PATIENCE ENDED, ALLIES OCCUPY GERMAN AREAS TODAY

Ammon Davis, a Queen St. Jeweler, Is Victim of Daylight Hold-Up

PREMIER EXPLAINS REASON WHY ALLIES REJECT PROPOSALS

Payment by Loan Would Mean Mortgaging Future of Germany.

WHAT ALLIES MUST PAY

London, March 7.—Mr. Lloyd George in his speech announcing that the German proposals were not accepted, said: "We all deeply deplore having to come to this decision in the interest of the peace of the world and, despite the fact that our action is liable to a good deal of misapprehension by our own countries. We have made an effort to secure a better understanding and it is not for lack of effort and discussion that I have now to announce on behalf of the allies this failure to come to anything like an approximate understanding with Germany."

Explaining why the latest proposals of Dr. Simons were inadequate, Lloyd George said it was essential in the interest of the peace of the world that there should be a definite settlement of outstanding questions between the allies and Germany. Germany, the allies and neutrals urged it.

"That is an appeal to common sense," he continued. "It is perfectly true that the experts, falling to come to an agreement, made some suggestions about trying to agree for five years but that was not a plan which was adopted by any conference of statesmen. We wanted each of us to know where we stood."

The prime minister pointed out that Dr. Simons' acceptance of the Paris proposals for five years was apparent, not real. It was subject to conditions which might make it uncertain, which might terminate it in a few weeks. It was subject to the plebiscite in Upper Silesia.

If the plebiscite were adverse to Germany, she would be justified in saying, "Germany is deprived of territory." (Continued on Page 4, Column 5.)

CHASED FROM STORE, BANDIT'S OPEN FIRE AND ESCAPE IN AUTO

Ammon Davis Is Badly Cut About Head by Assaulters, But With Two Sons, He Pursues Robbers—Four Men Figure in Sensational Attempt at Daylight Robbery on Queen Street.

Depredations by armed bandits in Toronto were resumed yesterday about 5.15 p.m., when Ammon Davis, aged 52, of 17 Pinewood road, was held up in his jewelry store at 276 East Queen street, while scores of persons were passing the door. Filled by Mr. Davis' two sons and another clerk, who were in the rear of the store, in their attempt to secure loot, the gunmen beat a hasty retreat to a nearby lane where an auto with two other occupants awaited them. They made a clean getaway.

When the two gunmen entered Mr. Davis was replying some jewelry. When he looked up from his work he gazed into the muzzle of a revolver. "Back up there," he was ordered, the man with the weapon following him as he did so. Just as Davis reached his desk the man struck at his head with the butt of the revolver. Davis warded off the blow with his hand, but again the gunman struck, this time the butt of the weapon landed on Mr. Davis' head, inflicting a deep laceration. Although stunned by the force of the blow, the jeweler managed to keep on his feet and shouted lustily for help. Hearing his cries, his two sons and the other clerk ran to his assistance, one of them upsetting a chair in his hurry. As they pursued, shouting as they went, they were covered by the revolver in the bandit's hand, who still keeping them covered and ordering them not to move, he turned and fled. The two men ran into the street.

Bandits Pursued. Reaching into the drawer of his desk, Mr. Davis secured an unloaded revolver, and, accompanied by his sons, Horace and Victor, took up the pursuit, shouting as they emerged to the street to passers by to "stop those men." Several other persons took up the chase of the gunmen, who, because they had several minutes' start, managed to keep well ahead. They made their way to Stonecutters lane and ran south to their auto, in which two other men waited. As they jumped into the auto the one man who had the gun turned and fired point blank at the pursuers, although the bullet failed to find its mark. The auto then proceeded south on Stonecutters lane to Britain street and then took an easterly direction.

Among the pursuers were Plainclothesmen Ewing and McCready, and P. C. Montgomery, who, seeing a large crowd gathering hurried to the scene. The number of the auto in which the men made their escape was secured by a motorist who happened to be passing the vicinity, but upon investigation the police found that some mistake had been made in taking this. Cut in Head. After the excitement had subsided Mr. Davis for the first time realized that he had received a nasty cut on his head and he was taken to St. Michael's Hospital in a police car. There the wound was dressed and several stitches put in, and he was taken to his home.

The men were described by Mr. Davis as about 5 ft. 8 inches in height, clean shaven and wearing dark clothing and peak caps. From this description the police believe that they are the same who murdered L. C. Sabine in his drug store on Saturday night. The Davis jewelry store was held up about thirty years ago by the self-styled "Delton" imitators, whose exploits included the robbery of the Home Bank head office, then on Church street. The young desperadoes were caught and given long prison terms.

IRISH "PRESIDENT" ISSUES MANIFESTO

Declares Sinn Feinism Legitimate Application of Self-Determination.

Dublin, March 7.—Eamonn de Valera, Sinn Fein leader, issued his long-promised manifesto this evening through the Sinn Fein publicity department. The document is signed by de Valera and all the other members of the Dail Eireann, including Arthur Griffith and several men at present in jail. It takes the form of an address adopted at the Sinn Fein meeting of the Dail Eireann, to the representatives of foreign nations.

The document declares that "this is a legitimate application of the principle of national self-determination," and concludes in these terms: "We, the official spokesmen and the elected parliament of the Irish people, call upon mankind to witness that our people have been ready to welcome peace with England that has a just basis. No other basis of peace is possible. We have pledged ourselves and our people, faithful to the cause until death. Our representatives of sister nations cannot be insensitive to the issue."

WEDDED 14 WOMEN IN THREE MONTHS

Young Sailor Achieved a Record in War-Time Romance—Two on Same Day.

New York, March 7.—What appears to have been a record for war-time romances, in which fourteen young women of Atlantic coast cities became the wives of Harold Hammond, twenty years old, now serving a term in Portsmouth Naval Prison, for desertion from the navy, came to light yesterday, following actions brought by the first and second wives for divorce and annulment, respectively, before Supreme Court Justice Keough at White Plains.

The testimony which was heard by Justice Keough on February 28, reveals that Hammond, who had previously deserted from the army and was then in the navy, met, wooed and married twelve of the young women in the short space of three months. According to Julian V. Canabba, a lawyer, of 115 Broadway, Hammond married two of the women on the same day.

Mr. Canabba said Hammond comes of a good family, resident now at Bath Beach, and that the young bigamist only thought he was having "a lot of fun."

COST OF COMMERCE BOARD.

Ottawa, March 7.—(Canadian Press.) The board of commerce, from its inception to date, has cost the country the sum of $140,417, according to the information furnished by the government to J. E. Archambault (Chambipere) in the commons today.

GREENWOOD WOULD AGREE TO ABOLISHING OFFICE

London, March 7.—During the course of a debate on Ireland in the house of commons today, several independent irlandais suggested the complete ethniation of the chief secretary for Ireland and of Dublin Castle from the Irish administration, and the placing of all the crown forces, including the constabulary, under the sole command of the commander-in-chief in Ireland, so as to make clear the issue between the British crown and the Irish insurgents.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, the chief secretary for Ireland, admitted that the suggestion had made a great impression upon him, and he promised to recommend it to the consideration of the cabinet. The chief secretary added that he would willingly efface himself if by doing so it would mean the attainment of a higher standard of discipline in Ireland.

ALIED ULTIMATUM FORECLOSED AFTER TWO LONG SITTINGS OF CONFERENCE—DR. SIMONS PRESENTED ALTERNATIVE PLAN, WHICH WAS REJECTED—THE FRENCH ARMY WILL CONTRIBUTE BULK OF THE INVADING FORCES—BRITAIN RELIEVED.

London, March 7.—The negotiations over the German indemnity were broken today; action comes tomorrow with the march of British, French and Belgian forces into Germany and the occupation of a large section of the richest manufacturing country. Even now the allied troops are on the move, for a late Berlin despatch says that French troops who will occupy Dusseldorf have advanced to within six miles of that city. The allied ultimatum was foreclosed apparently with reluctance by the British prime minister. The French do not appear to be regretful, while the Germans left Lancaster House, where the conferences have been held, plainly depressed, to take their train for home tomorrow.

Two long sittings of the conference threatened the final break before Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Wilsong's telegram ordering the commanders at the front to execute the orders already given to them. Dr. Simons, the German foreign secretary, presented an alternate plan, whereby Germany agreed to pay the annuities for the first five years demanded in the Paris plan, and also the equivalent of the proposed twelve percent tax on exports, but clung to the conditions for the retention of Upper Silesia and world wide freedom of German trade.

Mr. Lloyd George, delivering judgment for the allies, said they deeply deplored the necessity of the decision. (Continued on Page 4, Column 5.)

LEMIEX PROPHECIES AN EARLY DISSOLUTION

Montreal, March 7.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, addressing the Montreal Women's Club today, alluded to present conditions at Ottawa and predicted that there would be a dissolution and election within the next six months. Mr. Lemieux discussed the complete part taken by the early French colonists in exploring the continent of North America and pointed out that Chicago, St. Paul, Detroit, Fort Du Lac, New Orleans and others owed their being to the French.

PETROGRAD SCENE OF BIG GUN DUEL

Kronstadt Is Bombarding the Capital and Receiving Fire From Other Forts. Helsingfors, March 7.—(Bulletin.)—The revolutionaries are bombarding Petrograd, and Soviet batteries at Spasski, Revonnena and Tarbovka are bombarding Kronstadt, says a despatch from Viborg received here. The fortress at Krasnoya Gorko, the despatch adds, is participating in the fight, but owing to the fog, it is not known on which side. It is stated that General Kozlovski, the rebel leader, sent an ultimatum Friday, ordering all Communists to leave Petrograd within three days, failing which the city would be bombarded. All classes of citizens at Kronstadt have united in the uprising against the Soviet government, says a despatch to the Russian Union agency here. Organization of a revolutionary committee, which later became the provisional government, was carried out without participation of political parties, and its members were chosen almost exclusively from seamen and workmen having no political affiliations. The provisional government has published a program, the agency announces, the essence of which is a demand for immediate convention of a constituent assembly, and the restoration of freedom of trade between individuals.

PEOPLE WILL DECIDE QUESTION OF RAISING CIVIC RULERS' PAY

Alderman Baker Fears Boost Would Foster Professional Politicians.

MANY FAVOR INCREASE

The ratepayers will be asked next January to approve or disapprove of salary increases for controllers and aldermen, the controllers to $5,000 and the aldermen to $1,200.

Council yesterday, on motion of Ald. Burgess, decided to send the proposal on to the people for a verdict.

Ald. Burgess said aldermen were not being paid a salary commensurate with their services. In fact, if the people would not consent to an increase to $1,200 he would move next year, if given the opportunity, to cancel the $800 salary now paid. He would rather have the honor of serving the city for nothing than to have it assumed that $300 paid him for his services. Montreal, he said, paid its aldermen $1,500 a year, and Winnipeg $1,200. Montreal paid its commissioners $10,000 each and the chairman of the board $12,000. It would be necessary, he said, to get legislation to increase the controllers' salaries, given with the consent of the ratepayers, but in regard to aldermen, it would be merely necessary to get the consent of the ratepayers.

Ald. Singe: "I do not oppose sending the question to the people, but would rather vote to eliminate salaries altogether."

Dr. Ryding seconded Ald. Burgess' motion.

Ald. Ryding was in favor of voting for a smaller council board.

OFFICIALS DISREGARD VOTE OF THE PEOPLE

City Council Discovers No Effort Has Been Made to Get Legislation Authorizing Laying of Mains as Local Improvements—Commissioner Harris Has Another Scheme.

The city council made the discovery yesterday that no move was being made to carrying out the wishes of the people as expressed at the polls last January with regard to the laying of water mains on the local improvement system, and also that the time had now passed for making a move that would be effective this year.

It had apparently been assumed that the people having given their approval, the city solicitor and the works commissioner would arrange to get the required legislation and consequently there was considerable surprise when the solicitor got up and told council that the referendum sent to the people was indefinite and Commissioner Harris announced that he was against the innovation in any case. The commissioner much preferred to pay for mains out of waterworks surplus instead of using this surplus to reduce the tax rate.

The discussion was raised by Controller Gibbons, who asked for an explanation of a recommendation in the works committee's report that certain water mains be laid on a satisfactory bond being signed by the parties desiring the water.

Gibbons Inquisitive. Con. Gibbons wanted to know what had become of the proposal to lay water mains of the local improvement system.

Ald. Honeyford said that Commissioner Harris had raised certain objections to putting the local improvement system.

WHAT COUNCIL DID

Held up, pending a conference with employers and employees, the recommendation of the board of control that a clause be put in all civic contracts providing for a minimum wage of 60 cents an hour.

Decided to ask the ratepayers next January to approve of salary increases for aldermen to $1,200 and for controllers to $5,000.

Authorized the mayor to bring daylight time into effect between May 15 and September 15.

Concurred in the report of the officials against building car lines on the local improvement basis.

Instructed the city solicitor to apply at once for legislation to authorize the laying of water mains on the local improvement system.

CANADIAN GOLD WILL PAY OFF BOND ISSUE.

New York, March 7.—The Canadian government will pay off the $25,000,000 bonds that mature here on April 1, it was officially stated here today.

Canada has rather large balances here at the present time, but paying off of this maturity will involve shipment of a certain amount of Canadian gold to New York. It is estimated that about $10,000,000 in gold will be sent.

GREEK RAILWAY LINES TIED UP BY STRIKE

Athens, March 7.—All railway communication in Greece is suspended today as a result of the strike affecting every line in the country. The men are demanding increased wages and shorter hours.

$25 PRIZE FOR YOUR THUMB-PRINT

Tomorrow morning The World will publish an engraving of Miss Dean's thumb-print and you will be told how to take an impression in the space allotted, next to Miss Dean's. The answers will be referred to one of the local thumb-print experts, who will decide the winner.

To the one sending the nearest print to Miss Dean's, The World will award a prize of $25.00. Other prizes will also be given to the next nine, and these will be announced in tomorrow morning's World.

The contest will remain open during the presentation of the photoplay "Outside the Law," which starts at the Regent Theatre next Monday, with Priscilla Dean in the leading role.

NEGOTIATIONS BROKEN OFF; ALLIED ARMIES WILL MARCH INTO GERMAN AREAS TODAY

Area to Be Occupied Is Industrial Centre

The scene of the proposed allied occupation in Germany, which was set to commence at daybreak Tuesday, is on the River Rhine, in the heart of the great industrial region of the Ruhr valley, with Essen, the city of steel and munitions, its centre.

The three cities announced for occupation are Dusseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort, lying along the Rhine, commercial ports into which flow the vast traffic of the Ruhr iron region. These cities adjoin the British zone of occupation at Cologne. The American zone is at Coblenz, 75 miles farther south, and the French zone at Mayence, another 75 miles.

As all three cities are on the Rhine, the proposed occupation does not involve marching inland beyond the Rhine, except in the immediate vicinity of the occupied cities.

GERMANY WILL MAKE APPEAL TO LEAGUE AGAINST SANCTIONS

Simons Claims That While Not a Member She Signed Pact of League.

London, March 7.—Germany will appeal to the League of Nations against the action of the allies in imposing penalties for non-fulfillment of her reparations obligations.

Dr. Simons, in his reply to Mr. Lloyd George said: "Germany is not a member of the league, but she has signed the pact of the league, and I, therefore announce in the name of the German government, an appeal to the assembly of the League of Nations against the sanctions with which we are menaced."

Dr. Simons had reference to article 17 of the league pact which provides that in the event of a dispute between a member of the league and a state which is not a member of the league, the arbitration procedure of article 15 applies.

Dr. Simons regretted that the German proposals had been misconstrued.

"For us, just as for you," he said, "the disadvantage of a provisional settlement is beyond doubt. But we have taken refuge in such a provisional settlement, under the pressure of circumstances."

TROTZKY IN COMMAND.

Stockholm, March 7.—Trotzky, the Soviet war minister, is in command of the Soviet forces fighting the revolutionaries around Petrograd, according to a message from Helsingfors. The general bombardment continues. Big gun fire is heard at Torkeli, some miles to the north of Petrograd.

RESUME LOGGING.

Vancouver, B. C., March 7.—Resumption of many logging camps which have been closed since Nov. 30, relieving the city of a large proportion of its unemployment problems, has been announced. It is said that four thousand men will be given work.

COSTLY PERFORATORS AREN'T NEEDED NOW

Ottawa, March 7.—(Can. Press.)—Metal perforators numbering 49,965 and costing the government a total of $77,695.75, were issued by the department of customs and inland revenue in connection with the collection of the luxury tax which came into effect May 19 last, and was re-issued on December 20. The perforators were purchased by tender, and as they were only loaned to retail merchants, collectors have been instructed to recall them.

Our Municipal Car Lines and the Commission.

The special act of a year ago creating the transportation commission provides that the city council may hand over the present municipal car lines to that board at any time. As the commission is now functioning and has a big staff, would it not be advisable to at once turn these lines over to them to operate?

The intervening months between now and the taking over of the Toronto Street Railway would at least give the commission some experience in actual operation. It would also enable them to link lines up and make such extensions as to them may seem advisable; and would relieve Commissioner Harris of a department which is not quite in keeping with his other duties.

The clause in the act giving the city power to place the municipal car lines under the control of the commission is as follows:

The city council may, in its discretion, by bylaw entrust the construction, control, maintenance, operation and management of the municipal street railways of the city to a corporation controlled and operated by the said corporation at any time before the acquiring by the said corporation of the Toronto Railway Co. and thereafter, all the powers, rights, authorities and privileges of the said corporation as to construction, operation, control, maintenance and management of municipal street railways shall be exercised by the commission and not by the council of the said corporation.

The commission have just given out that their decision as to the gauge of the new consolidated system will be announced any day; also that inasmuch as they expect to have new street cars by the time of the transfer of the Toronto Railway to the city (Sept. 1), it will not necessarily have to take over the existing dangerous trailers now in use.

The World's advice is to put the commission in full charge and let them start to run the municipal lines. The gauge, start to build the Mount Pleasant line as an extension of the city's St. Clair line, and if the "Mackenzie clean-up" is signed up soon then hand over the three radial lines within the city limits to the commission to join up with the municipal lines: The Metropolitan with St. Clair and the Kingston road radial, with the Danforth and the Gerrard street lines.

Blanketing Mining Claims.

There is a good deal of agitation in the north country in regard to the present mining act, which permits of blanketing the country with the ownership of mining properties and leaving them undeveloped. There are many promising claims in Porcupine which have been standing practically dormant for upwards of ten years. During the war nothing could be said in favor of an attempt to reopen and develop these properties because of the impossible conditions then in force. It is not so now, however, and if these properties which bore the endorsement of mining engineers in the early days of the camp have any possibilities at all, some means should be taken to see that they are opened up in the interests of the country at large. This is no time to leave any undeveloped resources of the province lying idle. Any revision of the mining act which is contemplated at this season of the legislature might reasonably take cognizance of this position, and without injury to legitimate owners of mining claims penalties might be put in the act which will stimulate some of these now unworked claims into activity and production.

Railroad Financing.

The methods of financing by the American railways prior to the establishment of the interstate-commerce commission were so crude that inevitable bankruptcies must have been the result in nearly all the railways of the United States. The main and one idea of the promoters and directors of the railways was to build up as large an aggregation of bonds and capitalization as it was found possible to get the public to absorb. When things were booming large dividends were paid on the common stock and the shares were sold at high prices and readily disposed of through the stock market. At other times, when it was less easy to foment the common stocks on the easy mark investor, bonds were frequently sold at underwriters at prices well below the par value of the securities. These bonds were held and gradually placed in various investment channels. Recently an application was made to the interstate-commerce commission by the Chicago,

GERMANY: Will my bluff work? MARS: Over-time

Burlington and Quincy Railroad for permission to refund $109,000,000 in bonds which mature next July. The commission for the time being has refused to permit the refunding of this obligation, taking the ground, apparently, that the company during the lifetime of the bonds should have made some sinking fund preparation for their retirement.

This kind of supervision is the only check which stands in the way of continued overcapitalization of companies, which, in the beginning, necessitates unnecessary charges in the operation of a public utility and in the end means disaster to those who buy bonds and stocks of companies at a ratio out of all proportion to the assets behind the undertaking.

American and Canadian Lumber.

"Builder," an anonymous writer in a city paper, brings up the cost of homes to prospective buyers; and concludes that no further reductions in the prices of building material is to be expected; also that later in the year those who fall to buy now will have to pay higher prices! He may be right; but such evidence as is coming forward scarcely bears him out. The World is told by another builder that he is buying yellow pine at $48 a thousand, and that this compares with a price asked by local dealers of $54 a thousand for Canadian hemlock. Although Southern pine is not as suitable as hemlock, nevertheless a good deal of the cheaper material will be used unless the Canadian prices are brought down to meet the American lumberman.

It is unfortunate that at this moment when we ought to buy as little from the United States as possible, that lumber in competition with our own should have to come in in this way. Hemlock as late as 1915 was selling at less than $20 a thousand, and the present price even, which is $10 a thousand less than a year ago, seems still high compared with the old figures. It is certain that many articles in the United States have been cut out to a much greater extent than they have here. Our lumbermen may be trying the same play-as the paper men, thinking that they can hold out against inevitable competition; they may be left with stocks on hand while others are getting a remunerative market! Keep your own market, don't give it to your rivals from the outside.

TELETT NOT GIVEN LEAVE TO APPEAL

Home Secretary Will Review Fresh Evidence Since the Trial.

London, March 7.—(C. A. P.)—The court of criminal appeals, consisting of Justices Darling, Colidge and Shearman, today dismissed the application of Charles Telett, ex-convict of the original Third Canadian Battalion, for leave to appeal from the sentence of death passed upon him in February for the murder of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ada Jane Woodbine Askew.

The court held that in the prisoner's own interests it was infinitely more desirable that the home secretary should review the fresh evidence which has come to light since the trial.

CIVIC SALARY BOOSTS.

Editor World: Your reference is timely to matters being dealt with by board of control and committees of city council. There seems to be an effort to boost salaries of our city officials and to that end they seem to think that it is necessary to try and pacify the unskilled laborers by asking an advance for them, which is most mischievous and likely to paralyze the investor in Toronto building and land purchase. If common and unskilled labor is paid 50c as contemned by the board of control what can be expected from men who have served apprenticeship to learn a trade? This kind of legislation does not indicate any improvement or economy by the change in the personnel of the board of control, rather, the reverse, and I have no doubt the citizens will mark the men who are advocating these boosts in hope that they may profit by agitation to spend more money.

At the present time every one is expecting a return to nearly normal salaries for men already drawing large salaries in most unjustifiable and ill-desired. I have special reference to property and parks commissioners. I think it very improper that while the committee was considering this matter parks commissioner remained in the city. Probably he wants to know who are his boosters. If the board of control cannot feel the public sense and reverse what they are proposing, there must be a public indignation meeting called to awaken them.

The proposals to increase salaries to $1200 and controllers to $900 and mayor to $10,000 is preposterous. Formerly prominent business men in these positions for the honor of so doing; now from the greed of gain. This is enough to aggravate workers who do not get pensions.

AMERICAN IS FOUND GUILTY OF WOUNDING

Montreal, March 7.—Charged with shooting with intent to murder, Nicholas Smith, alias C. J. Mills, of Lynn, Mass., was today found guilty of wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm. His victim was his friend, John J. Carey. Carey was the principal witness and testified that he met Smith on October 12 last and that the latter had fired three shots at him without provocation, one of which shots entered his abdomen. The wound was serious enough to have caused death and Dr. Frank McNaughton thought the witness very fortunate to have one there. Accused claimed self-defence as his justification for shooting. Sentence will be given at the end of the King's bench term.

Rhyming Views On Daily News

By GEORGE H. DIXON.

"Now seven hundred thousand bones, altho' they awful dread,
"Is what they pay to have the fight of Dempsey-Carpenter."
This spoke some birds from Montreal to Richard yesterday,
When they were down in Old New York to try and get the light.

Now there's a thing to figure out the way the matter stands;
How is it that they'll pay to have a fight upon their hands?
It's funny when you come to think in this enlightened age that they will pay to have a scrap in their fair city rage.

Instead of dodging on the fray as we are wont to do,
Their realers say: "Come up, and we will pay you."

There is a reason for it tho', of that we're certain sure,
And you don't need to figure much, because it's not obscure.
They know Toronto and pure and can no evil do,
So they are staging wickedness that's so.

They know we don't allow the booze to hit our little town,
And so they try their level best to keep enough to drown.
They're simply flaunting it out face their wicked, wicked tricks,
And claim that we are nothing but a crowd of sissy blicks.

They know we wouldn't stand for fights—our town is also dry—
And so they mean to have one there the middle of July.
They've got the whole thing figured out;
Their plan is letting them know we KNOW WE'LL TAKE MORE "BUSINESS TRIPS" FROM HERE TO MONTREAL.

THE WORLD'S WEEKLY NOVEL

"We might have known you'd get here if you had to walk on your hands," cried Drew jubilantly. "Had to fight like the mischief to get them doctors to let me come," chortled Tyke, evidently delighted by the warmth of the greeting. "They told me I was just plumb crazy to think of it. But after Allen, here, left me last night I got so lonesome an' restless there was no holding me. Seemed like I'd go wild if I had to stay in that sick-bay while you fellows were sniffling the sea air. So I jest reared up on my hind legs, as you might say, as they had to let me come."

"And you got here just in the nick of time," said the captain. "Ten minutes more and we'd have been slipping down the board the way you are. Carefully supporting him on either side, for he found the unaccustomed crutches awkward, Captain Hamilton and Drew helped him on board the vessel and seated him comfortably in a deck chair.

Suddenly Tyke fell silent. Drew turned swiftly and saw that the old man was staring after bent brows at the mate of the schooner. "Who's that?" Tyke finally demanded.

"That's Ditty—my mate," said Captain Hamilton. "I told you he was no handsome dog, didn't I?"

"Ugh!" grunted Tyke, and said no more. Presently Mr. Parmalee came on deck and was introduced to Grimshaw and Drew.

Lester Parmalee was fully four inches taller than the trifle over six feet to which Drew owned, and his slender frame gave him an appearance of fragility. This impression was heightened by the cane on which he leaned and the lines in his face which bespoke delicate health. His complexion was pale, and seemed more pallid because of its contrast with a mass of coal black hair which overhung his rather high forehead. His nose, and mouth were good and his eyes dark and keenly intelligent. Some would have called him handsome. Others would have qualified this by the adjective romantic. All would have agreed that he was a gentleman.

The doctor bowed down to the lower bay, where she dismissed her tug, shook out her sails and the voyage was fairly begun. They had a merry breakfast, and with jest and compliment answered the time passed until the Scotland lightship was far astern and the Bertha Hamilton, with a following wind, speeding swiftly with all sail set to the southward.

The wind held fair for the rest of the day, and the schooner kept on at a spanking gait, reaching off the miles steadily. By nightfall the increasing warmth of the air showed how rapidly the south was drawing near.

The air was the least bit chilly, and this gave Drew an excuse for tucking Ruth cozily into the chair he had placed in a sheltered position behind the deckhouse. His fingers trembled as he drew the rugs and shawls around her. Ruth placed his own chair close beside Ruth's—as close as he dared. And they talked.

"There was something in the witchery of that moonlight night that seemed to remove certain restraints and reserves imposed by the cold light of day, and they spoke more freely of their lives and hopes and ambitions than would have been possible a few hours earlier.

"It was so earnest as he talked, so compelling, his eyes so glowed with fire and feeling, that Ruth, tho' thrilled, felt almost frightened at his intensity. She knew perfectly well what he meant, knew that he was wooing her with all his heart and soul. And the knowledge was sweet to her.

"It's getting late," she said, drawing herself up out of the warm nest that Drew had made for her, "and I think it really ought to go below."

Drew reluctantly gathered up her wraps, and with a last lingering look at the glory of the sea and sky, they went below.

It was not really necessary for him to take her hand as they parted for the night, but she knew perfectly well that he was holding her with all his heart and soul. And the knowledge was sweet to her.

"Good night, Ruth," he said softly. "Good night—Allen," she answered in a low voice.

His hand held hers for a moment, and then she vanished.

It was the happiest night that Drew had ever experienced.

CHAPTER VI.
The Green-Eyed Monster.

RUTH was more distracting than ever the next morning when she appeared, fresh and radiant, at the breakfast table. In some impalpable way she seemed to have withdrawn within herself. Perhaps she felt that she had let herself go too far in the glare of the moonlight.

Then, too, there was Parmalee. That young man fully recovered from his seasickness after the third day out and resumed his place in the life of the ship.

Ruth had been full of solicitude and attention during his illness, and when he again took his place at table, she expressed her pleasure with a warmth that Drew felt was unnecessary. His congratulations were much more formal.

Parmalee seemed to feel that he had appeared somewhat at a disadvantage in succumbing to the illness which the others had escaped, and the feeling put him on his mettle. He made special efforts to be genial and companionable, and his conversation spiced with jests and epigrams. He could talk well; and even Drew had to admit to himself grudgingly that the other young man was brilliant.

Ruth's ways and literature made a common ground on which she and Parmalee could meet with interest. He had brought along quite a number of volumes which he offered to lend to Ruth and to Drew.

Ruth thanked him prettily and accepted. Drew thanked him coolly and declined.

One thing especially was calculated to torture the jealous heart of a lover. Several times Drew observed Ruth talking to a peculiarly confidential talk. Their heads were close together and their voices low. They seemed to be

Hamilton's knee, and in a low voice, repeated what he had told Drew in the hospital about the one-eyed man being at the scene of the accident.

"And was it Ditty?" gasped Captain Hamilton.

"Surest thing you know. An' I don't believe I dreamed he went thru any pokiness. What was that for, when he didn't rob me of my watch?"

"I don't know what to make of it, and that's just what's troubling me. If I could only get to the bottom of it, I make short work of the mystery."

"How's your second officer, Rogers? Is he a man you can depend on?"

"He's true blue. A fine, straight fellow, the way of a sailor."

"That's good."

"I wonder what the matter is with Drew and Parmalee over there?" exclaimed the captain suddenly. "More trouble?"

"The tension between Parmalee and Drew had been slowly but steadily lightening. Little things, trifles in themselves, had increased it until they found it hard to be civil to each other. In the presence of Ruth and the two other men, they suppressed this feeling as much as possible, and except by Ruth it had been unexpressed.

The purest accident that afternoon had brought the matter to a crisis. Ruth was detained below by some duty she had on hand, and Drew was gazing the deck while Parmalee, leaning on his cane, was standing near the rail looking out to sea.

As Drew passed the other, the ship lurched and his foot accidentally struck the cane, which drew out of Parmalee's hand. Deprived of the support on which he relied, the latter staggered and almost lost his balance. He saved himself by clutching at the rail. Then he turned about with an angry exclamation.

Drew stooped instantly and picked up the cane, which he held out to Parmalee.

"I'm sorry," he said. "It was an awkward accident."

"Awkward, sure enough," sneered Parmalee. "As to its being an accident—" He paused suggestively.

Drew stepped nearer to him, his eyes blazing.

"What do you mean?" he asked. "Do you intimate that I did it purposely?"
