SETTING TYPE BY MACHINE.

The Advocate Appears in New Dress of Type Every Week.

REMARKABLE MACHINE.

First Weekly Paper in New Brunswick to Install One—Come and see it.

About three weeks ago the Advocate installed a machine which now composes all the type used in its news columns.

This machine is what is known as a Monoline, and is an exceedingly fine piece of machinery. The operation is similar to that of a typewriter or ordinary type-composing machine. Upon indicating the proper letters on the keyboard the matrices and automatic spacers descend instantly into the assembling box in full view of the operator. When the line has been composed to approximately its full length the operator strikes a lever at the right of the keyboard and immediately begins to compose the second line, the machine having automatically justified the first line, carried it in front of the casting pot, cast the line, delivered it upon the galley, and returned the matrices and spacers to their respective receptacles in the magazine. This little machine is capable of doing the work of a half dozen girls, and an ordinary compositor can learn to operate it successfully in a very short time.

For a few weeks this machine will be running all day and evenings and all are invited to come in and see it in operation. Incidentally you can pay your subscription or subscribe for the Advocate. With this machine we will be able to turn out a much more up-to-date paper than it was possible under the old system. The very latest and best news can be inserted at the last minute and country correspondence can be inserted even when it reaches us on Monday something almost impossible formerly. In this respect we trust that our readers in each locality will send us in each week interesting notes from their respective localities. These items are what makes a weekly paper interesting and if the right kind of news is sent benefits the whole community. In sending news do not neglect to sign your name as we must have this, not for publication but as a guarantee of good faith. Now get busy.

HUMAN FIEND AFTER LITTLE GIRLS.

Strange Man at Beach Gave Little Ones a Bad Scare Last Week.

Several little girls returning from the beach one day last week were chased by a man whose intentions were only too evident, and but for the fleet footedness of the girls a serious crime might have been committed. When the little ones reached their homes they were in a state of nervous collapse and it was some time before they could tell their story. The police were notified but no trace of the fiend could be found, he evidently feared trouble and left the vicinity. As far as the girls could tell the man was a stranger and may have been a tramp.

REV. J. D. MURRAY DIED SUNDAY

Beloved Presbyterian Divine Formerly of Redbank died of Cancer.

HIS LIFE WORK.

Brief Sketch of His Life as Written for the Moncton Times.

It is our painful duty this morning to chronicle the death of one of the oldest and best known Presbyterian ministers in the Maritime Provinces, Rev. J. D. Murray, which occurred at his home in Buctouche, between two and three o'clock Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Murray had been in failing health for the last two years, but had only been confined to his bed for some two weeks. Last March he entered the hospital in this city for an operation for cancer and six weeks later he had to undergo another operation for the same trouble. Since that time he had been gradually growing weaker until death kindly intervened and ended his sufferings. He was conscious up to the moment of his death and was able to converse with friends a few hours before his departure. A touching incident occurred shortly before his death. He requested the sympathizing friends who were present to join in singing a favorite hymn; so literally, his soul was passing away whilst listening to the old familiar hymn which he had heard so often and loved so well.

The deceased was born at Middle River, Pictou County, N. S., on March 27th, 1834, and he was consequently seventy two years old. He commenced teaching school when eighteen years old, going to college in the winter, this routine being continued for nine years before he licensed to preach, certainly a rigorous and faithful apprenticeship.

His first change was at Port Hill, Tyne Valley, P. E. I., where he remained two and a half years. In 1838 he was called to Moncton where he labored until 1875. His parish here included Scotch Settlement, Shediac, Salisbury and Pettitodiac and other near points.

Many of the old residents of Moncton will have kindly recollections of the Rev. gentleman. His genial manner made many friends.

Mr. Murray's induction into the Moncton church took place in March, 1868.

His ministry marked the congregation's change of connection from that of the Church of Scotland to that of the Presbyterian Church of the Lower Provinces, and consequently in the process of union to that of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. During his pastorate the congregation increased in number and importance to a very considerable extent, so much so indeed, that soon after his death side galleries were put into the church to meet the demand for increased accommodation.

His next charge was Buctouche and Mill Creek, where safe in saying no preacher, before or since, has been more largely beloved, not only the people of his own particular charge, but generally those with whom he came in contact. His next call was to Red Bank, Northumberland County, where he faithfully preached the gospel until 1904, at which time, owing to failing health and age limit, he was placed on the retired list. At the conclusion of his Red Bank pastorate he removed to Buctouche where he owned a property and where amid kind and loving relatives, who had been assiduous in their attentions, he passed to his reward.

His had been an eventful life. What a long list of memories must have crowded into his forty-one years of pastoral labor. Owing to his methodical habit, we are able to glean from his well kept record some of the principal events occurring in his ministry. He has welcomed into the fold four hundred and sixty souls and administered the right of baptism to eleven hundred and five persons. He had officiated at two hundred and thirty marriages and performed the last

HOME FROM CAMP SUSSEX.

12th Field Battery C. A. Arrived Here Saturday At Noon

FIRE SALUTE.

Paraded Around Town to Armory Then Stored Equipment and Disbanded

The 12th Field Battery, Canadian Artillery returned from Camp Sussex on Saturday.

A special train with the members of the Battery, horses and equipment arrived here at noon and were unloaded in quick time under the supervision of Major T. W. Lawlor, and his officers.

A salute was fired and then the battery proceeded to town, parading the principal streets to the Armory, where the equipment was stored and the men disbanded.

This year's camp was the most successful yet held and with the new breech loading twelve pound guns the 12th Field Battery made a good showing. The men looked soldierly and rugged after their two weeks camp. They speak in the highest terms of the treatment they received and there was not a kick to offer.

The new guns are the 12 pounder B. L. Mark IV and are the most improved field gun in Canada, and much superior to those now in use in the permanent batteries at Kingston, Ont. The breech mechanism is the latest improved and is opened with one motion.

They are fitted with wheel brakes and recoil spade which latter is connected with a powerful spiral spring. When the gun is fired this spade digs into the ground and the recoil is taken up by the spiral spring, which throws the gun ahead after the recoil is spent.

The telescopic sight is a great feature of the new equipment, and should be seen and understood before its worth can be appreciated. The guns are at present painted a khaki color, but this will be replaced by a coat of olive green.

The new harness is of the latest pattern known as the "rapid release". A pole replaces the old pattern shaft equipment. With the new harness the horses can be released from the limbers in a very few seconds. Here again we are ahead of the R. C. F. A. at Kingston.

With all the new equipment we hope to see our 12th Field Battery move well to the front of the Dominion, and we think it will judging from the good reports from Camp Sussex.

sad rites at two hundred and forty-two funerals.

On July 13, 1865, he was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Hatfield, of Yarmouth, N. S., a partner who survives him, and who has proved a most helpful helpmate in his long pastoral work.

The late Rev. Mr. Murray always took an active part in all work pertaining to the welfare of the place in which he was located. It was while in Buctouche the M. & B. railway was built, and there is no one to whom greater credit is due for the construction of that road than the departed gentleman. He was one of the delegates to go to the capital when the subject was first mooted and he personally contributed to the fund for a survey.

Personally the Rev. gentleman was of the most generous and lovable disposition. His was an optimistic nature, always looking on the bright side of things, and thus to know him was to love him. His presence was a benediction in many a home where sorrow had entered and where his ministrations always brought balm to the depressed.

Besides Mrs. Murray, he is survived by one brother, Mr. Henry Murray, of Buctouche, and one sister, Mrs. Dayarmond, of Mill Creek Kent Co.—Times.

The Advocate joins with many friends of Mrs. Murray in extending sympathy in her time of trouble.

The Prize List of the St. John Exhibition is decidedly artistic. Send for a copy to C. J. Milligan, Box 411, St. John, N. B.

Good advertising is simply telling the people about something they want or believe they want, in a way that will make them buy.

The first sod in the construction of the new I. C. R. shops was turned Thursday morning, when a gang of twelve men went to work clearing away the bushes on the site of the freight car repair shop. This afternoon digging and work will be pushed with all speed as rapidly as tools arrive. Aged as rapidly as tools arrive. A Ottawa in the course of a couple of days.

E. H. Sinclair, of Newcastle, arrived in the city yesterday from New York, where he spent the past ten days the guest of his brother-in-law, John McKane, the millionaire lumberman and western mining operator, who has purchased the lumbering interests on the North Shore of Mr. Sinclair and his brother. Mr. Sinclair intends going west in the fall and will probably locate in Nevada. He will be accompanied by his brother, W. H. Sinclair.—Sun, 5th.

Mr. George D. Pratt returned last week from a week's fishing trip to the Little Southwest Miramichi, which he made in company with Henry Braithwaite. He says the water is a little high for salmon, but he had some good trout fishing. Mr. Pratt has been an annual visitor to the Miramichi country for ten years, and he says he never saw moose so plentiful as this year. In the six days he was in the woods he counted one hundred and twelve, mostly full grown bulls.—Herald.

The congregation of the Catholic church, Barnaby River, will hold a monster picnic at that place Tuesday, July 17th.

The little son of Rev. J. McLean of Chatham met with a painful accident a few days ago. He was running along with a stick in his mouth when he fell, the stick went down his throat inflicting a bad cut.

A few mornings ago Conductor Dunbar saw two moose near the Snowball barn of the Fredericton Branch at the Chatham station, and two deer were seen on the Bremner farm recently. They trotted down to the river and swam across to the other side.

It is understood the financial results of the late political picnic at Gagetown were disappointing. It is stated over a thousand dollars had to be guaranteed to meet the needs, platform arrangements, etc. ran into additional money. The shortage will not be very great however, and can be easily met.

The pilgrimage to Ste. Anne de Beaupre which was promoted by the Sisters of Charity, of St. Joseph, N. B., was a very large attendance. The majority of those attending were from Westmorland and adjoining counties. A large contingent from Boston joined the pilgrimage at St. John. His Lordship Bishop Casey accompanied the pilgrimage.

Official announcement is expected in a few days of an important change in the control of some of the largest retail dry goods stores in New York city. The most important feature of the change will be the consolidation of the Adams Dry Goods Company, No. 339 Sixth avenue, and H. O'Neill & Co., No. 321 Sixth Ave., under one head. It has been already mentioned that mining interests in the west are to engage Mr. Samuel Adams' attention.

Dr. Guerson, will visit the Presbyterian congregations in the Miramichi districts as follows:—Wednesday, July 4th, Rexton.

Friday, July 6th, Dalhousie.

Sunday, July 8th, New Richmond.

Wednesday, July 11th, Campbellton.

Thursday, July 12th, New Mills.

Friday, July 13th, Bathurst.

Tuesday, July 17th, Newcastle.

Wednesday, July 18th, Blackville.

To take the Barnum & Bailey circus from Chatham to Fredericton the I. C. R. authorities are making some rather extraordinary preparations. Owing to the steep grades and other difficulties no less than twelve locomotives will be necessary to haul the five trains over the road. With such an immense amount of traffic, with all the regular work and the excursion trains on circus day it is easily to be seen that the usual facilities would not be sufficient. For that reason four temporary tanks to hold water for the locomotives are being erected along the line.

Addressing the Teachers' Institute at Chatham, Premier Tweedie, according to the World's report, made this very interesting statement: "It was the best looking and most intelligent body of gentlemen and ladies he had ever seen and all the teachers were underpaid. (Great applause.) It was said that he was about to step down and out from office, but he hoped, before doing so, to be able to announce the adoption of a policy by the government that would increase the salaries of the teachers and establish a pension fund, making provision for their old age. (Applause.) Most of our country schools were too small and he hoped to see the principle of consolidation accepted by parishes. He looked upon 30 cents as too low a county tax for school purposes, and thought it should be 50 cents. (Applause.)"

MIRAMICHI PRESBYTERIAL

Rexton, July 6.—The first business meeting of the Presbyterial was held this morning, the president, Mrs. Fraser, conducting the devotional exercises.

After the reading of the minutes Mrs. Geo. J. Irving, of Rexton, gave the address of welcome on behalf of the Rexton Auxiliary, to which Mrs. Nicholson, of Newcastle, made a suitable response.

Brief reports were read from a majority of the society, and the work was found to be the most encouraging.

Miss A. B. Cameron, treasurer, presented her report for the year showing a total of $1,499.74 passing through her hands, and some $60 forwarded direct to the general treasurer, besides some $60 to home mission and a considerable contribution to the Robb building fund. At the first meeting of the Presbyterial held in 1898 it was that only $462.83 had been raised so that the increase in the amount raised is most gratifying.

A nominating committee was appointed consisting of Miss Stout, Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Irving, Mrs. James Anderson and Mrs. Young. This committee will report at a later sederunt.

The secretary's report and president's address reviewed the work of the Presbyterial and of the great mission work of the church as a whole, emphasizing the need of more workers.

After this there was considerable discussion as to the advisability of contributing money for the establishment of a fund to be used in assisting men who have the ministry in view through their arts course.

The afternoon sederunt opened at 2.30 o'clock. Mrs. Archibald read a paper on auxiliary work, after which discussion took place.

Mission band work was then taken up and a paper read by Mrs. Young, of Caraquet, in which she told of her successful efforts to interest young people in the work.

The president read a paper prepared by Mrs. Cruikshank, of St. John, which was much enjoyed, and vote of thanks given that lady for the loan of her excellent paper.

The nominating committee then reported and the following were duly elected to office: Hon. Pres., Mrs. Ferguson, Bathurst; President, Mrs. G. B. Fraser, Chatham; first vice-president, Mrs. A. D. Archibald, Rexton; second vice-president, Mrs. O. Nicholson, Newcastle; third vice-president, Mrs. Montgomery, New Richmond; fourth vice-president, Mrs. J. H. E. Gerrard, Campbellton; treasurer, Miss A. B. Cameron, Dalhousie; secretary C. P. work, Mrs. Wm. Anderson, Burnt Church.

At 5 o'clock the business was finished and the Presbyterial adjourned to the manse grounds and heartily enjoyed the lawn party given by the ladies of Rexton. In the evening Dr. Grierson again gave a splendid address and the choir appropriate music. Mr. Townsend, on behalf of the visiting ladies, thanked the good people of Rexton for their hospitality and the meeting closed by singing Far, Far Away and the benediction by Dr. Grierson.

Wedding Bells.

MARONEY—MARONEY.

At eight o'clock Wednesday morning St. Mary's church was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Charles Maroney was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mary, daughter of Joseph Maroney. The ceremony which was performed by Rev. P. W. Dixon was witnessed by a very large assemblage. The church was very prettily decorated with potted plants. The bride was beautifully attired in a gown of white silk and bridal veil, and carried a large bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Miss Sadie Ryan, whose dress was of white silk, with hat to match. The groom was supported by A. Farrah. After the ceremony the happy couple left the church and drove to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding dinner was served. The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents. In the afternoon they left on the Ocean Limited for Montreal and Quebec.

SENATOR ELLIS'S SPEECH.

British Premier Advises Questioner Not to be Frightened by it.

A London cable says:—Replying to a question on the subject of the speech made by Senator Ellis, in the Canadian Senate on June 27, during which he said the Canadian movement was leading to absolute independence. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman today advised the questioner not to be frightened by the speeches of Mr. Ellis or anyone else. The feeling in Canada, as well as in the other colonies, the premier added, was well known and tended, not towards disintegration, but to a closer union between the colonies and the Mother Country.

PROVED IN MOUNT FOREST.

Every doctor in this town tried his best to relieve Mrs. J. Withom of Astama: none succeeded. "For years, she states, 'I was a dreadful sufferer; nothing gave relief. At times I found it necessary to have all the doors and windows open to get my breath. When in despair I heard of 'Catarhose.' I used it and now am perfectly cured.' This proves beyond doubt that any case of Asthma is curable with Catarhose. No remedy so pleasant, none so absolutely certain to thoroughly cure 'Catarhose' yourself; it's guaranteed."

"Are you going to run in Col. Bluecock's speech he made at the banquet last night?"
Asked the anxious caller in the editorial rooms.

"We certainly are," replied the editor.

"But are you sure it will be his full speech?"
"Am I sure? Why, we have 'hic' molded on the type to save time."

Owing to defective action of bowels, kidneys or skin, the blood becomes laden with impurities. Pale Faced Girls

Thousands Using Successful Cure For Paleness and Anaemia.

The pale girl always lacks appetite. What little she eats is badly digested.

At night she is restless, she dozes, but doesn't sleep soundly.

Vital force must be increased, new blood must be supplied and a general rebuilding take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton had invaluable experience in these cases and found nothing so prompt in building up the young woman as his vegetable pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption. Additional nourishment is quickly supplied and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated.

Full of spirit, ruddy and strong is the girl that assists her system by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter from Miss Etta McEwen, of Halifax, speaks for itself:

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It is certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly and am awakened in the morning feeling quite refreshed."

"Formerly I felt tired, and depressed. I looked as if a severe illness was hanging over my head."

"Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I strongly advise every young woman to use them."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1, by mail from S. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A. and Kingston, Ont.

INKERMAN.

Inkerman, July 5.—The crops are looking better since the last rain.

Codfish are still plentiful around the coasts of Pokemouche and Shippegan. Messrs. A. & R. Logie caught large quantities in their salmon nets. The catch of salmon and lobsters is just medium.

Moose are very plentiful this season; they have been frequently seen around the beaches and marsh lands and even through the fields and swimming the rivers. If game ranger Robinson, of Newcastle, had a few more good men like Game Warden Campbell, Pokemouche would be quite a good hunting ground for sports in the open season.

HERSKIN WAS YELLOW.

"I had only to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills to appreciate their merit," writes Miss Annie S. Bryce, of Woodstock. "My system was out of order. My blood was weak and thin. I had a nasty, murky complexion. My skin was hard and dry. The first box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills made a complete change. I felt better at once. Healthy color came into my face. In about three weeks I was cured. Dr. Hamilton's Pills effect an easy cure. Try these good pills, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers."

THE ROOT OF NEURALGIC HEADACHE.

Is an irritable condition of the nerves caused by cold. Relief comes quickly from Nervine, the great pain reliever of today. "I consider Nervine a magical remedy for neuralgia," writes Mrs. E. G. Harris of Baltimore. "But I never worry if Nervine is in the house. A few applications never fail, yet, to kill the pain. I can also recommend Nervine to stiffness, rheumatism and muscular pain." In use nearly fifty years; try Nervine yourself.

WATER IN YOUR BLOOD?

Lots of people have thin watery blood—they eat plenty but don't digest. When digestion is poor, food isn't converted into nourishment—in consequence the body rapidly loses strength. To positively renew health, nothing equals Ferrozone. It excites sharp appetite,—makes the stomach digest, forms life sustaining blood. Abundant strength is sure to follow. If you need more vitality, extra energy, better nerves, then use Ferrozone the medicinal triumph of the age. Fifty cents buys a box of fifty chocolate coated Ferrozone tablets.

"Money Back"

means merit. No house would offer to refund money, unless they were sure you would not want to have it refunded. When a house with a well earned reputation says, "your money back if you are not satisfied with our goods," you may be sure the goods are right.

We have such implicit confidence in the virtues of that we authorize druggists to refund the money if they fail to cure.

We KNOW they WILL CURE all Kidney Troubles—strengthen weak Kidneys, and relieve pain in the back, dull headaches and all other distressing symptoms of Kidney Disease.

That is why we make this emphatic offer. It's worth 50c to be relieved of the agonizing pains—its worth $1 or even $25 to be completely cured. And we refund the price if they fail. You certainly get your money's worth either way, 50c box, 6 for $2.50, at druggists or direct from

THE MISSING LINK.

That the Dominion Government is so dilatory in having the line from Indian town to Blackville put into proper shape is a matter of regret, but the assertion that Mr. Loggie has not done anything in regard to this is hardly correct. Last year through our representatives, efforts an amount was placed in the estimates and during the winter the contract was duly let to Messrs. Hood & Co. for the first section of the work. This work is now under way and will soon be completed. But even with this work the road will not be placed in a fit condition, as it only extends from the present terminus, Indian town, to the stone quarry at Kenou.

A large bridge is the next work to be undertaken and to build this will require a large sum of money, estimated $50,000. The financial condition of the I. C. R. has been such in the past few years that it has been impossible for Mr. Loggie, although he has repeatedly approached the department to have the appropriation made, but he has been assured that the work will be done.

What have the citizens of Newcastle and along the river done this year to strengthen our member's hands? Not a thing. He has been allowed to press this matter unassisted. Last year he had the help of a strong delegation and their united influence induced the government to make a small appropriation for a start on this work. We would suggest that instead of criticising our representative all get together and give him every assistance in this matter. The Board of Trade should also take up the matter at an early date.

"Both Liberals and Conservatives at Ottawa agree that Minister of Railways Emmerson made a fine showing in Parliament this session. While Conservatives say a considerable part of the financial showing in connection with the Intercolonial is due to book-keeping methods, both Liberals and Conservatives agree that Mr. Emmerson has made phenomenal improvement in the financial condition of the railway. Leading newspapers in Ontario and Quebec which had seen little hope for the Intercolonial under the present Minister of Railways, are now loud in their praises of Mr. Emmerson's methods under which a yearly deficit of about two millions has been practically wiped out. In a splendid speech explaining the operations of his department for the year, Mr. Emmerson did not hesitate to give a great share of the credit for the changed condition of things to his able deputy, Mr. Butler. Speaking with the writer, a leading Ontario Liberal said: "No man has more fully come up to the expectations of his friends than Mr. Emmerson. He came into office as the successor of a very able man, and it was predicted in many quarters that his administration of the department of railways would be a failure; and among the prophets of evil were some who should have been Mr. Emmerson's best friends. The splendid showing that Mr. Emmerson has been able to make with respect to the finances of the road as well as his work in the House and in the department has lifted him into a front rank position and now he is generally regarded as one of Sir Wilfrid's ablest colleagues."—Outlooker, New Freeman.

Consistency thou art a jewel! Under the Lord's Day Observance bill a young man can hire a rig at a livery stable for himself or his family, but it is illegal for him to invite for a drive with him a prospective member of the family—his best girl. But he can legally go and play golf on Sunday with his best girl, or even take a whirl at baseball so long as no body pays a fee for looking on. Talk about straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel after the above.

Canada's revenue continues to expand. The growing time is still apparent, though chiefly in the west.

The West is not alone in railway development. A cable despatch from London says that for the Gaspé Railway scheme, the Atlantic, Quebec & Western Railway will next issue $750,000 5 per cent. mortgage bonds at 295 for $100 bonds.

Chas. Rich, of Chatham accused of holding for sale skins of animals killed out of season, was Monday fined $623.95 by Magistrate Connors, on eight charges and costs. R. A. Lawlor conducted the prosecution. J. A. Haviland the defense.

Rich pleaded not guilty to the first charge, and John Robinson, forest ranger for the province, was sworn and testified seeing eight fresh skins in Rich's establishment, consisting of three moose, one caribou and four deer.

In the afternoon defendant withdrew his plea of not guilty and admitted guilt on all counts. He was fined $200 for moose, $50 for caribou, $350 for deer and costs, totalling $623.95.

The magistrate threatened the maximum penalty in each case if another offense was proved.

The witness paid part and has one month to settle.

I. C. R. HAS A GOOD SURPLUS

Mr. Emmerson said Road Was $100,000 to Good.

Ottawa, July 9.—This afternoon the House went into supply taking up the railway and canal estimates.

Mr. Emmerson said the I. C. R. showed a surplus for the year ended June 30 last, of $100,000. The receipts of the year up to June 30 were $7,610,504, an increase of $836,981. P. E. I. railway showed a deficit of $50,000, while last year it was $153,000. This would give a net surplus on the whole government system of about $50,000. It will be my privilege, said Mr. Emmerson, when we meet in November to show just wherein the changes have been made to bring about these results. I am certain that the changes for the better are not a mere spurt. But that it will be permanent. The changes in the methods of management were such that results will show themselves each year. They have been brought about by drastic means, still there were no revolutionary acts on the part of the management.

Mr. Emmerson said in answer to Mr. Haggart that the expenditure on capital account was less than during the previous year.

The Adventurers

By H. B. MARRIOTT WATSON

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

When I reached the castle the night had fallen, unrelieved by stars. I rang for a lamp and retired to my bedroom for a pocketbook which I had left in one of the drawers in an old bureau. I remembered to have placed it in the left hand drawer in the secretary. I took the key from my pocket and twisted it in the lock, but as it would not turn I became impatient and shook the handles. The lid fell open of itself. Clearly it had not been locked. And yet I could have testified in a court of law that I had locked it in the afternoon. Furthermore, my pocketbook was not where I had left it, but in a lower drawer. The address roused my curiosity, and I went carefully through the drawers only to find that without a doubt they had been conscientiously and scrupulously rummaged by some one. The thought was not inviting. I sat down in a chair to consider. Later I went down to the dining hall and made out my notes for the day. A letter by the second post, which arrived late in the evening, lay to my hand on the table. The situation demanded a patient temper and some thought. It threatened to develop a grave climax. So far my reflections led me. Why had my bureau been rifled? What did this robber want? And yet again the problem fell upon me, something darkling, but urgent, importunate—had any one visited Mr. Kesteven through that open window in the article of his death? The confusion of these questions embarrassed me, and I opened my letter absently.

It was from Greenstreet and invited my consideration of the offer made by the London solicitors. They were pressing to know my price for the castle. I seized a sheet of paper and scribbled a line, sealing and stamping the envelope ere I went to bed. It was merely to tell Greenstreet that the property was not in the market.

CHAPTER V.

UPON the third day after the events of the preceding chapter Mrs. Main announced a visitor, handing me at the same time a card on which was printed with an abundance of flourishes and ornament "Mr. Morris Barnett." He made a ceremonious entry and politely discharged a few courtesies ere he got to business.

"I have come over, Mr. Grestorex," said he suavely, "to see if you are at all disposed to do a client of mine a great favor."

I did not see any very strong reason why I should favor a client of Mr. Morris Barnett, but I murmured that I was always glad to be of service to my fellow creatures.

"The fact is, sir," he resumed, laying his hat and stick upon a chair and drawing a packet of papers from his pocket, "my firm has a client who is related to the ancient Vyrian family, the original owners of this castle, as you are no doubt aware, and he has been informed that you have come into possession of this very beautiful estate in accordance with the will, if I mistake not, of the late Mr. Kesteven."

He looked at me inquiringly, and I told him that his information was quite correct.

"I gather, Mr. Grestorex," he continued affably, "that you have been until comparatively recently a stranger to these parts and that, in short, you have no parties in the county?"

"That is true," said I.

"My client, sir, has naturally—you will understand the motive—a desire to purchase the property, if you are disposed to meet him and we can arrange terms. And that, shortly, is the object of my visit."

Now, you will easily conceive that, falling in the present circumstances, this set my blood humming. Here was yet another, and within a few days of the demise of the old proprietor, who must needs come clamoring for a sale of the castle. The fact stirred my curiosity—nay, to speak truly, inflamed me with something very like excitement.

confidentially. "It is practically a drug in the market, sir, just now."

"Then," said I, "will you kindly explain, Mr. Barnett, how it comes that I have had two offers within a week of my inheritance?"

"Ah," he said meditatively, rubbing his chin.

"It looks as if this particular property was not a drug in the market, doesn't it?" I asked.

"To be sure," he remarked vaguely, and then, recovering himself, resumed his gentle smile. "But let us come back to business, Mr. Grestorex. Shall we say £5,000?"

He cooed at me enticingly. His assumption that we had wandered into the regions of fancy and romance tickled me, and I broke forth laughing.

"Ah, well," said he, grinning sympathetically, "we might make it £7,500 with immediate possession."

"Mr. Barnett," said I gravely, "your client seems to have been born too late by a hundred years."

"I dare say, Mr. Grestorex, that my client would go to the length of £10,000 upon my advice."

"Then I should certainly keep my advice to myself, Mr. Barnett," was my retort.

I began to see a respect for me dawn in his eyes. He gathered his papers in his hand and reached for his hat with the other.

"I fear that my intrusion has been useless," he observed.

I said nothing, but waited for him to reseat himself. He did not, however, but, walking to the window, looked out upon the park.

"Beautiful!" he cried. "Charming prospect! Really, now that I have seen it, Mr. Grestorex, I feel justified in advising my client to go a little higher."

"I think the view is worth an extra £5,000," I suggested.

"I think he might rise possibly to £15,000, Mr. Grestorex, if you will allow me to communicate with my client," he said softly. "But my client is a poor man, and it is a ruinous price."

"Then why ruin your client, my dear sir?" said I.

Mr. Barnett laughed pleasantly, as if at my little joke, but, becoming serious again, shook his head.

"A stiff price, but I think I can manage it," he said.

"I have little doubt that you can manage anything," I said, bowing.

"You agree?" he asked.

"It is not necessary," said I, "since you seem to have agreed for me."

"It is monstrous," he said gloomily. "But my client has set his heart on it. You shall have your £20,000, Mr. Grestorex."

He sighed resignedly and, having selected a document in his pocketbook, proceeded to unfold it and smooth it out upon the table. All the spirit was out of him. He had been worsted and owed me a grudge. I could perceive.

"If you have a pen, Mr. Grestorex," he said sullenly, "I will fill in the figures. I have the agreement here."

"Pardon me," said I.

He looked up and, meeting my gaze, offered an explanation against my protest. "There's no time like the present."

"You misunderstand me, sir," I said cheerfully. "I have no intention of selling the castle."

He leaped to his feet. "What?" he yelled, and his sallow face spread with color. "You said £20,000!"

"Excuse me; no," I said. "Your client, Mr. Barnett, did me the honor to suppose I should be willing to sell, and I was polite enough to suppose so with him."

There was never a man in so atrocious a temper as my little attorney. His color went, and he grew a livid yellow with passion, and, being now no longer at the necessity of civility, he broke into covert invective, presenting to me a surly demeanor. I ignored his unmanliness, but kept my placid smile all the time that he was arranging his departure. On the threshold of the door he paused and, turning, demanded:

"Is your decision final?"

I assured him that it was absolute. He gave me an extremely vicious look as he disappeared.

"You will regret this, Mr. Grestorex," he observed.

I understood that the phrase was not uncommonly used in similar circumstances, but in truth I need hardly say that I should not have turned a sarcasm at the expense of Mr. Barnett's inoffensive client, despite Mr. Barnett's offensive manner, if I had not been absolutely certain that Mr. Barnett's client did not exist. At least I would have gone back that he was no relation to the departed Vyrians, and I would even have ventured to doubt if he knew much more of them than did Mr. Barnett himself, for it was plain enough to me by this time that some person or some persons had particular reasons for desiring to obtain possession of my inheritance. So much being clear it only remained to determine those particular reasons, reasons which I could now perceive were involved in the secret of my dead friend and probably also in the culminating tragedy of his death.

When I was rid of my visitor I set forth upon a stroll in the woods. It was 4 in the afternoon, and the sun shone very fiercely upon the white roads, throwing black shadows from the trees. I dropped from the roadway into a rude moss grown track that ran into the heart of the valley, and presently, leaving the more open parts of the forest, struck into the deeper brakes and tangles below. The little stream ran here in the bottom very pleasantly, sometimes brawling over shallows and at other parts more silently in eddies and drifts over darker and deeper pools. As I followed its course I came shortly upon a spot where the channel made an elbow almost at right angles with its former direction, and here I descried the form of Captain Sercombe. A sound of voices reached me, and, cheered by the prospect of a companion with whom to exchange sentences, I uttered a short "Hello!" and dived through the undergrowth toward him. When I emerged upon the open space upon which the captain stood my attention was caught by a rustling among the branches, and I had a glimpse of some one just disappearing into the wood. I stopped with my eyes fastened upon the point, for something familiar in the incident struck me all of a sudden. That lean, slim figure, that swift, precipitate rush—these were as impressions recovered from some past experience. Captain Sercombe was lazily whipping a deep pool, a pipe between his teeth, and, turning his head, he hailed me:

"You have frightened my fish, sir," said he.

I begged his pardon somewhat abstractedly, and, raising myself, he looked at me, following the direction of my glance.

"Oh, that's my worthy and very obsequious host," said he, with a smile, taking his pipe from his mouth. "I wish he would let me alone, but he's so awfully officious. Thought he knew the likeliest spots, and would insist on showing me. As if I hadn't fished before he was born!"

I joined him on the bank.

"Any luck?" I asked.

He opened his basket. "A couple of smallish ones," he returned. "But there's a big fellow here, if your noise hasn't frightened him."

He threw a cast very neatly and, bending over his line, was wholly absorbed by his occupation. But nothing would tempt the trout to rise, and the captain soon gave me his attention again.

"There's nothing equal to an obstinate fish," he remarked thoughtfully. "I envy you, Mr. Grestorex. If I lived in this spot I could ask no better than to spend my life on the banks of this brook."

"Ah, you have the proper spirit!" said I.

"All the same," he declared, "it's a mighty hot tramp through those brakes, and I've earned my dinner."

We left the stream in company and mounted to the highroad.

"Come in," said the captain as we reached the Woodman, and the invitation was so natural, issued as so much a matter of course, that I entered behind him almost unconsciously.

"You will excuse me if I have a little refreshment," Mr. Grestorex, he said.

"I have been out since 10 o'clock and am only hold together by a few sandwiches. How do you always have an appetite, Hood! Hood!" he called.

The innkeeper entered and received his orders.

TROUT

Mezzowork

The undersigned have received from
Mr. Nash of Maine the agency for New Brunswick for his famous trout mezzowork.
A trout mezzowork is one half the fish so mounted upon a convex elliptical panel as to stand the fish out in bold relief, giving the effect of an oil painting or whole mounted fish, with the real thing to show at your prowess. The process of preserving fish in this artistic way was discovered by Mr. Nash in 1900, and patented by him.

Mrs. Emma Sawyer

Unless early and correct treatment is applied the patient seldom survives when once the disease is fastened upon her.
We believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most efficient treatment for chronic kidney troubles of women, and is the only medicine especially prepared for this purpose.

When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, frequent, painful or swelling urination, swelling of limbs or feet, swelling under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys or notices a sediment in the urine, she should lose no time in commencing treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it may be the means of saving her life.

For proof, read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs.
Sawyer.

"I cannot express the terrible suffering I had to endure. A derangement of the female organs developed nervous prostration and a serious kidney trouble. The doctor attended me for a year, but I kept getting worse, until I was unable to do anything, and I made up my mind I could not live. I finally decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a last resort, and I am to-day a well woman. I cannot praise it too highly, and I tell every suffering woman about my case."

"When are you going to be married, Hilda?"

"Me? Why, what an absurd question! Haven't I always told you I hate the very sight of men?"

"Yes, but I thought you were joking and—"

"It is no joking matter. I am a bachelor girl and I am proud of it.
I wouldn't be wedded to the best man on earth."

"How interesting! Do you remember that handsome Dack Dashing? Well, he told me he admired you more than any girl under the sun and he would like to make you his wife."

"And—and what did you say?"

"Why, I told him you were a bachelor girl, hated men and he might as well leave town."

"What? How dare you interfere with love affairs! Why couldn't you tell him to call around? I shall never speak to you again as long as I live."

"Be a little careful about whom you send out to report hailstorms said the managing editor."

"Why so?" asked the assistant.

"Well, you sent out the sporting editor and he stated the hailstorm were as big as baseballs."

"Great Scott!"

"Then you sent out the war correspondence and he said they were as big as cannon balls."

Table forks are a comparatively modern invention. They have been in general use only during the last few hundred years. They were first used by the Italians as early as the twelfth century, but it was not until the end of the fifteenth century that they came into general use.

In other countries at that time the same century they were novelties at the French court, where the French beauties soiled their dainty fingers in conveying their food

Strange to say, our parent coun-among the larger nations to adopt the use of table forks, and Ben Jonson, in his play, "The Devil Is An Ass," says: "The laudable use of forks is being brought into custom here, as in Italy, to the spar-

In monasteries the use of forks

A GREAT TREAT

The ADVOCATE has succeeded in completing an arrangement by which every person taking advantage of our offer will secure the greatest treat in reading matter ever offered the Canadian public. The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal has lately entered into a syndicate with a few others of the leading papers of England and America by which they have secured, at a cost of $150,000 twelve new stories by twelve of the world's best authors, and they are to appear in the Family Herald before they are issued in book form. Each story is completed in a month, making twelve complete stories, that would cost eighteen dollars in book form, inside the year. It is certainly one of the greatest feats in modern journalism, and only the strongest newspapers could take the risk of the immense expenditure.

We have made arrangements to offer the ADVOCATE and the Family Herald and Weekly Star until January 1st, 1907, for the small sum of Fifty cents, and in that time those taking advantage of the offer will secure at least six of the complete stories not counting the many other interesting features of the Family Herald and their own local paper. To present readers of the ADVOCATE we offer the Family Herald for the balance of the year for only Forty cents.

Subscriptions should be sent the ADVOCATE office at once.

J.P.P. If you intended making your money secure, would you pick out some small concern which had failed once or twice, or would you go to AN OLD RELIABLE BANK?

SUPPOSE you intended making your HEALTH secure, would you use a beverage which is "cracked up" to be the best and yet is composed of low grade, unskillfully blended, and in many cases adulterated TEA?

OR WOULD YOU use MORSE'S which is ABSOLUTELY PURE, and has the exclusive attention of experts, Tea Specialists, who have been in the business for over 36 years?
