CLOTHING PRICES Official Says Retailers in States Doing Business at a Loss.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Retail clothing in the United States are doing business at a loss rather than doing their plants, he said, explaining the recent announcement of a 30-40 per cent reduction in prices by an eastern manufacturer. Two thousand $47.50 suits reported offered for sale at $16.50 at the meeting of the United States National Clothiers here this week probably were sold by a wholesaler who found it necessary to sacrifice the stock to raise immediate cash, Mr. Cresap suggested, as he knew of no other sixty per cent cut in prices.

As Hiram Sees It

"Well," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam to the Times reporter, "it's too bad we went into that League of Nations. I been reading the American papers lately an' I kin see where we orto 'ave staid out till the United States an' Mexico fixed things up right. Them fellers over in Europe don't know how to make a League. They rushed into that League of Nations an' he'll hev to pull 'em out o' that an' git 'em going right again. An' we hed no more sense than to go right into the war the minute it broke out—an' into the League of Nations as soon as the war was over. It's too bad. We know well enough that they ain't afraid to tell us what fools we be—yes, sir."

EXPULSION FOR HIS SPEECH ON IRISH AFFAIRS

President Mahon of League in Australia

London, Nov. 12.—(Canadian Ass'n Press)—President Mahon of the Australian Irish League has been expelled from the Australian house of representatives for a wild speech, describing the situation in Ireland as a "stagnation of murder, arson and plunder by a foreign army of re-occupation."

Speeches of Asquith and Lloyd George in the British Commons—Some Reports From Ireland—Clash in Belfast.

The motion to expel Mahon was made by Premier Hughes, who maintained that the speech was incompatible with the oath of allegiance. According to a cable to the Times, Mahon, who was elected as a labor member, had previously told Premier Hughes that he could go to the devil and the house could do what it liked.

London, Nov. 12.—In the home rule debate on third reading last night, when the bill was passed, 183 votes to 92, former premier Asquith appealed for advantage to be taken of the associations and emotions aroused by the anniversary of armistice day which could not be put to rest for the world that we got Mexico an' the United States to show us how the world orto be run—an' they ain't afraid to tell us what fools we be—yes, sir."

Lloyd George contended that the present bill was a generous measure, but the Irish people were not in a temper to give it proper understanding and consideration. He declared that documents to be published soon, found in the possession of Sinn Fein leaders in 1918, proving they were involved in a German plot, would show the necessity of England retaining complete control of Irish harbors.

To give Ireland the power to raise a conscript army, he said, would be a dangerous menace to Great Britain and he warned the laborites that with an army that had been in Ireland under full powers of dominion house rule, England would become inevitable.

The foreign office said there had been conversations with Great Britain on the subject, and that the British, who had been inclined to favor German membership in the league had now accepted the French viewpoint, allowing the matter to rest for the present.

In as much as Germany has not applied for league membership, it is considered unlikely they will be any effort with promise of success to get the assembly in Geneva to act favorably on the question of Germany's admission at this time.

The French hold that Germany must prove her intention to fulfill the terms of the peace treaty and live peacefully with her neighbors before seeking membership, and they contend there has not yet been time for them to become convinced regarding Germany's attitude along these lines.

HIS EXCELLENCY AN OPTIMIST

Governor-General, in Armistice Speech, Refers to Outlook in Canada.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—"I am still determined to label myself an optimist," said His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, Governor-General of Canada, in an address to the Empire Club here in connection with armistice day. "Though there may be anxious and disquieting symptoms," he continued, "there is no reason for panic and alarm."

The question of the country getting back to normal conditions was a difficult one, he admitted, but he expressed confidence that the new conditions would be dealt with in the same courageous spirit, with which the war was fought. The Governor-General made a plea for joint action by employers and employees in the adjustment of wages and salaries if curtailment of these became necessary. "We may have to face these things in the next two or three months," he observed.

HEALTHY BODY FIRST REQUISITE

The Reason for Gymnasium and Recreation Fields in Education Plan.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—Principal E. I. Resford of the National Association of Educational Institutions here today said that "a healthy body is the first requisite for a good mind."

Professor M. A. Hamilton of the University of Toronto said that "a healthy body, that is why we are building gymnasiums and recreation fields."

Washington, Nov. 12.—Prohibition officials say the Volstead Act has been construed to mean that the sale of hops as a component part of home-made beer was unlawful and must be stopped. Enforcement staffs throughout the United States have been so notified.

MAYOR'S APPEAL FOR CONSIDERATION OF RETURNED MEN

At the placing of the wreath on the bronze tablet erected in the post office by the Women's Canadian Club to the memory of the men of the New Brunswick units who went out to fight, Mayor Schofield spoke as follows: "It gives me great pleasure to acknowledge, as mayor of the city, and representing all the citizens, the kindly and thoughtful act of the Women's Canadian Club in presenting the wreath which now hangs on this tablet as a remembrance of Armistice Day, which carries with it many memories of the recent events, some of which will be remembered with a life long memory of the loss of some dear one from their midst, and to others, maimed, perhaps for life. "To all of these our hearts go out and must always go out, knowing as we do and as they doubtless must realize, those who gave their lives, and received their scars were fighting for a cause that must always be considered just. "I would, however, remind you that the war is not yet over, and while some two years have passed since our men had the opportunity of laying down their arms overseas, yet we at home who had the easy end of the burden, cannot yet afford to declare an armistice, because the debt we owe the dependents of those who gave their lives, and those who have been maimed has not yet been paid for, and it behooves us all to practice economy, increase production and work harder and longer than ever before to bring about the economy necessary to overtake the enormous expenditure caused by the carrying on of the war, and the incidents connected therewith. "Then I cannot help but bring to your attention the cases of men right in this city who have done their part overseas and returned well and fit in some cases and in others not entirely fit, but who are today out of employment, and thus deprived in some degree of the living that should be theirs. "In my position I daily come across these cases, many of them most worthy and deserving, and I ask you employers of labor to be good enough to enquire of my office at city hall if you ever have an opportunity to find a place for these men; otherwise the memory of this day will not be to them what we would have them think it. "I cannot refrain from again expressing my sincere thanks to this Canadian Club. It is only another thoughtful act on the part of the ladies, who labored so hard and well throughout the entire war in the interest of the soldiers at the front, and their dependents at home, and now that the war is over, so far as the fighting is concerned, take this means of making history, so that the children growing up may commemorate this occasion and hand it on to their descendants. "They again have my heartfelt thanks and through me I know they have yours.

"Let us hope this ceremony may be continued for years to come." Must Provide Work.

In concluding, Mayor Schofield made feeling reference to the unemployment which exists among returned soldiers in St. John at the present time. He declared that he could tell of cases of actual want in the city today and that if this unemployment was continued while he remained in authority he would assuredly see that something practical was done to relieve it. It was necessary to create work by building a memorial shop or factory, that means of preventing unemployment must be taken to suffer from lack of employment in the loyalist city of St. John.

Sweet Nut, the Original and Genuine

When buying Nut Margarine be very sure that you get the original and genuine SWEET NUT.

The name SWEET NUT on the well-known yellow and red oblong package guarantees you a product entirely free from animal fats and preservatives. It is freshly churned from Nuts and Milk and is indistinguishable in taste from  at almost double the price.

You can use it instead of  for every purpose, to spread on your bread, for table use, and for all forms of cooking, pastry making, frying, etc., where you would ordinarily use the best *****.

The law does not permit us to color it like  and it comes to you white, just like the coconut from which it is made, but a few drops of pure vegetable  color worked into it will give it the appearance of fresh churned June *****.

MARK TWAIN AN "IMMORTAL"
The report of the official canvass of ballots received from the electors of the Hall of Fame in the fifth quinquennial election was made public in New York the other day by the Senate of the University of the State of New York, disclosing that Mark Twain had been placed among the American "Immortals." In the absence of Dr. Robert Underwood Johnson, Ambassador to Italy, the election was in charge of Mrs. William Vanamee, as Acting Director. The names of 177 men were voted for the six following being chosen: Samuel Langhorne Clemens, James Buchanan Eads, Patrick Henry, William Thomas Green Morton, Augustus Saint-Gaudens and Roger Williams. Twenty-seven women were nominated, the successful candidate being Alice Freeman Palmer. Among those who received votes, but not enough to elect, were Noah Webster, Walt Whitman, Edward Everett Hale, John Brown, Henry M. Stanley, John Paul Jones, Philip Henry Sheridan, William Maxwell Evarts, Grover Cleveland, John Jay, William Penn, Edwin Booth, Joseph Jefferson, James A. MacNeil Whittier, Susan B. Anthony, Martha Washington and Pocahontas Rolfe. Louise May Alcott was an unsuccessful candidate as were Joel Chandler Harris, Cyrus Hall McCormick, John Ericson, John Hay, Theodore Thomas, Alice Cary and Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

THE COMING WINTER.

Federal, provincial and municipal authorities must face the fact that there is likely to be less employment during the coming winter in Canada than for some years past. We are facing the recession from high prices. There is less industrial activity at a time when what are termed seasonal activities such as building operations are at low ebb. There will not be nearly as many men at work in the lumber woods. There will be difficulty in finding work for all who seek it. From Vancouver east the warning has gone out to men not to rush to the cities, where numbers will merely aggravate the conditions. It would be wrong to say that times are likely to be very hard, but we must be prepared to face conditions making for hardship, and act accordingly. The reaction is natural, and there will be a gradual adjustment. Such hardship as befalls will most effect the very poor, as it always does, and it will therefore be necessary to provide as much employment as may be possible to tide over the dull season. There will undoubtedly be some veterans of the war among those seeking employment, and in these cases there is a very special reason why they should not seek in vain.

THE CASE OF HAYTI.

What is the United States doing in Hayti? Restoring order by killing a considerable number of the inhabitants. Armed forces of the United States invaded Hayti. Their purpose in thus invading the territory of another country was to restore order—so we are told. They went after the bandits—the bad men—and within a year have made 1,132 of them good men by the time-honored process of killing them. There were also killings prior to the intensive campaign which bagged 1,132 alleged bandits in the last year. One American officer believes as many natives were killed prior to October 1919, as since that date.

Hayti is not United States territory. It is a republic. It was invaded by its big neighbor. In other words, the Americans are not above meddling with the affairs of other people. That the U. S. marines have restored a semblance of order in Hayti is acknowledged. They could have made the island a huge graveyard if they were so disposed and enough of them had been sent for that purpose. Hayti could not fight the United States. When the American press attacks other countries for alleged meddling beyond their own borders, it must explain the Hayti invasion. Is it because they desire to be free to go on with their benevolent killings that some Americans object to going into the League of Nations? A bandit, in Hayti, is anyone who is opposed to the government of the day. Would the United States apply the same term to those who are opposed to the government in any country? What is the difference between international meddling on this side of the Atlantic and on the other?

AN URGENT PROBLEM.

Speaking in Augusta, Maine, last week, Secretary Bagley of the State Board of Charities and Corrections said: "No problem is of greater urgency than the extension of the facilities for the care of the feeble minded. For instance, I am advised by Dr. Vosburg, superintendent of the School for Feeble Minded in West Point, that he now has on his waiting list 101 applications of girls and young women. It is some problem to tell which of these cases must come in first. The principle upon which the trustees are working is primarily whether they are state charges, sex offenders or in surroundings which would lead them into difficulties which would be unfortunate. Repeatedly, the field agents of this department or various institutions superintendents and the courts report to us cases of anti-social conduct which can be clearly shown to be the result of feeble mindedness, and yet the state has no place or provision for them."

At the annual meeting last week of the Children's Aid Society of Kings County, Nova Scotia, the president, Rev. G. O. Miller, referred to the case of babies who at birth were mentally normal, but who through sheer neglect had become feeble-minded, and when discovered by the agent had to be removed to the poor house because there was no home into which they could be received. This created another evil by cramming the poor house with mentally deficient inmates, so that it was impossible to separate the normal from the abnormal. The president said he had approached the municipality urging improvement of the conditions, but nothing had been done. He also said "that the failure of the government to provide a home for feeble-minded children was inexplicable in the face of the rapidly accumulating evidence of the crying need for it."

Precisely similar conditions to those in Nova Scotia are found in New Brunswick, and are the despair of child-welfare workers. Maine has at least attempted to solve its problem, but here we have done nothing. When a feeble minded child is to be dealt with there is only the Municipal Home or the Provincial Hospital, and the latter could quickly be an obsession. Pleasure and vulgar display are put above duty, honor and self-respect. Freedom and stinks are looked upon as mere abstractions. Men are interested only in this world and only in the material gains and pleasure of this world. And following this devil's philosophy they fall into meanness and crime as naturally as a stone sinks in water."

Let us hope Dr. Eaton will ponder over this paragraph from the pen of his chief, and reflect upon the conditions existing in the United States as well as upon those in England. He must have observed since his article was written that the miners and the triple alliance in England have declared against revolution and that things are going on fairly well in that country. The "abyss of economic and social chaos" is still in the future in England as well as in the United States. Perhaps neither country is quite as bad as it is painted.

Premier Lloyd George announced yesterday that there would be a meeting of prime ministers of the Empire in June of next year. He added that the question of holding it at Ottawa had been under discussion. Canada would welcome such a conference with open arms.

The letter of shipping men who want the new railway bridge made as high as the highway bridge is printed in today's Times. It is worthy of careful attention.

TIME PASSES.

Full soon the billiards will be popping, and hanging snow wreaths on our brows, and we'll be asked to do our shopping as early as the law allows. It seems no time since bells were ringing proclaiming Christmas peace once more, that happy time when Dad was bringing a ton of Jim-cracks from the store. It seems no time since old Kris Kringle propelled his silver through the night; the echo of his sleighbells' jingle seems all around me as I write. And now we're facing Winter burly and soon each sheet at which I glance will say, "Please do your shopping early, and give the weary clerks a chance." No doubt the children think the seasons have much like snails or turtles raced; but we old lads have sundry reasons for cursing Time's indecent haste. A summer's gone before we know it, an autumn smiles and then it's through, and even a highly clinging, to ring in Christmas joy and cheer; and soon the old boy will be ringing some other bells—and we won't hear. The sky is gray, the wind is surly, more desolate the landscape grows, oh, let us do our shopping early, and give the sway-backed clerks repose.

Domestic Happenings of Other Days

UNDERHILL MURDER.

When Isaac Underhill, school teacher living near Cornwall, Ontario, was shot dead in a field by a party of United States infantry that had invaded Canada in 1899 in violation of the law of nations, the feeling of the men of Canada was raised to fever heat almost instantly. There was a great deal of friction appearing constantly between the two nations—a feeling that three years later was to break out in actual warfare. This violation of British territory was accompanied by circumstances of rare cruelty. Bennett, a captain of the 6th United States' Infantry, hearing that a deserter from his regiment was at Elizabethtown, near Cornwall, determined to arrest him, leaving Oswego in a schooner and accompanied by a sergeant and two privates, he landed at Underhill, the man in question, was engaged in teaching a small school. None but the children were present. The soldiers entered and, blinding the prisoner, forced him to walk out of the building, across the fields, pricking him with bayonets to lead him away. As the party approached a spot where some of the settlers could be seen Underhill attempted to escape; then he hurried back to the schooner and Captain Bennett, realizing the crime he had committed, at once entered a boat and fled across the border. The incident produced a great sensation in Upper Canada and the Canadians were foremost in bringing Bennett to trial by a court martial. In spite of his invasion of Canada and the killing of an unarmed and bound prisoner, he was released. His acquittal only added fuel to the bitter feeling produced everywhere by the act of the Americans.

BOY WINS POETRY PRIZE.

A prize offered for the best poem submitted by school pupils by the High School Poetry Society of New York has been awarded to Countie Portia, a negro boy pupil of the Witt Clinton School. The contest was held under the Women's Federations of Clubs. Pupils of twenty-six schools participated.

The boy's poem entitled, "I Have a Rendezvous with Life"—suggested by Alan Seegar's famous war poem—follows: "I have a rendezvous with Life In days I hope will come, Ere youth has sped and strength of Ere voices sweet grow dumb, I have a rendezvous with Life When Spring's first heralds hum."

It may be I shall greet her soon, Shall rot at her behest, It may be I shall see in vain The peace of her downy breast, Yet I would keep this rendezvous And deem all hardships sweet, If all the years of my life were, This Life and I shall meet. Sure some would cry it better far, To light my morning fire; Than face the road, the wind, the rain, To heed the calling deep. The yet nor blow nor space I fear, Yet fear I deeply too, Lest Death shall greet and claim me ere I keep Life's rendezvous."

IN LIGHTER VEIN.

But With a Difference. Mrs. Brown: "Reading is quite a passion with my husband." Mrs. Dresser: "So it is with mine—when he reads my milliner's bills!"

A Gaze to Feminine Age. Jack: "Our boss' secretary is not as young as she looks." Bob: "Why do you say that?" Jack: "The surest sign of age in a woman is wrinkled nose—Answers."

THE PERSISTENT ROBIN.

(Our Dumb Animals.) John Burroughs says, "If a robin makes up her mind to build upon your porch, and you make up your mind you don't want her there, she will build her nest where you have the rubbish of her nest half a dozen times." Well, here is what we saw this spring: A robin started to build a nest close by our window. The building process continued for twenty-four hours. Then, suddenly, there was a commotion among the vines which grew where Mr. Robin was erecting her house. A gray squirrel had climbed the vines and was creeping near the partly-built nest. The mother bird was scolding in angry voice. The squirrel was taking back in no gentle tones. The nest was abandoned. Evidently the bird came to the conclusion that the visitor of the morning would prove to be the hind of the future. Many parents have had less care for their offspring when building a home.

LESSONS IN SHOPPING.

Another educational experiment along utilitarian lines is reported from the West. This time it comes from Duluth, where a practical course in shopping is to be offered as part of the extension work of the public schools. The course will consist of ten lectures, given twice a week in the evenings and designed to teach the housewife how to make her dollars go as far as possible in purchasing the necessities of life.

BLISS CARMAN.

(Peter McArthur in Toronto Globe.)

Ekfrid, Oct. 27—A year ago all lovers of poetry were shocked to hear that Bliss Carman was at death's door. The press despatches gave little hope of his recovery. At once inquiries began to come from all parts of the English-speaking world. Admirers who had enjoyed his poetry wished to know if there was anything they could do. If mental skill and care could help him funds would be provided to give him the best. He had a great deal of gifts to the world, and this was raised to fever heat almost instantly. There was a great deal of friction appearing constantly between the two nations—a feeling that three years later was to break out in actual warfare. This violation of British territory was accompanied by circumstances of rare cruelty. Bennett, a captain of the 6th United States' Infantry, hearing that a deserter from his regiment was at Elizabethtown, near Cornwall, determined to arrest him, leaving Oswego in a schooner and accompanied by a sergeant and two privates, he landed at Underhill, the man in question, was engaged in teaching a small school. None but the children were present. The soldiers entered and, blinding the prisoner, forced him to walk out of the building, across the fields, pricking him with bayonets to lead him away. As the party approached a spot where some of the settlers could be seen Underhill attempted to escape; then he hurried back to the schooner and Captain Bennett, realizing the crime he had committed, at once entered a boat and fled across the border. The incident produced a great sensation in Upper Canada and the Canadians were foremost in bringing Bennett to trial by a court martial. In spite of his invasion of Canada and the killing of an unarmed and bound prisoner, he was released. His acquittal only added fuel to the bitter feeling produced everywhere by the act of the Americans.

The clear-aided North will cure you, Pack up your kit and go, The cold will be your doctor, And your nurse will be the snow. There is virtue in the open; There is healing out of doors; The great Physician makes us rounds Along the forest floors. The description of the journey from the city to the wilds is vivid and characteristic, but we have space for only the final lines: On a porch that faced the morning, In a blanket on a chair, I came to my fortune, As they left me lying there— When Adam lay in Eden And looked upon the sky, He was master of a leisure, No more absolute than I. A few scattered stanzas will give a picture of the life he led in the wilderness, which he describes as: "A grim untempting battlefield for a soul's Marathon."

Here are a few stanzas from many that are equally good: The sun was my attendant To light my morning fire; The night brought in my candles; What more could one require? New life and warmth and beauty Were born there in my sight, And all the dimming corners Of my heart were filled with light. I thought upon the valley Where each man walks alone, And all the trails run out and stop At the edge of the unknown.

And when I heard the whisper Of the trees, as they begin to sing My heart went wild for gladness As if it had been spring. Then slowly, very slowly, I crept out to the wild With the rapture and the wonder And the footsteps of a child. There in that snowy woodland Under the mountain side, The surge and lift of life came back Like a returning tide.

Finally he fables a vision of his friends, "a smiling company." Many of these he mentions by their familiar names. "Alan, a monarch of the air," is Alan Sullivan of Toronto. After a roster of the men there comes this outburst: And women—Glorie by be God, Who looked upon the north When it was all but finished, And marked one lack of worth; And gave it for full measure, Brimmed over and above, All dream and understanding The grace of woman's love. God's banny thought for Eden, The sheer unmeasured good, Incomely faith and fondness, In beauty there they stood.

The concluding stanzas show a vigor that will delight his friends: The snowshoes of my boyhood I harnessed on with joy— And with them the excitement And illusions of a boy. With the creaking of the snowshoes Came back the lumber stride, As I swung across the meadow And along the mountain side.

ELEVATORS NUMBER 3,600. (Canadian Finance.)

The grain elevator system has grown enormously in Canada and developed rapidly in the last few years. This growth and development has so far been mainly confined to the prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, but the system is attracting more attention in the other provinces, particularly in Ontario, where several wheat growing and shipping centers, notably Toronto, are agitating for the erection of elevator plants. The system is a most interesting one. Nor is it only in numbers that the system has extended but the increase in size has been such that some of the structures can fairly be termed mammoth, such for instance as those at the head of the lakes. There are, according to the Hon. George Langley, minister of municipal affairs for Saskatchewan, not fewer than 3,600 (thirty-six hundred) elevators in the three provinces referred to, from forty to sixty feet high and capable of storing from 20,000 to 30,000 bushels apiece on the average, a few reaching to twice the greatest enumerated capacity. In other words, upwards of 110,000,000 bushels of wheat can thus be stored at the one time. These facts and figures are taken from an interesting article by Mr. Langley in the September number of the Agricultural Gazette of Canada. By the terms of the Canadian Grain Act, the owners of the elevators, mostly private individuals or incorporated companies, are compelled to accept all the grain offered by farmers, unless wet or unstoreable with safety, hence the general and common use of the system. The elevators are all licensed by and are under the supervision of the Board of Grain Commissioners of Canada.

GAIN WEIGHT AND STRENGTH

With Bitro-Phosphate of Definite Guarantee

New York. If you are feeling run-down, weak nervous, tired-in-the-morning, and generally ailing, these are the symptoms that should warn you to take care of your health.

Four persons in every ten are needing more phosphorus in their bodies. When you see thin and fretful people; or those who are anemic, pale, frail, oft despondent or lacking in energy, you may look for the need of certain elements that make for a strong constitution.

Some people after relying upon preparations composed chiefly of salts, quinine, drastic drugs, iron, calomel, cod-liver oil, etc., wonder why they find no benefit. That is easily explained by the fact that such persons need the phosphoric element, which is a most potent essential to health, and contained in Bitro-Phosphate, the famous health preparation.

Non-obtainable elsewhere.

The right thing for you to do is make a trial of Bitro-Phosphate beginning at once. It is not a patent medicine; the formula is prescribed by many physicians for the ailments and weaknesses mentioned above.

Buy a box of Bitro-Phosphate. It is sold and recommended by all good druggists everywhere.

Who Invented 1-Cent Sale?

Sale? Abe Levinsky.

To the growing list of merchandising ideas the origin of which can be traced back to the pushcart peddler, should be added the "one-cent sale."

It originated according to available information, in the mind of a Russian-Jew immigrant who set up his pushcart on the campus of one of Chicago's colleges. It was in April, 1908, that Abraham Levinsky, who had been in the United States about one year, observed great preparations for the celebration of Easter, and he decided that he could help along the good work by offering for sale a bewildering assortment of varicolored neckties at thirty cents apiece or two for fifty cents.

De-mo-nstrating this evident inducement, the ties didn't seem to strike a popular note, except that they provided an excellent opportunity to parties of young freshmen to the college to haul considerably the wares of the pushcart vendor. They told him his ties were too dear, and Abraham was nonplussed.

About this time he had an idea, which he managed to express somewhat in this fashion: "Zo, you see, I be a sports, I tell you how I do—I sell you yun nag tie vor fifty zents; for yun zents more I geev yun more die. How you say—you be sports, too?"

The freshmen pondered the proposition. It sounded reasonable. Here was a chance to get something worth fifty cents for only one cent. They bought, and soon Abe's pushcart was cleared of neckties. The following day he returned, his pushcart replenished with a load of flashy ties, which he disposed of in the same manner to the sophomores.

It happened that one of the college students who had purchased two neckties on the campus for fifty-one cents was one Walter Wright, of Detroit. One day at a conference of clerks in the Gray & Worcester store, where Wright was employed, the problem of devising new selling schemes was threshed out.

Wright mentioned the Levinsky one-cent sale of a few years previous, but nobody connected with the Gray & Worcester store seemed much impressed with the idea except Edison O. Geisler. But the store didn't conduct any one-cent sales.

When Geisler became manager of the store, in August, 1909, however, his first act was to hold such a sale. He had on hand a jumble of odds and ends that wouldn't move, but when the one-cent sale idea was applied the stock went like hotcakes. The store did 30 per cent more business during the three-day sale than in any other similar period in its history.

Apparently, customers thought they were getting something for nothing, so they flocked from the four corners of Detroit.

Geisler's one-cent sale copied from Levinsky's pushcart, was adopted by druggists all over the United States and Canada, and in 1910 the figures for one-cent sales in 150 drug stores amounted to $10,000,000, according to statistics compiled by the Gobson & Snow Drug Co., of Albany, N. Y.

The danger of using technical terminology in connection with everyday merchandise was illustrated by a covers-a-recently-overheard-in-front-of-a-PI-delta-house.

In the window appeared a card reading: "Forty-five ounce Silk Stock—$5 a Pair."

"Just think of lugging around four pounds of silk stockings on each leg!" commented a woman who was passing. "Yes—to say nothing of paying for the privilege of doing it," added a companion.

Not a pair of the stockings was until the sign was altered to "Exceptionally Fine Quality—Super-dick." Then they began to move, although price remained the same.

Hotel Shirt Shop Often Sells $200 a Day.

The record for a sale of silk shirts and other articles of men's "lingerie" probably belongs to the Chain Shirt Shop in the Pennsylvania Hotel, in this city, which rolls up every now and then something like $2000 worth of this class of merchandise in a single day's sales.

The freshmen pondered the proposition, the store, tells of how he and his assistants pile up the records and furnishes some interesting figures of how large sales run in these shops.

"People are often surprised at the volume of our sales here in the hotel," he said, "but, after all, it is not strange that they should be so large. The hotel is headquarters for many foreign and domestic commissions and these men quite naturally drift into our shop. Sometimes they come and frequently after a conference of some kind they all come in a body."

"Inasmuch as we are dealing with a transient trade here and many of our patrons are strangers in New York city, we have our salesmen thoroughly informed on all the best shops for men's clothing, etc., in the city, in lines which we ourselves do not carry. In this way not only do we get some pretty big orders for our own store, but are able to be of great help to our clients."

Probably the most impressive sales figures were made during the visit to this city last fall of a foreign commission, which made its headquarters at this hotel. The members of the commission remained in New York for about three weeks, during which time their purchases at the Chain Shirt Shop ran above $5000, according to Lichtenstein, who gave these details of the transactions.

Individual sales ran from $200 to $750, with an average of about $300. In one day alone the sales of the manager of the shop amounted to $1800.

These were made up of white silk shirts at $12.50 each, which seemed to be a prime favorite, one man taking twenty-four of them. Next in popularity came silk underwear—a coat cut union suit which has attained great popularity.

Most of the visitors felt that about a dozen suits at $9 a suit were not too many, and several left orders to be filled later. Silk hats of the latest models were sold to each of the thirty members of the commission; lounging robes in soft silk weaves; pajamas in silk and part of the sale. This consisted of small remnants of lace, ribbon and lawns, wrapped neatly and arranged in a basket on the hat counter. Every farmer's wife was allowed to select one package, when her husband purchased a hat. No one knew what the packages contained before opening. This was also featured in the advertising.

On the day the fair opened the store was crowded with farmers and farmers' families. Plenty of tape measures were available and plenty of clerks to serve the customers. The packages drew the women and the free hat drew the men. By noon of the second day none of the hats and caps were left. The farmer who drew the prize had a head that measured twenty-seven inches, and a hat had to be ordered for him.

This shipment was twice the size of the usual fall order and one lot had already been partly sold.

Chief Brownson passed the buck to Policeman James Benecor, but this season veteran declined to act as judge. He took the matter up with the store managers and they agreed to have Secretary R. C. Job, of the Chamber of Commerce, referee the issue. Job inspected the window and, as the father of a family of six and as the secretary of a local churchmen's club, ruled that while possibly the display was rather extreme, he could see nothing objectionable in it.

The story was played up in both afternoon and morning papers and aroused considerable controversy around the city, most people holding that the same rules that apply to art cover window displays, and that so long as a picture is not of a questionable character, the objects themselves are all right.

Too Many Hats—But They Didn't Worry Lott

How to sell more hats was the problem that faced the Lott Co. of Wiggins, Miss., which received a large assortment of hats and caps through mistake.

The shipment arrived a few weeks before the Stone County Fair, an event which brings into town every farmer and farmer's wife in the county.

The intervening line was spent in advertising the goods in every possible manner. The fair ground bore conspicuous placards describing the merits of hats and caps and the wisdom of purchasing for another season before prices advanced.

The southern farmer is thrifty. The high cost of living has hit him hard, outside of the cotton district, and this appealed to his economic sense at a time when the farmers in this section were receiving twenty-six cents for wool and paying $45 and more for an ordinary suit of clothes.

The county paper bore a striking advertisement stating that the best hat in the house would be given to the man visiting the store during the two days of the county fair who had the biggest head.

A grab basket was also arranged as a part of the sale.

The Thing That Makes For Machine Politics
(Canadian Finance)

"That is just the kind of thing which makes machine politics necessary in Western Canada" was the very much-to-the-point declaration of a prominent citizen of a western city at a recent meeting of citizens. This statement came at the end of a prolonged discussion revolving around the appointment of a chairman of an association formed at that meeting to organize for the forthcoming civic elections. The meeting did not appoint a permanent chairman because the various men nominated were unable to act, and, presumably, those who were able to act were not nominated.

It is reasonable to suppose that the men who were able to act were not nominated for one of two reasons. Either the meeting did not believe they could handle the work involved, or the meeting did not know the extent of their ability. In the final analysis we come to the inevitable conclusion that among the men who were not known, was to be found the reason why there are so many magnificent material for civic activities—in our midst, of whom we know very little, the question immediately arises "Why do not these men make their qualifications known?" and, in nine cases out of ten, the answer is additional proof of their fitness to serve the community in civic matters. They are not office seekers—that is the reason why their merits are not known.

There is another factor in the situation—many of our best business men are indifferent public speakers. They know what to do and how to do it, but they do not know how to tell an audience what should be done and how it should be done. They are long on performance and short on talk—and just the type of man we need in municipal affairs—provided he acquires sufficient ability as a public speaker to express his views clearly and concisely.

Fortunately, we are getting away from the idea that the first essential to success when aspiring for civic honors is to make a stump speech or any other form of oratorical effort. We are looking for doers, not talkers, but there is a happy medium which every citizen should aspire to measure up to. Every man should develop the faculty of expressing his thoughts in public in such a way that his fellow citizens may understand him. Each citizen should be sufficiently capable in the art of public speaking to make his ideas known. The alternative is "machine politics."

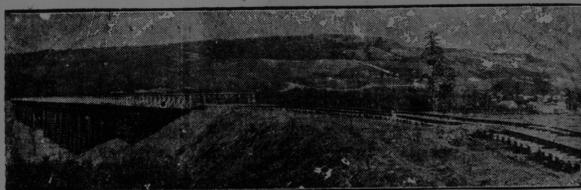

ART CLUB LECTURE

The first lecture of the season arranged by the Art Club was delivered last night in the rooms by Dr. Eliza Ritchie of Halifax on "Some of Rome's Art Treasures," with lantern slides illustrating her remarks. W. F. Burditt, the new president, was in the chair and made the opening address. W. F. Hatheway moved the vote of thanks to the speaker, and Archdeacon A. H. Crowfoot was the seconder. Mrs. C. O. Hatheway and Mrs. James McEavish poured the coffee. Those who acted as members of the refreshment committee were—Mrs. R. R. Patchell, Mrs. F. C. Beattie, Mrs. Amand, Mrs. Glenn, Miss Armand, Miss J. G. Sandler, Miss Bessie Holt and Miss Patton. About a dozen new members were enrolled at the close of the meeting.

POLICE COURT.

After a statement to the effect that he would not sell any more lemon extract and would return what he now has on hand to the wholesalers, John W. Vanzwart was complimented by the magistrate on the stand he took and a case against him for selling lemon extract illegally was dismissed. John McLaine of Chatham, pleaded guilty to attempting to obtain goods under false pretences from Amdur & Company, and will be tried under the Speedy Trials Act. A case against John O'Toole, charged with assaulting his wife, was amicably settled.

A YANKEE CATECHISER

"I have lent a neighbor my side-hill plough, besides answering, by the way, rather an embarrassing question. My catechiser lives above me on the bank (his name for the river), and is one of those small farmers, common here, who live without seeing money from one year's end to the other. He never buys; he trades. * * * He is a shrewd man withal, likes to talk, and speaks Yankee of the most Bostonian fetch and purity. * * * Imagine a disjointed-looking Enocelus, in a homespun sunflower-colored coat, and small yellow eyes, expressive of nothing but the merest curiosity, looking down on me by throwing himself over the railing. * * * "Good morning, Mr. Willis!" "From hearing my name first used in the possessive case, probably, (Willis's farm or cow) he regularly throws me in that last syllable. "Ah! good morning!" (Looking up at the interruption, I made that unsightly blot which you have just excused.) "You ain't got no side-hill plough?" "Yes, I have and I'll lend it to you with pleasure." "Well, you're . . . quick. I want a go'n' to ask you quite yet. Writ'n' to your folks at hum?" "No!" "Making out a lease?" "No!" "How you do spin it off! You haint always work'd on a farm, have ye?" It is a peculiarity, (a redeeming peculiarity, I think) of the Yankee, that though their questions are rude, they are never surprised if you do not answer them. I did not feel that the thermometer warranted me in going into the history of my life to my overhanging neighbor, and I busied myself in crossing my 't's and dotting my 'i's very industriously. * * * He pulled a splinter from under the bridge with his long arms. * * * "You haint been a minister, have ye?" "No!" "Wal! they talk a heap about your place. I say, Mr. Willis, you' aint nothing particular, be ye?" "You should have seen * * * the look of eager and puzzled innocence with which this rather difficult question was delivered. Something or other had evidently stimulated my good neighbor's curiosity, but whether I had been blown up in a steamboat, or had fattened a prize pig, or what was my claim to the digito monstri, it was more than half his errand to discover. I have put down our conversation, I believe, with the accuracy of a shorthand writer. Now is not this a delicious world, in which out of a museum, and neither stuffed nor muzzled, you may find such an Arcadian? What a treasure he would be to those ancient mariners of polite life, who exist but to tell you of their little peculiarities!—N. Parker Willis in "Rural Letters."

DAMS AND SALMON

The fisheries department has recently completed repairs and building of fishways in dams on the Mersey River, Nova Scotia, and hopes are now entertained that it may again become the resort of salmon, for which it was famed in years gone by. This river has been obstructed for a number of years by five dams, and although fishways of a sort had been installed by the owners, investigation proved that although they may have been more or less effective when built, owing to their fallen into a state of disrepair, no fish have been ascending the river for the last few years. New fishways were built entirely at the first, fourth and fifth dams, while those in the second and third were repaired and altered with a view to making them more effective, the work being performed under direction of H. A. Lynch, assistant engineer of the fisheries branch. Shortly after the completion of these works reports were current that salmon had been taken with a rod above the uppermost dam for the first time in a number of years. The department is taking steps to verify these reports with a view to following the matter closely and remedying any defects in the system.

THE CUT IN LUMBER OPERATIONS HERE

Fredericton Hears Further Reports of Limited Work in the N. B. Woods.

(Special to Times.) Fredericton, N. B., Nov. 12.—The general expectation that the 1920-21 lumber cut in New Brunswick will be not more than a half cut is justified by reports which come from all sources. Some operators will curtail their operations much more than fifty per cent and some will not cut at all. One of the firms which will not operate at all is the E. Burt Lumber Company, with a mill at Burt's Corner, York county. Elwood Burt, president, said recently that the company would not cut a log for any purpose. Three and a half million feet are being carried over by this firm. A contract for some 10,000 cords of pulpwood had been taken by the company and preparations made for the sending of crews on operation. The firm with which the contract had been taken, however, found that the market would not justify the carrying out of the agreement at the price set and cancellation was made. Uncertainty as to future prices is the cause of this curtailment.

Donald Fraser of Plaster Rock, of the Fraser Lumber Companies, Limited, said this week that it was doubtful if the logging in the province during the coming winter would be what it usually is. He said the fact that large quantities of logs will be carried over at the mills and elsewhere would tend to reduce the cut. Mr. Fraser said further that the labor situation was not encouraging so far as lumber operations were concerned. Many firms would operate in order to keep their organizations intact although the operations would be on a reduced

WOODROW WILSON AS LITERARY STYLIST

Hale's Book, "The Story of a Style," an Avowed Attack—Criticism Not Taken Seriously. (Toronto Mail and Empire.) Admirers of President Wilson have claimed that he is the corner of more striking phrases than any man who ever sat in the Presidential chair, that his literary style is unapproachable. We do know that he has uttered phrases which rang round the world, and are likely to reverberate for years to come. We have sometimes thought that President Wilson's fondness for arranging words more than once interfered with his common sense as well as being an affront to the common sense of those to whom they were addressed. Was ever there a more unfortunate remark than his "too proud to fight"? It was as false as it was silly, but when the President delivered himself of it his admirers almost adored him, especially his German-American admirers. "To make the world safe for democracy" was a happier expression, and it is destined to live. But the President will perhaps be remembered as long by his incurable habit of beginning so many letters and messages with the meaningless phrase, "My dear," which must have exasperated millions of readers.

Attacked by Biographer. In an effort to prove that Mr. Wilson as a stylist is hopeless, he has been made the victim of a book by William Bayard Hale. This man was formerly a clergyman. Later he became the President's official biographer, and was his confidential representative upon two or three foreign missions. He was a fanatical pro-German, represented the Hearst newspapers in Germany in the early days of the war, and was an editor of German propaganda in the United States. He was once a great admirer of President Wilson's. He became his enemy when the United States entered the war, and in his recently published book, "The Story of a Style," he jabs his envenomed pen into the epidermis of the President. Nobody would take Hale's opinion as worth anything. Nobody would accept his work for anything unless it was otherwise supported. His book is an avowed attack, but Hale has buttressed it sufficiently to make it interesting to those who are interested in literary affairs.

Loves the Adjective. With almost Teutonic thoroughness he sets about his task. He has gone

HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY Gillett's Lye has long been regarded as a household necessity because of the fact that it is useful in so many ways, and so satisfactory in every respect that no woman feels that she can keep house without it. Makes the finest kind of soap for washing and cleansing. One can of Gillett's Lye will make ten pounds of good soap in twenty minutes. Many of its uses are shown in booklet under the label. "GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT" Made in Canada.

carefully through the most of President Wilson's books and speeches with a microscope. Naturally he finds slipshod writing in "The New Freedom," for instance, he copies out all the phrases containing the word "very," a word which nine times out of ten may be said to be very unnecessary. But the President finds it, almost impossible to say close, influential, cordial, "discipline." He makes frequent use of the word "veritable," and we have "veritable pirates," "veritable aristocracy," "veritable heart's mistress," and the like.

Compared With The Masters. The writer makes an interesting comparison between a page of Wilson taken at random and a similarly numbered page taken from books of Shakespeare, Gibbon, Macaulay, Hardy, Shaw, Scott, Dickens, Irving, Poe, Carlyle, and a number of other writers of established literary distinction. He finds that on this single page the President in 108 words used but one verb and thirty adjectives. There was none of the others who did not use more verbs than adjectives. Hardy, for instance, used fourteen verbs and one adjective, and Maeterlinck had ten verbs and not a single adjective. One would think that if a man like Maeterlinck can express his emotions without adjectives it ought to be possible for the rest of us to do so. Even Ruskin had only seven adjectives to sixteen verbs, while Carlyle had four to twelve, and Shakespeare nine to fourteen.

Unfortunate Phrases. Hale says that of all the words the favorite of the President is the word "counsel." The infatuation grows upon him until we find him using it in place of the word "council." Another favorite is "process," the two of them forming, as Joseph Edgar Chamberlin remarks in the Boston Transcript, the President's literary Gold Dust Twins, who do most of the work for him. He offers the following list of phrases, without which the President seems to find it difficult to say anything: "I am sure it is not necessary for me to remind you that . . ." "I once more take the liberty of recommending that . . ." "I have only to suggest that . . ." "Will you not permit me once more to say that . . ." "I count myself particularly fortunate in being able to say that . . ." "I take the liberty of saying that . . ." "I venture to say that . . ."

"There is profound truth in the saying that . . ." "It goes without saying that . . ." "I feel constrained to say that . . ." "I feel it due to perfect frankness to say that . . ." "I suggest that . . ." "Permit me to answer by saying that . . ." "I can only express the confident opinion that . . ." "His view is that they were first used to impress the vulgar, but that eventually they mastered their author, until at last he could no longer do without them—a harsh judgment, but not an improbable one."

scale. Labor showed an uncertainty which made contractors cautious. Mr. Fraser expressed the opinion that the shipping situation was not so encouraging as some persons would have the public believe. Improvement to the extent desired, he believed, was far away.

NO GRAIN YET IN ELEVATORS AT THIS PORT
There is no grain in either of the local elevators, although a small quantity is expected to arrive at the C. P. R. by the first of next week. Local shipping people and others are somewhat at a loss to understand reports recently published to the effect that large shipments of grain are being routed over the Grand Trunk and shipped from Portland, Maine, while the present conditions prevail here.
Commissioner Bullock this morning said that he understood that the grain was being shipped from some of the oldest berths and not from the new federal pier. He said that it was rather peculiar that a government road should, in the face of the slogan, "Canadian trade through Canadian ports," favor Portland, Maine, in preference to Quebec, Montreal, Halifax and St. John.

HEARING BEGUN IN EDMUNDSTON MURDER CASE

Evidence Given About St. Pierre's Movements
Witness Says That on Evening of Tragedy Prisoner Looked Like Man Who Had Been Drinking.

(Special to The Times.)
Edmundston, N. B., Nov. 12.—The hearing of William St. Pierre, accused of the murder of Miss Minnie Stevens on the night of October 11 was resumed here this morning before Magistrate J. B. Michaud. The prosecution is being conducted by Hon. J. P. Byrne, attorney-general, while A. T. LeBlanc of Campbellton and Max O. Cormier are appearing on behalf of St. Pierre. Proceedings were somewhat delayed by the absence of a stenographer but one was finally secured.

Harvey Delaney, a train dispatcher on the C. N. R. was the first witness. He said he was in York's drug store on the night of the crime. He boarded over the drug store. He went down to the drug store at 8.30 p.m., and was having a soda with Augustine Finemore when St. Pierre entered and introduced himself. The witness said he was going to work, and asked Finemore if he was going along and Finemore said "Yes." St. Pierre also went along towards the post office. Finemore left them at the telephone office and the accused and the witness crossed the bridge going in the direction of the Royal Hotel. Delaney said he left St. Pierre at the top of the hill. It was about 8.50 p.m. The witness took St. Francis street to go to the railway office. St. Pierre did not say where he was going. He talked about baseball, and later said he was going to a dance. St. Pierre did not have any blood on his clothes. He was dressed neatly.

Counsel for the defense objected to a question as to how St. Pierre appeared in regard to drinking and the objection was disallowed as the witness said the prisoner appeared as a man who had been drinking. He said he did not remember seeing Alphonse Hebert in the drug store.
On cross-examination he said it was 8.45 p.m. when he saw St. Pierre at the junction of Canada and St. Francis streets. He did not see him again that evening.

On re-direct examination he said St. Pierre had on a blue suit. He did not notice a soldier's button on the coat and it would take about fifteen minutes to walk to his work. Finemore left them about three minutes after leaving the drug store.

Dr. F. L. Hebert was next called. On re-direct examination he said there was no hole in the accused's sleeve. There was a spot on the sleeve that the accused said was blood. On a question as to whether the train of his story at the coroner's inquest was broken by being asked questions by members of the jury counsel LeBlanc objected.

The hearing here was adjourned until after dinner.

TO ALLIANCE POST ON DECEMBER 1
Rev. W. D. Wilson Speaks of Plans—The Status of Inspector McAlinsh.

Rev. W. D. Wilson, chief inspector under the prohibition act, who is now in the city, said this morning that he would resume his duties as general secretary of the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance on the morning of Dec. 1. Regarding his possible resignation as chief inspector he said he had not the least idea who would be appointed.
Asked as to the present status of Robert McAlinsh, Mr. Wilson said that Mr. McAlinsh was not now a member of his staff. He said that the government had accepted McAlinsh's resignation at the meeting before the last one, but that the inspector had not yet been asked to return his badge. Mr. McAlinsh, however, told a Times reporter this morning that he was still on duty.

LABOR BANQUET
Mr. Durman, Organizer, the Guest of Honor on Eve of Departure from City.

There was a pleasant gathering at the Sign of The Lantern on Thursday evening when the members of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union gave a complimentary banquet to Mr. Durman, organizer, and representatives of the Trades and Labor Council. A. E. Hickey, president of the new union presided. Lady members of the Trades and Labor Council were represented by F. A. Campbell, president, A. D. Colwell, secretary, C. G. Langlois, treasurer, Thomas Killen, J. E. Tigue and C. H. Stevens. After tempting repast served under the direction of Chief Hickey, addresses were given by the president and members of the Trades and Labor Council. A pleasant time was spent and it was agreed that this should only be a sequel of a series of social functions for the workers of the city that would result in a closer friendship among organized labor. Mr. Durman will leave on Monday for New Hampshire. He has spent about four months here.

Declaration of Hon. George Langley of Saskatchewan

Says Crop Moving Conditions Worse Than Under Mackenzie & Mann—Call for Branch Line Work.

Regina, Nov. 12.—Criticism of the Canadian Government Railways and the economic gospel now being preached in the west by Premier Meighen and Hon. J. A. Calder and a declaration that the resolution on national marketing did not contemplate a fixed price for wheat but only a chance for the farmers to compete in the world's markets, featured an address by Hon. George Langley, in the legislature last evening. He was urging re-establishment of the wheat board. He said that "crop moving conditions on the Canadian National Railways even in the worst days of Mackenzie and Mann were not as bad as they are today."

A resolution will be introduced into the legislature on Tuesday expressing the view that the Dominion authorities should be petitioned to appropriate at the earliest possible date sufficient money to complete the branch lines of the C. N. R. which are already projected in various sections of the province, and complete such branches at the earliest possible date.

THEFT CHARGES AND OTHER MATTERS IN POLICE COURT

In the police court this morning a case against John McDonald, charged with stealing lead pipe valued at $83, was resumed. J. M. Queen told of missing the pipe from his premises and identified that produced in court as being similar to what was missing.

Detective Biddiscombe said he went to the home of the accused at 179 Tower street, West St. John, and in a garage at the back of the house found and seized under a bench. He said the accused told him he did not know the pipe was there. The detective said he found six demountable automobile rims and some tires, which the accused said he had recovered from his automobile, which had been burned.

Inspector Ouelow and C. P. Costello of the C. P. R. were also present. The magistrate said he understood that there would be another charge against the accused, but nothing definite had been decided. The case was postponed until Tuesday morning.

J. A. Barry appeared for the defence. The case was postponed until Tuesday afternoon. Bail was accepted.

One man charged with drunkenness pleaded guilty and was remanded.

EXCHANGE TODAY.

New York, Nov. 12.—Sterling exchange was firmer today and advanced slightly for demand bills to $263-4 and cables 83 1/2. Canadian dollars did not gain strength during the morning and were still discounted at from 11 to 11 1/8 per cent compared with yesterday's close of 11 1/2.

SAG IN GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—General selling forced all grain to today for the morning. Uncertainty over the financial outlook and industrial conditions were leading bearish factors.

Besides it was said definitely that the British royal commission and the Belgian government were out of the export wheat business this morning.

Those who would like to see how a real motion picture is made and have pleasure in seeing an entire St. John cast take part in the production should get to the Opera House early tonight.

This stellar vaudeville attraction is being presented by Joseph Madden and Tom Ward, who have been in the business with some of the chief film manufacturers in California. At every performance of the week-end programme different scenes will be enacted and this feature act should make one of the biggest hits of the season. DRIVE TO GET HALF MILLION FOR MRS. ALLISON Sackville, N. B., Nov. 11.—Mount Allison University celebrated simultaneously Founder's Day and Armistice Day. The programme opened at 10:30 a. m. with a procession headed by the regents, followed in order by the relatives of the founder, professors, alumnae, students and visitors, who marched to Fawcett Memorial Hall. The services were opened with the march from Aida, by Verdi, played by the university orchestra, followed by the anthem, "Lift Up Your Heads," sung by the choral class. Responsive prayer was led by Rev. C. Borden, D. D., president of the university.

Chairman Rev. George Steele, D. D., introduced the principal speaker of the day, Hon. Justice Russell, D. C. L., of Nova Scotia, a graduate of Mount Allison. In an eloquent address he paid a glowing tribute to the founder of the institution, Charles F. Allison.

At the close of the ceremony, the procession proceeded to the cemetery, where each member uncovered, dropped a spray of evergreen upon the grave of the founder.

In the afternoon the board of regents met in the board room of the university residence in semi-annual session. Among other matters they discussed plans for a $500,000 fund-raising campaign in the weeks of February 7-14.

For some months the board has considered a short-period intensive campaign to continue on the present basis unless the good work of the institutions. The financial statement of the university shows the imperative need for a more adequate endowment.

It has been pointed out that, with the constantly increased cost of maintenance, it is practically impossible even to continue on the present basis unless the cost of tuition was increased and this step will not be countenanced by the regents. The primary purpose of Mount Allison is to supply the means of acquiring a higher education particularly to those lacking great financial resources.

Had Bad Cough
For Three Years

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks in you spite of everything you have done to get rid of it, is the kind that is dangerous. The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health. There is no remedy that will relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go—like Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It has a healing and soothing action on the air passages and at the same time acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory tract, destroying the germs that produce serious lung complications. Mrs. John Miller, Minburn, Alta., writes: "I had a very bad cough for three years. I went to several doctors and tried different cough medicines, but nothing seemed to help me. One day a friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after using several bottles I became completely relieved. I always keep a bottle in the house, and also recommend it to others. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been universally used for over 30 years, and so great has been its success, it is only natural that a great many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; 8 pine trees the trade mark; price, 35c. and 60c. in bottles, manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont."

Strongly Urge Higher Bridge at Reversing Falls

Following is the full text of the letter sent to the common council regarding the railway bridge at the Reversing Falls, and the names of those who signed it: St. John, N. B., November, 1920. To His Worship the Mayor and Members of the Common Council, St. John, N. B. Dear Sirs:—In the matter of the new bridge, now under construction, we, the undersigned, who are very much interested in the use of the Reversing Falls, so called, beg leave to state our opinion regarding the height we feel should be from the water at slack flood tide, when vessels are passing through the falls. In the first place we wish to call your attention to the fact that the trade for which the vessels are now used in the coastwise business is changing greatly within the last few years. The class of vessels formerly used has become almost obsolete, larger ones having taken their place, consequently the much longer spars. As this new railway bridge will probably be a permanent fixture for a good many years, we feel that now is the time for it to be put high enough to compare favorably with the present new passenger bridge, or at least say ninety feet clear of the water at the proper time for vessels to pass up through the falls, say at summer level. We would also urge the putting up of the bridge at this time as by using so the approach to the passenger bridge can be made safer by having a viaduct instead of a level crossing, this would also be cheaper than an overhead approach. We are under the impression that the C. P. R. would be reasonable and willing to consider the matter in a proper time for vessels to pass up through the falls, say at summer level. We therefore trust that your honorable body will take such steps as you feel the emergency needs to have the

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't stay gray. Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulpur. Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulpur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By using at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulpur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair. A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulpur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

SUGAR PRICES.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—There was no change in refined prices for sugar today, although it was freely predicted that the Dominion Sugar Company would soon be selling at twelve cents, less five per cent or 11.40 net. A feature of interest tomorrow will be the appearance of a half page advertisement in the Montreal Gazette from the Acadia Sugar Refineries of Montreal and a similar warning to consumers that the price of sugar to them on Friday, November 12, will be fifteen cents and that at intervals after that date notification through the public press will be given of what the price of sugar to the consumer who

"Glory, glory be to Honest John; Glory to his government that help him carry on; Glory to the rest of us who cheer them with our songs, as we go marching on."

The above poetic tribute to the recent expression of the vox populi at the polls, set to the inspiring air of "John Brown's Body" made the wedding ring and the delegates laugh and cheer at the nominating convention of the Vancouver Liberal Association in Dominion hall last night. There were a number of other verses, each one of which paid a tribute to individual members of the party. The selection to contest the city for the party was made on one ballot, R. C. Campbell-Johnstone, whose name also went before the convention, moving a resolution that the vote be made a unanimous one. This left the slate as follows:—M. A. Macdonald, Capt. Ian MacKenzie, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Attorney-General Farris, James Ramsay and J. P. Doherty. Other names which came before the convention were James H. Falconer, James Conley and James Ball, but the three did not allow their names to be balloted on. Following the announcement of the slate Attorney-General Farris addressed the convention. There is no doubt that it was a good natured, enthusiastic and unanimous gathering and from all appearances the party is going into the coming fight with colors flying and with a united front. The meeting was opened by the chairman, James Conley, calling a number of prominent members of the party to the platform. Among these were General Odlum, W. G. Anderson, Attorney-General Farris, M. A. Macdonald, M. P. U., J. S. Cowper, M. P. P., Mrs. Ralph Smith, M. P. P., Mrs. Menzies, Mr. Falconer, Lieut.-Col. Worden, James Ramsay, R. C. Campbell-Johnstone, S. S. Taylor, K. C., in his best forensic style to which was added, for the occasion, a touch of old-fashioned gallantry, evoked thunderous applause when he brought forward the name of Mrs. Ralph Smith, "first in the hearts of her countrymen." Mr. Taylor stated that he considered himself specially favored in having the high honor of proposing the name of a lady who was not only an ornament to her sex, but to the legislature and was fast becoming recognized as a pillar of the state.

To her was due some of the most important legislation which had been passed. And with it all continued Mr. Taylor, the modest manner in which she had filled her difficult position as the first lady member and upheld the credit of her sex, was beyond all praise. Although Mrs. Bell was running as a Liberal the speaker felt sure that she would receive the support of all and be returned at the head of the poll. Mrs. Menzies seconded the nomination and assured the nominee of the whole-hearted support of the Women's Liberal Association. James Ball then proposed the name of Attorney-General Farris, which was well received by the crowd. Mr. Ball pointed out that Hon. Mr. Farris had stood by the party in storm and sunshine and had successfully fought the legal battles of the province before the privy council. He also would head the poll. Mrs. Ralph Smith received the greatest ovation of the evening, the delegates joining in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." She expressed herself as greatly touched by her reception. She believed she was going to be sent to Victoria because she was needed to look after the men. (Laughter.) In this connection she was willing to admit that she had a job on her hands. (Renewed laughter.) Attorney-General Farris thanked the convention for the confidence which had been reposed in him and for the choice of such a splendid ticket. "The fight is on," he said. "There is only one way in which the six candidates can be selected. That is through the policy of the 'Codill Six.' This should be the watchword. If I have friends in the city they will not be truly my friends unless they vote for my five colleagues." "A few words on the record of the government," he continued. "Mr. Bowser said the other night that this government will never be returned to power to deal with the liquor question because of the record of the attorney-general. Although I did not make a statement regarding the election no one could say that I said it would be before the session. The people decided that they would put this liquor question in the hands of the government by their vote on the referendum. I say that this gives the lie to Mr. Bowser's statement. If sales or liquor at the government vendors had reduced from something like $150,000 a month to about $10,000, no month since the amendment came into force totalling over $11,000 from the sale of liquor. He had stated at the time if, when the time came, the prohibitionists could not secure the support of the people, then the time would have arrived for the discontinuance of the present act. He had taken the position that the question should be taken out of politics entirely. The situation is different now, he declared, and the vote throughout the province had justified the taking of the referendum. "The government will see to it," he declared, "that the will of the people is translated into legislation, not of a loose character, nor of the kind which will take the lid off, but will give the people government control of liquor along the lines for which they voted."

COAL PROFITEERS AND GOVERNMENT
(New York Evening Post.)
The gouging of coal consumers has become so extreme, and the failure of efforts to check it has been so complete, that the threat of Government price-fixing served on the coal trade by the Senate Committee on Reconstruction meets an imperative need. Coal men themselves freely admit profiteering all along the line. Four or five years ago the best soft coal was $1.50 at the mouth of the mine; operators believe, and the Black Diamond asserts, that $6 net would be fair now; yet spot coal in the East has been selling at above $10 net. The gougers have laughed at the Lever act. The wholesale and retail trade speculators who try to obtain small quantities of coal and then take advantage of local shortages to resell it at unjustifiable prices are easily 100 such speculators, new sources of a business in this city alone. To a limited extent the price increase traceable to the excess of demand over supply, especially since the business and by the meeting of the most urgent plaint of slacking on the part of the workers will not hold an instant. The transportation difficulties. This cause Northwest for a "priority" supply. The miners have been digging coal harder for higher prices is being lessened by the greatest cause for price-increase lies in than ever. It is the "trade" that is at recent increase coal production, by the trade practices which the coal interests fault, the "trade" must reform, or the slacking of industry in some quarters, can stamp out if they try. The familiar Government will reform it.

Water Wave Mystery
(Montreal Gazette)
Something like a sensation has been created in the technical world by the announcement that the battery discou-ered principle of wave power transmission, which served great purposes in the past, has been applied with definite results of great practical magnitude to engineering operations.
A demonstration of the new science, as applied to mining, shipbuilding and other mechanical tasks is being made at the Dorman works at Stafford, England, the past week by a stream of engineers, press men, technical journalists and others.
Interest centred in the drilling of a block of the hardest Cornish granite by a drill driven by water waves, carried at the rate of 5,000 feet second through a flexible metal tube. The experiment was extended to other operations such as riveting, caulking and the like with equal success, and it is claimed that a new era of untold possibilities in applied mechanics has dawned.
Up to the present five methods have been in commercial use for transmitting power. These are steam, and electric, and compressed air systems. A sixth has now to be added, which opens a new chapter in applied mechanics. This is the transmission of power by waves of sound through water. A Roumanian engineer, Mr. G. Constantinesco, discovered the method and applied it in the first place to aeroplane warfare. Associated with him in its application was Professor R. W. Boyle of the University of Alberta, Edmonton. It was thought that a synchronizing device based on the principle of wave transmission that it became possible to send two thousand bullets a minute out through a perforator orbit of a fighting machine without risk of hitting the blades.
After this remarkable achievement it was evident that wave transmission might find many applications in industrial economy, and now a well-known firm of Stafford, England, Messrs. H. Dorman & Co., Ltd., is applying the H. Dorman patent, to a series of percussion and rotary tools for use in various operations where compressed air has hitherto been employed. The first applications have been to mining and shipbuilding, where such operations as rock-drilling in the one case and riveting in the other have to be done at a distance from the original power plant; but beyond these an indefinite number of industrial uses are envisaged.
What, then, is the principle of wave transmission? The conveyance of power depends upon utilizing the elasticity of the medium—most cheaply and conveniently, water through which energy is to be transmitted. Water was for long held by engineers to be practically incompressible, or at least its compressibility was regarded as having no commercial value. But water is compressible at high pressures, and this fact, so far from being negligible is the utmost importance, for upon this compressibility of water depends its power to transmit impulses in waves with phases like those of an electric current.
Perhaps the theory will be best understood by the analogy of the speaking tube. It is not, of course, the speaker's breath which travels until it reaches the ear of the listener, but the waves set up by the vibration of the speaker's voice which move through the air medium. The air itself does not flow through the tube; all that happens to the air particles is that they are subjected to small movements to and fro about the mean position as the sound waves pass along.
Somewhat similar is it with the pressure at one end of a pipe-line, are made to pass through the water with the pipe is filled. Arriving at the opposite end, these waves transmit a yielding obstacle the momentum which they had originally received. It has been found that waves travel through water at about the same rate as sound through air, that is, nearly 5,000 feet per second. In actual operation the water is confined under pressure in any length of pipe-line which may be rigid or flexible or both combined, and may have any number of turns or kinks. At one end a piston is actuated by a high-speed prime mover, such as steam or internal combustion engine or electric motor, gives a rapid series of impulses to the water, the pressure of any flow of the water, pass along the pipe-line to the other extremity where there is another piston, one end of which receives the impulse, while the opposite end is connected to the rock sent through water.
It is in rock drilling that wave power first place to aeroplane warfare. Associated with him in its application was Professor R. W. Boyle of the University of Alberta, Edmonton. It was thought that a synchronizing device based on the principle of wave transmission that it became possible to send two thousand bullets a minute out through a perforator orbit of a fighting machine without risk of hitting the blades.

KEEP AWAY FROM CITIES

(Toronto Globe.) Toronto is becoming overcrowded with men out of work, many of whom are drifting in from the farms and the smaller centres of the province. The superintendent of the Ontario government employment bureau, J. W. Miller, urges that able-bodied unemployed men accept any sort of work offered in the country instead of coming to this city to increase the already very considerable number of people who are unable to find employment. There is work to do in the forests and mines of the north. A single lumber company wants fifteen hundred men. Some mines have had to curtail operations materially because of a lack of unskilled workers. The world needs paper, lumber, gold and silver, and most other products of the forest and mine. Men who want work should keep away from Toronto unless they are fairly sure of obtaining employment at accustomed occupations. The North beckons. There may be a lack of "movies" and of the bright lights of the city streets, but in compensation there will be no "bread line."

TEACHER QUESTION IN ALBERTA.

Alberta is making strenuous efforts to solve the rural school problem. The three schemes being attempted to help rural schools at the present time are: Subsidizing dwellings for rural teachers so they may live in some comfort near their schools; loaning money to suitable candidates for the teaching profession to enable them to take a course at a normal school; to establish a minimum salary of $840 a year to both "normal" and qualified teachers. The teachers' dwelling scheme provides for a house, products of land and enabling the teacher to reach a little income.

dependence by keeping a cow, hens, etc., and having a garden. The government pays a third of the cost of such a home. This, it is thought, will induce more men to stay in the teaching profession. As a result of the loans to prospective teachers, 118 applications were made to enter the training courses two weeks after announcement of the plan. The naming of a minimum salary for teachers has also been beneficial. The Alberta government is also bearing half the cost of recognized night schools.

CANNOT SEE THE BIRDS AND FLOWERS

So Viscount Grey Declines Invitation to Naturalists' Field Day.

London, Oct. 26.—(Associated Press correspondence)—Viscount Grey's eyesight is so impaired that he is unable to see birds and flowers," according to a letter which he has written to the Berkshire Naturalists' Club, declining an invitation to participate in one of two field meetings.

He says that although he could see sufficiently well to walk, he was unable to see birds or flowers or even a view and would, therefore, be unable to share the interests of the expedition.

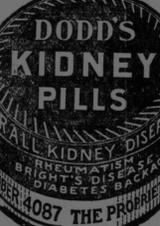

As Sir Edward Grey, the viscount, was British secretary of state for foreign affairs at the beginning of the world war and conducted the negotiations with the German government concerning the possibility of ending hostilities. He was for a short time British ambassador in Washington in the latter part of last year. His eyesight has long been failing.

LORD PIRRIE SAYS THE OUTLOOK DARK IN SHIPBUILDING INDUSTRY

New York, Nov. 12.—(By Canadian Press)—Lord Pirrie, manager of Harlan and Wolff, shipbuilding company of Belfast, who has just arrived in the United States, told reporters that he came as a member of a commission to investigate the oil supply and what accommodations can be obtained for delivery of oil to be used in the operation of ships. Oil fuel, demonstrated by its use on the British steamship Olympic he said, is perfect in every respect and is bound to supplant all other fuel.

Lord Pirrie said the outlook for the shipbuilding industry is very dark and will very likely continue so for several years. Regarding his own company, he said it had had no labor disturbances among the 20,000 men employed at the Belfast plant and the 20,000 at the Clyde plant.

"The situation in England regarding labor resolves itself into the proposition of employer and employe working together," he said.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

In a campaign to raise funds for the work of the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movements in England, Robert Baden Powell, chief scout, sent a letter to the press in which he says:

"The war has shown how close below the surface of our boasted civilization lies the primitive savagery of man. Education and religion have not yet gone deep enough to create more than a veneer.
 Cruelty is there, even in the child, and though education may occasionally preach against it, no practical steps are taken for eradicating it. Yet it is only by practice of good on the part of the child that you can effectually improve its character. So, in the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movements, we are making a special appeal to our million members against cruelty to animals, for it is in that direction that human cruelty first expresses itself. We substitute for the natural mischievous propensities the duty of protecting birds and animals as well as the interest that comes of nature study and the fellow-feeling that comes of making pets. The love of animals is easy to inculcate at this impressionable age, and becomes a life-long attribute; moreover it develops, as the adolescent grows up, the kindred spirit of love for others instead of the selfishness that is too prevalent a vice among us today."

LARGE WORLD SUPPLY OF WOOL

In wool the situation is complicated by numerous economic factors—among them the demoralized exchanges of Central Europe, and the hold-over stocks in Great Britain. On June 30, 1920, the British government owned nearly three million bales of 330 pounds each—or nearly two years' requirements for the British mills. It is estimated that there were 228,000,000 pounds of wool in Australia on June 30, 1920, and that the new clip will amount to 600,000,000 pounds more. The uneasiness of growers is easily understandable, therefore, as is also the hesitancy of manufacturers throughout the world until the trend of values becomes more definitely known.
 The total clip of the wool-growing countries of the southern hemisphere to be made this month is put at 1,800,000,000 pounds.

In the United States there was on August 1 about 700,000,000 pounds—more than a full year's normal supply.
 The collapse of wool prices has doubtless contributed to the recession in cotton values, since high-priced wool stimulated the substitution of cotton. Wool is now down 40 per cent below peak prices on the average, although some qualities have dropped 50 per cent.

WAGES AND PRICES.

(Montreal Herald.)
 There have been for many months premonitions of a fall in wages coincident with a fall in prices and over-stocking. These anticipations are now being borne out. The boot and shoe men in New England were reported a month ago as making contracts at the new level of prices. The Montreal manufacturers are faced with the same conditions and are beginning to ask the cooperation of their employees. In the case of one firm the employees have agreed to accept a slight reduction in wages and work a little over half-time.

It is also reported that the garment workers in Montreal have been asked to agree to a reduction of 20 per cent in wages. The clothing manufacturers, both here and in Toronto, say that people are not buying because of the high prices and that prices cannot be reduced unless wages are reduced. The Federal Reserve Board at Washington reports that during October factories in many lines were shut down or operated on a part-

 Of course wages in all lines have risen rapidly during the past few years in response to the high cost of living. If a new and rational level both in prices and wages can be reached a new era of prosperity can be begun on a sounder basis than has existed, since the war broke out. To reach this end there must be a higher grade of efficiency and no to be preferred to any reduction in

THE STORY OF A PILE OF GOLD

Great Sum Once Held in Russian Treasury

How it Dwindled Under Changing Rule in Unhappy Country—Tale Told to Paris Newspaper.

London, Nov. 12.—(By Canadian Press)—The special correspondent of the Paris Times has written an interesting story about the golden hoard of Imperial Russia from the lips of M. Novitsky, ex-permanent secretary to the Czar's minister of finance.

It appears that in 1914 Russia held the biggest gold reserve in the world—100 millions sterling. To meet interest accounts the minister of finance sent to England, after war had broken out, about ten millions sterling. Part of this sum was lost at sea, several of the boats carrying it having been sunk by the Germans in the Baltic. This route was afterwards given up, and Russian gold was sent over the long road of the Trans-Siberian Railway. At Vladivostok Japanese cruisers took it to Vancouver, whence it was taken to New York and London.

The total of these exportations M. Novitsky values at sixty-eight million sterling. Besides this a half million was sent to Stockholm just before the revolution. That left in Russia, allowing for increases from the output of Siberian mines—nine million sterling—about 100 million sterling. Part of it fell into the hands of M. Kerensky, by far the larger part was seized by the Bolsheviks.

The Bolsheviks had to pay to Germany by the Treaty of Brest-Litovsk 640 million of gold rubles. This part of the Russian hoard was afterwards surrendered by Germany into the custody of France at the armistice, and now lies, or did lie, at the Banque de France. The remaining portion of the treasure held by the Soviets was increased by the capture of part of M. Kerensky's share. First stored by the Bolsheviks at Petrograd, it was transferred to Moscow, where it was split up into two parts, one going to Samara and the other to Kazan.

Koltchak now enters on the scene as the owner of this enormous treasure. He seized in the sack of Samara some 300,000 lbs of gold, roughly sixty-eight million sterling. He had a special train followed by his changing fortune wherever he went—to Samara, to Ufa, and after many adventures and vicissitudes, to Omsk. Koltchak sent fourteen million sterling to the Anglo-American syndicate at Hong Kong, via Vladivostok, to buy arms and munitions. On the way two million sterling of this disappeared.

From this moment the hoard begins to melt quickly. When Koltchak fled from Omsk he had no more than forty-four million sterling. The gold train took fire, and the escort rushed among the burning carriages, breaking some of the cases with crowbars and leading their pockets, their blouses and their boots with the coins and ingots. Time pressed, and though Bolshevik cavalry was in full pursuit, Czech cavalry who already held Koltchak, approached to save the train, but though Bolsheviks were before them, and mowed down the looters with machine guns, millions of gold rubles were found to be missing. When the bodies of the "gold drunk" had been stripped and the broken cases counted hot search was made, and it is still being made, for the stolen rubles among Siberian peasants along the Trans-Siberian railway.

Such, says the Manchester Guardian's correspondent, are some of the adventures of the greatest amount of precious metal ever amassed in one place since written history began.

TO LEAD NEW YORK POLICE IN WAR ON DRUGS

Criminologist Made Special Deputy Commissioner to Direct Picked Force.

Dr. Carleton Simon, alienist and criminologist, has been appointed a Special Police Commissioner in charge of drug cases by Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright of New York. Dr. Simon, who for the last eighteen months has examined many cases for the Narcotic Drug Control Commission, will serve without pay. He said that it was planned to have a special force under him, although the number had not yet been determined.

Commissioner Enright in announcing the appointment declared that the drug evil had assumed alarming proportions since prohibition went into effect, and that drugs were to a great degree responsible for much of "the worry of the Police Department." He said that within the last few months many thousands of drug addicts from all parts of the country had gathered in New York City and that there were now 40,000 drug users here who have never registered as the State law requires. Of the habitual criminals 40 per cent are drug addicts, Commissioner Enright estimated.

"Dr. Simon has shown a marvellous knowledge and insight into the mentality and lives of these unfortunates," said the Police Commissioner. "Aside from this he has been working with the New York City Police Department for the last two years upon cases requiring criminological experience and I know that he is peculiarly constituted to fill this position as no other man in New York could fill it and that he is efficient, willing in his zeal and will prove a tremendous factor in our efforts to reduce crime."

Dr. Simon is 49 years old. He was born in this city and for twenty-six years has been a practicing physician here. He discovered the sleep centre in the brain for which he was made an honorary member of the French Psychological Society. He has been a medical and insanity expert in many criminal and civil cases, including the Garbrandt, Borts, Morrison, Glidensuppe and Molneux murder trials. George Francis Train on his death bed will send his brain to Dr. Simon. He has made extensive experiments on the effects of smoking cigarettes by children and criminals.

During the last few years, Dr. Simon conducted a number of investigations, of which the best known is that of Espy, a condemned murderer, who communicated by prearranged signals showing him to be conscious after he had been hanged. He is the authority of many medical books.

Dr. Simons said last night that the Police Department was determined to stop the illicit sale of drugs and thus force the 40,000 or more secret drug users to register, both for their own protection and for the protection of society.

"Since the advent of prohibition," he said, "the habit-forming drug evil has assumed greater proportions than ever before. High faculties of mind, reason and character, as a result of drugs, are destroyed, and the person becomes irresponsible for his acts. Habit-forming drugs have the power of destroying the mental freedom of the individual and of dimming his distinction between right and wrong. The person who, before prohibition, perverted his mental faculties by the use of liquor has turned to cocaine and other drugs. If the police can end the illicit traffic in drugs they will go far to eliminate one of the most frequent causes of crime."

THE GROWING DOLLAR

(Brocton, Mass., Times.)

The dollar grows larger every day, its purchasing power increases. There is no doubt about it now. Sugar has already come down. Abundant crops are having their desirable effect upon other food-stuffs. Clothing, hats, shoes, automobiles, all are cheaper. Freer freight movement and a decrease in labor unrest are helping in every section of the land. And there is no reason to fear that this sudden and widespread reduction in costs holds danger of business disaster. Price shrinkage, in reality, indicates nothing more nor less than the dollar's gain in purchasing power. Not wages, but what wages will buy, determines living standards. Dollars saved in the war years increase in buying power—in actual value—with every day, and dollars saved now will buy more five years hence. If the present trend of business holds. Every dollar saved, of course, works not only for its owner, but also for the whole community, and for the business by which its owner lives. Thrift is more than good personal policy, intelligent selfishness. It is the soundest of national policies. When one considers that, after the Civil War, it was 1875 before prices reached their normal level again, the possible advantages of thrift might now become apparent. After all, work and economy are the foundation of well-being, whether one means the well-being of the state or of the individual.

You can wear Woollen Underwear if the "Itch" is taken out

Overheard at a Club--

One day at the Club I overheard two fellow members talking of the coming cold weather—one chap said,

"I do hate cold weather; I wish I could wear woollen underwear, but my skin is too sensitive."

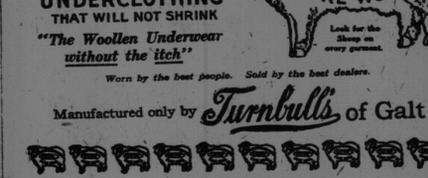

And the other said, "Well, there's one make of woollen underwear you or anyone can wear, no matter how sensitive their skins may be—and that is, 'CEETEE.'"

It is the softest stuff I have ever seen or worn—you just try it. I know you will like it."

He spoke the truth—"CEETEE" pure wool underclothing is so clean and soft a baby can wear it.

There is none other like it made in Canada. Only the finest Australian Merino wool is used.

There are no seams, as it is knitted with selvage edges, which are knitted (not sewn) together.

NEW YORK HOMES STIRRED BY A BOMB THREAT

Telephone Warning to Home of Elihu Root—Police Guard 5th Avenue Block.

The fashionable apartment house at 998 Fifth Avenue, on the northeast corner of Eighty-first Street, in which are the homes of George Vanderbilt, Elihu Root and fifteen other prominent families, was closely guarded by police and detectives of the East Eighty-eighth Street station the other night, says the New York Times, as the result of a bomb threat received by Miss Sara Lucia, the telephone operator.

Miss Lucia said the threat was spoken by a woman over the telephone, who asked if Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt were home. She was informed they were still at their country estate. "Well, it's a good thing they are not home," the unidentified woman's voice replied. "When they come back they will have no home. We are going to blow up the building tonight." With that she hung up.

After trying vainly to trace the call Miss Lucia called A. C. Moberg, superintendent of the building, who immediately got into touch with Police Headquarters. A few minutes later Detectives Harry Sommers and Al Thomas and a squad of patrolmen from the East Eighty-eighth Street Station reached the apartment house.

The patrolmen were posted along the block with instructions to apprehend all suspicious passersby. Captain Richard O'Connor of the Eighty-eighth Street station called all the men attached to

BLAMING THE OTHER FELLOW

(New York Evening Post.)

Retailers and jobbers continue to call one another names. The jobbers appear to have started it, and the retailers are retorting with "You're another." For several weeks jobbers have been complaining vociferously over returns and cancellations, and they have followed this up with sharp criticisms of the retailers for holding out against a falling market and thereby causing the slump in fall buying. For a time the retailers remained silent under this tongue lashing, but now the worm has turned. If some of their number have violated their contracts, they say, it is no more than the jobbers were doing during the period of rising prices. They charge that in past months manufacturers and jobbers frequently broke their part of the contract by refusing to fill orders when prices rose and selling goods at the advanced quotation to other dealers. They also accuse the manufacturers and jobbers of having circulated untrue reports concerning unproductive and scarcity, and allege that it was their reliance on these stories that caused them to stock up with the expensive goods that are now proving a source of embarrassment.

The unstable conditions of the last few weeks have put both sides in a bad humor, and each is seeking to saddle the troubles on the other.

Little Eleanor gazed long and thoughtfully at the young man who was calling on her grown-up sister, Kate.

"May I climb up on your knee, Mr. Greene?"

"Yes, of course, dear!" smiled the young man who wanted to make a hit with the family. "Want to pull my hair—eh?"

"No, I want to see if I can find that word."

"Word? What word?" asked the puzzled visitor.

"I heard our Kate say this morning that if ever a man had the word 'idiot' written all over his face, it was you."

the station and instructed each one to be especially alert during the night.

The apartment house is ten stories high and occupies three-quarters of the block. The Superintendent declined to give the names of all the tenants and would not say whether they had been told of the threat.
