A Fourth Man Arrested at Brantford.

The Chain of Evidence Now Deemed to be Complete—Bartram's Bad Condition.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 10.—The publication of the news regarding the Heslop murder case served to force the hands of Detective case served to force the hands of Detection of the restrict the served to fix force that the fact of the presence here reaching the fact of his presence here reaching the ears of Chief Vaughan, he at once had him altered. He is the first of the gang to be taken on the direct charge of murder, and the fact that the chain of evidence is now fact that the candidate for the lanchard to him.

A fact has just come to light which shows that he is not likely to live for more than a year in any event. It has been ascertained that he has received treatment from Dr. Marquis for cancer, and when seen today that gentleman stated that some five years ago he had removed a cancerous growth from one of the eyes. About four months ago Bartram called to see him again, when he found that it was once more growing very badly. In this connection again, when he found that it was one move growing very badly. In this connection the following conversation ensued: Is that liable to affect the brain? Yes. You consider that he is at present suffering mentally in consequence of the trouble?

Yes, I think so.

I suppose that under any circumstances his days are liable to be numbered? Yes; I think that he cannot live more than a year anyway.

This trouble of Bartram's may have an interesting bearing on the case, and it is thought that it will lead him to make statements which he might not otherwise be inclined to do.

Lottridge was taken from the lockup to the jail to-night. Before leaving the chief told him that he was held on the charge of murdering John Heslop. He turned pale and remarked: "Why, I was at home on that night."

that night."

Detective Greer and Constable Adams have just returned from their trip. They visited Lottridge's house, nine miles east of visited Lottridge's house, inte miles east of Caledonia, in the expectation of finding some of the stolen jewelry. A thorough acarch failed to reveal any of the articles, but the trip in another respect, they consider, has served to strengthen the chain of circumstances surrounding the accused. It is stated that evidence will be forthcoming showing that Bartann was seen in the showing that Bartram was seen in the neighborhood of the Heslop house on the showing that Bartram was seen in the neighborhood of the Heslop house on the night of the tragedy.

Hamilton, Dec. 9.—Speaking of the arrest of Bartram and the two Indians at Brantford for the murder of John Heslop, Chief McKinnon said to-day: "I have known Bartram for 20 or 25 years, and he is a bad man. His name was mentioned early in the affair, but the clue was investigated, and nothing could be found against him." The chief is rather skeptical that Detective Greer will be able to get a case against the men.

Brantford, Ont., Dec. 10.—At the Police Court this morning John Lottridge was charged with the murder of John Heslop at Ancaster on the 27th January. The prisoner was committed for trial. The police believe they have the right parties and can place the murder of Heslop on one of the prisoners was in the vicinity of Ancaster when the murder was committed. Bartram is suffering from cancer in the corner of the right eye, which will probably have to be removed. Goosey, the Indian, a witness in Bartram's case, was released on "All.

MEN OF THE HOUR.

M. de Giers, Russian Minister of Forcign Affairs.

The Russian Immine is not the only matter which draws the attention of foreign actions to the dominion of the Czar. The northern empire is looked upon as the storm center from which the wardlouds now darkening the sky will burst upon Europe. This danger is increased by the debate in the Italian Chamber of Deputies, in the course of which the former Premier, Signor Crispi, said that the law of guaranties, regulating the relations between Italy and the Pope could be altered. Premier di Rudini replied that in his opinion the relations with the Pope could not be changed. In the not of his speech he remarked that in the event of war Austria would come to the add of Italy, an avowal made with all the natural pride of an Italian. It is certain that this avowal will do more harm than good to the Triple Alliance, for the reasons that it makes the point clear that Italy is not in the Dreibund on a footing of equality with her allies. This may sever the bonds which unite King Humbert to the central powers, and this once done, will be the signal for France and Russis to begin the attack. The mild mannered old gentleman of 60, who hold the post of Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. de Giers, has shaken of 60 who hold the post of Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. de Giers, has shaken ansecptible nerves badly by his recent visit to Paris, a disturbance which his subsequent interview with Emperor William failed to allay. The Minister's journey for a holiday, while beneficiat to his own health, seems to have had a contrary effect on that of the chiefs of the Triple Alliance.

Much wreckage is being cast up along the banks at the lower part of the River Mersey, and tears are entertained for the safety of vessels which sailed from this port yesterday. The gale has swept many districts in Ireland, causing much damage to property and flooding a number of rivers. The Norwegian mail steamer Frithjof has been wrecked off Haugesend, Norway. Furlous gales and heavy floods have so weakened and undermined the ancient and massive walls by which the greater portion of the City of Chester is inclosed that portions of the old Roman structure have subsided.

Eyesight Restored For the benefit of those suffering from isease of the eyes, I would advise treatmen pain. I have had a weak eye for 30 years and have tried various remedies. In August, 1890, I was also attacked with an aggravated form of conjunctivitis of both eyes. There was pain, inflammation, redness, swelling of lining of lids, and white lining membrane, intolerance of light and wind, unable to read or write. I heard about remarkable cures being made with Dr. J. Eugene Jordan's Histogenetic Medicines. I was examined by Dr. Rear, of Toronto, who prescribed Histogenetic remedies, and in three days I was so much improved that I resumed my duties in my store and continued to gain rapidly. In two weeks I was cured sound. The effect has been permanent for over a year. My faith is very strong in Histogenetic Medicines.

Police Court and Drink.
To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:
I have often thought that our police magistrate would feel very lonely at his daily court if it were not for the drink—if it is true that the large majority of cases coming before him are for drunkenness, vagrancy and disorderly conduct, more or less arising from drink—together with violations of the liquor law (which are by far too frequent). To-day's proceedings would seem to bear this out—just fancy eight drunks to two cases of breach of city bylaws. One poor fellow was sent down to the Central for four months (who pays his traveling expenses and keep?), six discharged, and one fined $2 or seven days. Now, if drunkenness is a crime, why where they not all punished? And if it is not, why should any be punished? Will any one arswer the query? Our Police Court record along these lines will afford a painful study, and durnish many anomalies hard to understand. Surely our police magistrate ought to make a good temperance reformer. Observer.

Cultivation of Wheat in England.

The report gives particulars of the quantity of straw, the plot giving the most straw and the least weight of grain being one of the artificially manured, while a similar plot gives the heaviest grain and the least straw. The farm yard manure gives nearly as heavy grain and several hundred pounds more straw.

The estimated exop this year in the United Kingdom is nearly 67,000,000 bushels, and there will be wanted, besides, about 160,000,000 bushels for the year's consumption, which is nearly six bushels per head of the population.

For the sake of comparisons, I give the estimated crop this year in our Northwest, as stated in Toronto papers lately, 30,000,000 bushels; and the American crop, based on the figures of the October report 30,000,000 hussels; and the American crop, based on the figures of the October report of the United States Department of Agriculture, at 562,000,000 bushels, being about 163,000,000 over 1890, and an average yield of about 144 bushels to the acre. The average crop for the United Kingdom is 32 bushels to the acre, and the yield this year is two bushels less.

THE appointment of Mr. Jamieson, M. P. South Renfrew, as junior judge in Wellington county, has caused much displeasure among the Conservative lawyers of Guelph. They think that a local man should have been first choice.

THE French discovery for the prevention and cure of obesity, gravely indorsed by the Journal of the American Medical Association, is restriction to a single dish at every meal. Undoubtedly this is a sure thing. Thousands of poor people have been limited to this one-dish dietary all their lives, and some of them are astonishingly thin. A better cure still would be the restriction of the patient to one dish a day. Some unfortunates do not always get that.

LORD ABERDEEN IN NEW YORK Lord and Lady Aberdeen are still in the United States, engaged in collecting data that will enable them to give efficient sid to Ireland in securing an adequate repreat the Chicago World's Fair. Since the days when the Earl and Countess occupied the viceregal mansion in Dublin, and won the hearts of every class of the people, they have taken a deep interest in the Emerald Isle. That interest is likely to be strengthened by the appreciation of their efforts at the hands of the friends of Ireland both at home and abroad. As a tribute to his worth, Lord Aberdeen was entertained at dinner by the leading members of the National Federation of America in New York city on Tuesday night. His reception was most enthusiastic. Dr. Thomas Addis Emmet, a direct descendent of the famous Irishman of that name, preof the lamous Frishman of that hame, pre-sided, and the address of welcome was read by Chief Justice Daly. In the address were these words: "We beg that you will convey to the Irish Parliamentary party, under the leadership of Gladstone, our deunder the leadership of Gladstone, our de-termination to sustain them in their strug-gle." Observing Lady Aberdeen in the music gallery, Judge Daly paid a cordial tribute to her for her earnest labors in teaching the industrial arts to the poor of Ireland. In response Lord Aberdeen said:

"I take this demonstration as one more proof that Irishmen, wherever their lot may be east, cherish an undying affection for the land of their origin and an ungrudging appreciation of any action, by whomsoever performed, benefiting their native country. I hold and have held that this national trait is one that statesmen called upon to deal with Irish affairs would do well to note. It has never been more marked than since the time, five years ago, when the policy of trust and liberality was adopted by Mr. Gladstone."

The name of Gladstone, the reports in-

The name of Gladstone, the reports in orm us, started the cheers again. They broke out frequently during the rest of the Earl's speech. He told stories, too, and told them uncommonly well, and none of hem was ancient. In his serious vein he told about the prospects of the home rule cause. The assurance of sympathy and support from Irishmen in America always brought comfort and renewed courage to the hearts of the struggling patriots in Ireland. The speaker congratulated the National Federation upon its avowed purposes and upon the opportunities that yet awaited it for helping the old country. One of the most agreeable im-pressions that he would carry back to Great Britain with him was the impression that the people of America, almost without regard to nationality, believed in the prin ciple of home rule for which Ireland was struggling. Since he had been in this country some triends had intimated to his that there was such a thing as "catering to the Irish vote," If such was the case it only indicated to him the gratifying fact that the Irish-Americans were a numerous and influential body. The Earl dwelt with much earnestness upon the friendly feeling that had so long existed between the United States and Great Britain. He hoped that feeling would continue to exist, and he did not believe that even the most ardent patriotism of the Irish Americans, in standing by their native land in its political struggles, need tend to disturb the Spanish goods is the impelling motive.

Spanish women, the cable tells us, will great nations of America and Great Britain. The speaker believed that the next general give their aid. They no more French and promised to buy no more French bonnets." When the women make up ing conclusively what the popular sentiment their minds that a reform is required it there was on the subject of home rule in Ireland, and he was confident that the result would be favorable to Ireland. There A REMARKABLE case was heard this week before the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Jutice in the British metropolis. Mr. Poland applied for the granting of a rule nisi calling upon the vice-chancellor of Cambridge University were some members of the present Brit-

course pursued by some of the old-tim followers of Parnell, he said that he hope fully looked forward to the time, not far distant, when that minority party would bury their animosities and join with all other patriotic Irishmen in striving for the great principle for which their dead leader

he said:

"You will remember that if there was one thing which Mr. Parnell particularly insisted upon it was a strict observance of constitutional methods, and there is no better way to honor the memory of Parnell than by adopting his idea that in view of the importance of the object the minority should yield to the majority. It has been said of Mr. Gladstone," said the Earl in conclusion, "that for home rule he sacrificed his love of power. He sacrificed more than that—the love of ease, retirement and comfort in his old age. I know he will never swerve from the path he has chosen until his great policy of justice has been consummated. In my judgment it will not be long before you and I witness the completion of the long and bitter struggle."

"Woman, the First Home Ruler," was "Woman, the First Home Ruler," was one of the toasts. Its proposer took occa-sion to speak in the highest terms of Lady Aberdeen's self-sacrificing efforts on behalf of the people both in Ireland and Scotland. Coming so soon after the Earl's enthusiastic reception in various Canadian cities and also by his former fellow-countrymen at the New York St. Andrew's Society panquet, this demonstration in his honor is otable, as illustrating the kindly feeling that is entertained towards a who conscientiously strives to do his duty When we last referred to Lord Aberdeen popularity on this continent, a Canadian conservative journal sneeringly alleged hat the man who was popular abroad could not be regarded as the best patriot at home. Applied to Lord Aberdeen, the sneer is undeserved. He is beloved at home, and so is his kind-hearted Countess He is looked on as one of the real bulwarks of Britain's greatness, because while he had the fortune to inherit wealth and position, he knows how to use them to benefit his fellow men. It would be strange, indeed, if a man of so generous impulses should not make friends and keep them the world over. That is a narrow spirit which would deny to one portion of the English-speaking pe ple those reasonable rights to local sel government which other portions have been freely conceded. NEW PUBLICATIONS. The Christmas number of Harper's Baza published Dec. 11, will be remarkable for the variety and entertaining character the variety and entertaining character of its contents. There will be a story by Mary E. Wilkins, entitled "The Other Side"; a story by Hezekiah Butterworth, entitled "No Room in the Inn"; poems by Harriet Pressott Spofford, Elizabeth Bullad, and Margoret E. Sangster; and a strikingly beautiful picture by Rosina. Emmet Sherwood, entitled "Before the Ball," with an accompanying poem by Mrs. John Sherwood. The illustrations contained in the number will be numerous and more than ordinarily attractive.

The Pansy for December is now ready; it s not necessary for us to read all the stories to know whether it is wholesome stories to know whether it is wholesome for children. It is the same with this as with all the magazines published by this firm—all that could be desired for the young people. It contains many short and elevating stories from the able pen of Pansy. It is also full of beautiful illustrations, and we are sure thrt young folks who read it will feel better, stronger and happier with their association with such wise and entertaining friends as Pansy, Margaret Sidney and other favorite authors. It is only $1 a year; 10 cents a number, D. Lothrop Company, publishers, Boston.

The issue of Harper's Young People fo Dec. 8 is the Christmas number. It con ains stories and articles by Charles Dudley Warner, Captain Charles King, M. E. M. Davis, H. C. Bunner, John Kendrick Bangs and the late P. T. Barnum. The cover is from a special design by Eugene Grasset, of Paris.

The December Review of Reviews mewhat of a woman's number. Besides the illustrated article upon the W.C.T.U., there is a brilliant character sketch of Mrs. Annie Besant, with a fine portrait and with a full page illustration showing the faces of nine or ten of the present leaders of theosophy in this country and abroad. There is also an article written by Lady Meath for the Review of Reviews upon some phases of women's work for their own sex in Germany and Sweden, and an article by Lady Aberdeen upon her Haddo House Association, or the Scottish Mothers' Union. Accompanying these articles are portraits of Lady Meath and Lady Aberdeen. There is also a brief sketch of the areer of Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, editor the illustrated article upon the W.C.T.U. deen. There is also a brief sketch of the career of Mrs, Mary Mapes Dodge, editor of St. Nicholas, with her portrait; and numerous other matters in this number are of particular concern to intelligent women.

The respondents in the present appeal, Conmee & McLennan, were contractors on the Lake Superior section of the C. P. R. When the work was done a dispute arose as to the measurement, and this resulted in the firm's entering an action against the C. P. R. for $800,000, including extras. The lower court gave them $251,000, but threw out the claim for extras. This the C. P. R. now appeals against, and asks to have the judgment annulled. The case is a most lengthy one, and the factums consist of ten large volumes.

QUEEN VS. HUGH M'ARTHUR.

Hugh McArthur, of Middlemiss, was charged with unlawfully and maliclously wounding Duncan Wrightman, of the same place. The assault was alleged to have taken place at a church in Middlemiss on the night of May 14. It appears McArthur stated that he could put anyone in the church out as a result of some present being somewhat noisy, when Wrightman stepped up and asked him if he could put him out. He replied that he could. They then went outside together to settle the matter between themselves. Instead of fighting a square fight with fists it is alleged that the defendant caught his opponent's ear in his teeth and bit a portion of it off. The men had previous to this time been on good terms. Henry White, secretary of the American Legation.

The bridal costume was an empire gown of white satin, edged with a cloud of silk malines tulle, caught up with garlands of orange blossoms. It had a low bodice, and was completed with an underdress of silver embroidery in empire design. The train, five yards in length, was of brocade, draped from the shoulder, with a silver collar. The manteau was edged, to correspond with the fourreau, with tulle and garlands of orange blossoms. Giving a finished appearance to the train was the quitted lining of white satin. Another feature of the toilet was the empire veil of tulle showered with silver spangles. The brocade which composed the train was designed and woven by one of the leading Lyons houses expressly for Miss West's wedding dress. As ornaments the bride wore a crown of diamonds, the gitt of the bridegroom, and a necklace,

The sister's were certainly very unlike, Fluff being very small and dark, while Bern was tall and fair; without being exactly gifted with her mother's beauty, ahe had a charming face, soft, gray eyes, and hair of that golden-brown that one sees so often in English girls.

English girls.

There were few people who did not think Fera Trafford decidedly pretty; her features were exactly regular, but her coloring was lovely, and there was a joyousness and brightness about her that attracted old and young; every one loved Férn, and spoke well of her, she was so simple, so unselfish, so altogether charming, as they said.

Fern never complained of the narrowness of her life, never fretted because their poverty excluded her from the pleasures girls of her age generally enjoyed. From childhood she had known no other life. There were times when site remembered that she had gone to bed hungry, times when her mother's face looked pinched and miserable—when her fasher was dying, and they thought Baby Florence would die too. Somehow Fern never cared to think of those days

Somehow Fern never cared to think of those days.

Fern was devoted to her mother, she clave to her with innocent love and loyalty.

Percy's defection had been the bitterest trouble of her life. The girl nearly broke her heart when Percy left them. She grew thin and pale and large-eyad, as girls will when they are fretting and growing at the same time. Nea's motherly heart was concluded with compassion for her child. She wished, if possible, to suffer alone; if it were in her power she would prevent the it were in her power she would prevent the faintest shadow touching that bright young life.

So she spole to her in her calm, sensible way for Nea was always' centle with her children, and Fern was very dear to her—she had her father's eyes, and Maurice's pure, upright nature seemed transmitted to his young daughter.

"Forn," she said, one evening when they were sitting together in the twilight, "you must not add to my burdens; it makes me still more unhappy to see you fresting; I miss my little daughter's brightness that used to be such a comfort to me."

THE WEEK, one of the ablest papers on the continent.—Descriptive

$3 per Year. Published Every Friday. $2 for 8 Mos.

A Canadian Journal of Politics, Literature,

Science and Arts. THE WEEK has been greatly enlarged and improved, rendering it still more worthy the cordial support of every one interested in the the generous support it has received since the publication of the first number, it hopes to win the approval of a wider constituency and reach a much larger circle of readers.

The independence in publication and existing which has characterized.

a much larger erole of readers.

The independence in politics and criticism which has characterized THE WEEK ever since its first issue, more than eight years ago, will be rigidly maintained; and unceasing eforts will be made to improve its literary character and increase its value and attractiveness as a journal for the cultured home. Many no and able writers are now, or have promised to become, contributors to its columns, and the constant aim of the Publisher will be to make THE WEEK fully equal to the best literary journal in Britain and the Justed States.

As heretofere, Londen, Parls, Washington and Montreal Letters from accomplished correspondents will appear at regular intervals.

THE WEEK enlarged is the same size as "Harper's Weekly," and the largest paper of its class on the continent.

I regard THE WEEK as one of the most interesting and satisfying literary publications in America; and certainly there has been no period in its history when its excellence was so marked as at present,—[T. W. Longley, Attorner Control of Nova Scotia, Halifax.

Thedi stinguishing trait about this store is: What Is It? Can You Tell?

What is it? Can you Tell? Improvement; extension. It isn't merely the immense size of the store, nor of the business, nor of the improved faci files, because we had often all we could do when the store was a third its present size and not nearly so comfortable or attractive to shop in. It is the effective progressiveness of the management which distinguishes this establishment from all competitors. The fact is, a permanent success must have merit. That is true of anything and everything. It applies here, inasmuch as progress marks every transaction. But you extect that. If we didn't improve with each year something would happen. The candidate was the greatest victim ever "initiated" in the city, and bore the ordeal with commendable resignation. Several good solos and musical specialties were introduced, and a number of handsome robes, etc., were worn by the principal officers. The closing scene was an attractive one, and sent the audience home relieved from the anxiety experienced for a time as to whether the candidate would ultimately survive the ordeal through which he was required to pass, and whether he would ever again be seen on earth alive.

which people in run-down state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparillia conclusively proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, im-parting fictious strength, but Hood's Sarsa.

Remenyı Dec. 15. Rememyi played with faultiess precision. Loud applause followed every number of his programme, the loudest and longest after his Hungarian melodies. The artist was obliged to appear again and again, till he finally shook his head, wiped his damp forehead, and stammered his excuses.— [New Pesth Journal, March 5, 1891.

A most extraordinary genius, his playing is simply wonderful.—[Chicago Times.

We do not believe he has a rival. In fire, brilliancy and daring he reminds us of the accounts that have been written of Paginini.—[New York Tribune.

The greatest player that has yet appeared in this country.—[New York Post.

He is master of his instrument. It glows, and burns, and flames under his master hand.—[New York Herald.
