BASE BALL

Some Interesting Games
Played Monday

NEWCASTLE WINS

Moncton and Chatham Play
at Chatham—Other
Games.

Monday, Labor Day was a base ball day. All the teams were engaged and some good games witnessed. At Newcastle the C. T. A. team of Chatham played the Junior Corn Killers and a very good game was witnessed. At the commencement the Newcastle team led but Chatham picked up until the score was 7-8 in favor of Chatham in the seventh inning but Newcastle by hard playing evened the score and had one run to their credit and only one man out when the game was declared finished. The score was 11-12. The Chatham boys were considerably heavier than the local team. It was a good clean game being free from the many squabbles usually witnessed on the ball field. The Umpire, Wm. Ashford, in his decisions pleased all and his rulings were acknowledged just. The L. O. L. band furnished music.

At Chatham the Moncton and Chatham teams played at Chatham and Chatham led. Score 8-6.

At Bathurst the Royal Oaks of Chatham played the local team in the morning and Bathurst led. Score 11-10.

In the afternoon the Royal Oaks played the Campbellton team and beat them. Score Chatham 16, Campbellton 6.

CHATHAM GIRL A SUICIDE IN BOSTON.

Nellie Martin Took Carbolic Acid—
[No Reason Known—Mother Said
To Belong to Chatham N. B.]

Boston, Aug. 31.—Nellie Martin, 30 years and domestic in a lodging house at 18 Bulfinch street, died last night in the Massachusetts general public hospital, as a result of taking a quantity of carbolic acid.

Freeman H. Holmes runs the lodging house. He said that Miss Martin had worked for him two years. He had no explanation to offer of the deed except that she had been complaining more or less for some weeks of a stomach trouble. She was feeling unusually bad, and acted rather despondent on Saturday, he said, but since that time and up to last evening she appeared to be feeling stronger.

The idea that she might be bent on taking her life did not occur to any one in the house, it was said there late at night, and no one paid much, if any, attention to the young woman during last evening. She was around the house apparently looking after things, as was her wont, and was seen by some of the lodgers as late as 7.45 o'clock and was all right then. Half an hour later one of the lodgers went into the sitting room on the ground floor and saw Miss Martin lying on the couch, her face very pale, and a strong odor of Carbolic acid was in the room.

She did not reply when spoken to, and it was discovered that she was unconscious. A messenger was sent for physicians, and Drs. Parker and Macle responded. They said the young woman was suffering from carbolic acid poisoning and recommended that she be taken to a hospital.

She was taken to the Massachusetts general hospital, where she died at 9.15.

It is said at the lodging house that Miss Martin's only relative, so far as known, is her mother, who is said to live in Chatham, N. B.

GOVERNMENT STEAMER MINTO SUFFERS BY FIRE.

Ablaze at Charlottetown—Some
Hundreds of Dollars Damage—
Oil Tank Explodes.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 1.—Fire occurred on the government steamer Minto at Charlottetown, P. E. I. this morning and caused damage amounting to several hundred dollars. It will delay her departure for Quebec a week or ten days. The fire started among some city waste and was confined to the engine room and the damage was mostly to the woodwork, but the iron work about the room was also damaged, the iron being warped and paint burnt off. The engines are thought to have escaped injury. The engine room stores were all destroyed. Fresh fuel was added to the fire by the explosion of the oil tank.—Telegraph.

WANTED.—A reliable girl for housework. Small family. Apply Mrs. M. R. Hunt, Douglastown.

Mrs. J. R. Breen is expected to speak here on Sept. 12th.

RAIN CAUSES RAGING FLOOD.

Cleveland has a Terrible Experience
—$1,000,000 Loss in Property
No Fatalities.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—At dawn this morning Cleveland awoke to look upon devastation caused by a raging flood. The great volume of raging water vented its anger over miles of the eastern portion of the city and did damage approximating $1,000,000. A terrific rain commenced shortly after 2 o'clock, turned into a cloudburst between 3 and 5 and then continued with great force until nearly 10 o'clock. That no lives were lost is nothing short of a miracle. Stories of shelling escapes were told. The surging waters spread over an area in the east end nearly eight miles long and a mile and a half wide.

Houses were undermined as if built of straw and almost incredible damage done to streets and property.

Culverts, trestles and bridges were torn down. Hundreds of residents were imprisoned in their homes until saved from their perilous position; but the local boats proved inadequate and it was soon found necessary to call on the life saving crew from the river a distance of seven miles. The life boats were loaded on wagons and hurried to the scene.

The torrent surged with awful force for hours in Deering street and over a dozen families were penned up with water five and six feet deep surrounding their homes. At this point the life saving crew, assisted by squads of firemen and policemen, succeeded in landing the terror-stricken people in places of safety.

Shortly before noon the torrent undermined scores of graves in St. Joseph's cemetery and the bodies were soon being tossed about in the water.

The great flood boiled over the banks of Dean Brook along the boulevard and great jagged holes are torn in the beautiful driveway.

Gordon and Wade parks on the south side are damaged to an amount estimated at $100,000.

Through Glensville the loss is estimated at $100,000. The street railways will suffer a loss placed at $50,000.

A remarkable feature of the storm is that up to 6 o'clock this morning hardly a drop of rain fell west of Wilson avenue.

Residents along East Prospect street, near Lincoln avenue, on Lincoln avenue and Glen Park place, were aroused between 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning by the sound of the booming waters. The water continued to rise steadily until it was eight feet deep.

By six o'clock the residents along Lincoln avenue commenced to remove furniture and valuables to the second stories as the rushing torrent reached the level of front porches and, in a number of houses swept into the first floors.

The waters rushed back from Lincoln avenue, until the big space just east of the avenue and between East Prospect street and Esplanade place, were a great mass of angry water from four to ten feet deep.

Huge pieces of lumber were twirled around like corks and banged into many houses, threatening them with destruction.

The residents along the north side of East Prospect street from Lincoln avenue to within a few feet of Billings avenue, were penned in their houses like stranded alders. The water ran up to the porch steps and within a few feet of the porches it was from four to five feet deep.

The families of Mrs. V. E. Newton and F. A. Warren, on Willamette court, had a terrible experience. Mrs. Newton's mother, Mrs. Caroline Hamm, aged 80 years, is in a serious condition as a result of the fright and exposure.

COUNCILLOR'S ELECTION.

The elections for councillors takes place next Tuesday and a good deal of interest is being aroused in some of the parishes but in many the councillors have been elected by acclamation.

Couns. Davidson and Doyle were elected for Newcastle. Croker and Parker for Derby and Pond and Campbell for Ludlow. There will be a contest in Blackville.

Naval Disaster Averted.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 30.—During the naval manoeuvres off Halifax harbor about three o'clock this morning a second Victoria Camperdown disaster almost resulted. The fleet was approaching the harbor to repel an imaginary attack by the torpedo boats. The lights were out on all the ships and they were stealing their way in, the guns being all manned and the crews prepared for action.

When two miles off Camperdown signal station the cruisers swung inwards on the same circle.

When the ships became visible to the crews in the moonlight they were heading straight for each other. The engines were quickly reversed and the excitement for a time was intense, the men from below rushing to the decks.

The ships' courses were at once altered and a serious accident was averted. If it had not been prevented.

Strike Settled.

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—The C. P. R. trackmen's strike has been settled. According to the terms of settlement the men accept the best of settlement arrived at between General Manager McNeill and the Conciliation Committee, which concedes partial recognition of the trackmen's organization.

Oil Struck.

MONCTON, Aug. 29.—Interview to-night in regard to a second strike of oil at St. Joseph's, N. B. Ledge said oil sands had been struck this morning, and after penetrating two feet they struck oil. The second well is producing and looks better than the first well. Oil sands were struck at about the same depth as in well No. 1, which indicates that they run right along about the same depth. The two wells are about 450 feet apart.

It is the intention to start more wells and, as new machinery is coming, it is expected to have three or four wells started within a week. Torpedoing has not yet commenced and nothing in this connection will be done until several wells have been sunk.

Another Horror.

KALISPEY, Mont., Aug. 31.—A west bound passenger train on the Great Northern road was wrecked about 8.30 o'clock last night near Nyack station, forty miles east of Kalispel, in the mountains. An east bound freight train backed out of the switch at Essex and broke in two, 28 cars going down the mountainside, crashing into the passenger train without warning. The special car of Assistance General Superintendent P. L. Downs and a day coach of laborers were demolished and caught fire and burned. Superintendent Downs and his son were instantly killed, as was their cook. Many laborers were killed and burned, but the number cannot at this time be ascertained.

A Desperate Shooting Affair.

On East Queen Street Yesterday Afternoon.

A very serious shooting affair took place on Queen Street East, yesterday afternoon at about 3.30 o'clock.

When a man named George T. Hamilton, while under the influence of liquor, started a quarrel in the house of Mrs. Thomas Nolan, mother-in-law of Hamilton's. Blows were exchanged between Hamilton and a young man named Gerrit Nolan. Hamilton being worsted in this fight, went into his house, which is next door to Nolan's, there securing a rifle and a quantity of ammunition, returned to Nolan's house, and opened up a brisk fusillade.

Six shots were fired in quick succession into the house. Six persons were in the house at the time of the shooting; fortunately no person was hit.

Chief William Green appeared on the scene, and found Hamilton in his house up stairs. A sharp scuffle took place between Hamilton and the officer, who handcuffed, and with the assistance of Mr. Parker, lodged the prisoner in jail.

This morning Hamilton was brought before the Police Court, and on being charged with shooting with an attempt to kill, was sent back to jail until Tuesday, at 10 o'clock when the case will be further heard.—Truro Daily News.

Put "Hubby" in a Safe.

Marguerite Dangler, just tried at Exeter for murdering her husband, has been sentenced to three years imprisonment. Describing the affair, Miss Dangler said: "I was in the habit of going out alone whenever I feel like it. I believe in mutual freedom in the married state. One evening my husband tried to forcibly stop me as I was passing from my apartment as I was passing from my apartment through our store going to a ball, while he was to remain at home to finish the accounts. A fight ensued and I, being the stronger, finally threw my husband into a big safe and slammed the door shut. I returned from the dance at midnight and tried unsuccessfully to open the safe. Then I went to bed, relying on my employee to release my husband. The next morning the cashier found M. Dangler dead, his face scratched, his clothes torn and his wrists chafed, presumably in his despair, feeling death inevitable. The wife testified that it never occurred to her that the safe was airtight and that her husband was in danger of suffocation."

Boers Derail a Train.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Lord Kitchener reports to the war office that nine persons were killed and 17 others wounded in the shooting and the train derailed in the shooting.

Romance of Noted Desperadoes.

Younger Brothers released after Twenty-five Years.

For Fifteen years a Sister Worked to Obtain Pardon or Parole for the two Prisoners.

It was sister's love and devotion that resulted a few days ago in freedom after twenty-five years of imprisonment of Jim and Cole Younger, two of the most noted American desperadoes. The devotion has been supported by Senator Stephen B. Elkins, who has repeatedly in the last five years given his influence in favor of the parole of the men. A romantic tinge is given to the reasons assigned for his interest in the case by the unsupported story that his life was saved during the Civil War by one of the brothers.

Fifteen years ago Miss Retts Younger began her work for their pardon or parole. She has never ceased since then to fight for them although time and again defeated by the legislature.

In prison the two surviving brothers have been models. They have studied medicine, the law and theology. They have never disobeyed orders. Warden after warden has testified not only to their obedience, but to the belief that they would make good citizens if freed.

WAR-TIME RAIDERS.

Despite their long imprisonment the Youngers are comparatively young men. Thomas Coleman Younger, familiarly called Cole, was born in 1844, James in 1850, and Robert who died in the penitentiary some years ago, in 1853. The oldest of the trio was, therefore, seventeen years of age when the Civil War began, but he lived in a century and at a time when boys did the work and the daring of men. For several years before the war the bordercountries of Missouri and Kansas were virtually in a state of strife. Raids by bodies of armed men were common, both in Missouri and Kansas. Noonday forays and midnight assassinations were of weekly occurrence. The "Jayhawkers" and "Border Ruffians" carried on a ceaseless strife, characterized by acts of fiendish brutality.

When the Civil War broke out, therefore, it found both sides so embittered that the conditions were present for a desperate struggle. Col. Henry Younger, father of the convicts, suffered so terribly from the raids of Jemison and others that he was reduced from affluence to poverty, and his son Cole, in a wild desire to revenge the wrongs of his family, enlisted in the guerilla band led by the notorious Quantrell. With a small party, numbering anywhere from thirty to two hundred men, this noted guerilla made his name a terror word in Western Missouri and Eastern Kansas. While acknowledging a sort of allegiance to the Confederacy, he acted everywhere, and waged war with the ferocity of a wild beast.

TRAINED BY QUANTRELL.

But there were beasts of prey on both sides in those cruel days, and each seemed anxious to rival the other in the attempt to establish a reputation for savagery. Cole was soon joined by his brother James, and the training they received from Quantrell was the worst that could be imagined—a fit preparation for the life they afterward led. The Younger brothers quickly distinguished themselves among even the reckless spirits of the guerilla band. The federal troops and militia

Quantrell, but the familiarity of the guerillas with the country in which they were operating generally enabled them to take advantage of their opponents when an attack was deemed advisable, and when hard pressed, greatly facilitated their escape. Cole and his brother seem to have been in nearly every one of the little but desperate battles fought by Quantrell. They were at Tate's house when it was surrounded by the Federal, and narrowly escaped capture. They were at both fights at Blue Cut and at the battles of Walnut Creek, Independence, Lone Jack and a score of other engagements, hardly worthy of the name of skirmishes, yet which formed notable events in the history of the border warfare which went on uninterruptedly for four years.

HAIR-BREADTH ESCAPES.

Numerous were the hair-breadth escapes of Cole and his brother. The former seemed to bear a charmed life. In his first fight under Quantrell he became separated from his companions, was pursued by nearly a hundred infantry and cavalry, yet, although on foot, managed to escape, not having received a scratch. On another occasion, by a clever piece of strategy, he effected not only his own escape, but the deliverance of the band from a perilous situation. It was in February, 1862. Quantrell was encamped on Indian Creek, in Jackson county, about ten miles from Independence. There were only about fifty men in the guerilla party, and the Federal, imagining that their capture would be an easy matter, moved out from Independence with over 500 men and surrounded the camp at night, making an attack at daybreak on the morning of the 26th.

The guerillas made a stubborn defence, but finding themselves completely surrounded, realized that their capture or extermination was only a matter of days. Just back of the Federal line was a large farmhouse with yards containing a considerable herd of cattle. When night came on the guerillas began to fell trees, ostensibly to strengthen their position, and while the attention of the Federal was thus diverted, Cole Younger, with three or four companions, crept through the Federal lines, reached the farmyard, tore down the fence and stamped the cattle in the direction of the Federal force. The onset of the frightened steers was mistaken in the darkness for a cavalry charge, and in the confusion that ensued the guerilla band made its escape.

At another time, when Cole was visiting his mother, his presence became known to the Federal militia, who surrounded the house in an attempt to capture him, and he escaped through the strategy of an old colored woman, who concealed him beneath her petticoats and a venerable counterpane hastily added to her costume.

The Youngers seem to have followed the fortunes of Quantrell until about the close of the war, when they returned to their home, but soon found that they would not be permitted to live there in peace or, indeed, at all. Several members of the family had been murdered by the Kansas guerillas. Two of the bodies had been discovered in during a storm and caused injuries that resulted in death; the family estate had been ruined, and the Youngers, with their brother Bob aged fourteen, the James boys and a number of others similarly situated, made the fatal mistake of turning to a life of crime. They might have emigrated to one of the Southern States, but refused to do so, being partly actuated no doubt by a burning desire for revenge on the authors of their misfortunes.

WITH THE JAMES BOYS.

Then ensued a series of most remarkable crimes, notable alike for the daring with which they were committed and for the rich plunder that rewarded them. Since their incarceration in the Minnesota penitentiary the Youngers have never talked of their life during the period succeeding the war, and evidence elsewhere has been almost unobtainable, so it is impossible to say with how many of these deeds they were identified, but the probability is that whenever the James boys were in action, the three Youngers were also there. The first of these notable crimes was the robbery of the bank at Liberty, Mo., where $72,000 was taken. The complete success of this exploit and the ease with which it was accomplished soon led to others. Banks were robbed within the next few months at Lexington, Savannah, Richmond, Russellville and Gallatin, Mo., and in each case a considerable booty was obtained. Then, broadening the scene of their operations, the outlaws proceeded to rob bank in Corydon, Ia; Columbia, Ky.; Ste. Genevieve, Mo., and other places. Some of these crimes may have been committed by imitators, but at that time such was the terror inspired by the names of James and Younger that every undertaking of this kind was laid at their door.

INVENTED TRAIN ROBBERY.

Train Robbery was a new departure in the history of crime, the first enterprise of the kind being managed by the James and Younger party on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, near Council Bluffs. The train was wrecked, the express car and the passengers were robbed, but less than $6,000 was secured by the bandits, instead of the $50,000 they had expected. Their information had been misleading; the train they had wrecked was not the treasure train, which, however, with $75,000 in gold, passed over the road the following day. A hot pursuit was at once organized; the trail of the robbers was followed to a point where they crossed the Missouri river by swimming, but after that the band seems to have separated and none were overtaken. The robbery occurred on July 21, 1873, and made a profound sensation throughout the country. (Continued on page three)

EVENTS of the WEEK.

GASANOQUE, Oct. 27—East and west bound G. T. R. freight trains collided at Thousand Island Junction this morning. Two members of the train crew were killed. The men killed were Engineer J. P. Martin and a brakeman named Stoen.

SYDNEY, Aug. 27—The Dominion Iron and Steel Company will commence to make steel about the first of January next, said Superintendent Baker, to the Chronicle correspondent to-night. Mr. Baker stated that the two furnaces were now producing four hundred and seventy-five tons of pig iron a day, and in a short time he expects to have them up to their full capacity.

DIGBY, Aug. 27—Fire broke out early this morning on board the schooner Lizzie Wharton. Capt. Holmes, lying at Merritt's Cove, Granville. The vessel was entirely destroyed, together with two carloads of flour belonging to Pickles & Mills, of Annapolis.

SEATTLE, Wash. Aug. 27—Edward Mortimer, a miner, 68 years of age, is the center of a story emanating from Dawson, where he is said to have been kidnapped and lowered into a deep shaft on Thistle Creek, seventeen miles from Dawson. His captors demanded $6,000 as the price of release, but on being told that he had no money, left him to perish. After 12 hours of effort the old man succeeded in climbing to the surface of the shaft and after wandering eight miles found a canoe which brought him to Dawson, where he sought police protection.

LOUISBURG, Aug. 27—Murdoch Campbell, an employee of the Dominion Coal Co., came near losing his life today by suffocation. Campbell, with several other men, were working in the coal pocket when a very fall of coal came down and completely buried him under it. Fellow workmen at once rescued the coal at a great risk to themselves, as a second fall was expected to occur at any moment. Campbell succeeded in extricating himself from the coal, but it was more than twenty minutes before the man was entirely liberated from his perilous condition.

OTAWA, Aug. 28—Ottawa and the other leading Canadian cities will likely be captured with the Boer guns expected by British in South Africa. Some of the Canadian Government troops to the Imperial authorities of the guns to be located.

at different points in Canada. A cable has just been received from the British government stating that a distribution of the guns will be made, but that the war office is not yet ready to make the distribution. When the time for the distribution takes place Canada will not be forgotten.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29—Mr. James Ross, Vice-president of the Dominion Coal Co., arrived home yesterday from Sydney and reports that the shipments to the St. Lawrence have reached 5000 tons a day and will total at the end of the season, 875,000 tons, which will be a record breaker and 101,353 tons ahead of last year.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29—Eleven known dead, one missing and thirty-two injured is the record made by the explosion of the boilers of the steamboat City of Trenton on the Delaware River yesterday afternoon. All night long city firemen, policemen and employees of the Wilmington Steamboat Company, which owned the vessel, worked in and around the burned and blackened hull searching for bodies of victims. Hundreds of men are dragging the river bottom with grappling irons today and they will continue to do so until every person is accounted for.

GLACE BAY, C. B., Aug. 29—The good people of Briceport are discussing a sensational elopement. In the latter part of May, Mary Cassidy, a rather handsome blonde of 22 or 23 years, nicely dressed and a smooth talker, was employed as a domestic in the family of Alex. McInnis, a miner, working in the International Colliery. She was a willing worker and won her way in the good graces of the family. A young man from Springfield, John Macdonald, a tall, strapping coal cutter, became acquainted with Mary. They kept company. On Monday evening they went for a drive together and they never came back. The next morning Mrs. McInnis discovered that $140 she had in a trunk in her bureau was gone and that Mary had evidently secured a trousseau from her family closet and some of the mistress' best dresses had disappeared. The local police are looking for the couple, but it is thought they have gone beyond call.

SYDNEY, C. B., Aug. 29—McCurdy, McInnis and McSweeney and two other employees of the freight department of the I.C.R. of this town were arrested this morning, charged with stealing liquor in transit from Sydney to Glace Bay. The pilfering has been going on for some time extending probably to other things. The arrest of the men caused surprise among the other employees and through the town.

and gave a glowing account of the wealth of the country, the abundance of money in the small towns and the ease with which a fortune could be made. After some consideration, the enterprise was resolved upon. Eight men participated, the two James brothers, the three Youngers, Charles Pitts, Celi Miller, and Bill Chadwell. They went to Minnesota separately by train, purchased horses in different places, a 1000 S. p. m. 7, 1876, made their last raid. Their usual tactics were followed. Some of the party entered the bank others remained on the streets, firing indiscriminately at all passers by to intimidate the citizens.

The men of Northfield, however, were made of sterner stuff. Hastily securing arms, they opened a fusillade, Chadwell and Miller were killed and all the others were more or less wounded. Jim Younger was shot and fell from his horse. Cole returned and took him on board. A vigorous pursuit was at once organized, the fugitives were overtaken, Pitts killed, the three Youngers being surrounded at the same time and captured, after all had been so badly wounded that they could fight no longer. Jesse and Frank James escaped, both wounded and riding on one horse. They were heard of at various points as they made their way back to Missouri, but were not taken, nor indeed did any serious effort seem to be made to apprehend them, for every sheriff along the line of their probable retreat received letters, most of them from Missouri, threatening assassination in case of the arrest of the fugitives. They returned in safety to their old haunts in the western part of the state.

The Youngers were put on trial charged with the murder of Haywood, the bank cashier, and of a Norwegian, who was shot in the street. The former was, it is said, killed by Jesse James, but there were witnesses to prove that Cole shot the foreigner, and on the advice of their counsel, all were sentenced to penitentiary for life. Jesse James remained in obscurity, his hiding place being divulged until the day of his murder by his confederate. The youngest of the brothers died a few years ago in the penitentiary, and the other two are said to have conducted themselves in a manner which has won for them the esteem of their guards and made many friends even in the state where their last crime was committed.

I. C. R. COLLISION.

Particulars of the Wreck in the Halifax Station Yard.

The Halifax Chronicle in its account of the collision in the I.C.R. yard at Halifax on Monday says: Driver Wm. Manning and Fireman Charles Churchill, of the D. A. R. engine both jumped from their cab before the collision and escaped with slight injuries. Fireman Michael Flavin, of the Maritime also jumped but fell across the rails and broke his leg, while Driver John Ross, who pluckily stuck to the throttle, escaped uninjured. Baggage Master McKim had his leg and arm injured and also Charles Power, the railway postal clerk received injuries to his knee. Mr. McKim was hurled fully ten feet, and the heating apparatus and baggage were thrown almost from one end to the other.

The force of the impact was tremendous and the Regina reversing machinery was sent dashing along the track blowing off great clouds of steam. Owing to the escaping steam there was great danger in attempting to board the engine, but fortunately after running through the cutting she slowed down and an I. C. R. employee, who was near by, got aboard and brought the wreck to a standstill.

A Run Down System.

SHOWS THAT THE BLOOD AND NERVES NEED TONING UP.

This Condition Causes More Genuine Suffering Than One Can Imagine—How a Well Known Exeter Lady Obtained a Cure After She Had Begun to Regard Her Condition as Hopeless.

From the Advocate, Exeter, Ont.

"A run down system!" What a world of misery those few words imply, and yet there are thousands throughout this country who are suffering from this condition. Their blood is poor and watery; they suffer almost continuously from headaches; are unable to obtain peaceful sleep and the least exertion greatly fatigues them. What is needed to put the system right is a tonic and experience has proved Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to be the only never-failing tonic and health restorer.

Mrs. Henry Parsons, a respected resident of Exeter, Ont., is one of the many who have tested and proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For many months she was great sufferer from what is commonly termed "a run down system." To a reporter of the Advocate she gave the following story in the hope that other sufferers might benefit from her experience. "For many months my health was in a bad state, my constitution being greatly run down. I was troubled with continual headaches, my appetite was poor and the least exertion greatly fatigued me. I consulted a physician but his treatment did not appear to benefit me and I gradually became worse, so that I could hardly attend to my household duties. I then tried several advertised remedies but without result, and I began to regard my condition as hopeless.

A neighbor called to see me one day and urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Having tried so many medicines without receiving benefit, I was not easily persuaded, but finally I consented to give the pills a trial. To my surprise and great joy I noticed an improvement in my condition before I had finished the first box and by the time I had taken four boxes of the pills I was fully restored to health. I no longer suffer from those headaches, my appetite is good, I can go about my household duties without the least trouble; in fact I feel like a new woman. All this I owe to that best of all medicines, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I would strongly urge other sufferers to give them a trial."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are recognized the world over as the best blood and nerve tonic, and it is this power of acting directly on the blood and nerves which enables these pills to cure such diseases as locomotor ataxia, paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of diphtheria, palpitation of the heart, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scurvy, chronic erysipelas, etc. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or can be had by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The D. A. R. tender was smashed into kindling wood, and the engine was taken to the Round House almost a total wreck. Nearly all the under gear of the big I. C. R. Manchester engine was carried away and the upper portion of the engine was shattered and twisted presenting a very sorry picture.

The front trucks of No. 232 were carried away, the headlight was smashed, the end of the boiler was stove in, the tender cab was jammed together and the trucks of the latter were badly twisted.

The whole train was more or less damaged, but the dining car fared worst. The interior was a complete wreck, the mirrors, tables, flowers and fittings being smashed, while the pantry and kitchen utensils were piled helter skelter.

The Maritime Express had a large number of passengers and all were more or less shaken up. Several were thrown from their seats and others, who were standing up with their luggage in their hands, were knocked down. Pullman Conductor Frank Driscoll, who was standing on the platform of his car when the collision occurred, received a painful blow on the face.

BASE BALL

Some Interesting Games
Played Monday

NEWCASTLE WINS

Moncton and Chatham Play
at Chatham.—Other
Games.

Monday, Labor Day was a base ball day. All the teams were engaged and some good games witnessed. At Newcastle the C. T. A. team of Chatham played the Junior Corn Killers and a very good game was witnessed. At the commencement the Newcastle team led but Chatham picked up until the score was 7-8 in favor of Chatham in the seventh inning but Newcastle by hard playing evened the score and had one run to their credit and only one man out when the game was declared finished. The score was 11-12. The Chatham boys were considerably heavier than the local team.

It was a good clean game being free from the many squabbles usually witnessed on the ball field. The Umpire, Wm. Ashford, in his decisions pleased all and his rulings were acknowledged just. The L. O. L. band furnished music.

At Chatham the Moncton and Chatham teams played at Chatham and Chatham led. Score 8-6.

At Bathurst the Royal Oaks of Chatham played the local team in the morning and Bathurst led. Score 11-10.

In the afternoon the Royal Oaks played the Campbellton team and beat them. Score Chatham 16, Campbellton 6.

CHATHAM GIRL A SUICIDE IN BOSTON.

Nellie Martin Took Carbolic Acid—
[No Reason Known—Mother Said
To Belong to Chatham N. B.]

Boston, Aug. 31.—Nellie Martin, 30 years and a domestic in a lodging house at 18 Bulfinch street, died last night in the Massachusetts general public hospital, as a result of taking a quantity of carbolic acid.

Her mother, H. Holmes, runs the lodging house. He said that Miss Martin had worked for him two years. He had no explanation to offer of the deed except that she had been complaining more or less for some weeks of a stomach trouble. She was feeling unusually bad, and acted rather despondent on Saturday, he said, but since that time and up to last evening she appeared to be feeling stronger.

The idea that she might be bent on taking her life did not occur to any one in the house, it was said there late at night, and no one paid much, if any attention to the young woman during last evening. She was around the house apparently looking after things, as was her usual habit, and was seen by some of the lodgers as late as 7.45 o'clock and was all right then. Half an hour later one of the lodgers went into the sitting room on the ground floor and saw Miss Martin lying on the couch, her face very pale, and a strong odor of carbolic acid was in the room.

She did not reply when spoken to, and it was discovered that she was unconscious. A messenger was sent for physicians, and Dr. Parker and Moore responded. They said the young woman was suffering from carbolic acid poisoning and recommended that she be at once removed to a hospital.

She was taken to the Massachusetts general hospital, where she died at 9.15.

It is said at the lodging house that Miss Martin's only relative, so far as known, is her mother, who is said to live in Chatham, N. B.

GOVERNMENT STEAMER MINTO SUFFERS BY FIRE.

Abasco at Charlottetown—Some
Hundreds of Dollars Damage—
Oil Tank Explodes.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 1.—Fire occurred on the government steamer Minto at Charlottetown, P. E. I. this morning and caused damage amounting to several hundred dollars. It will delay her departure for Quebec a week or ten days. The fire started some time ago, and was confined to the engine room and the damage was mostly to the woodwork, but the iron work about the room was also damaged, the iron being warped and paint burnt off. The engine room stores were all destroyed. Fresh fuel was added to the fire by the explosion of the oil tank.—Telegraph.

RAIN CAUSES RAGING FLOOD.

Cleveland has a Terrible Experience
—$1,000,000 Loss to Property
No Fatalities.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—At dawn this morning Cleveland awoke to look upon devastation caused by a raging flood. The great volume of raging water vented its anger over miles of the eastern portion of the city and did damage approximating $1,000,000. A terrific rain commenced shortly after 2 o'clock, turned into a cloudburst between 3 and 5 and then continued with great force until nearly 10 o'clock. That no lives were lost is nothing short of a miracle. Stories of thrilling escapes are told. The surging waters spread over an area in the east end nearly eight miles long and a mile and a half wide.

Houses were undermined as if built of straw and almost incredible damage done to streets and property.

Culverts, trestles and bridges were torn down. Hundreds of residents were imprisoned in their homes until saved from their perilous position; but the local boats proved inadequate and it was soon found necessary to call on the life saving crew from the river a distance of seven miles. The life boats were loaded on wagons and hurried to the scene.

The torrent surged with awful force for hours in Deering street and over a dozen families were penned up with water five and six feet deep surrounding their homes. At this point the life saving crew, assisted by squads of firemen and policemen, succeeded in landing the terror-stricken people in places of safety.

Shortly before noon the torrent underminded the street car tracks in St. Joseph's cemetery and the bodies were soon being tossed about in the water.

The great flood boiled over the banks of Doan Brook along the boulevard and great jagged holes are torn in the beautiful drive way.

Gordon and Wade parks on the south side are damaged to an amount estimated at $100,000.

Through Glenview the loss is estimated at $100,000. The street railways will suffer a loss placed at $50,000.

A remarkable feature of the storm is that up to 6 o'clock this morning hardly a drop of rain fell west of Wilson avenue.

Residents along East Prospect street, near Lincoln avenue, on Lincoln avenue and Glen Park place, were aroused between 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning by the sound of the booming waters. The water continued to rise steadily until it was eight feet deep.

By six o'clock the residents along Lincoln avenue commenced to remove furniture and valuables to the second stories as the rushing torrent reached the level of front porches and, in a number of houses swept into the first floors.

The waters rushed back from Lincoln avenue, until the big space just east of the avenue and between East Prospect street and Euclid avenue was one great mass of angry water from four to ten feet deep.

Huge pieces of lumber were twirled around like corks and banged into many houses, threatening them with destruction.

The residents along the north side of East Prospect street from Lincoln avenue to within a few feet of Billings avenue, were penned in their houses like stranded islanders. The water "ran" up to the porch steps and within a few feet of the porches it was from four to five feet deep.

The families of Mrs. V. E. Newton and F. A. Warren, on Willamette Court, had a terrible experience. Mrs. Newton's mother, Mrs. Caroline Hamm, aged 86 years, is in a serious condition as a result of the fright and exposure.

COUNCILLOR'S ELECTION.

The elections for councillors takes place next Tuesday and a good deal of interest is being aroused in some of the parishes but in many the councillors have been elected by acclamation.

Cous. Davidson and Doyle were elected for Newcastle. Croker and Parker for Derby and Pond and Campbell for Ludlow. There will be a contest in Blackville.

Naval Disaster Averted.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 30.—During the naval manoeuvres off Halifax harbor about three o'clock this morning a second Victoria Camperdown disaster almost resulted. The fleet was approaching the harbor to repel an imaginary attack by the torpedo boats. The lights were out on all the ships and they were stealing their way in, the guns being all manned and the crews prepared for action.

When two miles off Camperdown signal station the cruisers swung inwards on the same circle.

When the ships became visible to the crews in the moonlight they were heading straight for each other. The engines were quickly reversed and the excitement for a time was intense, the men from below rushing to the decks.

The ships' courses were at once altered and a serious accident was averted. If it had been a dark night nothing would have prevented a serious collision.

Strike Settled.

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—The C. P. R. trackmen's strike has been settled. According to the terms of the settlement the men accept the basis of an eight hour day, 48 hours between General Manager M. N. Smith and the Conciliation Committee, which concords partial recognition of the trackmen's organization.

Oil Struck.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—Interview to-night in regard to a second strike of oil at St. Joseph's, M. Lodge said oil sands had been struck this morning, and after penetrating two feet they struck oil. The second well is producing and looks better than the first well. Oil sands were struck at about the same depth as in well No. 1, which indicates that they run right along about the same depth. The two wells are about 400 feet apart.

It is the intention to start more wells and, as new machinery is coming, it is expected to have three or four wells started within a week. Topping has not yet commenced and nothing in this connection will be done until several wells have been sunk.

Another Horror.

KALISFET, Mont., Aug. 31.—A west bound passenger train on the Great Northern road was wrecked about 8.30 o'clock last night near Nyrack station, forty miles east of Kalisfet, in the mountains. An east bound freight train backed out of the switch at Essex and broke in two, 28 cars going down the mountains, crashing into the passenger train without warning. The special car of Assistant General Superintendent P. L. Downs and a day coach of laborers were demolished and caught fire and burned. Superintendent Downs and his son were instantly killed, as was their cook. Many laborers were killed and hurt, but the number cannot at this time be ascertained.

A Desperate Shooting Affair.

On East Queen Street Yesterday Afternoon.

A very serious shooting affair took place on Queen Street East, yesterday afternoon at about 5.30 o'clock.

When a man named George T. Hamilton, while under the influence of liquor, started a quarrel in the house of Mrs. Thomas Nolan, mother-in-law of Hamilton's, a young man named Currie Nolan, Hamilton being worried in this fight, went into his house, which is next door to Nolan's, there securing a rifle and a quantity of ammunition, returned to Nolan's house, and opened up a brisk fusillade.

Six shots were fired in quick succession into the house. Six persons were in the house at the time of the shooting; fortunately no person was hit.

Chief William Green appeared on the scene, and found Hamilton in his house up stairs. A sharp rifle was taken from Hamilton and the officer, who handcuffed Hamilton and with the assistance of Mr. Parker, lodged the prisoner in jail.

This morning Hamilton was brought before the Police Court, and on being charged with shooting with an attempt to kill, was sent back to jail until Tuesday, at 10 o'clock when the case will be further heard.—Truro Daily News.

Put "Hubby" in a Safe.

Marguerite Dangler, just tried at Bordeaux for murdering her husband, has been sentenced to three years imprisonment. Describing the affair, Miss Dangler said: "I was in the habit of going out alone whenever I feel like it. I believe in mutual freedom in the married state. One evening my husband tried to forcibly stop me as I was passing from my apartment through our store going to a ball, while he was to remain at home to finish the accounts. A fight ensued and I, being the stronger, finally threw my husband into a big safe and slammed the door shut. I returned from the dance at midnight and tried unsuccessfully to open the safe. Then I went to bed, relying on my employees to release my husband. The next morning the cashier found M. Dangler dead, his face scratched, his clothes torn and his wrist chewed, presumably in his despair, feeling death inevitable. The wife testified that it never occurred to her that the safe was airtight and that her husband was in danger of suffocation.

Romance of Noted Desperadoes.

Younger Brothers released after Twenty-five Years.

For fifteen years a Sister Worked to Obtain Pardon or Parole for the two Prisoners.

It was sister's love and devotion that resulted a few days ago in freedom after twenty-five years of imprisonment of Jim and Cole Younger, two of the most noted American desperadoes. The devotion has been supported by Senator Stephen B. Elkins, who has repeatedly in the last five years given his influence in favor of the parole of the men. A romantic tinge is given to the reasons assigned for his interest in the case by the unsupported story that his life was saved during the Civil War by one of the brothers.

Fifteen years ago Miss Retts Younger began her work for their pardon or parole. She has never ceased since then to fight for them although time and again defeated by the legislature.

In prison the two surviving brothers have been models. They have studied medicine, the law and theology. They have never disobeyed orders. Warden after warden has testified not only to their obedience, but to the belief that they would make good citizens if freed.

WAR-TIME RAIDERS.

Despite their long imprisonment the Youngers are comparatively young men. Thomas Coleman Younger, familiarly called Cole, was born in 1844, James in 1850, and Robert who died in the penitentiary some years ago, in 1853. The oldest of the trio was, therefore, seventeen years of age when the Civil War began, but he lived in a century and at a time when boys did the work and had the daring of men. For several years before the war the border countries of Missouri and Kansas were virtually in a state of strife. Raids by bodies of armed men were common, both in Missouri and Kansas. Noonday forays and midnight assassinations were of weekly occurrence. The "Jayhawkers" and "Border Ruffians" carried on a ceaseless strife, characterized by acts of fiendish brutality.

When the Civil War broke out, therefore, it found both sides so embittered that the conditions were present for a desperate struggle. Col. Henry Younger, father of the convicts, suffered so terribly from the raids of Jennison and others that he was reduced from affluence to poverty, and his son Cole, in a wild desire to revenge the wrongs of his family, enlisted in the guerilla band led by the notorious Quantrell. With a small party, numbering anywhere from thirty to two hundred men, this noted guerilla made his name a terror in Western Missouri and Eastern Kansas. While acknowledging a sort of allegiance to the Confederacy, he acted everywhere, and waged war with the ferocity of a wild beast.

TRAINED BY QUANTRELL.

But there were beasts of prey on both sides in those cruel days, and each seemed anxious to rival the other in the attempt to establish a reputation for savagery. Cole was soon joined by his brother James, and the training they received from Quantrell was the worst that could be imagined—a fit preparation for the life they afterward led. The Younger brothers quickly distinguished themselves among even the reckless spirits of the guerilla band.

The federal troops and militia were constantly on the trail of Quantrell, but the familiarity of the guerillas with the country in which they were operating generally enabled them to take advantage of their opponents when an attack was deemed advisable, and when hard pressed, greatly facilitated their escape. Cole and his brother seem to have been in nearly every one of the little but desperate battles fought by Quantrell. They were at Tate's house when it was surrounded by the Federals, and narrowly escaped capture. They were at both fights at Blue Cut and at the battles of Walnut Creek, Independence, Lone Jack and a score of other engagements, hardly worthy of the name of skirmishes, yet which formed notable events in the history of the border warfare which went on uninterruptedly for four years.

HAIR-BREADTH ESCAPES.

Numerous were the hair-breadth escapes of Cole and his brother. The former seemed to bear a charm-life. In his first fight under Quantrell he became separated from his companions, was pursued by nearly a hundred infantry and cavalry, yet, although on foot, managed to escape, not having received a scratch. On another occasion, by a clever piece of strategy, he effected not only his own escape, but the deliverance of the band from a perilous situation. It was in February, 1862, Quantrell was encamped on Indian Creek, in Jackson county, about ten miles from Independence. There were only about fifty men in the guerilla party, and the Federals, imagining that their capture would be an easy matter, moved out from Independence with over 500 men and surrounded the camp at night, making an attack as daybreak on the morning of the 26th.

The guerillas made a stubborn defence, but finding themselves completely surrounded, realized that their capture or extermination was only a matter of days. Just back of the Federal line was a large farmhouse with yards containing a considerable herd of cattle. When night came on the guerillas began to fell trees, ostensibly to strengthen their position, and while the attention of the Federals was thus diverted, Cole Younger, with three or four companions, crept through the Federal lines, reached the farmyard, tore down the fence and stampeded the cattle in the direction of the Federal force. The onset of the frightened steers was mistaken in the darkness for a cavalry charge, and in the confusion that ensued the guerilla band made its escape.

At another time, when Cole was visiting his mother, his presence became known to the Federal militia, who surrounded the house in an attempt to capture him, and he escaped through the stratagem of an old colored woman, who concealed him beneath her petticoats and a venerable counterpane hastily added to her costume.

The Youngers seem to have followed the fortunes of Quantrell until about the close of the war, when they returned to their home, but soon found that they would not be permitted to live there in peace or, indeed, at all. Several members of the family had been murdered by the Kansas guerillas. Two of the ladies had been imprisoned in an old building, which fell on them during a storm and caused injuries that resulted in death; the family estate had been ruined, and the Youngers, with their brother Bob aged fourteen, the James boys and a number of others similarly situated, made the fatal mistake of turning to a life of crime. They might have emigrated to one of the Southern States, but refused to do so, being partly actuated no doubt by a burning desire for revenge on the authors of their misfortunes.

WITH THE JAMES BOYS.

Then ensued a series of most remarkable crimes, notable alike for the daring with which they were committed and for the rich plunder that rewarded them. Since their incarceration in the Minnesota penitentiary the Youngers have never talked of their life during the period succeeding the war, and evidence elsewhere has been almost unobtainable, so it is impossible to say with how many of these deeds they were identified, but the probability is that whenever the James boys were in action, the three Youngers were also there. The first of these notable crimes was the robbery of the bank at Liberty, Mo., where $72,000 was taken. The complete success of this exploit and the ease with which it was accomplished soon led to others. Banks were robbed within the next few months at Lexington, Savannah, Richmond, Russellville and Gallatin, Mo., and in each case a considerable booty was obtained. Then, broadening the scene of their operations, the outlaws proceeded to rob banks in Corydon, Ia; Columbia, Ky; Ste. Genevieve, Mo., and other places. Some of these crimes may have been committed by imitators, but at that time such was the terror inspired by the names of James and Younger that every undertaking of this kind was laid at their door.

INVENTED TRAIN ROBBERY.

Train Robbery was a new departure in the history of crime, the first enterprise of the kind being managed by the James and Younger party on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, near Council Bluffs. The train was wrecked, the express car and the passengers were robbed, but less than $6,000 was secured by the bandits, instead of the $50,000, they had expected. Their information had been misleading; the train they had wrecked was not the treasure train, which, however, with $75,000 in gold, passed over the road the following day. A hot pursuit was at once organized; the trail of the robbers was followed tooth to a point where they crossed the Missouri river by swimming but after that the band seems to have separated and none were overtaken. The robbery occurred on July 21, 1873, and made a profound sensation throughout the cable has just been received from the British government stating that a distribution of the guns will be made, but that the war office is not yet ready to make the distribution. When the time for the distribution takes place Canada will not be forgotten.

SYDNEY, Aug. 27.—The Dominion Iron and Steel Company will commence to make steel about the first of January next, said Superintendent Baker, to the Chronical correspondent to-night. Mr. Baker stated that the two furnaces were now producing four hundred and seventy-five tons of pig iron a day, and in a short time he expects to have them up to their full capacity.

DIOBY, Aug. 27.—Fire broke out early this morning on board the schooner Lizzie Wharton. Capt. Holmes, lying at Merritt's Cove, Granville. The vessel was entirely destroyed, together with two carloads of flour belonging to Pickle & Mills, of Annapolis.

SEATTLE, Wash. Aug. 27.—Edward Mortimer, a miner, 68 years of age, is the center of a story emanating from Dawson, where he is said to have been kidnapped and lowered into a deep shaft on Thistle Creek, seventeen miles from Dawson. His captors demanded $6,000 as the price of release, but on being told that he had no money, left him to perish. After 12 hours of effort the old man succeeded in climbing to the surface of the shaft, and after wandering eight miles found a canoe which brought him to Dawson, where he sought police protection.

LOUISBURG, Aug. 27.—Murdoch Campbell, an employee of the Dominion Coal Co., came near losing his life today by suffocation. Campbell, with several other men, were at work in the coal pocket when a heavy fall of coal came down and completely buried him under it. His fellow workmen at once removed the coal at a great risk to themselves, as a second fall was likely to occur at any moment. They soon succeeded in extricating Campbell's head, this gave him a chance to breathe, but it was more than twenty minutes before the man was entirely liberated from his perilous condition.

OTTAWA, Aug. 28.—Ottawa and some of the other leading Canadian cities will likely be presented with some of the Boer guns captured by the British in South Africa. Some time ago the Canadian Government applied to the Imperial authorities for some of the guns to be located participated, the two James brothers, the three Youngers, Charles Pitts, Gell Miller, and Bill Chadwell. They went to Minnesota separately by train, purchased horses in different places, and on September 7, 1876, made their last raid. Their usual tactics were followed. Some of the party entered the bank others remained on the streets, firing indiscriminately at all passers by to intimidate the citizen.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—Mr. James Ross, Vice-president of the Dominion Coal Co., arrived home yesterday from Sydney and reports that the shipments to the St. Lawrence have reached 5000 tons a day and will total at the end of the season, 875,000 tons, which will be a record breaker and $1,353 tons ahead of last year.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29.—Eleven known dead, one missing and thirty-two injured is the record made by the explosion of the boilers of the steamboat City of Trenton on the Delaware River yesterday afternoon. All night long city firemen, policemen and employees of the Wilmington Steamboat Company, which owned the vessel, worked in and around the burned and blackened hull searching for bodies of victims. Hundreds of men are dragging the river bottom with grappling irons today and they will continue to do so until every person is accounted for.

GLACE BAY, C. B., Aug. 29.—The good people of Bridgeport are discussing a sensational elopement. In the latter part of May, Mary Cassidy, a rather handsome blonde of 22 or 23 years, nicely dressed and a smooth talker, was employed as a domestic in the family of Alex. McInnis, a miner, working in the International Colliery. She was a willing worker and won her way in the good graces of the family. A young man from Springhill John Macdonald, a tall, strapping coal cutter, became acquainted with Mary. They kept company. On Monday evening they went for a drive together and they never came back. The next morning Mrs. McInnis discovered that $140 she had in a trunk in her bureau was gone and that Mary had evidently secured a trousseau from her family closet and some of the mistress' best dresses had disappeared. The local police are looking for the couple, but it is thought they have gone beyond call.

SYDNEY, C. B., Aug. 29.—McCurdy, McInnis and McSweeney and two other employees of the freight department of the I.C.R. of this town were arrested this morning, charged with stealing liquor in transit from Sydney to Glace Bay. The pilfering has been going on for some time extending probably to other things. The arrest of the men caused surprise among the other employees and through the town.

entire country. Next came the Hot Springs stage robbery, the Gads Hill robbery and the Missouri Pacific train robbery at Otter Bridge, July 7, 1876, in all of which the Youngers are supposed to have participated.

THE FAMOUS NORTHFIELD CRIME.

Their last undertaking was the robbery of the bank of Northfield, Minn. One of the recruits of the party formerly lived in Minnesota.

participated, the two James brothers, the three Youngers, Charles Pitts, Gell Miller, and Bill Chadwell. They went to Minnesota separately by train, purchased horses in different places, and on September 7, 1876, made their last raid. Their usual tactics were followed. Some of the party entered the bank others remained on the streets, firing indiscriminately at all passers by to intimidate the citizen.

The men of Northfield, however, were made of sterner stuff. Hastily securing arms, they opened a fusillade; Chadwell and Miller were killed and all the others were more or less wounded. Jim Younger was shot and fell from his horse; Cole returned and took him on behind. A vigorous pursuit was once organized, the fugitives were overtaken, Pitts killed, the three Youngers being surrounded at the same time and captured, after all had been so badly wounded that they could fight no longer. Jesse and Frank James escaped, both wounded and riding on one horse.

They were heard of at various points as they made their way back to Missouri, but were not taken, nor indeed did any serious effort seem to be made to apprehend them, for every sheriff along the line of their probable retreat received letters, most of them from Missouri, threatening assassination in the event of the arrest of the fugitives. They returned in safety to their old haunts in the western part of the state.

The Youngers were put on trial charged with the murder of Haywood the bank cashier, and of a Norwegian, who was shot in the street. The former was, it is said, killed by Jesse James, but there were witnesses to prove that Cole shot the foreigner, and, on the advice of their counsel, all were sentenced to penitentiary for life. Jesse James remained in obscurity, his hiding place being divulged until the day of his murder by his confederate. The youngest of the brothers died a few years ago in the penitentiary, and the other two are said to have conducted themselves in a manner which has won for them the esteem of their guards and made many friends even in the state where their last crime was committed.

I. C. R. COLLISION.

Particulars of the Wreck in the Halifax Station Yard.

The Halifax Chronicle in its account of the collision in the I.C.R. yard at Halifax on Monday says:

Driver Wm. Manning and Fireman Charles Churchill, of the D. A. R. engine both jumped from their cab before the collision and escaped with slight injuries. Fireman Michael Flavin, of the Maritime also jumped but fell across the rails and broke his leg, while Driver John Ross, who pluckily stuck to the throttle, escaped uninjured. Baggage Master McKim had his leg and arm injured and also Charles Power, the railway postal clerk received injuries to his knee. Mr. McKim was hurled fully ten feet, and the heating apparatus and baggage were thrown almost from one end to the other.

The force of the impact was tremendous and the Regina under reversed machinery was sent dashing along the track blowing off great clouds of steam. Owing to the escaping steam there was great danger in attempting to board the engine, but fortunately she slowed down and an I. C. R. employee, who was near by, got aboard and brought the wreck to a standstill.

THE BLOOD AND NERVES NEED TONING UP.

From the Advocate, Exeter, Ont.
"A run down system!" What a world of misery those few words imply, and yet there are thousands throughout this country who are suffering from this condition. Their blood is poor and watery; they suffer almost continuously from headaches; are unable to obtain restful sleep and the least exertion greatly fatigues them. What is needed to put the system right is a tonic and experience has proved Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to be the only never-failing tonic and health restorer.

Mrs. Henry Parsons, a respected resident of Exeter, Ont., is one of the many who have tested and proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For many months she was great sufferer from what is commonly termed "a run down system." To a reporter of the Advocate she gave the following story in the hope that other sufferers might benefit from her experience:—"For many months my health was in a bad state, my constitution being greatly run down. I was troubled with continual headaches, my appetite was poor and the least exertion greatly fatigued me. I consulted a physician but his treatment did not appear to benefit me and I gradually became worse, so that I could hardly attend to my household duties. I then tried several advertised remedies but without result, and I began to regard my condition as hopeless.

A neighbor called to see me one day and urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Having tried so many medicines without receiving benefit, I was not easily persuaded, but finally I consented to give the pills a trial. To my surprise and great joy I noticed an improvement in my condition before I had finished the first box and by the time I had taken four boxes of the pills I was fully restored to health. I no longer suffer from those headaches, my appetite is good, I can go about my household duties without the least trouble, in fact I feel like a new woman. All this I owe to that best of all medicines, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I would strongly urge other sufferers to give them a trial.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are recognized the world over as the best blood and nerve tonic, and it is this power of acting directly on the blood and nerves which enables these pills to cure such diseases as locomotor ataxia, paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of a gripe, palpitation of the heart, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scurvy, chronic erysipelas, etc. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or can be had by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The D. A. R. tender was smashed into kindling wood, and the engine was taken to the Round House almost a total wreck. Nearly all the under gear of the big I. C. R. Manchester engine was carried away and the upper portion of the engine was shattered and twisted presenting a very sorry picture.

The front trucks of No. 232 were carried away, the headlight was smashed, the end of the boiler was stove in, the tender cab was jammed together and the trucks of the latter were badly twisted.

The whole train was more or less damaged, but the dining car fared worst. The interior was a complete wreck, the mirrors, tables, flowers and fittings being smashed, while the pantry and kitchen utensils were piled helter skelter.

The Maritime Express had a large number of passengers and all were more or less shaken up. Several were thrown from their seats and others, who were standing up with their luggage in their hands, were knocked down. Pullman Conductor Frank Driscoll, who was standing on the platform of his car when the collision occurred, received a painful blow on the face.

NEWCASTLE, SEPTEMBER 4, 1901.

It is the home-coming boats and trains that are crowded now. Steamers from the provinces report "standing room only," and boats from Europe are nearly as well filled — Boston Herald

Mark Twain regrets that the numerous invitations to be here, there and everywhere which reach him now in his old age did not come to him in youth, when he was prepared to attend everything and make a noise thereat. The remedy he proposes is that old age should come at first, and that youth should happen in the close of life. It would be easier to change the incidence of the invitations.

The argument that combination for purposes of production lowers prices to the consumer may be true with regard to certain things, but it does not hold good in the matter of an article such as coal. The threatened advance of twenty-five cents a ton is a case in point. Last June there was a like increase which makes the advance fifty cents a ton this year with a possibility of a further rise after winter sets in. When the miners' strike was settled last year, then men got an advance of ten cents a ton in wages. But the companies operating previous to the strike were consolidated into a trust after the settlement. There has been no increase in cost of production other than that of ten cents in wages. On the contrary, the cost of production and transportation has presumably been much lowered as the result of combination. It appears, therefore, that there has been no reason for the increase of the price of coal, save that the trust wants more profits and has arbitrarily advanced the price solely for that object. Coal is now a dollar a ton dearer than the average price for several years past, a fact which clearly proves that in this prime necessity at least, combination has no lowered prices. A few more object lessons like this will start men thinking in earnest to find means for putting a limit to corporate greed.—Witness.

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—The department of fisheries was advised today of the seizure of seven Canadian schooners for poaching on the herring spawning grounds off Grand Manan. It is likely the vessels will be released, the seizure being more in the nature of a warning.

"Lieut. Col. Vandeleur shouted to the women to lie down under the seats and ordered his man to return the fire. As he was proceeding along the corridor, a bullet burst into the carriage and fired, killing him after, it is supposed, his refusal to surrender. Another Boer deliberately fired upon the wounded nurse. Bullets were flying in all directions, although the Boers were aware that women and children were there."

Country people coming in to market complain of the very poor potato crop. They say that on account of the drouth the potatoes are "small and few in a hill." The heavy frost in June did a great deal of damage, and since then all the moisture has been required to nourish the tops of the plants and keep the roots without any. Up the St. John river and along the line to Moncton the crop is very poor, and even in the north it is reported for below the average.

Since then above reports came in a big drop has taken place in the price. Owing to the reports of the scarcity of the crop being circulated through the country, the farmers seem to have unanimously decided to make money by sending all the potatoes they possibly could to the city, and as a consequence the supply was to-day so much greater than the demand that the price fell to fifty cents per basket, or one dollar and a half per barrel. On the Hampden this forenoon the large quantities that came down met with a very slow sale.

The potatoes now coming in are, of course, the earlier kinds, and no crop at all is expected from the late ones. A present the farmers say it is a good day's work to dig two barrels, and they have to go over the whole field to get even that many.—Sua.

If you feel run down, are easily tired, if your nerves are weak and your blood is thin, then begin to take the good old standard family medicine, Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It's a regular nerve lifter, a perfect blood builder.

P.R. will grant return by payment of a third rate if more than 50 are in attendance and one half if less than 50. In all cases delegates and visitors will purchase one first class ticket to Convention, and get the same time a standard certificate. Full attendance is earnestly hoped for and it is strongly urged that the Unions cannot get larger returns from their money than by paying the expenses to Convention of at least one wide-awake interested woman.

After dinner several of the party drove to New Carlisle.

About 3 o'clock p. m., a crowd of two hundred people had collected in front of the hotel and were entertained by a band playing some of its best tunes. After a farewell address by A. B. Witzke the excursionists proceeded to the wharf escorted by a large number of friends. After taking leave of their friends they embarked and set sail. They were again warmly welcomed and obliged to pass the night upon the water. They arrived at Caraquez wharf at 8 o'clock a. m. UNDER TWO FLAGS

By "OUIDA"

And Cigarette had done more than this ere now many a time for her "children."

Began singing low and sweetly.

oblivion, dreamy and comparatively painless, which was the only mercy which could come to him.

A step sounded on the bare boards. She looked up, and the wounded man raised his weary lids with a gleam of gladness under them. Cecil bent above him.

"Dear Leon, how is it with you?" His voice was softened to infinite tenderness. Leon Ramon had been for many a year his comrade and his friend, an artist of Paris, a man of marvelous genius, of high idealistic views, who in a fatal moment of rash despair had flung his talents, his broken fortunes, his pure and noble spirit into the fiery furnace of the hell of military Africa and now lay dying here, a common soldier, forgotten as though he were already in his grave.

"The review is just over. I got ten minutes to spare and came to you the instant I could," pursued Cecil. "See here what I bring you! You, with your artist's soul, will feel yourself all but well when you look on these!"

He placed on his bed some peaches and deep in moss and circled round with a stephanotis, with magnolia, with roses, with other rarer flowers still. The face of the artist soldier lightened with a longing joy. His lips quivered. "Ah, God! They have the fragrance of my France!"

Cecil said nothing, but moved them nearer into the clasp of his eager hands. Cigarette he did not see.

"They are beautiful!" the dying man said faintly at length. "They have your youth in them. How came you by them, dear friend?"

"They are not due to me," answered Cecil hurriedly. "Princess Cora sends them to you. She has sent great gifts to the hospital—wines, fruits, a profusion of flowers such as those. Through her these miserable chambers will bloom for awhile like a garden, and the best wines of Europe will slake your thirst."

"It is very kind," murmured Leon Ramon languidly. "But I am ungrateful. Cigarette here—she has been so good, so tender, so pitiful. For once I have almost not missed you."

Cigarette, thus alluded to, sprang to her feet, with her head tossed back and all her cynicism back again. A hot color was on her cheeks, the light had passed from her face, she struck her white teeth together. She had thought Bel-a-faire-pour chained to his regiment in the field of maneuver, or she would never have come thither to tend his friend. She had felt happy in her self sacrifice, she had grown into a gentle, pensive, merciful mood, singing here by the side of the dying soldier, and now the first thing she heard was of the charities of the princess!

That was all her reward. Cigarette received the recompense that usually comes to generous natures which have strong themselves to some self-surrender that costs them dear.

Cecil looked at her surprised and smiled. "My pretty one, is it you? That is indeed good. You were the good angel of this ere night and today come to bring consolation to my friend?"

"Good angel? Chut, M. Victor! There is nothing of the angel about me, I hope. Your friend too! Prutrit! Do you think I have never been used to making care of my comrades in hospitals before you played the sick nurse here?"

She spoke with all her brusque petulance in arms again. She hated that she should imagine she had sacrificed her free day to Leon Ramon because the artist trooper was dear to him.

He smiled again; he did not understand the caprices of her changeable moods, and he did not feel that interest in her which would have made him divine the threads of their rivalry.

"I did not think to offend you, my little one," he said gently. "I meant only to thank you for your goodness to Ramon in my absence."

Cigarette shrugged her shoulders. "There was no goodness, and there need be no thanks. Ask Pere Miron how often I have sat with him hours through."

"But on a fete day! And you who love pleasure and grace it so well!" "Out! I have had so much of it," said the little one contemptuously. "It is so tame to me. Clouds of dust, scurry of horses, fanfare of trumpets, thunder of drums and all for nothing! Bah! I have been in a dozen battles—and I am not likely to care much for a sham fight!"

"Nay, she is unjust to herself," murmured Leon Ramon. "She gave up the fete to do this mercy—it has been a great one. She is more generous than she will ever allow. Here, Cigarette, look at these scarlet roses; they are like your bright cheeks. Will you have them? I have nothing else to give."

"Rosebuds!" echoed Cigarette, with supreme scorn. "Rosebuds for me? I know no rose but the red of the talon, and I could not tell a weed from a flower. Besides, I told Mion-Matou just now, if my children do as I tell them, they will not take a leaf or a petal from this grande dame—how does she call herself?—Mme. Cora d'Amaguy?"

Cecil looked up quickly. "Why not?" Cigarette flashed on him her brilliant brown eyes with a fire that amazed him.

"Because we are soldiers, not paupers. And it is not for the silver pheasants, who have done nothing to deserve their life but lain in nests of cotton wool, and eaten grain that others sow and shell for them, and spread their shining plumage in a sun that never clouds above their heads, to insult, with the insolence of their 'pity' and their 'charity,' the heroes of France who perish as they have lived, for their country and their flag!"

Cecil laughed slightly, but he answered with a certain annoyance: "There is no 'insolence' here; no question of it. The princess desired to offer some gift to the soldiers of Algeria. I suggested to her that to increase the scant comforts of the hospital and gladden the weary eyes of sick men with beauties that the executive never dreams of bestowing would be the most merciful and acceptable mode of exercising her kindness. If blame there be in the matter, it is mine."

In defending the generosity of what he knew to be a genuine and sincere wish to gratify his comrades he betrayed what he did not intend to have revealed—namely, the conversation that had passed between himself and the Spanish princess. Cigarette caught at the inference with the quickness of her lightninglike thought.

"Oh—So it is she!" "There was a whole world of emphasis, scorn, meaning, wrath, comprehension and irony in the four monosyllables. The dying man looked at her with languid wonder.

"She? Who? What story goes with these roses?" "None," said Cecil, with the same infection of annoyance in his voice. "None whatever. A generous thoughtfulness for our common necessities as soldiers!"

"Out!" interrupted Cigarette before his phrase was one-third finished. "The stalling mare will not go with the wild couriers. An aristocrat may live with us, but he will always cling to his old order. This is the story that runs with the roses. Milane was languidly insouciant over some ivory chessmen, and Corporal Victor thought it divine because languor and insolence are the twin gods of the noblesse. Milad, knowing no gods but those two, worshipped them and sends to the soldiers of France, as the sort of sacrifice her gods love, fruits and wines that day after day are set on her table to be touched, if tasted at all, with a butterfly's sip, and Corporal Victor finds this a charity sublime—to give what costs nothing and scatter a few crumbs out from the profusion of a life of waste and indulgence! And I say that if my children are of my fashion of thinking they will choke like dogs dying of thirst rather than slake their throats with alms cast to them as if they were beggars!"

With which Cigarette lit her pipe and hurried away. Her wrath was hot and her heart heavy within her. She had given up her whole fete day to wait on the anguished and to soothe the solitude of his friend lying dying there, and her reward had been to hear him speak of this aristocrat's donations, that cost her nothing but the trouble of a few words of command to her household, as though they were the saintly charities of some angel from heaven. In that moment she could have shot him dead herself without a second's thought.

"You have vexed her, Victor," said Leon Ramon as she was lost to sight through the doors of the great desolate chamber.

"I hope not. I do not know how," answered Cecil. "It is impossible to follow the windings of her wayward caprices—a child, a soldier, a dancer, a beggar, a spoiled beauty, a mischievous gamin. How is one to treat such a little fagot of opposites?"

The artist smiled. "Ah, you do not know the little one yet. She is worth a study. I painted her years ago. There was not a picture in the Salon that winter that was sought like it. Her fate? Well, she will die, I dare say, some bright day far. Why not? There were a million of commonplace women ready to keep up the decorous traditions of their sex and sit in safety over their fires by the side of their hearths."

"The little fellow here and there in a position cannot do overmuch harm." "It was silent, Cigarette was of a more now—a fairy story set into motion, a fantastic little fire of an extravaganza, with the impudence of a boy harlequin and the wailing kittenhood of a girl's beauty. But when this youth that made it all fair should have passed, when there should be left in its stead only shamelessness, hardness, vice, weariness, those who found the prettiest jest in her now would be the first to cast aside with an oath the charred, wrecked rocket stick of a life from which no golden, careless stream of many colored rays of cigarette caprice would rise and enchant them then.

"Who is it that sent these?" asked Leon Ramon later on as his hands still wandered among the flowers. For the moment he was at peace; the ice and the hours of quietude had calmed him. Cecil told him again.

"What does Cigarette know of her?" he pursued. "Nothing, except, I believe, she knew that Mme. Cora accepted my chess carvings."

"Ah, I thought the little one was jealous. Victor?" "Jealous? Pshaw! Of whom?" "Of any one you admire, especially of this grande dame."

"Absurd!" said Cecil, with a sense of annoyance. "Cigarette is far too bold a little trooper to have any thoughts of those follies, and as for this grande dame, as you call her, I shall in every likelihood never see her again unless when the time is given to 'carry swords' or 'lances' at the general's salute, where she shines her horse M. le Marechal's at a review, as I have done this morning."

The keen ear of the sick man caught the infection of an impatience, of a mortification, in the tone that the speaker himself was unconscious of. "Cigarette is right," said Ramon, with a slight smile. "Your heart is with your old order. Well, keep your history as you and me happy. Happy—until will. What my friend was matters nothing. I know well what he is and how true a friend. As for Milad, she will be best best of your part. Victor, where are you so fatal? Do you know what brought me here? No? As little as I know what brought you, though we have been close comrades since the day we met in the desert."

"Well, it is she!" "I was an artist. I had no money, I had few friends, but I had youth, I had ambition. I had, I think, genius till she killed it. I loved my art with a great love, and I was happy. Happy—until she looked at me," he pursued, while his voice rang in feverish haste over the words. "Why would she not let me be an artist? She had the means, she had the money, she had the talent, she had the soldiers; she swept them in far and wide. She had her empire. Why must she seek out a man who had but his art and his youth and steel these? It was the first year I touched triumph that I saw her. They began for the first time to speak of me. It was the year of the triumph of Cigarette as a child of the army that did it. Ah, God, I thought myself already so famous! Well, she sent for me to take her picture, and I went. I went, and I painted her as Cleopatra, by her rival, Ah, it was a face for Cleopatra, the eyes that burn your youth dead, the lips that kiss your honor blind! Through month on month my picture grew, and my passion grew with it, fanned by her hand. She knew that never would a man paint her beauty like one who gave his soul for the price of success. Then came my reward. When the picture was done, her fancy had changed. A light scorn, a careless laugh, a touch of her fan on my cheek. Could I not understand? Was I still a child? Must I be broken more harshly in to learn to give place? That was all, and at last her lackey pushed me back with his hand from her gates! She had killed me. She had struck my gods dead. What of that? She had her beauty eternal in the picture she needed, and the whole city rang with her loveliness as they looked on my work. I have never painted again. I came here. What of that? An artist the less, then, the world did not care. A life the less soon, she will not care either!"

Then as the words ended great wave of blood beat back his breath and burst from the pent up torture of his striving lungs and stained red the dark and sullen masses of his beard. His comrade held him upward in his arms and shouted loud for help. The great luminous eyes of the French soldier looked up at him through their mist with the deep, fond gratitude that beams in the eyes of a dog as it drops down to die, knowing one touch and one voice to the last.

"You do not forsake," he murmured brokenly, while his voice ebbed faintly away as the stream of his life flowed faster and faster out. "It is over now—so best! If only I could have seen France once more—France!" Then a deep sigh quivered through his lips, his hand strove to close on the hand of his comrade, and his head fell, resting on the flushed blossoms of the rosebuds of Provence.

He was dead.

An hour later Cecil left the hospital, seeking and beginning to find a gay riot of the town about him, though folds of many colored silk and bunting fluttered across the narrow Moorish streets, and all the while of the populace was swarming through them with the vivacious enjoyment of Paris mingling with the stately picturesque life of Arab habit and custom. In Leon Ramon's face, there was a faint smile, but she was a crowd while she sang, stopping now and then to exchange some passage of wit with them that made her fingers scream with laughter, while behind her was a throng of young officers drinking champagne, eating ices and smoking, echoing her songs and her satires with enthusiastic voices and stamps of their spurred boot heels. As he glanced upward she looked literally in a blaze of luminance, and the wild, mellow tones of her voice ringing out sounded like a mockery of that dying bed beside which they had both so late stood together.

"She has the playfulness of the young leopard, and the cruelty," he thought, with a sense of disgust, forgetting that she did not know what he knew and that if Cigarette had waited to laugh until death had passed by she would have never laughed all her life through in the battalions of Africa.

She saw him as he went beneath her balcony, and she sang all the louder, she flung her sweetest missiles with the reckless force of a Roman carnivalist, she launched bolts of tenfold more audacious raillery at the delighted mob below. Cigarette was a good soldier when she was wounded; she would her scarf round the nerve that ached and only laughed the gayer.

And he did her that injustice which the best among us are apt to do to those whom we do not feel interest enough in to study with that closeness which can alone give comprehension of the intricate and complex rebus, so faintly sketched, so marvelously involved, of human nature.

He thought her a little leopard in her vivacious play and her inborn bloodthirstiness. Well, the little leopard of France played recklessly enough that evening. Algiers was en fete, and Cigarette was sparkling over the whole of the town like a humming bird or a fiery hare, there and everywhere. She played through more than half the night the agile, bounding, graceful play the young leopard to which he had likened her, and with a quick punishment from her velvet sheathed talons if any durst offend her. Then when the dawn was nigh, leopardslike, the little one sought her den.

"The chateau of Cigarette" was a standing jest of the army, for none was ever allowed to follow her thither or to behold the interior of her fortress, and one overcurious spahi, scaling the ramparts, had been rewarded with so hot a deluge of lentil soup from a boiling cauldron poured on his head from above that he had beaten a hasty and ignominious retreat. "The chateau of Cigarette" was neither more nor less than a couple of garrets high in the air in an old Moorish house in an old Moorish court, decayed, silent, poverty struck. Up a long and winding rickety stair Cigarette approached her casy and opened her door. There was a dim oil wick burning. The garret was large and as clean as a palace could be. Its occupants were various and all sound asleep except one, who, though she had been small and three legged, limped up to her and rubbed a little bullet head against her lovingly.

"Bouffarick, little Bouffarick," returned Cigarette carelessly in a whisper, and Bouffarick, content, limped back to a nest of hay, being a little very dog that had lost a leg in one of the famous battles of Oran and lain in its dead master's breast through three days and nights on the field. Cigarette, shading the lamp with one hand, glanced round on her family. They had all histories—histories in the French army, which was the only history she considered of any import to the universe. There was a raven perched high, by name Vole-qui-Vent. He was a noted character among the zouaves and had made many a campaign riding on his owner's bayonet. He loved a combat and was specially famed for screaming "Tue, tue, tue!" all over a battlefield.

THE ONLY MEDICINE

THAT CAN SAVE PAIN-RACKED SUFFERERS.

A Marvellous Cure After use of Seven Bottles of the Great Compound.

Paine's Celery Compound, has absolute proof that it has effected complete cures in 97 per cent of the cases of rheumatism in which it has been used. The worst sufferer is healed, crutches thrown away, and the poor cripple of yesterday becomes the vigorous man of today. Mr. William Moschetti, of Roston Pond, Que., writes thus:

Having been given up to die some time ago by some of the best doctors in the United States, I came to Canada last autumn terribly ill, and had lost all hope. Suffering agonies from inflammatory rheumatism, I was strongly urged to use Paine's Celery Compound. I gave it a trial as recommended, and the first bottle did me so much good I continued with the medicine until I used seven bottles, when I found myself perfectly cured; indeed I never felt better in all my life than at present. I use every possible means to tell others of Paine's Celery Compound, and will always recommend it to those troubled with rheumatism.

The man with but one idea in his head is sure to exaggerate that to top-heaviness, and thus he loses his equilibrium.—A Hill.

Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns.

A vast quantity of Diamond Dyes are used every year for the coloring of rags, yarns and wares for the making of house-made Carpets, Mats and Rugs. Diamond Dyes are universally used for this work because they give colors that on washing can never fade. We have seen floor rugs, the materials of which had been dyed with Diamond Dyes that looked rich and bright after five years of wear.

Just a word here to those who are interested in Mat and Rug making. The proprietors of the celebrated Diamond Dyes are manufacturers of the popular Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns. This season their designs are attracting much attention, and retail dry goods houses are buying them freely. The Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns are the best and most artistic in Canada. If your dealer has not yet put them in stock, write for sheet of designs sent free by The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

WHAT CATARRHOZON IS AND IS NOT.

Catarrh is not a wash. You cannot force liquids into the lungs. It is not an ointment to be stuffed up the nostrils. Ointments are useless and disgusting. Nor is it a powder to be blown up the nostrils and still further irritate the already congested and inflamed membrane. It is simply balsamic and healing substances breathed in the lungs and throat. Cures of course. That is nature's way of curing and nature's way is the only true way. If you suffer from disease of the throat, lungs, nasal passages, do not neglect to use Catarrhazone. Two sizes at all drug stores, 25c. and $1.00. Guaranteed to cure Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Hay Fever, or your money back.

FLEET WEAK.

German Authority Says That Recent Criticisms Are Fully Justified.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—The Neueste Nachrichten prints an article strongly criticizing the recent British naval manoeuvres. The paper declares that, after a careful study of the stories of alleged inefficiency of the British fleet, they must be regarded as absolutely justified. It believes that if the British fleet were pitted against a hostile fleet even approximately of the same calibre, it would be badly defeated.

The paper considers that Great Britain is behind the times in regard to cruisers, material for construction, armor and guns. The article concludes as follows:

"The French manoeuvres proved the superiority of the French in the Mediterranean, whereas the British manoeuvres showed that a powerful well-directed French fleet would keep the upper hand in the Channel."

Two young youths from Moncton came up on the express, Saturday night and went to the Waverley and registered as J. Scott and J. A. Fairweather of St. John but their names were Taylor and Estabrooke of the I. C. R. E. Moncton. They skipped to Chatham and forgot to settle their hotel bill.

Hubbard, Secretary Maritime Breeders' Association, Halifax, as to number of fat cattle, etc., to be offered at show before arranging to send outside the province for their Christmas beef.

A special missionary service was held in Methodist Church last Sunday evening. The Rev. Mr. Matthews of Chatham delivered a most able discourse, taking as his text Acts 1:1. His translation of this passage was clear and concise, showing an unusual command of thought and delivered in a manner most acceptable to his hearers. The service was ably assisted by the members of the choir. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Miller very kindly lent their aid to the song service, which was very much appreciated by all.

A dispatch received on Thursday by Town Clerk Gayer conveyed the sad intelligence that his brother, Hugh M. Gayer, had been instantly killed in Slaterville, West Virginia, where he resided. The employees of the Newcastle division of the I. C. R. will hold their annual picnic at Indiantown next Saturday.

A number of ladies and gentlemen enjoyed a moonlight sail on the Rustler last Thursday evening. It was a perfect night.

Auctioneer Stables will sell all the goods in the store lately occupied by James Lyder on Thursday, the 5th inst. at 11 a. m.

The R. C. Picnic at Redbank was a most successful event. Large numbers from all points of the county were present and everything went off without a hitch. The Rustler with a large crowd and St. Michael's band went up and all expressed themselves as enjoying the days outing.

The tennis tournament at Newcastle on Monday was interesting. Teams from Bathurst and Chatham competed with the local team and were both defeated. In the evening the Tennis Club entertained its guests at a dance in the Town Hall and a very enjoyable time was spent.

The S. S. Bangor which sailed from here on Saturday Aug. 24th did not get over the bar until Saturday Aug. 31st. She grounded and swung right across the entrance of the bay and this port was completely blocked until she got free on Saturday. Some of her deck load had to be discharged and a number of tugs aided in pulling her off. Pilot Max. Martin was in charge.

Monday, Labor Day, was a general holiday in Newcastle, all the stores being closed. Many took advantage of the picnic at Red Bank to spend a day in the country and the Rustler carried the largest crowd that has gone up river for some time. St. Michael's Band of Chatham was on board and supplied music. In town the ball game attracted a goodly crowd while the tennis tournament in the afternoon was witnessed by a large number.

The picnic at Nelson last Wednesday was a grand success. Crowds from Moncton, Newcastle and Chatham and other points were present during the afternoon and evening and the handsome sum of $1240 was realized. Father Power and the committees in charge are to be congratulated on the success that attended their efforts. All present speak highly of the good time they enjoyed.

Before Judge McLeod, Thursday an application made on behalf of several creditors, lumbermen of Northumberland county for a winding up order in the case of the Maritime Sulphite Company (Ltd.) Hon. Judge McLeod made an order for the winding up of the company and appointed Hon. Mr. Tweedie provisional liquidator.

As a result of the drought along the line of the Intercolonial railway, and especially along the North Shore, a water famine is being quite seriously felt. Tanks at different points from Newcastle up have gone dry and there is such a scarcity of water as has not been known for a long time. Streams that were never before known to fail have almost gone dry, and as many Intercolonial tanks are filled from this source, the supply for engines has been seriously affected, and unless the drought is broken the result may be still more far-reaching. Some delay has been caused to trains on the northern division in consequence of water tanks going dry, and the drivers have to use the utmost precaution. A delay of several hours occurred to the fast freight to Montreal above Campbellton the other day the result of the engine running out of water and not being able to get a supply from tanks usually well filled. Something of the same trouble has been experienced in Nova Scotia.

Everyone Knows that violins of the same manufacture vary greatly in tone. The same is true of pianos only not to as great an extent. However, only a piano expert can tell the difference between one a little off tone and the best. Almost every day we are receiving new Pianos, and not one is ever accepted without a thorough examination by us. If the piano shows a want in tone, quality, action, or any other particular, what do you think we do? Do we keep it? Decidedly not. We send it back. We have returned Pianos of some of the most eminent manufacturers in America. We know the difference between the Piano that would pass with the average person, and the one that is really artistic, and we want have an instrument in our stock that is not up to the standard in every particular. The moral of this argument is to buy a Piano from a firm that know their business and have the reputation for keeping the best.
