ALSACE-LORRAINE IS GOAL OF THE FRENCH

Madrid, Oct. 20.—Emphatic denial is made by the minister of marine of a statement in the Germanophile mewspaper A. B. C. that the captain of the German submarine which recently essaped from Cadiz did not give his word of honor that he would not attempt to leave. The minister declares that the German commander formally gave parole, as is shown by the official report drawn up at the time, in the office port drawn up at the time, in the office of that officer, his chief of staff, and two other officers, with the German comsul acting as interpreter. The commander sealed the engagement by shaking hands with all the officers present.

The news of his escape has created great excitement among friends and relatives here, who are now anxiously awaiting his arrival in Canpatic in Canpa cized the policy of the ministry as oring incoherent and lacking energy.

"I have already said when expounding our war aims," Premier Painleve replied, "that it is the restitution of Alsace-Lorraine that we are determined upon. There must be restitution whatever may be the fate of battles. For this we should push the war to the bitter end."

The premier denied acting as a jurist in the Daudet-Malvey affair. The accusations of M. Daudet were outside the judicial investigations now going on, so the Government was able to take them up and reduce then to nothing.

GERMANS SHOWERED WITH LIBERTY LOAN POSTERS

New York, Oct. 20.—American aviators in France, the treasury department announced today, were flying over the Germans today, dropping tens of thousands of Liberty Loan posters. Large supplies of the posters were sent some time ago to General Pershing, and arrangements were made to have American aviators on the western front shower the German lines with them, simultaneous with the aerial campaign of dropping paper bombs from coast to coast in this country today.

The posters selected for use on the front depict Uncle Sam with an army of millions, and an air fleet of tremendous proportions. Another poster selected for the work was the one depicting the Statue of Liberty.

Becomes Candidate Of Joint Liberal And Labor Parties Named as Federal House Nominee To Contest London City

Seat by Fusion of Two G reat Parties, Which Will Fight Together in Democratic Battle.

George S. Gibbons, Labor-Liberal candidate in London, spent most of his time today answering telephone calls.

He was being congratulated on his acceptance of the Labor nomination for the city of London by citizens in all walks of life. Workmen who heard of the decision through The Morning Advertiser took time at the neon hour to call up Mr. Gibbons.

"We have a chance now for the common people," said one man from a big industrial plant.

"Labor and Liberalism will work together to strike at the millionaires and the grafters," said another.

"Labor and Liberalism will work together to strike at the million-aires and the grafters," said another.

Many prominent citizens of both sides of politics saw Mr. Gibbons personally to congratulate him. Arrayed with him in the coming fight are many of the foremost citizens from the office, the lathe, the bench, the store, and the wholesale. The significance of Labor's decision for Mr. Gibbons will be far-reaching.

Labor and Liberalism in London have joined hands to accomplish the overthrow of the interests that have dominated Canada at the expense of the common people. George S. Gibbons last night accepted the federal nomination tendered him by the Trades and Labor Council and he will henceforth be known as the Labor-Liberal candidate.

The important announcement was given out last night, some time after Mr. Gibbons had made it known to the labor cause in the city of London that he had accepted the honor tendered him. It is regarded as the most significant and dramatic political development that has occurred in London in many years.

COUNCIL OFFERED THE NOMINATION. The Trades and Labor Council at its regular meeting on Wednesday night discussed the question of the organization's stand in the forthcoming election. The matter was debated, and the decision finally reached in the form of the following resolu-

"THAT THIS COUNCIL TENDER THEIR SO-LICITOR, GEORGE S. GIBBONS, THE LABOR NOM-INATION AS CANDIDATE IN THE COMING FED-ERAL ELECTION."

MR. GIBBONS' STATEMENT.

In a statement made to The Advertiser last night, Mr. Gibbons had the following to say regarding the latest "fusion" movement in Canadian politics:

"I have accepted the honor tendered me by the London Trades and Labor Council by the offer of the nomination of organized labor. Subject to the ratification of my action by a convention of all the Liberals of London to be called by the president of the Reform Association immediately after the announcement of the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier of the policy of the Liberal party in the coming election, I will contest the federal constituency of London as the Labor-Liberal candidate.

MARY JANE-HER EYES-AND HER LIFE STORY

Who is Many Jane? That question has been asked by a great many people, including those of The Advertiser whe have received, for many months her piquant comments on London and Londoners. Mary Jane, while retaining her invisible cloak, has lifted the veil literally so that we can see her eyes and her forehead and her colffure. Tantalizing Mary Jane! Also and brieffly she gives us a glimpse of her history, while the October leaves are falling! Not with the accompaniment of slow music, but with the mental aprightliness—that makes life a good thing to have in one's possession. Mary Jane wrote to The Advertiser because she saw an occasional trace of good fun and good cheer in it. And who would not be cheerful after hearing her tuneful words and seeing her crowning glory and the windows of her soul—the sparkling orbs through which she sees at times the words as a big nursery with Advertiser readers listening to her Peter Panning.

LITTLE EFFECT ON "U."—The fact that the Ontario department of education of both Toronto and Queen's universities and taking them entirely out of university control, only affects the Western University to the extent that students of the Western wishing to take their faculty have been going hitherto to Toronto. The Western has no faculty of education of its own, hence there is no rearrangement to make as far as this university is concerned.

OFFERS AN EXPLANATION.—In explanation of complaints registered with Chairman Thomas Rowe of the board of education that a woman book agent had been attempting to sell books in the east end on "orders" of the board, it is said that the wrong impression had been created. A denial of the charge has been made, and it is declared that canvasser stated that books had been ordered from the educational publisher and had been indorsed by prominent educationalists of Ontario.

District Agricultural Man Is Pleased With Way Call Has Been Answered.

District Agricultural Representative R. A. Finn reports that the acreage of fall wheat this season is one of the largest sown in the district for years Factors contributing to the increased acreage, according to Mr. Finn, were the favorable early harvest, the high price of wheat, and agitation for a large acreage throughout the country. Although it was thought that dry weather prevailing immediately after the largest portion of seed had been sown would be detrimental to its growth, fall wheat has matured at a fast rate during the last month.

Unless unforeseen weather conditions hinder the steady growth and breathing of fall wheat, one of the best crops ever enjoyed by farmers will be seen next spring. If snow falls before a heavy frost sets in the difficulty experienced in the growth of wheat last year will be eliminated. Spring weather will also have some effect upon the quality of wheat. Alternate frosty and sultry weather will prove most detrimental, but a sudden and permanent thaw will be artsemely beneficial. If weather conditions are the usual order, a fristrate crop will be harvested, and even if conditions are unfavorable there is bound to be an average yield. Practically every farmer of the district has some fall wheat in.

Touring the vicinity, Mr. Finn noticed price of wheat, and agitation for a a typical example of unnecessary waste of time and labor for which the consumers pay.

DELIVERY CHARGES RESPONSIBLE FOR

"Computations in my possession show that the forty odd milkmen in this city traverse about sixty miles daily in distributing milk to consumers," he said.

"They also show that if one man were to distribute the city's milk it would only be necessary to make a three-mile tour, and the price of milk would deciline about 3 cents. The farmer sells his milk to the distributors at 5 cents a quart. It costs about 4 cents a quart on the delivery, which, in addition to a cent or so profit, puts the price skyhigh. Now, if one milk firm was allocated a certain part of the city in which to deliver, the driver could deliver as much milk in a given length of time as he does in six times that time under the present system.

Potatoes at 70 Cents.

"The same thing applies to the sale of potatoes. The farmer is quite willing to sell his potatoes at about 70 cents per bag if somebody delivers them for him. As it is, he charges about $1.50 per bag, adding the cost of bringing the vegetables to market and the time it requires to deliver their own purchases a big reduction would be made in the cost of living. usually be successfully treated at home by an internal mcZicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could starcely hear a watch tick tell how they have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer from perhaps total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength) about 90 cents worth. Take this home and add to it 4 pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the Inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly ai-wavs quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form should give this recipe a trial—Addyt.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Six million Mexican silver pesos have been bought by the United States treasury department at 88% cents each, for minting into half dollars, dimes and quarters. The treasury acted when faced with the necessity of buying silver for coinage at steadily increasing prices, which at their height brought the value of the metal dangerously close to the minted value.

metal dangerously close to the minted value.

Now the price of silver in this country has dropped precipitately. The swift collapse, from $1.16 to Soc per ounce, a decline of 31 cents within three weeks, has resulted in an investigation to determine whether the market had been manipulated. The high prices recently prevailing are regarded as wholly unwarranted by officials here.

Grand Trunk Men Help In Food Production Campaign

Twenty-one thousand cabbares have been grown this year by the men of the Grand Trunk Railway shops at Battle Creek, Mich. The employees of the railway throughout Canada and the United States are giving their active support to the important national campaigns for increasing the supply of foodstuffs, and garden plots have sprung up on vacant land owned by the Company at scores of points on the line. The men are in many instances working on a co-operative basis, large tracts of land being cultivated during the noon hour. The men at Battle Creek, in addition to the great amount of other produce, have twenty-six acres planted with potatoes.

AMANITA HAS PRETTY NAME AND FORM WESTERN ONTARIO BUT "SHE" IS AMONG MOST DEADLY OF HER SPECIES KNOWN LOCALLY

ness informed The Advertiser, "and while it is never plentiful anywhere, one will come across them occasionally here. It is something like the common variety, being a white plant, but it has a volva or cup at the base of the stem, and in this way it can be distinguished from the edible varieties. Sometimes when it is pulled up the cup remains in the ground, and it is not noticed by the person picking the mushrooms. A careless person would mistake it for the edible variety, but a careful person would not."

person picking the mushrooms. A careless person would mistake it for the edible variety, but a careful person would not."

Absence of Cup Safety Sign.

The gills on the under side of the cup of the amanita are white, and do not become brown, as they do in the other varieties. In the edible kind the gills are creamy white, growing brownish in the older specimens, or pink, growing black as the plant gets older. The ordinary type which may be safely eaten has no cup beneath. The common with the deadly amanita a collar or veil around the stem below the cup. The buttons, or mushrooms in the younger stages, have in both the edible and nonedible variety, a veil extending from the stem to the edge of the cup, covering the gills. Buttons should be left alone by the amateur.

There are two or three other members of the amanita family that are also poisonous, according to Professor Dearness, but they are not so much like the common variety is the orange-yellow stump mushroom which is often confused with the edible variety, the honey-colored mushroom. The latter differs in shape and is light yellow in shade, while the poisonous orange-yellow variety is much heavier and dasker.

According to mycologists there is no antidote for mushroom poisoning but to avoid eating the wrong kind of plants. Mortality is stated to be 30 per cent. in cases of mushroom poisoning, a higher rate than prevails from poisoning by pny other vegetable. A strong man can sometimes survive eating varieties which would kill women and children. The fifth day is usually the critical one, and if a patient survives it, he will probably recover although the effects may last years.

Silver Test Useless.

The method of putting a plece of silver in the pot to test the mushrooms for poison is useless, it is stated, because any stale vegetable thus tested, will discolor silver.

It is interesting to note in these days of the high cost of eating that mushrooms have been called vegetable meats, but although they contain nearly as much altrogen as meat, according to having said to have eaten about to varieties.

Although there has been a good crop of mushrooms this year, Professor Dearness has not heard of any cases of poisoning here as yet. In previous years a number of cases have been reported in Toronto and in the United States cities.

BACK TO THE FARM [Written for The Advertiser by London's Patrolman Poet.]

This year the farmer's slogan was

"Come, boys, and give a hand, The crops so bounteously bestowed Must not be left to stand;

Your King and country needs men, but The Allies call to you

To back them up with nature's store, That they may pull right through." I'd traveled through the country far,

I'd seen the crops, so great, The oats, the wheat, the barley, corn,

In nature's perfect state;
*Must it for want of help, so scarce,
Be left to stand and rot?

She took me out to see the cows, Fresh from the pastures green; Said I, "They are a lovely lot, In fact, the best I've seen."

Just then my eyes lit on a pail.

Without the slightest fear.

I milked about a couple quarts

I took my annual holidays, Back to the farm I sped,
And to the farmer's buxom wife,

No. no, a thousand times, NO, NO, We'll garner in the lot.

"I've come to help," I said. She looked me up and down, then smiled, Said to her daughter, Kitty,

A one-legged stool was near— I grabbed them both, sat down and milked

As fast as any farmer;
"You're not a 'greenhorn,' sir," said she.
Said I, "You are a charmer."

Just then the cow began to move,
She flapped me with her tall,
And not contented doing this,

Washed both feet in the pail.

We then went round to see the pigs;

We then went back into the house;

The mother said, "Well, Litty, Be he the 'greenhern' as I said Had just come from the city?"

The girl replied, "Well, mother, dear, He milks well like a farmer.

But if he feeds our old sow hay, He's surely going to harm her."

I spent two weeks upon the farm,
I worked just like a nigger,
And stooking up the wheat and oats
Filled me with vim and vigor.
The change was like a holiday,
It kept me trim and fit.
To garner in the Allies' crop,
I know Two done my bit

I know I've done my bit.

London, Ont., Oct. 4, 1917.

We then went round to see the pigs;
She said, "Sir, we have thirty,
The dearest, sweetest, fattest things,
But my, they're awful dirty."
"They're looking fine, the best I've seen
For many and many a day."
Said I, "To keep them in that shape
You must have fed them, eh." (Hay).

"Just show this 'greenhorn' round the barn, He be come from the city."

Examination of men under the act was still at its height on Friday in spite of the fact that new boards have been authorized in other parts of the board to relieve the work devolving on boards already by operation. The line-up of men waiting examination is a daily sight at the Armories now, and every morning nearly a score of motor cars are parked before the building while their owners are undergoing examination. The benches in the balcony of the building are filled throughout the day with men waiting their turn.

On Friday 112 men were examined under the act, and three with a view to enlistment. The three recruits were L. C. $100 in Christmas Prizes

WHAT PRESENTS ARE IN THE CARS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS $100 IN CASH PRIZES FOR THE BEST REPLIES

SO that we may become acquaint-ed with more young people this Christmas, we are giving you this train loaded down with Christmas presents. Each car contains one kind of present and the name is on each car but the man who painted the name got the letters all jumbled. Worse still, the man who coupled the cars got them in the wrong order. Now, can you straighten things out and re-arrange the letters in the names of the presents in each car and put the cars in their sight each car and put the cars in their right order behind the locomotive?

Car No. 6, DOES ILL, contains "Dollies." other cars may contain gloves, candy, baseballs, animals, bicycles, building blocks, skipping ropes, nine pins, engines, skates, Noah's Ark, perfume, lanterns, tools, footballs, games, or something else. It is for you to find out.

Should you get the cars behind the locomotive in their right order, you will find that the first letter of the correct name of each Christmas present in each car when these first letters are all put together will spell out the name of a great Nation in Europe, one of-the Allies—a Nation whose Navy controls the Oceans.

the Occans.

On Christmas Day, Uncle Peter, who edits the Bunny Page in EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD, will judge the answers and award the following big cash prizes to young people under seventeen years of age complying with the conditions of the contest, whose answers are all correct or nearest correct, neatest and best written. So get busy and send in an answer to-day, and this Christmas Season may be the happiest you have ever had.

The Big Cash Prizes

$25.00 Cash to the Boy or Girl who sends us the best reply. $15.00 Cash to the Boy or Girl sending the second best reply. $10.00 Cash to the Boy or Girl sending the third best reply. DOLLAR BILLS. Fifty bright, new, crisp $1.00 bills to the fifty next Boys and Girls with the 50 next best replies. If you are bright and quick you will also have the opportunity of winning a Shetland Pony and Cart of Bicycle and many other fine prizes in a pleasant contest even more interesting that this one.

Send Your Answer This Very Evening!

BURGOMASTER ADOLPH MAX of Brussels, is seriously ill in a German prison at Cello, Prussia. All attempts for one of the fine prizes will be required to perform a small service for Everywoman's World for which additional Reward or Cash Payment will be given. Wouldn't you like a Shetland Pony and Cart or Bicycle? These fine prizes will go to our young frends and we would like you for the defaunt attitude Max has always shown to his country's ravagers.

Members of Woman's Music on April 3, which is a logical conclusion, "Ultra-Modern Music." It is ru Club to Learn About Evolution of Musical Instruments and Compositions -- Delightful Program Insured for Afternoon Recitals; Artists' Concerts, Too.

"The Beginnings of Music" will be thoroughly grasped by members of the Woman's Music Club before the 1917-18 season, the 237d in the club's history, is brought to a close, if the program of work is carried out as arranged. Short, crisp papers or addresses, not exceeding from seven to ten minutes, are to be a feature of each afternoon recital, along with a program of compositions suitable to the theme.

The program committee had no intentions of being caught "putting the cart before the horse" in the arrangement of this program of work. Foundation things should come first, hence the paper to be presented by Miss Lola Stevens on Oct. 31 will tell about. "The Music of the Anomats." By way of marked contrast, a dern compositions will have a place on the program.

April 17 has been left as a "request day," the program of requirements to be arranged by the executive.
The first artists' concert of the club takes place Monday evening, November 5, when George Carrie, the distinguished New York tenor, Thomas Martin, pianist, and Charles E. Wheeler, accompanist, will be presented, the proceeds to go to the completion of the fund for furnishing a ward in "he Byron Sanatorium for tuberculous soldiers.

Owing to a mistake, due to the fact that there was too much material for the Musical Page last Saturday, a part of the story about Henderson's Kiltie Lads and Lassies was left over for this week. It happened to be a very important part, too, the story of each lad and lassie who goes to make up the seven forming the pipe band, and also band of entertainers along other lines. Special mention was made of Lillian

WHY NOT LONDON?

Chatham is to take the lead in the "community music" idea in Canada. The city council this week indorsed the idea, and named a committee to work with a citizens' committee in arranging the plan, which is to interest all organizations in the city in the memorizing and singing of na-tional and patriotic songs and hymns. It is planned to have big public "sing songs," where the people will sing instead of hearing others. The plan is enthusiastically received.

McCarthy, the bass drummer, who is also accompanist for her brother Charile in his cornet solos.

Miss Gladys Comber, Canada's champion girl piper and dancer, han achieved fame from coast to coast. She is the proud possessor of more than fifty medals, won throughout Canada and the United States. Her proficiency on the bagpipes is due to Pipe Major Jas. Hamilton, and her dancing to Mrs.

Henderson.

Since her series of recitals in London the beginning of October, Isolde Menges, the peerless girl violinist, has played in a number of places. The critics have been very good to her, but not one bit better than she deserves. Even those who are usually afraid that unless they find some points to find fault with, they will be in danger of losing caste, have been entirely disarmed by the superb mastery of the violin possessed by Miss Menges, the supreme musical, poetic and artistic gift which is hers. Probably it is a sense of humor as much as anything which keeps Miss Menges so sane and unspoiled and well balanced, notwithstanding the genius which is supposed to make people queer and erratic, and the praises which are heaped upon her. She enjoys particularly jokes at her own expense, and the funny things that are written about her. After she appeared in Massey Hall, Toronto, "The Bard," who has a column in a Toronto exchange, was inspired to the following (good sentiment but awful poetry):

MISS ISOLDE MENGES. Isolde Menges played last night On her seraphic violin. She is a brave and lovely sight, How blessed is her next-of-kin! She draws her bow with elegance, The wrist is admirably bent, She does a Wienlawsky dance With fervor and abandonment.

Last night she fiddled with a will, Performed her task with wondrous The turn, the grace note and the trill Were fine as baby-Irish lace, And seeing her, with live regard, Considering her artistic speech, We softly said, "She suits The Bard, Isolde is a Grimsby peach."

Isolde is a classic name,

A name synonymous with love,
And she is surely not to blame
If she is someone's turtle dove.
We doubt not that her eyes can play
As admirably as her wrist can,
And since the glad Thanksgiving Day
We can congratulate the Tristan.

We can congratulate the Tristan.

By the way, the many who heard Isolde Menges during the recent series of recitals given by her in the Masonic Temple are looking forward with delight to her return visit to the city on October 30. Scores of people who have heard her praises sung, but falled to hear her last time, aren't going to miss the opportunity again. By the way, there are several school children who were her guests at an afternoon recital who have fully made up their minds to go and hear Miss Menges AT NIGHT, and there is one wee girl, just 5, who has been wanting to learn the violin ever since she knew what a "fiddle" was, who would dearly love to hear this other girl play who started to study at 3.

This article tried to analyze the reason for this artist's great success, and after giving due credit to her natural gifts—her devotion to her art and her hard work—went on to say: "We have a suspicion that Christine Miller has succeeded because she is just Christine Miller. In other words, she is willing to be known for what she is, a normal American, bubbling over with good health and spirits, and a practical, common-sense view of life. She is a shining example of the arrival of the American artist, and of the coming independence of this North American continent in matters musical."

Voci di Primavera. (Voices of Spring.) Strauss 49171, 12-inch, $3.00

How the heart of Strauss would swell with joy could he hear Maria Barrientos-the most sensational of all the Metropolitan coloratura sopranos-trill her bird-like way through his immortal Spring Song! More marvelous than the singing of a bird because it comes from a human throat, her voice surpasses the crystal purity of the flute. At the close is a wonderful climax-Barrientos and the flute in wonderful interplay.

Stracciari in Brilliant Soldier Farewell Song Faust. (Gounod.) Die Possente (Even Bravest Heart).

Fifty years oackward Stracciari turns the opera scores to find a song of warrior bold that gives his vigorous baritone voice full range and dramatic scope. The farewell song of the soldier Valentine as he goes to war seems as though it were expressly written for these present days, "Even bravest heart may swell in the moment of farewell"-Stracciari, leading baritone of the Chicago Opera, enriches these poignantly touching lines with grandeur and magnificence.

THE LONDON ADVERTISER COMPANY,

London, Ont., Saturday, October 20. SOME PHASES OF THE NEW REGIME.

VIEW OF THE manifesto issued by the so-called "Union" Government, it becomes of it. reasonably definite that the new members of the Borden cabinet will take the attitude that they have nothing to do with the past record of the administration. There is nothing but smooth phrases, intangible promises and good intentions for the future in the policy statement handed out under the name of Sir Robert Borden.
Having "doped up" the eleventh hour legislation which stains the pages of history at Ottawa, the Conservatives no doubt said: "Well, we've forced everything through. We've got the voters' lists fixed, Bill and Dan are taken care of in a big way. How would it be to take a few altruistic Liberals into the cabinet?"

But so long as the Government is the Borden Government and the White Government, it will be judged on its past record, no matter what! the new members may say. They may believe that for the future they will dominate the situation. Is it possible that Sir Robert and Sir Thomas and all the rest will give way to them?

Thomas and all the rest will give way to them?
Those are of great faith in miracles who believe it.

It is more than possible that improvement will follow. But the great crimes against the common people have been committed. There is no possibility of going back. It is all very well for the new members to say they have nothing to do with the past. But the past is going to influence the present and the future on the big questions. The C. N. R. bill and the election act, with its loaded voters' list provisions, may be a closed book. But the worst is yet to come.

Failed to Accomplish Its Purposes.

The Journal of Commerce, edited by Hon. W. S. The property of the p

the present Government with which he has in-evitably identified himself. There is little faith in Hon. Hugh Guthrie in Western Ontario. He is not a strength to union government, and the connection of Hon. Mr. Ballantyne, great business executive as he no doubt is, has not improved matters, in view of the fact that he left the Liberal party in 1911 along with most of the members of the great "money ring." How many of these men have been offered seats by acclamation by Conservative associations? And if they are offered these seats, will the machine element in the Conservative party permit them to go in, unopposed?

Up to date, we haven't noticed any of those immaculately dressed people, who hold down comfortable, tilting chairs five or six hours a day and call it work, and who for pastime call the farmer the real profiteer—the only man making more today, etc.—discarding their silk shirts and creased trousers for the dark-colored print shirt and the stove-pipe legged overalls of the farmer. If there is 100 per cent profit in growing No. I hard wheat and carrying big buckets of swill and chop to hungry hogs and feeding the dairy cow so that she produces an abundance of lacteal fluid, why not a bee-line for the farm? The truth is that those who know so much that has no foundation in fact about it as profiteering in foodstuffs, also know that growing wheat, pitching hay, feeding pigs, that growing wheat, pitching hay, feeding pigs, milking cows and all farm work is a real man's job, and the returns for that work, owing largely to the number of parasites with which our economic system has been laden, have not been high enough to be considered a respectable income for a man with ablifity to properly operate a farm. There is plenty of land in Canada. The farmer extends an invitation. If any there be who think the city dweller has the worst of the deal, to him the man on the land says: "Stop talking; come over and help us produce. We are willing to let you try your hand at making 100 per cent profits on the farm."

At the heart of the matter it appears to The Advertiser, the lack of public confidence in Sir Robert Borden is the greatest handicap the new Government labors under. EXEMPTION TRIBUNA

Exemption Boards have been chosen in such a way as to make them absolutely independent and removed from all influence. There are over 1,250 boards throughout the country, each composed of two men, one appointed by the county judge in the district concerned and one selected by a joint committee of Parliament. Being familiar with local conditions where they sit, the members are wellfitted to appreciate such reasons for exemption as are put before them by men called up.

Exemption will be granted to those who can establish that it is in the national interest that they remain in civilian life. This is for the Exemption Board to decide after having received full information in each case. The grounds on which exemption may be claimed (which are similar to the grounds recognized in Great Britain and the United States) are as follows :-

(a) That it is expedient in the national interest that the man should instead of being employed in Military Service, be engaged in other work in which he is habitually engaged.
(b) That it is expedient in the national interest that the man should instead of being employed in Military Service, be engaged in other work in which he wishes to be engaged and for which he has special qualifications.

(c) That it is expedient in the national interest that, instead of being employed in Military Service, he should continue to be educated or trained for any work for which he is then being educated and trained.

(d) That serious hardship would ensue, if the man were placed on active service, owing to his exceptional financial (e) Ill health or infirmity. (e) In neath of infilmity.
(f) That he conscientiously objects to the undertaking of combatant service and is prohibited from doing so by tenets and articles of faith, in effect on the sixth day of July, 1917, of any organized religious denomination existing and well recognized in Canada at such date, and to which he in good faith belongs.

(g) That he should be exempt because disfranchised under the War Time Election Act. No Claim for Exemption should be put forward unless one or other of these grounds in fact exists, and no loyal citizen should assist in, or allow himself to be made a party to, any Claim for Exemption unless thoroughly satisfied that it is made in good faith.

Exemption may be applied for by the men selected themselves or by their parents, near relatives or employers. Application for exemption must be made on printed forms to be found at every post office, which are to be filled in and left with the postmaster if exemption is desired. The postmaster will forward the form to a Registrar, who will send it to the appropriate Exemption Board. In due time, then, the Applicant will get notice as to when he must present his case before the Board.

"Rariden was in his proper position when Collins started to come in, but when Zim gave no sign of tossing the ball, stepped off the line to let the runner in. Rariden played his game all right. He went out to meet the runner, as he should do in such a case. The only fault that can be found with him lies in the fact that he did not call for the ball."

She adores M. Le Coq and detectives of the French school, and her library contains everything that A. Cohan Doyle ever wrote about Sherlock Holmes and the faithful Watson.

Miss Kane and Miss Doris Shroeder, writer of the scenario, worked out the particular method by which Claude Varden, villain of the plot of "Whose Wife?" should be brought to justice, and according to the intimates (.) both young women there were some serious differences of opinion before a compromise was arrived at.

Miss Shroeder thought it would add to the mystery of the plot to have Nitra Ruiz, the wealthy Spanish-American victim of Varden's vengefulness, done to death with an eastern dagger of curious design.

Miss Kane opposed the idea vigorously. She pointed out that the use of a hatpin with a head of odd and unusual pattern would maintain the idea of "the woman in the case" and he far the more effective weapon for dramatic uses.

As the completed play shows Miss Kane's idea prevailed.

developed into a stirring and beautiful dramatic whole for the screen.

"Fighting Odds" deals with big business as it is encountered in the rapidity growing automobile industry. It is a powerful story of intrigue and trickery on the part of powerful men, and of the loyalty and perseverance of a beautiful woman to outwit the conspirators and bring them to justice. It provides for Miss Elliott many highly emotional scenes, in which she appears to outdo anything she ever attempted on the stage.

Allan Harrington, a college man and athlete, has been injured in, an auto accident, and is hopelessly paralyzed. His mother is sworn out with anxiety and has not long to live. She wants to leave her son in other hands than those of paid nurses. They propose that Phyllis shall marry Allan, and at last she reluctantly consents. The idea of having a rose garden has much to do with her decision. Allan is hard to handle, but she makes many arrangements for his comfort, at last moving him out into the country. A young doctor, one of his college chums is in the place, and he tells Phyllis that paralysis may be only a bad habit, and that Allan might walk if he had the will. Allan sees the two happy together, and at last makes the supreme sacrifice, tells Phyllis that she has been cheated and that their marriage must be annulled. She finds that she feels more for him than she thought, and is miserable. That night a thief breaks in. Phyllis, attracted by her husband's cry, rushes in and attacks the man to keep him from Allan. He nearly overpowers her, and she calls to Allan to save her. With a great effort, he comes to her aid just as his servant takes charge of the thief. In the reaction they realize that they love each other, and that there is now no barrier to their happiness.

The prince of the realm has fallen in love with Evelyn, a circus girl, and plans to elope with her, but is prevented by the sudden death of the king and his accession to the throne. Her lover, who has been wilking to renounce his kingdom for the sake of the girl he loves, is told that Evelvn and their child has been drowned, and marries a woman of royal blood. Evelyn becomes a wanderer, and finally joins a travelling circus. Through all the hardships she subsequently endures, Pete. a trained chimpanzee, is her devoted friend. One day Pete, realizing that Evelvn is mourning for her child, who had died, determines to secure one for her. So he climbs over the palace wall, snatches the king's baby from the royal crib and runs with it to the too of a 360-foot chimney. Evelyn decides to save the king's heir. Reaching the top of the chimney, she tears the baby from Pete's grasp and hurls the monkey to his death. Later, during a spectacular performance for the king,

WORK ON GREATEST FILM PRODUCTIONS OF THE AGE "Reaching for the Moon," Latest Fairbanks Picture.

Walter E. Greene, president of the Artcraft Pictures Corporation, last week announced that the title of the new Dougias Fairbanks picture will be "Reaching for the Moon," and that work on this photoplay is now well under way in California at the Lasky studio. In fact, it was for this production that the entire Fairbanks producing organization crossed the continent recently in order to get New York scenes. After two days here, the entire organization again returned to California to produce the balance of the picture.

Eugene Ormonde, well known for his recent work in Famous Players' pictures, arrived in Los Angeles shortly after the return of the Fairbanks troupe, to join this company. Mr. Ormonde started work immediately in "Reaching for the Moon," playing an important part in this film.

ELIGIBLES CANNOT CLAIM EXEMPTION

Military Authorities Are Getting Lists of Those Available for Service.

SARNIA, Oct. 19 .- The Canadian military authorities today asked Port Huron draft boards and all other draft boards in Michigan to furnish complete lists of the men who claim allegiance to Great Britain, and who were given exemption from the American draft because of citizenship in the British Empire, It is estimated that there are three hundred who will be called to Canada to stand the draft exami-

WINDSOR, Oct. 19. — An important ruling was handed out by Lieut. Col. H. D. Smith of London, district military representative, at a meeting of the local exemption tribunal members here. It vitally affects young Essex County men eligible for draft in Class A who may be attending Detroit, medical, dental or veterinary colleges.

The ruling was made in reply to a question from Major G. H. Wilkinson, one of Windsor's military representatives on the board, and is to the effect that while such students at Canadian colleges are exempt, for the reason that they are also taking up military drill, those attending similar institutions in the United States cannot ask for exemption. It is said that upwards of 50 Essex County eligibles are enrolled in Detroit colleges.

Secretary of National Grain Dealers Gives View of Americans.

QUELPH, Oct. 19.—Charles P. Quinn of Toledo, secretary of the National Grain Dealers' Association of the United States, and a former Guelph boy, is here for a few days. He states that the action of the American Government in taking over the wheat supply has enormously added to the problems of the grain dealers, and a number of them have gone out of business as a consequence. They are faced with the prospects, too, of similar action being taken by the Government towards the corn and oats, of which there is a three-billion bushel supply of the former, and a million and a half of the latter. The problem thus faced by the middleman is enormous.

Bridgewater Lodge, Sons of England, to commemorate the victory at Trafalgar, and to welcome home seven members who have returned from overseas service, proved one of the most enthusiastic gatherings in the history of the organization. The men who were welcomed are: A. Wade, J. E. Lea. G. Dickerson, W. Johnson, E. Clark, W. Wade and J. Evans. With them on the platform were Rev. R. Weaver, secretary of the Soldiers' Aid Commission; F. F. Pardee, M.P.; F. C. Slater, the American consul, and R. E. LeSeuer.

The lodgerooms were most attractively decorated, a patriotic scheme being followed throughout. The big gathering was most enthusiastic. F. F. Pardee was greeted with rounds of applause as he told of the splendid work the men had done for the Empire, and of the traditions the sailors of the British navy are so nobly upholding today.

R. E. LeSeuer in his address announced that he had received word today from the front that Lleut. Geoffrey, who went over with the 70th Battalion, had won promotion to a captaincy by his good work.

A fine address was also made by F. C. Slater. During the evening musical selections by A. W. Mills, W. H. Thorn and H. Emerson were much enjoyed.

Should Obey Service Act.

He declared again that since the military service act was passed, it should be obeyed. If returned to power he said his first act would be to consult the British Government and ascertain in the clearest possible perspective the measure and character of the aid which Canada could give, whether in men, food, ships or munitions. He pledged his utmost endeavor to see that every possible aid should be given, but he stood firmly for British methods of government, only on consent of the people. He intimated that later on he would issue a statement to the public, giving his policy and views on ail the issues of the day.

In regard to the new Union Government, Sir Wilfrid was inclined to the belief that it was the same old Borden Government which should be called to account by the people for all the sins of the past six years.

Sir Wilfrid was given a rousing reception and his integrity of purpose, since re patriotism and wise statesmanship were repeatedly referred to by the succeeding speakers.

Free to Differ.

The line of discussion followed fairly closed the general trend of views expressed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Mr. Graham. At the close of the afternoon sitting Sir Wilfrid advised all Liberals to stand fairly by their convictions. But if they honestly differed with him and the conscription issue, he would be the first to respect their sincerity of purpose and conviction.

The disposition of the meeting was to regard the re-made government as a to respect their representation.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier made it clear that if returned to power he would use his best endeavors to enforce the compulsory service law, and would work hand in hand with the British Government for the purpose of best carrying forward military operations. The next meeting will be of Western Ontario Liberals and will probably be held in London.

DEATH OF ROBERT BLAKESTON.

STRATFORD, Oct. 19.—The death occurred here today of Robert Blakeston, aged 80, father of W. J. Blakeston, principal of Shakespeare public school. He had pneumonia a couple of years ago and suffered a fall recently, which undoubtedly hastened his death. He resided near Priceville for some time. Two sons and CALGARY, Oct. 19.—A conscientious objector registered his claim for exemption with the military registrar here yesterday by writing across the form: "Safe in the arms of Jesus."

Washington, Oct. 20.—One of the longest submarine voyages on record has just been completed by a submarine of the royal Italian navy, which has gone under its own power from an Italian port in the Mediterranean to the Russian port of Archangel on the Arctic coast of Russia. It is surmised in naval circles that the submarine is to be taken apart at Archangel and transhipped overland to the Baltic or Black Ses, to be reassembled for use against the German or Turkish navies.

The disposition of the meeting was to regard the re-made government as a Borden government, rather than as an administration composed equally of tiberal and Conservative members. The new Borden manifesto was compared to the old Halifax platform. detailed statement regarding the naval pattle Wednesday in the Gulf of Riga:

"Tuesday night an enemy squadron of twenty ships penetrated the Gulf of Riga and at 3 o'clock the next morning was discovered making its way through the channels south of Moon Sound. The squadron included two battleships of the Koenig type. Our detachments under Admiral Bakhireff, who hoisted his flag on the cruiser Bayan, accompanied by the battleships Gridanin and Slava, steaned from the eastern part of Moon Island to engage the enemy, preceded by torpedo-boat patrols, which withdrew before the enemy.

"At 9:30 o'clock the enemy opened fire on our torpedoboats and our detachment, issuing from the channel, took up battle formation in a radius between the Werden and Weiland lighthouses near Moon island. While approaching the enemy the cruiser Bayan was attacked unsuccessfull; by a hostile submarine.

"At 10:30 o'clock our detachments engaged the enemy squadron. The fire of the hostile dreadnoughts was directed from a distance often beyond the range of our old type vessels. At noon in view of the enemy's superiority and the vices respect of new enemy warships.

To Stop a Persistent, Hacking Cough

Thousands of people normally healthy in every other respect, are annoyed with a persistent hanging on bronchial cough year after year, disturbing their sleep and making life disagreeable. It's so needless—there's an old home-made remedy that will end such a cough easily and quickly.

Cet from any druggist "2½ ounces of Pinex" (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-oz, bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Begin taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also promptly loosens a dry or tight cough, stops the troublesome throat tickle, soothes the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes, and relief comes almost immediately. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma there is nothing better. It tastes pleasant and keeps perfectly.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and is used by millions of people every year for throat and chest colds with splendid results.

To avoid disappointment, ask your truggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly

CITY WELCOMES (?) FIRST SNOWSTORM OF SEASON TODAY

Flurry Would Be Better De- Justice Will Take Peculiar scription, But It's Here.

Whether for the reason that the air was filled with applications to "Please Shop Early," and avoid the rush at Christmas, or for reasons entirely different from that the weatherman today delivered the very first installment of this year's Christmas weather.

Snowflakes began to flutter shortly after 12 o'clock, and kept floating earthwards for the remainder of the afternoon. Most of the flurries resembled in size those which the theatre managers and stage folk produce for their winter scenes, but it was impossible to deny that they were regular flurries, and that if they had lasted long enough and had the earth been cold enough they might have provided good tobegraning.

As it was, they vanished as quickly as they hit the pavements, and unless the pedestrian managed to see them volplaning from the heavens he was blissfully unaware that the first blizzard of the season was in progress.

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN APPEAL AGAINST $200 LIQUOR FINE

Case Under Advisement.

Judgment was reserved today by Mr. Justice Clute in the hearing of the motion to quash the conviction in the case of Mrs. Brock, of the Lobo Junction Hotel. who was convicted and fined $200 two weeks ago for a breach of the Ontario temperance act.

J. M. McEvoy representing Mrs. Brock argued that the liquid found in an ornamental bottle had been there on the mantelpiece for over thirty years, and although found to be over 2½ per cent proof spirits should not be regarded as liquor within the meaning of the Ontario temperance act.

"It certainly is not what could be regarded as a drinkable liquid," said Mr. McEvoy.

"It should be pretty fair if over thirty years old," commented Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop, representing the license department.

Mr. McKillop argued to sustain the conviction of Squires Chittick and Taylor on, the ground that the liquid showed over 2½ per cent proof spirits, and that was all that was specified under the act.

WOULD USE ROD MORE AS STOP TO JUVENILE CRIME

Magistrate and Children's LATEST ZEPP RAID Workers Agree.

Raised.

That corporal punishment in the form of a legal strapping, judiciously administered by officers of the law, might prove more effective to reduce the ever-increasing number of cases of juvenile crime, was the opinion expressed today by Magistrate Graydon. Rev. J. H. Boyd, and Inspector Joseph Sanders of the Children's Aid Society in discussing the issue following police court sentences meted out to seven boys. These boys were all sent to institutions.

boys. These boys were all sent to institutions.

In making the statement each official qualified it by saying that where corporal punishment might work in the case of one boy, it would fail lamentably in the case of another.

In addressing the boys before passing sentence today Magistrate Graydon said that their wayward career could be attributed to one of two things.

"Either you boys have not responded to good home influences and kindness, or either such home influences have not been extended properly to you," said the magistrate.

"It's a problem that we have been working on for years, but more intricate situations continue to arise, and more drastic measures might prove effectual in copies with them," said Rev. J. H. Boyd. "However, where a legal whipping might act as a deterrent in one case, it might serve to harden the mind of the boy against law and order in another."

Inspector Joseph Sanders unqualifiedly came out in favor of corporal punishment where other means, such as kindness and good influences, had failed.

"Spare the rod and spoil the child"

"Spare the rod and spoil the child' is a true saying, and if put into more general use we might have fewer juvenlie crimes. If the law provided for a legal strapping more good might be done than sentences on the one hand, or leniency on the other, has resulted in," said Inspector Sanders.

PUT OUT WORLD FIRES

The Famous Scotch Comedian Makes Impressive Appeal to U. S. Enlisted Men.

New York, Oct. 20.—A dispatch to the Herald from Camp Upton, Long Island, Herald from Camp Upton. Long Island, says:

Before a gathering of American officers and enlisted men, who heard him in almost awestricken silence, Harry Lauder yesterday stripped the glamor of romance from the war and characterized it as "a contest between civilization and the fiends of hell," declaring that the United States had undertaken the biggest task in her history.

A Thrilling Appeal.

His appeal to the men to stamp out the fires of militarism and relight the lamps of civilization came as a climax to a series of Scotch ballads. He made no mention of his son who met death in France, but a slight tremor in his voice frequently betrayed the memory of his boy.

Mr. Lauder had just finished a lively

France, but a slight tremor in his voice frequently betrayed the memory of his boy.

Mr. Lauder had just finished a lively ballad when from the rear of the tent came the cry: "Sing th' Wee Hoose Amang th' Heather."

"Aye, I'll sing it; but it's no song to me now; it's a hymn. I sang it to the boys just before the battle of Arras. There were 15.000 Scots there then. Many of them are gone now."

War No Picnic,

He sang the song. The two thousand officers, their wives and enlisted men joined with him in the choruses. Then he began to speak of the war.

"I would like to impress upon you that this was is serious business—that it is no picnic," he said. "We are fighting the most diabolical foe that ever trod civilization into the earth."

"When you beys go over there, you will find the brawny hand of Great Britain stretched out to meet you, and you will get a warm reception. This war has made the civilized world a great meiting pot. We are in it today; you are in it today. And out of the melting pot will come a better and wiser civilization. "The world is on fire, and you have been called upon to extinguish it—to extinguish it to the last spark."

The people who had been given an early warning of the approaching air raid had left their shelters, and were going home, when a bomb fell from an unseen and unheard airship, breaking many plate glass windows. The sound of the bomb was unlike that of any in a previous raid. It was less shrill and heavier.

The Evening News, commenting on the raid, says:

The Evening News, commenting on the raid, says:

"Last night another of our fond war delusions—due, we suppore to the phlegmatic perversity of all national character—was shattered. Statements from authoritative quarters made at yarious times had led us to believe that the airship menace had been mastered. How far this is from being the case is shown by the official report.

"It may be pointed out that the moon—a feeble one—set at eight minutes past 7. It seems, therefore, that the moon is not a factor in German air calculations, which most people suppose."

STRATHROY PASTOR TO VISIT FLORENCE

FLORENCE, Oct. 19.—The Methodist Church has secured for its anniversary services on Sunday Rev. Armstrong, B.A., of Strathroy, who will preach both morning and evening Mr. Smale, the junior pastor, will fill Mr. Armstrong's appointments in Strathroy.

The local I. O. O. F. Lodge has purchased the Ellison House, and is renovating it for a departmental store, The new postoffice will be in the north side, while upstairs will be the lodge room on the north side, and on the south side, upstairs, will be a very fine hall, which will be used for public entertainments or banquets.

It is but natural to expect that a relief from Constipation and the many illis which it causes, which is so effectual and so natural as Internal Bathing, should quickly make many converts.

But its general use has increased so tremendously in the past few years as to suggest other reasons, and these are found in the statement of users that they feel as if "made over new" the morning after an Internal Bath.

The elimination of the pernictous and poisoning waste which is ever present in the Lower Intestine gives Nature a chance to work unhampered. And one arises in the morning clear-headed, alle, bright, confident and eager for the day's duties.

to Join Jugo Slav Forces of Serbia.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Newspapers here today publish the following dispatch from Washington: An entire Austrian regiment, with officers at its head, and carrying their own arms, has surrendered to Rumanians along the Russian-Rumanian front, according to cables received here today. The report stated that the regiment was composed aimost entirely of Mohammedan Serbs from Bosnia. The colonel declared that they were all Jugo Slavs and surrendered voluntarily in order to enlist in the Jugo Slav legion now being formed out of the reorganized Serb army.

The recent agreement between the Serbian Government at Corfu and the Jugo Slav committee in London, with respect to the establishment of a Jugo Slav state is being received with enthusiasm by the Slav population in Austria-Hungary, the colonel stated. The officers of the regiment declared they expected fresh desertions, especially among the Czechs and Croatian solders.

GENERAL MACDONELL MAY BE CANDIDATE FOR

S. TORONTO VACANCY TORONTO, Oct. 19.—That Gen. A. H. MacDonell, D.S.O., will be the unionist candidate in South Toronto, is the news that leading Conservatives are discussing this morning. Gen. MacDonell is a brother of Senator Claude MacDonell, who lately held the South Toronto seat. It is also said that Hon. Dr. Reid and Mr. Cochrane, at present in conference with the party executive here, are in favor of Gen. MacDonell's candidacy.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The British and French artilleries are still pounding the German positions before them in Belgium, with the Germans answering the fire vigorously at various points, especially along the Menin road and at Zonnebeke. Little infantry activity is taking place except in the nature of raids.

DETROIT ASSESSMENT

IS OVER TWO BILLIONS DETROIT, Oct. 19.—Detroit's assessed valuation, according to figures presented to the board of supervisors today, is more than two billion dollars. This valuation, comprising land, buildings, personal property and read and personal property, makes a grand total of $2,353,035,200. Divided equally it would give every resident of the city a taxable valuation of about $2,515.

STILL COMING IN.

SARNIA, Oct. 19.—The committee in charge of the Trafalgar Day collections for the British Red Cross fund reported that up until noon today they had received $14,300, and with additional districts yet to be heard from, and subscriptions expected from local lodges, they expect to reach the objective of $15,000. The various committees and canvassers worked faithfully all through the day and the success of the campaign was greatly due to their untiring efforts.

OPEN FOR TRAFFIC.

SARNIA, Oct. 19.—The new London road concrete pavement, recently completed by Contractors McCrae and Campaign, has been thrown up for traffic, the contractors deeming the surface sufficiently hardened for vehicular traffic. The new roadway was constructed at a cost of $25,000, and will undoubtedly prove a merca for motorisks.

AFTER OFFENDERS.
SARNIA. Oct. 19.—The police are still conducting a rigid campaign against bicycle riders who persist in using the bicycle riders who persist in using the sidewalk as a thoroughfare, and an average of two riders a day are assessed $5 and costs $4 for their offences. Some of the offenders become very indignant when the amount of the fine is announced and threaten all kinds of trouble, but their pleas are of no avail. The increase in the fines followed an accident, which resulted in the death of a local lady a few months ago.

BIG MOTOR INSTALLED.
SARNIA, Oct. 19.—The new 410 K. V. A. motor, purchased to drive the generator for the supply of power for the Sarma Street Railway Company, and which has been in process of erection at the hydro sub-station for some time, has been finally installed and is now being used to operate the cars.

PLAN FINE SHOW.

SARNIA, Oct. 19.—The initial meeting of the Young Men's Patriotic Club was held this evening in the city hall, when plans for the coming musical entertainment were discussed and the first rehearsal will be held on Monday evening. The majority of last year's members will be back in harness, and with the addition of some new talent, the success of the show is assured.

MANY ASK EXEMPTION.

SARNIA, Oct. 19.—The flow of applicants for examination at the local armories continues, and the medical board has been kept on the jump. During the past few days the examination has been confined almost exclusively to rural residents, who come within the age limits. Although infor-mation is not available, and officials are very reticent, it is understood that numerous claims for exemptions are being made, and very few have offered to report for service.

MAKING FAST TIME.

SARNIA, Oct. 19.—Splendid progress is being made by Contractors Guttridge and Grace on the alteration of the Peterson stables for Sarnia's new market building. The old loft has been torn out, additional lighting is being secured by the construction of new windows and the new ceiling has been practically completed. It is expected that the new building will be ready about the middle of November, and with its completion the city will have ample market facilities for a number of years.

"It's always the same with me. I went, through the Somme all right and never got a scratch. But when we went into the line again, near Fleurbaix, as quiet a spot as you could get anywhere at the time, sure enough I got a bullet through the wrist the very first night when I was walking up to the trenches. And in this place, too, the first shell I saw bursting laid me out.

"I was doing sentry go outside the headquartery, when a 5.9 arrived and burst only two or three yards away. I was knocked over, of course, but all I got was a bit of a knock on the cheek. Just enough to get me home. The colonel came rushing out of the dugout, expecting to collect up my pleces, I suppose. He could hardly believe his eyes when he saw me alive, and only coslightly wounded, too. He put the field dressing on for me himself. Told me I was very lucky. And hoped I would have a good time in Blighty. But he was always a proper toff—one of the best, our colonel."

To meet these difficulties large working parties were promptly organized, and the construction and reconstruction of roads was pushed on as rapidly as possible. Between the 9th and 23rd of April more than forty miles of roadway were reclaimed or built, and railways were carried forward with equal energy.

NO COMPARISON BETWEEN MATA-HARI AND CAVELL, DECLARES JULES CAMBON

Paris, Oct. 20.—The Associated Pres oday, asked Jules Cambon, general sec-etary to the ministry of foreign affairs nan press to point out similarities be-ween the executions of Mata-Hari and dith Cavell. M. Cambon replied:

"The German audacity in attempting to compare Mata-Hari, with Edith Cato compare Mata-Hari, with Edith Cavell surpasses belief. Miss Cavell was a woman respectable and respected and devoted to charitable work. She was shot for aiding Belgian soldiers to scape to Holand. This, in German eyes, may be a crime, but not one that endangered their army.

"Mata-Hari was a courtesan. It was proved she was a spy and the centre of a spying system. Her correspondence showed that she received money from Berlin. She herself admitted she was one of Germany's chief spies in France, who used the relations she had been able to make by her mode of life. She merited no indulgence. No comparison is possible between charity and spying."

J. Van Courtland, a blind actor, who is a member of the "Slacker" cast, served his time in the United States army during the Spanish-American war. He was a private in the quarter-master's department of the first force of American troops to land in Porto Rico. He declares himself more than willing to abandon phenomenal sightless screen work for a second enlistment now. Roy Stewart, Triangle cowboy star, is given credit for establishing one of the most unique Red Cross funds yet heard from. When Stewart, now a first magnitude luminary, was Belle Bennett's leading man in a western production made at Hartville, the Triangle ranch studio, the place was populated by a good-hearted but rough-spoken tion was punctuated by picturesque profanity. Stewart understands cowboys, but he also knows that young women do not always enjoy the urid expressions they sometimes voice, so he held an executive session with the riders and announced that in future every time one of the men swore in the presence of Miss Bennett he would be compelled to pay a fine of 10 cents for each cussword, the money to be donated to the Red Cross war fund. The cowboys agreed unanimously to the proposition, although one of their number voiced the belief that he might as well turn his pay envelope over in advance, because it was impossible for him to talk like a human being.

When Kidneys Fail, Backache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica Follow-Gin Pills, the Old Time Kidney Remedy, has Outlived Nostrums by Going Straight to Source of Trouble

Health and vigour depend upon the blood. That is a widely known fact, but few understand it. It seems well, in these days when people are asked to take a thousand and one nostrums, to point out the basic principles of life and health as a guide.

The blood stream serves two purposes. First, it carries nourishment to the tissues and organs of the body; second, it collects waste products from these organs and tissues. and organs of the body; second, it collects waste products from these organs and tissues.

The blood, under normal conditions is quite able to accomplish its work of building up and carrying away waste. But the waste must be removed, and it is just here that the trouble so often begins.

The filtering of impurities from the blood is the work of the kidneys, which dispose of the waste mater so collected, through the urinary system.

Day in and day out, Summer and Winter, throughout your whole lifetime, the kidneys perform their uncessing duties. They are the sentinels of health, constantly on guard, One hour's incapacity from whafever cause—a sudden chill or cold, a slight inflammation—spells danger to the whole system. REGORY RASPUTIN, the "Black Monk of Russia," who came to wield a powerful influence over the imperial court, was a dirty, uncouth peasant, the victim of circumstances rather than the molder of history. In this story is told how he was pushed into the most important position in Russia-a minister without portfolio, but with power to sway the Czar and the court; a "monk" without orders, but casting a spell over the people that defied the Holy Synod

INTRODUCTION.

This expose, based on facts which have come to my knowledge, though probably far from being complete, aims at depicting the recent state of things in Russia, and thus to explain how the great changes which have taken place in my country have been rendered possible. A lot of exaggerated tales have been put into circulation concerning the Empress Alexandra, the part she played in the perturbations that have shaken Russia from one end to another, and the extraordinary influence which, thanks to her and to her efforts in his behalf, the sinister personage called Rasputin came to acquire over public affairs in the vast empire reigned over by Nicholas II. for twenty-two years. A good many of these tales repose on nothing but imagination, but nevertheless it is unfortunately too true that it is to the conduct of the empress, and to the part she attempted to play in the politics of the world, that the Romanoffs owe the loss

Alexandra Feodorowna has been the evil genius of the dynasty, whose head she married. Without her it is probable that most of the disasters that have overtaken the Russian armies would not have happened, and it is certain that the crown which had been worn by Peter the Great and by Catherine II. would not have been disgraced. She was totally unfit for the position to which chance had raised her, and she never was able to understand the character of the needs of the people ever which she ruled.

Monstrously selfish, she never looked beyond matters purely personal to her and to her son, whom she idolized in an absurd manner. She, who had been reared in principles of true liberalism, who had had in her grandmother, the late Queen Victoria, a perfect example of constitutional sovereign, became from the very first day of her arrival in Russia the enemy of every progress, of every attempt to civilize the nation which owned her for its empress. She gave her ce to the most feroclous reactionaries the country possessed. She tried, and in a certain degree succeeded, in inspiring in her husband the disdain of his people and the determination to uphold an autocratic system of government that ought to have been overturned and replaced by an enlightened one. Haughty by nature and by temperament, she had an unlimited confidence in her own abilities, and especially after she had become the mother of the son she had longed for during so many years, she came to believe that everything she wished or wanted to do had to be done, and that her subjects were but her slaves. She had a strong will and much imperiousness in her character, and understood admirably the weak points in her husband, who became but a puppet in her hands.

She herself was but a plaything in the game of a few unscrupulous adventurers who used her for the furtherance of their own ambitious, money-grabbing achemes, and who, but for the unexpected events that led to the overthrow of the house of Romanoff, would in time have betrayed Russia into sullying her fair fame as well as her reputation in

Rasputin, about whom so much has been said, was but an incident in the course of a whole series of facts, all of them more or less disgraceful, and none of which had a single extenuating circumstance to put forward as an excuse for

He himself was far from being the remarkable individual he has been represented by some people, and had he been left alone it is likely that even if one had heard about him it would not have been for any length

Those who hated him mostly did so because they had not been able to obtain from him what they had wanted, and they applied themselves to paint him as much more dangerous than he really was. They did not know that he was the mouthpiece of other people far cleverer and far more unscrupulous even than himself, who hid themselves behind him and who moved him as they would have done pawns in a game of chess, according to their personal aims and wants. These people it was who nearly brought Russia to the verge of absolute ruin, and they would never have been able to rise to the power which they wielded had not the empress lent herself to their schemes. Her absolute belief in the merits of the wandering preacher, thanks to his undoubted magnetic influence, contrived to get hold of her mind and to persuade her that so long as he was at her side nothing evil could befall her or her-family.

In the long intrigue which came to an end by the publication of the Mani-plosion in such an unexpected manner. festo of Pskow, Rasputin undoubtedly played a considerable part, but all unlously. Those who used him, together with his influence, were very careful not to initiate him into their different schemes. But they paid him they fed him, they gave him champagne to drink and pretty women to make love to, in order to induce him to represent them to the empress as being the only men capable of saving Russia, about which she did not care, and her crown, to which emperor. But with his friends she talked over every political subject of importance to the welfare of the nation, and being convinced that they were the men best capable of upholding her interests, she forced them upon her husband and compelled him to follow the advice which they gave. She could not her she was so attached. With Rasputin she never discussed politics, nor did the contradiction, and she loved flattery. She was convinced that no one was more clever than herself, and she wished to impose her views everywhere and upon written down in the Golden Book of the aristocracy of the country, as well as in contempt. He was a perfect impersonation of the kind of individual known in 'the annals of Russian history as "Wremienschtchik," literally, "the Man of the Day," an appellation which since the times of Peter the Great had clung to all the different favorites of Russian sovereigns. There was one difference, however, and this is a most essential one. He had never been the Rasputin Universally Attacked.

Amidst the discontent which, it would be idle to deny had existed in the Russian empire during the period which immediately preceded the great wark the personality of Rasputin had played a great part in giving to certain people the opportunity to exhort his almost constant presence at the side of the sovereign as a means to foment public opinion against the emperor and to throw discredit upon him by representing him as being entirely under the influence of the cunning peasant who, by a strange freak of destiny, had suddenly become We live in strange times, when strange things happen which at first sight far more powerful than the strongest ministers themselves. THE fall of the House of the Romanoffs is the most dramatic in European history since Louis XIV was guillotined. Behind the veil of events stood this sinister personage -Gregory Rasputin-working in his quiet way for the ends desired by Russia's enemy bureaucrats. From the time this peasant-mystic left his home in Siberia until he was murdered he was a constant disturbing factor in the empire's political and civil, as well as religious, life.

pretext that these were acceptable to God by reason of the personality of the people who inspired them. In civilized, intelligent, well-educated Europe such an apparition would have been impossible, but in Russia, that land of mysteries and of deep faiths, where there still exist religious sects given to all kinds of excesses and to attacks of plous madness (for it can hardly be called by any other name), he acquired within a relatively short time the affections of a whole lot of people. They were inclined to see in him a prophet whose prayers were capable of winning for them the Divine Paradise for which their hungry souls were longing. There was nothing at all phenomenal about it. It was even in a certain sense quite a natural manifestation of this large Russian nature, which is capable of so many good or bad excesses, and which has deeply incrusted at the bottom of its heart a tendency to seek the supernatural in default of the religious convictions which, thanks to circumstances, it has come to lose.

The American public is perhaps not generally aware of the character of certain religious sects in Russia, which is considered to be a country of orthodoxy, with the czar at its head, and where people think there is no room left for any other religion than the official one to develop itself. In reality, things are very different, and to this day, outside of the recognized nonconformists, who have their own bishops and priests, and whose faith is recognized and acknowledged by the state, there are any number of sects, each more superstitious and each more powerful than the other in regard to the influence which they exercise over their adherents. These, though not numerous by any means, yet are actusted by such fanaticism that they become apt at certain moments to become subjects of considerable embarrassment to the authorities. Some are inspired by the conviction that the only means to escape from the clutches of the devil consists in suicide or in the murder of other people.

The Two Principal "Heresies."

For instance, the Baby Killers, or Dietooubitsy, as they are called, think it a duty to send to heaven the souls of newborn infants, which they destroy as soon as they see the light of the day, thinking thus to render themselves agreeable to the Almighty by snatching children away from the power of the evil one. Another sect, which goes by the name of Stranglers, fully believes that the doors of heaven are only opened before those who have died a violent death, and whenever a relative or friend is dangerously ill they proceed to smother him under the weight of many pillows so as to hasten the end. The Philipowtsy preach salvation through suicide, and the voluntary death of several people in common is considered by them as a most maritorious action. Sometimes whole villages decide to unite themselves in one immense helocaust and barricade themselves in a house, which is afterward set on fire.

An incident that occurred during the reign of Alexander II. is remembered to this day in Russia. A peasant called Khodkine persuaded twenty people to retire together with him into a grotto hidden in the vast forests of the government of Perm, where he compelled them to die of hunger. Two women having contrived to escape, the fanatics, fearing that they might be denounced, killed themselves with the first weapons which fell under their hand. It was their terror that they might find themselves compelled to renounce their sinister design, and thus fall again into the clutches of that Satan for fear of which they had made up their minds to encounter an awful death. Even as late as the end of the last century such acts of fanaticism could be met with here and there in the east and centre of Russia. In 1883, under the reign of the father of the present czar, a peasant in the government of Riazan, called Joukoff, burnt himself to death by setting fire to his clothes, which he had previously soaked in paraffin, and expired under the most awful torments, singing hymns of praise to the Lord.

Among all these heresies there are two which have attracted more than the attention of the authorities, thanks to their secret rites and to their immoral tendencies. They are the Skoptsy, or Voluntary Eunuchs, about which it is useless to say anything here, and the Khlysty, or Flagellants, which to this day has a considerable number of adepts, and to which Rasputin undoubtedly belonged, to which, in fact, he openly owned allegiance. This sect, which calls itself "Men of God," has the strangest rites which human imagination can invent. According to its precepts, a human creature should try to raise its soul toward the Divinity with the help of sexual excesses of all kinds. During their assemblies they indulge in a kind of waltz round and round the room, which reminds one of nothing so much as the rounds of the Dancing Dervishes in the East. They dance and dance until their strength falls them, when they drop to the floor in a kind of trance or ecstasy, during which, being hardly accountable for their actions, they imagine that they see Christ and the Virgin Mary among them. They then throw themselves into the embrace of the supposed divinities.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 19. — While Emperor William and King Ferdinand of Bulgaria have been exchanging assurances at Sofia of the unshakeable loyalty of Bulgaria and Germany to each other and the permanent nature of the alliance of the two countries, Bulgarian agents abroad have been endeavoring to get into touch with the Entente Powers on the subject of peace and subsequent relations. Their efforts are declared to be inspired by apprehension that Germany and Austria-Hungary, particularly the latter, may not be over-zeaious in defending Bulgaria's interests at the peace conference, as well as by a desire on Bulgaria's part to escape from revolving in an exclusively German orbit after the war.

in an exclusively German orbit after the war.

The Associated Press correspondent is able to report that a Bulgarian representative recently sought and obtained an opportunity in a neutral European capital to lay before the Entente governments the special desires of his country with regard to a peace settlement and in a one-sided conversation explained Bulgarian aspirations to regain an independent political status as soon as the war concluded, and resume cordial relations with the Entente Powers.

Does Not Want isolation.

Does Not Want Isolation. As the case was presented, in short, the Central Europe idea of an economic leageu in which Bulgaria would play a comparatively minor role, does not appeal to the Bulgarian mind. comparatively minor role, does not appeal to the Bulgarian mind.

Attempts are also being made to get before the public in America and in the Entente countries a defence if Bulgarian pretensions to Macedonia and Dobruija, the suggestion even being openly made from the Bulgarian side that Serbia should be comparsated with Austrian territory, from Bosnia and Herzegovina, a suggestion which is pointed to as illustrative of the attitude of many Bulgarians toward their own allies.

The correspondent has of late heard of considerable ill-feeling between the Bulgarians and their allies. Complaints are made that Bulgarian divisions were compelled to march long distances on foot, while favored German troops rolled past them in trains, this favoritism bringing forth extreme bitterness by the Sulgarians.

Distrustful of Germany.

Distrustful of Germany. The German attempt to maintain control of Bulgaria's single coal field. has excited much unfriendly comment also in Bulgaria, and Field Marshal von Mackensen is charged with favor-ing the Germans at Bulgarian expense. Furthermore, the press controversy in ing the Germans at Bulgarian expense. Furthermore, the press controversy in certain German and Austrian newspapers, in which the Serbian claims to parts of Macedonia were defended, apparently has left an indelible impression of distrust on Bulgarian public opinion and the interchanges of cordial telegrams between German and Bulgarian statesmen seems to have been unable to efface.

It remains to be seen whether Emperor William's trip, declared to have been undertaken with this purpose in view, will prove any more successful.

Catholic Priest Bears Testimony to Bravery of Anglican Brother-in-Arms

Major Rev. Father John O'Gorman, a Canadian chaplain who spent some months in the trenches, and who has been on leave here for some time, owing to a badly shattered arm received during the battle at the Somme, was the guest of honor at the Canadian Club luncheon on Friday, and told told an inspiring story of the work done by the chaplains at the front. J. H. Fowler presided.

Father O'Gorman in his opening remarks stated that many questions were asked of those who return from the front, and these questions should be answered. The war is a tremendous war, he said, and is viewed from various angles. The work of the chaplains was such that it required to be explained to the public, and that canadian Club.

Much has been said of the heroic priest-soldiers of France. These storless were true in a large measure said.

was not confined to any branch or to any rank. Heroic deeds are performed by all ranks.

The chaplain service when Major O'Gorman went to the front was in charge of General Sims, a Presbyterian clergyman, and Lieut.—Col. Rawlinson, a Benedictine monk, as his second in command. When he went to Boulogne, he reported to them, and was put in charge of three casualty clearing stations, two British and one Canadian. His duty was to look after the Catholics in each. Protestant chaplains were appointed to look after their men. The chaplains acted in perfect harmony with each other, and were mutually beneficial.

"I have seen many wounded and dying men." said Father O'Gorman. "The casualties when they are fixed up do not look so badly. They are cheerful and patient, wonderful, everyone of them. I will never forget the sight of the first men I saw who were victims of the gas attacks. It was horrible beyond description, and I tell you that the nation which first introduced that terrible engine of war will have much to answer for at the bar of history.

Capt. Masters Deserves Medal.
"I was well acquainted with and duced that terrible engine of war will have much to answer for at the bar of history.

Capt. Masters Deserves Medal.

"I was well acquainted with and worked with Capt. Masters, an Anglican clergyman of St. Marys. His only worry, when I knew him over there, was that Father Miles Tomkins, a Catholic chapiain, would not get a military medal which he deserved. I want to say that if ever a man deserved a medal it was Capt. Masters, and my hope is that both Masters and Miles Tomkins will get that recognition, and that very soon.

"I find that men do not abandon their religious convictions at the front. They do not give up their faith to take, hold of a nondescript religion, which merely means being good. I find that they hold fast to their faith. Every chaplain looks after his own, and I want to tell you that they are well looked after.

Chapiains Essential Force.

"The Royal Bank Building, James Gray tandered his resignation as chairman on account of ill-health. The resignation was accepted with much regret.

To fill the vacancy, Ald. F. E. Harley was elected chairman unanimously, and E. R. Wilson elected vice-chairman.

Many members considered that there was not enough "pep" put into the reception of returned men, and deputed a committee to inquire as to the desires of the millitia headquarters.

BIG PROBLEMS War Is Causing a Serious

Shortage of Missionaries. WOODSTOCK, Oct. 19 .- At this afternoon's session of the Baptist convention officers for the year were elected as follows: President, Joseph H. Spenstone, Toronto; first vice-presi-dent, Rev. H. H. Bingham, London; McKechnie, Woodstock College; secretary, C. E. McLeod, Beamsville.

Dr. Whyte of Chicago, who brought greetings from the Baptist Young Peoples' Unions of the United States, declared that so many young men who would have become missionaries had been drafted for military training, that a serious shortage was certain to develop within the next few years. He urged the importance of training leaders among the younger men.

The convention synchronizes with the diamond jubilee of Woodstock College, and Principal MacNeill today announced that in celebration of the anniversary a reception would be held at the college on Saturday afternoon. A year ago, he reminded the delegates, the celebration was semewhat elaborate, at the utility was thought, in view of war conditions that it should be made more simple this year.

Chancellor McCrimmon referred to the fact that the war had seriously affected the attendance at the various colleges. McMaster had suffered to a very considerable extent. The attendance has fallen from 400 before the war to as low as 197 the the present time. He referred also to the large recent increase in the number of women who were entering the colleges, and stated that before long the matter would have to be given serious attention.

Question of Pensions.

The question of pensions for college profescre was introduced by Dr. Ed. econd vice-president, Professor N. S. Woodstock College; secrebeen necessary." He added that, in his opinion, the formation of a union government had only served to accentuate the difficulty.

Does Not Agree.

Before the president could announce the noon adjournment, which he was about to do, Rev. T. T. Shields of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, rose and requested permission, as a matter of privilege, to make the statement, for the benefit of the press, that the statements made by Mr. Farmer were not necessarily indicative of the sentiments of the convention as a whole. For his own part he dissented emphatically from the position taken by Mr. Farmer.

The billeting committe reported that 360 delegates, of whom 170 were ministers and 90 laymen, had registered, and that 100 ladies were also present.

Chaplains Essential Force.

The Canadian chaplain forces were under the Imperial Government at first. Now they have been reorganized and are distinctly Canadian. The men responsible for this are Lieut.-Col. Almond, C.M.G., an Anglican clergy-man from Montreal, and Lieut.-Col. Workman, M.C., a Franciscan friar. The chaplain service was not looked upon with any degree of favor some years ago, but now it is considered as being quite as essential as any other.

"War brings out the heroic and unselfish in men, but it is brutalizing too. The chaplain is essential to keep up the standards of morality, and keep the men fighting as they should fight. I want to tell you that the Canadian boys have always fought as gentlemen and Christians. They have been aggravated much, very much, but they are gentlemen.

men and Christians. They have been aggravated much, very much, but they are gentlemen.

Exempt Clerical Students.

"I do not want to talk politics, but I do say that clerical students should be exempted. The men are required for this duty. Clergymen are too few in number, and they should be kept for the work of the Christian ministry,

"I could not have been given finer treatment than was accorded me by Lieut.-Cols. Buchan, Leckie and Clark, all Protestants. The latter have received promotions, as they so well deserved. Victor Buchanan is gone. He was a gentleman, a soldier and a Christian, and God will give him the reward he so richly deserves.

Rescuer Won Medal.

"Charity at the front is not marred by prejudice. It should not be in Canada. When I was wounded, a sergeant, A. S. Rowe of Toronto, also wounded, bound up my wounds, although risking his life. It was my great honor to recommend him for a Military Medal, which he has received."

Question of Pensions.

The question of pensions for college professors was introduced by Dr. D. E. Thompson, chairman of the McMaster board of governors. This also, he said, must receive consideration before long. Dr. Shields, of the board of home missions, made the announcement when the debate on the question of ministers' salaries was reopened, that a resolution would be introduced on Monday to make $800 a year, with free house and allowance for horse keep, the minimum, A committee was subsequently appointed to consider this matter and report later.
