"Sporting Venus" Lives Up to Name

Marshall Neilan's Latest Picture Lively and Beautiful Comedy-Melodrama.

She was a wealthy girl, and thought men wanted her solely for her money. But she found one man who wouldn't propose to her because of it--and so she married him.

That's one of the many situations in "The Sporting Venus," which opened last night at the Nickel Theatre for an engagement of three days. The picture was produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and directed by Marshall Neilan, and it proves to be one of the most entertaining films in many a day.

Neilan is one of the best of directors of comedy on the screen, and it seems a shame that he should make any other kind of a picture--until you see one of his dramas. In "The Sporting Venus," Neilan has brewed a unique combination of comedy and melodrama, developed many new situations and put a happy ending on his picture that is too good to tell before you've seen the production.

In the cast itself are many favorite faces. Blanche Sweet, who made such a name for herself in "Anna Christie" and "Tess," as a comedienne, plays a role in this film with a great deal of comedy. Lew Cody and Ronald Colman are also featured.

Harold Lloyd is seen in one of his newest comedies, "His Royal Snygness," assisted by Mildred Davis and Snub Pollard. This is one scream from start to finish. Don't miss it.

ADMIRALTY ASKED TO ASSIST LABOR LEADER'S SON TO ATTEND FUNERAL.

LONDON, Oct. 19. The Prince of Wales has found time amid preparations for his homecoming to interest himself in behalf of H. M. S. Repulse's radio operator Bramley, son of Fred Bramley, Labor Leader and former member of Parliament, who died suddenly October 2. Young Bramley is anxious to arrive in London in time for his father's funeral which takes place at two o'clock Friday afternoon.

As the Repulse is not due at Portsmouth until Friday noon, this will be impossible unless Bramley can be specially rushed ashore somewhere before reaching Portsmouth so that he can make connection for London.

The Prince accordingly sent a radio message to Premier Baldwin and the Admiralty asking them to do their utmost to facilitate this.

The Prince accordingly sent a radio plea, promising their co-operation.

Peat Possibilities

In Great Britain and Ireland there are over eight million acres of peat, of an average depth of 12ft. to 14ft. It is claimed that this peat represents vast, untapped wealth.

By machinery actually in existence, and which only needs applying, peat could be briquetted within eight hours, and the briquettes, being very hard, could be transported anywhere without breaking or disintegrating.

We might also get all the carbon we require from these vast peat fields. It has the advantage of coal because it is not mined but dug from the surface, and when the twelve or fourteen feet of peat is removed the earth beneath it is ready for cultivation--a process that the presence of the peat prevents. The exploitation of peat would, moreover, employ a large number of men and introduce a cheap, practically smokeless, and very hot fuel. For the production of electrical power peat is an ideal fuel, whilst its high yield of oil could be used for motor purposes as well as for lighting.

Free State Surplus

The Free State Revenue returns for the first half of the financial year show a revenue of £12,589,296 and an expenditure of £12,943,161, leaving a surplus of £346,135.

The biggest falling-off is in Customs and Excise, probably accounted for by the abolition of the tea duty and a reduction in the sugar duty.

For the financial year ended in April last there was a deficit of £532,620.

Knight Becomes a Monk

Sir John O'Connell, the Irish solicitor, has taken the Benedictine habit at Downside Abbey, near Bath, and becomes a novice.

Aged fifty-seven, he is a widower and took a leading part in Dublin public life.

Children's Colds

Are quickly, pleasantly relieved by Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

If children's colds are not rid of promptly they will be less tendency to pneumonia and consumption in later life. It is the neglected, hanging-on cold that weakens the lungs and develops into serious trouble.

No treatment for coughs and colds was ever so popular with the children as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It is so pleasant to the taste, so delightfully soothing and healing and affords relief so quickly that children soon turn to it instinctively when choked up with a cold or annoyed by coughing.

It is a mother's favorite treatment for croup and bronchitis, for she knows it will bring relief when the midnight coughing spasms set in. It is wise to always have a bottle at hand for prompt use in emergency.

The Colour Peril

HOW TO AVOID BLACK AND WHITE CONFLICT.

Grave apprehensions are felt in many quarters about the strained relations in various parts of the world between the white and coloured races. Speaking at the Church Congress at Eastbourne, Lord Willingdon, late governor of Bombay, pointed out that the white man's assumed superiority was no longer acknowledged, and if the problem could not be solved peacefully, it would produce, in the clash of the races, the most ghastly tragedy the world had known. The only practical solution was to treat the coloured man in a spirit of absolute equality with the white man. The Great War had done more than anything else to rouse the people of India to a sense of nationhood, to an intense desire to have more control over the management of their own affairs. "We must realize," he went on to say, "that it is not the colour of a man which makes a man, but it is the character inside that man which counts." "If we wished to continue our association with and exercise our influence on those countries which the white races have developed largely for the ultimate benefit of the coloured man, it must be in this spirit, and not by arrogating to ourselves any race superiority." Mr. J. H. Oldham, secretary of the United Missionary Council, described this problem as the biggest with which mankind had to deal. He had been told that though there was nothing in common between Islam and Bolshevism, many leading Moslems threw in their lot with Bolshevism for the sole reason that they felt that the Bolsheviks treated them as equals, while the Western nations did not. A "solid white front" inevitably became a solid yellow front and a solid brown front--and a solid black front--and that meant war.--Mr. Shoran Singh, a Christian Indian, who wore a turban, made an almost impassioned appeal for equality of races. "We must get rid of the idea," he urged, "that God sent the white people to rule the black people. We have got to get rid of the white man's prestige." He told the following anecdote: He met an Indian and his wife at a railway station on Saturday night in a town in England. It was the night after a big football match, and before them they saw a big mass of people drink, rolling about, and sweating. The wife turned to her husband and exclaimed: "Is this the race in whose hands God has placed the destiny of my people?"--News of the World.

The Evening Telegram

THE EVENING TELEGRAM, LIMITED, PROPRIETORS.

All communications should be addressed to The Evening Telegram, Ltd., and not to individuals.

St. John's, Newfoundland, October 20th, 1925.

THE ECONOMISTS!

A glance over the achievements of those who are so loud in their protests against present expenditure and are clamouring for another chance may help to refresh their memories, and will recall to the minds of the public the reasons why they banished them from office.

In the years when Newfoundland was passing through the most distressing period in her history these administrators were in power, and the result is eloquently expressed in the facts and figures which follow.

The Public Debt pre-war ..... $30,000,000
The Public Debt 1918-19 ..... 42,000,000
Increase chiefly on account of the war ..... 12,000,000

The Public Debt in 1923 ..... 54,957,765
To which was added ..... 5,500,000

Total ..... $60,457,765

"The Economists" added to the debt in the first four years of peace $18,457,765.

The dead weight of the debt on each taxpayer when the war was over was about $800.00. The dead weight when "The Economists" had worked their sweet will with the public funds was $1132.00.

Another little illustration—
Amount raised by taxes,
1919—June 1924 ..... $ 33,000,000
Amount raised by loans,
1920-21 ..... 6,001,000
1921-22 ..... 6,003,040
1923-24 ..... 5,500,000

Grand Total at the disposal of "The Economists" ..... $50,490,202

And that is not the end of the story. Here it is in the form of a quotation from the Report of the Auditor General:—

To meet the deficit of 1923-24 ..... $1,600,000 $62,090,202 spent in less than five years!

Of this stupendous amount, out of every taxpayer's pocket came $623.00 in cold cash, and he and his children and his children's children have still to pay off $17,000,000 in addition. What is there to show for it?

The wonder is not that the poor worm did turn, but that it could.

Where and how these huge sums of money were expended are questions which could not be answered without years of research, and even then it is certain that the time expended would be to a great extent barren of results. However, a few instances may be mentioned. A hullabaloo has been raised because of the expenditure on road building at the present time, and because the work has taken the men from the fishery. Passing without comment the construction of the quarter mile Road de Luxe at a cost of $25,000, over which scarcely a vehicle passes, we come to the following:

Badger-Hall's Bay Road ..... $365,205
Deer Lake-Bonne Bay Road ..... 329,523

This is what the Auditor-General says of the operations:

"During my tenure of office as Auditor General, 'I have never known of an expenditure so unproductive of even moderate results as that in connection with these two roads (Badger-Hall's Bay and Deer Lake-Bonne Bay). These roads may have been, and doubtless were, a necessity, but under existing financial circumstances they could not be afforded. The necessity which brought about their construction did not, in my opinion exist to the extent represented. While there was undoubtedly much unemployment at the time they were started and considerable destitution, yet 'the cure for that should have been found in the fishing industry. At no time in the history of Newfoundland to my knowledge has it been necessary to find employment for some 5,000 men during the fishing season, even with fish at its lowest, and this season it would have been better for these men, and infinitely better for the Colony's finances, if they had continued at their proper vocation.'

Have these "Economists" grown wiser since those days, think you, Mr. Citizen?

Then there was the purchase of Labrador Fish by the Government. In referring to the expenditures incurred in 1921-22—wasteful expenditures, he terms them—the Auditor General says of this transaction:

"The purchase of Labrador fish helped, too, very largely in causing the deficit. Over $250,000 was lost 'to the Colony on this transaction alone.'

Next there was the Fishery Supply Guarantee futter. "The cost of this venture to the Colony," says the Auditor General in his 1924 Report, "has been $389,802." That alone cost each and every householder the price of a badly needed pair of boots.

Because the Railway Contractor said in 1920 that he could not carry on the service any longer, the Government of the day kindly undertook his responsibilities. A Commission was appointed; Sir W. F. Coaker, the master mind of the Administration, assumed the duties of Chairman, and by 1923, after several millions of dollars had been spent in repairing the road, purchasing new equipment, boring for coal, and in operating the service (the loss on the latter alone was $1,507,665), it was decided that the Government SHOULD BUY THE RAILWAY! and without further ado $2,000,000 was paid over for the white elephant.

It is not estimating the cost to the Colony at too high a figure if we say that it was poorer by $6,000,000 as a result of this "economic" enterprise!

A few more examples, and we conclude for the moment—the Coaker Navy, $345,000; the Sugar Deal, $184,000; the Trade Commissioners' Mission, $150,000; the purchase of Salt, $77,767; an Industrial Home for the Blind, $22,500; the Rock Crushing Business which cost the country at the rate of $24.00 a ton. But why prolong the agony? The story of the waste of relief money upon able-bodied individuals and the Pit Prop Scandals have already been told, even if the hole which these undertakings made in the public purse has never been plumbed. Sufficient has been stated to indicate what a sorry mess those former administrators made of the affairs of the country, and how completely they disqualified themselves from ever again having any say in public matters.

For these individuals to-day to pose as economists, or to express an opinion as to what is or is not the right policy to pursue would be a public affront but for the fact that the community still possesses a sense of humour.

THE INDUSTRIAL FAIR

Mr. W. A. MacKay, the promoter of the Industrial Fair and all those who have so ably and heartily co-operated with him in making it such a phenomenal success, are heartily to be congratulated upon their achievement.

The beneficial results of last year's event promise to be eclipsed by the present exhibition if one may judge by its immense popularity and by the numerous improvements which are everywhere in evidence. As a stimulus to trade its value is conclusively proven, and it is an eye opener as to the wonderful variety of goods that may be obtained in St. John's in every conceivable line.

So great is the number of exhibits that it is impossible in a single visit to obtain anything like a comprehensive idea of what is there, and so attractive is every one of them that each visit is only a further inducement to come again.

Supreme Court

(Before Chief Justice Horwood.)

The King vs. Gertrude Ashley for Perjury.

A jury of 48 were summoned. 46 appeared and the following were selected:—Wm. Antle, Harold Mitchell, John Woodland, John Wall, Geo. Cross, John O'Mara, George Vaughan, John Ryan, Charles Garland, Caster Davies, William Myler, and Alexander Morris.

Mr. G. F. Bradley represented the Crown, Mr. W. J. Browne for the accused.

The first witness called was Mr. McCarthy of the Central District Court, who conducted part of the enquiry into the Harding fire on Jan. 26, out of which arose the present trial.

Mr. Browne cross-examined raised the question of the manner in which the police conducted the enquiry during his cross-examination of the witness, and Mr. Bradley in rebuttal called Supt. O'Neill and Mr. H. Power, Clerk and Stenographer at the Magistrate's Court. Other witnesses called were Florrie Howell and Earl Kennedy.

The accused was then put in the box and examined by Mr. Browne and cross-examined by Mr. Bradley. The taking of evidence concluded at 12.30, and Mr. Browne began his address to the jury. He had not concluded at recess hour, and adjournment was taken until 2.30 p.m. The accused appears to be a girl whom fortune failed to smile on, according to a family history outlined by her counsel. At four years of age her mother died, and she was placed in an orphanage. Ten years after her father took her home to keep house for him, and a short while afterwards he died. Then she kept house for her two brothers. One of them died in the Sanatorium. The other left home and she has not since heard of him. Necessity compelled her to sell her home and go to live with a family named Howell. What little money was realized for the sale of the house was soon expended, and to make matters worse, she took fever and had to be nursed in hospital. After her release she found herself without a home, and was obliged to hire out as a domestic servant with the Harding family. It was whilst she was in this service in January last that the fire took place. An enquiry into its origin followed, and the accused was called as a witness. The allegation is that the accused gave evidence of failing to a friend girl, Florrie Howell at a tank, and at a certain time knowing the statement to be false. The Crown called Florrie Howell, who denies being in the place at the time stated, and further that she never wore a wrist watch as was stated by the accused.

Beautiful Display Three Flowers

One of the most artistic and dainty-looking displays at the Industrial Fair is that devoted to the renowned Three Flowers Toilet preparations. The Booth is richly done with a blue silk background draped in old gold curtains and festooned with magnificent flowers. In the centre is a richly covered table, on which the aristocratic looking Three Flowers packages are tastefully arranged. A soft light gives the whole Booth a beautiful effect and many persons admired this lovely display yesterday afternoon and last night. Ladies are being presented with complimentary samples of Three Flowers, and treated to a spray of the delectable Three Flowers Perfume. —Oct 20, 11

House and Barn Destroyed

A dwelling house and barn at Upper Gullies owned by Mr. R. Hibbs, M.H.A., were destroyed by fire last night, according to a message received by Supt. O'Neill from Const. Efford. A motor car in the barn also went up in smoke. Mr. Hibbs was at Upper Gullies yesterday evening superintending some work on his farm, and when he left everything appeared O.K. A few hours later the barn was discovered to be on fire, but the flames had already made such headway that the efforts of the people who assembled were futile and the building together with the house to which the fire spread, was quickly razed. The loss is a very heavy one to Mr. Hibbs.

S.S. Portia in Port

S.S. Portia, Capt. Connor, arrived in port at 2 o'clock this morning from the western coastal service, after a boisterous round trip passage of nine days. She brought a part cargo of freight and the following passengers: Messrs. J. Ross, S. Spencer, J. Dowling, R. Burns, Miss Grant, Mrs. Grant, Mr. Batstone, N. J. Power, J. Crawley, S. Hickey, P. Hickey, and Mrs. Smith and 2 children. Capt. Connor reports all the passengers returned from the Straits and Banks with good fares. A trawler owned by Harvey & Co. arrived at Belleoram a few days ago with 600 qtls. and will leave again on another trip. There is a good sign of fish reported in Burgeo and St. Mary's Bay, but the boats are unable to proceed to the grounds on account of stormy weather. The Portia met with strong head winds and heavy seas the greater part of the trip.

Government Boats

Argyle left Argentea 4 a.m.

Wrecking Tug Unable to Reach Sticklestead

The S.S. Reindeer L. which left here last week to assist the ore boat Sticklestead, is returning to port owing to being unable to reach the disabled ship. On Friday last the Sticklestead reported from Lat. 55.54, Long. 40.23. The position is about 570 miles north-east of St. John's. The S.S. Dampten, bound from Rotterdam to Bell Island, was expected to be alongside the Sticklestead yesterday, and will tow her to where the Reindeer can make connection.

Personal

Mrs. Thomas S. Rutsey entertained a party of young ladies last evening at 156 Hamilton Avenue, in honour of Miss Florence Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Andrews of Port de Grave, who will shortly be leaving for Lowell, Mass., accompanied by Mrs. L. Payne and Thomas Barnard, of Winulge.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Oct. 19th.—Much troubled by the high cost of coal, yet needs must order some to-day since it has now become so cold that I may not much longer put off the lighting of my furnace. Indeed, I did never know it so cold at this time, and do hold great fears for the severity of the winter. Coming to the office, I found the stove broken and will take all the day to fix it, and am compelled to work in my topcoat which do find mighty uncomfortable.

This afternoon, to the opening of the Fair, which did strike me as well organized, and somewhat better than the year before. But Lord, being caught in the crowd, did suffer a damaged hat, which maddens me, having little enough to pay my bills, nor can I afford any new cloaths.

Greatly minded to forego writing my journal for a little while, having so little news to write, and the times duller than I have ever seen them.

Magistrate's Court

A man convicted of a breach Section 24, Sub-section 3 of the Alcoholic Liquors Act, was fined $10.00 or in default 30 days imprisonment.

Two drunks were each fined $1.00 and blacklisted.

Two men appeared before court this morning on a charge of refusing to obey a summons for non-payment of Poll Tax. The hearing of both cases was postponed till Saturday morning next.

A 21-year-old stoker belonging to Sweden was arraigned and charged with deserting from the Canadian steamer Reindeer, on 10th October, inst. The accused was remanded to the penitentiary until the ship arrives in port.

Heavy Sea at Lance Cove

Last night a heavy sea was raging at Lance Cove, between Kelligewas and Seal Cove, with the result that tons of beach rocks were driven over the railway tracks. In that section. The train which went out at 8.45 this morning was obliged to stop at Lance Cove until the debris had been cleared away. No damage was done to the roadbed and the express for foreign connections went out at the usual time. The sea was breaking over the Bell Rock to the west of Bell Island yesterday, a sight which is but seldom witnessed.

Susu Delayed at Seldom

Messrs. Cashin & Company received a message from Seldom this morning, stating that the steamship Susu arrived there at 7.30 a.m. from Peckford's Island, and would be unable to proceed further north until the sea had gone down. It is quite apparent that the Susu is meeting with severe weather on the run north.

Obituary

ARTHUR W. HISCOCK.

The city to-day has occasion to mourn the passing of a member of the community in the person of Arthur W. Hiscock, who for many years has been a conspicuous figure in many phases of its social and public life. Returning from a holiday abroad, Mr. Hiscock was taken seriously ill on board the S.S. Sachem off the port on Friday night and was taken from the ship's side in an ambulance to his residence. He failed to rally from the attack, and at 12.55 this morning he died, aged 71.

The deceased was seventy-one years of age and was born in Trinity, but spent most of his life in St. John's. For many years he was manager of the Hardware Store of Moses Monroe and Bishop and Monroe, and later of the Robinson Export Company. Illness, however, made it necessary to retire from the latter position about two years ago, and although not confined to his home, he had been more or less a sufferer since then.

Keenly interested in public affairs the deceased was a strong supporter of Lord Morris in his election campaigns, and for years acted as chairman of his gatherings. In the annual Regatta he played a foremost part. For over forty years he was a member of the committee, and during the last thirteen years occupied the position of President. He was also a member of long standing of the St. John's Lodge A.F. and A.M.

A man whom it was a pleasure to be associated with in business or pleasure, Arthur Hiscock will long be remembered and his death will be a cause of deep regret among his large circle of friends.

Left to mourn are a widow, formerly Miss Josephine Tobin, one son, Frederick, in Montreal, and two daughters, Miss Maud and Mrs. Jos. Ryan of this city, to whom the Telegram extends deep sympathy. The funeral takes place at 2.30 p.m. to-morrow, from Hillside, 57 Long's Hill.

THE TRAINS.—Sunday's express arrived Port aux Basques 8 p.m. The express for foreign connections went out at 1 p.m.

MESSAGE FROM S.S. NEWFOUNDLAND.—Weather moderating; expect to arrive 6 o'clock Wednesday morning.

AT HOME.—Mrs. C. Roy Darcy will be "At Home" to friends on Thursday and Friday afternoons, Oct. 22nd and 23rd, from 3 to 5.30 o'clock, at 138 Gower Street. —Oct 20, 11

INFECTION OF ARM.—Mr. Farquharson, of Halifax, Foreman of Street Railway construction work, met with an accident a short time ago, when a piece of steel entered his arm causing an infection. Since then the injured member has swollen and has given him much trouble, and although undergoing treatment, he is able to attend to his duties every day.

MARRIED.

At the R. C. Cathedral, on Oct. 18th, by the Rev. Dr. Kitchen, Miss Mary Clancy to Mr. Edward Spry, both of this city.

DIED.

At Brooklyn, New York, on the 16th inst. Mary, daughter of William and Minnie Vinnicombe, leaving 5 sisters and 1 brother. Funeral took place this morning at Brooklyn after High Mass, R.I.P.

At 12.55 this morning, Arthur W. Hiscock, aged 71, leaving a widow, 1 son and 2 daughters. Funeral to-morrow, Wednesday, at 2.30 p.m. from his late residence, "Hillside," 57 Long's Hill.

Suddenly, last night, at 11.30, Edward (ex-Fireman), son of the late Catherine and William McGinn, aged 58 years, leaving to mourn a wife, 4 children, 3 daughters, 1 son; also 5 brothers and 3 sisters. Funeral on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. from his late residence, 36 Bannerman Street, Sacred Heart of Jesus have mercy on his soul. Halifax, New York and Grancy papers please copy.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mr. and Mrs. Henderson wish to thank the Nurses for their kind attention to their daughter Mona while in the Sanatorium; also the kind friends who sent flowers and sympathized with them in their sad bereavement.

IN LOVING MEMORY
Of No. 2844, Sergt. E. J. Monahan, killed in action at Vichte, Oct. 20th, 1918.

In our homes he is fondly remembered. Sweet are the memories that cling to his name. Hearts that loved him in life most sincerely. Love him in death just the same.

BALFOUR STOCK COMPANY
PRESENTING ENGLISH AND
AMERICAN SUCCESSES.

Supported by English and American Players.

MY FRIENDS AND PATRONS:
Submitting for your approval the Balfour Stock Company for the 1925-
26 season of the Canadian Provinces, Newfoundland and The West Indies, I am submitting with the reputation of being some of the most versatile and talented in the past a desire to secure patronage and cordially welcome a really first-class company presenting the very latest English and American successes.

The Balfour Stock Company should be immensely popular in as much as each member has been selected with the utmost care. Our players come to your shores with the reputation of being some of the most versatile in the English and American theatre. They have all had a wide experience with some of the leading theatrical companies throughout England and the United States, and are destined to win the admiration and approval of the most exacting amusement lover.

I therefore take pleasure in submitting for your earnest approval, this Balfour Stock Company of players and entertainment.

Sincerely yours,
J. EDMOND BALFOUR,
Mr. Balfour Stock Company.

sists of first class vaudeville specialists.

Magic Aids to Beauty

So long as soft cheeks beguile, and lips are mysterious fragrances and eyes bewilder—just so long women gaily accept the magic of beauty discovered by those who seek to explore for them. Richard Hague's passion for the witchery of beauty presented to the world the famous Three Flowers odor. Delicious—subtle—spicy with the breath of floral vapors—this dainty perfume arms the fastidious ladies of all lands. You may now obtain the fragrant scent in talcum, face powder or toilet cream. Every toilet requires bearing the Three Flowers contains this beautiful scent. To use Three Flowers is a sign of good taste.—2010, n.t.t.f.

THE SECRETARY CRITICIZES
EDUCATION SYSTEM.

The Home Secretary, Sir William
James-Hicks, speaking at the Statisticians' Federation of Women's Industries' Exhibition of Handicrafts and Home Produce, said it was true that in his particular office he had to deal with fools. When appearing before a Leinster audience recently he was asked a man ask another, "What's the use of now that he's Home Secretary?" "That," was the reply, "he looks after mother when father's away."
That would be an apt definition of the work of the Home Secretary. If it were not for the fact that experience taught that he had to look after fools, people, when speaking of education, were sometimes

A CLEARING HOUSE OF MANNERISMES.

A friend of mine claims that what is needed more than anything else to help people be happy though married is a clearing house of mannerisms. This is what he means: "One of the hard things about marriage is the way that in such close contact people's mannerisms get to wearing on each other. Sometimes it's an ugly mannerism that annoys a person—her way of putting her hands to her face, or his way of eating his steamed audibly. But sometimes the mannerism isn't ugly at all, it's just a little thing that other people would hardly notice but which, seen at too many quarters, becomes tiresome or irritating. Maybe it's even something that seemed attractive in courtship days, and that is the most delicate situation of all because to speak of it is pretty sure to bring the instant reaction. But you used to like it. You don't love me as much as you used to."

And Promise To Be Sports.

Now my friend's idea is that if married people at the end of each year would agree to write down on paper the little mannerisms in each other that annoy them and would promise to each other's list in a sporting spirit without any of the "you don't love me anymore" or "maybe I can find someone who isn't so critical of my table manners" sort of reaction, and would try to get rid of the little mannerisms that have come to wear on each other's nerves, the cause of marital happiness would be greatly helped.

Of course those are some tremendously big "ifs." They strain human nature pretty hard. It is very hard not

Boric Acid in Eggs

Sir Kingsley Wood, Parliamentary Secretary to the Health Ministry, declines to extend the time limit against the use, under the Preservatives in Food Regulations, of boric acid in egg yolks imported from China. His refusal to do so is in reply to a protest from the Bakery Allied Traders' Association, which complains that the time limit is inadequate and renders useless the association's efforts to find a substitute for boric preservatives.

REMORSE

Sometimes the leaping flames take merry shapes. With sailing vessels rounding wind-tossed capes. Or if perchance the children mount my knee. They are the loveliest fairies I can see.

Sometimes within the open grate I find. Glimpses of friends I've known and left behind. Glad memories of pleasures past recall. Which dance and cast their shadows on the wall.

But now and then before me there have flamed Pictures of scenes where I have been ashamed—Red, bitter moments of a foolish rage. Which rise to taunt me in my calmer age.

Before the open fire I sit and dream And find life's truths run deeper than they seem: The little hurts of cowardice and hate. Leave more remorse than all my failures great.

Money and place and pomp and fame are not. Such grisvous losses once they are forgot. But still my cheeks will flush with shame to see Each pictured instant of the worst of me.

AT HOME—Mrs. David Ferguson will be "At Home" at 19 Leslie Street, on Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m.—Oct. 21.

Mr. Holtum Delights Large Audience

This talented singer who opened his engagement at the popular Star last evening won for himself big applause, his rendition of "On the Road to Mandalay" and "I Love a Lassie," being very pleasingly rendered.

In the feature picture America's emotional actress Pola Negri, was seen in "Lily of the Dust," a story which was admirably suited to her ability.

In the course of another day or two, the Management are hoping to be in a position to make an announcement of an extraordinary attraction, full particulars of which will be seen in this paper.

MUDDLING THROUGH.

VALT MARCH

The British statesmen look around, and trouble's all they see; the signs of lasting grief abound, and they sit drinking tea; a crisis looms up every day, to horrify the view, and still the British statesmen say, "Somehow we'll muddle through." A hundred times our merry lads have been in grievous base; a hundred times our foes have said, "Old Britain's days are few," and picked out dirges for the dead, but still we muddled through." This large philosophy is mine, and governs my affairs; I don't surrender and repine when woe comes un-awares. Sometimes the problems I confront seem billed to queer my game. It seems a useless thing to hunt solutions for the same; along my path I straightly weed, and let the problems stew, and I have noticed in the end I always muddle through. It argues an abiding trust in righteousness, this plan; the delegate whose cause is just, who loves his fellow-man, reposes in a cheerful calm when things have gone askew, and in this thought he finds a balm, somehow he'll muddle through. To buckle down and do our best when sorrows walk the earth, this is the great and crucial test of discipline and worth; and doing this we may forget: Dame sorrow and her crew, and cease to walk the "ner and fret—somehow we'll muddle through.

For a good Tonic try BRICK'S TASTELESS. Price $1.20. sept 28, 11

Making Us All Beautiful!

SCIENCE'S REMEDY FOR UGLINESS.

Is ugliness of form or feature a disease? Is the time coming when it will be placed in the same category as measles or mumps, and be as easily remedied?

Certainly much ugliness is due to glandular disease, and if the claims made for organotherapy—that is, treatment by the administration of animal substances and glandular secretions—are as sound as they seem to be, it is possible to banish or mitigate it.

The effect of disorganization of the functioning of glands is now known to be enormous. Such disorganization produces all sorts of conditions, from what we call "characteristics" to prominent features, perhaps, hideous deformity; from mere dullness of eye and pastiness of complexion to a distortion of physiognomy that is disastrous.

That "Off Colour" Feeling.

To one abnormality in glands is due the midges whose unhappy lot it may be to go through life as a professional "freak," and to the opposite, a man whom no tailor will clothe for less than twice his usual charges. Dwarfism and gigantism depend upon the sluggishness or over-activity from birth of the pituitary gland, which is about the size of a cherry stone and situated at the base of the brain.

If the overactivity of this small body does not take place until after normal growth has finished, and an increase in height is no longer possible, the result is acromegaly—enlargement of the hands and feet, and then more or less distortion of the features.

Some years ago a young woman consulted her doctor about her large hands and feet, and the only consolation she got was a bland assurance that she was descended from a race of giants. Possibly she was; but had she lived in these days science would have been able to treat her, because she became eleven, and from then till now understood. On the other hand, gland irregularity may produce the comparatively trifling "off colour" condition that comes over us sometimes just when we want to be at our best. The cause is now known to be a disorganization of the secreting glands. Much may be effected, therefore, by rectifying the disorganization, which is done by administering glandular extracts, and so bringing about a chemical balance.

In many cases of arrested growth organotherapy has been very successful. A certain girl grew slowly till she became eleven, and from then till eighteen remained at a standstill. During this period she suffered from various disorders, which impaired her appearance. Pancreatin was administered, with the result that she looked and felt enormously better, and a short time ago she was married.

Gland treatment, too, has been efficacious in mongolism. The physiognomy of sufferers is of the Mongolian type, the forehead being low and flat, the upper jaw usually projecting over the lower, the lips protruding, and the nose resembling a prizefighter's. Patients lack intelligence, and are as dull as their slit-like eyes indicate.

A well-known woman had two daughters who were so ugly through mongolism that for some years they were carefully isolated. Eventually, one of the few specialists in endocrinology (the treatment of endocrine or gland diseases) was consulted, and under his care the children were wonderfully changed for the better. Today the girls give promise of developing into types of English beauty.

Little less remarkable is the success of organotherapy in repairing the ravages wrought on face and figure by a season's dancing, late hours, and excitement. Waning beauty has been restored and nervous stability re-established.

Melba to Retire

FAMOUS PRIMA DONNA ON FAREWELL TOUR.

To the regret of every true lover of music, Dame Nellie Melba has decided to retire. She has arranged a farewell tour of concerts in leading cities and towns in the British Isles for the beginning of next year, with a final concert in London in May. Melba was born in Burnley, near Melbourne, in 1865, and it was from Melbourne that, by an easy translocation, she took her professional name. Her father was David Mitchell, a Scottish business man, originally a builder and contractor, who in later life became a squatter and wine grower. Helen Mitchell sang in public for the first time at the age of six. What measure of success she secured is not recorded, but it is on record that a future was prophesied for her as a pianist.

The prophets were confounded. After various disappointments—Carl Rosa made an appointment with her, and wrote it on his shirt-cuff, and then forgot all about it—she was accorded a trial by Madame Marchesi, who then ran out to her husband and exclaimed, "Salvatore, Salvatore! At last I have found a star!" She had. Soon afterwards Melba sang in grand opera at the Theatre de la Monnaie, in Brussels, and her name was made. Her first appearance at Covent Garden was in May, 1888. For more than 30 years Melba has been the queen of dramatic song. Her endeavours for the war were recognized by the hon-our of Dame of the British Empire.

"This Loveable and Not Unlovely Land" By Late Rev. Dr. R. Howley.

Newfoundland's Sons in Other Lands, by Rev. Frederick Woods, D.D., With Opinions of Other Visitors, on Nfld.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—Would you kindly permit me space through the columns of The People's Paper, the Evening Telegram, for the introduction of the following compiled opinions on the beauties of Terra Nova, written by some of her most gifted sons, and spoken of by the ladies and gentlemen of foreign climes. The late Rev. Dr. Richard Howley, brother of His Grace the late Archbishop Howley, was a pleasing and clever writer, and at one time was a correspondent to the Pall Mall Gazette. Some of the old time readers of your paper remember the beautiful and instructive Christmas Numbers of the Evening Telegram in its infant years. Men well known for their ability contributed to their pages, among them Rev. Dr. Murphy. In the early eighties there appeared the following clever contribution from his pen:

"Newfoundland! The name seems to have been invented on purpose to confound the historian and drive the poet to despair. There is nothing in its sense or sound that suggests a shadow of the venerable or ray of the romantic. Yet the land itself—with its deep firds, its gloomy sea-caves, its towering cliffs and majestic headlands—teems with all the elements of the weird and wistful poetry of the North. It presents a thousand scenes grand as those painted, with wizard touch, by Scott in that most exquisite of his creations, 'The Pirate.' There are mystic souls that see—in those, the lands of storm and gloom—the true region of poetry. In the South, things of beauty appear in softly-chiselled outline, and all aglow with colour. They ravish the senses, but rob the fancy of its delicious dreamings. In the North, things awful and mysterious appear to the eyes in dim, unfashioned form, but are moulded by the spirit into perfect being. They are creatures of that 'inner' sense that refines and idealizes the material world, and gives it life, and light, and truth. In the North the sources of poetry lie within; in the South they abide without the soul. Here the Muse reposes in pleasant valleys, revels in soft delights, and basks in perpetual sunshine. There she sits enthroned in mists, and rides upon the tameless winds. The South is, therefore, the home of imitation and of art. The North is the haunt of inspiration, poetry and dreams. Hence the marked idealism of the Northern Muse, as compared with her gay and brilliant rival. How spiritual, even when dealing with Nature and Nature's forms, is the muse of Milton, Scott, Wordsworth, and the impetuous Byron! Whereas, the thought of Tasso, of Ariosto, of Calderon and De Vega is ever occupied with the outward and visible features of things—decked, it is true, with the brightest colors, and personified in heroes of amazing faculties, fortunes and resources, who are forever changing into grotesque figures, and engaged in impossible adventures.

The lofty and meditative genius of the Northern Muse is also the cause, and the result of that deep, abiding vision that haunts the child of the North, and makes his hand beautiful to him. He loves it, not so much for what it is in itself, but for what it is in his sight. His spirit is never in exile, and he creates for himself an ideal country, he carries its image with him forever. But the Southern is a creature of enjoyment. His country is a thing of light—to trifle with, to gloat over—but its beauty is not of him. In exile he suffers pain of sense, but knows nothing of that pain of loss that gnaws at the heart of the steadfast son of the North.

I feel I have imperfectly conveyed an impression that is strong and clear in my own fancy, and is somehow inseparably connected with my mental and material vision of Newfoundland. But a charming author here comes to mine and my reader's rescue, and, in a few bold pen-strokes, paints the perfect picture I have but bodadbed: 'I like the South,' says Lady Julia Kavanagh, in Nathalie, 'but not to reside in. That endless revel of Nature, with skies ever blue and air ever balm, enervates the soul. Man is not himself when he has nothing against which to strive. Have you never, in imagination, contrasted a soft Southern climate with the desolate North; with icy seas blending at the horizon with skies scarcely more black? Have you not thought of those solitary and rock-bound shores—of those wild, barren regions? They have a solemn and melancholy charm that lives in the memory when the verdant earth, the serene sky and the azure seas of the South are forgotten.

It must be some such nameless charm that renders Newfoundland—to all who ever resided there—a memory not to be conjured away by the magic wand of time; a vision not to be banished by the beauties of earth's most favored regions. This feeling is not confined to the son of the soil. The stranger confesses to it. The fact is this: All that mere beauty can offer, or that art can build or gild, is powerless to seize upon that instinct that is wild and free—savage, if you will—in every genuine man. Deep down within him there is something that is akin to the rude, uncontrolled forms and forces of Nature. The very temples man builds for his worship are modelled upon the giant rocks upheaved by Nature's throes before art had belittled, or chisel deformed, her handiwork. Man's cities are but the dens he dugged to house his miseries and his vices after wandering from his happy lair amid mountain gorge and leafy forest—the homes of neither lord nor serf. His trim parks and twittering fountains are but the mimicry of the heath-mantled moor and the thunderous cataract. Leave man to himself! He will return to his beloved wilds. Loose him from the tags and tatters and tinsel of a degraded civilization! The animal within him—uncaged—will rush back to freedom and to Nature. He will once more become the lord of creation. As he now is, Nature will neither recognize him as her subject, nor serve him as her master.

This is going, perhaps, too deep down for reasons to account for the undoubted fact that the heart clings most closely to scenes where Nature abounds and artifice is conspicuously absent. It is going rather far away from the prosaic facts with which my work shall have to deal. Yet this is no artful introduction. It will strike, I deem, a clear-sounding chord in many a heart that has felt—though not unravelled—the ties that bind it to this loveable and not unlovely land."

Rev. Frederick Woods, D.D., was also a contributor to the columns of the Evening Telegram Christmas Number. The Rev. gentleman was born at St. John's. The following contribution was written by him from the United States of America some thirty-four or five years ago. Speaking on love of home he said:—

"The mention in a strange land of one of the familiar localities of home, is magical. It is an Open Sesame to the storehouse of the past; for we, expatriated natives, carry Signal Hill and Chain Rock, Riverhead and Kitty Viddy, in our hearts. Pronounce one of these cabalistic words, and lo, the ideal treasures with which associated memories so enrich scenes of the olden time! But the poetic haze of distance aside, it is literally true that the St. John's boy has small conceptions of the real majesty of the scenery which is the commonplace of his every day life. He does not realize this until he finds himself wondering why the famous and fashionable coast scenery of other places seems so tame to him. Then it flashes upon him. 'Ah,' he says, 'you should see Topsail, or Petty Harbor, or Portugal Cove.' The Narrows alone is a piece of colossal picturesque which the artist Nature herself must admire. Not only do we, who have had an opportunity of comparison, know the old places to be intrinsically grand, but, as landmarks of our boyhood, they are to us wreathed with the sunlight and verdure of that tropical season."

OPINIONS OF PERSONS FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

This country has been visited by many distinguished persons from across the sea, who have praised the people and scenery of our sea-girt Isle. We have culled from among the many favourable opinions the following: Miss E. Pauline Johnson, who visited us some nineteen years ago, said: "Newfoundland is the veriest sportsman's paradise. The royal catches of salmon, the caribou, the ptarmigan are attractions for many a gun from overseas. When you have been privileged to see her glorious sea-board, her ships, her merchandise, her rich forests you cease to marvel at her pluck, for she has mothered men who turn these things to good account, and whose loyalty to her never lessened throughout her dark days."

The Rt. Rev. John Inglis, D.D., Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, who visited us in 1827, said: "The entrance to St. John's is highly picturesque, the town is well situated and in the centre of beautiful scenery. Speaking of having sailed up the Exploits River, His Lordship said: 'This is the first day since I left Halifax that was devoted to personal gratification. While the ship was being provided with wood, we went in the boats about thirteen miles (the ship was anchored twenty-five miles up the river) to a rapid where we landed and walked about two miles to a splendid waterfall. The scenery was exceeding beautiful and the country heavily timbered.'"

Mrs. and Miss Lamb, wealthy ladies of America, visited our country some twenty years ago. They had travelled a great deal of the world, having been in Switzerland, Germany, England, France and Spain, and when they visited the West Coast they said: "All they had seen was incomparable to the scenery of Newfoundland." Mr. Schwamb, a retired lumber merchant of Chicago, said that "Newfoundland was the finest country in the world for sportsmen." Mr. George Eade, manager of the famous Thomas Cook & Sons, Tourist Excursion Company, of New York, visited us and said that he was charmed with the scenery.

Colonel Sir John Godfrey Rogers, K.C.M.G., D.S.O., who had travelled extensively in foreign lands, spent a month in the interior. He said that "Newfoundland compared favourably with Norway and Scotland."

Now, Mr. Editor, the opinions of the above persons are in the main borne out by the greatest number of visitors who have come for pleasure to our shores, either hunting caribou, fishing in our lakes, or in basking in the pleasure derivable from our unrivaled scenery. A few words more, Mr. Editor, with your permission, and then I shall have finished my compilation. I wish to extend a mead of praise to Messrs. Blandford and Stafford and all the other gentlemen who have been instrumental in undertaking to erect for the welfare of Terra Nova such a magnificent hotel in our midst. That it may prove a success is not only the wish of the compiler of this article, but of all true lovers of their sea-girt Isle as well. Before concluding, Mr. Editor, I wish to thank you for the kindness you have tendered me in the publication of my rather lengthy communication. I remain,

Yours sincerely,

Traffic Segregation

SIR H. MATTHEW ON LESSONS ON HIS U.S. TOUR.

Landing at Southampton from the White Star liner Olympic on his return from his inspection of American roads, Sir Henry Matthew, Director-General of Roads, gave a Daily Mail reporter some of his impressions with regard to traffic control in the United States.

"The Americans gain a big advantage by segregating traffic" (the separation, on different routes, of various kinds of vehicles, fast and slow), he said, "and they have gone much farther than we have in their signalling arrangements, which lead to a more expeditious and better handling of traffic."

"We have not made so many experiments as New York. We have no controlling authority in London and no one responsible for these things, and it means money to provide signalling arrangements or anything else."

"What impressed me most was the enormous expenditure being incurred everywhere in the United States in connection with road improvements and anticipated developments. Outside Detroit they are building a new street 294 ft. wide which will have a train track in the middle, bordered by a section on each side for motor traffic and another section for slow-moving vehicles."

"Motor-cars are being turned out by thousands a day to add to the 18,000,000 already on the roads, and to make room for the increasing traffic city authorities are pulling down buildings constructed only ten or eleven years ago. Questioned about arrangements for London, Sir Henry said: "There will be segregation. You will see an endeavour to improve matters in that way very soon."

Clockspring Nest

It is characteristic of misers to hoard up any old thing, and a certain sparrow seems to have developed this habit.

Among the contents of a sparrow's nest recently pulled out of an out-house in Yorkshire was a pen-wiper, a piece of boric lint, a finger of an old glove, a safety-pin, six pieces of string, two strips of cloth, a piece of blotting paper, a bone button, and a 15-inch length of bandage.

In the Museum of Natural History at Soisire, in Switzerland, there is a bird's nest made entirely of steel.

In the town there are a number of clock-making shops, in the yards of which are piles of disused and broken springs. One day a clockmaker noticed a nest in a tree in his yard, and found that it was built entirely of clock springs. The nest was 4in. across and perfectly comfortable for the birds.

THE CLOCK WAS THERE AND SO WAS MRS. MUTT.

Second Annual Mercantile and Industrial Fair

The second Annual Industrial Fair at the Prince's and Curling Rinks promises to far outstrip last year's success in point of interest and attendance judging by the swing with which the affair opened yesterday afternoon. The arrival of His Excellency the Governor, Lady and Miss Allardye and suite at 3 p.m. was announced by the National Anthem played by the Mount Cashel Band. The vice royal party was met by Mr. W. A. McKay and conducted to the balcony where they were joined by His Honor the Mayor and Mrs. Cook. Preceding the official opening His Excellency addressing the gathering expressed the opinion that the arrangements were much better than last year in that there was greater uniformity, and he voiced the hope that the array of merchandise so well displayed would lead to increased trade. Speaking on the latter subject, he referred to the value to the Empire which must result from the Exhibition at Wembley, and he voiced the hope we in Newfoundland would endeavor to make our trade more British and thus further help the Inter-Empire Trade Movement. In conclusion His Excellency congratulated Mr. McKay on his enterprise and with wishes for its success formally declared the Fair open.

Immediately following, Mr. Gerald Doyle brought forward a charmingly dressed little girl, Miss Mary Martin, who made a presentation of a handsome cabinet of Three Flowers preparations to Lady Allardye. The present specially prepared by Richard Hudnut, New York, was artistically decorated. The recipient expressed her delight with the gift and as a mark of appreciation had Miss Martin accompany her on an inspection of the booths.

His Excellency and party remained for nearly two hours visiting the stalls and conversing with those in charge. During the tour of the buildings, Lady Allardye graciously accepted samples offered. Amongst the gifts was a specially decorated package of Estabrook's Orange Pekoe Tea. This presentation was made by Miss Jean Goss, one of two daintily dressed young ladies carrying decorated baskets of tea samples. The young ladies were crowned in green silk with orange trimmings. They were complimented on the attractiveness of their costumes by Lady Allardye. A similar presentation was made to Mayores Cook by the second young lady, Miss E. Wylie.

For the present only a general review of the Exhibition can be given. In later issues we hope to describe in detail the different booths and the many new features and attractions.

Beginning at the main aisle in the Prince's Rink Ayre & Sons, Ltd. display occupies four booths in which are shown goods of which they are Nfld. distributors. In connection with their Ingersoll watch exhibit, they are running a free guessing competition, and for the boy or girl making the best write up of the booths they are offering a valuable prize.

Nonia has an attractive booth in which is displayed an array of home knitting. A touch of reality is given by a young lady operating a spinning wheel.

The United Coal Co. has an attractive display of the indispensable article. W. J. Clouston, Ltd., exhibits the Subeann Cabinet Heater, for which they are agents besides many different styles of ranges.

The Charles F. Fawcett Co., Sackville occupy an adjoining stall with a display of their manufactures of stoves, heaters and ranges. A. E. Hickman & Co. occupy booths eleven and twelve in which are displayed Perfect Baking Powder, Edgeworth Tobacco, oiled clothing, ropes, twines, lubricating oils, roofings, paints, etc.

The Standard Mfg. Co., Ltd., featuring "matchless" products have on exhibition an 1875 model schooner and a modern model as well as a miniature sailing house. Riverside Woolen Mills in booths 15 and 16 make a fine showing of blankets, rugs and cloth. In connection with their exhibit is a guessing competition in which blankets are given as prizes.

A. M. Penman has an attractive showing of high class furniture and novelties suitable for gifts. S. Richard Steele displays an assortment of crockeryware which could scarcely be excelled.

Gerald S. Doyle has two booths occupying the same space as last year. Booth 22 featuring Three Flowers is without doubt the daintiest stall in the rink. In 24 booth he has a display of Life Savers, in connection with which he is running a guessing competition. A Life Saver attraction is another feature introduced by this enterprising exhibitor.

J. B. Mitchell & Son, selling agents for a number of well known lines, have four booths. In No. 46 are Holbrook's products. Budget Boat Polish occupies stall 23 where free Nugget shines are given. Golden Pheasant Tea is prominently displayed in booths 45 and 44 and teas are served there by the Misses Furlong of Smithville.

George Knowlton, Ltd., have at booths 19 and 21 a display of goods some vegetables grown with Sulphite of Ammonia. The Feldian Athletic Grounds Sweepstake booth is pleasantly fitted up. Tickets on the Travel Sweep may be obtained there.

Messrs. Dawe & Sons are fitting up an elaborate booth to display their products. They are featuring ply wood made of birch and with hael, and from what was completed yesterday it can be seen that this wood can be put to a variety of uses.

J. J. Rossiter at Booth 56 has an attractive display of Schraft's Chocolates and White Lily Biscuits and Cakes, the product of the firm of J. A. Marven. The Royal Garage have the only automobile on display at the Fair. They show the Dodge for which they are agents.

Morey & Co. at Booth 64 make a display of coal which is bound to attract the interest of the householders.

Archibald Bros., Ltd., occupy the same stand as last year with a dainty display of local made ladies' foot-wear that cannot be excelled. A visit to this booth will convince the most skeptical that the local made is in every way equal to the highest class of imported shoe. You will find them at Booth 53.

Last night the Exhibition was crowded, despite the fact that the weather was anything but pleasant. Vaudeville features, and the musical programme added considerably to the enjoyment, and the large dancing platform was thronged throughout the evening.

In connection with the general scheme of arrangement of the exhibits, great credit is due to Mr. E. J. Salt of the Imperial Tobacco Co., under whose plan and supervision the work was performed. In certain booths the effect has been enhanced by the clever brush of Mr. Dan Carroll. Forming the background of the Bowring Bros. booth is a splendid picture of the Narrows with schooners shown leaving port.

M. J. Keen is a large exhibitor of canned goods and confectionery. He has also on display samples of rubber in various stages of manufacture. A Harvey & Co. at Booth 29 have two ladies distributing samples of Tip Tops and other well known brands of popular biscuits.

Harvey & Co. with Armada Tea and Bowling Green Coffee make an effective display. In this booth is exhibited a basket of apples grown at Silverton, the residence of Sir Joseph Outerbridge which for size and coloring rival any grown in Canada. Teas are served at the booth and samples are also distributed. Harvey & Co. also have a Homosote booth where the products of the Agasto Millboard Co. are displayed in various finishes.

J. T. Lamb occupies a booth at the upper end of the rink. The Bulle Clock is featured.

Stirling Restaurant has a stall well stocked with fruit, cakes and refreshments also at the head of the Rink. Mrs. Chancy adjoining the Stirling built has an artistic exhibition of paper flowers, etc.

Moore's Bakery booth is the most tempting of any with its display of bread, pastry, plain, fancy and wedding cakes. It adjoins a Victor Flour stall and a card announces that all the exhibits are made from that brand of flour.

Bowring Bros. occupy booths 28, 30, 32, 34 and 36. One of the booths represents a Japanese tea garden. Here teas with Moore's cake or pastry are served for a nominal charge of 5 cents. The proceeds of sale go to the Child Welfare Fund.

Job's Stores have a most attractive display of Walmar paints and radio apparatus in a booth opposite the entrance to the Curling Rink.

A. E. Hickman, Ltd., occupy booth 41 have a display of biscuits which cannot fail to attract attention. The goods exhibited are from stock carried to supply the market. Visitors are invited to sample any of the products that may appeal to them. C. D. Slater, Optometrist, has a very interesting exhibit of glasses and visitors may view for themselves the various operations of lens grinding.

IN THE CURLING RINK.

A. E. Hickman, Ltd., have a booth featuring Ford motor accessories. Hung in the booth is an excellent oil painting of the world famous Henry Ford.

C. A. Hubley in Booth 67 has a display of bathroom and kitchen fixtures, as well as furnaces and pumping appliances that is sure to arrest the attention of all visitors.

Direct Agencies have an attractive booth No. 66, showing among other exhibits the Ideal Veto Heater, Fire Extinguishers and Ammunition. The Imperial Oil Co. has like the others an attractive display of heaters, oils, gasoline and other products at Booth 65.

H. Martin has a sales booth adjoining that of Imperial Oil Co., where refreshments may be obtained.

St. John's Nail Manufacturing Co., Ltd., have a most interesting booth where the manufacture of nails may be witnessed on payment of a small fee. A guessing competition is being held in connection with the exhibit, and the proceeds go to the Orphanages.

Charles Hutton at Booth 62 has a splendid display of musical instruments. The booth is very tastefully decorated.

Bishop's in an adjoining booth No. 61 have a display of men's clothing and clothes most artistically arranged.

The United Can Mfg. Co., Ltd., have a booth in the space occupied by them last year. Their exhibits include a modern can sealing machine and steam cookers for household cooking. St. John's Gas Light Co. are again in the forefront of exhibitors at Booth 59, and feature a water heater that is automatically heated. They also show clad.

AMERICAN CAR & FOUNDRY.

Will Expand Motor Bus Business.
BOSTON—Entrance of American Car & Foundry into the motor bus industry by purchase of control of Hall-Scott Motor Car Co. marks an interesting development in the history of Car & Foundry. Apparently its management means to make sure the company will share in the growing passenger traffic of the country, whether it is carried on the railway or by buses. Whether Car & Foundry will purchase control of the Fagool Motor Co. is still undecided. In any case Car & Foundry's car plants are equipped to make the bus bodies so that it will be able to turn out a complete bus. Development of this branch of its business is expected to add materially to Car & Foundry's earnings. Recent move is only a start, and the motor business will be expanded in the future.

When Car & Foundry, early this year, split its 300,000 common shares into two for one an increase in the dividend was considered in prospect. There appears to be little likelihood of early action in this matter. Nevertheless, sooner or later stockholders must get the benefit of large earnings and large cash holdings.

American Car & Foundry's report for the fiscal year ended April 30, last, showed working capital $37,106,567, or $1.84 a share on its present 600,000 common shares. Included in the working assets were $7,496,675 cash, $14,095,384 government securities and $6,869,389 in stocks, bonds, etc., a total of $28,651,841, or $47.75 a common share. But these figures do not fully reflect the company's financial strength. Security holdings include a large block of American Locomotive, estimated at between 50,000 and 100,000 shares. This stock probably cost Car & Foundry little more than half its present market price. Another holding on which there is a large market profit is Cuba Co. stock. It is also likely that the $14,095,384 government security holdings were purchased well below present market values.

Surplus at the end of April was $37,742,569, or $62.90 a share on common stock.

Man and Wife Victims

OF PTOMAIN FROM CANNED SALMON.

The man Carroll and his wife of No. 4 Walsh's St., who came near death through Ptomaine poison on Saturday night as a result of eating some tinned salmon, are sufficiently recovered to be able to resume their usual rounds. Much difficulty was experienced in getting a doctor and after a dozen or more had been called by phone, Dr. McDonald was located. It was fortunate that he was able to respond promptly as otherwise the victims would have died. A short while after partaking of the salmon, both Carroll and his wife became very ill and ultimately collapsed into unconsciousness.

No Word From Caribou

Up to press hour nothing had been received from the Caribou, which is now 10 days out from Rotterdam to this port. The last message received by the Railway Management from Capt. Stevenson was yesterday afternoon, when it stated that the ship had made no progress since Saturday. She was then laying to in a heavy sea. It is quite probable that the weather has moderated somewhat since then, and that the Caribou is steaming slowly towards port. Upwards of fifteen saloon passengers are known to be on board, including the crew of the Kirtsen Jensen, which latter ship was left at Genoa.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES

THE SECURITY PACT.

LONDON, Oct. 20. London awoke to-day to find emblazoned on the front pages of the newspapers the texts of the momentous decisions reached at Locarno, which virtually make further wars in Europe impossible. Engagements between France and Poland and Czechoslovakia provided if Germany should go back on her peace promises and have recourse in arms against either of the three countries, they shall immediately help one another. The treaty of mutual guarantees between Germany, France, and Belgium stipulates that Germany must never invade the soil of France and Belgium or attempt to create war in the demilitarized Rhineland zone, while on their part France and Belgium engage never to violate Germany's western frontier. If either one of the countries should violate the compact, it would be the duty of Great Britain and Italy to lend aid to the aggrieved.

Lloyds' despatch from Algeria says the British steamer Stockwell, from Calcutta for New York, is on fire. Finding it impossible to cope with the flames, it has been decided to sink the vessel. The ship carries rubber and soap.

SHIP ON FIRE IS TO BE SUNK.

LLOYD GEORGE ON PROHIBITION CAMPAIGN.

LONDON, Oct. 20. Former Premier Lloyd George, speaking at the City Temple last night, declared prohibition was an experiment that Great Britain should investigate. Last year Britain spent three hundred and sixteen million pounds sterling on alcoholic liquors. The Americans, he said, were the most prosperous people under the sun, not because they have got drink, but because they have not.

HALIFAX COURSE RE-MEASURED.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 20. The course over which the Hiram and Mail's 10-mile race was run here Saturday, was found last night on re-measurement, to be nine and nine-tenths miles.

Arrest of a Peer

LORD TORRINGTON'S ALLEGED FRAUD.

Warrent Served at a Country House. News of the arrest of Viscount Torrington on a false pretences charge has created something of a sensation in society and sporting circles, for, although only 40 years of age, he has long been a prominent member of both. Lord Torrington was taken into custody at his Kentish home, New Barnes, Benover, Yalding, and the allegation is that he obtained goods and money by means of a worthless cheque drawn on a Nottingham bank. West Malling police made the arrest on a magistrate's warrant. Lord Torrington subsequently appeared before an occasional court, and was remanded on bail until next Friday. The warrant was applied for by Mr. Henry Charles Hewitt Oliver, a chemist, chairman of the local parish council, and one of the oldest business men in the town. The amount of money in question is understood to be about £26. Just after dusk Supt. Wratten and Det. Moynaux called at New Barnes, a 300-year-old mansion—formerly a farmhouse—where Lord Torrington in a closed motor-car to the police station at West Malling, where he was formally charged. When the police knocked at the door it was opened by Lord Torrington, who had only just returned from a stroll through the village, which lies in the heart of the hopfields. He was accompanied to the police station by his wife, and eventually released by the magistrates on bail in a personal surety of £50 and another surety of £50. He then

NFLD. TEAM SATISFIED WITH RESULT OF RACE.
Obstruction On Course, Was Unavoidable, Says Robertson.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 19.—Eric Robertson, St. John's, Nfld., manager of the team that won the team prize in the Halifax Herald's 10-Mile Road Race, here Saturday afternoon, in an interview with the Canadian Press this afternoon, expressed satisfaction with the result of the race and the treatment accorded Newfoundland boys while here. "Winning the team prize with twenty-five points," said Mr. Robertson, constitutes a record of which we are justly proud, and while O'Toole narrowly missed taking the coveted honor, I look forward to him as some other member of the team taking the premier honor next year. Our boys have made many friends during their visit here and hope to return next year. One thing I would like to see would be that Miles, the winner of Saturday's race, come to St. John's along with Hawboldt, of Westville, who came third on Saturday, and try conclusions with O'Toole and the rest of the Newfoundland boys. It would be a good race and give our people the opportunity of seeing the best runners of the east in action." Referring to the conclusion of Saturday's race, when O'Toole took the "sidewalk" when a truck crossed the course and in so doing lost his advantage over Miles, Robertson remarked, "While regretting that unfortunate incident, I consider that the happening was altogether unavoidable, and in no way reflected on any of the competitors or officials."

NFLD. RUNNERS' SUCCESS IN DARTMOUTH.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 19.—The Newfoundland runners who captured the team prize in the Herald and Mail 10-Mile Road Race Saturday, and whose Star, Ronald O'Toole, was a close second, continued to shine in local athletic circles, when Ronald O'Toole took first place in the 2-Mile Race staged in Dartmouth to-night by the Imperial Athletic Club. Jack Bell, also of Nfld., was second and Gower Stone, his team mate, was third. Seven entered. O'Toole's time was 10.41. Gower Stone and Jake Ralph, Newfoundland, were third and fourth respectively in the half mile race.

MANAGER ROBERTSON'S MESSAGE TO SWEEPSTAKE COMMITTEE.

The Halifax Marathon Sweepstake Committee received the following message from Manager Robertson, this morning, which reads as follows:—"The 2 mile race at the Imperial Sports, Dartmouth, was won by O'Toole, second, Bell; third, Stone. Seven starters; time, 10.41. In the half mile, Stone came third and Ralph, fourth. They ran a tight race, eight entries. All well. Sailing by Rosalind to-day."

ROBERTSON.

RUNNERS PLEASED WITH RESULT.

Team Leaving Halifax By Rosalind To-day.

The statement mentioned in the Canadian Press despatch on Saturday night, in connection with the obstruction on the road, which proved an interference to O'Toole, has been confirmed by Manager Robertson, but all the team are agreed that it was unavoidable, and no action will be taken in the matter. The following messages were exchanged yesterday:—

E. M. Robertson,
Y. M. C. A.,
Halifax, N.S.

"Pleased with result. Disquieting news about interruption by crossing of cart approaching the finish resulting in loss of first place. If such is the case fight it at my expense looking to the Bank of Nova Scotia for any funds required and for which this will be your warrant."

ROBERTSON.

J. R. Robertson,
St. John's, Nfld.
O'Toole, team, friends, satisfied unavoidable accident. Majority Halifax supported Newfoundlanders.

ROBERTSON.

Rev. D. O'Callaghan.
Ron satisfied; unavoidable accident; Rosalind to-morrow. Majority Halifax favored Newfoundlanders.

ROBERTSON.

S. P. Cullen,
St. John's, Nfld.
Hard luck, unavoidable accident; no protest. Ron absolutely satisfied. Rosalind.

ROBERTSON.

The Newfoundland team met with further success at the Imperial Sports, Dartmouth, last night. They are returning by the Rosalind, which left Halifax to-day. The local fans are anxiously awaiting their return to give them a well deserved ovation.

INTER COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL.

Collegians ..... 1
Felidians ..... 0
The opening game of the second round of the Inter Collegiate Football Series took place at St. George's Field yesterday afternoon, under most unfavorable weather conditions. The contesting teams were the Felidians and Collegians, and victory went to the latter by one goal to nil. The game was played in the height of a heavy wind storm, which made it very uncomfortable for the spectators and players alike.

First Period.

The Collegians, winning the toss, defended the eastern goal in the kick-off, giving their opponents the advantage of the wind. Play opened with the Collegians pressing the Felidian goal, but the play did not remain very long at that end, as the forwards were unable to control the ball against the wind. In the balance of the half the Felidians had matters practically all their own way, when a succession of shots were rained on the Collegian goal, but without result. When the half time whistle blew no goals had been recorded.

Second Half.

Upon ends being changed the Collegians kept up a furious attack on their opponents goal, but they too, like the Felidians in the first half, were unable to keep the ball under control to get the desired results. Play was confined mostly to the eastern end during the half, and during one of the M.C. attacks, Johnson found the net. The goal, however, was disallowed by the referee, as the player had knocked it into the goal with his hand. Play progressed with the Felidians putting up a fine defence game, and just about the time when many were of the opinion that the match would end in a draw, Barbour scored for the Collegians what proved to be the winning goal.

During the progress of the game, Rendell, of the Felidians, received a slight injury, but after a brief rest he was again well enough to continue play.

The St. Bon's and Felidians will meet to-morrow afternoon.

DEMPSEY INSISTS HE'LL GO THROUGH FIGHT WITH WILLS.

Jack Says That Stories That He Didn't Intend To Fight Were As Ridiculous As The One With The Missus.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—When Jack Dempsey arrived in Los Angeles Tuesday he got quite busy trying to convince the scribes and all his well wishers that he was positively going to fight Harry Wills. The champion pointed out that the stories that he didn't intend to go through with the bout with the Panther were as roundly ridiculous as the one which had him and the Missus on the "outs." Jack spiked the latter yarn by posing in honey dove poses with his wife at the railway station. He told the writers then and there that he was just as sincere in his wanting to fight the negro challenger. One thing that Dempsey has cleared up to my satisfaction and that was the fact that he did not tell the Fistic Fathers he would return from the South, where he went to visit his wife's folks and settle the Wills thing. He said in a letter to a close friend in this city that no mention was made of his returning and that he intended to go right on to the coast after that visit.

That was what made me doubt his sincerity. Now that he insists he made me no such promise I am not going to point out that action on his part as suspicious. Another thing that I have harped on, and in which I may have done Dempsey an injustice is the fact that he has switched from Tex Rickard, his friend and benefactor, to Floyd Fitzsimmons, when looking for a promoter.

Now it appears from a second letter sent to this city, that Dempsey wanted Rickard if he did business with or through Kearns, he, the champion, would have no part of him or his promotion of the bout. Kearns must not be included in any arrangements Rickard was to make. Well, as a matter of fact, Rickard could not help himself. The Commissioners accepted Kearns as Dempsey's manager, and Rickard, like Kearns, was asked to put up $21,000 guarantee of good faith.

Rickard was thrown into association with Kearns whether he wished it or not. If Dempsey ran out on Tex for that reason, then he has done Tex an injustice, for the tall Texan has nothing to do with Kearns being in the picture. Kearns will be in the picture, however. He will invoke the Law. Horrible before the shooting match comes off. Dempsey in one of his letters also insists that Ray Cannon is not his manager but is Kearns's friend.

The whole trouble with Dempsey is a deepening hatred for the man who did so much to establish him as champion. I think that Dempsey will rue the day that he ever cut admit from S. Grimes. Managers as clever as he do not grow on huckleberry bushes.

The moment Uncle Lucky stopped at the little gate in the old fence around the dear Old Bramble Patch, he searched his waistcoat pocket for the knife which he had brought for Little Jack Rabbit.

"Yes, here it is," laughed the anxious old bunny uncle, and helping Little Miss Mousie out of the Luckymobile, he hopped up the winding path through the bushes to the little white bungalow.

"Hurry with the angel cake," whispered Little Jack Rabbit, from the garret, as he spied his uncle and Little Miss Mousie. Quick as a wink the pretty rabbit lady opened the oven door and taking out the cake, all rusty brown, placed it on the table.

"Ha, ha!" laughed the old gentleman rabbit, lighting his old wedding wattle hat as he paused a moment in the doorway.

"Lady Love knows how to bake Most delicious angel cake. And her turnip tea is nice. Good for rabbits and for mice."

and with a bow to his tiny housekeeper, he kissed Lady Love on her pretty pink ear. Yes, sir, Uncle Lucky was a very polite old bunny man. Although he often remarked that he was full of rheumatism and forgetfulness, he never slipped up on his manners. No stress he had never forgotten what his dear mother had taught him when a boy. And what one is taught by one's dear mother one is careful always to remember.

"Will you cut the cake," asked Lady Love, turning to Little Miss Mousie.

"I'll pour the tea." Just then down the stairs hopped the little rabbit. He had been up in the garret, hunting for a sailboat.

Of course, as soon as dear Uncle Lucky spied his nephew, he forgot all about the angel cake, turnip tea and his rheumatism.

"Here's a knife," he shouted, pulling the present from his waistcoat pocket. "Boys can never have too many knives."

"Yes, they can," all of a sudden growled a deep voice. And there in the doorway stood Mr. Wicked Wolf. How he had managed to creep up so softly I don't know. But, there he stood, his mouth wide open, and his long, white teeth glittering in the sun. For a minute the little rabbit household was too frightened to answer. The roses faded from Lady Love's cheeks, Little Miss Mousie turned as pale as a lily, Uncle Lucky's whiskers trembled like leaves in the wind, and Little Jack Rabbit's pink nose twinkled with fright just like a star on a frosty night.

"The Farmer is just outside with his gun. Mr. Wicked Wolf, you had better run," twittered the Little Canary Bird from her gilded cage on the front porch.

"Without waiting to say 'Excuse me' or 'Goodbye,' the wicked old wolf jumped right over the bramble bushes and sped away for the Shady Forest.

"There he goes, Pa," cried the Farmer's Boy.

"Bow, wow, wow!" barked Old Sic-em, the watchdog up at the farm. But, goodness me! That was all the good it did, for the next minute Mr. Wicked Wolf was lost to sight amid

REPARATIONS FROM BONE OF HANGED MAN.

Dr. Winifred Cullis, Professor of Physiology at London University, at the opening of the new session of the school of Pharmacy at Bloomsbury-square, W.C., said that in the first pharmacopoeia, published in 1618, the preparations included crabs' eyes, earls, snails, vipers, thigh bone of a hanged man, and many equally surprising remedies.

She had recently encountered a type of medication that made one realise that after all there was not so much difference as they would like to think between the mentality of those who accepted these marvellous and horrible substances as panaceas for all ills and the people of to-day.

150th Anniversary Celebrations of Congregationalists

Last night a public meeting was held in the Congregational Church in connection with the celebration of the 150th Anniversary of its foundation, and was largely attended. The Chair was occupied by His Excellency the Governor, and there were present also representatives of other denominations and public bodies.

The Service having opened with the hymn "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord," and prayer by Rev. Dr. Nichol, His Excellency delivered the following address:

THE ADDRESS.

After the comprehensive and instructive sermon delivered by the Rev. D. L. Nichol on Sunday the 27th of September, which subsequently appeared in the press, and which dealt so succinctly and clearly with the early days of the Congregational or Independent Church in St. John's, it would seem as if little remained to be said.

I, with several of my friends, on hearing that the Congregationalists were about to celebrate their One Hundred and Fiftieth Birthday in this Colony, have asked myself, "What exactly is Congregationalism, and when did this particular body or denomination first come into existence?" I am not quite sure that I am the right person to answer these questions, but my friend Mr. Nichol will, I am sure, correct me if I have not learned the facts aright. It appears that Congregationalism constitutes one of the main types of ecclesiastical polity, and represents what may be termed the principle of democracy in religion in contradistinction to those denominations that exercise collective control.

As to when Congregationalism first arose it may be safely said to date back to primitive Christianity. To-night, however, we are not concerned so much with its beginning, as to which theologians are bound to differ, but with the history of Congregationalism in Newfoundland during the last century and a half. Now a story, if it is a good story, can never die of age and I am satisfied that I may claim for local Congregationalism that its record fulfils the above qualifications.

AN HISTORICAL SKETCH.

Long before the formation of the existing organization known as the Congregational Church in 1775, there were Congregationalists—or Independents as they were then called—in Newfoundland. As far back as the reign of Queen Elizabeth a party of earnest men and women were expelled from England for their religious views and forbidden to return on pain of death. These people were joined later by Colonists of the same faith and order seeking at this side of the Atlantic a freedom they could not obtain at home. They brought their own pastor with them into their voluntary exile. Thus long before the arrival of the Pilgrim Fathers in New England in 1620 there were Independents on the American Continent. That the exiles in Newfoundland early formed themselves into a Church is evident from the fact that in 1645 one George Downing of Harvard, Cambridge, Mass., was invited to the pastorate. "We may safely say that 300 years ago an Independent Church was in existence in this Colony—in the neighbourhood of Cupids. In process of time, however, the cause dwindled away and ultimately died out—probably through lack of organization.

A NEW BEGINNING.

It was, therefore, a new beginning which John Jones made in 1775. John Jones was a soldier, an N.C.O. in the Royal Artillery. In this year he came to St. John's for a second term of service in the garrison. With him religion was no mere form, but a living experience. Sharing Jones' views and principles was a sergeant of his company and the sergeant's wife. These three met for prayer and worship in Jones' room in the barracks. They were joined by other serious-minded people both military and civil. Soon the numbers were too large for a small room, and permission was sought and obtained to meet in a room in the Court-house. The little company formed themselves into a Church and drew up rules for their own guidance.

As the little band grew in numbers they also grew in unpopularity and they were persecuted both by the forces of law and order and the forces of lawlessness and disorder. They were forbidden the use of the Court-house, forbidden to meet in Jones' room. The townsmen were forbidden to lend them a room for a meeting place. For some months they actually met in the open air on the barrens outside the town. At length they were able to erect a meeting house of their own on land leased for the purpose. This was in 1777. Jones' right hand man at this time was a Nathan Parker, founder of the firm now known as Job Brothers, he was a most loyal man and a tower of strength to the little Cause.

ORDINATION OF JOHN JONES.

In 1779 Jones severed his connection with the army and after a brief visit to England where he was ordained to the Christian Ministry he returned to St. John's as the regular minister of the Church. He was now the Reverend John Jones, and for 21 years more, until his death in 1800, he laboured as a devoted Minister and fearless preacher of righteousness. These were years marked by storm and stress and opposition. But the honesty, the fearlessness and the Christian chivalry of the Independent Minister triumphed in the end, and when he died it was as one of St. John's most honoured and respected citizens. I may add that the old records, civil as well as ecclesiastical, show that one of my distinguished predecessors, Admiral Montagu, was not altogether friendly disposed to the Congregationalists, and according to Prowse, the historian, the Governor tried to stop their progress and ordered Jones to Placentia, but, says the devout old soldier, "The Lord put his hook in his nose and turned him back by the way he came, so that he did them no harm, but good, inasmuch as it made them fast and pray . . . and the Lord was pleased to bless and increase them." In 1782 Admiral Campbell, a Scotchman, was appointed Governor, who is described by Jones "as beyond all experience gentle, mild, and good natured." In 1784 His Excellency issued the following Proclamation:—

"Pursuant to the King's instructions 'you are to allow all persons inhabiting this Island to have full liberty of conscience and the free exercise of all such modes of religious worship as are not prohibited by law, provided they be contented with a quiet and peaceable enjoyment of the same, not giving offence or scandal to Government.'"

JOHN CAMPBELL.

The story is told of Campbell, who sailed with Anson in his famous voyage round the world and afterwards distinguished himself in the Naval action at Quiberon Bay in 1759, that after the battle he was sent home with the despatches, and as Admiral Lord Anson conducted him to the presence of His Majesty His Lordship remarked that the King would knight him if he wished. Captain Campbell replied, "Troth, My Lord, I ken nae use that will be to me," said Anson, "Your Lady may like it." "A weel," replied Campbell, "His Majesty may knight her if he pleases." He was, in fact, not knighted.

It is worthy of note that Jones was a pioneer of education in this country and in the vestry of the Church he began a school about 1780. At first he acted as master himself, but soon the school grew to such proportions that a master was obtained and later on an assistant. For some reason this was the only Protestant school in the town.

In 1789 a new Church was built, the lease of the site of the first one having run out. The new building was made possible by the generous assistance of sympathisers in England. The building cost £320, of which £100 was paid for the land. One item in the expenditure is £1.10.0 for 65 gallons of rum for the carpenters and labourers! To again quote Prowse: "They had no fantastic notions of temperance: in those jovial days, wine was made to gladden the heart of man, and on all joyous occasions it was considered the correct thing to get decently drunk—parson and priest, bishop and deacon, all drank." The building erected in 1789 remained the home of the Independent Church until 1851 when a stone structure was erected on the site of the present Church on Queen's Road. This stone building was destroyed in the Great Fire of 1892. The earlier Church of 1789 survived until the same time, being used from 1851 as a Temperance Hall.

CHURCH RULES FORMULATED.

Some of the Church Rules formulated in Jones' time are full of interest. Although dissidents from the Establishment, these early Independents were loyal subjects of the King, for one rule was "No member shall by action or words endeavour to subvert the Constitution of the Realm to which we belong." Another rule reflects the Puritanism of their day—it forbids any member to dance or to present where dancing is engaged in. Attendance at public entertainments was also forbidden. Simplicity of dress and sobriety of demeanour were enjoined on all members. A Mrs. Phillips was disciplined by the Church for "tride, carnality and immodesty." Her chief offence being that she was the best dressed woman in the town! Another woman was suspended from the privileges of membership for three months for indulging in gossip!

PASTORATES OF THE CHURCH.

There has been a long succession of ministers since Jones' time, and short pastorates have been the rule, none extending to anything like the 25 years' ministry of Jones himself. The longest was that of Rev. Daniel Spencer Ward, from 1824 to 1843, nineteen years. During this ministry the Church was probably at the zenith of its power and influence. Ward was a great preacher and a great citizen. Apart from Mr. Ward, the founder of the Dorcas Society, a charitable organisation which is still in existence and doing useful work.

In 1836 with money raised entirely by his exertions, land was bought at Quidi Vidi and a church erected. This building was vested in Trustees from the Church of England, the Wesleyan Church, and the Congregational Church. It was arranged that on Sundays the three denominations should have the use of the building for service—Church of England in the morning, Congregationalists in the afternoon, and Wesleyans in the evening. During the week also, each denomination had the use of the building for two days—an early experiment in church co-operation.

The Independent Church in St. John's included many Scottish families, Presbyterians by birth, who were settlers from Scotland. Finding no church of their own Order they joined the Independents. By 1842 the Presbyterians were no numerous that they succeeded from the Independent Church and formed St. Andrew's Church of Scotland, of which the first Minister was Rev. D. A. Fraser. There was no quarrel or any ill-feeling—the secession was regarded as natural and inevitable and the Presbyterian Church started with the good wishes and sympathy of the Congregationalists. But the older Church was in consequence greatly weakened and its numbers largely reduced.

After Mr. Ward, the next outstanding ministry was that of the Rev. Chas. Pedley, 1857-1864. In his time the church was very prosperous. The congregation numbered at least 400 persons. From £250 to £300 were annually raised for objects outside the Church, and another £150 was sent year by year to the London Missionary Society. Mr. Pedley was also one of the historians of Newfoundland and Pedley's History, written in 1861, is still a standard authority. Following Mr. Pedley the Church has enjoyed the able ministries of such men as Thomas Hall, David Beaton, Thomas Hodgkinson, G. Ward Siddall, J. Thackeray and W. H. Thomas. There are, I am told, some members of the congregation who remember all these gentlemen, and speak of them with admiration and respect.

At one time the Church had Mission Stations in Twillingate, Portugal Cove, Trinity Bay and other places, but in the course of time all these centres were taken over by a more enterprising denomination. The work in Fortune Bay, which commenced in 1875 is, however, still maintained, and under the superintendence of the Rev. H. J. A. MacDermott is doing increasingly fine work.

WISHES CHURCH EVERY SUCCESS.

On this important Anniversary I am sure we all desire to extend our most sincere good wishes to the Congregational Church, and are glad at the same time to have the opportunity of acknowledging the very valuable and successful work that it has performed during the past One Hundred and Fifty years. We likewise trust that the Rev. D. L. Nichol and all associated with him may long be spared to carry on the good work initiated by John Jones, and, profiting by his example, give no less devoted service than he did to the people of Newfoundland.

On Wednesday evening a re-union of past and present members will be held. On Friday there will be a Sunday School Scholars' celebration and Sunday will be observed as Thanksgiving Day.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR NEURALGIA.

Pocket-Money

By A. HEADMASTER.

I have a boy at school that I am keeping under very close observation. Last term he was detected in several petty pilferings in the school lavatory, and although his penitence was pitiful, I am not sure that he realizes the gravity of his actions.

His parents are, to put it mildly, wealthy, being typical successful business people. His father is, as he himself informed me, a self-made man, having struggled to his present position from the direst poverty. The trouble with the lad is that he has little or no pocket-money to satisfy the natural cravings with which every schoolboy is possessed. At his age, had no money whatever to call his own, and he therefore argues that, as he attributes his success to his early privations, his son will be better fitted for life if he commences in the same way.

But he does not realize that the circumstances are totally different. In his boyhood he was situated in an environment of poverty and want; his son, on the other hand, has every comfort at home, and, to a less extent, at school, and on his holidays he travels about in a limousine. And yet he has not got the means to buy a packet of sweets. The situation is ridiculous, but the parents do not, or will not, see it.

No schoolboy should be kept without some pocket-money. In mixing with his fellows, he naturally wants to act as they do, and in the school code of honour "sponging" is one of the worst of sins. Any boy with pride and character, sooner than rely on his friends' hospitality, will become a miserable recluse.

The allotment of pocket-money may be, and is, overdone by some parents, with the result that the boy is thoroughly spoilt; but judicious giving is only fair if he is to take his proper place in the life of the school.

MONTREAL.—With scarlet-coated mounted police on guard, the third Canadian philatelic exhibition at the Mount Royal Hotel is attracting throngs of visitors from all over the Continent.

The exhibits are valued at many hundred thousand pounds. Among the exhibits are stamps used on the carrier pigeon service between Great Britain, Ireland and Auckland in the days before there was a steamer service.

Aeroplane stamps include a Newfoundland stamp which was used on a letter carried by Mr. Harry Hawker and Commander K. Mackenzie Grievy on their attempt to make the first Transatlantic flight for the £10,000 prize offered by The Daily Mail in 1919.

Witty Marriage Maxims

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR GIRL.

Love, the quest; marriage, the conquest; divorce, the inquest.

Some people would call this the world's shortest story; it is an epigram, one of a whole collection taken from "A Guide to Men" in which Miss Helen Rowland, a well-known writer on marriage, has set down pungent thoughts on this and kindred topics. Here are some of her wittiest efforts:

Most marriages, nowadays, seem built for speed rather than for endurance.

It requires a little moisture to make a postage stamp stick, and a little of the cold water of indifference to make a sweetheart stick.

Her Ambition's Height.
There are only two kinds of perfectly faithless men—the dead and the dead.

The height of the average girl's ambition is just about six feet.

Marriage is an operation by which a woman's vanity and a man's egotism are extracted without an anaesthetic.

It is easier to keep half-a-dozen lovers guessing than to keep one lover after he has stopped guessing.

A man's soul lies so close to his digestion that when he looks blue and downhearted a woman never knows whether to offer him a kiss, a meal, a dose of philosophy, or a dyspepsia tablet.

Love is a matter of chance; matrimony, a matter of money; divorce—a matter of course.

Adam was the first man to misunderstand a woman.

A man can sit in the moonlight and talk "New Thought" to a pretty girl and at the same time look right into her eyes with all old, old ones.

Love is a matter of give and take—marriage a matter of misgiving and mistake.

Some men are born for matrimony, some achieve matrimony—but most of them are merely poor dodgers.

There are times when a woman would gladly drop her husband, if she did not feel morally certain that some other woman would come along and pick him up.

Send Us Your Sayings.

France may claim the happiest marriages in the world, but the happiest divorces in the world are "made in America."

A man snatches the first kiss, pleads for the second, demands the third, takes the fourth, accepts the fifth and endures all the rest of them.

After two years an engagement doesn't need to be broken; it just naturally sags in the middle and comes apart.

A wise woman puts a grain of sugar into everything she says to a man, and takes a grain of salt with everything he says to her.

The most successful men are not those who have been inspired by a wise woman's love, but those who have persisted in order to gratify a foolish woman's whims.

All love is 99.44 per cent. pure: pure imagination, pure vanity, pure curiosity, pure folly, or whatever else it happens to be.

Don't waste your tears on the girls a heart-breaker should have married and didn't; save them for the girl he will marry and shouldn't.

Marriage is a discord that turns "Love's Old Sweet Song" from a eulogy into an elegy.

German Dye Scheme

TO SECURE A FREE MARKET IN BRITAIN.

It is announced that the German Government has intimated to the British Government its desire for a discussion on various points connected with the commercial treaty between Germany and England. I am informed that the chief aim of this move is to secure a free market for German aniline dyes in Britain.

At present dyes cannot be freely exported in Britain, but are sent as reparation payment under licence.

The great aniline dye and chemical trust, which has just been formed, is, however, determined to get free access to British markets at all costs.

"I have no doubt that Germany will get what she wants," a British business man told me, "in view of the fact that the Board of Trade was completely deceived by Germany over the import of British coal."

"Dead Man" Returns

INSURANCE MONEY PAID NINE YEARS AGO.

Residents of Ashford, Kent, turned out to welcome home John Barton, who is almost dumb, and has been mourned for nine years as dead. He disappeared in 1916, and insurance money was paid to the relatives after a decomposed body had been identified as his. The other day a droyer brought news that Barton was in Sevenoaks Workhouse, and his brother, on hastening there, was astounded to find the "dead" man in good health.

"Ringing for Gofor"

BELLS WITH STRANGE HISTORIES

One October evening, during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, a merchant named Gofor was lost in the forest that surrounded his native town of Newark. As he was carrying a large sum of money, and the forest was frequented by thieves, he felt far from comfortable. Suddenly he heard the sound of the Newark bells, which guided him home. In his gratitude he left a sum to the church on condition that the bellringers "rang for Gofor" every year on Sunday nights in October and November.

The Latine Bell, rung at Lloyd's to announce the arrival of an overdue vessel that has been presumed lost, has an interesting history. The Latine was a French ship, and then, by right of capture, an English frigate of war. She was wrecked at the entrance to the Zuyder Zee in October, 1799, whilst taking specie for English merchants to Hamburg.

Harvest Chimes.

England was at war with the Netherlands, the Dutch Government claimed the wreck, and £35,000 worth of the bullion was recovered. It was not until 1887 that Lloyd's secured equal rights in the treasure with a private company to which the Dutch had granted concessions. In 1888, with considerable quantities of specie, the frigate's bell was recovered. Since then it has stood in the library at Lloyd's, together with a chair and table made from the Latine's rudder. The "Gleaming Bell," or "Harvest Bell," as it is called in some places, is still rung here and there. Among old records in the parish chest at Barrow-on-Humber, for instance, is an instruction to the parish clerk to ring a bell every working-day morning at break of day and every evening at sunset until harvest is ended, and for this service each of the cottagers shall give him two peck of wheat.

Curious Facts and Figures

In this country nearly 1,800 women are engaged on railways as shunters, level-crossing workers, porters, pointsmen, yard-masters, and station-masters. About 22,000 are employed as electrical workers, and 38,062 are on the land. There are 141 women on the docks, 500 barbers, 73 bookmakers, 23 chimney-sweepers, and 11 racehorse trainers and jockeys.

Professional portrait photography dates from the forties, when Claudet opened a shop in Bond Street, London.

The world's largest vessel, the Majestic, has a tonnage of 56,551, which is approximately that of the 135 ships that formed the Spanish Armada. The space inside the huge hull of the Majestic is equivalent to 400 detached eight-roomed suburban residences, and nine decks have a total area of seven and a half acres.

The First Collars.
A modest centenary is that of the detachable collar. In 1825 the wife of a blacksmith conceived the idea when washing her husband's shirt. Her neighbours bought collars from her, and then one, Ebenezer Brown, scented money in the invention, and exhibited "string collars," as he called them, in his shop-window to 400 de-

The Doomsday Book, made by order of William the Conqueror, in which the extent and value of lands in England, with the owners' names, were entered, was so called from "Liber domus Dei" (the Book of the Lord God).

A gas flame is only three per cent. efficient, developing 97 per cent. of useless, invisible heat or chemical rays; the glare of the electric arc is only 10 per cent. of what it ought to be, and sunshine gives off only 35 per cent. of visible light rays. The glow within the body of a firefly is wholly lacking in heat; it is 100 per cent. pure flame.

Eggs We Don't Eat

The ostrich lays the biggest thing in the egg line in the present age in the world's history. Hard boiled, it weighs three pounds, and would make a good breakfast for a large family. The kiwi, a New Zealand bird, which itself weighs only about four pounds, lays an egg weighing fourteen ounces. But the egg of the extinct aepyornis, which may be found in museums, is as large as 150 average hens' eggs. It was a Madagascar bird that disappeared entirely some centuries ago.

Among volcanic sand in New Zealand an explorer discovered a partially-burnt egg that was even bigger. A bowler hat would hardly serve as an egg-cup for it. The bird that laid it was called the dinorhis and its height is imagined to have been something like fourteen feet.

Burns' Relics

INTERESTING FIND OF DUMFRIES LETTERS.

A find of Burns letters of particular interest to Dumfries has been announced. It consists of a large collection of letters written by that warm friend of the poet John Syme, of Ryedale, to a friend in Edinburgh, Alexander Cunningham.

For generations these papers have reposed among the documents of the Cunningham family, and only recently have they been brought to the light.

They give a vivid picture of the society in which Burns moved, of his life in Dumfries, and particularly of his death and funeral. They show that the life of Burns in Dumfries was a happy one, and not a period of gloom and tragedy, as some writers have indicated.

The letters are now in the possession of Dr. Joseph Hunter, Dumfries, and they are to be arranged and published.

Hospital's £50,000

ANONYMOUS FRIEND'S GREAT GIFT TO THE LONDON.

London Hospital, so Lord Knutsford, the chairman, announced the other day, has received an anonymous gift of £50,000 from a friend. "The gift," says Lord Knutsford, "is the result of inquiries my friend made into the inadequacy of the funds for endowing research on the origins of many common illnesses. The £50,000 gift will be used to endow such research." An official of the hospital adds that research into illnesses, such as cancer, consumption, and the rheumatic diseases, will be helped by the gift.

CHRYSLER FOUR

Acclaimed Everywhere As Typical of Chrysler Quality

America has received the Chrysler Four with the declaration—heard from one end of the country to the other—that only such a master manufacturer as Walter P. Chrysler could produce such a car.

It was a foregone conclusion that an extraordinary development of the four-cylinder principle and so outstanding a value, would be greeted with intense interest.

In many cities enthusiasm bordered on the sensational.

Conservative opinion hails the Chrysler Four as the most modern and the soundest contribution to finer four-cylinder engineering.

Unquestionably, there has never been a four at anywhere near the price that delivers the Chrysler combination of speed, smoothness, acceleration, pick-up, roadability, riding comfort and ease of handling, fuel mileage and charm of appearance.

In every respect, it is a fitting companion to the famous Chrysler Six. It is made of alloy steels as fine; it represents the application of the same fine precision manufacture that raised the Chrysler Six to its unprecedented peak of popularity.

The Chrysler Four is, in fact, to four-cylinder practice, what the Chrysler Six is to six-cylinder practice. In its field, it puts an entirely new interpretation on ability and performance, on riding ease, and complete and perfect roadability.
