EARTH CRACKS

Five Large Crevices in Different Parts of Butte Montana.

Butte, Mont., June 3.—The strange sliding movement of the city of Butte, which has been noticeable at intervals for many years, has again manifested itself by five large cracks in the earth at different sections of the city. The largest crevice occurs on West Galena street, where a crack of twelve inches wide and of considerable length and depth has appeared. Three of the openings occur on the west side of the town and two on the east side. There is no caving, but a distinct parting of the earth and the granite walls can easily be seen in them. The gas and water companies have much trouble from the strange movement, which frequently breaks their underground pipes. City Engineer Rickonach says the engineering department of the city encounters the same trouble, as elevations and bench marks in certain parts of the city are constantly changing. This is particularly true of the section west of Main St. and north of Broadway, where the marks have been known to shift to the extent of a foot in a very short time. What is causing the strange phenomenon is unknown but its continuance is beginning to cause some alarm among the citizens of Butte.

McKAY, OF FORMOSA PASSED AWAY

Famous Canadian Missionary Called Home While in the Far East.

Toronto, June 2.—"Dr. McKay is dead." This message, cabled from Tam-Sui, Formosa, reached the Presbyterian Foreign Mission office here to-day. It marks the close of perhaps the greatest missionary life since that of Livingston, with the possible exception of Paton, of the New Hebrides. McKay, of Formosa, was born in Zorra, Oxford county, in 1844, and after his ordination to the ministry decided to take up mission work in the island of Formosa, which was inhabited by Chinese, without much civilization and much greater ferocity than their brethren of the mainland. McKay's life-work in Formosa was splendidly fruitful. He established between 60 and 70 churches, together with schools and a college for the higher education of women. He married a Formosan lady in 1873, adopted the native costume, and identified himself thoroughly with the people. When Formosa was transferred to Japan as part of the spoils of war, he took an important part in soothing the feelings of the people and making the transfer less bloody than otherwise it would have been. His last visit to Canada was in 1894, and he was then elected Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly as a token of appreciation of his great work. He leaves a son and two daughters, who are engaged in the work of civilization of their native land.

"We were very much pleased with the design you sent. It was beautiful and appropriate." The Victoria Ave. Green Houses receive such words of commendation every day. Telephone No. 181.

CHICAGO MANIAC DECLARES HE IS THE PROPHET ELIJAH

Three Thousand People Cheered the Raving Man—Says he is the Living Physical and Spiritual Embodiment of the Biblical Seer.

Chicago, June 2.—"I am Elijah the Prophet, who appeared first as Elijah himself, second as John the Baptist and who now comes in me, the restorer of all things. Elijah was a prophet, John was a preacher, but I combine in myself the attributes of prophet, priest and ruler over men. Gaze on me then; I say it fearlessly. Make the most of it, you wretches in ecclesiastical garb. I am he that is the living physical and spiritual embodiment of Elijah and my coming to earth a third time has been prophesied by Malachi, by Peter himself, by his son Jesus, by Peter and three thousand years ago by Moses. All who believe me to be in very truth all this will stand up." And over 3,000 people rose to their feet and greeted the declaration with cheers and handclapping. John Alexander Dowd, true to his promises, made this statement from the platform of the Auditorium to-night in the presence of 5,000 people. It was the culmination of frenzied speech in which he denounced every body and everything not in Zion, cursed the pope and the Roman Catholic church, spat literally at Masonry, the newspapers and the bankers of Chicago and raged and tore up and down the stage like a madman. "Understand well what I mean," he continued. "I will take no counsel in my methods of government. I have come to proclaim theocracy, pure and simple, the government of God, by God and for God, and I will never rest until all other forms of government have been driven from the earth. You talk about your democracy. Bah! I tell you democracy has been tried in the balance and has failed. The government of the people, by the people and for the people is twaddle. I stand loyal to the flag and countenance no revolution, but I demand here and now that the name of God must be placed foremost in the constitution of the United States and the supreme authority of God over all things must be recognized. Listen to the first message of the prophet, 'Ye must pay your tithes and offerings into the storehouse of God. Accursed be ye if ye would seek to rob His house of its fullness by not obeying this, His will, sent through Elijah.'"

BOTHA NOW URGING KRUGER TO EARLY SUE FOR PEACE

Suspicion has Been Excited by the Lack of Details from the Viakfontein Fight, but no Anxiety is Felt—Other war Happenings.

London, June 2.—Suspicion is again excited by the lack of details respecting the battle fought at Viakfontein. It is not probable that the War Office is deliberately suppressing dispatches from Gen. Kitchener, and that a serious reverse has occurred. Gen. Kitchener has told the story of the battle briefly, and is not disposed to magnify the importance of anything connected with the campaign, but cannot withhold the list of casualties. The absence of Mr. Brodriek may explain the reticence of the officials in Pall Mall. The stronghold of red tape and the details of the battle may not be accessible to the few straggling war correspondents remaining in the field. There is no anxiety among military men, since the Boers are known to have been finally repulsed, but there are strong suspicions that the British were again off their guard and that the heavy losses were caused by their being attacked unexpectedly. Delaroy's command has been allowed free range of a large district for a long period, while Gen. Kitchener has considered it more important to clear other portions of the Transvaal. Gen. Smith-Dorrien, who has been welcomed home at Berkhamsstead, reports that while the war may be ended by September, the bulk of the army will be needed in South Africa for twelve months. This is a gloomy forecast, and it comes from one of the most experienced generals in the field, who has not made a single mistake and has shown excellent judgment throughout the campaign.

DISCHARGED TO DUTY.
The War Office announces that Lieutenant Blackmore, formerly of Strathcona Horse has been discharged to duty in South Africa.

TO SUE FOR PEACE.

London, June 1.—The Sun to-day publishes a sensational story to the effect that General Botha has arrived at Standerton, and is communicating by telegraph with Kruger, through the Netherlands government, appealing to Mr. Kruger to sue for peace. Lord Kitchener is said to have given Botha permission to adopt this course. The Sun further hears that 10,000 Zulus have gone on the warpath, owing to Boer raids in Zululand.

MYSTERIOUS MISSION.

Standerton, Transvaal Colony, June 1.—General Tobias Smit and the Wet, secretary to Gen. Louis Botha, arrived here this morning. Their mission is not explained.

VIKAFONTAIN FIGHT.

New York, June 2.—General Kitchener's account of the battle of Viakfontein serves to light up public interest once more in the Boer war, says the Tribune's London correspondent. Two facts stand out. First, the determined nature of the Boer assault upon an entrenched position fifty miles from Johannesburg, and, secondly, the heavy losses suffered by both sides. This has been the first real engagement which has been fought for many months, and it is decisive proof that the Boers, when led by a cool and wary general like Delaroy, can offer strenuous resistance still to British arms. The details of this battle may indicate that General Dixon's force was surprised, and that the casualty list was run up to 174 in this way. But the Boers, in any event, were assailants, and were not repulsed without severe losses. The Boers are also reported to have fought with exceptional gallantry while in pursuit of General Plumer's convoy.

THE NATURAL EXPLANATION.

of the fighting is that one mine after another is opening in the Rand, and the refugees are returning to Johannesburg in small groups, and the Boers have been making desperate efforts to frighten them and to prevent resumption of industry in the gold belt. Viakfontein was probably designed to be a loud warning to the refugees that the war has not ended, and that Johannesburg was still an unsafe place of residence.

CAUSES MUCH ANXIETY.

London, June 1.—The refugees of the government regarding the battle of Viakfontein, and other military events of some importance which have recently occurred at widely separated points in South Africa, has led to considerable anxiety. This is in no way allayed by the answer of the War Office to-day to a question regarding the accuracy or otherwise of the recent Boer report that the British were severely defeated near Pretoria. May 2, losing 46 killed, 80 wounded, 600 prisoners and six guns. The reply which the war office vouchsafed, "We have no official information," has aroused some misgivings.

THE LAST BOER DITCH.

A British officer who is on furlough in London, after fighting from Colenso to Lydenburg, has been predicting that the closing skirmishes of the campaign would occur on the line of the Durban-Johannesburg railway, in the vicinity of Standerton and Heidelberg. Both of these affairs were within the theatre of war defined by this officer months ago as the last Boer ditch.

BRITISH BRAVERY.

Cape Town, June 1.—Details have reached here of the splendid gallantry of two men of the Tasmanian contingent, who were attacked by 22 Boers at Gannahook, near Cradock. The men were cut off from the main body while under a heavy cross-fire, and the Boers located the fugitives, who took refuge behind tree stumps nine inches in diameter. In the ensuing duel the Tasmanians made splendid practice, horses and men falling. The Boers attacked them three times. The Tasmanians shot their own horses rather than let them be captured, and covered behind the carcasses. One of them, Trooper Warburton, was shot through the head, and his companion, Brownell, surrendered after firing the last shot in his magazine. When he came out one coward deliberately fired, striking him in the shoulder. The Boers stripped both men of everything except their trousers, and the Tasmanians finally got back to camp, where Warburton died.

STILL IN THE FIELD.

London, June 1.—A war office report gives the present strength of the forces in South Africa, on May 1, as follows:—

	Officers and men.
Regulars.....	138,002
Colonials.....	58,821
Imperial Yeomanry.....	23,104
Volunteers.....	9,385
Militia.....	20,104

249,416
The regulars, non-commissioned officers and men, comprise 14,000 cavalry, 11,500 artillery, 95,700 infantry and mounted infantry, and 13,610 "others." The total number of officers and men killed or died of wounds, disease, or by accident up to the end of April is 14,978; those wounded number 17,209; and 76,582 have left South Africa, of whom 22,081 are "not invalids," 47,739 invalids, 4,533 colonials.

THE CONSERVATIVE CHIEFTAIN.

A per-ferid style of oratory is not one of the qualifications essential to the successful leadership of a great party, points out the Guelph Herald. Salisbury is not an orator; Chamberlain is never eloquent; McKim's speeches are dull and prosaic compared to the polished diction of William Jennings Bryan.

Mr. R. L. Borden is not eloquent in the sense in which that word is generally understood. He speaks with deliberation and clearness and his delivery is pleasing, but he never indulges in oratorical flights. Like that other great Nova Scotian, the late Sir John Thompson, Mr. Borden appeals to the heart rather than the head. He has his matter well in hand; his facts are marshalled with the skill of the able counsel; he never uses an unnecessary word and he never fails to securely clinch an argument.

There is such a thing as a fatal fluency of speech. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has in the enthusiasm of the moment often said things which he and his party afterwards would have given a great deal to recall. Sir Wilfrid's eloquence has been a weakness as well as a strength to him and if to Mr. Borden comes not the glory of the maker of a masterly oration he will also escape the responsibility of an unguarded statement.

Possessed of a personality that commands the affection and esteem of his followers, able in action, careful and deliberate in utterance, a shrewd parliamentarian and a high minded honorable gentleman, the new leader of the Conservative party possesses qualifications that make for his enduring popularity and success, and the success of his party, far more than a honeyed throat or a golden tongue.

A TRUE ANARCHIST.

Bresci, the Anarchist who slaughtered King Humbert of Italy, died strictly in accordance with Anarchistic methods. We are gravely informed by cable that before springing from the edge of his couch with the fatal cord encircling his neck he solemnly wrote the word "Vengeance" on the wall of his cell with his life's blood.

This is as it should be. What full fledged Anarchist would think of doing otherwise? It is as much a part of their opera bouffe traditions as the secret meeting and the password. Every duly accredited Anarchist who dies in prison is supposed to do this, just as the blackface comedian of vaudeville is required by the restrictions of his trade to stumble violently over a pin as he enters upon the stage. Had Bresci neglected this essential feature of his demise he would have been regarded as one who failed at a crucial moment.

Just what particular significance the word "Vengeance" scrawled upon the wall of an Anarchist's cell really possesses no one not of the clan may say, but that this formula must be gone through is known to every reader of dime novels. It is a part of the Anarchistic ritual, in fact. To die in one's cell without writing "Vengeance" upon the wall of the cell is to neglect the most important feature of Anarchy. The Anarchist who passes to his death without having attended to this detail may expect nothing from his fellows. His biography will be found lacking the one thing to make it thrillingly complete, and the reader will scorn it as being an unprofitable bit of literature.

Bresci died a true member of the faith, one of the accepted. He failed in no particular. He was as careful of the final detail as he was of the marksmanship when he fired the fatal shot at King Humbert, and his family will have the satisfaction of knowing that his fellow Anarchists regard him highly. Bresci is a fresh flower upon the bosom of Anarchy.

THE THANK RANK.

"Charlie Churner," in the Toronto Star, enters a protest against the ranks of thanks, who, he says, are relics of the dark ages, and should be killed with as little cruelty as possible. We have a few of them in Chatham, as elsewhere, and this fanciful sketch of his methods of operations will be found true to life.

"The lecturer whom I heard last night spoke for one hour and got $25 for doing it, and was pleased to get the money, and the audience were pleased to hear him."

"It was nine-thirty when he sat down, and when the fiend with a motion for a vote of thanks had ceased sizzling, he had wasted 20 minutes, the man who delighted to second the motion took 15 minutes more, and there were two who might also add, and one who forgot to state previously, and the "What is Your pleasure, brethren?" chairman. The audience were all asleep when the lecturer rose to thank them for their thanks. Not

Dyspepsia

Is difficult digestion, due to a weakened condition of the stomach and its inability to properly churn the food; or to unhealthy condition of the gastric juice, too much or too little acid, too much or too little pepsin.

Hood's Sarsaparilla relieves all the distressing symptoms of dyspepsia because it promotes the muscular action of the stomach and intestines, aids nature in the manufacture of her own digestive secretions, which are far better than any artificial pepsin, unlocks the bowels, stimulates the kidneys and tones up their mucous membranes.

So prompt is its effect in many cases that it seems to have almost a magic touch.

Begin to take it NOW.

to be outdoors, a man rose in cold blood and thanked the lecturer for thanking them for thanking him, and not to appear unmindful of the $25 the lecturer thanked them for thanking him for thanking them for their thanks. This was too much, and as I left the chairman was thanking the lecturer for thanking them for thanking him for thanking them for their thanks."

O, Dry up!

Good-bye, May—Au reservoir!

That'll do, now. Plenty, thanks.

Has this blooming country been going into liquidation?

We are full of pity for those poor Manitoba people who need rain so badly.

The Transvaal relief leaguers in the United States are still doing business. The Boer families get none of the money—don't need it—but the American philanthropists must live.

The Grits say that the Tories are not satisfied with Leader Borden. The Tories say they are—exceedingly well satisfied. And in well-informed circles it is suspected that the Tories know more about it than the Grits.

Liberal organs are busy belittling R. Borden, the Conservative leader, in connection with his recent visit to Toronto, says the Brockville Times. The Liberal editors had better devote all their time to excusing the misdeeds of their own leaders. Mr. Borden suits the Conservatives very well.

The large number of accidents, some trifling, some very serious, that occur every Twenty-Fourth through the agency of fire-crackers, should have an influence in decreasing the popularity of those dangerous little playthings, properly comments the Tilbury News. This "snatching" the "fearful joy" that these little explosives afford, is too expensive when paid for by the loss of eyes and fingers and sometimes a hand, as happened in Toronto last Friday.

A preacher has made up his mind to accept as his allowance anything that is left of the contributions of his congregation from Sunday to Sunday, after the regular expenses of the church are deducted. He says he wants to go back to the apostolic practices. After a few months of this sort of thing, the esteemed preacher may have occasion to realize that he is not living in an apostolic age.

GROSS CARELESSNESS.

Ottawa Citizen.
Old Probs must have gone off on a toot and left the lawn sprinkler running.

WORSE THAN RARE.

Ottawa Citizen.
"What so rare as a day in June" inquires the poet. We would suggest a day in May. Some of them are positively raw.

LET US BE THANKFUL.

Toronto Telegram.
Poets to the contrary notwithstanding, this fourth month of May, 1901, can fill a tank with rain water much faster than it can fill anybody's heart with joy.

THE SHORT AND THE LONG OF IT.

Goderich Signal.
Shortening the session at Ottawa and lengthening the indemnity are enough to bring a wide smile to the face of the average parliamentarian.

MERELY A TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR.

Goderich Signal.
Kimber is the name of the Ottawa functionary known as Black Rod. To watch his genuflexions at the closing ceremonies one would think that his name should be Limber.

WILL CUT HIM OUT.

Tilbury News.
If burglars pass the news around, as tramps are said to do, about likely houses and people to call upon, the chances are that George Gibb, the old-time athlete, of Blenheim, will henceforth be struck off the calling list.

SENATE VACANCIES.

Winnipeg Free Press.
Sir John Macdonald recommended 27 senators during his premiership and Sir Wilfrid has already recommended 26. From 1879 to 1891, a period of twelve years, there were 23 vacancies, while between 1896 and 1901, a period of five years, there have been 26 vacancies.

ENCOURAGING.

Toronto Star.
The Scotch pioneers in Ontario used to cheer themselves up with this bit of rhyme—
"A windy March and a drappy May Makes full barns of corn and hay."
We offer it for what it is worth, in view of the present climatic conditions. We certainly have had "a drappy May."

MRS. HOODLESS ENDORSED.

Kingston Whig.
Mrs. Hoodless, of Hamilton, has been lecturing in Toronto on domestic science. She believes in the women remaining at home and doing its work, and leaving the business and commercial world to the men. There are a good many who will say "amen" to that.

HOW'S THIS FOR HIGH?

Goderich Signal.
Fishing with a pickaxe is a little out of the common order, but it seems that big game can be caught in that way. At least Geo. Morrow found it so the other day. He was hauling stone from the river last Saturday morning and while he was working with his pick in the river, near the bridge, he caught sight of a sturgeon of immense proportions. He went after it and stuck the pick into its head, but it got away from him and went some distance down stream, carrying the pick with it and leaving a trail of blood behind. He followed it and at last landed it and brought it up town. It weighed 92 pounds and measured 5 feet 7 inches in length.

TENDERS WANTED.

Bulk and separate sealed tenders will be received up to noon of Monday, June 3rd, 1901, for the erection of a Separate School in the city of Chatham, Ont. Tenders are asked for stone work, brick work, steam heating, slating and carpenter work. All tenders to be addressed to James King, Esq., and left at the store of King, Cunningham & Drew, King street, city.

BLOOD POISON

If you ever contracted any blood disease you are never safe unless the virus of poison has been eradicated from the system. At times you see alarming symptoms, but live in hopes no serious results will follow. Have you any of the following symptoms? Sore Throat, Ulcers on the Tongue or in the Mouth, Hair Falling Out, Aching Pains, Itchiness of the Skin, Sores or Blisters on the Body, Eyes Red and Smart, Dyspeptic Stomach, Sexual Weakness—indications of the second stage. Don't trust to luck. Don't ruin your system with the old fogey treatment—mercury and potash—which only suppresses the symptoms for a time, only to break out again when happy in domestic life. Don't let quacks experiment on you. Our New Method Treatment is guaranteed to cure you. Our guarantees are backed by bank bonds, that the disease will never return. Thousands of patients have been already cured by our New Method Treatment for over twenty years. No experiment, no risk—act a "catch-up," but a positive cure. The worst cases of Eczema, Skin Diseases, Nervous Debility, Sexual Weakness, Ulcers, Blood Poison, Stricture, Varicose Veins, Kidney and Bladder Diseases, and all diseases peculiar to men and women.

Raleigh Council.

The above council met as Court of Revision on the assessment rolls of 1901 on May 27.

President, N. H. Shepley, in the chair, James Irving, James Clayton, P. J. Doyle and A. J. Dolson.

The clerk submitted the following appeals: C. P. R. Railway and W. H. Williams over acreage; A. Myers assessed for part of side road lot 7, con. 4, John Orr too high on lots 6, 8 and 9, con. 3.

On motion the following changes were made, viz: A. Myers reduced one-half acre; C. P. R. Railway reduced 1.15 acres; J. Orr reduced $300, on lot 6, con. 3; R. Slade and S. J. Harvey, dogs struck off. A. Weese assessed for one-quarter acre in Merila at $200.

The Court then adjourned to June 24th and council resumed, Accounts passed. Registrar of Kent $2.00, Banner-News $2.80, clerk postage $8.00, assessor on salary $40.00, postage $1.45, James Clayton to pay assistant brush drain $4.00, P. J. Doyle, com. fees repair of bridge over Horne drain $1. H. H. Shepley service for council $12, A. Robinson one day re C. P. R. Railway $2, James Irving two days $4, P. Doyle two days $4, James Clayton com. fees repairing at gravel pit $2, Wilson, Kerr and Pike legal services $42.70, H. Parson, F. V. fees $1.

The trustees of E. S. S. No. 4, wrote asking the Council for $1800, to erect a new school to be paid for in three years.

Jas. Clayton gave notice that he would introduce a by-law at next meeting to provide the amount needed.

R. D. Payne presented a petition signed by Edward A. Dillon and seventy-six others to open up a new road between the limits of the City of Chatham and the Fairbanks property, from the Indian Creek road to Kendall street to thus avoid the Town line in times of high water.

A petition was received to allow William Pratt to commute his statute labor for part of lot 6 concession 10.

Also one from Jas. Marriot and others to repair and extend the Graham drain to the Blind line in concession 13.

W. G. McGeorge submitted his reports for the proposed repairs of the Shadd and Brush drains which were read and considered.

James Clayton submitted report that he had some repairs done at the gravel pit at a cost of $15 and had a

Looks more attractive than housework for a woman, but it is also even more exhausting. The work is often done under high pressure, and the brightness of the eyes and the flushed cheeks of the attentive clerk indicate nervousness rather than health. If this is true under most favorable conditions, what shall be said of those who suffer from womanly diseases, and who endure headache, backache, and other pains day after day?

No sick woman should neglect the means of cure for womanly diseases offered in Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates the periods, dries enfeebled drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"A heart overflowing with gratitude, as well as a sense of duty, urges me to write to you and tell you of my wonderful recovery," says Miss Corinne C. Hook, Orangeburg, Orangeburg Co., South Carolina. "By the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I am entirely a new being compared with the poor miserable sufferer who wrote you four months ago. I remark to my parents almost every day that it seems almost an impossibility for medicine to do a person so much good. During the whole summer I could scarcely keep up to walk about the house; yesterday I walked four miles and felt better from the exercise. I now weigh 125 pounds. Mine was a complicated case of female disease in its worst form."

bridge repaired over the four rod drain at a cost of $14—Report adopted.

The Reeve reported that he had been served with a writ for $1000 damages by William Abbott in reference to the accident on the 14th concession road.

P. J. Doyle submitted report that he had a bridge over the Horne drain at the side road repaired at a cost of $13.50.

The Reeve submitted report in reference to the gravel pit at Cedar Springs and recommended buying the lot in the rear and fencing the pit to prevent private individuals from hauling away the gravel.

In the matter of the account of Dr. Oliver the commissioner of division No. 1 reported that William McCarthy was unable to pay for the medical attendance but he would not recommend the township paying the bill.

Adopted.

Doyle and Irving that the engineer report on the Shadd and Brush drain be adopted and the clerk prepare by-laws for the same.

Clayton—Dolson—That the clerk notify the town of Blenheim that their assessment on the Gregory drain of $34.91 has not been paid over as yet and have them forward the amount at their earliest convenience.

Irving—Doyle—That the petition of James Marriot and others to repair and extend the Graham drain be entertained and referred to W. G. McGeorge to examine and report on, at his earliest convenience.

Irving—Doyle—That the petition of J. M. Garrel and others to allow William Pratt to commute his statute labor for part lot 6, concession 10, be entertained and referred to the commissioner of division No. 3.—Carried.

Clayton—Doyle—That the petition of R. D. Payne and others, to open up the new road near Chatham be entertained and referred to A. J. Dolson to interview the interested parties and report at next meeting.

Irving—Clayton—That John Houston be paid $4.30 for one sheep killed and sold $1.40 for one sheep killed and one wounded by dogs as per certificate of inspector.

The by-law to repair the Shadd and Brush drains were provisionally adopted.

A by-law was passed authorizing the Reeve to proceed under the D. and W. G. Act to procure an outlet for the water on the centre road near the lake.

Council adjourned.

FRENCH CANADIANS.

Quaint Easter Customs of Early Settlers Preserved.

WITH POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE

Why Two Dignitaries of Old Canada Failed to Get an Invitation to the Table to an Easter Sunday Dinner a Long Time Ago—L'Abbe Casgrain's Description of an Early Colonial Dinner.

Many of the quaint, interesting customs and traditions of Easter, which the early settlers in New France brought over from Brittany and Normandy, are still preserved to this day by their descendants in French Canada.

From the earliest days of the colony the feast of Easter was celebrated with great pomp and circumstance by both clergy and laity. The Jesuits always invited the dignitaries of church and state to the religious feasts after mass. When Argenson was Governor of Canada and he and Bishop Laval clashed as to the question of precedence, the Jesuits found themselves in a dilemma as to who should occupy the highest seat at the table on Easter Sunday—the Governor or the Bishop. The question decided solution, so the fathers invited neither of them.

According to popular tradition, on Easter morning, at an early hour, the sun may be seen to perform three somersaults in honor of the great Christian event, then commemorated; and on Ascension Day three persons free from mortal sin might behold three suns at sunrise.

Easter day is a religious festival of marked importance. After Lent, with its many abjurations, the advent of Easter was hailed with joy. It was the custom for the people to remain up until midnight of Holy Saturday to break the fast with cheer. The Lenten season in Canada was observed with the rigorous fast of the early Christians. No meat was permitted during Holy Week and many other austerities were enjoined for the purpose of mortifying the flesh.

L'Abbe Casgrain, a distinguished Aquilian, describes the Easter dinner in the early days of the colony as follows:

"Imagine," says the abbe, "30 or 40 good eaters of those times at table. There was little ceremony, but everything was offered in the heartiest manner, and each took the place he could find. Chairs were not in common use; on each side of the table were blocks of wood, on which boards were placed, and trunks here and there were used as seats. The guests not thus accommodated having to stand. On the table were leaden or common delft dishes, and if there were enough for all it was an indication of wealth and cordiality. The few forks were reserved for the women, and each provided his own knife."

"The clothing of the men consisted of grey homespun trousers of country cloth, and a pair of best moccasins, the bonnets, blues, generally worn out of doors, were laid aside for the nonce. Their toilet was completed by a wig, if the latter were omitted by any one, he was not entitled to partake of pie, a favorite dish of the habitants. The costumes of the women consisted of blue skirt with white stripes, and a flowered India shawl and white cap for gala days. The preparations for this festival were something formidable, if one may judge from the following, which recalls the feast of Gargantua:

"In the first place, there was prepared a stew of ragout of pork, beef and mutton, in a 30 or 40-gallon boiler; minced pies, pork chops prepared in a variety of ways, quarters of veal and mutton, fowl and game. Beside these there were pastries of different kinds, cooked in large porridge gill, and cakes now known as doughnuts. All these were simultaneously placed on the table, and each helped himself as he pleased."

"Those who had no plate took a piece of pastry from a plate and used it as a dish. While the eatables were being partaken of, the host went round the table and poured out liquor to each in a cup or pewter goblet. The utmost gaiety and cordiality prevailed. Hunting and fishing exploits were recounted, and the feast ended with songs, the whole company joining in the chorus."

Our Empire.

It may surprise most persons to know that the British possessions in North America and the West Indies are larger than the territory of the United States in America, even including Porto Rico and Alaska. King Edward's possessions are nearly 100,000 square miles larger than those of the United States, and, taking the West Indies and Newfoundland, more than 200,000 square miles larger.

No man ever before reigned over an empire so great as King Edward's. The empire to which Victoria succeeded in 1837 covered one-sixth of the land surface of the globe; the empire to which King Edward has succeeded covers nearly one-fourth. It is 53 times as big as France, 52 times as big as Germany, three and a half times as big as the United States, without Alaska and the island possessions, and three times as big as Continental Europe. —New York Press.

"Solid Beer."

One of the recent inventions tried on the British soldiers in South Africa is called "solid beer." It is a jelly made from malt and hops, from which beer can be made anywhere and fermented. It is said to make excellent beer and to work equally well in hot or cold climates, the process being very simple. The military authorities have reported favorably upon it.

COUNTY COUNCIL

Kent's Parliament Opens its Summer Session to-day.

Warden Addresses the Council—Many Communications Presented.

The June session of the County Council opened this afternoon. There were present Warden VonGutten, William C. Sifton, George Johns, S. P. Sturgis, H. J. French, J. N. McCoy, Shepherd Somers, John Reycraft, John Vester, Francis Rankin, R. J. Morrison, James Ross, Thomas Robinson, County Clerk Fleming, and Page French.

Warden VonGutten addressed the Council. He said, "I would like to congratulate you on the excellent weather to mark the opening day of the June session. I would also like to commend our excellent clerk for his uniform kindness and courtesy. He has saved us all many a slip and directed us out of the ruts."

I was asked to extend the time of Ribble, a lad who had been sent to the Victoria Industrial School at Mimico, as he was not a fit and proper person to be discharged. There are two lads from Dresden now at this school, for whom the county is paying the cost.

I regret to recall the death of a county official in the person of the Rev. Dr. McColl, who was a loved and respected throughout the county. It will also be necessary to appoint an examiner on the Entrance Board. Chatham is separate from Kent County municipally, which includes school purposes. The city has the benefit of the Model School. The act, however, says it shall be in the county.

It will also be necessary to appoint a successor to D. R. Farquharson. I have also to congratulate the Road & Bridge Committee on erection of the Kent Bridge approaches. The price is $3,499, which is $287 less than the engineer's estimate, and $200 less than the original contract price.

As per instructions, I examined Bellwell bridge, together with Commissioners Sifton, I met with representatives from Elgin and Middlesex and the repairing of the bridge was left in the hands of Commissioner Johns. I am pleased to say that the work has been well done and the other municipalities interested have furnished checks. I also visited the fine section of the county situated in the vicinity of the Sydenham river. At Bear Creek, an old fashioned draw bridge, Tupperville a bridge is badly needed.

As per the auditor's report, which no doubt you have all examined, one section interests you, Warden especially, and it remains with you whether my action is to be endorsed or not, namely, my refusal to allow some of the county officers to draw money from the county treasury.

This has been the custom for years back, but I failed to find any authority for it. Believing that the Warden has to sign all orders, I have refused to allow county officers to draw cash.

I would like to have your decision regarding the payment of interest in all overdue rates from local municipalities. You have all received estimates of the amount of money required this year, which does not include any grants that may be passed this session.

No doubt if you are too liberal a larger rate than usual will have to be struck. What is before me is simply uncontrollable, though I am pleased to say that we are greatly lessening our debt, and several of the municipalities are doing the same. The Wallaceburg bridge debentures expire this year at $2,780.33, and the Jeanette's Creek bridge debentures expire next year.

I don't favor a December session but that is for you to say. The Warden closed his address with a request for all business to be brought forward promptly so as not to delay business till the last of the week.

The following communications were presented and referred—
From the Master of Agriculture for Dominion department acknowledgment of receipt of petition relative to live stock trade with Great Britain.

From Provincial department acknowledgment of receipt of petition relative to government assistance to enable general hospitals to provide for the treatment of pauper inmates.

From Provincial department acknowledgment of petition relative to the suspension of further construction of large drain except under certain conditions.

From Geo. Stephens, M. P., acknowledging petition for amendment to Railway Act.

From R. Ferguson, M. P., P. P., acknowledging receipt of resolution of Council.

From city Public School Board relative to the appointment of Robt. Park as city inspector.

From R. Park, J. P. S., relative to his appointment to the city inspectorship.

From Ridgetown Police Magistrate relative to commitment of Harry Leach to the Victoria Industrial School at Mimico.

From D. R. Farquharson resigning the position of Court reporter.

cut his duties in excellent style. The Rev. R. McCosh was the officiating clergyman, and took for his text the first verse of the 9th Chap. of II. Samuel: "And David said, Is there yet any that is left of the house of Saul, that I may show him kindness for Jonathan's sake?" and brought out the three main points of the Order, to aid the sick, comfort the mourner, and help the distressed. The sermon was listened to with rapt attention throughout, and was voted by the brethren an able effort.

Messrs. Coleman, flutist, and Joe Reeves, harpist, rendered able assistance to the service.

The choir, under the able direction of E. J. Forsyth, rendered excellent and very appropriate music for the occasion. Miss Oliver and Miss L. Richards taking solo parts.

The parade would have been much larger had the weather been propitious, as a large delegation from both Northwood and Dover would have been here. The parade up King street last evening received many words of praise for their excellent marching.

Yesterday's parade of Court Hope was the 23rd Anniversary.

VERY PECULIAR COURT CASE

Judge Houston Met One Full of Legal Complications To-day.

A peculiar case was tried before Judge Houston this morning under the statute and impounded by-hav. A charge was laid against Leonard Wright by Chas. W. Raynor for infraction of the pound by-law of the city of Chatham, because Wright was impounding Raynor's horse with the North Chatham pound-keeper, and in putting in a claim for $1.00 damages done by the horse to his garden stuff, did not sign an agreement binding himself to pay any damages that might be sustained if the distress turned out illegal or if the terms of damage were not established.

The counsel for the complainant contended that the provision to execute this agreement is obligatory and because it wasn't given, was an infraction of the by-law, rendering the defendant guilty to a fine. The counsel for the defendant contended that the provision in the by-law respecting the giving of the agreement is not obligatory and is one for the protection of the pound-keeper, who in this case, was satisfied with the verbal undertaking of defendant.

And the pound-keeper waived the giving of the verbal agreement accordingly and consequently there was no infraction within the meaning of the penal clause. He further contended that the by-law left it absolutely within the discretion of the magistrate whether any penalty or fine should be imposed even if there was a technical breach or infraction in not giving the agreement.

Judge Houston reserved judgment for a week. J. B. O'Flynn appeared for the plaintiff and O. L. Lewis for the defense.

The by-law was passed in 1892, and this is the first time a case like this has ever been brought up since the passing of the impounding statute in 1858.

RELICS FROM THE GUNBOAT.
The gunboat has now been lifted to the top of the water and hundreds of people yesterday visited the raised wreck. The boat evidently had a list fore and aft. She was sloop-rigged, with one mast, set well forward. The refuse was cleared out from the hold on Saturday and one musket only half burned was recovered. In the bottom of the boat was also found a number of bullets, musket balls, grape shot and cannon balls.

The boat had been burned to the water's edge and the charred planks and ribs still give evidence of the huge conflagration she made.

The His. Soc. had the wreck photographed to-day. It was been suggested that the wood be utilized in making chessmen, pen-holders, paperweights, canes, etc., and that these articles, useful and otherwise, be sold to the Americans who annually visit our city.

Miss Myrtle Tillson spent Sunday with her parents and returned to Ridgetown this morning.

DAY OF DIVERSION.

How The People of Calgary Commemorated the Birthday of Our Late Queen.

The morning of the 24th of May broke dull and cloudy. The bald old Rockies, clothed with everlasting snow, reared their giant forms against a dark and forbidding background, looking like so many ghostly forms through the murky light, with the heavy vapors enveloping their lofty summits.

Yet, notwithstanding the unwholesome condition of the roads, or the inclemency of the weather, a fairly large crowd of demonstrators was gathered in the vicinity of the fire hall to witness the starting of the procession which was to leave that place at ten o'clock, sharp. As the scheduled time drew near, the long array which consisted of five brass bands, the Calgary fire brigade, about fifty of the Strathcona Horse, in khaki, several industrial floats and numerous other contingents, began to form in line. The procession took a circuitous route through the business part of the city, returning to the fire hall and there dispersing.

In the afternoon the trend of pedestrians and vehicles alike, was unanimously in the direction of the fair ground, which lies just outside the southern limits of the city; and in order to raise funds, for the prizes, which were numerous and valuable, a small fee was collected at the gate entering the grounds. The clouds broke away and the sun shone out as he can only shine in "Sunny Alberta," by the time the sports of the afternoon, which apart from the usual caledonian games consisted of bicycle races, Indian horse races, lacrosse and football games and a band competition, were to begin. As five bands were in competition for the handsome prize of $100, the balmy air wafting down from the Rockies, was laden with music the greater part of the afternoon.

In the Indian horse race some of the spirit of bygone days is still to be detected. From the time that the aborigine of the prairie leaves the starting point until he returns, he never ceases thrashing his poor, unfortunate beast unless he is far in the lead.

The grounds were well supplied by way of refreshment stands; an impromptu bar being erected approximately to the grand stand, from which was dealt out with a lavish hand the poisonous fermentations of an abused staple of commerce, which has the never failing habit of making men a trifle disorderly, red-coated individuals, each with a small circular spot above the right ear, crowned with the obsolete "pill box" of prehistoric origin, were on hand to dump him into a wagon and drive off to the barracks as a hawk ascends with his prey. On the morrow, of course, such offenders would appear before the leader of the brass band and from that functionary receive an untimely doom. Hence the money-making schemes of this country: The man who sold the liquor would realize handsomely for his pains, the mounted police would be rewarded for their chivalry, and the crowd would come in for its share last, but not least. Where three gained, only one lost.

In the evening the fire brigade gave an exhibition, and of course it goes without saying both men and horses acquired themselves in a fashion worthy of a Metropolis in any of the older provinces. A press, such as might be seen on Yonge street, thronged Stephen street and Centre street until one almost imagined himself back in the Queen City trying to elbow his way through the pedestrians in front of Eaton's store.

As the evening drew to a close and the shades of night were settling over the scene, the Salvation Army "rounded up" on the corner of Stephen avenue and Centre street. To hear these people of God singing and praying right in the closing scenes of the day's dissipation was like pouring oil on troubled waters or a balm to a weary conscience.

The Salvation Army sought their homes, and the town was left to the urinals, for the curfew did not ring to-night, who ran about shooting off fire crackers and making a noise in general, and to the ordinary crowd who hang around the hotels and the street corners after the close of a general day of demonstration. But the town has not altogether lost its western virginity inasmuch as one of the scenes of former years was displayed on the night of the Twenty Fourth.

Less than a hundred years ago it was not an uncommon occurrence for two or three cow punchers, fresh from the big ranges, forty or fifty miles away, with rifles slung over their shoulders and six shooters hanging from their belts, to ride into a bar-room and demand the drinks. About eleven o'clock one of the Strathcona, one of the brave heroes who left friends and home and went to South Africa to defend the flag and Empire, became a little too full of spirits and tried the old game. He was not a cow puncher, but undoubtedly, like Nero who had heard of the burning of Troy and wished to witness a typical conflagration, set the city of Rome on fire, thought he could perform the same feat, so suiting the action to the thought he entered the bar-room of the Grand Central mounted on a Cayuse and called for beer, from thence he went to the Royal where some good Samaritan took pity on the poor soul and took him home. A few more rockets cleft the midnight air, a few more bombs exploded on the street, and quiet spread their wings over the scene once more.

Grand Trunk Railway time table changed Saturday, June 2nd. Chatham passengers going east for Toronto and points east of that will now leave at 10:32 instead of 9:02 as formerly, and the Eastern Flyer which formerly left here at 3:30 will for the future leave at 5:30, arriving in Toronto at 10 o'clock and Montreal early the following morning. This latter is the popular train which has revolutionized travel in Canada since being put on by the popular Grand Trunk Railway.

A very exciting game of baseball was played on the Athletic grounds on Friday afternoon at 4:30, between the Beaver nine and the Hurrahs. The batteries were Anquetil and Harrington, and McGarry and Chrysler. The score was 5 to 15 in favor of the Hurrahs. McGarry is a neat little pitcher and he deserves much credit for his work on Friday. The batting of Walter Peck and Gordon Harwood is also worthy of special mention. They are valuable members of the team. The Hurrahs have suits of black shirts with the letter "H" on them, and white knickerbockers.

DEATH ROLL OF LABOR

13th Annual Report of the Ontario Factory Inspectors.

394 ACCIDENTS, 22 BEING FATAL

Carelessness a Favorite Explanation, But High Pressure Demanding Speed Is Surmised to Be a Much More Potent Cause of Accidents in Factories—Contrast Between Saving Time and Saving Life.

The thirteenth annual report of the Ontario factory inspectors, which covers the year 1900, shows that in spite of a general desire to comply with the law as to the safety of employees there was a record of 394 accidents, of which 22 were fatal. Carelessness is a favorite explanation, but if one looks for the cause of the alleged carelessness it will generally be found in the high pressure to create a demand for speed in modern industry. The workman is admonished by his foreman or employer to take sufficient time to insure safety, to make everything perfectly boiling and to avoid accidents. At the same time, he is admonished by the very conditions under which he works to sacrifice all things, safety included, to speed; for he knows that sloth is the unpardonable sin, that if his day's work does not show satisfactory results he will be forced into the ranks of the unemployed without further inquiry. Modern machinery, with its irresistible strength and unimaginable speed is responsible for a long record of maiming and death. One victim was drawn against a mill saw by the carriage that conveys the logs, and died from his injuries. Another was caught by the casting on the moving bed of a metal planer, and was killed by being drawn under the cutting tool. Both these accidents occurred with slowly moving machinery. Uncovered tanks boiling water were responsible for two deaths, and another was due to scalding through disconnecting a live steam pipe. Three deaths resulted from unprotected gearing, but in one case the injury was comparatively slight, the fatal termination being due to blood-poisoning.

The danger of shafting has been emphasized by a record of four victims. One was oiling it while in motion, another was putting on a belt, a third was crawling under a shaft in a forbidden place, and the fourth was caught by a sheepskin that fell accidentally on a shaft and tightened about his hand as it was wound up. Two men were killed by coming accidentally into contact with circular saws, and one death resulted from a wound inflicted by a piece of lumber thrown from a saw in motion. Two other saw mill hands met with fatal accidents, one having been crushed by a falling log and the other killed by a blow from the lever of a saw carriage. A bursting grindstone caused one fatal accident, and the record of the power hoist includes one death coming under the cognizance of factory legislation. One accidental death is recorded as due to the falling of a lumber pile. A boiler explosion resulted in one fatality, and one death was caused by the explosion of a secret compound used in making fireworks. This is the record of deaths which come within the purview of the factory act, and of the long array of lesser accidents many were of a serious nature, resulting in permanent injury. As a general rule reasonable care has been exercised to prevent needless danger, but human ingenuity not directed toward devising safeguards. A fortune awaits the man who will devise some means of cutting a few minutes off the time required to do the work, but he who devises a scheme for securing the safety of the worker must be content with the satisfaction of knowing that he has enlarged the scope of factory legislation.

The Bull and the Ribbon.
An extraordinary incident was reported on Tuesday at the premises of a draper in the New cross-road. It appears that whilst a drove of cattle were passing the shop a bull evidently took some fancy to some ribbon, and endeavored to gratify his personal vanity. Finding the doorway too small for his admittance, the animal opened a way for himself by smashing up three large plate-glass windows, 12 feet by 12 feet, and entering the establishment. Then ensued a most exciting scene. Women screamed, two ladies in the shop fainted, and men shouted. The bull in the meantime was the center of attraction, being actually on show in the big window. Eventually he was enticed out, badly cut, and was led away.—Lloyd's Weekly.

Fisheries of Canada.
The total number of fur seals taken by Canadian sealers during the year 1900 was 35,523. The lobster plant alone is estimated to be worth $1,334,180. It comprises 858 canneries, dispersed on the seaboard of the maritime provinces. The sealing fleet last year numbered 37 vessels, an increase of 11 over the previous year, and representing an aggregate of 2,641 tons' register. The salmon-preserving industry of British Columbia, comprising 69 canneries and representing capital of $1,380,000, gives employment to 18,977 hands. No less than 79,863 men were occupied in 1900 in exploiting the waters of Canada, using 5,506,760 fish-hooks of nets and other fishing gear, representing a capital of $10,000,000. The total catch of fish in Canada for the year 1899, as reported by the fisheries department, amounted to $21,891,706, being an increase of $2,250,000 over the yield of the previous year.

NEW FORT AT HALIFAX

War Office Plans to Make the Harbor Impregnable—A New Barracks With a Fine Gymnasium.

Extensive improvements in the fortifications of Halifax are planned by the Imperial authorities, although the officers of the garrison are, as usual, extremely reticent. It transpires that the War Department will construct at the very mouth of Halifax harbor one of the strongest forts in the world. The new fort will exceed in proportions York Redoubt, which is second only to the one at Gibraltar. The new fortress will be armed with 12-inch disappearing, quick-firing guns of the latest type. It is stated that it will be located at or near Sambro, at the point where all vessels entering Halifax harbor must take their bearings. This fortress will be of the utmost strategical value, for no hostile fleet could pass it without being disabled. Sergeant-Major Westwood, Royal Engineers, an expert-fortress constructor, who arrived recently from England, was ordered by the Imperial authorities to superintend the construction of the work. The Imperial authorities have decided to erect new barracks and to construct other important works in Halifax this summer. Plans were sent to Halifax contractors. The plans prepared by the military authorities are for a brick barracks for married soldiers, quarters for officers of the Royal Engineers and Royal Artillery, quarters for ward master and a gymnasium. The gymnasium building will be the military apartments. It will cover a large area of ground and will be constructed on the citadel slope. It will contain swimming baths, shower baths, dressing room, etc.

ELECTRIC RAILWAYS IN CANADA

Statement of Their Number, Mileage and Other Information.

From returns received from the 35 electric railways of Canada, Mr. George Johnson, the Dominion statistician, makes up the following statement: "At the end of December, 1900, the number of miles of electric railways in Canada increased to 681 miles, or 49 miles over the number in 1899."

"The 35 electric railways in Canada carried 1,181,299,862 passengers in 1900, an increase of 14,097,205. This is equal to 35 carrying every man, woman and child in the country 21 times."

"The car mileage run was 30,924,355 miles, an increase of 1,274,508 miles over 1899."

"The mileage run and the passengers carried show that for each mile run the electric carried 3.8 passengers, against 3.5 in 1899."

"The amount of paid-up capital invested in electric railways Dec. 31, 1900, was $20,633,000, and the bonded debt was $12,619,422."

"The number of cars in active service in 1900 was 1,642, an increase of 107 over the number in 1899."

"The employees numbered 4,493, showing an increase of 164 over 1899."

"The total receipts for the year were $5,422,540, and the expenses $3,268,001."

"The steam railways carried 17,122,193 passengers in 1900. So that total passengers transported by rail was 135,252,055. Between them, the steam and electric railways carried the whole population of Canada 25 times in the year, and the proportion was over 87 by electric and a little under 13 by steam in every 100 persons carried."

"Since 1897 the number of passengers carried by the electric railways increased from 83,811,000 to 1,181,299,862, an increase of 34,319,000, which is equal to 41 per cent., while those carried by steam using railways increased from 13,742,454 to 17,122,193, an increase of 24 per cent."

"The expenses form about 67.50 per cent. of the gross earnings of the steam-using railways and about 60.27 per cent. of the gross earnings of the electric railways."

Emigration to Canada.
The area of the Dominion, extending as it does from the Atlantic to the Pacific, is as large as Europe, but the population is no greater than that of London, says Lloyd's Weekly. What a prospect this opens up to those who are possessed of the necessary energy and capital to take advantage of its great resources in agriculture, minerals, fisheries, forests, and manufactures! It offers free grants of land to settlers in some provinces (Manitoba, the Northwest Territories, and parts of Ontario). Crown grants in others (New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario, and British Columbia), and improved farms may be obtained everywhere at reasonable prices. What Canada wants is more people and more capital, and those who are anxious to obtain information about our leading colony—its progress in recent years, and the advantages it offers to settlers of all classes—cannot do better than consult the High Commissioner for Canada, whose offices are at 17 Victoria street, London, S.W.

Newspaper Business in Dawson City.
The newspaper business must be a good thing in Dawson City. The rates for The Dawson City Daily News are 25 cents a copy, or $4 a month. The subscription rate for the town is $48 a year. It is an eight-page daily for five months of the year and four pages for the remainder. The circulation is a little under 900 per day. A 16-page weekly paper is published at 25 cents a copy for the town. It is distributed up the creeks by dogs and carriers and outside the town the price of the single paper is 50 cents to $1.50, according to the distance the carrier has to travel to the subscriber.

In the Dawson News Office there is a Mergenthaler machine, which, with all equipment, cost $4,700, but by the time it was landed in Dawson the cost laid down there was $8,289. It had been shipped too late for navigation and had to be carried 400 miles over the ice. The horse feed alone cost $39 a day and it took 27 days to make the trip.

A PAPER FOR THE MOHAWKS

The New Weekly Will Be Printed in Their Own Tongue.

N AND K THE EDITOR'S TROUBLE

An Ottawa Civil Servant Will Be the Publisher—He Is Charles A. Cooke, a Full-Blooded Indian in the Employ of the Indian Department—Are An Inquisitive People.

The Mohawks of Canada and New York State are to have a newspaper. It will be edited by Charles A. Cooke, a full-blooded Indian employed in the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa.

Some time ago Cooke began publishing the Onkwonwe, a semi-monthly magazine, printed in the Mohawk language, and it was so successful that he has decided to turn it into a newspaper, the first of its kind in Canada and the only one in America. There are other Indian publications not newspapers, but the majority of them are issued by missionary societies and they are edited by white men. The Cherokee Advocate, published in Indian Territory, is the only Indian newspaper in North America.

The Onkwonwe will publish some telegraphic news from different parts of the world, market news and reports of prices of furs, skins, fish, etc., and will have an inquiry department, which will be one of its leading features. Editor Cooke is the son of a Mohawk chief and was educated at Government schools and afterwards took a course in a Canadian college. When he had been graduated he got a clerkship in the Indian Department. He is a dark-skinned young man, with pronounced Indian features. He is a good singer and a member of the choir of the leading Methodist Church in Ottawa. Two other Mohawk Indians, Miss Maracle and Joseph Desile, are employed in the same room with Mr. Cooke. All are well educated.

The Editor's Difficulty.
Few of the Indians can read English, but about 10,000 are able to read anything printed in the Mohawk dialect. The Mohawk alphabet consists of twelve letters, and n and k are used much oftener than any of the others. An ordinary eight-page issue of the Onkwonwe contains, about one-quarter n's and k's. For this reason the editor has had some difficulty in getting his copy set up, as the printer soon runs out of n's and k's. English characters are used. Here is a specimen paragraph from the Onkwonwe:

Konawke Activawonsha.
Iakonewata iaiakosoke enska netens teken "minit" jinkarivars ononwaretakierke tionekonties enska me jiaiaiaakera tenwatisaren senah jienwakatasteke jienwatisaren.

When the Onkwonwe came out first many of the old chiefs objected to it. "The Great Spirit, Gitchie Manitou the Mighty, says good Indians never read newspapers," said they to the younger braves, but the paper became popular. Indians like to learn about the doings of the white men. When Editor Cooke started the paper he published incidents about the Indians, and some letters were sent to him from his fellow-braves, saying, "Stop publishing news about the Indians; tell us about Laurier and others."

They did not object to the name Onkwonwe, which means in the Mohawk tongue, "the only human being," or "the real human being," in contradistinction to others who are looked upon as being less worthy of the name of man, or as lacking in qualities of manhood. "Onkwonwe" means a human being, and would be applied to a palafree or to an Indian of another tribe. The addition of "onwe" is Mohawk for "the real thing."

An Inquisitive People.
The Mohawks are inquisitive. Among the questions Editor Cooke has had to answer are the following: "Why does the Government try to control Indians?" "What is electricity?" "Who was Papineau, and what did he do?" "What is an Indian?" To the last question Mr. Cooke answered: "An Indian is an Indian who has native blood in his veins, and who is on the reserved lands under the protection of the Government."

The Onkwonwe recently published the following story about an Indian living near Eganville, not many miles from Ottawa:

"Indian John, a celebrated Mohawk guide, who is now 80 years old, has been sleeping in his coffin for many months. John, although still a vigorous man, knows that he must soon leave for the happy hunting grounds, so some time ago he made himself a coffin and began sleeping in it."

"Since then he has used no other bed, and he has told his family that if death comes to him while he is lying in his coffin, they are to put on the lid and bury him. Until the call comes John will continue to hunt in the land of the Mississaugas."

"Sixty years ago he entered the land, and began to hunt near Eganville, which was then a wilderness. The Mississaugas would have no interlopers in their territory, and one day eight of them set out after Mohawk John. They came upon him when he was sleeping, and made him a prisoner."

"Placing him in a canoe, the Mississaugas started for the Mohawk country. On the way John became so troublesome that they had to put him on shore before they had gone far. Grabbing a tomahawk, John smashed the prow of the birch bark canoe, and defied them to come ashore and fight him. Although the others had rifles, they were afraid, and put out into the stream. From that day this John has hunted in the Mississaugas country."

AN IMPORTANT REQUISITE.

The Right Way to Make an Introduction.

An important requisite in good breeding is to know how to acknowledge an introduction and to know how and when to make one.

A hostess always rises and extends her hand with some cordial expression of welcome to the guest who is presented. A man is introduced to a woman in this manner: "Mrs. White, may I present Mr. Reed?" The lady's name is always mentioned first, and the man presented to the woman not vice-versa. When one person is introduced to another it is not necessary for the person seated to rise. An inclination of the head, repeating the name of the one presented, as "Mrs. Blight," "Mr. Reverence is quite sufficient."

When a very old lady or an old gentleman is introduced it is more courteous to rise and acknowledge the introduction. When a hostess is introduced to a guest, she should rise and extend her hand.

Reducing two guests it is well for her to make some remark which will serve to give each one some slight peg on which to hang their conversation.

Miss Green, may I present my brother's friend, Mr. Duer? He has just returned from the Philippines. I am sure you have heard us speak of him. This averts the embarrassment of sounding the athletic young man on Wagner or boring the intellectual young man with the subject of golf.

A married woman should introduce her husband in this manner: "Let me present my husband, Mrs. Mackey. I believe he has not met you—Mrs. Mackey, John." Women are introduced by this form: "Mrs. Pell, you know Mrs. Livingston?" It is customary to be the custom to shake hands when introduced, though when one wishes to seem very cordial one may do so with perfect propriety. OR-hand introductions are very bad form. A man should, if possible, always ask permission of his woman friend before introducing any other man.

The Matrimonial Trunk.

Have you a "matrimonial trunk"? A collection of buds which burst through the petals of seclusion into the garden of society at the beginning of the present season is responsible for starting a fashion which will naturally have many followers.

It came about in this way, according to the explanation of one of the young women. The marriage of a friend had led to a revelation in the number and variety of "pretty things" gathered by the bride in anticipation of the change in her state. The young woman who wasn't going to be married—at least not just then—was all admiration. When she had told her friends about the lovely things that Mabel had she wondered, somewhat doubtfully, if she would have as nice things at her own wedding.

Her own speculation gave her the idea. "Why of course I can have just as fine," she said suddenly, "and so can all you girls. I'll tell you what we'll do. We'll start to fill a matrimonial trunk."

"What's a matrimonial trunk?" asked the others in chorus.

"That's an invention of the spur of the moment," returned the proposer. "This is what I suggest:—Let each girl set aside from among her trunks one particular trunk which is to contain only those things which are to be part of the trousseau."

"What trousseau?" again demanded the girls. "None of us is engaged."

"Of course not," answered the inventor. "But we will be in the course of time. Such things have been known to happen, you know. Well, when we get married we will not be without finery. If you don't want to use a trunk for the purpose, why, you might take a box from a dry goods store, line it with rose-colored silk and cover it to match the tint of your room."

"Into this box or trunk put now and then a bit of finery. I know what I shall start mine with—that beautiful sandal wood fan I got for my birthday. Then a fine lace handkerchief, once in a while, a pair of slippers, or something like that."

"Yes," put in another of the buds. "And I shall put away that elderdown dressing-sacque mamma gave me the other day. I haven't worn it yet, so it will do nicely."

All the others discovered they had something suitable to the purpose, and so the fat of the matrimonial trunk was fairly started. Since the decision was made the girls have been adding to the collections, and they are now in an advanced stage of perfection. Every three months it is the intention of the young women to hold a private exhibition, at which each will be given an opportunity to view the progress made by the others.

The matrimonial trunk is now a thoroughly established institution in certain quarters. The girls, when they get a new piece of finery, tell each other they have something more for the "m. t.," as they have dubbed the receptacle.

"Cleanliness is next to godliness." Dirt and depravity go hand in hand. This is just as true of the inside of the body as the outside. Constipation clogs the body and clouds the mind. Constipation means that corruption is breeding in the body, poisoning the blood with its foul emanations, befogging the brain with its tainted exhalations. Constipation is the beginning of more diseases than, perhaps, any other single disorder.

The consequences of constipation are legion. Headache, pain in the side, shortness of breath, undue fullness after eating, coldness of the extremities, nervousness, indecision, lassitude, dizziness, sallowness, flatulency, and a score of other ailments are directly caused by constipation. Cure constipation and you cure its consequences. The quickest cure of the evil is obtained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are small in size but wonderful in result. They cure permanently. They contain no injurious ingredients. The use of them does not begot the "pill habit." Ask your druggist for them.

BACHELOR'S REFLECTIONS.

All's fair in love and the military business.

There is no man who knows how he is going to act when he falls in love, and no woman who doesn't.

When a woman goes away from home the letters she writes her husband are half to make him jealous of her and half to make him think she is jealous of him.

Women are awfully foolish. I was telling four or five of them last night about a dress I saw that was white, with a little dash of lavender, and they all laughed. I wonder why they laughed.

Political opinion is like a mustache; it never looks well on a girl's lip unless there is a man hitched to it.

If the average woman could have her choice of the way she would like to be "won," she would probably choose the man that would knock her down with a club and then sit on her.

A woman can always find some flaw in a man's story—unless it isn't true.

For the first three weeks after it gets born a baby looks 'most as red and uncomfortable as its father.

It takes a smart woman to make a man out of a fool, but any fool woman can make a fool out of a man.

No girl over 16 can be expected to be satisfied with the idea of kissing that she gets out of Sunday school books.

A girl's way of flattering a new man is to insinuate that she has heard the other women talking a lot about him.

It is much more likely that women are angels than it is that angels are women.

Marriage is a great thing for a man; it makes him ashamed to talk about his small troubles.

If the men got up a "Fathers' Club" and talked nothing but baby-talk, all the women would believe they did nothing but drink cocktails.

A woman can get engaged and have the wedding all talked over in less time than she can decide with another woman what is the best kind of canary seed.

It is easier for a woman to find a reason than it is for her to find a halp, and harder for a man to find any reason in it than it is for him to find her pocket.

HEART TO THE ALTAR OF ART

As a Child Marion Loomis Was Capricious, Impulsive and Lovable.

A Few Sidelines on a Roman's Life in a Real Life is Like to Become a Cause Celebre.

Yesterday's Detroit papers contained a lengthy account of the career of Mrs. Marion Loomis, whom her husband, Arthur Gaullier, is suing for divorce.

Mrs. Gaullier, nee Marion Loomis, was favorably known in this city and liked by all who knew her. She came to the Ursuline Academy when a child of six and lived here till 1894. Marion is still well remembered in this city, for her friendship for Brouse Smith, who is now known as Dean Percival on the English Operatic stage.

Marion and Brouse were great friends and, whenever opportunity offered, were always together. The girl was full of pranks and in her wild enthusiasm almost uncontrollable. One cold winter's night she and a girl friend stole out of the boarding school and went for a cutter ride with two Maple City young men. The night was bitterly cold and the horses were on their metal. No sooner had the party started than the horses got beyond control of their driver and ran for three miles down the river at a mad gallop. All the way Marion was laughing and joking and enjoying the terrible speed of the horses immensely, while her companions sat pallid with fear, expecting every minute to be pitched out. The horses were at last gotten under control and the spirits of all revived under the influence of Marion's brilliancy. All the Maple Cityites who knew her speak highly of her beauty and her voice. They say she was a wonderful singer and had remarkable vocal talents.

Sister Claire, of the Ursuline Convent, is a sister of Arthur Gaullier, and shortly after her wedding Mrs. Gaullier called at the convent and recited and sang for the pupils. That day was a bright one in the lives of the pupils and they still recall with pleasure the delightful day in March when Marion Loomis returned and entertained the pupils who had taken her place.

The Detroit Tribune, which prints two excellent photos of the beautiful girl, says:

Marion Gaullier has returned to a long, hard grind of life in Chicago, a disappointed woman, leaving behind her the record of having won and lost, husband, home and future in four short months. Meanwhile Arthur Gaullier, the Detroit real estate man whom she wedded, is quietly pursuing his suit for annulment of the marriage before the ecclesiastical court, and when that has been gained a civil suit for divorce will follow.

Marion Loomis began life with advantages and opportunities, with the faculty of commanding love and devotion which is the most splendid dower that nature can bestow, or else a curse. Why she has failed is a question for the philosopher, or for the psychologist. Was it selfishness, vanity, or, more probably, a love for art—so great as to crush and obliterate every other passion or craving—that has made her husband's happiness and her own?

As a child, Marion was brilliant and precocious, lively, reckless, gay, and fearless.

Her parents were Southerners. Her mother came from an aristocratic old Virginia family, and her father, a captain in the Confederate army, died on the battlefield, his last words being a prayer for "Baby Marion," who was then but a few months old. Afterward her mother married Mr. Loomis, and they went to live in Muncie, Ind., Marion having no knowledge of the brave captain-father who died in battle.

When she was but six years old, Marion's mother sent her to the Ursuline convent at Chatham, Ont., where she remained until young ladyhood. The big-eyed child astonished and delighted the gentle nuns. Her questions were endless and her remarks worldly and wise to a degree that caused everyone to marvel.

Her school days passed merrily. Every prank or scheme for mischief that was ever hatched in a child's head was hatched in Marion's brain. Among a hundred girls, gathered from all over the United States and Canada, as far east as Long Island, and as far west as the Pacific coast, she was the bright, particular star of life and wit and genius.

Her lessons suffered somewhat. The dry rudiments of grammar, philosophy, mathematics and the "ologies" which enter into a school girl's curriculum did not attract her. Neither did the ladylike arts of needlework and embroidery, which so largely figure in convent training.

But music, art, literature, poetry, came to her naturally and without effort. Not that she would have made effort to gain them if they had not. She treated learning in the leisurely fashion that only those well endowed with brains can afford to do. Only as to her fine soprano voice did she devote time and care and pains. Her voice was her idol. With it she confidently expected to conquer the world. Nothing could deter her from her wild school schemes except solitude.

for her voice. Her throat must be kept well and strong. No chances that might affect her throat must be taken.

Marion Loomis was also an artist. A few bold strokes on paper and anything you requested would be set before you. She had devoted little thought to this branch of art, yet later, after her school days she was able to sell some of her drawings at good prices. She cared little for the piano, except as an accompaniment to her voice, yet she mastered it in a brilliant, careless fashion. Her poetry flashed off in the same characteristic way; was often printed in the local newspapers.

She was an imitatable mimic. If school girl charades were gotten up, Marion was the leading spirit. Often, on winter evenings, when the girls had tired of games and singing and dancing, they would range themselves round the room and Marion, mounted on a table, would discourse in French and German and Irish idioms and tell anecdotes and make tart and apt remarks upon the school in general and each girl in particular, until her audience fairly shrieked with delight.

On one occasion, while she was at the climax of one of her performances, flinging herself around on the table, and pouring out something exquisitely funny, she suddenly became aware that the laughter had quieted down and given place to lurking smiles. Determined to bring her audience again to the point of convulsions, Marion became more uproarious and noisy, when something impelled her to turn around. Standing behind her, with an expression of amazed disgust, was the supercilious, quickly waiting for her to finish. The situation was too comical. The girls, notwithstanding their awe of the superior, broke into loud laughter, and the excited impersonator left the room, the picture of dismay.

Marion possessed all the eccentricities of genius. She was never the least dignified or reserved. She always dressed in a manner to excite the wonder of all the girls in the school, and even up to her last year at the school was continually in disgrace.

Yet, though not of a lovable disposition, she was universally liked, and extraneously admired by the girls for her talent. Everyone predicted an unusual career for her. During her last year at school her mother died. Then her graduation day arrived, and, looking very simple and girlish in a white muslin gown, she read her valedictory and bade adieu to her teachers and her girl friends and her whole happy past. At the last minute, while the carriage waited at the door, she broke down and gave way to a torrent of tears and clung to the nuns and begged them to keep her.

So it will be seen that there was nothing really bad about Marion Loomis. Her impulses were good. She was kind, affectionate, impulsive, and in her way generous. She possessed the personal characteristics which were especially suited to make herself happy and to confer happiness on others, and the only real fault which she possessed was the one which she never realized, and perhaps does not realize to this day—for it seems to her that it was only her art which she loved.

Each sacrifice to herself she thought was made to her "art." She refused to marry the man whom she loved because it would hamper her in her devotion to "art." She married the man whom she did not love so as to advance her in her career of "art." She made of "art" a species of fetish, never thinking that it was merely the outward manifestation of herself which she worshipped; and there is not much doubt that she was sincere in her belief.

She went to Chicago with her father, and her life from there on reads like a romance.

Her father announced that he was about to marry again. Marion protested so strongly and vehemently against this that in anger he disclosed the fact that he was not her real father.

Dazed by the disclosure, alone and just out of school, the girl did not know where to turn. Fortunately a friend of her dead mother, Mary Ackerman, took her to live with her. Meanwhile, there was her voice. She tried for a scholarship at the Chicago Conservatory of Music. There were 400 other people contesting for it. She won it, and for 2 years was happy in having her voice cultivated by the best of teachers.

After a time her money gave out. She was compelled to work in an office for $4 a week and afterward as a governess. She joined a concert company, and it is said, married a singer, who she believed would be an aid to her in her career. Her voice suffered an injury which impaired it. She left the stage, and it is charged, divorced the singer. She returned to Chicago, and went to work in an art store. She met William McLane, and is said to have loved him, but McLane was poor. She remembered Gaullier, a friend of her childhood, who was reputed to be rich, and wrote to him. They renewed their early friendship. She watched it ripen into patient, pleading love on his part, and then consented to marry him.

He came to Chicago. On the morning of Feb. 2 P. M. Sherman solemnized the marriage at Holy Family church. The bride had become a Catholic only the day before. Returning to Detroit, Gaullier took a handsome flat at 406 Jefferson avenue. He says Mrs. Gaullier did not treat him as a husband should be treated, and that she ran bills for hundreds of dollars' worth of goods. Her bill for boots is said to have been $50. After a few weeks Gaullier said he was going to his parents' home and Mrs. Gaullier might come if she wished. She said the flat was good enough for her. He got drays and took away all the furniture, including her trunks. He opened them and found many letters. Some of them convinced him that his wife had never loved him. The trou-

UNDERWEAR For Warm Weather

A timely subject now. Even the sheep, whose natural coat it is, likes to get rid of his fleece before June.

If your doctor or your wisdom says "wool all summer" here are appropriate summer wools—thin, porous, elastic, as nearly unshrinkable as wool can be made.

We sell the Dr. Deimel Linen Mesh Underwear. The makers of these goods have secured the warm endorsement of many physicians on account of the sanitary properties of the porous linen fabric used. Owing to its cellular texture, this fabric drinks moisture as readily as a buck towel and evaporates it more readily. Perspiration is quickly seized by it and passed into the air without danger of a chill to the wearer. These goods are handsomely trimmed.

BLENHEIM

June 3.—Born—On Saturday, June 1st to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Marshall, a son. Congratulations.

In spite of the inclemency of the weather, over one hundred lady Macs and Sir Knights attended divine service in the Presbyterian church last evening. A very instructive and powerful sermon was delivered by the Rev. J. M. McLaren, B. A., on Man's duty to God and his duty to his fellow men. After the service the Sir Knights returned to the lodge rooms where suitable resolutions of thanks were passed and tendered to those who took part in the service.

The regular church services were conducted by the pastors of the different churches yesterday.

Miss Allie Samson enters upon her duties on our public school staff to-day. She assumes control of room 1, the room formerly controlled by Miss Rhodes.

The hammer and the saw have left our new school building. Nothing now remains but the painters' brush. The new photographer, Mr. Arnold, who purchased Mr. Lenox business, takes possession to-day. We wish him success.

THE KIRMESS

Pleasant Proceedings in Aid of St. Joseph's Hospital Open To-Morrow.

To-morrow there will open in the I. O. O. F. auditorium the Kirmess, which continues until Saturday in aid of St. Joseph's Hospital.

This promises to be a most pleasant, profitable and enjoyable event. The sale will include fancy work, toys and all delightful bric-a-brac. Dinner will be served on Wednesday and Saturday from one till two o'clock and supper each evening from 5:30 until seven o'clock. Each evening at eight o'clock an enjoyable musical and literary concert will be given with constant change of program, the admission to which will be 15 cents.

Among the many special attractions which will be introduced will be the fancy dancing of Miss McGill and Eugene Labarre, which will take place every evening.

The Kirmess deserves every encouragement from the citizens at large.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A MARK OF REVERENCE.

"This morning I announced a change in the conduct of the services in this church," said the Rev. J. J. Ross, addressing his congregation last evening, "and I want to add a little to what I said then. It has been the custom in some churches for people to take their seats while the minister is praying. I don't think that any Christian or any one who reverences God would do this, and, in addition for the future, I hope that no one will take their seats while the Word of God is being read. We should show just as much reverence to the reading of the Word of God as we should to prayers offered up to Him. Plenty of time and opportunity will be given all to be seated after the Word of God has been read and the ushers will kindly detain all at the door till then."

WHY HE SMILED.

"What are you smiling so much about?" was asked a certain citizen this morning, as he stood smiling on the corner of Queen and Wellington streets.

"Oh," says he, "it's a girl." And congratulations were passed around.
