PRINCIPAL'S REPORT.

I have much pleasure in submitting the Fifth Annual Report of the Institution under my charge.

Its present prosperous condition is a matter of congratulation, and while shade and sunshine have marked its career during the past twelve months, it is a source of satisfaction to all concerned that the efforts which have been put forth to attain certain results have met with a reasonable degree of success. We have not been able to do all we could have desired. There is much that still lies before us unattained and unaccomplished. Perfection is not readily realized, yet we conscientiously believe that the officers of the Institution are faithfully endeavoring as far as lies in their power to carry out the important object for which the Institution was established.

ATTENDANCE.

The following has been the attendance :

22. Laura Blanche Blackeney,	8 Petitcodiac.

One boy, Frederick Coy, has been discharged on account of incapacity. Should his mind recover its proper tone and strength the Institution will again be open for his reception. Two of the old pupils, Sumner L. Jones, of St. John, and Isedore Ricker, of Turtle Creek, have been re-admitted for further instruction.

Fred. J. T. Boal, of Sussex, has been removed to assist his father in the Post Office for the present session, but will return next September to complete his education.

I made a short visit to Sussex, Petitcodiac, and points on the Albert & Hillsborough Railway a short time before Christmas to offer the advantages of the Institution to all the parents I could find possessing uneducated deaf mute children. The Rev. Canon Medley, who is interested in a little girl formerly living in his district, promised to look after her and see that she was sent to school.

I met one family in Petitcodiac having three deaf mute children, 5, 7 and 8 years of age, respectively. I mentioned the case to Mrs. Brough, a charitable lady in the village, who at once interested herself on their behalf and furnished the two eldest with sufficient clothing, and I was thus enabled to bring them back to school with me.

They are bright, pleasing children and their improved appearance already does credit to the comforts of a good home.

I also brought back two of my old pupils who were being detained at home, although their education was still unfinished.

I met with several others who are being got ready for school and our accommodation will soon be fully taxed to provide for all who are applying for admission.

HEALTH.

Soon after the opening of the session in September Diphtheria made its appearance among the pupils. My own children attend one of the public schools in the city, and the youngest on his return one day complained of feeling unwell. The next morning it was discovered that he was suffering from Diphtheria.

I had all the boys removed at once to our cottage below the orchard, which happened to be vacant at the time. I placed Mr. Barnaby in charge, sent their meals down to them and cut off all other communication.

We isolated the case as much as possible, but despite every effort several of the pupils were attacked and the house became changed into a hospital for six or seven weeks.

Nearly all the furniture was carried into the play ground and the different apartments of the building fumigated and disinfected again and again. When we thought these prompt measures had stamped it out another would complain and every new case was a fresh source of infection. Dr. Brown was most unremitting in his attention visiting us every day. He and his son, Dr. Frank Brown, were the only visitors we had. All were restored to health, not a single case proving fatal, and we were indeed thankful to the "Giver of every good" for the preservation of the lives of those little ones who had been entrusted to our charge.

The Institution has since been thoroughly renovated, every room in the house white washed, the halls, bedrooms and sitting rooms freshly papered, and every place made as clean as possible.

I have to record in this place the death of many of our friends and subscribers during the past twelve months.

Mr. Geo. A. Perley, who had held the office of Treasurer to the Institution since its commencement in 1882, died very suddenly in March, having caught cold in the course of his professional duties in connection with the election for the Dominion Parliament.

He was regular and prompt in his attendance at the meetings of committee and manifested a deep interest in the advancement of the Institution. His services were cheerfully rendered in aid of this and similar organizations in the city, and his death was a loss to the community at large.

Mr. W. Anderson, another member of our committee who always took an active interest in the affairs of the Institution, passed away during the early part of the year. A gentleman whose quiet unassuming ways gained him a large circle of friends, and a general feeling of regret prevailed all classes on his demise.

Prof. Lyford, of Waterville; Captain John Patten, of Bath; Mrs. S. A. Lambard, of Augusta; Mrs. Chas. Dummer, of Hallowell; Governor Bodwell, of Maine; ex-Mayor Holly, of Portland, and lately Mr. Owen Conolly, of Charlotetown, have deceased since our last Report was issued. These were warm friends of the Institution and had been subscribers to its funds for several years past.

While we have to regret the loss of several of our old friends, it is pleasant to report that others are taking a deeper interest in the affairs of the Institution. Many new names have been added to our list of subscribers. There is a more general feeling of sympathy and a readier inclination to help the cause, as the Institution and its objects have become more widely known.

The following note from the Hon. J. W. Bradbury, of Augusta, is an indication of this and speaks for itself:

AUGUSTA, MAINE,
January 3rd, 1888.

DEAR SIR:—I have just received your letter of Dec. 31st, requesting me to remit my subscription in aid of the Fredericton Institution for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb. You state it to be $1. I think it should be $10, and I enclose herewith a bill for $10. Will you be so kind as to let me know of its receipt?

Wishing you success in your philanthropic work,

I am very respectfully,

Yours, etc.,

JAMES W. BRADBURY.

INSTRUCTION.

No change has been made in our method of instruction. Our design is to give a fair English education, and if our pupils stayed with us for the full period of six years this might be accomplished with all intelligent children.

Several of them, however, are taken away for a time and then returned to school, and others are removed to learn a trade before their education is half completed.

Parents possessing deaf mute children should be desirous of securing for them every opportunity of learning, and should be willing to sacrifice any little advantage they may derive from the labor of their children at home. Nothing should be permitted to interfere with their education, and instead of shortening the term required by the Institution, they should be rather anxious to extend it and to keep their children at school as long as the advantages of the Institution are open to them.

The term of six years is the shortest possible time for effecting the object desired, in fact two years longer would be much better, and most of the Institutions in the States and elsewhere are asking for a ten years' continuous term at school before releasing their pupils to enter on the struggle of life.

Again, how slow some parents are to take advantage of the opportunities offered by the Institution for the instruction of their unfortunate children. Children coming to us at about 8 years of age have the best chance of becoming good scholars. It is easier for the teacher and easier for the child. They show more obedience to the rules of the house, are more tractable in every way, and gradually acquire good habits and a fund of information by association with their school fellows. Their memory is generally better. They are more apt to learn, and lessons are more easily mastered and retained than by those who are kept at home several years longer.

In the latter case their undeveloped minds become fixed in certain grooves. There is an apathy about many of them very difficult to overcome, lessons taught one day are forgotten the next, repetition and continual grounding follow, requiring an exercise of patience on the part of the teacher which few other occupations call for.

When a teacher has to put on the drag continually to keep his mind suited to the pace of stumbling and slow-going pupils, it becomes laborious and monotonous work, and if he has but a limited supply of Job's great virtue, he finds it discouraging enough.

How different it is when a teacher who takes a hearty interest in his work has a class of highly trained children before him, their sympathies in unison with his own, following him with intelligence as he leads them to "fresh fields and pastures new," and grasping with avidity the various ideas and phases of thought which run through his own brain almost before he has given them expression! Then teaching becomes a positive pleasure, and the teacher so situated need not envy any man his profession.

It is the duty of parents to look after their children's welfare, and when a special institution has been established amid considerable difficulty, with the sole object of providing an education for their children whom the ordinary schools cannot reach, it is certainly not expecting too much to ask them to take advantage of the institution at the earliest possible moment that their child is eligible for admission. Those parents who keep their deaf mute children at home after a certain age are actually doing them an injury which they may live to regret. Instead of wisely providing for their future by the means opened out to them, make excuses and say "They are too young," "We cannot spare them," "We have let them have their own way so much they would be homesick," and various trivial pleas of this kind.

Such children, if they get to school at all, are the most difficult to teach. They are often unmanageable, learn indifferently, careless in their habits, selfish and headstrong, and leave a bad impression on all who come into contact with them, both as children and as men.

The following brief explanation will give an idea of the teacher's work, and the length of time required to accomplish the object he has in view.

Children coming to us at first are entirely destitute of language. All they can do is to express a few wants by rude and unsystematic signs. The English language is unknown to them even in its simplest forms. They can neither read nor write it. Symbols of ideas, either written or printed, are meaningless, and suggest nothing to their minds. The easiest words, cat or dog for instance, written or spoken, represent nothing to them, but if you show them pictures of those animals, or represent them by signs indicative of their prominent characteristics, they will recognise them at once, and a smile of pleasure will show that the ideas are readily grasped.

The first few years at school are therefore properly spent in teaching them language. It is necessarily very slow work. After a few of the letters of the Alphabet are mastered, some common object is shown to the pupils, its name written down before them, and, by pointing to the object and its name at the same time, the two become so associated in the children's minds that one suggests the other.

All the objects in the room are taken up one after another, then pictures of other objects, then qualities of objects, afterwards words expressing actions, then their combination in grammatical order follow, and by patient, persistent, and faithful effort, the groundwork of the child's education is laid.

Communication is thus opened up and established between the teacher and his pupils. Lessons in geography, arithmetic, history, etc., may now follow with advantage, but the teacher should never permit these attractive subjects a monopoly of his time and attention.

A knowledge of language, facility in expression, and the ability to convey their ideas in conversation and social intercourse with others, should be esteemed as of paramount importance, and demanding the primary place in the attention of every conscientious instructor of the Deaf and Dumb.

It is a long and arduous task under the most favorable circumstances to give a deaf mute child an education, and every advantage should be gladly allowed to the teacher who is devoting his life to the work, that he may have the pleasure of so training and bringing forward his pupils that they may be a credit to him when they leave school and show good results for the labor bestowed upon them.

DIETARY.

Our children need plenty of good nourishing food, and we do not stint them in any way. Waste is condemned and avoided as far as possible. Good, plain, well-cooked and substantial food, suited to the needs of growing children, is supplied them in variety, according to the season.

We keep two or three cows, which furnish us with all the milk we use, but not all the butter. The bread, meat and groceries supplied from town are generally of the best quality.

Our farm produces nearly all the vegetables we need. Any excess is disposed of in the city. The following roots were raised last year, and are kept in a frost-proof cellar: 61 barrels of turnips, 46 of carrots, 42 of mangel wurtzel, 30 of potatoes, 6 of onions, 6 of beets, and 1 of parsnips, in addition to cabbages, celery, tomatoes, beans and squash.

This year we are short of potatoes, and shall have to purchase to make up the usual quantity consumed.

The improved and healthy appearance of the children, after they have been at school a short time, is evidence of the comforts of a good home.

THE PROPOSED NEW BUILDING.

The Province of New Brunswick has provided an excellent education for its hearing and speaking children, and is now recognizing the claim which its Deaf and Dumb population has upon it for equal privileges.

A Bill was passed at the last session of the Local Legislature to make provision for the erection of a building capable of accommodating fifty or sixty pupils.

The sum of $1000 a year was granted for the term of twelve years, to erect a suitable building of brick and stone. The Botsford estate, consisting of 117 acres, with a magnificent site, facing the road, and overlooking the St. John river, was purchased by savings from annual grants for general school purposes in previous years. I made drawings of a building which I thought would combine a pleasing and attractive exterior with convenience. It was desired to have a building which would be in keeping with the location designed for it, one that would be, to a certain extent, an ornament to the southern portion of the city, and yet have its space so arranged as to give the greatest facilities for the educational work we had in view. It was also desired in its construction not to go beyond the limit of the grant which had been made for this purpose.

These drawings were submitted in the first place to the committee, and afterwards to the Hon. Attorney General, and on their approval Mr. Clarke was authorized to draw up the plans and make specifications for the work. Tenders were advertised for, and Mr. Joshua Limerick was entrusted with the erection of the building for the sum of $10,400. A sub-committee consisting of His Honor Chief Justice Allen, Mr. Henry Chestnut, Mr. G. T. Whelpley, and myself, was then formed to obtain this amount on the security of the grant of $12,000 which had passed the House.

The banks were applied to, and afterwards private individuals in St. John and elsewhere, but on account of the length of time which the grant had to run, it was found impossible to raise the amount desired.

Under these circumstances the erection of the building has remained in abeyance. It is hoped, however, that the Government, seeing the position in which the committee has been placed, will, at the forthcoming session, make some arrangement which will enable the committee to proceed with the erection of the building next spring, and, if possible, save the expenditure of $2000 interest, or more, which it would have been necessary to pay to realize on the amount of grant bestowed.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Our thanks are due to those friends of the institution who have so liberally responded to our call for assistance during the past year. Had it not been for the pecuniary aid rendered by our subscribers it would have been impossible to have maintained the institution in its present state of efficiency. While there have been occasionally causes for despondency, kind wishes for its welfare, and hearty sympathy with the objects of the institution, have met us on all sides, and been a source of encouragement to us to take the words "Onward and Upward" for our motto, to press forward in the work, and to meet whatever difficulties might lie before us in the same spirit.

We have again to tender our sincere acknowledgments to Dr. Brown for his valuable services. The past year brought us a longer and more trying period of sickness than at any time during the institution's existence. Diphtheria is always a disease to dread, especially when it enters a public institution for children. The responsibility resting on the officers was far from light. Dr. Brown's services were in requisition every day for several weeks. His skill was happily successfully employed, and his patients gradually recovered their usual health.

Our thanks are also due to Mr. George H. Davis for free medicines, and to Dr. Torrens for professional services.

We have received numerous illustrated papers, the Maritime Farmer, Kansas Star, Deaf and Mute Voice, Annual Reports of other institutions engaged in similar work, &c., which are fully appreciated and gratefully acknowledged.

Mr. Hurley also merits our thanks for repairing the children's boots free of charge; Mr. H. C. Creed for parcel of books; Mrs. Shaw for a pair of blankets; Mrs. Medley for several parcels of underclothing; Miss Moffatt for a parcel of clothes; Messrs. Emerson & Fisher for a nice stove for the school room.

Christmas was spent very pleasantly at the institution, none of the children going home. The children had a Christmas Tree, and, unlike the fig tree of old, with nothing but leaves, it had an abundance of fruit, which made the hearts of our little ones rejoice. A week's holidays were allowed, which was devoted to various enjoyable games. The annual New Year's visit of our committee was made on Monday, Jan. 2nd, and was represented by the Rev. Mr. Roberts, Secretary; Rev. Mr. Dobson, and Mr. G. T. Whelpley. This was not a surprise party, but was none the less appreciated, as the expectations of our little ones were fully realized in the numerous parcels of confectionery and fruit which Chief Justice Allen and other members of the committee had so generously provided for them.

In closing this brief report I beg, on behalf of the Deaf Mutes of New Brunswick, to return sincere thanks to our Local Legislature for the grants made to this institution in the past, and trust there is still a brighter future before us. Increased funds mean an extension of the work, and increased usefulness.

It is our earnest desire to reach every deaf mute child of this Province, and if our Government, wisely recognizing the claims of this unfortunate class, will make provision in a true and liberal spirit for this object, it can be done.

I would ask in all earnestness what better investment could be made by the Government of any country than by passing measures for raising the social status of its people, and in this case by providing means to lift the clouds of darkness and ignorance which, until the end of the last century, universally prevailed over this neglected section of humanity.

Thanks to a wider sympathy and a broader spirit of philanthropy, measures were devised and efforts at last directed to their emancipation from this bitter and unworthy bondage, which, as we now plainly see, justly reflected upon the civilization of that age.

There are now about 370 institutions in England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Germany, Italy, Australia and other countries engaged in this work of emancipation.

Of this number Canada possesses six. Three of these are situated in Montreal, two of which are Roman Catholic, having separate institutions for boys and girls. The Mackay institution is for Protestant children, and was built a few years ago by Mr. Joseph Mackay, who made a bequest of $60,000 for this object. The largest and best appointed institution we have is the one at Belleville, Ontario, a splendid establishment, supported by the Province, and accommodating about 260 pupils at an annual cost of about $40,000.

The neighboring Republic can point with pride to their "National Deaf Mute College" at Washington, the only one yet established in any country, and also to sixty-nine institutions for children, possessing property valued at $7,000,000, their annual expenditure $1,600,000, and a constant attendance of nearly 7,000 pupils. Some 26,000 have already been educated, and upon statistics collected by these institutions among the parents, most of these pupils have done well in their various callings, become respectable members of society, and some have reached the pinnacle of fame in devoting their talents to a life of usefulness among those similarly afflicted to themselves.

Who can estimate the vast humanizing influence of this work? Who can calculate all the beneficent results which have followed its inception? Who can realize the feelings of those who have been largely restored to the use of their faculties, raised from a state of ignorance and degradation, and the means given them of communicating with the world around them? Has it been a useless expenditure of public funds? Are the lives of thousands of earnest and enthusiastic teachers who have given themselves to this object been thrown away? Could their energies be devoted to a better or nobler cause? I think not! To me it seems that while they are faithfully and earnestly fulfilling the mission to which they have been called, and which lies so near their heart, they are humbly following in the footsteps of our Blessed Lord "who maketh both the Deaf to hear and the Dumb to speak."

ALBERT F. WOODBRIDGE, Superintendent.

MEDICAL REPORT.

To the President and Directors of the Deaf and Dumb School, Fredericton :

GENTLEMEN,—

I beg respectfully to present this my Fifth Annual Report.

The early part of the year was attended with little sickness of any account.

Early in June one of the girls was attacked with a severe cold, from which she was quite ill for a few weeks, and not able to take her holidays with the other pupils.

About the first of September diphtheria broke out in the School and attacked successively five of the inmates, together with two children of the Principal. All the cases terminated in recovery. The epidemic lasted six weeks. During this time all the other inmates were removed to a cottage near by and there kept until all had recovered and the institution had been thoroughly fumigated with sulphur. After the fumigation the walls of every room were either newly papered or white-washed.

I cannot speak too highly of the Matron, Mrs. Woodbridge, in her care of the afflicted. The successful issue of all the cases being due, in a great part, to her untiring vigilance day and night.

The cause of the disease entering the school was not due to any defect in the sanitary condition of the institution, as we have every reason to believe it was carried there from outside.

This disease once having visited the school I hope will show your worthy body the necessity of having a Hospital Ward in the new building.

I cannot close this report without expressing my gratitude to Dr. Frank M. Brown for attending many cases for me when out of town, and at other times when not able to attend.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

T. CLOWES BROWN, M. D.,

Physician to Deaf and Dumb School, Fredericton.
