The Institute has attempted to obtain the best oricinal sopy available for filming. Features of this copy which may be bibliographically unique, which may alter any of the images in the reproduction, or which may significantly change the usual method of filming, are checked below.

Coloured covers/
Couverture de couleur

Covers damaged/
Couverture endommagé
Covers restored and/or laminated/
Couverture restaurée et/ou pelliculíe

Cover title missing/
Le titre de couverture manque

Coloured maps/
Cartes géographiques en couleur
Coloured ink (i.e. other than blue or black)/
Encre de couleur (i.e. autre que bleve ou noire)
Coloured plates and/or illustrations/
Planches et/ou illustrations on couleur
Bound with other material/
Relić avec d'autres documents
Tight binding may cause shadows or distortion along interior margin/
La reliure serrée peut causer de l'ombre ou de la distorsion le long de la marge intérieure

Blank leaves added during restoration may appear within the text. Whenever possible, these haye been omitted from filming/ Il se peut que certaines pages blanches ajoutios lors d'une restauration apparaissent dans le texte, mais, lorsque cela était possible. ces pages n'ont pas été filmées.

L'Institut a microfilmé le meilleur exemplaire qu'il lui a eté possible de se procurer. Les détails de cet exemplaire qui sont peut-btre uniques du point de vue bibliographique, qui peuvent modifier une image reproduite, ou qui peuvent exiger une modification dans la méthode normale de filmage sont indiqués ci-dessous.

Coloured pages/
Pages de couleurPages damaged/
Pages endommagées

Pages restored and/or laminated/
Pages restausees et/ou pelliculces

Pages discoloured, stained or foxed/
Pages décolorées, tacinetíes ou piquéesPages detached/
Pages détachies

Showthrough/
Transparence

Quality of print varies/ Qualité inógale de l'impression

Continuous pagination/
Pagination continue

Includes index(es)/
Comprend un (des) index.
Title on header taken from:/ Le titre de l'en-téte provient:

Title page of issue/
Page de titre de la livraison

Caption of issue/
Titre de départ de la livraison
Masthead/
Génerrique (périodiques) de la livraison

Additional comments:/
Cover pages and preliminaries filmed with Vol. 1, no. 8 (Dec. 1, 1821).
Commentaires supplémentaires:
This item is filmed at the reduction ratio checked below/
Ce document est filmé au taux de réduction indiqué ci-dessous.

Qucbec General Agency Office.

The Register Etablished last year for Emigrants Re. will he continued at the Qebsec Gexemat. Acrscy Office, adjoining the National Printing Office, Hope Sirect. Persons in want of Serrauts, Mechanics, Latourers &e. can be supplied.-
Charge for every scparate Registry, 1 ss 3 d .
To be Paid at the time of Entry.
All possible attention will be giren to the Character of Individuals; though the proprietor camnot be answerable for such.
Sales and Transfers of land and erery description of business trantacted by Commisisiot.

for sade,

$S$
EV1:RID I.ots of encellent laml sirectly on the tine of the romi for cach to of $f(N)$ deres. Apuly to

> COL. BOUCHFTTE,
> Lant Surysyoy lirep mat. frithe Priater.

'iO CORRESPGNDENTS.

For nit of n certmin matere 80 pass current, it mast lie atampod thy the already woqued celetrity of a Stertie or of a Swift. As our miscellany has ao pretension to ripulise either the wit or the fane or those great men, we dare not break our engnyements with our subneribers by insertiteg in tris werk, certain communicutions directed to our office, and which cousain a diave ton ratuch of she noses, & C .

Aunartisenesits inserted at the following ratesIn one Language,
For lat insertion six lines and under, 2s. 6 d. cach subsequent insertion, $\quad 7 \frac{1}{3}$ d. First insertion, ten lines and uodei, $\quad$ 3s. $\quad$ d. cach subsequent, .... 10 d
First insertion, above ien lines, per line, 4 d. each subsequent, d, In both Languages, Double the ahove ratec. 85 Ezery 1 st inserfion mast bepwid in -Idxance.

No. 7
PRICE,
ONE SHLLLING TO SUBSCRIPERS; ONE SHELLNG and three pence to non subscribers,

MONTHLY PERIODIGA WORK;

IN which varmety is to me tha
PREDOMINANT FEATURE. censisfing or

 Enteraminent'of the header.

The Subscriptionis fixed at twelve Shilidgs pos Aunum for this City; for tweive Numbers containing at least sisteen Pages and which with be encreased ingroportion to themacouragement the. Condueters maymeet with:

$$
\begin{aligned}
& \text { Samenay, lith leburam, lafg. }
\end{aligned}
$$

 of Selmars, one thousmod eight hadied and wen, pewerning the no de achs pape ro fhas l'romen, during thee years.

> Aftest Wru. Invjexy
> ©H. Assy.

s:rindis, sid Febmary, 1810.

 Wh:ther fur the erection of .. Dralge or Bruderes, for the regulation of the mont pubnc phace, where there ts no Church during tyo monthy

$$
\begin{aligned}
& \text { Mitest IV. K.IND. Ir, } \\
& \text { © ©lh. Assy. }
\end{aligned}
$$

 The ahove Resulutions in the manoen derected by the firnt. 'JWeir act . nunts wall be end at the chid ot the senf win Clerks Other, House c. Assematre,

Monory, 2d March, 1sle.

畒

 Sinceestan:; the ratis $n$ hach they intend to ark, the ceicat of the pri-- Itexe, the lu coin of the arches, the intersal betwem the abatments or inforse to crect a I Praw- Kridge or not, and the dimen ion of such Draw-t. Thatige.

 r.idant trois anniés. A!est

| Gineft. Atce. |  |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  |  |  |
|  |  |  |

 saned, de. Finner, ini

 da Paticavent Probncial ;our de oxablaines objets, il wata dome $i$ divasort prisonter.

A!e:str, WiM. LNDNAY, (ircti: Ass"e.
 diaserer tes lle solution ci-dessus, en hamiere ordoune pur ha prem erc. I curs comptey seront paye a ha firs de fanate, en par eux sdack sast au Kureandia Grefier de la Chambere didsuemblec.

> (HAMBLE D'ASSEMBLEF:
> Lundi, le 2a dioms, imig.

 un Bill prive pour criger un Pont de Reage ta pernome ou les Persumacs quise propaseront bir pétitionner your tel Bifl en domant lis ar propaseront dedemander, letrmatue du privifege, Vilewation des tiun 1'oist Lerisou non et lescimasions de ta D'ent Levis.

Greffr. Assano
Cbeap Empenetrable jatating.
晋. READER from London, late foreman to R. Gain, House, Sign and Urbamental Painter, Glazier, &r. Rexpectully infornis the pubfic, that he bus removed to $¥ 5$, St: Am street, near the Girnl. D. R. is enabled by a process (which has been approved or by the Royal Society at London) , to render FishoOil superior to Linseed Oit for all tinds of werk exposed to $t$ ' weather, as being far uore durable, and at 20 per econthoner than the usual prices.
Chairs and all other furviture painted to any paticre, Maps and Prints varnished, Gilding, &c. &ic.
Quobec, August 1, 18:2:

APARTMENTS,

Funvismen or Unzunnisued, Consisting of two Sitting Roomes, two Bed Rooms, and a Kitchen; all on the same floor.

The situation is Central and in the Upper Town. Suitable for a genteel small family.
Stab*ing if Required. Enquire at the National Printing Office, Hope Street.

TOWNSHIP OF GRANTHAM.

For sale, a Lot of Land, 45 miles to the eaje ${ }^{\text {g }}$ t Three Rivers, being No. 5 in the Township of Granthan, contisting of teo acres five which is cleared. with a log Hosic--For 10l. roady money.

PATRUCK SMITH
Drumrsondvillo.

Whingdtoparchase a Cleared Fanm of, from 50 to 100 Acres willt.
Enquire at ©in Officely

LAND ON EQUAL SHARES.

Hithout Purchare Duthafy.

- wita Undersigned, baving one thovsand acres of as fine L,AND as any in the Prormee, in the Township of Ireland, (where there arc meveral Settlers, withi me raile of the Main Road called Ctaigis Rond. ts ready to treat with ene permon or more, to join in clearing the maid fand, and raising a farm for the benefit of all concerned-no Parchse Koney Required.

LIEUT. HORSELEY, R N:
Whtional Refornic suayibe had of the Primer.

AC.TDEBY

No. 2, HOPE STREET,
VEAL THE CPPER TOW'V MAREET, EOR THE
Sons of Merchants, Tradesmen and othas.
1 $\mathbf{Y}$

Mr. Shadgett, afrom 置onoon,

JV
SH.ADCETI' purposes opening ufter the Midsummer Vacntion a Schoot, on hip owiu uccauntafor the Sons of Merctant, Tradesmen und others.
Reader, Writing, Eurfish-Cirummar, Aribhmetic, Principlis of Book-keejing, Eilocution, Geography and Gencral History.

Iu order to give perfort sutivfuetion to Patents and ensure the comport and adrancessent of the youth connfided to his cure, the mumper to be cudnitted will be limited. Thuse Parcnts why are desirous of having their thildren instrueled by 3F. S. are therefore requestec' to muike ectry upplisatiou.
($uebex, 17th July, 180:.

FOR SALE,

A Handsume second hand Portable WHITNG DBish. To prevent trouthe, Price 31.
Apply at the Stors adjoning the National and Brition Prinang-Ofice.

DRUMMONDVLLLE.

FOH SALE-Gie huodred acres and more of Land, seven aqres of which is cletren und ia a state of Cultivathon-With a guin Lere sar THOMAS suEliERD, $\because$ Nasla, bear Winina He:ry

 No. i, St. Fhaille,

Pour les fils dic Negocinns, Marchazds, at aurer.
PAR

DIONS1R. SHI.3DGETVT, se propave uprts les viacasces ic ret iti, dourrir une Escole à ṣan proprc compte, pour-let fifs de Negociants, Marcliands et austes.
Lire, Berire, I Arithuctionuci les Xiemens de In tciunc des hivres, -Elocution, la Gicographie, ell Histoire en gereral.

- Afin de sali fáre tes narens, es de contribuer autant que possible, ax lien aise, et aur progrès des puyites congités à ses slins, le nombre en sera bimait.

Cenx done qui se praposeat de confier Teducation de leuts erfans d Mr. S. sunt prits de Mi en donncr avis an platis iss demeure, ruste midi et 2 bewsea, si da 5 i 8 iheurcs dus vif.

La Sclle dinstruction est raste, et apacieuse, e: bien aërée.
Quibec, Juiltet 17, 1891.

CHARLES LQDGE,

 DOOKBINBER, FROM LONDON,
No. 25, St. And Streit, newe Bine Sedch Charam.

$\mathbf{R}^{2}$ very likeral support he ajoirrecciven alace the cominenced basiuene On his own mocount, and hegs to thatice krogen that his Sipringi Gujads arc metved, which from theexcellency of the Skics and Pattores will enable ham tocyecute in a viry wuperior manner my work witi which be my

THE  ENQUIRER. a aucbec jublication.  87  C. . P.. E.

- hear him!!!

- MMYOWN LIFIS.

Continued from page 86.
At last I am fairly brought upon this misereble Stage nhereon bo many tricks, pranks, and antics are daily, and hourly : perfor: med: whereon the busy throng of bipedes çulling themselves ratioual, anxiously toil to be happy and almost always chuse the very reverse means to obtain that end. Like eyery child of ;my rank in life my first infancy was.confided to the care of menials, who as is generally the case, thought they had.faithfully performed their pairt in feeding, washing, dressing and undressing me, and in indulging my little fancies provided they did not militate ugainst their ease and caprice.' Soon after I'was sent lto :school in order to get rid of my noise; then 1 had a private Tator to initiate me in the rudiments of learning, and then at last obtained admission in the King's Military school near Paris to become', withodt much car ring whether it was my inclination or not, $&$ Military hero. : Hap pily the frequent sight of the three cockied hat with a fine cockyde, and shouider knots of gold or silver, of the proudigaiety and of the seemingly easy life of a Soldier, made me anticipate the happiness that awaited me and reconciled me with. my destination; and indeed in due tine. I wan aggregated to that body: of syoung thoughtless fellows, who eareless of atife already in: inanner re--signed, ure perfectly:indifferent of the minga by which they may lose it, let it be by overindulging in their pleasures, by the buld let aimed at themi by the haud of hoporikoriby the bayowet of their King and country's enemy:

I shafl not dwell on that early stage of my military coreer but limit myself to a fe circumbtances which; not concerning me directly yet appear desserving to be mentioned. Being in garrison, I applied for a leave of absense to the Commandant of the place, whotrammitted uiy application to the minister at the war-departneent-Before the return of his answer application was made to the commandant, for a permit for post horses for the next hay, a formulity required on the frontier fortresse in Francé. The strunger thut mude it: added at the.same time that in cane the Commandant knew uny person wishing to go to Paris be offered a seat in his post chaise on paying for the additional horse. Thereupon the Cominandant sent for me and asked whether I would takeadrantage of this offer ; on my auswer that I would if hegave meleave, he'granted it únder the condition, that I should not appear publicly until he had transmisted to me the Minigters answer.

- It was late on an evening in the month of November ; the stranger had ordered the horse for $60^{\circ}$ clock the next morning and of course I had very little time to make the necessary preparations. Happily a Subaltérn residing in Barracks is. seldom tover loaded and encumbered with goods and chattels and $I$ was ready at the uppointed hour and place. I found my unknown fellow Traveller ulready sitting in. his chaise. Having informed him that I was the person addreseed to him. by the commandant on his invitution I seated myself at his side; the door was shut upon us the Driver's whip 'eracked lustily, and our four tho' not sure fopted animals rattled our vebicleas fust as they could on the rough pevenent. I havealready suid that it was, in that oloomy mouch so fatal to those atlicted with the disease dearnediy called tedium vita, bat more vaigarly known under the name of blue Devils. Thank God! I never was under the iufluence of that disnal affection and foggy November was then as welcome to me ass gay May. . Notwithistandingethe sleepless nightal had spent in preparration andthe darkied ot the morning I did not feel the- deast inclination to sleep. . Consequently I tied teuter into eonversution with my compagnion de voyage, but nothing more thema.dry: monosyllables could il extract from his' mouth. Sqon after I had certuin.indications, thut Morpheun bud. bound hive in hip iron. fetters. With motaciturn and: so dry a neighboor I could not; build the liope of a very pleamant journey, I had mot. yet had a sight of his person but by the space he seensed to occupy in the curriage and by the tosses I received frous time ta tiune wich his head on my shoulders, 1 judged him to be a short lusty, man, und au the dawuing of the day, when fogs and mists permitted me to take a f̂air view of him I saw that I was not mistaken in my. idem of his person. As to his countenance, it said very little for or against him in the placidity of his sicep.

We continued moving onwards and arrived when broad day at the first statipn where we were to change liorses and to enjoy. m welcome breakfast. : My travelling companion was roused out athis peaceful slumber, and after having rubied his eyea aud takeń arapid survey of the premises. We walked in to one of those houses where the degree of hospitality is regulated by the means of pard, chasing it. We were in that province which would ypevitably be gue of the richest in the world, if only half of the wine. (called a ${ }^{5}$ ter its name), that is drunk all over the world; was truly the juicés of the grapes matured within its precints. But this in far from being the case.

The Districtsin which the several qualities of champaign wines are prodaced are extreanely limited in extent; and incapable of answering to the hundredth part of the demand forthat beverage s'd highly valued by Voluptaries. Heře as in màny óti. r jespects' my kaste is far from agreeing with that of the generality of Epictrew for I never couid seliah it. My dislike for it jerhaps'rayy be ató tributed to my having been made iatoxicated the first tisel I drank some atabremiffast that severiul of us on our being knightel compat pions of the order of ist wazare gave to owr biothet "office is: Wus so sick from that excess, that not only Itook athorofty dis?ike to that wine butalso th has guatiolde everaftet remitiot excess in drinking.

On those days' the slops now used almust every whene for breakfast hiad not reached Erance and therefore I was compelled to lielf the awallowing up of ham and bread with a, few glasses of wine, but remained far behind my - brother traveller, whe seemied to relishatill better and betterenchnuccessive bumper which! he wwallowed. But the volatility of the liguor had not apparentijt any effect on his taciturnity and very few' words excepted, our time at feast on'his part; was entirely spent th the present business, which done we resumed our seatisin the chaise and our iourney. onwards.
In this silent manner we procended untit at last we reeched the capital of the Province famóns forite Ste: Ampoule and for being the place where the Kings of France used to be anointed and crowned. There aguin we alighted and ordered the best dinner the Inn at which we stopped could ufford, for 1 have always remarked that at those places the worct taite is always the dearest. We weré soön suinuoned to sit injudgmént on the culinary skill of che Cook and on the contents of the cellar and to be sute both were sanctioned by the maniuer in which we went bin the trial. Here the teatures of ny fellow traveller 'began to relax yd his tongue to be loosed, for be lavoured me now and then not only with st tolerable benignametook, but also, when his jaw wereat 1 i berty", with a few words here and there, which cothinced me that he might, if he would, be a pleasant companion enough.

Our refreshment completed we continued our progress towards the soutith and nothing happening to stop us we safely reached pur eyening station, jat which we resolved to take a learty parting kiss, not on, but of the neck of the beautifully elongated neck ${ }^{\text {? }}$ of the bottle of the Country. The effect of that thit tedte a tetes was that conriviality ypas complete and reserve was entirely left behind when we resumed our seats in the carriage, resolved as we were to go op duriag the uight in order to reach paris early in the morn- ${ }^{+}$ ing , and in consequence he carefully primed his pistols and I tried bor easy mysmord could be drawn out of the scabbard. Thaink God howeyer thepp precaptiopaperefond uáless, for saving sone

Sew Cosl-burners and wooden shoe manufacturers whom we could from time to time see'moving about like shadows round a blazing fire in the woods, we met with no one to try either our courage or our weapnns.

It was then in this latter part of our journey that my travelling companion, after proper apologies for his apparent neglect of me in the former and having paid several fine compliments on the openess of my counte. nance, &c. &c. added that he dared to repose in me that degree of confidence which it would be imprudent in his situation to bestow on every one, and on my word of honour being given to him that I should not disclose any communications which he shouldthink proper to make to me, he continned thus: "You must know, Sir, that [ an the agent employed by the Duc de Choiseul, to carry on the communication be tween him and the British North American Colonies. I have made already many voyages across the Atlantic with the instructions and aums of money neces. sary to keep up the flame that he the Duc, has himself kindied, from the mounent that he found himself in a manner compelled to yield Canada to the English. Indeed he would perhaps have continued the late war for a few years longer had he not thought that the cession of the Erench possessions in North America wonld pave the way and facilitate his grand object in view, uamely, an absolute Secession between the Colonies and the Mother Countries." He entered then into further details of the Dur's plans and ways, and the greatest part of our conversation until our Gnal separation in Paris turned on that subject.

This happened in the month of November, 1774, mand my obligation to secrecy was for no longer a period than the result of the contest. Thus it is in a great-measure to the insidious policy of the Duc de Choiseul that we are indebted for the Freneh Revolution and its concomitant crinies and horrors.

> To be continued.

ON COLONIES.

Continued from page 94.

They were however soon amoke from that lethargic state by the unnatural rehellion of their neighbours. No sonner did they hear the sound of the drum than their patriotism and their loyalts, until then dormant, were rekindled. We find the tirst names in, the Colony amongst those, who made use of the litule, infuebce, then had left to induce their old tenants to arm themselve in defence of them new govelament, and then led them not only aganst the rebels but even apanst ther ownold Cguntrymen whosupported them. Forgetful of former ties, regafdiss of blood, connectous, of orinn, even of old friendship, they followed the bunvers of their new masters and many bled in their defence. There is evea no doubt that it was that remnant of influence which rendered abortive the miny attempts to corrupt the fidelity of the Canadians and make then swerve from their new allegiance.

But so soon as peace was made, and the independence of the revolted Colonies was acknowledged, the Cauadian free corps were ammediately disbanded, and their leaders left to return to their obscurity and nullity. Nothing, however, could extinguish that warlike spirit that had heen transmitted to them from gene irution to generation. The French revolution carried the torch of the war into the four quarters of the Gtobe, and it was necessary to provide for the security of this Colony. On a sudden a military acorps $n$ as raised by, and at the expense of the very same families so long neglected, At the head of this corps, profid of 'the name of Loyal Canadian Volunteers, which they had adopted, and which they were well determined to deserve and to support, we -fisu Longuel Rouville, Salaberra, and amongst the officers, the most respectable names in the country, such as the Duchesnays, the Rouvilles, Stertel Salaberrys, d'Estamauvilles, Lanaudieres, Bleury Dupiés, Bourhers and others. Unluckily that corps had un opportunty of sealing with blood their unshakeable loyalty.

We wish that we could remain silent on the fate of that corps, for the rising of which inany had sacrificed the litale they were possessed of. But it is ton well known that the news bad no sowner reached, this courstry, that peace had been concluded between England and the then French government, in the beginnius of thas century, than the Loyal Canadian Volunteers were ordered to lay down their arms, and their officers were dismissed without any indemnity whatever. Had this reductiontaken place from a priuciple of economy, nothing would have been thought of 11 ; but there is but too niuch reason to suppose that economy has not the motive of so sudden a reduction, particularly when we consider, that soldiers of the disbanded corps, were immediately incorporated into a new one, amongst whose officers, no Canadian names appeared.

One would have sppposed, that after such mishaps, the military order of the Canadian gentry, would have been quite damped, but no. Ted or eleven years after, our kind and nootest' néighbiatis, thinking that the ipportunity of wresting this Country front Eugland was favorable, declared war and attempted to take the Calladas, by a Coup de main. Here again we see the sabie'names and a great number move exgetily ehlisting under the Bath hihanners, and oorgs were agan raised, to meet the threatening foe;

Foung ond old, rich and poor, eagerly came forward to defend their King and Conntry, and hy their example and anf uence, they afforded to the unprepared Government, the means of reststing the invasion of the enemy, until the arrival of the necessary assastunce from the mother Country.

The Canadians have in this manner, repeated the most unquestionable proofs of ther loyalty, of ther attachment to the Constitution of the Empre, and of their desotedness to their King. These feelings are part of their very essence, and transmitted to them from generation to generation, and one may boldly assert, that they will pass as herrooms to their posterty. Here, however, a question arises, namely; how is it then that in spite of such loyal feelings, Government so often meets with ressistance and opposition? The solution of this apparent contradiction, is rather of a delicate nature. Let us try, however, to enter upon it; it may lead to the means of removiug the cause of that resistance and opposition, and of restoring that harmony, from which alone the prosperity of this Colony can proceed.

We have heard repeatedly, and especially during the American revolutionary, war, heavy complaints of a real or supposed infuence, which ruled behind the curtain his Majesty's Councils. The British Constitution has very wisely set a burrier against the abuse of the immense power necessarily vested in a single individual screened ayainst any responsibility, by invinlability, and by his being declared incapable of doing wrong. The whole of that respousibility rests on the ostensible and uell known advisers of the Croun, unnely on the ministers. So much the worse tor them if they suffer their master or themselves to be led into improper measures by advisers neither known or acknowledged as such. Here therefore, the danger of inviolabilityicannot be very great, but suppose now that there be no real advisers either hnown or aeknowledged as such, on whom shall fall the public vengeance in case of palpable transgressions, certainly not on that Chief Mgistrate whom you have pronounced inviolable. In that case: $11-$ fluence is dangerous, and the least evil that it can produce, must be a kind of uneasy sensation in the mund of those who suffer from it. There follows of course, a certain distrust, which makes the governed watch with a jealous eye, all the measures of Governmeat, and leads to resistance and opposition.

Bat, will it be asked; what is the ground of suspicion that such an influence exists in this Country? If that which has been said before be not a sufficient unswer to the question, we shall be ready at any time and when required, to state more particularly those groands. Our intention does not go farther for the present, than to account for that want of harmony between the seyeral oranches of the Leyislature, and for that kind of resistance and opposition which government too often meets on the part of the popular branch.
C. D. I.

To be cuntinued.

the stati of agricilerlreit the lo.ver phovince, CONSIDERED. WITHA TEW TOTHE RECOMMENDATION OF a better System.

Continucd from page 92.
Ton this chif cause of the exhausted state of the lands, may we bot add, that, durng the above period, a great proportion of the argil, aceous or clayey paris, of the soll, has been washed off by the rans? A certans proportion of clay is also absolutely requisite. to form solls of a he firot quality; bet clay is beld in partial aolution by water, whist sand, the other constluent of the soils, ia not, and, in the long course of two hundred years, a great proportion of the clage of the culivated uplands, must have been ta. ken up, and carried off by the rams; and this is a second fause of theirgradual deterioration.

In the lower parts of the Parish of St. Foy's wheat is, fon some Seasons,) produced in three to four tumes more quantuty than on the lands above, in that P'amhh, tho' both should be equally well smanured. The lands aboze bearing a greater proportion of sand, the rains afe not well retaned by them, but paes thos. It is not so with well chayed lands: clay is known to retam moisture, and to absorth it from the at mosphere, in migh double the proportion that sand does, as has been proved by the very accurate. and fine experiment of Profissor Leshe. And it is contirmed by the supenor yeld of all lands, having a sufficient proportion of clay in thercomposition, and it has been proved, according to an experienced French Chemst, that the best proportions of a fertile earth for corn, are three eights of clay, two elghts of sand, aud three eights of the fragments of hard stone.

These, then, appear to be the leading causes of the lands of the Province having fallen off so greatly from their ongiual powers of production, and became defective of those they might be made to attain.

First, the wearing them out by continual corn crops without being sufficiently manured by the past and present practice of leaving them en friche.

Secondly, by a deficiency in extirpating the weeds from the fandn, and, un not sowing that quantity of soed wheh, were they properly nourished these lands would bring to maturity.

Thirdly, either an original defect exists in regard to the due proportion of clay in the lands below Quebec, and about twenty leagues atrove it. This deficiency has grown, by the best of the enl being washed away by the rains, at least off the highest lauds. It is of uo consequence, which of hese causes occasiony thes deticiency ; it is clear that it exists, and any mode that could the devised for restoring this important ingredient ot the best somb, hould panden a very important seryice to most of this P'ravince.

Respectur the first caus"; it seems surprising that altho the marhts of the I'rovince, must have for some years past afforded a acmad for more cattle, that the most abundant methon of prodiacmy food for them, by taking crops of autritious poots fiom tie lands, mstead of layng them en friche, have not heen long generally practined. Whather, 13 order to bring agricuiture to this desmable state, it will be adviseable in this Province, for its Legislature to favour it, by mponing a light duty on fom reizn cattle, as is now done in a aister Province, it is for the wiso dom of this Legistature to determine. Certang hawe jer, I believe it in the, that were'one etrhth of the lands now en friche, to be onw with potatne rrops, elover or turmps, they would produce double or treble nufficit cattle to supply the town markets, and gwe thereby asreat overplus for exportation. And that the ensumig corn cropa, on those lands, would be aigh doubled, we have, I thast as grod renson to believe, would ensue in this Prowire, as it is stated above to have done since the practice of mon dern agriculture has' been introduced into Scotland. It may indeed be (inc. s: of a aeneral mintroduction of ront and green a rops by rotation,) tiat a diffcultw would at tirst arise, in getting sufficient manure; but, this diffcult!, would be diminishing،every searon, and the, moreasing number of fat cabtle, and the vast addinond yreld of rich manures, the natural effects of this mode of agriculture would probabli remove it in a few seasous. It is also to be observed, that the present modes of preparing compost heaps, by converting mert vegetable substances, into good manure, thas, it is said, enabled the nodern farmer to multiplyazos mauare four or tive fold.

The subject of manures, having linwever, been treated ind a very full and able manner in the celebrated letters of Agricola, lately written in Halifax, and about to be priated in one or more Vols. I shall at present offer but hitle more on that head.

To be continued.

TIIE FOCR BALES OF CROCULES INDICUS :

We are happy to find, that the four Bales of croculus indicun mentoned in one oftous late numbers, are not for the use of the merchant to whony they were dieected, and we are in hope, that on therr havog been put op at public sate, they will have been bought for re-exportation; satisfied that we are, that wealth acquired by honest industry shall never be contaminated by an increase obtanued at the expense of the health and perhaps of the life of fellow creat ures; by administering to them poison under the allpuments of a wholesome and pleasant beverage. -Our worthy magintiates ate walled! and will certamly not fail to prevent, if , ossible, or to. bring to Justice, a public nuisabce of that nature!

To the Editor of the Enquires.

Sir,
If you think the following worthy a place in your ifferesting publication, I slall be happy to see it in your next.

In contemplating the history of nations, we nud that though they differ in their manners, and pursuits, yet in an aversion to slavery, and a desire of liberty, they all agreed. To detend their ternitories from the incu:sions of enemies, and themsel ves submitting to any fortign o" weightoomang yoke, was then proncipal de. sire, To be free they were ready to endure the greatext maseries; for liberty they were willing to dis, The love of hority must thesefore be avinuerent principle in man, which aeither unpropitinusness of climate, or the mistries of poverty are able tu erase. lu the cold regions of the North it buins with as anuch heat, as in the warm climates of the torrid zone. On points of rehgion, in inatters of public importance, men ofteu vary, and in their likes and dislikes there is much difference; but, in their prefermy poverty and hberty, to riches and dependance, there can he but few-disseuting voices. Venal mderd must the mind of that man be, who apould not rather endure privations, and be his own master, than 10 "fare sumptunusly every day," asd be subject to the.will, and caprice of another.

Such were some of any thoughts, as I lately retrospected the past occurrences of my life; a life often chequered by misfortunes; but during the whole course of which, (my boson glowe at the thoughts) I never stopped to obta:n tyyour from the wealthy. or courted the company of the great. I have ever thought, that hauds und feet, were given to man, to enable him to procure his subsistence, and that while he had thew, he had no occasion to be dependaut on the bounty of another.

1 Remain, Sir $_{\boldsymbol{z}}$ Yours truly, A. $Z$.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ENQUIRER,

gir
In no way whateyer cap fenius have a better chance of displaying itself than in the management of political affairs, how seidom however, do we see uncommon abilities, (though no doubt there are such ) exercised by those who guide the holm of administration, how seldom do we see fin the present age) nen of strictly naimpeached integriry; possessed of power. In surveyng *ith an impartial eyp, the republics of the present day we shall I think be convinced of this gbservation, but, withopt taking such pinextensive range let us be content with consudering our own litile constitution. Degraded Liberty raises in our breasts emoflops of unfergned regret, on perceiving that even this country

That leans on geuerous Britum for support is partly governed by anen, guided by selish pruciples, even here we see the man who is recommended by interest and power, conduct limseif in the most ostentatioush and unsermily manner towards thooe whom he deems his inferiors, supportcd in his sprotigate expenditure, by what should be the mamenance of , mernt, even here we spe the man who couldact with applause, in a situation, superior to that in a hich he now is placed, kept down and domineered over by the nemal slaves of command. In vain are abilties exibited, in van are tatents displayed, before the eyes of raling power, if nut tracked, if not su:purted by futerest. Op the man although "communa sensn plane caret". if introdused us the finend of such an one, is tathe., by the hand, and promoted to attluence, All this efficted bi; u ell timed flattery, a little servility. Actual obserration for many geass ( 14 whach I have been no small traveller) has couvisced me, that such is the manner jo which the man assisted by muterest bas been exalted over those more deserving thar: himeaf. Fai be it for me to observe, much less to thusk, ti.n $t$ is is the general prociple of goveraments. No: by experierit I know the contrary. That, it is so in someiastitutions aud not of $i$, ohers s too obvinus to need any explanation. The limits of your paper Mr. Editur will not permit taeat. preseut to say any thins more. If you think this worthy of materion, I way at come future period trouble gou with a continuation.

AMICUS MERITI.

FOR THE ENQULRER.

The dull lad, too tall for school. With travel finishes the fonl; Studions of every coxcomt's airs, He drulis, ganies, dresses, w—s and sweara.

Gay's Fablez.

While an Englishman preserves thase characteristics of bluntness and sincerity whaciratare has heptowed upon ham, he continues a very resiectable belng ; but whea he suffers Fiench grimace sud Itahan diemmacy to ejpet they less showy, yet more substancual endon mento, he qearmes, qu phject traly contenptible. Absitum of heti is very properily ateaded by a grod plunb puddios and a tankard of parser. And we sis down to the feart nidhe hearts sppetite; but, secye ap the sume dish witha fricas-mady to kutk the Cook wad damand he dianer.

diad not wequire the greater part of his wealth 'till his son Tiony had atmont attained the age of manhood; his papa wus resolved, however, to unve d'gentleman of him; and at the uge of twentyone sent him to learn daneingrand the graces, under the tuition of Mr. Wall Dup Vals A.Swise footinan thught him to murder a few Freuch phraies ; and thus equipt, he set out upon his trayele.

The pohitesse of the French has complimented every Englishman' with the titie of My Lord 3 who tacitly submits to their impovitions, and squanders awdy his money with unmeuning profusion;"a title which Tony sooniobtained; for he was never backwerd at creating ariot, in onder to be bullied out of his cash ;or colleeting mob in the street, by throwing money out of the window, to icontirn the canaillo initheir opinion of my Lord Tonbelly's ạtuence.

Though young Tony might bave made a very respectable carcasebibutcher, or' have become as: good an orator as most of those who figurensay at Couchmakers Hull, yet Paris was by no means the meridian calculated for his talents.

Dress being an indispensible appendage to a man of iortune, Tony'was delivered over to the maniagement of a Frensh Taylor, whozonn bedizened him with lace;' and equipped him inatbe extremet of the anode. To have a just idea of our traveller, the reader'may"i magine a fine brawny young fellow, fatter than many mn ox his father had sold in Smithfield, with his toes turned in, his ohoplders parrallel to his ears, lisi cheeks hanging down with fint, his eyes sunk into his head, tis double chin like Sir Fletcher Norton's, his head bare trized and graced by a queüe, resembling a horn's tail cased for fetar of the dirt : while a dimunitive skeleton of a taylor stood before him, declaring that my Lord Tonbelly, was a majetic figure, and that he had all the air of a man of qualitee, only that his tail was much too leetle.

Having seen all the wonderful sights at Pariz, the Boulevards, the Thuillieries, slept an evening at the Theaitis, because he did not underatand the language; picked up a demi rib; and got himself pretty handsomely fileteced, he thought himself sufficiently nequainted with Paris, and therefore proceeded in the course of bis tour to visit Rome;

Wealth can alyaya procure friends ; and Tony was not wanting in having 'recommendations;' and when he arrived at Rome, he thon got himself into the best of company, a circumatance not dificult in that capital for any foreigier that cuts a figure; trafellerentherej trit being regularty, presented by ambossidoris, and the Pope nothavinity the etiquette of other Princes. $\cdot$ Tony was one night at the Conversationie of the Priace Berghr:cal when he
 His Highness's sister, mud one of the finest women in Italy.-The moment he beheld her, Cupid pleyed him a scurvs trick; and =

IIudibfas expresues it,
"Ilie poor soul
Was burnt in has belly to a coal."

- He neiver had an opportunity of making a declaration, but hav. ing judged from the assertion of our Trumel-mongers, that the fas dies in Italy are as common ason:'the' Republic of Plato, or da' least easily conquered by cash, he grounded his hispes öd his porneg and ciose for the confident of his' therigue orfe AbberBeitolle, ${ }^{\text {an }}$ nototions attorney of Venus. THe Arbibe perceiving his clientest stupidity, resolved te turn it to bris own profit, and encouraged him in his goldedt dream. He pretended fo curry some of Tony's letters to the Princess, tand Brought counterieit answers; 'taliós' cure to be well paid for every tipistle. Whenthe thought the correjo pondende was tipe enough to bring forth the expected friitz he' prodicied a letter which contuined froposals from the Princend; to crowi Tony's wishes on the immediate disbursement of five hua. dred guineas.
The demanis was readily complied with by the aspiting lotery: and at uil appointed hours he was conducted to a very famone impure, who, on account of her striking personal resemblance of the Princess Mattie, had asoumed 'herivme: The likeness, the' elegance of the appartments where he was received, and; the'bethas viour of the lladr, all tended to coinptete the lover's delasionir '$o: well did she act her part, that hie fancyi was all night wrabt tupati: the height of happiness '; though I Xxion fike, for a Juno he einibim: ced a cloùd;'a few days after, honever, feeling zomethitig' thint smarted more than the shaft of Cupid! he repaired to the Conivetw satione 'where, assuming a'very'sindignaft countenance; his absardity went so far as to "express seletal dibrespecfeot hinta deinint: the Princess's character.-Being cafled 'to ' aii atcount, by 'sothick nobleman, he unfolded the diapal afory; butwas suon mode senwible of his miñtake.

The Abbe has, been condemned to be flogged through athenimin cipal streeta by ithe cominon executianer, and sent to the egilije for life. Tony was obliged to ask pardoa; and was then bouishad from Rome by his Holiness's,ondersa; and is nowl returned toinas. tertain his dear father with in eccount of his, wout, through Fishe rope.

> FOR THE ENQUIRER.

Sir,
Théreturn of Spring, whichis generally ascene of pleasureandjoy to others, will whenevernit retarns; returnto me with andincrease of vexation, from the peculiarsingulayitesofmy confounded wife ifor though she never travelled beyond Point Levi, Lorette, or Beanm port in her tife, she tras filled det head with as many rurai ideems as if she had been en minabitant of the metropolin of Great Britaitr or wadered the groves of Italy with Petrarch and his Lavia.

Every room in asy honse from the garret to the cellar beas textmony of her taste for the production of natuic; the leads, and the rails of the andons are cionded with pots, paur, segrtables and evergreens; the ha; hat of the hitchere as totally exciudell by s set of physic phials, set close together, and tilled with mum ; the dining-rom wiadows are so crons'd with laths and pack-threarl, that wereit aot for the hidaeg-beans, I shomald suppose uyself a a spunging-house; white every chanaey in the house is set out with bow-pots from Montreal marhet. Cpon my enquing for my best wig-box the oiller day, my dean rural wife told me, that she had sow a small sallad in it of mustard and cress, whirh would be eady in a lew days. Het pasina for the vegetable woild inso predommant, that not a broken ehamberpot torapes bemy fill d with some plant or othe; and at prenent she hav a Gitramum is full blow, wheh to sare expence, is stath in a close-stool pan; a My rtle in a butter firhia; an orange tret ua washag tub; a tuhp in a salt-box; and a yoons gosebery bush in a panchbowl. My bed room is so tilld with thowers, hatal am la my:aty. dread of being perfumed to death before mormmer ; beades I an daly threatened with indictunents for beng a wuisatuce to my nerghbours, as scarce a day passes without some pot or pan tamblugg on the beads of the passengers. I man obliged to carry a nosegay in my bosom as big as those Citlu khan used to wear "hen a professed Musaiom," becurse my nife says it is socourtitied, and has such a rural appearnace. aut I cau serobsly assert, that a very short wase ago, she was thown moto convibions at betug told that the cat had kittened on the pasley-bed which grea on the top shelf of the pantry.

In a word, sir, what with rural soneetes and rurul cotiversation, rural ormoments and rural nonsense ol one had or other, my paticne is fairly exhansted, and 1 am determused, unless a speed. reformation takes place, to turu the whole hitcheu-garden out of the house, send the parsley-ted into the dust-1ub, and pack up tar shrubberry in a hamper-or send my wite to-the reginas of $\lambda$ oin Scotia, where she may cultrate potatoes ath cabbage plants, and have full lensure to mimene and eafog her rural idea.

$$
\begin{aligned}
& 1 \text { an. Sir, } \\
& \text { lours, } \operatorname{se} \\
& \text { NoRURALIST. }
\end{aligned}
$$

[^0]
Ur: Editor,

I am an old widower, turried of sixty, and like many hundreds' about me, can still distioguish charns'in the fair, which I mm not willing yet totally ${ }^{2} \sigma$ relinquish. I ann rich, or at least was late-ly, whei I took a lititity to a lovely damsel of two-aud-twesty Lóve, prudence, and sincerity seemed to be engraved on ber cound tenance, and I thought myself happier than King David in the evening of his life. In compliance to her fond intreatien, my old Gothic dress was changed into one adapted to the moderin tante; and I could not help thinking, that I had cut off at least twenty years from the past roll of uny life. I accompamed my angel to all the visiting places, lived high, and seldom went to bed till the morning ; but, all on a sudden, the Gout las they tell mh confined ine at home, and brought me to repentance. To add to my misfortune, my sweet parther decamoed, taking with her all wy cash and my notes, and left me only the following biliet.
"As Spring and Winter cannot he united; so neither can youth and old age. I quit you to fly to the arms of youth, with whom I shall enjoy the fruits of your folly. Love is not to be purchased by money: old inen should take care of the latter, and give over all thoughts of the former; for, take this as a certain rule, a young girl may fatter atu old many but she can never love him. This is the last and best advice you ever will receive trom a woman of pleasure."

Let this be a useful admonition to others, as well as myself.

THE SUEETS OF CONGUGAL ENDEARMEATS.

Matrimony presupposes a state of unanimity ; bow then can mutual altercation expect any but a state bit discord :

Mr. and Mrs. Snappish are illustrations of this.: They came dow a to berakiast the otirer morning in perfect placidity, as if tioe \& "nplineuts that passed above saifos were to ensuretelicity below. " 1 ord," cries Mrs. Suappish, "this is odd tasted tea!" "Do you think so my lowe" replied the humand "perhuys your mouth is not in taste: pow to me it seears vély Endy ffravit: $d$," "Oh, exprable," rejoits the wife "ths quite masty." "Musky, yo mean," ansuered the husband "for in sare it is a perfect perfune, as to the smei.." "It stinks!" exc'aimed the lady. "Tis as swert as d tut," cries the husband. "Don't provoke me," says she. "Uon't put me in a pansion," says he. "Do youthreaten, sir: $!$ " retorted the lady "take that for yous the gentleman, dispatching the cream-pot at her bosongit at can be as spiteful as you, $\because$ shs s the woman, and slap goes a saucer! "We'll see that," cries the man, and dash goes the table. "Vile fellow!' raves the lady, rising and summing at the gentlemang. "Infamous puss," answers her swan, 'all at length they havë recourse to personal hoytilities, and farly fight it out, to the geat dignity of their own characters, and ententainment of their sero. vants.

Wie upon them?

A HYMN To vicis.

That daughter of inmortal Jove, Celestal Venus (Quren of lave Soft source of every pleasing woe, Which glads and pans the world beion.
Cuect troubler of the hmma: hatat $^{\prime}$
Each age, each sex, recemes thy dart;
Fects all the fierce comsumug fires, And melts in new unamed desires.

Touch'd by thy sacred powerful chams, The frogen breat of age grows warm '
The keen yet sweetly soothing pan,
Glides swiftly through each wey vell;
Whale love, and joy, and youth renew 'e', With vig'rous raptures fire the blood.

Thou steal'st into the virgirs brenst, A painful, soft, unusual guest!
Hence the mote languatge of her eye.
The glowng blush, the heaving syh.
The wish, by bashful fear restamid.
The pleasing hope by love maintan' ${ }^{\text {w }}{ }^{\text {P }}$
The thrilling pain, the lambent fire,
The sueetly new, yet check'd desire.
Then in the hern hosom glows,
For valour first from love arose:
love, the reward, and cause of strife,
Gave every human passion hie;
Ambithousf fevers this mandres.
And anger's fierce desthuctive fires:
Buds the warm beart with ficudship gion.
Or mielt un pity's sofer flow ;
In chains of boasted reason binds,
And rules at will impassoned muds.

[^0]:    - cre Ammals of Gallantry, Vol, C

