A Simple Home Test.

Put into separate pans an equal amount of Crisco and any other fat. Heat slowly for eight minutes or until they reach a temperature where a bread crumb browns in forty seconds. Notice that the Crisco does not smoke at this proper frying temperature.

You will find that frying with Crisco will be very helpful in the home for it keeps the kitchen fresh and free from the odor of cooking fats. At grocers.

"Eczema on My Face Completely Relieved"

Miss Winifred Ernest, Box 46, Blockhouse, N. S.

writes: "Ever since I was a little child, I suffered with eczema on my face. At times my face was completely covered with large sores, and I tried nearly every kind of medicine that I heard of with no results. This lasted for over twenty years, until one day I asked the advice of my druggist, who bade me give Dr. Chase's Ointment a trial. After using the Ointment for a few days, the sores began to heal, and soon I was completely relieved of the disease."

CHAPTER X.

"I know you are right, Aunt Constance," she responded, quietly, though she was inwardly disturbed by Mrs. Crosbie's words; "but consider, Stuart is impulsive, as strong-willed as yourself; if you cross him in this, who knows but that he may do something rash—perhaps marry the girl without delay, and be separated from your forever? Is it not wiser to act cautiously, to be careful and polite? I do not advocate too much warmth on your part; meet Stuart coolly, but at the same time throw no obstacle in the way. Believe me, dear Auntie, you will be relieved of all anxiety if you do this."

"But what do you propose?" asked Mrs. Crosbie, resuming her seat, and Vane saw that her advice had taken root.

"We must let the separation come from her," she answered, quickly. "It will not do to send the girl away—that would be but a stimulus to Stuart's determination. No; he must be disillusioned; and that will not be a difficult matter, I should imagine."

Mrs. Crosbie was silent for a few moments; she was irritated and displeased more than Stuart imagined she would be at the news of his attachment. To her it seemed incredible that a Crosbie should stoop to humiliate himself in this way. Vane's words fell with good effect upon her ears. Had her niece not been at hand to smooth matters with gentle tact, she would not have been able to restrain her anger. Something of the wisdom of the girl's advice came home to her as she mused. She saw that Vane was urged by jealousy and pride to break off this terrible connection, but she was quite wrong in her conclusions as to the source of that jealousy. She judged it to be solely the outcome of love for her son, and the thought came as soothing balm at such a moment. Once let them dispatch that girl, and the marriage she had planned would take place.

Vane watched her aunt intently. "You will consent?" she said, softly, breaking the silence.

"Yes," Mrs. Crosbie answered, abruptly. Vane made no immediate reply, but her heart thrilled with satisfaction. Now she must conjure up all her power to defeat Margery Daw. Plan after plan followed each other through her mind, but she could arrive at none better than trampling on this village rival's dignity and wounding her pride with darts, the sting of which would linger longest. Before she began the fray, however, she must see

Stuart breathe in his ear that she had succeeded with his mother, and thus allay any suspicion he might entertain in the future that it was through her instrumentality that his love-dream had been broken.

"Yes," said Mrs. Crosbie, again, "I will act as you suggest. I see plainly the wisdom of such a course. Were I to display the anger I feel, the consequences might be worse than the present state of things. At all hazards, we must separate him from this girl!"

Vane bent, and kissed her aunt. "I am glad you see the matter as I do. Aunt Constance, I feel I am right. Stuart must be saved from this, and, if we work well, we shall do it. Now I must start for the village. Remember, you will not let your anger be seen."

"It will be difficult, perhaps," returned Mrs. Crosbie; "but there is too much at stake, and I will control myself."

Vane moved away slowly, leaving the mother plunged in bitter thought, and mounted the stairs to her room. She put on her pretty hat, smiling triumphantly at her own image in the mirror, and, drawing on her gloves, passed along the corridor till she reached Stuart's door. She knocked softly, and whispered to the servant:

"Is your master awake?"

"Yes, miss."

"Ask him to come to the door for one minute, if he can."

Vane fastened the last button of her glove, and then stood waiting, a picture of grace and beauty, as Stuart moved slowly into the doorway.

"I am going now," she said, gently; "but, before I start, I wanted to let you know that I have succeeded with Aunt Constance. She—"

"She agrees?" interrupted Stuart, resting against the door for support.

"Yes; but," continued Vane, "you must not be surprised if she is cold and hard. Of course, she was totally unprepared for my news. I expect she will come and see you directly. Now, will you trust me again, Stuart?"

"Trust!" he echoed, putting out his hand. "I have no words to thank you with, Vane. Margery and I owe all our happiness to you."

"I thought I would tell you; and now I must go," Miss Charteris said, hurriedly. "You look pale, Stuart."

"My head aches confoundingly! I beg your pardon, Vane, but I am not used to pain, and I grow impatient. Tell Margery— But I leave it all to you. Thank you again and again."

Vane descended the stairs rapidly, and she felt as she seated herself in the smart pony-carriage that she had fought half her battle, and that, with a little care and discrimination, the victory would be easily and gracefully won.

CHAPTER XI.

Along the hot road, and through the village, where her strange, dazed look awoke wonder in the women's minds and set their tongues wagging in pity, toiled Margery. She was filled with but one thought, one terrible thought, which chilled her heart and roused her pride. Stuart Crosbie had deceived her; he had deliberately sought and— a blush dyed her cheeks at the remembrance—won her love, her pure innocent love, by false vows, which were laughed to scorn, perchance, with his cousin when he had left her. She did not doubt the truth of the words she had just heard; they had been spoken so naturally, the outcome of the speaker's knowledge. Had he not seen the lovers together? Was he not in the house, with every opportunity of judging? Now all was explained. Stuart had made his accident a pretext for leaving her in her sorrow without a word or sign. Her youth, her joy, her light of life was gone, and henceforth she was alone in the world. Her heart raised a cry against this man. Why had he sought her? Why had he ruthlessly broken the charm of childhood, and given her the sorrows of a woman? Why not have left her in her innocence, content in her humble life?

During the past three months Margery had lived in an atmosphere of indescribable happiness. She did not stop to reason with herself as to whether Stuart Crosbie's comings and goings had not an unspoken interest for her. She had welcomed him as her friend, the dearest, in truth, she possessed, until the day in Weald Wood, and then what joy filled her being! Stuart loved her. The truth was revealed to her; the key to her contentment—her joyous spirits never saddened save when by the sick woman's couch—was grasped. And now all was at an end. An indescribable pain pierced her heart; she never realized till now how deeply her affections were centered in him. Her shamed modesty resented the wound he had inflicted. "She recalled the words he had spoken, the looks she had given, the kisses he had stolen from her lips, and at each thought she grew fainter and pressed her small hands against her heart to stave its throbbings. She could think of nothing but the two figures standing in Weald Wood, with the sunshine overhead; and the picture brought a flush of shame to her face, a weight of unspoken grief to her heart."

She reached the cottage gate at last, and advanced wearily to the door. The reality of Mrs. Morris' death came to her then in all its bitter force. In all the days of her childhood, when trouble had overtaken her she had sought the gentle woman whose couch now stood blank and empty, and had found solace in her soothing love. Now she had none to whom she could turn, none to bring her peace.

She threw off her hat, and, suddenly flinging herself upon the couch, gave way to a flood of passionate tears. A thousand thoughts coursed through her mind. Was this the cross of her life? Was all that was beautiful and happy gone forever from her? Was her lot henceforth to be but sorrow and tears? Her spirit recoiled from the vision of grief. Some lines she had read a week before rose to her lips with an agony of despair:

"O God, I am so young, so young! I am not used to tears at night. Instead of slumber, not to pray! With sobbing lips and hands out-wringing!"

And, uttering a bitter cry, Margery buried her face in her hands till the paroxysm was passed.

Fatigue and sorrow had told upon her, and she rose from her knees looking, with her white, tear-strained face, the ghost of the lovely girl of a week before. Her tears had relieved her, the dull pain at her heart was gone; but the passion of her grief had weakened her, and for many minutes she lay back in a chair, the faint breeze stirring the curls on her forehead.

FOR SHATTERED NERVES

You can't cure weak, impoverished nerves by dosing yourself with drugs. What the nerves require is new life—that's electricity.

You know that the nerves convey the force that runs the human body. This nerve force is called electricity. Now when your nerve force is overtaxed by hard work, worry or dissipation, there is sure to be trouble. Not only the nerves are affected, but the heart, stomach, kidneys, liver, and other organs of the body suffer as well. Complicated diseases often result, and can only be cured by building up the nerve power. The "Ajax" Battery applied while you rest will do the work.

The "Ajax" Dry Cell Body Battery is the best and most successful device for infusing electricity into the body. It generates a steady unbroken stream of electric life with which it saturates the nerves and vital organs without the least shock or unpleasant sensation. The "Ajax" Battery cures all such troubles as lumbago, nervousness, insomnia, rheumatism, weakness of any kind, and stomach, kidney and liver and bowel disorders.

FREE TO YOU

Our 92-page illustrated book tells all about the battery, how it cures, and its cost. It does not cost you a penny to write at once without delay. Special booklets for Ladies and Gentlemen; please specify which is required when writing.

In order to save time correspondents should, when writing for the Free Booklet, state their age, sex, and full details of their case, for their precise advice can be sent by return mail. All letters are treated in the strictest confidence.

A Frenchman Who Missed Australia

"In the years that were earlier Anatole France satisfied mankind by telling the tale of the late Penguins." Now as the Paris papers tell us, the French Republic is to establish a Republic of the Penguins, on the far islands of Kerguelen's Land," says the Telegraph. "It is an admirable decision to save the penguins and the seals of the Kerguelen beaches and ensure them the inviolability of a national park."

But that the fate of Kerguelen should be to form a sanctuary of penguins adds a chapter to the book of the vanity of human wishes which Anatole France might have liked to write. Most of us know little more of Kerguelen's Land than Mr. Kipling's casual reference to it as a haven which disabled steamships in the Southern Seas might make under sail, "three jiggers burned w' smoke. Perhaps we have heard of the virtues of Kerguelen cabbage to the scurvy-stricken."

But who now remembers Yves Joseph de Kerguelen-Tremarec and his sanguine purposes? He was a Breton of high degree; he sailed away from Mauritius a hundred and fifty years ago to find a very large

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. It is simple and cheaply prepared. You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thinning out, and then disappears altogether. A day's use will usually break up a cold, and give you relief from cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments. To strengthen your throat, use your druggist for 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. In fence and remorse. In tacles. So he reported, and France sent him back to look for them. He found no spectacles, no men of any species, no diamonds, or rubies, or even any wood. He changed the name of South France to Island of Desolation, and nobody who has been there since has shown cause to alter it. The lands which Kerguelen had the happiness to discover have produced nothing of use to mortal man but seals. So the southern continent which was to command the sea route to the East and make France rich beyond her dreams, resolves itself into a republic of penguins. Such are the hopes and plans of men.

'There's Nothing To It,' Says Roy Wolvin.

Turkey Considers Intervention by Outside Powers Intolerable -- Inter-Allied Debt Problem to be Considered by France -- Canadian Export Tax on Pulpwood Opposed by American Interests.

MOVING TO IT SAYS WOLVIN.
MONTREAL, Feb. 6. There is nothing to it, no unusual complications have been introduced for the first time, according to Roy Wolvin, President of the British Empire Steel Corporation, would make to-night, the question concerning the removal of the Bell Island, Newfoundland, mines to work under the time system, and concerning a telegraph system, Mr. Wolvin by Premier Bennett of Newfoundland.

THREE DOESN'T AGREE.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 6. The Turkish Government today rejected the Greek Charge d'Affaires' proposal to the Greek note regarding the expulsion from Constantinople of the Most Rev. Constantinople, Ecumenical Patriarch of the Greek Catholic Church. The rejection is referred to the International Court at the Hague and suggests that the question is a purely internal one and declares any intervention by outside powers would be intolerable.

PARIS, Feb. 6. The Chamber of Deputies this afternoon gave the Herriot Government a vote of confidence, 326 against 215, on the Wheat Bill introduced yesterday for the purpose of combatting the increased price of bread in France. day of digging was ahead of them and whether Collins was dead or alive none has known definitely since the cave-in Wednesday night blocked the passage in which he has been lying plied by one foot for the week. The general belief was that he had succumbed by being crushed to death or by suffocation or by pneumonia, an of which would end his long fight to live.

SCIENCE AND FAITH.
With argument we spent the night,
He for his science and its fact,
I for the faith which sheds a light
The least among us to attract.
He must be sure beyond the doubt,
Must hold the test tube in his hand,
And from his reckoning cast out
All that he fails to understand.
By reason only would he move,
By judgment cold and fact severe,
Discarding all he cannot prove,
Accepting naught that isn't clear.
Said I: "We never agree,
And vainly here we now dispute;
Your science tells you 'tis the tree
Which bears the blossom and the fruit."
"You hack the roots, the tree will fall,"
And that your reason can explain;
But vainly will your science try
To bring to life that tree again.
"But when I see an apple tree
Full fruited in an orchard grow,
My faith sees that divinity
Which gave it life and shaped it so."
And thus we parted. "You," said I,
"May have your science if you choose,
But on my faith I must reply,
For naught is left if that I lose."

Wedding Bells

CHAFE-ELLIS.
A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's Church, Southside, on Wednesday last when Miss Ina Gertrude, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Chafe, was united to John Cowan Ellis, Commission Merchant, of this city. The bride, leaning on the arm of her father, entered the sacred edifice to the strains of the Wedding March played by H. W. Stirling, L.L.C.M. She was attended by her sister, Miss Audrey Chafe. The groom was supported by Ronald McKee, Chafe, Rev. A. B. Stirling, Rector of St. Mary's, performed the ceremony. Afterwards a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Springdale Street. The Telegram joins with their many friends in extending very best wishes for their future happiness to Mr. and Mrs. Ellis.

Our Dumb Animals.

REPORT OF THE CHIEF AGENT FOR WEEK ENDING FEB. 6TH.
Waited on Mayor Cook with a deputation of the Truckmen's Union, re the condition of the city streets. He very kindly received the deputation and stated to them that for the want of funds they are not able to do any more than is being done already. He consented to do the best possible to clear up the main thoroughfares. He immediately put some men and horses at the job. I have received complaints of two vicious dogs at the terminus of Barnes Road, two more on Waterford Bridge Road, two more on the Southside Road, and two on a Freshwater Road. These dogs are a great annoyance to the people in these neighborhoods, especially to teamsters. People should not complain to me about this but to the police, because I have no authority to do anything with them, unless they are ill-treated. Humanely put to death nine cats for people who have requested me to destroy the same. One of the prominent ministers of the town had taken in his house a perishing cat. He then phoned and asked me to 'humanely' destroy it, but it died before I reached the place. Another was picked up by a lady in the East End, who phoned and asked me to come and put the animal out of misery, which I did. I am thankful for orders for two pictures of "The Horse's Prayer," one from Miss Steed of Spencer College and from Mr. Collins, teamster, Lighthouse Department. I have received complaints of cabmen letting their horses stand outside the Rink, while the Hockey matches are on, without a rug. I warn them to rug up their horses and save further trouble. I sent in three horses for lameness. Our Inspector, Dan Smith, has returned from his visit to the lumber camps up country and he has done splendid work. The annual meeting of the Society takes place Feb. 20th, and I would be glad to receive subscriptions from all those who promised me to send in their amounts, or to send them to the Treasurer, Fred R. Emerson, before accounts close. All friends of dumb animals will please send me any reports confidentially or cruelty to animals so that they may be investigated.

A Mighty Story of Passion And The Social Law

AT THE MAJESTIC MONDAY.

SYNOPSIS.
Madalyn Harlan and Bob Elkins wait to break off their engagement until they are walking down the flower-strewn path of their open-air wedding. They decided they can't see it through and Madalyn flees to the arms of the man she really loves. He is Jerry Ryan, the Harlan chauffeur, and Madalyn gets secretly married to him.

Bob turns for consolation to Ruth Cassell, a sweetly innocent girl who lives with her grandfather, a violin teacher. Bob shows her the desire for Jerry is more powerful than her passionate love making by giving him her first kiss in a private room at the Casa Diablo. She considers the kiss proof of their engagement and is baffled and hurt when Bob treats the matter as a joke. But Bob finally decides he cannot live without her and finds happiness with her.

Madalyn, in the meantime, fearing to inform her parents of her marriage, feels her way by telling them that she and Jerry are engaged. The result is the Jerry is discharged and she is forbidden to see him again. However, she makes a clandestine visit to his home, and there she finds that her social background raises an almost insuperable barrier between her and the Ryans. Back at home, however, she realizes that her desire for Jerry is more powerful than her caste instinct, and, tossing away wealth, social position and the affection of her parents, she goes to Jerry's home.

Mrs. Ryan, not knowing of the secret marriage, refuses her admittance and says her son Jerry does not want anything more to do with her. Madalyn, in despair, takes poison in one of the cafes where she previously had had so much excited pleasure. The manager, thinking her in a stupor of intoxication, carries her to a taxicab, with orders to the chauffeur to drive her to a hotel for the night. The chauffeur is Jerry, and it is not until he lifts Madalyn from the taxicab that he discovers she is his wife. She is dead.

The morning newspapers carry two sensational stories, one of the disappearance of Madalyn Harlan, and the other of Jerry Ryan, who driving his taxicab, madly plunges off a city dock.

Elinor Glyn's Story of Wife Education Here

"HOW TO EDUCATE A WIFE" HANDLES SUBJECT VIA SCREEN.

Elinor Glyn has the reputation of knowing the ins and outs of the hearts of men and women better than any other woman. This is by way of introducing the glad tidings to local film patrons that this British authoress' story, "How to Educate a Wife," will be seen on the screen at the Nickel Theatre beginning Monday. Ever since Eve put over the apple stung on Adam, while the sly serpent hee-hawed somewhere among the verdurous foliage, men have wondered if women could be educated, and if they could, how it was to be done. Some have counselled keeping their wives secluded, like the old Turks and their "harems"; others have used force and courtesy. Elinor Glyn has developed her ideas quite differently in this production, which is a Warner Brothers Classic of the Screen. The characters are "just folks" such as we all meet every day. Their problems are our problems and the unfolding of the story leaves the spectator with the feeling that he or she has just had a perplexing problem of his own place in such a way as to show both sides of the argument at once. This picture is said to combine good sense and hilarious comedy. It deals with the efforts of a struggling insurance agent to get on top by having his wife help him. When she flirts too violently with his clients, his jealousy is boundless—then situations get complicated and the dramatic moves on merrily. THAT STIMULANT CALLED GRATITUDE.

There is an old and familiar saying that gratitude is a lively pledge of future favors. That's as may be. I know there is some truth in it, yet it does seem to me that I have sometimes seen spontaneous, sincere gratitude. But this I do believe—that gratitude is a lively pledge of future favors. And that the lack of gratitude, the habit of taking kindnesses for granted, is an almost sure pledge that sooner or later the stream of favors will grow less. Not that the giver will deliberately say to himself, "I am not getting my due return in gratitude. I won't do things for that person any more." There are people who are as frank as that. But most of us simply turn unconsciously from the recipient who takes things for granted to the recipient who is grateful and shows it.

Gratitude is a stimulant that stimulates generosity just as naturally and inevitably as a physical stimulant stimulates physical activity.

The Gift We Feel Like Repenting. Of course there are people who say they don't like to be thanked, and mean it. But I think they mean a formal process of set thanks to which they have to make some set return. They don't mean that they don't like genuine gratitude, informally and spontaneously expressed. "See the slippers we bought with the money you gave me Christmas, Uncle, aren't they too ducky for words?" "I'm not going to try to thank you but I want you to know that nothing I ever had has given me more pleasure than that radio!" It's spontaneous expressions of pleasure like these, or a childish kiss and hug, that make one's heart glow and makes whatever sacrifice a gift involved seem fully justified and worth repeating.

Her Gratitude Made Him Want to Give I have a friend on whom has lately developed, the need of helping a widowed sister. He is doing well in the business world as a result of hard work and early sacrifice, but he has three children of his own and it naturally means some distinct sacrifice to do for his sister and her children. When the need at first became apparent he was inclined to resent his fate. But his attitude has entirely changed. And this is the reason. "I thought she'd be the kind who would say 'I ought to do it,'" he confessed to me. "that I was doing well and that I was her oldest brother and that anything I did was no more than I ought to do. She was that kind when she was a kid but I guess she's changed. Why she's been a real joy to be able to help her. And the youngsters, too—they're so tickled over any little thing I give them, that I'd like to do ten times as much. Sometimes I get to wishing mine would be that way. But then I don't suppose you can expect that. I'm their father and it's natural they should take what I do for granted."

But Teach Them For Their Own Sakes It's natural no doubt, but I wonder if it's inevitable.

Even where there is a duty involved in the giving, it seems to me that the recipient might remember now and then to acknowledge the faithful performance of duty and to give thanks for it. Of course parents may feel delicate about teaching this to children because it is they themselves who are to be thanked. But they can be very sure that anything they do to establish the habit of gratitude in their children will benefit the child himself all through his life.

For it's only parents who can keep on giving forever without gratitude or even acknowledgment. Everyone else, even children giving to their parents, give better under the stimulus of gratitude.

Lake fish are made the next subjects and white fish were crossed with fresh-water herring. Now attempts are being made to produce a cross between certain sea fish, such as the cod and the haddock. The shad has a great reputation as a food fish in America, but is as bony as our herring. Shad were therefore crossed with the striped bass, and the young fish have been successfully hatched and liberated in the sea. Whether they will survive and multiply is still a problem, for crossed creatures of all sorts seldom reproduce their kind.

Little Jack Rabbit by David Cory

When you hear a knock, knock, knocking. Like a giant clock a-tocking. On the panel of your little kitchen door. You feel a creepy feeling. A—suddenly a—stealing. Right up your woolen stockings. From of the wooden floor.

Well, that's just the way Little Jack Rabbit felt when he heard the knocking in the last story. I'm sure you heard it, too, Little Reader. You have read so many stories that your Uncle Dave has written, that somehow and sometimes you almost know what's going to happen before the printer can print the story. Maybe it's because Billy Breeze from Rabbit Land whispers to all my Little Readers what Uncle Dave is going to write. In Make Believe Land, dear little boy and dear little girl, everything is possible. Of course it is, that's why you and I love to travel there, hand in hand both together through the land where the lovely flowers grow in lovely colors in a row. Your Uncle Dave often wishes his many readers would write him saying what they would like to have him write. If only all you little boys and girls were close to my knee I'd lean down and say: "What shall I write for you to-day?" And then, when I heard your answer, quickery quick, I'd know what to write.

Now, where were we when I began to talk to you, instead of telling you what was knocking on the door till the carpet tacks rattled out of the floor? Oh, yes, now I remember. Somebody was rapping on the kitchen door of the little white house in the dear old Bramble Patch.

All of a sudden a shrill whistle blew. "It's the postman with a special delivery letter," shouted the little rabbit, and peeping through the key-hole he found it was, sure enough and no mistake. And when he opened the door there stood Donkey Long-ears, dressed in a gray uniform, with a bag at his side.

"A letter for Lady Love," he brayed, for that's the way a donkey talks, you know. "A special delivery," he went on to explain, pointing to the long blue stamp on the envelope, showing a donkey in grey uniform riding on a bicycle.

"Dearest me," sighed Lady Love, signing the receipt and opening the letter, "from whom can it be?"

"Goodnight," said the Donkey Postman before the pretty bunny lady had even seen the person's name at the end of the letter, and away he went, down the snow-covered path through the bramble bushes and up the Old Cow Path on the Sunny Meadow toward the Farmyard. Maybe he had a letter for Henry Jenny, or one for Old Slick, the Farmer's dog. Who knows? "From whom is it?" asked the little rabbit, all agog with curiosity, for it was seldom that a special delivery letter found its way to the little white house in the dear Old Bramble Patch. "From Cousin Cotton-tail," answered his pretty bunny mother. "He wants me to come right over." And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Labour's Palace at Geneva

BRITISH TAXPAYERS FOOT THE BILL. £300,000 To Do Nothing.

Labour's new nest at Geneva is rapidly nearing completion. The over-burdened British taxpayer will shortly be called upon to admire—and to help to pay for—this "monument of great architectural beauty to a piece of international folly," which will cost at least £210,000.

Officially, it is known as the permanent home of the International Labour Bureau, that expensive and utterly useless organization founded by the Treaty of Versailles and maintained as a refuge for a horde of highly paid bureaucrats and their staffs. The imposing new building, fronting on the lake, looks more like a royal palace than the headquarters of an industrial body which professes to serve the working men of the world.

The cost in the first instance must come from the funds of the League of Nations, but eventually it will be extracted from the pockets of private taxpayers.

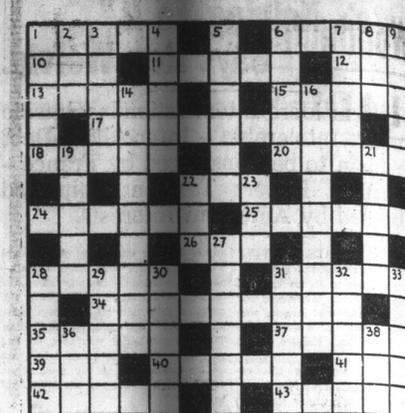

The International Labour Bureau is supposed to help to maintain the social and economic peace of the world. It was created five years ago and has done—nothing. At a yearly cost of about £300,000, of which Britain's share is £30,000.

The most important work of the Bureau is to prepare for an annual conference at which one weighty topic is discussed solemnly, at an additional expense of £10,000.

The staff of the International Labour Bureau consists of 28 nationalities, and salaries are based on those of the British Civil Service, the most highly paid in the world.

When The Daily Mail investigated the organization of the Bureau a year and a half ago there were 389 employees, 53 of whom were drawing salaries free of income tax ranging

ABLE TO DO HOUSEWORK NOW

Sick a Year. Got Great Relief from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bloomington, N.S.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for pains and backache, and nervousness, sick headaches and loss of appetite. I was unable to do my housework for over a year, and a friend told me about the Vegetable Compound. I induced me to take it. I must say I have received great benefit from it, and am able to do my housework now. I recommend the Vegetable Compound myself and am willing to use this letter as a testimonial." Mrs. WILLIAM MOSES, Bloomington, Annapolis County, Nova Scotia.

Do you know that in a recent issue among women users of the Vegetable Compound over 200 (two hundred) were received. "Have you received benefit from this medicine?" 88 per cent replied "Yes."

This means that 88 out of every 100 women are in better health because they have given this medicine a trial.

Mrs. Moses is simply another of a woman receiving "great benefit" from Women's Health. Women suffering from the same troubles to what other women say who have experienced the same suffering, found relief. Give this Vegetable Compound a chance—and at once it is sold at all drug stores.

Trosky Under Arrest

"The arrest of Trosky indicates that the quarrel among the Bolsheviks has gone further than was anticipated," says a Russian correspondent in the Telegraph. "Something has occurred to prevent the Communist Junta sending Trosky far away, and they have been compelled to keep the chairman of the War Revolutionary Council of the Soviet Union, War Commissary, and one of the most eminent members of the party under arrest in a suburb of the capital. The disgraced Bolshevik dignitary is confined in the magnificent Palace of Archangelskoye. At the beginning of the Revolution Trosky chose this place for his residence. Did he ever think that it would be turned by his comrades into his prison?"

"If Trosky has really been arrested there must have been very serious reasons for such a step, as his opponents undertake very well how profoundly it will impress not only the Communists but the whole population—at all events, the population of the large towns. But by taking this action the other leaders have not got rid of their refractory comrade. Trosky under arrest may be more dangerous for them than Trosky at liberty. There are no reliable newspapers in Russia, and the reports of the Soviet papers are not believed even by the Communists themselves. No other State in the world is flooded with such monstrous legends and rumours as is Soviet Russia. And, of course, the rumours in connection with Trosky will not strengthen the position of the Soviet Government in the country."

Harbor Grace Notes

The musical concert held at the Salvation Army Citadel on Tuesday night proved a great success, the Citadel being completely packed and a very fine sum was realized. Commandant Urquhart of St. John's, was the main performer and displayed his musical talent to the admiration and wonder of those present. Cadet Driscoll, also of St. John's, was present and assisted in the rendition of the programme. Mr. E. Simmons performed the duties of chairman for the evening. Candy was sold during the interval. A similar concert was held at Carbonar on Monday night, when something over one hundred dollars was realized as proceeds.

At the present time the harbour is frozen over out to some distance beyond the Point of Beach, and in the neighbourhood of Shiphead is being used by pedestrians crossing to and from the south side.

Last week the schooner "Exotic," owned by Messrs. G. & M. Gosse, Spaniard's Bay, which had been moored at Riverhead and frozen in the ice there, moved out with the ice. Men boarded her from the south side, but their attempts to cut her out were unsuccessful, as were also the efforts of the Ferry in towing her back. A tug was wired for and the S. S. Mary picked her up and she was towed back to port on Thursday last, where she has since been secured.

Mr. Gong Kee, a Chinaman who has been residing here for some ten years or so, was taken very ill last week. He has since improved somewhat, but is being taken to the General Hospital, St. John's, by to-morrow morning's train for the necessary treatment. He has been conducting a small store here on Water Street for some time and has many friends, who are sorry to learn of his illness, but trust that he will soon recover.

The stork arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gosse of the west end on January 11th, and left a baby boy. We extend congratulations.

The First Harbor Grace Companies of Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and Brownies are holding a joint Tea and Sale of Work on Thursday of next week, February 12th. We trust that this affair of the Scouts and Guides will be well patronized, and thus help them along in the good work.

Mr. W. J. Parsons, manager of the Harbor Grace Boot and Shoe Manufacturing Co., Ltd. left town last week en route to Boston, Mass., on business for his firm.

Mr. J. A. Dunbar, who has been here on business visit, left town again last week for the city.

Two Gospel Preachers have been in town for the last week, and are conducting meetings each night at Donnelly Hall, which are very well attended.

It is greatly regretted by our citizens and St. Paul's Parish especially that their Rector, Rev. W. R. J. Higitt, has been compelled, through ill-health, to resign and, we understand, will be relinquishing his charge in June next, when he will leave for England. The Rev. gentleman has always been to the fore in promoting the welfare of the town, and has shown a deep interest in the sporting element. Mr. Higitt has endeared himself to all during his sojourn in our midst, and his place will be hard to fill.

The Bell Island Trouble

The reply of the President of the British Empire Steel Corporation to the message sent by the Prime Minister would seem to indicate that he is ignorant of the condition of affairs at Bell Island. The tone of his remark quoted in the public despatch this morning would make it appear that he is also indifferent. From the curt instructions "if the men do not return to work under the clock system on or before the 9th, pay off the whole force," which Mr. Highmore states is the Company's reply to the men, it seems a reasonable conclusion to arrive at that the President of Besco is neither ignorant of the situation nor indifferent to the consequences, but is simply determined to act in an arbitrary manner, regardless of the men's request, the Government's attitude, or the country's interests.

So far as the introduction of the clock system in the mines is concerned, it must be admitted that the explanation given by Mr. H. B. Gillis is reasonable, and apparently the miners take the same view, but they take objection to the proposal to compel them to put in daily ten hours underground. Hitherto a day's work was based on a specific amount of work performed. The Company's suggestion is that this arrangement should continue, but that the work should go on after the amount formerly performed was completed, on a bonus system. Under the plan previously in operation, this was optional with the miners. Although, as Mr. Gillis states, no change in the rates of pay is contemplated, the object aimed at is to increase the output.

The proposals outlined in Mr. Highmore's message to the Minister of Justice seem reasonable, but this cannot be said of the attitude adopted by the Company, and it is to be hoped that the Government will use the means at their disposal to make the Corporation realize that the interests of the country in Bell Island are by no means of secondary importance, and cannot be treated as such.

Sir P. T. McGrath BECOMES PRESIDENT OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

We have been requested to state that the Hon. J. D. Ryan has tendered his resignation as President of the Legislative Council, and that His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to appoint the Hon. Sir Patrick McGrath, K.B.E., to be President.

In congratulating the new President on the honour which has been conferred upon him by His Excellency the Governor in selecting him for this important office, we would like to avail of the opportunity to refer to the long and valuable services which have been rendered to the country by the Hon. J. D. Ryan both in the House of Assembly and in the Legislative Council. Appointed to the latter in 1904, he became President in 1920, and during his tenure of office he ably maintained the traditions of that Chamber, and exercised his authority with judgment and wisdom and fairness to all.

The Hon. Sir P. T. McGrath previously occupied the Chair in 1916, following the death of Hon. J. Harris, and his long experience in Legislative affairs and his outstanding ability eminently fit him for the responsible duties of the position.

Correspondence Between the Govt. and President of Besco

As a result of the message sent yesterday by the Prime Minister to Mr. Roy Wolvin in connection with the new system of work introduced in the Bell Island mines and the consequent cessation of operations, the following communications have been exchanged:—

Montreal, Que., Feb. 6. Hon. W. S. Monroe, Prime Minister of Nfld., St. John's, Nfld. Telegram received, am communicating with Sydney but think no regulations being put into force carrying any hardships or not usual in industry. What regulation have you reference to that could be hardship or breach of our understanding.

R. M. WOLVIN, February 6th. R. M. Wolvin, Besco, Montreal. Manager MacDonald, Wabana, can inform you fully regarding regulations.

W. S. MONROE. Montreal, Que., Feb. 6. Hon. W. S. Monroe, Premier of Nfld., St. John, Nfld. McLurg has telegraphed me copy of Gillis telegram to you which I hope is satisfactory. Anxious to do everything to avoid unpleasant matters coming to your Government but believe this regulation in best interests company and all concerned.

R. M. WOLVIN. February 6th. R. Wolvin, Besco, Montreal. Cannot agree that regulations are in interest all concerned. Suggest you act upon Mr. Highmore's reasonable suggestion that men go to work under old system while negotiations are being taken up between Government, Company and men. Old system has been working for sixteen years. Miners want clock system abolished and work proceed as before, or are willing agree to clock system combined with eight hour shift, same pay for eight hours as now getting for ten.

Besco Has Good Orders for Steel and Coal on Hand

THREE OPEN HEARTH FURNACES START AND MINES ARE BUSY.

SYDNEY.—With employment already on the increase and prospects bright for a peaceful settlement of the coal wage dispute, possibly on the basis of a two or three year contract, business conditions are now looking up again in Cape Breton and Nova Scotia coalfields.

Operators and union heads reached an agreement to continue operation of the mines, pending a finding by the conciliation board.

Vice-president McLurg has ordered the lighting of three 50 ton open hearth furnaces and the first steel was poured on January 20. By February 9 there will be enough steel on hand to open up the blooming mill and billet mill on single turn. Rod and bar mills are already operating single turn, while in some departments of the wire and nail mills double turn has been necessary.

At the coal mines, employment has been steadier for the last few weeks than for half a year, and the prospects seem to warrant a continuation of near capacity operations for some time.

All these things are held in some circles to indicate that Besco has substantial orders for both steel and coal—the steel being so urgent that immediate operation of the mills is necessary regardless of the exigencies of the wage situation. If this is the case, and a reasonable wage rate and fairly long contract can be secured through the good offices of the conciliation board, a new period of prosperity for Nova Scotia can be looked for.—Financial Post, Jan. 23.

SHIPPING COMBINE WILL OPPOSE SUBSIDIZING PROPOSAL

Shipping circles here are not disposed to offer an open comment on the proposal of the Canadian Government to subsidize the Peterson Line, although some such move was anticipated several months back. There is every reason to believe, however, that the action of the Canadian Government will result in the Atlantic combine using all its influence and powers to institute counteracting measures.

CANADA DETERMINED TO SECURE CHEAPER OCEAN RATES.

Speculation is rife as to the extent to which the Dominion Government will subsidize British freight steamers plying between Canadian and British ports to carry Canadian products overseas at cheaper ocean rates. Rumor to-day places it at over a million dollars. The amount will be included in the estimate this year for the purpose of carrying out the Government's avowed intention of getting control of the regulation of the ocean rates. Legislation to this effect will be brought down.

WHAT'S IN A NAME!

The League of Nations issued a correction to-day in connection with the controversy between Great Britain and Turkey over Mosul. It was explained by the League Secretary that Britain called the Turkish experts attached to the Mosul commission of inquiry "notorious outlaw inhabitants" and not "ex-convicts" as was announced on Tuesday. An incorrect translation of the British communication was held responsible for the mistake. Turkey in a new note insists that the experts to which the British object are "useful citizens."

FRANCE DETERMINED TO CUT BREAD PRICES.

Following interpellations regarding the price of bread and grain, the Chamber of Deputies adopted by 228 to 225 a resolution expressing confidence in the Government taking suitable measures to check the rise in the price of bread, and requesting to ask Parliament immediately to pass a Bill favoring for (1) declarations on stocks of corn; (2) direct purchase by the State of home grown corn and the ultimate creations of corn reserves; (3) the establishment of a national corn office. Premier Herriot announced that the Government would immediately introduce a Bill dealing with this matter.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

Feb. 6th.—Blabbs, the chitragoon, coming this morning to see my wife, do tell me how she is mighty ill and have me remove her to the hospital at once, which I do, and am in the greatest possible fear that I may lose her, which I would not have happened for anything in the world. Blabbs tells me, however, that there is good hope for her, and bids me be of good cheer, which I will try to do, yet know not how I shall keep my sorrow from the world. God knows I am a sore tried man, being that now my wife is ill, the food gets worse each day, and will soon be driven to eat at the Club. Abroad and meeting Jones, but newly come from the Humber area, we do discourse of divers matters concerning the work there, and he tells me how there are more than 650 French Canadians now working in the woods, and seems, says he, how these fellows are more efficient with the saw than are our own men. He tells me also how in his opinion the plant will cost more than 30 millions of dollars before operations are commenced. Talking further of the logging, he says how this will be done all through the summer since there is not the time in the winter to cut all the wood that is required. Going home this day, do remark the mildness of the weather, and seems how we are having a free thaw, and indeed, have seldom found it so warm at this season of the year, as without a doubt it is today. The evening sheet publishes certain correspondence between Mr. Monroe and the BESCO managers, and a strong tone taken by the Prime Minister who sounds as if he will stand no nonsense from the Steel Company. This night Povey comes to keep me company, and we sit all the night about a fire and discourse of divers matters, with the help of some good tobacco and whiskey.

Unemployed Hold Meeting

A meeting of several hundred unemployed was held last night in the C.C.C. Armory. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Arthur Sexton who stated that the object of the gathering was to protest against the dole system under which they were scarcely able to feed their families and which made no provision for schooling or clothing. Messrs. Gray, Shute, Squires and Bennett spoke at short length with more or less interruption. Mr. Caleb Robbins, one of the Municipal Council inspectors, was then called on. He reviewed the work of committees formed to help the unemployed since 1921, and although he was not now one of the number, he was prepared to stand by the men and help them in any step they would take to obtain what Mr. Robbins said, was their right from any government, as the country owes eye to the man living. Mr. Robbins was then nominated to act as chairman and committee, and the following were appointed: Mr. Arthur Sexton, Chairman; Mr. James Gray, Secretary; with the following committee: Messrs. Squires, Shute, Ryan, Harris, O'Donnell, Tokoy, Wisniam. This committee has not power to add to their numbers without the consent of the main body of unemployed. During the past couple of weeks the police have been investigating cases of distress reported in the city, and where they have found there was need provisions and coal were supplied.

CHIEF JUSTICE OF CANADA MADE A PRIVY COUNCILLOR.

The London Gazette announces that Chief Justice Angelin of Canada has been appointed a Privy Councillor. Francis Alexander Angelin was appointed Chief Justice of Canada in Sept., 1924 in succession to the late Sir Louis H. Davies. The appointment to the Privy Council carries the title of Right Honourable.

SHIPPING COMBINE WILL OPPOSE SUBSIDIZING PROPOSAL

Shipping circles here are not disposed to offer an open comment on the proposal of the Canadian Government to subsidize the Peterson Line, although some such move was anticipated several months back. There is every reason to believe, however, that the action of the Canadian Government will result in the Atlantic combine using all its influence and powers to institute counteracting measures.

CANADA DETERMINED TO SECURE CHEAPER OCEAN RATES.

Speculation is rife as to the extent to which the Dominion Government will subsidize British freight steamers plying between Canadian and British ports to carry Canadian products overseas at cheaper ocean rates. Rumor to-day places it at over a million dollars. The amount will be included in the estimate this year for the purpose of carrying out the Government's avowed intention of getting control of the regulation of the ocean rates. Legislation to this effect will be brought down.

WHAT'S IN A NAME!

The League of Nations issued a correction to-day in connection with the controversy between Great Britain and Turkey over Mosul. It was explained by the League Secretary that Britain called the Turkish experts attached to the Mosul commission of inquiry "notorious outlaw inhabitants" and not "ex-convicts" as was announced on Tuesday. An incorrect translation of the British communication was held responsible for the mistake. Turkey in a new note insists that the experts to which the British object are "useful citizens."

FRANCE DETERMINED TO CUT BREAD PRICES.

Following interpellations regarding the price of bread and grain, the Chamber of Deputies adopted by 228 to 225 a resolution expressing confidence in the Government taking suitable measures to check the rise in the price of bread, and requesting to ask Parliament immediately to pass a Bill favoring for (1) declarations on stocks of corn; (2) direct purchase by the State of home grown corn and the ultimate creations of corn reserves; (3) the establishment of a national corn office. Premier Herriot announced that the Government would immediately introduce a Bill dealing with this matter.

The King and Queen and a distinguished company of Britons and Americans were dinner guests last night to Ambassador and Mrs. Kellogg at Crew House. Mr. Kellogg is leaving soon to succeed Charles Evans Hughes as Secretary of State.

GREECE TO APPEAL TO THE LEAGUE.

It has been learned in authoritative quarters here that Greece will appeal to the League of Nations with a view to securing a peaceful solution of her differences with Turkey over the expulsion from Constantinople of the Greek Patriarch constants. The decision will be announced in a note to be sent by Greece to the Angora Government on Sunday.

LIFE AND PROPERTY LOST IN FLOODS.

Four persons are believed to have perished yesterday as a result of the storm which swept the Pacific Coast States. Rivers and streams in California, Oregon and Washington were running bank full. In Oregon thousands of cattle were drowned when Bully Creek, near Vale, went on the rampage causing property losses estimated at $250,000.

A note general in character outlining the British views on the Allied debts was sent to Paris last evening, the communication being in reply to Finance Minister Clementia's questionnaire to Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, asking for interpretation of the application of the Balfour declaration of 1922 to the present circumstances. ANTIGONISH BADLY TROUNCED BY NEW GLASGOW TEAM, 9-1.

NEW GLASGOW, Jan. 21.—Playing a dashing fine game of hockey the New Glasgow hockey team defeated the Antigonish players here this evening in the Arena Rink, score 9-1. The game was a fine display of the winter sport. The locals are fast getting back into championship form. The locals gave the "Red Devils" from the College town a hard game of it and played rings around them on nearly every occasion. Among the many thrilling incidents of the game was the work of the New Glasgow team, when two of their men were in the penalty box. The visitors rushed the three men out guard and tried hard to score, but by brilliant head work the locals made the rubber stay out of the net.

Archie Nicholson, of the locals, showed up to advantage, and he was the star of the constellation. Williams and Bubar were also on hand with brilliant plays as usual. New Glasgow did not get going until nearly half the first session was over, and scored four goals. In the second session New Glasgow added two more. In the final period the College town team fought desperately, but in short order New Glasgow scored two more from the sticks of Williams and

Mrs. Snowden on Women's Votes

Montreal, Jan. 26. (C.P.)—Addressing the Canadian Club during her stay here Mrs. Philip Snowden, Labor Leader in Great Britain, said: "It was interesting to discover after the enfranchisement of women how they would vote, what difference the women's vote would make in Great Britain, but to date it has made very little appreciable difference. In the course of my experience I have never said in pleading for the vote for women that women's vote would bring about the millennium. What I did believe and hope was that after a sufficiently long political apprenticeship, the general interests, perhaps the specific interests of women, would be placed on the side of those questions relating to the home and children, and I take this to have been demonstrated."

A Miraculous Escape From Drowning

While a young lad named Maloney aged seven years, was playing with two other boys on the ice in Rennie's River this morning, he fell through and before his companions could rescue him, the strong tide which was running carried him underneath the ice, and he was soon lost from view. Mr. Charles Duder, the assistant City Engineer, who was crossing over the bridge, witnessed the lad's predicament, and hurriedly ran along the bank hoping to effect a rescue. A moment later the drowning lad was seen in open water about thirty yards from where he had fallen in, and drifting a little nearer to the edge of a large sheet of ice, he managed to hold on until Mr. Duder had arrived. The boy was almost unconscious when taken out, but after a short while he revived and was taken to his home. Had it not been for the prompt assistance of Mr. Duder, a drowning fatality would undoubtedly have occurred.

Radio Keeps Touch With Civilization

Toronto (C.P.)—Visiting the radio station whose broadcasting was heard while they were in the frozen north was the pleasure recently afforded Mr. and Mrs. Belvin Atkinson of Toronto. The station they heard was at IKA, Pittsburgh, and the point at which it was heard was at Lake Harbor, Buffalo Land. Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson are missionaries working under the supervision of Wycliffe Anglican College, Toronto. At their lonely post at Lake Harbor there are, besides themselves, only two fur traders, the remainder of the population being Eskimos. They state that the radio receiving set is one of the greatest joys that can be had by those living on the outposts of civilization.

"Gentle Hands" May be Heavily Touched

Vancouver, B.C. (C.P.)—Interesting developments are promised in a case to be heard next month. The plaintiff is Mrs. Lily Ralph, the defendant W. F. Hanbury, who employed her. Mrs. Ralph claims $10,000 general damages and $257 special damages for alleged injuries sustained Oct. 19 last when, she says, she was ejected from Mr. Hanbury's, Cartier Avenue residence, where she had been employed as a nursemaid. The statement of claim recites that the plaintiff was seated in a chair, that Mr. Hanbury caught hold of her feet, pulled her from the chair and dragged her feet from the floor, down stairs and out to the street. She was severely injured, she asserts. Mr. Hanbury, in his defense, maintained that Mrs. Ralph, being duly paid her wages, was requested to leave; she refused to do so and he "gently laid hands on her, using no more force than was necessary to remove her from said premises."

Beauty Unseen

(With apologies to Longfellow.)
There is wonder and enchantment,
There is splendour unmeted
In the interior of a great land
In the land of Terra Nova.
There the snows of countless winters
Fall and lie there in the stillness,
Lie there in the lonely silence,
In the silence of the forests;
Brightened by the sun in daytime,
Lulled to sleep by evening breezes,
As they murmur through the tree-tops,
Murmuring through the stately fir-trees,
While the night orb of the heavens
Watches o'er this frozen splendour,
As the Eagle on the mountain
Guarda her young ones while they slumber.
But the sunshine and the splendour
Cannot linger there forever.
Nature bids the breeze arrow stronger,
Till it shrieks aloud in anguish,
Shrieks and whistles through the pine trees,
Whistles through the swaying forest,
Creaking, tearing many branches,
Unrelenting in its fury.
Mounds of whiteness ever growing
Midst the moaning of the tree tops,
Midst the creaking of the branches,
As they bend before the passion,
Of their cruel King the North Wind,
Snows grow deeper in the forests,
And all living things grow silent.

Though the face of Nature changes
Changes with each passing hour,
There is beauty in its changing,
Beauty even in the snow storm,
In the fretting restless forests,
Beautiful by Nature always.
There is music, there is singing
In the roaring of the rivers,
In the rushing of the waters,
Gushing from the rugged mountains
Tearing onward through the woodland,
Ever laughing, ever singing,
And their music blending sweetly
With the sighing of the fir trees
And the whispering in the tree tops.
Newfoundlanders, let us listen,
Listen to the voice of Nature.
We are deaf, and cannot hear Her.
Cannot hear Her words of wisdom,
"Put aside your cares" She tells us,
"Put aside your sins and sorrows,
All your time is being wasted,
Wasted by your money grabbing,
By your striving after riches,
Rushing madly after pleasure,
You have taken crooked by-ways,
You have missed the greater treasures."
If you work and keep on working,
For the welfare of our people,
For the good of this great country,
This dear land of Terra Nova,
You will know the joy of service,
You will find your missing treasures.

The Educated Man

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, speaking at the Old Students' Club of the Working Men's College, St. Pancras, recently said that the educated man was certainly not a University man, though he was not debarred. The educated man was a man with certain subtle spiritual energy which made him calm in adversity, happy when alone, just in his dealings, and rational in the fullest meaning of that word in all the affairs of his life.

It is a financial corporation to serve all the people in the efficient management of their securities, estates and trusts.

MORE TROUBLE IN EDUCATIONAL CIRCLES.

The Educational Problem in this large and growing city is fast becoming a very complicated one. "Trouble never comes alone." With the Jewish question still a source of trouble to the Protestant Board, another difficulty arises. The programme for the Junior leaving examinations has been found wanting, and has caused a furore at a meeting of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Public Instruction. One member stated that the High Schools were producing "ignoramuses." The Registrar of McGill stated that the results of the examinations were away below par, and some of the pupils received as low as 20 marks on a subject, and that several of the candidates should never have been sent, as they were almost totally unprepared and received zero on many subjects. The "Star" commenting on the trouble, says:—

Pedagogues, like politicians, are accustomed to receive more than their fair share of abuse. In the case of the latter, excuse may not be lacking; for are they not among the most racially of our human pests? But who could say this of the pedagogues? Who, deploring never so much the aims and methods of modern education, would go so far as to impute to them lack of scruple or conscience, in the performance of their tasks? Simplicity in worldly things they may display, but shall we thereby hold them the less fitted for the education of our youth? It was a harsh phrase of a contemporary English wit, in criticising the inefficiency of a schoolmaster cabinet minister, to say that a schoolmaster was a man among children and a child amongst men. Was it some such idea as this which prompted a speaker at the meeting of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Public Instruction yesterday to declare that "we are graduating from the high schools to-day a set of ignoramuses who don't know anything about anything."

In any case, however, it makes very little difference. For, whatever the speaker may have meant by the word "ignoramus," he will at any rate have a weight of authority on his side. There was never a subject so fruitful of discussion, unless it be the destination of the salmon returning to the sea, as the form which the schooling of our youth should take. Was not Socrates obliged to drink a cup of hemlock because he taught the young men of Athens after a fashion of which their parents could not approve? On these subjects not even the great will agree. "Reading," said Bacon, "maketh a full man," yet forgot to add that one may be filled with anguish where pleasure fills another. Lord Haldane once declared that he could imagine no punishment more terrible than to be condemned to read the sporting pages of a newspaper every day. Lord Goshen, on the other hand, was reputed to know the results of all the great sporting events of the last quarter of a century by 10,000 for the other provinces. "Wet" Quebec accounts for only 2,852!

3. Convictions for crime in all the courts of the Dominion, except Ontario, decreased 26 per cent. in the decade 1913-23. In Ontario there was an increase of 26 per cent. in the same decade.

4. Convictions for drunkenness decreased 68 per cent. in Ontario, outside of Ontario, from 1913 to 1923. In Ontario the decrease was only 10 per cent.

The Standard does a service to the community in drawing attention to the above. It is not the Freeman's intention to throw bricks at the advocates of Prohibition. Many of them believe to be sincere in their views, although with some this zeal for dry legislation is only a pose. But, we put it to the sincere prohibitionists: Are you satisfied with the working of the O.T.A.?

For ourselves, we believe that the facts noted by the Standard do not tell half the story. It is undeniable that the O.T.A. is responsible for a huge increase in the consumption of strong liquor as compared with beer and light wines. It has been instrumental in introducing liquor into the home circle. It has established a new industry in rural Ontario—the illicit manufacture of booze. It is responsible for the lucrative business of the bootlegger. It has made young people—especially young girls—acquainted with liquor to an extent unknown before this province went dry—on paper. And by no means least of the charges to be laid at its door is that it has encouraged hypocrisy and contempt for law. Nobody believes that there were 10,000 sick people in Kingston and vicinity during Christmas time; yet every one of these prescriptions was issued for "medicinal" purposes.

The bar is gone, never to return. But every sincere friend of Temperance must see that the O.T.A. is a farce. When will they admit it and set about regulating the liquor evil in a common sense and workable way?

POLICE OFFICIALS GET NO PAY FOR EVIDENCE.

It has been the practice to pay police officials $1.50 per day when called as witnesses in various cases, the same as civilians. Hereafter, they will have to give evidence as part of their regular duties. The order came from Premier L. A. Taschereau and court officials will cease paying constables and detectives when they are called as witnesses in cases. The procedure will curtail considerably costs in connection with lengthy trials, for in many instances several detectives and constables appear day after day until called, and heretofore they have collected $1.50 from the Crown in addition to their regular salaries.

THE JEW THINKS HE HAS OTHER FRIENDS IN BUSINESS.

B.A.M. Shapiro, managing director of the Hebrew Christian Publication Society, said in addressing a meeting that the Jew is not alone in being sharp and tricky in bargaining. There were tricky Methodists, unscrupulous Congregationalists, hardhearted Roman Catholics as well. The race or church that was without sin respect should be the first to cast a stone at the Jew. It was particularly the Christian community which, by depriving him of his liberty citizenship and many rights, had driven him to covet the power that money brought him. By depriving him of the right to own land or trade in the markets of the world, he had been compelled to convert his property into money and jewelry, and all these things had made of him a money-lender by business and a money-lover by nature.

It was an error to assume that the Jewish beliefs were so like those of Christians that evangelization was a superfluous work, the speaker argued. The Jew had the old testament, but he had not the new, and it was impossible to fully understand the meaning of the old testament without the new.

A WING OF THE GREY NUNNERY TO BE REMODELED.

The new wing of the Grey Nunnery, known as "La Creche," and where some three hundred and fifty foundlings were being nursed and given the very best of care by both sisters and nurses will be remodelled and used as private rooms for lady boarders. The Creche is transferred to Notre Dame de Liesse, near the village of St. Laurent, where the sisters have built a large institution capable of accommodating 700 babies.

New Life - New Energy!

Constipation banished · Digestion restored
Skin transformed—such is the power of this unique fresh food

THESE remarkable reports are typical of thousands of similar tributes to Fleischmann's Yeast. There is nothing mysterious about its action. It is not a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense. But when the body is choked with the poisons of constipation—or when its vitality is low so that skin, stomach and general health are affected—this simple, natural food achieves literally amazing results.

Concentrated in every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast are millions of tiny yeast-plants, alive and active. At once they go to work—in-energizing the whole system, clearing the skin, aiding digestion, strengthening the intestinal muscles and making them healthy and active. Health is yours once more.

"I had been suffering with stomach trouble for two years and was growing worse, being afflicted with constipation for several days, and after being forced to use a severe cathartic, would then have colic and diarrhea. In doubt, I began eating Fleischmann's Yeast between meals. By the end of the first week I began to notice a slight improvement. After establishing regular bowel habits my health and happiness have been steadily repairing the last four months. Fleischmann's Yeast has created a contented wife, a cheerful husband and happy child in our home."
(Mrs. J. B. Russell, 113 N. 6th St., Marquette, Mich.)

"One noon one of my co-workers unwrapped a small yellow package and ate the contents. 'What do you eat that for?' I asked. 'It takes the pimples off your face.' It sounded fishy, but I thought anything worth trying if it would relieve me of the skin trouble I had been having. In about a week I felt my old pep coming back and could eat like a 'he-man' again. The world had given me Fleischmann's Yeast to counteract the 'tearing down' influences of my work."
(Mr. Stuart C. Frazier, of Superior Hotel, Coeur d'Alene, Wash.)

"I was ordered to eat more but couldn't, lacking both appetite and strength. Life seemed an intolerable burden. I looked — and felt — half dead. Through a bit skeptical I decided to try Yeast. It seemed truly magical, for now — headaches and indigestion, 'that tired feeling,' are all gone and in their place — energy, pep and 'that grand and glorious feeling'!"
(Miss F. M. Green, Philadelphia, Pa.)

"Over the teacup one afternoon I talked with a girl friend of mine. She looked so fresh and keen about life and being my age but appearing many years younger, I was prompted to put the question, 'How have you preserved your youth and beauty?' 'Fleischmann's Yeast,' was her answer. So I began taking it. In one short year I have been rejuvenated from a chronic invalid to a woman of activities. Today I play baseball, ride bareback and run a quarter of a mile before breakfast."
(Mrs. Anastasia C. Neumann, Guthrie, Okla.)

"For forty years I fought the demon Constipation—a losing battle. A pill box was my daily companion. I have taken enough pills to start a drug store. Fourteen months ago in desperation I started the Fleischmann treatment. Don't think you can conquer this demon in a week. I had been pronounced incurable. At the end of eight months — gone my sallow, pasty complexion, gas-laden stomach — cured! Do you wonder that I seem over-enthusiastic?"
(Mr. C. F. Robinson, Chickasha, Okla.)

Fleischmann's Yeast is prepared for market in Newfoundland.

Dissolve one cake in a glass of water (just hot enough to drink)

—before breakfast and at bedtime. Fleischmann's Yeast, when taken this way, is especially effective in overcoming or preventing constipation. Or eat 2 or 3 cakes a day—spread on bread or crackers—dissolved in fruit juices or milk—or eat it plain. Fleischmann's Yeast for Health comes only in the tinfoil package—it cannot be purchased in tablet form. All grocers have it. Start eating it today! You can order several cakes at a time, for yeast will keep fresh in a cool, dry place for two or three days. Write us for further information or let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. THE SPEED OF MODERN CIVILIZATION IS TOO GREAT.

Dear Readers.—The human body is like a machine, that requires steady and careful handling at all times. Too often we run risks which often prove fatal. We take too many liberties with food, pleasures, work and exercise, and ease up when the damage is done. One out of every 123 persons in this country is confined to public institutions for mental deficiency, dependency, delinquency or criminality, says the Illinois Department of Public Health. That so large a part of our population fails to meet the demand of society suggest that the strain and speed of modern civilization has about reached the limit of endurance. A few people can work day and night and apparently thrive on it. Some can abuse their digestive sys-

AT ROTARY CLUB LUNCHEON.

Chairman and Gentleman. It has been good enough to ask you to give me a short address to-day. I do not know why I should be asked to do this, addressing a luncheon of this kind, but I do know that I have, some who have been as good as I have, some who have been as good as I have, some who have been as good as I have...

dress you for twenty hours I might have been able to do justice to the fringes of my subject. However I must try to compress into the time at my disposal the very few remarks which are all I can offer you this morning. There is no time for detail; they must be of a general nature; which is just as well, as I speak from memory, and one cannot always guarantee that details quoted from memory are correct.

The peculiar charm of London arises, I think, from the fact that it is at once one of the most ancient and one of the most modern of cities in the Western world; I say nothing of the East, which deals in much longer periods. From the earliest times when England was inhabited, thousands of years ago, London seems to have been an established place for crossing the Thames, partly because it was the first point above the mouth convenient for doing so, partly because it was a good haven and easily fortified, and partly because it was on the most convenient line of travel from Kent and the Southeast to the North. It has to be remembered that the river was not always as we see it now, deep and narrow and dredged, running between stone walls; it was once broad and shallow, following a varying course mainly through lowlying ground. There was a time when lagoons or marshes covered all what is now Southward and came as far North as King's Cross; and earlier still, as appears from bones and tusks dug up close to the Admiralty arch this present year, hippopotamuses or mammoths or some sort of strange ancient beasts disported themselves in a swamp where Trafalgar Square now stands. At a river-crossing there generally springs up a settlement, and there has been one around London Bridge as far back as human knowledge goes.

And yet London as we from overseas know it, the London that lies between Liverpool Street and Putney, and between Battersea Park and Hampstead, is new as cities go. London Bridge marks the crossing place of twenty-five centuries ago: Temple Bar marks the western wall of the walled city of Roman and medieval times; but in the days when Doctor Johnson took a walk down Fleet Street, that street was the West End. Beyond it to the west—I speak from memory—memory of what I have read of gentlemen's and noblemen's houses, with gardens running down to the river, all along where Norfolk Street and Arundel Street and Essex Street and Savoy Street now stand. I believe most of these names probably commemorate the titles of the noblemen who resided there. Entering Trafalgar Square to-day you pass over your right the famous old church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, and in the fields no doubt it was when it was built, though there are few fields within ten miles of it now; and yet it is a church, to judge by its appearance, of no earlier than Sir Christopher Wren's time. You went up past the old Abbey and palace buildings at Westminster and through those fields before you came to the outlying village of Chelsea, white patches with their hair dressed up a foot high. In another year or two we shall see on its site a vast white structure in which fortunate millionaires will reside in palatial flats and drive in and out in Rolls-Royce or lesser cars. Thus the appearance of London changes from year to year.

Of one thing, however, we may be sure, that the innate conservatism and good taste of the people will prevent it from being made ugly. The new Devonshire House and all other such buildings, must be of a style to suit their position. No amount of money can get commerce permission to add to its profits by disfiguring the face of the mother of cities. The Government of the County of London, the L.C.C., is a very big and unapproachable body, which rules and taxes as many people as there are in Canada, more people than there are in many of the small European nations, which a second set of show windows, and ought to increase their trade considerably. Piecemeal, running parallel with it to the southward, is another splendid and busy street, whose appearance is about to undergo a striking change. Many of us will remember the quaint old Devonshire House, standing back behind its brick wall and its white gateposts, where sedan chairs and chariots and caresses used to roll up to gay entertainments long ago, carrying gentlemen in wigs and silk stockings and ladies in powdered caps, and patches with their hair dressed up a foot high. In another year or two we shall see on its site a vast white structure in which fortunate millionaires will reside in palatial flats and drive in and out in Rolls-Royce or lesser cars. Thus the appearance of London changes from year to year.

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair 35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair-brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance. While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also tonic and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair appears after this delightful, refreshing dressing.

disposes of a revenue of $100,000,000 a year; and it is not to be trifled with. But let us turn for a moment from the new glittering West End, from the London County Council sitting in its new hall across Westminster Bridge and ruling the eight million people of the magnificent modern capital of the world, and look east of Temple Bar for what we may find there in the way of government. Within a little area of a square mile, inhabited by day by a busy population of a million, in the night by a handful of caretakers, policemen and cats, we find a piece of mediæval governing machinery probably unmatched in the modern world. The square mile of the city is in greater London but not of it. It rules itself, it has its own courts and police and officials, and it elects its own government; and such a government! At yearly intervals there assembles the members of ancient guilds or, in modern language, trade or commercial unions; the Worshipful Company of Fannmakers, the Worshipful Company of Cordwainers or Leatherellers, the Fletchers (or arrow-makers), the Grocers, the Mercers, the Clothworkers, the Vintners and scores of others, over seventy in all. True, I believe the member of the Vintners Company may to-day be in fact a broker, an umbrella-maker, a surveyor, anything but a Vintner, and as for the Fannmakers and Arrowmakers, probably there are no real ones now; but these companies inherit the ancient wealth and standing, the splendid halls and plate and estates of the ancient craft-guilds; and unless you can be made by proper process a member of one of them you have no vote. These companies elect a Lord Mayor and two sheriffs, who hold office for a year. It is no light honour to be Lord Mayor; it is said to cost the holder of office another ten thousand pounds besides the ten thousand that are his official salary; but then he has to entertain kings, queens and Statesmen with royal magnificence in the Guildhall, for though in law he stands only for the little old City and the votes of the ancient close corporations that have come down from the Middle Ages, yet by popular consent he is the representative of all London; although the County Council may sit in its fine new building and dispose like a Parliament of its twenty million-pounds of revenue, yet when foreign royalties have to be entertained it is the Lord Mayor who flies his flag, with the red cross and the sword in glittering robes and a gilt coach with footmen standing behind almost like the king's own; and, in pursuance of ancient custom, it is the Lord Mayor who on state occasions stops the King at Temple Bar and gives him permission to enter the sacred confines of the City, from which his predecessors in ancient and stately times were occasionally barred out in fact and for good reason. Here in the City of London we have this wonderful anomaly, the greatest of modern financial and commercial centres ruled over by the ancient corporations, with their robes and flags, their gold state coaches and processions, their hills and plate and haquezes and their fifteen million pounds of property, and their history running back to the days of the Plantagenets. It is the most striking illustration of the combined enterprise and conservatism of the English people. Underground in front of the Mansion House you have vast caverns full of lifts and stairs and escalators, where electric trains roar along in all directions through the bowels of the earth, carrying millions of passengers every day; while on the surface, on festival occasions you see the civic head of all this driving off in a coach very like the one the fairy godmother gave to Cinderella. It is impossible in a short address like this to do more than touch on the attractions of this wonderful city. There is interest in it from all the ages. Under the Admiralty Arch in Trafalgar Square they dig up the bones of mammoths. In the river they dredge up relics of Roman times; I believe some years ago they dredged up some objects in the shape of chariot wheels, which were held by some to indicate the site of any early Rotary Club, until they discovered some engraved initials under the rust of the iron-work—"J. C." evidently for Julius Caesar—"I" for Imperator; Emperor; and the date "B.C. 55," clearly proving that they were relics of the Roman invasion. But whatever the truth may be as to that, we have in the City remnants of Roman baths and walls; the ancient Church of the Templars; the living survival of the Middle Ages in the Livery Companies; we have relics of Stuart times—the window in Whitehall where a Stuart king was beheaded, and, by Westminster Hall, the statue of Cromwell, who beheaded him; the stately old Georgian houses in the streets of Bloomsbury and the vanishing crescent of Nash in Regent Street; the Albert Memorial, that monument of Victorian bad taste; and so we come back to the West End and 1924, which is, after all, more interesting than history, however picturesque.

learns too much the fascination may be a little less keen; there comes a stage when you begin to pick up and choose your plays, and when some of the latest musical comedies are tolerable only if you have first—er—dined; but there are less obvious attractions about London than that. It is a beautiful city. On a summer's day you can be at one moment in a great modern street, amid a stream of motors, and in a hundred yards you may lie on the grass in Kensington Gardens watching the trees wave overhead and the swans float over the rippling waters at the foot of the slope. You may stand after dark in the middle of Hyde Park and look down towards the Marble Arch and see the white buildings lit up against the darkness shining like fairyland through the trees; or you may stand on the Embankment at night in about the latitude of Charing Cross and see one of London's most beautiful views; trees in front of you, the shining river on the left surrounded by twinkling lights; magnificent buildings and gardens on the right, and in front of you the clock tower of the House of Commons hanging high in the sky with its great yellow-lit clock like a harvest moon. Or you may look up through the Admiralty Arch on a misty evening toward Buckingham Palace and see the lights of the cars and taxicabs gliding up and down between the trees; or up Constitution Hill and see the arch and the splendid four-horse chariot on the top of it outlined against the sunset. But I think the pleasantest experience of all is, after having dined well and wisely and after having seen a show until eleven o'clock, to walk up Piccadilly on a summer's night, with the gleaming motor cars gliding over the shining pavements on your right, the cherry throngs on the sidewalks, and the moon shining down through the trees of the Green Park on your left. I think that if you do, either alone, or better still, in pleasant company, you will be forced to conclude that it is not such a bad old world after all.

LUXURA What is it in "LUXURA" that makes this tea so distinctive—so delicious? What is it that gives its delicious fragrance—its refreshing "zip"? Why is it so economical to use? Its absolute "rightness" in blending, always dependable, makes it a tea distinct and apart from all others, while its whole-leaf quality and its entire freedom from "tea-dust" makes it go much further, pound for pound, than other teas. GENERAL MOTORS CAN INCREASE DIVIDEND.

Many Factors Point to Better Revenues.

N.Y.—The advance of General Motors to above 75, which is the equivalent of 18 1/2% for the old shares, the high price at which the shares have sold since 1920, has emphasized the possibility that the issue may be placed on a $5 dividend basis some time this year, notwithstanding the fact that the dividend was increased from an annual rate of $4.80 a share to $5 coincident with the exchange of one share of new common for four shares of old stock.

Officials state that the matter has not come up for formal discussion but there are several factors in the General Motors situation which indicate sufficient expansion in income during 1925 to justify an increase in the dividend.

Earnings Kept at Minimum.

In the first place, estimated 1924 net earnings, approaching $45,000,000, equal after preferred to $7 a share on 5,161,600 shares of common, are not considered an indication of the normal earning power of the big motor company. A number of extraordinary factors developed in the motor situation which tended to keep earnings at a minimum. The most important of these was the necessity for drastic curtailment in output during the year from a peak of 75,000 cars in February to 20,048 in December. With factors working the greater part of the year at under 50% of capacity the 1924 showing should be considered more in the light of possibilities under more normal conditions this year than as an indication of the corporation's real earning power.

It is significant that during 1924 there were delivered to consumers approximately 70,000 more General Motors vehicles than the factory sold to dealers, indicating the extent to which dealers' stocks have been cleaned up and placing them in a position to buy freely as public demand develops. In December alone, the deliveries by dealers were 70% greater than the number of cars sold them by the factories. It has been figured that if General Motors had manufactured these 70,000 cars during the year with a correspondingly greater stability of production, profits would have been increased by nearly $15,000,000. In other words, General Motors earnings on this basis would have been $60,000,000, equaling the balance shown in 1923 and 1919 when conditions were similar to those anticipated for the current year.

Fisher Body Corp. Revenue.

Another factor which has enhanced prospects for a higher dividend in 1925 is the increased revenue derived from Fisher Body Corporation, of which General Motors owns 60% and which amounts to $3,600,000, or 70 cents a share on General Motors common. It is pointed out that this additional revenue alone would pay 70% of the suggested $1 increase in the dividend, irrespective of higher earnings from other sources.

The corporation ended 1924 with about $90,000,000 of cash on hand, the largest year-end cash balance in its history, and is in an unusually liquid condition. Inventories on the other hand were under $100,000,000, the lowest since 1918. Extensive expansion programs during the past few years have been completed, both as respects Fisher Body and General Motors, thus ending further demands on the corporation's treasury from this source and placing stockholders in a position to share more fully in earnings. Capacity exceeding 1,000,000 vehicles annually is thought to be sufficient to meet any expansion in the motor market for some years to come.

The above factors in connection with better earnings expected in the current year indicate that an increase in the dividend above the present $5 annual rate is a possibility this year, unless there is a sudden change in the outlook.

Home Replacing Glencoe

The steamer Glencoe left Bay L'Argent this morning, coming back to the coast, and she is expected to arrive in port on Monday next to get in readiness for the seal fishery. Capt. Blandford and crew will then transfer to S.S. Home and continue the service.

Our Disappearing Forests

Toronto Mail and Empire: It is unfortunate that Canada, with its vast, waste-denuded areas has never awakened to the importance of a future timber supply. Our hard woods are practically gone, and yet in Ontario there are large areas that are fitted only for timber growing. Our imports of hardwoods amount to many million dollars annually. Once we had a domestic supply of oak, hickory, ash, walnut and other woods of tensile strength and decorative properties, while now our furniture factories have to import a considerable part of their requirements. The time has come for the adoption of a policy for conserving and increasing the country's spruce resources. We are a northern country and timber growth is slow. Before the end of the fifty years required for reproduction great inroads will be made upon our existing reserves.

Timber Wolves Become Daring

Kingston District Farmers Organize to Kill Off Marauders. Kingston, Ont., Jan. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Wolves, so daring that they come right into the barnyards, are reported from Oso, Olden, Clarendon and Miller, and yesterday Reeve Drew, of Olden, brought here the hide of a wolf measuring six feet from nose to tip of tail. The animal was killed in a barnyard in Oso. Never before have the timber wolves been so numerous as this year. Every morning and night the howling of the prowlers can be heard in Sharbot Lake, an unheard-of

Clever Inventions Made by Women

Tent With Human Pole—Home Devices of Various Kinds.

A portable bathing tent has been invented by a woman in which the owner acts as the pole by standing upright, while the tent extends outwards to the ground, enabling the owner to dress and undress in comfort.

This is one of the many inventions for which women have been responsible this year.

As usual inventions relating to clothing and household work head the list. In one device saucers and kettles are provided with means whereby the heat generated during the boiling of water can be utilized for cooking different articles while the water is kept quite clean.

The list of inventions for which women have applied for patents during the year includes:

Devices for drying the hair by electricity and hot air.

Interchangeable sensor blades, so that scissors may be used for heavy tailoring or making buttonholes.

A transparent umbrella, enabling the holder to see where he or she is going.

Patents for holding hats on without hatpins and safety devices to prevent accidents by escaping gas.

The Late Dr. Walter Cowperthwaite

(Daily News.)

Dr. Walter Cowperthwaite, of Sydney, died in harness at midnight on Wednesday. It was a day when traveling in the snow was difficult and trying, but doctors must face the weather when duty calls. To him the call came, and it met response.

It was eleven o'clock at night, when utterly exhausted by his long walk and anxious vigil, he came within sight of home, and collapsed within a few yards of it. Some passers by ran to his assistance. He was carried within, and an hour later had passed away, not having recovered consciousness. Three doctors were in attendance, and all that skill and loving care could do was done, but Dr. Walter had finished his earthly course, ceasing at once to work and live. Not all the world's heroes fall on the field of battle. Peace has its sacrifices as well as War.

Ships Being Fitted Up

A number of carpenters are now engaged on the steamers Prospero and Sagona, fitting them up in readiness for the seal fishery. The staterooms of both ships are being sealed, while extra berths are being placed in the storerooms. The work will take about a week to complete.

The Life of the Nation

London Morning Post: By producing commodities for sale this nation lives; it can live no other way; if this, its main business, fails, it must starve. Our producing industries, therefore, are the very life of the nation, and we should cherish them as the apple of our eye. But if organized labor on the one side persecutes them, and, on the other, the consuming public refuses to make any sacrifice in their support, how can we expect them to flourish? The nation which refuses to make any sacrifice may end by losing all. If we are to continue as an industrial nation we must change our point of view. We have cherished the consumer at the expense of the producer, the employed without respect to the employer. Our manufacturers are expected to bear everything and receive nothing. They are denied the protection which their rivals of every other nation obtain, and they are loaded with burdens which none of their rivals have to bear. It is an unreasonable and even an impossible point of view. No nation can thrive, or even live, which persecutes and penalizes its industries.

SEALED TO PROTECT

Buick chassis is sealed. Iron and steel housings protect the operation of all driving parts—seal them in to safeguard Buick performance.

Some cars have some of this protection, but only Buick has a wall of defense continuous from fan hub to rear axle against road dirt, stones, water and loss of lubricant. Only Buick's close coordination of driving units and Buick's torque tube drive make possible this important improvement.

A Selective Crystal Receiver

Crystal receivers are still popular, and justly so, on account of their low initial cost, quality of received speech or music, and almost entire absence of maintenance costs. Of course, the range is limited, but for those who want good reception of the local stations, a crystal receiver is the logical type to build.

Even if loud-speaker reception were desired, a two-stage audio amplifier can be added to a crystal set, and will then give excellent loud-speaker volume on nearby signals. It will also increase the range of the set, enabling more distant signals to be heard.

The chief disadvantage of the fact that it has a limited range is the lack of selectivity in the average set. Crystal tuners are usually totally unable to differentiate between two local stations, providing both are fairly high power.

Selectivity can be incorporated in crystal receivers, however. To be sure, some signal strength will be lost, but this must be expected. The main thing is that we will be able to tune—fairly sharply, too—and separate local stations to a very fair extent.

The hook-up of the receiver we have in mind is shown in Fig. 1. The instruments necessary are a special coupler ("C") and "S" which will be described later, a variable condenser "C" of either .0005 mfd. or .00025 mfd. capacity, a crystal detector and the phones. A phone condenser of .001 mfd. value, "C-1," is desirable, but not necessary.

The coupler is shown in Fig. 2, and consists of a rotor, used as the primary "P" in Fig. 1, and a stator winding which comprises the winding "S" in Fig. 1. The construction of this coupler will be taken up in Monday's article, when we shall also describe the mounting of the various instruments. You had better cut out Fig. 2, and keep it until Monday, so that you may better understand the directions.

Wesley Church Broadcasting

The Sunday evening service at Wesley Church will be broadcast. During the last two weeks improvements have been made which will add to the efficiency of the transmitter. Besides, Mr. Walter Vey has been installing a colored light signal system whereby he can from the broadcasting room signal to the pulpit and organist and have directions pass back and forth. Another connection with the radio room permits the organist during his playing to listen to the effect of the music before it passes to the air.

A Charming Woman

Some say woman's crowning glory is her hair—others say it is her complexion. It is certain that to-day great attention is paid to a woman's complexion. A woman's complexion is always exposed to critical gaze. The woman who uses Three Flowers cosmetics however, need fear no criticism for these dainty and practical toilet preparations give the most lovely complexions. The Face Powder and Skin Cream assist Nature in bestowing a beautiful, soft skin. In many ways the Three Flowers preparations are superior, and are to-day the choice of particular ladies everywhere.

A CAUSE OF WOMEN'S ILLS

WOMEN OFTEN THINK THEY HAVE HEART TROUBLE, INDIGESTION, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, ETC., WHEN IT'S SIMPLY IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD.

Many women believe they are weak and nervous as a result of age, worry and overwork; they think that their disturbed digestion, headaches, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, pains across the back, etc., are due to some serious disease instead of the real cause—iron starvation of the blood. This is proven by the fact that when many of these same women take organic iron for while all their alarming symptoms quickly disappear and they become strong, robust and healthy. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your liver to filter out the impurities from your blood. Without it nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the strength out of it. If you are not strong and well do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, but take some organic iron—restored iron—once. Be sure it's organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Organic RESTORED IRON is the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apricots, it also increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, worn-out women in two weeks' time. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Restored" on every package and the name of the manufacturer. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all Drugists.

What Advertising in The Evening Telegram Can Accomplish

Next to being able to deliver the goods, advertising in The Evening Telegram is the most important thing to you, Mr. Merchant.

You may have the finest goods in the world, but unless you take steps to let the buying public know, your sales must be very disappointing.

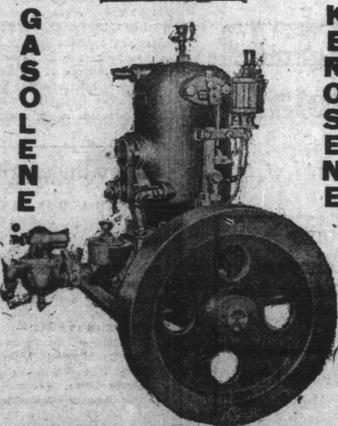

The Evening Telegram is read in practically every home in the Island.

During the month of October, 1924, a Manufacturing Firm, of this city, advertised, through the daily papers, for a name for a new product which they intended placing on the market.

Out of 4000 replies received nearly 60 per cent. were on coupons cut from The Evening Telegram, the remaining 40 per cent. being from the other daily papers.

Will Inaugurate New Trade Service

PASSENGER AND FREIGHT SERVICE BY WATER BETWEEN CAPE BRETON, Nfld., MONTREAL AND P. E. I.

NORTH SYDNEY, Jan. 25.—It is understood that W. N. Macdonald, the well known steamship owner of Sydney, has purchased another steamer of about four thousand tons, which he intends putting on the route next spring between Montreal, Charlottetown and possibly Summerside, North Sydney and St. John's, Nfld. Mr. Macdonald expects to make the service a fortnightly one, providing present plans carry. The steamer recently acquired by him is equipped for passengers as well as freight, and will prove a valuable acquisition to his fleet as well as, filling a long-felt want, particularly to tourists from the United States and other places. In addition it will give all people of modern means, an opportunity to enjoy a delightful sea voyage at reduced rates.

In addition to the above, it is quite probable that North Sydney will be also the port of call for another steamship service between Boston and Maritime ports which is at present in the making. Yesterday Mr. John Barrington, president of the Board of Trade was in consultation with a Mr. Charles Kimmick, New York City, who, it is understood, is contemplating the inauguration of the above service.

The object of the New Yorker's visit here and subsequent talk with the president of the Board of Trade was to obtain data as to the trade between this port and the western part of Newfoundland. As a result of Mr. Kimmick's enquiries he expressed every confidence in the project, and left on the Kyle last evening on his way to Grand Falls, where he will study conditions there as well as at Corner Brook. Later he will give a definite answer to Mr. Barrington.

Not a Village in All Canada

But Can Tell of Genuine Relief by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Quebec man tells how quickly they built him up and brought him back to perfect health.

St. Fulgence, Que., Feb. 6.—(Special)—That there is not a village or post-office in Canada that cannot provide a case of genuine relief by Dodd's Kidney Pills has been shown again and again. In this little village many people bear grateful testimony to the wonderful healing powers of this simple remedy. Mr. Philippe Gagnon states: "I have suffered a long time with kidney trouble. Six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me so much good that I intend continuing the treatment until I am completely relieved of my trouble. I tell all my friends who suffer with kidney trouble to take them."

Dodd's Kidney Pills simply strengthen and heal the kidneys. The work of the kidneys is to strain all the waste matter out of the blood. If the kidneys are out of order they fail to do their work, and the waste matter remains in the blood, causing serious diseases.

Fire Underwriters HOLD ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Newfoundland Board of Fire Underwriters was held in the Board Room, in the Bank of Nova Scotia Building at 4 p.m. yesterday. After the accounts had been passed and the usual routine business carried out, the following were elected to office:—

President—C. Mackenzie Harvey.
 Vice-President—J. B. Baird.
 Secty.—Treas.—R. G. Ash.
 Harvey Dave, Walter F. Butt and Arthur Johnson—Committee on Rates with the President, Vice-President and Secretary as members ex-officio.
 Messrs. Walter J. Edgar and Walter F. Butt, were appointed Auditors.

A sum of one hundred dollars was voted to the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund; a copy of the letter directed to the Hon. Secretary follows:

Dear Sir,—At the annual meeting of the Newfoundland Board of Fire Underwriters held to-day, it was unanimously decided to donate the amount of one hundred dollars ($100.00) towards the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund.

As mentioned last year, this amount is allocated from a fund of the Board, made up of money collected from the members of the Board, for fines imposed for late and non-attendance at Board meetings, and the members were of the opinion that owing to the recent disaster on the South West Coast of the island, all the money that can be obtained will be required by the Committee.

With all good wishes for a successful year for this deserving cause.

Yours faithfully,
 R. G. ASH,
 Secty.—Treas.

A sum of money was also donated from the fund mentioned in the above letter to purchase periodicals to be sent to the Fire Stations for the firemen to read in their leisure hours.

Last Night's Play Decided Hit

CROWDED HOUSE GREETED POPULAR PLAYERS.

That The Arlie Marks Players have become popular is already an absolute certainty. Last night the capacious Casino Theatre was filled with delighted spectators who audibly demonstrated their enthusiasm by their warm applause.

The plot of "My Irish Cinderella" is excellently taken, teeming with Irish wit and humour, so irresistible that it immediately grips its audience. The star role is faultlessly taken by Miss Arlie Marks, who as Cinderella house-waif from Canada, won instant favour with the audience, her rich Irish brogue and pretty impulsiveness meeting the different situations in a most winsome manner. Whilst the piece is very touching in parts, there is that beautiful vein of humour closely entwined and there is a happy ending which greatly enhances the charm of the plot. Lindsay E. Perrin as Clifford Morgan looked and acted the part to the last letter. The remainder of the players were cast as follows: Mike Moran, A. Paul D'Mathot; Mother Magee, Agnes Stutz; Leut. Earl, Ray Wasmund; Bill Mansfield, W. L. Phillips; Burton, Micky Kane; Annie, Peggy Logan; Margaret, Earl, Merdle Scott; Lord Lansdale, Paul Brady and Billy as Robert Emmet. The roles of the above were very ably sustained by the individual players. The specialties were unusually good. Micky Kane in his songs and dances is a live wire and curtain calls were demanded. Merdle Scott's violin solos were an attraction alone and the audience was not slow to appreciate good music. Peggy Logan, Susie McDonald and Jim Daley got a big reception and this together with "Billy" Phillips' monologue topped off an entertainment par excellence.

Monday's play, "The Sins of the Fathers," starts now toiling.

Romans Made London

The Rector of St. Michael's, Cornhill, has just announced some interesting discoveries made by excavations at the north end of his church. The separate walls of Roman work have been found. The archaeologists believe they have evidence under the stones of St. Michael's the remains of an earlier church on a Roman foundation which burnt down when the British Queen Boadicea fell upon London. The Rector's claim that Cornhill is one of the oldest parts of London is not denied. But how ancient is that? Boadicea destroyed the town in 60 A.D. but was known as a Roman Empire, but was known as a rich trading centre. The Roman conquest was only in 43 A.D. The Roman Conquest did not take place until 43 A.D. The accepted opinion is that either there was no London till the Romans came, or only a small, primitive settlement. The first Roman city which Boadicea destroyed was probably a little plot of land bounded by the Walbrook and a rampart built along the line of Cornhill and St. Mary-at-Hill," says the Telegraph. "But Roman London became a city greater than any in Britain or in Northern France, prosperous, inhabited by a highly civilized community. Their houses, the decorations and the objects of art which they used, show that they had learnt what the ancient world had to teach of the way to make the best of life. It seems that they were first and last a trading community. The importance of Roman London was not military or administrative, but commercial; it was a centre of communications for the fertile province of Britain, the chief port for her products. "The Roman or Romanized traders who lived on the high ground of Cornhill during those three peaceful centuries while the legions held Britain, would go down to their warehouses above the wharves of the Thames and the Walbrook and arrange the loading of ships with the tin and the lead, the slaves and the hides and wool which made Britain valuable to the Roman system. "In their homes on the hill they enjoyed such comfort and used such skill in the management of daily life as after the downfall of their civilization London hardly acquired in fifteen hundred years. The Roman power was gone by the fifth century. It was late in the nineteenth century before the people who worked on Cornhill were as clean and had homes as wisely ordered, as the citizens who built these Roman walls under St. Michael's."

Hawaii's Lake of Fire

Recent visitors to the rim of Halemauau's Lake of Fire, the spectacular exhibit of the Hawaii National Park, and probably the greatest scenic attraction in the world, have been treated to a new thrill. Little whirlwinds start down in the pit on the surface of the liquid lava and climb up the walls, maintaining a diameter of only six inches, but reaching a height of 20 feet. These whirls circle around the rim and will pull a hat from a visitor, sail it over the Lake of Fire a few moments and then carry it high in the air and drop it carefully on the floor of the outer crater, sometimes within 200 feet of its owner. As yet not a single hat has dropped into the Lake of Fire. The vicious snapping of the whirls cause the visitors to keep well back from the rim, but now and then a hat goes loose and furnishes a thrill for everyone. At night the steam cloud hanging over the pit is brilliantly illuminated during periods of lava flows, and at other times is lighted momentarily from the flashes of the fountain through which the fresh lava is poured out over the surface of the lake.

Field St. Mother Finds Vicks Most Useful in Home

Direct Treatment with Vaporizing Ointment Proves Splendid for all Inflammations. Ordinary Colds Usually go Overnight.

To-day hundreds of local people treat head or chest colds, tonsillitis, bronchitis, catarrh or asthma by the vapor method. They use Vicks Vapo-Rub.

When rubbed over throat and chest Vicks acts like a liniment or poultice. At the same time its ingredients, released as vapors by the body heat, are inhaled directly into the affected air passages. It is a severe cold that can withstand this double action of Vicks. Mrs. Charles Myers of 23 Field St. after trying the sample of Vicks, purchased several jars and says: "I find Vicks one of the most useful household remedies for colds, scalds, burns, etc., and do freely recommend it to every one. I would not be without Vicks in the home."

If applied in time, Vicks will prevent many colds from getting a start. Altho intended primarily for inflammations of the air passages, Vicks is equally effective for inflammations of the skin, such as burns, bruises, cuts, stings, etc.

Germany's Secret Air Fleets

PLANE FACTORIES IN OTHER COUNTRIES.

Reserves Who Could Fly Home. Disclosures of Germany's methods for evading Allied control and for creating a great organization not only of air pilots but also of aeroplanes are being made by the French air journal Les Ailes.

Summarised, the facts gained by the investigators of that paper are:— Under the cloak of sporting aviation Germany is working hard upon schemes which will give her 2,000 young pilots, 400 of whom, after a brief final training, being available for war. Germany is still nullifying the Allies' restrictions over her aircraft construction by the establishment of great factories for the mass production of metal warplanes in Denmark, Sweden, Russia and Italy.

In Denmark there is the Heinkel factory. In Sweden are the workshops of the Heinkel firm. In Russia are the establishments of Junkers and others. In Italy there is Dornier.

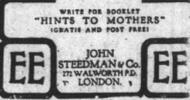

All Able to Fly to Berlin. The experts of LesAiles draw attention to the significant fact that these German factories outside Germany are all located so as to be within easy flying distance of Berlin.

Machines could fly to Berlin from the Heinkel factory at Copenhagen in less than three hours. A flight of about five hours would bring machines to Berlin from the Heinkel works at Stockholm. From Pisa, in Italy, where the Dornier metal aircraft works have been located, an air journey of about six hours would bring planes to Berlin. From near Kiev, in Russia, where there is a big

STEEDMAN'S POWDERS

Cooling and health-giving. An ideal aperitif for children from the period of teething to the age of 10 or 12 years.

Junkers' plant, machines could reach Berlin within seven to eight hours.

What is to prevent Germany from creating vast stocks of rapidly built metal aircraft in these depots? She is building aircraft for all parts of the world. It ought not to be difficult to camouflage these war preparations under the guise of commerce.

Assuming that secret air fleets exist at these points outside Germany, what is to prevent them from being down into Germany, at a word of command ready for raiding and aerial fighting? And in Germany there will be plenty of aerodromes and large numbers of pilots, all brought into being under the pretext of a big development of sporting and touring flight.

Thus a Germany which, ostensibly had hardly any startling power in the air at all might bring together in a flash a huge organization for lightning blows against countries which might be taken unawares.

The Allies' Remedy. There is only one thing to be done. Germany must be made to realize that the aerial preparations of other countries, that for every city she destroys one of her own centres will be laid in ruins: that if she drops poison-bombs on London or Paris, a terrible counter-stroke will come promptly on Berlin.

France grasps this fact well enough; and we must grasp it and act upon it also. The only deterrent to fresh German "frightfulness" by air will be the knowledge that she will be paid back instantly in her own coin.

New Potato Peril

EEL WORM DISEASE IN LINCOLNSHIRE.

In South Lincolnshire a new menace to potato culture has appeared, known as the eel worm (heterodera schachtli).

A few years ago eel worm disease of a different variety attacked the bulb-growing industry in South Lincolnshire, but was successfully combated by sterilisation of the bulb and resting the infected land for two or three years.

On some of the best potato farms in South Lincolnshire the eel worm has made devastating attacks, and so far all preventive measures have failed. On land where a normal yield would be six tons to the acre this new disease has brought down the crop in some instances to two tons to the acre. On some farms potato cultivation has been abandoned in certain fields for the present. The eel worm will live and spread in soil for seven years.

So far the attack seems to have been confined to the "first" and "second" crops, and what is known as the "main crop" has scarcely been affected. The disease seems to spread more rapidly during a wet season, and the more intensive the cultivation of the land the greater the liability to attack.

A Ministry of Agriculture expert has been sent to the district and has taken more than 1,000 samples of eel worm infection from farms.

REGULATIONS.

TREATMENT AT PUBLIC EXPENSE, OF THE SICK CASUAL POOR.

Emergency and other cases requiring Hospital treatment were the subject of REGULATIONS recently published.

The health of those on Permanent Poor Lists is the care of the Relieving Officers, under established practice.

Contagious and infectious diseases are the subject of statutes and regulations thereunder, and are within the authority of Boards of Health.

The following instructions therefore, refer solely to the medical or surgical care at Public Expense, of the sick casual poor, by which term is meant, those sick persons who are unable to pay for their own care, and whose natural protectors are unable or unwilling to pay on their behalf.

Application should be made when possible without much inconvenience or suffering, to the Relieving Officer of the locality in which the sick person resides. If the Relieving Officer resides inconveniently distant, the application should be made to the Charities Commissioner at St. John's. Application may be made by word of mouth, letter or prepaid telegram, and should give as full particulars as possible.

Application should in no case be made to members of the Government, Ministers in charge of Public Departments, or members of the Legislature, for it is the duty primarily of the Charities Commissioner and those responsible to him to deal with all matters of this kind, and it is desirable to separate the care of the sick as completely as possible from politics.

Relieving Officers, upon the receipt of an application, if shown that the case is one which calls for aid at the public expense, should send the nearest doctor to attend upon the sick person, if such expense is not thereby incurred, by reason of distance or otherwise, and should forthwith inform the Charities Commissioner of what has been done. If the expense involved may be considerable, the Relieving Officer, before sending a doctor, should apprise the Charities Commissioner of the circumstances, and obtain his instructions, unless grave danger to the sick person would result from delay, and this may be done by telegram whenever the circumstances seem to justify the expense.

In every case in which the despatch of a doctor from St. John's to an outpost is required to treat a sick person in such outpost, the Charities Commissioner alone has power to send one, and any application for such aid should be forwarded to him and to him only, by letter, if the condition of the sick person will permit, or by prepaid telegram, if delay would be dangerous.

The object of these instructions is to provide that only the helpless sick poor shall be treated at Public Expense, and that all others shall pay for their own treatment, or be paid for, and that the expenditure of Public Money for this charitable purpose shall be more carefully made than heretofore, for a very great injustice is done to industrious people if they are taxed for the care of others able to pay for their own treatment, or with natural protectors able to pay for them; and people able to pay for themselves, and the natural protectors of those unable to pay, cannot consistently with self-respect throw upon the public the cost of treatment.

The Charities Commissioner is the Officer in charge of this branch of the Public Service, the Relieving Officers of the Colony are his agents in this particular, and the interference of others can only be justified by special circumstances.

The cost to the Public under existing practices is becoming very great, and all good citizens, are therefore requested to give their aid in carrying out these instructions in their true spirit and meaning.

Making Friends and Keeping Them.

There's little satisfaction in coaxing customers in one day with the bait of some "scheme" or deal, only to lose them to-morrow, when someone else does the same thing. That's not the kind of customers that make for permanent success of the grocer.

If we have Babbitt's Borax right one day and "almost as good" the next—sold it on a "drive" one day and at the "regular price" the next—there wouldn't be any "regular price"—or quality either.
