

SUMMARY OF N.B. WATER POWERS BILL

Three Districts Proposed by Bill Introduced by Premier Foster Before Legislature. DESIGNED TO ASSIST INDUSTRIES OF PROVINCE Not to Interfere With Honest Intention of Private Enterprises in Power Development.

The following is a summary of the Water Power Development Bill introduced into the Legislature by Premier Foster yesterday. This bill is designed to assist the industries of the province through which the Government will be able to acquire the water power rights in the province. The bill is designed to assist the industries of the province through which the Government will be able to acquire the water power rights in the province.

The bill contemplates that there may be a member of the Government appointed to the commission, and this may be considered to be a good policy in order that the administration may keep closely in touch with the business being carried on. It is proposed by the Government to obtain the services of men who are well qualified to deal with the matters involved.

It will be the duty of this commission, from time to time, to report to the Government as to the conditions surrounding the question of water development in this province. Section 9 of the bill contains an enumeration of powers which the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may confer upon this Commission.

It will be noted by Sub-Section (13) of Section 9, that the Government may authorize the Commission to issue bonds and borrow money. Other sections of the bill provide that the Government may guarantee bonds of the Commission or advance by a bank a whole or a part of the amount of indebtedness which may be incurred by the Commission.

This year it will be necessary to leave the question as to the beginning of development to the Government and the Commission. It is contemplated that as the province unfolds itself, the Legislature next year and the following years will be able to determine what development should take place and where, and the extent of the liability which is to be authorized from time to time.

WHAT'S YOUR GAME, AMERICA?

(Reprinted by Request.)
 (By Harriet Bottumley in John Bull.)
 This week, despite the great interest of the political situation at home, I want a word with our friend, Uncle Sam. While most people are looking to the East, endeavoring to pick up some sort of clue to the government's misadventures towards Russia and the complex problems created by the progress of Bolshevism in Asia, I invite my readers to turn their eyes to the West, where we may witness one of the most amazing political complications of our time, worthy, as I contend, of the closest study by all who have at heart the safety and honor of Britain. We will begin, if you please, with the remarkable declaration of Admiral Sims, the distinguished officer in whose hands was placed the direction of the United States naval effort in the war with Germany, and who on account of certain allegations of "graft" against the Navy Department was recently called upon to give evidence before a Special Committee of the Senate. The gallant admiral was "some" witness. Describing the instructions conveyed to him by the United States government on the eve of his departure for Europe—while America was still a "neutral"—Admiral Sims told how he was warned not to allow the perfidious English to "pull the wool over his eyes"; "the United States Navy Department, he was told, would 'as soon fight Great Britain as Germany,' and in any case the Washington government were in no need 'to pull the British chestnuts from the fire.' Nice and friendly, wasn't it? Polite and civil talk between cousins!

As was to be expected, Mr. Josephus Daniels, the secretary of the navy department, has since bobbed up to say that he never gave or sanctioned any such "instructions"—almost hitting that Admiral Sims, the most popular of American naval officers, is the biggest liar since Ananias, and a disgrace to the memory of George Washington. But, if I may say so with respect, this explanation "won't wash." And I think I can supply the true one. Some years ago, while war between Great Britain and Germany was still regarded in official circles as a remote and unlikely event, this same Admiral Sims was a guest at our Lord Mayor's banquet in London, when, in the course of a friendly speech, he used the following words: "If the time ever comes when the British Empire is seriously menaced by an external enemy it is my opinion that you can count upon every man, every dollar, and every drop of blood of your kindred across the seas." Now, I do not regard for a moment suggest that in this remarkable utterance the American admiral was trying to "pull the wool over our eyes"; this was his "opinion," and he stated it with courage and candor. And, of course, Washington was delighted with the speech, so called, to cement good relations between the two great English-speaking nations. Was this, then, the "opinion" of the outspoken admiral was severely reprimanded by President Taft, and from that day forward was a marked man, branded as an Anglophile—a lover of Britain? So when, years later, at the height of the German submarine menace, he was sent over to England to confer with the British naval authorities, he had to be solemnly warned, his "instructions" being conveyed in terms as hostile as if we had been at war with America instead of with Germany. In these circumstances, Mr. Josephus Daniels' bold disclaimer carries no conviction. Personally, I do not believe that Admiral Sims is telling lies, and, to put the matter quite shortly, if the gib agitator for this first-rate diplomatic blunder do not like my saying so, they can "do the other thing."

For not to put too fine a point upon it, I am "fed up" with Uncle Sam. The time has come for plain speaking, and I will be no party to the "mustn't mention it" policy adopted by most of the Fleet Street writers with reference to the sentiments of the American people and their attitude towards Great Britain. I see no reason whatever why we should flatter the vanity of this hustling race by lauding to the skies their part in the war, hailing the American president as the genius of world-politics, and pretending to cover at Washington virtues that are absent from every European capital. If we are to consider America's part in the war, we will consider it, if you please, as a whole, and begin at the beginning. What was the attitude of the United States government, of President Wilson, and his white-soled colleagues—indeed, of the whole American people, with trifling exceptions—when the German Emperor struck his caustic blow of the independence and integrity of Belgium? What was their policy when this little country flowed with the blood of the innocent, when the women and children were ruthlessly put to the sword, when, in the first bitter hours of her long martyrdom, foul crime and brutal outrage cried to all just men for vengeance?

I say deliberately that the shame of America's inaction in that fatal hour of her silence, when the whole fabric of civilization was assailed—of her failure to utter so much as a single collective protest against crimes of the blackest kind—will stand for ever as a monument of infamy before which for centuries to come, every decent American should hang his head in shame. It is the shame of the American people, and it is the shame of America, which she has refused to acknowledge. She has refused to acknowledge the moral leadership of the nations, if—with none of her interests immediately threatened, with no axe to grind, no gain to hope for and no material peril of any sort to avert—she had boldly taken her stand on the side of Truth and Justice, ordering to be flung her sword or even the full weight of her moral influence, into the scale of Right, then we might have respected her claim to be regarded as the arbiter of the struggle between Liberty and Despotism, every factory and arsenal hummed with activity, so that her offers swelled to the gold of the Allies. Then at least, when the direct challenge to her security implied in the submarine policy of Germany left her no choice, she would have stood the victors. What sort of a record is this, I ask to set by the side of the noble traditions of Britain, of Italy's spirited adventure, of the sturdy friendship of Japan, or of the superb loyalty and stout-hearted gallantry of France?

Now, I do not propose to retaliate in kind upon the American "lingoes" who are doing their best to wreck the hopes of a good understanding between the United States and Great Britain. I should not dream, for instance, of boasting that we on this side of the water are quite able to defend ourselves, our land, our sovereignty, and our place in the sun, "against an American attack, or that we 'have no reason to fear' American ambition, American arms, or American sea-power, 'if we successfully resist American propaganda and American intrigue.' But I do earnestly suggest that we should be on our guard against Yankee bluffs and that we should not, in Mr. Daniels' phrase, allow Uncle Sam to "pull the wool over our eyes." I do not want to talk in the Hearst vein about "licking America" or seeing the United States "broken in pieces beyond any hope of repairs," but I do very earnestly ask, "Is America our friend?" Because if not we had better know it, and we can make our plans accordingly. Like individuals, nations who mistake foes for friends are apt to come a bad cropper, and we in this country have had enough trouble to last us for a bit, without being defeated to fresh difficulties. As regards the past, I decline for any specious reason to trifle with the truth as I see it.

When I read in a pamphlet published in New York and circulated broadcast throughout the American continent, that "the United States saved the British from a good licking, and they hate us about it," I have no hesitation in branding this statement as an infamous lie, whose calculated purpose is to embitter the relations of the two countries and to hinder the American government from discharging its explicit pledges under the Peace Treaty. The truth is that, throughout the first three years of the struggle with Germany, America waited to see which way the fortunes of war inclined, so as finally to come in on the winning side. Let nothing, I say, be done to imply a want of respect for the gallant American troops, who in the closing stages of the war made common cause with our own brave fellows of the stricken fields of France. I am talking not of soldiers, but of politicians, and I am as certain as I am of history's verdict upon Britain's noble effort in the war, that before the judgment bar of posterity the figures that strided so largely upon the stage at Washington—even that of Woodrow Wilson himself, with his elaborate claims to the leadership of the Hour produced the Man; in America they had to make do with a few pygmies and a professor. But that pitiful tragedy is past. Is there another brewing? Is the stature of Josephus Daniels, with his reckless statements and hasty denials, to be the measure for American statesmanship? Are we to have more "revelations" like those of Admiral Sims, showing that the madness of international hatred has taken root at Washington, fouling the very nest of Wilson's precious League of Nations, and evincing to the world the hollowness and pendency of the "highfalutin" sentiments that passed muster at Versailles? In short, are the Yankees playing a straight game, or are they—I can think of no better phrase—seeking to "pull the wool over our eyes"? And, also, I should like to know who is in control at Washington. Is it Wilson, of the high ideals, or is it a knot of fire-eating jingoes.

I am afraid, Admiral Sims must have had some bitter moments during the war if he really meant all he said at the Lord Mayor's banquet. I remember the words. If ever Great Britain was "seriously menaced by an external enemy," we might count "upon every man and every dollar" from across the water. Well, it didn't come off, did it? When it came to the point, the dollars got in the way of the men. The banker's shovel came handy, and the bayonet. Still, I know that the admiral sincerely meant what he said, and I know too that there are a considerable number of Americans who entertain the friendliest feelings towards this country. Well, it is time they made their voices heard. They should do their share of the shouting, and not leave it all to the people who want to see us "broken in pieces" and "licked" into subservience to the Hearsts and the Daniels and other loud-mouthed desperados. And as long as the United States government was the authority of President Wilson, his influence should be exercised in the direction of peace and amity between two great nations upon whose shoulders rests the major burden of the world's destiny. Take this latest episode, it should be a simple matter to try the issue of truth as between Admiral Sims and Mr. Josephus Daniels; and it should be found that the secretary for the navy so far abused his authority at a critical stage of the war as to indulge in wanton insults to a friendly Power, he should receive without an hour's delay. And in the same way with the campaign of scurrility in the Hearst journals and other organs of the American Press. If an English newspaper were talking of "breaking in pieces" the American Republic, and if this jingo folly were echoed in scores of pamphlets, journals and magazines, it would be the duty of the government to disavow sentiments fraught with the gravest peril to the peace of the world.

I know that some people—especially the professional politicians—will take me seriously to task for this article. But that fact leaves me quite cold. I am convinced that the British people are today in no mood for further fooling. The refusal of America to ratify the Treaty, the practical collapse of the League of Nations, the Kaiser-trial farce, the failure of the Labor Party in the house of commons—all of which developments I have persistently predicted—have put the finishing touches to the suspicion and disgust which have long been brewing in the public mind. What is today wanted is the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. We know now that we shall get no real indemnity, that the Kaiser will never be properly punished, that the allies will soon be back amongst us, that Mr. Wilson's high ideals were only a mask for our own selfish interests, that our pledges to the fighting men were not much better, that the Coalition government is a "wash-out," and that unless we are careful we shall find ourselves for years to come burdened with an almost unbearable weight of debt, incurred for the benefit of Europe and America more than of Britain—

It is extremely probable that during the present session of the Legislature Ontario will enact a Mothers' Allowance Bill. British Columbia and Nova Scotia are not likely to do the same. Already the three prairie provinces have such laws. Manitoba having led the way in 1917.

Like most of the social legislation in Canada it came from the United States. Since 1915, when the first law of this nature was passed in Colorado, it has spread over the entire republic, and even to Alaska. Thirty-nine states now have such laws. And of the nine who do not have them, five have been considering them. All of the states which have not such laws are in the south except Rhode Island. It is worth while to examine the differences of the laws in existence. No doubt, after a period of experimentation, these various laws will tend to become standardized, perhaps in one form, perhaps in several forms. In the meantime they show an amount of variation which may well puzzle the lawmakers of the provinces in Canada who turn to them for advice and information. I shall set down the broad differences which a comparison between these forty odd statutes display.

- I—Who are eligible for the allowance?
 1. Any mother with a dependent child.
 2. Widows only.
 3. Widows and wives of prisoners, the inmates of the physically incapacitated.
 4. In addition, deserted wives. The period of desertion required to qualify varies from three months to a year.
 5. In addition, divorced wives.
 6. In addition, unmarried mothers.
 7. In addition, expectant mothers.
 8. Conditions on which aid is given.
- II—Residence qualifications. These are complicated between states and country laws. In some cases they range all the way from one year to five.
- III—Age of children. The maximum varies from thirteen to seventeen. Fourteen is the most frequent figure.
- IV—Amount of allowance. In some cases no maximum is fixed, but the decision is left to the administrative body. In others it is two, three or three and a half dollars per week. Some states limit the amount, which may be given to any household, and set this maximum at from 25 dollars a month all the way up to 60 dollars a month.
- V—Administration. Here the variety is extreme. Probate Court, County Comptroller, Board of Trade Welfare, Supervisors of the Poor State Treasurer and Board of Education have each their turn. In many states the administration is under the supervision of the State Board of Charities. In every case the administration is non-political, that is, it is not subject to review by the government of the state. In the three Canadian laws now in force the fifth authority remains with the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council.

NOVA SCOTIA AND MANITOBA IN LINE

J. W. MacMillan Tells What Has So Far Been Done in Canada and Briefly Reviews the Problems to be Dealt With in This Matter.

(By J. W. MacMillan.) It is extremely probable that during the present session of the legislature of Ontario will meet a Mothers' Allowance Bill. British Columbia and Nova Scotia are not likely to do the same. Already the three prairie provinces have such laws, Manitoba having led the way in 1914. Like most of the social legislation in Canada it came from the United States. Since 1912, when the first law of this nature was passed in Colorado, it has spread over the entire republic, and even to Alaska. Thirty-nine states now have such laws. And of the nine who do not have them, five have been considering them. All of the states which have not such laws are in the south except Rhode Island. It is worth while to examine the details of the laws in existence. No doubt, a period of experimentation, these various laws will tend to become standardized, perhaps in one form, perhaps in several forms. In the meantime they show an amount of variation which may well puzzle the lawmakers of the provinces in Canada who turn to them for advice and information. I shall set down the broad differences which a comparison between these forty-nine statutes displays.

I.—Who are eligible for the allowance?

- 1. Any mother with a dependent child.
2. Widows only.
3. Widows and wives of prisoners, the income of the physically incapacitated.

II.—Conditions on which aid is given.

- 1. The first condition is uniformly poverty. But poverty is variously defined as:—unable to support her children, dependent on her own efforts, unable without assistance to prevent her home being broken up, unable to prevent children being taken to an institution or becoming a public charge. In some states the mother may not own property. In others she is allowed such tools and implements as may aid her in increasing her income.

III.—Residence qualifications.

These are complicated between state and country requirements. Anywhere they range all the way from one year to five.

IV.—Age of children.

The maximum varies from thirteen to seventeen. Fourteen is the most frequent figure.

V.—Amount of allowance.

In some cases no maximum is fixed, but the decision is left to the administrative body. In others it is two, three or three and a half dollars per week. Some states limit the amount which may be given to any household, and set this maximum at from 25 dollars a month all the way up to 60 dollars a month.

VI.—Administration.

Here the variety is extreme. Probate Court, County Commissioners, Board of Trade Welfare, Supervisors of the Poor, State Treasurer and Board of Education have each their turn. In many states the administration is under the supervision of the State Board of Charities. In every case the administration is non-political, that is, it is not subject to review by the government of the state. In the three Canadian laws now in force the final authority remains with the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council.

There is also considerable variation in the three Canadian laws, now operating in the west. Manitoba gives to widows and to wives of men insane, or prisoners, or who are physically unable for work. Saskatchewan gives to widows only. Alberta to widows and wives of the insane.

Manitoba requires residential qualification of two years. Alberta and Saskatchewan of one year.

Manitoba refuses to aid any mother who possesses property of a value exceeding $200. The other provinces set no minimum.

Each of these three provinces levy on the municipalities for the amounts expended. In Alberta the cost is equally divided between the government and the municipality. In the other provinces the proportion is fixed at the will of the government.

In Saskatchewan and Alberta the administration is vested in the Superintendent of Dependent and Neglected Children. In Manitoba a special Commission has been created, and under it are committees in the municipalities where the dependent mothers reside.

It is a curious thing that the Canadian laws should retain supervisory power for the provincial government. Perhaps we may flatter ourselves that the superior purity of our national politics makes this supervision a safe thing. But undoubtedly, in any land where party politics are not of a statesmanlike character, this right of appeal to the politician is a dangerous thing.

Anyone who has known anything of the workings of a charity department in a city knows how swiftly the predatory gangster gets after the alms-giver. Among the needy and deserving women with young children in their care will be border-line cases hard to determine, and cases where infirmity of character is suspected, and cases where the load of supporting the children, might most properly be borne by relatives at once rich and mean.

These are the sort of people who turn more readily to someone whom they think has a pull than to someone who is keen to play fair by the law. Surely we know this much about the proper administration of social laws, that they should be placed in competent hands and that those hands should be trusted with power.

Another curious difference between the situation in Canada and the United States is the superior generosity of the amounts paid in Canada. The average sum given to a mother in Manitoba last May was $61 to those domiciled in cities, and $49.16 to those living in the country. Nowhere in the United States are these amounts equalled. In fact, the general criticism is made that the sums dispensed in the United States are too low.

The true meaning of such a law is that the mother is hired by the state to rear her children. They have become wards of organized society by reason of the loss of their natural provider. It is felt that the mother cannot be at once provider and trainer. The worries and woes of widows have proved that through many ages, and the minutes of the juvenile courts have come in these later days to confirm the lesson. If the woman is to mother her children she must be with them in the home. Thus the salary paid her should be large enough to allow her to remain in her home.

The administration of these laws is of supreme importance. The success which has been achieved in Manitoba is due to the assistance of trained social workers in initiating and continuing the operation of the act. As a matter of fact, the cabinet have not used the supervising power retained under the law for any purpose other than to approve the proceedings of the commission who have been intelligently guided by expert social workers all along. There are many mothers in Canada who need constant help. They need it in order that their children may be born. They need it in order that, when born, they may survive. They need it in order that, if they survive, they may grow up into good citizens. Some body that knows how to befriended such mothers when their husbands have died, is necessary. And the all-important thing is that the befriending shall be wise. They need light as well as warmth.

BRITAIN HOLD CONSTANTINOPLE

A memorable day for the world was Friday, March 19th, 1920. The man in khaki patrols the streets and British rule is established at the capital of the Turkish Empire. These are Moslems from India among the troops of Britain, as the Bax Britannica settled down on old Byzantium and the Turk is out of Europe forever. Britain holds the Straits and keeps the Gates.

The Goeben and Breslau are remembered today. These mighty ships were accepted as emblems of German power and the Turk prostrated himself before the image, forgetting what had sent them there for safety. Today the Turk can look at the Bonbow and a British squadron at the Golden Horn as the emblem of another power that comes without being chased thither and comes to stay.

When Britain keeps the Gates, she keeps them Open. No ifs or buts, but free and fair for all. No promises are And, if he goes wrong while his father lives, he is twice as likely to go wrong when his father dies.

ST. JOHN, N. B. SATURDAY MARCH 27, 1920.

ST. JOHN HARBOR.

The despatch from Ottawa which appears on the first page of this issue will inform the citizens of St. John that the appearance now to be a reasonable prospect of getting the harbor improved to the much required improvements to the harbor of this port under way. That steps would be taken to bring this about has generally been anticipated since the visit of the parliamentarians the other day, and it is satisfactory to find that the representations they promised to make are likely to bear fruit.

THE WATER POWERS BILL.

The provisions of the Bill introduced by Premier Foster into the Legislature yesterday dealing with the development of the Water Powers of the Province, will call for earnest consideration; and it is not possible in the short time which has elapsed since its introduction to deal with the bill as carefully as it should be dealt with. It will be conceded that the development of our water powers is a matter of urgent and vital importance; the main question is as to what line this development shall take place along. In one respect at any rate public opinion will agree with Premier Foster. "We cannot afford to experiment." It is much too costly.

The Bill proposes to create a commission of three members, which shall be charged with the duty of ascertaining not only what opportunities there are for developing water powers, but also what opportunities there are to obtain power from coal, oil, gas or peat. It may be that this commission idea is the most convenient method of going to work in view of the fact that the Province is to undertake the work of development, but the success or failure of the scheme will very largely depend upon the personnel of the Commission. It certainly appears to be the intention to clothe them with almost autocratic powers in dealing with any scheme that it is proposed to develop. With the example of the Ontario Commission before them, the New Brunswick Commissioners should be able to avoid many of the mistakes that must necessarily be made in dealing with a new subject, particularly one of such magnitude as that now under consideration.

The progress of the measure through the Legislature will be followed with much interest, and if Premier Foster succeeds in launching a scheme which ultimately develops a utility of such practical value as will naturally be looked for, he will earn the gratitude and commendation of the entire community.

THE SITUATION IN GERMANY.

The Government of Gustav Bauer, which took office on Thursday, did not last long enough for the members of it to realize where they were, for it went out of office again yesterday, to be replaced by one headed by Herrmann Mueller, Foreign Minister. The labor element of the population appears to have forced the issue.

The whole situation in Germany is far from encouraging, and while the reports of strife in that country are not quite as sensational as they were during the first days of the present crisis, no political or military party there seems powerful enough to bring order out of chaos. The Ebert Government clinging jealously to its doubtful authority is not widely recognized, and although the first leaders of the revolution have been pushed into the background, other rebel chiefs, other factions have sprung up to wave the red flag of Bolshevism in the face of the masses, discouraged by the hard fight to reconstruct the nation's industrial and economic life after the disease of war.

Germany at the present time is a fertile field for the rank seed of discontent sown by the Communists, and it is this party, more than any other, that is keeping alive the flame of civil war and preventing the efforts of the sane leaders to restore law and order. One might think that the German people had had enough of bloodshed, of the useless expense of war, of the hardships and the sufferings entailed by military action; but when hotheaded radicals are allowed to spread broadcast their insidious propaganda, when human selfishness and greed stalk unchecked through the land, no nation is safe from disaster, no government holds secure the reins of power.

The civil war now going on in Germany is due to one thing and one thing alone—Radicalism. Perhaps the other nations of the world can glean from the German tragedy a salutary lesson—the lesson of protecting governments, rulers, nations themselves, from the unbridled tongue of the Bolshevist propagandist, and if this shall prove to be the case, then the German civil war is not being staged in vain.

A Montreal scribe laments that the poet of the future must weep not only over the glory that was Greece, and the grandeur that was Rome, but over "the beverage that was British beer." In his opinion "we have legislated ourselves into prohibition, they are drinking themselves into it."

FUTURE TEACHERS.

While it is earnestly to be hoped that the Report of the Committee on Salaries of Teachers, which was laid before the Legislature a few days ago, will result in this hard-worked and hard-working class of public servants getting a more adequate rate of remuneration than has been the case hitherto, it must not be overlooked that the problem of the high school staff of the schools is one that cannot alone be met by increased salaries, for the simple reason that women are no longer compelled to teach school for a living, but have before them a wide range of possible occupations.

Undoubtedly many women have hitherto devoted themselves to teaching school, not that they had any love for the work, but because it was the only avenue of employment which seemed to invite their assistance. Today the business colleges and the commercial departments of the high schools are filled with young women eagerly equipping themselves for business professions.

Women are now acting in a closely advisory capacity in the largest industrial institutions. They found their way into the banking institutions during the war, and so far from being displaced at the conclusion of the struggle and on the return of the soldiers, bank managers have been glad to retain their services. Girls in business life who are receiving salaries of a thousand dollars a year are not few in number.

Hence it is not only essential that the salaries of the teachers should be attractive, but the conditions which surround their work must at least have an appeal equal to that of the woman in business. School-teachers are more or less isolated in their profession, while women in business are privileged to enjoy those intangible but valuable associations which are a part with industrial and commercial pursuits.

The "Buy in Canada" slogan has drawn the following response from the American Economist, to some remarks made by the Montreal Herald on the subject: "While we in this country want to sell goods to our Canadian neighbors, yet we are bound to say that we think the Montreal Herald is correct in its position, patriotically and economically. Furthermore, we believe that it would be a mighty good thing if the 'people of this country should adopt the policy as their own. We ought to produce everything possible in this country and not buy abroad what we should make here."

Cotton growing sufficient to supply the needs of the industry is the latest, but not too late, question to intrigue the minds of those interested in the trade within the empire movement. An industry as to possibilities reveals the fact that Egypt, the Sudan, Northern Nigeria, Uganda, Nyassaland, Northern Rhodesia and parts of South Africa and Mesopotamia are suitable regions, the irrigation, draining and other developments of which should make them rich in raw material.

Virtual chaos existed in the Navy department of the United States at the time that country entered the war, declares Captain Lanning, assistant chief of the Bureau of Navigation. Those citizens of the Republic who were annoyed at Rear-Admiral Sims because the disclosures he made were unpleasant to hear, may now be disposed to concede that his motives may, after all, have been honorable and patriotic, and that evidence is forthcoming to back them up.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Women Ministers (London Daily News) "The refusal of the Lower House of Convocation to allow women to pray and speak in churches ignores a good deal of history. Even in the days of the Pharaohs some of the most sacred religious offices were held by women. In the early days of the Christian Church women shared both in the ministry and the administration, playing an important part in the progress made by the primitive church. For the first 200 years of the Christian era women were even ordained as priests, and for 800 years they served as the altar and administered communion. It is strange that, today, when the claims of women, and where women do almost all the church and parish work, should deny them admission to the pulpit."

(Chatham World) "The curious and bewildered reader will note that the Local Government paid $384.46 for rent of the Governor's Residence at Redoubt, for the recognition given to the Prince of Wales, spent $336 in improving the grounds, and $175.17 for installing electric light and paid $2000 for the refreshments that were served to the Government's guests, not to mention the hundreds paid for carpets, heating and other decorative articles. Patriotic potatoes are not the only things that should be investigated."

FRANCHISE BILL NOW IN COMMITTEE

Mr. Meighen Says No Intention to Disfranchise Citizens of Years Standing.

ESTIMATES UP FOR CONSIDERATION

The Indian Land Settlement Bill Also Occupied House's Attention Until Adjournment.

Special to The Standard. Ottawa, Ont., March 26.—The Bell Telephone Company has made application to Parliament for an increase in its capitalization from thirty to seventy-five million dollars.

Debate on the Franchise Act collapsed today after Mr. Meighen promised an amendment meeting the main objection of its opponents, admitting that, as it stood, a clause in the bill, based on the Naturalization Act of 1914, would prevent many from voting who voted during the war, at the same time allowing others to vote who were disfranchised during the war, and that, as pointed out by Mr. Ealer on Thursday, a German who came to Canada in 1910, and who was naturalized in, say 1915, would be permitted to vote, while a German who had been in the country for fifty or sixty years, but who had not complied with the provisions of the new naturalization act, would be disfranchised. Mr. Meighen said that the Government never had such a subject in view, and that alterations would be made to remedy the error.

With this explanation and promise, organized opposition to the bill died out, and it was given second reading. Thus, another Government measure that was thought to harbor trouble and prolonged political controversy is well on its way to the statute books, and the session materially advanced. There remains only the Budget; for the session has been fairly well knocked out of a potential row over the navy by the Government's announcement of Thursday.

Nor is anything of last moment now expected on the Budget. The Opposition, in fact, has recently shown a great deal of interest in the bill for free trade flag. Dr. Beland has followed Mr. Pardee in declining to call for a too rapid demolition of the tariff, and a low tariff amendment, even if moved, will, coming from such a quarter, carry little conviction to the House and hardly endanger the Government.

As for the agrarians, they are showing a surprising degree of inactivity. With Mr. Crear away, through illness, the party is under the House leader, ship of Dr. Clark, and although the speaker, orator can make excellent speeches, organized practical effort is not one of his conspicuous roles. A low tariff amendment may come from this group, but it is not so far as its effect is concerned, a reaffirmation of the party's policy.

Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

Mr. Perkins gave my sister Gladis a bunch of roses last night, and this afternoon I was talking to Mary Watkins, and I said, I think I know where I can get a rose if I want one. Do you want one?

O yes, my lad I just love to have a rose, and Mary Watkins, and I said, Ah, rise, are you coming out tonight? and she said, and I said, Well I'll see if I can get one, and she said, O Benny, I think you're perfectly wonderful.

Which maybe I am, and when I went home Gladis was in her room and the roses was in a vase, and I said, G. Gladis, if you gave somebody one of those out of that big bunch you would hardly know the difference, would you?

Never mind hitting, there only a dozen there, and Gladis, and I said, Well was one out of a dozen, six only one twelf, and Gladis said, O I miss as well give you one and save myself an argument. Which she did being a pretty small one but smelling like a big one, and after supper I went out with it looking for Mary Watkins, and pritty soon who did I see first but Loretter Mincee as a new wife coat looking twice as pritty as anything, saying, Hello, Benny, were you going?

Nowhere speak, I said, and she said, Then wats you doing with the rose? Nothing speak, I said, and she said, Wat a bewtiffil gorgeous rose, can I smell it once? Sure, I said, and she said, O, its the most wonderful! rose I ever smell, and that reminds me, I haven't had a rose since my cousins wedding, can I smell it again?

Yes, I said, and she smell it again, and I said, How would you like to have it on your new coat? and she said, O Benny, how nice of you, I bet Mary Watkins will be perfectly furious because I've got a rose and she hasn't.

G, heck, I thart. On account of just seeing Mary Watkins coming down the street, and I quit waked away, saying, Well I haff to go now. And Mary Watkins hasn't saw me since on account of me being such a good dodger.

The Sharpe Spirit of Service

Our idea of an optical business is that it is rendering service rather than selling merchandise. One buys glasses not for their actual, intrinsic worth, but for the good they do—the benefit given to sight and health. It is this idea, carried out for many years, which is responsible for the attentive interest taken in your eye troubles, and the painstaking, professional skill given to testing eyes, making lenses and fitting glasses, at Sharpe's. This is the Sharpe Spirit of service—so grateful to, and so much appreciated by our patrons.

STORY OF SHIPMENT OF GOLD UNTRUE
Halifax, March 26.—The story reported here from New York that a shipment of gold had been received in that city from London via warship landing at Halifax lack confirmation in local quarters, where on the contrary it is stated at the naval station that there is no knowledge here of the arrival of a warship and neither is any warship expected.

"You Are Losing Weight— You Are Anaemic"

"WHAT does that mean, doctor?"
"It means that you are not deriving proper nourishment from the food you are eating."
"I eat enough, I think."
"That may be, but your blood is thin and watery, your nervous system is being starved and your weight is below normal."
"Is that what makes me feel so tired? I don't seem to have the energy to do much."
"Exactly, you have not enough nervous energy to drive the machinery of the body. Digestion fails and you do not derive proper nourishment from your food."
"What should I do?"
"You need a treatment that will supply to the blood in condensed form the elements which are necessary to build up the nervous system."
"How about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"There is nothing better. I could easily give you a prescription that would cost you more money, but Dr. Chase's Nerve Food contains all the elements necessary for the enriching of the blood and restoration of the nervous system. If you keep a record of your weight each week you will be able to prove this for yourself."

"You think I am anaemic then?"
"Yes, your blood is weak and this is why your nerves are starved and exhausted. The headaches, tired feelings and sleeplessness are the result of this condition, but you will soon be all right if you follow this treatment faithfully."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is sold by all dealers. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author. Edmanon, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

BLACK LAKE ASBESTOS

Toronto, March 26.—The local street is freely discussing the Black Lake Asbestos situation and the personal nature of the contact therein reflected. The view is taken that interests connected with Sir Mortimer Davis are in the Black Lake contest in opposition to J. A. Police Court Cases Yesterday

Several Prisoners Were Remanded — Case Against Members of S.S. Scotian for Selling Liquor Was Concluded.

In the police court yesterday two men were charged with drunkenness and remanded, another with a more serious offense was also remanded, the rest of the day was taken up with liquor cases preferred against different members of the crew of the C. P. O. S. Scotian.

The case of John Mitchell, charged with having liquor in his possession on the voyage from Antwerp was resumed. The accused said he got a demijohn of liquor in Southampton and the bottles and capsules from the ship's bar.

John Fischer, a steward pleaded guilty to being absent from his ship without leave. He said he came ashore in the instant of the men and was prepared to pay a fine to which he was liable. His Honor promised to consider the evidence and give sentence today. The captain of the ship said that owing to the liquor the accused had sold during the voyage the life of the steerman passengers had been in a veritable hell and no penalty could be too stiff in order to make an example of the man. If this was not done the habit would spread. He considered Fischer the ring leader. The judge said he could readily see that something must be done to check the modern Bolshevik and Socialist ideas which were even making their way on board ship so that even the captain's orders were being refused by the men.

LARGE CONTRACT FOR SALE OF PULP

Has Been Entered into With An English Concert.

FOR PERIOD OF 10 YEARS

Development of the Pulp Industry Will be Great.

Montreal, March 26.—The largest contract for mechanical pulp ever closed by any Canadian concern for delivery in Great Britain, is now being concluded between the North American Pulp and Paper Company and the Saugeunay Pulp and Paper Company and a group of English paper companies. The contract has been under negotiations for some time past, and will call for the delivery of 60,000 tons of mechanical pulp a year, beginning January 1st next. The price agreed upon will give to the manufacturing companies a net profit of $10 a ton over and above all manufacturing costs, including depreciation and bond interest.

The North American Pulp plants next year will reach a total output of approximately 120,000 tons a year. The largest contract arranged in England will, therefore, leave a balance of about 70,000 tons a year for shipment to other customers in Great Britain and the United States. The contract now being concluded in England will run for 10 years.

BRANCH OF ST. JOHN AMBULANCE ASSN.

Formed at Woodstock—List of the Officers Elected.

Woodstock, March 26.—Dr. Murray McLaren of St. John addressed a meeting of the citizens in the town hall this afternoon at the organization of a branch of the St. John's Ambulance Association in the town. Dr. McLaren said he was president of the Council of St. John's Ambulance Association in New Brunswick. This Association was a branch of the English Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem. His duty was to organize centres in the Province. It was not an organization for collecting money. Its object was instructional for the people of the community. The teachers of the classes instruct in first aid, home nursing, home hygiene and sanitation. Men have no interest in first aid, but like women have but they should be familiar with first aid the women should take as well, lessons in the three latter subjects. A vote of thanks moved by Dr. Rankin, seconded by E. W. Muir was tendered Dr. McLaren for his able address. On motion of Muir, seconded by Mr. Bateman, a branch of the St. John Ambulance Association was formed. The following officers were elected: Dr. W. D. Rankin—President. Mrs. J. L. Ross—Vice-President. E. W. Muir—Secretary-Treasurer. Council—Mrs. W. P. Jones, Mrs. F. H. Dibble, Mrs. M. McManus, Miss Marjorie Rankin, George E. Balmain, C. M. Anghering.

NEW KING OF SYRIA FRIENDLY TO FRANCE

Paris, March 26.—The Foreign Office stated today that it has no knowledge whatever of any command of Prince Feisal, proclaimed King of Syria, that the French must evacuate Syria before April 6, or any other date. DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat least meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism. At the first twinges of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

SUMMARY OF N. B. WATER POWERS BILL

(Continued from page one.) shall be administered with a view to making a profit for the province as a profit. If a profit should accrue to the province in the administration of the Act, the people would, of course, get the benefit of it upon the services of the country.

As I have said, however, there may be a surplus. It may be necessary to charge a little more power than it actual cost. It must be remembered that this Commission will come in good faith, invested their money in the development of power propositions in the province. These existing localities. It is necessary for them to have a reasonable return on their investment. The Government does not propose to compete with these people in such a manner as to jeopardize the security of the investment made by them. So that it may be necessary in order that a community be supplied with power by this Commission should not be placed in a better position than neighboring communities already supplied by private interests. One town should not be able to say that it had better terms to offer to manufacturers in regard to power than its neighboring town, unless neutral conditions warrant it.

So that therefore it may be necessary that a profit should be made by this Commission, and if it is made the section provided that it be paid into the provincial accounts. Sections 16, 17 and 18 provide for statements to be rendered by the Commission and for an audit, etc.

Part two of the bill refers to municipalities. The object is to enable municipalities to take power for themselves and distribute electrical power. I think the provisions of this part of the bill will appeal to the members of the House. There are safeguards thrown around the exercise of this power by municipalities. The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council must approve of any contract that is made by a municipality, and it may be that when the bill gets before the Committee it will be deemed advisable that the Legislature itself should reserve the right to pass upon any contract contemplated by a municipality. We must remember that the powers of municipalities to incur liability, it was always necessary to obtain permission to issue bonds. The purpose must be stated and the Legislature had always had a supervision over these matters. The Government is not wedded to the proposition that these contracts may be made by municipalities on the authority of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council and will be willing to accept any suggestion of honorable gentlemen in regard to this matter.

GUARD AGAINST THE 'FLU

Serious Outbreaks of Influenza all over Canada

Good Health Is The Surest Safeguard

"FRUIT-A-LIVES" Brings Vigor and Vitality and Thus Protects Against Disease. There can be no doubt that the situation regarding the spread of influenza throughout Canada is one of grave concern. It is quite true that the number of cases does not constitute an epidemic such as caused the suffering and sorrow during the terrible days of 1918. Yet there is no disguising the fact that everyone should be on their guard against the disease.

In Montreal alone, from January 20th to February 21st, three thousand, one hundred and twenty-two cases of influenza and 129 deaths from the disease were reported to the Health Department. If the outbreak had come at the beginning of the winter instead of the end, we might reasonably expect that the very cold weather would check the spread of the disease. But coming as it has, at the end of the winter, there is grave fear that an epidemic may occur. For spring, with its slash and rain under foot, its dampness and chill, its constant changing from cold to warm and back again, is a prolific source of coughs and colds, pleurisy and pneumonia.

The best protection, in fact, is GOOD HEALTH. Those who are not as well and strong as they should be; those who are underweight; those who are "run-down" through overwork or sickness; should build up at once. What they need is a Blood-purifier, a body-builder, a strength-giver, like "Fruit-a-lives", the wonderful fruit medicine.

"Fruit-a-lives" regulates the kidneys and bowels, causing these organs to eliminate waste regularly and naturally as nature intended. "Fruit-a-lives" keeps the skin active, and insures an abundant supply of pure, rich blood. "Fruit-a-lives" tones up and strengthens the organs of digestion, sharpens the appetite, brings restful sleep and renews the vitality of the nervous system. "Fruit-a-lives" contains everything that is always needed to help purify the blood, to build up strength and vigor and to regulate the eliminating organs, so that the whole system would be in the best possible condition to resist disease.

Now is the time to build up your health and strength, not only as a precaution against the ravages of influenza, but also to protect you against "spring fever" and the inevitable rashes which come with the appearance of warmer weather. Get a box of "Fruit-a-lives" today and let this fruit medicine keep you well. "Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, trial size 25c or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

MEMBERS SEEKING INFORMATION

Appointment of Supervisor of Women's Institutes is Another Subject—Enquiry as to the Secretary for Agriculture.

Fredericton, March 26.—The following notices of Enquiry were given in the House this afternoon.

By Mr Murray (Kings): 1.—Is the Government aware that Mr. B. S. Carter, a candidate in the County of Kings in the last Provincial Election, speaking at Central Greenwood on February 12th, 1917, as reported in the press, spoke as follows:

"I want to announce that the policy of the Opposition party, and I make that announcement with the consent and approval of my leader, Mr. Foster, is that where rivers are wide and bridges impossible the farmers shall not be punished for this fact of nature by having to pay high ferriage tolls, but shall be provided with the same privileges by free ferriage, as the people are who cross steel bridges without paying tribute. Furthermore, let me tell the people of Long Beach as well as the people of Greenwood that when the Valley railway is completed the farmers who live on the Kingston side can cross to the western side of the river without charge, as of course the same privilege will be for those who live on the western side of the river to reach Kingston parish. Year after year in the fall and spring, there has been one loud voiced complaint by the people of Baywater, Lands End, White Head, Holderville, Clifton, Kingston, Moss Glen, and all the busy little spots on the Kingston Peninsula that there was no way of getting to the markets in St. John because of the forming ice in the fall and the breaking ice in the spring. The plan of the Opposition to overcome this is to so protect the ferry boats that they can make their way through thin forming ice until it is fit to cross at the safer places. The details of this plan as proposed can, said Mr. Carter, be worked out he was well satisfied, in the thorough satisfaction of the people, and it was up to them to say whether they wanted this improvement on their present conditions. If they were satisfied with what they had at present they must vote for the present government, but if not and if they wished to strengthen the hands of the Opposition they should vote for those who propose to assist them."

2.—Was the Hon. Mr. Foster referred to in this statement aware of the policy announced by Mr. Carter, and did it have his consent and approval?

3.—Have free ferries been established between the Kingston side of the St. John river and the western side?

4.—If so, how many?

5.—If no free ferries have been established, when does the Government propose putting them in operation to accommodate the people of Baywater, Lands End, White Head, Holderville, Clifton, Kingston and Moss Glen, as outlined by Mr. Carter in his remarks referred to?

By Mr. Dixon (Kings): 1.—Upon whose recommendation was Miss Hazel McCain appointed to the position of Supervisor of Women's Institutes?

2.—Has the Department received any protests from any of the Women's Institutes in the province against the management of the work?

3.—Was the Minister of Agriculture waited upon by a delegation of members of Women's Institutes, protesting against the manner in which the work was being carried out by the Supervisor?

4.—If so, what was the nature of the complaints?

5.—Did the Minister of Agriculture take any active measures to correct the alleged abuse of authority on the part of the Supervisor?

6.—Did the present Supervisor apply for the position she now holds previous to the resignation of Miss Winter?

7.—What is the date of the first application from Miss McCain for the position of Supervisor of Women's Institutes, either from herself or any body in her behalf?

By Mr. Smith (Albert): 1.—Is the present Secretary for Agriculture a native of New Brunswick?

2.—If not, had he ever lived in New Brunswick previous to his appointment? If so, where was his place of residence?

3.—Upon whose recommendation was the present Secretary for Agriculture appointed?

4.—What salary does he receive? By Mr. Pinder:

1.—What was the total amount expended by the Board of Health for the County of York for the year 1919?

2.—What are the names of the members of the said Board and of the officials employed by them, and what salary, fees or remuneration was paid to each, and what was the amount of travelling expenses, if any, in each case?

Mr. Smith (Carleton):—What amount has been charged to Permanent Roads since the last session of the Legislature—during the fiscal year? What amounts have been paid and charged to this account since the close of the fiscal year?

3.—In what Counties of the province has such expenditure been made, and what was the amount charged to each county?

4.—What amount of money has been spent in the province and charged to "Ordinary Roads" since the close of the fiscal year? In what Counties of the province have such expenditures been made and what was the amount charged to each county? By Mr. Dickson (Kings):—1.—How many stenographers were employed in the Department of Agriculture in 1919?

2.—How many are employed in the Department at the present time? 3.—In what divisions of the Department of Agriculture are the different stenographers at present engaged and for whom do they work? 4.—What are the names of the stenographers employed in the Department of Agriculture and what is the salary of each?

CAUSTIC COMMENT ON CITY GOVERNMENT AT LABOR MEETING

Angry Attack on "Failures and Incompetents" at City Hall —Fred Belyea Could Not Get Labor Nomination, But Will be Candidate—Labor Party Declined to Endorse Any Candidates—No Stars in the Firmament of St. John

"I've had a week's canvassing, but I'm in the contest for commissioner, anyway," Fred Belyea told the meeting of labor men at the Seaman's Institute last evening. The meeting decided that the Labor Party was not sufficiently organized to take part in the civic elections.

Fred Campbell said he would not be a candidate, nor would R. W. Wigmore.

The chairman of the committee reported that they had decided that it was not advisable to endorse any of the candidates.

Fred Belyea said there were two proposals. If the Trades Council would not follow that, the public meeting should not act in the matter.

Mr. Moore—The committee were appointed to interview certain parties, and if possible to bring forward two more candidates.

John Murphy said organized labor were not showing enough interest in warrant nominating labor candidates. Moreover the situation had changed since their last meeting.

C. H. Stevens moved that the committee's report be adopted and this was agreed to, though not unanimously.

Large Attendance At Exhibition

Rooms in Odd Fellows' Hall Were Crowded Yesterday—Wonderful Results Shown from the Vocational Training Classes.

The wonderful results of twenty lessons in dressmaking, millinery and cooking which were shown yesterday at the exhibit of the Home-Making Department at the St. John Vocational Training Classes, should have convinced everyone who attended, the value of the training.

The rooms in the Oddfellows' Hall were crowded yesterday afternoon and evening and all present were loud in their praise of the fine sewing and the pretty hats and the attractive articles of cooked food displayed.

Mrs. W. Edmund Raymond, Mrs. Michael O'Brien and Alexander Wright are the committees, assisted by Mrs. E. C. Wayman who have been in charge and to them and to the efficient teachers many words of deserved praise were uttered last evening.

The military department was under the supervision of Miss Beatrice Murphy and Mrs. James Carleton. Over one hundred well made, beautifully trimmed hats were shown.

The domestic science and dressmaking exhibit was under the supervision of Mrs. Weyman, assisted by the teachers, Mrs. Milligan, Misses Henrietta Northrup, Gladys Dowling and Hall. Many of the delicacies were for sale. The workmanship of the dresses, blouses, undergarments and suits in the dressmaking department was of the highest order and the pupils are certainly to be congratulated upon the progress made in the four months of training.

Nearly seven hundred scholars were taught in the first classes held and there are hundreds more on the waiting list. He paid a high tribute to the work of Mrs. Raymond, Mrs. O'Brien and Alex. Wilson, also to the teachers for their work and to the pupils for their successful accomplishment.

Mayor Hayes heartily congratulated the Chairman for his deep interest and hard work in connection with the Vocational Education movement. He spoke of the many visitors to City Hall who have not had a chance to see the exhibit but who are learning these useful arts and who are learning the lack of practical training for boys of fourteen and over. He voiced his hopes of permanent building for such education, saying that the interest on bonds issued for such a building would amount to little more than the rental paid for the present rooms used.

Handsome Bronze Tablet and Three Panels of Honor Roll to be Unveiled by Senator Thorne in St. Paul's Church

Two of the most striking memorials of the war which the city possesses are to be unveiled in St. Paul's (Valley) Church tomorrow morning at the 11 o'clock service. The memorial to the nine members of the congregation who made the supreme sacrifice, a handsome bronze tablet is to be placed in the church. This tablet has been specially designed for the situation it is to occupy, and is of pure Gothic design in keeping with the church. It is the work of Messrs. Bradley and Hubbard of Meriden, Conn., and all who see it will agree that it is a very beautiful piece of workmanship. The names are in raised type in the Gothic style, in keeping with the general design of the tablet. To perpetuate the names of those who served in the war, a very fine Honor Roll has been prepared. The three panels on which the names are recorded are placed beneath an arched Gothic design. While the panels and the names are two sheets, blazoned with the arms of saints, and resting on a richly dispersed background, the wood-work comes from the Christie

Com. Thornton said that during his brief term he had tried to be fair to both organized labor and capitalists. He would be a candidate again, and he wanted support. A man elected must represent all the rate-payers—not one class.

A Kick From West Side

Fred Belyea said he was a member of the committee appointed to nominate candidates. He attended the first meeting but there had been no meeting since and he had been left out. He did not think that was right.

Mr. Belyea said he was a union man, and believed labor contained as good brains as other classes. Once he had sat at the Council Board with the elite of the city. St. John had been unfortunate in its selection of representatives in the past. They did not look forward far enough. The paying question was a case in point. They did not know where they were yet.

No Stars in St. John.

One speaker said stars were shining in the labor firmament everywhere except in St. John. There seemed to be a fiction which was determined that labor in St. John should not get anywhere.

Hot Stuff.

John Murphy said the city did not have good practical men at the head of departments. There was the Superintendent of Water—did he know an iron pipe from a wooden one? This system of patronage at City Hall caused the big leakage of public monies.

In nine cases out of ten the Commissioners of St. John had when men who had made a failure of their own business. If they couldn't manage their own business, how could they manage the business of 60,000 people? Anybody could take the ferry and make it pay.

Regular Monthly Meeting Yesterday

The regular monthly meeting of the Provincial Red Cross Hospital Committee was in session —Reports Were Received and Other Business Transacted.

The regular monthly meeting of the Provincial Red Cross Hospital Committee was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of the president, Mrs. J. V. Anglin, Lancaster, Mrs. Anglin presiding.

The entire committee first visited the D. S. C. R. Hospital in Lancaster and were delighted with all they saw in both the Dispensary and Maternity Departments. After adjourning to Mrs. Anglin's much routine business was transacted. The monthly indent from the D. S. C. R. Hospital, the St. John County Hospital, and the Provincial Hospital for the treatment of nervous diseases, was presented and ordered filed. The treasurer's report showed an expenditure of $421.14 with a balance of $722.50 on hand.

Mrs. W. P. Bonnell, convener of the buying committee, gave a very detailed report of supplies secured for the hospitals. On motion it was decided in the future to present to each new military patient entering the County Hospital a fully equipped personal property bag. The secretary was asked to notify the secretary to that effect. Mrs. W. H. Shaw and Mrs. J. H. Doody gave a report on the visiting done at the hospital in East St. John, while Mrs. E. R. Taylor reported for Lancaster.

Mrs. F. Fisher reported that the Stone Church Red Cross Circle has been sending ice cream every other Sunday to the D. S. C. R. Hospital, Lancaster, and that this committee has answered a number of appeals. Mrs. Vroom was appointed to take charge of the special Easter treat for the hospitals. Mrs. Lawrence presented a letter from Major Hooper and it was decided on motion that his request be granted.

Month of March A Record Breaker

Temperature on Thursday Rose to 58, Yesterday it Was 54—Highest Known for March in St. John During 47 Years.

For the past two days St. John has certainly enjoyed spring weather, and although it was rather warm, both ladies and gentlemen in many instances continued to wear furs. To look at some of the headgear worn by ladies their straw hats were in line with the atmosphere, but on a glance and see them wearing fur coats. It was a decided comparison. Furs were anything but comfortable, but it is a wise person who takes the precaution to not change their heavy garments so soon.

On Thursday the mercury rose to 58 and the lowest was 32, which was an exceptional warm day in St. John for the month of March. To look at some of the headgear worn by ladies their straw hats were in line with the atmosphere, but on a glance and see them wearing fur coats. It was a decided comparison. Furs were anything but comfortable, but it is a wise person who takes the precaution to not change their heavy garments so soon.

The winter of 1920 promises to go down in history when it comes to weather records. January broke all records for continued intense cold, February for its heavy snow and sleet storms causing many thousands of dollars damage and now the month of March takes the record for heat.

Styles For Men

There is less difference between boys' suit models and young men's models than in previous seasons. This is due to the fact that the young men's models have become more youthful and in the effort to put spirit into the garments, the designers have encroached upon many of the style details that in the past were characteristic of boys' suits.

Yoke backs, panels, knife pleats, and novelty pockets are shown with equal prominence in both boys' and young men's styles, and now that young men have for the time being discarded the belted coats, we see less of them in the boys' models.

Another meeting point between the boys and young men's styles is in the fact that boys' models are more manly. The lad of today, with his physical training, athletic propensities, and even military practices, in school, is developing more prominently the athletic figure. Accordingly, designers are making their models more cheery, the waist lines more accentuated and the shoulders more erect. Hence, what you see in young men's models are pretty apt to find their replicas in the boys' styles.

School boys have never been much addicted to top coats or even raincoats, but the leather coats have sounded a new note in styling and the lighter weights in these will be worn considerably more than school boys and girls.

In the "little fellows' styles, the ages from 2 to 8 years, much in the way of novelty modelling is introduced. Both in the wool suits and the wash suits the military influence is being eclipsed by other models. Officers' styles and aviator models are not shown with any prominence.

The middy models alone remain, and these are more of the French middy effect than our own "Jackie" styles. Russian, Roman and Oliver Twist styles are very popular as are also the regulation Norfolk. Many of the models have the waists and the trousers of contrasting materials, wash waists with cloth, corduroy or felt trousers of the button-on-sort, are shown in the very dressy styles.

These little fellows are wearing plainer hats than before. Bowler shapes, "rah rah" and middy styles are the most in vogue with hardly any trimming.

For the older boys, the Fedora and telescope crush hats come next to the caps, which lead all other styles for school boys. Wool patterned hats are also popular.

In shoes, shirts and neckwear, no marked innovations appear of sufficient consequence to justify special detailing here.

A Very Dainty Dinner Dress side and abstanthe green on the other, crossing in front so as to give a glimpse of all three colors.

I put on the lovely little Charlotte Corday hat, made of gold lace and brown tulle, banded with a violet ribbon, and went back to Mrs. Graham and Madame feeling that the gown and hat made a very pretty picture.

"Oh, Madame, how charming!" exclaimed Mrs. Graham, "You look like a little French picture," she said to me.

I walked toward her so she could observe the trimming of the dress.

"That blouse of hyacinthine chiffon, with the binding of violet around the neck, gives just the throatline mood, becoming to me," Mrs. Graham said. "The dyed lace is very effectively outlined with turquoise ribbon."

"Yes, the charm of this gown lies in its coloring and softness," said Madame.

"The bouffant ruffle around the hips particularly like," said Mrs. Graham, "because it is fluffy, but at the same time it does not disguise the natural lines of the figure like those wired Spanish skirts."

"The binding of pale violet on the edge of the ruffle gives an attractive bit of color," said Madame, drawing attention to this detail.

"Oh, yes, I like that, and also the way the hyacinth lace and turquoise ribbon show in the front and back. It also appears through the thin chiffon of the ruffles at the sides. The coloring of the flowers is very effective," Mrs. Graham continued.

"They combine the shades of the dress with the addition of pale yellow centers. You hardly observe the yellow, but it contributes its little share of charm," Madame remarked, lightly touching the flowers at the girdle.

"I like the finish of the skirt around the ankles," Mrs. Graham remarked. "That ruffle of chiffon, held by the turquoise ribbon is so pretty. What is the drop skirt?"

"Flesh pink charmeuse satin," said Madame, as I lifted the skirt a trifle to show her the petticoat-edged with lace.

"Oh, that is pretty! Now I must try on this gown right away," she enthusiastically said.

Of course the dress was extremely becoming to Mrs. Graham and when she put on the Corday hat she ordered them both to be finished in time for the journey she was soon to take.

The Harem Skirt

In some of the dresses featuring the silhouette the underskirt is so narrow as to suggest trousers. Some of them are, in fact, drawn in harem skirt fashion.

This, as we all know, is a season of many styles. No one silhouette holds the centre of the stage no color or fabric may be said to lead the procession with others far behind.

That there is generous leeway in the matter of styles is a very fortunate thing indeed, because it enables a woman to remodel a last season's garment very much according to the limitations of her available materials, without being compelled to feel that the dress is merely a makeshift.

With good taste, persistence, a knowledge of fabrics and of color and color combinations, any woman may be well dressed this season at comparatively small cost regardless of the fact that all prices are higher than ever before—and still soaring.

Fabric combinations are very popular, and, in the development of street and sports frocks, some of the best designers are showing smart frocks that have skirt of one fabric and bodice or coat of another. This style is admirable when a remodelled last season dress is being considered.

Fashion Review In Spring Modes

Habitues of Atlantic City, people who go there season after season, and make a particular point of being there every year at Easter time, call the place affectionately "Atlantic." When you hear anybody speak of "going to Atlantic City" over a holiday, be sure Atlantic City is meant.

Now when you prepare for a week-end trip around Easter time and do not know what the weather may turn out to be, you hope and pray for sunshine—but pack your rainy day clothes. And there have been rainy, summery days on March Easter's and blizzards on April Easter's. Perhaps the best thing will be to think first of all of very smart, stormy day outfit. This will include a good looking topcoat of spring mode, a small knowing apron, hat plus a generous and very graceful veil—to whip about in the breeze.

Gloves, of course, and, of course one of the new short umbrellas with a gay silk cover. Umbrellas are so smart now that one does not mind rain very much. There will be no question about footwear, however. Both or shine you must wear the smartest footwear you can afford. If necessary, prepare to sacrifice your boots to the occasion, for you will not find anybody wearing rubbers. Provide a pretty pair of buttoned boots with welled soles and heels as high as you please. Such boots are fashionable now with tailored clothes, and they will be a safer choice than thin pumps whose soles will not withstand damp boards on the promenade and which will not protect your ankles from chill breezes.

Tan Topcoats Best Liked.

Paris is wearing tan topcoats this year and the lighter the tan, the better. Faux's tan gabardine model with tiny tucks trimming the collar, the cuff and part of the belt is stunning. This coat has a lining of blue and white. Lanvin has brought out a light tan wool velveteen coat with an Inverness cape dropping from the back of a deep yoke and the yoke seems to be buttoned to the coat with pearl buttons. This coat is lined with black crepe de chine—a very smart notion in Paris. An adorable little wrap copied from a mode very fashionable on the Riviera this season, is of bright colored, desirable cloth trimmed down the fronts and around the edge with clipped ostrich or "franchillo" as it is called in Paris. Franchillo is ostrich so thick, and clipped so short that it has a texture like fur, and indeed it looks rather like Australian chinchilla. It is lighter than fur in weight and is oh so soft and comfortable on a chilly day! It will be a feature of the summer season no doubt.

For a bright warm day assuredly the suit of silk tricotees with embroidery on the jacket. This costume is very pale tan, green and cream. The hat is black with a crown of brilliant green brocade but the color is softened and toned down by the fluttering veil of black chantilly which is a decidedly smart detail of the costume. Flag blue and emerald green have been enormously fashionable colors on the Riviera and whole suits have been made of these bright shades. The American woman prefers to have her tailleur more neutral in tone and the gay color in her hat, handbag and parasol. Parasol and handbag, accompanying the tan tricotee suit, make a pleasing color harmony; the parasol has a striped and corded cover of green taffeta and the handbag reproduces the shades used in the coat embroidery.

White Broadcloth on the Riviera.

Undoubtedly there will be a number of white costumes, echoing the fashion along the Riviera this spring. Tailors and topcoats have been seen there in chalk white, ivory and cream white broadcloth and silk tricot. With these white tailored tops hats of brilliant color—emerald green, flag blue, or coral—were worn and usually the parasol and handbag matched the hat. The white silk tricot and white broadcloth costumes are beautiful, but impractical, therefore extravagant. The woman who has to count pennies in her dress allowance had much better leave these dainty white clothes to wealthier women and confine her longing for white wearables to linen suits and frocks for summer time. Linen is tremendously fashionable this year—as Palm Beach gave evidence—and you can be as white as you please in a spotless white linen tailored frock all summer long without rushing in the expense of white broadcloth at Easter.

It Pays To Shop in Union St.

(By Dorothy Durant.)
What would spring mean without the one most important spring bonnet? Those who have not shopped early had best make immediate plans for a jaunt or two through the shops, before the final selection is made. For it will need great discrimination to make a choice from the fascinating array of riotous colors.

Of course, one always says, "I want only a bit of a toque, or something large and floppy—just awfully striking and unusual."
But whoever stops to think, when saying this, how much more time is spent in dressing one's head than in choosing a becoming frock or selecting shoes. Hats seem to be something what human, do they not? The average woman starts in her search determined to find among the shops that one dashing little hat—that seems somehow a part of her. However, her task will be far easier this season, for there are innumerable artistically made hats, unusually becoming, having just that touch of something which makes them altogether individual and desirable.

Perhaps the most striking note of the season is shown in the mysterious influence of the East. It seems that all the charm and mystery of Egypt has been embodied in the millinery, and this is evidenced by a drooping at the sides of small hats. This droop is accentuated by an ornament, a flower, a feather, placed so that it hangs downward a bit and gives the effect of an ornament, such as is worn in the Egyptian headdress. This new type of hat is worn decidedly low on the forehead and far down over the ears, showing very little of the hair, this making an attractive frame for the face. Such a hat is enticing in its simplicity.

afternoon wear; that is low in front in a square or "V" explained Madams. "It is not difficult to meet your request, Mrs. Graham, with a charming chiffon dress in exquisite coloring."
Turning to me, she said:
"Please show Mrs. Graham the hyacinth chiffon dress trimmed with dyed lace and turquoise ribbon."

"This is a dainty frock with the coloring of a Dresden Shepherdess on a Watteau sketch," Madame said to Mrs. Graham, as I left the room.
Mrs. Graham is petite and very youthful. She has blonde hair and blue eyes and I know this gown would be perfectly entrancing on her. I adjusted the giraffe that is made of three shades of satin, violet in the center, front—jade green running around one and at the side is the replica of a Spanish comb made of the same material. Since the shape is small and fits snugly, it gives the effect of a comb being stuck through the hair.

Many of the shapes are again in the form of the off face effects, large floppy models, but mostly the draped turbans, which are made up in the metal cloths, sometimes feather embroidered with motifs or Chinese designs, and placed at the side, hanging a little over the edge of the toque, is a bit of a cockade of waxed cloth, finished off by an end with the border cut in fringe.

It is interesting to know that all sorts of batmans are again being used, especially the long stick effects of jet and the arrow pin of the past season, which has not lost its prestige. Always connected with these are the new French veils—for what wonders can be done with an attractive pin stuck at just the right angle and a wonderfully chic veil.

The navy blue and tete de negro are perhaps the most favored shades and the chin length embroidered and dotted veils continue to take precedence over the somewhat heavier floating lace effect. In the face veils the note of the season is chenille, not in the geometrically arranged dot only, but also in dots in acroly designs and irregular patterns. Other veils combine two colors in embroidery, such as white stitching on black, and all patterns are all-over in effect. An enticing French veil is quite long and shallow, describing a partial semi-circle, which is deeper at the centre, going into points at the ends. This is worn so that it falls just below the mouth, with the ends drawn up on each side of the brim of the hat in a little rosette, and the ends left hanging. This way of wearing a veil is interesting because the veil does not cover the back part of the brim or crown and merely acts as a drapery for the face.

It is a matter of choice this year whether or not a coat is like. The materials popular during the winter, duvety, peachblow and similar weaves, are equally good for spring coats, sans lining or with a new silk lining which is very suitable for the purpose.
But not all the new coats are long. Any number of three-quarter models are no more than suit length. These very short coats are in box effects with flaring sleeves and usually have prettily colored linings, which serve also to face revers and collars. Long or short, all coats are of comfortable width, and retain a straight-line appearance.

about three inches long, making a finished loop of an inch and a half in length. Occasionally a tunic is finished with a row of such loops stitched against the turned-under edge of the material.

Brokenhead, Man., March 26—(Special.)—Strong in her praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills is Mrs. Mary Murny, a well known and esteemed resident of this place. And Mrs. Murny gives her reasons.
"Two years ago I suffered from bladder trouble," she says. "I tried all kinds of medicines and two doctors in Winnipeg. All the doctors and medicines failed to help me."
"I turned to Dodd's Kidney Pills and used eight boxes of them and found them satisfactory. I give every praise to Dodd's Kidney Pills, and to any person suffering from bladder trouble I say, 'Try a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills.'"
"Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. By putting them in condition to do their full work they relieve bladder troubles and send pure blood and good health coursing to all parts of the body."
"Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not relieve kidney ills and those diseases that spring from sick kidneys."

Everyone is agitated about shoes. The question is whether a lady is to wear the now starchy toed French shoe or to hold fast to her slender aristocratic American last. The French last is a subtle modification, is generally proving a formidable rival of the long narrow shoe. No longer can it be said abroad of the American woman that, "By her shoes you shall know her." The woman always seeking something new and different in dress is fascinated with this small, starchy toed, persistent and likeable foreigner, but the one with staid conservative tastes will hold steadfast to her long vamp pointed toe temperance.

For those American feet to which the strictly French last is unbecoming, are adaptations that gracefully accommodate a point for slender length. Such are a charming pair of beige suede slippers with the most delightful sort of open work, placed so as to call attention to an aristocratic instep, and another pair of dull leather oxfords with the high heel millaire. Besides there are an interesting pair of satin or suede pumps with long pointed toes and a decidedly feminine tie across the instep.
The oxford for walking and sports wear has assumed a more sensible air and is not so long and pointed as heretofore. Its lines are more rounding at the toe, conforming more to the natural lines of the foot. For summer there are shown many attractive models in white kid, buckskin and canvas. Many of them have that becoming variation, the opera or baby French heel, making the summer pump or oxford unusually smart.
Some of these independent affairs are quite regardless of any distinction between afternoon and evening. For instance, a black satin and brocade slipper, adorned with a bow ragen widely in color and even appears in gold and silver. The most gorgeously studded rhinestone and steel cut buckles festively decorate many of the evening slippers. With such buckles, a blue and silver combination goes skipping about under the brilliant lights with all the assurance which belongs only to something very new.
Stockings have proved to be another disturbing feature of late. There was a time when one caught only a glimpse, and a very unsatisfying one at that, of a conservative foot in company with conservatively match stockings. But now one has not far to look for a generous expanse of transparent stocking. Typically French are colored

There's a Certain Romance About Furniture

A feminine novelist of note once said "Everything is a story—everything in this world."

Using this word "story" in the sense of true romance many pleasant stories grow out of experiences in a Furniture Store like ours.

Here new homes are being furnished in a more pictorial way than the blushing bride has ever dared to dream. And here also are old homes having unfulfilled desires realized.

By pursuing a modern merchandising policy and spending more than ordinary caution in the selections of furniture we are enabled to give to our patrons better furniture than could be otherwise possible under a more lax system.

Just at present our floors contain a most happy and diversified array of timely furniture and a cordial invitation to visit is extended to all—both present homeowners and prospective.

Absolutely no obligation entailed—naturally.

Why Not Let A Vacuum Cleaner Do Your Spring House Cleaning?

By the way here Spring is once again upon us and the women-folk know at once what that means. Why not be modern and let the "harnessed lightning" do your housecleaning for you? You will find in this store a wide variety of Electric Vacuum Cleaners, and at an equally wide price range.

Everyone is agitated about shoes. The question is whether a lady is to wear the now starchy toed French shoe or to hold fast to her slender aristocratic American last. The French last is a subtle modification, is generally proving a formidable rival of the long narrow shoe. No longer can it be said abroad of the American woman that, "By her shoes you shall know her." The woman always seeking something new and different in dress is fascinated with this small, starchy toed, persistent and likeable foreigner, but the one with staid conservative tastes will hold steadfast to her long vamp pointed toe temperance.
For those American feet to which the strictly French last is unbecoming, are adaptations that gracefully accommodate a point for slender length. Such are a charming pair of beige suede slippers with the most delightful sort of open work, placed so as to call attention to an aristocratic instep, and another pair of dull leather oxfords with the high heel millaire. Besides there are an interesting pair of satin or suede pumps with long pointed toes and a decidedly feminine tie across the instep.
The oxford for walking and sports wear has assumed a more sensible air and is not so long and pointed as heretofore. Its lines are more rounding at the toe, conforming more to the natural lines of the foot. For summer there are shown many attractive models in white kid, buckskin and canvas. Many of them have that becoming variation, the opera or baby French heel, making the summer pump or oxford unusually smart.
Some of these independent affairs are quite regardless of any distinction between afternoon and evening. For instance, a black satin and brocade slipper, adorned with a bow ragen widely in color and even appears in gold and silver. The most gorgeously studded rhinestone and steel cut buckles festively decorate many of the evening slippers. With such buckles, a blue and silver combination goes skipping about under the brilliant lights with all the assurance which belongs only to something very new.
Stockings have proved to be another disturbing feature of late. There was a time when one caught only a glimpse, and a very unsatisfying one at that, of a conservative foot in company with conservatively match stockings. But now one has not far to look for a generous expanse of transparent stocking. Typically French are colored

Everyone is agitated about shoes. The question is whether military is to wear the new stubby toed French shoe or to hold faithfully to her slender aristocratic American last. The French last in a subtle modification is generally proving a formidable rival of the long narrow shoe. No longer can it be said abroad of the American woman that, "By her shoes you shall know her." The woman always seeking something new and different in dress is fascinated with this small, stubby toed, persistent and likeable foreigner, but the one with staid conservative tastes will hold steadfast to her long ramp pointed toe temperament.

For those American feet to which the strictly French last is unbecoming, are adaptations that gracefully concede a point for slender length. Such are a charming pair of beige suede slippers with the most delightful sort of open work, placed so as to call attention to an aristocratic instep, and another pair of dull leather oxfords with the high heel millaire. Besides there are an interesting pair of satin or suede pumps with long pointed toes and a decidedly feminine tie across the instep.

The oxford for walking and sports wear has assumed a more sensible air and is not so long and pointed as heretofore. Its lines are more rounding at the toe, conforming more to the natural lines of the foot. For summer there are shown many attractive models in white kid, buckskin and canvas. Many of them have that becoming variation, the opera or baby French heel, making the summer pump or oxford unusually smart.

Some of these independent affairs are quite regardless of any distinction between afternoon and evening. For instance, a black satin and brocade slipper, adorned with a bow ragged widely in color and even appears in gold and silver. The most gorgeously studded rhinestone and steel out buckles festively decorate many of the evening slippers. With such buckles, a blue and silver combination goes skipping about under the brilliant lights with all the assurance which belongs only to something very new.

Stockings have proved to be another disturbing feature of late. There was a time when one caught only a glimpse, and a very unsatisfying one at that, of a conservative boot in company with conservatively match stockings. But now one has not far to look for a generous expanse of transparent stocking. Typically French are colored hose that do not match black shoes in blue, grey and elephant color. In all shades too are the various kinds of lace stockings, some elaborate in design, and others with only the narrow lace stripes. These are used for evening also, and so are others, elaborately embroidered. Very tempting is a silver grey stocking with insets of silver lace, giving the wearer a decidedly gay and festive feeling and assuring perfect contentment.

What young woman person could resist the lovely lingerie, and the other million and one dainty boudoir novelties shown her thrifting in the shops. You, who are planning for that one big event of a lifetime, that necessitates the complete trousseau, how beautifully simple the creator of lovely things has made your task! One glimpse is quite enough to convince you that this season was made a delightfully unusual one for you. Whether the "big event" is planned for tomorrow or for a time far distant, with the extensive selection before you, your problem fast begins to dwindle and before you realize it has been solved, and all is in readiness for the moment. In all garments the exquisite hand needlework, the exceptionally fine quality of the fabrics, dainty laces and hemstitched motifs contribute to their charm. The wisest shops are paying special attention to the bride. They leave her nothing to wish for after choosing her bridal sets so exquisitely dainty and so complete in every way.

To the average feminine mind perhaps the silk lingerie in the delicate shades will be always the most interesting. The elaborately trimmed silk undergarments have given way to the desire for the more tailored pieces, which are made to fit the figure as though to special measurement. In the more tailored designs are pussy willow either trimmed with real Irish lace or insets in unusual patterns of fine lace, and the Japanese satin, very new, very soft and very washable, feather stitched and made entirely by hand. This satin is lighter than the domestic variety, but has been found of excellent wearing quality. For the more frivolous taste, georgette crepe is favored. There is a particular attractiveness in the blue georgette crumple, one of a three piece set, hemstitched, and simply but strikingly trimmed with French bow-knots of two-toned American Beauty and purple moire ribbon.

Even the more conservative step to gasp at the displays of black and henna colored georgette under things. Those with fastidious tastes will add immediately at least one piece of this fascinating new lingerie to their spring wardrobe. One set especially proves that black and daintiness can be synonymous. Every stitch is made by hand with silver thread, Black Valenciennes lace is combined with black georgette between which are rows of net puffings. Two-toned rose and lavender moire ribbon is run in and out through the garments and caught delightfully with new French flowers.

Another unusual new color is henna. A bridal set in that shade is particularly lovely and consists of chemise, night robe and negligee. The chemise and nightrobe are simply made by hand with a silver thread stitch, the only trimming being a grape design in henna velvet applique. The foundation of the negligee is velvet brocade on silver cloth, over which is a coat effect of georgette and on this steel beads are worked in elaborate designs. The fish tail is beaded with a long steel beaded tassel.

There are many who prefer the Filipino hand made lingerie, the new handkerchief linen underthings or the innumerable dainty cotton materials. The patient fingers of the Oriental needle-woman alone can produce the sheer loveliness of the Philippine hand-made lingerie. They have chosen the finest nainsook, and using this foundation have wrought designs representing the traditions of generations, in the most delicately embroidered garments. What clever use the experienced needle-woman would have for handkerchief linen! The tailored styles are smartest in this material, with touches of the finest handwork, with just something about their simplicity that makes them altogether distinctive. A new soft cotton fabric, in silk mill dainty in a crossbar draws work design. This is used in the less expensive lingerie and can be easily laundered.

Young women at Palm Beach are favoring extremely simple gowns of chiffon and silk voile and Georgette crepe, with a leaning toward chiffon, made with a draped surplice waist, a narrow belt, often of folded silver ribbon, and a skirt with clinging foundation, rather long, covering the ankles, the softly flowing draperies like flower petals over this foundation.

Camel's hair coats were never so popular as at present, and are leading in favor for board walk promenade for both maid and matron.

MANITOBA WOMAN PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Mrs. Murnyio Says to All Who Suffer From Bladder Trouble: "Try a Box of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Brokenhead, Man., March 26—(Special.)—Strong in her praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills is Mrs. Mary Murnyio, a well known and esteemed resident of this place. And Mrs. Murnyio gives her reason.

"Two years ago I suffered from bladder trouble," she says. "I tried all kinds of medicines and two doctors in Winnipeg. All the doctors and medicines failed to help me."

"I turned to Dodd's Kidney Pills and used eight boxes of them and found them satisfactory. I give every praise to Dodd's Kidney Pills, and to any person suffering from bladder trouble I say, 'Try a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills.'"

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. By putting them in condition to do their full work they relieve bladder troubles and send pure blood and good health coursing to all parts of the body.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not relieve kidney ills and those diseases that spring from weak kidneys.

Variety & Distinction

With the season sufficiently advanced for the average woman to have thought out her special needs for spring and summer, it will be an exacting shopper who will not find the required suit, coat, frock or millinery among the offerings which have been gathered from far and near. Distinctiveness is the keynote of the styles. As the season for separate coats is now at its height, much consideration has been given to the selection of those garments. A generous coat of lined-tulle cloth is remarkable for its bouffant pockets and smart standing collar, which becomes a scarf, crossing its wide ends, one of which fastens on the shoulder with a large ornamental button. A generously fashioned all-enveloping coat of navy blue tulle cloth introduces a collar and inset vest of amber-colored kumala-kumala silk and is finished with large amber buttons. Sports coats and polo coats of natural-colored imported camel's hair cloth are crumpled on collar and cuffs with leather and peach bloom in contrasting shades and come in three-quarter and knee lengths.

The designers of suits have fallen victims to the attractiveness of the accented-pleated skirt, with which the Eton or pony jacket is most effectively combined. A pony jacket, hip length, of navy tricotine has long tuxedo lapels opening over a vest of embrodered satin, while an accented-pleated skirt of tricotine completes the costume.

Embroidery Employed. Heavy silk embroidery distinguishes a suit of muskeeter gabardine, the embroidery forming a deep band about the edge of the Eton coat and showing again on the three-quarter sleeve, in which a removable plain collar is set for the woman who prefers wrist length for street wear. The skirt of this suit is also accented-pleated. A smart effect is also given to a plain skirt by the wearing of a heavy tricotine girdle in a contrasting shade. A navy gabardine with a tailored pony coat having a trimming of narrow bands of the gabardine, carries a girdle of Quaker gray tricotine which falls over the plain tailored skirt.

In spite of many rumors to the contrary, jersey cloth has not lost favor for suits, and a late grown three-piece suit is given an artistic effect by the heavy wool embrodery in a cherry shade, which appears on the jacket, the tiny vest and the edge of the skirt. Gold baronet satin provides the material for a jacket frock, the skirt being of the plain gown, while the hat has broad interwoven stripes of seal and Pequin blue. Floral georgette in grobe gray, with pussy-willow design, has been developed with knife-pleated ruffles of the material edged with corset, for an attractive afternoon porch frock. A narrow girdle of double strands of pleated ribbon in cerise finishes the waistline. Baronet satin is again the favorite for separate sports skirts with ammal-kumala silk a close second. Jaded, a sort of Nile green, has been chosen for one of the satin sport skirts, while tangerine, a variation of the popular orange and yellow of this season, is shown in a skirt of kumala-kumala to be worn with a coat sweater of tricotine having cuffs and collar of the tangerine skirt material.

A coat frock of navy tricotine opens its entire length over a vest and skirt panel of black satin; the revers of the tunic are faced to the bottom of the skirt with orange-colored duvetyn turning back over bands formed of flat, stitched braid. A wide satin ribbon girdle with falling ends gives the finishing touch to a frock which is, as its style proclaims, a model imported from a Paris salon.

Some Charming Hats. In the opinion of many, a woman's entire appearance is made or marred by her choice of a hat. With the wide range offered in millinery, a discriminating buyer ought to be able to choose a veritable crowning glory for any costume. A picture hat of navy blue marine, with soft transparent crown and a wreath of French flowers is ideal for wear with a dressy afternoon frock, while a close-fitting turban of tangle braid, having a long tumble mount on either side, suggests the navy tailor-made for shopping or traveling wear. Vevee braid, which has the appearance of beecor, tied strands of straw, is shown for the first time this season and is used in a turban of beige lined with pale blue. The soft, parting strands of the hat material show the lighter color through with charming effect. A sailor of latic braid has the appropriate crown of navy and moderate brim of

The sides of the blouse and the kimono sleeves are set in black lace and the lace is draped in cascades that fall over the hips. The overblouse and apron panels are white Georgette crepe embroidered in white ribbon lines in a grape design. The embroidery appears above the sash which is made of the host.

London, March 26.—A low-necked blouse isn't a "pneumonia" blouse at all—it's a health-giving, life-sustaining garment.

Anyone doubting this statement is at liberty to consult Professor Leonard Hill, who has been making investigations for the Medical Research Commission.

A bashful man would shrink from investigating so funny and docile a portion of women's wearing apparel. But Professor Hill isn't bashful.

He investigated and made discoveries all in the sacred cause of Science.

He asserted that the blouse does not cause pneumonia, but is conducive of good health—the open neck acting as a chimney to the clothes, letting heat and moisture escape.

This (the discovery, not the blouse) leaves women cold. They always knew it. It's one of those things they might have told Professor Hill, saving him all the expense of research work.

The healthiest people in the world are sailors, said a woman physician, and the unhealthiest perhaps are nuns.

All the same, women are glad to know they stand in right with Science.

When you start out to invent a new spring hat what is the thing that you think of?

Do you think first of what enliven "they" are wearing, what stupas you have seen pictures of in the fashion magazines and in the newspapers—or do you think first and foremost of that all important proposition, your own face and head, and only in a secondary way of the other things?

Some women buy hats that they wear only a few times and then pose back on their shelves and try to forget or bravely send off to some im-pneumonia country cousin who accepts any part-off bill of wearing apparel that is sent her—hats that come to such ends are usually those that are bought by women when they forget the personal equation.

But with some women this never seems to matter, and they go on wearing the hats that do not suit their type of face with the least concern in the world. Apparently they have the faculty of looking at their hats and faces in the glass quite disjunctly.

That is why, then, there are so many more than middle aged women who persistently wear the most trying sort of brimless hats, apparently convinced that such hats are smart. Smart they may be on a young girl's face, but the old face is greatly softened by the half tone caused by the shadow of some sort of brim.

There are women of mature years whose cheeks are sagging heavily who wear their hair painstakingly marcelled and netted and drawn rather severely away from the face. They forget that this mode, topped by the severely smart brimless hat, adds years to their appearance.

Often the very tall, small faced women make the mistake of wearing hats that are very broad, feeling that in so doing they detract from their attenuation. Often a well fitting small hat would be a better selection, as it tends to add character to the small face.

New York.—Lace is reigning queen of fabrics now and the more of it there is used on the gown the better Fashion is pleased. But, and this is important, it cannot be used just any way or what just any other material. It must be treated with great discrimination so that it is not allowed to become common.

First, there is as much wide flouncing used as of narrower lace. It forms entire skirts and little coats, as in the Grimsmer model, at the right, which is exclusively Chantilly lace forms the coat and in the skirt Chantilly is mingled in panel effect with cream chiffon draped over oyster-white satin. The corsage is of apple-green tulle with the large motif embroidered in blue, magenta and cream.

The hat, also, is of lace with green tulle introduced, and the whole costume is suitable for an afternoon tea at which the wearer pours, for Palm Beach or Casino wear, or for a bridesmaid's costume.

Clara Moore, the pretty California actress in "Shavines," wears a lace gown as exquisite as it is simple. Blanco lace is draped with slight bouffancy at the sides over opal satin and a little braaiere corsage of the satin tops it.

In "Listen Lester" is a ravishing lace costume worn by Ada Mae Weeks. Tulle with many tiny frills of its own material, then tulle, accented-pleated over it and, finally, the finest, sheerest of lace flouncing dropped over that, composes it. Cream satin forms the bandeau corsage which has lace shoulder sleeves, and then a hat of lace with tulle facing and a crown of green leaves and pink rosbuds completes the costume.

Jack Dempsey is working on the tenth episode of his serial for Pathé. Jack aims to have that serial completed by April 1.

There was a large attendance of students and citizens at the Girls' Intercollegiate Debates between Acadia and Mount Allison, which was held in the Fawcett Memorial Hall, Friday evening. The subject was, "Resolved that a legislative union for the Maritime Provinces on terms equitable and agreeable, would be advantageous."

Mr. Allison supported the resolution and Acadia took the negative. Both teams presented their arguments in a clear, concise manner, and it was really difficult for a disinterested party to decide which team had the better of the debate. However, the decision of the judges was given in favor of Acadia by the narrow margin of two points—Acadia 537 and Mt. Allison 535 out of a possible 1000.

Acadia team—Misses Parry, Fitzpatrick and Verge.

Mt. Allison team—Misses Ruth Hamper, Molly Peacock and Henrietta Kempton.

Judges—Rev. Mr. Ramsay of Moncton; Rev. Mr. Walker of Amherst and Principal Davis of Fergus.

Miss Christina Hall of Ottawa, Chief Inspector for Canada, of the Victorian Order of Nurses, spent the week-end in town, guest at the Ford Hotel.

Mews. Among those present were Mrs. H. M. Woolf, Mrs. Freeman-Lake, Mrs. Liddy, Mrs. Desbarres, Mrs. H. C. Reed, Mrs. Herbert Reed, Miss Sprague, Mrs. Kenneth Piskard, Mrs. Bennett, Miss Effie Johnson, Mrs. H. H. Johnson, Mrs. H. H. Smith, Mrs. E. Hart, Mrs. Hazen and Miss Alice Piskard.

Mrs. M. H. Smith entertained a few friends at afternoon tea on Saturday, in order that they might have the pleasure of meeting Miss Hall, Chief Inspector for Canada, of the Victorian Order of Nurses, who was here for the week-end. Among those present were Miss Hall, Mrs. Freeman-Lake, Miss Anderson, Mrs. H. C. Reed, Mrs. C. W. Cahill, Mrs. Herbert Reed and Mrs. W. Turner.

The Mount Allison girls defeated Acadia in a game of basketball, which was played Friday, March 19th in the University gymnasium. Throughout the game, the Mount A. girls showed their superior skill and knowledge of basketball. One combination was of excellent, giving ample evidence of thorough coaching they had received. The girls all played well, Margaret Parker receiving especial attention by the particularly fine game she played. The Acadia team played a clean game, and put up a hard fight throughout and during the second half succeeded in doing more scoring. The score of the game for the first period was 2-2 and in the second period 13-26, thus making a total of 15-28 in favor of Mt. A. The Mount A. coach, Miss Leslie, refereed the first period, and the Acadia coach, Mr. Longley, the second period.

The Mt. A. girls have now played both Dalhousie and Acadia, and have won from both colleges. They are hoping also to be able to play U. N. B.

Mrs. P. Hanson entertained at a very enjoyable chain tea on Saturday afternoon in aid of the W. A. of St. Paul's church. Those present were Mrs. C. W. Knapp, Mrs. H. E. Flavett, Mrs. G. H. E. were Mrs. Woodworth, Mrs. O. D. E. Mrs. L. W. Daman, Mrs. J. L. Richardson, Mrs. W. Duncan, Mrs. H. T. Knapp and Miss Lillian Sprague.

A Boston paper of recent date says: "Mrs. Marjorie McCord, senior member of the graduating class of nurses at Talitha Currie Hospital of the New England Reform Society, was tendered a dinner yesterday by her associates at the institution. The affair, held in the assembly room of the hospital at 215 Forest Hills street, Jamaica Plain, was presided over by Miss Leah E. Gilman, superintendent of the home of the society. All of the nurses of the institution and the officials of the home were present, including Dr. George H. Bari, chief obstetrician of the hospital.

What Germany's Week-End Revolution May Lead To

The outbreaks and disorders in Germany, some for monarchy and some for Bolshevism, bring up sharply the question whether it is to the best interests of the Allies to enforce upon Germany the terms of the Treaty. A Washington dispatch says a fear is felt in official circles that Russian and German Bolshevism may join hands and drag Europe down into ruin unless aid is extended. "Simple sagacity, apart from any more generous consideration, sanctions a liberal enforcement of the peace terms," avers the Atlanta Journal, which remarks that "it would be a strange sort of equity that would end the play by plunging the rescued heroine back into calamity rather than spare the villain a pang or two of his sentence."

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST for this week, March 27th, presents a study of American editorial opinion upon the enforcement of the Versailles Treaty, and by reading it the average reader will get an unclouded idea of many problems that confront the Allied nations at the present time.

Shediac

Shediac, N. B., March 25.—It has been very noticeable this winter that each Friday or Saturday a storm would set in usually lasting over Sunday. Last week-end was not very different from the previous Sunday's, but since then, the weather has been very mild. The warm March sun has done its work and the streets the past few days have been very sloppy. The roads in the country are not good for traveling, but after a long and severe winter we are welcoming the advent of spring.

Safeguard Your Roof

THE roof is an important item—it "makes" or "mars" the whole structure. In shingle-roofed houses it is even more necessary to see that it is in good regular repair, because once a roof commences to decay a general deterioration of house-value is the immediate result.

To ensure a permanent durability, as well as an appearance, use either as a mixture in which shingles are dipped or as a stain to apply to the completed roof.

It comes in all colors, and gives a tough, durable "seasoning," besides contributing largely to the artistic effect of your home.

Like every other B-H product, the B-H Shingle Stain is first choice among people who know good paint.
