Sworn Statement BOSTON POLICE OFFICER

H. R. STRYENS:

Dear Sir,—From exposure, I took sick about nine years ago with Rhoumatic Fever, from which I suffered about four months. When I recovered from the fever I found myself suffering with pain in my side and constipation, which brought on the piles. I consulted a physician, and paid him over $200 for attending me, and all the while I was gradually growing worse. Then one physician after another was employed, until seven of the best physicians of Boston had taken my case in hand.

later another was employed, until seven of the leading physicians of Boston had taken my case in hand.

On consultation between several of the leading physicians, they concluded my complaint was asthma and general debtlity. I had great difficulty in breathing and an inhaler was required to afford me breath. Through the treatment of one physician I took from 75 to .100 boxes of calomen phils, and fatterly refer all the medicine that each phe vast amount of medicine paed to get control to the second part of the second part

VEGETINE. FACTS WILL TELL.

GOPPSTOWN, N. H., Aug. 1, 1875.
STEVENS, Esq. :-H. R. Stevens, Esq. :—

Dear Sir.—Allow me to say a word in favor of Vegetine. During the past year I have suffered from a complication of discesses. I lay in bed from the 3d of November until the middle of the following June, and on an average did not sit up two hours a week; I had eight of the best physicians in the state, but got no help, and constantly grew worse. They agreed that I had heart disease, phthisis, pyaemia, and kidney complaint, and could never be any better. I was reduced in weight 50 pounds, which is much, for I am naturally thm. In June, finding I was failing under the treatment of the physicians, I commenced the use of Vegetine frough the earnest persuasion of friends, and, I am happy to state, with good results. I have gained ten pounds in weight, and can sit up all day, walk half a mile and ride six.

I am greatly encouraged, and shall continue using the Vegetines fi I can get it. I sm a poor man, but for the truth of this statement I refer to any man in Goffstown or vicinity.

Your, very thankfully, little stool near his chair, he thus began:

My given name, kind sir, is John Hilyard; but I have been called 'Mate Jack' ever since I was drawn by my love for the deep blue sea to enter upon a sailor's life. I was eighteen when I first went on ship-board, and for ten years I staid on the Echo, cheerfully fulfilling my duties and obeying my superior officers. I had little education or knowledge of religion, having never known a parent's eare; but to be on the sea, to lie in my berth and hear the waves swish with their long, regular the fly, the little black fly— ke the horse in the story, he's "small, but O, my! litting about in his maddening fun, e sucketh the blood of every one. the waves swish with their long, regular motion against the ship's side was worth more than books or learning to me. "After a time I left the Echo, and with the eagerness of youth for new scenes, engaged on a vessel bound for foreign parts. The Britannia was a trader, and had already been twice on trader, and had already been twice on a profitable voyage to the Upper Guinea coast, and was fitting out for a third trip when I joined her crew. They were glad to get me—I was strong and ablebodied then. The day came that we sailed; and a dark, stormy one it was. The wind blew a stiff gale before was. The wind blew a stiff gale before we had weighed anchor many hours. We were flying busily about obeying the captain's orders, when suddenly a small lad appeared in our nidst. We all gazed at him in astonishment, while with an angry look the captain seized him by his collar.

"A "stowaway!" What are you doing here!"

"The youngster, who couldn't have been more than twelve, bore his shaking with sturdy equanimity, and when he got the chance he took off his ragged cap to his rough interlocutor.

"Please, sir, don't be angry,' he said. 'haven't any father or mother, and I want to be a sailor.'

"The captain looked surprised at his coolness; then a sense of humor struck him and he lost his gruffress in a laugh. him and he lost his gruffness in a laugh, he exclaimed:
"'Well, in truth, your're a cool one!" "That was the way I first met 'Stow-way Ned,' as we called him. He it was who showed me that above the blue was who showed me that above the blue sea, whose every aspect I knew so well, was One whose power ruled the waves and stilled the highest storms. 'Stowaway Ned's' history was little enough to tell. Brought up by a poor but pious mother, who had lately died, he had been buffeted since then from corner to corner, until he hid away in our hold with the intention of becoming a sailor. He was a good little fellow; that pious mother's teachings had taken firm root mother's teachings had taken firm root and to him I owe that through all the changes and trials of my life I have had the comfort of knowing and loving that Friend 'unto whom every knee shall

"We soon grew to be great panions, 'Stowaway Ned' and I, not-withstanding the difference in our ages; and he became a prime favorite with the captain.

"Years ago there was not the facility for trading in barbarous parts that there is now, and great danger attended the adventurous white men, who risked their lives by approaching too near the neighborhood of the coast inhabited by the treacherous blacks. But our trips, which we made year after year, were

"During one of our long stops for repairs in England I met and loved a sweet-faced lassie. She was an orphan, working for her living, and as she made no objections to marry a poor sailor, with 'Stowaway Ned' for a witness, we were joined together. Then after a while the time came for me to go away again, and with tears and kisses we parted—though we little knew it—forever!

"Who is Joseph talking so angrily to, Papa ?" the child said as she saw the consequential butler gesticulating very earnestly.

On one of the broad, stone steps sat a gray haired man; but though his clothes were worn and threadbare, they were neat, and it was at once evident he was no beggar. But that was not Joseph's opinion, for in rough tones he was or clandise, and the chief had conceived the idea of capturing the white boy of whose comeliness his subjects had brought such reports.

"Ned had been standing by the rail, when suddenly a lasso, thrown by a skilful hand, had dragged him into the water and directly into a boat which,

Mr. Langley took in the situation at a glance, and silencing his officious servant, he waited to say a few kindly words, such as always came readily to the lips of this prosperous man whom good fortune had not spoiled.

"He looks so tired, papa, why don't you ask him to come in and rest a little while? Poor old man!"

There is an ancient adage somewhere, about "not kicking over the ladder you have mounted by, until you are sure you won't require it again," which seems to have been quite forgotten, if indeed it ever was known to our Tory friends. This is shown in the eagerness they have displayed since September last, in throwing over all their former professions. It will be remembered that they were strong in their cry for economy, and the careful conduct of the public service. They indulged in loud denunciations of their opponents for disregard of these virtues, and were equally loud in their which it was our duty to consider as a public journal, was—"are how public spendings and the public service.

The facts warranted the assurption that they were not, and we are sorry, to a considerable extent, but not sufficiently so to warrant the belief on our part that an unpleasant duty was overdone. As to our being prompted by any personal feling against the hundreds of the Domville class both in Parliament and outride who, clamoring for patronage, are so fully represented by the Sun. The Sun ought not, therefore, to abuse of the Sun and other New Brunswick papers on the Government side, show how difficult it is to please that class of politicians whose friendship for a party is measured by the amount of patronage with the lowliest settler he is at home, of the public settler he is at home, of the public association of the public spendings and virtues, and were equally loud in their Mr. Miller is, we think, a gentleman who reminds us of the fellow who stole bibles assertions of their determination to puruse them earnestly. In this case, however, he is unfortunate enough to be interested in a boat that is unfit for a part of our river service, which service he and his partner have undertaken to perform. The public who know the facts will, we think, not believe we have set down aught in market by our statement of them, even though they are against the Andorer and, of course, unavoidably against her owners. We, therefore, leave our remarks on the subject for public judgment as against the unworthy accusations of the writers referred to.

The hon geutlemen gave the settlers advice about building their houses, tell-ing them that they were in the habit of laying the courses of shingles too far apart on the joists of the gable ends, while they entirely ignored Blackstone's authority in the matter of attachments. He explained that wooden wainscoting fitted snugly in the corners of the ridge-pole and held in place by a screw augur mortgage was the correct thing for the prevention of drafts and beneficial to the health of the dear children, whom he always loved to kiss. He also suggested that turnips and potatoes would keep nuch better during the winter if the rafters of the cellar floor were covered with paper duly sworn to and executed as required by law in such case made and provided. The poor people were really astonished at his exhaustive knowledge of building. He

Nearly every person that has taken any preparation of Cod-Liver-Oil, knows how very liable it is to disagree with them after a time; this is mainly due to the inability of the stomach (weak-ned by disease) to digest the full amount of the oil taken.
To overcome this trouble we have added Panceratine to our Emulsion, which not only assists in digesting the oil, but is an acknowledged remedy of itself in the treatment of Consumption.

In taking Mattison's Pancreatic Emulsion of CodLiver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime, you receive the benefit of two of the best remedies known or the last four years, and are now offering to the farming community this, the BEST MOWER, combining greater excellence of mechanical plicity together with greater durability and et reliability for all the requirements of the field, any other Mower extant.—In construction they similar to the celebrated Walter A. Weod's Frame Mower, and the Richardson Buckeye, American Machines. Of the former there are 200,000 in use, and the extraordinary number 20,000 were nanufactured and sold lant seasor American Machines. Of the former there are o 200,000 in use, and the extraordinary number 20,000 were manufactured and sold last season, the Wood Company of United States. We hover 500 of our manufacture now in use, every of which (no exceptions) stands as a monument the grand and unprecedented success of homanufacture and our enterprise. A list of Agents in this section of the Province will be for appended, and farmers are requested to ask in mation of them relative to our Mowers in use their respective localities, which will estable beyond doubt their unquestienable superiority o any other mower to be had in our market.

TO THE FARMERS OF MIRAMICHI. We have been Manufacturing IRON FRAME MOWERS

The facility of procuring all parts or pieces with a nominal length of time must show beyond shadow of a doubt the claims such an enterp has upon the farmers of the Maritime Provinces. For the coming harvest of 1877 we will matcute LARGLY in excess of our nu bers of last season, and trust that our graing enterprise may find such inducements held to it as will be commensurate with its merits.

Let it be remembered, we have no hesitation the little with a maching into a frightly competitor the little with a machine in our mark the control of the little with a machine in our market. MUSIC OLD AND NEW! MUSIC POPULAR AND CLASSICAL! MUSIC FOR
