authorize the undertaking, the citizens should not be called upon to pay.

MAY SNOWFALL SETS PRECEDENT IN CITY'S HISTORY

Bureau Records Three Inches of Beautiful Fell During Night.

BAROMETER RISING

Gardeners Believe, Although Frost Present, No Serious Damage Will Result.

Three inches of snow fell during the night, according to the official records of the local weather bureau. Never before in the memory of the weatherman has such a storm visited this city, and so it is safe to say that 1923 has added another record to a list already long.

A veritable blizzard swept over the city shortly after 6 o'clock last night, and before darkness an inch of snow had fallen. The other two inches fell between 8 o'clock last night and this morning.

Citizens who rose from their beds to repair the damage which had been wrought during his absence, found every particle of green obliterated from the landscape.

Despite what people in the city might think of the snow, agriculturists and fruit men are prone upon it as a blessing. The thermometer registered six degrees of frost last night, and they believe the loss in crops, especially of fruit, would have been exceedingly heavy if the buds had not been at least partially covered.

The mercury sank to 26 above last night. At no time during the night did it go above freezing point. During the space of less than 24 hours the mercury fell 25 degrees.

The weatherman was reluctant to prophesy today. He stated that he was almost sick of his job, for no one could tell this year just what Dame Nature intended to do from one day to another.

He did inform The Advertiser, however, that the barometer was rising, and this indicated the weather was becoming clearer. He thought, too, that it would become warmer.

Special to The Advertiser. Washington, May 10.—China has stopped punitive measures against the Shantung bandits, and is attempting to obtain release of Americans and other foreign prisoners by peaceful means, to prevent injury to the captives, the state department was officially advised today.

The Pekin government has also informed the American authorities there that supplies and food are being rushed to Shantung for relief of the foreign captives. Presumably the supplies consist of clothing and other necessities, and are to be held awaiting release of the prisoners.

RELEASE FOREIGNERS. Shanghai, May 10.—All foreign captives held by the Shantung bandits are being released, except Chevalier Musso, the Italian attorney, according to a message from Tsaochang signed by a relief agent named Naill, and addressed to the Asia Development Company.

All the foreign captives held by the Shantung bandits are well "having a wonderful time" and expect to be released soon, according to written messages received from four of them by relief workers near Leisheng, which were relayed here today.

Special to The Advertiser. Montreal, May 10.—Hon. F. B. M'Curdy has issued an official denial of the report emanating from Ottawa and Halifax, that he is intending to leave Canada for Mexico in order to become associated in an executive capacity with the Northern Mexico Power Company. WON'T ASK MAYOR WENICE TO SIGN MORE PAY CHECKS

PUBLIC UTILITY EMPLOYEES TO BE PAID WITH CASH

Mayor Wenice Will Not Be Asked Again To Sign Pay Checks.

ONLY A COURTESY

Manager Buchanan Says There Is No Real Need For the Mayor To Sign.

Another public utility pay day draws high (many of the employees will be paid tomorrow), and Mayor Wenice will not be asked to sign checks.

No delay will be encountered, General Manager E. V. Buchanan said today. "We will pay with such money as we always have at our disposal," he explained. "Many of our employees will be paid tomorrow. As a matter of fact, no week passes without some of them are paid, other than the officials."

The general manager gave assurance that the mayor would not be asked to sign any checks for this purpose—tomorrow or ever again. It seems that the commissioners have decided definitely that this is the proper course to pursue. They submit that they are quite within their rights, and in the past the mayor's signature has been sought only as a matter of courtesy.

From present indications, there will be no session of the commission before next week. Commissioner Webster has been out of the city for several days. Commissioner T. W. McFarland left yesterday, and Commissioner Philip Pockock is leaving today.

No action is anticipated before Monday at the earliest, when the members of the London and Port Stanley Commission convene in regular session, and Mayor Wenice will again demand their pay list.

His worship is responsible for the declaration again early today that "he would get the pay lists." In the meantime, the municipal year book is still in the possession of the printers, waiting the signal from the council. The pay list squabble is also an election issue in the Ward 4 by-election, and one candidate, J. C. Fletcher, has already allied himself with Mayor Wenice and those members of the council who support him.

DARING THIEF ROBS WATERLOO ST. HOUSE

Stranger Seeking Breakfast Repays Kindness by Piling Home.

An unusually daring robbery took place this morning at the home of Mrs. Williamson of 385 Waterloo street. At 9:45 a man called at the front door asking for something to eat. Mrs. Williamson agreed to give him breakfast and sent him round to the back door. He did not appear there, however, and when she went to find him, she found that the front rooms, occupied by Dr. W. P. Tew, had been ransacked.

A gold watch belonging to Dr. Tew was taken together with $100. Later on Mrs. Williamson discovered that $25 was missing from her own purse, and also a gold watch. The police have a good description of them, and of the man, who is of medium height, of fair complexion, and wearing glasses.

WILL ASK VOTE ON NEW CITY HALL AT NEXT ELECTION

Ald. May Still Anxious For Building on County Site.

SEEKS INFORMATION

Thinks Ratepayers Have Newer Given Decision as to Situation of Structure.

Ald. John T. May comes to bat again—with his proposal to construct a new city hall on the county site. "I will ask the council to submit this proposal to a vote of the people next December," he assured this morning, as he gathered ammunition at the city hall, preparatory to the attack. He was glancing back through the city hall minutes to ascertain definitely if the 1923 council had set aside this question for another year.

It is Ald. May's contention that while the people voted by a 4,000 majority at the last municipal election not to build on the Spencer site, it should not be interpreted that they wanted the hall on the McCormick property. He believes that the greater bulk of the electors desired to impress upon the council that they did not wish any new building during the next two or three years.

Ald. May claims further that the people should have another opportunity to voice their opinion as to where they want the new hall—and when. He does not consider that he has ever given a concrete declaration in this respect. While upon the federal square project, they have cast an opinion, he feels they voted upon something that did not exist.

There are other sites, exclusive of the county location, that are more suitable, according to Ald. May. One of these is the customs house. He believes that when the federal authorities purchased the Carling block, they intended to use it to advantage, and will yet. The customs department may be included in their plans, he suggests, in which event the customs house would provide an ideal location in the event that the county site was rejected.

MAY 9TH SNOWFALL MAKES CITY RECORD

Following the weekly rehearsal of the orchestra of Dundas Centre Sunday school, a supper was given in honor of the retiring director, J. A. Petrie. A happy feature was the presentation to Mr. Petrie of a handsome club bag. Stanley Byfield, a well-known young violinist, has been appointed to succeed Mr. Petrie.

ASSERT NEW MEASURE HURTFUL TO CHINESE

Oriental in Dominion Send a Delegation to Senate, Protesting Law. Special to The Advertiser. Montreal, May 10.—Bill 45, restricting Chinese immigration, passed last week by the House of Commons, and due for consideration today by the Senate, places all Chinese in Canada at the mercy of the immigration department officials, bars them from appeal to courts of justice, and will tend toward a restriction adopted at Toronto by Chinese from all parts of Canada, who have sent a delegation before the Senate.

Dr. Wong, Parliament's action has aroused the Orientals from coast to coast, and compatriots in the United States have learned of it with alarm through leaflets in Chinese distributed by officials of Sun Yat Sen's embassy in New York. Nightly meetings have been held in the local Chinatown, culminating in selecting a representative to accompany the Chinese delegation to Ottawa, comprising three men, one from Toronto, one from Vancouver, and one from Montreal.

A WOMAN'S RIGHT TO GOOD HEALTH

Most Troubles Afflicting Women Are Due to Poor Blood. To every woman belongs the right to enjoy a healthy active life; yet nine out of ten suffer from some form of bloodlessness. That is why one sees on every side pale, thin cheeks, dull eyes and drooping figures—sure signs of weakness, weak backs, aching limbs and uncertain health. A weak woman should win the right to be well by refreshing their weary bodies with the new, rich, red blood that promptly transforms them into healthy, attractive women. This new, red blood is supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body. Through the use of these pills thousands of women have found benefit when suffering from anaemia, indigestion, general weakness and blood ailments from which women alone suffer. Among the many women who tell of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for them is Mrs. L. Hicks, Round Hill, N. S., who says: "I became very much run down in health; my blood seemed weak and watery; my strength failed, and I was so easily tired that my work was a burden. I had often read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them; and I can truly say that after using three boxes I found myself gaining, and under a further use of the pills all my old-time energy and vitality was restored. Out of my own experience, I can strongly recommend this medicine. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50c a box, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.—Adv't.

INDUSTRIAL AREA PLANS NOT DEAD, DECLARES MAYOR

Says the Project Merely Goes Back to Committee For Consideration.

DEPENDS ON WARD 4

Saturday's By-Election There Will Have Important Bearing.

Mayor Wenice, president, ex-officio of the "100,000 population" club, maintains that the industrial area project is still alive and kicking despite the fact that it failed to pass the council Monday night. "This issue is by no means dead," his worship asserted today. "It simply goes back to the industrial area committee for further consideration, and it will come back to the council again yet."

The mayor points out that Ernest Shaw, a member of the industrial area committee, was one of the ardent supporters of the recommendation for that body for the proposed local improvement, and is now one of the candidates in the ward four by-election.

"If he is elected to the council the project will be assured," the mayor advised. "He has already placed himself on record as favorably toward the improvement of this property, and I fail to see where he would be in a position to change his mind so quickly. It is unlikely that he would be influenced at this juncture by any of those members of the council who are opposed."

The election of Mr. Shaw in ward four, providing he did not alter his opinion relative to the industrial area, would mean that the project would have a majority of one, sufficient to sanction its initiation. In any event, however, a majority of the ratepayers to be affected must give the opportunity to protest.

Successful Banquet. A happy event of Tuesday evening was the banquet held by the Smile-Awhile Class of Adelaide Street Baptist Church, which closed the attendance contest. Mrs. Gordon Bedgood, of the president, was convener of the affair, and the tables were decorated in the class colors, green and gold. Following the banquet a miscellaneous show was given in honor of Mrs. Harold Clarke (formerly Miss Ella Arnold) and Miss Minnie Morgan, a bride-elect of this month.

DRAKE URGES ACTION AROUND CITY COUNCIL

States He Will Ask Another Conference With Street Railway. Ald. Gordon Drake, Ward Three, craves more real action around the city council chamber. He cites the local transportation situation as an instance.

"The people are getting 'fed up,'" he asserted this afternoon. "And I am going to move for another conference with the street railway. The people are getting weary, and I would like to see some action, as there are sections of the city not adequately served, and there are paving enterprises that should be commenced."

Ald. Drake recommends that the city council immediately cause a by-law to be passed permitting the street railway to be allowed to pay for their portion of the work under the provisions of the local improvement act. "The city would not lose anything, and the company is still willing to meet us."

"Something has got to be done. We have got to get somewhere and quit this fussing around with petty little things that don't amount to anything. The people are getting weary, and I would like to see some action, as there are sections of the city not adequately served, and there are paving enterprises that should be commenced."

"We could get together on this proposition. The people are sick of proceedings to date, and this lack of good pavement is only holding the town back. Look at Stanley street. It is a disgrace. There has been too much talk. Let's get somewhere."

Let's Swap

The Martins thought of moving north of town; The lease on their apartment held them down.

The Gleasons planned on moving further east; But had a flat up north which they had leased;

TEN ONTARIO MEMBERS HAVE GIVEN UP POLITICS

Expected Two or Three More Will Drop Out in Coming Fight.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 10.—Of the 110 members in the Legislature at dissolution ten have already announced that they will not seek re-election. It is expected that two or three more will drop out, and there may be several others who will not receive party nominations. Of the latter a couple may run as independents. Those who have announced retirement are: Liberals, K. S. Stover, Algoma; J. W. Curry, Southeast Toronto; Conservatives, W. T. Allen, West Simcoe; H. P. Hill, West Ottawa; C. H. Buckland, South Wellington; D. M. Hoagarth, Port Arthur; Thomas Maglady, Temiskaming.

U. F. O.—Hon. W. E. Raney, East Wellington; Milton Fox, South Essex; A. T. Walker, South Oxford; R. A. Fowler, West Simcoe; Conservative member for Lennox, died during the session. The Liberals so far have candidates in eight seats which they did not even contest at the last election. Judging from the present prospects all parties, except Labor, will have more candidates in the field than they had when the fifteenth legislature was elected.

It is expected that Premier Drury will leave the city after the council meeting this afternoon. Hon. Manning Doherty, Hon. B. Bowman and Hon. H. Mills have already left, and other ministers will be following suit during the week-end.

There seems to be a general policy, however, of referring you, gentlemen, with regard to the completing of itineraries by the various ministers, each one waiting to see the other's program before making final decision as to their route.

There seems to be a general policy, however, of referring you, gentlemen, with regard to the completing of itineraries by the various ministers, each one waiting to see the other's program before making final decision as to their route.

The feeling has been expressed by candidates in eight seats which they did not even contest at the last election. Judging from the present prospects all parties, except Labor, will have more candidates in the field than they had when the fifteenth legislature was elected.

It is expected that Premier Drury will leave the city after the council meeting this afternoon. Hon. Manning Doherty, Hon. B. Bowman and Hon. H. Mills have already left, and other ministers will be following suit during the week-end.

Sharp Passage Marks Discussion in Committee Stage of House

CLAUSES PASS Two-Thirds of Conditions of Proposed Measure Are Approved

Ottawa, May 10.—The house spent yesterday's sitting in committee stage of the combines bill. Clause after clause went through, and at adjournment about two-thirds of the clauses had been passed. There was a brief, sharp passage between Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition, and Hon. James McMillan, minister of labor. It came over appointments by the former government.

"You made some mistakes," said Mr. Meighen.

"I don't think we ever made a greater mistake than when we appointed my honorable friend," retorted Mr. Meighen, with reference to the appointment of Mr. Murdoch as a member of the old board of commerce.

On clause four, which provides for the appointment of the registrar, F. F. Casgrain (Liberal, Charlevoix-Montmorency) suggested a man chosen for this post should be a lawyer of at least ten years' experience.

There were cries of dissent from various parts of the chamber, and the prime minister said he thought it would be wise to leave that to the discretion of the government in council. The clause then carried.

Clause five of the bill, which provides that any person, resident in Canada, who is of the opinion that a combine exists, may apply to the registrar for an investigation, was amended by the registrar to read "any six persons, British subjects."

Applications Restricted. A. R. McMaster (Liberal, Frome) said he failed to see why the benefit of the law should be restricted to British subjects.

He suggested that a United States citizen, whose business interests were in Canada, and who for sentimental reasons had never become a British subject, might wish to avail himself of the law.

Premier King replied that applications were restricted to British subjects more as a measure of safety than anything else. Foreigners, who were not acquainted with our law, might try to invoke the act for reasons of agitation rather than in an effort to gain the benefit of the law.

He said six British subjects, however, would surely not be hard for them to find. He said he would be willing to apply on their behalf for an investigation.

On the suggestion of Mr. Marler clause five was amended by substituting "shall" for "may" in that portion which calls upon a person applying to the registrar for an investigation to place before the registrar evidence in support of his opinion as to the existence of a combine.

Mr. Marler also wished to amend this clause, making it obligatory upon the applicant for an investigation to be accompanied by a "sworn" statement covering the reasons why he should be investigated.

The prime minister, however, contended that no unnecessary difficulty should be placed in the way of preliminary proceedings. People accustomed to taking an oath might hesitate to take action where otherwise they might do so.

Mr. Casgrain suggested that the registrar should be empowered to require such an application should have the right to be present at the investigation and to give evidence in their behalf.

Mr. King said that the investigation would be conducted in the position of a private investigator, and that the registrar would then be free to determine if the complaints were well founded.

Registrar Responsible. To another question by Mr. Marler, Mr. King said the registrar would be a responsible person and it would be for him to decide whether the complaints were of sufficient weight to demand further action.

W. A. Boys (Conservative, Simcoe) objected to giving the registrar power to call for production of documents under oath.

Mr. King reiterated that stand that it would be necessary to give power to the registrar to require the production of information on which to base his judgment whether an inquiry was necessary or not.

Answering Mr. Meighen's question as to the conduct of proceedings in private, Mr. King said that the registrar should be permitted to shine "just yet," commented Mr. Meighen.

Mr. Meighen asked if the registrar should be a "creature of the government" subject to dismissal by the government.

Mr. King said he did not think the expression "creature of the government" was applicable. The government would try to appoint men in which the public had confidence and who were qualified to do the work.

Mr. Meighen went on to say that the registrar should not be subject to dismissal at the will of the government. The premier agreed that the registrar should be in the same position as a judge. Personally he had no objection to an addition to the bill which would make this clear.

W. A. Boys (Conservative, South Simcoe) suggested that one of the registrars of the courts in Ottawa, or a deputy minister in one of the departments, be asked to undertake the work until the government was able to ascertain just what it meant.

Eagle Makes Murderous Attempt To Kill Man In New Ontario Wilds

Canadian Press Despatch. Port Arthur, May 10.—What is believed to be the first-known case in this section of the country of an eagle actually attacking a man, occurred Monday at Hillsport, 276 miles east of here on the Canadian National Railway, when Oakley Hall, a pump repairman residing at Home Payne, was attacked. The bird, which measured six feet two inches from tip to tip of the wings when extended,

DISMISSES ACTION AGAINST GOVERNMENT Montreal Judge Sees No Real Grounds For $125,000 Suit

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, May 10.—Judge Audette, in the exchequer court, has dismissed the action of the Montreal Transportation Company Ltd. against the crown for $125,000 damages alleged to have been sustained by their barge Quebec on the occasion of the disastrous explosion of the government grain elevator at Port Colborne, Ont., in 1919, because of which the owners brought suit claiming that there had been negligence on the part of the elevator officials.

Judge Audette states that, after carefully considering voluminous evidence he had not been able to find any facts to sustain the charge of negligence. He found, therefore, that the plaintiffs had failed to establish their case and were not entitled to the relief sought.

In doing so Judge Audette paid a tribute to the officers of the department of railways and canals who had prepared the case for the crown, stating that the officers and servants of the crown who were called as witnesses gave their evidence in a manner that rebounded to their credit in a very marked degree.

FIXED CAPITAL NECESSARY. Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, May 9.—That farm machinery companies had seen the error of pressing for large turnover by persuading western farmers to buy agricultural implements which they did not really need was the contention of Professor M. M. Swanson of the University of Saskatchewan at a meeting held here today.

Professor Swanson said also that the present system of scattered farms to the local storekeepers had been passed to other buyers. Merchants with huge amounts in book debts were still making advances because they added to their prices to make up their bad debts, and also in many instances, charged interest on the debts.

Professor Swanson believed that banks should be required to furnish working capital to reputable farmers. Further fixed capital was still necessary, but it should be scattered in the form of small loans to the farmer given a new loan. This fixed capital, however, could not be asked of present western farmers.

At present the western farmer could secure this fixed capital from mortgage companies at 8 per cent, or from the banks at 15 per cent, and the governments through farm loans at lower rates.

He doubted whether the United States system of farm loans was applicable to Canada. He believed the prairie provinces should have a "farm mortgage association," which should be a joint farming association with capital of at least one million for each province.

Capital for this should come from private sources and decisions of the government. The amount of capital should be permitted to be issued by these associations. The debentures should be free of taxation, but with a federal guarantee behind the debentures.

The plan he put forward was only tentative.

DROPS DEAD ON STREET AFTER LEAVING SCHOOL Louise Ritchie, 14, of Brantford Expires Suddenly At Feet of Companions

Special to The Advertiser. Brantford, May 10.—Hurrying home from school Wednesday afternoon, Louise Ritchie, 14 years of age, dropped dead at the corner of King and Wellington streets. Miss Ritchie, who was in the company of several of her high school classmates, had been let out of school early, and was hurrying to town, without any warning, she gasped and made an effort to catch hold of one of her chums. She fell and slid to the ground, where she lay in a limp heap, the girls, taken by surprise, rushed across the street to the office of Dr. Hutton, who picked the girl up and carried her back with him. He laid her on a couch in his office, but discovered that life was extinct and that death had been instantaneous.

According to her cousin, Leone Ritchie, the dead girl had but a short time ago experienced a bad fainting spell, and that this was the only indication of her having a weak heart. She took part in the games at the collegiate, and was never backward in joining a group for fun. Besides her parents, she leaves two small brothers and a sister.

Emery, concession four, Gore of Chatham.

The case will be tried before Magistrate Carscallen in a Wallaceburg court at an early date. According to police a well-known Wallaceburg man, whose name has been withheld, is alleged to have been near death from alcoholic poisoning. INTERIOR OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY DURING THE ROYAL WEDDING CEREMONY. The above illustration gives an interesting glimpse into Westminster Abbey during the wedding of the Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon. DEFER APPOINTMENT OF TRUANT OFFICER

Attendance Department Leaves Selection In Hands of Sub-Committee.

The attendance department committee, at a meeting yesterday afternoon, to consider the question of an attendance officer, left the decision in the hands of a sub-committee, consisting of Principals Mooney, Miller and Beal, and Inspector Greer, who will make their report to the board at today's meeting.

The committee as a whole disapproved of the decision of the board, made at its last meeting, to the effect that an attendance and vocational officer was unnecessary. The committee feel that London is large enough to employ a man who will fulfill both the attendance and vocational end of the position, and that the board underrated the needs of the city when they decided to appoint a man having only the powers of an attendance officer.

There is only one officer in Ontario performing both the attendance and the vocational offices, and he is connected with the Toronto technical school. He acts as liaison officer between the technical school and the various factories, looking after the placing of the pupils and the transferring of boys who may not be satisfactory in one position.

There are about twenty applications before the sub-committee.

Norfolk Nominee Asserts U.F.O. 'Absolutely No Good'

John S. Martin, Conservative Candidate, In St. Williams Speech, Roundly Flays All Departments of Present Administration.

Special to The Advertiser.

Simcoe, May 10.—Without opposition, John S. Martin, reeve of Port Dover, continent-famous Wyandotte poultry breeder, was accorded the unanimous nomination of the Conservative party to contest the riding of South Norfolk at a gathering of 200 farmers in St. Williams yesterday afternoon.

He took the platform and proceeded to denounce the Drury government in no uncertain terms. The outstanding feature of the present conditions in Ontario is that the U.F.O. government, in spite of its promises, has failed to carry out any one of them, he declared. "The Drury government considered it time for economy in provincial matters, but the politics of farmers' products indicate that the administration has been extravagant. The provincial debt in four years has increased from $97,000,000 to $241,000,000.

Raps U.F.O. Members.

"The U.F.O. eliminated lawyers from the house, then turned around and hired them to do business which the members should have done," Mr. Martin gave the premier credit for being a clever man, but Mr. Drury, he said, showed weakness in refusing to accept responsibility for any legislation. According to Mr. Martin, the Druryites had saddled the province with 500 new offices in the civil service and he accused the premier of employing party patronage tactics in filling them.

Special to The Advertiser.

The speaker flayed the government mercilessly in all departments, and cynically remarked that the Drury Government had ridden in on a platform of economy and would go out on it. "The U.F.O. has worked for us during the past four years," asserted Mr. Martin, amid applause, "and we are satisfied that they are absolutely no good."

Alleges Patronage.

As an instance of alleged party patronage utilized by the premier, Mr. Martin cited the case of W. E. Gregory, who resigned his seat in Halton to make way for the premier in 1919.

He has been consistently appointed to the chairmanship of commissions, notably the Hydro commission inquiry, where he has drawn thousands of dollars from the pockets of Ontario farmers," he asserted.

The Conservative nominee considered the resignation of Hon. Mr. Raney as an admission that Ontario had no further use for him. Mr. Martin exhibited a volume of the public accounts and proceeded to scold Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer, on what he termed his reckless and totally unwarranted expenditures. Peter Smith, in his opinion, was a good lawyer and a "terrible" financier, who had been "milked" by the Toronto brokers, with a resultant loss to the people of Ontario of $25,000.

Questions Expenses.

Mr. Martin referred to the present government as "squander maniacs," and went on to criticize the departments of education and public highways in their expenditures. "Peter Smith's surplus was only a trick of bookkeeping," and as the U. F. O. came into power on a tidal wave, so will sentiment in Ontario sweep them into oblivion.

J. G. Hodgins, editor of the "Onlooker," Brampton, was even more denunciatory of the U. F. O., and in stinging language proceeded to outline the alleged deficiencies of the present administration. He condemned the U. F. O. as "the most bewildered crowd of mariners that ever landed on a desert island." Mr. Hodgins said he believed that J. J. Morrison was angrier than ever at the "Come ye all into the vineyard" speeches of Premier Drury, who was, Mr. Hodgins claimed, the poorest excuse for a politician that he could recall. "Drury and Raney have been the autocrats of the assembly," said Mr. Hodgins, "and the rest have been cash registers."

PUBLIC DRINKING COSTS SIMCOE RESIDENTS $100

Special to The Advertiser.

Simcoe, May 10.—Delbert Rockefeller, Crallend Franklin and William S. Franklin were fined $100 each by Magistrate Gunton in yesterday's police court on a charge of drinking in a public place contrary to the O. T. A. The cases were an aftermath of the City of Dresden wreck last November, the three offenders being charged with theft from the sunken ship. Today they were dismissed on that charge by Judge Boles, upon payment of the O. T. A. fine. The trio had previously been chosen to be tried by judge and jury on the theft charge at the June assizes.

Special to The Advertiser.

Galt, May 10.—Willie Otisway, a 6-year-old lad of Brook street, was the victim of a peculiar accident yesterday. He was walking along Bond street with a brother, when a runaway horse turned suddenly off a cross street, taking the sidewalk and knocking the little fellow down. He was picked up unconscious, but outside of a lump on the head was not injured.

FIFTH CONSERVATIVE SEEKS NOMINATION

With Four Men Already In Lambton Field, Dr. McMillan Declares Self.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, May 10.—There is no paucity of gentlemen willing to bear the colors of the Conservative party in West Lambton. While the party leaders for several weeks have been distracted by the claims for the support of four individuals—F. T. McGibbon, R. E. Lesueur, W. S. Haney and J. M. MacAdams—today an announcement is made that a fifth is seeking honors. This is Dr. A. R. McMillan, a local practitioner, formerly of the Sombra district, who is being "pushed" in the southern portion of the riding.

Dr. McMillan has sprung immediately in many quarters to the position of favorite in the race for Conservative honors. While the older Conservative element favors Mr. McGibbon, a party stalwart for many years, and a younger element favors Wilfred S. Haney, young barrister and returned soldier, there is said to be support in the city as well as in the southern part of the riding for Dr. McMillan. The Liberal convention, which will be held May 15 at Petrolia, promises to be the liveliest affair in West Lambton political history, unless cutting and drying process is operated between now and that date.

Older Conservatives in the city state that they are bewildered by the lively "scrap" for favor. Meanwhile, the Liberal organizing forces are already at work on behalf of Mayor Thomas H. Cook, who received a unanimous nomination at the Liberal convention Saturday last.

Woodstock, May 10.—Alex. Donald, who has been boys' secretary of the Woodstock Y. M. C. A. for the past four years, has resigned, and his resignation, which takes effect on September 1, has been accepted with regret by the directors. Mr. Donald will go to Knox College in the fall as a theological student with a view to entering the Presbyterian ministry. He has been a resident of Woodstock since 1908, and prior to the war he was sporting editor of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review. On his return from overseas, where he served with one of the battalions of the 48th Highlanders, he was appointed boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and was particularly successful in his work. He is this year's president of the Woodstock boys' work board.

FLAMES THREATEN HOME OF PETROLIA RESIDENT

Petrolia, May 10.—What might have proved a serious fire happened here yesterday when the shed and adjoining barn of A. Kirkpatrick caught fire. Only the prompt action of the fire brigade saved the house from being completely destroyed, as well as other framed buildings around. This makes the second call of the fire department in three days.

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, May 10.—James O. Duke, prominent farmer of Olinda and known as "Canada's Corn King" because of his singular success in the cultivation of that cereal, was yesterday afternoon nominated by the United Farmers of South Essex in convention at Kingsville to contest that constituency at the provincial elections next month. Special to The Advertiser.

Tolmie, tonight informed the executive committee of the association that he had decided to allow the name to stand. Mr. Wilson will run on a platform containing a plank providing for a modification of the Ontario temperance act to permit more liberal method of purchasing whiskey.

SAY NOTE TO GERMANY NOT SENT TO FRENCH

Curzon Asserts France Hasty in Not Waiting For British Support.

By HENRY SOMERVILLE. Special Cable to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent. Copyright, London, May 10.—Contrary to many statements that have appeared in the press, The Advertiser is informed by the foreign office that no draft of the British note to Germany has been submitted to Paris. Drafting of the note is only just completed. Lord Curzon has already indicated the unnecessary precipitancy of the French in not giving Britain a chance to be associated with her in the reply to Berlin, which, it is felt here, has spoiled what might have been a demonstration of allied solidarity. Britain is as convinced as France of the inadequacy and futility of the German offer regarding the reparation payments, but the British view is that the German note contains parts which may lead up to fruitful discussion, as for instance the proposal to have Germany's paying

Both Liberals and Conservatives May Support Beck At Port Arthur

Canadian Press Despatch. Port Arthur, May 9.—There is a growing feeling in Port Arthur that within a few days Sir Adam Beck will be tendered an invitation to represent this constituency in the next Ontario Legislature. Some of the most prominent Conservatives and Liberals are said to have come to an understanding that if Sir Adam will consent to represent the constituency he would have the support of the two parties, which would practically assure his election. Port Arthur citizens generally freely admit being "fed up" with party politics and are now out to get the best results by representation. It is understood that Sir Adam would be asked to be an Independent.

Bird Notes

Contributed by The McIlwraith Ornithological Club
On the 8th of May the second of our Vireos arrived, the Warbling Vireo, four days later than its average, although the Least Flycatcher and the Bobolink, scheduled to arrive the same date, came about on time. This is the only one of the family that nests in the city, and its song is markedly different from that of other Vireos being quite a close resemblance to the song of the Purple Finch. It formerly nested in Victoria Park, and possibly may do so yet, though the squirrels and blackbirds are rather hard on the park residence. All of the Vireos build cup-shaped, hanging nests, and the Warbling bulbul at quite a height from the ground, from 25 to 50 feet, and the nest may sometimes be found by listening to the male, who often sings as he incubates.
The Maryland Yellow-Throat, one day ahead of schedule, was added to the list on the 8th, being the only new warbler for the day and the third species.
The Rose-breasted Grosbeak was right on time in the writer's garden. This species has a song much resembling that of the robin, but more continuous and mellow, and is noted as one of the most beautiful birds.

"WHY, Jim, when did you start riding a bicycle? I thought you took your exercise in an easy chair."
"Surprised, eh, Fred? Well, I've just been riding a short time. It was the new roads that did the trick."
"What roads?"
"Why, man alive, have you been asleep? Haven't you seen those wonderful new highways the Government has been spending millions of dollars on?"

"Gee, you make a fellow anxious to get out on those new roads, too."
"Why not get a bicycle and come along with me, Fred? Come and breathe the clover-laden breezes. And see the fields sprout up this spring. And the grain ripen golden in the fall. I know some pools where there's a fish or two. And some places where the mushrooms grow. We'll take our bicycles along next vacation, too."

"Your wheel glides along those hard, smooth, dustless highways just like a ball rolling over a billiard table. Hardly any pressure needed on the pedals. You can ride 10 miles today more easily than you could do 5 or 6 miles on the old roads."
"That so, Jim?"

A Peppy Bike

"For one thing, there's the Triplex Hanger. No other bike has it. The Triplex responds to the slightest pressure on the pedals. You start easier. Get under way faster. Every bit of weight you put on the pedals counts for speed. The Triplex Hanger is sure a peppy power plant."
The New Pedal
"There's the new Gibson Pedal, too. A beauty! Aluminum frame that looks like silver and cannot rust. Strong, yet wonderfully light. Watch how she spins. And see how perfectly it fits the foot."
"But I'm not a salesman, Fred. Just hike down to the C.C.M. dealer's. He will be glad to tell you all about C.C.M. Bicycles—why they're nickelled over copper, why the enamelling lasts so long, why English Seamless Tubing makes the best frames and all about the Hercules Brake."

Like A Toboggan
"They've cut down the big hills, too, Fred. The new grades are easier to climb. As for coasting—you can let her go now just like a toboggan. And, say, it's great to feel the wind in your face and to see the trees whizzing by. And, after you reach the bottom you shoot on—and on—and on! You'd never believe you could coast so far unless you'd tried it yourself."

Bottom Prices
"Go down and get your C.C.M. now and come out for a ride. You can easily afford one—C.C.M. Bicycles are almost down to pre-war prices; $15 to $20 less than the 'peak' prices. They've hit the bottom for a quality bicycle."

Why Oppose This Legislation?

The second reading of the act to investigate combines in Canada was passed, Progressives and Liberals voting for the government measure, and the Conservatives, with the exception of W. F. Maclean, of Toronto, voting against it.

The criticism that has been urged against the measure outside the house is interesting. Conservative papers say it is being introduced in order to provide some person, the registrar, with a job; they claim it opens the way for any propagandist 21 years of age to start an investigation; they claim that similar legislation in the past has not been successful, and so on.

No doubt these same papers, were the King government to take no steps, would be quick to make the statement that Liberals were tied up to "corporations" and "big interests," and were afraid to make a move that might curb their actions.

The big consideration now is not whether that legislation is going to be used—it is that it shall be there, in good working order, in case there is need to use it.

It is not the intention of the government to interfere with any business that is going on its way, making a fair profit. Any concern carrying on in that way has every reason to look upon the government of the country as its friend. Premier King has no intention of interfering with any such business, and opposition critics who are seeking to create a feeling of alarm for fair and legitimate business are deliberately seeking to falsify the issue.

Mr. W. F. Maclean, of Toronto, a life-long Conservative, supports the anti-combines legislation. He is the only member of his party to do so. As a tariff supporter he is quite within his rights in urging that the tariff, which is used to build up an industry, might well be used to discipline those who have taken an undue advantage of the monopoly thereby obtained.

The strength of the government's position in seeking to perfect this legislation is enhanced by the weak arguments advanced against it. When Hon. W. L. M. King was on his last campaign he made it clear that business conducted along fair lines and making a reasonable profit had nothing to fear from him, but he did promise to take action against those who were taking more than their just due from the consumers of Canada. The question is large enough to attract the support and approval of all parties. The King government would not be living up to its promises to the people if it did not enact this legislation and provide the machinery for its operation.

Forcing Collection of a "Gift."

Having to use the courts to force payment of contributions promised to the "Forward movement" launched a few years ago by the Protestant denominations seems to jar very harshly with the motives and ideas that prompted the drive in the first place.

The money was a gift from the people with the idea of sending on at a greater rate all the home and missionary activities of the churches banded together in the undertaking.

No man was forced to give anything; if pressure were brought to bear on him it was mistaken zeal on the part of the person soliciting the contribution.

The great majority of the pledges were honored gladly when they became due, and it was in that spirit that the work should have been carried to completion.

Going to the courts to force payment of amounts pledged to such an object as the Forward Movement is something that is just a trifle hard to explain or yet to understand.

Might Make a Test Case.

There is need for greater simplicity and directness in the framing and wording of some of the legislation describing the functions of civic boards. For instance, there is hardly a municipality that has not had a controversy in an effort to find out where the powers of a police commission end and those of the city council begin.

Can the city council control the expenditures of the police commission? Can the council cut the estimates of that board? Attorney-General Raney made the statement in the legislature that the council had the power to "prune" the estimates of the police board, and that view seems to have given rise to the belief in many quarters that the council in any city is in control of the situation. Mr. Raney may have meant that the council had the right to eliminate any expenditure that did not come within the authority of the police commission. He could hardly have meant that a city council had a right to trim the estimates with a view to controlling the extent or operation of the police force.

Mr. R. R. Hall, K.C., of Peterborough, gives his opinion on the matter, and states in the first place that section 298 of the municipal act shows that it is the positive duty of the council to provide money to maintain the police force.

Under section 354 a board of police commissioners for cities is duly constituted, and under section 359 the board have exclusive power to determine the number of policemen that are absolutely necessary for the city in which the board acts.

Under section 361 the board have power to make regulations "for rendering it (the police force) efficient in the discharge of its duties," and under section 362 the members of the police force are "subject to the government of the board and must obey its lawful directions."

Under section 363 "the board shall on or before the first day of March in each year prepare and submit to the council for its consideration and approval its estimates of all moneys required for the ensuing year to pay the remuneration of the members of the police force and to provide and pay for offices, watch-houses, watch-boxes, arms, accoutrements, clothing and other things for the accommodation, use and maintenance of the force."

The city council of Peterborough has evidently cut the police estimates, and by so doing Mr. Hall believes the members have laid themselves open to a serious penalty. To back up this view he quotes from section 164 of the criminal code, that "every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to one year's imprisonment who, without lawful excuse, disobeys any act of any legislature in Canada by wilfully omitting to do any act which it requires to be done." Mr. Hall advises that the matter can best be brought to a head and settled by having aldermen who "illegally sought to prune the board's estimates duly indicted under section 164 of the criminal code." His contention is that if aldermen were allowed to prune and hack away at police estimates they could reduce the police force to a point where there would be no protection to the citizens, and the blame would rest with the aldermen themselves.

No city wants to see Peterborough aldermen gazing through prison bars for a year, but at the same time it would be highly beneficial to have a test case made of the Peterborough situation. It is probably the only way in which a definite ruling could be made that would give a verdict on the combined clauses dealing with the matter in the Ontario Municipal Act.

Sadly in Need of Repair.

A member of the New York Yanks team wants to go into the prize-fighting business, claiming that the ring is in need of repairs.

It is sadly in need of repairs. The clean sport of boxing has itself received such a black eye from the debauchery of professionalism and money grabbing by big-muscled loafers that it needs more than repairs. It needs a whole new outfit.

Boxing is not fighting. It is good sport. It teaches a young man the value of control; it shows him the necessity of clean living and good habits to keep in shape; it quickens every move of the body. It has taken the conceit out of more young upstarts than possibly any other sport.

It was a sad day when the promoter got hold of the situation. Today we see great hulks of men out whining and complaining because there are not enough suckers in the world to hang up some hundreds of thousands to see them poke each other for a few minutes.

The boxing business has gone a long way down hill since the days of Bob Fitzsimmons, who could give and take, and box like a man, and then do a turn at his blacksmithing business next day.

Reds Are Not Labor Men.

Malcolm Bruce, red agitator, of Toronto, has been ordered arrested for stating that "I hope to see the day when the Union Jack will be dragged in the mud and the red flag will be flying in Canada as the standard of freedom for the worker."

It is unfortunate that men of this stamp should often be mistaken for leaders in the Labor movement; they are, though, for some reports refer to Bruce as a labor leader.

The Labor party of Britain is making progress faster than anything that this man Bruce has been associated with, and this progress is being made under the shadow and protection of the Union Jack.

Labor leaders have not found it necessary to trail or drag the Union Jack in the mud in order to place the second largest group in the British Commons.

Philip Snowden did not find it necessary to run up a red flag on the building where the mother of parliaments sits before he could stand up in his place in the House and launch his historic broadside against the whole system of capitalism.

Red agitators who want to drag the Union Jack in the mud as a starter are the worst enemies any labor movement could possibly have.

PEOPLE WILL NOT BE BOTHERED?

(From the Montreal Witness.)

"The masses of the people, spoken of as the wage-earners, or the wage slaves, or the workers, are a fragment of the enthusiastic reformer's brain. Democracy is described as the rule of the majority. But the fact is, the majority do not want to rule. They will not take the trouble; they are incapable of the effort; they do not want to be 'bothered.' What they do want is a fairly comfortable and not too laborious living, with plenty of simple pleasure and amusement. The masses are not ambitious. They prefer to be directed and led. And Mr. Ford shows the majority of workers do not hunger for a better job with more brain work and more responsibility. They prefer a regular and tranquil life."

These are not, as might be supposed, the words of an ultra-Tory. They express the opinion of no less a person than Mr. Robert Blatchford, the famous Socialist writer, who is, or was, the editor of the Clarion, the ultra-communistic paper. Commenting on Mr. Henry Ford's book "My Life and Work," Mr. Blatchford says: "I am an old Socialist, and spent many years in trying to find a better way. His way is in closer touch with human nature, is more harmonious with facts. He has found in time what I have found too late. . . . No state controlled or commercial business could produce such results. We cannot succeed in war or business by a control of committees, not even committees of Fords and Fochs. The true way is to put the one Ford or the one Foch in command." Surely a strange faith for one whose life has been devoted to the propagation of Socialistic theories. And yet Mr. Blatchford is simply weighing his political theories against the facts of his experience. Are we to infer, therefore, that democracy is a failure, and that we are to be delivered again into vassalage to the barons?

DIBS AND DABS — BY HARRY MOYER

Your Health

WHAT YOU AND THE DOCTOR CAN DO IN RHEUMATIC FEVER.

By Royal S. Copeland, M.D., United States Senator from New York Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

If you never had an attack of tonsillitis you do not know what a disagreeable ailment it really is. It makes you very ill. It is painful. It pulls down your health. It is a real disease. But I haven't told you the worst thing I know about tonsillitis. The trouble about the miserable thing is that you do not get out from this sickness. It is a danger of some other even more painful and serious ailment.

Some authorities say that fully 80 per cent of attacks of rheumatic fever date back to sore throat. Rheumatic fever is a disease I wish to tell you about today. What is rheumatic fever? It is an acute, infectious fever, characterized by inflammation of the joints and sometimes by involvement of the lining membrane and valves of the heart.

It is probable that this disease is caused by some definite infecting agent, but whether a germ or a virus or whatnot, nobody is very sure. It is an agent different from the ordinary germs which produce inflammation, because in rheumatic fever there is no pus formation, as there always is when the inflammation is caused by the commonly met germs.

The classical signs of inflammation are redness, swelling, heat and pain. Most of the germs capable of producing these symptoms add pus production. In the case of rheumatic fever there is no such complication. This is a good thing because, bad as the attack is, the joints quickly resume normal function.

You will see certain joints greatly swollen and inflamed, but the next day they may be almost well and, in their turn, other joints become just as bad. This speedy cure is fortunate. But the heart may not escape so well. In this case there may be left permanent ill-effects.

Rheumatic fever comes on suddenly. A chill is the usual first sign of an infectious fever, but not so in this one. There may be a feeling of coldness, but ordinarily the first sign is a fever of 102 or 103 degrees. Then one or two joints begin to swell.

The knee joints or ankle joints are apt to be first in showing trouble. No matter where it begins, that joint will get better and then another one goes bad. The pain is terrific. Every movement hurts. The patient screams if he is touched. Fever, sweat and prostration are noted. Rheumatic fever is a disagreeable ailment, but it is rarely fatal. If the heart is guarded, recovery is complete. Your doctor will direct the treatment. Until he arrives, the first thing to do is to control the pain. For this purpose there is nothing better than hot-water compresses, just as hot as can be borne.

It is surprising what relief is experienced by wrapping it in a lot of cotton, applying some splints of cardboard or thin wood and then bandaging it purpose. Just as soon as motion is eliminated, the pain stops.

Needless to say, the patient must be kept very quiet. Rest in bed is important.

When She Is Ill

By ANNE CAMPBELL.

The silken window drapes are stirred By playful breezes, and a bird Is pouring out in ecstasy How beautiful the spring can be. We do not heed the call of May; Our little girl is ill today.

The garden flaunts its tulips red. We stop unheeding, by her bed. The scent of springtime in the air Reminds us that the world is fair. We can not heed the call of May; Our little girl is ill today.

But soon we'll fling the doors ajar And hand in hand go out and far. And revel in the harmony Of bird and flower and breeze and bee.

When welcoming the spring we'll say, Our little girl is WELL today! (Copyright, North American Newspaper Alliance, 1923.)

The ten books that I have enjoyed most and the ten books that have meant the most to me are slightly different things; for as to enjoyment equal to any I have ever had I should have to include Shelley's poems, and "Don Quixote" (Cervantes), and the plays of Sophocles and Euripides, and Fabre's books on insects, and many, many books which would swell the number much beyond the limit of the inquiry. But the books that I have enjoyed the most, and which I still enjoy as much as I ever did, and which therefore have meant and still mean the most to me are only eight in number as above. I mean "Peer Gynt" and "Brand" almost make the mark—not quite.

HUNTING BEES

By J. B. McLachlan

THE great profusion of wild flowers in the woods of this country made it possible for bees to store large quantities of honey in crevices and hollow trees, and were sometimes hunted by some of the early pioneers. I knew of but one man, Mr. Keyser, who lived in the township of Adelaide, about five or six miles east of Arkona, who hunted bees seventy-five years ago or more. I will briefly describe the method he pursued in his quest, as I remember seeing him on one or two occasions at our home. He carried a small box of honey, which he opened, and awaited the coming of the bee that soon regaled itself from the box and then flew in the direction of its hive. Before leaving, Mr. Keyser sprinkled its wings and body with flour, moving in the direction of the bee took, and again awaited its return with several others, and thus in a short time he succeeded in locating the tree in which the industrious bees were collecting their "luscious hoards."

In this manner Mr. Keyser possessed an apiary of considerable extent containing many hives in sections of the original trees which he had cut in the woods and carted to his apiary. It was common for people coming across a tree in the woods that had been thus cut to make the remark "This looks as if Keyser had been here."

The Guide Post—By Henry van Dyke

THE RIGHT WAY TO LOVE OURSELVES. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—Matt. 22:29. In what way are we entitled and bound to love ourselves? That, of course, is the first question; for upon the answer to that depends the line of love which we must follow toward our neighbor. Evidently the right kind of self-love must not be pampering and spoiling. Only with a clear discrimination between the good and the bad in our own natures are we justified in loving ourselves. We ought not to indulge our own whims and passions, our sloth and selfishness. We ought to dislike and repress that which is evil and mean in us, and to cherish that which is good and generous. The only kind of love for ourselves which is permissible must be wise and clean and careful; it must have justice in it as well as mercy; it must be capable of discipline as well as of encouragement; it must strive to keep the soul above the body, and to develop both. Precisely thus, and not otherwise, we should love our neighbors: with a steady, sane, liberating and helpful love, which always seeks to bring out their best. M. DAVIS THE WINNER IN CITY CHESS MATCH

Defeats Dr. J. R. Armstrong in London Chess Club Finals.

One of the most tense chess matches seen in this city came to an end last night, when M. Davis, by beating Dr. J. R. Armstrong, became undisputed chess champion of London.

Last night's game was the last of a chess tournament started in this city six months ago. Since the organization of the London Chess Club, three dozen experts have been battling every week for the honor of becoming "king." A chess tournament frequently takes months to finish and the one held by the local club was no exception. Dr. Armstrong was last week declared winner of "A" group and M. Davis simultaneously became the victor in "B" group. The latter was expected to gain a comfortable victory over Dr. Armstrong, but the play-off was extraordinarily close.

The London Chess Club tournament is the first of its kind ever held here. Everyone familiar with the game was invited to take part, and about thirty men availed themselves of the chance. Several of these would not enter the tournament, however, six being the number who decided to struggle through the series.

ALL THE SCHOOLS OF FISH ARE CLOSED ON ACCOUNT OF HUNGER—IT'S A TERRIBLE SIGHT TO SEE THE POOR LITTLE EMACIATED BABY FISHES CLINGING TO THEIR MOTHERS' FINS RENDING THE NIGHT WITH THEIR PITIFUL CRIES OF 'GIVE US WORMS OR WE PERISH!'

Favorable Developments Are Expected as Result of American Locomotive Meeting.

By STUART P. WEST. Special to The Advertiser. Wall Street, New York, May 10.—The stock market today went through a series of the sharpest fluctuations that have been seen in some time.

As business started there were two opposing influences at work. One was the weakness in the steel shares, the other was the expectation of something favorable developing at the American Locomotive meeting.

The light of latest news regarding the steel situation was the declaration of the rate of $10 on the old as against $10 on the new, followed by a rapid advance to $12.50.

The Stewart-Warner statement for the first quarter, showing earnings at the rate of $1.00 per share, was generally well received.

Wall Street features. The strength of Pittsburgh and West Virginia, which today was the main feature, was ascribed to several things.

"Up From the Death Cell" The Story of a Man Who Won a Fight Against Big Odds

BY JOHN W. KANE.

Kane Is Lodged In the Penitentiary's Murders' Row, of Which the Death Cell Is a Part

SYNOPSIS.
Kane's regeneration in jail begins after he is saved from a mob. He has killed two street car men. He determines to make people understand that the killing, though done in a robbery, was unpremeditated and in a way was done in self-defence. At length he writes his confession. In the county jail a prisoner in the adjoining cell is visited by his wife. With her is Violet Grey, a girl of means, who is struck by the thought that Curly has better stuff in him than his condition indicates. Impulsively she gets him saws with which to escape. The plan fails. He and she are suspected. Then Kane goes to trial for murder is convicted, and is sentenced to die by shooting or hanging on June 24, 1924.

CHAPTER XV.

I was received at the state prison by the deputy warden. The law required that a proper commitment be handed to the penitentiary authorities, which would, of course, include the sentence the person so delivered was to undergo. My commitment, then, had to be a kind of death warrant within itself. And the sheriff had no more than got the instrument out of his hands than he turned to me, gave my hand a parting clasp and, seemingly anxious to get out of the room, walked away.

At his desk, the cell-house cus-

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS

A Letter from Mrs. Smith Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Trenton, Ont.—"I am writing to you in regard to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I would not be without it. I have taken it before each of my children were born and afterwards, and find it a great help. Before my first baby was born I had shortness of breath and ringing in my ears. I never pull through. One day a friend of my husband told him that the Vegetable Compound had done for his wife and advised him to take a bottle home for me. After the fourth bottle I was a different woman. I have four children now, and I always find the Vegetable Compound a great help as it seems to make confinement easier. I recommend it to my friends.—Mrs. Fred H. Smith, John St., Trenton, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system, so that it may work in every respect effectually as nature intended. Thousands of women testify to this fact.

todian said in that deferential tone used when addressing an obedient condemned man, "I'll have to ask you to remove your clothes, Mr. Kane."

He did the searching. "The supposition is," he explained to me, "that a man in your situation might want to kill himself. I don't believe that you or one man out of ten others would do it, but the rule is that we must make a careful examination like this."

I nodded my understanding. "Fact of the matter is," continued he, "I've often thought it might be best just to put about a dozen different death death things into a fellow's cell, and tell him that he might take his choice as to which he wanted to use. That would save time and expense, and it would be easier on the man himself, wouldn't it?"

"Perhaps," I answered, hoping that he might soon let up on the palaver.

The Man in the Chair.
The man who had brought me in from the front then arose.

"I'll see you later, Jack," he said. "If there's anything you want that we're allowed to give you, just inform either one of the two heads"—meaning the warden or his deputy—"and it will be sent in at once."

I thanked him, then the next moment arose to accompany the cell-house man to the bathroom.

"Now then, Mr. Kane," observed he, after we had arrived at the bathroom door—the building was in an inner court—"my orders compel me to watch you bathe."

The cell in which I was locked opened out upon a narrow sheet-iron passageway, along the outer edge of which extended an iron railing. That tier of cells was the second from the bottom, and from the front of it I could look through the crossed checkerboard-like bars and down upon the cement floor that reached from the front of the lower tier of cells across to the brick walls of the building. Barely within the range of my vision I could see a man sitting in a chair on that lower floor at the far end of the corridor. I was wondering what he was doing there, when I heard a voice somewhere near me.

"Well, Mr. Kane," the voice spoke with a German accent, "how do you like the place?"

"I haven't been here long enough to tell much about it," was my answer. "Are you on this tier?"

"Oh, yes—unless I'm dreamin'," answered my neighbor laughingly. "What cell you in?"

"I never noticed the number," I told him—"it's about the third or fourth from the end."

The Name of Our Street.
"I'm only about four doors from you then," he returned. "You don't know the name of our street, do you?"

"No—I haven't even learned that much yet."

"Listen then," said he, "and I'll tell you. It's called Murderers' Row." He laughed heartily.

A careful inspection of the interior of my cell showed that it was, with the exception of that front part, solid sheet steel. Over the door there was a narrow iron shelf attached securely to the wall. The bed was about three feet in width, being made of four upright iron posts supporting iron railings, and there were woven springs that made the bed comfortable to lie upon. As bedclothing, there were two heavy new blankets and a pillow. The only wooden appurtenance in sight was a small, oblong-topped stool, which was used as both a seat and a table—the latter whenever my meals were brought in, at which time the edge of the cot served as a chair.

"Mr. Kane," came my neighbor's voice again, "what is your first name?"

"John," I told him.

"I'll call you that then," said he. "And what day are you to face the music, John?"

"June 24," I answered. "And if you're in a like situation, what day are you supposed to go to?"

"June 6—just eighteen days ahead of you; time enough for me to arrive and get acquainted before you come, eh?" And again he laughed—that time so loudly that I feared the noise might be against the rules.

"We're allowed to talk this way, are we?" I inquired.

The Death Watch.
"Sure thing—but we can't sing," I remarked.

"Oh, yes, you will—you'll get used to it here," he assured me, "and you'll feel about the same as people do any other place."

I doubted that, but made no answer.

"If we're to be neighbors, what am I to call you?" I asked.

"Dutch Charley, or Charley—or just Dutch."

"Tell me what that fellow is doing away at the other end of the building there in a chair."

I spoke so the man inquired about could not hear me.

"Yes—he got tired of havin' his old lady around. Well, he's to take his journey next Friday, and that guy in the chair is one of the death watch."

I remembered having read of the case. A probably insane barber had shot his wife to death as she lay asleep.

"Is he to be shot?" I asked in a lower tone still.

"Sure thing—and we'll have the joy of hearin' the rifles," answered Charley.

"Why, of course, we can—unless we stop our ears. I've been on this tier for nearly two years, and I've heard the rifles for three of them."

Will Grow Used To It?
"Is that so—and how did it make you feel?"

He laughed again—but the laugh was forced.

"Well, I don't feel much either way," Charley explained. "I've been around here so long that there's not much feeling left."

I knew even then that there was some truth in the idea of experience along certain lines begetting a lack of feeling. When first I had seen bloodshed, my feelings had been terribly ruffled; but after some months where it was common—particularly after my service as a soldier in an enemy's country—I was by no means so sensitive.

Dutch Charley had begun to pace back and forth in his cell. I happened to know that his case had gone through all the courts. And I wondered what his thoughts could be just then. With all hope gone save that very last—an appeal to the governor and pardon board—what could the man four doors away be thinking? He, being nearer to where that silent death watch was sitting in front of the other poor wretch's cell, could see in that direction better than I. Could Dutch Charley's imagination carry him far enough to cause him to see himself there in that death cell rather than Frank Flowers?

Whether or not, however, the man next to me on that terrible row was able to picture himself in the place then occupied by Flowers, it was then common knowledge that all hope so far as the latter was concerned had been abandoned. The case had not been appealed to the board of pardons—Flowers himself, a sure sign of his insanity, I think, had opposed such action—and the rifles would bark out for him at a little after 10 the following Friday morning. What could he be thinking? If the man had even a wreck of a mind, what were the thoughts of it dwelling upon just then? And if, despite his most unusually heinous crime, his mind was normal, what in that event could his thoughts be, with less than seventy-two hours to live? And I—if an appeal to a higher court should fail, and if then a pardon board should refuse to interfere—was I, too, to sit back inside that death chamber while a silent and careless-appearing uniformed man sat out in front of it?

Two Steps, a Turn, Two Steps.
I choked. Had there been no doors between me and the outside world, I should have rushed from that hell. But perhaps I should not so much as glimpse any of the joyous things of life—not even a ray of sunshine—until the day I was led out to die.

Two steps, a very short step, then a turn; two steps, a very short step, then a turn.

My thoughts turned again to Dutch Charley. He had been in that cell for two years. How was it possible to retain even a semblance of sanity? His voice sounded strong, but there was a strained note. Why did Charley wish to appear cheerful? Had his time there taught him the value of cheerfulness—even if it were feigned and forced? No doubt. And I would talk more with the man in the hope of learning everything possible that might have some bearing upon my welfare.

The thought of other prisoners had scarcely entered my mind, when I heard the tapping of a gong in the distance; and then straightway came another sound—a sound that I had heard when held at the state prison for safe keeping prior to trial—the clug! clug! clug! of the lock-step.

A white-aproned and white-capped fellow came shuffling along carrying a tray, while behind him walked a guard.

"Are you ready for dinner, Kane?" the officer inquired.

"I'm not particularly hungry," I answered.

"Well, here it is anyway"—and he quickly removed the large padlock, and opened the door—"just put these dishes out on your bench there!"

"Don't Sleep By Day!"
The tray-bearer held the end of the tray through the doorway and I began to unload the dishes. There were roast pork, apple sauce, fine white bread, a small pot of coffee, a glass of milk, a cut of lemon pie and a cigarette. I perhaps showed my surprise.

"You'll be pretty well fed now—that's the practice," the guard told me. "The cigarette isn't a regular part of it. Jack S—, the chief clerk"—meaning the fellow that had accompanied me in from the front—"Well, well—I appreciate all of it," said I. "But a man will need some exercise on this kind of food, won't he?"

"Oh, yes—you'll get a walk out there in the court the afternoon, if you want it," he explained; "and no doubt you will."

I did want the walk—and I got it between the hours of 3 and 4 that afternoon. The exercising ground was under the eye of an armed guard who sat on a wall. But I soon forgot about his presence and the walking seemed to strengthen and help me.

After my return to the cell, the signal for which was the guard's appearance at an upper window, I talked again with Dutch Charley. He had been permitted to exercise in the forenoon. He explained various matters. He told me not to sleep in the daytime, because that would prevent sleep at night.

The night came—the time after all movement of inmates had ceased throughout the prison; it came much earlier in that respect than it ever comes in the outside world. And before the gong had tapped three times as a signal for inmates to prepare to retire, I had lain down in preparation for the sleep that I longed for—even though it was to be the haunted sleep known only in a condemned man's cell.

New Stories O. HENRY

HOW IT STARTED.
 "You had better move your chair a little further back," said the old resident. "I saw one of the Judkins go up into the newspaper office just now with his gun, and there may be some shooting."
 The reporter who was in the town gathering information for the big edition, got his chair quickly behind a pillar of the hotel piazza, and asked what the trouble was about.
 "It's an old feud of several years' standing," said the old resident, "between the editor and the Judkins family. About every two months they get to shooting at one another. Everybody in town knows about it. This is the way it started: The Judkins live in another town, and one time a good-looking young lady of the family came here on a visit to a Mrs. Brown. Mrs. Brown gave her a big party—a regular high-toned affair, to get the young men acquainted with her. One young fellow fell in love with her, and sent a little poem to our paper, the Observer. This is the way it read:
TO MISS JUDKINS
 (Visiting Mrs. T. Montclair Brown).
 We love to see her wear
 A gown of simple white,
 Nothing but a rose in her hair.
 At Mrs. Brown's that night,
 The fairest of them all,
 She stood, with blushes red,
 While bright the gas-light shone
 Upon her lovely head.
 "That poem, now, was what started the feud."
 "I don't see anything wrong with the poem," said the reporter. "It seems a little crude, but contains nothing to give offense."
 "Well," said the old resident, "the poem was all right as it was written. The trouble originated in the newspaper office. The morning after it was sent in the society editress got hold of it first. She is an old maid and she didn't think the second line quite proper, so she ran her pencil through it. Then the advertising manager prowled around through the editor's mail as usual, and read the poem. Old Brown owed the office $17 back subscription, and the advertising manager struck out the fourth line. He said old Brown shouldn't get any free advertising in that office.

 "Then the editor's wife happened to come in to see if there was any square perturbed envelopes among his mail, and she read it. She was at the Brown's party herself, and when she read the line that proclaimed Miss Judkins 'The fairest of them all' she turned up her nose and scratched that out.
 "Then the editor himself got hold of it. He is heavily interested in our new electric light plant, and his blue pencil jumped on the line 'While bright the gas-light shone' in a hurry. Later on one of the printers came in and grabbed a lot of copy, and this poem was among it. You know what printers will do if you give them a chance, so here is the way the poem came out in the paper:
TO MISS JUDKINS
 (Visiting Mrs. T. Montclair Brown).
 We love to see her wear
 Nothing but a rose in her hair,
 She stood with blushes red
 Upon her lovely head.
 "And you see," continued the old resident, "the Judkins got mad."

ENTHUSIASTIC LIBERAL CONVENTION IN S. OXFORD

WELLINGTON HAY URGES SUPPORTERS IN SOUTH OXFORD TO UNITE TO A MAN TO INSURE VICTORY FOR LIBERALS

J. Verne Buchanan, ex-Mayor of Ingersoll, Chosen to Carry Liberal Banner.

GOVERNMENT SCORED

Liberal Leader Rakes Drury Cabinet for Wasteful Expenditure of Public Money.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.

Mount Elgin, May 10.—South Oxford Liberalism, represented by 300 staunch followers of Wellington Hay, provincial leader, yesterday reiterated allegiance to the Liberal party, and at an enthusiastic mass meeting here chose J. Verne Buchanan of Ingersoll their candidate for the ensuing Ontario election.

Following an address from Mr. Hay, G. Hulet, chairman, called for nominations. Six names were suggested, but all withdrew in favor of Mr. Buchanan. The latter accepted the honor, and in a brilliant speech outlined his platform. When Mr. Hulet asked for a standing vote on Mr. Buchanan's candidacy, the gathering arose and made the choice unanimous.

Mr. Buchanan made an extremely favorable impression before the audience. He is a young man to be contending a provincial seat, but the vigor of his expression and capable manner in which he reviewed the record of the Drury government stamped him at once as being a candidate of exceptional mental calibre. Elected mayor of Ingersoll several times, his experience in municipal as well as provincial affairs is extraordinary for his years.

The candidate stated that he intended soliciting votes from members of the U. F. O. as well as Liberals. The difference between the ideas and principles of the U. F. O. party and Liberals was so fine as to be virtually indistinguishable. No man, the candidate averred, felt greater admiration for Premier Drury than himself, but the internal strife of the Farmers' party had destroyed all hope for it. No movement for a single class could ever be successful, but if present advocates of the U. F. O. would hitch their wagons to the great Liberal party again they would find it broad and big enough to satisfy everyone.

Liberal Leader Speaks

Wellington Hay, in a brief address, stressed the need for giving wholehearted support to the candidate. Hand-clapping and individual voting was not sufficient. The only way to win a political battle was through work. Mr. Hay reviewed the political events affecting Queen's Park within the past four years, and told how the U. F. O. had gained power by accusing the traditional parties of Canada with failure to legislate in favor of the agrarians. The Liberals had given this new party every co-operation. They had placed no obstruction in its way, but after a short period they discovered that the Farmers' party was a class movement and that its leaders had indulged in extravagance, unprecedented in provincial political history.

"We have no excuses to offer for giving Mr. Drury every reasonable hearty co-operation to go to Farm legislation," said Mr. Hay. "I believe the members of the Farmers' party are sincere. I think the U. F. O. choice of a man for premier was a

ADDRESSES SOUTH OXFORD LIBERALS.

Wellington Hay, leader of Ontario Liberals, in a vigorous speech at the South Oxford convention at Mount Elgin yesterday afternoon, declared that his policy was to have Liberalism embrace all activities and that the Reform party of the province was big enough to take in every man and woman whose aim was to better conditions generally and bring down governmental expenditures to a minimum.

most fortunate one. Mr. Drury is an admirable man. But after he had been in office a short time he discovered that constitutional methods of government were the only effective ones. He also discovered that ministerial responsibility was only possible under party government. It is because the Farmers did not give responsible government and shirked their obligations that we are asking the country to oust them from positions of trust and substitute a party whose traditions are the finest and whose records of the past are unapproached by any other political organization in the Dominion.

"The Liberal party," Mr. Hay continued, "will embrace all fields of thought and activity. It is existing for the people and is big enough to allow every man and woman into its fold. No political party can destroy the heritage of Ontario. No one organization could be vandalistic enough to spoil the future of this province, because our resources, minerals and foodstuffs are too great for that. But the U. F. O. has come dangerously near sending parts of Ontario on the brink of disaster.

"It is the aim of the Liberal party to apply business methods to the business proposition of governing Ontario. Political methods have failed miserably, and I believe the great hope of the country lies in the ability of its government to better conditions by the application of business principles."

Mr. Hay touched exhaustively on the extravagance of the Drury government. The burden of taxation was becoming increasingly heavy, and under the late parliament it had established the record of spending more of the people's money in four years than any previous government had in ten years. The Liberal leader added that all expenditures arising out of the war were justified. No one could gainsay that. But the costs of road construction and a thousand and one other items of government expenditure had become exorbitant and unjustifiable. Instead of reducing the enormous public debt the Drury government had increased it beyond computation.

Criticizes Road Policy

Mr. Hay criticized the centralized system of road construction, and said that county councils should superintend the work which was now being directed from Toronto in connection with highway building.

"Forty millions of dollars were spent on roads this year," he said. "The minister of highways capitalized that money. But as soon as the money is put away in public highways it becomes a liability, as well as an asset, because the cost of highway maintenance is tremendous. Further, the government made no attempt to defray the 340 millions which the province owes. Instead, the interest therein is still being capitalized, thus adding to the indebtedness."

"I am not a pessimist. If I were I would not be in public life. My vision of the Ontario of the future is one of prosperity and contentment. But if this condition is out of the slough of incompetence and mismanagement with which the province has been enslaved, responsible government is essential. The Liberal party is prepared to adopt any platform in the moral and material interest of the people of Ontario. I have no promises to make except the application of business principles to a business proposition. I have the merits of the Liberal cause on the recognized ability of its leaders and the glorious traditions of justice and right in which Liberalism was cradled and flourished."

Depends On Work Done

In Verne Buchanan's address the candidate recalled past meetings in the historic town hall of Mount Elgin, and said that every party that ever held a convention there had always left full of determination and spirit.

Government Decides That Provincial Election Will Be Held On 25th of June Cabinet Ministers Agree Upon Date For Ontario Contest—Nomination Day Is Specified For Thursday, June 14 Next.

Canadian Press Despatch

Toronto, May 9.—Speculation concerning the date of the approaching provincial general election was set at rest yesterday when the Drury government definitely selected Monday, June 25 next. The date was agreed upon by the cabinet members, after which it was incorporated in the formal order-in-council asking the lieutenant-governor for the dissolution of the present chamber. With the granting of the request by his honor, a mere formality, the fifteenth parliament will have passed into history.

The dissolution order-in-council itself is brief and purely formal. It simply acquaints his honor with the government's desire for the immediate dissolution of the present house, and for a general election to be held on June 25. Nomination day is also specified for Thursday, June 14, the statutory eleven days before the election itself.

The fifteenth Parliament of Ontario, which thus passes out of existence, was elected on October 20, 1919, and has held four sessions. When it rose on May fifth last, 55 members were sitting on the government side of the chamber, 29 were among the Conservative benches, and 27 were with the Liberals.

He cautioned the gathering that a Liberal victory in South Oxford depended on the amount of labor given by each individual in-furthering the cause. Mr. Buchanan deplored the forsaking of the Liberal party by so many high principled persons who had turned to the U. F. O. Hundreds of Liberal stalwarts had broken away from the fold. The situation was nothing but a farce when it was realized that the ideals of Liberalism and the U. F. O. were almost identical. It seemed a shame, he thought, that Liberal and U. F. O. should vote against each other to their mutual loss, while the Conservatives gained the benefit.

"Drury has made prohibition an issue in the fight," said the candidate. "I don't know if the report is true, but certainly there have been veiled references to anti-prohibition legislation in case the farmers are again returned. I accept Mr. Drury's challenge, and want to let you know that I am opposed to any modification of the Ontario temperance act first, last and all time. The O. T. A. doubtless has many defects, but who shall say it is not infinitely preferable to the bar."

"Mr. Walker, the United Farmer member for South Oxford, has announced that he is to retire from public life. This being the case, I am ready to pledge to the U. F. O. that if they support the principles I have enunciated, I will do everything to create better conditions for the farmers of this riding, because it is to the farmers that we are all everlastingly indebted. They deserve consideration more than any other class in any community, and whether I am elected by their efforts or not, I shall at all times agitate for their just rights."

Officers Are Elected

Before the nomination the annual election of officers of the South Oxford Reform Association was held. G. Hulet was appointed president; Frank Adams of Mount Elgin, vice-president, and C. H. Denton of Tillsonburg, secretary. Those who were nominated but who refused to allow their names to go before the convention were: W. C. Brown, Tillsonburg; Dr. J. M. Rogers, Ingersoll; John McKee, Norwich; Alex. Rose, Ingersoll; M. B. Shell, East Oxford; Mrs. Verne Meeke, Ingersoll; J. R. Johnston, Springfield; and C. H. Denton, Tillsonburg.

A resolution was passed thanking Mr. Hay for his splendid address, and another expressing every confidence in the government headed by Premier King. All those nominated, delivered short speeches, in the course of which they pledged themselves to bend every effort toward the election of the Liberal candidate.

CONSERVATIVES POSTPONE RALLY IN S. WELLINGTON

Special to The Advertiser.

Guelph, May 10.—The Conservatives of South Wellington had arrangements completed for a big rally to take place in Guelph last night, at which Hon. Howard Ferguson was to have been the chief speaker, but it was decided earlier in the week to postpone the meeting until a later date. With this rally called off, the next town in political events in South Wellington will not be staged until Saturday of this week, when the U. F. O. convention takes place in the city. J. A. Cockburn, president of the South Wellington U. F. O., announced today that the chief speaker for that occasion will be J. J. Morrison.

WEST MIDDLESEX LIBERALS' RALLY POSTPONED WEEK

Convention To Wait In Order That Wellington Hay May Give Address.

GRAVEL MADE ISSUE

Disappointed in their efforts to secure this week the speakers they desired, the Liberals of West Middlesex have postponed their convention until the later part of next week.

The rally was supposed to have been held at Mount Brydges yesterday, but when it was discovered that Wellington Hay and other prominent men of the party would be busy, it was decided that the convention should wait. Further efforts will be made to secure the presence of Mr. Hay, and when arrangements have been completed the date of the meeting will be announced.

The postponement of the meeting is by no means a sign of apathy, for from reports received by Secretary W. D. Moss of Glencoe, Liberals everywhere in the riding are eagerly awaiting the convention. A few even turned up in the community hall in Mount Brydges yesterday in hopes that a meeting would be held after all.

The convention promises to be a stirring event, and for that reason officials of the party are anxious to secure an outstanding party man.

At the present time it is much too early to hazard a guess as to whom the standard-bearer might be. There are several likely men in the field, but even Mr. Moss would not venture to say who might be selected.

Promises Strong Showing

Mr. Moss is convinced, however, that the Liberals will make a very strong showing. Although he admits that the U. F. O. are strongly organized in many districts, he claims that there has been a strong tendency towards loosening up in others. He did not mention the Conservatives as a serious factor in the race.

Strange as it might seem, the fight in West Middlesex may evolve about the purchase of a small gravel pit by the provincial government from E. Currie, a farmer living a few miles south and west of Glencoe. Opponents of the government claim that J. G. Lethbridge, U.F.O. member for West Middlesex, is a relative of Mr. Currie, and that the government was induced to purchase the pit at a price far higher than it was actually worth.

Claim Pit Excellent

Hon. Mr. Briggs, minister of public works, and other members of the legislature, claim that the pit is an excellent one and that the government was not influenced in any way in its actions. They deny that Mr. Lethbridge had anything to do with swinging the deal.

Despite these denials made on the floor of the house, the pit will still remain a factor in the West Middlesex battle. This was proven yesterday when several U.F.O. sympathizers and several Liberals gathered in the Community Hall at Mount Brydges and argued long and heatedly over the rights and wrongs of the case.

The United Farmers of the riding will hold a convention at Mount Brydges on Wednesday of next week. Mr. Moss informed The Advertiser today that the Liberals would not hold their meeting until after that time.

CONSERVATIVES DEFER S. WELLINGTON RALLY

Party Awaits the Choosing of U. F. O. and Liberal Candidates.

Special to The Advertiser.

Guelph, Ont., May 9.—The Conservative rally for South Wellington, advertised for this evening and at which Howard Ferguson was to have been the principal speaker, has been postponed indefinitely. This decision was made at the last minute owing to the fact that the U. F. O. and Liberal candidates have not yet been chosen. Lincoln Goldie is the Conservative standard bearer.

The U. F. O. convention takes place next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at which J. J. Morrison will be the principal speaker. The Liberal convention is arranged for Wednesday, May 16, at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Ferguson will probably come at a later date when all the political hats are in the ring. There is some talk of the independent Labor party placing a candidate of its own in the field.

FOX DECLINES TO SEEK S. ESSEX NOMINATION

Mrs. Miles Oper, Leamington, Also Refuses To Enter Contest.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Windsor, May 10.—Milton C. Fox, M.L.A. for South Essex, stated definitely yesterday that he would not again be a candidate in South Kent.

The statement was made in an interview just before the opening of the U. F. O. convention in Kingsville today. Mr. Fox's name, with ten others, is before the convention, but he was very positive about the nomination. Among the others up for nomination is Mrs. Miles Oper, of Leamington, a leader in the U. F. W. O. organization, but Mrs. Oper stated some days ago that she would not consider accepting the nomination.

Children do not know when to stop, impelled by an almost boundless energy, they keep on with the job and they are interested in until exhaustion overtakes them, and they begin to cry. "Ma-ma, ma-ma, hoo-hoo-hoo. Ma-ma!" "What is it?" "Ma-ma, ma-a-a-a." "What do you want? What do you want?" "Ma-a-a-a." "Now you stop right away. Come in and have your face washed and get ready for supper. Not another whimper out of you now. I've got no time. Stop it, I tell you!" "That's just a tired child and a distracted mother who has made no allowance for this performance in her day's schedule. Now she is confronted by it at the busiest hour of the day, in the evening meal." If she provides against this evil hour by guarding the child's energy, things will be easier. He should be called from his play before he is worn out; sometimes fifteen minutes before the last minute he can stay, sometimes longer, depending on the child. Of course, he will protest loudly, and in all likelihood raise his voice in lamentation, but the tone will be one of lusty opposition and not the wail of fatigue. He will know what he wants and tell it to the world.

Few Hours of Sunshine On Spongy Ground and Gasoline Will Do the Rest, Officials Claim—Teams Arrived This Morning.

If there's sunshine around 10 o'clock in the morning and the parade starts from Victoria Park at 2:30 this will be the cue for the ball fans to hustle over the river this afternoon for the local Mint opener between Muskegon and London. If the weather conditions are still unfavorable there'll be no attempt made by the London ball club to stage the only game of professional baseball ever played on snowshoes, as a novelty.

The party who scribbled "Hope springs eternal in the human chest" must have had ball club owners in mind, for they look for everything, and every possibility, except some of them. The last few days have had it called to their attention that "snow" checks might be added to the tickets as well as "rain" provisions. Some swing to another extreme, and are so pessimistic that they'd have rain checks printed if they were operating clubs in a Sahara League.

The local magnates anxiously scanned the weather forecast last night when they flashed in over the wires and were rewarded with "fair and warm." After that sedative, they quieted down considerably, and now full preparations have been made for a display of burning gasoline today once the sun has done its share and melted the arctic covering. Tecumseh Park is like a sponge when it comes to lapping up water, and under any kind of weather conditions, the optimistic planning of the officials should be justified.

Meantime, the two ball teams having left Muskegon, the faraway fishing hamlet in the grip of a Lake Michigan blizzard, missed train connections at Battle Creek, and through a night ride peacefully dreamed that they were getting into a warmer climate where all was green fields and blooming flowers. Instead they found nothing but blooming snowdrifts and generally dreary and idle prospect.

Williams Hits Ninth St. Louis' Last-Minute Three-Run Rally Turns Loss Into Victory.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, May 9.—The Chicago Nationals defeated New York in a see-saw game here this afternoon, winning the second game of the series by 9 to 6. Grantham hit a home run.

Associated Press Despatch. Philadelphia, May 9.—A ninth inning rally that scored three runs gave St. Louis a 3 to 2 victory over Philadelphia today. "Cy" Williams hit a home run in the fourth, his ninth of the season.

Four American Golfers Survive Title Play At Deal

Hagen Regrets That All Are In Upper Half of Draw—Quimet Is Favored To Win Championship.

By WALTER HAGEN. Special Cable to The Advertiser. Deal, May 9.—Of the 22 now remaining in the British amateur championship only four are American. This is the remainder of the American representation that started to play Monday morning. Unfortunately all four are in the upper half of the draw. To make matters worse, Quimet and Neville must meet tomorrow. Both have been playing fine golf, but golfers here favor Quimet's chances. They also favor Quimet to win the championship. The weather is expected to turn, and tonight cold, raw rains are anticipated. I am much interested in Dr. Williams' chances. I talked to him today, and gathered that he is taking the championship very seriously. He has a long ball from the tee, an ideal drive for a seaside course. His style is very compact, and I don't think he will waste many shots by being off the line. Another American playing surprisingly fine golf is George Rowland, the tall Texan. He is due to meet Tolley tomorrow afternoon, providing both win their fourth round-matches. Dr. Williams meets Wethered, if both get by in the morning round. I am going to back Williams, because I think he is hitting shots better than Wethered, who appears uncertain from the tee. He has a tendency to cut too many shots. Freddy Wright went down to defeat today rather unexpectedly. He told me he thought the reason was that he had been playing in Bermuda grass for a year in California, and found conditions here difficult, as shots off Deal turf are very bad where the ball is not teed. To get a good shot here it must be slightly pinched. Wright failed to take advantage of many openings in his match with Humphreys. However, had he not taken three putts on the thirteenth, I think he had a good chance to pull out. This was the turning point of the match. Douglas Grant, who beat the British champion today, used to live in California, but lives in England now. I met him on my first trip to this country three years ago. Grant is in the lower half of the bracket. While an American citizen, I doubt whether we could claim a lot of credit for the victory, should he win the title.

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Time was when the two-man wrecking crew of Ty Cobb and Wahoo Sam Crawford was recognized as the most murderous outfit ever collected on a ball club. These two men unaided broke up ball games and ruined careers of pitchers with a ruthlessness and heartlessness that faded the darkest doing of the famous Bluebirds. The ball-mauling of these two sluggers hasn't been forgotten nor their fame dimmed by the passing days. But Cobb himself will admit that the damage he and Sam wrought in those old days was nothing to say about his present team's capable of doing. For he has just twelve men grouped around him that have and can hit over .300. Every one of them is of the free-swinging slugging type that the pitcher had seven men ahead of him with whom he figured he had some chance before the day killers came up again. Not so now. Cobb can send in an entire team of sluggers. Blue, Haney, Cobb, Manush, Heilmann, Veach, Fitzgerald, Poltergill, Rigney, Bassler, Woodall and Pratt are the regulars who are hitting or have hit .300. Cobb can add a pitcher to his lineup who can step along in the .300 class.

These wreckers and Cobb's pitchers led by the veteran George Dauss, are keeping the Tigers on top these days, and are beating out predictions made in the spring that Detroit would have something to say about the flag race in the American League this season. When the two men were paired together there was some breathing space for the pitcher. If Ty got on base and Sam got one he liked the game was ruined, but with the two out of the way the pitcher had seven men ahead of him with whom he figured he had some chance before the day killers came up again. Not so now. Cobb can send in an entire team of sluggers. Blue, Haney, Cobb, Manush, Heilmann, Veach, Fitzgerald, Poltergill, Rigney, Bassler, Woodall and Pratt are the regulars who are hitting or have hit .300. Cobb can add a pitcher to his lineup who can step along in the .300 class.

Thistles Lose In Toronto 5-4

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, May 9.—In a hard and close-checking game, Toronto Y. W. H. A., defeated the London Thistles in the first game of the home-and-home series, to the tune of 5 to 4, thereby carrying a one-point lead when they journey to London next Monday night. The local girls are confident of winning the next game, thereby winning the inter-city championship. The game was witnessed by one of the largest crowds that has ever viewed a basketball game at the Metropolitan House. Percy Miller efficiently handled the game. The teams lined up as follows: London Thistles—R. Currie, L. Hazelgrove, F. Talbot, B. Graves, E. Stevens. Toronto Y. M. H. A.—B. Rosenfeld, A. Kaplan, Betty Herman, G. Goldman, R. Dunkleman, L. Perlman, G. Brenner. Timekeeper—J. Stern. The return game will be played here Monday.

CHIVALROUS VICTOR IN CHESTER CUP RACE

Mrs. S. Whitburn's Colt Gains Trophy For the Second Time.

Associated Press Despatch. London, May 9.—For the second consecutive year, Mrs. S. Whitburn's Chivalrous, a 5-year-old colt by Amadis out of Courtes, won the Chester Cup, the feature race on today's program at Chester, and one of the important long-distance races run over the flat. Chivalrous, who started at 100 to 14 against, finished a length ahead of Fred Hardy's aged Happy Man, who was strongly supported at 5 to 1 against at post time. Belman, a 4-year-old bay gelding by Son-in-Law out of Amabel, owned by Frank Curzon, and quoted at 100 to 6 against, finished third, beaten by a length and a half. Seventeen started.

The Chester Cup is a handicap for 3-year-olds and upward, run over a length and a half. Seventeen started. The stakes of 25 sovereigns is added 2,550 sovereigns, the time. Ty wanted him to get out of

Dauss' Changed Delivery Puzzles American Batters

Cobb's Watchful Eye Found Vets' Style Gave Him Away—Now George Wins Five Straight.

By JOHN B. FOSTER. Copyright. New York, May 9.—Dauss of Detroit has to date won five games and lost none. It looks today as if he would be king pin of the Tigers twirling staff this year, if not of the American League. The Detroit pitcher has every chance in the world to beat the record made by Joe Bush last season, if the fates are at all kindly disposed. His teammates may blow some games for him, but when a man gets a runaway start of five victories it generally results in his team trying the harder to keep from doing that very thing.

In connection with the fine work of Dauss, there is an interesting story. Down in Augusta this spring on the weather beaten wooden bench of the players, one of the officials of the Tiger Club sat in the sunshine looking over the first practice of the team. Ty was trying to make George over. "Ty is trying to make George over," he said. When his companion looked at him a little uncertainly, not getting the meaning, this official continued with a laugh: "Oh, I was talking about Dauss." Dauss was pitching and he had a motion that made him too easy for the batters. He has plenty on the ball, but he fed it into the plate all of the time. Ty wanted him to get out of

Down the Line In All Sports

The considerate Cubans introduced an amendment to the rules promulgated by the late Marquis of Queensberry. The venerable Jack Johnson was fighting Farmer Lodge. In the fourth round the aged Ethiopian fouled the farmer. According to the rules, that gave the bout to the farmer, but not in Cuba.

They took half an hour rest, during which time physicians decided that there was no doubt about the foul. The farmer was asked if he wanted to fight any more, and he replied, "Not this evening." Consequently the Cuban management issued rain checks, and the fight will be resumed Sunday.

This idea of the Cubans might be expanded to the improvement of the boxing game in general. For instance, when a fighter is knocked out, instead of precipitately awarding the victory to the man knocking him out, the referee should bend over him and inquire, "Do you wish to fight any more?" Nine times out of ten the man on the floor would reply, "Certainly, but not this evening." Whereupon they could agree upon a suitable date for the resumption of the bout.

It will be recalled that James J. Corbett, after receiving that solar plexus blow at Carson City, was on his feet a few seconds after the count of ten had to resume the bout which had been so rudely and unexpectedly interrupted. If Corbett had been given an opportunity to resume the bout on the following evening he might still be heavyweight champion of the world.

The Cubans certainly have introduced an innovation which those who are solicitous for the welfare of the game, such as the Duke of Muldoon, should take under consideration. The idea, of course, came from the Salvation Army slogan, "A man may be down, but he is never out."

There was a free-for-all fight during the game between the Giants and the Phillies at Mr. Baker's handbox park in the City of Brotherly Love and Scrapper. It seems that the bout was started by Casey Stengel, who has started many things for the Giants since McGraw picked him out of the ivory dump. Players from the Giants and the Phillies joined in and made it a general engagement, which required considerable effort on the part of the Philadelphia constabulary to quiet.

This is very reprehensible, of course. Baseball players should not indulge in the cultivation of cauliflower ears or other horticultural pursuits foreign to the national pastime. But consider this. It was a languid game, and there were only about 1,800 customers in the lot. Yet Mr. Stengel was enough interested in the game to resort to his fists.

Remember the crooked White Sox. They never quarreled. They were the most orderly bunch of ball players on the field. This may be remembered when they are meeting out the punishment to Mr. Stengel for swinging a few wild ones at the Philadelphians. Mr. Stengel was interested enough in his work to fight about it—even at his time of life. No ball game is just a ball game to him. Each one is a life and death struggle. This attitude is rare in these days when the ball players have joined the ranks of businessmen and refuse to get excited over defeats.

PETROLEA ARRANGES MAY 24 CELEBRATION

Open Baseball League With Parade and Double-Header.

Special to The Advertiser. Petrolea, May 9.—A monstrous celebration will be held here May 24. The initial opening of the Petrolea baseball league will be held this day. A double-header will be staged in the afternoon when the Enarcon will meet the Maple Leafs and the Shamrocks will clash with the Crescents. Already the managers have their teams out to practice, and a fine lot of new material is being found. This league will help put Petrolea on the baseball map, as it will unearth many splendid players who would not be brought to light if it was not for the league. Baseball will not be the only event of the day. A rally of scouts from Strathroy, Sarnia, Forest and surrounding districts will all assemble in Petrolea, and a great day is anticipated. The town has a great troupe of scouts, and are increasing in number rapidly. The feature of the day will be track events, scout drilling and parades.

More Details Asked On Arena

Those behind the movement to erect an artificial ice arena for London met last evening and went carefully over the proposition again. It was decided to go more thoroughly into the matter before launching the project, which business-like procedure might have been expected from the men whose names are identified with the proposition. It is believed that the men connected with the venture will make their appeal to the public first of all on an entirely business basis. The city's great need of such a structure, not only as a matter of civic prestige and pride, but as well from an athletic standpoint, will probably be left to the judgment of the citizens and potential stockholders.

WILL ASK BOARD TO PERMIT FOUR ROOM EXTENSION

Advisory Vocational Committee Finds Accommodation For 150 Pupils Needed.

WILL COST $65,000

Committee Considering Institution of Printing Classes Decides To Report Progress.

The advisory vocational committee of the board of education at a meeting last night in the Technical school unanimously decided to recommend to the board of education the erection of an extension to the west wing of the Technical school to include four schoolrooms and be capable of holding about 150 pupils. The committee came to a unanimous decision in this case when it was discovered that this would be the cheapest way in which the question of finding extra accommodation for London's children could be solved, as the government in this case would bear half the cost. There is an additional advantage in the scheme in that it will greatly relieve the pressure in the high schools.

Mr. Beal, in his report on the matter, stated that in order to have as definite an estimate as possible of the number of students who will be attending the Technical school in September next, a questionnaire was sent to the parents of the present pupils asking them to signify whether or not their children would be in attendance next term. The replies showed that with no increase in the number of pupils the school would have 719 students next year, an increase of 104 from the year previous. This does not take into account the part-time adolescent classes, which in September, 1922, were 18 per cent over 1921.

Need New Classes.
It is found necessary to institute one new class in the commercial and two in the technical department. To hold these pupils there is only one room at the disposal of the school, the plumbing room, and the committee last night was impressed with the urgent need for this proposed extension.

The only other alternative is to reconstruct the old Brown house at the rear of the Technical school, for which $2,420 was provided in the estimates for temporary accommodation. It was felt that any reconstruction of this kind would prove much more costly than the erection of the extension, especially as it is really the carrying-out of the original plan of the architect and will not mean any new boiler or heating capacity, the present boilers in the school being capable of heating the new extension quite easily. The cost of this extension is expected to be between $60,000 and $65,000, the immediate expense for the coming year to be provided by the board to cover interest and sinking fund, $1,464.

Authorize New Batteries.
The average attendance in April was: technical day classes, 232; commercial day classes, 241, and adolescent day classes, 24.
The committee agreed to a number of recommendations on the part of Principal Beal, including the purchase of new batteries for the electric clocks in the school. The principal explained that the old batteries had been in use for six years and had given satisfactory service. The new batteries will cost $48.
The school will be closed on June 14, this year, in conformity with the departmental examinations and the collegiate institutes.

Following up a suggestion that was made at the last board meeting, the principal reported that the question of starting a printing class in the school had been referred to the committee. There was some discussion on the merits of such a class. It was the opinion of most of the members that such a class would be too expensive to maintain, considering the benefits to be derived from its use. Printing is, however, one of the largest trades in the city, and the committee decided to report progress on this matter to the board at its meeting this afternoon.

The committee also passed a number of minor recommendations of the principal, the appointing of new teachers in place of those who have resigned and the list of accounts as passed by the sub-committee.

RADIAL BONDHOLDERS OBJECT TO TRANSFER

Do Not Want Toronto Suburban Lines Turned Over To City.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, May 10.—The bondholders of the Toronto Suburban Company's lines have made objection against the transfer of part of the lines of that company to the City of Toronto, Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways, stated in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, in reply to a question regarding the sale of the lines to the city (Conservative, North Toronto).
The objection of the bondholders is founded on the claim that the whole of the lines of the suburban company, both inside and outside of the franchise limits, had to be taken by the city upon the expiration of the franchise. This objection, however, was not carried in by the Toronto Suburban Railway Company, and said the minister, was not maintainable.
The bondholders were subject to the franchise terms to the same extent as the railway company, and while objection might be made by the bondholder regarding the sale of lines outside the franchise limits, within the franchise limits the confirmation of the sale to the city depended only upon the consideration to be paid. It was agreed by the railway company that the bondholders had a right to be consulted in regard to the amount to be paid and this question is now under negotiation.

ECZEMA
HANDS WERE RAW, WOULD CRACK AND BLEED

Eczeema or Salt Rheum, as it is commonly called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when exposed to heat, are almost unbearable and relief is gladly welcomed.
The pre-eminent success which

has met with in permanently removing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.
Mrs. M. R. Willard, Dudwell Jet, Que., writes: "For about three years I had eczema, in a very bad form, on my hands. They were all raw and would crack and bleed so that I could not do my housework. I tried everything I could think of without any results. At last I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and when I had it about all taken I could see it was helping me; by the time I had taken five bottles my hands were all well again, and I have not been bothered since. I cannot praise Burdock Blood Bitters enough."
