Crushed Coffee— what is it?

By a new process of crushing between steel rollers, instead of grinding, the skin, which remains in the eye of the bean after roasting, is separated from the kernel and removed by air suction, while the kernel is broken into small even grains. These grains when steeped, being free of the skin or chaff, settle quickly, leaving the liquid clear and bright, and give the true coffee flavor.

Estabrooks' Red Rose Crushed Coffee is as easy to make as Red Rose Tea. Directions are in each tin.

It is strictly pure, not a particle of chicory or any other adulterant being used, and is packed in air-tight tins the same day it is roasted so to retain its full flavor, fragrance and strength.

How Did You Die?

Did you take that trouble that came your way with a resolute heart and cheerful smile? Or did you let it get the best of you? Oh, a trouble is a son, or a trouble is an ounce. And it isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts. But only—how did you take it?

You are beaten to earth? Well, well, what's that? Come up with a smiling face. It's nothing against you to fall down flat. But to lie there—that's a disgrace. The harder you're thrown, why, the higher you bounce.

Be proud of your blackened eye! It isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts. It's how did you fight—and why? And the you be done to the death, what then? If you battled the best you could.

Death comes with a crawl, or comes with a jump. And whether he's slow, or speedy. It isn't the fact that you're dead that counts. But only how did you die?

—Edmund Vance Cooke.

IN THE FOG.

BY RICHARD HARDING DAVIS.

Concluded.

'How do we know,' I whispered, 'that he is not here now?'

'Oh, I'll swear he is not,' Lyle answered. 'I may have hanged in some things, but I have searched this house thoroughly. Nevertheless,' he added, 'we must go over it again, from the cellar to the roof. We have the real clew now, and we must forget the others and work only it.' As he spoke he began again to search the drawing room, turning over even the books on the table and the music on the piano.

'Whoever the man is,' he said over his shoulder, 'we know that he has a key to the front door and a key to the letter box. That shows us he is either an inmate of the house or that he comes here when he wishes. The Russian says that he is the only servant in the house. Certainly we have found no evidence to show that any other servant slept here. There could be but one other person who would possess a key to the house and the letter box—and he lives in St. Petersburg. At the time of the murder he was two thousand miles away.' Lyle interrupted himself suddenly with a sharp cry and turned upon me with his eyes flashing. 'But was he?' he cried. 'Was he? How do we know that last night he was not in London, in this very house when Zichy and Chetney met me?'

'He stood staring at me without seeing me, muttering and arguing with himself. "Don't speak to me," he cried, as I ventured to interrupt him. "I can see it now. It is all plain. It was not the servant, but his master, the Russian himself, and it was he who came back for the letter! He came back for the letter because he knew they would convict him. We must find them. We must have those letters. If we find the one with the Russian postmark, we shall have found the murderer." He spoke like a madman, and as he spoke he ran around the room with one hand held out in front of him as you have seen a mind reeling at a theatre seeking for something hidden in the stalls. He pulled the old letters from the writing-desk, and ran over them as swiftly as a gambler deals out cards; he dropped on his knees before the fireplace and dragged out the dead coils with his bare fingers, and then with a low, worried cry, like a hound on a scent, he ran back to the waste-paper basket and, lifting the papers from it, shook them out upon the floor. Instantly he gave a shout of triumph, and, separating a number of torn pieces from the others, held them up before me. "Look!" he cried. "Do you see? Here are five letters, torn across in two places. The Russian did not stop to read them, for, as you see, he has left them still sealed. I have been wrong. He did not return for the letters, but he did not have any value. He must have returned for some other reason, and, as he was leaving, saw the letter box, and taking out the letters, held them together—and tore them twice across, and then, as the fire had gone out—'

'I am not a murderer, Sir Andrew, believe me,' he said. 'you need not be alarmed. As a matter of fact, at this moment I am much more afraid of you than you could possibly be of me. I beg you please to be indulgent. I assure you, we meant no disrespect. We have been matching stories, that is all, pretending that we are people we are not, endeavoring to entertain you with a better detective tales than, for instance, the last one you read, "The Great Rand Robbery."'

'The Baronet brushed his hand nervously across his forehead. "Do you mean to tell me," he exclaimed, "that none of this has happened? That Lord Chetney is not dead, that his Solicitor did not find a letter of yours written from your post in Petersburg, and that just now, when he charged you with murder, he was in jest?"'

'I am really very sorry,' said the American, 'but you see, sir, he could not have found a letter written by me in St. Petersburg because I have never been in Petersburg. Until this week, I have never been outside of my own country. I am not a naval officer. I am a writer of short stories. And to-night, when this gentleman told me that you were fond of detective stories, I thought it would be amusing to tell you one of my own—one I had just mapped out this afternoon.'

'But Lord Chetney is a real person,' interrupted the Baronet, 'and he did go to Africa two years ago, and he was supposed to have died there; and his brother, Lord Arthur, has been the hero of a story written by Chetney. I read it in the papers.'

'So did I,' assented the American soothingly, 'and it struck me as being a very good plot for a story. I mean his unexpected return from the dead, and the probable disappointment of the younger brother. So I decided that the younger brother had better murder the older one. The Princess Zichy I invented out of a clear sky. The fog I did not have to invent. Since last night I know all that there is to know about a London fog. I was lost in one for three hours.'

The Baronet turned grimly upon the American. 'But this gentleman,' he protested, 'is not a writer of short stories; he is a member of the Foreign Office, and, according to him, the Princess Zichy is not an invention. He says she is very well known, and that she tried to rob him.'

'The servant of the Foreign Office looked unshapely at the Cabinet Minister, and puffed nervously on his cigar. "It is true, Sir Andrew, that I am a Queen's Messenger," he said appealingly, 'and a Russian woman once did try to rob a Queen's Messenger in a railway carriage—only it did not happen to me, but to a pal of mine. The only Russian Princess I ever knew called herself Zabrisky. You may have seen her. She used to do a dive from the roof of the Aquarium.'

'Sir Andrew, with a sort of indignation, frowned the young Solicitor. "And I suppose yours was a cock-and-bull story, too," he said. "Of course, it must have been, since Lord Chetney is not dead. But don't tell me," he protested, "that you are not Chudleigh's son, either."

'I am sorry,' said the youngest member, smiling in some embarrassment, 'but my name is not Chudleigh. I assure you, though, that I know the family very well, and that I am on very good terms with them.'

'You should be!' exclaimed the Baronet, 'and, judging from the liberties you take with the Chetneys, you had better be on very good terms with them, too.'

The young man leaned back and glanced toward the servants at the far end of the room. "It has been so long since I have been in the Club," he said, 'that I doubt if even the waiters remember me. Perhaps Joseph may,' he added, 'Joseph!' he called, and at the word a servant stepped briskly forward.

The young man pointed to the stuff of a lion which was suspended above the fireplace. "Joseph," he said, 'I want you to tell these gentlemen who shot that lion. Who presented it to the Grill? Joseph, unopposed to acting as master of ceremonies to members of the Club, shifted nervously from one foot to the other. "Why, you—you did," he stammered.

'Of course I did!' exclaimed the young man. "I mean, what is the name of the man who shot it? Tell the gentlemen who I am. They wouldn't believe me."

'Who you are, my lord?' said Joseph. 'You are Lord Edam's son, the Earl of Chetney.'

'You must admit,' said Lord Chetney, when the noise had died away, 'that I couldn't remain dead while my little brother was accused of murder. I had to do something. Family pride demanded it. Now, Arthur, as the younger brother, can't afford to be squeamish, but personally I should hate to have a brother of mine hang for murder.'

'You certainly showed no scruples against hanging me,' said the American, 'but in the face of your evidence I admit my guilt, and I sentence myself to pay the full penalty of the law as we are made to pay it in my own country. The order of this court is, be announced, that Joseph shall bring me a wine card, and that I sign it for five bottles of the Club's best.'

'The Baronet brushed his hand nervously across his forehead. "Do you mean to tell me," he exclaimed, "that none of this has happened? That Lord Chetney is not dead, that his Solicitor did not find a letter of yours written from your post in Petersburg, and that just now, when he charged you with murder, he was in jest?"'

TONIC TREATMENT FOR INDIGESTION

The Process of Digestion is Controlled by the Blood and Nerves.

If you have indigestion and you begin a course of treatment to make your stomach stronger, you are on the right track for a real cure. You can never cure yourself by eating pre-digested foods, or by taking purgative medicines. The stomach is not doing its own work under these treatments, and there can be no real cure until the stomach is strong enough to digest all the food necessary to maintain the body in normal health. The great aim of the tonic treatment for indigestion in all forms is to strengthen the stomach to a point where all foods eaten will digest easily and nourish the body. A tonic that will strengthen the stomach is what is needed, as the process of digestion is controlled by the blood and nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an ideal tonic. They actually make new, rich blood, and thus bring strength and tone to the stomach. This has been proved over and over again, and thousands of grateful people have not hesitated to say so. Here is an instance:—Miss Eva Tocher, Baltimore, Md., says:—"I am writing this letter on behalf of my mother who wishes you to know how much Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for her. For several years she had been greatly troubled with indigestion and notwithstanding the medicine she was taking the trouble was growing worse. Every meal was dreaded, and left behind it a feeling of nausea and severe pains. As this continued she began to lose strength and energy, and was hardly able to do any housework. Acted on the advice of a friend she began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and soon began to feel better. She continued taking the Pills until she had fully restored and she could take any kind of food without the least discomfort. Since that time she has had no the slightest return of the trouble."

Thousands of cured men and women speak from experience of the benefits derived from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of indigestion, anemia, rheumatism, general weakness, pains in the back and side, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, and the troubles that afflict women and growing girls. These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Goldwin Smith.

Goldwin Smith, scholar, historian and publicist, has passed to his reward after a long and busy life. For upwards of forty years he has been Canada's most eminent man of letters and one of her most distinguished citizens.

His wide culture, his clarity of thought, his incomparable literary skill gave to the product of his tireless pen a wide vogue. As a writer of English prose and a stylist he has been unmatched in his time. During all these years he has been a constant contributor to Canadian, American and British periodicals, and his work has at all times commanded attention for brilliancy of thought and expression. Although his viewpoint on many questions was not that of the majority of Canadians, he was always interesting, even in his splendid isolation, and in the last analysis, daresay, has exerted a powerful influence for good upon the political and social life of his day and generation. His honesty of purpose and purity of motive were above suspicion. It is the glory of the Canadian press that it has been privileged to record this master workman among its craftsmen.

ZAM-BUK SAVED THIS BABY

A horrid rash came out all over my baby's face and spread until it had totally covered his body. It was irritating and painful, and caused the little one to suffer. We tried soap and powders and salves, but he got no better. He refused to eat, and we looked this and wore, and was reduced to a very serious condition. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful how it seemed to cool and ease the child's burning, painful skin. Zam-Buk from the very commencement seemed to go right to the spot, and the pimples and sores and the irritation grew less and less. Within a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of rash, or eruption, or sores, or burning sore. Not only so, but even of the irritating skin trouble, he has improved in general health.

Zam-Buk is sold at all stores and medicine vendors. It is a pure, natural, and harmless preparation. For price, 60 cents for 25 c. and 1.00 for 50 c. bottles. Write for a free copy of all our literature, and get the full story.

'Wyndholm,' the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Collins, is one of the finest properties in town. The location is ideal, the grounds spacious and well laid out and the dwelling and out-buildings handsome and commodious. During the past few weeks Mr. Collins has had the buildings newly painted, and they now present a fine appearance. Thirteen years ago the present proprietor purchased this property and erected the residence. To day he is well rewarded for the time and attention he has laid out upon it. With its neatly trimmed lawns, pretty hedges, fruit and ornamental trees and gardens, neatly laid out walks and drives, and above all its unsurpassed view, the property is certainly a most desirable one.

Miss Millard, of Liverpool, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Arthur Harris. About forty visiting members of the I. O. O. F., of Kentville, Berwick and Kingston, participated in reorganizing a lodge in this town on Wednesday evening, returning to their homes by special train.

Mr. and Mrs. James Smith and little son, of Whiston, arrived here on Thursday to visit Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sturk. Mr. Robie Parker, eldest son of Mr. George Parker, was home from Parrboro, where he has been for two years. He has since been transferred to the branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, at North Sydney.

A number from here attended the opening of the Canard Baptist church on Sunday.

It is expected that Rev. Neil Hermon, of Windsor, will deliver a lecture on Labrador, illustrated by stereopticon views, in the Baptist church on Monday evening next.

A very interesting game of base ball was played on Wednesday evening of last week between the teams of Berwick and Canning, resulting in a victory for the latter team, score 6-5.

The employees of the Blenkhorn axe factory and several other citizens enjoyed a fishing trip on the Bay of Fundy in the achr. Murray B. on Tuesday.

Opening of New Canard Baptist Church.

The new Baptist church edifice at Canard which replaces the one burned over a year ago, of which the Rev. F. H. Beale is pastor, was dedicated last Sunday, and in spite of the rather unpropitious weather the building was packed to the doors from all the country around, long before the time of service. The church is a very commodious and convenient one, well lighted with acetylene gas, and heated with a good pipe organ, and best of all, but a very small debt remains upon it, which it is expected will soon be wiped out by the prosperous farmers of Cornwallis.

Dr. McLeod, Presbyterian minister of Ontario, offered the opening prayer, and Dr. S. B. Kempton, of Dartmouth, for twenty-five years pastor at Canard, preached the dedication sermon from the text, 'Ye are God's building,' which was an excellent and timely discourse, and heard with the utmost attention. A most interesting part of the service was the unveiling of three portraits by Dr. K. M. Saunders, of Halifax, of the three first pastors in the first one hundred years. The first pastor was the Rev. Edward Manning (generally known by the name of Father Manning) who was there for fifty-six years. The next was the Rev. A. S. Hunt, the pastor for over twenty years, and then Dr. Kempton, who was twenty-five years pastor. The portrait of himself took Dr. Kempton entirely by surprise, as he had understood that the portraits were of the early decades. In the evening Dr. Cutten, of Acadia, gave an excellent sermon before a large audience. Special music added to the pleasure of the occasion.

The Ramabai Mission.

As a result of the earnest, faithful work done in Chicago, Mrs. Nalder was rewarded and greatly encouraged by receiving a few days ago a cheque for one thousand dollars.

The letter received with the gift was from the pastor of 'The Stone Church,' which is undenominational. It is self explanatory and as follows:—

CHICAGO, ILL., U. S. A., JUNE 3, 1910. My dear Sister Nalder:—I have great pleasure in forwarding you herewith a draft for $1000 for Ramabai's work. This money has come from one person, a Miss Smith, of Philadelphia, and is one of the results of the two lectures which you gave at the Stone Church.

She says, she sent the same amount to Ramabai, already, through a brother in her city. I know you will rejoice in hearing this good news also. It gave us a special joy to get this money right in the midst of our Convention. Those who have the foreign field laid heavily on their hearts were very happy when I made the announcement that the money had been received.

Miss Smith makes this stipulation in regard to the use of the money. I copy herewith her own words: 'I would ask that the money be not used for buying property, merely educational work or erecting buildings, but for other needs of the work and workers.' I shall be glad to have you convey these instructions with the draft.

I could not begin to tell you of the great blessings God gave us at our Convention. We have never known such a time of being deepened in Him and broadened in missionary interest.

Miss Abrams was a great blessing to us all. How you would have loved to have been with us! A number of people received a definite call to go to Church Meeting.

An important ecclesiastical gathering was held in the Methodist church, Windsor, on June 7th and 8th, with the Pastors and Lay-representatives of the circuits of the Windsor District, comprising Canning, Kentville, Wolfville, Horton, Hantsport, Windsor, Newport, Avondale, Burlington and Walton, met for the purpose of reviewing the year's work, and of reporting to the annual conference of Nova Scotia which is to be held this week at New Brunswick St. church, Halifax.

Tuesday afternoon was occupied with the ministerial session, Rev. Wm. H. Langille presiding. Ministerial standing and character passed scrutiny without objection in any case. One break in the ranks was reported—the decease of Rev. J. A. Mead of Windsor. A beautifully worded statement of his life character and labors was read, and ordered to be sent to conference as the recommended obituary for conference minutes. Messrs. Arthur Baker and Howard Outerbridge underwent oral examination. The manner in which they acquitted themselves, together with their appearance and general demeanor, and the reports in the matter of their marks on their respective courses of study, indicated that the Windsor District is giving the ministry two splendid young men.

On Wednesday the presence of the laymen constituted the full session of the District. Important statistics presented were: membership 1499, Sunday School force 1867, raised for missions $2,136, total amount raised for all purposes $19,601. Two new churches have been built during the year, one at Canning valued $5000, seating capacity 400, and one at Greenwood valued $2000, capacity 100.

Reports of spiritual progress, though containing notes in a mildly minor key upon a few points, were generally in a thankful or hopeful or even jubilant tone. The distinctive feature of the day-meeting is shown in increasing attention, adult Bible classes organized and church workers being developed.

At the evening session memorials and church ritual were ordered to be sent to conference. Resolutions were passed of appreciation and farewell to two members of the District who go west next year to other Dioceses. These are Rev. H. J. Indoe and P. E. Barrett, who have won a high reputation for ability and indefatigable service in the work of the church.

A very enjoyable and satisfactory meeting was closed in prayer by Rev. Wm. A. Outerbridge, of Kentville, expressive of gratitude for the past and devout yearning and trust in God for the incoming year.

Missionary Meeting.

Reports of the annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Halifax Presbytery, which was held on Wednesday of this week in St. Andrew's church, this town, was a very successful gathering. A large number of delegates were in attendance, and the meetings were of much interest. The reports were all of a most encouraging character. In the ten months which constituted the past year, the Presbytery raised $100 more than during the previous year. In the evening a public meeting was held when the church was well filled.

Mrs. McNab, of Halifax, the president of the Presbytery, presided gracefully. The program included a most interesting address by Miss Cunningham, returned missionary from Japan; an address by Rev. Robert Johnson, of Halifax; a vocal trio by Mrs. (Dr.) Moore, Mrs. J. D. Chambers and Miss Tweedell; and a delightful violin solo by Mrs. B. W. Wallace, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Chambers.

COMING OF C. F. R. WILL ENHANCE VALUE OF ORCHARDS IN N. S. PER CENT, SAYS J. W. BIGLOW.

To the Editor of The Chronicle: Sir: I dispute your authority for publishing in your issue of the 4th inst. the assertion, as coming from me, that the D. A. R. has not given fruit growers an efficient service.

I leave the fruit growers to prove the truth of said assertion, I notice the D. A. R. has not provided one suitable room for storing apples in transit, but compelled fruit growers to build frost proof warehouses for their Company at a cost of about fifty thousand dollars.

Transportation is by far the most important question for Nova Scotia fruit growers. We ship about 500,000 barrels of apples this year and paid D. A. R., Farness and other steamers, agents and brokers one dollar and fifty cents a barrel, or one million, two hundred thousand dollars.

When the C. F. R. officials take stock of their purchase and find how much value they have, beside two streaks of rust, a large pile of scrap iron and a right way, they and their stockholders will be pleased to know that the right of way, alone is worth more than double as much as they paid for the whole outfit.

Under the efficient management will be one of the best-paying 200 miles of road they have, and still give fruit growers a chance to live. With fast, well-ventilated boats from Halifax to Digby to Europe they can give fruit-growers a 50c. per barrel through rate and have over half a million dollars from freight on apples alone, which at that rate, is the best paying freight they can handle.

Goldwin Smith and the Saloon.

It is too clear that the rapid extension of this system of saloon drinking is threatening the very life of the community; and that it is producing a physical and moral pestilence more deadly, in the deepest sense, than any other plague which stalks the interesting cities of the east; that it is bringing great masses of our working classes into self imposed bondage, more degrading than slavery itself; that it is not only filling the present with unrepentable misery and vice, but blighting the prospect of labor for the future.—Prof. Goldwin Smith.

Man's Tenure of Activity. The youth of to-day whose brains are his only negotiable asset must make his reputation, amass his fortune, derive his enjoyment and pleasure from his business affairs, and be ready to resign his place when he is 50 or 60 years old, just when the normal man is at his best, just when he has lived long enough to possess sound and rapid judgment.—Prof. Mabery, quoted by the Electrical Review.

Few Really Rich Men in France. Vicomte d'Avonnet tells us that less than 5,000 Frenchmen have an income of £4,000 ($20,000) a year. 1,045 have £3,000 ($15,000), 300 a real rent of £20,000 ($100,000), 120 £40,000 ($200,000), and about 600 possess £100,000 ($500,000). Although those possessing great riches are few in number in France yet several of the wealthy have large incomes compared with prices and kings of days past.

Wonders of Science. Not more than ten years ago a man was sent to an insane asylum for attempting to fly in a heavier than air machine. Such evidence of madness was enough to deprive the man of his freedom for years. Recently he has been set free, as sane a man as any. The only trouble with him was that he maintained he could build a machine which he could fly. Now that men are flying in all directions with wonderful ease, his case was remembered and on further examination it was admitted the man is all right.

Everyone's Duty. The great cry in every walk of life is reform. Then why not come forward, gentlemen of influence, fathers of families, employers of labor, and well the ranks of one of the many temperance societies throughout the city? It is everyone's duty to join in the battle against one of the most terrible evils we are called upon to combat. As deeds speak louder than words, example will be eagerly imitated by the young men of the city, who will determine many benefits as a natural consequence of total abstinence.—Montreal True Witness.

Why I Hate the Liquor Traffic. Personally, I have seen so much of the evils of the liquor traffic in the last four years, so much of its economic waste, so much of its physical ruin, so much of its mental blight, so much of its tears and heartache, that I have come to regard the business as one that must be held and controlled by strong and effective laws. I bear no malice toward those engaged in the liquor business, but I hate the traffic. I hate its every phase. I hate it for its intolerance. I hate it for its arrogance. I hate it for its commercialism. I hate it for its greed and avarice. I hate it for its hypocrisy. I hate it for its cant and craft and false pretence. I hate it for its sordid love of gain at any price. I hate it for its domination in politics. I hate it for its corrupting influence in civic affairs. I hate it for its incessant effort to debauch the suffrage of the country, for the rewards it makes of public men. I hate it for its utter disregard of law. I hate it for its ruthless trampling of the solemn compacts of state constitutions. I hate it for the load it straps to labor's back, for the pained hand it gives to toil, for the wounds it inflicts, for the tragedies of its might-have-beens. I hate it for the human wrecks it has caused. I hate it for the almshouses it peoples, for the prisons it fills, for the insanity it begets, for its countless graves in potter's fields. I hate it for the mental ruin it imposes on its victims, for its spiritual blot, for its moral degradation. I hate it for the crimes it has committed. I hate it for the wrongs it has done. I hate it for the hearts it has broken. I hate it for the malice it has planted in the hearts of men—for its poison, for its bitterness—for the Dead Sea fruit with which it starves their souls. I hate it for the grief it causes womanhood—the strangled sobs, the heaped deferred, the strangled aspirations, the burden of want and care. I hate it for its heartless cruelty to the aged, the infirm, the helpless, for the shadow it throws upon the lives of children, for its monstrous injustice to countless little ones. I hate it as a virtue hates vice, as truth hates error, as righteousness hates sin, as justice hates wrong, as liberty hates tyranny, as freedom hates oppression.—Governor J. Frank Hanney, of Indiana.

A Physician's Blunder. Schoharie County, New York, has another dark page in its history, a shocking murder—the murder that was directly the result of the liquor traffic. The connection is perfectly clear. The murderer is the son of one of the most respected families in the county. His father is a leading Methodist and a well-known prohibitionist. The young man acquired a taste for intoxicating liquors through a prescription given by a physician when he was a mere boy. Some evil influence seemed to make it impossible for him to shake off the habit in spite of everything that could be done by his friends and his own apparently earnest efforts, he suffered from periodic lapses, in which he would become grossly intoxicated. On the evening of Monday, April 30, 1909, in an intoxicated condition he attempted to enter the house of some people in the village, and was refused admission. A quarrel ensued and he shot the woman who was refusing to let him in, killing her almost instantly.

Every item of the case marks it distinctly as a whiskey tragedy. It began with a criminal blunder of a physician. It was developed by the presence of the perpetual temptation in the licensed saloons of this village. It culminated in an act of drunken fury inspired by drink which had been sold the poor fellow by men who perfectly well knew that they had no legal right to sell it in view of his known intemperate habits.

The terrible tragedy shows how utterly impossible it is for even the most careful parents to guard their homes from an evil that is legalized by the state and ignored by the so-called better elements of society.—The Defender.

The Bishop of Meath. The sin of intemperance works havoc amongst thousands. There is no one of any experience who cannot recall the saddest possible instance of its enervating and demoralizing power. We may differ as regards the Stomach Troubles. Many remarkable cases of stomach troubles have been affected by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. One man who had spent over two thousand dollars for medicine and treatment was cured by a few boxes of these tablets. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at Rand's Drug Store.

Nine thousand men will be required to take the Dominion census of next year. The schedules of enumeration, embodying some changes from the previous forms, are
