The Dominion of Canada

Occupying the northern section of the western hemisphere lies Great Britain's most extended colony, the vast Dominion of Canada, which covers an immense area of the earth's surface, surpasses that of United States, and nearly equal to that of Europe. Its population, however, is not in accordance with its dimensions there being about 6-24 million people to about 4 million square miles. It is the development of Canada during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries which we are concerned. First settled by the French in the seventeenth century, this great country came under British rule in 1763 as a result of the great struggle between the then two great colonizing powers for the dominion in America. In the revolution of 1775 the colonies to the south failed to gain adherents in Canada, which remained loyal to the mother country and repelled every attempt to invade its country. It met the war of 1812 with the same spirit, and despite the fact that there has long been a party favoring the union of Canada and United States the Canadians as a whole the most loyal subjects of the home government of Great Britain. At the opening of the 19th century the population of Canada was very small and its resources only slightly developed. Its people did not reach the million mark until about 1840 when then the population has increased rapidly. The historical particulars are desirable as a statement of the position and relations of Canada at the beginning of the nineteenth century. We all have learned of the events of the war of 1812 in which York, Toronto, was burnt and the battles of Chippewa and Lundy's Lane were fought on Canadian soil and although the Americans were victorious in the average number of battles they soon afterwards retired from Canadian soil and have never since returned in a hostile way. Many political questions have arisen between the two countries and sharp words have been spoken, but all questions have been peaceably settled and the two countries remain fairly good friends. In later years many disputes arose between Canada and United States, the most troublesome were the fishery question and boundary dispute, but these were settled by the Washington Commission. Besides these many disputes arose in Canada itself the most important being the rebellions of 1837-38 and of 1869 and 1885 but these were soon settled and the most of the things asked for by the rebels were given them. Upper and lower Canada had been united in 1840 and soon the rest of the provinces began to see that the union was very beneficial and they all began to talk of union the result was that in 1867 Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia were united by the B. N. A. Act under the name of Dominion of Canada, soon afterwards Manitoba, British Columbia and Prince Edward Island joined and during late years the other provinces and territories which now constitute the Dominion joined it. In 1880 by an act of the British Parliament the control of all the British possessions in America except Newfoundland which had not joined the Dominion was transferred to the Dominion Parliament and the country began in a large measure an independent nation. The progress of Canada during the last half century has been great and its population has in that period increased nearly 1-2. In the manufacturing industry almost every branch of production is found in Canada. The progressive enterprise of the people of the Dominion being great a large proportion of the goods they need are made here. The best evidence of this is shown by the fact that she annually exports many thousand dollars worth of goods more than she imports. In addition to the manufactured products Canada is actively agricultural and possesses vast natural wealth in the products of her rich mines, vast forests and fruitful fisheries. Not only is the outside world ignorant of the importance of Canada but few of her people realize the greatness of the country they possess. The dimensions of Canada guarantee a great variety of natural attractions. There are vast grass-covered plain, thousands of square miles of untouched forest lands, multitude of lakes, rivers, great and small mountains of the wildest and grandest character whose natural beauty rival the far famed Alpine peaks. In several respects the people of Canada are far ahead of those of other countries. Nearly every farmer owns the land he tills and the people have a feeling of independence unknown to those agricultural population of European countries. There has been great progress also in many social questions. The liquor traffic is subject to local option for restriction, religious liberty prevails, education is practically free, franchise is enjoyed by all citizens members of Parliament are paid; the government of Canada is under the control of the Governor-General who is appointed by the king, the laws of Canada are made by its own statement and a state of practical independence prevails. Recognizing this and respecting the liberty-loving people of Canada, Great Britain is careful in interfering in any way with any political question or in any sense in attempting to limit the freedom of the people of her great transatlantic colony. CORRESPONDENCE

Mr. Editor-- It is about time that some drastic action should be taken in regard to the boys--and young men--that occupy the gallery, in the hall at entertainments. There is a crowd of would-be-toughs that make it a point to always be conspicuous and annoying at every entertainment that is held. It has been suggested that the gallery be closed, or this element be kept out of the hall altogether. It is simply disgraceful that the public has to sit back and suffer this annoyance on every occasion of a public gathering. If the officer appointed to look after the peace of the community is unable to control this situation, its about time that some measures were taken to improve conditions. Some of the yells and antics of these young men would do credit to a Comanche Indian. If this is allowed to continue it will be difficult to get people to patronize any entertainment whatever the object. The police committee might look over the chapter in the town act that relates to their duties, and apply it very profitably to the officer under their immediate control.

GOOD ORDER.

BEWARE OF SUBSTITUTES! Greedy dealers endeavor to plan off a substitute Putnam's Corn Extractor. Insist on "Putnam's" only it cures corns and warts thoroughly. The imitation may fail.

THE CONCERT IN AID OF THE RINK A SUCCESS

An Excellent Program Presented. Every Number Well Received

The concert in aid of the rink took place on Thursday evening as advertised. The storm was raging without but all was cheer within. The committee deserve great credit for the pleasing program presented and the entertainment was truly an artistic success. Mr. H. R. Lawrence, president of the rink association, presided gracefully and introduced the performers with a few well chosen remarks. The "Triolet" Quartette, of St. Stephen, rendered their selections in a manner that was a treat to all lovers of music, and they were obliged to respond to several encores. The dancing of Mr. Donovan was a feature of the entertainment and delighted the audience. The flute solos of Mr. Ross proved him to be a master of that instrument. Mr. D. Lawrence McLaren in his several numbers was a very strong feature of the program. The highland fling, sailors hornpipe and playing of the bag pipes, was of a highly satisfactory order. This was Mr. McLaren's first appearance before a St. George audience but it is safe to predict that it will not be his last, as his name will in the future be an attractive feature on any musical program. Messrs. Moore and Wry in their vocal solos charmed the entire audience, and they may be sure of a warm welcome any time they appear before a St. George gathering. Mrs. George Frauley played the accordion with great skill and expression, adding much to the pleasure of the evening. The band, always ready to help in a good cause, furnished music in their usual artistic way and the applause they received was a fitting tribute to the esteem in which this musical organization is held. The boys can always deliver the goods. Mayor McGee, Ex-Mayor Lawrence, G. S. Lorr, George Frauley, Edward O'Neill, T. R. Kent and George Callum as a committee of management demonstrated their ability to successfully carry out any project they may undertake.

I. C. R. PICTURES PROVE POPULAR

New York Crowd See Them With Election Returns

At one of the principal Bulletin stations of the New York Herald on election night the waiting thousands on the street, eager for the election returns, had also an opportunity of viewing some very beautiful pictures of the scenery along the line of the Intercolonial Railway. It is the custom at the Bulletin displays to entertain the crowd, during the period between bulletins, with a series of pleasing and instructive views, the New York Herald Management never permitting anything in the nature of low comedy, or any direct advertising, on this occasion the operator decided upon the Intercolonial pictures which had been gladly furnished at his request. Twenty four view were flashed upon the screens these being selected from every portion of the line. As a letter thanking the I. C. R. authorities for the use of the slides the operator observes that the pictures were most interesting, and were viewed by no less than 50,000 people.

Several noted lecturers will use Intercolonial Railway pictures to illustrate their lectures this winter, and the attractions of the "People's Railway" will thus be displayed to thousands of a refined and cultured

CLEAR THE FILTERS!

Your Health Depends On It.

In its course around the body the blood is continually gathering up waste matter—worn out tissue and other impurities. Then it flows through the kidneys, which should filter out all this poisonous material and empty it into the bladder. But sometimes the kidneys get sluggish and clogged up with waste matter, and fail to do their work properly. Then the trouble begins. Instead of leaving the kidneys pure and life-giving, the blood comes out still loaded with Uric Acid, which it carries to every part of the body. Settling in joints and tissues, this Uric Acid very soon causes Rheumatism, with its awful suffering.

A Show of Hands

So far as the remote past is concerned, my memory is excellent. I should like to take a piece off behind, so to speak, and patch it up in front, where the machinery for registering future events is weak. It has a stupid habit of recalling things just after the time for action is passed.

Thus it allowed me to get four-fifths of the way to Hampstead before reminding me to bring a pair of gloves for the dance. The local shops were, I knew all closed; and if I returned home I should be late, and her programme would be filled up.

Then I remembered with a sudden exaltation of mood that my host was le. ming wood-carving, and always kept his old gloves for finger stalls.

I found him in the hall but he could not help me. All his old gloves, with his favorite coats and his deer old shooting boots, had been spirited away to a jumble sale.

"Come without my gloves?" asked Jones. "I don't like Jones, but there was a ray of hope in his query, "Yes," I replied eagerly.

"Pity," said Jones. "What can I do?" I demanded fiercely. Jones pondered. His face brightened suddenly. So did mine. There's some tennis-court whitening in the shed," he said, "and if you only dance with girls with white dresses it won't matter if it does come off a bit."

Then I caught sight of her in pale blue. She was quite nice about the gloves and said that she had kept six dances for me, but that she really couldn't sit them out. The floor was too lvelly and the band a simple dream.

I retired to a lonely color for thought. Even the solace of a cigarette was denied me. She objected strongly to men smoking at dances. As I might have the pleasure of driving home with her afterwards I dared not disobey.

My host unlearned me before the third dance was over. "Just the very man I want," he cried heartily and dragged me off resisting.

She wasn't exactly a wall flower. She belonged rather to some species of Virginia creeper—doomed to be everlastingly fixed to the wall. I began to scribble imaginary engagements all over my programme at frantic speed.

This poor fellow has come without any gloves," said my host. "His programme is empty, and it would be an act of real charity to sit out with him."

mean, can't I get you some claret-cup or something?"

"No thank you."

"Or some lemonade or anything of that sort?"

"No thank you."

"But I insist—you haven't had anything to drink for over an hour."

"No thank you."

"But I really must insist," edging backwards till I reached the stairs. Then I turned and fled back to my previous hiding-place.

An hour later I was discovered by my hostess. "Poor man," she said, "all alone? But you won't want gloves for supper. Come with me. I've got someone for you to take down."

My heart rose again. "Thanks so much," I replied. "I've just been bored to death by my one and only partner." (This of course, was not a tactful thing to say to a hostess.)

She stopped suddenly and spoke to some one round the corner.

"I'm so glad you're still here. I want you to cheer up a poor man who has been bored to death by his one and only partner."

She turned to me and stepped aside.

"Let me introduce you to Miss Groggins."

Appetite and indignation battled fiercely for a mastery, and appetite won. We sat at a table from which I had an uninterrupted view of Her.

Also an equally good view of Jones. I became reckless. I talked merrily and unceasingly. My partner thawed once when I spoke of Browning, and froze again with a snap when I compared his Hunting of the Snark to Byron's Ancient Mariner.

I spent the rest of the night in strict seclusion, except on one occasion when my host's sister in law dragged me out and introduced me to Miss Groggins.

At last the strains of the national anthem reached my eager ear. I waited by the hall door till she came down Jones also waited.

She looked at us in laughing despair.

"There isn't room for you both she said.

"It is my turn," I pleaded humbly. She regarded us judicially for some seconds. "Well, I can't decide without being very rude to one of you—so I will refer it to a higher court. My aunt hasn't met either of you, and she shall have the casting vote."

Oh, yee, the aunt was Miss Groggins right enough—and Jones secured the seat by an overwhelming majority of two to one.

I decided to walk home. The grey hopeless dawn suited my mood. I wanted a smoke, too, desperately. I felt in my pockets.

I repeated the process, I had forgotten to bring my cigarette case! I felt despairingly in the tail pocket of my dress coat. I never use this pocket—but perhaps, in a fit of absent-mindedness, I had put it there! I didn't find it. All I found was a pair of unsoiled gloves which I had worn the night before!

Punch.

A Plea for one who Failed

They called him Failure; all the busy throng Of bold, successful men, and idlers told Beneath their breath, the sorry tale Of futile losses. But one heart of Gold Remembered other days, his eager youth, His charm, his promise, all his careless truth, Remembered, too, the hampered race he ran, His handicap of care beyond his years, A boy, slight, craggy, with duties of a man, A man restrained from ranking with his peers, His gift—a touch of genius, Heaven-sent, His tragedy—its undevelopment! Ah, ye brave Sons of Fortunes favoring— Forge your splendid scorn of Un-success! Not always does the finger fit the ring, Nor heart of hero beat 'neath kingly dress, A failure—granted! But you, in his place, Failure might have tarnished Disgrace! In Newport Herburn in

The Unexpected

It is a great mistake to do the obvious thing when we are snubbed or slighted or sharply attacked. The obvious and expected thing, under the circumstances, is to "give as good as we get," with a fine show of heat and resentment. But anybody can do that, and almost everybody does it. It is only a common place way to act, and no one really wants to be commonplace. The better way is to disappoint our opponent by doing nothing. The man who can pleasantly and persistently ignore every slur and slight that is thrust upon him is impregnable. And when we know that we are in the right, and that the attack is unjustified, that is the time of all times to ignore it; for only one who is sure of his position can safely afford to take this high ground.

ARE YOU PALE ANAEMIC

Anemic means colorless blood—means languor, blanched lips, faded cheeks. You grow dyspeptic, nervous, suffer functional irregularity. This condition can't exist if there is plenty of blood, rich nutritious blood—that's why it cures. In concentrated form Ferrozone contains certain rare qualities that render it unfailing in Anemic, poor color and loss of weight. To build up—feel young and vigorous, nothing is better than Ferrozone. At all dealers in 50c. boxes.

Dying of Cholera

Local Physician Says Thousands Dying in Europe can be Saved With Proper Medicine

What is it that keeps down cholera, cramps, and summer complaints in America? Ask any doctor or live druggist and he will tell you "Nerviline." Just fancy, a million bottles are sold every year to people who use Nerviline for stomach disorder, cramps, flatulence, and summer complaint. For fifty years in most Canadian homes no other pain relieving medicine but Nerviline is kept. Nothing cures the aches, pains and sickness of the entire family so quickly as Nerviline.

"As far back as I can remember, at least 50 years ago, there was never a time that our house was without 'Nerviline.' In the summer time, when the children ate green apples and got sick with diarrhoea and cramps, it was Nerviline that cured them. My father used Nerviline frequently to cure gas on his stomach and acute indigestion. There are but few minor ailments that Nerviline does not cure, and I know of no medicine so useful; in fact, so indispensable around the home as Nerviline."

This letter, written by Mrs. N. C. Butcher, a well known resident in Batterssea, shows the high opinion entertained of Nerviline by those who have used it constantly for nearly half a century.

You'll never regret using Nerviline. Get it to-day, keep it on hand for an accident or sudden case of sickness in your home. Refuse anything else offered you instead of Nerviline. 25c per bottle, or five for 1.00. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Mr. Haggart is the Oldest Commoner

An interesting study at the beginning of every Parliament is to discover who the oldest members are, as the number of those who were returned to Parliament in 1896, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier attained power, is now rapidly diminishing, the following is the list of the thirty who remain—

Conservatives—Major Thomas Beattie, London; R. L. Borden, Halifax; Andrew Broder, Dundas; Hon. George E. Foster, North Toronto; Hon. John G. Hazen, South Larnak; David Henderson, Halton; Colonel Samuel Hughes, Victoria and Haliburton; F. D. Monk, Jacques Cartier; William B. Northrup, East Hastings; E. D. Oster, West Toronto; Dr. John J. ### No Hope for the Entombed Miners

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 17.—An explosion to-day threatens the St. Paul mine as the burning of the coal and the action of fire and water may cause gas to form in large quantities. In an effort to rid the mine of this gas, the air shaft will be opened and the big fan started. Upon the success of this action will depend the plans of the men trying to bring the interior fire under control and effect an entrance. Early to-day the engine pumping water into the hoisting shaft was stopped. The water evidently was failing to reach the flames, since the fire is fiercest in the galleries and the water descends beyond it to the bottom of the shaft. The water has been forced to the bottom in quantities sufficient to have filled the "Sump" or drainage basin and lower galleries. It is possible the fire pumps will resume action later in the day. The fire is now hotter than it has been any time before.

The inquest over the death of the rescuers who perished Saturday was not continued to-day. Threats have been made against Rosenback, the cager, who is said to have deserted his post the first day of the disaster. Capt. Hall, in command of the militia now on the ground, found no evidence of trouble, when he arose to-day. "I can't see any need for troops here," he said. The soldiers were scattered about the mine. Their presence caused no demonstration from the miners.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 17.—State troops were on the ground to-day when the sun rose on the scene of Saturday's disaster in the St. Paul coal mine, where 300 men are now entombed.

Before dawn the daily pilgrimage of women to the mine began. The faithful vigil of the women has been relaxed only a few hours each day, though little hope is entertained that a living man or boy will be found when the mine is opened. The delay in recovering the bodies has driven scores of women to desperation. Hints of a possible demonstration against the state officers or mine officials reached the ears of State Attorney Eckhart yesterday and troops were sent for. All night they did sentinel duty about the mine and railroad cars containing mine inspectors and nurses and the private coach of President Harding of the St. Paul road.

During the night tons of water were forced down in the burning mine through the hoist shaft. Fire chief Horan and Captain Kenny with engine 40 and a squad of Chicago firemen are in charge of this work. The thoroughness of the persons directing the relief will make physical hardship and suffering impossible if sufficient funds are received. The following cases are typical:

Louis Galletto, 45, his two brothers and his eldest son, John, 18, were among the victims. Louis Galletto leaves a widow who is a chronic invalid and six dependent children, the youngest five years old. Joe Zenke, 35, perished. He leaves a widow and seven children, the eldest of whom is Annie, aged 13.

After four days the St. Paul coal mine in which are still entombed the corpses of 300 or more miners as a result of last Saturday's fire, refused to-day to yield up its dead. Utter failure to devise any satisfactory method of recovering the bodies left the situation the same to-day as it was last night.

The interior of the mine is burning almost as fiercely as ever. The partial opening of the seal over the mouth of the hoisting shaft today allowed puffs of smoke to escape, showing the fury of the internal combustion.

While two companies of state troops were present to prevent possible disorder they remained idle except for guard duty about the mine.

At a conference of federal, state and local mining experts, it was agreed after five hours of deliberation that no immediate descent could be made into the gas and heat-filled mine without risk to those who made the attempt. No definite plans were reached for extinguishing the fire or for entering the mine.

To allay the anxiety of survivors and relatives and to satisfy general craving for news of conditions in the mine, those in charge of the work allowed spectators to gather near the shaft to-day. Details of what was done were publicly announced through a megaphone. When mining Engineer Rice lowered a thermometer through a hole in the shaft, the announcer shouted to the crowd:

"One hundred and seven degrees at the bottom."

"That's not bad," cried voices.

The onlookers began to try to convince each other that an attempt to enter the mine would now be made. But the announcer explained to the crowd that owing to the deadly gases the mine could not be entered until the fire was out.

Later—Twenty miners have been discovered alive and brought to the surface. Searching parties are still working.

APPRECIATION OF THINGS CANADIAN

After nearly 2,000 miles of railway travel and a visit of a fortnight in Cleveland and New York cities we have come back to Canada with a very much higher appreciation of our country and the Canadian.

We have many reasons for being proud of Canadians and of the moral, religious and social conditions as compared with the state of society across the international boundary line. Just now we have in mind the various American publications. Even the best of the dailies are not comparable as family newspapers with the Montreal, Toronto, London and the smaller city dailies, and there is still room for considerable further improvements in most of these—we refer to the papers that devote too much space to sports, sensational scandals, the exploiting of the business of mining stock brokers, the brewers, distillers and other things that are not contributory to the development, uplifting and moral improvement of our citizens. But the ordinary American newspaper gives the greatest attention and prominence to conditions that wreck the homes and ruin the happiness of the occupants. High life in the cities according to these journals must be in a terrible condition.

—Bourneville Statesman.

Andrew Carnegie, that great Prince of finances, has said: "The man in business is called upon to deal with an ever-changing variety of questions. It is not sufficient for the merchant and business man of our day that he know his country well, its physical conditions, its resources, statistics, crops, its finances, in short all conditions which affect not only the present but which give him data upon which he can predict with some degree of certainty, the future. This certainly seems to be demanded of all those who wish to advance their business. A knowledge of the country in which they do business and from which they expect returns for whatever effort they may make to develop that business, whatever it may be, in which they were engaged. Much has been said of the decrease in the country trade, which comes to this town and many reasons have been given for this decline. Now it is not the object of this article to prove that less business is coming in to St. George than formerly, but surely to point out that much can be done to increase the country trade of this place. There is no town of the pretension of St. George, either in population or in the extent of business done, but has one if not several dealers in farm produce. There is no such establishment in this place. If a farmer should bring 50 barrels of potatoes and a few tons of hay into this town he would have much difficulty in disposing of his merchandise, for the simple reason there is no business man in a position to take this produce from him, hence he takes his merchandise to St. Andrews or St. Stephen where he is sure of a market and a good customer is lost to our town. And this is not the worst feature of this lack of a market. Our farmers know their market is limited, they know that to export their stuff in small quantities means a heavy freight bill and the final profit will be small indeed, but if under better conditions, if for instance we had one or two farm produce dealers with good connections in the city of St. John, then the farmer would know that he had always a market in St. George for his crops whatever that crops might be, and he would have an incentive to farm more extensively knowing that his labour would not be in vain. If such were the case and if every spring the dealers would interview the farmers regarding their prospective crops there is no doubt but what the output in this section of the country in this line could be easily doubled. There is no finer farming section in this country than the valley of the old Macquoddy river, and with a little encouragement and stimulation the available territory can be made to blossom and the rose and support a population double the present time, and that with much greater abundance.

BY THE WAY

All employees have been dismissed by the L. C. R. board of management.

A little thing like drinking rain cannot dampen the ardor of a good working committee.

In the good old days midnight concerts on the corners were proverbial and nobody objected. Great changes!

November has been a general month, in spite of much rain. We don't expect much in the way of weather this month.

Mr. H. R. Lawrence pulled a beet in his garden this fall that measured 26 inches in length. It had probably started to make connections with some other continent.

Man's job does not appear to like the idea of a Canadian navy. The idea of the Winnipeggers appears to be that we should go in merely for armored grain boats. —Halifax Echo.

If something could be done to provide good surroundings for boys released from the reformatories they might be saved to industrious manhood and good citizenship. The question deserves serious consideration. —Times, St. John.

The United States begins to recognize the strength of Canada's position and no doubt the justice or the advantage of retaliatory legislation. At any time the United States can have better trade relations with Canada by reducing its duties to the Canadian level. —News-Toronto.

Of what use is it to drill a boy in writing, arithmetic and bookkeeping, if he is allowed to retain a rudimentary amount and a slovenliness of person that causes a prospective employer to reject him, or an actual employer to dispense with his services as soon as possible? —Toronto Star.

We are informed that the unwholesome air and penetrate the houses and bed rooms of the weary, the ill and the sleep-walkers of the lower section of our town, are but the offerings of the Sun worshippers, a new sect, whose members are not well versed in the ancient lore of their religion, once powerful in Persia, known as Fire worshippers and famous for gentleness of manner and mildness of voice.

"Tears, idle tears." Not at all! Tears are never idle; they are good, they do a revivifying work, in spite of all reasons for their fall, and those who can weep are always the better for their overflow. Cry, cry, cry all you can, is the latest advice of the psychologist, the physiologist, the student of human life. All the emotions, love, hatred, fear are relieved by weeping. Self-control, courage, stoicism are splendid up to a certain point, but after that weep as much as you will. It is even said that tears are a physical beautifier, inasmuch as they purify the soul and uplift the spirit by appeal to higher powers. The old woman's notion that weeping injures the physical being has exploded, for science now says it clears the eye and acts the blood coursing through the veins. Therefore, never discourage your wife when she cries for the moon, or punish the baby for squalling. It is a wholesome, natural act, to be indulged in under provocations that need not here be mentioned. When mental anguish assails us, let us pray for the relief of tears, those "idle tears," which soothe and exhaust the grief-stricken.

At the End of the Road

There's an old wood-path that the cattle roam

Thro' shady groves; and at dusk they come

To slake their thirst in the shallow pool

Or stand knee-deep in the rashe cool.

It winds and turns through a dim, dark wood

Where for years the towering pines have stood

Stern sentinels, that o'er the land

Keep unless watch, a silent band!

Then down it dips to a rippling brook

That flows through many a quiet nook

And by the old broken bridge it goes

Away to the fields where the strawberry grows.

Then on and up a hillside steep,

And into hidden places deep.

By moss-grown rocks where the adder glides,

Thro' tangled thorn where the red fox hides

Till at length it ends in a forest glade,

And beneath the soft green juniper's shade

You are waiting there with a smiling face,

To hold me close in your fond embrace.

CARRIE M. EMBRETT.

Winslow S. Dutch, for many years a conductor on the then Grand Southern Railway died at his home in Calais Monday morning, after an illness of several months of paralysis. Most of the sardine canning factories have already ceased operations, and the present week will doubtless see several others closed. The season of 1909 has not been a profitable one, either to manufacturer or employee. The fall season, generally the best part of the year for the business, has been unusually quiet, on account of the scarcity of fish. Taken all together, the season of 1909 has been the poorest, remembered in the business, for many years.—Eastport Sentinel.

Herman Thompson was placed under arrest last week at the instigation of the Singer Sewing machine company, who charged him with theft, embezzlement and forgery. The case was called for trial on Tuesday and again on Wednesday, when a further postponement was granted until Thursday. Thompson who had previously borne an excellent reputation became short in his accounts while acting as agent for the company. The case will probably be settled out of court.

More or less wreckage from the S. S. Hestia is coming ashore every day at Brier and Long Islands and along Digby Neck, nearly all of which is considerably damaged and is found in too small quantities to make it worth while to make an official report of the same. One of the steamer's boats recently came ashore at Bear Cove, Long Island, but was entirely destroyed in the heavy surf. A set of steps, small water barrels, life jackets and a quantity of other things are the principal things which have been found. Some of the whiskey was damaged and is now being stored in charge of the port.—Digby

Crushed between two freight cars and then literally cut to pieces by the wheels was the fate early to-day of Murray Green, a switchman, employed by the Canadian Northern Railway.

At the time of the accident, 9.30 o'clock, Green was crossing the tracks in the east yards of the company and apparently thought he could get between two cars before they switched up again. In this, however, he was mistaken, for he was just over the nearest rail when the car came together with a sudden crash and then started in motion. When he was pulled out his remains presented a horrible sight and after the coroner had been notified they were removed to Clark Bros. & Hughes undertaking rooms where an inquest was held.

Deceased was 51 years of age and lived at 518 Langside street, where he leaves a wife and daughter. He was a member of the Oddfellows, Knights of Pythias and Lodge No 691 of the Brotherhood of Tradesmen. George and Cory Green, conductors on the N. E. Railway are brothers of the deceased.—Winnipeg Tribune.

NOTHING EXCEPTED!

A Discount of 20 to 50 per cent. on any Suit or Overcoat in our entire stock. A Discount of 10 to 25 per cent. on all other goods in our Clothing Store.

The above means that we are willing to sell some goods at less than cost. We are NOT offering odds and ends of undesirable lots, but give you a chance to take your choice of our latest and most up-to-date merchandise. We have a good big stock of Fall and Winter Goods on hand. We do not expect to buy any more this season, but will promise to sell what we now have at the discounts named above, so long as the sale lasts.

We understand that many persons actually believe that all "cut price sales" are a sort of "bunco game" whereby the merchant "flim flams" the price so that "Now you see it and now you don't," but keeps it there just the same.

With this in mind, we would respectfully submit the following, simply stating that no business man with a particle of common sense would keep men in his employ to handle his money, if he knew they would deliberately take oath to a falsehood.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY that I am an employee of Fred A. Holmes; that I have free access to all invoices of goods bought for his Eastport and Lubec stores, to know the cost prices. My instructions from Mr. Holmes have always been, "Do not misrepresent goods to customers." No inferior goods or seconds are ever advertised, or offered for sale in the store I work in, under any misrepresentation of their actual worth. No prices are ever "marked up" on any goods for the purpose of making it appear that the selling price is a "cut price." I know of no instance where a cut price was ever claimed or advertised in this store for any sale which was not an actual cut from the regular price.

Inspector Calder's Fishery Report for 1908-9

I report to you a decrease in the value of the catch as compared with that of last year of $179,808.60. The value of the catch of 1907-8 was $1,554,601.10, and of this year's catch is $1,374,792.40. While the value of the yield for this year is 11 per cent. less than the previous year, yet it is slightly greater than the value of the catch of 1906. The decrease this year cannot be attributed to a scarcity of fish, but is wholly due to the extremely poor condition of the dry fish market, and the dispute between the American sardine canners and the Canadian well owners over the price to be paid for sardine herring. The weather was exceptionally fine during the greater part of the season and sardine herring and also most kinds of ground fish were very plentiful and if the market conditions had been at all satisfactory there would have been a record breaking catch of herring. This has been another poor year for the large herring industry both smoked and salted in barrels. There were 2,560 barrels salted this year against 2,460 in 1907, but a good catch would be at least 8,000 barrels. There is also a large decrease in the amount of herring smoked as compared with last year, or any recent year. Last year there were 3,995,700 pounds of smoked herring and this year only 1,493,000 pounds. This large decrease is due to the failure of the medium sized and large herring fishery at Grand Manan. Their weirs were teeming with small sardine herring, but very few larger ones. Sardines: I have to report an increase of 33,983 barrels in the catch of sardine herring over the previous year. In 1907 252,269 barrels were caught, while the catch for this year totalled 286,254 barrels. But this increase of 13 per cent. does not by any means show the relative proportion of these fish that were in the weirs this year, as compared with last year. Never in the history of the sardine industry were there so many of these fish in the weirs as there were this season, but owing to the disagreement regarding the price to be paid for them only an ordinary yield was taken out. Lobsters: Again I have to report a decrease in the catch of the lobster fishmen, about 17 per cent. in the amount sold fresh and 42 per cent. in the amount canned. I would respectfully urge the adoption of the 10-1-2 inch size limit upon lobsters in this district. The State of Maine lobster regulations are much better for this section than our present regulations. In Maine they have a size limit that is the equivalent of the ten and one half inch measure on our side, and it is highly satisfactory, and almost unanimously one fishermen are asking for it. I would very much like to see the Maine regulations, both as regards the size limit and a long open season given a good trial in this district. I feel sure that if it is done and the regulations are rightly enforced that this fishery will be placed on a much better basis than at present. I have to report, however, that the nine inch limit is being well observed but situated so closely as our fishermen are to the American market, they prefer to allow the nine inch lobster remain in the ocean until it has reached 10-1-2 inches in length, when it will only increase ten-fold in value, but will be large enough to produce its kind. Cod: This fishery remains about stationary. There is a slight decrease in the amount of dried, and quite an increase in the amount sold fresh, taken altogether there has probably been a small increase in the yield for this year. The figures are: 1907, 4,042 cwt. dried and 202,800 lbs. sold fresh and frozen. In 1908, 4,639 cwt. were dried and 385,800 lbs. fresh. Hake: The extraordinary large catch of hake for 1907 was duplicated this year; in fact the catch this year exceeded that of the previous year, but there is a lamentable difference in the price paid for dry hake last year and this. In 1907 they were sold as high as $3 per cwt. This year they sold as low as $1.25 per cwt. There were 36,032 cwt. caught during 1907 and 39,400 cwt. this year. Hake sounds also dropped from an average of fifty cents per pound in 1907, to about twenty-five cents in 1908. Haddock: The quantity of haddock sold either fresh, dried, or as finnan haddies were greater than the previous year. In 1907 there were 1,487,000 lbs. sold fresh, 686 cwt. dried and 108,300 lbs. of finnan haddies. In 1908 there were 1,547,700 lbs. sold fresh, 596 cwt. dried and 194,900 lbs. of finnan haddies. An increase of about 20 per cent is to be noted in the returns of the pollock fishery. There were 25,860 cwt. caught in 1907 and 30,565 cwt. this season. Very little dynamiting was done this year. The Carlew did good work in patrolling the off shore grounds, and I cannot speak too highly of the work performed by Guardian Harvey at Whitehead. Patrolmen Mitchell and Cline assisted by Guardian Fountain at Deer Island, working in conjunction with the fishery officer from

The Family Physician

The best medicines in the world cannot take the place of the family physician. Consult him early when taken ill. If the trouble is with your throat, bronchial tubes, or lungs, ask him about taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Then take it or not, as he says.

We publish our formulas from our medicines so that you can see exactly what you are getting. We make no secret of it. Billious attacks, sick-headaches, indigestion, constipation, dizzy spells—these are some of the results of an inactive liver. Ask your doctor if he endorses Ayer's Pills in these cases. The dose is small, one pill at bedtime.

Made by the Dr. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

The State of Maine, were able to effectually check the dynamiters and as a result the pollock were very plentiful and remained on the shores until December. Claims: 47,943 brls. of clams were sold in 1907 and only 10,765 brls. this season, a falling off of about 78 per cent. There were 594,000 cans of clams put up at the Charlotte County canneries this year as against 649,864 cans in 1907. The shortage in the yield of the clam industry is occasioned by the lack of demand for canned clams in the American markets. There were so many of the sardine canneries at Eastport and Lubec, Me., converted into clam factories during the winter of 1906-8 that their market was simply glutted with the product, and as a result very few operated this year. As the Canadian canners sell a large part of their pack in the United States there was a decrease in the quantity put up by them as compared with 1907. Alveoles: The catch of alveoles for this year is considerably less than last year. The totals are 13,333 brls. in 1907 and 10,150 in 1908. Dogfish: were not very numerous this season and the fishermen were bothered very little by them.

LORD'S COVE

Everett Stuart's boat "The Furber" went ashore last week during the heavy southerly storm, and it is a total wreck. Walter Stuart has gone to the lumber woods for the winter. Our summer visitors have left us, with many good wishes we hope. Richard English has sold his boat "The Alta" to Grand Manan parties. Paul Grosset was in town on business last week. Guy Stuart has begun work on his new house.

It is rumored that Mr. Steadman Fountain is to build a new hotel next season. It will fill a long felt want. Gustavus Hart is building a flying machine of some kind, we wish him success.

BEWARE OF COCAINE MEDICINES

Thousands of Drug Fiend have been started on their downward course through the use of Cocaine. Beware of this habit forming drug. If you suffer from a cold sneezing or Catarrh—don't use a snuff—use a snuff that contains Cocaine. It heals and soothes, brings relief at once, cures thoroughly. In bronchitis and throat trouble no doctor can do better than prescribe Catarrhose. Try it—see what wonders it works—what power it possesses. Different from the old way—you inhale Catarrhose. Sold in 25c. and $1.00 sizes by all dealers.

Obituary

MRS. GEORGE EVANS
Mrs. George Evans died on Thursday morning of typhoid fever. Seldom has the angel of death descended on one of our people, whose death has been more pitiful. Young, only 29 years of age, known to the most of us as a healthy, vigorous and smart appearing woman. She is dead, the victim of this dread typhoid, contracted in nursing her husband. Six little children all boys—are motherless. She died with the wail of her seven months old babe in her ears, with the other little ones—the eldest ten years old—crying about her, with her husband distracted and feeble from the ravages of the disease unable to aid her, died in the glory of her womanhood and her death has profoundly affected the community. On Friday the remains were taken to Moncton where internment took place. Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hanson, the later a sister of the deceased accompanied the remains.

NEW RIVER

There were nine Western Union men boarding the New River house. L. B. Knight and Mr. Murrlock returned to their homes in St. John, Saturday, after spending the week in a cruise in the woods. Samuel Austin, spent Thursday night at New River. James Shepherd, made a business trip up around the camps this week. Several men came out of the woods and went up on the train Wednesday. Mr. Smith had his own team and driver come Friday, to work around the mill.
