Grand Opportunity For Farmers and Horse Owners.

Owing to the wastages of war, scarcity in the horse supply is in prospect for years to come. The farmer was never presented with a better chance for turning his mares to good account, alike to himself and to the country. There is little outlay until the foal is weaned. The mare can continue to do her allotted share on the land, and for many years the demand for an animal serviceable either for draught or carriage purposes will be greater than ever. For the embodiment of quality and substance the horse breeder is referred to the Imported English Coaching Stallion.

Stella Mordant;
—OR—
The Cruise of the "Kingfisher."

CHAPTER XVII.

The love of a man for woman he had never heard, never read of; therefore the agony that tortured him was, in a sense, something of a mystery; but he knew that, now Stella was gone, life had suddenly become hateful, that the solitude of which he had been scarcely conscious before she came, seemed unendurable. If he had only been with her, if he could only have died with her! But she had gone, was drowned, and he was doomed to live on here alone—how long? he asked himself.

He sat for hours in the darkness, going over the incidents of the life they had spent together, as a man counts the items of the treasure of which he has been robbed. The dog crept near him and licked his hand in dumb sympathy; but Rath, for the first time, pushed it away almost fiercely, for it reminded him of Stella. Everything reminded him of her, and as he walked past the hut he averted his eyes; he could not bear to look at it. Not a flower she had tended, not a rock upon which she had sat, but cried his loss and theirs to him. And within his heart was an aching pain, a dull, fierce longing which threatened to drive him mad.

Indeed, the wonder is that he did not become insane; for his grief and agony burnt in a bosom unused to such emotions; and he was alone, without a human voice to utter one word of consolation or sympathy. It is hard to conceive such a situation, and no description can do justice to his terrible despair. For days he scarcely ate; for nights he lay awake, his disordered mind dwelling upon her image, and calling up her face and form. In the silence of the night he would hear her voice, now soft and dreamy, now rippling with girlish merriment and innocent happiness. He did not know that he loved

If Catarrh Keeps You Hawking Use 'Catarrhzone'—The Quickest Cure

NOTHING KNOWN SO SURE FOR THROAT WEAKNESS, BRONCHIAL TROUBLES, ETC.

No doctor attempts to-day to cure a genuine case of catarrh or bronchitis except by the inhalation method. Stomach dosing has been discarded because useless medicine so taken affects only the stomach—never reaches the seat of catarrh.

The advanced physician recognizes that only air can be sent into the lungs and bronchial tubes. Fill this air with healing medicaments and you solve the problem. No combination of antiseptics is so successful as Catarrhzone. It contains the richest pine-balsams and the greatest healers known.

One breath of Catarrhzone instantly circulates over the area that is afflicted with catarrh. Relief is instant—suffering stops at once—germs are destroyed—every taint of disease is removed. Think it over seriously. Here is a remedy that clears the throat, relieves hoarseness, coughing and bad breath. Irritating phlegm is cleared out, inflamed bronchial tubes are healed, throat and voice are strengthened. Catarrhzone is pleasant and certain. You breathe Catarrhzone—you don't take it. Large $1.00 size is guaranteed; smaller size 50c., and trial size 25c. at all dealers everywhere.

her, as we understand love, but he knew that she had taken with her all joy in life, all desire to live.

Sometimes he tried to hope, to tell himself that the boat had been blown safely out to sea, and that she had been picked up by a passing vessel; but he knew that the chances were against such a rescue, that the boat could not live in such a sea, and that any vessel would give a wide berth to the island in such a storm.

Once or twice he half resolved to put an end to the life which his great loss had made almost intolerable; but something held him back, even as he stood on the edge of the cliff and gazed down wistfully, despairingly. If she was dead, she might be somewhere where she could still see him. He knew she would be grieved if he killed himself. Only this thought kept him from suicide.

Presently, as the days wore on, the necessities of life began to take hold of him. He had neglected his work, everything, and the signs of the neglect reached him on all sides. For one thing, the flowers she had reared could not be allowed to die, the animals she had loved must be fed, if only for the sake of her memory. So he returned to his daily drudgery; but, ah! with what a different spirit to that with which, while she was by his side, he had gone about his daily work! Her presence had lightened his toil, had sweetened his existence; but now what was there to work for?

As the days passed, the sharpness of his agony grew less acute, but his longing for her never ceased to oppress him like a dull physical pain. His once quick, firm step became slow and dragging; his head drooped upon his breast; he gazed before him vacantly and absently; he did his work mechanically.

Even the sportsman's instinct, which stands so many strains, seemed to have died within him, and one day he stood in the pine wood, leaning on his gun, and watching a great bear sink past him, without the least desire to shoot it. A great part of his time he sat on the beach, his elbows on his knees, his eyes fixed on the sea, which now he hated with an intense and bitter hate; for had it not robbed him of all that had made life precious?

By this time the rainy season had set in; but he neglected his usual preparation and precautions, and allowed the rain to drift into his hut, and went about most of the time wet through. He grew thin and wan and haggard, and the marvellous strength he had possessed was slowly deserting him; he felt tired after an hour's fishing, and the arm with which he used to fell trees and haul lumber so easily dropped to his side wearily if he exerted himself in the old and familiar way.

Presently outraged Nature became indignant and resentful. One day he was taken with a shaking fit, and had scarcely strength enough to walk home, and for some days he lay in a kind of fever, during which he hoped that he was going to die. Who knew? after death he might see her again. But he was too splendid a specimen of humanity to be snuffed out by a feverish cold, and he pulled through. But for some days he was too weak to walk, and one night, looking round absently, he saw the book from which Stella had taught him to read.

The pencil and paper which they had used in his schooling lay beside it, and he shook and shivered as he remembered how gentle and patient she had been with him, even while she had laughed at him; how her small hand had guided his.

With a groan he drew her letter—the letter she had written to him—from his pocket, and gazed at it with aching, bloodshot eyes.

The sight of the writing which the little hand had formed seemed to tear his heart in twain; his bosom heaved, and suddenly his eyes were blinded by a flood of tears. A man's tears are terrible at all times; how much the more terrible in this man who had been trained to the stoicism of the Indian!

But the outburst relieved him, and left him sad enough in all conscience, but strangely calm.

And he repeated the lines of the letter which he knew by heart:

"I miss the island very much * * * * * How kind and good you were to me! * * * * * I hope you are quite well and happy, and don't miss me very much; of course I want you to miss me a little; but not to be unhappy. I hope you will remember the promise when we parted, that you won't forget me * * * * * that you won't fall over the cliff or be reckless in any way."

It was like a message from the dead; he could almost hear her speaking.

Then he was assailed by the dread that he might some time forget some word of the precious letter; and moved by that dread, he resolved to continue his lessons, to learn to write, that he might always be able to read that letter.

His fit of weeping and his resolution probably saved his reason, if no his life. He opened the book and pored over it, and fell to work at his writing with feverish eagerness.

He slept better after this; for the mind had found a distraction, some relief from the perpetual brooding over his loss. And one day, as he went towards the beach, he looked for the first time since Stella had gone, towards the hut. The storm had blown down one of the supports of rough wood of the verandah, and had torn a strip of shingle from the roof.

To him the place was a sacred temple of his lost Stella, and his heart approached her for his neglect. He went back and got his tools, and approached the hut—but very slowly and outside the door he paused trembling, as a devotee might tremble at a shrine too sacred to be entered; but at last he went in and stood still, looking round him with an aching heart.

The room seemed to cry out to him: "Stella! Stella!" He could almost fancy that he saw her standing by the table, or sitting in the chair though he had never thus seen her in life.

Presently his eyes fell on the bed and his trembling increased. He went up to it slowly, and sinking on his knees beside it, let his head fall upon the coverlet, which his lips kissed as one kisses the face of the beloved dead. The caress—the act of worship, if you will—calmed him, and he rose from his knees soothed and comforted.

With loving care he touched some articles belonging to her—a half-finished skirt upon which she had been at work; the needle and thread were still in it, as she had left them; the wide-brimmed hat she had made out of leaves, the book lying open on the table. He touched and kissed them and other relics; and presently he came across a small, flat tin box, lying under the pillow at the head of the bed.

As he took this in his hand he remembered the last words of Stella's mother. He examined it with intense interest, but with nothing of vulgar curiosity. It was tied round with a thick piece of tape or braid and sealed at each side. It did not occur to him for a moment to break the seal. Of all the things belonging to her this was in his eyes the most sacred, and he would keep it intact while he lived. He looked round for some place in which to put it, and, seeing none to his liking, dug a small hole in a corner of the flooring of the hut and buried it there. If the box contained a secret, it belonged to the dead girl, and no one but she should ever learn it.

Then he went outside and set to work repairing the damage done by the storm, and it was the first work he had done, since his loss, with any heart in it. When it was finished he felt reluctant to leave the hut, for it seemed to him that the spirit of Stella lingered there; so he brought his blankets and other things from his own den in the tree and returned to his old quarters, and all that night he lay awake communing with the vision of the boy-girl who had gone and taken his heart with her.

From this time he worked hard at his reading and writing, and though he made slow progress compared with that which is made under a tutor, he learnt to read with comparative ease, and to write in a stiff and boyish fashion; and the day he was able to read Stella's letter was almost a happy one for him. But "happy" is too big a word to use, for he never ceased to mourn and long for her.

The time was now approaching for the visit of the Indians who came to trade; but Rath, who had hitherto looked forward to their coming with the pleasant anticipation of a break in the monotonous life, now felt neither interest nor excitement, though, in an apathetic way, he overhauled his stock of skins and other articles of barter; but the time passed over and the Indians did not come. He was surprised, as they were usually punctual to their season; but he was indifferent. He grew nearly all the necessities of life, and had a fairly good stock of ammunition, which was the principal thing he required of them.

Once or twice he had asked himself whether he should dig up any of the gold Stella and he had discovered; but, remembering what she had said, her warning that the island would be thronged with fortune-hunters if the presence of gold were known, he decided to keep the secret, especially as his pelts and seal-oil would get him all he required in exchange.

Winter was very near at hand; indeed, there had been a light fall of snow, when, one day as he was tramping through the wood in search of buck, he heard the distant sound of a gun. Concluding that the Indians were approaching, he went home and got his barter-stock ready and killed a goat for food for them; but the day passed and they did not put in an appearance. He lit a fire outside the hut—his father had never permitted the Indians to enter it—and sat up for them late into the night; but still they did not come, and, somewhat puzzled, he next morning took his gun and went to meet them.

The snow had fallen again during the night, and as he looked round, he thought how Stella would have admired the white tracery with which the scene was covered; for at all times his mind dwelt upon her.

Kasota, Minn.—"I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than anything else, and I had the best physician here. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I feel like a different person. I believe there is nothing like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weak women and young girls, and I would be glad if I could influence anyone to try the medicine, for I know it will do all and much more than it is claimed to do."—Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D. No. 1, Maplecrest Farm, Kasota, Minn.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham, Medicine Co. (Confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

The Governor, Newfoundland: General French reports that the Germans attacked east of Ypres, after a very heavy bombardment, using poisonous gases. The attack failed, our advanced formation.

The French Government report that German works and a system of trenches across Loos and the Vermelles road captured in a desperate conflict. These trenches were partly recaptured by the Germans last night. The fort and Chapel of Notre Dame de Lorette were assaulted, invested and rushed by the French, a German counter-attack failing. At Carency the German positions were more closely invested, rendering the enemy communication more difficult.

The following official communication was issued to-night: Fighting north of Arras continues with violence. During last night the enemy reinforced, delivered several counter-attacks, which were without result. In that direction against Neuville St. Vaast, our opponents suffered heavy losses. We found in one cemetery alone more than 200 bodies. We took 100 prisoners. A second attack between Carency and Ablain was likewise repulsed. A third from the direction of Ablain was also checked. Fighting in the streets gave us the mastery of several groups of houses. The total number of prisoners made by us since Sunday reached this evening 4,000. On the rest of the front we brought to a sudden halt by our fire, three German attacks near Berrie au Bac, Beausejour and Marie Bagatelle.

NOTE IN PREPARATION.

WASHINGTON, May 12.

The following statement in connection with the Lusitania was made public at the White House to-day: After conference with the President the course of the Lusitania has been determined. It will be announced just as soon as it is proper to publish the note now in preparation.

TAFT AND WILSON.

WASHINGTON, May 12.

Wilson to-day received a letter from former President Taft, expressing confidence in his ability to handle the situation growing out of the sinking of the Lusitania. The President has written a reply to Taft, thanking him warmly.

U. S. NOTE TO GERMANY.

WASHINGTON, May 12.

The United States Government in a note to Germany to-day, formally demands of the German Government a strict accounting for the loss of American lives in the sinking of the Lusitania, and for violation of American rights in the war zone. It also asks guarantees that there will be no repetition of such events or practices, with a plain intimation in it that the United States is prepared to meet any eventuality that may arise from non-compliance. The communication, phrased in unmistakably emphatic language, was prepared to be delivered to Berlin by nightfall.

AUSTRIA'S PROPOSALS RECEIVED.

ROME, May 12.

What is considered the last definite proposal of Austria, concerning the territorial concessions demanded by Italy, was received to-day by the Italian Government. The Cabinet at once went into session to consider the communication.

AUSTRIAN GOVT. ISSUES ORDER.

GENEVA, May 12.

The Austrian Government has issued an order that all Austrian ships in Italian waters shall proceed at once to Trieste or Pola.

ITALIANS LEAVING AUSTRIA.

LONDON, May 12.

The Evening News has received a despatch from Lugano, Switzerland, not far from the Italian frontier, saying that scenes of indescribable panic are occurring on the border. Several thousand Italians are waiting for trains to take them back to Italy. At Udene in northeastern Italy the Mayor of the city is providing temporary accommodations for the increased population. Italian steamers are bringing from Zara, Dalmatia, hundreds of Austro-Italians, who are fearful of reprisals at the hands of the Austrians.

ZEPPELIN RAID EXPECTED.

LONDON, May 12.

American residents of Berlin who had planned trips to London, have been warned by high officials, against going to England during the coming fortnight, as important Zeppelin raids are planned, according to a Rotterdam despatch to the Mail. German officials are said to have explained that the recent Zeppelin raids upon England were a mere reconnaissance to test the strength of the British aerial defences.

ANTI-GERMAN RIOTS IN LONDON.

LONDON, May 12.

Anti-German riots in the East End of London were renewed this morning, with even greater violence than those of yesterday. Wherever a German showed, he was attacked. The police forces, which have been so thinned by drafts sent to the Army, had a difficulty in dealing with the angry crowds. Special constables had to be called out. A number of German establishments were raided and sacked and their contents scattered over the streets. The Germans themselves were forced to go into hiding. The police in some cases were defied by the angry crowds, and some officers were injured during their endeavors to protect the Teutons. The furniture and fittings of the German houses and stores were hurled through windows to the streets. When the proprietors were caught they were severely mauled, and in some cases their clothing were torn from their backs. One German was thrown into a horse trough, with the reminder that his compatriots had been spending their time drowning women and children. He was only saved from a similar fate by the intervention of the police. There were several instances of German butchers trying to escape in their carts. They went racing down the streets at mad speed, but in most cases ultimately were run down. A number of Russian Jewesses were flocking this morning to police stations in the East End, pleading for protection, explaining that they were being mistaken for Germans. Reports are reaching the police that a private house belonging to wealthy Germans in the fashionable West End is liable to be burned. The troops are in readiness to assist the police if necessary.

INTERNMENT OF MALE ALIEN ENEMIES.

LONDON, May 12.

Lord Charles Beresford and Mr. Wm. Hicks presented separate petitions to the Commons to-day asking the House for a decree of internment of all male alien enemies of military age, and the removal of other alien enemies to places thirty miles or more from London. The petitions bore four thousand signatures. Premier Asquith stated to-day that the Cabinet was alive to the fact of the progressive violation of the rules of civilized warfare and of humanity by the enemy, culminating in the sinking of the Lusitania, and that the feelings, thus aroused, had made it necessary to look beyond military considerations. The Government was carefully considering the practicability of the segregation and internment of alien enemies on a more comprehensive scale. The Premier added that he hoped to make a more definite statement to-morrow. It would be difficult to find a parallel for the feeling of righteous indignation aroused in all classes of this country, he said. One result of this, unhappily, is, that innocent and unoffending persons are in danger of being made to pay the penalty for the crimes of others. From a military point of view, steps already taken in the matter of internment have proved adequate for the purposes in view, namely, to provide for the safety of the country and to prevent illicit communication between alien enemies here and their governments abroad. Everything hitherto done in the way of internment has been done on the responsibility of the War Office and Admiralty. Police registration and supervision is fully enforced in the case of all alien enemies not interned.

JAPAN SYMPATHIZERS.

TOKIO, May 12.

The Japanese Government has sent messages of sympathy upon the loss of life in the Lusitania disaster. The Press of the country is bitterly arraiging Germany for the sinking of the ship. The Asahi Shimbu characterizes it as a massacre of innocents, certain to excite the righteous indignation of the Americans. Other papers declare that the time has come to remove forever the German menace.

CABINET TENDERS RESIGNATION.

WINNIPEG, May 12.

Premier Roblin, with his colleagues has tendered the resignation of his cabinet, this morning. Lieut. Governor Sir Douglas Cameron, has summoned Mr. Norris, the Leader of the Opposition, to form an Administration, and he has accepted.

DISAPPOINTED.

LONDON, May 12.

The Daily Mail prints a column of interviews with prominent Americans in London, all expressing disappointment that President Wilson's Philadelphia address did not include a forcible denunciation of Germany's action.

TOO IDEALISTIC.

LONDON, May 12.

The Daily Express, commenting on President Wilson's Philadelphia speech, says it was too idealistic, and that nobody in Great Britain has any desire that America be involved in this war unless impelled thereto by its own pride.

MORE RIOTS.

GENEVA, May 12.

The Journal de Geneve has received a despatch from Saloniki, saying that many persons were killed or injured in the course of riots at Constantinople. Mobs, numbering thousands, the newspaper says, pillaged the principal shops and hotels. The Sultan's guards have been called out.

THE GERMAN FAILURE.

London News and Leader:—The main purpose to which the Germans devoted the winter and sacrificed an incalculable host of men has failed. They have not captured Warsaw or the system of railways of which it is the ganglion, and having failed in that they have completely failed in their object of holding Russia in check while they released their eastern armies for a decisive campaign in the West. So far are they from success indeed that all thought of Warsaw seems to have disappeared and the Russians are establishing a clear supremacy in the Carpathians. The Turkish offensive both in the direction of Egypt and still more in the Caucasus has ended ingloriously, and it is not probable that it will be seriously resumed. Finally, at sea the German power has now entirely ceased to exist.

Firm and Strong
Stand by States
Against Germany.

If the press forecast of the American Note to Germany correctly interprets its tenor, it will afford much more satisfaction than the forecasts that have been current hitherto. The American Government, it is said, demand full reparation in the way of money indemnity to the two hundred and more American victims of German submarine atrocity. They demand also that non-combatants shall enjoy the right, recognized by International Law of travelling on merchantmen, neutral or belligerent, without being subject to the risk of sudden death or disablement by the action of German naval vessels sinking the vessels on which they travel without making adequate provisions for the safety of those aboard before they sink the vessel. They ask Germany to adhere to this rule, and demand a guarantee for its observance in future. It will be observed that the principle laid down is broad and general and applies to all non-combatants, whether they be citizens of a neutral nation, and that the American Government repudiate absolutely any claim that any such notice as that given by the German Embassy at Washington, of the intention of Germany to sink the Lusitania if she could, and that, regarding the Americans not to book by the vessel, in any way palliates the heinousness of the outrage or responsibility of Germany for its results. The principle is set forth that no notice of an intention to commit an act illegal under international law and inhuman in its very nature can cure the act of its illegality or attenuate the inhumanity. The Note is said to be firm and courteous and that, regarding to Germany an intimation that if satisfaction is not afforded for the past, and a guarantee given that the murderous attacks on non-combatants at sea shall cease, the United States will take such steps, diplomatic or other, which may be necessary to enforce the demands made in the note.

AMERICA DEMANDS GUARANTEED FOR CASUALTIES OF SUBMARINE MURDERS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. The United States note is to be sent to Germany to-day. It demands a guarantee that there will be no further attacks by submarines on merchant ships carrying non-combatants. It serves a notice also that full reparation will be sought for the loss of more than one hundred American lives in the sinking of the Lusitania, and for other violations of American rights in the sea zones of the war. While no indication is given as to what steps will be taken by the States in the event of an unfavorable reply, the note informs the German Government that the American Government will leave nothing undone either by diplomatic representation or other action to obtain compliance with its request. No changes were made in the essentials of the communications, as formulated on Sunday by the President, and approved by the Cabinet yesterday. The United States points out that it never admitted Germany's rights in the submarine war zone. Its declaration therefore is now asked from Germany, that it should accept responsibility for attacks on American vessels or lives. Strict accounting will be sought, although Germany is in effect reminded that no reparation can restore the lives of those sacrificed in the sinking of the Lusitania and other ships. Expressions of regret may comply with legal precedent, but they are valueless unless accompanied by a cessation of practices endangering the lives of non-combatants. The right of neutral nations to travel to any point on the high seas on neutral or belligerent merchantmen is asserted. In the name of humanity and international law, the United States demands a guarantee that these rights will be respected and that there be no repetition of attacks on merchantmen carrying non-combatants. The point is made that notice of an intention to do an unlawful act neither justified nor legalized it. The suggestion is conveyed that the German Government, of course, could not have intended to destroy innocent lives, and that consequently the German submarine commanders must have misunderstood their instructions. The American Government indicates its hope that this will be found to be true, and a cessation of the unlawful practices thereby will result. In conclusion, Germany's attention is called to the earnestness of the Government and people of the United States in this situation. It is made

NO GENERAL INTERNING. LONDON, To-day. It is not likely even now that the Government will take the bold course of interning every male enemy alien of military age, says the Times, which declares the cases will be considered on their merits. It is understood no new measures will be taken against naturalized Germans and Austrians. The Times publishes the names of a considerable number of prominent Germans who have written to express their abhorrence of German methods of warfare and their devotion to the land of their adoption.

BOTH CAPTURES CAPITAL OF GERMAN S. W. AFRICA. LONDON, To-day. An official statement made public at Cape Town, was received by the Reuters Company. It says that Windhoek, the capital of German South West Africa, was captured yesterday without resistance by forces under General Buller. Both troops took a considerable quantity of railway rolling stock. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the conquered territory.

FRENCH CAPTURE 3,000 GERMAN PRISONERS. PARIS, To-day. The official Eye-witness, with the French Army, gives supplementary details of French success at Carigny and Neuville, north of Arras. More than 3,000 prisoners, including four officers, have been taken in this region since Sunday. The village of Carigny is a heap of ruins, but these have been strongly fortified, rendering fighting extremely difficult. The heights above the town are commanded by a road leading from Givency to Bethune.

ITALIAN EXODUS FROM AUSTRIA. UDINE, Italy, To-day. Every precaution has been made for the proclamation of a state of siege in all Austrian territory which borders on Italy. Italians, whose homes are in Austria, already have fled for safety across the frontier in great numbers. It is estimated that forty thousand have left Trieste alone while the total will aggregate 120,000. Large contingents of Austrian troops are constantly arriving at Trieste and points in Gorz and Gradisca. It is asserted in military circles that the Austrians have been quietly gathering this new army for possible operations against Italy.

TO STOP HORSE RACES. LONDON, To-day. A movement looking to the abolition of all horse racing until the end of the war, has been started privately in the Commons.

ANTI-GERMAN FEELING. LONDON, To-day. Anti-German demonstrations have virtually ceased at Liverpool and Manchester. Last night 90 shops were damaged in Liverpool during the disturbance. Rioting at Glasgow has not been serious, although the feeling runs high. At Newcastle and Gateshead, many German shops were attacked. The movement for ceasing to sell goods to Germans, is spreading to many towns.

Supreme Court. (Before the Chief Justice.) YESTERDAY. The case of Tobias LeDrew vs. Robinson & Co., Ltd., for libel was continued yesterday afternoon. Immediately after recess the Chief Justice charged the jury. The jury retired at 2:55 p.m. W. J. Higgins takes exception to His Lordship's charge. The jury return at 3:30 p.m. with a verdict for the Defendant. W. J. Higgins moves that judgment be entered for the Defendant. It is ordered that judgment be entered for the Defendant with costs.

TO-DAY. Edwin Kean vs. George M. Barr.—This is an action for $1,000 damages for wrongfully taking the vessel "J. S. Munn" from Plaintiff and for the return of the said vessel or its value together with $1,000 for damages for wrongfully taking cargo of fish and oil then on board the said vessel. McNelly and Mews for Plaintiff, Morine, K.C., for Defendant. Several witnesses are examined, and the court takes recess until 2:30 p.m.

American Woman Robbed by Germans. Miss O'Reilly Complains of Brutal Treatment on Way to Hague. London, May 6.—The Daily Mail quotes Mary Boyle O'Reilly, an American writer and social worker, daughter of John Boyle O'Reilly, as saying that she was robbed by German officials at Warnemuende, while on her way from Copenhagen to The Hague to report to the woman's peace congress for the English speaking peoples and was ordered excluded from Germany. Miss O'Reilly says that her baggage was searched at Warnemuende and her letters of introduction, books, a piece of English gold and some Russian music toys were confiscated. "I then had to submit to a brutal personal search," she continued. "My dresses and even the boots I was wearing were ripped open, and I was ordered to return to the boat. My passport was marked, 'Forbidden to enter Germany.' "While I was in the boat a German officer asked me, 'Do you wish the fatherland to be victorious?' I replied, 'No.' After further questions he said: 'The Americans are sending England the ammunition without which the English could not beat us. Damn the Americans!'"

Ever Ready Hot Water, Night and Day. FOR THE NURSERY. The bath ready for baby, when baby is ready for the bath, should be an advantage of every housewife—who should also keep in mind that any trouble saved to the nurse makes for a well-ordered, contented household. Gas Water-Heaters, whether of the instantaneous or circular type, offer the convenience of available hot water "upstairs, downstairs, and in my tub" for labour of grate cleaning, and at all independently of the state of the kitchen fire. The cost is reasonable. An uncertain supply of hot water in the bathroom is a frequent cause of annoyance. Hot water can only be secured, usually, by getting the cook to act as stoker, but at what a cost! Think of the coal that is wasted—the fatigue of coal carrying—the extra labour of grate cleaning—and the discomfort of a hot kitchen in warm weather! A Gas Water-Heater is economical, because it only heats the water actually required; and labour-saving, because there are no coals to carry, no ashes to clean, no ashes or dirt to remove. The master of the house has hot shaving water and a hot bath whenever he wishes without delay or trouble.

HOT WATER FOR THE HOUSEHOLD. When "Spring cleaning days" engross the housewife, then the convenience of an unlimited supply of hot water on the upper floors is brought home to her with special force. But at all times—apart from convenience—a gas water-heater makes an irresistible appeal to the housewife from the point of view of dealing with the domestic problem. Latter-day domestics are difficult to keep unless due consideration is shown by saving them unnecessary drudgery—and in the category of unnecessary drudgery may be included the toil of carrying hot water or coal upstairs, the cleaning of grates and the removal of dirt and ashes. The gas water-heater renders such labour superfluous.—May 12/15

GOOD AND EVIL. The poet got his facts awry, concerning what a t lives after death; the good men do lives on for aye, the evil passes like a breath. A noble thought, by thinker t h u n k, will live a n d flourish through t h e years; a noble thought, by ignoble goes kerplunk, to perish in a pool of tears. Man dies, and folks around his bed behold his tranquil, outworn clay; "We'll speak no evil of the dead, but recollect the good," they say. Then one recalls some noble trait which figured in the ice-cold gait. "He fixed the Widow Johnsing's gate, and wouldn't charge a doggone cent." "Oh, he was grand when folks were ill; he'd stay and nurse them night and day, and hand them the bolus and the pill, and never hint around for pay." "He ran three blocks to catch my wig when April weather was at large." "He butchered Mrs. Jagway's pig, and smoked the hams, and didn't charge." Thus men conspire, to place on file and make a record of the good, and they'd forget the mean or vile for which, perhaps, in life you stood. The shining heroes we admire had faults and vices just like you; when they concluded to expire, their fallings kicked the bucket, too.

At the House of Commons. MAY 13. Petitions were presented from Elliott's Cove, St. John's, and from Cuckhold's Cove, St. John's, and from Wesleyville, and from Moreton's Harbor, subject of Prohibition of the sale of liquor. The Bill respecting the management of a Permanent Marine Fishers' Fund was read a third time and sent to the Upper House for passage. The House then went into Committee of the Whole on Mr. J. A. B. Premier, who introduced a Bill, spoke first and gave notice of the Council from its first meeting. He thought the present Bill, as drafted by Sir James Act, was as good as possible, but believed that there was an administrative improvement to be made in our streets and a disgraceful sight to see each day, left out since the previous night, receptacles for our principal refuse, filled and an invitation to meddle with. He contended that and other reforms effected without a new charter, the present Commission had been appointed a year ago, and that 3,000 citizens, who had organized the work of the Commission, he said they could do much while in the way of pending legislation as the new legislation was proposed, said the Premier, the Board at extra six months hold the election next December, the present Board make their report and reasonable and commendable consideration next year, said that some people had said that the seven years' term of the Board at extra six months, not pay any attention to the suggestions to be set in this regard, they were highways, Mr. Lloyd moved that the should take place in June next, that the Commission should continue until July 1915, in order to complete the work on their charge and draft a charter they had been appointed, and with regard to the elected under the Municipal Act, passed next session. The objection of the suspension of the election last year, was in order to drafting a new charter and the Council back under the old holding the election before the admission copy report was brought work of the Commission. It taken no part in bringing the mission into being, but being in existence those who desired at its birth should at least live sufficiently long to complete the work before the Commission, and that its sponsors, the Minister and the Government stood for its promotion, the fact which gave it existence last. The majority of those who were ready spoken on both sides of the House had expressed their hope that the Government would take matters into consideration as the new elections under the charter. The amendment was the only rational policy to take in the present circumstances. It was repudiated, suggested by the City Councillors of December had been likened to highways, had, however, no hesitation in saying the work of the Commission, he had laboured to work have the projected new Charter, to be put to Burke, it being the fact, although in the House last, he acted as sponsor for the were to father it. The Premier laboured hard the whole of the sent sitting to prove that the Commissioners did their in the way of civic legislation, wholly futile, he said, to count. There would have been in delivering himself of such last year before he had been the Commission into being, but the speech was inopportune and adversely not on the Commission on himself, and showed that there was a material issue between the Commission and it was fair and reasonable that they should not be killed before a chance to speak for itself. Mr. CHT was the next speaker, (making what he did not say) a lengthy comment on the before the chair and did not to treat it as a party question, said last year the House could petitions from a large section of residents of St. John's asking for control and management of the affairs be placed in the hands of Commissioners for a period of 12 months. Certain recommendations were for several reforms and the Board appointed to carry out the suggestions made, as far as he observed and learn he believed Commissioners have done some work and that we all should be indebted to Mr. Gosling and his for the manner in which they formed their duties. They had had time for the reasons stated. Report to complete the work, out to do and he (Mr. C.) is inclined to give them sufficient to finish that work. If he were raising a slogan on the finish his work and in view of the accomplishments of the present it that gentleman could be in confidence in other parts of the months it would be to the advantage of the city. He had heard of the remarks of the Premier, whom he considered capable of giving an opinion on Municipal. He concurred with the Premier the main but disagreed with one point and that was that of extending the term of the until December next to give time that is, if the Board would remain in office, as he and some members of it were desired, he would be a great pity if the Board of reliable business men is hampered in their proposals anything done in the House could not see any good reason (See 7th column.)

At the House.

MAY 12th, 1915.
Petitions were presented by Mr. Stone from Elliott's Cove asking for repairs to a wharf; and by Mr. Cliff from Cuckhold's Cove; Mr. Winsor from Westville, and Mr. Jennings from Moreton's Harbor on the subject of Prohibition.
The Bill respecting the Establishment of a Permanent Marine Disaster's Fund was read a third time and sent to the Upper House for concurrence.
The House then went into Committee of the Whole on Municipal Affairs.
The Premier, who introduced the Bill, spoke first and gave a history of the Council from its first inception to the present. Municipal government, as created by Sir James Winter, was as good as it is possible to have, but believed that there was room for administrative improvement. Talking in terms he described the bad condition of our streets and that it was a disgraceful sight to see a street to noon left out since 9 o'clock the previous night, receptacles of all sorts on our principal streets, and an invitation to every dog to meddle with. He contended that and other reforms could be effected without a new charter as to the present Commission he said they were appointed a year ago at the request of 3,000 citizens. Though he recognized the work of the Commission he said they could do nothing worth while in the way of recommending legislation as there was no need of new legislation. He proposed, said the Premier, to give the Board an extra six months and hold the election next December. In December the present Board will make their report and whatever is reasonable and commendable in it will be considered. He said that some people had got an idea that the seven men to be selected by the ratepayers of St. John's would not pay any attention to the recommendations to be set in this report as though they were highwaymen.
Mr. Lloyd moved that the elections should take place in June 1915, and that the Commission should hold office until July 1915, in order that they might complete the work committed to their charge and draft the new charter they had been appointed to draft, and that the new Council be elected under the Municipal Act to be passed next session. The only justification of the suspension of the election last year was the desirability of drafting a new charter and to bring a Council back under the old regime by holding the election before the Commission could report was the Commission's work. He had taken no part in bringing the Commission into being, but being brought to the attention of those who had assisted at its birth should at least allow it to live sufficiently long to complete its function and to draft the city charter that its progenitors said was needed, and that its sponsors, the Prime Minister and the Government, should stand for in promoting the legislation which gave it existence last year.
The majority of those who had already spoken on both sides of the issue had expressed the hope that the Government would take these matters into consideration and hold the new elections under the Municipal Act. The amendment set forth the only rational policy to follow in the present circumstances. Mr. Lloyd stipulated the suggestion that the City Councillors of December next had been likened to highwaymen. He had, however, no hesitation in likening the work of the Premier in this afternoon to that of a highwayman. He had laboured to work havoc with the projected new Charter. He had tried to burke it before it was born, although in the House last session he acted as sponsor for those who were to father it. The Premier had laboured hard the whole of the present sitting to prove that whatever the Commissioners did their efforts in the way of civic legislation if not wholly futile, would be of little account. There would have been sense in delivering himself of such opinions last year before he had brought the Commission into being, but now the speech was inopportune and reflected adversely not on the Commission but on himself, and showed that there was a material issue between him and the Commission and it was only fair and reasonable that the work should not be killed before it had a chance to speak for itself.
Mr. Cliff was the next speaker, intimating that he did not wish to make any lengthy comment on the matter before the chair and did not intend to treat it as a party question. He said last year the House considered petitions from a large section of the residents of St. John's asking that the control and management of the city affairs be placed in the hands of Commissioners for a period of 12 months. Certain recommendations were made for several reforms and the present Board appointed to carry out the suggestions made. As far as he could observe and learn he believed the Commissioners have done excellent work and that we all should be indebted to Mr. Gosling and his Board for the manner in which they performed their duties. They have not had time for the reasons stated in the report to complete the work they set out to do and he (Mr. C.) is strongly inclined to give them sufficient time to finish that work. If, he said, we were raising a slogan on this question I would suggest: "Let Gosling finish his work," and in view of the accomplishments of the present Board if that gentlemen could be induced to continue in office for another 12 months it would be to the advantage of the city. He had heard with interest the remarks of the Premier whom he considered capable of forming an opinion on Municipal Affairs. He concurred with the Premier in the main but disagreed with him on one point and that was that instead of extending the term of the Board until December next to give them time to remain in office, as he understood some members of it were desirous of being relieved. He considered it would be a great pity if the present Board of reliable business men should be hampered in their proposals by anything done in the House and he could not see any good reason why (See 7th column.)

At the House.

the term of office should not be extended to 12 months instead of 6 months and if such were effected it would be advantageous to all concerned.
Mr. Clapp endorsed the remarks of Mr. Lloyd and said he would support his amendment. He referred to the self-sacrificing and gratuitous work of the Commission. In asking that an additional 12 months be extended to allow the Commissioners to finish their work thoroughly, said it is this House and this city going to be worse off if they are granted this extension of time. He pointed out that this body of men must have the interest of the city at heart otherwise they would not be so eager for an extension. He advocated a further postponement of six months then if there is any objectionable matter contained in the new Bill when it is brought in it can be thrown out and put the new Bill before the taxpayers of the city and they can decide who are best to put in office.
Mr. Dwyer said it was also his desire that the present Commissioners remain in office until next June to complete their work. He thought that great credit was due the Commissioners for the excellent work they had done and believed that with the experience they had got would do even better work within the next 12 months. Mr. Dwyer suggested also that they be paid for their work as they were more entitled to remuneration than some of the civil service officials who draw salaries for doing no work and this was notably the case in connection with the Board of Works Department. Continuing, he referred to the countless reforms that were necessary to be made in the city.
Mr. Woodford rose to defend his department saying that the officials there were overworked.
Mr. Dwyer said he did not mean those whom Mr. Woodford referred to and added: "You do not look like you're overworked."
Mr. Lloyd's amendments were then put and lost on a party vote. The Bill went through Committee.
The House then resolved itself into Committee of the Whole on Certain Resolutions confirming an Agreement between the Government of the Colony and the Newfoundland-American Packing Company.
Mr. Lloyd asked the Premier if he had any information to supply. The Premier had not. In the main, he said, we hope that this contract will result differently than other attempts. The main point in the Contract was that the Government will give a guarantee to add to the earnings if the Company cannot declare a dividend of 5 p.c. He suggested that the same principles be adopted in limiting the guarantee as in 1912. Interpreting the Premier said he had no objection to such an amendment. Mr. Lloyd considers a guarantee for ten years was long enough.
Mr. Morine thought contracts of this kind inexpedient and would not support it and held that a concern looking for such a guarantee had not much hope of success.
The Premier spoke briefly on the Resolutions pointing out the benefits and advantages of coal storage.
The Ministers of Finance and Marine and Fisheries showed what a great thing it would be to have a cold storage plant for bait fishes.
The Committee then rose and adjournment taken, after the Finance Minister gave notice of a Bill dealing with the exportation of timber.

Criticisms That "Rile" Me.
By RUTH CAMERON.

"Yes, she's nice, but she likes the men pretty well!" It was said in criticism of a jolly, companionable girl in our neighbourhood, I quote it because it is the kind of criticism that makes me indignant.

"She likes the men pretty well?" A n d w h y shouldn't she? Doesn't every normal girl? Sex attraction is one of nature's first laws. It is as inevitable for a young girl to be drawn toward young men as for the lark to sing in the morning or the bud to open into the rose.

To think of nothing else but the opposite sex is, of course, wrong. And to show this attraction too plainly is foolish because that is to defeat one's own ends, but I do not dislike the girl who does it any more than I do the pedantic abnormal girl who pretends to have no interest in the other sex, very likely in order to cover up the fact that they have little interest in her.

The Woman Who Said She Wanted a Husband.

I know a woman who always said frankly (even at a time when men did not seem to be attracted by her), "I like men. I'm sorry they are not attracted by me. I hope to marry some time." I want to know love and marriage and motherhood just as I want to experience friendship and the joy of work and everything else that makes a rounded life. If I am not married by the time I am thirty-three, I am going into a community where there are not more women than men, and where I shall have more chance of finding my mate."

Of course she did not go around saying this to casual acquaintances, only to people who might understand. She was not bold, she loved her work and she had many interests outside her interest in the other sex, but she wasn't afraid to admit that, too—and I, for one, respect her for it.

Putting "Woman's Only Business" Above Business.

We were talking about a girl who was refused to accept a good business opportunity which would take her to another city. "She doesn't want to lose her chance to get Richard," said one young married woman with the scorn they are so apt to feel toward the manoeuvres they recently practised themselves.

"Oh, I should hate to think that," said an older woman who rather admires the girl.

But why should she hate to think that? Why, why, why?

Richard is at the "almost" stage. He is a mate worth having. Why shouldn't the danger of losing him be a factor in making this girl not want to go away?

More Criticisms That "Rile" Me.

"She's always thinking about a good time."

"She loves admiration."

"She's pretty, but she knows it."

These are other criticisms of young girls that arouse my ire.

Of course, she's always thinking about a good time. A young person who wasn't would be as unnatural as young person with the stoop and pallor of age.

Of course, she likes admiration. If she is willing to pay too dearly for it, that's one thing, but to like it, that's another, and it perfectly normal state of affairs.

Meeting of the Patriotic Association.

A meeting of the Patriotic Association was held at the Board of Trade rooms last night. It was presided over by His Excellency the Governor and was very largely attended. His Excellency in opening the meeting referred to the advancement of Capt. Franklin and Macpherson and paid a particular tribute to the good work in connection with the Newfoundland Regiment and also to Capt. Ayre, who had given splendid service. He made reference to the fact that 177 men are now under drill and are making splendid progress, and will uphold the record of our men who have gone forward. The following recommendations of the Finance Committee were unanimously adopted:

In the case of total disablement the rates are, below commission rank, $1.00 a day; Lieutenants, $1.50 a day; Captains, $2.00 a day; Majors, $2.50 a day.

In case of death the ratings are, below commission rank: Widow, $25.00 per month; children, $5.00 per month; Lieut. widow, $40.00 per month; children, $6.00 per month; Captain, widow, $50.00 per month; children, $7.00 per month; Major, widow, $60.00 per month; children, $8.00 per month.

Widowed mothers of unmarried men rank for widow's pension.

Children, "and quality for the allowance up to 16 years, and females up to 17 years.

Pensions in all cases cease after marriage. In regard to partial disablement, the Committee asks the authority of the Legislature to spend $10,000 if necessary, and promise to report definitely laying down a schedule at the next sitting of the Legislature.

The foregoing deals only with officers and men of the First Newfoundland Regiment and their dependants. With regard to the Naval Reserve, the Committee recommends that pensions or allowances made by the Admiralty to officers and members of the Newfoundland Naval Reserve or their dependants should be supplemented by the Colony, so as to put them on the same footing as officers and men of the Newfoundland Regiment.

The reports of the Reserve Force Committee, submitted by J. A. Cliff, Esq., K.C.; the Rifles Committee, by Capt. Rennie; the Recruiting Committee, by Hon. W. C. Job; the Finance Committee, by Hon. M. P. Cashin; and the Patriotic Fund Committee, by E. A. Downing, Esq., were all discussed in turn.

The figures of the Recruiting Committee's report showed that they are still 37 men short of the required number in the Naval Reserve.

In his report Hon. M. P. Cashin stated that up to March 31st the total amount requisitioned from the Treasury in connection with the Volunteer movement was $35,117.92, and on account of the Reserve Force, $122,474.92—a total of $157,592.84. This leaves a balance of $16,207.15.

The Premier stated that the several recommendations made by the Association would be brought before the Legislature at an early date.

Mr. Cliff moved that the fund now known as the Patriotic Fund be incorporated, which was unanimously passed. The matter of giving badges to volunteers was discussed, after which the meeting adjourned at 10 p.m.

In 1670 the monopoly of trading in furs was granted to the Company, in whose hands the practical control was vested of the whole of what is now the North of the Dominion of Canada. In 1858 part of the Hudson Bay Territory was formed into British Columbia, and in 1859 the landed privileges of the Hudson Bay Company were purchased by Canada.

The speaker was Mr. D. A. Brotherton, a well known citizen of this place. Continuing Mr. Brotherton said:

"For several years I was troubled with Rheumatism in my left hand which would shift to my elbow and then to my left shoulder. It was very annoying and painful at times. "I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills being hyped so I quit the liniment I had been using and took six boxes of them. The Rheumatism disappeared."

"I also know Dodd's Kidney Pills to be good for Kidney trouble both in my own case and through others."

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. If the Kidneys are healthy they will strain all the uric acid out of the blood. The natural way to cure the Rheumatism is to cure the Kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure sick Kidneys.

THE CHILD and THE CHURCH!

Third Lecture of a Series on this Subject Delivered Tuesday, May 11th, in Gower St. Church.

By REV. D. B. HEMMEON, B. A.

(Concluded.)
 There are certain essential truths in Bible History, in the Prophets, and in the New Testament. These should be incorporated into a regular course, differing in text, subject matter, and method of presentation for each separate grade. Such standard courses have already been adopted in many schools and can be obtained quite easily.
 I think a decided loss of effectiveness in the Sunday School has been the result of a too close intimacy in Sunday School work, by means of Conventions, with those whose whole theory of the relation of the child to the church differs from ours. The effect of such contact has, without a doubt, weakened the hold of the Church on the child.

Another matter that calls for notice is the abuse of Decision Day. The Primary Department of a Sunday School should never be subject to the cordons of Decision Day. The reasons for this have already appeared in our study of the child. Many schools are at present confining the observance of the day to the higher grades where, rightly observed, as the result of careful thought and plans, it has proved a most helpful adjunct to Sunday School work.
 I would like to speak briefly in this connection of the whole matter of vow and pledge-taking as now observed in our Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies. The question we must ask is, what is the effect upon the character of the young person of taking a vow, to abstain from or perform an act that is not of universal, essential and unalterable authority? When one lays upon himself such a vow from one's own convictions, the vow is unnecessary so long as the convictions remain. When the convictions change, the result is a conscience that obeys a rule rather than a principle—the opinion of men rather than eternal righteousness. I venture the assertion that many teachers, preachers and parents have extracted vows from young children to keep a rule that was only the opinion of themselves and some others who agreed with them, which in later life those children have seen was not in essential harmony with universal righteousness. One person's conscience must never be imposed permanently on another. When the matter is found to be disputable, the child will turn on you and ask you why you extracted the vow. He will then possibly assert his freedom by violating the pledge. And an unenforced rule drags the church into disrespect. The aim should be, not so much to get young persons to promise to do certain things and refrain from others, but to train the power of self-control for essential goodness.

 We come now to a consideration of Young People's Societies.

For lack of a better place to put it—as it really stands in a class by itself—I will include the Catechumen Class with such societies. It is doubtful if the church possesses a piece of excellent machinery more neglected than the Catechumen Class. It is an ancient institution, and was only discarded as a result of that neglect of the child mentioned above. When the child ceased to be considered a member of the church the Catechumen Class died. But it is being restored again. Personally, I have found it workable and efficient. And nothing can supplant it as a culture-ground for those that are planted in the House of the Lord, that shall flourish in the courts of our God.

The Societies among the young people that have sprung up in the recent past aim at turning the activities of the whole life of the youth churchward. Perhaps it is too early to judge accurately of their permanent efficiency and value. In so far as they are an adaptation of the church to the peculiarities of modern civilization, their value is only temporary. In so far as they supply a permanent necessity, they will continue.

If they could control culture, labor and athletics, fusing all together in the warmth of a broad and permanent religious faith, their work would be incalculable. These societies are an attempt to supply the demand of social impulse among the young, and as such should receive their fair share of attention from the church. Such societies should be under the control of the church and the minister, since they are likely otherwise to become the playground of immature leaders, or the scene of petty jealousies, envies and struggles for leadership among those who are still in process of being educated.

In some of our larger centres, there have recently grown up within the church young men's and young women's unions. These are comprised mostly of those young people who are flocking to the cities for a living, or for a training. This is an excellent opportunity for the church to open her doors to the young and invite them to make use of her classrooms, shelter and atmosphere in which to study and engage in a free interchange of thought upon those most fascinating and momentous questions now engaging, and destined to continue to engage, the best thought of the most earnest minds. Sociological problems, Strikes-Labor and Capital, The Relation of the Church to Politics and Moral Reform, the Problems of Responsible Government, the Abuses of Democracy, and kindred questions. These are going to be the things the church must touch and solve. It is, therefore, highly advisable that she should provide the means and create the atmosphere for a free discussion of such questions in the new, growing and complex conditions of to-day. Let her turn no earnest life from her doors. May her motto always in the future, as in the past, be "All are welcome."

In this connection let me quote the language of the report of the Sociological Committee to the last General Conference. "We think it advisable that such clubs be conducted that those may feel at home in them who do not agree with many things the church believes, but whose hearts are burdened with the problems of economic injustice."

There now remains one other agency in the church for the training of the young, and I have purposely left it till the last because, without doubt, it is the most important. I speak of the Home.

As it is the oldest institution, it will live the longest. It has witnessed the growth and decay of many make-shifts and substitutes for itself. But it has never yet, nor will it ever, witness a real substitute.

There is no doubt that the home is not occupying the place it should in the religious life of so-called Christian civilization, and the reason for this are apparent. The father's occupation keeps him from home almost all the child's waking hours, thus preventing sympathy and good fellowship. The demands upon the mother's time, owing to those increasing calls from society, the desire for fine clothes, fine houses, display and publicity—a frivolity that has communitated itself to all classes in society—all these have separated the parent from the child.

Men are thinking only of increasing their wealth, for they know that today, more than ever the world judges a man not by his methods of getting so much as by the amount he gets, so that the craze to get rich keeps men away from their homes and children. And the price all this demands is the awful one of the character of the child. The modern child has no home.

For, let it be understood once for all, that if the things for which the family was designed are not accomplished by the family, they will never be accomplished by another means. God's work admits of no such proxy.

It is easy to mention the Sunday School. The Sunday School has its place. It is a Sunday School. It teaches the child one hour out of the one hundred and sixty eight. What about the other one hundred and sixty seven? Its greatest weakness lies in this attempt to do a work that, in the eternal nature of things, it cannot do. The efforts that the Sunday School has made to do the work of the home only escape being ludicrous by the paths of their undeniable and stark futility.

You will hear it spoken of at Conventions by imported so-called "experts"—men and women who, out of a superficial smartness and the ingenuity of restless "hustle," describe it as a heaven-sent panacea—a providential cure-all for the selfish negligence and worldly apathy of the home.

In so far as the Sunday School has tried to do what the home should do, I have no hesitation in characterizing it as a colossal and dismal failure. Nothing can take the place of the home. Therefore let nothing try to take its place lest both be ruined. Rob the church of the home and its training, and you send her childless into the wilderness of a barren future. For these reasons, then, I have these suggestions to offer in conclusion.

A new interest must be awakened in the children within the family circle. In endeavoring to do this the church will meet two kinds of opposition. First that of apathy, and second that of ignorance.

To meet the first difficulty the church must arouse the parent to a sense of responsibility for his children's eternal welfare. He must be shown that unless he does his share, the church, as a church, can never do it for him. He cannot throw his own responsibility upon the minister, the Sunday School, the Epworth League, or any Society. He must bear it himself. It may make him poorer, it may keep him from the club, it may limit his notoriety in business or political circles, it may limit the mother's in society. But it must be done.

To meet the second difficulty the church must teach the parent. It must show him the way of approach to this tender thing, the heart and life of his child. How to train him, what play, what food, what companions, what environment.

And to this end the church must organize a mission to her homes and families, such a mission to be led by earnest, devoted, and trained men and women who shall arouse and teach the mothers and fathers of the church.

I am convinced that the outlay for such a work would amply repay her. I believe large numbers of parents are capable of being aroused and that large numbers are already anxious about these things.

Before long the results of such a work would appear in a quiet growth—a vast yet powerful acceleration of real religious living through all the land.

Brethren, notwithstanding all drawbacks, we live in a day of glorious promise. The hearts of the parents are turning to the children.

Even after deducting the necessary amount from the assertions of the political visionary and the patriotic dreamer, what remains of practical probability must inspire all earnest men with a sense of deep responsibility for their share in the grandeur of the days that will shortly dawn on this last great nation, of which you and I are citizens.

The largest and most influential protestant church in Canada is the Methodist Church. The largest share therefore, in assimilating the multitudes of aliens that are flocking to our shores and in teaching them to train the children belongs to us. Can we do the work? If so, how?

Once we regenerated England, Now this new-work awaits us. It needs not another Wesley, if you and I are true to our calling.

The work there was regenerative. The work here must be a combination of all that was permanent remaining from those methods combined with the best educational methods of today. Let us hold what we have in our homes, and let us go forth with the evangel of God to possess the remainder.

But to this end we must meet the incoming tide of immigration with no artificial interpretations of duty. Our requirements must be generous enough to admit all faithful souls who seek the light, yet deeply grounded on principles of eternal truth and righteousness.

So shall the church of the future—let us say the Methodist Church of the future—charging upon her eschutcheon where has been seen these many years the figure of a kneeling penitent, that other figure—sometimes forgotten—of a little child, expand her sheltering walls and open her shining gates to offer sanctuary to the families of the world.

THE WAR'S MOST DRAMATIC FEATURE.

A factor to be considered in noting the mishaps of British men-of-war is that the shipyards are busy night and day adding new vessels to the fleet of the very latest pattern—vessels much more efficient than the ones destroyed. Britain's effective control of the sea is perhaps the most dramatic feature of the entire war. The way she has held the German navy in check, despite the occasional foray of a submarine, is nothing short of epic in its scope and significance. —Providence Journal.

Died in Action.

An official message to Mr. A. J. Boone, of Millertown, conveys the information that his brother Gordon Valentine Boone, had fallen on the field of honour in the fierce battle of Saturday last. Gordon Boone was one of the first Newfoundlanders to be recorded in response to the call for volunteers. He was at Ontario when the call came and he immediately enlisted with the Canadian Artillery Corps, and sailed with the first contingent. He was the son of the late Samuel J. Boone, of Queen's Road, and was one of the most popular young men of this city. He was an ex-pupil of Bishop Feild College where he had a most distinguished career. He was foremost in the College work and was a prominent athlete and represented the Pelicans in all branches of sport. He will be remembered as a good cricketer, hockeyist and footballer. When he left school in 1904 he joined the engineering staff of the Reid Newfoundland Co. and later went to Mount Allison University. Having completed his studies he went to Peterboro, Ontario, whence he enlisted. One sister, Mrs. John Mathieson, of Topsail Road, and one brother, Mr. A. J. Boone, of Millertown, are left to mourn, to whom the sympathy of all Newfoundland will go out. The young soldier was about thirty years of age. He was a member of St. John's Lodge A. F. and A. M.

Eagle in Port.

MAILS FOR TEN THOUSAND.
The S. S. Eagle, Capt. E. Bishop, arrived in port from the northern sealfishery at 10 p.m. yesterday, hauling for 10,000 prime harp seals. As previously mentioned in the Telegram, the Eagle was within sight of seals during the greater part of the season but was unable to work them because of ice conditions. After getting clear the crew killed about 15,000 seals in two days, but only two-thirds of that number were recovered. While in search of old seals a wireless was received from the Bloodhound asking for assistance whereupon the Eagle took her in tow and brought her to land. Since then the Eagle has been trying to get home, having had to leave the Bloodhound at Pool's Island. She brought along some of the crew of the Bloodhound and landed several others from points in Bonavista and Trinity Bays at Gambo on Sunday last. On the way here from Wesleyville, which port she left on Tuesday afternoon, the Eagle steamed through very heavy ice. The captain and crew are all well.

MORE DIPHTHERIA.—Another new case of diphtheria has been reported from Petty Harbour.

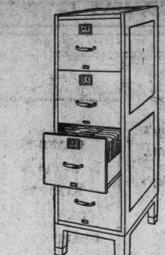

Amusements.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.
There was a crowded house last night at the ever popular little theatre. The pictures are of the very best and the two little singers received loud applause. To-night they will be heard in a new song, "I am on my way to Dublin Bay." Don't miss this show, always good at the clean, comfortable well-managed theatre in the West End. Don't forget the big contest on Friday night at Rossley's East End, there are lots of names and lots of fun.

THE BRITISH THEATRE.
The British Theatre is gaining in popularity, and the pictures shown are declared by some to be the cleanest, and being interesting subjects, are attracting large numbers of the amusement lovers. This is as it should be, the British is an old institution, and one that has done much good in the community, and it is pleasant to know that its work is being appreciated by the public at large.

A SINGER OF NOTE.
Mr. Delmonico who is drawing large crowds at the Crescent Picture Palace, is a singer of note, his articulation clear and he has a very pleasing personality, his songs are delivered in a clear tenor voice which pleases the most fastidious; a great surprise was given us while at the Theatre last evening during Mr. Delmonico's vaudeville turn, he changed his voice to a clear soprano which pleased the audience; he is a very old picture house singer, but from the course of the act he introduces a vocal imitation of the cornet, a number that is most realistic. If you have not been to hear Mr. Delmonico go to-day, he is certainly some singer; he sings to-day "Take me back to the Carolina you love."

BIG FUN CONTEST AT ROSSLEY'S.
There was a good house at Rossley's last night and there is a reason, for the finest entertainment ever presented in the city was given by those first class artists, Mr. Ballard Brown, actor-vocalist, and Miss Madge Locke, the most versatile artist and greatest lady singer seen in years; they are not picture house singers, but from the operatic and concert stage. To-night there is a complete change, all songs, dances, jokes new. On Friday is the contest and there will appear a goody array of talent, singers, dancers, reciters, comedians and acrobats; lots of names means lots of fun. The children's contest on Saturday. There is in preparation a grand production called ported pantomime, a condensed version of "There was an old woman who lived in a shoe," and patrons will be delighted to have Mr. and Mrs. Rossley appear again with Bonnie Rossley, Mr. Ballard Brown, Miss Madge Locke.

"What Are You Doing for that Eczema?"

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."
"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured me. You can get Zylex at your drugist's."

Five Million Pounds

Splendid Total of Prince's Fund.
The Prince of Wales' National Relief Fund yesterday totalled £5,012,000.
A further contribution of £25,000 from Glasgow (making a total of £207,700) and £5,000 from Derbyshire enabled this total to be reached.
The fund, which is the biggest relief fund ever raised, owes its being to an appeal which was issued by the Prince of Wales on August 6. Within a day £250,000 was raised and within seven days the first million was reached. The dates of the progress of the fund are as follows:
Fund started August 6, 1st million August 14; 2nd million, September 2; 3rd million, October 5; 4th million, December 2; 5th million, April 26.
The Transvaal War Fund from October 1899 to March 1902 reached £1,131,000.
The attainment of £5,012,000 in 262 days represents a daily income of nearly £19,130.—Daily Mail, April 27th.

Wedding Bells at South Dildo.

A pretty and interesting wedding took place at South Dildo, the home of the bride, on April 28th, when Mr. Richard Diddham, of Colinet, St. Mary's Bay, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Gertrude Emberley, second youngest daughter of Captain Wm. Emberley. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Kerivan. The bride, who was neatly attired in cream silk crepe de chine, with bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms, was given away by her father, and was attended by her sister, Miss Aggie Emberley; while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Charley Diddham. Dancing was kept up until the wee small hours of the morning. Only the near relatives and friends of the bride and groom were present. We wish the happy couple many years of wedded bliss.—X.Y.Z.

Local Fishery Has Commenced.

Codfishing operations have commenced on the local grounds since Monday morning last and a couple of motor boats from the Battery and Southside are out daily. Yesterday Mr. W. Holwell, of the latter place, fished seventy odd fish, which were of a fairly large size. The prevalence of ice yet is a drawback. Cod were also reported plentiful at Cape Broyle yesterday.

Private Frampton Wounded.

Mrs. Chas. Frampton, 19 1/2 Bonclody Street, received a telegram from Ottawa this morning informing her that her husband, Private Chas. Frampton, of the 10th Battalion, Machine Gun Section, had been wounded. Further particulars when received will be sent.

Reservist Writes.

Jerrett A. Black, of the Naval Reserve, writes an interesting letter to his mother from Davenport, England, under date April 19th. The tone of Reservist Black's letter is very cheerful, and shows that he is certainly not downhearted.
Another reservist, William Jerrett, also writes to his mother from the naval base at Ramsgate, England, under date April 21st. He is stationed on a ship engaged in mine sweeping, and is well and enjoys the work very much and speaks lightly of the risks that are attached to it.

It is highly concentrated and very economical as well as most agreeable to use. Price 50c. a bottle.

Mr. John Leamon, whose brother-in-law, Judge Knight, is in Hospital at Montreal, undergoing special treatment for a serious ailment of the throat, has just received a message sent by the judge himself, intimating that one specialist had reported that he was awaiting a report from three other specialists who had made an examination of the patient and as soon as that report was received full particulars would be forwarded here. It is to be hoped that the next news of Judge Knight's condition will be of a reassuring character.

In a message to the workers at the Royal Aircraft Factory at Farnborough, Lord Kitchener says:
"I am pleased to have the opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the grand work which is being done by the employees (both men and women) at the Royal Aircraft Factory. I am sure that they are willing to put up cheerfully with discomforts and difficulties, both in connection with their long hours of work and in the matter of housing, because they appreciate the fact that work on war munitions such as aircraft and their parts and accessories is of vital importance to the British Army. Their work is of real value, and they can feel that by their exertions they are helping the troops in the field."

FRENCH GAINS.

PARIS, via St. Pierre, May 12. North of Dixmude, the Belgian troops, who had succeeded in throwing a bridge across the right banks of the Yser, were fiercely attacked on Monday night by three German battalions, but the Belgians repulsed the latter and inflicted on them heavy losses, capturing fifty prisoners. Another Belgian division gained ground south of Dixmude. East of Ypres the British troops were again attacked, the enemy allowing the asphyxiating cloud to pass over, being sheltered by masks recently adopted. They then opened fire on the enemy from machine guns and rifles at close range, completely annihilating the German columns which were advancing in closely formed ranks.

Our success north of Arras was extended to-day. During extremely fierce fighting opposite Loona, and after a desperate struggle and in spite of fierce cannonading, we captured a large German defence work and an entire system of trenches at Cheval on the Loos-Vermeilles Road. Further south we have taken by storm the Grand Port and the Chapel of Notre Dame de Lorette. This position, strongly defended for many months by the Germans, who had converted it into a regular fortress, was overwhelmed, surrounded and captured by our troops this afternoon. Without stopping we pushed vigorously forward, throwing the enemy back between the Chapel of Notre Dame and Ablain St. Azaire. All the trenches south of the Chapel fell one after the other in our hands, and in them we found several hundred corpses.

The Germans debouching from Ablain then counter-attacked, but their counter-attack was completely smashed, and we immediately assumed the offensive and progressed in the direction of Souchez sugar refinery. At Cerecny the surrounding of the German positions was pushed forward, and we captured several plots of houses in the eastern part of the village, taking fifty prisoners, including an officer. We also progressed towards the woods to the east of the village. The enemy's communications between Cerecny and Ablain Souchez are growing gradually precarious. After a fierce struggle we captured the cemetery at Neuville St. Vaast, which was strongly fortified by the Germans. We then progressed southeast of this village, which we are overwhelming westward and eastward.

In Sector Loos-Arras where on Sunday we captured three lines of German trenches, fighting is now taking place on the fourth line. Prisoners, of which the number is continually increasing, declare that orders were given to hold at any cost the Chapel and Fort of Notre Dame de Lorette. On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report apart from artillery contests. In the Dardanelles during May 8th, the Franco-British troops operating in the south of the Gallipoli Peninsula, with the help of the guns of the Allied fleets, launched a general attack against the Turkish positions, which had been partially destroyed on the previous day. Our troops, who are in remarkably good condition, captured at the point of the bayonet several lines of trenches in the neighbourhood of Kiritlia, strengthening and consolidating the same. The Turks did not counter-attack.

Pure Piracy.

SAYES COL. ROOSEVELT. Syracuse, N.Y., May 7.—When informed to-night of the sinking of the Lusitania, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt made the following statement to The Associated Press: "I can only repeat what I said a week ago when, in similar fashion, the American vessel Gulfight was destroyed off the English coast and her captain lost his life. I then called attention to what I had said two months previously, when the Germans established this war zone and announced that with mines and submarines they would commit the deeds that since they have committed; and that these deeds could by no rule of international law be regarded otherwise than as pure piracy."
