GOLLI'S SENTENCE CONFIRMED.

Madrid, Aug. 19.—The supreme council of war has confirmed the sentence of death passed by court martial at Vergara, on Michael Angiolillo, alias "Golli," the assassin of Premier Canovas Del Castillo. The murderer will be executed on Thursday or Friday.

FATAL STORMS VISIT SILESIA.

Berlin, Aug. 19.—The greater part of Silesia has been revisited by severe storms, and several persons have been killed by lightning. Typhus fever is rampant at Rogau, in consequence of of the water used for drinking there having become infected by the refuse accumulated by the floods.

MAY BREAK UP THE "CONCERT."

London, Aug. 19.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: "The perturbing news from Constantinople is probably the result of Lord Salisbury's inflexible attitude in insisting upon the complete evacuation of Thessaly, which is likely to break up the European concert. Lord Salisbury's decision is not unconnected with affairs on the Indian frontier.

WILLIAM TO HUMBERT.

Breslau, Prussia, Aug. 19.—A local paper says that Emperor William, in his dispatch to King Humbert, congratulating the latter upon the result of the duel between the Count of Turin and Prince Henri of Oreans, in defense of the honor of the Italian army, used the following expressions: "I am no friend of dueling; but, a military officer must defend his military honor to the last drop of blood."

FERDINAND IN DISFAVOR.

Vienna, Aug. 19.—It is asserted here on good authority that Emperor Nicholas declines to receive Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria because of the quarrel with Austria over M. Stoiloff's recent alleged versions upon the attitude of the Austrian imperial house during the trial of Capt. Boitchell, former aide-de-camp of Prince Ferdinand, for the murder of Anna Szimon, his paramour, an Austrian subject.

THE CAT O' NINE TAILS.

Portsmouth, Aug. 19.—The court-martial yesterday of two seamen of the British battleship Royal Sovereign developed the fact that the complaints made were greatly exaggerated. The prisoners tried pleaded guilty of gross insubordination and of striking their officers. One of them was sentenced to a year's penal servitude, and the other was condemned to receive 24 lashes and to undergo three months' penal servitude. Both of the seamen were dismissed from the service.

STUDENTS SENT TO SIBERIA.

London, Aug. 19.—The correspondent of the London Daily Mail at St. Petersburg says: "The murder of Senor Canovas del Castillo has caused the agents of the dread third section here entirely to lose their heads. A group of about twenty advanced Polish students at the University of St. Petersburg have been arrested and hurried overland to Siberia on suspicion of being nihilists and of hatching plots against the czar. It is thought probable, however, that they will be brought back after M. Faure's visit, if inquiries, as likely, should prove their innocence.

PRESIDENT FAURE'S VISIT TO RUSSIA.

Paris, Aug. 19.—The departure of President Faure on his visit to the czar at St. Petersburg today, was marked by a scene of the greatest excitement, accompanied by the circulation of the wildest kind of rumors. After his departure a bomb exploded along the route the president had taken, but though nobody was hurt, the most intense excitement prevailed for a long time afterwards, and the sensational reports had it that those who exploded the bomb had intended an outrage of a more serious nature. The president received an ovation from the public when he started on his journey.

TROUBLE IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

Constantinople, Aug. 19.—The city is almost in a panic over the news of bomb explosions, attempted or accomplished, at different points. The explosions are attributed to Armenians. At 3 o'clock yesterday a bomb was thrown just outside the police headquarters in the Pera district. It failed to explode. Almost at the same moment an Armenian was arrested at the Imperial Ottoman Bank, in the Galata district. He was carrying a package of explosives, which he was trying to ignite. A second bomb was exploded in a private road between the visierate (offices of the grand vizier), and the state council house. One man was killed and several others were severely injured. The explosions shattered the windows in the vicinity and did other damage. The police and the guards at the sultan's palace are taking extraordinary precautions, which have given color to a rumor that the bomb-throwing is part of a widespread plot. The most abject terror prevails in the precincts of the palace. In many parts of the city, particularly in the vicinity of the police headquarters and of the state council house, all the shops were closed, and it was necessary to call out the entire police force and the military before anything like calm was restored.

THE GREEN FLAG AND THE UNION JACK.

Dublin, Aug. 19.—The Duke and Duchess of York arrived at Kingstown from Holyhead, at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The weather was glorious, and all the ships in the harbor were brilliantly decorated for the occasion. The guardship Melampus fired a royal salute as the royal yacht Victoria and Albert entered the harbor. At noon the commissioners of Kingstown township boarded the yacht and presented their royal highnesses with an address, expressing the hope that their visit would lead to the establishment of a royal residence in Ireland. The Duke of York replied that he and the duchess looked forward to becoming better acquainted with the people and the beautiful scenery of Ireland. On disembarking, the Duke and Duchess of York were accorded an enthusiastic reception. The royal party took the train for Dublin amid a renewal of the enthusiasm. The ovation was repeated upon the arrival of the duke and duchess in this city. All the windows and housetops along the route were black with people, and the houses were decorated. There was an imposing military procession, and on all sides there were to be seen Union Jacks entwined with the green flag of old Ireland. The Duke of York wore a naval uniform, and bowed continually to the plaudits of the vast throngs assembled, while the duchess was kept busy acknowledging the warm greetings with which the royal visitors were received. Almost immediately after the duke and duchess had crossed College Green a heavy rain fell, thus marring the remainder of the procession. The duke and duchess were received at the Castle by Earl Cadogan, the lord lieutenant of Ireland, and by Countess Cadogan, and a royal salute was fired by a battery of artillery stationed in Phoenix Park, after which the earl and countess, with the staff of the lord lieutenant joined the procession, and escorted the royal visitors to the vice regal lodge.

AT CONSTANTINOPLE.

Constantinople, Aug. 19.—Murad Bey, former imperial commissioner of the council of the public debt, and now the leader of the Young Turks, who fled from Constantinople in the latter part of 1895, and made his way to Russia, subsequently going to Paris, arrived here today from the French capital and was received at the Yildiz Kiosk. The sultan has granted a verbal pardon. Murad Bey fled in 1895 because he was suspected of conspiracy.

London, Aug. 19.—A dispatch to the Times from Constantinople says that the Porte, alarmed at the state of anarchy which exists in Turkish Kurdistan, which has ordered a general mobilization in the Vilayet of Bagdad and other eastern vilayets on the Persian frontier.

Vienna, Aug. 19.—According to a dispatch from Constantinople the whole diplomatic body has protested to the sultan against his bestowal of the Order of Glory on M. Stoiloff, the Bulgarian premier, declaring that henceforth they will refuse to accept the inferior order of Medjideh.

OUTLOOK IN INDIA.

Ten Thousand Afridis Threaten a British Post—Once Loyal Natives Join the Rebels.

London, Aug. 19.—The defection of the Afridis is regarded as being especially serious, as they have been loyal during many Indian outbreaks, and guarded the Khyber Pass for the British during the Afghan war. They are one of the most powerful tribes on the frontier.

It is believed that 10,000 Afri are threatening Jamrud, but the place is considered proof against attack by any force without artillery. Before venturing to attack Jamrud, the Afridis, it is expected, will try their strength on the smaller forts in Khyber Pass. Additional reinforcements of infantry, cavalry and artillery have been ordered to proceed from Simla to Peshawar, while troops are being moved forward to replace those sent to the front. The work of mobilization is proceeding smoothly.

Constantinople, Aug. 19.—The Turkish government has issued a denial of the alleged understanding said to exist between the Porte and the ameer of Afghanistan to foment an insurrection in India by preaching through the fanatical priests a holy war, or jehad, against British rule in India.

HOMEWARD BOUND!

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Sails From Londonderry for Canada.

Londonderry, Aug. 19.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian premier, sailed for Canada today.

He visited Galway yesterday, inorder to learn the views of the people there with reference to the Canadian mail ship line and to judge of its suitability as a port of call.

A DINNER PILL.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convey the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

Mrs. Orr's Murder.

The Adjourned Inquest in the Case Resumed.

Probability That Blair and Stokes Can Prove Alibis.

Young Allison Is Now the Only Prisoner.

Maggie Orr's Story—The Death Dealing Weapon Was a Club From Which the Murderer Had Tried to Wash the Tell-Tale Stains.

THE INQUEST RESUMED.

Galt, Ont., Aug. 19.—The adjourned inquest into the Orr murder case was resumed yesterday afternoon before Dr. Radford and Dr. Vardin, W. H. Bowlby, Q. C., represented the crown. There was very large crowd of would-be spectators, but not more than 350 gained entrance into the room. No less than thirteen daily newspaper reporters were in attendance.

The prisoner Allison was brought up from the cell, and as he is at present the only person in custody, the supposition is that Detective Murray has enough evidence against him to make a case.

The most important witness examined was Anthony Orr, husband of the murdered woman. In his evidence some new points were brought out that would appear to incriminate young Allison.

Harry Blair, one of the original suspects, gave a detailed account of his movements during the forenoon of the tragedy. He will likely prove an alibi.

ROBERT STOKER.

Robt. Stoker, whose name was prominently mentioned in connection with the affair, through Allison stating he was the man met by the prisoner in the lane, did not testify today, but it is generally believed that he too, will establish an alibi, so that the case at present, has narrowed down to young Allison.

Stoker, whom Allison says he met, has interested himself considerably in the case. Mr. Orr says that Stoker represented himself as having been a detective in Buffalo. He evidently wanted Orr to give him control of the investigation, informing Orr that he could find the woman in three days. It was he who told Orr that his hired boy knew a lot about his wife's disappearance.

Yesterday Chief Ahern took Robert Stoker to see Inspector Murray. As a result of his interview, Murray pronounces the suspicions cast on him as outrageous. Stoker that he met him in the lane. Stoker is a shiftless sort of fellow, whose home is at Kirkwall. He is a carpenter, but ekes out an existence by working at any odd job he can pick up. Years ago he worked on a farm owned by a man named Wallace, about a mile from the Orr homestead, and he was then on good terms with the Orr family. Recently he had been employed doing carpentering work by a local firm, but only did odd jobs, and had no steady work with them. In his business he took to roaming about the country, and during the last three months had visited the Orr homestead three times, according to the boy Allison, the last occasion being the day of the murder. On the two first occasions he had had a few hard words with the wife of Anthony Orr. This is all that can positively be said against the man.

Wm. R. Bond, a respectable citizen, states that on Monday morning he met the man Stoker about four miles out of Galt in an opposite direction from Orr's. This was about 11 o'clock, and it would have been impossible for him to get that far away from the scene of the murder in such a short time.

ALLISON UNRELIABLE.

Whatever might have been the statements made by the young boy Allison to Detective Murray and his associates at the five hours' examination, they cannot be construed to fit in with the many conflicting stories told by him prior to his arrest. Little Maggie Orr was the person to whom Jim talked a lot, and he told her a number of stories which show that he is not only lying, but concealing some information that he really knows.

WHAT MAGGIE SAYS.

"When papa and Mr. Blair went away on Monday, calling for mamma and alarming the neighbors," said Maggie, "Jim came up to me and spoke about the gun. He asked if I had heard it being fired off when I was up in bed. I said yes, but it didn't waken me thoroughly. He said that the gun had been fired off by him about 10 o'clock. That was when he got back from the pasture, and it was at a ground hog out in the field. He said my mamma had bet him a quarter he could not shoot it. He said he took up the gun and shot the animal, but did not kill it. This was the first story, and he asked me not to tell father about it, as he would tell him himself. I did tell papa. Again, on Wednesday, he came up to me and said that on the morning of the murder he had fired off the gun to show mother how to do it, as she wanted to find out how the work the gun."

"What was Jim doing when you saw him first on the morning of the murder?"

"When I came downstairs he was raking in the lane-way," said Maggie, "but he said that as he could not find the rake he was using a fork. He appeared very much excited, and asked me where the rake was. I showed it to him, lying on the grass at the front of the house. I don't believe he looked for it at all."

THE WEAPON FOUND.

A heavy black oak stick was found in the corner of the laneway. It was heavy enough to cause death if used in a blow at a person's head. It was about 4 feet long, and had a very sharp point, and on the heavier end were stains that resembled marks of blood. When the stick was shown to the detective he examined it, and came to the conclusion that it was the instrument that caused death. He was positive that the stains upon the heavier end of the stick were from blood, although they were few and lightly marked. He believes that after committing the deed at the back door of the kitchen the murderer (and he is positive there was only one man engaged), after disposing of the body in the temporary grave, deliberately washed, as thoroughly as possible, the stick. This finished, he threw it in a fence corner, midway between where the murder was committed and where the body was buried.

The post-mortem examination went to show that death was caused by heavy blows, two or three in number, on the top of the head, smashing the skull. The medical men who made the post-mortem examination think the blows were given by a blunt instrument, or the injuries could have been made by the butt of a gun.

The inquest will be resumed today at 1 o'clock.

THE SUSPECTED BOY.

Galt, Ont., Aug. 19.—The prospects of solving the murder of Emma Orr are improving. Suspicion is now centered entirely upon James Allison, the hired boy. While yesterday three theories were seriously considered, today there is but one theory, and that is that James Allison killed Emma Orr, and that it was a lust murder. The boy's full name is James Alfred Allison. He was born within two miles of Glen Morris, on May 20, 1880, and is consequently 17 years and 3 months old. His father's name is Alexander Allison. He was born in Freeport 42 years ago. His mother's maiden name was Annie Elizabeth Hance. Her mother is dead, and her father, a respectable old man, is still living in Galt. There are four other children, James being the eldest. They live in a frame house on the banks of the river, a short distance from Main street. The father is a carter, and James worked with him until he got the job at Orr's in March last. This is the first time he ever worked out. His younger sister, Maggie, worked at Mrs. Orr's for a few weeks this summer. Allison's mother says that

that she never had any trouble with him, and that both Anthony Orr and Mrs. Orr said that he was the best boy that ever worked for them. He went to school very little, and his mother says he can neither read nor write. She says he can make some marks that look like his signature. Every eye was on Allison when Chief Ahearn brought him into the court room, but this did not seem to disturb the boy in the least. His head and face are a study. His low, retreating forehead and close-set eyes tell of a low intellect and actual cunning, while his large mouth and thick lips indicate determination and sensuality. He had only been in the hands of the police once before, and that was when he was 7 years of age and had a penchant for pears. He took a few that did not belong to him, but was let off by the magistrate. His father says he would get a little ugly when he licked him and that a scolding always did him more good than a licking. The

at the inquest was Anthony Orr's statement of how he shadowed Allison down in the field, and exclaiming: "Oh, my! Oh, my!" as though in great mental agony. The crown's theory is that he dug the grave in the swamp on Tuesday morning, when he went for the cows, and came back half an hour after the cattle arrived at the barn. It is thought that he hid the spade in the swamp the day before. Premising that Allison killed Mrs. Orr, it is still a question whether he committed the deed before or after going to Barrie's with the cow. It is all a question of time, and George Barrie's evidence at the inquest will be very important, showing when Allison arrived at his place, how long he stayed, his demeanor, and when he left. The crown authorities seem to favor the theory that he killed the woman before he left for Barrie's.

ALLISON ARRAIGNED FOR MURDER.

[Special to The Advertiser via G. N. W. Line.]

Galt, Ont., Aug. 19.—James Alfred Allison, the hired boy on Anthony Orr's farm, was formally arraigned before Police Magistrate Turnbull this morning, charged with having willfully murdered Mrs. Anthony Orr on the 9th inst. The prisoner was remanded until Monday, when he will be called for trial. Evidence is accumulating which points to Allison as being the perpetrator of the awful deed, and all other theories as to the murderer have been put aside.

CRICKET.

THE ASYLUM TEAM'S TOUR.

The Asylum cricket team left here on Monday morning for a short tour. It returned Tuesday night with honors even, the game with Clinton having been lost, and that with Guelph won. It was cold and rainy-looking when the Londoners arrived at Clinton on Monday, and the possibilities for a full day's cricket seemed meager. However, an early start was made, and the Asylum went to the wickets. Waller and England faced the bowling of McMurchie and Kennedy. The first wicket fell with a total of 7, Walker being run out—a most unfortunate occurrence for the visitors. George Sippi filled the vacancy, and England continued to bat with confidence. The second wicket fell with 22 runs up, Sippi being run out. Burnand, Flynn and Thurling only added 2 runs between them to the total, although Flynn batted for a considerable length of time, and enabled England to add to the score, which amounted to 43 before he was caught off McMurchie. England's performance on a somewhat bumpy wicket was extremely creditable and compiled without a change. Dr. Hobbs added 11, and A. B. Cox, by careful cricket, compiled 19, and the Asylum inning closed for 104, by no means a discreditable sum under the conditions. Clinton faced Burnand and England. Runs came slowly and the wickets fell quickly. Kennedy, McTaggart and McGowan, who all made 12 each, were the only batsmen to make any stand. Clinton was out for 69, leaving the Asylum in the lead by 35 runs. Both England and Burnand bowled in great style, the former taking five wickets for 32, and the latter four for 35. With this fair lead the Asylum went in for the second inning. A dry rot seemed to set in, and the whole team went out for the extraordinarily small sum of 21. Terry completely baffled his old friends, and took seven wickets for 10 runs, while McMurchie captured three for 6. Clinton again went in, and had small difficulty in knocking up the 57 runs required to win. Terry contributing 29 towards the total, in his usual brilliant style. After the game, which had ended so quickly and unexpectedly, the losers were entertained in the style which made a cricketing visit to Clinton a thing of delight. A drive over to Bayfield, a specially arranged dance, and several other entertainments not previously arranged completed the evening's amusement and then the visitors were driven back to Clinton. The sting of defeat had been nigh been washed away by the hospitality of the visitors. Score:

Early on Tuesday morning the Londoners left for Guelph. There again they batted first. Terry, who had returned to his old love for this occasion, played brilliant cricket for 46. Walker, who contributed 16 after careful batting, was the only other man to reach double figures, although Burnand hit far and wide for nine runs, which on his own ground with handy boundaries, would have been more than doubled. The inning closed for 90 runs. Guelph played steadily, and Shelton compiled 30 before he was out. With one wicket to fall, Guelph had only half a dozen runs to make to win, and it seemed as if the asylum might lose. However, the bowling talent rose to the occasion, and Guelph closed its inning for 87. England again bowled splendidly, taking five wickets for 28 runs. The Asylum went in again and compiled 77 runs. Walker played patiently for 35, while Mullins and Reid added 10 apiece by careful cricket. Burnand gave another exhibition of hard hitting, for which he gained nine runs. Guelph started its second inning, but there was no time to snatch the game out of the fire, and when stumps were drawn the Asylum was victorious by three runs on the first inning. Guelph made 31 for four wickets in the second. Score:

LONDON AT GUELPH.

London was in a good way to win at Guelph yesterday, when rain fell heavily. O'Brien was sent in to pitch, but proved ineffective, London making two runs off him in the first inning. Doty was then put in, and shut the Londons out in the second inning, although he was hit rather freely. In the third inning London had Cockman on second base, with no one out, when rain stopped the game. On the other hand, the Leafs were doing nothing with Crowe. Strowger was acting backstop. Subsequently an attempt was made to play an exhibition game, but rain spoiled it in the first inning.

TUESDAY'S GAME AT HAMILTON.

Hamilton Times: "Hamilton hit hard enough to win any game yesterday, and fielded well enough to prevent any other team from winning, but the Maple Leafs had all the luck and Hamilton won out by only an eyelash. Guelph seems to be Hamilton's meat, anyway, and it was much more interesting for all present to see a hard-fought battle and well-earned victory than a one-sided contest like that of last Saturday. Two or three good men make a wonderful difference in a ball team, and with the pitchers they now have, and Moore behind the bat, the Leafs have a team that is bound to win a fair percentage of games. Moore is a great strength to the team. Doty's work at London on Monday stamps him as a great pitcher, but Jordan's work in the box was wonderful. Twice he deliberately gave Phillips his base on balls, filling the bases both times, and then retired the side. Three times, in three successive innings, Jordan left three Hamilton runners on bases, striking out two men twice after the bases were full. It was no wonder Hamilton had a hard time in winning, and only managed to do so by costly errors of Murphy and McElroy. * * * The Leafs were retired in one, two, three order in the ninth, and Hamilton went in needing two runs to win. Dean started well with a single, Baker tried hard, but a high fly was the result, and Andrews gauged the first ball pitched to him, and shot it against the left field fence. Just here ocurred the 'dirtiest' ball of the season, and Boyle, previously supposed to be decent, was guilty of it. Dean had got around almost to third by the time McAndrews' ball reached the fence, and could easily have scored, but Boyle caught him and hung on for dear life, Dean having to drag the big fielder several feet. The interference was very deliberate, and right before Umpire Phelps' eyes. That official saw it, and gave Dean a walking ticket home. The Leafs kicked, but seemed to think that Boyle should have been presented with a gold medal. Their kick was ineffectual, and while they were wrangling McAndrews reached third, though his hit was good for only two bases. When play was resumed McGinnis got first on balls and Cochrane went out on a fly to Congaiton. One run was still needed. McCann sent a hot ground ball between third and short, which by playing very far out Boyle stopped, but McCann reached first base before the ball, and all was over. Such a yelling, cheering crowd as filed out of the grounds has not been seen at the park before this season."

TORONTO DEFEATS HAMILTON.

Hamilton, Ont Aug. 19.—About 1,500 people turned out at Dundurn Park yesterday to see the Toronto Eastern League team defeat the Hamiltons in a one-sided contest. McGinnis was hit hard at opportune times for the visitors, and the home team made their errors at the most critical points. The Hamiltons were unable to punish Staley's delivery, and only succeeded in slipping in one run in the ninth (when the latter let up some) on Phillips' three-bagger and McCann's sacrifice. Score by innings: R.H.E.

Hamilton .....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—1 4 5

BROKE HIS ARM WHILE PITCHING.

FLYS.

Seaforth ball team go to Blythe on the 26th of August, to play against Goderich.

A friendly game of ball was played at Bothwell on Saturday between the Highgate and Bothwell nines, resulting in favor of the latter by a score of 3 to 13. Only five innings were played on account of rain. A return match will be played in a few days. An accident occurred during the game in which W. Griffin received a broken leg. W. Landon also received a slight injury.

The New Yorks have played six extra inning games, of which one resulted in a tie, one victory, and four defeats.

The attendance at the Buffalo-Toronto game on Sunday was estimated at 5,000, the largest crowd Buffalo ever had at Sunday ball.

Joe Knight leads the Providence Greys in batting with .327; Drauby has .322, Cooney .304 and Braun .300. Weigand's second base fielding is down to .820.

A friendly game of ball was played on the Erie flats Monday between the St. Marys and the Askins, resulting in an easy victory for the latter by a score of 23 to 5. Batteries—For St. Marys, McLean and King; for Askins, Summers and Fortner.

Hamilton Spectator: The Hamilton baseball team is playing great ball these days. For that matter, the Guelphs and Londons are doing the same. The struggle for the supremacy is terrific, and the interest in the games is intense. No lover of baseball should miss the remaining games of the series.

Moore made a home run at Hamilton on Tuesday, with two men on bases.

With three men on bases at Hamilton on Tuesday, Jordan struck out Hoffner, Lauer and McDonald, those "so-called wonders."

Guelph earned four runs off Cochrane on Tuesday, and McElroy and Murphy presented the Hams with the game. That is great ball, Hamilton.

THE TURF.

MIX UP AT PORT HURON.

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 19.—The sport of the opening day at Hort Huron's race meeting was marred by an unfortunate accident in the third heat of the 2:22 pace. Five horses, sulkies and drivers were thrown in a heap on the track, and one driver had his thigh broken, while two others had their legs badly wrenched, but were able to continue in the race. There were thirteen horses in the race, and in this heat, while rounding the first turn, with nearly the whole field in a bunch, Shadeland Duval faltered, and Dot R., who was close back of him, ran into his sulkey. Kirkwood, Robert M. and Wheeling Boy were also piled up in the heap. When the wreck was cleared up it was found that Estep, driver of Dot R., had sustained a broken thigh, while Drivers Lewis and Lang had their legs wrenched. The sulkies were smashed, but none of the horses were injured, and all again started in the next heat. Summaries:

TRIGGER.

The Ontario government has extended the act prohibiting the sale of partridge and quail until Sept. 15, 1900. In 1893 the Legislature passed the act prohibiting the sale of these birds until 1897 for the purpose of putting an end to the indiscriminate slaughter of the feathery delicacies by pot-hunters and reckless sportsmen, and now the time has been extended for three years more to give the birds a chance to breed. The move is a good one, and will be appreciated by true sportsmen.

MUNYON DEMANDS AN INVESTIGATION.

He Asks the Citizens of London to Ascertain Whether Certain Testimonials of Alleged Cures Published Recently by a So-Called "Great Homeopathist," are Genuine or Whether These

TESTIMONIALS ARE FALSE.

The Public, for Their Own Protection Against Unscrupulous Men, Should Look Into the Matter Thoroughly and

SEE IF ANY DECEIT

HAS BEEN PRACTICED ON THE SICK AND SUFFERING OF THIS CITY.

ASK THE FOLLOWING PEOPLE

IF THEY WERE CURED OR IF THEY GAVE TESTIMONIALS TO THAT EFFECT.

SEE IF YOU CAN FIND

OTHERS WHOSE TESTIMONIALS HAVE BEEN PUBLISHED AS HAVING BEEN CURED.

MUNYON BELIEVES THE RESULT

OF SUCH AN INVESTIGATION WILL SIMPLY ASTONISH THE PEOPLE OF LONDON.

THE VERDICT OF THE PUBLIC.

On Saturday, July 31, there was published in The Advertiser, Free Press and News, of London, a number of testimonials which were alleged to have been given by people who were cured of some diseases by the so-called "great homeopathist" who is doing considerable advertising in the London newspapers.

Among these testimonials was one claimed to have been given by Mrs. C. W. Parker, 562 Richmond street. In this testimonial it was stated that she had been relieved by the use of a certain Dyspepsia Cure, and that she felt well ever since using the same. Go and see Mrs. Parker, and ask her whether she ever used this Dyspepsia Cure; ask her if she was relieved, and let her tell her story to you. If she gave this testimonial, then the remedies which she took should receive the indorsement of the public. If she says she did not give this testimonial, then the public of London should condemn such practices as the publishing of false testimonials.

Another testimonial published on that date was that of Mr. Charles Carpenter, of 708 King street, in which it was claimed that after using the Kidney Cure of this "great homeopathist" he was much benefited, and all of his neighbors were astonished beyond measure at the improvement in his case. He has since been taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Go and see Mr. Carpenter. Ask him whether he received any benefit from the use of this remedy. Ask him if he suffered with kidney disease, or whether it was not rheumatism that was his affliction. Get the facts from Mr. Carpenter, and if this remedy benefited or cured him, then it should have the indorsement of the public. If it did not do as was stated in that testimonial, then the people of London should condemn such misstatements.

Another testimonial published in the papers on that date was that of Mrs. Elizabeth Lemage, 386 South street. It was claimed in this testimonial that she was cured of severe rheumatic pains that had troubled her for years. Go and see Mrs. Lemage; ask her if she ever made such statements as were published in these advertisements; ask her if she has been cured of her rheumatic pains; ask her if this alleged Rheumatism Cure did her any good whatever. If it did, then that remedy should have the indorsement of the citizens of London. If it did not, such published statements should have their condemnation.

Another testimonial published on that date was that of Mrs. E. Tegg, 701 Dundas street. In this testimonial it was claimed that she had been a constant sufferer from rheumatism; that she had used the Rheumatism Cure of the so-called "great homeopathist," and she could say she had obtained rest and genuine sleep for the first time in many months. Go and see if you can find a Mrs. Tegg at 701 Dundas street. If you do not, then inquire at 697 Dundas. Ask Mrs. Tegg, at this address, if she ever gave this testimonial; ask her if she is able to sleep peacefully for the first time in months. If she says that she can, and that the Rheumatism Cure relieved her pain and agony, then this remedy should have the indorsement of the people of London. If she did not give this testimonial, and if she was not benefited, then the people should know how to treat such statements.

Another testimonial published on that date was that of Miss M. Edwards, of 86 King street. In this testimonial it was claimed that the Rheumatism Cure of the so-called "great homeopathist" gave her relief after a few doses, and that she would not now be without the remedy for any money. Go see Miss Edwards, and if you can find any such person in that locality, ask her if she gave this testimonial. If she gave such a testimonial as this, and has been benefited as reported, then the remedy should have the indorsement of the London people. If you find that no such person in that locality, and that no such testimonial was given, then you will know how to treat statements of this kind.

Another testimonial that was published on that date was that of Mr. C. Warner, of 493 Talbot street. In this testimonial it was claimed that one vial of the Dyspepsia Cure of the so-called "great homeopathist" had done more for Mr. Warner than ten years of doctoring, etc. Go and see Mr. Warner, if you can find him at this address, and ask him if he ever gave such a testimonial as this, or if he ever took the Dyspepsia Cure. If you find him, and if he did give such a testimonial, then this Dyspepsia Cure must be a good thing, and should have the indorsement of all the people in London. If, however, you should find that the house at 493 Talbot street has been vacant for over two years, and that no such party as Mr. Warner is known in that locality, then you will come to the conclusion that the testimonial is not genuine, and that statements of this kind should be condemned by all reputable citizens.

Another testimonial published on that date was that of Mr. James Lockie, of 64 York street. In this testimonial it was claimed that the Rheumatism Cure of the so-called "great homeopathist" was indeed a marvelous medicine; that it had enabled Mr. Lockie to walk after having been laid up for over a week with inflammatory rheumatism. Go and see Mr. Lockie and have him verify the statements made in this testimonial. If he does, then there can be no doubt in the minds of those who have read it that the medicine is a good thing, and should receive the indorsement of the citizens of London. If, however, you should find that the house at 64 York street is vacant and no such man is known as Mr. Lockie, then it would seem to be time to take the statements as published by the "great homeopathist" with a grain of salt.

Another testimonial published on that date was that of Mrs. Farr, 209 Horton street. In this testimonial it was claimed that Mrs. Farr had found a world of good in the Neuralgia Cure of the so-called "great homeopathist." Go and see Mrs. Farr, and if she did receive the benefit claimed in this testimonial, then the remedy used by her should receive the indorsement of the London people. If, however, upon calling at 209 Horton street, you should find no such person was known there, then it would seem to indicate that not much reliance is to be placed in testimonials published by this concern.

Another testimonial published on that date was that of Miss Mary Gorman, 54 Rectory street. In this testimonial it was claimed that she had been a subject to sleeplessness and nervous prostration; that her memory was affected, and she was unable to give attention to her work; that she used the remedies of the so-called "great homeopathist," and was astonished at the improvement that took place. Go and see Miss Gorman, and if you find all this is a fact, then the remedies used by her should have the indorsement of the London people. If, however, upon visiting that neighborhood, you find there is no such address as 54 Rectory street, then, of course, you will make up your mind that that statement is not to be relied upon.

Another testimonial published on that date was that of Ben Knobbs, 19 William street. In this testimonial it was claimed that Mr. Knobbs had suffered with an acute form of dyspepsia for years, had tried many remedies, but found the new system of the so-called "great homeopathist" was superior to them all, and after a thorough trial of the Dyspepsia Cure his appetite was better, the distress after eating had ceased, and Mr. Knobbs was enjoying splendid health. Go see Mr. Knobbs, and ask him in regard to his dyspepsia. If you find that he is now enjoying splendid health as a result of having used this wonderful remedy, then there can be no doubt in your mind that this Dyspepsia Cure should have the free indorsement of all sufferers from that disease. If, however, you should visit the locality named, and find there is no such address as 19 William street, then, of course, you can have little faith in the testimonial.

Prof. Munyon only desires that an investigation be made regarding the testimonials published by the so-called "great homeopathist." If the public find them truthful, then the remedies of this concern should receive the best possible indorsement from the people of that city; but if, on the other hand, they should find that the testimonials are not genuine, that, in many cases, they are made out of "whole cloth," and no reliance can be placed upon the statements contained in them, then, of course, the people who put forth such testimonials should not retain the confidence of the people of London.

MUNYON AGAIN CAUTIONS THE PUBLIC:

Beware of imitators who are copying our advertisements, appropriating our methods and following the plan adopted by us when we introduced our remedies to the people of Ontario a year ago. You can easily distinguish between the original and the imitation. The Munyon Homeopathic Remedies are known the world over (not in London, Ontario, only). United States Headquarters, Philadelphia, Pa., with branches in all the principal cities. Canadian headquarters, Toronto, with branch at Montreal, and English headquarters, London. Prof. Munyon, founder of the new school of Homeopathy, does not desire that the public should be imposed upon.

SHINGLE COMBINE.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 19.—Representatives of all the large shingle mills on Puget Sound met here in secret session to form a combine for the purpose of maintaining prices. The meeting was for the purpose of establishing a uniform scale of prices. Star shingles were set at $1 20 to $1 35; clears at $1 40 to $1 45, with the usual difference on lower grades. An advance of $1 a thousand was made on cedar and spruce siding, and all other grades of rough and dressed lumber were held at the prevailing scale of the larger mills.

A BOY SAW IT ALL.

Belleville, Ontario: After the grand lodge degree (I. O. O. F.) had been exemplified, Grand Master White was astonished to see a boy sitting wide-eyed and open-mouthed in the gallery. He had apparently entered while the open meeting was in progress and had succeeded in remaining until the secret work was taken up. The boy's name has not been ascertained, but a committee was at once formed to inquire into the circumstances.

Smiles and Tears . . . . .

Most women enjoy weeping and all women show pleasure in smiling. Witness the thousands who pay large amounts to listen to Madame Albani, who moves them to tears with "Home, Sweet Home." And thus they weep and pay for it.

There are thousands who have been led to smile and rejoice while reducing their expenses by the use of "Sweet Home Soap." And thus they smile and economize by it.

With the song they pay and weep. With the soap they save and smile.

"Sweet Home Soap" saves labor, saves temper, saves money and makes home the "Sweet Home" of the song.

Don't be satisfied with any other. Use it according to directions and you will find there is none other "just as good," and there is only one "Sweet Home Soap."

Hedged in at Dyea.

Danger Threatens Prospectors in Mountain Passes.

Men, Women and Children Plunge Madly Onward in Quest of Gold.

Young Klondiker Who Stole Bacon Shot to Death.

He Was Starving in Chilkoot Pass — Three Funerals at Dyea in One Day.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 19.—The latest news from Dyea and Skaguaway comes from Harry Hunt, one of the Chronicle's men in the north. Under date of Skaguaway Bay, Aug. 7, he says:

"I have decided to give up the idea of the Chilkoot Pass and go by White's, as it will take me forty days to get my stuff over the Dyea route, and the party I am with has four burros, and I can go with it over this route. The price tonight over the Chilkoot Pass to Lake Linderman is 35 cents a pound. At the rate it has increased of late, it will be 50 cents before a week, and packers hard to get at that. For one to do his own packing is very risky, as the creek has to be crossed so often. I advise all to stay until spring, for accidents occur daily. The San Francisco boys were left on a log last night, their boat having been lost. The men were rescued by Indians. Yet there are more people coming hourly. Four men rowed up from Juneau, a distance of 100 miles, and crowds are coming as fast and as thick as possible by all the regular lines. What the result will be I dare not think."

Writing from Juneau under date of Aug. 4 Hunt says:

TRAIL FROM DYEA BLOCKED.

"The trail from Dyea to the end of canoe navigation on the creek is practically blocked. Above that point are more packers, and they handle goods a little faster than they can be transported to that point.

"Quite a number of people, not understanding exactly what the Chilkoot Pass really is, had boats built in Seattle and other places to take apart for transportation. Some of these you will see floating around in the bay or piled up around the camp, while others are putting their boats together to travel a mile or so up the creek. There the boats are abandoned or sold for what they will bring. It is possible to pick up entire outfits much cheaper here than what they can be purchased for in the States.

"One has to be on the ground to realize just what this stampede means. Men, women, and even children are on the trail, and how it will end I cannot tell. I expect to send this out by a man from Nanaimo, who is returning on the George W. Elder, having given up the game, a thing which I believe many others will do."

THREE FUNERALS IN A DAY.

George L. Fish, the well known grocer, is back from Alaska. He said:

"The day I left Dyea there were three funerals. There were those of young men who had attempted to cross Dyea River. The last funeral was that of a young man who had reached the summit of Chilkoot Pass. He was entirely out of provisions, and, goaded to desperation by starvation, he stole a side of bacon. He was detected by two of the party from whose outfit he stole, and was shot to death. An inquest was held and the verdict was justifiable homicide.

STARVATION AND DEATH.

"Starvation and death will stalk among the travelers this winter. There are many lawless adventurers in the little towns on the bleak coast; men and women of a stripe who will not hesitate at the commission of any crime when money and food become scarce.

"I was ashore for nearly three days. People who had arrived at Dyea two weeks before had been unable to move owing to lack of transportation. There were 1,500 people between Dyea and the summit, and this included many women. There were about 3,500 from Skaguaway road to Dawson through White Pass and down to Lake Bennett. It is impossible to get through the pass, and there is a swamp of seven or eight miles to cross before reaching Lake Bennett."

He said few of the prospectors had the courage to advance, and many had no money to return.

LYNCH LAW.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 18.—Lynch law has begun on the Alaskan side of the line, where an individual has been shot dead for stealing provisions.

Many British Columbia prospectors are returning from the Klondike, intending to wait until spring renders residence easier. Meanwhile, fatalities are multiplying, and a second well-known Nanaimo man has now met his death by accident while in quest of Yukon gold. He was Thomas Wall, and with his pack horse was drowned while attempting to cross the raging torrent of the Dyea.

EDWARD THORP'S GREAT LUCK.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 19.—The steamer Alki arrived yesterday morning from Dyea, Alaska. Willis Thorp was handed a letter by a man who came down on the Alki from Dyea. It was written by Edward Thorp, and came overland, saying that he had cleaned up $130,000 in the Klondike in eight weeks, and was coming home on the steamer Portland, which is due in Seattle on Aug. 26. Thorp left Seattle one year ago, having gone north with a drove of cattle.

Wrestles With Disease

A New and Perfect Medicine Which Takes Hold of Heart Disease and Defeats It.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are daily proving themselves to be the best medicine for all heart and nerve troubles. Testimony upon testimony pours in as to their good effects in diseases of the heart and nerves.

Here is what Mrs. W. R. Garner, London, Ont., has to say about them: "My mother has been suffering for four years with fluttering of the heart and sleeplessness, together with other symptoms of heart and nerve troubles. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I procured from Mr. W. T. Strong, our well-known druggist, have done her a great deal of good, removing the fluttering of the heart and restoring restful sleep and steady nerves. They are undoubtedly a splendid remedy for heart troubles, sleeplessness, nervousness, etc., and as such I highly recommend them."

HAYCOCK IN THE AIR.

It Just Rose Up, Without Any Help, and Sailed Away a Half Mile.

Corfu, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Several residents of this village witnessed a phenomenon which caused much wonderment. Mrs. Smith, wife of Dr. Smith, was looking towards the east from a window of her home on Alleghany street. Central Towerman Reynolds was looking north from the windows of his signal tower, just east of the Alleghany street crossing. Mrs. Smith and Towerman Reynolds were about an eighth of a mile apart, but their gazes were carelessly fixed upon the same point, a meadow, which is a part of the Safford place, and is situated directly east of the Smith house.

It was perfectly still. There wasn't enough air stirring to move leaves on the trees. The grass in the meadow had recently been cut and the lot was dotted with haycocks. Suddenly the astonished beholders saw one of these cocks raised bodily and carried straight upward for a distance of over 100 feet. Then it sailed off to the north over the business portion of the village, continuing at over a height of 100 feet above the ground, and finally coming to terra firma again near Evergreen Hill Cemetery, fully half a mile from the point where it commenced its aerial trip. Only a few spears of grass dropped from the cock as it flew through the air, and it retained its conical form throughout its dizzy trip. A number of people saw it as it sailed over the business section. No wind was blowing at the time.

THE NEW TARIFF.

Business Methods Now Prevail at Customs Headquarters.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—The Pharmaceutical Journal, of this city, for August pays the following tribute to the new Canadian tariff: "It is quite remarkable to note the difference in the working of the new tariff. The government has succeeded in making matters so clear for the major part that the most dense collector of customs in the Dominion has a fair chance of enforcing the law as parliament designed and intended. We do not hear from one end of the country to the other the plaint of lack of uniformity, the bane of Canadian importers in the past. When differences do arise as to classification or interpretation, importers find the departmental officers ready and willing to go into details and consider arguments offered in a business-like way. Business methods appear to have been adopted, and much greater satisfaction is current. The importers of Canada, as a class, were abominably treated by the last administration. There existed no real recourse for those who suffered rude injustice at the hands of the department and its head. It is pleasing to take an early opportunity of acknowledging the fact of a gratifying, and, to commerce, a beneficial change, as is already observable. We congratulate the energetic ministers of finance, trade and commerce and customs upon what they have already accomplished, and at the same time would urge them to further endeavor in the direction of improved organization."

THAMESFORD ODDFELLOWS

Give a Good Reception to Grand Master Young.

Thamesford, Aug. 19.—The Oddfellows held a reception to Bro. J. A. Young, the newly-elected grand master of the grand lodge of Oddfellows, on his return from grand lodge on Saturday night. He was met at the station by several of the brethren, and escorted to his residence, led by the Oddfellows' band of Ingersoll, which had been engaged for the occasion. The chair was occupied by Dr. McWilliam, and speeches of congratulation were made by prominent Oddfellows of the place. Refreshments were served during the evening, and a pleasant fraternal time was spent generally.

Bro. J. A. Young, grand master, was born in Pennfield, N. B., Feb. 8, 1851, and in 1856, with his parents, removed to Whiterall, then Upper Canada, now Ontario, where he received his early education. For four years he taught school at Altona, and in 1875 was appointed head master of the Fergus central schools, which position he held until 1882, when he went to the West Indies, where he remained for a year or more. In June, 1876, he joined Fergus Lodge, No. 75, and at once took an active interest in the order. He soon passed the chairs, and was honored by being sent for several years as its representative to the grand lodge. He is a member of the Encampment and Rebekah branches, and also a chevalier in the Patriarchs Militant. His experience in the West Indies caused Bro. Young to write a series of articles on the color question, which was then a live question before the order. His articles were published in the Dominion Oddfellow, and extensively copied into the other papers of the order.

Bro. Young has ever been held in the highest esteem by all with whom he has associated, and is at present engaged in the general store business at Thamesford, where by energy and tact he has accumulated a fine property. Bro. Young was one of the charter members of Thamesford Lodge, No. 259, and has ever since been one of its hardest workers. The lodge at present has most elegantly fitted rooms over Bro. Young's large store.

SAVE THE LITTLE ONES.

Avoid Nauseous Drugs, Paregorics and Cordials—The Basis of Which are Calomel and Mercury, and by Improvident Use

ENDANGER LIFE

Galley's Simplified System of Homeopathy is Particularly Adapted to the More

Humane Treatment of Children

By the Use of His Little Pellets Disease in Children is Quickly Conquered—The System Strengthened and Built Up Instead of Being Destroyed.

Under the heading, "Death Visits Many Homes," the London News, in its issue of Aug. 16, has the following: "Death has been busy in London during the last few days, particularly among infants and old persons. Mr. and Mrs. O. Labelle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ivey and Mr. and Mrs. George Bawden will have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in the loss of an infant child sustained by each family." * * *

If there is one thing more than another for which Galley's Humane System of Treatment is particularly adapted it is in the treatment of the little ones. The wonder is not that so many children die, but that so many survive the heavy doses of calomel and other pernicious drugs. Another reprehensible custom is to pour down nauseous drugs, such as paregoric, cordials, or some other decoction every time the child is fretful or crying, by which it becomes habituated to the use of opium, and makes it necessary to increase the dose in order to produce the same effects. By imprudent acts of parents in this way both the health and life of the child are endangered. Therefore, those who wish to avoid these evils should at once consult Galley's Specialists, who will gladly explain the nature and principle of Galley's New System of Treatment as applied to the little ones. Galley's Improved System of Treatment in this connection has been satisfactory in the highest degree, and appeals to every mother in the land. We are forced to admit that parents themselves are in a great measure the arbiters of their children's fate, and a heavy responsibility attaches to those who carelessly undertake such an important trust. The grand principle underlying Galley's New System of Treatment is that human life was not intended to be extinguished at its very dawn.

HARVEST HANDS GOING WEST.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—The Harvesters' Excursion to Manitoba and the Northwest began at noon yesterday, when several trains were sent out at intervals of half an hour apart. It is thought nearly 4,000 men will be leaving Ontario for the harvest fields during the next few days. Laborers to the number of 3,500 left yesterday morning by the C. P. R. via North Bay. This is the largest army of men that ever left here for that purpose.

JOHN CAMERON, President and Manag. Dir.

God's in His heaven,
All's right with the world.
—Browning.

London, Thursday, Aug. 19, 1897.

The deadly toadstool gets in its work every summer. Do you know a mushroom when you see it?

Lord Lister, now in attendance at the great meeting of scientists in Toronto, still practices his profession as a family doctor. Though he is a peer he is not stuck up.

The many friends of Mr. Andrew Pattullo, M. P. P. for North Oxford, will regret to hear that he lies ill with typhoid fever at Oakville, Ont., whither he had gone to visit the father of the late Mrs. Pattullo.

Mr. W. A. Hastings, vice-president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, says that "the preferential tariff has secured a decided preference for Canadian goods in the British markets." That is what the new tariff was intended to do.

Toronto and Montreal capitalists, after a keen competition with a United States syndicate, have secured the franchise for the construction and operation of an electric railway in Kingston, Jamaica. Canada is branching out in every direction.

Are the United States people who are laboring with might and main to convince their readers that Canada's management of the Klondike gold region is a huge mistake so very disinterested? Surely Canada can do with her own what seemeth best to her.

Hon. Mr. Blair, Dominion minister of railways and canals, says that he does not believe that the section in the United States tariff imposing a discriminating duty of 10 per cent. affects Canadian railways; but if it does it will be time enough to think of action on our part when it is so decided.

The weather must be very hot in Quebec, and a mad dog must have bitten the editor of the Courier du Canada, the organ of the Conservatives It denounces Sir Wilfrid Laurier as a "liar and traitor," and beseeches its political friends to show him no honor when he comes home from his triumphal visit to the motherland.

Prof. Wm. Saunders has been appointed by the Dominion Government to accompany the members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science on their trip over the C. P. R. to the Pacific coast. Dr. Saunders is well qualified to act as guide, philosopher, and friend, and will no doubt place Canada's wonderful resources in an attractive form before the visiting savants.

The following stinging letter appears in the columns of the Montreal Star (Conservative):

"My attention has been called to the following paragraph clipped from your issue of Friday, July 23 last:

"Le Monde says that Mr. Honore Beaugrand, late of the Patrie, has written a letter to a friend here, condemning in vigorous terms Sir Wilfrid Laurier's flopping over into the arms of the English. 'He was too much English and not enough French. The misfortune of the Liberal party is of always having men of deplorable weakness as its leaders.'

"The statement is a falsehood, and I have neither written to a friend, nor have I ever expressed such sentiments about Mr. Laurier. The contrary would come nearer the truth. I have quitted politics to recuperate my shattered health, and I might beg to be left alone while engaged in such an innocent pursuit."

What will be the next falsehood to get legs from the opposition traducers?

Restricting Child Immigration.

British professional philanthropists have been complaining to Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, that the Ontario law restricting child immigration into the province was far too strict. The complaint was duly submitted to Premier Hardy, who replied that the regulations of his government cannot be relaxed, as they are in the interests of the people of Ontario. In future, the premier informed the complainants, the work will have to be carefully conducted and wisdom exercised as to the class of children brought into the province. The importance of supervision is also emphasized, and each benevolent organization engaged in the work will be expected to protect the interests of their wards, as well as to prevent them from becoming a public burden here.

In our opinion child immigration cannot have too many restrictions placed upon it. This country has plenty of waifs and strays of its own to provide for.

Is Another Indian Mutiny at Hand?

This question has been seriously suggested in consequence of the recent alarming outbreaks on the northwest borders of the great Indian Empire. The best answer that we have seen is contained in an article by E. Washburn Hopkins, professor of Sanscrit in Yale University, who is well qualified to discuss the subject, not only because of his researches as a student, but in consequence of his having spent the winter of 1896-97 in Bombay, at the time when native opposition to the measures for the suppression of the bubonic plague was most virulent. Prof. Hopkins deals first with the plague itself. At no time, in his opinion, was it an intractable disease; that its rapid spread last winter was due mainly to indifference and neglect on the part of the Bombay municipal authorities, and, finally, that the tardy institution of radical measures by Lord Sandhurst, governor of the presidency, sufficed at once to check the epidemic, and within a reasonable period to bring it to its close. The political lesson of the pestilence is, Prof. Hopkins thinks, that the government from the outset of the epidemic should have assumed the unbending attitude toward the prejudices of the Sunni Mohammedans, which it eventually took. The real reason for the commissioner's failure to carry out the indispensable plan of segregation ultimately followed was his alarm at the determined opposition of the natives. When their representatives, especially those of the Mohammedans, insisted that the populace would resist segregation by force, the commissioner yielded the point, and the whole wretched business of the winter followed. In March, of this year, on the other hand, Lord Sandhurst ousted the local authorities, and said to them firmly: "Let there be no talk of resistance, for as a great steamer cuts through the water, so surely will government cut through every obstacle." The result was that, although a few riots took place, a show of force dissipated the malcontents, and we are assured by Prof. Hopkins that in all the "effervescence of seditious talk there was not one solid particle of danger; the supposed volcano turned out to be a harmless geyser." Even this metaphor is pronounced too strong. Prof. Hopkins would rather say that the fanatical violence with which the municipality of Bombay had tried at first to terrorize British officials "proved to be but a nettle in a strong hand."

Coming, as this testimony does, from a disinterested authority, it is worthy of more than passing comment. But since it was given, we have had the disturbances in the presidency of Bengal, and the fighting against British authority in the foothills of the Himalayas, and on the frontier of Afghanistan. What is the origin of these outbreaks? Some of our telegrams assert that the root cause is the anti-British teachings of the native press, which persistently misrepresented the objects of the rigid efforts made to curtail the ravages of the plague. Others have told us that the ameer of Afghanistan has been deliberately stirring up disaffection among his Indian co-religionists towards Britain. Another explanation is that the Turkish sultan, anxious to divert attention from his own designs in Thessaly, has been secretly urging Mohammedans in India to set on foot a "holy war" in India. But both these potentates have solemnly asserted that these reports are untrue, and the ameer is stated to have ordered that any of his subjects found conspiring to cause trouble on the borders of India shall be severely punished.

Prof. Hopkins holds that none of the recent incidents, troublesome enough in themselves, can shake the conviction that a general uprising is improbable The essential fact, not to be lost sight of, he tells us, is that the India of 1897 is not the India of 40 years ago. Then there was silence and murder; now there is bluster and obedience. In our day seditious talk is uttered chiefly by that most harmless of native, the Bengali Baboo. Since 1857 a new generation of Mohammedans has come upon the stage. Forty years ago the Mussulman still felt himself superior to the Hindu and able to attempt a coup d'etat. Now he has no political influence; the intelligent Hindu has outstripped the Mussulman. The former is rich and holds office; the latter is poor and has no political standing. Prof. Hopkins is confident that the Hindu, on his part, will never revolt; he is too much afraid of his own countrymen, and is very glad to stand under the Sirkar's umbrella. This is probably a correct estimate. We do not lose sight of the fact that the tribes causing trouble are on the borders of India, and that they have either been recently brought under the control of Great Britain, or are yet wholly or in part outside the pale of her Majesty's sway. Rebellion has generally preceded complete conquest in the east.

An Important Departure.

At the sale of timber limits in Northwestern Ontario yesterday, the Provincial Government included in the terms governing the sale the stipulation that all the timber cut must be manufactured in the province. This new move will be popular with all classes. It is better that the timber should be cut and dressed in Ontario by the workmen of this province rather than floated over to United States sawmills in logs, to be prepared for use by United States workers. The log-rafting traffic, indeed, is a constant menace to the ever-increasing navigation on our great lakes.

Canada Now Much Favored.

A Winnipeg dispatch announces that a delegation of Kansas farmers are now in Manitoba for the purpose of reporting on the province as a place of settlement for themselves and their neighbors. They have been sent by an association of agriculturists, who have reached the conclusion that under the new order of things in Canada this country affords a better opportunity to make a living than Kansas. From Holland, also, comes the information that the immigration of farmers to Canada is looked upon with favor. In that model agricultural country they have a society for promoting emigration, which, in its report for this year, speaks very highly of the Dominion as a place for settlement. It says:

"Under the circumstances the directors of the Society for Promoting Emigration are prepared to manage and direct the emigration and settlement in Canada of such farmers as are able to go there with their own means. In the course of the current year everything can be prepared, and in April, 1898, the departure would take place."

The class of immigration here spoken of—farmers with means to take up our vacant lands—is the very best that could be promoted, and we have no doubt that the Canadian government will do everything in its power to secure as many of these hardy sons of the soil for settlement in our Canadian Northwest as is possible.

The indications are that from now onward Canada's vacant lands and Canada's mineral resources will move ever-increasing numbers of men of money and men of muscle to seek within our borders opportunities for investment and for making a living. The outlook is bright.

CANADA IS BROADENING.

"Kit," in Mail and Empire.

You'd have been proud of Mr. Laurier. He looked so handsome and courtly and is such a kind man, interested in the most humble Canadian over here. I daresay I shouldn't be writing all sorts of lovely things about him in a Conservative paper, but it's only a woman's gabble, and women are not supposed to know anything about politics or have "party" feelings. I tell you these same party feelings have been largely bridged over. Our Dominion is growing too big for violent splits. Dignified partyism is all right, but we've done, I hope, with the petty, peevish, dirty little party politics that only keep a country down. We are broadening to greater issues, thank God. To see your own beloved Canada, Maple Leaf, so pre-eminent here, heading all the colonies, most honored of them all, would have joyed your heart. It was all great.

THE BATHS OF MARYLEBONE.

In some respects the civilization of Europe is in advance of ours in Canada. The public baths and laundries for the poor in large cities both of the continent and of Great Britain are an illustration

Not long since there were opened amid great rejoicing in the Marylebone district of London perhaps the most complete public baths in the world. They are not free. A charge of from 1 to 3 cents is made for their use, it being rightly considered that a person who is civilized enough to want to pay for it. Thus, too, the stigma of charity is taken away from the enterprise.

The baths are built and controlled by the municipal authorities. Four swimming pools and 101 private baths are in the cluster of buildings. The public school children revel in the luxury of vapor baths, shower, plunge and swim. In one of the buildings a swim, a shower bath and soap and towels can all be had for 2 cents. In the winter the largest swimming pool is floored over and the space converted into a gymnasium.

With the baths is connected a laundry containing modern machinery and conveniences for renovating linen quickly and thoroughly. This is for women of the poor classes who have no facility for washing clothes clean at home.

The British Admiralty has ordered the trial by court martial of two of the prisoners on board the British battleship Royal Sovereign, which was about to sail for a three years' service with the Mediterranean squadron, so that the whole trouble on board that ship can be aired.

COMPANIONS OF THE FOREST.

Supreme Court Chooses Officers — Toronto the Next Meeting Place.

Sarnia, Aug. 18.—Yesterday's session of the supreme court of the Companions of the Forest was devoted almost exclusively to the amending of the general laws of the order.

The election of officers resulted as follows: High chief companion, J. Wills, of Montreal; deputy H. C. C., Mrs. Giblin, of Toronto; high marshal, Mrs. Hamilton, Sarnia; high guard, Miss Reeves, of Brantford; high sentry, Miss McMillan, London. It was decided to make active efforts to increase organization and also develop the insurance branch under the general laws of the A. O. F. Next place of meeting Toronto, two years hence. Session adjourned.

THE RAILWAYS.

Special Fares to Toronto Approved—A New President.

Special fares have been approved by the managers of the Joint Traffic Association to the Victoria Exposition and Industrial Fair at Toronto, Ont., Aug. 30 to Sept. 11.

Samuel R. Galloway has been elected president of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway, to succeed the late D. W. Caldwell. The new president is well-known in railroad circles throughout Canada and the United States.

The lengthening of the runs on the Grand Trunk system for the train crews is not meeting with the approval of the men, the chief objection being the strain on their nerves, especially those of the engineers and firemen from the constant shaking up they get from traveling over the rails.

THE JOHN EATON COMPANY.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—Suits were entered yesterday by the Bank of Toronto against six of the insurance companies which held policies on the stock of the John Eaton Company. Each company has been sued separately.

UNIVERSITY HONORS.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—A special convocation of the University of Toronto will be held this week, when the degree of L.L.D. (hororis causa) will be conferred on the Right Hon. Lord Lister, Right Hon. Lord Kelvin, Right Hon. Lord Rayleigh, Sir John Evans, Wolcott Gibbs, Esq., Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Arthur S. Hardy. The proceedings will be held in the Pavilion.

A BRAVE BOY.

Hamilton, Aug. 19.—The Times says: The many friends of Master Frankie Bishop, of Locke street, will be pleased to hear of an heroic act performed by him while on his holidays at Portneuf, Quebec. While he and his cousin were playing on a bank of the lake the latter fell into the water, which was unusually deep. Frankie, without hesitation, plunged in and saved the lad from drowning. Such an act on the part of a child is worthy the highest praise.

BIG PRICES FOR CATTLE.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 19.—A special dispatch from Omaha, Neb., is interesting to Canadian cattle men: "The demand for stockers and feeders in Nebraska has become so heavy since the new corn crop was assured that prices for that class of cattle have reached unheard of amounts. The yards here are besieged daily by cattle buyers from Nebraska and Iowa. More than 100 men are here for this purpose. In addition to the hundreds of cars of Texas steers, being received here daily to be resold as feeders, Canadian cattle are coming in. For the first time in the state's history feeders are being sent west from the extreme east. A train load from Buffalo cost $4 10 per 100 and sell here for $5 15. These are stiff prices for stockers and feeders, but Iowa and Nebraska men who have thousands of bushels of corn in sight and hundreds of tons of hay, are ready to pay it."

Liver Troubles.

Dr. Radway & Co., New York:

Dear Sirs: I have been sick for nearly two years and have been doctoring with some of the most expert doctors of the United States. I have been bathing and drinking hot water at the Hot Springs, Ark., but it seemed everything failed to do me good. After I saw your advertisement I thought I would try your Pills, and have nearly used two boxes; been taking two at bedtime and one after breakfast, and they have done me more good than anything else I have used. My trouble has been with the liver. My skin and eyes were all yellow; I had sleepy, drowsy feelings; felt like a drunken man; pain right above the navel, like as if it was bile on top of the stomach. My bowels were very costive. My mouth and tongue sore most of the time. Appetite fair, but food would not digest, but settle heavy on my stomach, and some few mouthfuls of food come up again. I could only eat light food that digests easily. Please send "Book of Advice." Respectfully, BEN ZAUGG,
Hot Springs, Ark.

STRUGGLING "SHORTS."

Wild Scenes Witnessed in the Chicago Grain Pit,

Chicago, Aug. 19.—September wheat closed at 88½c yesterday, the highest point it has reached since 1891, and an advance of a full 4¾c since Tuesday. The closing was a scene long to be remembered, the pit in the last few minutes of trading became a struggling, shouting mass of excited speculators, trying frantically to buy. There was literally no wheat for sale, and the efforts of the shorts fairly took the market off its feet, September jumping nearly a cent in the last minute.

December showed a still more radical advance, and for a time sold on even terms with the nearer futures. At the close 88⅜c was bid, or 5¾c above the closing figures of Tuesday.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

A Lady Cured After Seventeen Years Affliction With Disorders Peculiar to Her Sex by Dodd's Kidney Pills —Other Unfortunates Can Be Cured as Well as She.

Toronto, Aug. 16.—The publication of the letter of Mrs. Reany, of Ashland, Wis., concerning her cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills after seventeen years of sickness, has awakened widespread interest amongst the women of Canada. It is truly marvelous that a woman afflicted as long as she was, who had tried all the remedies within her reach and all the doctors could do for her, should be cured by so simple and easily accessible a remedy as these pills. What they did for her they will do for all other women suffering from diseases peculiar to their sex.

Mary McGraw's Case

The Jury Returned a Non-Committal Verdict.

According to the Post-Mortem Death Resulted From Strangulation.

The Woman Remanded for Examination by the Magistrate.

The adjourned inquest into the circumstances surrounding the death of the infant daughter of Mary McGraw was held last night. It will be remembered that the body of the babe was found in the girl's trunk in her bedroom on Sunday morning, Aug. 1, with a tape tied round its neck, at the house of Mr. Richard Eckert, Rectory street, where the girl had been employed for three weeks as a domestic.

The testimony of Mr. and Mrs. Eckert, and Mrs. J. B. Murphy was taken two weeks ago, and the only evidence given last night was the post-mortem statement of Dr. J. H. Gardiner.

Dr. Gardiner, on being called to the stand, told of having been called to Mrs. Eckert's house on Saturday, July 31, at 1 o'clock, but, as the case did not seem to be serious, he did not go until 2:30. He described the unnatural condition in which he found the woman, the result of not being medically attended. There was abundant evidence of what had happened, but the woman denied all knowledge of the whereabouts of the child's body. She finally made an admission somewhat contradictory concerning it, but a search revealed no trace of it. The girl was removed to the hospital, and on Sunday, the doctor was informed of the discovery of the remains. The doctor described it, and the string of muslin around its neck. He made a long statement of the results of the post-mortem. The tape was wound three times around the child's neck. The first two rounds were very tight, causing a deep indentation, sufficient to bruise the interior muscles. This was, in his opinion, done immediately after the child was born, or immediately after it was dead.

The Coroner—After making that post-mortem examination, what would you say was the cause of death?

Dr. Gardiner—I can safely say that the child was born alive. I don't think the child bled to death, because of the congested condition of the internal organs.

Coroner—Well, in a word or two, what do you consider the cause of death?

Dr. Gardiner—I should say the child died of suffocation or strangulation.

In answer to County Crown Attorney Magee, he said death was no doubt caused by the tightness of the cord around the neck.

Mr. E. J. Rumball, undertaker, told of having been sent for on Sunday night, Aug. 1. He brought the body of the child to his establishment from the house in a trunk; he placed it in a coffin, and handed the body over to the police on Monday morning.

Mr. Magee—Was the cord on the child's neck when you saw it?

"It was."

"Did you interfere with the cord in any way? Did you lift the child by the cord?"

"Yes, I did. In lifting the child out I lifted it by the cord."

Dr. Flock—Did you notice whether or not the cord was tightly drawn around the child's neck?

"No, sir; I did not."

Witness then explained the manner in which he handled the body. There was not much weight upon the cord, because he partially lifted it with his hands. The covering of the body was greatly stained.

Mr. Eadey — What became of the bloodstained clothes?

Mr. Rumball—I took them to St. Joseph's Hospital to the girl's sister. The police authorities did not want them, and I didn't want them in the store.

Mr. Morrison—Who gave you the order to remove them?

Mr. Rumball—Nobody. I was told by the police to do as I liked about the clothes.

Mr. Eadey—My object in asking about the clothes is because I think the child might possibly have bled to death after being placed in the trunk.

The Coroner—Dr. Gardiner, in his evidence, stated it was his opinion that death resulted from strangulation, and that from the internal conditions and the quantity of blood in the heart cavity it could not have bled to death.

Mr. Mulkern—Well, what is the use of having a jury if Dr. Gardiner's opinions are going to go for everything?

Mr. Eadey—This is the first we have heard of any bloodstained clothes.

Mr. Magee thought Dr. Gardiner had better be recalled.

The doctor had gone home and he was summoned back by telephone. On taking the stand he said there was not sufficient blood on the covering of the child in the trunk to show that it bled to death. If the child had bled to death after being placed in the trunk there would have been blood clots and many more marks. The marks on the neck might have been made after death, but they would not in that case account for the bruised impression on the interior. If the child had been smothered, it would have bled even less than if strangled.

The jury took the case for consideration, and after an hour's deliberation returned the following verdict:

"We, the jury empaneled to investigate the cause of death of the female infant child, do find that the death was caused by strangulation. (Signed) Moses Hutchinson (foreman), James Morrison, William Suhr, W. J. Eadey, W. S. Cater, John, Metherall, W. P. Gillespie, Charles Chrystler, Thomas Hawthorne, Isaaac Hodgins, James Black, Adam McGill, John Fletcher, Fred Brown and John Flemming."

The woman, who looked very delicate, was afterwards conducted from the chief's office by Detective Rider back to the cells, where she will remain until Aug. 24, when she will come before Magistrate Parke for preliminary examination. When asked to make a statement last night, she declined on account of her delicate condition.

MRS. STERNAMAN.

Cayuga, Ont., Aug. 19.—The adjourned preliminary investigation of Mrs. Sternaman, on the charge of murdering her husband, was resumed yesterday before Wm. Parker, J.P. Owing to the absence of Detective Murray, the prisoner was again remanded till Wednesday, the 25th.

LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believed it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

Scientists in Session.

Opening Day of the Interesting Gathering at Toronto.

Annual Address of the President of the B. A. A. S., Sir John Evans.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—The British Association for the Advancement of Science is now in full swing. Headquarters at University College were crowded. Lord Lister, the retiring president, presided at the customary council meeting, at which preparatory and purely formal business was transacted.

The British Association was formally received by the citizens in the afternoon in the pavilion of the Horticultural Gardens. Mayor Shaw read an address of welcome.

Lord Lister replied on behalf of the council of the association in a brief but appropriate speech. The reception was attended by all the prominent members of the association and by a large crowd of citizens.

In the evening Massey Hall contained about 1,200 peple, despite a terrific downpour of rain, and the meeting was a brilliant one. Lord and Lady Aberdeen were present, as also was Sir Oliver Mowat. Lord Lister presided, and in a short address gracefully handed over the chair to his successor, Sir John Evans, who took the chair, delivering his address.

The speaker referred to the presence at the present meeting of the association of the sister association of the United States, and some other learned bodies, describing it as a feature of entire novelty and extreme interest. "I need hardly say," he went on, "how welcome their presence is, nor how gladly we look forward to their taking part in our discussions, and aiding us by interchange of thought. To such a meeting the term 'international' seems almost misapplied. It may rather be described as a family gathering, in which our relatives, more or less distant in blood, but still intimately connected with us by language, literature and habits of thought, have spontaneously arranged to take part. Here, on the frontier between the two great English-speaking nations of the world, who is there that does not inwardly feel that anything which conduces to an intimacy between the representatives of the countries, both of them actively engaged in the pursuit of science, may also through such an intimacy react on the affairs of daily life, and aid in preserving those cordial relations that have now for so many years existed between the great American republic and the British Islands, with which her hearty foundations are indissolubly connected. The present year has witnessed an interchange of courtesies which has excited the warmest feelings of approbation on both sides of the Atlantic. I mean the return to its proper custodians of one of the most interesting of the relics of the Pilgrim Fathers—the log of the Mayflower. May this return, trifling in itself, be of happy augury, as testifying to the feelings of mutual regard and esteem which animate the hearts both of the donors and of the recipients." Sir John Evans then referred to his election to the position of president, and went on to review at great length the progress of the science of archaeology. He first pointed out the difference between and the relation of the work of the archaeologist and that of the geologist, and showed that the labors of the two, checked by those of the paleontologist, could not do otherwise than lead to sound conclusions. He then took up the subject of the antiquity of man, remarking that "probably no fitter place could be found for the discussion of such a topic than the adopted home of my venerable friend, the late Sir Daniel Wilson, who first introduced the word 'prehistoric' into the English language." In the course of his address he made an eloquent reference to the advances made in various departments of science since last the association met in Canada, and concluded his exhaustive address with this eloquent prophecy of the future: "Year after year advances will be made in science and in reading that book of nature that lies ever open before our eyes, successive stones will be brought for building up the temple of knowledge, of which our fathers and we have labored to lay the foundations."

Lord Aberdeen moved a vote of thanks, in the course of which he referred to the members of the association as the best immigration agents which the Dominion could possibly procure.

Lord Kelvin spoke briefly, highly commending the address of Sir John Evans.

Mayor Shaw spoke for a few moments expressing the wish that some scientific mode of treating municipal questions could be devised. This concluded the meeting.

BICYCLE CHOKES A CHILD

Strange Death in the "V" of a Diamond Frame While a Mother Worked Near By.

New York, Aug. 19.—The Jones were too poor for nurses and the like, and when Baby Jerome fell asleep last night his mother leaned the bicycle up against the bed as a guard to keep the baby from falling off and went on with her work. Baby Jerome was the 11-months-old child of Jerome Jones, a street car conductor, who lives at No. 743 Greenwich street. The baby was so quiet that its mother forgot all about it for an hour or two. When at last she looked up it was with a shriek of terror, for the little one had fallen forward, and lay face downward across the diamond frame, its neck across the V of the frame. It was quite dead, had been so for many minutes. It had silently strangled there in the sight of its mother.

BRITAIN'S FLAG IN BATTLE.

Lord Wolseley, commander-in-chief of the British army, has publicly announced that "the meteor flag of England" will never again be carried into battle, in land fights at least. In presenting new colors to a regiment recently he said: "In future it would be madness and a crime to order any man to carry colors into action. You might as well order him to be assassinated. The Germans carry the poles on which the colors used to be, so that they attract no notice in action. We have had most reluctantly to abandon a practice to which we attached great importance, and which, under past and gone conditions of fighting, was invaluable in keeping alive the regimental spirit upon which our British troops depended so much."

Wheat Experiments.

Important Developments at the Ontario Agricultural College.

Results of the Labors of Experimentalist Zavitz With Winter Wheat.

One hundred and eighty-nine plots have been devoted to winter wheat experiments this season at the Ontario Agricultural College. Owing to the late harvest and the exceedingly wet season, no winter wheat bulletin can be issued this year in time to be of much practical service before the period of winter wheat seeding is reached. In an experiment with 91 varieties of winter wheat, grown under similar conditions in 1897, it is found that the seven varieties which stand highest in yield of grain per acre are the same seven varieties which have given the largest yield of grain per acre among 86 varieties grown on the experimental plots for four years in succession. The following list gives the names of these seven varieties with the average yield per acre for four years, and also with the average yield per acre for this season.

Varieties.	Average yield four years.	Yield 1897.
	Bushels.
Dawson's Golden Chaff	53.4	53.5
Early Red Clawson	50.6	58.4
Egyptian	50.2	52.3
Early Genesee Giant	50.1	57.0
Reliable	49.2	50.1
Golden Drop	49.0	57.6
Imperial Amber	48.8	56.2

Although the comparative order of the yields of these seven varieties are not the same in 1897, as in the average of four years, still the fact that they gave the largest yields in both cases among all the varieties tested is a very important feature in the experiment.

Land upon which peas were used as a green manure in 1896 produced a considerably larger yield of winter wheat per acre than similar land upon which rape or buckwheat had been used as a green manure, or which had been worked as a bare summer fallow. This experiment was conducted in duplicate, but for only one year. It is being repeated this season in a similar way.

Large plump seed sown in the autumn of 1896 produced 2⅔ bushels per acre more than the small plump seed; 6 4-5 bushels per acre more than shrunken seed; and 42⅔ bushels per acre more than the seed which had been broken with the machine in threshing. The same number of winter wheat grains were used in the different selections, and the experiment was conducted in duplicate.

In the average of four years' experiments in cutting two varieties of grain at five different stages of ripening, the results show that the grain cut before maturity does not give as large a yield as that which was allowed to become fully ripened. The details of this experiment can be more fully studied when they are printed in the annual report of the college for 1897.

The average results of an experiment conducted for five years in succession, in sowing winter wheat at different dates in the autumn, show that the seedings of September 2 and 3 gave three-quarters of a bushel more than the seedings of Sept. 7 and 9, and 7½ bushels per acre more than the seedings of Sept. 17 and 20. It is found that it is not usually advisable to sow winter wheat in the vicinity of Guelph later than Sept. 9.

PREVENTION OF SMUT IN WHEAT

An experiment in treating seed wheat for the prevention of smut has been conducted for two years with quite satisfactory results. Infected seed wheat not treated for smut produced a crop containing an average of 2,146 smut balls per bushel of grain; while that treated with potassium sulphide produced an average of 109 balls of smut; that treated with copper sulphate, 12 balls of smut; and that treated with hot water, 9 balls of smut per bushel of grain. The hot water treatment, which is one of the cheapest and most effectual remedies, consists in immersing seed wheat for fifteen minutes in hot water at a temperature of 132 degrees Fahrenheit. The water should not go below 130 and not above 135 degrees. Not only is the hot water treatment very effectual in killing the smut spores, but it frequently improves the productive power of the seed, as shown by the increased yield of grain per acre. Every farmer in smut-infected districts should treat sufficient seed to insure the harvesting of clean grain for seed next year.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEED FOR TESTING PURPOSES.

The following three sets of winter wheat varieties will be sent free, by mail in one-half pound lots of each variety, to farmers applying for them, who will carefully test the three kinds in the set in which they choose, and will report the results after harvest next year. The seed will be sent out in the order in which the applications are received as long as the supply lasts.

Set No. 1—Dawson's Golden Chaff, Early Genesee Giant, Early Red Clawson.

Set No. 2—Dawson's Golden Chaff, Pride of Genesee, Poole.

Set No. 3—Dawson's Golden Chaff, New Columbia, Imperial Amber.

Each person wishing one of these sets should write to the Experimentalist, Agricultural College, Guelph, mentioning which set he desires, and the grain, with instructions for testing, and the blank form on which to report, will be furnished free of cost, to his address, until the supply of grain for distributing becomes exhausted.

TURNED GRAY IN 24 HOURS.

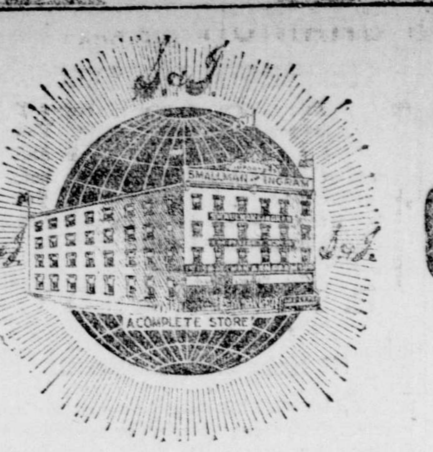

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 19.—Wm. E. Ross, an electric engineer of 1,512 Lafayette avenue, this city, slumbered an hour longer than usual yesterday. In that last hour a servant girl gave his shirt, with $3,000 worth of diamond studs and collar button in it, to the laundry collector. A search among the laundry resulted in the recovery of the diamonds from among the dirty clothes. Ross' hair turned prematurely gray in the interval.

DOLLAR WHEAT.

A leading miller stated on the board of trade today that he was bidding equal to $1 a bushel at Montreal for No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat, and had so far failed to get any. The bid was made for the wheat at Fort William, and 94 cents was the figure offered. This is exactly equal to $1 here. The situation is altogether very strong, and prices in the country are bound to open away above last year.

ELGINFIELD.

Elginfield, Aug. 18.—A very pleasant event took place on Wednesday, Aug. 11, at the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, Elginfield, when her daughter Lizzie was married to Mr. Henry Carroll, of Bryanston, formerly of Westminster. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Deacon, of Bryanston, in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. The bride looked lovely in a dress of white serge, trimmed with lace and flowers. Miss Annie Thompson, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. The groom was supported by his cousin, Mr. Wm. Carroll, of Westminster. After partaking of a very sumptuous repast the young couple departed for their future home amid showers of rice and the good wishes of their many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll were the recipients of a number of useful and valuable presents.

QUERIES ANSWERED.

W. C.—I hired a man for a year. At the end of nine months I hired him for another year at the expiration of his first. He works on a farm which I have rented, and I wish him to stay there one month in the second year. But he has since hired with another man. When his first year expires I will owe him $50. Can I oblige him to stay the second year or retain any of the money? Ans.—Not upon the facts stated, as his hiring for the second year was not in writing, and not to be performed within one year from its making

If we told you that your baby was starving, that it actually didn't get enough to eat, you might resent it. And yet there are thousands of babies who never get the fat they should in their food or who are not able to digest the fat that they do get. Fat is a necessity to your baby. It is baby life and baby beauty. A few drops of Scott's Emulsion for all little ones one, two and three years of age is better than cream for them. They thrive and grow on it.

The Barber Asphalt Company started this morning to lay a five-foot walk on Burwell street, between Dundas and King streets. The company will also lay walks on King street between Wellington and Waterloo streets, and on Queen's avenue between Maitland and Colborne.

The assessors have about completed their work in No. 1 ward.

The mayor's attention was called to a case of great distress this morning. Moses Miller, a negro, whose home is at 511 Bathurst street, is in the city hospital recovering from the amputation of the toes on both his feet. His wife and five small children, left without support, are said to be destitute. The relief officer was deputed to investigate the case.

KIDNAPPER TRAPPED.

Five-Year-Old Boy Restored to His Parents—Tally One for the Newspapers.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Five-year-old John Conway, who was at the mercy of kidnappers since Monday, was returned to his parents shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, through the efforts of private detectives and reporters in the employ of the Argus.

The child was abducted by his uncle, Joseph Hardy, and a pal named H. G. Blake. By the promise of a large reward, Blake was induced to confess and return the child. This morning he piloted a party of men five miles out in the country, where he left them, and in a few minutes returned with the boy in his arms. He was given a stuffed pocketbook for his ransom, and an effort was made to arrest him. When he saw he was trapped, he pulled a revolver, fired four or five shots, and broke away from his captors. He is being pursued by a squad of police.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 19.—If the story Hardy told the chief of police behind closed doors this morning is true, the Conway child narrowly escaped the fate of Charlie Ross. When the quarry became hot, Blake urged that as the boy would betray them, they had better rid themselves of him. Hardy was a trifle timid and asked for another day. It was finally agreed that at a late hour last night they would take the boy from the old school house, where they locked him up, and would either drown him or drop him from a railroad train. A party is out looking for Blake, and as the story of the intended murder spreads, the excitement becomes more intense, and is liable to end badly for the two men if they fall into the hands of the enraged people.

Traffic receipts on the C. P. R. for the week ending Aug. 14 were $499,000; for the same week last year, $447,000.

Was Wilson Willful?

Trial for Shooting With Intent Still Going On.

Evidence of Accused Regarding the Case and His Opinion of the Testimony of Others.

The trial of Constable Wilson, of Strathroy, charged with shooting J. W. Burns, was continued at the court house this morning before Squire Lacey. Mr. Wilson's evidence went to show that he had gone to Mrs. Waters' house, armed with a warrant for Burns' arrest. From the information he had received from the late High Constable Schram, he believed Burns to be a dangerous man. The high constable had said in a letter that "he believed Burns to be a fighter and a bully." Taking this for granted, he was not disposed to be overly lenient with Burns, and when the prisoner went out into the yard he (Wilson) called to him to halt. He refused to stop, and the constable fired two shots to "skim" him, and when this failed to bring the accused to a standstill, he fired and hit him in the arm. The constable admitted having been discharged from the Strathroy police force, but said that was because he was too good a servant. One or two members of the Strathroy Council had thought he was officious in stopping gambling on the fair grounds. He stated that most of the evidence submitted by the crown was false, and that he would not be surprised at anything that came up after the evidence of Mrs. Winters and her daughter Teresa.

The magistrate thought it was not material as to what the constable's opinion of Burns was at the time of the shooting, although the prisoner's counsel pressed it. It was sufficient, the justice thought, that the constable should execute the warrant he had for Burns' arrest.

The case was again adjourned until tomorrow.

Capt. Robson a Sprinter.

Trace Jackson Endeavors to Escape From Custody.

The Noted Bicycle Thief Recaptured After a Lively Chase.

Not a little excitement was caused at 1:40 this afternoon at the county jail and in that vicinity by the escape of Trace Jackson, alias Cann, the bicycle thief.

Mr. James Pole, the assistant turnkey, was taking a gang of prisoners from the lower cells to the yard for exercise. Jackson was taken from cell No. 2. The men were halted outside of the passage leading to Jackson's cell, and when he was brought out he was the last one of the file. Mr. Pole turned his back to close the cell door, when Jackson made a

DESPERATE BREAK FOR LIBERTY.

He took a winding course and went through the north kitchen door off the main corridor, through the kitchen to the west door leading to the north passage; along that into the yard, and out into the street.

Jailer Boston was in the office, and, hearing the noise, rushed to the door. He saw Jackson and went after him. The convict passed south of the county buildings, where County Clerk Robson was standing. Jailer Boston followed immediately, and called the stout captain to his assistance.

Capt. Robson is an athlete of no mean ability, and gained rapidly on the convict. On reaching S. Turner's carriage shop Jackson ran up the lane, jumped a fence, and rushed into the back door of Mrs. John Small's house at 339 Ridout street. He frightened the people there, and rushing upstairs to a back bedroom threw himself on the bed.

Capt. Robson followed him in, when Jackson exclaimed, "Let me die. I'll never be taken out of here alive. I'll have to go back to jail and then go to the penitentiary for breaking jail at another place." He was taken back to jail.

The convict was on June 30 committed for the theft of a bicycle at Seaforth, and on Aug. 13 was sentenced to three months for the deed. Two years ago the prisoner escaped from Whitby jail, where he assaulted the turnkey, and was not heard of until arrested by Detective Nickle. After serving his time here he will go to Whitby to be tried for assault and escaping from custody. Jailer Boston has time and again warned his assistants to take no chances, and see that none of the doors were left unlocked.

The Photographers

Spend a Couple of Hours Wheeling Around the City.

Today's Proceedings at the P. A. C. Convention—Prof. Griffith Tonight.

The photographers at the P. A. C. convention are very much impressed with the beauty of the Forest City. This morning about 40 of them wheeled around the town from 8 o'clock to 10, and during that time visited many pretty scenes, over which they were very enthusiastic. After the wheeling trip a meeting was held in the studio of Messrs. Shannon & Carson, where Messrs. MacDonald and Hetherington gave practical illustrations of the handling of subjects under skylight. Demonstrations were also given with the Climax plate of the Lovell Dry Plate Company.

In the afternoon Springbank was visted by the association and a programme of sports carried out. There was a large attendance.

This evening Mr. A. H. Griffith, director of the Detroit Museum of Art, will deliver a lecture on "Art" at the Free Library building. Mr. Griffith is spoken of as a fluent, magnetic orator, and a recognized authority on the subject with which he will deal. The public will be admitted on payment of 25 cents.

Mr. E. J. Burke, of this city, has been appointed sole agent for Canada for the Lovell Dry Plate Company.

The public were admitted free to the photographic exhibits this afternoon—from noon until 5 o'clock.

A handsome souvenir in the shape of a ticket case has been given by Secretary E. J. Burke to his friends. It is a little affair, invented by Mr. Adkins, of this city.

The prize-winners will be announced tomorrow, and in the evening the convention will be brought to a close by a banquet at the Tecumseh House.

Terrific Explosion

About Two Miles West of Port Colborne.

A Powder Storehouse Goes Kiting Skywards.

Much Damage Done But No Lives Lost —The Shock Felt in Buffalo and Lockport, N. Y.

Special to The Advertiser via G. N. W. Line.

Port Colborne, Ont., Aug. 19.—At Reebs' lime-kiln, about two miles west of here, at 5:30 this morning, lightning struck Reebs & Sons' powder storehouse, causing a terrible explosion, burning the office and barn, and shattering things in general about the lime-kiln.

Foster's glass works, near by, suffered greatly by the explosion, the roof being torn off, and other damage done. A number of railroad cars were also unroofed.

The night watchman was violently thrown to the floor of the engine-room, but was not injured.

In this village the shock was severely felt. Two large plate windows in the stores of Matthews' block were broken, and other places suffered likewise.

News comes from Fort Erie, Welland and St. Catharines, reporting the explosion being felt at those places. No estimate of the damage can be made at present.

Dispatches from Buffalo and Lockport, N. Y., speak of an earthquake shock felt in those places about the time mentioned above. The shocks were probably caused by the explosion described.

News From India's Frontier More Assuring.

The British Have 35,000 Troops on the Border—No Signs of the Afridis at Khyber Pass.

Simla, Aug. 19.—The rapid mobilization of the British troops in India and the activity of the military authorities in pushing forward reinforcements are regarded as assuring the safety of the Indian frontier, no matter how widespread may be the rising against British rule.

The British forces on the border now number over 35,000 men.

The news from the frontier today is more reassuring. All is quiet at Shabkadr, and there are no signs of the Afridis in the Khyber Pass. Up to a late hour last night the Kurram Valley was also quiet.

General Blood has advanced nine miles along the banks of the river in the Swat Valley, and has not found any signs of the enemy. The Mianguls have submitted to the British authorities.

Blood May Flow.

Serious Phase of the Coal Miners' Trouble.

Pittsburg Operators Propose to Call in the Aid of Pinkerton Men.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 19.—A special from Clarksburg, W. Va., says: "A meeting of over 600 miners was held last night on Main street. William T. Carney, of Pittsburg, vice-president of the Iron and Steel Workers of America, spoke two hours. He said that for every man arrested in this state ten would be sent in from other states and that this strike would be won if it took one week or one year."

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 19.—The meeting of Pittsburg district coal operators, which was begun in Cleveland, was concluded here shortly after midnight. None of those attending the meeting would divulge the proceedings. The only statement given out was the fact that the action taken at the Cleveland meeting was ratified, and that a committee will be appointed to arrange a settlement with the miners on a 64-cent basis. If this is refused, the operators will at once import men and start their mines at all hazards.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 19.—The decision reached by the operators of the Pittsburg district at their conference here last night to open their mines regardless of consequences will probably cause serious trouble, according to local coal men. It is the intention of the Pittsburg operators to engage Pinkerton men and protect their non-union men. This action may precipitate a terrible climax to the great strike.

Bridgeport, Ohio, Aug. 19.—The order issued by the miners' mass meeting at Bellair to stop all mining operations in the eastern Ohio district is being generally obeyed. A committee from Wheeling Creek visited all the banks, and all will be closed tomorrow.

SAID TO BE "BLUFF."

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 19.—A rumor that certain Pittsburg operators have made statements that they intend to resume even if gatling guns have to be used and Pinkerton men employed, is characterized by President Ratchford as a "bluff." He says:

"There is but one interpretation of this statement, namely, that the operators prefer to shed blood rather than negotiate a peaceful settlement. They cannot build stockades high enough or strong enough in the Pittsburg district to hold non-union men, and any effort in that direction will fail. In the first place there is no unanimity among the operators, and in the second place they cannot hope to get non-union workmen. Further than that, the opinion of the great public will of itself defeat their plans, even though they were agreed and non-union labor could be secured."

AMONG CANNIBALS.

Customs of the Savages Whom All Men Dread.

Cannibalism is not obsolete, in spite of the efforts of some missionaries to make us believe so, as is proved by the recent killing and eating it of Mr. Duncan, a white trader, in the New Hebrides. Last week's Australian advices state that the unfortunate victim was tied to a tree for three days and forcibly stuffed with food for the purpose of fattening him. He was then horribly butchered, and even the savage women entered joyfully into the wild and disgusting feast that followed.

It is the south Pacific where cannibalism holds sway today. The islands that stretch all the way from New Caledonia to New Guinea are the homes of savages, many of whom still revel in these horrible human feasts, says the New York Herald.

Many tribes, to be sure, are reclaimed or restrained to the extent that they seldom or never touched human flesh, but there are some who still live the old savage life in all its details. And of those who are counted as reclaimed there are some who now and then lapse into the fearful customs of the past.

There are few wild animals fit for food in the islands of Oceanica, and that is probably the first cause of cannibalism, though the frightful bloody orgies are often a part of religious customs. Tribes will often assail each other for the express purpose of securing victims to eat.

When such a raid has been made, and proved successful, the victors bring a fleet of canoes to the scene. To the stern of each is made fast a tow of corpses, fastened by ropes about the neck, and with victorious shouts and gleeful songs the homeward voyage is made. The sonorous ringing of monster conches gives warning of their approach, and when in sight of the thatched cottages of their villages they shout ecstatically: "We have killed! We have killed!"

"How many?" comes the question from the women gathered on the shore.

The glorification is proportionate to the number slain. The village goes wild with a mad, sickening joy, and when all are disembarked, and the corpses ranged upon the beach the whole savage village dances madly.

Here is the bokola song, the chant of joy over the dead bodies on the way to the cooking pit:

"A-ba-babale,
"A-ba-babale,
Bababe, bababe,
A-e-a-e-a-e!"

It is a chorus that can be heard for miles when shrilled by scores of high-pitched voices of lusty women. Babies may often be seen dancing awkwardly around the bloody bodies and chanting the weird refrain.

Then comes the self-glorification. The young warriors display their bloody weapons and chant their victories, acting out the various stages of the stealthy advance, the wild assault and the cruel slaughter.

The women, shrilly chorusing, have meanwhile dragged the already stiffening bodies to the spot set apart. The head tabu man, wearing a mask and a dress of pandanus leaves, examines the corpses and selects that which he himself will devour. This selection determines where the honors of the day shall rest, for the man who slew the chosen victim is the hero of the hour.

In the great tribal baking pits, often dating back many generations in their building, a fine fire is crackling. The stones on the bottom are white hot. Here the disemboweled bodies are brought. The cooks seize upon the first, that chosen by the tabu man. The cavity of the chest and belly is lined with the broad, succulent leaves of the taro, and the whole is packed with yams, taros, bread fruit and bananas.

BLOODHOUNDS HUNT BURGLARS.

Noel, Missouri, Aug. 19.—Word reached here at an early hour this morning that the leader of the Pineville bank robbers was captured in the woods 30 miles southwest of here last night. The robber, who is badly wounded, refuses to reveal his identity. A posse with bloodhounds is in pursuit of the other two robbers.

A Georgia coroner's jury brought in the following verdict recently: "The deceased came to his death from a railroad in the hands of a receiver, and the same is manslaughter in the first degree."

FAITHFUL TILL THE END

"Ah! well, no matter. Better suppress the unkind word always, however well deserved; and it is only to you, a cousin, I would so speak. But of course you will understand my anxiety where Alec is concerned, his evident, most open admiration for her——"

"You should not make yourself unhappy too soon," says Sir Stephen calmly. "There is always hope. She may refuse him!"

He says this without the smallest sign of feeling, but in reality his heart sinks. There doesn't seem to be very much hope in that direction.

He is quite unaware of it, but he has said the one thing that could most annoy and disquiet the amiable Bella.

"And so break his heart," cries she, in subdued tones. "You must indeed think her a determined coquette to expect such a termination as that. And no doubt you are wiser than I am; you can see through her, whereas I can only judge from the surface. A coquette, you call her?" this in a slightly raised tone for Mrs. Wilding's benefit, who is now passing them on a voyage of discovery to the tea room —"yes, yes, you are right."

"I don't think I called Miss Prendergast anything," says Sir Stephen in a somewhat annnoyed tone, but Mrs. Wilding has gone on, and fails to hear him. "I should not presume to do so——"

"Although you are in a sense her guardian?" says Mrs. Chance. "You," with a laugh, "might call her to account."

"You mistake our relations when you suggest that," says Wortley. "There is only one thing I ever thought of calling her." He pauses, and Bella fixes her large eyes on his in a sort of dumb terror. The fixity of her regard makes him consider his words, and all at once he sees the significance of them, the—the truth of them.

"And that?" asks Mrs. Chance in a low tone.

"A mere thought not worth repeating," says he, so indifferently, that she feels reassured. Perhaps it was something approbrious! At this moment Maria, in a distinctly shabby old velvet gown, looms on the horizon, and Mr. McNamara, gathering up his limbs in wild haste, prepares for flight.

"Here comes the Boss—I'm off," says he.

It is the signal for flight—soon this corner of the banquet-hall is deserted. Mrs. Wilding, who had been the first to see and run, has by this time reached the end of the room where Nell is now sitting, Manners beside her. The instinct of mischief prompts her to bend over Nell's chair and whisper to her:

"Someone has been calling you a coquette."

"I don't care,'" says Nell, laughing. "I've been called even a cabbage before this—only it was chou. Then it doesn't sound so bad in French."

"Ah, but—I'd have it out with him if I were you."

"Out where," mockingly, "in the garden?"

"For choice, yes," says Mrs. Wilding, who likes Nell, and dislikes "Mis' Chance," as she calls Bella. She had lived all her earlier years in the West Indies, and had had a good deal to do with negroes and their little ways; and this seems to her quite a happy name for Bella, whom she dislikes. She likes Nell, however, and feels sure if the girl were to bring Wortley to book over this little affair, many happy consequences might accrue. "Nothing like a garden for a row!"

"But who am I to scold?"

"Ah! you know, you know! Not Mr. Grant, anyway. But Mr. Grant has a cousin"—she hesitates, shrugs her shoulders. "And a sister," says she with a faint grimace. Then this extremely vulgar young woman bends even lower and places her lips near Nell's ear. "Ten men can bring a horse to water, but one cannot make him drink; I pity Mis' Chance,'"

Now all this, if clear to Mrs. Wilding, is Greek to Nell, who is blind to the fact that Bella has set her mind on being Lady Wortley, and indeed, if it were known to her, it would hardly have given her a second thought. But what she does understand is, that Sir Stephen had called her a coquette, and to Mrs. Chance. To tell the truth, this rather amuses her than otherwise, but that idea of Mrs. Wilding's to have it out with him is good. She has often wished to have it out with him about many things.

She looks up over her shoulder to give an answer to Mrs. Wilding, but that mischievous creature has disappeared, and instead, she meets Grant's eyes gazing into hers.

"Come into the garden, it is lovely there," says he. He has edged in between Manners and her, and there is entreaty in his voice and gaze. She thinks for a moment before replying. Perhaps this will be one way of having it out with her stern guardian. She has an undefined feeling that he objects to her intimacy with Grant. No doubt, she thinks scornfully, because Alec is not well off. Sir Stephen's whole mind seems bent on money! As if money meant anything at all.

"Is there a garden?" asks she. She doesn't know much about Mr. Nobbs' resources.

"A small but enchanting one."

"Impossible to lose one's way."

"Unfortunately, yes."

At this they both laugh, and Nell, rising, accompanies him to the open window of the villa that leads to the ground beneath, by means of a step or two. She has the satisfaction of passing by Sir Stephen as she goes.

"I hear the garden is so pretty," says he, smiling at him.

"It isn't a howling wilderness," returns Wortley pleasantly, "but I'd advise you to take a cloak with you. A heavy mist is falling."

"Oh, how lovely!" says she. "Perhaps at last I shall feel cool."

Indeed the room inside had grown oppressively warm. Out here it is delightful. The little pleasure ground is lit with crimson lamps—beyond is the little tennis ground. And here is the little garden filled with moonbeams, that put the Chinese lamps to shame. It is all very little.

"Isn't it like Nobbs!" says Grant, sneering at his host in a most unhandsome way, considering how very happy he is the present moment. "Not a big stretch in the whole thing. Come and sit down here."

"Here is another "little!" a mere toy of a summer-house, made of pine logs, and thatched with heather, and with a cosy corner at the end of it.

"It looks a stupid place," says Nell, peering into it. "It looks like snails and things. Ugh! I'd be afraid to sit down here."

"Not with me?" says Grant.

Nell—it is very dark—conceals her laughter successfully.

"Oh, I forgot," says she. "Of course, you are a soldier, I—perhaps I—might venture with you."

"Oh, I say, what rot!" says Grant. "Here, come on——" He catches her hand, and she follows him into the summer-house. Having caught her hand, he holds it.

"Nell," says he, squeezing the little hand tightly, "I——" he stops, and tries to see her face in the dim light, but the shadows are too much for him, and her face remains a mystery. "You don't mind my calling you Nell, do you?"

"Oh, no," says Miss Prendergast calmly. "All my friends call me Nell, and you are my friend, too, aren't you?"

"You know very well I am," says Grant. "And more than that. "If"—he pauses—"if every one calls you Nell, I wish I might be allowed to call you something else. I'd like to give you a name that no one else gives you. May I? Can I?"

"But it's so limited," says Nell.

"It isn't. I've asked and I know your real name is Penelope. Can't I call you Pen?"

"It you think it nicer than Nell," says she. "But for my own part, I think Nell is the better of the two; though after all, perhaps not. Pen! To pen, to write, means life—but Nell—knell, that sounds like death and the grave!"

"True, true," agrees he eagerly. "Then it shall be Pen. And that will be a name all to ourselves."

Nell looks at him, her eyes thoughtful, meditative.

"That would be selfish, wouldn't it?" says she. "Other people might care to know that I have another name that does't sound like the crack of doom."

"Still——"

"We'll let it be an open question," says Nell sweetly. "I'll think over it. And it really doesn't matter at all——"

"It does—it does," says Grant. "I want to speak to you, but you are always going—you're going now," catching her dress.

"I'm not, indeed," says Nell, who, after all, had only been extricating a bit of lace from the nail in the seat.

"Well, listen, then," says he, still holding her, however, if not sure of her. "The other day, at that tournament, you said I could not give you frocks and hats."

"I said that! You must be dreaming"—indignantly.

The death occurred Tuesday evening at St. Thomas of Mrs. Louise Whalls, aged 68 years. The deceased, who was a Methodist in religion, was born in England, and came to Canada in 1857. His lordship dismissed the application of the father with costs, and orders the son to be handed over to the mother. The boy was in court with his father while the argument was in progress.

Chatham Banner: Judge Bell has just returned from a few days' visit to Pelee Island. He found the harvesting operations well advanced. A good part of the wheat was threshed and yielded, on an average about 35 bushels per acre. The sample was excellent. Corn promises an abundant yield. The potatoes, both in quantity and quality surpass anything the judge has ever previously known. The grape crop will be very large, exceeding even that of last year. The catawbas look particularly well. The peach crop will be a failure for the first time in 20 years. This is attributed to the very warm weather of last December and the consequent premature development of the bud. Nature has been a great deal for the Island, and its future is encouraging.

Mr. James Bigham died on Saturday in consequence of a fall from a mow in his barn. He was 81 years old, a native of Etobicoke township, near Toronto, and was one of the pioneers of East Zorra, having settled there in 1846. He was a Reformer in politics, and a leading member of the Free Baptist Church, of which he had been a member for about seventy years. His wife formerly Miss Elizabeth Webber, died about ten years ago, and the following children survive him, viz.: Messrs. Joseph, Louis, Norman and Nelson, of Zorra; Edwin, of Sanilac county, Michigan; Mrs. (Rev.) John Harrington, of Old Orchard Beach, N. J., and Miss Mary Ellen, at home. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, assisted by Rev. Messrs. Ferguson, Reece and Gregg, of other churches.

"I guess I've been victimized." That's the guess of many a hard-working man, who, worn-out, nervous and sleepless, has been for months paying exhorbitant bills to a high-priced doctor without a dollar's worth of benefit. Frequently the guess is entirely correct. There are too many doctors who are only lifted out of obscurity by the size of their bills.

The business man or working man who gets run-down and in ill-health from overwork, needs the advice and treatment of a physician who is famous for the thousands of cases he has cured, and not for the thousands of dollars he has charged. In Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., he will find that kind of a physician. For thirty years Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo.

He is the discoverer of a wonderful medicine known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a nerve-tonic and blood-maker, flesh-builder and nerve-tonic. It cures nervous prostration and exhaustion, malaria, liver troubles, rheumatism, blood and skin diseases and 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption, weak lungs, spitting of blood, lingering coughs and kindred ailments. When you ask a dealer for the "Golden Medical Discovery" insist upon having it. A dealer is not a physician and has no right to advise some substitute.

When the trouble is of long standing write to Dr. Pierce, who will answer letters from sufferers without charge. Very serious or complicated cases, or those needing surgical treatment, sometimes find it necessary to come to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, for personal treatment and care. Dr. Pierce can be addressed there.

Danger in the Milk Bottle.

Ontario Health Officers Discuss a Live Question.

The Treatment of Mad Dogs in This Province.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—At the convention of the provincial health officers, Prof. Shuttleworth read a paper on "The Relation Between Scarlet Fever and Milk." The communicability of scarlet fever, through the medium of cows' milk, may be regarded as established beyond the shadow of a doubt. During the past fifteen years a large number of instances have been brought forward in which the connection between milk and disease has been positively demonstrated.

DANGER IN A DAIRY.

The most notable instance is the Hendon outbreak, which occurred in 1885. This outbreak is particularly noticeable from the fact that it was made a special subject of investigation by Mr. W. H. Power, F.R.S., in which he was assisted by Dr. Klein. In an attack at Glasgow in the summer of 1892, out of 256 cases all were traced to the milk of one dairy.

In a series of articles in the British Medical Journal on the influence of milk in spreading zymotic disease, Dr. Ernest Hart gives an abstract of 32 similar instances, of which authentic records exist, affording proof that there is an intimate relation between scarlet fever and milk.

The nature of this relationship is by no means as definitely made out.

Prof. Shuttleworth then touched on the question of bottled milk. He said that of late years the practice of serving milk in quart, wide-mouthed bottles, closed by a disc card, has become very popular. Were it not for the possibility of the conveyance of disease it seems to be the most cleanly and convenient mode of distribution. Filled bottles are, however, taken directly into the rooms of patients suffering from contagious diseases, and are there kept and used as containers until empty. The bottle may then be possibly rinsed out, or is returned unwashed to the milkman, who puts it with others and conveys it back to the dairy. There is a possibility, if not a strong probability, that a bottle so used may become infected, not only by the nurse's hands on its smeared exterior surface, or by the air-borne particles by which the disease is admittedly conveyed; but also the remains of the milk in the vessel may form a suitable medium for the multiplication of the specific micro-organism.

THE CLEANING OF BOTTLES.

"I can speak with experience in regard to the treatment which dirty bottles receive in the average dairy. They are placed in water as hot as can be borne by the hands, a little sal soda, pearline, or ordinary soap is used, and the bottle cleaned by a revolving brush. It is then rinsed with water, drained, aired, filled with milk, and sent forth on its mission of weal or woe. The water used for washing, and the ordinary time of immersion, is not sufficient for sterilization."

That scarlet fever may be transmitted by bottles seems likely from the outbreak last spring in Toronto. The total consumption of milk in Toronto amounts to about 12,000 gallons per day.

The type of disease may be learned from the records of the Isolation Hospital, out as the cases sent there are usually more severe than those in private practice, the results will probably be higher than if the whole city were included. In 1893, the mortality was 19.25 per cent, declining in 1894 to 16.27, and 8.19 in 1896, while of the 55 cases admitted last year there was not a single death. It remains to be seen whether the recent outbreak with its partly different origin will not bring about a revival of virulency. The indications so far point in this direction.

Facts concerning the delivery of milk from a certain dairy were given. This dairy was situated in the country outside the city limits of the jurisdiction of the health officer of Toronto. There was some delay, therefore, in bringing the matter under control. The steps taken to prevent the further spread of the disease were explained.

DANGER IN SCHOOLS.

In discussing Prof. Shuttleworth's paper, Dr. Bryce seemed to take exception to the conclusion arrived at by the writer of the paper. He attributed the spread of the disease very largely to the schools. He suggested that if there were anything in the contention that the disease was spread by the bottles, the remedy was for the health officer to have all the houses placarded in which contagious diseases exist. He thought the authorities should be very careful how they interfered with established commercial enterprises in which many thousands of dollars were invested, and every effort was made to purify the milk.

Dr. Sheard replied to Dr. Bryce's criticisms, pointing out that to simply depend upon placarding houses was shown by experience to be very inadequate. The class of men who distribute the milk were not usually very favorably disposed towards regulations of that kind, and cards placed on houses one day were missing the next, and it would require a man stationed at every house to watch them. He held that it amounted to selling goods under false pretences, to pretend to sell sterilized milk unless the bottles were also sterilized.

"Every one knows," he declared, "that there can be no sterilization by water no hotter than a man can bear his hand in."

He did not deny that schools might be a medium for spreading the disease, and whenever found necessary they had been promptly closed. But unless bottles were sterilized they were undoubtedly a greater source of danger than the schools. The bottle system must be held to be defective until the reform indicated was established.

Dr. J. J. Cassidy's paper on the "Prevention of Rabies" was of an interesting character, showing the steps which had been taken to eradicate the disease in European countries. The doctor advocated the muzzling of dogs.

Dr. Hutchinson, of London, Ont., discussed the paper, pointing out that it was invariably among large dogs that rabies was developed.

LEGISLATION DEVELOPED.

At the afternoon session the regular programme was broken in upon, only two papers being read, one by Mr. Van Buskirk, Stratford's engineer, on the treatment of sewage, and another by Dr. Hall, of Chatham, on the water supply of that place. The remainder of the time was taken up in suggesting amendments to the medical health act. The effect of these amendments would in all cases be to facilitate the work and augment the authority of health officers. The principal changes desired are, first, to oblige householders and attending physicians to notify the health office as soon as they have reason to believe contagious disease is present, and second, to confine to the health officer the authority to say when a person or house may be free of quarantine regulations.

The association has elected officers as follows: President, Dr. McCrimmon, Palermo; vice-president, Dr. Casidy, Toronto; second vice-president, Dr. Hutchinson, London; secretary-treasurer, Mr. J. J. Mackenzie, Toronto; executive committee, Dr. Holmes, Goderich; Dr. McLeay, Waterford; Dr. Wardlaw, Galt; Prof. Shuttleworth, Toronto; M. Van Buskirk, Stratford.

Chafing Dish Recipes.

BREAKFAST—Blackberries. Lamb kidneys a la terrapin. Potatoes—maitre d' hotel. Drip coffee.

LUNCHEON—Eggs a la Carraccas. Cottage cheese. Stewed wild plums. Thin bread and butter. Tea, hot or iced.

DINNER—Cream of celery soup. Fried white fish with tomato sauce. Green corn. Boiled potatoes. Compote of peaches. Cafe Noire.

Cut out these recipes and paste them in a scrap-book.

Lamb Kidneys a la Terrapin—Take six lamb kidneys, cut in halves. Throw into cold water and allow to boil about fifteen minutes. Make a white sauce of one tablespoonful of butter, one of flour, one teacup of milk, the butter added slowly after the former are smoothly mixed. Cut the kidneys into smaller pieces, with one hard-boiled egg chopped fine, half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful white pepper, two teaspoonfuls minced parsley. Drop all into the hot sauce for two minutes. Cold chicken or calves' liver are also good prepared thus.

Potatoes—Maitre d' Hotel—Cut four large cold potatoes in rather thin slices. Melt butter size of an egg, the juice of half a lemon, a few leaves of parsley chopped very fine, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth of white pepper. Spread this, all mixed together, over the potatoes, cover long enough over the boiling water for the butter, etc., to penetrate the potatoes.

Eggs a la Carraccas—One-fourth of a pound of dried beef chopped fine, one tablespoonful minced onion, one cup stewed tomatoes, four raw and two hard-boiled eggs, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls grated cheese, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, dash of cayenne. Put onions first in the melted butter, then the tomatoes, then the chopped beef, the eggs, cheese and seasoning, each in quick succession. Stir like scrambled eggs. Serve on very flaky crackers or toast squares, garnish with hard-boiled eggs, sliced. A dish for the gods.

The ordinary red wild plum now so abundant and cheap has a rich flavor when stewed and sweetened. Serve cold in large saucers, with tablespoonful of the cottage cheese in same dish. To be eaten together with bread and butter.

Cream of Celery Soup—One bunch of celery, one pint of water, one pint of milk, one tablespoonful minced lemon peeling, one tablespoonful of minced onion, one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful flour, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-fourth teaspoonful white pepper. Cook the celery twenty minutes in the water, the onions minced very fine in the milk. Combine them with the seasoning and serve quickly after three minutes together.

Compote of Peaches—Cut the pared peaches in halves, put in the saucepan, allow them to become heated through in their own juice, with four tablespoonfuls of sugar sprinkled over. Moisten one tablespoonful of cornstarch with cold water, add two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice and one egg very lightly whipped. Put the peaches on squares of sponge cake hollow side up. Take the syrup of their juice and mix the cornstarch, etc., in it. Place on stove and allow them to bubble up together, and when slightly cooled pour over the peaches; put in a cold place. The syrup will jelly all about the fruit and form a delicious dessert. Serve with plain cream. This may be prepared an hour or two before dinner.

We know the great cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla are genuine because the people themselves write about them.

CURTIS DISCHARGED.

Henry C. Curtis, of the Gore road, was placed on trial before Judge Edward Elliott, charged with a serious offense against Olive May James, a 13-year-old orphan girl, who lives with her grandmother near Curtis' place. The case was heard with closed doors. The girl's statements were contradictory, but she alleged that there were three occasions upon which the accused acted improperly with her. The first two were in the fall of 1895, and the last on July 20. The girl was tearful, and told her story in a broken manner. Mr. Curtis, who is a retired farmer, 65 years of age, emphatically denied the charge, and produced a number of prominent men, who testified to his good character, and also to the girl's untruthfulness. From the evidence, Judge Elliott came to the conclusion that the accused was innocent and dismissed the case.

Opening Session of the P. A. C. Annual Convention.

Large Attendance and Lively Speeches — Welcome by the Mayor — Beautiful Exhibit.

The opening session of the fourteenth annual convention of the Photographers Association of Canada was held yesterday morning at the Public Library building. A large number of photographers from various parts and many representatives of stock dealers both in this country and United States were present.

The energetic executive committee have put forth every effort to make the meeting in this city outdo all previous conventions of the association, and they are to be congratulated upon the talent and the magnificent collection of exhibits they have secured. The names of men who stand in the very front rank of the profession are on the programme, and the highest examples of photographic work in all its many branches are included in the exhibits. The rooms in which the exhibits are arranged present a very attractive appearance, and the building chosen for the convention is peculiarly well fitted for the purpose.

The session opened at 9 o'clock, and Mayor Little delivered an address of welcome to the convention. He spoke of the wonderful progress of photography in recent years and referred to the discovery of X rays and the radiograph. Applied to surgery the radiograph was a great boon to humanity. Continuing he spoke of the use the X rays had been turned to in France recently of examining tourists trunks. In conclusion the mayor cordially welcomed the visitors and dwelt upon the advantage to London in being selected for such a gathering. "We are vain enough," he said, "to believe that the many beautiful views to be found in our neighborhood may enable some of you to carry away 'impressions,' which, when 'developed, in your own way, may be lasting remembrances of our own good city."

President Hopkins neatly acknowledged the welcome, and Mr. Poole, of St. Catharines, moved a vote of thanks to the mayor, which was passed with great enthusiasm.

Mr. Charles Hetherington gave an address along the lines of friendship within the confines of the profession. "Help the little folks," he said. "Be careful not to criticise them too harshly. It stings and chills and does not help. Be kind."

Letters were read from a number of members who were unable to be present. Among them was one from Mr. F. G. Westlake advocating the establishment of an institute of photography where merit will be recognized.

Mr. Pirie MacDonald, of Albany, New York, infused much mirth into the convention by some capital stories, illustrative of the fraternal feeling of London photographers. He also highly complimented the association.

Mr. Poole, of St. Catharines discussed the new United States tariff, and pointed out that chemically prepared paper and pyrogalic acid had been raised 20 per cent.

As a result of the discussion which followed, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Cooper, London; Ramsay, Toronto; Poole, St. Catharines; Still, Orangeville, and the president, was appointed to try and have the matter adjusted.

President Hopkins, in his annual address, strongly urged the necessity for better postage rates on photographs. He spoke highly of the work done by London photographers in the interests of the association, and especially of their assistance in connection with the present convention.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

Yesterday afternoon's session was devoted to demonstrations by Mr. Fell, of the American Aristotype Company, and in the evening bright, practical addresses were given by Mr. Pirie MacDonald, of Albany, and Mr. Charles Hetherington, of Chicago. Mr. MacDonald, who was the first speaker, is one of the most successful photographers of New York State, and fully in love with the work. His talks enthuse. Many practical hints are learned from him, and the sparkling style in which he presents his ideas make his addresses highly entertaining. His principal thought in the early part of his address last evening was that all work done by the photographer should come from the soul, and not be mechanical. The painter, by years of hard work, he said, is led up to a place, to an atmosphere, where beauty is all-pervading, where beauty is a fact to be attained, by such and such means, and those means only. The photographer often has no training beyond the learning of how long to expose a plate, the mixing and application of developer, and a few—very few—such knacks. Training schools were a necessity. Speaking of practical work, he advised the use of isochromatic plates, to hold back the high lights, and to harmonize with the color of the face.

Mr. Hetherington spoke of general studio work, and strongly deprecated the use of cheap goods. Permanency of the finished product, he said, was the great end to be attained.

Groom Was Nervous.

Scattered His Bride's Belongings to the Winds.

And Had to Pick Them Up Amid Showers of Rice and Old Shoes.

Ridgetown, Ont., Aug. 19.—John Beemer, of this place, was married in Detroit on Tuesday to Miss Kittie Khan, who had been for years an employe of the British-American Hotel. They crossed the river to catch the 5 o'clock train at Windsor, but Customs Officer Yearsley spied their baggage piled up on the box of the carriage and wanted to know what it contained. Supplications were unavailing, and the bridegroom finally got out to open up the valises, but in his nervousness he tipped them both over the side. They fell with a crash, burst open and littered the street for the space of about 20 square yards with nightdresses, underwear, stockings and all manner of things that a lady would not wish to see thus rudely exposed to the public gaze.

The bridegroom grabbed the things wildly and stuffed them back into the valises, not caring two cents whether he mixed up his clothing with that of his wife. All he wanted was to get away somehow from the grinning crowd. The windows and doors of Oullette avenue were filled with amused faces, and the passengers on the ferry crowded to the side to watch the fun.

The litter on the street appeared to be sufficient to fill several valises, and while the hapless bridegroom was trying to crowd it into two, the girls of the British-American Hotel came running out with bags of rice and a lot of old shoes with which they began to bombard the young couple. The customs officer was so busy watching the packing of the valises that he did not know what was going on until he received a shower of rice in his face. "What —!" he yelled, but one of the girls gave him a gentle tap on the head with an old shoe, whereupon he got out of the way. They poured rice down the bridegroom's back and over the bride's head, and the groom in desperation grabbed the remainder of the clothing in his hands, jumped into the cab and drove off.

If your eyes are weak and watery in the morning, put the tiniest pinch of powdered borax in a tablespoonful of water and bathe them gently with a soft linen rag. Never press the eyeball, as that flattens in in time, and brings on premature loss of vision. The eyes are the tenderest organs of the body and the most easily injured by ignorant people. The eye once injured is injured for life, so have a care how you treat it.

FAGGED OUT.—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength is gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there was nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Dandelion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parmelee's Pills.
