Guelph Evening Mercury

THURSDAY EVENING, AUG. 14, 1873. Town and County News.

Messrs. HARRISON, boot and shoe manufacturers, are removing to-day across the street to their commodious new premises next door to Bond's hardware store.

Bio.—We learn that Mr. Thos. Bolton, near Clifford, this week thrashed 450 bushels of fall wheat in seven hours, with his old "long-tailed rat" machine. Mr. B. says that he raised 298 bushels of Treadwell wheat from 5 1/2 acres of land. Good for Minto.

Y. M. C. A.—The members will meet this evening at 8 o'clock, to listen to a report from the Committee concerning the new rooms, to appoint delegates to the coming Convention, and to transact other important business. Members, as far as possible, are requested to be present.

REMARKABLE COINCIDENCE.—A brief paragraph describing Grip's latest cartoon, and purporting in each case to be original, has appeared in three daily papers—the Evening Mercury, the St. Catharines Daily News, and the St. Catharines Times. The odd feature about this is that the wording of the paragraph in each paper is precisely similar, and that whilst it was in the Mercury of Monday, the two St. Catharines papers published it on the following Wednesday! These things will happen.

THE GREAT SQUAT.—Last night our Fire Brigade went out to the number of eighteen or twenty, to exercise themselves and their engine a little. The engine, fortunately, has so little to do here that the poor thing would get stiff-jointed and melancholy if it was not brought out for an airing—and watering—now and then. The engine was taken down to the dam, and the space between the station and Mr. Allan's was dotted with smart, red-jacketed fellows, who gave the station buildings a good drenching. What was done subsequently—if any thing—dependent sayeth not.

THE CLIFFORD SONS OF TEMPERANCE.—We copy from an exchange the following list of officers of this Division. The list furnished us by our correspondent was unfortunately mislaid when we published our former notice.—The Division was organized by Mr. W. H. Knapp, D. G. W. P., assisted by the Rev. S. F. DeFoe, formerly of Harrison, now of Walkerton. The officers installed for the present quarter were: Mr. A. Kerr, W. P.; Miss E. Dolmage, W. A.; Mr. J. H. Dolmage, R. S.; Miss A. Sparrow, A. R. S.; Mr. W. B. Shaw, F. S.; Mr. S. Sparrow, F. M.; Mr. D. Dickson, C.; Mr. G. Hamilton, A. C.; Mr. G. K. Hamilton, I. S.; Mr. J. Kerr, O. S.; Rev. W. Wickett, Chaplain.

EARLY ARRIVALS.—Mr. A. O. Buchannan, of the Fashionable West End, requests us to state that he will be prepared on Tuesday next, the 18th inst., to exhibit a large and choice variety of new goods.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—A serious and perhaps fatal accident occurred on Tuesday evening to a son of Mr. John Hewitt, of Walton. Some cattle had got into a wheat field, and members of the family, including the boy, who is fifteen years of age, proceeded to chase them out. A cow turned on the youth and struck him in the ribs, when it is supposed, the concussion injured one of his lungs. He is in a very precarious condition.—Brussels Post.

THE MONTHLIES for September—that is, some of the "early birds" among them—are making their appearance at John Anderson's. He sends us Bow Bells, the Family Herald, and the Ladies' Magazine. Another permanent enlargement and fashion plate is promised for the last named. The Family Herald contains a large selection of interesting fiction. Bow Bells has also a large coloured ladies' supplement, and the small bell-ringers on the cover, who had the blues last month, now blush all over a rosy pink. For sale at Anderson's.

In an editorial on the horse disease, the Congregationalist suggested that it might be well to sit at the feet of a horse and learn humility. "Just so," says the Californian News Letter; "sit down at the hind feet of a mule, and if he don't humiliate you, pull his tail and tickle the inside of his legs with a stable fork."

MOLLE'S ANSWER.—Being No. 5 of Irving's five cent music; also Will Carleton's farm ballads, and "The Danbury Newsman" now for sale at Paisley's cheap bookstore.

DURING the examination of witnesses before a select committee of the British House of Commons on the subject of the protection of wild fowl, an old bird-catcher of London revealed some tricks of the bird trade. By some professional legend, game is constantly sold as limpets, while hen birds painted up to resemble cockles, are sold in the streets to lovers of bargains. It was also testified that there has been a great decrease of goldfinches and linnets in England in the last twelve years.

A conscientious man promised his wife the other day that he wouldn't drink another drop as long as he had a hair on his head. That very night he got his head shaved smooth, and then got drunk with a proud consciousness of having faithfully kept his promise.

Godrich and Clinton have had hail storms. Poverty is bad, but the worst kind of poverty is poverty of the blood; this makes a man "poor indeed," for it takes away his strength, courage and energy; but enrich the blood with its vital element, iron, by taking the Peruvian Syrup (a protoxide of iron) and you will feel rich and "as good as a body." Try it.

Allan Clipper Reported Sunk.
Cholera in Columbus.
London, Aug. 13.—It is reported here to-day that the Allan line clipper ship Abeona, from Montreal for Glasgow, was run down and sunk by the State Line steamship Alabama, from Glasgow for New York, and that the wreckage, which it was at first thought came from the Alabama, was a portion of the Abeona, Madrid, Aug. 13.—The Republicans of Barcelona have petitioned the Government to establish a junta of public safety in Catalonia.

New York, August 13.—A Herald's special from Madrid, dated 13th, says:—Further complications have arisen from the interference of the Prussian frigate in Spanish affairs. Eight hundred Spanish sailors who were sent by the Government from Alicante to Escobarate, to take possession of the iron-clad Vitoria and Salamanca, were refused possession by Capt. Weaver on the ground that there was no authority from Berlin to disembark or they will open fire upon her without regard to the Prussians. Thus, by small degrees, Weaver's first blunder leads him further into quarrel.

Royal Head Quarters, Alcala, Aug. 9.—The Republicans have abandoned all the fortified positions in Navarre excepting Pampeluna, Vitoria and Vergara. With the exception of these cities the northern part of the Province is in full possession of the Carlists. The King is here with very few troops observing the possible movements which Dorregaray, Valasco and Lizarras are respectively ordered to make.

New York, August 13.—Two deaths from cholera in Columbus, Ohio, yesterday, and one to-day.

The fire to-night in the furniture warehouse of Gustavus Astenreith, 871 Pearl street, did damage to the amount of $50,000.

Washington, August 13, 1 a.m.—Probabilities for the middle States, northerly and north-westerly winds, lower temperature, cloudy weather and rain, clearing in the afternoon. For lower lakes, north-easterly winds, falling barometer, and partly cloudy weather.

New York, August 13.—To night two boarders at the house of Pat Hartigan quarrelled. Hartigan, who was in bed, was awakened by the noise, and jumping up stabbed one of the men, named McConey, seven times. The latter's wounds are fatal.

Providence, R. I., August 13.—The yacht N. F. Dixon, carrying the mails and passengers from Black Island to Newport, had not arrived at Newport at a late hour to-night, being several hours overdue. Newport is agitated by a rumour that the vessel was seen bottom up off Point Judith this afternoon. About 100 strangers were on the Island, some of whom would doubtless take this boat.

Two Children Burned to Death.
At about twenty minutes to 2 o'clock on Wednesday morning the dwelling-house of Mr. W. Jordan, painter, Oshawa, was discovered to be on fire. The sad part of the event was the burning to death of one of the children, Sarah Anna, a sweet little girl about seven years of age. The father was sleeping by himself down stairs and the mother and the children were up stairs. When aroused by the flames he ran to the staircase and shouted, but the smoke and flames beat down upon him so that he could not go up. The mother, finding access by the staircase cut off, seized the baby and ran to the north window, where she was helped out along with a boy. Mr. Jordan moved to the north side with a ladder, and entering, groped around through the smoke; he found a little girl in bed and handed her out of the window; he also found a little boy and got him out in the same way. The flames then burst into the room, and all was in a blaze in a moment. Mr. Honey made his escape, but was badly burned in the neck, and both children, when taken out, were blackened with smoke, and appeared to be suffering. The child burned was not heard nor seen by Mr. Honey, and must have been suffocated while asleep. The family was kindly taken into the house of a neighbor and have been cared for. They lose almost everything, the mother and children only saving their night-dresses. A subscription has been started on behalf of the sufferers. Another of the children injured has since died.

STEAM PASSENGER CAR.—The Great Western Railway Company have just completed a steam passenger car to be placed on the branch of their line running from Wyoming Petrolia. In one end of the passenger car a powerful upright steam engine and boiler has been placed, having direct connection with the axle of the wheel truck below. The car will accommodate about thirty or thirty-five persons comfortably, and it is expected will do the work of carrying passengers between Petrolia and Wyoming at a satisfactory speed at a much less cost to the company than by the use of a locomotive. A refitted pony car will accompany the passenger car and do duty as a baggage van.

NEW BOOKS.—Mr. Paasley hands us the Young Ladies' Journal for September, which besides the elegant fashion plates contains an extra large sheet of designs in various kinds of lace. Boys of England, Young Men of Great Britain, Sons of Britannia, London Society, Sunday at Home, Leisure Hour, &c. for August are now on sale at Paisley's.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE PROROGATION. OTTAWA, August 13.

The city all day has been in a state of bustle and excitement previously unknown. Great interest and anxiety was felt as to the course the Governor-General would adopt in answer to the deputation of the members, but general ignorance on the subject prevailed. About one o'clock it became known that the Guards were ordered out. It was then certain that the House would be prorogued, and the conjecture was confirmed when about half-past two o'clock several members of the suite of His Excellency took possession of the door by which he was to enter the building. About two o'clock the galleries of the Senate Chamber were crowded, the principal occupants being ladies. On the floor of the Chamber several ladies occupied prominent seats. Some six or eight Senators put in an appearance, and waited with becoming dignity for the approach of the Governor-General. Shortly after three o'clock Lord Dufferin, attended by his suite, entered the Chamber. Black Rod was at once despatched to the faithful Commons with a message, that the Governor-General required their attendance immediately. Some half an hour elapsed however, before this obsequious functionary returned, and then only followed by the members of the Government and a few of their followers. The great majority of the members present remained in the Commons chamber. His Excellency then read the following

SPEECH.
"Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate: Gentlemen of the House of Commons: In relieving you from further attendance in Parliament I beg leave to convey to you my best thanks for the diligence with which you have applied yourselves to the performance of your public duties. Among the measures you have adopted are laws of great importance to the well being of the Dominion. The interests of trade will be promoted by the Act relating to the inspection of the staple of the Dominion, as well as by the statute regulating weights and measures. The several Acts respecting our merchants shipping will greatly tend to the success and development of that great branch of our national industry, and the protection of the lives of seamen. By the Act relating to the trial of Controverted Elections of members of the House of Commons, you have adopted the system which is now in successful operation in the mother country."

"I sincerely congratulate you on the admission of the Colony of Prince Edward's Island as a Province of the Dominion."

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons: In Her Majesty's name I thank you for the supplies you have so cheerfully granted. They will insure the vigorous prosecution of the great public works so imperatively called for by the wants of this growing country."

"Honourable Gentlemen and Gentlemen: I have thought it expedient in the interests of good Government to order that a Commission should be issued to inquire into certain matters connected with the Canadian Pacific Railroad to which the public attention has been directed, and that the Evidence adduced before such Commission should be taken on oath. The Commissioners shall be instructed to proceed with the inquiry with all diligence, and to transmit their report as well to the Speakers of the Senate and House of Commons as to myself."

"I shall cause Parliament to be summoned for the despatch of business, to give you an early opportunity of taking such report into consideration. Meanwhile I bid you farewell."

THE COMMONS.
Ottawa, Aug. 13.
The Speaker took the chair at 3.25 p.m. and immediately on his doing so Mr. Mackenzie rose and said:—Mr. Speaker, I propose to address you and the House on a very important question. (Hear, hear.) In the present grave phase of the history of our country, and the extraordinary circumstances under which we are called together, I think (interrupted by the Speaker, and loud cries "Go on" from the members)—I think it incumbent upon me to place the following motion in your hands.

Mr. Speaker—Upon what does the hon. gentleman propose to make his motion? Mr. Mackenzie—I am making it upon a question of privilege. The following is the motion:—

"That this House during the present session order an inquiry by a Committee of its own into certain grave charges in connection with the granting of the charter and contract for the construction of the Pacific Railway, which, if true, seriously affect the official honour and integrity of His Excellency's constitutional advisers, and the privileges and independence of Parliament; that the investigation thus ordered has so far not been proceeded with owing to circumstances not anticipated when the enquiry was ordered, and that it is the imperative duty of this House at the earliest moment to take such steps as will secure a full Parliamentary enquiry; that constitutional usage requires the charges of corruption against Ministers of the Crown should be investigated by Parliament, and that the assumption of that duty by any tribunal created by the Executive would be a flagrant violation of the privileges of this House; and that this House will regard as highly reprehensible any person who may presume to advise His Excellency to prorogue Parliament, before it shall have had an opportunity to take action on the premises, inasmuch as such prorogation would render abortive all the steps taken up to the present time, would inflict an unprecedented indignity on Parliament, and produce great dissatisfaction in the country." I think this House will regard it as highly reprehensible that a Government against which such charges have been made should be allowed to advise His Excellency to prorogue Parliament before it shall have had the opportunity of taking action on the premises. (Great cheering.)

At this point the Speaker again interposed, but Mr. Mackenzie persisted and, amidst tremendous cheering, proceeded to speak in terms of the strongest indignation of the threatened interference with the privileges of the House. The Speaker, however, gave the signal for Black Rod's admittance, and that functionary's appearance was the signal for another storm of cries, echoed by marked demonstrations in the galleries. It may be doubted if Mr. Speaker heard the murmurs, although he professed to understand it. The Sergeant-at-Arms shouldered the mace, and the Speaker, followed by the Ministers and about a score of their followers, followed him amid shouts of "privileges" cries, hootings, and other manifestations of displeasure, unparalleled in the parliamentary history of Canada. Those who remained were over one hundred in number; not one of the dissentients left the floor of the House.

Parliamentary Protest.
Meeting of Members.
Reform Members Speaking.
No sooner had prorogation been effected than the members opposed to the course taken by His Excellency, under the advice of his Ministers, met, and that course became the subject of lively debate in the large Committee room, usually sacred to railway and other Parliamentary Committees. Mr. Mackenzie was called on to preside, and a succession of vigorous speeches was made by leading members of the House, and by the gentlemen who had waited on Lord Dufferin with the memorial earlier in the day. Mr. Holton denounced the prorogation as an unheard of indignity perpetrated by the advice of Ministers under impeachment. Mr. Cartwright gave a brief outline of the interview with Lord Dufferin, and announced that His Excellency had asked that comment might be suspended until his written reply should be in the hands of the delegation. The Governor-General hinted at a couple of months hence being probably the date of the House re-assembling. Mr. Cunningham followed. He had put the matter to His Excellency as a clear invasion of the privileges of Parliament, and had urged that the Crown had no right to issue a Commission until Parliament had formally sought such action at the hands of the Executive. Mr. Burpee, Mr. Church and Mr. Paquet, the other three members of the deputation, spoke briefly in the same strain. Mr. Laflamme opposed a Commission.

Mr. Mackenzie then addressed the meeting, and in the course of his remarks pointed out that while ninety-five members had signed the memorial, several who had not signed had remonstrated in person, so that the prorogation had, in fact, taken place in the face of the protests of an actual majority of members. He declared that the conduct of the Government would only intensify the feelings of indignation and disgust entertained by the country at their proceedings. Mr. Blake followed, and gave an outline of the course of events in connection with this question. He showed how Sir John A. Macdonald had again and again suggested a Commission instead of a Committee, but the House had shown a marked disinclination to adopt the proposal of the Premier. Now, said Mr. Blake, a greater question even than the guilt or innocence of Ministers was involved, namely, whether the rights of a free Parliament were to be taken away. He pointed out that the Government had known early in June that the Committee could not proceed without fresh instructions, but had, nevertheless, not only failed to ask their supporters to attend, but had actually, in answer to enquiries, warned them not to come to Ottawa, and then, having done all they could to keep members away, had traitorously advised the Governor-General that in the absence of members Parliament could not be permitted to proceed to business. He then pointed to the easy alternative of a short adjournment, instead of prorogation, and to the fact that the sealed packet in the custody of Mr. Starnes was no longer impounded, now that the Committee was at an end. He sketched Sir Hugh Allan's intrigues, and concluded by expressing his confidence that, notwithstanding the corrupt means used to elect many of its members, the present Parliament would still do its duty.

Mr. Huntington was called for and delivered a long and eloquent speech. He denounced the violation of the constitutional rights of Parliament, but declared that if Providence were pitted against prerogative, Providence in the end would triumph. He paid a high tribute to the aid he had received from many political opponents as well as friends, and defending Mr. McMullen from opprobrium cast upon him. He went to argue against the suggestion of a Commission for the Committee, and alluded to the attempted defence of the Government by their organs as exhibiting the stupidest of all excuses for the most rashly of all crimes. Mr. Dorion, being loudly called for, next spoke. He referred to the exceptional course taken to secure the disallowance of the Oaths Bill, and to the intense feeling of indignation expressed at the proceedings of the Government throughout the country.

At six o'clock the meeting adjourned till half-past seven. At that hour the room was densely packed, several strangers attracted by the novel character of the discussion being present, in addition to the members and Senators. The proceedings were of the most stirring and enthusiastic description, and until far into the night the unusually quiet corridors of the Parliament buildings resounded with the cheers of the audience that greeted successive speakers.

The Harriston Tribune of last week makes its appearance enlarged to a 16-column paper. It is very well printed, clear type and good paper, and we congratulate our contemporary upon the improvement.

THURSDAY EVENING, AUG. 14, 1873

The Prorogation.

His Excellency the Governor General is playing to perfection the part of a constitutional ruler as defined by modern practice, which is that the nearer the head of the State can approach to a merely ornamental appendage the better. Yet, whilst the duties of the Governor General are to a great extent merely formal, there are crises—fortunately few—when he has the opportunity of rising above the position of a mere ministerial mouthpiece, and of proving himself strong enough and wise enough to deal with great national emergencies like a statesman. The crisis which Lord Dufferin had to face yesterday was one of these, and it was hoped that he would prove equal to it. An opportunity was given for him to show the metal he was made of—whether he is anything more than a graceful and fluent figure-head, amiable and long-suffering to the last degree in the matter of receiving addresses and submitting to tiresome ceremonies. But he has missed it. That he was neither ignorant of the feeling of the country nor altogether unmoved by it, was shown by his altering his Halifax arrangements and coming to Ottawa; and he manifested still further hesitation when the deputation from a majority of the House of Commons showed him that his choice was between antagonism with Parliament or a collision with his Ministers. However, His Excellency decided to keep strictly to the ornamental role, and not interfere to his Ministers in their last desperate resort of gagging Parliament by a "constitutional" dodge. By this action he has placed himself in the unenviable though strictly constitutional position of being made the dignified instrument of screening an utterly corrupt ring of schemers—the gorgeous cloak to cover up their misdeeds.

But it is not with the Governor General the country has now to deal. The wily Premier has gained another victory, for he well knows the importance of delay. A commission, appointed by the accused themselves, is to take evidence when, where, how, as much or as little as they please. Then, after the fertile shuffling and dodging resources of John A. have been exhausted, a report carefully prepared under the direction of the chief criminal will be drawn up; the gag will be taken off Parliament, and the people's representatives will be kindly allowed to discuss the white-washing report. We are told that Parliament will probably meet again in six or eight weeks; but it will be noticed that the Speech from the Throne states Parliament is to meet "immediately on receipt of the report of the Commission." Judging from the past, every artifice will be used to delay that report. The Ministry have great faith in the policy of delay. They know that the rush and whirl of events, and of pressing personal interests, in this hurrying age, tend to thrust the most important public events into the dim background; and they think by persistent obstruction to weary men of the very name of the Pacific Scandal. They may easily accomplish the latter result; but we have confidence in our countrymen's stubborn sense of justice, their zealous love for the fair fame of their country; and even should the Ministry succeed in obtaining the largest possible respite, they will find next May that the people have not forgotten, and cannot be diverted from their determination like a child with a new toy. It was, no doubt, very clever of Sir John to tell his followers not to come to Ottawa, and then put forth their absence as a reason for proroguing, but he will not find the people of Canada as pliable in his hands as was Lord Dufferin. Such a manifestation of national indignation as took place at the capital on Wednesday will have deep and abiding results.

Playing Monk.

"Father" Ignatius, whose monkish propensities a few years since caused his expulsion from the Church of England, in which he had attained the position of deacon, has been brought again into public notice by a singular action in Chancery at the instance of a London merchant named Todd, to recover the custody of his son, a boy of seventeen, who had been induced by "Ignatius" to forsake his home and enter the Ignatian monastery in Wales. "Ig," for so the irreverent multitude call the founder of this new monastic order, having induced the youth to become an inmate of the monastery, defied all attempts on the part of the lad's father to communicate with him or see him, and the latter was therefore driven to adopt an ingenious expedient for compelling the restoration of his son. He bought £100 in consols, invested them in his son's name in the Court of Chancery, and thus made him "a ward" of that august tribunal. Then he prayed the Court to look after its "ward," and the Vice-Chancellor issued an order directing "Ig" to produce the "infant." Mr. Igne (Father Ignatius) defied the order for several days; but upon the Court sending an officer he yielded at discretion, and finally appeared at Court with the boy. He had improved the interval by administering what he called "monastic vows" to this callow youth, and by going through the sacrilege of giving him the tonsure. The Vice-Chancellor, however, made short work of the business. He gave the boy to his father, and administered to Mr. Igne a scolding which few men would like to receive, winding up with the promise that if he were caught in attempting to communicate with the boy again in any manner "he would be shut up in one of the prisons of this Court, where he could not get at him or any other boy." When "Ig" left the Court he was greeted with a storm of hisses and groans by the crowd assembled at the doors. The amusement of playing monk does not seem to be unattended by inconvenience

The Reform Memorial.

The attendance of strangers in the House was quite unprecedented in the history of the prorogations. There was a large number of persons present from Montreal and the river counties, while both Gambia and Gloucester, N.B., had their representatives in the galleries. Intense interest was manifested in the result of the Reform memorial to the Governor-General. The memorial was brief and to the point, as follows:— "That although the House has appointed a Commission to enquire into the said charges, the proceedings of this Commission have, on various grounds, been postponed, and the enquiry has not taken place; that the honour of the country imperatively requires that no further delay should take place in the investigation of charges of so grave a character, which it is the duty and undoubted right and privilege of the Commons to prevent.

"The undersigned are deeply impressed with the conviction that any attempt to postpone the enquiry, or to remove it from the jurisdiction of the Commons, will create the most intense dissatisfaction, and therefore pray your Excellency not to prorogue Parliament till the House of Commons shall have had an opportunity of taking such steps as it may deem necessary and expedient with reference to this important matter."

Ninety-five members signed this protest; and in addition to those, who consisted of men of both parties, a body of Ministerialists, who objected to sign their names to the memorial, personally waited on the Governor and remonstrated in the same sense. Every one of the members present from New Brunswick except the two Ministers, Messrs. Tilley and Mitchell, signed it. So, too, did all but Messrs. Tupper and Hugh McDonald from Nova Scotia, except Mr. Pearson, who, however, sympathized strongly with the prayer. The whole existing representation from Manitoba and the prairie provinces, a clear majority of the whole House protested against the prorogation.

The reply of Lord Dufferin is to be published immediately. The purport of it was that His Excellency felt bound by the counsels of his Ministers; that they unanimously advised a prorogation on the ground that the House was not fully constituted; that he could reject their advice without a rupture which would lead to the resignation of the Cabinet; and that to dismiss the Ministers at the present moment would be tacitly to assume their guilt on evidence at present ex parte in its character. The deputation met Lord Dufferin at a quarter to one, and were promised a reply in an hour. At the end of that time His Excellency requested a further half-hour's delay. It was, therefore, nearly three o'clock when they returned to the House. Meanwhile the benches gradually filled until there were at least one hundred and thirty members present—giving the most effectual answer to the pretence that the House could not properly proceed to business. It was twenty-five minutes past three when the Speaker took the chair, and such was the anxiety of the Government to check the least effort at discussion that Black Rod might be seen peeping through the glass door of the Chamber, ready to give his official tap the moment the House was in session. But for the moment he knocked in vain. No sooner was the Speaker in his seat than Mr. Mackenzie rose and commenced to speak to a question of privilege. The Senators in attendance numbered sixteen, but with the exception, however, of half-a-dozen, they followed the example of the majority of the members in the House of Commons, and absented themselves from the Chamber during the ceremony of prorogation.

ANNABEL

THE TEMPTATION.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

PHILIP WRESTED IN THE DEPTHS OF WORRY—A RIVAL AT ROCKSTONE—A TALKER.
All three were anxious and restless, and Mr. Langton no less than the other two, but his restlessness and anxiety were of quite a different kind and from another cause. He was plunged in genuine grief and despair. Not only did he bitterly mourn the death of Annabel, but his sorrow for Philip was of the most poignant description, as he trembled with agitation in view of meeting him and seeing his suffering. As yet, so unfeigned was his pity and sympathy for the youth in his bereavement that he would gladly have relinquished all the financial relief which Annabel's death had brought him, if she could have been restored to life. But, alas! this he felt could not be. She was dead, the blow was irreparable, and the grief abiding.

Mr. Langton made an effort to go out to meet Philip, but his agitation was such that he was positively unable. Summoning all his resolution, the merchant rose from his chair, and hastened across the room to the door, which opened from without as he neared it, and instinctively he opened his arms to embrace Philip. But at the sight presented to his view he staggered back in horror. It seemed to be not Philip, but his specter that entered. For the dreadful change in the youth's appearance, and the shock caused him to recoil some steps backward, uttering the ejaculation—
"Good God!"

Then, in the paleness and emaciation in the haggard face and shrunken frame he read the awful extent of the poor youth's suffering, and with a great cry and a bursting sob, he sprang forward and threw his arms round Philip's neck.

"Oh, my boy—my poor, dear boy," he murmured. More he could not say; all the rest was expressed in the violent emotion which shook their souls, for Philip broke down likewise, and he wept more freely than he had done since the dreadful news had reached him.

Mrs. Langton sat at the upper end of the room looking on. Could she really behold that sight and not be impelled by remorse to shriek out her guilt, and end the misery which had wrought such havoc, and was boring Philip's manly frame to the very dust? Hardened, selfish, cruel, as she was, could she remain unshaken in the horrible purpose she had carried through?

Yes, she could. Disturbed she certainly was at the sight of his and her husband's grief, and her heart beat fast and strong under her bosom, but not with pity, not with remorse—only with fear lest a discovery should be made.

It was several minutes ere that terrible gush and flood of emotion spent its first outbreak. Gradually, however, the two men grew calmer, and Mrs. Langton feeling it necessary to act a part, rose and came down to where they were, her grand stiff, mourning dress sweeping the floor and rustling as she moved.

"This is a sad distressing meeting, Philip," she said and managed to throw the appropriate tone into her words. "Oh, who would have expected this when you went away?"

He turned and took the hand she held to him, and the silent pressure he bestowed on it was his only reply. To answer her in words was for him impossible. He could but cast one brief glance into her face, and seeing there what seemed to be tears standing in her eyes he turned aside, and dropping into a large chair, abandoned himself to a calmer and relieving fit of weeping.

"My boy, this will never do," sobbed Mr. Langton, patting Philip's shoulder very tenderly. "It is, I am aware, a sore blow for you, but you must not—for all our sakes you must not—allow it to affect you so heavily."

"It is the coming to this place where Annabel is laid to rest," moaned the youth. "It is like the wound re-inflicted. I will get calmer soon; I am calmer even now. This has relieved me. I feared the meeting, yet longed for it, since now I shall hear all particulars of the dreadful event."

Old London is now enjoying a religious sensation similar in character and nearly equal to that produced by Pere Hyacinthe, a few years since, in Notre Dame, Paris. The central figure in the London excitement is Monsignor Capel, a Catholic preacher of Ultramontane type; and the Protestant cathedral in Kensington, where he holds forth, is crowded every Sunday evening with an eager audience, including many Protestants of the upper classes. Capel, who, it will be remembered, figures as one of the characters in "Lothair," is described as a fine looking man, with a grand voice, a keen eye, and a perfect master of the most simple yet vigorous style of the English language. He has a real belief that the only hope of any human soul and society lies in his Church, and when kindled up with his subject is eloquent in the extreme. But it is in the boldness with which he arraigns high society for its coarse materialism and its vices that he produces the effect of the sensation he produces. The Church of England requires a scathing dissection at his hands, and its worshippers are told plainly by him and by his co-agitator, Manning, that every so-called superstitious of their Church now finds shelter in the Church of England, without the corresponding comforts, sacraments, and unity which their own church supplies; they may as well believe a dozen miracles as one, or in the infallibility of a living church as well as that of a dead prophet.

A fellow named Lee, from the States, who has been making and selling "concentrated lemonade" in Hamilton during the last few weeks, has cleared out

OUTSIDE SPORTS.

BASE BALL. PROFESSIONAL GAMES.

This afternoon the MUTUALS and ATLANTICS play in Philadelphia; and on Saturday afternoon the PHILADELPHIANS and BOSTONS play in Chicago.

The following is the American championship record to the end of last week:

Table with columns: Team, Won, Lost. Philadelphia 27, Baltimore 17, Boston 13, Mutual 12, Atlantic 11, Athletic 10.

By the above the PHILADELPHIANS stand 1st, BALTIMORE 2nd, and the BOSTONS and ATLANTICS and MUTUALS equal.

The BALTIMORE defeated the MUTUALS in Baltimore on Tuesday by a score of 7 to 2. The game was a splendid display of batting and fielding.

The BOSTONS are announced to play in Canada in Guelph, Toronto, and Ottawa. Why are those Kingston "champions" excluded?

The KINGSTON club has returned home. They attribute their ill luck to the soreness of their hands—and, we might suggest, their vast amount of room for improvement in playing.

The second nine of TACUMBERS beat the first nine again yesterday 12 to 11 for the Knowlton cup—1st nine, two outs in an innings, 2nd nine three outs.

Mount Forest and Clifford played last Friday. The former scored 194 in one inning, the latter 87 in two innings.

Base Ball Championship. The London Evening Herald says:—

Since an accidental defeat which the Guelph champions suffered at Kingston a few weeks ago, the Penitentiary boys have been putting on style, and even felt they were being ill-treated, in not having the silver ball immediately handed over to them.

Having waited a reasonable time to give Guelph an opportunity to see it in the same light, they started after the ball to fetch it, whipping a couple of third-class clubs on their way up, just for the sake of keeping their hands in.

Their encounter with the Dauntless of Toronto must have created some slight misgivings in their breasts, though it could hardly have prepared them for the tremendous drubbing they received at Guelph.

At the close of the game the score stood 36 to 3. The St. Lawrence were 8. This fully satisfies them. Although they have taken unto themselves a back seat during the remainder of the season.

Harriston Correspondence. Mr. Duncan Senior, of Minto, met with an accident on Thursday last, by which he lost his life.

The Minto Agricultural Society held a meeting at Markie's Hotel on Saturday, the 9th, for the purpose of making arrangements for the holding of the fall show, and decided to hold it in Harriston on the 7th of October.

The Wesleyan Methodists have advertised for a new brick church according to the plan and specification. It will surpass any building of the kind in this section.

The Harriston correspondent of The Elora Observer finds fault with our Village Council for not repairing the Elora-street Bridge, but thinks that they should be made to pay for any mishap which might arise from its condition.

Erasmus Council. This Council met at the Centre Inn on the 4th inst. Members all present.

The Clerk informed the Council that the first or south Parliamentary Electoral Division of the Township now contained upwards of 200 electors, and a By-law was introduced and passed after the usual number of readings and numbered 11, to separate lots No. 8 in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th cons.

The Clerk was directed to notify James Griffith that Asher Fanon and others had petitioned the Council to have the side road opened between lots 90 and 31, on the 1st con., and to request the said James Griffith to remove his fences off the same; and Mr. D. Hes was appointed to examine the timber on said side road and report to next meeting of Council.

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints.

When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c.

Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Prepared by E. W. FOWLE & SONS, Boston, Mass. And sold by Druggists and Dealers generally.
